Celebrating American Independence

The Greater Tri-City Area is gearing up once again for Fourth of July festivities. A federal holiday, Fourth of July (or Independence Day) celebrates our freedom from the British Empire and commemorates the formal adoption of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. Centuries later, Americans still gather on Fourth of July weekend for parades, picnics, barbeques, concerts, fireworks and more.

Celebrating the birth of American independence, the greater Tri-Cities are hosting several family-friendly events:

Forty-four paintings by 44 Signature Members were selected out of 78 entries for this year's show. Additionally, two paintings, one by each of the Jurors, will be on display at the venue from July 1 through August 13.

Stars and stripes retired, veterans honored

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY CYNDY PATRICK

We are used to seeing it flying strong and bright above us, those stars and stripes that identify our country and patriotism. But what happens when that once proud flag begins to look worn and shabby? Congress mandated in 1923 in the U. S. Flag Code that flags considered no longer fit to represent our nation should be retired "in a dignified way, preferably by burning."

Fremont Elks Lodge #2121 was the site of an inspirational evening when a Flag Retirement Ceremony was held on Friday, June 10, 2016.

"We're paying homage and bringing recognition and tribute to the fact that we don't allow a tattered American flag to be flown out of respect for those who fought for it," Exalted Ruler (Elk's chapter leader) Steve Kay said. "The ceremony is symbolic to pay respect for veterans. All gave some and some gave all, so we renew our patriotic vows."

This year was especially poignant as in addition to the two symbolic American flags, a POW/MIA flag was also retired. Witnessing the ceremony along with veterans from the Tri-City area were veterans from Castro Valley Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) and the Livermore Veterans Community Living Center.

Air Force Veterans Community Living Center.

Air Force Veteran Rich Callahan of Fremont said he was attending for his third year and brought two flags to be retired. After nine years in the military, he worked as a jet engine mechanic with United Airlines. "It was a United airplane that was involved in 9/11 and a terrible thing that happened to the United States," he said. "Since then, I have flown a flag every day with a solar light."

Taking the Mystery Out of Palliative Care

First of Three Free Presentations Explains the Differences Between Palliative Care and Hospice

ost people have heard about hospice and have a general idea of the care that hospice services offer. The concept of "palliative care" is not as familiar.

Hospice and palliative care are both family-centered services that take a holistic approach to caring for patients. Both types of care involve an interdisciplinary team of professionals in spiritual care, social work and medical care to deal with all aspects of the patient's needs. Yet there is an important difference between the two, since palliative care is offered earlier in the disease process.

"Hospice is a type of whole-person care intended only for people who likely have six months or less to live," explains oncologist Vandana Sharma, MD. "Hospice provides comprehensive support for the patient, while supporting the patient's family and friends in the dying and bereavement process. The newer specialty of palliative care is not just for patients who are dying, and it can continue for a much longer period of time. Palliative care can provide specialized care for anyone living with a serious, chronic and perhaps life-threatening condition, and it is intended to relieve the patient's suffering in body, mind and spirit."

To promote greater awareness of palliative care and give people in the community an opportunity to meet with experts in the field, Washington Hospital is offering a series of three free presentations. The presentations are intended for patients and their families, but physicians and other care providers also are welcome to attend.

The first session, "Palliative Care Demystified," featuring Dr. Sharma and other members of Washington Hospital's Palliative Care Team, is scheduled Palliative care is intended to relieve patient's suffering in the body, mind and spirit, while undergoing specialized care. The goal of palliative care is to make patients comfortable and help them achieve the best possible quality of life while undergoing treatments. To learn more about palliative care, attend any or all of the free community presentations on this subject. The first presentation, "Palliative Care Demystified," is scheduled for Tuesday, July 19, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the Conrad E. Anderson, MD, Auditorium in Washington West (2500 Mowry Ave., Fremont). for Tuesday, July 19, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. The seminar will be held in the Conrad E. Anderson, MD, Auditorium in the Washington West building at 2500 Mowry Ave. in Fremont. The forum will allow ample time for questions from the audience.

The two additional presentations, which will address other aspects of palliative care, are scheduled for Tuesday, August 16, and Tuesday, September 20, at the same time and location. Information and forms for completing advance health care directives will be available at all three sessions. Individual assistance in completing advance health care directives will be provided as needed. Participants do not need to attend every session.

Dr. Sharma serves as co-medical director of Palliative Care at Washington Hospital, along with Carmencita Agcaoili, MD. Dr. Sharma also is medical director of Washington Hospital's Oncology Program and Genetic Counseling Program. Dr. Agcaoili also is medical director of Washington Hospital's Critical Care/Intensivist Program. Other members of the Palliative Care team include:

- Palliative Care Nurse Practitioner Bernadita Roe, NP
- Palliative Care Coordinator Father Jeff Finley, MDiv
- Spiritual Care Coordinator

Enjoy Independence Day Safely!

Don't Let Accidents and Hazards Spoil Your July 4 Fun!

his year, the July 4 holiday falls on a Monday, so many families will be celebrating in the great outdoors over a long holiday weekend. Whether you're planning a "stay-cation" at home, a day's excursion to the beach, a weekend camping trip to the Sierras, or a longer vacation to visit grandma and grandpa at the family home back East, your holiday experience will be more pleasant if you stay healthy and safe.

Tam Nguyen, MD, a family medicine physician at the Nakamura Clinic in Union City, notes that physicians frequently end up treating children and adults for a variety of conditions related to summer activities.

"We see everything from severe sunburns and heatstroke to food poisoning from improperly cooked barbecue meals or foods that have been left out in the sun too long," he says. "And, of course, we treat numerous injuries and burns incurred during outdoor activities. Most of these conditions can be avoided by planning ahead and being aware of health and safety hazards."

Avoid Sunshine on Your Shoulders – and Elsewhere

One of Dr. Nguyen's areas of expertise is skin care, and he stresses that protecting yourself from the harmful effects of sun exposure is key to keeping your skin healthy.

"Sunburns can be very painful, and they can lead to a variety of skin problems, including an increased risk for skin cancer later on," he explains. "Ideally, people should avoid being in the sun from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., when the sun's rays are the strongest. That's not very practical, though, when you're having a 4th of July picnic in the park or at the beach. People can protect themselves from the sun's harmful rays by wearing protective clothing and wide-brimmed hats, and by using sunscreen. The sunscreen should have a sun protection factor (SPF) of at least 30, and it should be 'full-spectrum,' meaning it protects against both UVA and UVB rays."

Dr. Nguyen recommends re-applying sunscreen at least every four hours when you are in the sun. Sunscreen is important even on cloudy days when people may not be as aware of their exposure and don't feel themselves getting burned.

"There are some sunscreens that are 'water-resistant,' but there is really no such thing as 'waterproof' sunscreen," he adds. "That's why it is important to reapply more sunscreen after being in the water. Be sure to apply a sufficient amount of sunscreen and spread it evenly over your skin."

People also should wear sunglasses that protect against both UVA and UVB rays that can damage the eyes, Dr. Nguyen cautions. In addition to limiting your sun exposure, it is important to drink plenty of water on hot days and get out of the sun if you begin to feel dizzy or nauseated.

"Spending long hours in the sun and heat may cause heat exhaustion or even more dangerous heat stroke," he says. "Taking precautions to avoid heat exhaustion or heat stroke is key."

"You really need to stay hydrated," Dr. Nguyen emphasizes. "Keep in mind that sodas or other beverages with caffeine can work as a diuretic that dehydrates you. Alcoholic beverages also may actually increase your dehydration, and they have a more intoxicating effect if you are not hydrated. Drinking beverages such as Gatorade and Pedialyte that contain electrolytes can improve your hydration, but plain old water works well, too."

Practice Safe Summer Outdoor Eating

Grilling food outdoors and taking picnics to the park or the beach on the 4th of July are American traditions.

"In hot weather, eating outdoors can be more fun, and food somehow tastes better when it's cooked on the grill," Dr. Nguyen observes.
"Unfortunately, outdoor eating and warm temperatures can encourage foodborne bacteria to grow, possibly resulting in food poisoning."

A number of precautions can help you minimize the risks of food poisoning:

- Keep your hands clean. Washing with soap and hot water is ideal, but hand sanitizers and hand wipes are practical alternatives when outdoors.
- Clean produce well before eating it raw or prepping it for cooking.

- Keep cold food cold (below 40 degrees Fahrenheit) by packing it on ice in a cooler. Drain off water as the ice melts and replenish the ice.
- Cook foods thoroughly. Use a food thermometer to make sure the food (especially meat, chicken and fish) is heated to the proper temperature.
- Don't cross-contaminate foods. Keep meat wrapped well and separate from veggies and fruit, especially if the meat is raw.
- Use separate coolers for perishable food and beverages so that the perishables are not exposed to ongoing opening of the beverage cooler.

What to Do In Case of Heat Exhaustion

Dear Doctor,

What are the signs of heat exhaustion and what should I do if I notice it?

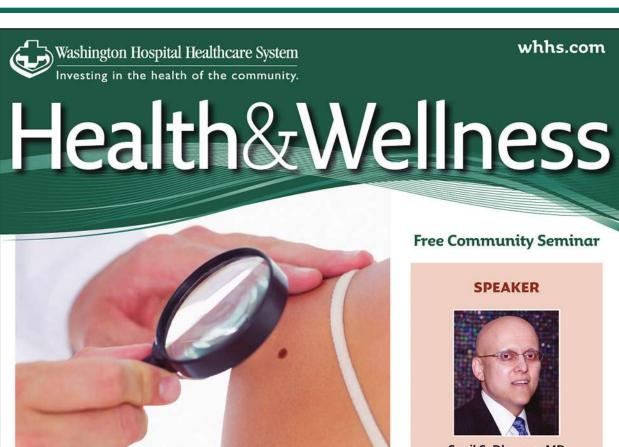

Dear Reader,

Heat exhaustion can happen from sustained activity in or out of the sun, which then leads to dehydration and an elevation in core body temperature. A person will feel fatigued and dehydrated. Treatment begins by stopping activity and getting into a cool, dry place and putting cold water and ice on the person. Drinking water or a product like Gatorade will help even more to restore the body's fluid deficit.

Communication Labs Set Students Up for Success

By WINNIE KAN

The fight for recognition comes at the cost of break of dawn work sessions and midnight commutes home, but Ohlone College's Communication Studies Department Professor Brenda Ahntholz emphasizes that it is all worth it.

The Ohlone College Communication Lab and Tutor Training Program is nationally certified by the National Association of Communication Centers (NACC), the second community college in the U.S. to receive the certification. The communication lab creates a welcoming environment for students to learn and practice excellent communication skills for future classes and the workplace.

"We are so proud of this great learning space for students and innovative center for peer-tutored learning," savs Ahntholz who serves as Director of Ohlone's communication labs.

It is the faculty's dedication to nurturing their students' desire to learn that sets the program apart, although Ohlone's communication studies program has won many awards, such as the Western States Communication Association (WSCA) Model Communication Program of the Year and the NCA Communication Association's Outstanding Educator of the Year. The many student success stories start within the communication department's faculty.

Andrea Adams, professor of communication at Ohlone, is a former student of Ahntholz. Upon earning her BA in Rhetoric & Communication Studies at University of Richmond and her MA in Communication & Rhetorical Studies at Syracuse University, Adams returned to her roots to pay it forward. This year, she guided the Ohlone College Forensics Team to multiple wins at 2016's national debate tournaments. And Andrea is not the only student-turnedprofessor giving back to Ohlone's communication studies program.

After receiving a degree in Communication Studies at Ohlone, Nick Chivers returned to Ohlone to share his critical thinking and communication skills to help prepare students for careers in marketing, journalism, business, broadcasting and more. Once on the receiving end of the individualized attention of professors like Ahntholz, Chivers now passionately supports his students.

"My experience as a student here helps me relate to my students-where they were, where they're going, and the obstacles they face," Chivers explains. "I become not just their professor, but also their friend."

With faculty like Chivers, Ahntholz, and Adams, it is clear why the award-winning Communication Studies Program is so successful. Like Ahntholz, they insist that the work and commitment it takes to uphold the excellence of Ohlone College's Communication Studies Program and Communcation Labs is all worth it.

Students' Contribution Helps Educate Impoverished Women in India

The Ohlone College Psychology Club provided a $1,000 donation to the Animal People Alliance, a nonprofit organization that trains impoverished women in India to work as veterinary nurses. The donation came from funds raised by the club which were unspent at the end of the year. The students decided to create the Abraham Maslow Award and to share the funds with an organization that helps provide for the basic needs of people around the world.

Animal People Alliance (APA) works with women rescued from abusive situations, including victims of human trafficking, providing them an opportunity to work in basic animal care and veterinary services. APA teaches these women marketable skills to enter the workforce and be able to support themselves. APA funds help to support animal hospitals and sanctuaries in large cities that rescue and rehabilitate India's abused and abandoned street animals, of which there are millions. The Alliance creates a symbiotic relationship...helping the women find work in a job field that provides for their needs and addressing the extreme plight of abandoned animals living in the street.

Sheldon Helms, Ohlone College Psychology professor wrote in an email, "I found out after our donation was announced that $1,000 is the exact amount it takes to send a woman through the full program! It was quite moving to imagine that a young woman will receive full training and a chance to live an entirely new life because of a donation from the Ohlone Psychology Club."

Professor Helms advises the club, which presents the Psychology Club Speaker Series each semester. The Speaker Series raises money for the club through ticket sales for each of the events. Helms said, "My amazing students decided that, rather than spend [the excess funds] on ourselves, we should donate it to a good cause."

APA was founded by Paul Suit and Belinda Carlisle, renowned as the lead singer for the GoGos. In the 1980s through the 1990s, the GoGos were the most successful all-female rock band, writing all their own music, singing, and playing all the instruments. The GoGos played a large part in helping women to get a foothold in the rock and roll industry, long dominated by men. Carlisle, through APA, is continuing to advance the cause of women worldwide in a profound and significant way. And, Ohlone College students are also contributing to that cause.

The Ohlone College Psychology Club Speaker Series

Each semester the Ohlone College Psychology Club Speaker Series brings fascinating speakers to campus, each with a professional background in interesting subjects that are rooted in modern psychology. The list of past speakers is impressive, which includes Magda Brown, a Holocaust survivor; former magician and escape artist James "The Amazing" Randi, now a debunker of frauds and charlatans; and Philip Lombardo, author of the Stanford Prison Experiment. These sell-out events are open to the public.

In Fall 2016, the Psychology Club Speaker Series features Dr. Marty Klein, a therapist from Palo Alto and author of "His Porn, Her Pain." His talk, entitled Pornography 2016 explores common myths about porn—how it's made, its actual content, and how society has changed (or not) since it was introduced on a mass scale in 2000. Watch for that event in Fall 2016 on Friday, October 14, at 7:00 pm.

Ohlone Students Receive $150,000 in Scholarships

Over $150,000 in scholarships were awarded to Ohlone students this spring by the Ohlone College Foundation. The scholarships provide benefits to students who are entering Ohlone College for the first time, to current students who are continuing on to the fall 2016 semester, and to students who are transferring to four year universities to continue their education. Thanks to the many donors who contribute to the scholarship funds, Ohlone will distribute scholarship funds to 77 students for the 2016-17 academic year. Play Things Safe Outdoors with Water and Fire Drowning is a leading cause of accidental death among children in the U.S.

"It doesn't matter if you are at a pool, lake, river or ocean – you should never allow children to swim alone," Dr. Nguyen warns. "Even in 'kiddie pools' with one or two feet of water, children need constant supervision. You can't rely on inflatable flotation devices to protect a child from drowning."

In the Bay Area, the ocean beaches are very popular on holiday weekends. Those beaches also can be very hazardous.

"People need to be careful with the waves at the beach," Dr. Nguyen says. "Even a strong adult can be pulled out to sea by a rip tide. I also try to remind people not to drink the ocean salt water, which can make you feel ill, but can also cause you to become dehydrated."

Dr. Nguyen also recommends staying with a companion when near the water, and exercising caution when participating in water sports.

"Whenever you are boating, fishing, rafting or water skiing, always insist that children and adults wear life preservers," he notes. "While adults might be able to swim well, they still might get knocked in the head and a life preserver could save them. Besides, adults need to set the example of wearing life preservers so that kids will be willing to wear them, too."

Summer campfires, barbecues and fireworks all can be sources of burn injuries, as well as causes of disastrous wild fires in our drought-stricken state. To make your July 4th holiday fire-safe, Dr. Nguyen recommends keeping children away from all fire sources, including campfires, camp stoves, barbecue grills, and even matches and lighters.

"Make sure your campfires are put out completely," he says. "Drown them with plenty of water, and then cover the ashes with approximately two inches of dirt so any remaining embers will not reignite."

He also notes that smoke inhalation can be a hazard, irritating the eyes, mouth and lungs.

"Inhaling smoke can actually cause internal burns," he explains. "If you have inhaled smoke and you are experiencing difficulty breathing or are choking, go to an emergency room right away."

As for fireworks, Dr. Nguyen reiterates that California's continued drought is a reason to exercise utmost caution.

"Personal use of fireworks is illegal in most communities in California," he says. "Always check with local authorities about the rules and regulations for fireworks. Some communities will offer professional fireworks displays, and you really should leave fireworks to the experts. Serious burn injuries are far too common with fireworks. Plus, we don't need any more disastrous wildfires here."

Taking the Mystery Out of Palliative Care

The Palliative Care Team can enlist the services of other specialists at Washington Hospital and from the community at large, such as pharmacists, pain management specialists and spiritual care providers. The team may direct patients and families to resources that can help with financial and legal issues, insurance questions, employment concerns, transportation and housing assistance.

"People who agree to palliative care are not 'giving up' on continued medical treatments," Dr. Sharma emphasizes. "The goal of palliative care is to make patients comfortable and help them achieve the best possible quality of life. They can have palliative care while undergoing medical treatments that may cure or reverse the effects of their illnesses."

Washington Hospital's Palliative Care Program currently focuses on patients who are admitted with serious, chronic medical conditions. While these patients are hospitalized, the Palliative Care Team helps define both short-term and long-term goals for care.

"We develop a care plan for each patient that can be transferred to outpatient care, coordinating efforts with the patient's regular primary care physician," Dr. Sharma says. "Our ultimate goal is to extend palliative care services to the outpatient setting. One benefit of palliative care services at Washington Hospital is that if a patient is re-admitted, the care plan already is in place, so the Palliative Care Team provides continuity of care from one admission to the next.

"Numerous studies show that patients who receive palliative care early actually experience fewer hospitalizations," she adds. "Palliative care relieves patients' suffering and improves the quality of life for people of any age and at any stage in a serious illness."

Explosion of Science in Hayward

SUBMITTED BY SANJEEV JAIN

In a vibrant elementary school in Hayward, an explosion of science enthusiasm has erupted with the introduction of a new science club developed by Samir Jain, a freshman at Mission San Jose High School, and the founder of Youth Science Enthusiasts. He has been working closely with 6th graders at Bowman Elementary School to foster a love of science and help them develop ideas for the Hayward School District Science Fair.

Ms. DiShawn Givens, the principal of Bowman Elementary commented to Samir, "Thank you for all that you are doing. The science club is catching on like wildfire." Samir's hard work, passion, and dedication inspired Ms. Givens to start the school's own first Science Fair, open to all students, and held on May 18. Samir was one of the judges.

Excited students displayed a large variety of science projects including electric circuits, conservation islands, and acid-base experiments. Their parents were amazed. Some of these students went on to participate for the first time in the annual Hayward School District Science Fair on May 21. Youth Science Enthusiasts pans to expand to four more schools in the Bay Area.

Eden Night Live

SUBMITTED BY BILL MULGREW

Residents and business people in Ashland, Cherryland, and the surrounding communities (The Eden Area) won't have to work hard to get their summer entertainment this year, thanks to a joint effort by the Alameda County Sheriff's Office, the Eden Area Chamber of Commerce, Alameda County Economic Development Agency and many other community and civic groups.

"Eden Night Live" is a series of Friday and Saturday night events designed to showcase and celebrate the local community. Beginning Friday, July 1 and continuing every Friday and Saturday night through October 8, the 2.4-acre site at the corner of Hampton Road and Mission Boulevard in unincorporated Hayward will be transformed into a vibrant, vital, and diverse gathering place for the youth and families of Alameda County. Feel like a little recreation?

Come out for beach volleyball, horseshoes, a game of hoops, dance lessons or one of the many other activities. Want to relax and enjoy some top-notch local talent? Amateur and professional dancers, singers, bands, and comedians will be featured on stage nightly. Feel like signing, busting a move, or reading some of your own poetry? You can sign up and take the stage, too. Food trucks and local food vendors will be there also.

Expressions from local artists will available for appreciation, and there will be hands-on art activities for all to participate in. Take a walk along the San Lorenzo Creek and learn about the unique watersheds of Alameda County.

To help make this a total community experience, local businesses and organizations will have space and opportunity to display and sell their products and services, talk about their programs or issues, or gather ideas from the community. Perhaps the most unique aspect of Eden Night Live will be the Pop-Up Town Square. People and groups can reserve and use this space for anything community related. People can gather to talk about local politics, issues, programs, spiritual matters, or conduct job interviews.

Mandatory recycling collection and free indoor bins

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Starting Friday, July 1, all Hayward businesses and multi-family properties with five or more units must provide adequate onsite collection service for recyclable materials under the Alameda County's Mandatory Recycling Ordinance, including businesses with less than 4 cubic yards of weekly garbage service. Social Security Supports National Cancer Survivors Day

By Mariaelena Lemus, Social Security PUBLIC AFFAIRS SPECIALIST IN SAN JOSE

In 2016, more than a million people will be diagnosed with cancer around the world. This alarming statistic affects people and families everywhere. On June 5, 2016, we observed National Cancer Survivors Day in the U.S. In support of this day, Social Security encouraged getting checkups to provide early detection, raised awareness through education, and recognized the survivors who have gone through this battle or are still living with the disease.

Social Security stands strong in our support of the fight against cancer. We offer services to patients dealing with this disease through our disability program and our Compassionate Allowances program. Compassionate Allowances are cases with medical conditions so severe they obviously meet Social Security's disability standards, allowing us to process the cases quickly with minimal medical information. Many cancers are on our Compassionate Allowance list.

There's no special application or form you need to submit for Compassionate Allowances. Simply apply for disability benefits using the standard Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) application. Once we identify you as having a Compassionate Allowances condition, we'll expedite your disability application.

Social Security establishes new Compassionate Allowances conditions using information received at public outreach hearings, from the Social Security and Disability Determination Services communities, from medical and scientific experts, and from data based on our research. For more information about Compassionate Allowances, including the list of eligible conditions, visit www.socialsecurity.gov/compassionateallowances.

If you think you qualify for disability benefits based on a Compassionate Allowances condition, please visit www.socialsecurity.gov to apply for benefits.

Stars and stripes retired, veterans honored

The ceremony included an audio presentation of the battle between the British War Fleet and American Soldiers during the Revolutionary War. The moving words brought to vivid life the scene that inspired Francis Scott Key to write our national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner."

Boy Scout Troop 449 performed the ritual with great flare while introducing the American flag. "Men and women have given their lives for it, fought for it, cried for it and revered it as a symbol for the greatest country on earth," said Life Scout Connor Hunt. "It stands for the freedom we all share and the pride and patriotism we feel for our country."

The scouts carefully built the ceremonial fire with four types of wood: redwood to remind us of the red-blooded Americans who fought and died to build our nation under this flag; oak for the rugged strength that carried the flag across this nation and today reaches for the stars; cedar to protect us from pestilence and corruption and to preserve our American way of life; and walnut to remind us of the rich soil, beautiful countryside, and the fruitful brotherhood founded by our ancestors.

The song "Ragged Old Flag by Johnny Cash played as the Boy Scout color guard reverently carried out their task of symbolically burning two American flags. An honor guard fired a three-volley salute and a bugler played "Taps." Veterans formed an honor guard line as the POW/MIA flag was burned. The entire crowd grabbed hands, raised them in the air and sang "Proud to be an American" in triumphant unity.

Kay said in 2001 an Eagle Scout decided to gather up tattered flags that had served their purpose after 9/11 as his Eagle Project. Troop 449 has been performing this yearly retirement ceremony ever since. Kay said in past years they have also had casket flags brought in, including one from a woman whose son had died in Iraq, a flag that flew at ground zero during 9/11, and a flag belonging to a veteran who served in Normandy during WWII.

A cornerstone of the Elks Club is to "quicken the spirit of American patriotism" along with their other community service work. They are responsible for inspiring the first Flag Day on June 14, 1907. The Fremont Elks collect about 50 flags every year. Cotton flags are burned but nylon flags must be disassembled and buried. The Fremont Elks have performed this service for nearly 50 years. This year's ceremony touched the hearts of all who attended.

SUMMER READING GAME KICKS OFF

SUBMITTED BY GUY ASHLEY

Alameda County Library is hosting its annual "Summer Reading Game" through August 13. The Summer Reading Game is a nationwide celebration that encourages reading and lifelong learning. Summer reading programs engage children and teens with reading and other learning activities over the summer. Research suggests that students who participate in summer reading programs avoid summer learning loss. This year's game, "Read for the Win," incorporates a sports and achievement theme and is open to all ages from children, teens, adults and seniors. The all?ages game is fun, free and easy to play.

You can play the game online, with a game board, or both. Players earn points and prizes by reading and completing various activities. The more you read, the more chances you can win. Teens and adults who complete the game are automatically entered into a drawing to win the following prizes: GoPro camera (for teens) and FitBit (for adults).

Alameda County Library is among one of many libraries statewide participating in the California Library Association's Summer Reading Challenge to get one million Californians reading this summer. Last year, more than 15,000 people signed up for Alameda County Library's Summer Reading Game. You can sign up for the Summer Reading Game through August 13 online or at any branch of the Alameda County Library system, including Alameda County Library Bookmobile, Castro Valley Library, Centerville Library, Fremont Main Library, Irvington Library, Newark Library, Niles Library, REACH Ashland Youth Center, San Lorenzo Library and Union City Library.

Use of drones for disaster missions put to the test

By Bruce Shipkowski and DAKE KANG ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAPE MAY, N.J. (AP), How to distribute lifesaving supplies quickly and safely after a natural disaster has long been a puzzle for responders. Now, drones might be the lifesaver.

That idea was put to the test this week in New Jersey as a drone delivery service conducted test flights to help determine whether drones can be used to carry human medical samples to and from areas that cannot be accessed or communicated with during major storms, earthquakes or other disasters.

Experts say drones are becoming a more valuable tool in many humanitarian operations, where the unmanned aircraft can be quickly launched and used to collect data and images and help locate people who might be injured or trapped. But Timothy Amukele, an assistant professor of pathology at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore, said that biological samples "are not like a shoe or a book; they are pretty fragile items."

"For example, if blood is being carried on the back of motorcycle, shaking caused by the bike and its vibrations can ruin the sample," said Amukele, a volunteer adviser to Flirtey, the company that conducted the tests in New Jersey. "We want to see what tasks the drones can perform and if the drones have similar effects on samples they carry."

About 100 people looked on as the drones flew Wednesday between an onshore medical relief camp and a test facility on a vessel stationed on the Delaware Bay. They took medical supplies from the vessel to the medical camp, while blood and other medical specimens were flown between the sites.

The tests were done at the invitation of the Field Innovation Team, a nonprofit that works with agencies and experts from various fields to develop solutions to humanitarian disaster scenarios.

The tests came a day after President Barack Obama's administration approved the routine use of small drones by real estate agents, farmers, filmmakers and countless other commercial operators after years of struggling to write rules that would both protect public safety and free the benefits of a new technology.

The Reno, Nevada-based firm conducted what it said was the nation's first autonomous urban drone delivery in the U.S. in March. That happened in Nevada, one of six states the Federal Aviation Administration has designated as unmanned aircraft systems test sites.

Matt Sweeny, Flirtey's chief executive, believes medical drone delivery will happen "more quickly than people realize," possibly within the next three years. He says such a service could potentially help hundreds of thousands of people, noting the number of residents affected by recent disasters such as Superstorm Sandy, which struck near the site where the tests were conducted.

Eight of the world's 10 largest cities are coastal communities, and more than 3 billion people – or 44 percent of the world's population - live within 95 miles of the coast, according to the United Nations.

Amukele believes it will probably take about five years before drones are used regularly in disaster situations. He notes that roughly 59 nations currently have drone regulations, so responders will need to know what rules other countries will put in place.

Agencies involved in humanitarian relief agree that drones have been helpful in certain humanitarian operations for collecting data and imagery where infrastructure is destroyed or was already lacking, including in the Philippines after Typhoon Haiyan in November 2013. But they also note that caution must be used in cases where humanitarian relief drones could be mistaken for military drones.

"The potential is indeed huge for drones to deliver small, lifesaving packages, such as vaccines," said George Fenton, director of humanitarian innovations at World Vision International, a London-based humanitarian aid, development and advocacy organization. "The potential for confusion between military action and humanitarian work is high, and we must proceed cautiously with this relatively new technology.' Shipkowski reported from Trenton.

California's jobless rate dips to 5.2 percent, 9 year low

AP WIRE SERVICE

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP), California's unemployment rate dropped to its lowest point in nine years as it continued a steady decline last month, the Employment Development Department reported Friday.

The jobless rate fell to 5.2 percent in May, down a tenth of a percentage point from April.

The rate was last this low in May 2007, before the Great Recession.

`There are less and less unemployed individuals in California and fortunately more and more job opportunities," said department spokeswoman Loree Levy. California's unemployment is still higher than the national rate, which was 4.7 percent in May. But the state's jobless rate exceeded 12 percent for more than a year during the height of the economic downturn.

More than 2.2 million jobs have been created since the recovery began in February 2010, the department said, including more than 15,000 nonfarm payroll jobs

That was a smaller increase than April's revised gain of 70,000 jobs.

There were 16.4 million nonfarm jobs in California in May, up 2.2 million since the recovery began in February 2010.

The number of unemployed dropped below 1 million for the first time since August 2007, the 67th consecutive monthly decline. Unemployment topped 2.2 million people at the peak of the recession.

There were nearly 43,000 new unemployment insurance claims last month, down nearly 4,000 from April.

Professional and business services and educational and health services saw the strongest jobs growth. The information, financial activities, other services, and government sectors also saw gains, for a combined increase of more than 32,000 jobs. Manufacturing had the largest job loss.

Mining and logging, construction, trade, transportation and utilities, and leisure and hospitality also were down, for a combined loss of more than 17,000 jobs.

Sweet! Electrical trick may lead to less fat in chocolate

By Bree Fowler

AP Technology Writer

NEW YORK (AP), From a 3-D pen that lets kids safely doodle with melted plastic to an electrically charged glass that makes beer taste bubblier, there was no shortage of fun and quirky gadgets at this year's CE Week.

The annual, three-day gadget show in New York is meant as a showcase for products coming out for the holidays, though many items are still in development or seeking investments through group-fundraising sites such as Indiegogo.

Here are five notable gadgets at the show, which ends Thursday.

Pen for "Drawing" 3-D Sculptures

There's now a kid-safe version of the 3Doodler 3-D printing pen, which melts sticks of colored plastic into goo that shoots out of the pen tip to create 3-D sculptures. With both versions, the plastic hardens quickly, so you can draw into the air without worrying about your creation collapsing.

The kids' version has no hot parts. The plastic coming out is cool enough to touch. A kids' starter pack includes a pen, an ideas book and two packs of plastic sticks. The kid-friendly set costs $50, half the price of the regular version.

The kids' version is for ages 8 and up and will be in stores in a few months.

Earbuds for Everyone

Finding earbuds that fit comfortably and don't fall out can be a challenge, especially for people with uniquely shaped ears.

Decibullz touts its earbuds as the first to be both custom and wireless. They are made of a plastic that softens in hot water. The putty conforms to the inside shapes of your ears and hardens in about two minutes. If you don't get it right the first time, just pop the earbuds back in hot water and start over.

And don't worry about mixing electronics and water. The buds come off the wireless headset while you're adjusting the fit.

The set sells for $120 through the company's website.

For Beer With an Extra Buzz

Global Ionics has a glass that uses a small amount of electric current to boost the flavor and fizziness of drinks, be it flavored water, fruit juice or wine.

The current is generated by one AAA battery housed in the base of the glass. The current flows from the glass through its beverage into the mouth.

During a demo, the charge gave beer a pleasant extra fizziness when taking little sips. But it can make your face numb when you drink continually. So, best not to overdo it.

This technology is still in the ideas stage. Global Ionics says it hopes to license it to a beer company or a medical-device manufacturer – for instance, to boost the effectiveness of bubbly flu treatments.

Gaming without Screens

ROXs, billed as a "real-life gaming console," is designed to get gamer kids active and away from their screens.

The kit from A-Champs comes with three ROXs, which look like flat stones about the size of a saucer. You strap them to kids, trees or just about anything else.

Kids can choose one of 10 games. "Crazy Chicken," for instance, challenges kids to race between ROXs and touch as many as they can, as fast as they can, as the gadgets beep and light up.

The starter package is expected to sell for $130 through the company's website, though you can order one now through Indiegogo for $10 less. It's expected to start shipping this fall.

HD in 3-D

GoPro cameras are great for action footage, but they don't shoot in 3-D. Fantem now has a clip-on 3-D lens for it.

Fantem's Vitrima 3-D lens costs $80 through Indiegogo. The company plans to start shipping them next month and says it's in talks to get them on store shelves.

Sweet! Electrical trick may lead to less fat in chocolate

By Malcolm Ritter AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP), Do you get a charge out of chocolate? New research suggests candy companies may be able to make lower fat versions of the tasty treat with a little electrical trick.

By running liquid chocolate through an electric field, researchers were able to make it flow more easily. And that means it doesn't need so much fat.

Cutting the fat in chocolate has been a much-studied challenge in the industry. The new approach was described Monday by researchers at Temple University in Philadelphia.

iladelphia. They were able to reduce the fat by about 10 percent.

They describe their work in a paper released by the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

Affordable Housing Bond measure headed to November ballot

SUBMITTED BY JANICE ROMBECK

Responding to the urgent need for affordable housing and the lack of funding to build it, the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously on June 21 to place a $950 million Bond Measure on the November ballot to generate funds to build housing for homeless, low- and moderate-income residents and first time-homebuyers.

If approved by a two-thirds majority of the voters, the $950 million General Obligation Bond would not affect the County's General Fund, but would raise property taxes based on the value of the property for tax purposes. The owner of a home valued at $500,000 by the Tax Assessor's Office, for example, would pay $12.66 per $100,000 of assessed valuation, or $63.30 a year more in property taxes.

The spending plan of the bond would allocate $700 million for Extremely Low-Income housing (below 30 percent of area median income), including Permanent Supportive Housing and Rapid Rehousing; $100 million for Very Low Income housing (31 to 50 percent of the area median income); up to $100 million for housing assistance for Moderate Income households; and up to $50 million for Moderate Income residents who are first-time homebuyers.

Permanent Supportive Housing targets chronically homeless, or those who have been homeless for more than a year and need such services as mental health, substance abuse or medical care. This type of housing provides those services.

Rapid Rehousing is generally for those who experience homelessness for brief periods, have an income and need transitional housing for up to 18 months in order to get stable and move into permanent housing. Included in this population could be victims of human trafficking and domestic violence as well as those leaving the Foster Care system.

The affordable housing units would be built throughout the County, and the funds would be leveraged to attract matching funds from private and state and federal sources.

The Community Plan to End Homelessness in Santa Clara County provides a valuable blueprint regarding the types of housing that need to be built in the next five years. The plan identifies the addition of 3,600 supportive housing units and 2,400 rapid rehousing units to address the complex needs of the homeless populations in our community.

SUBMITTED BY KAREN L. McCready

The prestigious P.E.O. (Philanthropic Education Organization) STAR Scholarship for the 2016/2017 academic year was presented to Allison X. Du, a graduating senior from American High School, at the June 15 meeting of PEO Chapter UF Fremont.

Out of 1,933 applicants for the STAR this year, only 400 were awarded scholarships. The chapter recommended Allison because she excelled in all of its criteria. This $2,500 scholarship is awarded to high school senior women who exhibit excellence in leadership, academics, extracurricular activities, community service, and potential for future success. In addition to her exemplary scholastic achievements, Allison is the founder and captain of her school's speech team, art editor-in-chief of Vignettes, and the founder and president of ArTTain, a school club that has taught art to more than 160 children in the Tri Cities area. Allison is the daughter of Fenglei Du and Wenwen He. She will be attending Yale University, majoring in Ethics, Politics and Economics.

Also honored by the local P.E.O. Chapter were Sabrina Adamson and Simmone Shah, STAR Scholarship applicants, for their accomplishments at Kennedy High School. Simmone will be attending George Washington University in Washington, D.C., majoring in Journalism, and Sabrina will attend the Honors College of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, majoring in Medicine.

P.E.O. is an international philanthropic educational organization which promotes educational opportunities for women. P.E.O. has provided over $280 million in financial assistance to over 98,000 recipients. For additional information about the STAR and other P.E.O. scholarships, call (510) 794-6844.

Grass Roots Alliance recruiting Hayward School Board candidates

SUBMITTED BY SARA LAMNIN

A growing coalition of community stakeholders is actively recruiting candidates for the Hayward Unified School District Board of Trustees.

Hayward Civic Leaders Advocating Student Success (CLASS) is organized around a vision in which all public school students achieve and thrive. To reach this goal they are identifying candidates for the three Trustee positions up for election in November. They are also raising funds to support their endorsed candidates, once identified.

The CLASS criteria for an effective Trustee includes: articulated understanding of the public legislative process and capabilities to govern; professional experience in the legal, accounting, business, real estate, education, social services, and/or technology industries; and the demonstrated ability to lead and build consensus among diverse stake-holders.

CLASS specifically seeks candidates who understand the Trustees' role regarding governance, accountability, and productive engagement with fellow Board Members, District faculty and staff, parents, students and the greater community.

The coalition encourages candidates to apply for a slot on the CLASS supported slate who can identify concrete and realistic policies that contribute to financial stability, organizational development, facilities maintenance, student safety, and utilization of state of the art technology in our schools.

Candidates interested in receiving campaign endorsement and support from CLASS must complete a questionnaire and submit their resume by June 30. This questionnaire and full list of criteria can be found at www.haywardclass.com

For more information, or to donate or volunteer, please visit the website or contacthaywardclasspac@gmail.com or call (510) 470-1261.

Shape Our Fremont

Where Fremont residents can learn about shaping proposed housing developments ommunity character is how a neighborhood, area or city looks and feels to the people who live there. It's not just about the height, density or architecture of the buildings. It's also about the trees, streets, shops and open spaces – and how everything works with everything else. Community character can make the difference between having a good place to live or a bad one, and it's worth fighting for.

It's in the Plan

The Fremont General Plan includes an entire chapter on community character, plus a separate Place Types Manual that defines the unique characters of various types of places. Together they provide 90 pages of requirements and guidelines to define how the character of Fremont should evolve and grow into a "strategically urban city," while still protecting the past and present character.

The focus on becoming strategically urban generally means building taller, denser, residential and mixed-use (commercial/residential) developments within the city and town centers, along some major street corridors, and close to public transportation centers. New housing developments in these areas will have a limited amount of parking, open space and trees. As you move away from these centers and corridors, the building heights and densities are supposed to decrease, and the amount of parking, open space and trees are supposed to increase to match the community character of the surrounding area.

For example, in the five Town Centers – which includes much of the historic business districts of Niles, Centerville, Irvington, Mission San Jose and Warm Springs - building heights and densities can be greater than in the areas outside the town center but may be restricted along the main street to respect the historic size and character of the remaining structures and district. Older commercial buildings that have outlived the needs of current tenants may be renovated to attract new business tenants rather than being torn down.

Major street corridors are also part of the community character. Urban corridors are defined as being bordered by tall buildings set close to the street. Fremont Boulevard from Centerville to Irvington is designated as an urban corridor. So are portions of Mowry Avenue, Stevenson Boulevard, and all of Osgood Road. On the other end of the scale, landscape corridors are defined as being bordered by low buildings set back from the street. Most of Mission Boulevard and Paseo Padre Parkway are designated as landscape corridors. So are Walnut Avenue and Stevenson Boulevard from the BART tracks to Mission

Putting it to the Test

Boulevard.

Considerations about the community character of a proposed development are sometimes buried under the mass of density figures, building heights, and property line setbacks. It's easier to evaluate numbers than it is to think about how the proposed project will fit and feel. However the community character of a development is equally important because it affects the living environment of the residents and their neighbors.

Here are some proposed developments that will test the City's resolve to follow the Community Character element of the General Plan and not just look at the density numbers:

The Walnut Residences project at the corner of Walnut and Guardino will place 670 urban density apartments in four-story buildings with five- or six-story parking garages in an area of existing two- and three-story medium density homes and condominiums.

Many neighbors say that despite numerous letters and emails, as well as several meetings with the developer, the project is still too tall and too dense and does not fit the community character of the area. This project is scheduled to go before the Planning Commission on Thursday, July 14 at 7 p.m.

Community Character is Worth Fighting For

Another example is the Decoto Road Mixed Use project, which proposes to build 299 residential units and 16,000 sq. ft. of commercial space near the corner of Decoto Road and Fremont Boulevard. Two buildings facing Fremont will be five stories, located across from the property recently acquired for a future school. Another building facing Decoto will be four stories. Most of the existing homes in the area are two- and three-stories. This project is undergoing preliminary review and is open to comments from the public.

And in the City Center area west of the Fremont BART station, plans to create a new downtown are slowly taking shape. Because most of the existing buildings will be torn down, the challenge here is to create a new community character for the area with a mix of shops, restaurants, civic buildings, open spaces, and residences that will attract people from all over the city, not just those who live and work there.

As the City makes decisions about developing some of the last remaining land in Fremont, we should make sure we consider community character as an important part of the decision. Every resident can be part of that process. To learn about all the proposed housing developments in Fremont, go to www.ShapeOurFremont.com.

Goold House Not Saved

The re-evaluator of the historical significance of the Goold House in Centerville has revised his report upon realizing that there was a major addition along the side of the house in 2003. The new conclusion says that the Goold House is indeed significant because of 'Pop' Goold, but has lost its historical integrity because of the recent modification. The house is now not considered eligible for listing in the California Register of Historical Resources, and the Centerville Junction development application will proceed as before. The tentative date for the Planning Commission hearing is Thursday, July 28.

Buick Cascada: Let the Sun Shine In

By Steve Schaefer

Buick is one of four surviving brands in GM's post-bankruptcy

(in 17 seconds) and it's a wonderful, wide-open world for four. You can drop the top at up to 31 miles per hour, too, in case completely exposed to the elements. You can drop or raise all four windows with a little tug at a toggle inside the silvery loop.

didn't feel like an especially luxurious shade. The car's 20-inch aluminum alloy wheels looked big and bold.

The interior feels Buick-like, with an expansive sweep from door to door. The European heritage shows in the collection of densely packed chunky buttons on the center console, and the 7inch display screen feels about a generation old. The appeal here isn't up-to-the-minute technology but a feeling of some tradition and exclusivity, with, of course, the dramatic transformation when that roof drops.

The leather seats are called "heat reflective" and wear an unusual opposing triangle pattern in their perforations. There's also leather on the heated steering wheel. The rear window is a mere slit, so rear visibility is not this car's strong suit. Cargo capacity is not a strength either, since the top folds completely under the smooth cover.

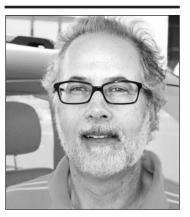

When you lift the wide trunk lid, which includes the car's tail lamps, the Cascada has a fully operational second set underneath. This may be from some European safety rule, but it's kind of mind boggling. Because of the long doors and a far-back mounting point, electric seatbelt presenters move the belts forward to grab when you start up the car. Last time I saw this was in a Mercedes-Benz and it's much appreciated.

200 horsepower and 207 lb.-ft. of torque, moving the two-ton car along adequately, but there is no reserve there. The Cascada sounds like it's working when you ascend a grade, and the note isn't sonorous. However, for this car to deliver its promised 20 City,

Over the past 23 years, Steve Schaefer has tested more than 1,000 cars and published a weekly story on every one. As a teenager, he visited car dealers' back lots to catch a glimpse of the new models as they first rolled off the transporter. He is a founding member of the Western Automotive Journalists. 27 Highway, and 23 Overall fuel economy, the engineers had to fit a modest engine. I averaged 23.2 mpg. Turbo fours are doing the job in numerous vehicles today, and with its European origins, it's appropriate for the Cascada.

My grandfather was a Buick man, and I personally recall his 1956 pillarless four-door sedan and later, a 1962 Special. He liked a V8 in his cars, but you won't find Wildcat power engines in Buicks today.

The standard Cascada stickers at $33,990, and the Premium is $36,990. Both prices include a $925 destination charge. For the extra $3,000, the Premium provides Forward Collision Alert and Lane Departure Warning, which keep you more aware of your surroundings. You also get automatic headlamp control "with tunnel detection." Rainsense automatic wipers are handy when the rain is inconsistent, and the 20-inch wheels receive a unique pattern.

If you're not a convertible person, you may not be impressed with the Cascada, but despite warnings of skin damage from sun exposure (wear your sun block), there's nothing quite like cruising along in an open-top car.

portfolio. The legendary marque, over 100 years old, was renowned for its big, powerful cars and more recently, as a favorite of retired folks looking for a chrome grille and a cushy ride.

Today, Buick occupies GM's spot between Chevrolet and Cadillac, with the Oldsmobile and Pontiac marques weeded out to give it room. And oddly, today its most popular model is the diminutive Encore mini crossover.

So, in this new era for Buick, there's room for a cool convertible model, the first in 25 years. GM sourced the Cascada from its European cousin, Opel, and the car is assembled in Gliwice, Poland, using a Hungarian 1.6-liter turbo four-cylinder engine mated to a Mexican sixspeed automatic transmission.

Although it's not a small car, it's considered a subcompact by the U.S. EPA mainly for its 82 cubic foot capacity. As a "twoplus-two," there are two comfortable buckets up front, but the rear seating, while capable of holding an adult, isn't a spot you'd want to occupy for a long time. However, drop the top you get in the mood while you're driving through town.

Years ago, most convertibles required you to unlatch the mechanism from the windshield header, you could see the metal ribs under the thin canvas cover, and they folded up behind the rear seats in a heap, awaiting a snap-on cover to look neat.

Forget that here. It's totally automatic. Lift a silvery loop on the center console and the rear metal cover panel lifts, the acoustically and thermally insulated top pulls away from the surprisingly large header, and in a quarter of a minute or so, you're

Young environmentalists raise public awareness

SUBMITTED BY PEYA IN THE PARK

Since 1971, the President of the United States has worked with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to recognize K-12 students who promote environmental awareness through the President's Environmental Youth Award (PEYA). The large variety of winning PEYA projects produced by young students over the years covers such areas as: restoring native habitats, recycling in schools and communities, construction of nature preserves, tree planting, and installing renewable energy projects.

On the afternoon of Saturday, January 23, several sophomores and juniors from Mission San Jose High School, Fremont, were seen at Lake Elizabeth presenting their submitted projects at "PEYA in the Park," with a view to raise public awareness of specific environmental issues. This was achieved through engaging the community with a hands-on interactive experience. Among the topics covered were: water conservation, hand-recycling paper, reducing meat consumption, and endangerment of honeybee population.

Participation in the PEYA program is believed to be a life-changing experience for many of our young people. They in turn help to inspire members of the public to become ready stewards of our natural environment.

LOCAL TEENS PAINT ELECTRIC BOX

SUBMITTED BY CHRISTINA CAREY

Some people, when they think of "junior high kids" think of kids with cell phones in their hands and an attitude problem. But at Thornton Junior High, a group of fourteen students got serious and designed artwork for a utility box program called boxART! with the City of Fremont. Each side of the students' box is a design of overlapping shapes in a monochromatic color scheme - a color mixed with black, white or gray - to create changing tones within each shape. Green, red, blue, yellow and purple designs cover the formerly unsightly box on the corner of Nicolette and Fremont Blvd.

Christina Carey, art teacher at Thornton, led the group in painting the large metal box. They painted it through the hot May weekends and learned to interact with the public walking by, as well as how to stick with a long project and make corrections as needed. This box will be a proud symbol of the artistic youth of Fremont thanks to participants: Vignarth Shanthakumar, Mary Ramirez, Sela Danaf, Mrs. Christina Carey, Priyal Badala, Sonali Bhattacharjee, Ashley Buntrock, Oscar Wang, Cassandra Roe-Crossley, Daman Chopra, Tamana Said, Chloe Tai, Katy Tien, Reya Adoni, and Veda Periwal.

Clean Air Plan

Submitted by Bay Area Air Quality District

The Bay Area Air Quality Management District has posted the Notice of Preparation and Initial Study for the draft Programmatic Environmental Impact Report, or draft PEIR, on the Air District's 2016 Clean Air Plan/Regional Climate Protection Strategy.

(http://www.baaqmd.gov/plans-and-climate).

We want to hear your thoughts about what potential environmental impacts of the 2016 Plan we should consider as we prepare the draft PEIR. The environmental impact report is the next step of the planning process as required by the California Environmental Quality Act, or CEQA.

The public will have another chance to share thoughts at a scoping meeting the Air District will host in the next 30 days. A notice for the date and time of this public scoping meeting will be sent out soon.

The 2016 Plan contains measures for protecting public heath by reducing ozone, greenhouse gases, particulate matter, and toxic air contaminants in the nine-county San Francisco Bay Area Air Basin. We welcome your comments through Open Air Forum by July 18. For more information contact Josh Pol-

REAL ROOMS FOR REAL PEOPLE

Designing a bath for my younger brother

By Anna Jacoby

That happens when a younger brother asks his older sister for interior design help? My brother and I get along well now that we are adults, but we did have some heated fights when we were kids. I was flattered when my brother and his wife hired me to redesign their bath. They own a charming 1920s bungalow in San Jose, but their bath had been remodeled in the '80s by the previous owners, featuring a floral wallpaper border, and green and mauve color scheme. Remember that look? The idea was to create a comfortable oasis for them, with modern conveniences, and to use materials more in keeping with the original look of the home.

Ask my brother and he'll confirm that I was most certainly a bossy older sister when we were growing up-I would forcefully dictate to him what we would watch on TV and rudely order him to leave the room when I had friends over. However, he also pushed my buttons, saying exactly what he knew would send me over the edge. We fought a lot as kids, but we also had lots of fun times together, like the year we moved to Sunnyvale and spent the entire summer outside playing "Jaws" in the pool and board games on the diving board.

So when he and my sister-in-law asked me to help them with this project, I had to dance a fine line of being a sister and being their designer. As a designer, I have to take the lead, present ideas, and be able to explain why I planned things a certain way. With regular clients, this approach is often just what they need. But would it seem bossy to my brother? How much do I direct the project and how much do I step back? Fortunately the experience turned out to be a great one, despite a few construction glitches along the way. He says he's glad that I "big-sistered" this project because he admits that he and his wife sometimes have trouble making decisions. So my big-sister role served us both well this time.

The result is a beautiful, modern bathroom with lovely vintage touches. My sister-in-law and I made an afternoon of tile shopping and ultimately selected the watery, soothing aqua blue handmade subway tiles that set the tone for the whole bath. The gray, white and aqua color scheme creates a crisp and clean look, and the polished chrome accents add some sparkle.

We replaced the old awkward corner tub with a roomy walk-in shower, and I designed a vanity cabinet to make the most of the narrow room and provide as much storage as possible. Two large mirrored medicine cabinets add extra storage, and also allow two people to stand comfortably at the vanity. My brother says it's easy to keep things tidy, as now there is room for all of their toiletries.

A big change in the room was to relocate the toilet to the back corner behind a pony wall; in the old bath, the toilet was the first thing you saw from the door, which bothered my sister-in-law.

I selected a marble-look Cambria Quartz called Torquay for the countertop and bench seat, and the floor is a mosaic of white and gray marble. The wall color is a soft white with a gray undertone, which keeps the room light and airy.

I'm happy to report that my brother and sister-in-law are really enjoying this new bath. He told me that on their last vacation, they realized that for the first time ever, their bath was nicer than the bath in the hotel. A great compliment indeed, especially from my little brother.

AC Transit launches AC Go

SUBMITTED BY ROBERT LYLES

The Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District (AC Transit) announces the most significant expansion of service in the District's history. Dubbed "AC Go," this service expansion plan was designed to put more buses on the streets of the 22 cities and unincorporated areas serviced by AC Transit every day. AC Go represents a nearly 14 percent overall service increase and will unfold to our riders in phases. The first phase launched Sunday, June 26, 2016 at the start of our operating day.

"The service improvements, slated for June, will primarily focus on improving bus frequency and the length of our operating day," said H. E. Christian Peeples, AC Transit Board President. "To affect AC Go's sweeping service enhancement, our transit planners paid particular attention to AC Transit's longest bus routes – which transport our largest number of riders."

To accomplish June's improved frequency and extended operating hours, the following lines and routes will experience changes:

565,000 3 1612 1950 05-17-16

- Line 10 represents a new extension from Hayward BART to San Leandro BART. It is a redesign of Line 99 to achieve frequency of every 15 minutes.
- Line 99: The existing line will continue to serve Bayfair BART. The route adds a new northern extension to San Leandro BART. Frequency will be every 15 minutes.

AC Transit's existing Line 1R – between downtown Oakland and San Leandro primarily utilizing International Boulevard and East 14th Street – will soon become the unprecedented Bus Rapid Transit (BRT). Construction of the 9.5 mile BRT will begin in fall and prompts the cancelation of Line 1R. Nevertheless, this cancelation will be absorbed by the newly added Line 6 – between downtown Berkeley and downtown Oakland. Line 1 will continue to operate and serve our riders between downtown Oakland and San Leandro BART.

"Shortly after assuming my post as General Manager, the AC Transit Board of Directors voted to greenlight a construction contract to build the East Bay's first-ever Bus Rapid Transit or BRT," said Michael Hursh, AC Transit's General Manager. "This $108 million project will not only offer the frequency and reliability of light-rail train service but accomplishes that transit at a fraction of the construction cost. Nicknamed the 'light-rail on wheels,' BRT will be a significant component of AC Go and central to our expanded service commitment."

Future phases of AC Go's expansion will require growing AC Transit's bus fleet. Already, the District has placed 210 new buses onto East Bay streets – from fiscal year (FY) 2013-14 – and we are replacing an additional 96 buses during the current fiscal year. We are accelerating the overhaul of our bus fleet that totals just over 600 buses. Why? Many of our buses have exceeded their life expectancy. In fact, the average bus has a life expectancy of 12 years or 500,000 miles. AC Transit's fleet travels approximately 18.4 million service miles every year. That is the equivalent of driving 77 roundtrips between the Earth and moon!

To meet AC Go's demand, a total of 25 40-ft. Diesel Electric Hybrid buses will roll into service between June and August. The new buses are not only meeting rider demand, each is designed for reduced carbon emissions and manufactured locally by the Gillig Corporation based in Hayward. To provide the cleanest and most efficient buses to our customers, AC Transit is also investing in additional zero emission buses.

Since AC Go's service expansion will unfold over the next year, we are still actively pursuing the best and most talented candidates for operators and mechanics. Interested candidates should visit www.actransit.org/careers. More information on AC Go service enhancements, new bus lines, and new route maps can be viewed at www.actransit.org/ac-go-main.

Tri-City Stargazer June 29 - July 5, 2016

For All Signs: The planet Mars, ancient god of war, turns direct after a long retrograde period that began in April. During the retrograde cycle we are often detoured from taking significant external action. Though we may experience the delays as frustrating, the purpose of the time is to struggle with inner boundaries before expanding or claiming new outer territory. If we force the issue and push through in spite of obstacles during the retrograde, we often discover later that the offensive has proven too costly in some way. As Mars turns direct we will find resolution to roadblocks experienced in recent months or will realize we didn't really need to take the proposed path in the first place..

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): Please see the lead paragraph. Mars, your ruling planet, is finally changing direction to forward motion. This means your probability of moving forward is improving. You probably want to bolt through the starting gate, but full speed develops slowly. Mars must retrace its steps to an open field early in August.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): If there are power issues between you and another, this is the week that they will be in full bloom. Discomfort means that change is needed in one or both of your attitudes. Intensity is the theme. Concentrate on remaining conscious so that you won't fall into manipulative games, especially the one called "prove it if you love me."

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Your ruling planet, Mercury, moves into the sign of Cancer for the next two to three weeks. Your attention will be drawn to organizing your financial picture. This is not your favorite activity, but it must be done from time to time.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): Intensity in relationships is the theme of the week.

If you are not conscious, you could be pulled into schemes of manipulation or compulsive behaviors. Existing relationships could re-experience the pain of old wounds. You have a choice of whether to work it through or act it out in the same ways as the first time. If things feel icky, someone is manipulating.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): The Lions experience a twist of annual fate. For one month, beginning at the summer solstice, it is a time of retreat. This time is meant to help you recharge, refuel, and become more clearly in touch with your inner self. Allow extra time to meditate, reflect, journal, and read spiritually uplifting mate-

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You are finishing a work project and shifting gears into new territory this week. You will be focusing on communications with friends, acquaintances, and building your network. You are a leader during this period because you have the vision to see the big picture. It's possible that you have been surprising yourself with this shift in your usual, quiet character.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Changes may be occurring in your primary relationship. One or the other of you is probably trying to hang onto what is familiar. Changes and growth must be allowed to happen or the relationship will become stale. Let things flow naturally. Don't jump to conclusions or make problems bigger than they are.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Your sign, above all others, will be relieved by the Mars change to direct motion (see lead paragraph). After cleaning up the debris of the past three months, you will be ready to move forward and take initiative. If you have been ill, you will soon be better. Certainly you will be freer to move around in your world.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): The tide has turned. You are just beginning to gain traction toward your goal. There is an improvement in your resources, and your good ideas fit into the flow of things. That makes it easier to get them accomplished. The force is with you.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): Issues that have been brewing for a while in relationship(s) are coming to a turning point. You and another may be vying for emotional control. This can be very subtle and create long-term issues that occasionally explode to the surface. You know control is not satisfying. Look for ways to share equally.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): You continue to be detoured from your normal routine of life through this week. Then you will start to see cracks of daylight in your path. Just hang on for this week and try to remain patient. If you need information, this is the time to research and prepare for the future.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): Romance and creativity are in the air. Enjoy whatever the arts and music provide for your pleasure. Partnership(s) and relationship(s) to your children fare well at this time. Your ideas are likely to be particularly creative now.

Giving breast cancer survivors a lift - physically and emotionally

By JOHNNA M. LAIRD

t a recent church function, Meg Ehmann was asked a question. She paused, rehearsing in her mind how to explain in mixed company her volunteer effort. Before words could slip from her mouth, the husband of an acquaintance, overhearing the conversation, yelled out: "Oh just say it! Knitted Knockers!"

Ehmann doesn't knit, but she is on a mission to help breast cancer survivors who have experienced a mastectomy find comfort and wear clothes without self-consciousness. She is recruiting knitters throughout the Tri-Cities to knit or crochet knockers—a soft cotton, handmade breast prosthesis that slips into a regular bra and simulates a breast. Knitted Knockers, a volunteer effort that has spread to 49 states and several countries, donates handmade prostheses free of charge, including shipping when needed. Volunteers have one aim: get knockers into the hands of local breast cancer survivors.

A grandmother, who operated two flower shops in Fremont in the 1970s, Ehmann is reaching out to organizations and anyone who will listen. In the two months since she began her effort, the Fremont Senior Center has 13 committed knitters, a local bridge group has said yes, and a few church members have offered to put their needles to work.

When Ehmann walked into Color Me Quilts in Niles, she found instant support from Belle Spring, who co-owns the shop with her daughters and granddaughter. Spring remembered exactly how she felt when she tried wearing a plastic prosthesis after a mastectomy. "It was so uncomfortable, I gave up," says Spring. "The illusion of a breast, knitted or crocheted, soft next to your skin, I loved the Spring offered to host knitters in her shop on the first Wednesday of each month to knit knockers and discuss ways to generate interest in the project. Knitted Knockers was a natural for Color Me Quilts; the shop is already involved in several community projects, including Wounded Warrior quilts for injured soldiers and Vietnam veterans, and Project Linus quilts for children battling cancer.

Ehmann's enthusiasm and commitment to Knitted Knockers stems from the difference she saw with her daughter, diagnosed with breast cancer at age 37. Her daughter, like Spring, found a plastic prosthesis sweaty and uncomfortable. Ehmann's sister, who still lives in their native Scotland, brought a knocker to America, and Ehmann saw a difference in her daughter immediately. "She was interested in clothes again," said Ehmann. "The knockers can make a difference in how a woman feels about herself."

Knitted Knockers has more than 197 volunteer groups or chapters, 17 of which are in California and four in the greater San Francisco Bay Area. Barbara Demorest of Bellingham, Washington, a breast cancer survivor who needed to return to work after her mastectomy, jumped on promoting the knitted knockers after her experience. She was not a candidate for reconstructive surgery and felt self-conscious going out in public. Seeking answers, she talked to her doctor, who surprised her with his question: "Can you knit?" He handed her a pattern for a knitted knocker. So enthused with the difference the knocker made in how she felt about herself, Demorest located the pattern's origin and was determined to reach women like herself.

She tracked down a young woman from Maine who owned a yarn shop and had knitted a breast prosthesis for herself after a mastectomy. She and her friends, making the soft prostheses to give away, came up with the name "Knitted Knockers." Demorest gained the blessing of the shop owner who had found herself overwhelmed by demand; Demorest then established the Knitted Knockers Support Foundation, promoted through the website, Knittedknockers.org.

Demorest says she believe the original pattern was created by Beryl Tsang and titled "Tit Bits." Over time various groups have revised the pattern. The pattern has been downloaded more than 121,000 times since the website was established in 2011. Not counting the local groups, more than 1,000 knockers are being sent out monthly from the support foundation. "They make such a difference," says Demorest, "given free by strangers who care."

Ehmann says a skein of cotton yarn makes three knockers. Each knocker takes an estimated two and a half to three hours to make. The volunteer knitter can include a note; some recipients write back or write to express their appreciation.

Some knitters miss the instruction to knit with cotton yarn, so Ehmann has received donations of acrylic yarn knockers.

But these are sent out as well, since acrylic yarn is recommended for swimming and water sports. Acrylic yarn dries faster than cotton. Knockers are stuffed with PolyFiberFil, which makes them washable on a gentle washing machine cycle.

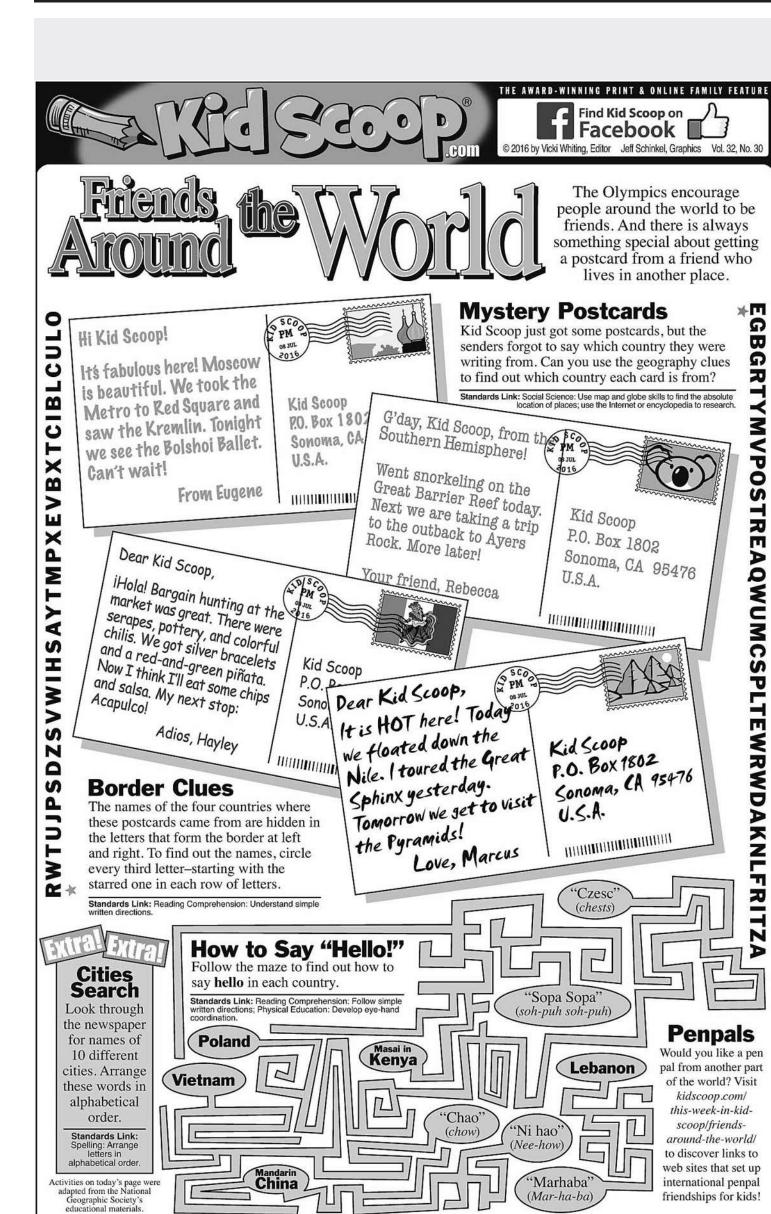

Now that Ehmann has launched Knitted Knockers locally, she plans to host a tea for knitters and would-be knitters in July. Her next step is working with Spring to make inroads with hospitals and doctors, who have immediate contact with breast cancer survivors. Ehmann maintains that medical professionals can often sooner reach women who have had mastectomies, lumpectomies and radiation, or who are waiting reconstruction.

"We want to get these into the offices. We are offering them freeof-charge, a gift of our time, our love, and our prayers," says Spring.

Join the Knitted Knockers meeting the first Wednesday of each month from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Color Me Quilts (37495 Niles Boulevard) in Fremont. For more information, contact Meg Ehmann at (510) 320-8398 or bonniedoon45@gmail.com, or Color Me Quilts at (510) 494-9940.

Belle Spring and Meghan Telles, grandmother and granddaughter are two of the owners of Color Me Quilts in Niles.

Eden Aoba Taiko keeps ancient tradition alive

By David R. Newman PHOTOS COURTESY OF EDEN AOBA TAIKO

On any given day at the Eden Japanese Community Center in San Lorenzo, a thunderous vibration shakes the doors. No, it's not a California earthquake, but rather, just another Taiko drumming class, led by master instructor Masa Fukuizumi. He teaches four classes of various skill levels during the week. Collectively, the group is known as Eden Aoba Taiko.

Literally, taiko means "fat drum," although there is a vast array of shapes and sizes of taiko. Originally used on the battlefields of Japan over 1,400 years ago, it wasn't until the 1950s when jazz musician Daihachi Oguchi put several drums together that the taiko ensemble (kumi-daiko) movement began. Taiko boomed in Japan in the 1970s and groups began touring the globe. Today there are over 8,000 taiko groups worldwide, most of them in Japan, with over 150 in North America.

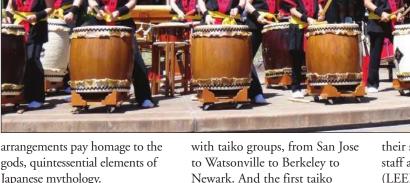

Although Fukuizumi is a native of Japan, it wasn't until he moved to the Bay Area and started a family that his own taiko journey began. In 1996, his daughter began taking taiko classes with a friend. The friend's father asked Fukuizumi if he wanted to give it a try, so he said why not. Soon they were playing and making drums out of old wine barrels and cowhide, and in 1997 he was asked to play at a local event. The community asked for classes, and Eden Aoba Taiko was born.

Eden Aoba Taiko Artistic Director

With no teaching experience or ability to read music, Fukuizumi studied videos of other taiko groups and consulted with local experts. His first arrangement was an adaptation of a song called "Zoku," made famous by the Japanese taiko group Kodo. After that, Fukuizumi's creativity took over and he began writing his own songs. He laughs, "Everything is in my head. Until we play it, I don't really know what it will sound like. That's why I'm always changing things."

Monica Simon, who has been with Eden Aoba for 14 years now, loves Fukuizumi's style. "He is absolutely amazing in composing these songs, because every other group in the area that I have heard does a regular, repetitive beat with no melody. He expresses stories through taiko. No two songs are the same." Many of Fukuizumi's gods, quintessential elements of Japanese mythology.

After seeing Eden Aoba play at the Buddhist Church of Oakland's Obon Festival six years ago, Donna Yokomizo joined soon after and has now been playing for six years. "Masa has taught us a lot about the connection between Japanese culture and taiko playing in terms of not standing out and learning from each other and persevering."

For many, taiko represents community and a shared group experience. Members are recruited through friends and family, with ages ranging from four to eighty plus. It's also a fun way to exercise and a great way to relieve stress. "Whenever I have something bad going on at work, or in general, I just go and bang on those drums and I feel much better," says Simon.

Eden Aoba Taiko plays at over 20 venues every year, from schools to community events to festivals, including the San Francisco Cherry Blossom Festival, San Ramon Art and Wind Festival, and the Alameda Obon Festival. Says Yokomizo, "I like watching the audience and seeing their response to the visceral feeling that you get when drums are playing. They make you feel happy. I love that part of performing for people."

Eden Aoba Taiko is not alone. Indeed, the Bay Area is teeming

Newark. And the first taiko group in North America started right here in San Francisco in 1968. Many schools also offer taiko classes, as do churches and community centers like Eden.

Of course, each taiko group has a unique style. For Fukuizumi, it's all about having fun. His teaching philosophy echoes his own life, a balance between Eastern traditions and Western beliefs. He preaches uniformity and consistency while embracing individual differences. His latest composition blends the traditional taiko instruments of drum and flute with more modern sounds from electric guitar and keyboard.

In September, Eden Aoba will host their annual concert at CSU East Bay. They will be joined by their sister group that includes staff and faculty of the university (LEEP), also taught by Fukuizumi, as well as Kamo-Tsunamura Taiko, a group recruited by Fukuizumi during a trip to Japan. And next year, Eden Aoba will celebrate their 20th Anniversary.

All of this amazes Fukuizumi, who finds himself appreciating his homeland more and more with each passing year. "My dream is to play in my hometown of Sendai."

And that's the power of taiko. It can bring you home.

Classes are held at the Eden Japanese Community Center (710 Elgin Street, San Lorenzo) for $30 per session (10 weeks). For more information, contact Eden Aoba Taiko at edenaoba@gmail.com or visit www.edentaiko.org.

Niles Boulevard Bridge Construction Update

Night-Time Construction Extended through August

Cast in Drilled Hole (CIDH) pile installation is underway

Work to replace the Niles Boulevard Bridge continues to progress. Weekend (night) work to install Cast-in-Drilled Hole (CIDH) Piles began in late April and is nearly complete. Additional weekday and weekend (night) work will take place from early July to the end of August as detailed below. The project is anticipated to be complete spring 2017.

Weekday and weekend (night) work to complete the new bridge support columns and install a protective shield over the BART and Union Pacific rail tracks is anticipated to begin July 1. No work is planned for the Fourth of July weekend. Night work will then continue each night from July 5 until the end of August. Weekday (night) work will take place from 11p.m. – 7 a.m. (Monday – Friday). Weekend (night) work will begin Friday at 10:30 p.m. and end Saturday at 9 a.m. and then resume Saturday at 10:30 p.m. and end Sunday at 9 a.m. Once the protective shield is installed, work over the tracks can take place during the weekday (day) shift. Work activity will involve the use of noise-generating equipment each night as scheduled.

Weekend and weekday (night) work is necessary due to the support columns and protective shield being located over the BART and Union Pacific rail tracks. Changeable message boards near the project site (in each direction) notifying roadway users of upcoming night work dates and times are in place. Advance notice of future weekend, night and/or noisy activities will be provided to the local community as work is scheduled.

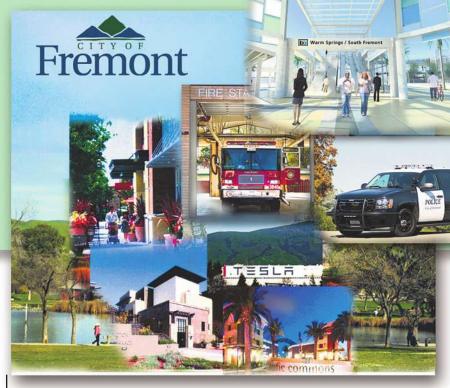

As with any major construction project, it is important to note that anticipated work dates and times are subject to change due to weather, unforeseen conditions, and/or the availability of on-site Union Pacific Railroad flaggers and BART safety monitors.

Project information and construction updates are posted on the website at www.nilesblvdbridge.com. Community members are encouraged to sign up for regular updates on the website, by emailing nilesblvdbridge@fremont.gov, or by calling the project Construction Info Line at 510-355-1502.

New bridge construction is progressing south of the existing bridge. This CIDH rebar cage will be inserted into drilled hole and filled with concrete.

through a variety of community outreach programs that include workshops, exhibitions, and scholarships involving artists of all ages and levels.

Signature Members have had their work accepted to at least three of CWA's annual National Exhibitions, open to all artists, not just CWA members. One hundred sixty out of 600 CWA members are distinguished as Signature Members. This allows them to put CWA after their name on their artwork, considered an honor.

Mike Bailey, who served as the Juror for Selection, is a Signature Member of CWA, in addition to being a Signature Member of the two most prestigious national watercolor associations: American Watercolor Society (AWS) and National Watercolor Society (NWS). He has also a former president of NWS. His paintings are held in private and corporate collections across the United States, Europe, and Australia. After having painted enough "pretty pictures," Bailey chose to do things that were unusual - "beyond the obvious" - picking subjects or scenes from everyday life that are often overlooked. His mantra is "to exalt the mundane to the extraordinary."

Pablo Villicana Lara, the Awards Juror for the show, is the recipient of numerous awards from CWA and the "Best of Show" award from the Society of Western Artists. He has exhibited his work with AWS, Transparent Watercolor Society, Northwest Watercolor Society, and the International Guild of Realism. After years of working in oils and other media, Lara discovered the quality of light and clarity of colors that could be achieved with watercolors. This realization led him to work exclusively with watercolors for the past 25 years. Lara is proud of his Mexican and Native American heritage, which is clearly reflected in his work.

Out of the 44 works of art, Lara selected the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winners, along with five Honorable Mentions.

Karen Frey was awarded 1st place, with $1,000, for her painting "Waiting for the Bus." Frey is a celebrated artist who graduated with a degree in Fine Arts from California College of the Arts in Oakland. She is a Signature Member of AWS, NWS, and Watercolor West, as well as a member of the Watercolor USA Honor Society. Frey paints both in watercolors and encaustics, noting their similarity in "fluidity and transparency." She likes the viewers to engage with her paintings for a personal interpretation. Her work is displayed at numerous permanent collections and exhibitions, locally and nationally.

Second place, with $500, went to Margaret Washington for her recent work "Copenhagen Sunset." A native Californian, Washington studied graphic design and worked as a graphic designer until she took to painting in 1989. The recipient of many awards in juried art shows, her work has been displayed at various national shows, museums, and galleries. Light and shadow and strong composition are key elements in all of Washington's paintings. Currently an art teacher at a school in Campbell, CA, Washington also holds private and group lessons and workshops.

Larry Cannon placed 3rd, with $250, for "Headwaters." Cannon, who graduated with a bachelor's and master's degree in architecture, moved from the Midwest to San Francisco. Inspired by the beauty of the American West, Cannon had an aching desire to express the spirit in visual form. He first tried photography, but settled on becoming a painter. He has since participated at various plein air events, and his work has been displayed at many exhibitions across the country. Cannon uses water media because of its fluidity, which provides beautiful rendition to the flowing forces of nature that he loves to Five Honorable Mentions with $50 each, were awarded to the following Signature Members:

- -Kathie Bossier, for "Incandescence" -Robert Davidson, for "Alpine Glow at Donner Lake"
- -Sue Johnston, for "Left Behind"
- -Rita Sklar, for "Feeding Frenzy" -Marilyn Wear, for "Fall at Fox Grove"

All awards will be presented on July 9 at the Reception. Against the backdrop of exemplary works of art, attendees will also be able to enjoy live music during the reception, courtesy of the Newark Saxophone Quartet (NSQ). NSQ is comprised of Jim Carter on soprano, Joel Jaffe on alto, Steve Leitner on tenor, and Maurice La Fleur on baritone.

We look forward to an exciting show!

You can celebrate Independence Day the old-fashioned way at Ardenwood Historic Farm in Fremont. From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, July 4, the farm will swarm with all kinds of early 1900s-style festivities. Activities planned include patriotic music on the lawn of the historic Patterson House, fiddle music in the farmyard, and games, contests and races such as nail-driving, egg toss, watermelon seed spitting for distance, a fire bucket brigade, and a tug-of-war. You can bring your own picnic or purchase food at the farm.

Ardenwood is located at 34600 Ardenwood Blvd., just north of Highway 84. The fee for the event is $10 for adults, $8 for seniors 62 and older, $5 for children ages 4 through 17, and free for kids 3 and under. Parking is free. For more information, call (510) 544-2797.

Elsewhere in the East Bay Regional Parks, the gang at Crab Cove Visitor Center in Alameda will participate in the city's annual Fourth of July Parade from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Monday, July 4 with the park's mobile visitor center, and parade watchers are welcome to "swim" along for part or all of the route.

Then from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. there's open house at the center itself, with familyfriendly activities all afternoon. Crab Cove also will host one of the Sunday Stroll series from 10 a.m. to noon on July 3. It's a flat four-mile round trip from the center down the beach to Elsie Roemer Marsh, then back along the paved streetside path. Dogs are not allowed on the beach.

Crab Cove is at 1252 McKay Ave. off Alameda's Central Avenue. For information, call (510) 544-3187.

And as usual, there's lots going on at the Environmental Education Center and Little Farm in Tilden Nature Area near Berkeley. "Udderly Good Butter" is on the menu from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, July 2. Meet the Little Farm's cows, then churn some milk into butter. The program repeats on July 20.

Animals sleep, too, or at least become less active. During "Good Night Farm" from 3:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, July 2, 16, and 30, you can help the farmer feed the chickens, goats and cows, then put them down for the night.

And there's a Little Farm sing-along from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday, July 3 and again on July 17, led by naturalist Trent Pearce. Trent will distribute books of old-time songs about farming, work and play.

As long as we're at Tilden, the center has two recurring animal programs during which you can learn about their lives and how they keep safe from predators. "Advice from an Animal" is from 11 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. every Saturday in July and August. On July 2 the cows are your advisers. And you can talk with the animals from 11 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. every Sunday in July and August. Geese are the gurus on July 3.

The center and Little Farm are both at the north end of Tilden's Central Park Drive. For information, call (510) 544-2233.

Naturalist Trent also leads insect safaris in various regional parks. One such expedition will be from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Sunday, July 3 at Briones Regional Park. Meet Trent at the Bear Creek Staging Area on Bear Creek Road about five miles east of the intersection with San Pablo Dam Road in Orinda. For information, call (510) 544-2233.

Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley offers all kinds of hands-on arts, crafts and natural history activities from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday. And from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturday, July 2, there's a program showcasing live turtles in their natural habitat. Big Break is located at 69 Big Break Rd. off Oakley's Main Street. Entry is free. For information, call 888-327-2757, ext. 3050.

A final word about Fourth of July: it tends to be one of the busiest days in the regional parks, especially those that offer swimming. So if you're planning a picnic, be sure to arrive early. If all picnic tables are taken, you can spread blankets on lawn areas. Portable barbecues are okay on turfgrass, but not on dry grass fields. Please dispose of coals only in the concrete receptacles designed for that purpose, not in regular trash barrels. Fire is always a concern.

Please follow any instructions from lifeguards, park staff, firefighters or police, especially if there's an emergency. No fireworks of any kind are allowed in the regional parks. Smoking is prohibited as well. With that in mind, have a safe, sane and enjoyable celebration of Independence Day.

Water Polo: Record 14 CSUEB Pioneers earn ACWPC All-Academic Honors

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY PHOTO BY CATHARYN HAYNES

The Cal State University East Bay (CSUEB) water polo team placed 14 student-athletes on the 2016 Association of Collegiate Water Polo Coaches (ACWPC) All-Academic list. The Pioneers set a new program record with 14 honorees, eclipsing the previous mark of 10, which was achieved by the 2014 squad. CSUEB also earned ACWPC All-Academic Team recognition thanks to its 3.34 team grade point average, which is the highest of any team in the Western Water Polo Association (WWPA). This marks the 13th time the Pioneers have earned All-Academic Team honors under head coach Lisa Cooper.

Cheyenne Brady, Tori Dettloff, Brooke Hodgkinson, Brandi Carroll, and Olivia Mackell led the way for East Bay, capturing "Outstanding" accolades by achieving a 3.71 GPA or higher.

Jenn Lightbody, Makenna Nation, Nikki Vaughan, Taylor Cross, Katelyn Clark, Simonne Call, and Sabrina Hatzer all posted GPAs between 3.41 and 3.70 to earn "Superior" recognition. Shelbie Higginson and Cheyenne Pena notched "Excellent" status with GPAs between 3.20 and 3.40.

Eight of CSUEB's 14 honorees have now won the award multiple times. Call and Lightbody capped off impressive careers and captured All-Academic honors for the fourth consecutive year. Cross and Mackell are now three-time honorees, while Clark, Dettloff, Hatzer, and Higginson were awarded for the second time.

Get Ready for Downtown Fremont's First Mixed-Use Project - Locale @ State Street

By Jennifer Chen, Economic Development Coordinator

After years of planning, Downtown Fremont is going vertical! On Friday, June 17, 2016, the City of Fremont celebrated the groundbreaking of Locale @ State Street, Downtown's first mixed-use project, which was made possible through a public/private partnership between the City of Fremont, TMG Partners, Sares Regis and SummerHill Homes.

The Locale @ State Street mixed-use project will span six acres and include 157 residential units, consisting of stacked flats and rowhomes. The community's amenities will include outdoor spaces with barbecues, lush landscaping and seating areas for residents to gather, as well as a fitness studio and bike share program. The development will also include nearly 21,000 sq. ft. of ground floor, street-front retail and restaurant space along Capitol Avenue.

The State Street groundbreaking ceremony was held on the new section of Capitol Avenue between Fremont Boulevard and State Street as residents and City staff alike gathered to witness history in the making. City Manager Fred Diaz kicked things off with a welcome speech, highlighting that since Fremont's incorporation in 1956, the City has been seeking a central place to serve as its civic heart. Now, with construction on Locale @ State Street soon underway, we're one step closer to giving Fremont residents the Downtown they've been waiting for.

Next, Fremont Mayor Bill Harrison and Katia Kamangar, executive vice president and managing director of SummerHill Homes, shared a few thoughts on how this project represents a giant leap forward for Fremont and its plans to build a strategically urban community. According to the Mayor, the City is envisioning a smart, sustainable Downtown, complete with electric vehicle charging stations, wide sidewalks for street side cafes, bike lanes, diagonal parking, solar-powered street lighting for outdoor events, and a whole lot more. Kamanger noted that 20 percent of Summerhill's portfolio is in Fremont, citing its strategic location and excellent schools.

After lots of cheers and applause, the celebrations continued into the evening with Fremont Street Eats, a gourmet food truck event produced by the Fremont Chamber of Commerce and Food Truck Mafia. The State Street groundbreaking is a catalytic occasion for the City of Fremont and a continuation in the development of a Downtown that will serve as the City's social heartbeat - where people can live, work and shop, all in one central place.

ver my years with Tri-City Voice I have had an opportunity to observe a variety of meetings conducted by city councils, commissions and boards that have a significant impact on how our governments operate. It is instructive to compare the manner in which meetings are conducted and decisions made. Since the number of meeting times, days and venues are limited, it is impossible to attend all meetings, but no matter what the subject, lessons can be learned from observing just a few.

For instance, recently, the AC Transit Board of Directors announced that it would vary its meeting venue from the usual Oakland location in June, July and August. I have been unable to attend these meetings and was curious about board members and agenda items. On Wednesday, June 8th, I not only watched an interesting discussion about the liabilities AC Transit faces when only minimally engaged in development projects, but also learned about a one year pilot project that provides flex bus service in Newark. Additional Board meetings are scheduled July 27 at 5 p.m. at Hayward City Hall and August 10 at 5 p.m. at Fremont City Hall. These are rare opportunities, outside traveling to Oakland, for the public to watch and understand how this agency's Board operates.

Boards, councils and commissions

It makes sense for county-wide agencies and government encompassing a wide area to make an effort for all citizens to observe and participate in their deliberations. Holding meetings in a variety of venues more convenient for constituents is laudable and, like AC Transit, doable. The Alameda County Board of Supervisors should think about an annual foray to other venues just as AC Transit has done. Also, Union Sanitary District, Alameda County Water District and other regional entities such as Washington Hospital Healthcare System might consider occasional alternate venues since their board rooms are a bit distant from some of their customers.

A corollary thought to an annual change of venue is for those serving on boards, commissions and councils to visit other meetings as an observer. It can be illuminating for those who are accustomed to serving in the spotlight to watch other proceedings as part of the public without the limelight. Watching their own behavior and proceedings on a taped replay can be instructive, but visiting other meetings without fanfare can help mold future behavior as well. Even though many of our elected officials serve on a variety of committees, they remain part of the show, rather than in a purely observational role. It never hurts to watch, listen and learn.

Peace Pole Celebration

On Thursday, May 26, 2016 Pioneer Elementary School in Union City held a dedication ceremony for the new Peace Pole at their school's entrance. The Peace Pole, a monument that displays the message, "May Peace Prevail On Earth" on each of its four sides, is one of tens of thousands planted in 180 countries worldwide. Pioneer's Peace Pole also features the peace message translated in Farsi, Hindi, Mandarin, Spanish, Tagalog, and Vietnamese to represent the languages spoken at their school.

Principal Cheri Benafield presided over the ceremony, reminding the hundreds of students and parents in the audience that, "the world is not always a peaceful place, but when you set foot here on our campus, it will be a peaceful place."

The Peace Pole was donated by the Keanaaina family, and in honor of them and Pioneer Elementary, the Peace Pole Project will plant 10 trees on the African continent in thanks for their support of world peace.

Deer crashes into Dallas-area car, ends up in back seat

AP WIRE SERVICE

PLANO, Texas (AP), A Texas driver had an unexpected passenger when a deer trying to dash across a Dallas-area toll road crashed into his car and ended up in the back seat.

KXAS-TV (http://bit.ly/1RTNL1g) reports Christopher Coleman of Frisco wasn't hurt but the deer died after smashing through his windshield.

Wednesday afternoon's incident was captured on security video along the Sam Rayburn Tollway in Plano.

Coleman says he noticed the deer on the side of the road, briefly ``admired it'' and then he heard a bang as the windshield broke and the animal entered his car. The deer ended up wedged behind the driver's seat.

Coleman says he's amazed at not being injured and is just happy to

Obituary

Anne Shizuyo Ng

March 27, 1942 – June 6, 2016

Resident of Fremont

Anne Shizuyo Ng, beloved mother, grandmother, sister, auntie, and friend, passed away peacefully at the age of 74 on Monday, June 6th, 2016 at home surrounded by her loving family. Born in 1942 in Stockton, California to Hikota and Fusaye Nishimoto, she lived in the Central Valley until her marriage to Edward Ng on February 14th, 1969.

Anne and Edward called Fremont, CA home, and it was there that they raised two children and developed a strong network of friends. Anne dedicated over 20 years of service to the Fremont Unified School District as a teachers' and office aide, mainly at Patterson Elementary School, where she touched the lives of both school staff and students alike. Her positive manner and helpful ways nurtured life-long relationships built from humor, respect, love, and friendship.

A creative spirit, Anne loved crafting, scrap-booking, baking, and collecting. She had a love for dolls and board games, bowling and traveling. In the past ten years, Anne developed a special fondness for Julie Andrews - her movies, music, and children's books. She even took a short trip to London, England to see Ms. Andrews perform live in concert.

With her radiant smile, Anne lived her life fully, with abundant dedication to her family.

Although a gentle person, her inner strength – allowing her to survive multiple bouts of cancer and other health issues - embodied the courage of a lion.

Anne is survived by her son Scott Ng; daughter and son-inlaw Charisse and David Feldman; her two grandchildren: Alex and Ella; brother George "Taka" Nishimoto; and a host of adored nieces, nephews, family, and friends.

Anne's husband Edward and sister Nancy Yada preceded her in death in 2007 and 2009 respectively.

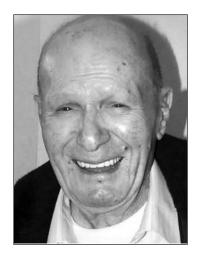

The family would like to thank those that cared for Anne over the past 4 years and Sutter VNA Hospice for their care during her final weeks of life. Memorial services for Anne will be held on Sunday, July 17th, 2016 at 2:00pm at the Southern Alameda County Buddhist Church at 32975 Alvarado-Niles Road, Union City, CA 94587. In lieu of flowers, please consider a memorial donation to In Our Lifetime 501 (c)3, P.O. Box 470981, San Francisco, CA 94147-0981 or online at www.classy.org/annengmemorial-

Cecil Edward "Ed" Moore, Jr.

March 4, 1924 – June 21, 2016 Resident of Fremont

Cecil Edward "Ed" Moore, Jr., beloved husband, father, grandfather, and great-grandfather passed away peacefully at his home of 53 years in Fremont, California, surrounded by his loving family on June 21st, 2016. Ed was born on March 4th, 1924, in Bremerton, Washington, to Cecil and Gladys (Cease) Moore.

As a teen, he enlisted and proudly served in the United States Navy for 22 years, retiring as Chief Petty Officer. He married the love of his life, Patricia Ann McKinney, on Veterans Day, November 11th, 1955. After living in various states during his military career, Ed settled his family in Fremont in 1963, where he enjoyed the American Dream with family and neighbors. Upon retirement from the Navy, he worked as a police dispatcher for the Oakland and Fremont Police Departments for over 15 years.

Ed truly loved his family and their close extended family of neighborhood friends enjoying regular block parties, frequent poker games, bowling, and other activities. He was the life of every party with his dry wit and humor which will be greatly missed. A faithful patriot, he could be seen raising and lowering his flag every day. Ed loved to putter and tinker around the house – a handyman who could fix almost anything. So much so, his family joked he needed a helmet to protect him from his many minor injuries.

Ed leaves his wife of 60 years, Patricia "Pat"; children: Steven E. Moore (Patricia) of Saratoga, Timothy "Tim" L. Moore (Elizabeth) of Fremont, and Kara T. Gutierrez (Anthony) of Fremont; grandchildren: Matt (Kasie), Meagan, Joey, Amy, Stephanie, and Nathan; and great-grandchildren: Trey, and Matty. Also survived by his nephew Randy Barrows, and other family and friends who adored him. Ed's cherished granddaughter Melissa Burris, his sister Shirley Blow, and his niece Suzanne Bruce predeceased him.

The Moore Family thanks everyone who helped care for Ed and support Pat during his final years, especially the caring hospice team from VITAS. A special note of gratitude to Chaplain William and hospice nurse Christina, whose visits Ed dearly anticipated and enjoyed and were with him at his peaceful end.

A Memorial Service will be held on Sunday, June 26th, 2pm at Fremont Memorial Chapel, 3723 Peralta Blvd., Fremont, CA 94536. Inurnment at Sacramento Valley National Cemetery in Dixon, CA.

In lieu of flowers, please consider a memorial donation to VITAS in Ed's name - http://www.vitas.com/community-connection/donate

Fremont approves innovative program to save energy and water

SUBMITTED BY SEVERN WILLIAMS

The City Council of Fremont has voted to make the HERO Property Assessed Clean Energy (PACE) program available to local residents. HERO PACE financing enables homeowners to make energy- and water-efficiency improvements and pay for them over time through their property tax bill. HERO payments may have tax benefits, and homeowners may see immediate savings on utility bills. Residents of Fremont may begin submitting applications to HERO this fall.

Locally, also Hayward, Union City, as well as residents of unincorporated areas, now have access to this public-private partnership. San Leandro has approved the program and is due to launch this fall.

California is still in a state of drought, despite this winter's El Nino. Eligible retrofits give homeowners a fast, affordable way to conserve water. HERO has a wide variety of products to help homeowners cut down on water use, including high-efficiency toilets, faucets and showerheads; drip irrigation systems; rainwater catchment systems; gray water systems; and artificial turf and other drought-tolerant landscaping.

A wide variety of energy-saving products are available through HERO as well. Some of HERO's most popular products include including solar power panel installations, whole-home heating and cooling (HVAC) systems, energy-saving windows and doors, and roofing and insulation.

PACE has been adopted to address a problem conventional financing products have not solved. Each year, several million homes in the U.S. will have systems replaced that affect energy or water consumption – such as Heating Ventilation Air Conditioning (HVAC), windows, roofs, and water heaters – in most cases because existing products are failing. Unfortunately, the majority of homeowners still select the least-efficient solution because homeowners are not sure how long they are going to stay in their home. These solutions end up being the most expensive when taking into account the total cost of ownership when energy or water costs are factored in.

The HERO Program provides crucial new options to homeowners to choose more efficient improvements: PACE finances 100 percent of the home improvement, requiring no upfront cash outlay; the term of the financing is based on the useful life of the product, up to 20 years, lowering the size of monthly payments; and collection is conducted through regular property tax payments. The products installed must meet federal and state efficiency standards, potentially enabling homeowners to lower monthly utility bills and help pay for the cost of the improvement over time.

PACE was also designed to help achieve public policy objectives. The $1.56 billion financed through HERO to date are projected to save $2.7 billion on energy bills, conserve 9.8 billion kWh of electricity, reduce emissions by 2.69 million tons (the equivalent of taking 513,000 SUVs off the road for a year), and save 4.6 billion gallons of water (the equivalent of 147 million showers). HERO has already generated a local economic impact of more than $2.71 billion in California.

PACE enables local governments to add additional requirements to protect consumers not found in other payment options like credit cards or home equity loans. For example, the HERO Program requires contractors to be licensed with the state and in good standing with HERO, homeowners to obtain all required permits, products and labor to meet fair pricing standards, homeowners to use products certified as efficient by the U.S. Department of Energy or water-conserving by the Environmental Protection Agency, and that payment only be made when the homeowner signs off that the job has been successfully completed.

Quarry Lakes re-opens for swimming

SUBMITTED BY CAROLYN JONES

Grab your beach towel and sunscreen - Quarry Lakes has re-opened for swimming as of June 25! The East Bay Regional Park District (EBRPD) announced that the popular swim facility in Fremont is now open, after having been closed in early March due to toxic algae.

The Alameda County Environmental Health Department cleared the lake to re-open after tests showed little or no toxins for at least a month. The highest result during the past month was 1.3 parts per billion, well below the state's maximum safety threshold of 6 parts per billion. Park District tests have shown the lake has had little or no toxins for at least a month. Dogs are still not permitted to swim in the lake, but the lake continues to be safe for fishing.

Quarry Lakes is open for swimming from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Lifeguards are on duty. Fees are $3 for visitors ages 16 to 61, $2 ages 1 to 15 and seniors over age 62. Parking is $5. Quarry Lakes Regional Recreation Area is located at 2100 Isherwood Way, Fremont. For water quality updates and more information, please see http://www.ebparks.org/features/Toxic_Algae_Update

CSUEB professor searching for five million fungi

SUBMITTED BY KIMBERLY HAWKINS

Cal State University East Bay (CSUEB) assistant professor Brian Perry estimates there are five million different fungi (eukaryotic organisms, mushrooms, etc.) worldwide waiting to be identified and named. And, the race is on.

With many of the planet's best locations for biodiversity being destroyed, Perry and others are in a race against time to find and identify them all before it's too late.

"We're surveying the diversity of organisms and determining what's there," he said. "In all these places, we're saying, 'No one's ever been to this place and done a full documentation of the fungal biodiversity."

Perry has been focusing on sampling plants in Hawaii and hypothesizes that it's the fungi that are responsible for the many health and pharmaceutical benefits of plants, not simply the plants themselves.

His work identifying and cataloging fungal endophytes - microscopic fungi that live inside plants - carries several important implications. Scientists know little about the workings of these fungi, making them a particularly exciting frontier for examination. For example, learning about endophytes' relationships to their host plants could save many endangered species or help farmers build resistance to pathogens.

"With the endophyte project, we're talking about big evolutionary questions," Perry said. "When we look at endophytes that are living in native plants, we want to know: Did they coevolve with their host plants? Did they go through adaptive radiation (rapid evolutionary diversification of an organism)? Where did they come from?"

With his students, Perry has been cultivating fungi samples at CSUEB so they can be sent to and cryopreserved at the USDA for the next wave of scientific study.

The California State Senate Welcomes California Nonprofits Day Honorees

Wieckowski honors Tri-Cities Ecology Center

SUBMITTED BY JEFF BARBOSA

State Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont) honored the Tri-Cities Ecology Center (TCEC) as the Nonprofit of the Year for Senate District 10 at the California Nonprofits Day celebration in the State Capitol on June 22. Nonprofit leaders from across the state were recognized on the Senate and Assembly floors.

TCEC, an all-volunteer organization, has played a large role in southern Alameda County environmental issues since 1971 when it opened a local recycling center.

"For 45 years, TCEC has remained at the forefront of every major environmental issue occurring in southern Alameda County," said Wieckowski, the chair of the Senate Environmental Quality Committee.

"Whether it's expansion of the Don Edwards San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge, protecting local wetlands, supporting SB 1263 to ensure safe drinking water in California, or rescuing

53 poplar trees in Fremont Central Park, its volunteers have organized and advocated for environmental improvements and preservation. A major achievement was spearheading the drive for the successful 1981 Fremont Hill Initiative. Our hillside is preserved today as a result of the tremendous leadership of the TCFC."

TCEC is also active in improving San Francisco Bay water quality, encouraging water and energy conservation, recycling, composting and environmental education activities.

"It is an honor to be selected as Nonprofit of the Year by Sen. Bob Wieckowski," said Donna Olsen, TCEC founder and board member. "It is a tribute to our volunteers who have staffed the center for over 45 years. Thanks to them, TCEC has made our area an example of environmental activism, which will have a lasting effect for years to come."

Long-time TCEC member and former Fremont Mayor Gus Morrison represented the organization in the Capitol.

Senator Wieckowski represents the 10th Senate District, which includes southern Alameda County and northeast Santa Clara County.

Return of the River

SUBMITTED BY REV. JEFFREY SPENCER

"Return of the River" is a film about the largest dam removal project in the history of the United States, and the extraordinary effort to restore an eco-system and set a river free. But it doesn't stop there.

The film reveals a clash of values around a natural resource. To the Lower Elwha Klallam Tribe, the river is a source of life and abundant salmon, central to the tribe's culture and economy. New settlers to the Olympic Peninsula see the river as a source of electric power, essential for industry.

Early proponents of dam removal were told that the idea was crazy. The film follows the complex journey from crazy idea to community consensus to celebrated success story and the return of the river. In that respect, the film is also a case study of how change happens.

The public is invited to a free screening of "Return of the River" on Saturday, July 9 at Niles Discovery Church. A discussion led by James Starr, a habitat biologist who has worked on the Elwah River, will follow the screening.

"This is a film about possibility," said the Rev. Jeffrey Spencer, Senior Pastor at Niles Discovery Church, "for people and the planet."

In the words of Senator Bill Bradley onscreen, "Here, in the success of our collective action on the Elwha, is a template for success on climate change ... and hundreds of other issues. It will be the great gift of the Elwha: Hope."

The Second Saturday Documentary Series is co-sponsored by Niles Discovery Church and the San Jose Peace & Justice Center.

Fremont Police Log

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

Friday, June 17

Newark police called for assistance with a perimeter following an armed robbery in their city. Sgt. Decker and K-9 Madsen took a team of officers to assist. During the search in Newark, Sgt. Magana was flagged down near Thornton and I-880 freeway by Milpitas police who advised they were pursuing armed robbery suspects who committed a similar crime in their city. The suspect vehicle crashed while exiting I-880 at Thornton. One suspect was taken into custody and the driver fled on foot. California Highway Patrol (CHP) handled the perimeter and a helicopter responded. K-9 Madsen, Fremont PD officers, and Newark officers responded to Thornton and teamed up with Milpitas PD and CHP to search for the outstanding suspect, which met with negative results. The descriptions of the suspects from both cities matched and are possibly related.

Saturday, June 18

At approximately 11:30 a.m., dispatch broadcasted a "be on the lookout" from Newark PD regarding a suspect who had just left the scene of a hit-and-run, non-injury collision. The suspect vehicle was last seen travelling at 80 mph on Cherry toward Automall Parkway. Within about 5 minutes, multiple 911 calls began to come in regarding a vehicle, matching the description driving recklessly in the area of Automall. The calls continued as the vehicle traveled from Automall to the Irvington 5-Corners area, to Paseo Padre, Stevenson Boulevard and then Mission Boulevard. During this time speeds were reported from 60-80 mph and the driver was often reported as driving on the wrong side of the road. Based on the suspect's reckless driving and disregard for the public's safety multiple officers responded to the area. More calls continued to flood our dispatch center and at least three victims reported having their vehicles hit by the suspect. As the vehicle passed Stevenson Place, officers attempted to make a traffic stop. The suspect failed to yield and a short pursuit was initiated and then terminated. Officers were unable to keep up with the vehicle at times due to the high speed and unsafe driving conditions. The suspect was seen driving through McDonald's and then entered I-680 driving northbound in the southbound lanes. The suspect was eventually stopped by CHP in Pleasanton. The suspect surrendered and was taken into custody and arrested by CHP. Unbeknownst to the officers, the suspect, later identified as a 30-year-old adult male, had a 2-year-old child on his lap while he was driving. Sgt. O'Connell responded to the scene and determined that CHP was taking the investigation and they were charging the male for felony evasion, driving under the influence and felony child endangerment. We documented our hit and run collisions.

Sunday, June 19

At 2:45 p.m., a reporting party called and reported a baby inside a locked vehicle and the engine running in a parking lot on the 43800 block of Osgood Road. As officers are responding the vehicle left. Officers learned that the suspect drove the vehicle to Pacific Commons. When Ofc. Settle located the vehicle, he found that the engine was running with the air conditioning on, the door was unlocked and a child was asleep in a car seat. The father returned and was arrested for two counts of felony child endangerment and a family member responded to the scene to take custody of the child.

Tuesday, June 21

Officers investigated a commercial burglary at a business on the 4900 block of Paseo Padre Parkway. Upon arrival officers found the backside of an ATM breached and the cash box removed. Case was investigated by Community Service Officer (CSO) Anders.

Wednesday, June 22

Officers responded to a chain snatch robbery on the 5000 block of Horat Terrace. The victim told officers that she was ringing a doorbell when an unknown male came up from behind, reached over her shoulder and pulled her gold necklace up and over her head. The suspect immediately fled and was last seen running westbound on Horat Terrace. The suspect was described as a black male adult, approximately 30 years old, 5'8" with a skinny build, and was last seen wearing a green or gray hooded sweatshirt.

A witness called to report an office in the 39000 block of Civic Center was just burglarized by a male wearing a construction vest. This male was last seen running near Walnut/Civic Center and officers quickly responded to the area. Officers saw the male running and with the assistance of community members, found the suspect inside one of the buildings at Kaiser. The suspect refused to comply with orders. The 25-year-old adult male, Richmond resident, was arrested for robbery after it was found that he pushed a female witness to the ground trying to escape the victim business.

Union City Police Log

SUBMITTED BY LT. MATIAS PARDO, UNION CITY PD

Over the past month, there were five residential burglaries in the area of Alvarado Boulevard and Union City Boulevard. They all occurred late at night, while residents were home and asleep. The crooks would typically enter homes by finding an unlocked door or forcing a locked door open. They searched the homes for valuables and would also steal one or more cars as they left. Because of the burglaries, officers were doing extra checks in the neighborhoods. One evening, Ofc. Jimenez and Ofc. Garcia were on late night foot patrol when they spotted a stolen car from a prior burglary. The driver slowed the car just long enough to let his passengers get out and run, then the driver went a short distance before jumping out of the car and fleeing on foot. After a short chase, Ofc. J. Martin caught the driver; the passengers got away. Detectives were called out in the middle of the night to continue the investigation. They identified and arrested two other suspects, leading to a total of three arrests, and recovered some of the stolen property. The burglars live in Union City and range from 15 to 17 years old.

Monday, June 13

At around 12:00 p.m., Ofc. Willson was dispatched to a business in the 34500 block of Alvarado-Niles Road on the report of a robbery that had just occurred. Three suspects entered the store approximately three times. On the last entry, one of the suspects jumped the counter and stole lottery tickets and cash. They all fled on foot. The suspects were described as black males in their 20s.

Wednesday, June 15

At around 12:30 p.m., Ofc. Martin took the report of a grand theft case. The victim received a call by a suspect who said he was with the Department of Homeland Security and had a warrant for her arrest. The victim followed instructions and bought $3,000 worth of iTunes gift cards, then provided the gift card numbers to the suspect over the phone. She soon realized she was the victim of a scam.

At around 2:30 p.m., Ofc. Moreno responded to a report of a grand theft. The victim said he responded to a Craigslist ad to buy Warriors game tickets. He met with the suspect at a Union Landing business and paid When the victim arrived at the game, he was told that the tickets were fake.

Thursday, June 16

A residential burglary occurred on the 2100 block of Decoto Road. Two similar burglaries occurred between June 16, 2016 at 8:00 a.m. and June 17, 2016 at 8:00 a.m. In both cases, padlocks to storage units were cut. The loss in one incident was blankets, but there was no loss in the other incident.

Saturday, June 18

At around 2:30 p.m., Ofc. Bedford responded to the 34800 block of Mission Boulevard on the report of a grand theft. Sometime between Friday morning and Saturday morning, someone stole the saddlebags, main bike computer and fuel controller off a motorcycle.

A commercial burglary occurred on the 30900 block of Dyer Street around 3:30 a.m. A side glass door was smashed, but there was no loss.

Fatal traffic collision on Boyce Rd

GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

On June 22, at approximately 6:30 p.m., Fremont Police officers responded to a fatal injury collision involving two vehicles on the 42000 block of Boyce Rd. in south Fremont. The driver of vehicle #1 was transported to a regional trauma center where he died from his injuries. The driver of vehicle #2 remained on scene and was contacted by officers along with at least one independent witness. The driver of vehicle #2, who suffered minor visible injuries, and two juvenile passengers were taken to a local hospital for precautionary purposes.

The preliminary investigation suggests vehicle #1, solely occupied by a single male driver in his early 20's, was in the #2 lane of southbound Boyce Road traveling at a high rate of speed. The driver lost control of his vehicle and ended up in the #1 lane of northbound Boyce Road. Vehicle #1 was broadsided on the passenger side by vehicle #2, which was traveling in the northbound direction. We are still very early in this investigation.

There are no obvious signs that drugs or alcohol are a factor. If anyone was witness to this collision or has information that could assist Fremont officers, you are asked to please contact Traffic Investigator T. Sasser at TSasser@fremont.gov

The 33rd Annual National Night Out is set for Tuesday, August 2. This night is meant to heighten awareness around crime and drug prevention; generate support for and increase participation in local anticrime programs; strengthen neighborhood spirit and police-community partnerships; and send a message to criminals, letting them know that neighborhoods are organized and serious about combating crime. Last year's National Night Out campaign included citizens, law enforcement agencies, civic groups, businesses, neighborhood organizations, and local officials from more than 10,000 communities across all 50 states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities, and military bases worldwide. Join us this year by organizing, registering, and hosting a block party to raise awareness.

Fremont's Community Ambassador Program for Seniors Draws 100+ Volunteers

Volunteers learn about local resources and services to support Fremont's senior residents

The City of Fremont's national award-winning Community Ambassador Program for Seniors (CAPS) has attracted over 100 additional volunteers. Volunteers learn about topics including active listening skills, aging 101, transportation and mobility services, housing options, end-of-life issues, social security benefits, Medi-Cal, and several local senior programs and services.

Once trained, the CAPS Ambassadors conduct outreach to seniors in their own communities, language, and cultural norms, and do so where local seniors live, worship, and socialize. Ambassadors serve as a bridge between the formal network of social services and their respective communities, and to ensure older adults have access to vital services and programs. The City of Fremont Human Services Department has a long history of partnering with community organizations that serve the elderly. Yet there remain a significant number of seniors who are underserved due to lack of awareness of services, physical isolation, inability to speak English, and cultural barriers.

The City has partnered with more than 10 ethnic and faith organizations and now, with the new group of volunteers, is able to expand to neighborhood groups such as the Niles community, senior mobile home parks, and places such as senior centers, senior housing facilities, libraries, farmers markets, health fairs, rotary clubs and more. For more information on the CAPS Program, visit www.capseniors.org.

Events in Downtown Fremont – Summer Schedule

Fremont Street Eats has returned for its fourth season in Downtown Fremont, located on the new portion of Capitol Avenue between Fremont Boulevard and State Street. Experience eclectic flavors from a variety of gourmet offerings in a fun setting every Friday, May through October, from 4:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The 2nd Annual Fremont Burger and Brew Fest returned on May 21 on Liberty Street between Capitol and Walnut Avenue. As one of the Bay Area's newest and most delicious events, attendees enjoyed samples from Bay Area craft breweries, tasted an assortment of wines, and noshed on burgers and sliders from local food vendors and restaurants. Upcoming events include the Fremont 4th of July Parade, Fremont Festival of the Arts on August 6-7, and the Festival of India on August 13–14. Also, Downtown Date Night at Fremont Street Eats is back by popular demand, taking place on September 23.

Food Scraps Recycling Now Available at Fremont Apartment Complexes

Studies indicate that 44 percent of waste from Fremont's multi-family complexes can be composted. Recent state and county laws recognize this and require businesses and residents, including multi-family complexes, to arrange for compost collection. Until now, green bins for collecting yard trimmings and food scraps were only available to single-family homes. Recent pilot studies have shown that residents living in multi-family complexes will do their part to put organic materials in the green bins, helping to reduce landfilled waste.

Now, apartment and condominium complexes can add composting to their recycling routine. Beginning in 2016, apartments, townhomes and condominiums have the option to add green bin service. When composting service is added, each residential unit will receive a small kitchen pail to use inside the home to collect compostable materials. The pail is then emptied into the green bin when needed.

City staff can meet with homeowner associations, property owners and managers to set up food scrap collection. Fremont residents may contact the City's Environmental Services Division by calling (510) 494-4570 or emailing environment@fremont.gov to discuss options for their complex.

Feeling great? You ought to see a doctor.

At Washington Township Medical Foundation, we believe there's no better time to see your doctor than when you're feeling healthy. That's the best time for a routine checkup, and to take stock of your overall health picture to help prevent potential problems. Starting at the age of 20, you should have your cholesterol and blood sugars checked regularly to help ward off cardiovascular problems. Prostate checks for men are recommended once you're in your 40s, as are mammograms for women. And at 50, a colonoscopy is a highly effective procedure to catch conditions that could possibly lead to cancer. These are just a few of the tests your care team can help you schedule if needed. We will help you stay on top of and prevent cardiovascular disease, cancer, diabetes and other potentially significant health issues. If you need follow-up visits with a specialist, WTMF has a wide range of Board Certified physicians who work as a team with your primary care physician. If hospital treatment is required, we're affiliated with award-winning Washington Hospital, located right here in our community. So, if you want to stay healthy, a WTMF doctor is a choice you can feel really good about.
