Newark Days

SUBMITTED BY SHIRLEY SISK

Want to go back and re-create childhood memories? Newark Days is your chance to do just that with four days of high-spirited adventures for children of all ages. Held September 18-21, this year's theme is "Be a Kid Again" and promises to be the most fun-filled party of the season!

This marks the 59th annual Newark Days celebration commemorating the city's birthday and is put together by

The carnival previews on Thursday, September 18 and everyone can ride for only $1 a ride. Friday's activities start at 6 p.m. and favorite foods will be available to delight the palate: hot dogs, turkey legs, garlic fries, funnel cakes, smoothies, ice cream, corn on the cob, baked potatoes and more. The ever-popular $600 haystack hunt will be held for the kids; Tru Dance and the K&K Twirlers will perform on the Forever Young Stage.

On Saturday, the 30th annual Newark Mile 4K fun run and walk begins at 9 a.m. followed by The Be a Kid Again Parade with Charlie Brown, Snoopy, Linus, Lucy, and Sally returning from Great America to be the Grand

What is a grand jete'? A leap of faith

BY LINDA-ROBIN CRAIG

What occupies the space between a daydream and a realized goal? What moves a person from one to the other? A dancer calls a hyper-extended moment in the air a grand jete', French for a great big leap. When you defy gravity for a breathless moment with the toes of one foot pointed due east and the toes of the other due west, with nothing between you and the floor except confidence in your skill, when you can't be more vulnerable – you're rockin' the grand jete'.

Successful entrepreneurs call that moment a leap of faith and every one of them has been there, done that, got the T-shirt after taking a deep breath and leaving Point A behind, sailing right past B and stickin' it – still in one piece – at Point C, successful and deserving of applause.

Growing up in Fremont, Cassie Begley trained from a young age at a number of local dance studios and went on to perform professionally in the Bay Area and New York. Ten years ago, in the process of going further, pushing herself to be better, she was earning a B.A. in Dance at San Francisco State University and found herself in a lecture class taking diligent notes. Her notes, however, took her a little sideways.

"While in a lecture class, I was fantasizing about having my own dance company," says Begley. "I took notes on what I would want for the company and who I would want to dance with. I named several of my friends and immediately knew I wanted my Does Sinus Trouble Make Your Life Miserable?

Does this sound familiar? You have a stuffy nose with thick, yellowy mucus. You're tired, achy and coughing, maybe even feverish. Breathing through your nose is difficult, if not impossible, and you may even have trouble smelling things.

Perhaps it's a cold, but the medicines you try don't help. To make matters worse, you develop a dull headache that won't go away. When you finally decide to see your doctor, you find out—it's sinusitis.

If this has happened to you once, or perhaps numerous times, you are not alone. The Centers for Disease Control reports more than 28 million American adults suffer from sinusitis, resulting in nearly 12 million visits to the doctor each year.

What is sinusitis?

Your sinuses are hollow spaces located inside the bones around your nose. They produce mucus that drains into the nose. If the inside of your nose gets swollen, this can create painful blockage of the sinuses. If left untreated, sinusitis can go on for long periods of time. If it becomes a chronic condition, sinusitis can continue for months or even years.

Doctors have usually treated sinusitis with medication, including antibiotics, decongestants and pain relievers. They've also recommended using heat pads on the inflamed area, saline nasal spray and a vaporizer. Your doctor may also prescribe oral steroids, which can have side effects. If these medications and treatments fail to clear up the problem, patients may need surgery to improve sinus drainage and reduce blockage. In the past, this could mean a stay in the hospital and a painful recovery.

“The good news is technology is continuing to improve our ability to treat persistent sinusitis,” reported Jason Van Tassel, M.D., a board certified ear, nose and throat specialist with Washington Township Medical Foundation. “With a noninvasive procedure called balloon sinuplasty, or sinus dilation, we can relieve chronic sinusitis safely and comfortably in the office, with the patient under local anesthesia. This can improve their quality of life significantly.”

Come to a free seminar

You can learn more about balloon sinuplasty and its benefits in treating sinusitis at a free community health seminar on Tuesday, Sept. 16 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Called “Relief from Sinus Issues” and sponsored by Washington Hospital, the class will be held in the Conrad Anderson M.D. Auditorium in the Washington West Building next to Washington Hospital at 2500 Mowry Ave. in Fremont. Sinusitis can be treated with a noninvasive procedure called balloon sinuplasty, which can relieve chronic sinusitis safely.

Doctors have been performing balloon sinuplasty to treat chronic sinusitis since 2005. At that time, the procedure was done in the hospital operating room with the patient under general anesthesia. With the development of smaller balloon catheters and the advancement of a specialized endoscope used for visualization, doctors can now perform the procedure safely and effectively in the office with just a local anesthetic to keep the patient comfortable.

At the seminar, Dr. Van Tassel will talk about the short and long term outcomes for patients after balloon sinuplasty.

“Recovery time from the procedure continues to get shorter and shorter,” he stated. “And, rarely is there a case when patients require packing of the sinus cavity afterwards. We are able to relieve a lot of sinus discomfort, congestion and pressure, while restoring a patient’s ability to breathe and smell.”

Studies comparing the office-based, non-invasive sinuplasty to the traditional surgery revealed that patients in the office tolerated the procedure well, with low pain scores. After surgery, they experienced better and faster improvement of symptoms and quicker recovery, with return to normal activities in about two days, on average.

In addition, there was less need for follow-up revision surgery. Long term relief also meant people who had balloon sinuplasty tended to be more productive at work, had fewer doctor visits and needed to take antibiotics less often.

What Can You Do To Reduce Your Risks of Cancer?

'Healthy Knowledge at Noon' Seminar Focuses on Lifestyle Choices

While medical experts continue to make advances in treating various cancers, taking measures to prevent cancer in the first place is a key factor in reducing cancer deaths. According to the American Cancer Society, nearly half of all cancer deaths could be prevented by making healthy choices such as not smoking, staying at a healthy weight, eating healthy foods, keeping active and getting recommended screening tests and vaccines.

"Scientific research has shown for a long time that leading a healthy lifestyle can help reduce your risks for cancer," says Dr. Vandana Sharma, a medical oncologist and medical director of Washington Hospital's Oncology Program and Cancer Genetics Program. "As the evidence continues to grow, we are making good progress in creating awareness of lifestyle choices and other factors that can reduce people's risk for various types of cancer."

To help you learn more about the lifestyle choices that can help decrease cancer risks, the Washington Women's Center is offering a free Healthy Knowledge at Noon session featuring Dr. Sharma on Wednesday, September 17 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Dr. Sharma will discuss recent research on cancer prevention as well as strategies for reducing your cancer risks. The Women's Center is located at 2500 Mowry Avenue, Suite 150, in Fremont.

Dr. Sharma's broad-category recommendations for reducing your risks for cancer include limiting your exposure to known carcinogens, such as tobacco.

"Smoking tobacco is one of the most prevalent causes of cancer," she explains. "Smoking can increase your risk for numerous types of cancer, not just lung cancer. For example, smoking has been connected with increased risks for breast cancer and cancer of the esophagus and bladder."

Attend the Healthy Knowledge at Noon seminar to learn more about lifestyle choices that can help reduce the risks for cancer. The seminar is taking place on Wednesday, September 17 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

Statistics from the American Cancer Society support Dr. Sharma's assessment:

- Smoking accounts for at least 30 percent of all cancer deaths, including 87 percent of lung cancer deaths among men and 70 percent of lung cancer deaths among women.
- Smoking also increases the risk of other types of cancer, including nasal and sinus cancer, esophageal cancer, bladder cancer, stomach and colorectal cancer, kidney cancer, acute myeloid leukemia, and cancer of the uterus, cervix and ovaries.
- Recent studies by the International Agency for Research on Cancer conclude that there is evidence that tobacco smoking can cause female breast cancer.

"Because the most likely time for someone to become a smoker is during the teen years, it's important to educate our children about the dangers of smoking," Dr. Sharma emphasizes. "As for the new electronic cigarettes – which are sometimes promoted as a 'safe' alternative to smoking or as a means of trying to quit smoking, the risks of e-cigarettes have not been thoroughly studied. Plus e-cigarettes can still lead to or maintain an addiction to nicotine."

Another hazard to avoid are the UV rays – from the sun as well as tanning beds – that cause skin cancer.

"In young women, there has been a dramatic increase in the incidence of melanoma, which we believe is related to an increase in the use of tanning beds," says Dr. Sharma. "The FDA has even issued an alert against using tanning beds. That 'healthy-looking tan' is really not so healthy! As for spray-on tans, there have not been many studies to evaluate their safety."

There are several recent studies that are highlighting the role that being overweight or obese can play in increasing cancer risk, according to Dr. Sharma. Adults who have a Body Mass Index (BMI) between 25.0 and 29.9 are considered overweight, while those who have a BMI of 30.0 and above are considered obese. (BMI is a number calculated from a person's weight and height. BMI is a fairly reliable indicator of body fatness for most people.

For information on BMI, visit the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention – CDC – at www.cdc.gov/healthyweight/assessing/bmi/adult_bmi/index.html.)

"People who are obese have increased risks for uterine, breast and colorectal cancers," Dr. Sharma notes. "We have not definitively established specific foods that reduce cancer risks, but a healthy diet that promotes good weight management can make a significant difference. Some studies show, for example, that reducing your weight through proper diet and regular exercise can cut your cancer risk by as much as 50 percent."

Other studies have focused on the cancer risks associated with alcohol consumption.

"In terms of breast cancer risk, there are strong data confirming the role of alcohol," Dr. Sharma explains. "Limiting your weekly alcohol consumption to less than three 4-ounce servings of wine, beer or hard liquor may reduce the incidence of breast cancer by up to 30 percent. Other cancers may have a link to alcohol consumption, too."

Another possible preventive measure that may make a difference in your cancer risk is to use aspirin on a daily basis. "Regularly taking one full aspirin a day has shown some effectiveness in cutting people's cancer risk," Dr. Sharma says. "It's important to talk with your doctor before starting a daily aspirin regimen, though, because you have to balance the risks for cancer with the risks for internal bleeding that aspirin might cause."

Dr. Sharma also encourages young women and men to take advantage of the vaccines that have been developed to protect against the human papillomavirus (HPV) infections that are the main cause of cervical cancer and hepatitis B virus infections that may lead to liver cancer.

"Both hepatitis B and HPV can be transmitted by sexual contact, so it's important for young people to be vaccinated before they become sexually active," Dr. Sharma says.

The Hepatitis B vaccine is available for all ages. The CDC's Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices recommends routine vaccination of females aged 11 or 12 years with three doses of either HPV2 (Cervarix) or HPV4 (Gardasil). The three-dose series of HPV4 also can help males reduce the likelihood of acquiring genital warts. The HPV vaccination series can be started beginning at age 9 years for both males and females.

"Cervical cancer is one of the top three cancers worldwide, but with regular Pap smear screenings and treatment of pre-cancerous lesions, we have reduced cervical cancer dramatically in the United States," Dr. Sharma says. "And now we have an incredible opportunity to prevent most cervical cancers with the HPV vaccines. We are hoping that cervical cancer will soon go the way of smallpox and other viral diseases that have been eradicated by vaccines."

Vaccination concerns

This is an ongoing column in which Dr. Mary Maish answers your health related questions. Please submit your questions by email to: askthedoctor@whhs.com

Dear Doctor,

I have heard that in California many children do not get vaccinated and that whooping cough is on the rise. Are my children at risk even though they are vaccinated?

Dear Reader,

In 1953, Dr. Jonas Salk created the first poliovirus vaccine that gave immunity to almost everyone who received it. Since then, many vaccines have been created and tested to help prevent the spread of common diseases that could have profound health consequences.

In California it is mandatory to vaccinate your children before they enter kindergarten. A recent community shift away from vaccination has led to a rise in whooping cough, or Pertussis, especially in the teenage population. While vaccination does not guarantee immunity, if your child has been immunized, the vaccine greatly decreases the response to the disease and stacks the odds in your favor that your child won't get infected at all.

Dear Doctor,

I am always reluctant to let my children get their vaccinations all at once and sometimes we don't get back in for the booster shots. Is it better to space them out?

Dear Reader,

The schedule of vaccinations is established by the American Academy of Pediatrics and has been tested to determine the best dose, age of delivery, timing, and need for boosters. While most pediatricians will encourage the standard schedule, spacing out vaccines is very reasonable. Booster shots are reminders to the immune system and should be given as recommended to ensure a bold immunity to the disease.

Next time your little ones are getting vaccinated, bring along an icepack and place it on the skin for 5-7 minutes before they get their injection. It will help take the sting off and maybe even eliminate some fears and tears!

What is a grand jete’? A leap of faith

performance group focused on women’s issues, women’s stories.” That was the moment for Begley when she took her mental grand jete’ and bypassed “I should open my own dance studio,” and landed with Bliss, her own dance performance company.

“Our very first show,” recalls Begley, “was at SOMArts in San Francisco and touched on the issue of depression in women. I remember seeing all the clean white walls with the high ceilings in the art gallery and fell in love with the space. Our show was lit with candles. It really was a magical and intimate evening.” According to Begley, the Bliss Dance Company strives to support women’s issues through the art of performance dance. A fusion of diverse disciplines of dance and cultural backgrounds enables them to touch the community with the passion that comes from life experiences.

Based in Fremont, Bliss performs primarily in the Bay Area, with summer works in progress on view at Yoga Munkey Studios in Vista, owned and run by veteran Bliss Dancer, Madeleine Hoang. When asked about the Bliss focus on contemporary performance style, Begley said, “I probably trained at no fewer than a dozen dance studios and even though I had to leave teachers and studios that I had a bond with, I feel that a dancer has to move outside their comfort zone to continue to grow. While I always saw contemporary dance as the best vehicle for expressing women’s issues in dance, I’ve always wanted to incorporate urban dance styles into a Bliss show,” continues Begley, “and I believe the growth of a dance company reflects the growth of its individual members.”

Begley has been teaching dance at Ohlone for the past nine years and says, “We are very fortunate to have the support of Ohlone College and the Smith Center. One of our biggest supporters from the beginning has been Fred Alim, an established artist and theater technician for the past twenty years. To have his support is a tremendous honor.” Alim is the producer of “Precious Gems,” a Bliss fundraiser show that will benefit Ohlone College’s Summerfest musical productions.

“Precious Gems” is a story about a heartbroken woman who feels she has lost herself. She dives deep into her mind and encounters four precious gem worlds: diamonds, sapphires, rubies, and emeralds which represent qualities within her: love, mystery, anger, and erotica. Through encountering these fantastical worlds she discovers who she really is and recovers the person she thought she had lost. The show is for mature audiences.

The 10th anniversary of Bliss Dance Company has Begley taking another leap. “I feel so fortunate to be able to collaborate with the top urban dance crews in the Bay Area: GroovMekanex Lockers, Epic Footprint, and Floetic Movement. We also have the talented Dawn Troupe-Lasi narrating the show. We are very excited for this season! ‘Precious Gems’ will definitely be a don’t-even-think-about-missing-it performance,” enthuses Begley.

Tickets are only available in person at the event or by calling the box office at (510) 659-6031 between 2 p.m. and 7 p.m., Tuesday through Friday.

Square Dancing Fun for all

SUBMITTED BY SWINGING 21ERS

An American Dance based on French Quadrilles and the English Country Dance, modern Square Dancing consists of eight people executing dance moves as a team at the instruction of the caller. Square dancing has been standardized worldwide and dance calls are the same around the world; people that speak different languages can all dance together as a team. Different dance movements are given universal names like Do-si-do, Allemande left, and Load the Boat. Square dancing is for anyone that can walk at a reasonable pace and follow instructions of the caller.

The Swinging 21er's, square dance club will teach anyone interested in Square Dancing how to have fun, meet new friends, get some good exercise and learn to dance. We have danced at the Fremont Elk's Lodge for 27 years; it has new floors and air-conditioning in the summer, as well as heat in the winter. Classes are on Tuesday evenings from 6:30-8:30 p.m.; first class begins September 9th. Square dancing is done to all types of music. Singles and families are welcome, but youth under 16 must be accompanied by a parent to attend our classes. After learning some of the dance steps, dances, called Hoedowns, allow practice and the opportunity to meet new people while learning to dance to different callers.

We invite everyone to learn to Square Dance with the Swinging 21er's Square Dance Club on Tuesday nights at the Fremont Elk's Lodge, beginning September 9, 2014 from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Leadership Academy

SUBMITTED BY GUY ASHLEY

Alameda County is accepting applications for its 14th Leadership Academy. This free, six-session interactive forum is for adults who live, work, or own a business in Alameda County. Through presentations from top County leaders and small group exercises, the Leadership Academy provides an excellent opportunity for the community to increase their knowledge of local government. Participants learn about the wide range of services provided by Alameda County, the mission and strategic visioning initiative, and the budget development process. Participants are able to practice leadership and communication skills such as public speaking and participate in public policy exercises while acquiring knowledge on how to increase their civic involvement and networking with other community members. This is also a great opportunity for County officials to hear from residents.

The Academy begins October 1, 2014 and continues through March 4, 2015. Sessions are held the first Wednesday of each month from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at facilities located throughout the County. To graduate from the Academy, participants are required to attend at least five of the six sessions.

Space is limited and the application deadline of September 12 is fast approaching. Participants will be selected on a first-come, first-served basis and in an effort to have countywide representation, we may consider geographic location. Interested applicants can obtain additional information and complete an online application at www.acgov.org/adultleadership.

SUBMITTED BY BAY AREA RAPID TRANSIT

Registration is now underway for the 2014 "Free BART Rides for School Field Trips" program.

Approximately 40,000 Bay Area students (up to age 18), teachers and chaperones will have the opportunity to ride BART free, for educational field trips, thanks to a partnership with Monterey Bay Aquarium, which is funding the program.

Bay Area schools may now apply for free BART rides for educational field trips online on a first-come, first-served basis. Registration ends December 31 or sooner if the program reaches 40,000 riders.

Enrolled students of elementary, middle, and high schools located in the Bay Area on school-sponsored field trips for educational purposes are eligible. To better serve more students throughout the Bay Area, each school is limited to six field trips. This will allow more schools to participate in the program. To register, go to www.bart.gov/fieldtrips.

AMERICAN & IMPORT

Hayward 9/11 Memorial

Just outside the old Hayward City Hall at D St. and Mission Blvd. is a spacious lot that will soon be home to a Hayward 9/11 Memorial, dedicated to the heroes of the tragic September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks and to the City of Hayward's first responders and veterans.

American Veterans (AMVETS) Hayward Post 911 Commander Michael L. Emerson traveled to Ground Zero in New York City a year after the 9/11 terrorist attacks. He heard stories and accounts from families of fallen victims, but he became concerned that there was not much discussion about United Airlines Flight 93, the fourth hijacked plane intended to crash into Washington, DC. The flight was bound for San Francisco, but passengers tried to stop the hijackers from taking control. As a result, the plane crashed in Pennsylvania, taking the lives of all passengers, crew, and hijackers.

An idea of a 9/11 Memorial was first introduced to Hayward but initially turned down. Union City supported the idea and has a Flight 93 Memorial, dedicated in 2007.

Emerson is dedicating his free time to help build the Flight 93 National Memorial at the crash site in Pennsylvania and a Veterans Memorial in Castro Valley. The Hayward 9/11 Memorial project resurfaced and the city approved the final design in 2013; it's now reaching the final stages of funding.

"No man is an island," as they say. I can't do it by myself and I need the support of the community," said Emerson. He has volunteered his time and effort, hoping to create "a beautiful Memorial that people are going to be proud of," he adds.

The Hayward 9/11 Memorial project is almost complete with 75 percent of its funding and supplies already attained; $50,000 is still needed to start building it by summer of next year. Funding options include purchasing concrete brick pavers for $100 or $150. Financial, material, and labor donations are also accepted. The Hayward 9/11 Memorial project is a 501(c)3 organization, fully deductible charity. Make your tax deductible donations at www.hayward911memorial.com.

Remembering 9/11

It's been thirteen years since the tragic demise of the World Trade Center in New York City, followed by a series of terrorist attacks targeted at The Pentagon and Washington, D.C. The attacks on September 11, 2001 (now infamously known as 9/11), has since left an indelible mark as one of the most terrifying events in U.S. history. The nation continues to mourn the thousands of lives lost that day.

Join the Union City Police Department and city dignitaries in remembering the heroes of 9/11 on Thursday, September 11 at the Flight 93 Memorial site in Union City. The Memorial is dedicated to the brave passengers and crew who tried to regain control of United Airlines Flight 93, which was bound for San Francisco. The hijacked plane, which was targeting Washington, D.C., crashed in Pennsylvania, killing all passengers, crew members, and the hijackers. Michael L. Emerson, designer and project manager of Flight 93 Memorial, will also grace the event. For more information about the Memorial, visit www.93memorial.com.

California School for the Deaf connects to

Pharrell's "Happy"

SUBMITTED BY JULIE REMS-SMARIO

Rosa Lee Timm, American Sign Language (ASL) teacher, and Zahra Chauhan, a 13 year old student at the California School for the Deaf in Fremont, have been in the spotlight the last several weeks because of their involvement in creating the viral ASL video of Pharrell's hit song, "Happy." Even Pharrell, tweeted his approval of this ASL version of his song.

Chauhan was one of 24 students at Camp Mark Seven's Deaf Film Camp who produced the entire video, including writing the script, set production, lighting, and editing as part of their two-week camp experience in upstate New York. Chauhan has wanted to make movies since she was very young and took the opportunity to be part of this camp experience specifically designed for Deaf students to learn the art of filmmaking.

Timm was part of the production team and one of the two leading song performers in the video along with Azora Telford. The video ends with Timm signing "Time to turn off the lights" after closing her laptop. The video now has 798,305 views. Several articles about this video were published in People, Today, Time, and Huffington Post.

In an article from Today.com, Timm said "Imagine what this did for them (the campers) when they went back home to their everyday life, their community and school? Some said their peers had low expectations of them, and now they look magnificent!"

Also in Today.com, Chauhan said, "I loved getting involved in the editing of the video. That was probably my favorite part, the filming and the actual editing of it. It was a lot of work, but I loved it," she said.

One day a week... Meatless Monday

BY NANCY LYON

In 2003, an urgent project to address the growing problem of childhood obesity was addressed by Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. Their study showed that our heavy dietary dependency on meat was a primary contributor to not only obesity in general but other life threatening problems ranging from diabetes and hypertension, to heart disease and some cancers.

The study was the motivating reason for the campaign that was labeled “Meatless Monday” which focused on convincing the world not to eat cows, chickens, pigs, and other animals - just one day per week.

Focusing not only on human health issues, the movement also looked at how our dietary demands were also impacting the health of our planet and the treatment of farmed animals. What developed was an earthshaking indictment of the true cost of our meat consumption.

The amount of feed needed to produce a pound of meat by current methods requires intensive crop raising using environmentally damaging mineral fertilizers and pesticides. Industrial livestock production, also known as factory farming, produces so much manure that they become pollutants gravely impacting our air, soil and ground water. The excess nutrients created from the manure and fertilizers is a large contributor to global greenhouse gas emissions and climate change, and, ultimately, global warming. The United Nations’ Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) estimates that our diets and, specifically, the meat in them cause more greenhouse gases carbon dioxide (CO2), methane, nitrous oxide, and the like to spew into the atmosphere, more than either transportation or industry. Greenhouse gases subsequently trap solar energy, warming the earth’s surface.

The huge volume of animal feed required by industrial livestock production is most commonly grain or soy as their high protein content causes animals to gain weight quickly and ready for slaughter. In order to provide the vast amounts of land needed to cultivate these crops, natural habitats (normally rainforests) are being destroyed. In addition, the feed, often genetically modified, is produced using intensive cropping methods.

The welfare of animals is not a priority in intensive meat production where they are treated as commodities and live a short, unnatural life filled with suffering. They are often raised in intense confinement and subject to routine and painful mutilations like tail docking, teeth and beak trimming.

The stress placed on factory farmed animals is so great that their immune systems become overwhelmed to the point that they are unable to fight off bacterial infections caused by their over-crowded and unsanitary living conditions. In an effort to fight disease and save money, animals are given heavy doses of antibiotics; the resulting consumption of meat from treated animals has contributed to a serious threat to public health due to increased human exposure and resulting resistance to antibiotics.

The pleasure that food can bring is being undermined by the challenge to planetary survival, damage to human health and farmed animal welfare concerns caused by intensive meat production. These concerns pose serious threats and a reduction in the consumption of meat is the first step to countering them. If you’re trying to stay healthy, care about farmed animal suffering and want to lessen your carbon footprint, you may want to think twice next time you reach for a burger.

The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) offers a weekly free online recipe board where people can share their favorite vegetarian dishes. HSUS states “Meatless Monday may be the most effective campaign yet to address these problems, encouraging incremental changes in Americans’ meat consumption. It’s catching on in a big way.”

If you haven’t already joined the Meatless Monday campaign, there couldn’t be a better time than now. Unite with informed people like yourself, school districts from South San Francisco to Philadelphia, universities and hospitals that support meat-free options, individuals and groups from 34 countries world-wide and growing, that are working together to heal the world - one day at a time.

Jordan receives Legacy Award

SUBMITTED BY PATRICK GANNON

The Alameda County Office of Education is proud to announce that Alameda County Superintendent Sheila Jordan has been recognized with the 2014 Genesis Carl Anthony Legacy Award for her leadership to ensure all youth have equal access to a high quality education. The honor, named after architect, community activist and author Carl Anthony, is awarded by the Bay Area equity and justice-focused organization Genesis to community leaders dedicated to working for social and environmental justice.

Sheila Jordan has served youth in Alameda County for over 35 years as a teacher, school board member, city councilwoman and four-term superintendent of schools. She began working with Genesis in 2010 to support its Youth Bus Pass initiative to provide free transit bus passes for all county middle and high school students.

“It is important that as educators and community members we commit both to teaching about the benefits of sustainable practice while ensuring that all students have access to a high quality education,” said Jordan. “The bus pass issue has been an important way to do both. I am honored to be recognized by Carl Anthony and Genesis for this collaboration which has fought for a universal pass while building an understanding of the importance of all youth having access to public transit.

Vote 60 by 50: Increasing the youth vote

By JESSICA NOËL CHAPIN

President Lyndon Johnson, upon signing the Voting Rights Act on August 6, 1965, remarked that, "...the vote is the most powerful instrument ever devised by man for breaking down injustice and destroying the terrible walls which imprison men because they are different from other men." In the course of American history, this instrument has not been equally accessible to all American citizens. While white male landowners have consistently held voting rights, women, minorities, the poor, and young adults have not. With the passing of several constitutional amendments and acts of legislation over the last 150 years, this unequal access has been remedied.

"Educate California Community College students and others about the evolution of voting rights in the United States, why voting matters, and to increase the voting rate of Chabot College and other students to 60 percent by the 50th anniversary of the Voting Rights Act of 1965."

Poor white men were able to vote in the mid-1800s. The 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution, added in 1868 and 1870, granted voting rights to African Americans. Women gained the right to vote in 1920. The Voting Rights Act of 1965 outlawed racial discrimination in voting. Six years later, in 1971, the voting age was lowered from 21 to 18, partly in response to the Vietnam War, which required young men to serve their country who had no legal say in how that country was run.

Today, any American citizen over the age of 18 has the right to vote, but many do not. Since 1972, the youth vote (voters ages 18 to 29) has been in decline. According to an April 2014 Harvard IOP Youth poll, less than 25 percent of young voters plan to vote on the November ballot. This is significant when compared to youth voter turnout for the 2008 and 2012 elections. In 2008, 52 percent of young voters participated, and 50 percent voted in the 2012 election. The youth vote was a decisive factor in Barack Obama's road to the White House; Obama received 67 percent of the votes from the 18 to 29 age group. If this group had been more evenly split, Mitt Romney may have been elected instead.

Voting matters. This is the message of Dr. Maria Ochoa, Professor William Hanson, and the Vote 60 by 50 Project. A non-partisan project initiated by students of the Law and Democracy program at Chabot College in Hayward, Vote 60 by 50 hopes to increase voter registration and participation in the 18 to 29 demographic. According to the group's Web site, their goal is to, "educate California Community College students and others about the evolution of voting rights in the United States, why voting matters, and to increase the voting rate of Chabot College and other students to 60 percent by the 50th anniversary of the Voting Rights Act of 1965." This grassroots movement already has local partners and nationwide supporters. Together with the League of Women Voters, Eden Area; Campus Wellstone; and the Center for Information & Research on Civic Learning and Engagement (CIRCLE); Vote 60 by 50 hopes to inspire other California campuses to increase student voter participation as well.

In order to reach their goals, Vote 60 by 50 will be holding two events in September at Chabot College. The first event is the annual Law and Democracy lecture. This will be the 4th annual lecture, but this year's theme is tied to the launch of Vote 60 by 50. The keynote speaker is Christine Pelosi, daughter of incumbent House Minority Leader, Nancy Pelosi. Christine is an attorney, political activist, author, and a regular contributor to the Huffington Post. Pelosi was chosen for her ability to engender enthusiasm among young voters. The 4th annual Law and Democracy Lecture will take place on Constitution Day, Wednesday, September 17 in the Performing Arts Center at Chabot College. The lecture will be accompanied by the Law and Democracy program's "Stop, Drop, and Register" drill, in which volunteers assist potential voters in registering to vote. The event is free and open to the public.

Vote 60 by 50's Web site went live on Independence Day 2014. This year is significant, as it is the 50th anniversary of the Civil Rights Act. September is Constitution Month, and the group's event schedule spans the highlight of the month, Constitution Week. On September 23, Vote 60 by 50 will hold a voter registration campaign in celebration of National Voter Registration Day. Tables will be open with volunteers present to assist people with registering to vote online or by mail.

The key message of this movement is that voting matters. Voting is self-empowerment. Our vote is our voice. If you aren't voting, your voice is not being heard. For more information on Vote 60 by 50, visit www.vote60by50.org.

Christine Pelosi to speak at Chabot College

SUBMITTED BY SUZANNE BARBA

Boot camp for future leaders and the importance of voting will be the focus of keynote speaker Christine Pelosi on September 18 at Chabot College. Pelosi is the author of many books and columns in the Huffington Post on political participation and the development of future leaders.

Pelosi, an attorney, political activist and well-known author, will speak at the college's Fourth Annual Law and Democracy Lecture program, according to William Hanson, J.D., Dept. Study: Millennials less trusting than Gen X was

By MARTHA IRVINE
AP NATIONAL WRITER

CHICAGO (AP), They're often pegged as the civic-minded, do-gooding generation. But while they're still optimistic about their own personal prospects, a new study finds that today's youth are often more skeptical of the country's institutions than the young generations that preceded them.

The Millennials also are as mistrusting of other people as the gloomy "slackers" of Generation X were 20 years ago — or even more so.

Jean Twenge, lead author of the study that will be published early this month in the online edition of the journal Psychological Science, says the current atmosphere — fed by the Great Recession, mass shootings, and everything from church sex abuse scandals and racial strife to the endless parade of publicly shamed politicians, athletes and celebrities — may help explain why this young generation's trust levels hit an all-time low in 2012, the most recent data available.

In the mid-1970s, when baby boomers were coming of age, about a third of high school seniors agreed that "most people can be trusted."

That dropped to 18 percent in the early 1990s for Gen Xers — and then, in 2012, to just 16 percent of Millennials.

The researchers also found that Millennials' approval of major institutions — from Congress and corporations to the news media and educational and religious institutions — dropped more sharply than other generations in the decade that followed the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001.

"Young people today feel disconnected and alienated," says Twenge, a psychologist and professor at San Diego State University, who wrote a book on Millennials called "Generation Me." She finds these outcomes "especially distressing" for a generation that had been expected to be more trusting of government.

Young people, even those from differing backgrounds, say the findings ring true.

"I do not trust the government as far I can throw a car, which is not very far at all," says Steve McGlinchey, a 21-year-old who lives in Burton, Michigan, outside Flint, and works for a company that installs industrial furnaces for auto companies and other businesses.

Like a lot of young people, he says he's been disappointed by people in positions of power who've abused that power or seem to have forgotten about the little guy.

That includes Wall Street. "All they think about is making their own wallets bigger," he says, noting that he doesn't trust other people to handle his money, "especially people who don't know my name."

Erin Nwachukwu, a 16-year-old high school student who lives on Chicago's South Side, says she's felt mistrustful of authority figures, too, including the police. She also has doubts about her city's leaders, having watched them close dozens of public schools in low-income neighborhoods, even as they pour millions of dollars into flashy downtown parks and other projects.

"They don't seem like they have our best interest at heart," Nwachukwu says. "It seems like it's about the money."

Twenge and her co-authors at the University of Georgia based their study's findings on data from two major long-standing surveys of Americans — the General Social Survey and the University of Michigan's annual "Monitoring the Future" survey of 12th graders, with nearly 140,000 participants in total.

While Americans of all ages had growing trust issues in recent years, the researchers found that young people's trust dropped more steeply in several categories.

For instance, in 2000-2002, 49 percent of 12th graders who were surveyed said Congress was doing a "good" or "very good" job, compared with just 22 percent who said the same in 2010-12. Thirty percent of young boomers were approving in the mid-1970s, and 33 percent of Gen Xers in early 1990s.

The researchers used these figures in three-year blocks to assure they were comparing consistent trends. The margin of error is plus or minus 1 percentage point.

In 2000-2002, 54 percent of 12th graders approved of the job large corporations were doing. That fell to 33 percent by 2010-12. Forty percent of boomers approved in the mid-1970s, and 48 percent of Gen Xers in the early 1990s.

During that decade, Millennials also had notable drops in approval of colleges and universities, the news media, public schools and religious institutions.

Because the study found that people of all age groups have trust and confidence issues, Twenge notes that the results are more likely tied to current events than the generation itself.

Last year, an AP-GfK poll also found that only a third of all Americans said they trusted most people, compared with about half who said the same the early 1970s, according to the General Social Survey.

But the survey also showed that each generation has started off adulthood less trusting than the previous one, a trend that would likely have to be reversed for the nation's overall mistrust to change.

Katherine Vining, a 25-year-old graduate student in San Francisco, says that may be difficult to do in an age when news and information are readily accessible at any hour.

"The more information you have, the more opportunity there is to be disappointed and disillusioned by the people and institutions in the world that are repeatedly acting unethically and taking advantage of individuals and communities," says Vining, who's studying sustainable management at the Presidio Graduate School.

But, she adds, being more connected also makes it easier to find others "who are equally disheartened with the status quo." And with that, she and others say, comes empowerment to do something about it.

That's what some experts find so interesting about this generation. They may be disillusioned by the powers that be. Yet so far, they've continued to vote in larger percentages than previous young generations, even after some concede that they've failed to see the "change" that President Barack Obama first promised in 2008.

And despite their skepticism, they also continue to be a largely optimistic lot.

A Pew Research Center survey done in 2012 found that 73 percent of 18- to 34-year-olds were optimistic that they would eventually achieve their life goals, or had already achieved them.

Jon Rogowski, a political scientist at Washington University in St. Louis, has worried that, given these findings about trust, some young people will tire and "turn inwards" and away from civic engagement. He's particularly concerned about black youth.

A recent survey by the University of Chicago's Black Youth Project, to which Rogowski contributes, found that nearly 46 percent of black youth believe everyone has an equal chance to succeed in the United States, compared with 51 percent of white youth and about 58 percent of Hispanic youth.

Nwachukwu, the 16-year-old Chicagoan, who is African-American, understands that concern, yet still feels hopeful.

"Maybe it's my faith in other kids my age to step up to the challenge and change our system," says Nwachukwu, who traveled this summer to the Middle East to meet young people there with the nonprofit Qatar Foundation International. She says it was the type of experience that helps bolster her faith in people and her future.

Gary Rudman, a California consultant who tracks youth trends, also suspects that this generation's personal optimism comes from their upbringing — and the "you do anything" mantra.

"Perhaps we have set them up for ultimate failure, or maybe they will make the situation work for them," Rudman says. "Only time will tell."

Court rules for Yelp in suit over online ratings

By SUDHIN THANAWALA
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP), Online review site Yelp can lower or raise the rating of a business depending on whether it advertises with the company, a federal appeals court ruled in a lawsuit filed by small businesses claiming Yelp used the tactic to try to extort ads from them.

Yelp has denied doing that, saying it uses an automated system to cull reviews that determine ratings.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled on Tuesday that even if Yelp did manipulate reviews to penalize businesses, the practice would not constitute extortion.

The court said businesses do not have a right to positive reviews on Yelp, and that the San Francisco-based company can seek payments for its advertising.

"The business owners may deem the posting or order of user reviews as a threat of economic harm, but it is not unlawful for Yelp to post and sequence the reviews," Judge Marsha Berzon wrote for the three-judge panel.

"As Yelp has the right to charge for legitimate advertising services, the threat of economic harm that Yelp leveraged is, at most, hard bargaining."

Berzon said the plaintiffs could pursue other claims involving Yelp, but the extortion allegation did not hold up.

Yelp said in a blog post on its website that it has never altered business ratings for money.

"We are obviously happy that the court reached the right result, and saw through these thin at-

Hayward Assistant City Manager earns international accreditation

SUBMITTED BY FRANK HOLLAND

Kelly McAdoo, Hayward’s Assistant City Manager since 2010, has joined an elite group of distinguished public sector executives, recently achieving the International City/County Management Association’s (ICMA) Credentialed Manager designation. The distinction is held by fewer than 70 public sector managers in the entire state of California, one of whom is Hayward’s City Manager, Fran David.

The ICMA credentialing program was established in 2002 to recognize professional local government managers qualified by a combination of education and experience, adherence to high standards of integrity, and an assessed commitment to lifelong learning and professional development.

Since joining the City of Hayward in 2010, McAdoo has played a critical role in navigating a series of difficult organizational challenges, including budgetary issues due to the recession, the dissolution of California’s redevelopment agencies, labor negotiations, and a number of complex development projects.

“Kelly is a consummate professional and an outstanding example of today’s competent city executive,” noted Hayward City Manager Fran David. “She has prepared herself academically and through experience to step into the role of City Manager in almost any California city. Her designation as a Credentialed City Manager through the International City/County Management Association is simply confirmation of her skill set and her value to our organization.”

Season’s new phones are all about selfie image

By FRANK JORDANS AND ANICK JESDANUN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BERLIN (AP), Visit any tourist destination, and you’re bound to see individuals and groups taking photos of themselves for sharing on social media. It’s a declaration to the world that they were there.

Pop stars such as Rihanna and Justin Bieber have helped popularize the trend, too, by posting stylized selfies to their leagues of followers. Even politicians are taking selfies with ordinary folks these days as a way of showing how close they are to voters.

So it was only a matter of time before tech companies responded with phones and apps specifically designed to help people take more and better selfies.

Several phones unveiled at the IFA tech show in Berlin this week sport higher-resolution front cameras, so selfies will come out sharper. Some even have apps that let you use the rear cameras, too. That means even clearer photos – and the use of the flash, if you need it.

Promoting new phones as the perfect selfie camera is a natural move for manufacturers scrambling to stand out.

“The ‘selfie phone’ race resembles the megapixel race for cameras on the back of the phone,” said Gerrit Schneemann, an analyst at research firm IHS. “Handset makers try to satisfy a specific use case by including more powerful features in the front camera.”

One of the phones Microsoft announced Thursday, the Lumia 730, has a 5 megapixel front camera and software to help users touch up their image after taking it.

For even better shots, it’ll be possible to take selfies with the 6.7 megapixel camera on the rear. Users won’t be able to see themselves on the screen, but an app called Lumia Selfie will use face-detection technology and beep to tell users where to hold the camera.

With a starting price of 199 euros ($258) before taxes, the phone is likely to be particularly attractive to younger buyers and aspiring middle classes in developing countries.

It also fits neatly with Microsoft’s stated strategy of prioritizing mobile phones and Internet-based services. The phones come with sizeable online storage space on Microsoft’s OneDrive, where users can back up their photos or share them with friends.

Microsoft’s announcement follows Samsung’s new Galaxy Note phones unveiled Wednesday. The Note 4 and the Note Edge come with a special wide-angle option, which allows users to fit more people into their selfies by stitching multiple images together.

The feature could help avoid bloopers such as the time Oscars host Ellen DeGeneres snapped a selfie with Meryl Streep, Brad Pitt and Jennifer Lawrence but cut out Jared Leto, who had just won an Academy Award but was too far over to the side. Coincidentally or not, Samsung was a sponsor of the Academy Awards, and DeGeneres was using a Samsung phone.

Not to be outdone, PC-maker Lenovo launched its Vibe Z2 and Vibe X2 phones, with 8 megapixel and 5 megapixel front cameras, respectively. The phones will also have a feature that triggers the camera to snap the shot by smiling, blinking or making a “V” gesture.

Taiwanese phone manufacturer HTC also unveiled an 8 megapixel front-facing camera for its new Desire 820 device, while China’s Huawei can claim to have pioneered the selfie-phone idea earlier this year when it released the Ascend Mate2 4G. The Mate 2 has a 5 megapixel front camera and a wide-angle option similar to Samsung’s.

But some are wondering whether users will really embrace the idea of capturing themselves in high resolution.

“I’m not sure people want selfies to be very sophisticated to start with,” said Steve Jones, a professor of communications at the University of Illinois at Chicago. “There’s something to be said about having selfies be kind of the modern-day version of the Polaroid – instant, but it has its own look and had its own style.”

For users who don’t want to send around high-resolution images of themselves without a bit of prior enhancement, Microsoft’s selfie app offers tools that let them make tired eyes bigger, whiten their teeth and slim down like airbrushed models on magazine covers.

Meanwhile, LG wants to take selfies to a whole new place. The South Korean consumer electronics firm presented a refrigerator Thursday that can send pictures of its contents to users while they’re out shopping.

That’s right, your fridge is soon going to be sending you selfies.

NewPark Mall Cultural Corner welcomes back artist Colleen McCrystle, MFA/BFA, and features her "Visions of Maui" installation during the month of September. Her paintings are a multimedia response to the flora, fauna and people of Maui and inspired by a love of the natural environment as well as the desire to preserve it.

McCrystle is a narrative painter concerned with the psychological dimensions of images. She studied psychology simultaneously with her art education under Mary O'Neill at the University of California at Berkeley. McCrystle uses a variety of techniques to convey mood and content; among the most prominent are repetition and color symbolism. At times, she uses color in an obvious way, and at others illustrates a disharmony between the environment and the mood.

Garden: Sensory Delight

In tribute to late Mayor Robert Wasserman of Fremont, a garden respite is located in a busy commercial complex at the intersection of Mowry Avenue and Paseo Padre Parkway between Whole Foods and Boudin Bakery SF in Fremont. Built by Developer Mark Robson, its design and character was heavily influenced by a backyard oasis created by the mayor and his wife, Linda, in their Fremont backyard. In appreciation of Wasserman's vision, a reprint of an article that appeared in Tri-City Voice June 18, 2010 follows:

BY MICHELE MATTA

Nestled in an elegant South Fremont court is the pride and joy of Robert Wasserman, Mayor of Fremont and his lovely wife, Linda. It's their garden, "but Linda gets all the credit," states his honor proudly. Stepping out from the family room onto the Trex, an environmentally friendly, worry-free deck, one is immediately surrounded by a total sensory delight. Eyes can feast on a vibrant tapestry of flowers, plants, shrubs and trees of various shapes, colors and textures that Monet would have instantly been inspired to transfer to canvas. The sound of water trickling into the fish pond and birds humming and chirping create a symphony; and the sweet scent of nature in bloom is all around. The central attraction and focus of this outdoor paradise is the reflecting fish pond. Its sole inhabitant is Golda, a Koi who seems to thrive and delight in her surroundings as much as Bob and Linda. "This fish pond was our 50th anniversary present to each other," says Linda, "Golda must be at home here because she's grown from 4 inches to 14 inches in just a couple of years!" Near the fountain, on the deck, sits a charming wrought iron chair in the shape of a butterfly, which Linda purchased online and proceeded to assemble herself. Although deed, birdhouses and birdfeeders of every size, shape and color adorn almost every tree in the yard and part of the covered deck is lined with a residential row of birdhouses. There is even a unique bird sanctuary constructed of wood and inlays of mosaic tile painted with flowers and fruit, lending its rich hues of green, white, orange and blue to an already exquisite quilt of many colors. What bird would not enjoy residing in the midst of such an eco-friendly environment?

The Wassermans have captured the essence of "Feng Shui," a popular Chinese art which defines a connection between people's feelings and their environment. They have succeeded in creating a private place of peace and comfort that blends with an environment of tranquility, a place where color, fragrance, texture, water and wildlife combine to provide a place for rest and relaxation; a garden to enjoy for years to come!

Linda worked as an estimator for a local landscape designer, she has no formal background or training in landscape design. "No, I'm not a landscape architect, the yard and I sort of developed together over the years; we're sitting on an old hot tub right now!" The hot tub she is referring to is the covered deck to the left of the garden.

Behind the covered deck is a storage hut built by the Wasserman's son-in-law and a "Charlie chair" built by Linda's beloved deceased brother, Charlie - lots of sentiment, lots of love abound here. This deck is surrounded by colorful birch trees, rhododendron and podocarpus. But Linda's favorite plant is the flowery maple, transplanted from southern California where the Wassermans lived prior to moving to Fremont in 1976.

The deck has lots of special meaning to Bob and Linda, but most of all, "it's my Yosemite, my favorite vacation spot and we love the view of Mission Peak from here," says Linda.

Bob and Linda pooled many local resources to grow their drought-tolerant garden. The half dozen or so birch trees were purchased from a local nursery; some of the potted plants originated at the local Target store and the natural rock pyramid that rises behind the fish pond was purchased at the Fremont Art and Wine Festival (now called Fremont Festival of the Arts) several years ago.

Other visual delights include the pink and white bower vine flowers that adorn the covered deck, variegated purple sweet pea flowers surrounding the fish pond and a vibrant Tropicana bird garden. The "canas" are a native New Zealand plant sporting beautifully striped leaves of orange and green, so named because they resemble a tropical sunset. Then there's a very exotic plant that stand tall and erect with a glowing red and yellow top, the "red hot poker," which Linda loves because "the hummingbirds and chickadees love it!" She also delights in the Star Pine, which rises majestically behind the fish pond and adds another touch of essential green to this already luscious environment.

Pointing to milkweed, Linda is quick to explain that it provides a resting place for Monarch butterflies to lay their eggs. The Monarch butterfly flies from southwestern Canada to the California coastline and the Bay Area is considered its native resting place. So, in addition to its beauty and serenity, The Wassermans' garden is an example of an urban backyard transformed into a wildlife-friendly habitat.

Bird watching can be soothing, fun and educational. When Linda was asked what she loves most about her garden, she replied, "The birds. I spend as much on bird food as I do on people food!" In-

Let's meet at Bob's Place

When it is time to relax with friends, listen to birds sing and hear the gentle sound of waterfalls, a new place just opened that will satisfy those needs. In a small sanctuary from frantic city life, between Whole Foods and Boudin Bakery in Fremont, the spirit of Bob Wasserman, the late mayor, councilmember and Chief of Police of Fremont can be found.

Developer Mark Robson was determined to create an oasis in the midst of the daily hubbub of an energetic commercial complex that would encourage relaxation, casual conversation and personal interaction. Bob's wife, Linda, and a group of friends, family members and city officials gathered on Friday, June 27 to experience the result of extensive preparations to capture Bob's spirit, translated from his personal backyard oasis.

Crepe Myrtle trees

BY PAT KITE

People keep asking me about trees. Before this year, I was strictly a tree-hugger, more interested in lavender, roses and

Standard complaints include roots into everything: sewer lines, water lines, driveways, patios, and sidewalks, invasive plus super messy. Here's part of the no-go list: weeping willow, river birch,

A 5-gallon shrub becomes a small tree within 10 years. I am not seeing any root problems in my research. The only codicil is that a new tree requires watering the first year or two. After that Crepe myrtles are pretty much salvias. Then came an expensive discussion about my bug-ridden, diseased, sidewalk and walkway-cracking tree, and I started re-searching.

Determined not to replace it with another type of messy loser, I eliminated magnolia and liquidambar that drop golf-ball size spiny fruits; true ankle twisters. Then to the Internet, which has a nice long list of trees one doesn't want in suburbia. Contributors often make comments:

"Plant a fruitless mulberry only if you hate your neighbor."

"Female Ginkgo trees have fruit that smells like a cross between vomit and cat dung." "Ailanthus-tree of heaven-sends up root suckers 150 feet from the tree."

Russian olive, sycamore, linden, honey locust, catalpa, Norway maple, mimosa, Chinese tallow, cottonwood, ficus, elm, pine, jacaranda, and Bradford pear.

What to do? I like a tree to hug. Crepe Myrtle [Crape Myrtle] [Lagerstroemia indica] kept coming up as a positive, so I started looking around the neighborhoods. Gee... they were everywhere, I just never noticed. Crepe myrtles are replete with red, pink, white, purple or lavender flower bunches. As long as you give these trees a sunny site, they are happy. Size can range from two-foot-high dwarfs up to 25 foot standards. There are single trunk and multi-trunk varieties.

drought tolerant. New hybrids are disease resistant. These pretty trees started out in China as "Pai Jih Hung," translating into "100 days red" in honor of its long bloom season. In our suburban area, this is from July through October.

Bright red or yellow leaves may appear on some varieties before leaf drop in late fall. All in all, it seems a good choice. If you want to see different varieties, there are Crepe Myrtle Festivals in North Carolina, Texas, Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama. Neighboring San Jose has rows of bright pink Crepe Myrtles lining its streets. Knowing what they are makes me enjoy them even more. A tree to hug equals happy.

City of Fremont News Briefs

SUBMITTED BY CHERYL GOLDEN

Fremont one of the Top 10 Cities with the Highest Quality of Life

The City of Fremont does it again! The Huffington Post announced the results of Nerdwallet’s study, which sought to determine the top 10 cities with the highest quality of life based on health benefits, local economic strength, and work-life balance. The Nerdwallet study took into account a variety of factors when creating its list, including:

- The median price of rent (as a percentage of median income)
- The average number of hours residents spend commuting to work and working
- The percentage of residents with health care coverage
- The unemployment rate for the 100 largest U.S. cities

And our very own Fremont came in at No. 10! According to the study, Fremont is home to the lowest rate of poverty of the 100 cities taken into consideration — only 6.7 percent of residents earn an income below the poverty level. Major employers in the city include the Fremont Unified School District, Tesla, and Western Digital. Fremont is also home to Ohlone College as well as DeVry University, Northwestern Polytechnic University, and Unitek College.

To see which U.S. cities made it on the Top 10 list, check out the full results below:

Bringing the underground arts scene to Downtown Fremont

Join us on Saturday, September 20 for a gathering of artists, special performances, music, and food, at the FREMONT UNDERGROUND Social Experience (FUSE) events. FUSE brings together the underground arts scene to downtown Fremont, and provides the opportunity for artists, creative types, performers and retailers to come together with local audiences to exhibit, showcase and sell their work in a monthly series of nighttime events that wraps up next month.

Highlights from past FUSE events include interactive activities such as “live” painting with Al Preciado and Maggie So Community Art, and chalk art drawings with the Luna Chalk Art Festival organization that transformed the Town Fair parking lot into a sea of colors. A pop-up art gallery featured the works of Fremont-based artists John Hageman and Scary Art creator Nicolas Caesar. Adding to the creative vibe was the South Bay Circus Collective who wowed the crowd with their graceful Cirque Du Soleil-esque performances and impromptu juggling lessons, and dancing to the music of David Night and Mad Noise.

This new community event brings Fremont’s local artistic talents above ground and sets the tone for an interactive, imaginative, and artistic Downtown. Mark your calendar for Saturday, September 20 and October 18, from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. at 39112 State St. in the Town Fair Shopping Center parking lot and transformed pop-up art gallery spaces.

Sea Lions go to school to learn how to perform.

How to Train a Sea Lion

1. Give them lots of love and positive experiences to establish trust.
2. Start saying the word "okay" every time you give the sea lion a fish. Pretty soon they expect that if they hear the word "okay," they will get a fish.
3. Next, a "target" (a stick with a floater ball on the end) is put in front of the sea lion. Each time the sea lion touches its nose to the target, the trainer says, "okay," and gives a fish.

Now the sea lion knows: target = okay = fish.

4. This is repeated to reward other behaviors on cue. For example, if the trainer touches a front flipper and the sea lion raises its flipper, the trainer says, "okay," and gives a fish.

Now the sea lion knows: touch flipper = raise flipper = okay = fish.

Standards Link: Life Science: Know that the behavior of animals is influenced by cues.

Tri-City Stargazer SEPTEMBER 10 – SEPTEMBER 16, 2014 BY VIVIAN CAROL

For All Signs: Each of the planets in the solar system represents one element in the recipe that makes up our human energy. Mars was the ancient god of war. In the horoscope this planet represents the style in which we protect ourselves or defend our positions. As our personal warrior, the sign in which Mars is placed at birth describes the manner in which we expand our life territory and where we pour a lot of energy. We might do this quietly or with a great deal of noise and banter, depending upon the nature of Mars in the horoscope. The U.S. natal Mars is in Gemini, sign of the social communicator. As a collective we are likely to talk before we act, in hopes of persuading others to our point of view. If that is impossible, then we will move like the Twins from two or more directions simultaneously. Since roughly the turn of the century, the U.S. Mars has turned retrograde. From that time forward into the foreseeable future, we must cease forcing our business or views on any other country. When Mars is retrograde, aggressive moves prove extremely costly.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): As the week begins, you are concluding items of business related to finances, investments, or shared resources. On the 16th you will notice a shift into a new direction. It will likely be related to contacting people at a distance, preparing to travel, seeking legal or other professional advice, or focused on education.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): You are under the veil of illusion concerning romantic relationships. You may be perceiving yourself as selfless, or the other as too good to be true. Add a touch of realism here, and you will be more accurate. You may be emerging from a cocoon in which you and the other have been mesmerized by the narcotic of love.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): You are caught between what you should do and what you want to do. The routine is safe, but also boring. Your mind may play tricks on you and you could be distracted easily. This is not a good time to do work that requires discipline with details. You are feeling independent, so you may want more alone time than is the norm.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): Give special attention to unusual messages or to new people who enter your life during this time. A teacher crosses your path in the form of a person, a book, or the right message that will steer you in the next favorable direction. You may be restless and feel the need to move your body now. Some anxiety is possible.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): You have a steady mind and hands now. It is a good time to work on a project that requires concentration and careful work. You will find satisfaction this week with the routine activities of life. You may be spending time with older people, whether friends or relatives, or you may be working on repairs around your home.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): It may seem that every time you attempt to concentrate on any sort of detail, someone or something begins to interfere. Bitsy parts will not cooperate or can't be found. It may take 2 to 3 trips to the hardware store or the grocery market to collect what you need to complete a task.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Beware the temptation to feel sorry for yourself this week. If you want attention, then ask for it, rather than sulking because someone cannot read your mind. Your imagination is vivid and may be dark right now. Recognize that the scenario playing in your head is likely not the whole truth.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): You are entering a new phase of attention which will continue through October 25. Issues of money and resources, or matters of personal values, will be prominent as motivators. Be aware of the temptation to identify with that which you deem important, whether it is a material object or an idea. Do not confuse your individual identity with these things of the world.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): Mars, the warrior, enters your sign this week and will be traveling with you for seven weeks. This energy is best used to handle physically heavy projects or take initiatives that you might not otherwise tackle. You must take charge of the energy and focus it productively so it won't run you ragged.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): This week will prove to be a fine improvement over last week's rocky path. Activities that involve higher education, publishing, travel and/or legal interests are favored. People at a distance will be helpful. This may be via conference calling or the Internet. Relationships in general are smoother.

Aquarius the Water Bearer

(January 20-February 18): This is a time in which you can make steady progress on almost any endeavor. Cohorts are available to offer assistance in your effort. You may be given the budget to accomplish the goal. Banks or lenders evaluate in your favor.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): Beware of any martyr-like thoughts in relation to your partner(s). You could be seeing yourself as all-giving, all-loving. No one is really like that. Give what you are willing to give because you care for the other. Don't do it so that someone will see your actions and think you are wonderful. Whatever the outcome, you won't resent it.

Think Fremont

California Coastal Cleanup Day is September 20

In honor of the California Coastal Cleanup Day, the City of Fremont will be hosting creek cleanup events at eight different locations on Saturday, September 20 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.

What is Coastal Cleanup Day?

Every year, on the third Saturday in September, citizens throughout Alameda County gear up to join volunteers worldwide for the annual Coastal Cleanup Day event.

Last year the international event drew close to 650,000 participants in 92 countries, who picked up more than 12.3 million pounds of trash, according to the Ocean Conservancy, who is the International Coastal Cleanup organizer.

In most of California, including Alameda County, storm water does not pass through a water treatment plant. That means that litter and pollutants carried into the storm drain system by wind and water flow directly into creeks and the Bay, where they harm fish, marine mammals and birds. The vast majority of marine debris—up to 80 percent—originates inland. Plastic bags and other lightweight plastic litter items are particularly hazardous because they float, entangling and poisoning marine wildlife that mistakes the items for food.

Coastal Cleanup Day volunteers not only prevent litter from entering the ocean, but they also help gather valuable data on types of litter and its distribution. According to a 2013 report by the California Coastal Commission, cigarette butts and plastic litter, such as fast food wrappers and plastic bags, are the most commonly littered items. An estimated 20 million tons of plastic litter enter the ocean every year and has been known to impact more than 600 species of marine life. Recent Environmental Protection Agency estimates of the cost of marine litter to California's economy range in the $500 million a year range—an average cost of over $13 per person per year.

Please join families, friends, coworkers, scout troops, school groups, service clubs, and individuals as they come together to celebrate and share their appreciation of California's fabulous coast and waterways.

If you are interested in participating, please pre-register at www.Fremont.gov/CoastalCleanupDay to guarantee a spot. Please note the City does not allow anyone under the age of 6 to participate in this event.

For more information please contact the Coastal Cleanup Day Coordinator at environment@fremont.gov or 510-494-4570.

Fremont Ranks No. 4 on Estate's List of Most Family Friendly Cities in California

Over the last few decades, it's become more important to parents to choose the safest, best-quality cities to raise their families. Which brings us to an important question – just how family friendly are California's biggest cities?

Luckily, Estate's did the work for us and measured the family friendliness of California's 20 most populated cities. We're happy to report that Fremont came in at No. 4 on the list! With the second highest number of preschools per capita, second highest ranking schools, second lowest crime rate, and highest number of daycares per capita, we're not really surprised that Fremont tops the list.

If you're curious to see what kinds of factors Estate's took into consideration while conducting its study, check out the criteria below:

1. Youth population: The population of persons under 18 as a percentage of the overall population (US Census)

2. Commute time: The mean travel time to work for workers 16 and up (US Census)

3. Preschools: The number of preschools per capita for the population of people 5 years and under (US Census and greatschools.org)

4. Public education: The average school rating for public elementary, middle and high schools (greatschools.org)

5. Crime: The composite crime rate for violent crime, murder and non-negligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, property crime, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, and arson per capita (FBI)

6. Libraries: Public libraries per capita (publiclibraries.com)

7. Open space: Public parks per capita (each city's department of Parks and Recreation)

8. Housing affordability: The number of houses on the market affordable to a family earning the median household income for that city (Estate's and US Census).

9. Daycare: The number of daycare centers per capita (The Yellow Pages)

10. Cost of living: The yearly salary a family needs to earn to be considered earning a living wage (MIT)

To see the full results of this study, check out the graphic or visit www.Fremont.gov/FamilyFriendly.

The City's Community Alert System

Notification Matters

The recent earthquake in Napa is a reminder to be prepared. One step you can take is to enroll in the City's Community Alert system, CodeRED®, to receive voice calls, text messages, or emails for emergency and non-emergency notifications.

The City of Fremont's Community Alert System, CodeRED®, is provided by Emergency Communications Network. CodeRED® is a high-speed notification system that gives City officials the ability to deliver pre-recorded emergency alerts and non-emergency notifications to targeted geographic areas or the entire city.

CodeRED® is a "reverse 911" system that currently contains land-line phone numbers for most residents and businesses. The City of Fremont strongly encourages all residents and businesses, as well as people who send their children to school in Fremont or work in Fremont, to register their contact information into the secure CodeRED® database to receive notifications by email, SMS (text), and cell or work numbers.

To add your information to the CodeRED® system, you will be asked to provide the following information: First and last name; Fremont street address (physical address only, no P.O. Boxes); and telephone number (land-line and/or cell phone), e-mail and/or text addresses. Your contact information remains private and will only be used for community alerts. There is no fee to register.

How the City Uses the Community Alert System

Emergency Notifications

The Police and Fire departments may use the system to notify homes and businesses of situations that pose imminent threat to life or health, such as:

- Evacuation
- Hazardous materials releases or spills
- Barricaded criminal suspects
- Floods and fires in an immediate area

Non-Emergency Communications

The City also uses the system for non-emergency, time-sensitive information, such as:

- Road closures
- Scheduled major maintenance work
- Planned traffic impacts
- Missing persons
- Criminal descriptions
- City events

Caller ID Phone Numbers

There are two phone numbers used when the City activates the Community Alert system. When you see (866) 419-5000 displayed, you will know the call is from the City of Fremont and it is designated as an "emergency" call. When you see (855) 969-4636 displayed, that call is also from the City of Fremont and it is a "non-emergency" call. If you would like to hear the last message delivered to your phone, simply dial the number back. Add these numbers to your phone's address book so you know the City is calling.

For more information, or to enroll, please visit www.Fremont.gov/CommunityAlert.

Newark Days

Marshals. The Honorable Tony Roberts MBE (Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire), Town and District Councilmember and County Councilor from Newark-on-Trent, England, will be the Honorary Grand Marshal.

After the parade, be sure to see the Car & Truck Show. Children can enjoy a pony ride in the Arts, Crafts and Trade area, and the coloring contest will be held at the Be a Kid Again Stage at 12:30 p.m. when lucky winners will receive trophies and an all-day pass for carnival rides.

The Forever Young Stage hosts a great line-up of performers including Taiko Drums, The FOG (Four Old Guys), Newark Symphonic Winds, The Legacy Band with The Decadence Dancers, The Cold Storage Band and vocal duo DUB:RAE.

Intermission Productions will perform three shows a day, both Saturday and Sunday, on the Be a Kid Again stage in the food booth area. The shows are all about Growing Up with Bay Area TV in the 1960s and '70s, and include cartoons, The Three Stooges, Creature Features and more. The special surprise this year is the appearance of Tinker Bell from the 1953 "Peter Pan" movie. Margaret Kerry, a.k.a. Tinker Bell, will be entertaining the audiences with her stories.

Cotton Candy Express Music with Lori & RJ invite you to Be a Kid Again with music, puppets, a magician, games and a ticket give-away for Santa Cruz Beach Boardwalk rides and much more. Radio Disney is coming on Sunday and it's going to be a party. Big and little kids can play games, win prizes, listen to the hottest music from your favorite artists and take lots of pictures with the Duncan Yo-Yo inflatable.

Decades Band is the headliner show on Sunday, bringing their infectious music from Chuck Berry to Katy Perry to the Forever Young Stage. Following is the big birthday cake celebration. Don't forget to pick up your free Birthday Bash ticket in the Arts and Crafts Area Saturday and Sunday, because at the cake celebration someone will win an iPad mini – but you have to be present to win.

Newark Days is free, so mark it on your calendar and enjoy a citywide celebration with neighbors and friends!

The Unexpected Guest

SUBMITTED BY MARY GALDE

Broadway West Theatre Company presents the thrilling murder mystery “The Unexpected Guest” by Agatha Christie, directed by Paula Chenoweth and Larry Voellger, September 12 through October 11.

The story is a thriller as well as a puzzler set in a foggy estate in Wales. This mystery opens as a stranger walks into a house to find a man murdered and his wife standing over him with a gun. The woman is dazed and her confession unconvincing, so the unexpected guest decides to help her and blame the murder on an intruder. Later, the police discover clues that point to another suspect. A Pandora’s Box of loves and hates, suspicions and intrigues opens to the night air.

Performance times are 8 p.m. on Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays. There are three Sunday matinees: September 21 and 28 matinee performances begin with a continental brunch at 12:15 p.m. and the show begins at 1 p.m. The October 5 performance starts at 1 p.m. with refreshments during intermission.

Regular ticket prices are $25 general and $20 for students, seniors and TBA members.

Thursday, September 18, October 2, and 9 performances are $17 for everyone, with a bargain Thursday (no reservations – first come, first seat) held on September 25 – all tickets $10. Brunch Sunday performances and opening night are $25 for everyone. All ticket prices include refreshments.

Vikings fall to Lincoln

BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

Irvington's Vikings fell behind almost immediately when they faced Lincoln-San Francisco on Saturday, September 6. Lincoln took control and scored on its first two offensive drives to take the lead 12-0 in the first quarter but the Vikings showed a lot of heart as they came back to take the lead. Viking Masood Fahad picked up a fumble on the Lincoln 19 yard line and then, on the next offensive drive, a 1-yard Matthew Barrientez touchdown run gave the Vikings life. A badly thrown ball by Lincoln and an interception by Vikings Dejuan Smith followed by some great moves went 37 yards for a touchdown. The following two-point conversion using an outside run by quarterback Austin Walker gave the Vikings a 14-12 lead.

Irvington looked to lock up the game by opening a bigger lead, 20-12, with 2 minutes, 3 seconds left in the third quarter with a great 30-yard pass from Austin Walker to Walter Mitchell. But Lincoln ended the day for the Vikings as they put on a offense display with 12 minutes, 14 second left in the game, scoring 24 unanswered points. Final score: Lincoln-San Francisco 36, Irvington 20.

Moreau opens new athletic complex

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

A large crowd of current and past students and parents got their first look at the completed athletic complex at Moreau Catholic High school in Hayward on Saturday, September 6, 2014. At 10:15 a.m., Ms Christine Krisman, Athletic Director at Moreau Catholic got things started as she thanked everyone who helped make the dream of a new, modern sports facility, a reality.

The ribbon cutting and celebration got underway as Associated Student Body President Chrisly Macaraeg cut the yellow ribbon and Moreau Catholic Chaplin Fr. Bruce Cecil CSC gave a Blessing to the Capurro Family Plaza and Foxworthy Gate. An excited crowd passed through the gate to parade around the new track and football field. A blessing of bleachers, Al Vermeil Field and the Fremont Bank Pavilion was followed by the Moreau Catholic Chorus led by Scott Barton singing the National Anthem.

Brother Bill Zaydak CSC extended hopes for the future and Words of Gratitude were given by Dennis Mastrantonio. Coach Al Vermeil gave the keynote address and Anthony Bailey voiced Student Reflections. President Terry Lee closed the ceremony.

Cougars prevail in tough battle with Rebels the highly rated Milpitas Trojans on Friday September 12 at Newark, a big test as the Trojans won 27-0 in their recent non-league bout against Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco.

MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

The Newark Cougars beat the San Lorenzo Rebels 24 to 13 on Friday, September 5th in a game that could have gone either way as both teams exchanged touchdowns throughout the first half of play. It appeared that the last team to control the ball would be the victor. But as the game entered the second half, Cougar pass defensive took control; Rebels quarterback Kevin Mosi could not find an open receiver and was forced to unsuccessfully challenge the heart of the Cougars defense.

September is National Disaster Preparedness Month

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD OFFICE OF EMERGENCY SERVICES

Everyone should have personal disaster supplies kits. Keep them where you spend most of your time, so they can be reached even if your building is badly damaged. The kits will be useful for many emergencies. Keep one kit in your home, another in your car, and a third kit at work. Backpacks or other small bags are best for your disaster supplies kits so you can take them with you if you evacuate. Include at least the following items:

Medications, prescription list, copies of medical cards, doctor's name and contact information
Medical consent forms for dependents
First aid kit and handbook
Examination gloves (non-latex)
Dust mask
Spare eyeglasses or contact lenses and cleaning solution
Bottled water
Whistle (to alert rescuers to your location)
Sturdy shoes
Emergency cash
Road maps
List of emergency out-of-area contact phone numbers
Snack foods, high in water and calories
Working flashlight with extra batteries and light bulbs, or light sticks
Personal hygiene supplies
Comfort items such as games, crayons, writing materials, teddy bears
Toiletries and special provisions you need for yourself and others in your family including elderly, disabled, small children, and animals
Copies of personal identification
Customize the kit to your family and pets individual needs
Electrical, water, transportation, and other vital systems can be disrupted for several days or much longer in some places after a large earthquake. Emergency response agencies and hospitals will be overwhelmed and unable to provide you with immediate assistance. Providing first aid and having supplies will save lives, will make life more comfortable, and will help you cope after the next earthquake.

In addition to your personal disaster supplies kits, store a household disaster supplies kit in an easily accessible location (in a large watertight container that can be easily moved), with a supply of the following items to last at least three days and ideally for two weeks:

Water (minimum one gallon a day for each person)
Wrenches to turn off gas and water supplies
Work gloves and protective goggles
Heavy duty plastic bags for waste, and to serve as tarps, rain ponchos, and other uses
Portable radio with extra batteries (or hand crank for charging)
Additional flashlights or light sticks
Canned and packaged foods
Charcoal or gas grill for outdoor cooking and matches if needed
Cooking utensils, including a manual can opener
Pet food and pet restraints
Comfortable, warm clothing including extra socks
Blankets or sleeping bags, and perhaps even a tent
Copies of vital documents such as insurance policies

Use and replace perishable items like water, food, medications and batteries on a yearly basis

If earthquakes scare us because we feel out of control, think how much more true this must be for children, who already must depend on adults for so much of their lives. It is important to spend time with children in your care before the next earthquake to explain why earthquakes occur. Involve them in developing your disaster plan, prepare disaster supplies kits, and practice “drop, cover, and hold on.” Consider simulating post-earthquake conditions by going without electricity or tap water. After the earthquake, remember that children will be under great stress. They may be frightened, their routine will probably be disrupted, and the after-shocks won't let them forget the experience. Adults tend to leave their children in order to deal with the many demands of the emergency, but this can be devastating to children. Extra contact and support from parents in the early days will pay off later. Whenever possible, include them in the recovery process.

For more information on Disaster Preparedness related materials visit www.hayward-ca.gov and click on the red “Disaster Preparedness” button or contact the Hayward Fire Department Emergency Services Office for additional information at (510) 583-4948.

Let’s Get to Work! Regional Workforce Observations

By PATTI CASTRO,
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR,
ALAMEDA COUNTY
WORKFORCE
INVESTMENT BOARD

As we all return from the Labor Day Holiday having celebrated the end of summer with friends and family, it’s probably fair to say I spent more time reflecting on the spirit of the holiday than most. That’s because at the Alameda County Workforce Investment Board (ACWIB- www.acwib.org), our sole mission is to develop and lead the current and future East Bay workforce to quality and fulfilling employment opportunities. What surprises many is that we don’t just serve job seekers, but we also devote equal attention to employers, assisting them with a range of workforce needs.

Through our one-stop centers (www.acwib.org/job-seeker/one-stop-centers), workforce clients can receive training, education, employment leads, and access to labor market information. Our services aim to help our workforce clients enter into unsubsidized employment, retain jobs, develop skills, and obtain post-secondary degrees. Business clients receive training assistance, access to talented job seekers and specialized consulting services, including information about hiring incentives. In addition to delivering traditional services, ACWIB also conducts economic and labor market research to influence and inform local economic and workforce development within the region.

For example, with so much activity and growth in the region’s manufacturing sector, we recently examined manufacturing workforce trends. We think this information helps support the case for continued manufacturing expansion and the re-shoring of specialized processes. In analyzing labor statistics and job advertisements, it turns out there are nearly 56,000 manufacturing jobs in our region. The positions split broadly into three categories: electronic, mechanical, and utility. They also split evenly into “entry level,” “mid-tier,” and “senior,” suggesting that there are tremendous career pathway opportunities for students coming out of high school or community college.

For a closer look at this region’s industry cluster workforce trends, read our recent in-depth Report on the topic at:

http://alamedasocialservices.org/acwib/info-research/documents/display.cfm?folder=documents&filename=Alameda_County_-_New_Trends_in_the_Workforce.pdf

We look forward to using this research to inform our programs and partners — including our specialized career centers focusing on high growth sectors such as advanced manufacturing, health-care, biotechnology, ICT, transportation, and logistics, among others. As is often the case in economic development, strong partnerships with business leaders, academia, and the community are the foundation of our work. If you have workforce needs, chances are we can help with a solution. So let’s work together today (no pun intended!) to maintain our region’s economic competitiveness by ensuring a qualified workforce to meet tomorrow’s demand.

West Nile Virus at highest level ever

SUBMITTED BY ANITA GORE

Dr. Ron Chapman, director of the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) and state health officer, is reminding Californians to remain vigilant against the threat of West Nile virus.

“The proportion of mosquitoes infected with West Nile virus is at the highest level ever detected in California,” Chapman said. “At the start of September, 52 new human cases were reported to CDPH. We expect to see more people become infected as this is the time of year when the risk of infection is the highest.”

So far in 2014, West Nile virus has been detected in 36 California counties. There have been 181 human cases reported to CDPH, a significant increase compared to the 101 cases reported by this time last year. Eight confirmed deaths have been reported to CDPH.

West Nile virus is transmitted to humans and animals by the bite of an infected mosquito. For most people, the risk of serious illness is low. However, some individuals – less than one percent – can develop a serious neurologic illness, such as encephalitis or meningitis. People 50 years of age or older and people with diabetes and/or high blood pressure have the greatest risk of developing serious complications.

CDPH recommends that individuals prevent exposure to mosquito bites and West Nile virus by practicing the “Three Ds:”

DEET – Apply insect repellent containing DEET, picaradin, oil of lemon eucalyptus or IR3535 according to label instructions. Repellents keep the mosquitoes from biting you. DEET can be used safely on infants and children 2 months of age and older.

DAWN and DUSK – Mosquitoes bite in the early morning and evening so it is important to wear protective clothing and repellent if outside during these times. Make sure that your doors and windows have tight-fitting screens to keep out mosquitoes. Repair or replace screens with tears or holes.

DRAIN – Mosquitoes lay their eggs on standing water. Eliminate all sources of standing water on your property, including flower pots, old car tires, and buckets. If you know of a swimming pool that is not being properly maintained, please contact your local mosquito and vector control agency.

California’s West Nile virus website (<http://www.westnile.ca.gov/>) includes the latest information on West Nile virus activity in the state. Californians are encouraged to report all dead birds on the website or by calling toll-free 1-877-968-2473.

OPINION

WILLIAM MARSHAK

Study the past if you would define the future

CONFUCIUS

The Greater Tri-City area is a treasure trove of history, an indelible series of events marked by documents, photos, artifacts and structures that have remained intact through the protection of citizens - long term or recent - that value their roots. Historic registers at local, state and national levels have been created to ensure that items of significance can be retained for present and future generations. Preservation and maintenance is a cost borne by society to maintain a clear grasp of the past while preparing for the future.

Current interests can collide with preservation efforts since their focal point may lie within a limited context. Such conversations may include comments of, 'What can be done now to generate income for today's needs?' When costs of preservation are compared with income generated from a disposable asset, the argument becomes one of economics rather than societal welfare. In such cases, opposition can be blunted by promises of a bright, shiny future without bothersome artifacts.

Is history important? Should communities be allowed to erase the past through negligence, misappropriation and alterations that remove any semblance of historical significance? A case in point is the struggle over a structure in Mission San Jose that began its life in the late 1800s. According to a Fremont Staff Report, as a livery barn it was significant. "...between at least ca. 1897 and 1915 the building housed the area's largest livery barn, and the only livery barn on the area's main street. The hack and stage-coach service increased the area's connectivity with the larger Bay Area and contributed to the ongoing development of the Mission San Jose district." But, in seeming contradiction, the report goes on to say, "Early owners and operators of the livery stable include Daniel Baker, Edward J. Coffany, Andrew Kells, William Rose and Earnest Fry, none of whom appear to have made individually significance (sic) contributions to local, state or national history."

Eventually Olive Hyde purchased the property in 1958 as a residence then donated it to the City of Fremont in 1964 for "educational, cultural or recreational purposes while the Property is owned by the City." Altered over the years, the argument by the City of Fremont is that it "lacks the integrity that would allow it to express its historical significance." In the same report, it is noted that historical data is missing and the City has been a participant in alterations that contributed to this condition.

Although the Historical Architectural Review Board initially rejected removal of the property from the City's historic register, they finally and reluctantly succumbed, voting (split vote of 2-1-1) to approve removal of this building from the Fremont Register of Historical Places. They asked that proceeds from the sale be used for preservation and historical purposes. Did they really think this would happen? Not when the City is looking in every nook and cranny for money for downtown and Warm Springs. Recommendations to the City Council include direction of proceeds to "citywide goals as set forth in the City's Surplus Property Disposition Plan" without any other restrictions.

There are a myriad of examples of fortitude and foresight that have preserved assets at all levels - local, state and national - for future generations. Our national park system, local and regional parks, preserves and open space are fine examples as well as historic structures including historic homes in our cities that reveal the past and provide a base of knowledge and understanding.

If cost was the only criteria for preservation in Fremont, would citizens be able to enjoy Central Park, Ohlone Village, Mission San Jose, Shinn House, Patterson House, East Bay Regional Parks, Niles Canyon Railway, Niles Essanay Silent Film Museum and many other preservation efforts? Each city has its own precious heritage that should be jealously guarded. Fremont historic districts have lost much. In fact, Warm Springs is now considered an innovation district with little regard to its historical significance. One should not have to preclude the other, but almost all historic structures have been lost.

We can look around our area and discover how people lived in the past. In a constant struggle, a balance is sought between those who value and understand the value, even at considerable cost, of preserving historical context and others who live within the moment of their lives with a different perspective of long term consequences. Tonight, Fremont's City Council will consider deleting the Mission San Jose property from the historic register, clearing the way for its sale. Is this just an expedient way to remove a historical 'nuisance' and make a few bucks in the process? Isn't there room in Fremont for the past, present and future? Resources from our past are finite and should be preserved. Once gone, they rarely are resurrected.

A people without the knowledge of their past history, origin and culture is like a tree without roots.

MARCUS GARVEY

One cannot and must not try to erase the past merely because it does not fit the present.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Court rules for Yelp in suit over online ratings

tempts by a few businesses and their lawyers to disparage Yelp and draw attention away from their own occasional negative review," the company wrote.

The ruling supported a lower court decision that dismissed the lawsuit filed by businesses that said positive reviews disappeared from their Yelp page, which dropped their overall star rating; or a negative review reappeared or was moved to the top of the review after they declined to purchase advertising from Yelp.

One of the businesses, Santa Barbara-based Cats and Dogs animal hospital, claimed a Yelp representative said the company would hide negative reviews or place them lower on the page in exchange for advertising.

"The Mafia wishes it had this ruling," said Lawrence Murray, an attorney for the plaintiffs, who equated the alleged tactic to a "shakedown."

Murray said the plaintiffs have not decided whether they will appeal.

Two of the business that filed suit accused Yelp of writing negative reviews. The 9th Circuit found there was insufficient evidence to support that claim.

Yelp has been dogged by concerns about the legitimacy of its ratings, in part because people don't understand the algorithm it uses to try to filter out fake reviews, said Georgios Zervas, a professor at Boston University who specializes in online marketing.

Zervas also said the algorithm can make mistakes.

A business might see a 5-star rating one day, only to find it's gone the next, he said.

"Businesses can find that confusing and occasionally upsetting," Zervas said.

However, Zervas said his research did not find the algorithm showed any preference for businesses that advertise with Yelp.

Obituary

Barbara Joan Hatton

Barbara Joan, an only child, was born to Carl and Josephine Werner on October 31, 1932 in Oakland, California. She grew up in Oakland and attended Oakland High. Eventually she went on to attend Lux Business College in San Francisco. She met her husband Earl John Hatton, and they married in 1952 at St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church in Oakland. After settling down with her husband, they went on to have 5 children together: Steven, Carleen, Gregory, Bradley, and Bonnie. Eventually their family grew to include Steven, their grandson, and Michelle, their granddaughter. In addition, the family eventually included Gavin and Carter, their great-grandchildren. Barbara died after a brief illness on August 25, 2014.

Of her many talents, Barbara was also proficient as a top notch fly caster, competing in national tournaments and following in her father's footsteps, who was also well known in this field. She was a homemaker who enjoyed sewing, crafting, and many of the home arts while caring for their children during their school-age years.

After raising their children, she went to work outside of the home for the Xerox Corporation and retired from the company. Barbara also cared for her husband, Earl, during the last few years of the marriage while he was suffering from an illness that demanded much of her time and energy. He died in 2004.

It is often said that when a woman turns 50 she puts on a red hat and a purple dress... and joins a Red Hat Chapter, which she did. This brought on a new meaning to her life! She enjoyed entertaining her Red Hat group(s) in her lovely home in Fremont. She was the ultimate party planner.

Barbara was an active member of the Women's Guild for Our Lady of the Rosary in Union City. She participated in many of the Guild functions and activities in support of the Church.

She will long be remembered for her lovely smile and vibrant personality, her gracefulness, her gentle demeanor, her style, and flair for fashion. Her presence was a gift to everyone she met. She was the embodiment of the perfect woman, wife, mother, and friend.

A rosary followed by a funeral Mass will be held on Friday, September 19th at Our Lady of the Rosary Catholic Church in Union City at 10:00 a.m. located at 703 C Street, Union City, CA.

BayMobile brings the Bay straight to schools

SUBMITTED BY METROPOLITAN TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION

Thousands of students will be seeing stars - sea stars, that is - in Bay Area classrooms this school year. It's all thanks to a visit from the BayMobile, a traveling aquarium that brings sea creatures and a team of talented educators from San Francisco's Aquarium of the Bay straight to schools free of charge. The BayMobile launched in March 2014 with a $300,632 grant from Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) and Bay Area Air Quality Management District's Spare the Air youth grant program.

With the help of BayMobile's built-in lab, staff members teach students about the science of climate change and introduce them to some of the Bay's animal ambassadors, including sea cucumbers, pond turtles, sea hares and terrestrial snakes. The modified 18-foot-long van, wrapped in an aquamarine hue and decorated with various ocean creatures, is fitted with compartments for transporting science supplies and a portable touch-tank modeled on native tide-pool ecosystems. About half of the supplies go into the classroom for lessons, with the other half set up beside the BayMobile for students to visit.

Fieldtrips may be educational and fun, but transportation costs, time constraints and logistics often pose barriers for school groups, and Aquarium of the Bay receives more fieldtrip requests than it can accommodate. The BayMobile fills that gap. Aquarium program staff designed a set of eight lesson plans targeted to specific age groups from K-12 to take on the road to school sites. All courses meet the National Education Association's Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) teacher training program requirements and Next Generation Science Standards based on the framework for K-12 Science Education developed by the National Research Council. While visitors to the Aquarium's home on the San Francisco waterfront can watch scientific demonstrations by resident naturalists, BayMobile educators go the extra mile, allowing students to perform their own experiments tailored to grade level.

Each of the lessons is hands-on. Kindergarteners and first-graders get to observe how humans have affected the balance of natural cycles on Earth and explore through play how new innovations (i.e., solar power and other alternative energy options) can help to return balance to our environment. Older elementary school kids explore the complex food web and observe changing chemistry in an ocean-like environment. Middle-schoolers dive right into ocean chemistry, using multi-media and ball-and-stick-style molecular models. High school students collect data to explore the chemistry behind ocean acidification, build real-life models of the greenhouse effect, and interactively resolve what humans can do to make a positive difference.

Educators at schools in all nine Bay Area counties, including Alameda and Santa Clara counties, can schedule a visit from BayMobile. Classes last 60 minutes and are suitable for 15 to 35 students. Three to four classes per school visit can be reserved, but all classes on a given date must select the same program, according to Blair Bazdarich, K-12 outreach coordinator. For further information and reservation requirements, visit www.aquariumofthebay.org/baymobile or email baymobile@bay.org.

Olive Hyde exhibit features

Local Talent

Developed to showcase local talents, this year's exhibit presents the work of many artists, selected for their originality and creativity. Watercolorists include Dimity Grudsky, Jan Schafir, Lynda Brown, and Carol Taveras. The work of photographers Rick Smith, Brandon Torres, and Janet Norris will be included, as well as that of digital media artist Ellen Cotton. Ceramicist Sue Morford and glass artist Emellie Rogers will exhibit their three dimensional work. Collage/watercolor artist Emi Tabuchi will also be shown. Among the painters are Randy Garber, Therese Ely, Sonalee Hardikar, Mary Sullivan, Leon Carter, Farshid Namei, and Robyn Leimer. Multi-media artists include George and Linda Garbarino, Susan Helmer, and Diego Rios.

Working primarily in oils, award-winning artist Therese Ely draws her inspiration from Sierra Panoramas, the coastal surf, and hidden coves. Her work has been included in Oil Painters of America and Arts for the Parks exhibits.

Originally inspired by her father's artistic talent, Emi Tabuchi seeks to "put on paper the intimacy of her soul." Tabuchi's work is exhibited locally and in San Francisco.

Known for his public art, Dmitry Grudsky selected one of his paintings for this exhibit because it was inspired by the observation of the lives of senior citizens at nursing homes.

After teaching art in Fremont Unified School District for 35 years, George Garbarino currently works with colored pencils and pastels, using them in combination with watercolors and to hand tint his black and white photographs.

As an advocate for the importance of visual and performing arts for our youth, Linda Garbarino currently focuses on portraiture and the female figure using sanded paper to create unique texture.

Showcased in this year's "Hidden Treasures - Local Talent" exhibit will be the work of students who have participated in the Serra Center Art Project cooperatively developed and funded by the Olive Hyde Art Guild, Alameda County Arts Commission, Serra Center, City of Fremont's Recreation Department, and the Niles Rotary Foundation. In its fourth year, the art instruction program for developmentally disabled adults has grown to include 22 students.

With the "Hidden Treasures - Local Talent" exhibit, Olive Hyde Art Gallery offers the community an eclectic show with a broad spectrum of both emerging and experienced artists. Collectively, they share a desire to create pieces that are a unique expression of themselves. The exhibit will run through October 11.

Unauthorized access discovered at CSUEB

SUBMITTED BY JEFF BLISS

On August 11, 2014, California State University, East Bay's (CSUEB) information security team discovered that unauthorized access to certain personal information occurred on August 23, 2013.

The university immediately commenced an internal investigation and has since learned that an unknown third-party broke into a university web server used to store various employment transaction records and some extended learning course information. The malicious files have been removed from the server and vulnerabilities have been mitigated.

While a full investigation is continuing by CSUEB's information security team, it has been determined that the malicious software tool allowed the unauthorized party to copy a data file containing full names, addresses, and Social Security numbers of 6,036 individuals. The dates of birth of 508 individuals were also included in the data file. No financial, banking, academic, or medical information was included in the data file.

To date, the university is not aware of any reports of identity fraud resulting from this incident, nor does it have any evidence to suggest that personal information has actually been misused.

The university has provided written notification to the affected individuals through the U.S. mail. The notices explain the steps the university is taking to safeguard individuals against identity fraud and suggest steps that affected individuals should take as well. As part of this effort, CSUEB is offering each affected individual a 12-month membership in a credit monitoring service at the university's expense. Instructions are enclosed with the notice letter.

Affected individuals are encouraged to remain vigilant and to protect against possible identity theft by reviewing financial account statements on a regular basis for any unusual activity and monitoring credit reports.

San Leandro PD partners with Ambassadors to enhance public safety

SUBMITTED BY
LT. ROBERT MCMANUS

For the past several weeks, the San Leandro Police Department has cultivated a new partnership with the Downtown San Leandro Community Benefit District Ambassadors. Police work closely with the Ambassadors, whose mission is to provide safety, cleanliness, and hospitality in San Leandro's downtown business district, spanning along E. 14th St. from Davis St. to Elsie Ave.

The Ambassadors are easily identifiable in their high-visibility green shirts and tan pants and can be found working in the downtown area Monday – Saturday from 7:00 a.m. until 9:30 p.m. They are responsible for a variety of tasks each day from reporting suspicious activity to officers to addressing quality of life issues for patrons, always ensuring that residents and visitors are offered an inviting place to eat, shop, and socialize in the downtown area.

Police know that the presence of the Ambassadors will assist them in preventing crime and enhance public safety. "I am excited to have the Ambassadors working closely with our officers. This partnership will increase the level of service that we provide to our downtown business district. We are all committed to serving the public, making San Leandro's downtown a better place for everyone," said Chief Sandra Spagnoli.

The Ambassadors are trained in addressing safety issues and conflict resolution, using thoughtful and compassionate customer service skills. They will also be seen doing maintenance work, such as graffiti removal, sweeping, and pressure washing the sidewalks. Like police officers, they will serve as a resource for everyone, providing information, offering assistance, answering questions, and providing directions.

Ambassador Sam Gonzalez

has been surprised about the attention that he and the other Ambassadors have received from the community, citing instances in which patrons have thanked him for the job that he has done, and for making them feel safe.

Officer Brian Buss has been working closely with the Ambassadors since the beginning, and is very pleased with their current successes. He stated, "They take ownership of the downtown in which they work, and have personal pride in the jobs that they do. It has been a pleasure to work with each of them."

Members of the Police Department look forward to working with the Ambassadors in the near future, knowing that this new partnership will be highly beneficial for our community.

For more information regarding the Ambassador Program or the Downtown Community Benefit District, please contact Rezsiz Gonzalez at (510) 281-0703.

Avoid DUI Campaign

SUBMITTED BY SGT. JASON CORSOLINI,
HAYWARD PD

From August 17 to September 1, you probably noticed the "Avoid the 21 DUI Task Force" out in full force, targeting one of the deadliest killers on the road; drunk driving. The enforcement was part of the national "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" campaign to save lives and make our roads safer.

DUI enforcement resulted in far too many drunken driving arrests and citations countywide over the past 16 days.

From 12:01 a.m. on August 17, through midnight of September 1, officers representing 11 county law enforcement agencies arrested 95 individuals for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs. In 2013 118 DUI arrests occurred during the same time period.

San Leandro Police Log

Friday, August 29

At 8:48am, a resident in the 1400 block of Burkhart St., called the SLPD to report that a male, who they did not recognize, had just entered the backyard of one of their neighbors.

As responding officers were checking the area for the prowler, they received a second call from a resident in the 1700 block of London Ave., approximately 2 mile away, who reported that someone was breaking into their house. When officers arrived on London Ave., they found the side garage door open and items on the ground outside, including a purse, laptop computer, pry bar, and miscellaneous cosmetic items.

Believing that the suspect was still inside, the officers surrounded the house and announced for the suspect to come outside. Minutes later, Raymond Iribarren from Pittsburg exited the house and was taken into custody. During their investigation, police determined that Iribarren was the same suspect who they were originally called about on Burkhart St.

The items found outside of the garage on London Ave. were found to be stolen from inside of the residence. They were returned to their owner.

Iribarren was booked on suspicion of attempted burglary (for the home on Burkhart St.), residential burglary (for the home on London Ave.) and possession of burglary tools.

As officers were still investigating this burglary, they were called to another, unrelated burglary that was in progress in the 400 block of Castro St. The resident saw a silver Lexus park in front of the house and reportedly saw a male climb over the face into the front yard.

The resident inside heard someone knocking at the front door and trying the door handle, so he called police. When responding officers arrived, the male fled from the officers, and eluded capture. The Lexus, driven by a 26 year old man from Oakland, was stopped by police as it fled the area. The male, found to be on probation, was arrested on suspicion of attempted burglary. His name is not being released, as detectives are still investigating this case.

Tuesday, September 2

This morning at 1:50am, an employee of the Affordable Overnight Shipping Company located in the 2100 block of Edison Ave. observed a large African-American male, wearing a dark, hooded, sweatshirt approach the front of the closed business. The employee confronted the male, as his activity was suspicious. The male left.

Minutes later, the employee heard the sound of glass breaking at the front of the business, and when he went to investigate, found that a large rock had been thrown through the front window. The employee quickly called police.

Affordable Overnight Shipping is located in a commercial district in which all businesses were closed to the public at that time. A responding patrol officer spotted a silver, Chevy Suburban driving in the area of the attempted burglary and stopped it to investigate. Officers found the driver, Jonnie Benson from Oakland to be on probation for burglary. During the investigation, they found that the Suburban had been reported stolen from the 400 block of 34th St. in Oakland on August 31st. Officers searched the vehicle and found tools typically used to commit burglaries inside, including a hammer, pliers and binoculars.

Benson was believed to be the getaway driver for the burglar, and was arrested on suspicion of attempted commercial burglary, possession of a stolen vehicle and possession of burglary tools. Detectives are checking for surveillance video from neighboring businesses in an attempt to identify the person responsible for breaking into the closed business.

Lt. Robert McManus stated, "In these cases, it was a witness that called the police that led to each of these arrests. We are thankful that we have a great partnership with those that we serve, who call us immediately when they recognize that something is wrong. I commend these witnesses, as they contribute to making San Leandro a safer community for everyone."

Free and reduced cost school meals

SUBMITTED BY MEIRA NALAMOTHU

Fremont Unified School District recently announced its policy for providing free and reduced-price meals for children served under the National School Lunch Program and/or School Breakfast Program. Each school and/or the central office has a copy of the policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Household size and income criteria will be used to determine eligibility for free, reduced-price, or full-price meal benefits. Children who receive Food Stamp (FS), California Work Opportunity and Responsibility to Kids (CalWORKs), Kinship Guardianship Assistance Payments (Kin-GAP), or Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations (FDPIR) benefits are automatically eligible for free meals regardless of the income of the household in which they reside. Eligibility for a foster child is based on a separate application and solely on the amount of the child's "personal use" income.

Application forms are being distributed and are also available at the principal's office in each school. Applications may be submitted at any time during the school year.

For more information, visit www.fremont.k12.ca.us and go to Child Nutrition Services.

Drought relief - water pact is a success

SUBMITTED BY FRANK JAHN

Among many strategies, Bay Area water officials are using regional cooperation to help weather continued drought conditions. An agreement between the Contra Costa Water District (CCWD) and the Alameda County Water District (ACWD) is showing how local water transfers can work.

A pilot project was approved early this year by both agencies to allow ACWD to purchase and store 5,000 acre-feet of water in CCWD's recently expanded 160,000 acre-foot Los Vaqueros Reservoir, for delivery this summer. CCWD Board President Joseph L. Campbell said the agreement between the water districts demonstrates how local agencies can work cooperatively to meet the region's water needs during extended drought conditions.

"CCWD is pleased to see efforts aimed at testing Los Vaqueros for regional benefits," Campbell said. "Successful water-storage and cost-sharing agreements such as this one can provide benefits to CCWD customers and water customers throughout the region in reduced costs and increased water-supply reliability."

Under the agreement, 5,000 acre-feet of water has been delivered to ACWD this summer through transfer agreements approved by state and federal agencies. This represents approximately 15% of the water to be delivered to ACWD customers in 2014, and provides a cost-savings for ACWD ratepayers as the District avoids the need to purchase more costly sources of supply.

"During one of the worst droughts in California's history, the ACWD-CCWD regional partnership, combined with our customers' outstanding water conservation efforts, have truly made a difference in our community's water supply," said Paul Sethy, ACWD Board President. ACWD is reimbursing CCWD for supply, storage, and conveyance costs associated with the project. The agreement does not affect any of the benefits that Los Vaqueros provides to CCWD customers.

A continued ACWD-CCWD partnership to store water at Los Vaqueros could be a cost-effective way to increase water-supply reliability for ACWD, according to Sethy. "The use of Los Vaqueros could provide many benefits to ACWD customers and this pilot project has allowed our agencies to test this partnership on a limited scale," he said.

CCWD continues to explore additional agreements for short-term water storage with other Bay Area water agencies. This regional approach provides more flexibility for water agencies to navigate multiple dry years, regulatory restrictions, and emergencies.

Fremont Police Log

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

Friday, August 29

A retired law enforcement officer left his loaded firearm in his vehicle. Sometime between Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, an unknown suspect took the gun from center console. There were no signs of forced entry and the victim is not sure if the vehicle was locked. Officer Magna is investigating.

At approximately 2:30 p.m., Officer Ramsey was dispatched to a citizen holding a suspect at Target and arrested a 55-year-old adult male for petty theft with a prior.

At approximately 4:20 p.m., Officer Ramsey was dispatched to the Teen Center at Central Park on the report of a male sitting in his vehicle and staring at the playground. When officers arrived, the subject left the vehicle and attempted to hide. The 63-year-old adult male, Fremont resident was found and arrested for being under the influence of a controlled substance.

At approximately 5:20 p.m., Officer Lobue was dispatched to a report of a robbery at the Union 76 gas station at Fremont Hub (4190 Mowry Ave). The reporting party stated that the store had just been robbed of a suspect in possession of a knife. When the robbery failed, the suspect fled the scene in his vehicle, but not before the clerk chased after him and broke the back window of the vehicle with his hand causing a laceration. The clerk was able to get the license plate and the suspect was tracked to his residence. The 29-year-old adult male, Fremont resident, was contacted, positively identified and arrested at his front door. Det. Rodriguez and Det. Austin were called in to assist in the investigation.

At approximately 6:15 p.m., Officer Francisco was dispatched to the area of Civic Center Dr. and Walnut Ave. due to loss prevention officers at Raley's in pursuit of a theft suspect. The suspect, a 29-year-old adult male, Oakland resident, was caught and arrested for petty theft. When Officer Francisco returned to Raley's, he also arrested a 42-year-old adult female, Fremont resident, for petty theft with a prior. The two incidents were not associated.

Officers responded to Goodrich Way on a report of two drunken subjects creating a disturbance. Upon contact, a 37-year-old adult male became combative. Officers arrested the male for resisting arrest. A 35-year-old adult male was arrested for public intoxication. Case is investigated by officers Chahouati and Soper.

Saturday, August 30

At approximately 4:05 p.m., Officer Stillitano responded to a theft call at Fry's and arrested a 23-year-old adult male for burglary.

Officer Stillitano initiated a traffic stop at the west end of Auto Mall Parkway and arrested an 18-year-old adult male for possession of a sap baton.

At approximately 10:50 p.m., a 16-year-old male juvenile was accosted at the skate park by three unknown male suspects and relieved of his cell phone and wallet. The victim stated that he lost consciousness and the suspects were gone when he woke up. The victim received treatment at a local hospital for his injuries. The suspects were described as being approximately 18 to 19 years old. Case is investigated by Officer O'neal and Field Training Officer (FTO) Romley.

At 12:45 a.m., an intoxicated driver collided with three parked cars on Lake Mead Dr. A 22-year-old adult female was arrested and had to be restrained due to her level of violent intoxication. Her male passenger was so intoxicated that he also needed to be medically cleared. A McNeely warrant was needed to secure a blood draw. Case is investigated by Officer Harvey with an assist from Officer Nordseth.

At approximately 2:00 a.m., an intoxicated driver rear-ended a vehicle stopped at a red light near Fremont Blvd. and Eggers Dr. Despite the high speed impact, none of the occupants in the victim vehicle sustained significant injuries. The driver, a 22-year-old adult male was medically cleared prior to booking but did not consent to a blood draw. Officer Gourley investigated and drafted the second McNeely warrant of the night. The male was booked into Santa Rita Jail. Officer Chahouati assisted with the collision portion of the case.

Sunday, August 31

At approximately 5:15 p.m., officers were dispatched to a battery in the parking lot of Smoking Pig Restaurant and caught up to the combatants near Allegro Music. Officer Romley arrested a 43-year-old adult male for being drunk in public and placed him on a probation hold due to it being the second time he was arrested for the same charge in two days. Officer Romley also arrested a 25-year-old adult male for being drunk in public and for an outstanding warrant. Officer Collins arrested a 38-year-old adult male for being drunk in public.

At approximately 5:55 p.m., Officer Taylor was dispatched to a residence where a 25-year-old adult male was brandishing a knife at his family members. After speaking with everyone at the house, Officer Taylor was not able to determine if a brandishing actually occurred. However, when the male was searched he had hash oil in one of his pockets. Officer Taylor arrested the male for possession of concentrated cannabis.

Monday, September 1

Officers responded to Ring Ct. to investigate a residential burglary. The victim had been gone all day. The unknown suspect entered through a window. The loss was unknown at the time officers responded to take the report. Case is investigated by Community Service Officer (CSO) Oliveira.

At approximately 6:10 p.m., a single vehicle collided into the curb on Driscoll Rd. The reporting party said the driver was having a medical episode. Apparently the driver had a reaction to smoking marijuana and taking other medication. Traffic Officers Tran and Spear handled the investigation.

Officers responded to a huge fight on Robin St. at approximately 8:40 p.m. with multiple neighbors reporting people in the street and a subject armed with a stick. Multiple officers responded. In the end, all parties were on scene; no injuries or prosecution occurred, and the case was taken for information only.

At approximately 10:40 p.m., officers were dispatched to an armed robbery at Walgreens located near Fremont Blvd. and Decoto Rd. The unknown suspect passed a note to the cashier claiming that he had a gun and demanded money. The clerk gave the suspect cash and the suspect left the store. The suspect was described as possibly being a Middle Eastern male, approximately 25 years of age, 5'10", 190 lbs., wearing a white hooded sweatshirt, dark sunglasses, and tan shorts. He covered his face with a bandana. No gun was seen and the suspect fled on foot toward Decoto Rd. Officer Madsen is investigating and Officer Perry assisted with the video surveillance evidence.

Tuesday, September 2

Officers responded to a residential burglary on Valpey Park at approximately 2:40 p.m. The burglary had occurred sometime earlier during the day. Entry was made via an unlocked sliding glass door and the loss reported was cash. Case is investigated by CSO Oliveira.

A residential burglary occurred on Madison St. The report is still in progress at this time. Case is investigated by Officer Valdes.

At 4:50 a.m., officers were sent to the 7-Eleven on Central Ave. on a report of an armed robbery. The suspect entered the store and handed the clerk a demand note for money which also stated that he had a gun. The clerk gave the suspect the money and he fled the store. The suspect was described as a Middle Eastern or Hispanic male adult who was approximately 25 years of age. He was approximately 5'10" tall and weighed about 150 to 180 lbs. He was wearing dark sunglasses as well. It should be noted that this was likely the same suspect as the previous night's robbery at Walgreens located at Decoto Rd.

Wednesday, September 3

An employee of Target in Pacific Commons reported that a disgruntled male customer had punched a female employee in the face and fled the store. Officer Hanrahan located the suspect, a 38-year-old adult male, Fremont resident, on Auto Mall Parkway and detained him without incident. The adult male was arrested and booked for battery.

At 3:00 p.m., Fremont officers responded to an outside assist call for the Alameda County Sheriff's Office (ACSO) of a report of a possible shooting into a bus. The incident occurred at the intersection of Grimmer Blvd. and Broadmoor Co. An AC Transit bus was stopped at the signal, when its rear window was shot out by a BB gun. No passengers were injured. The incident occurred 30 minutes prior to Fremont being notified and ACSO arrived on scene shortly after to handle the investigation.

At approximately 2:30 p.m., Officer Liu was dispatched to a report of a forgery at Bank of America on Beacon Ave. The suspect, a 19-year-old adult male, was trying to pass a counterfeit check. The account holder was notified of the attempted transaction, and confirmed that he did not write a check in the amount the suspect was trying to pass. The suspect was arrested for forgery and burglary.

At 12:59 a.m., officers were dispatched to Taco Bell on Grimmer Blvd. to investigate a robbery. Officer Taylor arrived first and located the suspect hiding near Pasta Presto; however, it turns out that the incident was an attempt petty theft and not a robbery. The suspect was identified as a 21-year-old adult male and he went to jail for being drunk in public.

At approximately 3:45 a.m., Officer Torrico was sent to 1 Marshland Rd. to investigate a missing person. When he arrived he met with the reporting party and learned that his 34-year-old friend was missing after the two had gotten separated around 3:15 a.m. The reporting party managed to get back to his car parked near the entrance to the park, but he could not locate his friend. The two friends are co-workers and decided to go for a night hike/stargazing after getting off of their shift at work. The reporting party waited approximately 30 minutes before he called the police because he thought his friend was playing a trick on him. Once officers arrived, they thoroughly searched the entire area on foot and with a Newark Police Department K-9, but could not locate the missing person. The missing male does not have any medical/mental conditions and there are no signs of foul play. Officer Torrico is investigating and an outside agency helicopter will be assisting with a search of the area.

Wells Fargo in Warm Springs called to report that a customer was inside the bank attempting to withdraw $5,000, which was highly unusual. The customer told bank employees that she needed the money or else she was going to be put in jail. The bank told the victim that it was a scam and refused to release the money, so the victim left. The investigation revealed that the suspects contacted the victim via telephone and told her to pay $5,000 or she would be arrested. Ofc. Wilkinson investigated. Please continue to warn your friends, family and neighbors of these scams.

TJ Max reported that a female entered the store, staged several purses near the exit, and then stole them. The same suspect is responsible several other TJ Max burglaries in the Bay Area. Investigated by Ofc. Hanrahan.

A residential burglary occurred in the the 4200 block of Stanley Ave. Loss was an iPod and cash.

Navy Airman James Fisher, an Aviation Boatswain's Mate from Milpitas and a 2010 graduate of Milpitas High School, is serving in the U.S. Navy aboard Pre-Commissioning Unit Gerald R. Ford (CVN 78). Some of his duties include responsibility for aircraft catapults, arresting gear and barricades, as well as directing aircraft on the flight deck, and in hangar bays before launch and after recovery.

The Gerald R. Ford is the first ship in its class and the successor to the Navy's Nimitz-class aircraft carriers that have been in operation for the last half century. Gerald R. Ford's 1,000-sailor crew is slowly bringing the ship to life, a crew that will eventually grow to more than 4,500 when the ship is at sea. When complete, the aircraft carrier, powered by two nuclear reactors, will measure more than three football fields long at 1,092 feet in length and will weigh more than 100,000 tons. It will be capable of sailing at nearly 35 mph and will carry more than 75 Navy aircraft. The ship is scheduled to commission in spring 2016.

Famous steam locomotive roars through Niles Canyon

What's more powerful than a mighty locomotive? Since Superman didn't show up to claim his title, the champion is still The Mighty Locomotive. Once called the "Iron Horse" by early Native Americans, it would be more accurate to name it the "Iron Dragon."

The steam engine captivates us, like no other form of transportation can. It seems alive. It breathes. It blows white steam and billowing clouds of dark smoke. It whis-bles and moans. It turns stoic adult males into quivering, excited little boys. Other than possibly Sofia Vergara, nothing else holds that type of power over us.

Over the Labor Day weekend the famous Southern Pacific locomotive #2472 steamed proudly on six trips between Sunol and Niles. This seemed especially appropriate, since this line, now operated by the Niles Canyon Railway, was once part of the first Transcontinental Railroad.

The #2472 was built by the Baldwin Locomotive Works in 1921. This type of locomotive is a P-8 Class steam engine, commonly called a "Pacific," and was built for speed and power. In the 1920s it pulled the finest passenger trains between Oakland and Salt Lake City. After being replaced by more powerful steam locomotives on the long distance trains, it continued to pull shorter distance passenger trains until it was replaced by diesel locomotives in 1957. In the 1950s, it could be often seen on local or commuter trains between San Francisco and San Jose.

From 1959 to 1976 it sat forlorn and neglected on display at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds. Small boys gazed up at its mighty driving wheels and imagined what this dragon was like, when it was alive. Sometimes bigger boys would stop and take a look also. In 1976 it was acquired by a group of dedicated volunteers, who began restoring it to life.

It was fully restored to service by the Golden Gate Railroad Museum in 1991, making a guest appearance at the 1991 Railfair in Sacramento. Weighing in at 150 tons, it is one of the largest surviving steam engines west of the Mississippi River.

Like other dragons of legend, #2472 lives again. The Golden Gate Railroad Museum generally operates it on Memorial Day and Labor Day weekends, and sometimes for other special trips. So, if you hear its mighty roar echoing through the canyon, grab your camera and find a spot near the tracks to view this beast. Sorry Superman! Steam engine wins every time.

SUBMITTED BY AVANTHI KANMATAREDDY

In its efforts to promote art in the community, the Fremont Art Association (FAA) will hold a one day Plein Air Paint Out (outdoors) at the Dominican Sisters estate at Mission San Jose in Fremont on Saturday, September 13.

The Plein Air is open to both FAA members and non-members; members pay a $20 entry fee and non-members pay $30, which includes full membership through end of the year. Participants must be at least 18 years old.

All two-dimensional mediums will be accepted: oils, acrylics, watercolors, pastels and mixed media. Registration begins at 8 a.m. on the grass area between the Dominican Sister's Motherhouse and courtyard entrance. At that time, artists' blank canvases or papers will be stamped on the back. Multiple canvases or papers can be stamped, though only one finished piece will be accepted from each artist at the end of the Paint Out.

Artists are not limited to painting on the Dominican Sisters estate; they can choose to paint outside the campus, as well as at any outdoor location of their choice within the city of Fremont, but not from a reference photograph.

Participants should bring all their painting supplies, including an easel and/or chair. A late lunch will be provided for the artists when they return for the reception and exhibit.

Artists may paint until 2:00 p.m., at which time their completed pieces must be returned to the courtyard. A reception, silent auction, and public exhibition begins at 2:30 p.m. and will include an "Artist's Choice," as well as a People's Choice" and monetary awards, where spectators will vote for their favorite works.

Pre-registration is encouraged; with a mail-in registration deadline of September 10. Registration applications and rules can be picked up at the FAA Gallery, 37697 Niles Blvd., Fremont or from www.FremontArtAssociation.org.

Photos of the pieces receiving awards may be used in publicity for next years' Paint Out event or shown on the FAA website. All works submitted for the People's Choice and/or silent auction must be framed, including matting for works on paper. No exceptions.

This event is being co-sponsored by The Dominican Sisters of Mission San Jose, Olive Hyde Art Guild, the Fremont Cultural Arts Council, and Mission Coffee Roasting Company.

Castro Valley Fall Festival

Great entertainment on tap for Fall Festival

SUBMITTED BY CASTRO VALLEY
EDEN AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The 42nd annual "Castro Valley Fall Festival" will feature some known national music stars and favorite returning acts that festival goers have come to expect. Additionally, the activities for kids will see some new and exciting additions that tie into Castro Valley traditions.

Bill Mulgrew, Executive Director of the Castro Valley Eden Area Chamber of Commerce, explains, "We'll have two stages this year, the main stage at Redwood Road, and the Community Stage down near Santa Maria, so there won't be any inadvertent overlap of sound, as there had been in previous years."

"We are really excited at how the entertainment schedule is shaping up. We try hard to feature acts that are diverse and relevant, and this year should be outstanding. We have booked Colt Records Nashville recording star Andy Joe Stewart, who is coming off a hot new album, 'Come Saturday Night,' and we are really excited to have Xavier Toscano, who has just finished recording his third album and has signed to do a tour in Europe."

Local favorites In Full Swing, The Giant Garage Band Spiders, Blue Voodoo, Del Amore, Standoff, and Last one Picked will all be back. "The closing act Saturday will be Rocktapus, who will definitely get people out of their seats. This should be one of the best musical Fall Festivals ever," says Mulgrew.

The two-day festival also features over 150 arts and crafts, community and non-profit booths. Local wineries are chosen to accompany the vast assortment of food booths, joined by beer on tap.

"Families will have more and different activities this year," adds Mulgrew. "We are dedicating almost all of the space between Wilbeam and Santa Maria to the kids' area and Community Stage. We are bringing in a pony ride for the little cowboys and cowgirls, and another couple of county-fair quality kids' attraction which I know will be a hit."
