PLETHOS PRESENTS AN IN-PERSON CHILDREN'S MUSICAL

SUBMITTED BY ROSE JOSUE

This July, Plethos Productions is bringing Mo Willems’ bestselling children’s book series to life in a whole new way - with the hit musical “Elephant & Piggie’s ‘We Are in a Play!’”

Enjoy this magical summer musical with the entire family at the beautiful hillside farm - Heirloom East Bay in Castro Valley. Heirloom’s picturesque meadow stage is nestled between trees, the perfect venue for an outdoor, socially distanced show.

Audiences will meet the “bestus” of friends, Gerald the elephant (played by Curtis Manning) and Piggie the pig (played by Julia Wright). This fun, jazzy show tune style musical is a story guaranteed to melt the hearts of all ages from preschool to post-graduate. Gerald is afraid that something could potentially end their friendship, but the fun-loving Piggie is unafraid and more excited than ever when they both are invited to a party hosted by the Squirrelles (played by local elementary students Allison Mikowski, Jayelle Richey and Noah Richey). And, so begins the unfolding of a day where anything is possible.

Performances are in person Friday - Sunday, July 9-11 & 16-18, and via digital streaming July 19 - August 1. Tickets are selling out fast at plethos.org.

Capturing nature in resin

By HELENE MARIE ROYLANCE

The Fremont Art Association (FAA) is excited to have our own FAA member Akshata Kulkarni as our guest demo artist at the virtual general meeting for Wednesday, July 7. Kulkarni will be demonstrating fluid art using resin as a medium. This art form has seen a recent surge in popularity, and Kulkarni will be discussing different types of resins, pigments and inks that can be used for blending with epoxy resin, and demonstrating how to use eco-friendly, food-safe resin for designs inspired by nature.

Kulkarni is a Bay Area mixed media artist. She began as a watercolor painter, and has expanded to acrylics, oil paintings, jewelry making, and for the last three years, creating functional art using resin. She enjoys using this medium to recreate elements of nature such as sunrises, sunsets, geodes and waves, creating stylish home décor items that reflect the feel of the natural world.

Part of her art goal is to focus on everyday life, finding ways to use her creativity to help organize and beautify spaces. For her demonstration, she will simulate the luminosity and texture of waves crashing upon a shore, using resin poured over wooden coasters. These unique creations become incredible conversation pieces, as

Puppy training tips from Humane Society of Silicon Valley

By DHOHA BARECHE

During the pandemic, pet adoptions increased as people craved companionship to help navigate difficult times. The rate at which animals have been rescued increased by fifteen percent over this past year, according to the Washington Post. However, as people prepare to return to work and more social activities, new puppy owners are faced with a problem—their puppies don’t have the house training necessary to be left home alone without causing mayhem. Fortunately, the Humane Society of Silicon Valley (HSSV) has stepped up. This independent, non-profit based in Milpitas has been serving pets and people

FITNESS OVER 40

The Hardest Part is Getting Started

It’s officially summer and you realize you’ve put on a few “pandemic pounds” during this past year. The nice weather has inspired you to start a serious exercise routine, but it’s been some years since you’ve consistently exercised and now you are 40 (or older) and not as in shape as you were 20 years ago. What’s the best way to start exercising again without causing injury or becoming discouraged after a few days?

Getting Started

If it’s been more than six months since you’ve exercised seriously, you should start slowly, according to Harpreet Singh, MD, a family medicine physician with Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF). “It is important to get your muscles loosened up and get your body adjusted to the increased activity.” He suggests starting first with brisk walking and stretching.

When you begin walking, choose a distance that’s comfortable for you and one you can consistently maintain for 15 minutes a day, five days a week, advises Dr. Singh. Keep it short so that you can complete it each day. He notes the first stage should last at least three weeks. “The goal you set should be easy to attain; it will make you feel better when you achieve your exercise goal each day. The human body was meant to move, and the key to physical and mental health is to get back the enjoyment of purposeful activity.”

After the first three weeks, add distance/time and increase your pace—but in reasonable increments that continue to be achievable so you stay motivated to exercise daily. At each three-week increment, set new goals to challenge yourself. Dr. Singh warns against the “weekend warrior syndrome” where you try to do too much in one weekend of activity.

“You’ll be surprised at how much better and stronger you feel as you increase the program,” he notes. “The benefits of consistent exercise are well documented. The most important thing is to get started at a pace and level that is sustainable so you can see improvement in your fitness.”

Importance of Stretching

Dr. Singh advises that stretching every day—even on the days you are not exercising—is important to build flexibility and avoid injury. “The benefits of stretching are often overlooked, yet stretching is very important to keeping one’s body in shape for continued regular exercise. It is very important, however, to remember to warm up before stretching. A brisk walk prior to beginning your stretching routine is a good idea.”

Keys to Success

Dr. Singh’s keys to a successful exercise program include: start slowly, build flexibility, hydrate, increase intensity slowly and stretch daily. Also, “Make sure your shoes have good arch support, wear comfortable exercise clothing, and hydrate, hydrate, hydrate before and during your exercise program. Drinking plenty of water is an important part of your fitness program.”

Keep Things Interesting

If you find yourself becoming bored, change the scenery. Ride a stationary bike, or walk a different route—or even the same route in the opposite direction. Dr. Singh also notes that Pilates and tai chi are good core strength training and balance enhancement alternatives with minimal risk of injury.

He recommends “planks” for those who wish to build up core body strength. To create a plank, start by kneeling on the floor, then support your body up on your forearms and toes with your body held straight. Hold for 10 seconds and repeat three times. Do this daily and each week try to increase the duration of the plank position by 10 seconds.

Finally, he warns that if you have a known condition such as high blood pressure or diabetes that is not well controlled, see your doctor first to discuss your exercise plan. And you should stop exercise immediately if you feel chest discomfort, dizziness or persistent nausea. If any of these symptoms occur, contact your doctor immediately.

Though in-person fitness classes have been put on hold due to COVID-19 precautions, the Washington Hospital Wellness Center may soon be reopening. In the coming weeks, visit www.whhs.com/wellness for details.

Outdoor Festivities are Back

Tips for Having a Healthy Celebration with Friends

COVID-19 restrictions have eased, meaning that Californians can look forward to once again holding outdoor celebrations, including the Fourth of July. On June 15, 2021, California Governor Gavin Newsom lifted most public health restrictions on physical distancing. On the same day, the California Department of Public Health issued new guidelines that allow for fully vaccinated individuals to go without masks in most private and public spaces (some exceptions are public transportation; schools; childcare and health care settings). What does this mean for your Independence Day planning? It is time to celebrate!

For many of us, gatherings in very large groups with strangers still doesn't feel prudent. The good news is that while we are readjusting to how to stay safe from the pandemic in crowds, we have the opportunity to enjoy more intimate gatherings with family and friends. With the hot summer days ahead, we can look forward to barbecues, picnics and potlucks surrounded by the people we love.

With the worst days of the pandemic behind us, it is time to return our attention to more commonplace health and safety precautions for enjoying summer in the sun.

Protect your skin from UV rays

Ultraviolet (UV) rays from the sun can give you a sunburn even when skies are cloudy. UV rays can damage skin, leading to premature aging, wrinkles, and a higher risk of skin cancer. Simple measures can make a big difference. The American Academy of Dermatology recommends liberally applying broad-spectrum sunscreen with an SPF of at least 30, and reapplying it every two hours or after swimming or rigorous activity. It is always a good idea to wear a hat and UV-blocking sunglasses to avoid direct sunlight on your face and in your eyes. Staying in the shade as much as possible is another strategy for reducing your UV exposure.

Drink lots of water

Health professionals recommend that adults drink eight glasses of water a day. In the heat, you need more because your body loses fluid when you perspire. If you don't replace the fluid you lose, you can become dehydrated. Dehydration puts a strain on your heart, speeding up your heart rate and increasing your blood pressure. If you are planning a picnic in the sun, be sure to have plenty of drinking water on hand.

Keep perishable food cold

Kimberlee Alvari, of the Food and Nutrition Services management team at Washington Hospital, offers one simple rule for picnicking, "Keep cold foods cold and hot foods hot." Bacteria is the most common cause of food poisoning. Foodborne bacteria thrive in warm temperatures that are typical in California at this time of year. In temperatures between 40 and 89 degrees, food should not be left out for more than two hours or it can become unsafe to eat. "If the temperature is 90 degrees or more, food is unsafe when left out for even just one hour. When that happens, you should toss out any perishable foods," Alvari cautions.

Stay prepared

Even though the risk of COVID-19 has dropped significantly for people who are fully vaccinated, there are still reasons to take some basic precautions. Regular hand-washing and using hand sanitizer can help prevent the spread of infections and viruses other than COVID-19. Although wearing a mask is no longer mandated in most places for people who are fully vaccinated, keeping a spare mask with you when you are out in public is still a good idea. Should you find yourself in a crowded setting, or face to face with someone exhibiting signs of any illness, you will be prepared.

As the state and country recover from the pandemic, people can finally engage in a range of social activities. By taking just a few safety precautions, it is possible to stay safe and healthy throughout the summer. That is something really worth celebrating.

For unvaccinated individuals, COVID-19 remains potentially life-threatening. Washington Hospital Healthcare System and Washington Township Medical Foundation are offering free COVID-19 vaccinations to individuals 12 years of age and older. Appointments can be easily booked by calling 510.248.8200 or go online at <https://mychart.whhs.com/mychart/covid19#/>.

FUN SUMMER RECIPE FROM THE FOOD AND NUTRITION DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON HOSPITAL

NUTELLA S'MORES BARS

Equipment

- 9x9 baking pan

Ingredients

- 9 full-sized graham crackers (one sleeve)
- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup unsalted butter (two sticks), room temperature
- 2/3 cup brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup Nutella
- 4 ounces marshmallow fluff (about 1/2 of a jar)

Instructions

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Lightly spray a 9x9 baking pan with cooking oil, or line with parchment paper.

Grind the graham crackers in a food processor until finely ground. Process until the mixture is finely pulverized with no lumps. If you are not using a food processor, place crackers in a large Ziploc bag and use a rolling pin to crush.

Mix the cracker meal with the flour and salt, set aside.

Cream the butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add the vanilla extract and blend well.

Add the flour/graham mixture and fold in until well combined.

Press 2/3 of the dough into your baking pan. Using your fingers, spread the dough evenly across the pan so it covers the entire bottom.

Spread the Nutella over the dough.

Using a small spoon, dollop the marshmallow fluff evenly across the Nutella. You don't need to spread it out, but try to get small dollops evenly distributed across the entire surface.

Crumble the remaining 1/3 of the dough over the top. Use your fingertips to break it apart into small pieces and scatter it evenly across the surface. Some of the marshmallow will peek through.

Bake for about 35 minutes until lightly golden.

Let cool before cutting into bars.

Summer Breeze half marathon, 10k and 5k

SUBMITTED BY BRAZEN RACING

We skipped a year, but we're happy to be back in the swing of things and able to finally hold the 11th Annual Summer Breeze event at San Leandro Marina on July 31!

What makes this such a popular race? Is it the refreshing cool breezes in the Summer? The flat course? The race shirt? The finisher medal? The custom age group medals? It's probably the incredible Brazen running community...and the "It's It" ice cream sandwiches at the finish!

Everybody will enjoy a flat, easy bayside trail that rarely strays more than a few feet from water. Perfect for setting a personal record or a nice cruise along the bay. Hikers/walkers are always welcome!

All three courses are out and back along the shoreline. Races begin in San Leandro Marina Park and proceed south along the shoreline, into the Hayward Regional Shoreline, turn around and come back to the Marina Park. Courses begin and finish on 80-100 yards of grassy field. The 5K is otherwise entirely paved. The 10K has about 1/2 mile of packed dirt trails. The half marathon is approximately 50% paved and 50% packed dirt.

Water stations will be stocked with water, sports drink, gels, pretzels, candy, etc. and will be placed at the following approximate mileage:

- 5K: Mile 1.25
- 10K: Miles 1.5, 3, 3.25 and 4.7
- Half Marathon: Miles 1.5, 3, 6.55, 10.1 and 11.6

FAA says US airports will get $8 billion in pandemic relief

AP WIRE SERVICE

Airports around the country will share $8 billion in federal grants to help them recover from the pandemic, which caused a steep drop in air travel and a loss of revenue that airports expect from airlines and passengers.

Most of the money will go to big airports with commercial airline service. They will share $6.5 billion based on the number of passengers boardings, plus another $800 million to offer rent relief to companies that operate concessions such as food and retail outlets in terminals.

Airports must keep at least 90% of the workers they had before the pandemic to receive one of the grants, which will be handled by the Federal Aviation Administration.

Congress approved the money as part of a pandemic-relief measure that President Joe Biden signed in March. The Biden administration said the grants would protect airport jobs and construction projects as travel recovers.

The FAA said several hundred airports will get grant money, including $175.7 million for Seattle-Tacoma International, $115 million for Philadelphia International, $74.3 million for Daniel K. Inouye International in Honolulu, $56.2 million for St. Louis Lambert International, and $50.6 million for Raleigh-Durham International in North Carolina.

There are nearly 500 commercial airports in the U.S., according to an industry group, Airports Council International-North America, and the group projects that they will lose more than $40 billion from the pandemic by next March.

Drought proof your garden

SUBMITTED BY CLEAN WATER PROGRAM

Longer periods of drought conditions and lack of water can impact plant health, limit a plant's ability to produce food, and make it more prone to attracting pests. Excessive heat can also accelerate the reproduction time of pests. But simple garden management strategies can keep your garden gorgeous and healthy during dry times.

On Thursday, July 8, join Suzanne Bontempo and Charlotte Canner from Our Water Our World to learn about water-wise gardening techniques that will protect plants during extensive drought. The free webinar will feature topics such as:

- Managing your garden during drought conditions
- Managing water efficiently and effectively
- Improving soil to hold more water
- Utilizing alternative water resources
- Reducing summer pests

Veteran teacher honored in Hayward

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT

Thalia McNeil-Smith, a longtime educator with the Hayward Unified School District (HUSD) has been named 2021 Teacher of the Year. In a statement issued June 16, HUSD officials noted that McNeil-Smith has spent the majority of her career with the district, starting at Mt. Eden High School, then moving to Brenkowitz High School where she has taught since 1991.

"This year, Ms. McNeil-Smith's work in nurturing the whole child as a means of developing students' academic and social-emotional growth stood out," said HUSD Superintendent Matt Wayne. "Ms. McNeil-Smith is an exceptional teacher and one we feel so proud to name as Teacher of the Year for our district."

School district officials said McNeil-Smith comes from a family of teachers and educators, including her mother who is an administrator at the California School for the Blind. Over the years, McNeil-Smith has led student trips to Washington DC, Philadelphia, and Los Angeles with the goal of exposing students to places outside their normal experience in order to broaden their understanding of life's possibilities.

In their statement, school district officials noted that McNeil-Smith's "holistic approach to teaching has nurtured students to find their authentic voice and has inspired a generation of students to find their purpose in life and in their community."

Ask the DMV

What you need to know about new REAL ID rules

Do you have questions about REAL ID? The DMV has answers! Changes to the deadline, limited-time fee waivers, and a simplified application process have all been recently announced. Read below for details on how to get your REAL ID.

Q1: I paid the fee to renew my driver's license online last year, but offices were closed due to COVID-19, so I couldn't get a REAL ID. Will I have to pay a fee again to upgrade to the REAL ID this year?

A: No! For a limited time, customers who have recently renewed a driver's license or identification card that is not federally compliant will be able to upgrade to a REAL ID for free! If you paid a fee to renew a driver's license or ID card since March 2020, you will qualify but you must act now – the free REAL ID upgrade is only available until the end of the year.

The DMV is offering this free upgrade as a part of their continual efforts to accommodate customers who faced barriers due to COVID-19. It's important that everyone who is eligible and wants one can get a REAL ID. In May 2023, anyone flying domestically, visiting a military base or other federal facility will need a form of federal ID, like a REAL ID, to do so.

The process to get a REAL ID is also easier than ever. It is now possible to begin the REAL ID application and upload your documents online before visiting a DMV office to complete the process – making your visit at the window 10 minutes or less.

For more information, visit dmv.ca.gov/realidupgrade.

Q2: Which documents will I need to get a REAL ID?

A: The DMV has made it easier than ever to get a REAL ID. Recently the DMV also announced that you no longer need to supply your social security card – just your social security number. To apply, you will need to provide ONE identity document that includes your date of birth and your full name – like an original or certified birth certificate, or a valid US passport. You'll also need to provide TWO documents that show your name and address to prove you're a California resident. You can use cell phone and utilities bills, your mortgage, bank statements, or even your vehicle registration.

You can start your application online today and find a complete step-by-step checklist of all approved documents at REALID.dmv.ca.gov.

For more information or answers to questions not listed here, please visit www.dmv.ca.gov.

Know fireworks rules before lighting up

By Ashley Tosh

In California, the use of only “safe and sane” fireworks is permitted. These include: fountains, sparklers, smokeballs, snake-type fireworks, ground-spinning fireworks, pinwheels, most novelty fireworks, toytrick noisemakers, and some crackling items.

As a general rule of thumb, if it doesn't leave the ground it is considered “safe and sane.”

Fireworks that go up into the air or are otherwise deemed “dangerous” are illegal in California. These include: sky rockets, bottle rockets, roman candles, aerial shells, firecrackers, and any other fireworks that explode, go into the air, or move on the ground in an uncontrollable manner.

Although these are the rules for California overall, each city is allowed to enforce their own fireworks laws in addition to the state-wide ones.

As Independence Day quickly approaches, here are some reminders about firework laws and safety regulations in different cities throughout the East Bay.

Union City:

Go to: <https://www.unioncity.org> for more information.

- In Union City, only “safe and sane” fireworks are permitted. Any fireworks that go up into the air are illegal.
- Fireworks must be set off on private property. That means no fireworks can be used in public parks, schools, or on streets/sidewalks.
- City ordinance requires written approval from a property owner(s) if you intend to use “Safe and Sane” fireworks on a property other than your own.
- No fireworks are allowed east of Mission Boulevard.
- “Safe and sane” fireworks can be used from 8:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. on July 1-3. On July 4, they are allowed to be used until 11:00 p.m.
- All parks in Union City will close at 7:30 p.m.

Fremont:

Go to: <https://www.fremont.gov> for more information.

- The sale, possession, and use of ALL fireworks, even the “safe and sane” ones permitted in other cities, are illegal in Fremont.
- If you see any illegal firework activity, the city of Fremont encourages you to report this activity through the Fremont App.

Hayward:

Go to: <https://www.hayward-ca.gov> for more information.

- The sale, possession, and use of ALL fireworks, even the “safe and sane” ones permitted in other cities, are illegal in Hayward.
- The City of Hayward recommends attending professional fireworks displays to celebrate the holiday, instead of lighting fireworks yourself.

Newark:

Go to The Newark PD's Instagram page, @newarkca_pd, for more information.

- In Newark, only “safe and sane” fireworks are permitted, from midnight June 30th through midnight July 4th.
- The selling of, transporting of, and use of any fireworks without the “safe and sane” seal is illegal.
- Fireworks deemed “dangerous” are illegal.
- To help the City of Newark enforce their zero tolerance policy for “dangerous” fireworks, if you see someone who is in possession of, selling, or using illegal fireworks you can call the Fireworks Hotline at (866) 520-7233 (SAFE).

San Leandro:

Go to <https://www.sanleandro.org> for more information.

- The sale, possession, and use of ALL fireworks, even the “safe and sane” ones permitted in other cities, are illegal in San Leandro.
- If you see anyone using illegal fireworks, the San Leandro Police Department asks that you call them to report it at (510) 577-2740.

Milpitas:

Go to <https://gomilpitas.com> for more information.

- The sale, possession, and use of ALL fireworks, even the “safe and sane” ones permitted in other cities, are illegal in Milpitas.
- Community members are encouraged to attend professional fireworks displays instead of lighting their own fireworks.

The Tri-City Voice Staff wishes all our readers a wonderful and safe holiday weekend!

BART to provide special service for 4th of July fireworks in S.F.

SUBMITTED BY BART

The annual Independence Day fireworks program in San Francisco is set for about 9:30 p.m. Sunday, July 4 at the Embarcadero Waterfront, and BART wants to help spectators get there safely and efficiently. Here is what riders need to know:

On July 4, regular BART service will close at 9:00 p.m. with the last trains dispatching from the end of the line. Passengers will not be able to enter the system other than at the Embarcadero Station after regular BART service ends. However, after the fireworks program ends, BART will be providing additional trains serving Embarcadero station to accommodate crowds heading home.

About 30 minutes after the conclusion of the fireworks, BART will run two sets of special event trains from the Embarcadero Station to Richmond, Antioch, Berryessa, and SFO/Millbrae, making all station stops. Dublin/Pleasanton riders should take the Berryessa train and transfer at Bay Fair and take the shuttle train to Dublin/Pleasanton, which will stop at all stations along the line. BART riders should be in the Embarcadero Station by 10:40 p.m.

Tips

- Riders must be inside the Embarcadero station within 30 minutes after the fireworks end. Keep this in mind with how far down the Embarcadero you go to watch the fireworks.
- Only Embarcadero will be open for entering passengers after regular BART service closes.
- Riders should load their Clipper card in advance with enough funds for the round trip to avoid lines after the fireworks.
- Anyone who doesn't already have a Clipper card can avoid lines by downloading the new Clipper app, getting a free digital Clipper card added to their digital wallet, and loading funds for immediate use.
- Parking is free at BART on Sundays at all stations except for Milpitas and Berryessa/North San Jose. Valley Transportation Authority operates those lots and their parking rates still apply.

Monday July 5

The next day, Monday, July 5, BART trains will operate on a normal weekday schedule. Parking will be free at all stations except for Milpitas and Berryessa/North San Jose. For details, visit the BART website at www.bart.gov.

Will senior housing evolve into intergenerational housing?

SUBMITTED BY JOHN GRIMALDI

Seniors are not what they used to be, says Rebecca Weber, CEO, Association of Mature American Citizens (AMAC). “You don't lose your lust for life as you get older these days. Once upon a time, perhaps, aging was considered a chronic condition. It was taken for granted that the older you are the sicker you are. Not true. It's the 21st Century and men and women are living happier, healthier and longer lives.”

Weber says that one of the positive outcomes of the pandemic was the realization that seniors are an active and important segment of society. It perhaps also showed that the older you are, the more resilient you can be.

Dr. Heidi Igarashi, PhD, author of a recent study conducted by Oregon State University, conducted among 235 individuals between the ages of 51 and 95, shows that “if resilience is understood as the ability to see positives in the midst of a negative situation, then many of the study's participants demonstrated resilience” during the pandemic.

“A lot of times we think about resilience as a personality trait, and it's true that there are some qualities that may help people experience that. But in the end, resilience is something that is shared. One of the things that came out in our study was the degree to which the people connection was really significant.”

The study supports the notion that neighborly interaction among residents of different ages can have positive benefits for occupants young and old. It is called intergenerational living in the housing industry, communities that incorporate “multiple age groups as a component of larger developments.”

Reporter Chuck Sudo covered the issue for Senior Housing News and found that there has been a “growing trend” that offers older adults that kind of mix.

Sudo writes, “The dominant trends in residential development today are more multigenerational: mixed-use communities where senior housing or services is a component, but separate from, the larger development; and these projects tend to involve dedicated amenities for different age groups.”

Irv Katz of the advocacy group Generations United explains that intergenerational housing is focused “on intergenerational programming that values actual contact between old and young. This reduces age segregation; increases social connections, and recreational and volunteer efforts; improves community infrastructure; leads to better individual health and wellbeing; and decreases social isolation and loneliness.”

In addition, the concept may reduce the cost of housing for seniors and younger generations as well.

The senior living provider, Generations, is among the pioneers in the intergenerational housing sector. The company's executive chairman Chip Gabriel says, “I think our residents want to be a part of the community. They want to be around younger people, not just old people. Looking at my mom who's 81 years old, what she wants for living is quite different from her parents. And we need to develop our business models to do that.”

Decoding the supermoon lunar eclipse with Dr. Amy Furniss

KAILASH KALIDOSS,
AEROSPACE ENTHUSIAST
BLOOD MOON IMAGES
TAKEN FROM PIXABAY
AND WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

Last week, I had the pleasure of speaking to Dr. Amy Furniss, a subject matter expert in all things Astrophysics. Dr. Furniss is an Assistant Professor at California State University East Bay. She received her Physics Ph.D. in 2013 from the University of California in Santa Cruz, and for the past seven years, she has been researching high energy gamma-ray emissions from galaxies, many of which are connected with black holes. Dr. Furniss has been a frequent expert on mainstream news channels on events such as solar and lunar eclipses.

Our topic of interest was aligned to the total lunar eclipse that took place recently. Lunar eclipses occur when the Moon is on the opposite side of the Earth as the Sun. When the Moon enters the Earth’s shadow, it results in an eclipse. On the nights of May 25 – 27, 2021, observers in Oceania, Hawaii, eastern Asia, and Antarctica witnessed a lunar eclipse that also coincided with the Moon’s closest approach to Earth.

I dove straight in and asked Dr. Furniss about the “supermoon” eclipse that will turn the Moon reddish — also known as a “Blood Moon.” Dr. Furniss says that the best place to start is to understand the Sun-Earth-Moon system. The Moon rotates around the Earth, and the Earth goes around the Sun. Most of these happen around the same two-dimensional plane; however, the Moon’s rotational orbit is tilted by about five degrees from the plane of the Earth’s orbit, so usually the Moon does not cross the shadow of the Earth. However, when they are exactly on the same plane, the Earth, Moon, and Sun line up, resulting in an eclipse. When the Moon is between us and the Sun, we call this a solar eclipse. A lunar eclipse happens when Earth is in the middle.

According to Dr. Furniss, lunar eclipses often happen during the time of a full moon. During a Lunar eclipse, the Earth’s shadow (also known as the “Umbra”) falls on the Moon, making it go darker than usual. It is also important to know that the Moon is not a source of light. It only reflects light from other sources, in this case some of the sunlight reflected out of the Earth’s atmosphere.

Our atmosphere absorbs most of the blue light, reflecting only the red wavelength of light on the Moon. Hence the Moon appears red, coining the term “Blood Moon.”

The Moon goes around the Earth in an elliptical orbit, and this time the Moon was around 220,000 miles away, its nearest point to the earth. This is why the Moon appeared larger than usual. Since the lunar eclipse happened at the same time, we had the colloquial “Super Blood Moon.”

Dr. Furniss says total lunar eclipses happen as frequently as every year, and the next one can be expected in May 2022 but may be limited to South America and the southeast coast of the United States. There will also be two partial lunar eclipses before that.

I also asked Dr. Furniss about the tidal activity on Earth’s oceans during the total lunar eclipse. Dr. Furniss says low tides and high tides are generally more extreme during a full moon. This will be even more pronounced at the time of the “Super Blood Moon.”

I was impressed with Dr. Amy Furniss’s ability to break down a phenomenon to a level that most people can understand. In addition to a researcher, she is also a teacher of college-level physics. Hopefully readers have also enjoyed learning a little of the science behind this rare phenomenon.

Kailash Kalidoss is an aerospace enthusiast and educator serving the Bay Area. Kailash first fell in love with aerospace as a teenager when he learned about aviation from his father’s role as a Ground Operations Manager. Kailash has since spent his efforts sharing knowledge about aerospace, astronautics, aviation, science and technology, and of course, the night sky. Kailash also represents the Civil Air Patrol and NASA as a volunteer.

Fremont Youth Symphony Orchestra presents IN PERSON Summer Ensemble Program

SUBMITTED BY JUDY LAM

After more than a year of rehearsing via Zoom, young musicians of the Fremont Youth Symphony Orchestra (FYSO) are excited to finally be able to “play” together starting this Summer! FYSO welcomes young musicians from late beginning to advanced to register for the one-week Summer Ensemble Program (S.E.P.)

Thanks to a grant from Fremont Rotary and a donation from Mrs. Pearl Gunsell, young musicians will be inspired by coaching from musicians from the Fremont Symphony Orchestra, in addition to dedicated direction under FYSO directors Judy Lam and Grace Lai, and conductor Marcella Schantz.

Audition is not required to participate in S.E.P. The program aims at providing students with an uninterrupted training during the Summer so they may keep up with continuous progress and be ready for the Fall Season. Participants will be given priority to audition for the 2021-2022 Season. The featured highlight in the new Season is a performance in March 2022 where FYSO musicians will receive invaluable experience performing alongside professional musicians and Maestro Jung-Ho Pak of the Fremont Symphony.

The Summer Ensemble Program from Monday, July 12 – Friday July 16 will be held in person at the First United Methodist Church in Fremont.

Please register online at <https://fremontyouthsymphony.org/summer-program>. For more information, contact Judy Lam by phone (510) 386-8355, or email youth@fremontsymphony.org.

SNOOPY

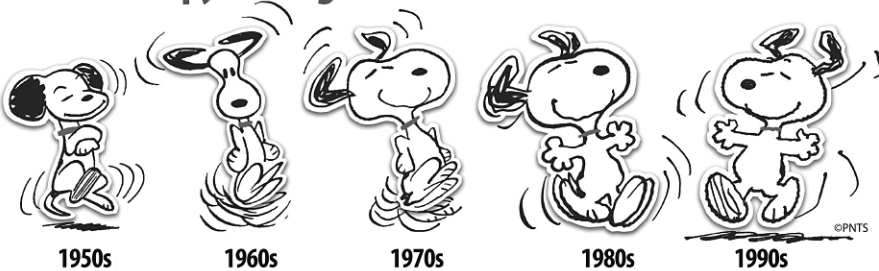

THE MOST FAMOUS BEAGLE EVER!

Snoopy was created as a cartoon character by Charles M. Schulz in 1950. Snoopy is based on a real dog Schulz had when he was a teenager, named Spike. Spike had a white body with black ears (like Snoopy!) and was a very smart dog — also like Snoopy!

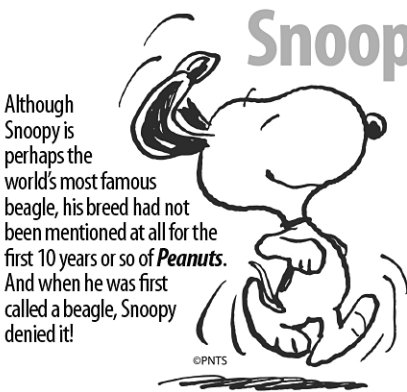

Spike's name was also used for one of Snoopy's brothers. In the Peanuts comic strip, Snoopy's brother Spike lives in the desert and sometimes talks to the cactus!

Snoopy Through the Years

Snoopy started out as a small puppy in Peanuts and acted a lot like a real dog. But as the Peanuts comic strip developed, Snoopy grew up, stood on two feet, climbed on top of his doghouse, and had wild, imaginative adventures! Compare the versions of Snoopy. Circle three things about Snoopy that stayed the same through the years.

Although Snoopy is perhaps the world's most famous beagle, his breed had not been mentioned at all for the first 10 years or so of Peanuts. And when he was first called a beagle, Snoopy denied it!

Snoopy and Woodstock

How did Snoopy "meet" his little bird buddy, Woodstock? Woodstock was born in a nest built on Snoopy's stomach one day while he was napping on top of his doghouse. A mama bird laid two eggs in the nest, and two chicks hatched. One of the chicks flew away.

But the other couldn't quite fly right and never seemed to want to go far. That little bird was Woodstock. And Snoopy and Woodstock soon became best friends.

Snoopy in Space?

In 1969, Snoopy soared into the Peanuts comic strip and declared himself the "first Beagle on the Moon."

At the same time in real life, _____ were trying to land on the moon. The lunar module that was part of the Apollo 10 mission that _____ astronauts to the moon in May 1969, was nicknamed Snoopy.

Photo: NASA

Today, Snoopy's image is used on a special pin given to astronauts and NASA scientists called The Silver Snoopy Award. The Silver Snoopy Award is awarded for _____.

The astronauts _____ the lunar module in outer space when they returned to Earth. So Snoopy (the lunar module) has been orbiting in space for over 50 years!

What does Snoopy teach children?

Snoopy teaches us that having an active imagination is not only fun, but important. Snoopy is very creative. He loves to write stories. He also paints, performs puppet shows (which he calls "Pawpet Shows," often retellings of his favorite movies), and he dances a lot.

And Snoopy spreads love and friendship throughout the Peanuts comic strip, especially when he kisses Lucy, even if she doesn't like "dog lips."

Snoopy makes mistakes, too. He often forgets the name of his owner, Charlie Brown. Circle every other letter to find out what Snoopy calls him instead.

Puppy training tips from Humane Society of Silicon Valley for over 90 years and is committed to helping puppies and puppy owners alike adjust to these changes.

HSSV is the world's first model shelter, meeting the guidelines put forth by the Association of Shelter Veterinarians. Established in 1929, HSSV offers quality adoptions, affordable spaying/neutering, vaccinations, microchipping and more. Since its inception, it has assisted the adoption of 500,000 animals into loving homes, continuing to promote animal welfare and decrease animal homelessness.

Despite challenges caused by the pandemic, HSSV has continued to bring in more animals and assist other animal shelters to do the same.

Kurt Krukenberg, president of HSSV, says, "Although we needed to redesign some of our public facing services from normal, in-person adoptions to virtual ones over Zoom, we've never stopped bringing in animals." He adds, "We've worked closely with our community partners in Santa Clara county, like the San Jose Animal Control Center, to address the root cause of animal homelessness and provide solutions. We found that 60% of animals are coming from five zip codes in San Jose, which led to efforts to provide free services there that decreased the intake of animals in Santa Clara county."

While intake for animals has decreased, demand for adoption has increased. These new pet owners recognize how strong a support system a pet, such as a dog, can be especially during the pandemic. As we ease out of isolation, new puppy owners are attempting to foster independence in their pets. Fortunately, HSSV has provided tips that are relevant to dog owners everywhere on how to train a new puppy for post-pandemic life.

Krukenberg begins by advising new puppy owners to be patient and realistic. He says, "Don't underestimate how resilient and adaptable your animals could be if you work with them." He emphasizes, "Training is a constant thing. If there are things you want them to learn, you have to be consistent." In addition to being consistent and reasonable, Krukenberg suggests making small, gradual changes rather than big, sudden ones. For example, if an owner wants their puppy to get accustomed to being alone, they should start with shorter periods of time. "Start by going out to your garage, for example, for ten minutes and work your way up. What you have to teach them is that when you leave, you always come back," says Krukenberg. It also helps to reward them with a treat for positive reinforcement.

Other tips for puppies include: putting them on a schedule for mealtimes, playtime, and training times for the first few months. In addition, one should watch pets' food and water intake to accurately predict when they need to go outside. For crate training a puppy, one should start while they're young and provide a spacious crate that has enough room for them to lie down and turn around, but not so much that there is extra space for them to "eliminate." Since puppies can only be crated for a short amount of time, one should have other options to let them out frequently. Also, it's vital to reward them with a treat to make crate training a positive experience.

Furthermore, it's important that dogs exercise frequently to release their energy. "The more you can keep them mentally and physically stimulated, the more calm they'll be and easy to react to those changes you're trying to make," states Krukenberg. Lastly, one should be creative and identify challenges their pet is facing and come up with different ways they can be addressed.

HSSV continues to provide helpful and affordable programs and services to assist new dog owners. From training classes to puppy socials and the pet pantry program that provides free pet food and supplies to those in need, there are ample resources available for pets and owners everywhere. "Never being satisfied solving one problem, and looking for the next place where we could have an impact is a really exciting thing about our DNA," says Krukenberg.

Tri-City girls shine in international programming Olympiad

SUBMITTED BY GEETA ARORA

Two Bay Area girls, Rayna Arora and Vivian Han, won Silver and Bronze medals respectively in the European Girls' Olympiad in Informatics (EGOI), an international programming competition hosted in Zurich, Switzerland during the week of June 13-19. They were part of the team of four girls invited by the USA Computing Olympiad (USACO) organizers to represent the United States.

This is the inaugural year for EGOI, whose goal is to provide a platform for young women to enjoy and deepen their interest in Computer Science in order to decrease the wide gender gap in the field. Participating countries each have their own version of the computing Olympiad, and hold periodic contests with varying levels of difficulty to select contestants for their teams. Specifically, the USA Computing Olympiad (USACO) holds four contests yearly in which the contestants all initially start at the Bronze level and solve challenging algorithmic problems to advance through Silver, Gold and Platinum levels.

Participating in Computing Olympiads takes years of dedication, not unlike training. Both Arora (James Logan High School) and Han (Mission San Jose High School) started competing in USACO in 8th grade and reached the Platinum level in their sophomore year. Over these years, they each put in thousands of hours of training, often poring over undergraduate and graduate level algorithmic problems for hours before solving them. In their junior year, they were invited to take a selection contest alongside eight other girls, and were chosen as part of a team of four to represent the country. The team then went through a rigorous 8-day training at the USACO training camp, and finally had the chance to represent their country at the EGOI, which, due to Covid, was held virtually this year under strict proctoring conditions.

A total of 43 countries worldwide participated in the EGOI this year, which included 157 participants. The contestants participated in two contests, each involving four challenging problems to be solved by designing and implementing efficient algorithms in five hours. All four girls in the US delegation won medals. Claire Zhang (gold medal) ranked 13th overall, Rayna Arora (silver medal) ranked 16th, Tarushii Goel (silver medal) ranked 24th, and Vivian Han (bronze medal) ranked 42nd.

Talking with the girls, they hope to be role models and inspire the next generation of female students interested in competitive programming and Computer Science.

Planning to remodel during the pandemic?

BY ANNA JACOBY

Last March, at the beginning of the COVID-19 shut-downs, my industry, home remodeling, was affected in a significant way. For a time, we were unsure as to whether we would be allowed to work at all, and even if we were, would people want to continue with their remodeling projects?

Certainly, we thought, with the threat of a highly contagious and potentially deadly virus, clients would not want us in their homes at all. Fast forward several weeks, and precisely the opposite happened. While a small handful of our projects did indeed get postponed, most of our clients wanted to move forward with construction. And, unexpectedly, many new clients contacted us for all sorts of remodeling. So, we adopted COVID-19 safety protocols and marched full steam ahead.

As you have undoubtedly heard in the news, the stay-at-home orders inspired people to notice all the things about their homes they wanted to change. This phenomenon gave way to requests for new home offices, room additions, ADUs, upgraded kitchens and baths, new floors, new paints, and more. With the increased demand for home improvement products and services, there have also been new challenges and hurdles. So, if you want to remodel during this time, even more patience than usual will be required.

Before the pandemic, a typical kitchen or bath project might have taken six to eight weeks. Now, plan on 10-12 weeks of actual construction time, possibly even longer than that. Here are some reasons for the extra delays:

Shortage of construction materials

The steep increase in demand for remodeling, not just here, but nationwide, has caused significant shortages in construction materials, as well as furniture, kitchen appliances, tile, and window coverings, just to name a few. Combined with global supply chain issues, directly caused by the pandemic, expect much longer lead times (as well as rising costs) for many items.

For example, in a recent bath project, tile we were told would take one week to arrive, is now expected to take five weeks. And kitchen appliances are typically taking three or four months. And if you are wondering why the new sofa you ordered will take 20 weeks to arrive, (if you are lucky!) it is likely because the factories that make the foam for the cushions have been significantly impacted. I will not go into all the reasons why this is happening, but the combination of increased demand, COVID restrictions placed on factories, and transportation disruptions (not to mention slow-downs due to bad weather) have led to unprecedented delays and higher prices.

Slow-downs during the permit process

Because of citywide and countywide shutdowns of building departments, obtaining building permits has gone from a quick over-the-counter approval to a cumbersome and lengthy online process that sometimes takes weeks. And the larger the project, the longer it takes. Hopefully, with vaccination rates climbing, more people can go back to the office to work, and this process can be expedited.

Labor shortages

Before the pandemic, there was already a dearth of construction workers. I have been saying for years that there are not nearly enough young people pursuing careers in the trades. We need carpenters, plumbers, electricians, framers, window covering installers, painters, roofers ... you name it, we need it!

Increased demand for construction (not only because of the pandemic, but also because of wild fires and other causes) has made this already dire situation even worse. My interior design colleagues and I are experiencing significant increases in requests for design services, and architects I know are saying the same thing. It is hard to tell people who are so excited to get started to expect to wait several months, but that is the reality right now.

So, what does this all mean for you? It means that extra planning time, good humor, and even more patience than usual are required. It means that we are doing our best to keep up with the work, but that certain things are beyond our control. It means we are extremely grateful for all the folks who want to work with us, and that we all look forward to having the pandemic in our rearview mirror.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JUNE 29, 2021

All Signs: On Thursday, Mars is opposite Saturn; on Saturday, Mars is at odds with unpredictable Uranus.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): Home and family are your focus this week, especially your relations with a parent. It is a busy week with errands and short trips. You want to talk to everyone and express your opinions. On Thursday, children might be an increased responsibility. Lovers’ quarrels are also likely. By Saturday, parents should be extra vigilant to avoid accidents with their kids. This week is a bit of a rocky road for romance – no question.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): This is a fast-paced week because you have so much on the go - short trips, increased reading, writing, and studying, busy errands plus conversations with siblings, relatives, and neighbors. Meanwhile, you might entertain at home and buy beautiful things for your home as well. However, power struggles within the family might take place midweek. By the end of the week, be careful to avoid problems with appliances, family arguments, and domestic accidents. Slow down and take it easy so that you can stay on top of things with grace and inner control.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Although your focus this week is on money and possessions, this is a dicey week when it comes to your communications with others. Knowing this ahead of time, you can be patient. You can edit your response to others so that you do not trigger an argument or someone else will trigger an argument and you need to think before you respond to de-escalate things. You will notice power struggles on Thursday. On Friday/Saturday, there is an accident-prone influence for your sign so pay attention to everything you say and do.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): With the Sun in your sign, you continue to attract favorable situations and friendly attention from friends and admirers. Nevertheless, something that you want to be aware of this week is a stressful influence that could impact your earnings, cash flow or something that you own. For example, power struggles on Thursday about shared property or money or possessions might occur. Towards the end of the week, a source of earnings might be interrupted. Possibly, you will lose or break something that you own.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): This is a low-key time for you because the Sun is waiting in the wings before your birthday arrives. Hence, this is an excellent week to make some goals for your new year ahead. For many of you, it will be a quite different year. Meanwhile, this week is a bit challenging for you because Mars is in your sign and it is at odds with Saturn on Thursday, which will pit you against partners and close friends. Avoid these power struggles and instead be understanding. By the end of the week, try to avoid accidents or unexpected clashes with the police, parents, or authority figures.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Your popularity continues! Enjoy schmoozing with friends and groups this week. Grab every chance to share your hopes and dreams for the future with someone because their feedback might help you. Discussions with authority figures will go well because you are admired. However, something going on behind the scenes might stir up some trouble. Midweek, whatever you try to do might meet with opposition or disapproval. And by the end of the week, something out of the blue might upset your secret plans or your desires to do something. Perhaps it means you must sit this one out?

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): With the Sun at the top of your chart, you look fabulous to others now. Because of this advantage, now is the time to act. Make your pitch! However, a different influence might interrupt a friendship this week. Power struggles with a group or a friend, especially someone older might take place midweek. It might be about kids, social plans, sports, vacations, or financial speculation. In fact, this might mushroom into difficulty so that by the end of the week, a friendship is broken. Or you might quit a group. This could be because you do not like conflict.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): You are still restless for travel and adventure this week, which is why you are up for anything and eager to accept all invitations to fun outings! However, something disconcerting that you might face this week could be power struggles with a parent, boss, or someone in a position of authority – including the police. This clash could take place midweek. In fact, it might increase in intensity so that by the weekend, you are truly at odds with someone to the extent that you make a break. This will not be too bad because lucky Jupiter has your back this year. This is a fun-loving year for you.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): Many details related to shared property, taxes, debt, insurance issues and inheritances continue to absorb your attention. Mercury opposite your sign will help you clarify issues to others. This is good. Nevertheless, you might encounter power struggles in discussions with someone midweek. Be wise and avoid controversial subjects. By the end of the week, travel plans might suddenly change, or you might encounter unexpected changes with school plans or something to do with medicine and law. Likewise, these sudden changes or challenges could impact plans for publishing and media.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): This week you will need more sleep because the Sun is still symbolically as far away from your sign as it gets all year, and the Sun is the source of your energy. This polarized position of the Sun does however, channel your focus on partners and close friendships. Meanwhile, dispute about inheritances and shared property or insurance issues might arise midweek. By the weekend, something unexpected might change everything. Fortunately, Venus is in the picture and Venus wants to protect your interests. Take things slow but expect the best. Do your homework so that you are well-prepared to defend your best interests.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): You are still working hard and feeling a sense of reward because you are getting better organized.

However, power struggles with a partner or close friend might arise midweek. Meanwhile, with Mars in your sign, you will stick up for yourself. In fact, repressed grievances might come out into the open. This could be why -- by the weekend, some relationships are in trouble. What you have is a situation where someone wants to revolt because they feel angry, and they feel restricted. This could be an indication of a need for change. Meanwhile, guard against impulsive, reckless decisions.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): You are in a playful mood and keen to socialize. This will also include your enjoyment of playful activities with kids. Romance is rewarding as well. Having said that, power struggles related to your job might take place midweek. They could grow into a full-blown argument by the weekend that indicates a split with someone. Pet owners should know that midweek and by the weekend, they should keep an eye on their pet to avoid accidents. For some of you, these work challenges could mean equipment breakdowns or computer glitches.

Chabot College students selected as finalists in billboard design competition

SUBMITTED BY MUJEEB DADGAR

Six Chabot College students were selected as finalists for an annual billboard design competition. Two of those finalists were announced as winners and will see their designs on display on billboards throughout the East Bay.

Chabot College students Gwen Thompson and Gracie Ramirez were selected as winners of the non-profit design agency Bridgegood's Inspire Oakland Billboard Design Competition along with four other students from other colleges. Chabot College also had four other students who were named in the top 22 finalists out of more than 500 entries. The four Chabot finalists are Jessica Romick, Elisa Feng, Simran Singh and Gail Martinez.

Thompson, Ramirez and the other winners will see their designs displayed on billboards and bus benches across Oakland, receive a certificate of achievement and a cash reward. Participants were challenged to create an original design that reflects the inspiring stories of Oakland. Bridgegood's competition is currently in its twelfth year and aims to give Bay Area emerging artists real-world experience to help jump-start their professional careers.

Thompson said it was an honor for her to participate in the competition and to represent Chabot College and the instructors and staff who have helped her along the way.

"For me, this win highlights the hard work I've been able to do during the pandemic as things slowed down, which allowed me the space to focus solely on my graphic design coursework," Thompson said. "Chabot College has an amazing group of instructors who push us as artists to dig deeper, which enables us to take our work to the next level. I'm forever grateful to Chabot's Graphic Design program for challenging my creativity in a way that has allowed me to make work I am super proud of."

Ramirez agreed, and added that the college has supported her and made it possible for her to grow in her creativity.

"Winning the Bridgegood competition award is one of my biggest accomplishments in life," she said. "Chabot has been a vital place for me to continue dreaming and working to achieve my goals."

Tim Jonas, Digital Media Arts instructor at Chabot College, said the college is invested in these emerging fields and finding ways to help students succeed within them.

"I think our program is special, because it not only provides students with the technical and theoretical skills, but an opportunity to really apply those skills and express ideas through hands-on, creative projects," he said. "Classes like Chabot Design Studio help provide 'real world' problem-solving experiences for students. We offer certificates and associate programs in graphic design and film, and an animation certificate, too."

Designs were judged by a panel of creative professionals from around the Bay Area, including designers with Salesforce, Twitter, Etsy, and Facebook, among others.

Jonas said all of the Digital Media Arts students at Chabot "really showed dedication and heart and I'm really proud of them."

"It doesn't matter where you come from or your background," he said. "We all have a voice and can express it and connect with one another through digital arts and design."

Fremont Bank underwrites swim lessons

BY JANET HANEY

Summertime is all about swimming and being outside. That’s why Fremont Bank is encouraging youth in the community to learn about water safety by taking swim lessons through the City of Fremont at Aqua Adventure Park. The bank is underwriting the cost of the swim lessons for low-income families.

To qualify for the limited number of spots, parents or legal guardians must show proof of Free or Reduced Lunch status in FUSD or the PG&E subsidy and pay a small fee. Lessons, 25 minutes long, offered at all different skill levels from infants to teens, are underway now through August.

Sessions are offered Monday through Thursday for a two-week program. Saturday-only and private lessons are also available.

Tri-City History Queries No. 6

BY KELSEY CAMELLO,
FOR THE WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP
MUSEUM OF LOCAL HISTORY

Q: Where does the name Stevenson come from?

For those who live, work in, or even just pass through the Tri-City area, the name Stevenson is recognizable. It is a main freeway exit into Fremont off Interstate 880, the only one that will deliver someone directly to Central Park (Lake Elizabeth), the Fremont Main branch of the Alameda County Library and Fremont Police Headquarters. Keep going even further east on Stevenson Boulevard, and eventually the road ends at Mission Boulevard, where the Fremont Chamber of Commerce is located. Alternately, one could exit the freeway and head in the opposite direction, into Newark. Here Stevenson Boulevard can be driven west until it dead-ends at the rail line and transitions from road into marshland.

So, how did this eminently titled, overly long street come to be so named? History, of course.

The Stevensons hailed from Centerville. The patriarch of the family, John Thomas Stevenson was born in New York in 1823. In his early life, he made his way to the Midwest, and in 1852, J.T. struck out with his Irish bride Jane Stevenson née Mallon, as they traveled to California via the Nicaraguan Route. Like many who came out to California around this time, Stevenson tried his hand at mining in the Sierras before he and his wife made their way to Centerville, where they settled for the rest of their lives.

The couple lived and worked on the E.L. Beard ranch for twelve years before accumulating enough wealth and land to buy the property. The 382-acre Stevenson ranch-homestead was located between Alvarado Road (now Fremont Boulevard) and Alameda Creek. Today, the bordering streets and markers in Fremont can be approximated at Fremont Boulevard (west), Alder Avenue (north), Alameda Creek (east) and Thornton Avenue (south).

As John and Jane grew their family to include four children, so too they grew their land holdings. The ranch continued to do well, and eventually it expanded to contain the land that is presently occupied by the Brookvale Shopping Center, Brookvale Elementary School, the housing development, the Brookvale branch of the Alameda County Library, and American High School. At its peak size, the Stevenson Ranch was comprised of 1,160 acres, the first 382 of which had been purchased for a mere $18 per acre. One son (Eugene) continued on the family homestead, while another son (John William, born 1875) ran a dairy ranch. Their daughter Carrie married pioneer doctor Henry Emerson, also of Centerville.

First Fremont City Council (1956) - Jack Stevenson seated middle.

John William’s son (John L., born 1914) attended Stanford University, served in the South Pacific in WWII, and became an Locally, it was a time of immense change. The area had long been primarily agricultural in nature, with individual downtowns surrounded by farms and small housing tracts. But it was transitioning into a centralized city with a big government structure and a laundry list of problems to solve. Jack Stevenson was a strong and trusted voice in the community, with a family history going back three generations.

During his tenure in local government, Jack fought hard for Central Park and a new Civic Center area at that location, even when it meant losing the votes of those citizens who wanted to keep things small and quiet. It seems only fitting then that the street named in his and his family’s honor would run right alongside it.

Take a listen back in time by visiting <https://californiarevealed.org/islandora/object/cavpp%3A12850> where you can hear a 1983 recording of Jack talking about his family history and life in Fremont.

White Sox win Little League District 14 Intermediate Championship

LITTLE LEAGUE

Niles Centerville wins majors title

BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

Niles Centerville major A's won the division 14 championship on June 19th in a show of offense starting in the third inning as they powered in three runs to take the lead. However, Fremont Centerville was not to be forgotten as they fought their way back with three runs of their own in the bottom of the inning. It was a tight contest, but as the game progressed, Niles Centerville was able to add two more runs in the fifth inning and although Fremont Centerville responded with a run of their own, Niles Centerville continued their onslaught, finishing the game with the championship in an 8-4 victory.

LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL

Knights hot streak leads to Juniors championship

BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW
The Newark /Niles Centerville (NNL/NCLL) Knights, a combination Juniors team, put together an impressive win on June 19th. In the third inning, a continuing stream of baserunners in scoring position provided a 17-run cushion that was unsurmountable. Although the Fremont Centerville Little League (FCLL) Giants attempted to rebound with three runs late in the game, they were just no match for the hot bats of the Knights. With the 17-3 win, the Knights move on to the championship game.

Hot Newark Knights bats were again the story as they faced the FCLL Dodgers in the championship game on June 21st. Loading the bases and converting baserunners to scoreboard runs continued throughout the game even as the Dodgers tried to counter with runs of their own. In the end, the speeding, powerful Knights train could not be derailed, finishing the season with a Newark 19-6 victory.

Ballet Petit

Resiliency in Reopening

BY CHARLENE DIZON
PEGGY PEABODY

As health and social restrictions are alleviated, re-openings of small and large businesses are beginning. Ballet Petit in Hayward is eager for their July reopening, sharing both the in-person preparation as well as their experience of holding Zoom dance classes over the past year.

The pandemic meant immediate adjustment for Ballet Petit. This included making the necessary transition from studio to Zoom classes. Founder Peggy Peabody is grateful for the video call platform, as it allows her staff and students to continue dancing under restrictive circumstances. Students shared that their individual focus and spatial awareness all improved, along with the convenience of avoiding traffic. Ensuring that all students were learning the dance in real-time rhythm proved to be a successful team effort. “Ballet is a communal experience. If you take your eyes off for a second due to video lag, it can be difficult. However, when we finally met for in-person spring production filming in May of 2021, everyone danced so well together,” Peabody shares in relief.

Working in a smaller space also required dancing in a square rather than taking up an entire room. Many students used Marley flooring to ensure a slip-resistant surface while practicing from home. Peabody adds, “Everyone pulled together and supported each other. Working or studying from home can be tough with the constant sitting, so to see the students being creative and releasing the tension in their bodies during class was a gift.”

As an immuno-compromised cancer survivor, Peabody especially believes in the significance of ballet in times of recuperation. Peabody received a second diagnosis of Hodgkin’s Lymphoma, a blood cancer that affects the body’s immune system, in January 2020 just before the pandemic began. Her first diagnosis was back in 2016. As the world began to go into lockdown, Peabody was waiting on test results, treatment options, and witnessing COVID-19’s effect within hospitals. “2020 was an overall dramatic, frightening, and interesting year. I was very afraid because my situation was so dire and I was in such a fragile state,” she explains. Due to her extremely sensitive case, Peabody was able to secure appointments and chemotherapy before a stem cell transplant. Chemotherapy was done for six hours on three consecutive days.

As for the hospital’s disinfectant routine, Peabody also watched this dramatically update, stating, “The hospitals grew understandably frantic and it was scary, but they got right to work with implementing personal protective equipment (PPE), an antechamber cell, special air filters, and a UV cleaning robot.” Upon returning home, Peabody still took additional measures for caution, from constantly wiping down her house surfaces to wearing a mask at all times around her family. The outcome of the transplant treatment essentially eradicated her cancer, for which Peabody and her family are overwhelmingly thankful. Since her recovery, she has continued assisting her Ballet Petit staff and students as the studio prepares for its reopening.

Ballet Petit is set to hold onsite classes again beginning July 6. Summer registration is currently open, and all class levels will be brought back in person except adult classes. The studio’s 43rd Annual Nutcracker is expected to be performed live at Chabot College in December. As for health precautions, Ballet Petit has gone above and beyond to ensure visitor and staff wellbeing. Social distance markers, new barres, modified traffic patterns for coming in and out of the studio, a front desk sneeze guard, and a state-of-the-art air purification filter system have been added. “Since we’re now able to enhance our class schedules, we’re making sure the space is clean and that everyone is still masked,” Peabody says. With these guidelines put into place, the studio is prepared to safely continue practicing dance.

In December of 2020, Ballet Petit held their annual Nutcracker show virtually. Families and students gathered together to create homemade backdrops and costumes to amplify their at-home backgrounds. This in itself was a successful and fulfilling endeavor, despite online rather than in person attendance. Later on, for the May 2021 production, Peabody decided to have pairs of vaccinated graduating students practice their routines at the studio in person and socially distance before the performance. Once practice ended, she felt immense gratitude due to one simple factor: dancer’s feet. “It had been so long since anyone danced in the studio and it was sad to see it empty for months on end, so when I inhaled the smell of dancer’s feet and hard work it was a small moment of normalcy that nearly made me cry,” Peabody states.

As a community of artists, ballet consists not only of developing choreography but integrating dance into personal lives, from strengthening self-confidence to building passion. Ballet Petit is delighted to return to the long-awaited and deeply missed atmosphere of community, creativity, and craftsmanship.

For more information on Ballet Petit’s reopening, class registration, or upcoming shows, please visit balletpetit.com or contact (510) 783-4958. Peggy Peabody may also be reached at MissPeggy@balletpetit.com.

NASA sends squid from Hawaii into space for research

AP WIRE SERVICE

Dozens of baby squid from Hawaii are in space for study. The baby Hawaiian bobtail squid were raised at the University of Hawaii’s Kewalo Marine Laboratory and were blasted into space earlier this month on a SpaceX resupply mission to the International Space Station. Researcher Jamie Foster, who completed her doctorate at the University of Hawaii, is studying how spaceflight affects the squid in hopes of bolstering human health during long space missions, the Honolulu Star-Advertiser reported Monday. The squid have a symbiotic relationship with natural bacteria that help regulate their bioluminescence.

When astronauts are in low gravity their body’s relationship with microbes changes, said University of Hawaii professor Margaret McFall-Ngai, who Foster studied under in the 1990s. “We have found that the symbiosis of humans with their microbes is perturbed in microgravity, and Jamie has shown that is true in squid,” said McFall-Ngai. “And, because it is a simple system, she can get to the bottom of what’s going wrong.” Foster is now a Florida professor and principal investigator for a NASA program that researches how microgravity affects the interactions between animals and microbes. “As astronauts spend more and more time in space, their immune systems become what is called dysregulated.

It doesn’t function as well,” Foster said. “Their immune systems do not recognize bacteria as easily. They sometimes get sick.” Foster said understanding what happens to the squid in space could help solve health problems that astronauts face. “There are aspects of the immune system that just don’t work properly under long-duration spaceflights,” she said. “If humans want to spend time on the moon or Mars, we have to solve health problems to get them there safely.” The Kewalo Marine Laboratory breeds the squid for research projects around the world. The tiny animals are plentiful in Hawaiian waters and are about 3 inches (7.6 centimeters) long as adults. The squid will come back to Earth in July.

News and notes from around the world

A whale of a tale

Jonah lived in the belly of a whale, so the Bible tells us. But the whale that tried to devour Michael Packard recently spat him out after trying to swallow him. It happened in the waters off the coast of Cape Cod, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens. “A humpback whale tried to eat me.

I was in his closed mouth for about 30 to 40 seconds before he rose to the surface and spit me out. I am very bruised up but have no broken bones,” said Packard who was scuba diving for lobsters at the time. Packard was treated at Cape Cod Hospital and told reporters it happened in mid-dive: “All of a sudden, I felt this huge shove and the next thing I knew it was completely black. I could sense I was moving, and I could feel the whale squeezing with the muscles in his mouth.”

Woman delivers the world’s first decuplets

The expectant mom, Gosiame Thamara Sithole, was shocked, and the doctors in Pretoria, South Africa were too, when scans showed she was about to deliver as many as eight babies. But it came as a bolt out of the blue when she underwent a Caesarian section and there they were: a set of decuplets, 10 newborn babies. The folks at Guinness are ready to give her the record for the world’s largest single brood of children to be delivered at one time. The current record holder is an American, Nadya Suleman of California, who delivered octuplets, eight babies, at the Kaiser Permanente Medical Center in the city of Bellflower in 2009. But not only is Mrs. Sithole prepared to take the record, but she has already added a new word to the lexicon of birth: decuplets.

Wonder Dog to the rescue

Wally, a 2-year-old golden retriever, went for a swim in Hickory Hills Lake in Lunenburg, Massachusetts recently and encountered a woodchuck in distress. The critter hopped on Wally’s back, clinging there until Wally and his passenger made it to shore, reported the Association of Mature American Citizens. That’s when the grateful woodchuck said his goodbyes and left, but not before “they gave each other a little kiss goodbye. They like touched snouts and then he [the woodchuck] ran away,” according to Wally’s owner, Lauren Russell, who caught the whole thing on video. See it on YouTube at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2UCZhU8uER8>.

WILLIAM MARSHAK

We all have a special day each year to celebrate the anniversary of our birth day. It is a testament to the unique existence of each individual and their family and friends who are influenced by their presence. Not only is this a time for joy, but one of reflection as well... current status, accomplishments and future endeavors.

Another special day for all invested in the health, safety and vitality of the United States of America is the celebration of its birth. This is also an existential milestone, a collective review of the foundations of this singular society, formed through the radical ideal of freedom and political self-determination, albeit with a flawed history.

In direct contrast with class culture and arbitrary rule throughout the world, the United States proposed a different set of principles to guide its development. While practical application was - and remains - far from perfect and universal, its lure and attraction continue to provide hope and direction to its own population and inspire others around the world. Correction of flaws is often long, arduous and painful, but the Declaration of Independence is clear that the actions taken by the colonies was neither capricious or attained through "...light and transient causes."

A comprehensive and factual list of grievances, outlined in the Declaration, detail the reasons for dissolution of "political bands" between England and the 13 colonies. The first paragraph states unequivocally that this radical action must be supported by reason and a declaration of the "causes which impel them to the separation." Rejection of consistent and continuous appeals for justice to the mother country led to the dissolution. Our present situation, stoked by irrational passion, hatred and fear, stained with blood and insurrection, stands in stark contrast to the clear, logical and reasoned arguments of the Declaration of Independence. In fact, one charge of the Declaration states: "He [King George III] has excited domestic insurrections amongst us..."

July 4, 2021 is an optimal moment to actually read the Declaration of Independence and understand what the people of 1776 risked to bring about a country ruled by those governed rather than despots. Although our official representatives are elected to make decisions and manage routine affairs, the onus of their decisions and ultimate authority rests with the people. Signers of the Declaration of Independence jeopardized their lives and fortunes to resist dictatorial and incompetent systems that ignore and compel obedience to onerous circumstances and autocrats.

The current threat to our democratic system by authoritarian and irrational populism is a serious abrogation of our forefathers and the Declaration of Independence. This year's Independence Day 2021 celebration, would be a good time to actually read this document, to understand the foundation of our country and appreciate how and why it was formed. The Declaration of Independence makes it clear that the United States of America, despite its flaws and setbacks, has an indelible message for everyone:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. -- That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, --"

In 1831, lyrics to "America" were written by Samuel Francis Smith, serving as an unofficial national anthem until official adoption by congressional resolution of Star-Spangled Banner by Francis Scott Key in 1931. The well-known first stanza is a testament to our common heritage.

My country tis of thee,

Sweet land of liberty,

Of thee I sing.

Land where my fathers died!

Land of the Pilgrim's pride!

From every mountain side,

Let freedom ring!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA!

US wildfire officials see increasing demand for firefighters

BY KEITH RIDLER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. wildfire officials expecting increased fire activity and more demand for firefighters and equipment have raised the national preparedness to level 4 -- which is unusual for June.

The National Interagency Fire Center said on June 22 that it's the second earliest it reached what it calls preparedness level 4 on the 1-5 scale since 1990. It's also only the fourth time in the last 20 years that it has reached the level 4 in June.

More than 8,700 wildland firefighters across the U.S. are currently battling 47 large wildfires that have burned more than 800 square miles (2,070 square kilometers), officials said. Arizona had 14 of those fires, followed by California with seven.

Officials said there have been more than 29,000 wildfires so far this year, about 4,000 more than the 10-year average. "We are seeing fire behavior as if it were in the middle to late August instead of still June," said Jessica Gardetto, a fire center spokeswoman with the U.S. Bureau of Land Management.

Most wildfires are quickly put out by firefighters stationed in the areas where they are posted before they grow to sizes that require assistance from firefighters from other states. However, wildfire officials have said much of the U.S. West is immersed in a drought that will likely make putting out fires more challenging for firefighters -- a primary reason for bumping the risk level to level 4. "We are planning for a lot of large fire activity throughout the West, though we're not there yet," Gardetto said.

She said another potential problem for fire managers is that federal agencies are competing to recruit new firefighters who can find better-paying jobs elsewhere in the current economy. "There's not technically a shortage of firefighters because we always overprepare," Gardetto said, "but it's a concern right now."

More than 80% of wildfires annually are started by people, often while enjoying outdoor activities or using fireworks. "This is that time of year when we see a lot of human-caused fires, and that really does not help the situation," Gardetto said. "Firefighters could use some help right now."

- SUBMITTED BY CITY OF FREMONT
- The City of Fremont's Keep Fremont Housed program provides rental assistance and/or utility assistance to eligible low-to-moderate income households unable to pay their rent and utilities due to a COVID-19-related job loss or loss of income.

The money comes from U.S. Department of Treasury stimulus funds and is aimed at Fremont residents who are at risk of experiencing homelessness or housing instability.

For program details, eligibility requirements and document information, visit the Keep Fremont Housed website at www.fremont.gov/keepfremonthoused.
- Eviction moratorium extended
- SUBMITTED BY GOVERNOR’S PRESS OFFICE
- Governor Gavin Newsom and legislative leaders of both the Senate and the Assembly announced on June 25 a proposed extension of California's statewide evictions moratorium, and an increase in compensation for California's rent relief program.
- The three-party agreement on AB 832 – which extends the current eviction moratorium through September 30, 2021 – will ensure that California quickly uses the more than $5 billion in federal rental assistance to help the state's tenants and small landlords and protect vulnerable households from eviction. The agreement widens rental assistance by enhancing current law. Provisions include increasing reimbursement to 100 percent for both rent that is past due and prospective payments for both tenants and landlords. Additionally, the bill ensures rental assistance dollars stay in California by prioritizing cities and counties with unmet needs, and uses the judicial process to ensure tenants and landlords have attempted to obtain rental assistance.

DTSC PUBLIC NOTICE

Department of Toxic Substances Control – Our mission is to protect the people, communities, and environment of California from harmful chemicals by cleaning up contaminated sites, enforcing hazardous waste laws, and compelling the development of safer products.

DRAFT HAZARDOUS WASTE FACILITY PERMIT RENEWAL FOR SAFETY KLEEN NEWARK

Public Comment Period: July 13, 2021 through August 30, 2021

The Department Toxic Substances Control (DTSC) invites the public to comment on the draft Safety Kleen Newark (SK) hazardous waste facility renewal permit (draft Permit). SK is located at 6880 Smith Avenue in Newark, California 94560.

SK started in 1985 under the name Evergreen Oil, Inc. (Evergreen). SK acquired Evergreen in 2013. SK (Evergreen) was first issued an initial Hazardous Waste Permit in October 1985 by DTSC's predecessor agency, Department of Health Services. DTSC issued a Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) renewal permit in December 2004, which was modified in 2013 (current Permit) to update the facility's operations.

YOUR OPINION MATTERS! We are sharing the draft permit for your review. We want to know your concerns about the draft permit. We read and respond in writing to all public comments. When you send us your comments, please include your mailing address or email address so we can respond to your comments in writing. Written responses to comments will be filed at the information location listed below and on DTSC's website. DTSC considers all comments - public, applicant, or government agencies in making the final permit decision.

CALIFORNIA ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ACT (CEQA): Under CEQA, DTSC must evaluate whether the Permit may have any significant impact on the environment. As part of this evaluation, DTSC reviewed the previously adopted 1997 Negative Declaration, as amended. DTSC has determined that an Addendum to the previously adopted Negative Declaration is appropriate pursuant to California Code of Regulations, Title 14, Section 15164. A Notice of Determination will be filed with the Governor's Office of Planning and Research State Clearinghouse when a final permit decision is made.

HOW DO I PARTICIPATE? DTSC will accept written public comments on the draft Permit during the public comment period, July 13, 2021 to August 30, 2021. Please send all comments by August 30, 2021 to: Henry Chui, Project Manager, 700 Heinz Avenue, Berkeley, California 94710 or Henry.Chui@dtsc.ca.gov. A Public Hearing is not scheduled at this time. Any person may request a public hearing. The request for a hearing must be in writing and must state the nature of the issue to be raised in the hearing. Please the request to Henry Chui at the address above.

INFORMATION REPOSITORY: The draft Permit, and other related documents are available at: EnviroStor website:

Ellen Santos Garrido, 81, died peacefully while surrounded by her family in Fremont, Calif., on Wednesday, June 16, 2021.

Ellen was born in Mt. Pleasant, N.Y., to Mike and Mary Rosa Santos. When she was 6 years old, she moved with her mother and siblings to San Mateo, Calif., where she began a lifetime love affair with the Golden State. Ellen spent her youth reveling in the beaches of Santa Cruz and Half Moon Bay. She attended San Mateo High School, where she was a pompom girl and president of the Elvis Presley fan club. One of her favorite memories was meeting The King at the Hotel Benjamin Franklin in the 1950s. Upon graduation, Ellen attended cosmetology school; she remained an active hairstylist for many years.

While still a teenager, Ellen traveled to Portugal and met her future husband, Leonel Garrido, with whom she had three children. She was an involved, active and loving mom, serving as room mother in their classrooms, den mother to their Scout troops and creating the best Halloween costumes.

After a divorce in 1984, Ellen enjoyed a resurgence of youthful zest, enjoying music, dancing and good times with friends old and new. After retiring in 2003, Ellen moved to Las Vegas. She remained in Nevada until 2019, when she returned to California to be closer to her family.

Blessed with a generous heart, Ellen frequently donated to favorite charities and often helped her children when they were getting their starts, even when she didn't have much to give. A lifetime animal lover, Ellen doted on her pets with a unique sweetness. She loved to draw and paint, and animals were her favorite subjects. She was also an excellent cook with an unrivaled crab cioppino recipe. More than anything, Ellen will be remembered for her independent spirit, strength, infectious laugh and her deep love for her children and grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her mother, Mary Rosa Santos and her brothers, Manuel Continho and James Santos. She is survived by her sons, Ken Garrido (wife Angelica) and Larry Garrido (partner Pamela Henry); her daughter, Michelle Sutton (husband Trent); her grandchildren, Kevin, Matthew, Julia and Ethan; her sister, Marie Barry; her nieces, Rosemary Morgan (husband Ron), Lee Raybould (husband Jeff), Deborah Roberts (husband Dave) and Lucina Geisler (husband Kurt); and her nephew, Daniel Barry. Rest in peace. We love you.

County extends program for young adults transitioning out of foster care

SUBMITTED BY SANTA CLARA COUNTY PUBLIC AFFAIRS

The County of Santa Clara is extending its Basic Income Pilot program, aimed at helping young adults transition out of the foster care system, for a further six months to further study its effectiveness – and to continue helping participants transition to self-sufficiency as the pandemic ebbs and more opportunities become available.

The innovative “Universal Basic Income” initiative was the first in the nation to specifically benefit those exiting the foster system when it was approved by the County of Santa Clara Board of Supervisors in June 2020. Under the pilot program, 72 young adults aging out of the foster care system began receiving a monthly stipend of $1,000 for 12 months, with the first payments going out last July.

Recently, the Board of Supervisors approved adding an additional $500,000 to the initial $900,000 allocation to continue payments to the original recipients. Included in the new allotment are incentives to take advantage of financial mentorship offered through the program, and to complete surveys that will help the county gauge the efficacy of the trial.

Program manager Melanie Jimenez Perez said extending the pilot is critical for many participants who are seeing a new day dawning after a year of COVID-19 restrictions. “Up to this point, the funding was critical intervention to prevent youth from destabilizing,” said Jimenez Perez. “It allowed many to stay in housing or stay in school. Now, the focus of the extra time granted by the extension is for them to really come up with a plan for long-term stability. This is a tremendous and important junction in their lives.”

County declares local emergency

SUBMITTED BY SANTA CLARA COUNTY PUBLIC AFFAIRS

The County of Santa Clara has declared a local emergency due to extreme drought conditions and is calling on all residents and businesses in the county's unincorporated areas to immediately begin conserving water. After a second year of historically dry conditions, Santa Clara County is currently in “extreme drought,” meaning that reservoirs are so low, the water level is inadequate for agriculture, wildlife, and urban needs.

“As Californians, we all know how precious water is. During the last drought, many of us learned that every drop is valuable, and we all came together to find creative new ways to conserve this incredibly important resource,” said Board of Supervisors President Mike Wasserman. “We did it before and we can do it again – every small step we can each take to stretch our water supply is critical right now.”

Under extreme drought conditions, fire season lasts year-round, and fires may occur even in typically wet parts of the state. The snowpack has been depleted and, with the rest of the state under similarly dry conditions, there is limited availability to import water.

Earlier this month, the Santa Clara Valley Water District declared a water shortage emergency and imposed mandatory water usage reductions of 15% compared to 2019 levels. (This is equivalent to a 33% reduction from 2013 water usage levels.) The county supports these conservation measures and encourages everyone in unincorporated areas to voluntarily take on similar usage reduction goals.

More information on the county's efforts to protect and conserve water resources can be found on the Sustainability Master Plan website - www.sccsustainabilityplan.org/goal-3-air-and-water-resources.

Park It

By NED MACKAY

The July/August edition of Regional in Nature, East Bay Regional Park District’s bi-monthly activity guide, is set to show up in newspapers and at park district visitor centers by June 28. It’s already available online at the district website, www.ebparks.org.

Usually, the Fourth of July is occasion for lots of parades, special events, and other celebrations. However, because of COVID-related concerns, this year’s holiday is going to be more subdued. Nevertheless, there is plenty you can still do to celebrate in the regional parks and elsewhere. Regional in Nature has lots of good suggestions.

Everyone should be aware that fireworks of any kind, even the supposedly safe and sane variety, are prohibited in the regional parks. Compliance is especially urgent this year, due to the ongoing drought and high fire danger. Smoking, including vaping, is against the rules, too.

If you do plan a picnic in a regional park, it is best to arrive early. Parks tend to be crowded on holiday weekends, and you can find that all the picnic tables are taken. Crowds are especially likely at regional parks with swim areas. Swimming is on a first-come, first-served basis at Del Valle Regional Park south of Livermore, with no attendance restrictions until park capacity is reached.

Swim beaches at Lake Anza near Berkeley and Lake Temescal in Oakland remain closed because of water level and water quality issues. The swim area at Quarry Lakes in Fremont has been closed, too, because of low water levels. However, the district now plans to reopen it in July.

Other swim facilities no longer require reservations and will accept walk-ins on a first-come, first-served basis until maximum swim capacity is reached. All swim registrations made online through July 4 will be honored.

To ensure you get a spot, you can still make optional swimming reservations for weekends and holidays at Contra Loma in Antioch, Cull Canyon in Castro Valley, Don Castro in Hayward, and Roberts Pool in Oakland. The pool at Castle Rock in Walnut Creek is now drop-in only, no reservations needed. The reservations number for EBRPD is (888) 327-2757, Option 2.

Other activities include berry picking at Ardenwood Historic Farm in Fremont. Registered participants will be able to pick berries at the farm at 9:30 a.m. Sundays, July 11, July 25, August 1, and August 15. To register, visit ebparks.org/Ardenwood.

Independence Day was cause for elaborate observances back in the 19th century at present-day Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve in Antioch. The now-vanished towns of Somersville and Nortonville hosted parades, picnics, and dances. Those days are gone, but you can catch some of the flavor through an article and photos in Regional in Nature. There is also a cookie recipe from a 1900 coal country cookbook.

At Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont, the visitor center is open for self-guided tours. The center has lots of displays and information highlighting the culture of the Ohlone Indians who inhabited a village there for millennia before the arrival of Europeans. For more information, visit the website, ebparks.org/parks/coyote_hills. Other visitor centers are open, too. Since hours of operation are changing as we speak, it is best to check them at www.ebparks.org.

Astronomy is an activity you can enjoy in your own backyard. The July/August Regional in Nature has an article with instructions on where to spot the summer triangle. It’s a shape formed by three stars: Vega, Deneb, and Altair, each of which is part of its own constellation. Vega is almost directly overhead. Read the article, get a reclining chair, and enjoy the celestial show.

Have a safe, fireworks-free Fourth of July in the regional parks and other public open space.

California lawmakers seek to remove 'he' from state laws

By ADAM BEAM
ASSOCIATED PRESS

When California Gov. Gavin Newsom was searching for a new attorney general earlier this year, state Assemblywoman Rebecca Bauer-Kahan looked up the job requirements and made a surprising discovery: In many instances, the law assumed the attorney general is a man.

Sprinkled throughout the state code were references to “he” and “him” and “his” when referring to the attorney general and other statewide elected officials, even though Vice President Kamala Harris had been the state’s first female attorney general and Eleni Kounalakis is the first woman to be elected lieutenant governor.

That will likely change after the state Legislature passed Bauer-Kahan’s bill Thursday to update laws governing statewide elected officials with gender neutral terms. The bill now heads to Newsom for his review.

“We have women serving in our highest offices and the (sections) of the code referring to them only in the male pronoun was pretty shocking to me,” said Bauer-Kahan, a Democrat from Orinda. “It doesn’t represent where California is and where California is going.”

The bill is part of a long process of updating state laws and documents with gender neutral terms. Across the country, many states have required all new legislation to be written this way. Minnesota did a complete statutory revision in 1986 to remove gender specific language, according to Mick Bullock, public affairs director for the National Conference of State Legislatures.

In recent years, California has passed laws allowing a third gender option on state driver’s licenses, identification cards and birth certificates. Also on Thursday, the Legislature approved a bill to allow people’s gender to be recorded as nonbinary on death certificates, a major source of data for public health research.

A California law passed two years ago requires school districts to reissue high school diplomas to update a person’s name and gender if it is different since graduation. This year, lawmakers are considering a bill by Assemblyman David Chiu that would do the same thing for college diplomas.

But updating California’s laws will take more time. Usually whenever the Legislature passes a bill to change a law, it includes updated gender neutral terms. But the state has tens of thousands of laws, so many that bound books — each with about 1,000 pages — fill an entire wall at the California State Library.

Bauer-Kahan’s bill is an attempt to speed up that process. In 2019, the Legislature updated family law to include gender neutral terms. This year, state Sen. John Laird has a bill that would update gender references in laws governing various state agencies, including the California Highway Patrol, the Department of Forestry and Fire Protection and the Department of Insurance.

EARTHTALK

Cicada blooms off kilter due to global warming

By RODDY SCHEER AND DOUG MOSS

*Dear EarthTalk:
Are the cicada blooms of the eastern U.S. out of whack due to global warming and/or other man-made environmental problems?*

-- Joe R., Moorestown, New Jersey

The short answer is... probably. If you live in the eastern or midwestern U.S., you’ve likely seen so-called periodic cicadas. These inch-long, gray- and orange-winged insects with bulging red eyes feed on the underground xylem tissue of tree roots for years before emerging in millions-strong-per-acre swarms to mate and then die. Of the 3,000 different cicada species around the world, only seven -- all in North America -- are periodical. The first historical reports of periodical cicadas came from the Pilgrims who landed at Plymouth Rock and were shocked to see such a wondrous biological phenomenon unfold before their eyes during the summer of 1634.

Cut to the present, summer 2021 promises to be a doozy as cicada “blooms” go. From Georgia and Tennessee north to Michigan and New York, we can expect to see a big showing as the largest generational brood, Brood X, emerges from the ground en masse as spring warms to summer.

But even though this spectacle typically starts in May, this year millions of cicadas came out as early as March. Researchers believe they were erroneously triggered by a warming-induced “false spring” when the weather warmed up enough for trees to start leafing out early, even though at least one more freeze was still on the way. Even stranger still, a smaller segment of Brood X actually emerged four years early in and around Washington, D.C. in the late spring of 2017.

“[For] these accelerations that we’re seeing constantly for all these different broods over much of the eastern half of the U.S., the only common phenomenon that can account for it is climate,” biologist Gene Kritsky of Ohio’s Mount St. Joseph University, who has been studying and mapping periodical cicadas for decades, tells Scientific American.

Time will tell if this warming-induced aberration in the cicada’s lifecycle will have deleterious effects on the environment. The Pilgrims may have mistakenly thought they were being swarmed by a plague of locusts of biblical proportions that would eat up all their crops, but cicadas are actually beneficial to the environment, providing valuable ecosystem services to the communities of plants and wildlife in their native territories. Once the cicadas do emerge, they aerate soils, serve as a food source for predators, and relieve predatory pressure on other insects, serving as a biological kickstart to local ecosystems.

Scientists studying the ecological role of cicadas worry that altering the timing of their emergence could potentially have negative effects on the bug’s populations moving forward, not to mention other environmental ripple effects. In the meantime, consider yourself lucky if you do get to see the cicadas -- indeed one of the great phenomena of nature of the eastern U.S. -- during this summer of Brood X.

Facebook launches podcasts, live audio service

By BARBARA ORTUTAY
ASSOCIATED PRESS
TECHNOLOGY WRITER

Facebook launched podcasts and live audio streams in the U.S. on Monday, June 20 to keep users engaged on its platform and to compete with emerging rivals. Facebook says it is allowing public figures with verified accounts to start live audio rooms and invite anyone else to speak. A handful of podcasts will be available to people in the U.S. at first and the company plans to add more down the line.

CEO Mark Zuckerberg, who has appeared on the video streaming app Clubhouse in the past, hosted his own live audio room on his Facebook page last week.

“Live Audio Rooms and podcasts rolling out in the US is just the beginning of our audio journey,” wrote Fidji Simo, head of the Facebook app, in a blog post on June 21. “Looking ahead, we are working with creators who will use our audio tools to further develop and launch Soundbites -- short-form, creative audio clips.”

But podcasts and live audio have also been an outlet for racism, misinformation and extremist material. Live audio is particularly difficult to moderate, compared with traditional social media posts.

Facebook, which announced its audio plans to push into audio streams in April, says its rules apply to live audio and podcasts and anyone can report offending material. “In addition, our broader integrity and safety work and the tools we have built for proactively and automatically identifying harmful content are great building blocks, but we plan to adapt tech and processes as we learn more,” the company said in a prepared statement.

The company says that it may also retain live audio after it is no longer live to enforce its policies, which will be done both by human moderators and machine learning.

Police encrypt radio channel in Milpitas

SUBMITTED BY MILPITAS PD

To comply with a mandate from the California Department of Justice (CA DOJ), the Milpitas Police Department (MPD) recently announced that its police radio channel is being encrypted along with most other law enforcement agencies throughout the state. In a statement released June 25, MPD officials said the transition was set to take place on Monday, June 28.

In October 2020, the CA DOJ notified law enforcement agencies that use the California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System that access to certain Criminal Justice Information (CJI) and Personally Identifiable Information (PII) must be limited to authorized personnel, and the transmission of such information must be encrypted. At the time, most of the law enforcement agencies in Santa Clara County were not in compliance with this mandate.

MPD spent several months examining alternatives to radio encryption while balancing the need for compliance with the mandate, transparency of police operations, and the safety of its police officers. Ultimately, encrypting the police radio channels was the only practical solution. Additionally, all interoperable radio channels within Santa Clara County will be encrypted by this summer with all law enforcement agencies in the county encrypting their individual radio channels by the end of the year.

Nonetheless, MPD officials stress that the department is committed to keeping the community informed. MPD currently shares information with the community and media partners regarding crime trends, investigations, police activity, safety alerts, and public events within Milpitas using social media accounts on Facebook (MilpitasPD), Instagram (@milpitaspolice), Nextdoor (milpitas-police-department), and Twitter (@MilpitasPD).

The full DOJ information bulletin radio encryption can be downloaded at https://oag.ca.gov/sites/all/files/agweb/pdfs/info_bulletins/20-09-cjis.pdf.

Historic Homes to Reopen in July

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD AREA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

After a year of closure, the Hayward Area Historical Society (HAHS) is excited to announce that visitors will once again be able to tour two historic homes in the Hayward area. Meek Mansion will be open on the first Saturday of the month, starting July 3. McConaghy House will be open on second Saturdays, starting July 10. Both homes will be open from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. on their respective days.

While many people have fond memories of visiting either property, the re-openings mark a new way to experience the houses. Both will feature new informational panels, explaining highlights and stories of each room, as well as self-guided tours so guests may experience the spaces at their own pace. Docents and staff will be available to answer questions and offer insights into the history of each location.

Perhaps the biggest changes have happened at Meek. During the last year, the first floor and exterior were painted, thanks to the Hayward Area Park and Recreation District. HAHS staff has been busy preparing for opening by bringing in period appropriate furniture from the collections to illustrate how the house may have been furnished. At this time, only the first floor will be open to the public, but that is subject to change in the future. At McConaghy House, visitors will be able to explore both the first and second floors.

The homes will be open free of charge. There is a suggested $5 donation for entry to help with ongoing maintenance of both structures. During open days, appropriate health and safety guidelines set forth by the State of California and Alameda County will be enforced.

The Hayward Area Historical Society connects people, experiences, and stories. For more information about upcoming events and programs, please visit www.haywardareahistory.org or call (510) 581-0223.

Celebrate the 4th, but not with fireworks in San Leandro

SUBMITTED BY SAN LEANDRO PD

With the July 4 Independence Day holiday coming soon, officials from the San Leandro Police Department (SLPD) are reminding residents and visitors that all fireworks -- including the "Safe and Sane" commercial variety -- are illegal in the city.

On Sunday, July 4 special SLPD patrols will be utilized throughout the city to enforce all local and state fireworks safety laws. The intent of these laws is to prevent injury, maintain order in neighborhoods, and prevent fire or damage to structures and/or vegetation. SLPD personnel will treat this as a zero-tolerance issue. Appropriate action will be taken when dealing with violators, including confiscation of all fireworks.

As a safety precaution, the San Leandro Marina will close to visitors at 6:00 p.m. on Sunday, July 4. For details, call SLPD at (510) 577-2740.

On July 13, 2021, at or after 7:30 p.m. the Newark Planning Commission will hold a public hearing to consider:

Draft Old Town Newark Specific Plan The City of Newark is proposing a specific plan for an area of the city known as Old Town Newark. The draft Old Town Specific Plan boundaries are generally identified by Ash Street, Dairy Avenue, Cherry Street and Baint Avenue. The draft Old Town Newark Specific Plan has an overarching goal to create a vibrant, more walkable and pedestrian-friendly commercial district. The Specific Plan allows for greater residential development in a commercial/mixed-use district format that will allow future residents better walking access to parks and recreation, as well as dining and some employment options. The proposed changes would result in a net gain of 29,000 square feet of commercial space and 400 residential units. It also modifies development standards in the residential zoning districts adjacent to the Old Town Commercial Core to provide a better transition between the higher density core and low density neighborhood. This will also increase the residential population that can walk to the services and goods provided in the area of the specific plan. As part of this request, the Planning Commission will consider a recommendation on the adoption of the Old Town Specific Plan, a General Plan amendment, a Zoning Ordinance amendment and a Zoning Map amendment and a CEQA Addendum to the 2013 General Plan Environmental Impact Report. The draft plan is available for public viewing on the city website at https://www.newark.org/departments/community-development/specific-plans-master-plans/old-town-newark-specific-plan

Any interested person or authorized agent or interested members of the public may appear at the public hearing to be heard and may submit written comments or request instructions to view project details and information, including the complete application and project file, including any environmental impact assessment prepared in connection with the application, by contacting the Community Development Department, 37101 Newark Boulevard, Newark, CA, 94560. Telephone: (510) 578-4330, or via email to art.interiano@newark.org. If you challenge a City action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice or in written correspondence delivered to the Newark City Council at, or prior to, the public hearing.

PUBLIC NOTICES

(excluding Section 1777.5) shall result in that contractor or subcontractor, and any entity in which that contractor or subcontractor has an interest, becoming ineligible to bid on or be awarded a contract for a public works project or perform work as a subcontractor on a public works project.

In general, the prevailing wage scale, as determined by the Director of Industrial Relations of the State of California, in force on the day this bid was announced or determined by the administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor, in force on the day bids are opened, whichever is higher, will be the minimum paid to all craftsmen and laborers working on this project. In some cases, prevailing wage determinations have either a single asterisk (*) or double asterisks () after the expiration date in effect on the date of advertisement for bids.

In cases where the prevailing wage determinations have a single asterisk (*) after the expiration date which is in effect on the date of advertisement for bids, such determinations remain in effect for the life of the project. Prevailing wage determinations which have double asterisks () after the expiration date indicate that the basic hourly wage rate, overtime, and holiday pay rates, and employer payments to be paid for work performed after this date have been predetermined. If work is extended past this date, the new rate must be paid and should be incorporated in contracts the Contractor enters into.

Pursuant to Section 1773 of the Labor Code, the general prevailing wage rates in the county, or counties, in which the work is to be done have been determined by the Director of the California Department of Industrial Relations. The wages as set forth in the General Prevailing Wage Rates for this project will be posted at the job site. It is understood that it is the responsibility of the bidder to determine the correct scale. Any errors or defects in the materials in the City Clerk's office will not excuse a bidder's failure to comply with the actual scale then in force.

The Federal minimum wage rates for this project as predetermined by the United States Secretary of Labor are set forth in Appendix I. Addenda to modify the Federal minimum wage rates, if necessary, will be issued to holders of "Proposal and Contract" books. Future effective general prevailing wage rates which have been predetermined and are on file with the California Department of Industrial Relations are referenced but not printed in the general prevailing wage rates.

Attention is directed to the Federal minimum wage rate requirements in the books entitled "Proposal and Contract." If there is a difference between the minimum wage rates predetermined by the Secretary of Labor and the general prevailing wage rates determined by the Director of the California Department of Industrial Relations for similar classifications of labor, the Contractor and Subcontractor shall not pay less than the higher wage rate. The Department will not accept lower State wage rates not specifically included in the Federal minimum wage determinations. This includes "helper" (or other classifications based on hours of experience or any other classification not appearing in the Federal wage determinations. Where Federal wage determinations do not contain the State wage rate determination otherwise available to use by the Contractor and subcontractors, the Contractor and subcontractors shall pay not less than the Federal minimum wage rate which most closely approximates the duties of the employees in question.

14. This Contract is subject to the Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE) program in accordance with Title 49 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Part 26 and the State of California, Department of Transportation DBE Program Plan, Section 2, "Proposal Requirements (DBE)" of these special provisions cover the Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE) requirements. The DBE contract goal is 11 percent.

15. This project is subject to the "Buy America" Provisions of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 as amended by the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 and Moving Ahead for Progress in the 21st Century (MAP-21), section 1518.

The U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) provides a toll-free "hotline" service to report bid rigging activities, bidder collusion and other fraudulent activities. The hotline number is (800) 424-9071. The service is available 24 hours, 7 days a week and is confidential and anonymous. Anyone with knowledge of possible bid rigging, bidder collusion, or other fraudulent activities should use the "hotline" to report these activities. A Petition for Probate has been filed by MICHELE TIERNAN in the Superior Court of California, County of ALAMEDA.

The Petition for Probate requests that MICHELE TIERNAN be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court on AUGUST 2, 2021 at 2:00 P.M. in Dept. 201 Room N/A located at 2120 MARTIN LUTHER KING JR WAY, BERKELEY, CA 94704.

MANDATORY REMOTE APPEARANCE: The Court requires all parties who wish to attend the hearing on the above date and time, including those who wish to state objections, to appear by audio or video technology. The parties should consult the court's website for the specific telephonic and video applications available. The parties may also contact the probate clerk in the respective department for information concerning remote appearances. Parties must be present at least five (5) minutes before the scheduled hearing time.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site <http://www.alisource.com/MortgageServices/DefaultManagement/TrusteeServices.aspx> using the file number assigned to this case 2012-00635. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction, if conducted after January 1, 2021, pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855)-976-3916, or visit this internet website <https://tracker.auction.com/sb1079>, using the file number assigned to this case 2012-00635 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. Temple Beth Torah welcomes Rabbi Zoe McCoon

SUBMITTED BY LAUREN RAVENSCROFT AND BETH EHRLICH

Temple Beth Torah in Fremont is excited to welcome Zoe McCoon as our new Rabbi, following the retirement of Rabbi Avi Schulman on June 30, 2021.

Rabbi Zoe comes to our synagogue from her native Michigan. She was born in Detroit and raised in Flint, Michigan. There she grew up in a small Jewish community of 20-30 families. Rabbi Zoe said the small, close community influenced her strong Jewish commitment. Community members looked out for each other, becoming a second family for the McCoons, who were distanced from their own relatives.

Her May 2021 ordination was from the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in Cincinnati. Rabbi Zoe brings an engaging voice and instrumental music skills that will be welcome here, as music has always been an important component of Temple Beth Torah's worship services. Rabbi Zoe's creativity includes incorporating original songs written by herself and personal friends into her services. She is looking forward to reintegrating in-person music into the services and community after the pandemic.

Rabbi Zoe is looking forward to teaching how to look at Judaism through a human lens and humanity through a Jewish lens. She has written several articles and begun a program called "An Interfaith Response to #MeToo and Gender-Based Violence" during her Fellowship at the Brueggeman Center for Interfaith Dialogue. She also interned at the Hillel at Michigan State, where she received her Bachelor's Degree.

Rabbi Zoe is looking forward to learning from all "The Voices in the Room" represented in Fremont and Temple Beth Torah, such as our LGBTQ community and our Tri-City interfaith community. She encourages "resilient listening" a term she learned during her study in Israel. Some of the themes she has discussed in past Shabbat services include "Home," "Challenging the Status Quo and What We Know," and "Empowerment."

When asked why she wanted to relocate to Northern California, she stated, "I have been told I am a good match for the Bay Area because of my interest in Social, Political and Community Issues that are important to many in the Bay Area."

Temple Beth Torah and Rabbi Zoe McCoon are looking forward to future events with the greater Bay Area Community as they become safe in our post pandemic world.
