At Long Last – John McCutcheon Returns

SUBMITTED BY
BRUCE L. ROBERTS

The South Bay’s most recent John McCutcheon Concert occurred in January of 2020. As with many events, Covid cancelled his January 2021 and 2022 shows, but he has rescheduled his 2022 concert to June 13 at St. James’ Episcopal Church in Fremont. That show will be the last time the South Bay will be able to see John live until 2023. The idea is to enjoy a great concert without having to drive to San Jose or Oakland.

One might ask what John McCutcheon did with himself in the time of Covid. He wrote over 100 songs, produced two albums, “Cabin Fever” and “Bucket List” (with a third due out in the fall), and starred in a number of virtual concerts available via computer.

What have we missed? Concert goers have missed an American Conscience, a master musician (master of guitar, 12-string guitar, banjo, hammer

Founder’s Weekend highlights jubilee year

SUBMITTED BY GARY DORIGHI

On Sunday, June 11, 1797, Father Fermin Francisco de Lasuén dedicated La Misión del Gloriosísimo Patriarca San José, the 14th of the 21 California Missions. And so, in the land of the Ohlone called Oroysom, a new community around the Mission was born. Following California statehood, the area became the village of Mission San Jose with its own Post Office established in 1850. And, in 1956, this village joined with four other districts to become the city of Fremont. Some consider the founding of Mission San José the most significant event in the history of the East Bay.

While special lectures, concerts, walking tours and exhibits are taking place all year long, Mission San José’s Founder’s Weekend Festival on June 11 and 12 represents the pinnacle of this jubilee year. Enjoy food, live music & entertainment, arts & crafts, kids’ activities, beer & wine, as well as a raffle for a cash prize of $2,000. Join one of our docents for a guided tour of the Mission. Shop for everything from olive oil and olive wood products to educational material, apparel and souvenirs. Funds raised from the Founder’s Weekend Festival will be used for the preservation and restoration of Old Mission San José.

WORC: Washington Hospital's Outpatient Rehabilitation Center Helps Patients Heal

Physical Therapy May Be Overlooked as a Pain Solution

“Physical therapy is a low-risk and highly effective treatment for reducing and managing pain, and increasing mobility, strength and stamina,” says Matt Stauffer, DPT. Stauffer is the new Clinic Manager of Washington Hospital's Outpatient Rehabilitation Center (WORC), located at 39141 Civic Center Drive in Fremont, a spacious and welcoming facility that provides outpatient sports medicine and rehabilitation services. WORC serves anyone who needs physical therapy (PT) who is not an admitted patient in a hospital.

The physical therapists at WORC use physical and occupational therapy techniques to treat sports-related and postsurgical musculoskeletal injuries. They also frequently treat chronic and degenerative conditions in the spine and joints, such as arthritis. In addition, WORC will soon be offering vestibular rehabilitation therapy, which targets a patient's balance, dizziness and vertigo symptoms.

“Patients come to WORC with an issue or dysfunction that is keeping them from doing something that they really desire to do. Good physical therapists help patients zero in on their specific goals, and then guide them to meet or exceed those goals. The most rewarding part of my work,” says Stauffer, “is seeing patients right after their injury all the way through to their recovery.”

Physical therapy should treat the whole patient, not just the localized injury. Additional benefits from physical therapy can include reducing fatigue, anxiety, stress and sleep disorders. At WORC, patients may be primarily seeking treatment for an orthopedic injury or pain, but many come in with other health challenges relating to an underlying condition. “We see patients who may have long-haul COVID complications or other residual symptoms from an illness on top of their orthopedic concern. They may have lost muscle mass, endurance, and cardiovascular strength as a result. Our job is to improve the quality of their life across the board. At WORC, we focus on helping the entire person,” says Stauffer.

While most patients who seek PT services do so with a prescription or referral from a doctor, Stauffer explains that California is a Direct Access state, meaning that physical therapists are able to perform rehabilitation therapy without a doctor's referral. “However, there are some limitations set by the law,” he says. “A patient can be seen for up to 12 visits without a doctor's note. But if they want or need to be seen beyond that, patients must be referred to a physician for an evaluation and referral.”

Stauffer says that for physical therapy to be effective, the clinic environment should be calm and inviting. “The first thing you should expect when you come to us is that everyone is friendly and helpful. Therapists must be good listeners to meet their patients' needs.”

At WORC, the staff work hard to match therapeutic treatment and goals to their patients' actual lives. This can include assigning patients to therapists of their choice of gender, and listening carefully to their concerns about what their therapy might entail. “It's all about listening to patients. It is important for us to avoid approaching our patients with preconceptions about their home or work-life and what they want to accomplish. A physical therapist can have a terrific treatment plan, but it just might not work for a particular individual. At WORC, we really try to be receptive to what our patients are going through, and

Get Your Kids Moving This Summer

Local Pediatrician Offers Tips for Staying Active and Healthy

The school year has ended and that means your kids will probably have a lot more time on their hands. It's important to get them moving this summer so they don't spend it screen-addicted.

"Kids need physical activity," said Dr. Bhaskari Peela, a Fremont pediatrician, part of Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF). "You need to figure out ways to keep them active. The first step is to set a screen limit."

She said limiting the time kids spend on their phones and in front of the computer and TV is necessary because they have a hard time self-regulating, and too much screen time is not good for their health.

"When kids get away from their phones and computers, they find things to do," she added. "Kids have the best intentions, but they get sucked in. They start playing video games or looking at social media, and they have no sense of time. You have to step in and set limits."

There are plenty of activities that can keep kids occupied, regardless of your budget. Encourage your kids to get outside and play, and give them toys that promote physical activity like basketballs, soccer balls, jump ropes and bicycles. In the Tri-City Area, summer camps through city recreation departments may offer options for families.

Staying Safe

Bicycle riding and skateboarding are great ways to stay active, but it's important to wear protective gear. Dr. Peela recommends wearing a helmet with any activity where you could crash into pavement, including bike and scooter riding, skateboarding, and roller skating or blading. She also said elbow and knee pads should be worn for skateboarding and roller blading.

"You don't want to be so obsessed with injury that you don't let your kids be active," she added. "But you do need to supervise and take the proper safety precautions."

Most minor cuts, scrapes and bruises can be treated with ice, soap and water, and over-the-counter creams and ointments. If your child has a deep, dark bruise that appears within a couple hours or has intense pain that doesn't subside after an hour, you should seek medical attention and, Dr. Peela warns, you should always take head injuries seriously.

"Anything other than a minor head bang against a wall should be checked," she added. "If your child has a head injury, you should go straight to the emergency room."

Family Affair

"Staying active can be part of your family routine," Dr. Peela notes. "Now that summer is here, the days are longer and there is plenty of time after work to do some physical activity with your kids." Dr. Peela suggests taking your kids out for an evening walk or bike ride around the neighborhood. Weekends could include longer bike rides and hikes, or visits to a local museum. There are hundreds of local parks, gardens and beaches that are accessible to Bay Area families.

Fourth Graders Qualify for National Park Passes

The Federal Land Management launched the Every Kid Outdoors Initiative which provides free passes for children in the fourth grade and their families to visit national parks, forests, landmarks and water ways throughout the United States. Information can be found on the National Park Foundation website, www.nationalparks.org.

Safety Reminders

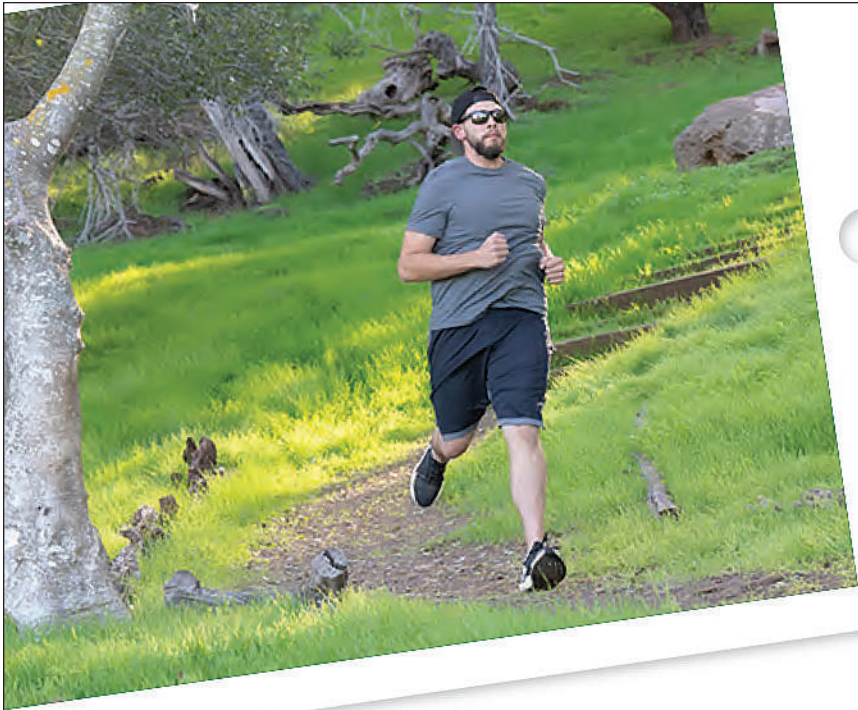

Outdoor time brings risk of sunburns or bug bites. Be sure to use and reapply sun screen and if going to be outdoors at dusk, bug repellent is a good idea.

Some relaxing is good too

"While it's important to get your kids active, some amount of lounging around is fine," says Dr. Peela. "Remember, it's called a summer break for a reason. You don't need to keep kids booked all day, every day. Just make sure they get out of the house and moving for at least a few hours each day."

Pride Month: A brief history and opportunity to celebrate

SUBMITTED BY JOHN SCHINKEL

Recognized across the globe as a celebration of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Intersex, and Queer people, June represents Pride Month. This month was selected to recognize the people, history and allies of the LGBTQ+ community because of its significance in commemorating the June 1969 Stonewall Riots – the series of New York City riots that marked a turning point in Gay Rights history.

LGBTQ+ Pride is a celebration of diversity in sexuality and gender identity & expression. While white, gay men have often been in the spotlight of the Gay Rights Movement, a more critical lens unveils the LGBTQ+ community members of color that were, and continue to be, fierce advocates against oppressive heteronormative forces. During this month, we celebrate all who contribute to the successes against injustice, and energize new generations to continue the fight for a more just future.

The LGBTQ+ community continues to pursue equal rights, justice and acceptance even during this celebration. In recent years, landmark federal victories have included the 2015 Supreme Court ruling in favor of Same Sex Marriages, federal anti-discrimination for LGBTQ+ workers in 2020, and the 2021 reversal of the ban on Transgender individuals serving in the military, along with gender nonbinary passport issuance.

This year, 2022, it is especially important that we continue to support the Transgender community as they continue their struggle to gain acceptance and validation. In 2021, at least 50 trans women were murdered in the United States, up from at least 37 in 2020. In a majority of these cases, victims were Black and Latinx women. According to the Human Rights Campaign, this number is presented with the prefix of “at least” due to some cases not being reported or cases being misreported. These devastating statistics prove that all too often fear and lack of understanding, coupled with hatred of those who are different, cause real harm. The time is now to end the stigma, ignorance and hate toward this community.

Public opinion is leaning more toward acceptance than ever before. Even so, this Pride month is a solemn time due to continued attacks against the LGBTQ+ community. Some states continue to propose legislation that blocks healthcare for transgender youth, preventing crucial gender-affirming medicine. Meanwhile, other states are passing bills prohibiting discussion of homosexuality in classrooms, wiping away inclusion of a percentage of every student body. The Human Rights Campaign says that by the end of March 2022 there were nearly 240 bills identified as anti-LGBTQ+ proposed by state lawmakers. Every time one of these bills is introduced or passed, it sets back the clock on our journey to total acceptance, returning Americans to the oppressive conditions of being in the closet.

If you’ve been by Fremont City Hall lately, you may notice that on the flagpole is a rainbow flag. In 2019, the City of Fremont joined other cities across the Bay Area in improving its visual solidarity with the LGBTQ+ community through raising the rainbow flag every June. Each year, the flag continues to be met with opposition from some residents who find it “inappropriate” and “political.” Others have attempted to wash its significance by suggesting the raising of other flags to commemorate this or that – a sort of “whataboutism.” The fact remains that the rainbow flag is not political as it stands for no one movement or agenda, but is instead a celebration of those it represents. The rainbow flag flying high is another reminder that all members of the LGBTQ+ community should feel safe and welcome as they live, learn, work and play.

Looking for an opportunity to improve Fremont’s LGBTQ+ community’s visibility? In the Bay Area, we are lucky to be home to one of the most well-known Pride Month events in the United States, and quite possibly the world: San Francisco Pride. This two-day celebration takes place annually in Downtown San Francisco on the last weekend in June, with a festival on Saturday followed by the parade on Sunday.

Fremont is proud to once again attend this event with an entry organized by our Human Relations Commissioners. This year, the City of Fremont will have a walking contingent in the parade on June 26, and everyone in the Tri-City area is encouraged to participate. If you are interested in joining the march, register at: tinyurl.com/FremontHRCPride.

to offer exercise regimens that are realistic and achievable in their lives, so that they can make measurable progress."

The largest percentage of WORC patients are seen for orthopedic sports medicine, either following surgery or as the first line of treatment to heal an injury. From treating concussions to extremity injuries, WORC therapists help athletes and physically active people return to their prior level of activity. Stauffer says that the most successful patients are those that are committed to improving their condition and who want to learn how to avoid further injury. "Physical therapists are educators as well as clinicians. Our responsibilities include teaching our patients about their treatment strategy and about preventing injuries in the future. We see the greatest progress with patients who are engaged and ask a lot of questions. Patients who come to us motivated and willing to put in the work are able to optimize the results of their physical therapy."

Among WORC's specialized therapy programs is its Legacy Strength Training Program that is designed to provide patients with "slow-motion" exercise using specialized equipment. Typically, patients participate in the Legacy Program prior to surgery to build up their strength, or once they have completed regular physical therapy. Stauffer explains, "The Legacy Program is a circuit training regimen. WORC has exercise machines that we set to fit the patient. The workout uses slow movement and repetition to build strength without excessive pressure on joints or muscle tissue. It is most appropriate for patients with a chronic injury, arthritis, degenerative disease, or a history of surgery. It is ideal for individuals who want to build muscle in a safe and controlled way, supervised by a certified personal fitness coach."

Washington Outpatient Rehabilitation Center is located at 39141 Civic Center Drive in Fremont. To find out more about its sports medicine and Legacy Strength Training programs, call 510.794.9672 or visit www.whhs.com/OPrehab.

Three Gifted Choirs pay homage to the world's displaced people

SUBMITTED BY SHIRLEY GILBERT

According to the Internal Displacement Monitoring Center, there were 55 million displaced people in the world at the end of 2020. Add to that, some 14 million Ukrainians have had to flee their besieged country in the last three months. In Fremont alone, homelessness has increased 68 percent in the past three years.

Mission Peak Chamber Singers (MPCS), East Bay People's Choir (EBPC) and First Presbyterian Church Livermore Sanctuary Choir (FPCLSC) invite you to two concerts honoring those who have tragically had to abandon their homes because of fire, conflict or disaster.

The concerts will take place on June 18 at Christ the King Lutheran Church in Fremont and June 19 at First Presbyterian Church Livermore.

Dr. Corie Brown, Artistic Director of MPCS and EBPC, believes that music can be a tool to tell a story and to connect around an important issue. These two concerts will shed light on stories of those who have had to leave their homes. They will also allow audience and performers to reckon with the mass movement of people today and in the past.

The concert is divided into three pillars. The first features the famous "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure which, according to Dr. Brown, has some of the most beautiful melodies ever written and focuses on eternal rest and consolation. The second pillar features movements from Caroline Shaw's "To The Hands," among other pieces that bring awareness of the incredible number of displaced people around the world. "The third pillar," says Dr. Brown, "is one of joy. The joy found through welcoming new faces into a community, the joy of finding a sense of 'home' from within, and the joy that is shared as a reclamation amidst pain and turmoil."

East Bay People's Choir, directed by Sid Quinsaas, will sing about the beauty and blessedness of home through a piece by John Denver and other selections.

Also on stage will be First Presbyterian Church Livermore Sanctuary Choir who will join the Mission Peak and East Bay People's choirs. The church choir is conducted by Janet Holmes, its musical director for 10 years and collaborative pianist of Mission Peak Chamber Singers. The Sanctuary Choir will sing two songs: "Soon We Will Be Done" by Kyle Pederson and "The Gate of Heaven" by Craig Courtney. Both speak to the issue of global inequality and the dignity and worth of all peoples.

Artistic Director Corie Brown is excited about presenting so many passionate voices raised in honor of the world's displaced people. "We are paying homage to those forced to leave their homes, and at the same time, bringing awareness to the subject through music. You won't want to miss this beautiful concert."

COVID POLICY:

We ask that you show proof of vaccination or a negative test within 72 hours and wear your mask. Masks will be optional for performers, who are all fully vaccinated.

Niles celebrates Flag Day

SUBMITTED BY CAROL WILLIAMSON

Niles Main Street Association is sponsoring a rally around the Niles flag pole in Niles Plaza on Tuesday, June 14 in celebration of flag day.

A flag pole has stood in Niles Plaza since 1918, when a pole was purchased with money raised by Niles Women's club. It was dedicated to the three soldiers of Niles who had lost their lives in World War I. The pole stood on this spot for 86 years until it was taken down and replaced in April 2004.

Studying the wooden pole's growth rings showed something interesting. It came from a tree felled in 1888 to serve as a steamship mast, but before that the tree had been growing for 120 years! In 2004 it was 236 years old. The current pole saw its first flag raising on May 17, 2004.

On Tuesday's rally, there will be a short talk with more details about the Niles flag pole's history, followed by a light refreshment.

Flag Day Rally Tuesday, Jun 14 6 p.m. Niles Plaza 37592 Niles Blvd., Fremont (510) 857-6512 https://www.niles.org/

Celebrate Safely

SUBMITTED BY PG&E

California's graduation season has begun, and it's important that all celebrants understand the public safety risks associated with helium-filled metallic balloons. If your graduation celebration involves balloons, make sure they are secured with a weight. Unweighted balloons can float away and come into contact with overhead power lines, causing power outages and creating a public safety risk.

Balloons striking electric lines have caused nearly 152 power outages in PG&E's service area alone, disrupting service to more than 56,000 customers. These power outages can interrupt electric service to critical facilities such as hospitals, schools, and traffic lights.

PG&E's Asset Failure Analysis team found that a greater percentage of fires caused by balloons were larger than 1/4 acre compared to fires attributed to other common ignition sources tracked by PG&E.

For example, last month a balloon made contact with an electric line and caused a grass fire near Fresno. In April, a balloon in Madera hit a power line and started a grass fire, knocking out power to more than 13,000 people.

PG&E conducted a demonstration to show what can happen when metallic balloons become lose and hit utility power lines. You can watch the video here: https://bit.ly/3z5mEPI

To significantly reduce the number of balloon-caused outages and to safely enjoy graduations, Father's Day and summer celebrations, PG&E asks customers to follow these important safety tips for metallic balloons:

- Buy latex or rubber balloons instead of metallic.
- "Look Up and Live!" Use caution and avoid celebrating with metallic balloons near overhead electric lines.
- Make sure helium-filled metallic balloons are securely tied to a weight that is heavy enough to prevent them from floating away. Never remove the weight.
- When possible, keep metallic balloons indoors. Never permit metallic balloons to be released outside, for everyone's safety.
- Do not bundle metallic balloons together.
- Never attempt to retrieve any type of balloon, kite, drone, or toy that becomes caught in a power line. Leave it alone, and immediately call PG&E at 1-800-743-5000 to report the problem.
- Never go near a power line that has fallen to the ground or is dangling in the air. Always assume downed electric lines are energized and extremely dangerous. Stay far away, keep others away and immediately call 911 to alert the police and fire departments.

Better Block Mission San Jose

SUBMITTED BY CITY OF FREMONT

In partnership with Better Block Foundation, the city is excited to begin Better Block Mission San Jose, the temporary transformation of Ellsworth Street in historic Mission San Jose. Over the next few months, the Mission San Jose community will reimagine Ellsworth Street as a lively, safe and welcoming neighborhood space and thriving commercial district for all ages and backgrounds. This community-led vision will culminate in a two-day placemaking event this September that will help residents get creative with their public space.

While the two-day event will take place in September, the visioning starts now. The city is inviting all community members to fill out the Better Block Community Survey, which closes Thursday, June 9. This will give the city a better idea of what kinds of activities, events and atmosphere the community would like to see in the Mission San Jose district. The feedback received will directly shape the transformation of Ellsworth Street!

Park It: Sand Castle and Sculpture Contest

BY NED MACKAY

Castles of sand will rise from the strand once again on Saturday, June 11, during the 54th annual Sand Castle and Sculpture Contest at Crown Beach in Alameda.

This is always a great family event, a tribute to everyone's creativity and sense of humor. It's free, co-sponsored by the East Bay Regional Park District, Alameda Recreation & Parks Department, Alameda Youth Committee, and Bay View Women's Club. If you don't participate, it's fun just to check out the contest entries.

Registration is from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Crown Beach bathhouse in the categories of ages 12 and under, 13 and over, or family group. Between 9 a.m. and 12 noon, contestants can construct either a castle or a sculpture, using only items found on the beach. Judging starts at noon; ribbons and trophies are awarded at approximately 1 p.m. At high tide, King Neptune reclaims all entries.

The Crown Beach entrance is at the intersection of Otis and Westline Drives. There's a parking fee of $5 per vehicle. For more information on the contest, visit www.alamedaca.gov/Departments/Recreation-Parks/Sand-Castle-Sculpture-Contest.

Nearby at Crab Cove Visitor Center, dashing dragonflies are the theme of Family Nature Fun Hour from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. the same day as the sand castle contest. And the program repeats at the same time on Sunday, June 12. The naturalist staff will talk about the insects' life cycle, then lead search for them at a nearby pond.

The program is free and registration is not necessary. All are welcome. The center is located at 1252 McKay Avenue off Alameda's Central Avenue, or you can walk to it from the Crown Beach bathhouse. For information, call (510) 544-3187.

Coffee, tea and conversation with naturalist Trent Pearce are the attractions of a free program from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturday, June 11 at the Environmental Education Center in Tilden Nature Area near Berkeley. Trent has lots of information about the plants, animals and trails of the Nature Area.

This is a drop-in program. Registration is not required, and all are welcome. The center is located at the north end of Tilden's Central Park Drive, accessible from Canon Drive via Grizzly Peak Boulevard in Berkeley. For information, call (510) 544-2233.

More programs in the series "Little Things, Big Deal" are on the calendar from 11 a.m. to 12 noon and 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. on every Saturday and Sunday in June at Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley.

The "little things" are plankton, microscopic organisms that are critical to life in the Delta and beyond. Naturalists will set up microscopes at the Big Break visitor center to help you view the organisms and learn how human activity is threatening them.

Big Break also will host a bilingual campfire program (English and Spanish) from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday, June 11 and 12. The campfires are free and registration isn't required. The host is naturalist Misti Marsh. Bring a picnic dinner to the park, then join the campfire activities, including that gooey treat, S'mores. The program's the same both days; attend one or the other.

Big Break is at 69 Big Break Road off Oakley's Main Street. For information, call (510) 544-3050.

Julius Squeezer, the live snake ambassador at Del Valle Regional Park south of Livermore, is the star of a snake program from 11:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Sunday, June 12 at the park's visitor center. Learn about snakes' role in the natural world and enjoy a safe, close-up encounter with Julius.

Del Valle is at the end of Del Valle Road off Mines Road about nine miles south of downtown Livermore. There's a parking fee of $6 per vehicle.

This is just a sample of activities available in the regional parks. For a complete schedule, visit the website, www.ebparks.org, and click on "Things To Do" at the top of the home page.

Trash Talk

BY THE PICK UP ARTIST

This is the seventeenth edition of Trash Talk, a column devoted to cleaning up our neighborhoods.

Butt Out – Part 3, Solutions

In the last two editions, I covered the scope of the tobacco waste issue and the toxicity and potential hazards of cigarette butts. I don't like to address a problem without having some possible solutions, so I will offer them here.

The butt waste problem

Every year, smokers burn through 5.5 trillion cigarettes globally (www.cigwaste.org). Most get flicked away and end up littering the environment (up to two-thirds, according to some estimates. In fact, cigarette butts are the biggest ocean contaminant—Not plastic straws (Forbes).

While the cigarette itself is biodegradable, filters are not. They contain cellulose acetate, a type of plastic that can take up to ten years to photodegrade. And cigarettes aren't exactly good for the environment. A recent study determined that a single butt in just one liter of water can kill a fish.

That's why organizations like the Cigarette Butt Pollution Project are striving to eliminate tobacco waste altogether. Though cities haven't talked bans yet, Toronto, has launched a campaign advising Torontonians to properly dispose of their butts. It's called: "Don't be a flicking idiot."

What is a better way to dispose of cigarette butts?

Butts should go in the garbage, never on the ground. Your city might have ash catchers, too. But make sure to put your smoke out before tossing. Cigarette butts cause a surprising number of fires every year.

Cigarette butts in the environment are a litter issue—not a smoking issue. Just as soda manufacturers have no control over the consumer's disposal of empty cans or bottles, cigarette manufacturers cannot control where a smoker flicks cigarette butts. Beverage manufacturers contribute to litter prevention campaigns and have invested in public education on litter issues. Some people think the tobacco industry should do more. It has been suggested there should be a surtax on cigarettes like the CRV (California Redemption Value) on recyclable bottles and cans.

Thus far, cigarette manufacturers have made small efforts at litter prevention education. They need to take an active role in educating smokers and devote resources to the cleanup of cigarette litter. Strategies can include anti-litter messages on all packaging and advertisements, distribution of small, free portable ashtrays, and placement and maintenance of outdoor ashtrays in areas where smokers gather. Maybe cigarette packages can be redesigned to accommodate discarded butts.

Do YOU want to make a difference?

You can make your own "Butt-Picker" from a dowel, stick or broom handle. I happened to find a broom on one of my pick-ups and saved the handle. I simply taped a thumbtack to one end for jabbing the little buggers. Use a strong tape like duct-tape, electrician's tape or strapping.

I had a little trouble with version 1.0; the point broke off the thumbtack. So, I used a stronger nail and fastened it with a small hose clamp, (Butt Picker 2.0). That problem is solved, but still have to aim it just right; a butt is a small target at three feet away. It's frustrating.

So I tried adding a few more nails for better accuracy. Butt Picker 3.0 worked much better. Still, if the prongs were retractable, it wouldn't stab feet accidentally. It would also push the cigarette butt off the tool into the collection container.

I remembered seeing a flex-claw tool for picking up small objects. An online search showed there are some available in a 36" length. I couldn't find any in my local store, so bought one online. This tool is just right for collecting, and you don't have to make your own. A simple push-button extends four little "fingers" to pick up butts for proper disposal or recycling (yes, butts can be recycled; see the July edition). Search for terms "flex claw" or "retriever snake." Some that are magnetic or include a lighted end.

I found this effective, but it is very flexible. I taped another rod along side of it to make it stiffer, easier to aim.

So, you've caught a cigarette butt on your tool. Now what? Take along a receptacle like a zip-lock baggie so you don't have to touch the little tobacco turds. Since the plastic bag is also an environmental no-no, I'd recommend a metal tin, like those for breath mints. It's also reusable, a much better option.

For an inspirational success story on cleaning up cigarette butts, there is an article about five people who collected 1,000 butts in just 30 minutes! They anticipated filling five jars but ended up filling nine!

Now go out there and pick some butt!

Quotes for today:

"Do it." - Neil Diamond

"Just do it." - Nike

Answer to the last Trash Talk Question:

The suggestion of an article about cigarette butts led me to research - enough to cover three, maybe four, issues!

The Trash Talk Question for today:

I think a suction device like a vacuum cleaner would be a better butt-picker, but don't want to take one on my trash routes. Do you have a better idea? Send me a description or picture of your solution; I'll print the best ones in a future column.

Tri-City History in Photographs #5: Mission (part 1 of 2)

BY KELSEY CAMELLO, FOR THE WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP
MUSEUM OF LOCAL HISTORY

Mission (noun): A group of people sent by a religious body, especially a Christian church, to a foreign country to do religious and social work. / (verb): To direct a mission to or establish a mission in a given region.

1797 / 1997: This painting of the founding of Mission San Jose in 1797 is one of a series created by Hal Booth as a possible cover for the book Two Centuries of Mission San Jose by Philip Holmes, published in 1997. No paintings or drawings of this historic event were available, so Booth based his paintings on verbal records available.

1826: Watercolor painting of vaqueros roping a cow with Mission San Jose and Mission Peak in the background. This painting was done by William Smyth during the winter 1826-27 foray into the San Francisco Bay Area and Monterey, which occurred under the command of English Captain Frederick William Beechey during an expedition to chart the area and discover a Northwest Passage. In his notes Beechey wrote that in 1826, Mission San Jose possessed 15,000 head of cattle and 3,000 head of sheep, which roamed throughout today's Tri-City Area.

Mid to late 1800s: The Mission San Jose Complex during or just after the transition from Mexican to American rule, as photographed by Carleton Watkins - best known for his landscape photography, specifically of Yosemite. Watkins' photographs made the west visually accessible to Americans in the east.

June 13, 1897: Open Air High Mass during the Centenary Anniversary of the founding of Mission San Jose. The full day program included a parade, high mass in three languages, a "bounteous" barbecue given free to all who attended, as well as live music and dance performances. Special trains came from San Francisco and San Jose into Niles and Irvington for this notable occasion.

Don't forget to help celebrate the 225th year since the founding of Mission San Jose. Enjoy the many cultures of Mission San Jose this weekend, June 11 and 12, at the Founder's Weekend Festival. More information at <https://mission225.org/>.

Local Olympian Talks about Youth Mental Health

BY ANUSHKA VASUDEV

Mental health is something that, for everyone, involves different emotions, feelings, and experiences. However we choose to define it, mental health can affect every part of our daily lives. While we may have gotten a close glimpse at our own state of mind over the pandemic, we have also recently seen many athletes and celebrities demonstrate the importance of taking care of ourselves.

Karen Chen, figure skater of Fremont, 2022 Olympic Silver Medalist, and 2017 U.S. national champion, took an opportunity to give back to her community by addressing young students and teens in the virtual panel "Keeping Calm Under Pressure" with professional school counselor and host Morgan Champion and California Connections Academy.

The June 1 panel began with Chen sharing her journey from a shy young student who found an outlet in skating, to how she took her passion to the big stage many times at the U.S. national championships and Olympics. While it is easy to get carried away in the spotlight, Chen shares, "If I were to describe my entire skating career in one word, it would be a rollercoaster." Despite her love for skating, Chen has experienced a lot of emotional ups and downs from moments when she was eagerly getting ready for competitions to times when she came off the ice after subpar performances. Chen says, "It's something I'm still working on: differentiating my self-worth and identity and my success in skating."

Students who feel similar pressures in their own high-achieving environments can relate to Chen's experiences. For teenagers who feel overwhelmed with all the expectations placed on them, Chen reminded her young audience that "it's okay to be scared, but it's also important to voice how you are feeling." She then explained how simply talking to someone about what was going on made her feel so much better than before. In a separate interview, Champion voiced a similar message: "If we break a leg or get a cold, we go to the doctor; we need to do the same with our emotional health too. Think of mental health as our emotional fitness."

While it is difficult to take that first step, both Champion and Chen agree that reaching out for help is not only crucial in improving our own well-being, but also improving youth mental health as a whole. Chen said that she's "hoping that [her] opening up about [her journey] will help others feel less alone in their struggles."

Before she competes, Chen always reminds herself that "whatever it is; it is a journey. It is a process." Our collective efforts to improve mental health on a societal level as well as our actions to strengthen ourselves mentally and physically won't be accomplished overnight. Rather, we must toil through a long path, one that will take open mindedness, patience, and compassion from ourselves and our community. Just like Champion says: "We always have a choice to take care of ourselves." We all have a choice to show care and concern for our neighbors, friends, and ourselves.

Crabby little robot

Some engineers might build things that are bigger but these engineers created a robot measuring half a millimeter wide -- less than half the width of a grain of sand, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens (AMAC). It's got to be the world's smallest automaton. It looks like a very tiny crab and it walks, it twists and turns and it can jump. And, says a Northwestern University engineering professor, it took him and his team about a year and a half to build it. He says it can be used "to repair or assemble small structures or machines in industry or as surgical assistants to clear clogged arteries, to stop internal bleeding or to eliminate cancerous tumors -- all in minimally invasive procedures." See the tiny robots on YouTube: www.youtube.com/watch?v=1IP7jptXjgQ.

Beware the worms

Jumping worms have invaded California much to the chagrin of gardeners, says AMAC. The California Department of Food and Agriculture says they are "True to their name, they jump and thrash immediately when handled, behaving more like a threatened snake than a worm, sometimes even breaking and shedding their tail when caught." According to the experts at Cornell University, "Asian jumping worms are a relatively new invasive species [they can deplete soil of nutrients and damage plant roots] ... but they are rapidly spreading across the United States. They can be found in the Southeast, along the Eastern Seaboard, and in the mid-Atlantic, Midwest, and some Northwestern states." See the jumping worms on YouTube: www.youtube.com/watch?v=0bFl6Pw6nzQ.

Poetic license

British poet, Edward Lear, was born on May 12, 1812. Who is Edward Lear, you ask? He is known for popularizing those "short, humorous, nonsense poem" known as limericks via a book he wrote called, "A Book of Nonsense," says AMAC. May 12 -- in case you missed it -- was National Limerick Day. Here's one of Lear's limericks: There was an Old Man with a beard, Who said, "It is just as I feared! -- Two Owls and a Hen, four Larks and a Wren, Have all built their nests in my beard. Stars of the Sea

Seeing Stars

What is a sea star and what is it not?
A starfish is not a fish at all. Many marine biologists want to change its name to a sea star, because most of them look like stars. Sea stars are echinoderms (eh-keen-oh-durmz)—animals that lack a back bone.

Sea Star's Rays

Sea stars have arms but no legs. Their arms are called rays. Some sea stars have five rays, some have six, ten or twenty.

Chow Time!

Sea stars have no eyes, no ears, no nose. They do have a _____ on their underside. To eat, a sea star _____ on top of, and slowly wraps its _____ around its food.

One thing sea stars like to eat is clams. Once one has wrapped its rays around a clam _____, its hundreds of tentacles _____ to the shell and hang onto it as it pulls and pulls until the shell opens. As soon as it opens just a little, the sea star _____ its stomach out of its body and into the shell and _____ the clam. This can take an hour or two.

No Bones About It

Sea stars don't have skeletons. Their spiny, tough skin gives them their shape and protects them.

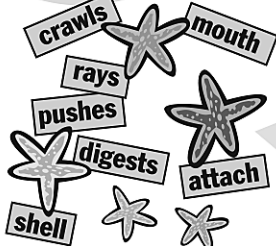

Neat Feet

Sea stars have feet but no toes. If you look on the bottom of a sea star's ray, you will see rows of soft tentacles called tube feet. The sea star slowly creeps along on these feet.

You can create a new creature from the parts of creatures pictured in today's newspaper. Cut out different parts of different people and animals found in today's newspaper. Amazing Sea Stars

Sea stars do something nearly no other animal. Can do. If a sea star loses a ray, it will grow another ray. Not only that—the ray that broke off can become an entirely new sea star. In fact, if a sea star is broken into pieces, each piece can become a whole new sea star.

While sea stars love eating clams, they will also eat a dead fish or dead crab, if it is lucky enough to crawl over one.

Online program discusses climate change through artwork

SUBMITTED BY
MARCESS OWINGS

Hayward Area Historical Society is hosting an online program to discuss climate change with local artist and environmentalist Jennifer Koney. The artist will discuss the long-term effect of sea levels rising, as well as her process for creating her paintings. The webinar will take place on Saturday, June 11.

Koney, a retired parks employee, was inspired to create her series of paintings as a response to climate change. Her process of pouring and protecting images of glaciers and icebergs reflects the subject matter itself: inundation and sea-level rise. Each painting has a horizon line at 55 inches from the floor for the viewer to experience just how much the San Francisco Bay is expected to rise by the year 2100 as a tangible mark made physical.

Pre-registration is required to attend the event online. There is a suggested $10 donation to help support this and future online programming offered by the Historical Society. To register or for more information, please visit www.haywardareahistory.org.

New Hire at Castro Valley Market Place

SUBMITTED BY TERRY LIEBOWITZ

Twenty-three-year-old Hayward native Austin Walker is the new man in town at Castro Valley's Market Place. Austin accepted the fulltime position of Event Coordinator at the Market Place after recently graduating from Cal State East Bay.

Boss Craig Semmelmeier put him right to work developing his idea of a weekly Art Walk on the Paseo. In short order, Austin designed a logo and contacted local artists. Every Wednesday between 5 p.m. - 8 p.m., different artists bring their work to the Paseo in the Market Place. Each artist has a 6-foot table on which to display their work. Austin reports that he has received very favorable comments from the artists. Castro Valley artist Ekaterina Bazlakova is so happy with her sales at the Art Walk that she has signed up four weeks in a row. For some, this is the first time that they have been able to sell their own work, rather than turning it over to a gallery. They all agreed that meeting their customers was the best part!

Austin is also in charge of the ongoing Maker's Market on Saturdays between 10 a.m. – 3 p.m. Olive +Finn clothing, Nakawe soap, and Stone Lumber Dirt, (hand crafted wood and concrete planters) are some of the pop-up vendors who set up shop for the day. Both the Art Walk artists and the Market Makers pay 15% to the Market Place for any goods sold. Austin welcomes new artists and artisans to the Market Place as he develops the reputation of the Market Place as a shopping destination for unusual gifts.

And finally, Austin oversees the leases of conference spaces for 32-60 participants at the Market Place. He has leased out the spaces for birthday parties, conferences and classes. Austin shared that the job is "a lot harder than he expected." In his free time, he enjoys sports, music and working out. Welcome to Castro Valley, Austin!

Honoring Native American Culture

SUBMITTED BY RUTH EGERMAN

A new, powerful exhibit "The Artists Among Us: Native People Today" will be on display at Bankhead Art Gallery through July 31, 2022 featuring artists of Native descent. Artists of the exhibit are from the Bay Area and beyond, representing different tribes their life experiences as Native artists.

Working with Mary Puthoff from Livermore American Indian Center, Livermore Valley Arts reached out to Native artists with the idea of bringing an exhibit that tells the story that Native people are here and that most have a keen artistic sense, some creating art in formal manners such as oil on canvas and others incorporating artistic sensibility in their craft and everyday lives.

This exhibit aims to bring art that represents Native culture in all of its contemporary forms, witnessed in pieces such as "Stay in Touch" by John Balloue and "Big River Scene" by California Native Glass.

Bankhead Art Gallery is located in the lobby of Bankhead Theater in Livermore. The public is invited to share in this powerful exhibit to honor the Native peoples on whose land we live.

Solstice Shadows

Credit: NASA/DSCOVR EPIC

BY DAVID PROSPER

Solstices mark the changing of seasons, occur twice a year, and feature the year's shortest and longest daylight hours - depending on your hemisphere. These extremes in the length of day and night make solstice days more noticeable to many observers than the subtle equality of day and night experienced during equinoxes. Solstices were some of our earliest astronomical observations, celebrated throughout history via summer and winter celebrations.

Solstices occur twice yearly, and in 2022 they arrive on June 21 at 5:13 am EDT (9:13 UTC), and December 21 at 4:48pm EST (21:48 UTC). The June solstice marks the moment when the Sun is at its northernmost position in relation to Earth's equator, and the December solstice marks its southernmost position. The summer solstice occurs on the day when the Sun reaches its highest point at solar noon for regions outside of the tropics, and those observers experience the longest amount of daylight for the year.

Conversely, during the winter solstice, the Sun is at its lowest point at solar noon for the year, and observers outside of the tropics experience the least amount of daylight—and the longest night—of the year. The June solstice marks the beginning of summer for folks in the Northern Hemisphere and winter for Southern Hemisphere folks, and in December the opposite is true, as a result of the tilt of Earth's axis of rotation.

For example, this means that the Northern Hemisphere receives more direct light from the Sun than the Southern Hemisphere during the June solstice. Earth's tilt is enough that northern polar regions experience 24-hour sunlight during the June solstice, while southern polar regions experience 24-hour night, deep in Earth's shadow. That same tilt means that the Earth's polar regions also experience a reversal of light and shadow half a year later in December, with 24 hours of night in the north and 24 hours of daylight in the south. These extreme lighting conditions can last for many months, their duration deepening the closer you are to the poles.

While solstice days are very noticeable to observers in mid to high latitudes, that's not the case for observers in the tropics - areas of Earth found between the Tropic of Cancer and the Tropic of Capricorn. Instead, individuals experience two “zero shadow” days per year. On these days, with the sun directly overhead at solar noon, objects cast a minimal shadow compared to the rest of the year. If you want to see your own shadow at that moment, you have to jump!

The exact date for zero shadow days depends on latitude; observers on the Tropic of Cancer (23.5° north of the equator) experience a zero shadow day on the June solstice, and observers on the Tropic of Capricorn (23.5° south of the equator) get their zero shadow day on December's solstice. Observers on the equator experience two zero shadow days, being exactly in between these two lines of latitude; equatorial zero shadow days fall on the March and September equinoxes.

There is some serious science that can be done by carefully observing solstice shadows. In approximately 200 BC, Eratosthenes is said to have observed sunlight shining straight down the shaft of a well during high noon on the solstice, near the modern-day Egyptian city of Aswan. Inspired, he compared measurements of solstice shadows between that location and measurements taken north, in the city of Alexandria. By calculating the difference in the lengths of these shadows, along with the distance between the two cities, Eratosthenes calculated a rough early estimate for the circumference of Earth – and also provided further evidence that the Earth is a sphere!

Are you having difficulty visualizing solstice lighting and geometry? You can build a “Suntrack” model that helps demonstrate the path the Sun takes through the sky during the seasons. Find instructions at stanford.io/3FY4mBm. You can find more fun activities and resources like this model on NASA Wavelength: science.nasa.gov/learners/wavelength. And of course, discover the latest NASA science at nasa.gov.

This article is distributed by NASA's Night Sky Network (NSN). The NSN supports astronomy clubs across the USA dedicated to astronomy outreach. Visit nightsky.jpl.nasa.gov to find local clubs, events, and more!

A presenter from the San Antonio Astronomy Club in Puerto Rico demonstrating Earth-Sun geometry during a “Zero Shadow Day” event. As Puerto Rico lies a few degrees south of the Tropic of Cancer, their two zero shadow days arrive just a few weeks before and after the June solstice.

Five sweet syrups made from your garden

BY DANIEL O'DONNELL

Children begin to use more than one sense at a time to judge the world around them after about age eight. This process is honed by the time they reach adulthood and allows them to gain more knowledge about their surroundings and better remember experiences. Using more than one sense at a time can also enhance a pleasant experience, such as enjoying the garden. It is already pleasing to sit under a tree on a hot day and feel a cool breeze gently pass by. Include the smell of some flowers in bloom, the sound of a fountain, the sight of a hummingbird drinking, and the enjoyment of the experience is amplified. Add a tasty drink made with syrup created from plants in the garden and your happiness will spike.

There are many commonly used plants in Bay Area gardens that make great syrups to elevate a cocktail. There are a few theories as to where the word cocktail originated. The earliest mention of the word was in 1789 in the London Telegraph. People are still using the term today. However, just as early as some people were enjoying cocktails, others were appreciating “Temperance drinks” know today as mocktails. The same syrups can also be used to enhance these non-alcoholic drinks. Below are five syrup recipes using plants popular in this area.

Rosemary is more commonly used in cooking, but in a syrup, it imparts a slight woody/lemony taste to gin or vodka cocktails, lemonade-based drinks, or iced coffee.

Rosemary syrup:

- 1 cup water
- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ cup rosemary

Combine ingredients in a non-reactive pot and bring to a boil, stirring continuously. Turn off the heat and let steep for 30 minutes. Strain cooled syrup into a glass jar and refrigerate until needed.

Lemon balm is an easy-to-grow herb that produces leaves that give off a strong lemon scent when rubbed. Lemon balm leaves work well in shrubs, which are syrups made with concentrated fruits, different sugars, aromatics, and vinegar. Shrub pairs well with darker alcohols such as rum or whiskey, or on its own with soda water.

Lemon balm and raspberry shrub:

- ½ cup chopped lemon balm leaves
- 2 cups raspberries
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup apple cider vinegar

Place lemon balm leaves, raspberries, and sugar in a bowl and crush with a potato masher until blended. Cover and place in the refrigerator for 2-3 days, stirring occasionally. After 2-3 days, line a fine mesh sieve with cheesecloth and strain the mixture into a bowl. When all the liquid has seeped out, lift the cheesecloth out of the strainer and squeeze any remaining juice. Add an equal amount of apple cider vinegar and mix well. Pour into a glass jar and store in the refrigerator for at least an hour until ready to use.

Rose petals make a delicate fragrant syrup that combines well with clear spirit drinks, soda water, lemonade, and mild blends of iced coffees.

Rose petal syrup:

- 3 packed cups of non-sprayed pink or red rose petals (cut where the color changes from white to pink or red)
- 6 cups caster sugar
- 3 cups water
- 1 tbsp lemon juice
- Zest from ½ an organic orange
- 1 pinch of salt

Place rose petals in a non-reactive pot and gently mix in 2 cups of sugar, bruising the petals. Cover and let sit overnight. Add remaining sugar, water, lemon juice, orange zest, and salt and bring to a boil. Turn off heat, cover for 10 minutes. Remove cover and let syrup cool. When cool, strain into a glass jar and store in the refrigerator until ready to serve.

Although Tamarind is difficult to grow in the Bay Area, lemongrass and Thai limes are not. They make a flavorful and colorful syrup that works well in rum and vodka cocktails or with fruit juices and iced teas.

Tamarind syrup:

- 10-inch stalk of lemon grass cut lengthwise and bruised
- 1-inch piece of peeled and shredded ginger
- 2 ½ ounces of wet tamarind block cut into 1-inch pieces

- ½ cup light brown sugar
- 1 ¼ cups water
- 4 bruised Thai lime leaves

Place all ingredients in a non-reactive pot and bring to a boil. Turn off heat, cover and let cool. Remove lime leaves and lemongrass stalks. Pour remaining mixture into a blender and process until smooth. Strain syrup into a glass jar and chill.

Achillea millefolium, a native white flowering yarrow, makes a lavender-like sweet-tasting syrup. It works well in tequila drinks or in mild hot or iced black teas.

Yarrow syrup:

- 2 tbsp yarrow flowers
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 ¼ honey
- 1 ½ cups water
- 1 lemon cut in half

Wash yarrow flowers and place in a bowl. Pour boiling water over them and let stand for 15 minutes. Strain yarrow tea into a small pot and add additional water, honey, and lemon halves. Bring to a boil then simmer for 10 minutes and let sit for an hour. Let cool, remove lemon halves and pour syrup into a glass jar. Store in refrigerator. (Yarrow flowers contain trace amounts of thujone, a uterine stimulant, and should not be consumed if pregnant.)

Sitting outside and sipping a drink made with one of the syrups above not only tastes great but reminds you how sweet sitting in the garden is.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JUNE 7, 2022

All Signs: This week there is a lovely grand trine in the Earth signs: Moon in Virgo, Pluto in Capricorn and Mercury in Taurus. This will help everyone to work hard to achieve goals that will lead to success. Therefore, think about what you want to achieve and focus on it. Maybe you want to clean something? Maybe boost your income? Whatever it is – get ready to tackle it because you will make great strides! Mid-week, it's easy to be sidetracked with daydreams, but that's a temporary detour. The key is perseverance.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20):

Because this is a fantastic week to accomplish a lot, you will be busy! This lovely Earth trine is perfect for you because it activates three separate parts of your chart: your House of Earnings, your House of Employment and your House of Career. You don't want to miss this opportunity! Furthermore, your ruler Mars is in your sign lined up with lucky Jupiter, which gives you the energy, drive and confidence you need to go after your dreams. A dash of unexpected good luck will help you.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20):

You're sitting pretty this week because fair Venus and Mercury are in your sign; plus, Mercury is part of the grand trine in your fellow Earth Signs. (See All Signs above.) Many of you will use this practical drive to explore creative options in the arts, entertainment world, working with children or sports. However, another aspect of this favorable influence is that you might transform your image. It could be a haircut, wardrobe change, new glasses, or a determination to buff your bod. Whatever the case, you'll be pleased with the results!

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20):

This grand trine in the Earth Signs will help you work behind the scenes and improve your home. These improvements might include your relationship to a family member. Because the Sun is in your sign now, you are unusually empowered! (The Sun is in your sign for only four weeks a year, so make this work for you.) A piece of good luck might occur. You know about it, but nobody else does. You can also harness the energy of others to achieve your objectives.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21):

This week you still feel two opposing influences: the need to work alone and keep a low profile, versus an aroused ambition. This grand trine in the Earth Signs will prompt you to interact with others in such a way that you will stir up support for yourself and whatever you want to achieve. In particular, young people and artistic types might help you. You will be convincing and persuasive because you speak from the heart. Someone might have advice about how to relate better to a partner or close friend.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22):

Like Aries, you benefit from the Grand Trine in the Earth signs because it hits three houses: your House of Earnings, your House of Career, and your House of Employment. So be prepared! People in power, bosses and parents can help you do something to boost your earnings. You can revise, improve or modify your job or how you do your job. You might even change your job. (Note, this same beneficial influence can improve your health.) Be ready to accept advice or to approach people in power.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22):

Lucky you! This wonderful Grand Trine mentioned in All Signs above occurs between three "planets", and one of them is the Virgo Moon! This means you have an opportunity this week to explore or improve travel plans, opportunities in publishing and the media, or legal or medical matters. It's also a propitious time to improve your relations with kids, especially by trying a new approach. Speaking of new approaches, you might also improve a romantic relationship.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22):

You will do some quiet research about how to make improvements at home or within your family dynamic. And when you consider the possible improvements, you will find the financial backing or practical help that you need. Sometimes we have great ideas but we can't pull them off because we don't have the money or the help. This week, it will all come together for you. Don't be afraid to explore making improvements in your personal life. You can do this!

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21):

You are a powerful sign, and not one to miss an opportunity when powerful energy is flowing. That's what's happening this week. Go forth and explore new ways of engaging with partners, friends, groups and organizations. You can improve how you talk to your daily contacts, siblings, relatives and neighbors. Reach out and explore aspects of networking. Act on your urge to contact others in person, through social media, or attending an event or a meeting.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21):

This week is all about how to improve your job, boost your career and public reputation, and make money. This is an auspicious time for you because the Grand Trine is taking place in Earth Signs. Earth is about tangible wealth. For you, the three planets in this Trine (Virgo Moon, Mercury in Taurus and Pluto in Capricorn) are each sitting in your House of Earnings, your House of Career, and your House of Employment. (Your House of Career is actually your path in life, not necessarily your job.) This means you can get a lot done and boost your income.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19):

Obviously, Earth Signs are getting a tremendous boost this week because the Grand Trine is taking place in earth: Moon in Virgo, Pluto in Capricorn and Mercury in Taurus. Travel plans, vacations, the entertainment world, fun activities with kids, the arts, and sports will flourish for you – and allow you to improve the image you offer the world. Let's face it, you like to look good. This week, you will explore new ideas and people – all of which will benefit you.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18):

This week, the Grand Trine in Earth Signs will benefit your home and family. Unexpected assistance will be there for you. You might also redecorate or begin renovations at home. You might even explore a change of residence? Most definitely, family relations will be more lively in a pleasant, social way. This week is a lovely time to entertain at home, especially because you are unusually optimistic, warm and friendly.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20):

The Grand Trine mentioned in All Signs above will boost your opportunities to schmooze on a daily basis this week. You will have appointments, errands, visits, conversations and fun opportunities to schmooze with neighbors, siblings, relatives and daily contacts. Some of you will also study more. You might explore a writing project. Because you are inclined to focus on home and family right now, you might invite these people to your home. Or you might write and study from your home. Don't hesitate to reach out and contact someone.

BY ANGELA XIONG

Born in Punjab, India, 71-year-old Dr. Som Nath Sethi is an Internal Medicine Physician and an avid runner, recently completing his 83rd marathon on May 29, 2022.

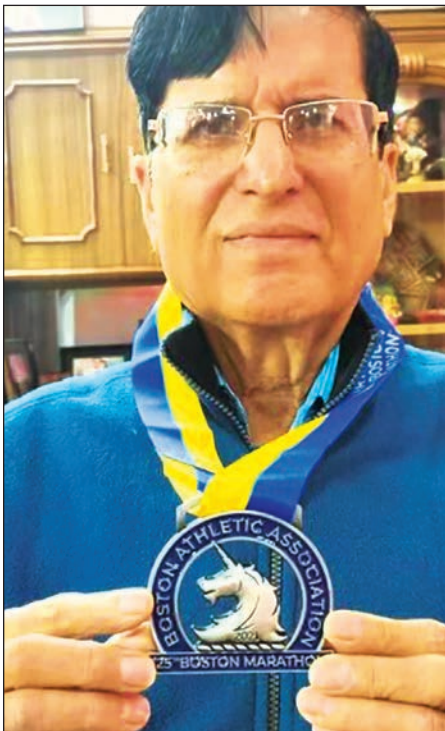

Dr. Sethi has always been an avid runner, walker and a firm advocate for physical exercise. While attending college, Dr. Sethi ran 5 km and 10 km races on a regular basis. During his time in India, he participated in multiple “Walking Races” and was even named a champion “Race Walker.”

In 2011, while running on the roads of Kurukshetra, India, where he was living at the time, Dr. Sethi suffered a bad road accident which resulted in a comminuted fracture of the tibia and fibula in his left leg and six ribs, leaving him bed-ridden for over three months. Dr. Sethi’s treating surgeons told him that running was out of the question for him, stating that “even being able to walk without help would be a miracle for him.” However, Dr. Sethi refused to yield to this medical prophecy. “When I was bedridden and fractured, I still wanted to run. The moment I was cured, the first thing that I started attempting was running” shared Sethi.

After being discharged from the hospital, Dr. Sethi began using a ‘walker’ to help him gain control of his legs. Slowly, he went on to participate in walking races and began running marathons at the beginning of 2015, four years after his injury. In the last six months, Dr. Sethi has been running marathons on a weekly basis and has participated in 16 42.2 km marathons and one 50 km Ultramarathon. Dr. Sethi attributes his passion and success in running to his endurance. “Because I have a lot of endurance, I can run four to six hours or more at a time. [My success and recovery] were all because of my endurance,” Sethi explained.

Reflecting on the 83 marathons that he has run, Dr. Sethi names the 2021 Virtual Boston Marathon to be his most memorable. He earned an overall time of 4 hours and 43 minutes and ranked 31st in his age category of 70-75 out of 176 participants. Working as an Internal Medicine Physician for the past 36 years, Dr. Sethi combines his passion for running with his medical philosophy. He believes that marathons, similar to medicine are holistic. He personally believes that “God has given us immense potential which we hardly use.”

Dr. Sethi receives 2021 Boston Marathon Medal

He also advocates for the idea that running is an essential part of maintaining good health. “[Running] is simple, you don’t need any equipment, and it is accessible to do all the time. If somebody wants to maintain good health, running marathons is a great way to achieve that,” Sethi said. Sethi believes that health is always the first priority for anyone. He explains that age is only a number, and to not let it inhibit anyone from pursuing running.

Dr. Sethi at the 125th Virtual Boston Marathon on October 10th, 2021

Reflecting on his inspirational journey with running, Dr. Sethi said “Running is my life. I cannot remain without running. If someone asked me ‘what is the one thing you would like the most in this life’ I would say that I would like to die on the ground while running, indirectly meaning that I will be running up to the last moment of my life; it is my life-long passion.”

A baseball legend

On June 2, 1935, there was “no joy in Mudville” when the “Sultan of Swat” -- Babe Ruth -- retired. At age 19, George Herman Ruth had signed with Jack Dunn, owner of the Baltimore Orioles. The team -- enamored with his abilities -- nicknamed him “Jack’s newest babe” a moniker that stuck for the rest of his life.

History.com notes that he “made his Major League debut as a left-handed pitcher with the Red Sox in July 1914 and pitched 89 winning games for the team before 1920, when he was traded to the New York Yankees. After Ruth left Boston, in what became known as “the curse of the Bambino,” the Red Sox didn’t win another World Series until 2004 ... Ruth was a huge star in New York and attracted so many fans that the team was able to open a new stadium in 1923, Yankee Stadium, dubbed The House That Ruth Built ... [his] career slugging percentage of .690 remains the highest in Major League history. For more about “the greatest baseball player ever,” the Grateful American Book Prize recommends “Babe Ruth (Up Close)” by Wilborn Hampton.

Independence proclaimed

On June 11, 1776 -- one year and two months after the start of the Revolutionary War -- the Continental Congress assembled a committee of five prominent American men to draft the nation’s Declaration of Independence. They were Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman, and Robert Livingston. According to History.com, Jefferson wrote the first version; Adams and Franklin vetted it, and on June 28 it was ready for review and approval.

The Declaration declares that “When, in the Course of human Events, it becomes necessary for one People to dissolve the Political Bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the Powers of the Earth, the separate and equal Station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature’s God entitle them, a decent Respect to the Opinions of Mankind requires that they should declare the Causes which impel them to the Separation.”

For more information, the Grateful American Book Prize recommends “Jefferson’s Masterpiece” by Dennis Parker.

Stars and stripes

On June 14, 1777, the Second Continental Congress passed a resolution which stated: “the flag of the United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white” and that “the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation,” according to History.com. But who designed the ensign that became America’s symbol?

Everyone is taught that Betsy Ross was the architect of the first American flag, but is it fact or legend? Ross did not get any credit until 37 years after her 1836 death. Finally -- she was identified in an 1873 article that appeared in Harper’s New Monthly. The Betsy Ross saga is still a puzzle because historians have never been able to prove otherwise.

Nonetheless, according to the Department of Veterans Affairs “Both President Wilson, in 1916, and President Coolidge, in 1927, issued proclamations asking for June 14 to be observed as the National Flag Day. But it wasn’t until August 3, 1949, that Congress approved the national observance, and President Harry Truman signed it into law.”

Betsy Ross

For the full story, the Grateful American Book Prize recommends “Betsy Ross and the Making of America” by Marla R. Miller.

Bison Return to the Wild

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS SUBMITTED BY OAKLAND ZOO

Thirteen American bison from the Oakland Zoo herd are returning to Montana to join their historic lineage. This marks the second transfer of bison as part of the Zoo’s Bison Restoration Project - Innii Initiative – in partnership with the Blackfeet Nation. This historic partnership works to restore free-roaming bison to Blackfeet land and nearby National Parks.

"We're very happy to be working with Oakland Zoo. It is so important to return this iconic animal and its historic bloodline to our culture and preserve that culture for generations to come. For centuries, the buffalo have taken care of us. It is now our turn to take care of them," said Ervin Carlson, President of Intertribal Buffalo Council, Blackfeet Nation.

The returning group - four mothers, seven two-year-olds, and two one-year-old calves - are all descendants of the iconic 'Pablo Allard' herd. These are the first calves born since the addition of two Yellowstone males back in 2019. The introduction of these males marked the second step in the conservation program, intended to diversify the genetics of future offspring of Oakland Zoo's herd. These calves, along with their mothers, have lived for the past two years in their 13-acre habitat at California Trail and are now old enough to make the trip to Montana.

Since the program's start in 2018, 30 calves have been born at Oakland Zoo, and with this latest trip, 24 bison have been returned to Montana. The Zoo welcomed four new calves earlier this month, and the Zoo expects more to come during this year's mating season.

This multi-pronged effort for genetic diversity ensures the health and longevity of future American bison generations; the species reached near-extinction in the early 1900s when millions were killed during the westward expansion for grasslands needed to feed livestock. Though their numbers have increased tremendously, herds in the wild, and in private and public reserves, are quite inbred.

Bison have provided food and other crucial materials needed for survival on the prairie for generations, but the loss of this iconic animal also severed the spiritual connection to wildlife and the land. This conservation effort is not only significant in strengthening wild herds but also has a vital cultural significance to the Blackfeet Nation.

WILLIAM MARSHAK

I met Mocha by accident, through a set of circumstances it would be hard to duplicate. However, once our eyes locked on to each other, I had no choice. I was hers and she was mine. Very quickly I transitioned from my role as half of a mature, empty nest couple to part of a household of two plus one. Just as the introduction of a newborn child is, at once, exciting, challenging, frightening and instructive, so too is the addition of any new entity into the family unit. Mocha, a 65-pound American Staffordshire Terrier/Pit Bull mix, entered my life and has not only changed it for the better, but imparted valuable life lessons as well.

Mocha spent her early years under unknown conditions since the animal shelter where I first saw her was unable to ascertain her origin. She had been found on the streets without identification, but obviously had given birth to puppies in the recent past. Certified as healthy and available for adoption, I quickly began the process and soon she was acclimating to her new home. Her calm and friendly demeanor allowed us to bring her to the office, so she spends her days working as a social ambassador, greeting visitors and welcoming staff, then relaxing at night at her alternative “home.”

With a long body and short legs, Mocha can flatten out with front and back paws splayed in a posture that is difficult, if not impossible, to alter without her approval. She can do this “rug hug” when entirely relaxed or if working to “glue” herself to the ground to avoid being moved from her chosen spot. She is pretty hard to miss even though she may think that by flattening herself, she has become unobtrusive. Since she wants to observe as many possible challenges or approaches by other beings from this position, she can, in reality, inadvertently become more exposed and vulnerable. Due to this quirky behavior, I have learned to be vigilant when walking with her. In spite of this issue, my intense feelings for Mocha remain intact and will not change but I have learned to adjust to her social dynamic and accept responsibility for it.

It strikes me that a similar dynamic is at play when considering my relationship with the political system, especially local politics. There is a natural affinity for an arrangement that professes respect for the value of my freedom as an individual while accommodating the overriding needs and responsibilities of group dynamics and ethics. As my bond with Mocha is deep and strong, so too, is my belief in the values and intent of our national charter [U.S. Constitution]. As human beings, however, our flawed nature, when confronted with difficult and unpalatable choices, can corrupt and skew thoughts and actions.

Current events and election shenanigans have put my beliefs to the test. Even though I remain faithful to the precepts of our democratic system, its reliance on the goodwill and fair practices of those engaged in governing is under tremendous strain. Mocha occasionally goes into a rug hug with the intent of blending into her surroundings and so too do politicians, trying to blend into group think, avoiding notice and actions that could prove detrimental to their careers. This risk, however, is the mantle of leadership. Those aspiring to lead must accept this responsibility or what is the point of their candidacy?

As economic and social pressures mount, it is especially important for our elected leaders to honor the confidence placed in them; to show strength and solidarity of purpose – rug hug - when convinced of a well-defined and righteous cause, but voice and act for change when needed. At this time, existential challenges including women’s rights and gun safety legislation are paramount even when compared with economic woes. Leadership needs to be clear and unequivocal when addressing these subjects; a rug hug just won’t do!

National Night Out!

SUBMITTED BY
FREMONT POLICE DEPARTMENT

Join Fremont Police staff along with community organizations, neighborhood groups and city leaders in celebrating the 39th Annual National Night Out on Tuesday, August 2.

National Night Out provides the opportunity for neighbors to get to know each other and sends a strong message to criminals that our community will look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity. Throughout the night, Fremont Police Department staff will visit registered parties where they will share information, network and answer questions.

Participate in National Night Out by organizing a block or neighborhood party. Many will organize barbecues or ice cream socials where neighbors share good food, laughter and updates on what’s happening in the neighborhood. Visit <https://covid-19.acgov.org/> for guidelines on how to safely host a gathering.

Registration is now open for Fremont community members to register their parties to participate in this year’s event. You can register your event with the Fremont Police Department at fremontpolice.gov/nno. The registration deadline is 5 p.m. on July 1 to be considered for a visit by police. Our goal is to provide each party with one visit from city staff, but it will be dependent upon the number of parties and staff who sign up to participate.

If you plan to block off your street for your celebration, you will need to obtain a block party permit from the City of Fremont by contacting Marc Cleveland at (510) 494-4543 or MCleveland@fremont.gov. The deadline to file for a permit is Friday, July 1. The cost of the permit is $20. Here is the link: <https://fremont.gov/578/Special-Event-Permit>

Learn how other communities celebrate National Night Out by visiting National Association of Town Watch online at www.natw.org.

Fremont rolls out updated city website

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES

Digital denizens who frequent the City of Fremont’s official website have likely noticed a multitude of splashy new updates including video, easier navigation, colorful graphics, maps and more.

Launched in late May, the new website at www.Fremont.gov, offers a modern design and user experience backed by resident feedback and web traffic metrics to better serve visitors. Updates were made to improve both user experience from an organizational and value standpoint as well as provide additional features, including:

- A robust Agenda Center, featuring a calendar for City Council, Board, and Commission meetings as well as events.
- Streamlined global navigation and improved search results for users to quickly locate information and pages via the new “I want to...” box, including how to register for recreational activities and camps, subscribe to newsletters, and get more details on affordable housing, starting a business.
- Enhanced visual elements and a streamlined Departments page.
- Accessibility across all devices with mobile responsiveness.
- And new tools such as the customizable Bablic translation solution and UserWay accessibility plugin.

On the homepage, users will find updates to the existing landing page buttons and an anchor to easily access the Fremont App to report issues in the city or their neighborhoods. The homepage also includes a new video showcasing Fremont’s various districts, manufacturing companies, parks, and recreational activities. Viewers can also access the Permits page through the global navigation, which includes all city permit information in one location.

During the last two months of 2020, the City of Fremont released a community survey and received input from more than 600 individuals. Among the findings, 54% said the top reason for visiting the site was to access online city services, while 51% wanted to find city events and meetings. In addition, 56% of users requested better search results. The feedback from the survey as well as metrics from the old Fremont.gov website were key factors in modernizing the design and creating a data-driven interface.

Users should note that because all webpage hyperlinks have been updated due to the new site, so previously bookmarked pages visitors have stored in their browsers may be broken as well as those used in the city’s communications. In addition, the city has purchased a new, customized Bitly domain (https://city.fremont.gov) that will serve as the beginning of shortened vanity links for important webpages in various marketing materials.

Fremont residents and business partners should be sure to check back frequently for new updates to the site in the coming months. City officials welcome public feedback; for suggestions, questions, or issues accessing a page, send an email to webupdate@fremont.gov.

Fremont Police Log

SUBMITTED BY MONICA LEON, FREMONT PD

Saturday, May 28

- At about 6:50 p.m. a person near Maple Street in the Centerville area saw two unknown suspects stealing items from a neighbor’s vehicle and tried to intervene. The suspects pointed a handgun at the victim before fleeing in a vehicle.

Sunday, May 29

- At about 7:15 a.m. officers received a report about a burglary at Hopkins Junior High School, 600 Driscoll Road. A storage container was broken into and items were taken. At about 4:00 p.m. police were notified the suspect may have returned and was in the process of burglarizing classrooms. Officers set up a perimeter around the school and heard the suspect using a saw inside the building.

Soon, the suspect exited the building and fled from an officer while on an electric skateboard. Officers chased the suspect to a nearby ravine, where he abandoned the skateboard and ran into a residential area off Kensington Drive. As the suspect jumped fences, authorities used a drone pilot to track him.

When the suspect spotted police K9 officer “Karo” he surrendered. The suspect, identified by police as Aaron Hosmer, 38, of Santa Cruz was arrested on suspicion of burglary and resisting arrest. He was booked into Santa Rita Jail. A search of the school indicated Hosmer had been cutting copper pipes and wires in preparation for stealing them.

- At about 11:50 a.m. officers responded to a report about a male with a large sword arguing with another male outside the Grocery Outlet, 4949 Stevenson Blvd. Upon arrival, officers detained the suspect and found he had a machete, knife, loaded handgun and a controlled substance. A record check showed he was a convicted felon and the handgun he had was reported stolen. The suspect, later identified by police as Vincent Wilson, 33, a homeless Fremont resident, was arrested.

Monday, May 30

- At about 7:52 p.m. officers located an occupied vehicle that had been reported stolen in the parking lot of The Home Depot, 43900 Ice House Terrace. Officers detained two suspects; one of whom had credit cards not in his name and a record check on the other person showed a misdemeanor warrant. The suspects, identified by police as Micha Meredith, 55, of Oakland and Lavonnzy Pierson, 52, of Emeryville were arrested.
- At about 3:54 a.m. officers responded to a report about a possible vehicle theft in the parking lot of the Estates at Park Place, 3400 Stevenson Blvd. Officers attempted to contact a man leaving the complex on a bicycle but he immediately fled, but officers located him a few blocks away and detained him. A record check showed the man had two felony warrants and he was found to be in possession of burglary tools, and a controlled substance. The suspect, identified by police as Christopher Summeril, 27, of Fremont was arrested.

Cathy Jarvis

June 4, 1953 - May 28, 2022

Cathy Scafidi Jarvis was born June 4th, 1953 in Oakland, California to Chuck and Joyce Scafidi. The daughter of a Marine Sergeant, Cathy lived on bases in Southern California and Hawaii before settling in Fremont, California in the mid-sixties. She was a graduate of Kennedy High School class of 1972 and went on to work in the electronics industry. Cathy is survived by her father Chuck, his wife Shirley, siblings Steve, David (Pamela), Tracey (Glen), Joseph (Johari), and many nieces and nephews.

Cathy had the kindest soul. Her heart of gold shined through her love, thoughtfulness and generosity. She remained lifelong best friends with her siblings and she loved them very much. She loved dancing, and sunbathing at the beach in her youth. As an adult, she found joy in shopping, sitting poolside, live music and spending time with friends and family. Seeing music at Lake Elizabeth each summer became one of her favorite pastimes.

A proud dog mama, Cathy deeply cherished her pets. Her late Yorkie, Lil Bit, spent 18 years by her side and she spoiled him greatly. She also collected trinkets, jewelry and plants, and she loved her garden. She had more shoes than she could count and rarely left the house without a cute outfit, beautifully done makeup, hair perfectly curled, and copious amounts of perfume. She always put others before herself and loved showering people with gifts. Her siblings lovingly referred to her as the official neighborhood watch, always knowing what was going on around town, and in our family. We are going to miss her neighborhood watch reports, the smell of her perfume, her thoughtful gifts, her laugh, her smile, her saying “Yeah right” when she didn’t believe you, but most of all, we are going to miss her. We will carry her love and memories in our hearts forever.

Visitation will be held Saturday, June 11, 2022 at 2:00 PM with a Memorial Service at 3:00 PM at Fremont Memorial Chapel, 3723 Peralta Blvd., Fremont.

Joyce Rodrigues Wallace

December 22, 1935 – May 24, 2022

Resident of Fremont

Joyce Wallace passed quietly after a short illness on May 24, 2022 at the age of eighty-six. A lifelong resident of Fremont, she was born in San Jose to Mary George and Raymond Rodrigues. She was a graduate of Washington High School and San Jose State University, where she was a member of Delta Zeta sorority. Joyce taught in Fremont elementary schools from the late 1950s to 1970. Joyce married Vincent Wallace in 1959. They were married for sixty-one years before Vince passed away in 2020. They had two daughters, Marijayne Wallace Stegman (Edward) and Tricia Wallace Betts (Bradley) and three grandchildren Neo Stegman, Molly Betts, and Kenneth Betts.

Joyce was a lifelong volunteer having spent time supporting the PTA, the American Association of University Women, and Holy Spirit Church. She was a thirty-five-year volunteer for the Washington Hospital Foundation having given over sixteen thousand hours of her time organizing events and managing the hospital gift shop. She helped with multiple class reunion efforts for the Washington High class of 1953.

An avid tennis player, many remember Joyce sporting her tennis gear while running errands around town in her convertible white Mustang. Joyce played in many different bridge groups both individually and with Vince. She loved a good game of solitaire, dominoes, Qwirkle, Yahtzee and Uno, all of which were enjoyed with family during the annual family vacation at Lake Tahoe.

Joyce and Vince had an extensive group of friends with whom they would travel and celebrate birthdays and special occasions. During the pandemic, she and other friends created a bubble that allowed them to get together to play Rummikub and to socialize.

Services will be held at 2:30pm on Friday, June 10 at Berge, Pappas Smith Chapel of the Angels in Fremont. All that knew Joyce are welcome. Donations can be directed to The Dominican Sisters, 43326 Mission Blvd., Fremont, CA 94539 or the Sisters of the Holy Family, 159 Washington Blvd., Fremont, CA 94539 or The Washington Hospital Service League, 2500 Mowry Avenue, Fremont, CA 94538.

John A. Dutra

John A. Dutra, former member of the State Legislature (20th Assembly District), Vice Mayor and 10-year member of the Fremont City Council, passed away unexpectedly on Sunday, May 29, 2022.

It was fitting that John should be called to glory over the Memorial Day Weekend, as he was exceedingly proud of his service to his country as a member of the United States Navy, where he served as a Hospital Corpsman and was assigned to a unit of the Marines. John loved his country and always felt extremely honored to serve in the military.

John’s life was certainly one of which even Horatio Alger would have been proud. A son of Azorean immigrants, he was raised in an area of Oakland colloquially known as “Jingletown”. The name originated from the habit of nearby mill workers of Azorean Portuguese background who would jingle the coins from a week’s work in their pockets as they walked to display their prosperity.

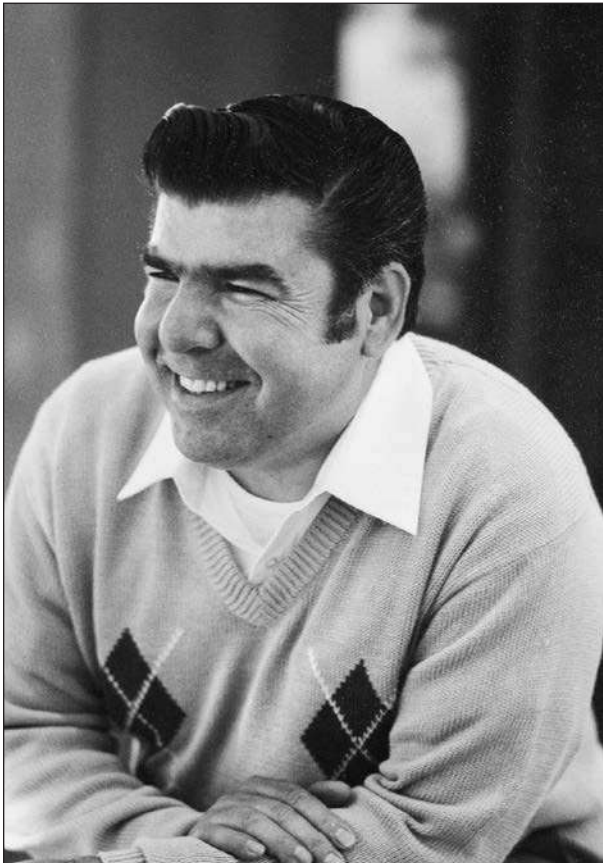

John’s father died when John was only five years old, and from then on his mother relied heavily upon him, being the eldest son, as she raised her eight children. At age 8, he would deliver groceries and newspapers to bring money home for food; he left high school early in order to join the military.

On leave from the military, John would meet the woman that would have the most significant impact on his life, Bernadine Francis Nagy. John would go on to enjoy a 65-year marriage with the woman of his dreams. They had five children as he worked his way to earn a high school GED, Bachelor’s Degree and Master’s Degree (all on the G.I. Bill). As testament to their strong marriage, John rented a large roadside billboard to proclaim his love for Bernie to celebrate their 25th Anniversary.

John began his career with Magnaflux as a test engineer and later worked at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. He felt honored to have served at the “Lab” when the legendary Edward Teller served as its second director. Having received a confidential clearance from the Department of Defense, John would often leave on excursions that, to this day, remain secret even to his children. It was reported that John served on a now declassified project, ironically named Project Azorean, an ambitious plan to raise a sunken Soviet submarine from the floor of the Pacific Ocean in order to retrieve its secrets. The C.I.A. partnered with enigmatic billionaire Howard Hughes who lent his imprimatur to the construction of the 618-foot-long ship, to be named the Hughes Glomar Explorer, advertised as a deep-sea mining research vessel.

While at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, John began working part-time as a Realtor at California Realty located in North San Jose. He soon discovered a knack for the business.

In 1972, John and Bernie moved to Fremont to begin their own company, John A. Dutra Realty. Granted it was not a very creative name, but none could deny their almost immediate success. The company would open two offices in Fremont and later join the national franchise, Red Carpet Real Estate. They were regularly awarded top selling franchise in the nation.

Along the way, John and Bernie constructed their first three buildings, one in Mission San Jose (1978) and two in Warm Springs (1985 and 1987). The company would leave the franchise in 1990 and become Dutra Realty, building a 27,000 square foot building in Pleasanton, where they quickly recruited over 95 agents. The company would thereafter open offices in Castro Valley, Livermore and Tracy. They would go on to become the top real estate company in the East Bay (and 75th largest in the United States) with 35 staff members, 250 real estate professionals and over $922,000,000 in annual gross sales volume. The company was purchased in 1999 by Prudential California Realty, with the family retaining ownership of its buildings. From 1999 to the present, the company flourished as a real estate development and investment firm and enjoys a large and significant portfolio of properties under the Dutra Enterprises mantle.

During this same period, John would be appointed to the Fremont Planning Commission, where he served four years (1981-1984). He was subsequently elected to the Fremont City Council, where he served 10 years (1986-1996). He was widely known as a fiscal conservative with a heart. He vigilantly oversaw the City’s fiscal status and assured that the city of Fremont would regularly be known as one of the most fiscally sound municipalities in the nation.

But John was always concerned with the impacts on others less fortunate and, despite ardent opposition at the time, led the fight for the construction of the first Homeless Shelter located on Brown Road. Faced with strident opposition, John fought for the construction of one of the City’s first affordable housing projects, located on land formerly owned by the Sisters of the Holy Family. Later known as the Avelina and Oroysom Villages, this nationally recognized project not only provided much needed housing for families and seniors, but paved the way for construction of many other affordable projects in the City.

With an expansive list of accomplishments including his visionary leadership of the Fremont Auto Mall, his family, friends and community all have been positively impacted by the strength, brilliance, vision and heart of John A. Dutra.

John was elected to the State Assembly (20th District) in 1998 and, during his six-year tenure (1998-2004) was a member of numerous standing committees, including, among others, Budget, Housing and Community Development, Judiciary, and Insurance. He also chaired the Transportation, Information Technology, and Veteran Affairs Committees. Always a courageous trailblazer, John authored Bill 1794, the Roman Reed Spinal Cord Injury Research Act. The law provided money for the University of California system to conduct spinal cord injury research and, as of 2016, nearly $5 million in research grants has been issued, resulting in nearly $18 million in additional matching federal and private funding.

He also authored Assembly Bill 603, a landmark bill that made California the first state in the nation to approve legislation that will protect consumers from mattress fires started by open flames. John led the funding for the retrofitting of the east and west spans of the Bay Bridge and secured over $1,000,000 to retrofit the historic Mission Church in Mission San Jose.

Of all his accomplishments, none compared to his family. John is survived by his wife of 65-years, Bernadine F. Dutra (85) and children John (Ann), Cynthia (James), Anthony, Dominic (Lisa) and Diana (Kelly). He was always surrounded and adored by his 13 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. He is also survived by his sister Bernadette.

Anyone who knew him knew family meant everything to him. He loved his family fiercely and with passion. He never let any of his grandchildren or great-grandchild forget that they could call on him anytime. Being there for family and service of others was always at the forefront of his mind and a trait that lives on in his family and every life he touched. His love and his efforts live on in all those who honor him.

John’s favorite politician was Robert F. Kennedy. And much as his brother Ted eulogized his brother at his untimely death, John’s family wish to note that their father “need not be idealized, or enlarged in death beyond what he was in life”. Their hope and prayer are that he will simply be remembered as a good and decent man, as attested to by the numerous messages now received from those who were helped by John anonymously. Ted Kennedy went on to say the following, which reflects the family’s own sense of love for John: “Love is not an easy feeling to put into words. Nor is loyalty, or trust, or joy. But he was all of these. He loved life completely and he lived it intensely.”

In honor of John A. Dutra, please make any donations to One Child (<http://onechildca.org/>), the nonprofit founded by Bernadine Dutra, and the Sisters of the Holy Family (<https://holyfamilysisters.org/>), with whom he had a life-long relationship and loved immensely.

Arrest made in fatal shooting in San Leandro

SUBMITTED BY SAN LEANDRO POLICE DEPARTMENT

A 37-year-old San Leandro man, identified by police as Ciprian Alexandru Tudor, was arrested May 31 as a suspect in the shooting death of another man earlier in the day in the area of Calgary Street and Lewelling Boulevard.

The incident started at about 2:51 p.m. when San Leandro Police Department (SLPD) officers responded to calls about a shooting in the area. Upon arrival, they found an adult male lying in the middle of the street suffering from at least one gunshot wound to his head. Officers and emergency medical workers provided life-saving measures until the man was taken to a hospital where he later died.

SLPD detectives stepped in to investigate and quickly learned about a connection between Tudor and the man who was shot. After preliminary interviews with witnesses, detectives determined the two men argued over ownership of a trailer. Officers and detectives later identified Tudor as the suspect and located him in Pleasanton where he was arrested at 5:15 p.m.

Police said when Tudor was arrested, he was in possession of six rifles. It was not immediately known if any of those weapons were involved in the San Leandro shooting. The case is under investigation and will be presented to the Alameda County District Attorney’s office on June 11 for review. This marks the second homicide in San Leandro during 2022.

Hayward Chamber of Commerce Names New President

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Frank J. Ferral, Program and Public Policy Director for the Greater Stockton Chamber of Commerce, has been named the new President and CEO of Hayward Chamber of Commerce by the board of directors, and will officially take the position on June 20. Ferral will succeed Kim Huggett, who is retiring after 12 successful and steady years in the position.

"What attracted us the most about Frank was his versatility," said Darrell Thornhill of Sugar Bowl Bakery, chair of both the chamber board of directors and search committee. "Our chamber has extraordinary expectations for a CEO who is an outstanding communicator for our members, can manage our multiple affiliates and programs, is a savvy budget administrator, and drives our efforts in government advocacy and economic development. In Frank J. Ferral, we have found that uniquely qualified leader."

One of Frank's focuses will be to leverage the already successful events offered by the Hayward Chamber with "new and innovative programs" to help all businesses reduce their cost of doing business and increase profit margins, particularly through environmentally sustainable business practices.

"The Chamber is the Catalyst, Convener and Champion of the community," said Ferral.

Frank's experience with the Stockton Chamber since 1997 included government advocacy, designing and implementing programs, sponsorship development, and successful grant-writing. Thornhill said that when the chamber board voted unanimously on May 26 to hire Frank, it was particularly encouraged by his experience representing the Stockton chamber to a variety of state and local government entities. A signature effort of the Hayward Chamber is its engagement with Hayward City Council, planning commission, and economic development committee, among others.

Frank's engagement included service on various economic development entities such as San Joaquin County's WorkNet Business Retention Expansion Program, Economic Development Association, and as an alternate on the San Joaquin Partnership Board. He is also an active Board member on California Green Business Network and International Green Industry Hall of Fame. Additionally, Frank is a proud Desert Storm era Veteran of the United States Air Force.

His community service includes that of past president of the Ripon Unified School District Board of Education (8 years), president of San Joaquin Valley Clean Energy Organization (13 years), and president of San Joaquin County Economic Development Association (21 years).

"I am extremely honored for the opportunity to work with an engaged Board of Directors and staff to continue to move the Hayward business community forward," said Ferral.

Ferral holds a BA in Political Science and a Master of Public Administration, both from CSU Stanislaus. He is also an Academy graduate of Western Association of Chamber Executives.

Ferral has been married to Elizabeth Oseguera Ferral for 27 years and has three children, Meaghan, Therese and Maxwell.

2022 National College-Sponsored Merit Scholarship Winners

SUBMITTED BY LAURA FORREST

Students representing two Fremont Unified School District (FUSD) high schools were named 2022 National College-Sponsored Merit Scholarship winners. The seven scholarship recipients from FUSD are among over 2,600 high school seniors announced by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, which awards these scholarships to National Merit Finalists who plan to attend the U.S. college or university financing the award.

"Our district is incredibly proud of our students who work incredibly hard to excel in academics and beyond," said FUSD Superintendent CJ Cammack. "I congratulate each scholarship recipient on this achievement, and acknowledge our district's outstanding educators who support each of our students to succeed in our schools and in the next chapter of their lives."

National Merit Scholarship recipients report their probable career field. Of FUSD's recipients, four reported Computer Science or Computer Engineering as their likely career field; the remaining three reported Environmental Science, Medicine and Chemistry.

High school juniors were screened for the 2022 National Merit Scholarship Program through the 2020 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The approximately 16,000 semifinalists were the highest-scoring entrants in each state, representing less than one percent of high school seniors nationwide. Seniors from each comprehensive high school in FUSD, 169 in all, were named 2022 National Merit Scholarship semifinalists in September 2021.

Finalists for National Merit scholarships must have an outstanding academic record throughout high school, be endorsed and recommended by a high school official, write an essay and earn SAT® or ACT® scores that confirm the student's earlier performance on the qualifying test. Scholarship winners also submitted applications demonstrating their academic record, community service, leadership, employment and honors/awards received.

In April 2022, nine FUSD students were named winners of corporate-sponsored National Merit Scholarship awards. In May 2022, 24 FUSD students were named as winners of National Merit $2,500 Scholarships. The National Merit Scholarship Corporation will name additional recipients of college-sponsored awards in July.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Forgotten Urban Forest

Trees in our city have been disappearing from neighborhood streets as they age out and are not being replaced. Fremont has a tree canopy of 13%, the lowest of Bay Area cities, according to new data collected from a CAL FIRE grant helping pay for an Urban Forest Management Plan. Our own Climate Action Plan (CAP 2.0) data says we must plant and care for 4,500 new trees annually to meet the modest benchmark of 30% tree canopy coverage by 2070.

The City Council is scheduled to adopt the 2022-2023 budget at their June 14th meeting. The new budget has the same three person staff in the tree department and plans to plant a minuscule total of 200 trees, up 50 trees from last year.

Benchmarks of 32 similar cities show that we should have eight full time staff in the tree department to do an adequate job and should include certified arborists, a compliance inspector, volunteer coordinator, and public service assistant. We have 77,000 trees and the metric is 10,000 trees / staff person. As I write this, only one person is in the department, and two have yet to be hired.

One conspicuous missing position, not budgeted to be filled, is the code enforcement employee. Street trees disappear, or are topped off or left as stumps, in front of businesses and homes where ordinances already exist that dictate trees be replaced. With new available software, the compliance monitor could receive computer flagged permits from the City Development permitting division. Business and home sales and remodels are propitious times to seamlessly stop the repeated and growing missed opportunity to replenish our urban trees.

On Fremont Blvd., close to the South Grimmer intersection, is a new, large Tesla parking lot that has only a thin layer of mulch, with weeds already coming up all along the street. Why is the richest man in the world allowed to skip a street tree installation? There is no one to follow up.

One might say, "why not focus your attention on planting trees in our parks?" Well, that too, is a difficulty. The hardworking Parks staff is dedicated to taking care of the current trees, but new trees are a big headache to assume care of with their staff level. The new budget is adding one person.

Meanwhile, many residents, high school youth and nonprofits are anxious to take action, volunteering to fund tree plantings in parks and along streets. Tree plantings have been suggested to be done on Fremont Unified School District (FUSD) property, so care comes out of their budget. There is eco-anxiety associated with climate change and our organization, Urban Forest Friends (formerly T.U.F.A.), is swamped with Fremont residents wanting to help.

Fremont City Council needs to boost the budget for our Urban Forest now! As we all know, the best time to plant more trees was twenty years ago.

Reward Offered in 2007 Homicide Investigation

SUBMITTED BY FREMONT PD

This year marks the 15th anniversary of Aaron Anthony Breaux's murder. The Fremont Police Department's Cold Case Homicide Division is hoping that upon the release of this case to the public, new information and tips will come in leading to the involved person(s) responsible for Breaux's murder.

On April 29, 2007, at approximately 8:53 p.m., Aaron Anthony Breaux, was found suffering from a life-threatening injury in an apartment complex parking lot located on the 38000 block of Fremont Blvd. Aaron was 19 years old at the time, had attended Washington High School and lived in a nearby apartment complex with his family.

During the initial investigation, witnesses told officers they heard two gunshots just outside of the apartment but did not see any suspicious vehicles or persons. The Coroner later confirmed Aaron died of a gunshot wound.

Although we have some information based on witness accounts, this case has remained unsolved for 15 years. We believe that there are people who have information about this case and are hopeful that by re-sharing the details, someone will come forward.

On March 26, 2008, Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger announced the availability of a $50,000.00 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the suspects wanted in connection with the murder of Aaron Anthony Breaux. The reward has been confirmed to still be available as part of the Governor's crime tip reward program. Aaron's family has raised an additional $10,000 to contribute to the reward.

In speaking with the mother of the victim, Debra Florez, she provided the following statement about her son's case:

"The past fifteen years has been nothing short of unbearable. Hearing the words "your son has died" shatters your world and everything in it. No words can describe the pain and utter desperation you and your loved ones will go through for the rest of our lives.

My son was the most kind hearted person, full of life...His presence made you smile and laugh. He could cheer you up in a second. Everyone loved being around him."

Anyone with information about this incident is asked to please contact the Fremont Police Department's Cold Case Homicide Detective, Jacob Blass at 510-790-6900 or via email at coldcasedetective@fremont.gov. Fremont Police Department also accepts anonymous tips.

Fremont Police Department's Crimes Against Persons Unit has invested its resources into investigating and solving cold case homicides and missing persons. The Cold Case Division focuses on those cases with the highest probability of being solved with fresh leads and new forensic technology. Our mission is to give a voice to those who can no longer speak for themselves. Our ultimate goal is to give answers and a sense of closure to the loved ones of every murder victim and missing person. As for requests – John thinks he knows our favorites, but just in case he forgets, before the intermission he asks the audience members to place their favorite McCutcheon song title on a slip of paper and place it in “the

Come to the show—this year with limited seating, vaccination and masks required—and enjoy the music and singing along with John. And remember that a portion of the proceeds will be donated to ABODE Services, working to end homelessness.

Shinn Historical Park & Arboretum and Rancho Higuera Historical Park are participating in a new state-wide event, “Doors Open California,” which is hosted by California Preservation Foundation (CPF). There will be tours and activities at both sites on June 11 and 12.

Doors Open California is a two-day celebration of architecture and culture featuring more than 70 on-site tours and access to historic places across the state. Visit as many of the independently operated sites as you can in one weekend, for a flat fee of $20 per person.

The event follows the annual California Preservation Conference. The theme for 2022 is “Opening Doors,” signifying CPF’s effort to generate widespread and inclusive interest in historic preservation and heritage conservation throughout the state.

If you are just visiting Shinn Park and the Rancho for this weekend, you do not need a Doors Open ticket. The Rancho is free to all for this weekend with or without a ticket. Shinn House tours will be free to Doors Open ticket holders. However, those without a ticket will need to pay the regular tour donation.

Rancho Higuera Historical Park, Galindo-Higuera Adobe

For the Doors Open weekend, the park will be open, free to anyone on Saturday and Sunday. Galindo-Higuera adobe is located on the historic Rancho del Agua Caliente. This 9,563-acre rancho was awarded to Fulgencio Higuera in 1839 by governor Juan B. Alvarado.

From the adobe you can see the golden hills and you can imagine what it looked like with no fences and the rancho cattle that dotted the hillsides. This land supported 11,000 head of cattle and several hundred horses.

In 1979 the adobe was falling down. Historians, architects, preservationists and archaeologists agreed that it was worth saving, and restoration began. A total of 7,500 bricks had to be made to replace those that were missing.

During Doors Open, children can participate in candle making, learn how to design a brand, practice branding a piece of felt with the Higuera brand, and make an authentic adobe brick the way the Ohlone did. Inside the building are displays that describe the hide and tallow trade, a video that shows how the land was used from the Ohlone period to the restoration, and a display of Ohlone artifacts.

This adobe and its 20 acres represent an important chapter in Spanish-Mexican-California history, and Washington Township Museum of Local History is happy to share this gem with the public.

Shinn Historical Park & Arboretum

For Doors Open, docent-led tours of Shinn House will be available on Saturday and Sunday on a first-come-first-serve basis. The archive room will be open after your tour so you can learn more about the Shinn family. Tours are free for Doors Open participants; otherwise, tours are $4 for adults and $2 for children (7-13).

Garden docents will be available during the same hours to answer your questions. You can explore the grounds of Shinn Park at any time using a new interactive tour guide on your smartphone. Included in the guide are the historic trees, gardens and buildings. There will be a plant sale on Saturday as well.

The Shinn family came to Washington Township in 1856, after statehood and before the Transcontinental Railroad connected the coasts. The Shinns ran a nursery business from 1872 to 1887 and helped establish California as an agricultural state. They sold seeds, roses, plants, trees, fruit trees and imported plants from Chile, Australia, China, Japan and Eastern US.

The Shinn children attended the newly-established University of California in Berkeley. Eldest son Charles was a prolific author, historian, horticulturist and the first ranger of Sierra National

Photography project shows community's common humanity

Students of Irvington High School in Fremont, along with the help of photography teacher, Shiloh Burton, took on a powerful and timely project called “Faces of Fremont.” Now in its third year, Faces of Fremont is a large-scale photography installation of – as suggested in the name – faces of Fremont residents.

The project originates from the Inside Out Project, started by French-artist JR. JR used his TED Prize in 2011 to start a participatory photography movement where individuals and communities make a statement on issues affecting the community through large-scale black and white portraits in public spaces.

Despite being a continuation, Faces of Fremont is particularly relevant in its message. It addresses stigmatization and dehumanization of the unhoused in our community. Presenting portraits of Fremont residents – both housed and unhoused – in the same manner, the installation reminds viewers of our shared experience and humanity. Notorious for its high homelessness rate, California has also faced high rates of violence and backlash against people experiencing housing instability. For instance, in Fremont in 2020, the Homeless Navigation Center was constructed to provide instrumental services, and was met with extreme dissent.

The students hope to use photography and art to defy stereotypes, spread awareness and inspire care for each other during this homelessness crisis. As the project leaders Akshaya Ravi and Grace Xu explain, “In this project, we invite both housed and unhoused people to express themselves in front of the camera in a manner in which they want to be seen by the public, reclaiming their own images as dignified and complex human beings.”

The project started off as part of Irvington High School’s photography club. Students volunteered at a local church that provided free breakfast for those in need. They took photographs using Canon and Nikon DSLR cameras (18-55 mm lens), tripods and a special backdrop. Shiloh Burton, project advisor, shares, “While working with the unhoused, I’ve heard several people say how it’s really kind of us to genuinely listen and see them for who they are. To be curious about their experience. Too many times they’re treated as less than human and people are afraid. Maybe because of how quickly and easily homelessness can happen to anyone in the Bay Area.”

Akshaya Ravi, high school senior and co-leader of the project, expands, “Hearing how excited both the housed and unhoused members were during the photoshoots is what really drove us to continue this project despite the several obstacles this student-run project has faced.”

The project was originally founded by Grace Xu, who has graduated from Irvington but continued to support the team. During the COVID-19 pandemic, Faces of Fremont was on hold for an entire year. Starting back up in 2021, the team expanded with over 20 new students delegating the tasks of installation, funding, communication, printing and social media management.

During the project, the student-led team faced several issues such as finding a large installation space and funding for printing over 364,000 square feet of portraits. Even so, with the help of the team and community members, this project was made into a reality.

Ravi handled day-to-day communications within the team and organizations like the Fremont Cultural Arts Council. Team leaders Siona Samanta, Aditi Sesani, Jessica Li and Arista Zhu have led photoshoots, installed the exhibition, conducted the fundraiser and managed social media. Overall, everyone brought different qualities and skills that helped the team complete their public art project.

After months of fundraising, team donations, a $250 grant underwritten by Fremont Cultural Arts Council, and collaborating with Berbawy Makers, the project reached its fundraising goal. A sponsorship from Irvington Presbyterian church, and assistance from Alana Rios, Mustapha Baksh and Kamroon Baksh, also made the project possible.

In the end, the Faces of Fremont team installed a total of 240 portraits in late April and early May 2022, on the outside of Valhalla Theater at Irvington High School, and smaller prints inside Fukaya room B at the Fremont Main Library.

Starting May 8, all photographs are up for a month-long exhibition, and the Faces of Fremont team highly encourages everyone to check them out around Irvington High School and Fremont Library.
