Swiss National Day

To celebrate Swiss National Day on behalf of the local Bay Area community, United Swiss Societies of Northern California, Inc. (USSNC) will be hosting an event on August 6 at Swiss Park in Newark. "This year, the celebration is coming back in-person after going virtual for two years during the pandemic," shared Diane Wagner, President of USSNC.

Surrounded by the stunning beauty of the Alps and serenity of the countryside filled with mountains, rivers and lakes, Switzerland can make anyone fall in love with it.

Swiss National Day celebrates the founding of the Swiss Confederacy. It is a national holiday in Switzerland and is set on August 1. The date is inspired by the day the three Alpine cantons of Schwyz, Uri and Unterwald swore the oath of confederation in "early August" in the year 1291. That date has come to be regarded as the founding of Switzerland. Swiss National Day was first celebrated in 1891 and annually since 1899, although it didn't become a national holiday until 1994.

COVID-19 Vaccine Now Recommended for Everyone Over 6 Months Old

Local Pediatrician Discusses Vaccines for Infants and Toddlers

Parents with young children can now ensure everyone in their family over 6 months of age is protected from COVID-19 since the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) granted emergency use authorization for the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines in children aged 6 months to 5 years. This came just in time for the recent surge in COVID cases in the Bay Area and across the country.

“Having your infant or young child vaccinated against COVID is especially important now that highly contagious new variants of the virus are circulating in our community, including outbreaks in local daycare centers,” said Washington Township Medical Foundation pediatrician Bhaskari Peela, MD.

Pfizer’s pediatric vaccine requires three doses and the Moderna version calls for two doses over several weeks. These vaccines contain the same active ingredients as the adult versions, but are administered in smaller doses. Both brands have shown to be effective against COVID-19 and most importantly, they provide consistently strong protection against severe illness, hospitalization, and death.

“Generally, the young children we’re seeing with COVID are experiencing flu-like symptoms such as a fever, aches, cough, sore throat, vomiting, and diarrhea, though there have been cases where children become very ill and are at risk for hospitalization,” said Dr. Peela. “We strongly encourage parents to have their children immunized against COVID because it can prevent them from getting very sick if they are infected and may help avoid the short- and long-term effects of the illness, many of which are still unknown.”

Safety and Side Effects

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) report that clinical trials with thousands of children have shown COVID vaccinations to be safe and effective. As of July 13, more than 600,000 U.S. children ages 6 months to 4 years had received at least one dose of a COVID vaccine, and 10.3 million children ages 5 to 11 had at least one dose. The CDC assures parents that COVID vaccines are being monitored under the most comprehensive vaccine safety monitoring program in the country’s history.

As with adults, COVID vaccinations may cause side effects in young children including redness and swelling at the injection site, irritability, fever and aches. When they do occur, these symptoms are short-lived, usually lasting a day or two.

According to Dr. Peela, “The benefits of getting your baby or young child immunized against COVID far outweigh any possible side effects or risks. I also encourage those who have already had the virus to get vaccinated, since it will protect them from getting COVID again and prevent serious illness if they do.”

What’s Next?

While the FDA approval and CDC recommendation of vaccines for children 6 months to 5 years old was just six weeks ago, the agencies suggest that based on their experience with adults, a booster dose may be needed in children under 5 as well.

To read more about COVID-19 vaccines for infants, young children and teens, visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus. To schedule a Pfizer COVID vaccination appointment at the Washington Hospital vaccination clinic, call 510.248.8200.

Anxiety: Stop Negative Thoughts

Negative Thoughts: when are they typical or when are they a symptom of anxiety? At this seminar, learn about the warning signs and strategies for coping with anxiety.

Exploring Benefits of Intermittent Fasting

Local Oncologist Offers Tips for Eating That Can Improve Longevity

You may have heard about intermittent fasting. It's been touted as an effective weight-loss strategy, and research is showing there may be even more health benefits.

Fasting is when you don't eat for a prolonged period of time. Intermittent fasting is the practice of not eating for a prolonged period of time on a regular basis, generally avoiding food for 13 to 18 hours a day, or for one to two full days a week.

"Intermittent fasting is one of several types of strategies for eating that have shown to have beneficial effects on health," said Dr. Matthew Tenold, a local oncologist and hematologist who treats patients at the UCSF - Washington Cancer Center in Fremont. "Fasting has deep cultural and religious roots and has been adopted as a creative way to promote weight loss and general health, and recent research indicates it could be beneficial for fighting cancer."

Dr. Tenold will focus on the benefits of intermittent fasting when he presents "Intermittent Fasting for Longevity" on Wednesday, Aug. 10, at 3:30 p.m. The free seminar will take place on Facebook and YouTube. For more information or to register, visit www.whhs.com/events or call 800.963.7070.

Dr. Tenold will explain how restricting the amount of calories you eat impacts your body. For example, when you fast, insulin levels drop and human growth hormone

(HGH) increases. Higher levels of HGH can help build muscle mass, boost metabolism, burn fat, and promote healthy tissue in the brain and other organs, according to Dr. Tenold.

He will also discuss some of the recent research on intermittent fasting. There are a number of studies that show it could help reduce the risk for cancer and may even reduce the harmful side effects of chemotherapy and radiation.

"Some trials showed higher energy levels in people who fast," he added. "A lot of people felt less fatigued, so it could be good for some patients who have undergone surgery, chemotherapy or other endeavors that have weakened them. It seems to boost the recovery process."

Healthy Diet

What you eat is as important as when you eat, he added. Dr. Tenold will offer some tips for healthy eating.

"A vegetarian diet or Mediterranean diet are the gold standard," he said. "It's really about eating a lot of fruits and vegetables, and minimizing breads and starches. It's important to eat foods that are high in omega-3 because they help reduce inflammation. Fish like wild-caught salmon are high in omega-3. It's one of the best kinds of fish you can eat. But stay away from farmed tilapia."

Some fish like farmed tilapia as well as conventionally raised meats are too high in omega-6. Omega-6 fuels inflammatory pathways in the body and may increase the risk of cancer and heart disease, according to Dr. Tenold.

"You need to have a good balance between omega-3 and omega-6," he explained. "If you plan to eat meat, grass-fed beef is actually a better choice than something like farmed tilapia. Grass-fed meats are higher in omega-3 and lower in omega-6."

Dr. Tenold will also touch on the topic of blue zones, which are regions of the world thought to have a higher than usual number of people who live much longer than average.

"These include places like Sardinia, Italy, and Okinawa, Japan," he added. "A lot of it stems from their dietary choices. Their diets are primarily vegetarian. But it also comes from having a strong sense of community and having continuous light activity built into the day naturally. Heavy exercise appears to be less important than simply keeping moving."

Swiss National Day

The event will feature music by Zicke Zacke Band and food by Lugano Swiss Bistro. There will be fun-filled activities for the whole family including a rock-climbing wall, Swiss Heritage Mobile Museum and art & dance classes. Award winning children's author Gisela Bengfort will be on hand for a book reading and signing. Among other activities will be a Swiss train display courtesy of Robert Waal with the group European Train Enthusiasts and a cow stacking competition. Souvenirs and other Swiss fare from local businesses will also be available for purchase. For more information, please visit <https://unitedswissnorcal.org/>.

The program for the event will feature a speech by Sylvia Gerber, Swiss Consulate representative, a flag parade, singing of the American and Swiss anthems, and music by local artists.

USSNC's history dates back to 1910 when a group of Swiss Americans got together to unite the many Swiss clubs around the San Francisco Bay Area. Their goal was for the Swiss clubs to work together to support, promote and maintain Swiss traditions. The organization became official in 1912 and set out with Switzerland's slogan, "One for All and All for One." In 1982, they were renamed USSNC. Throughout the years, they have maintained their mission to connect Swiss communities by promoting, facilitating, and organizing educational and cultural activities. "These events and celebrations bring the people together and generate a sense of community," shared Wagner.

There are many local Swiss clubs that focus on all aspects of Swiss culture and tradition like food, music, sports and arts from the four regions of Switzerland, namely German, Italian, French and Romansh. "Various clubs offer a great opportunity for families to experience and immerse in Swiss culture and tradition," added Wagner. A full list of USSNC clubs can be found here: <https://unitedswissnorcal.org/member-societies/>.

"The COVID-19 pandemic required the organization to become more creative to continue to serve their mission," shared Wagner. They created digital events like Swiss Kids Camp via Zoom, a virtual television show for Swiss National Day and launched an online auction. Their video program "Swiss National Day Live 2021" received a Silver Telly Award of Excellence in the General Low Budget category at the 43rd Annual Telly Awards. The video production was a joint effort by the various Swiss clubs to showcase their Swiss heritage. Many club members had no video production skills, but team came together to create budget-friendly programming to celebrate the occasion during the pandemic. The show can be viewed here: <https://youtu.be/XywrN-AQRTw>. "We invite members of the community to come join the organization to help us carry the mission forward," shared Wagner.

To be seen and heard: Russell City Reparative Justice Project

BY HUGO VERA

A crucial chapter of Hayward's history that has gone widely unnoticed is finally being brought back into the spotlight, partly thanks to the Russell City Reparative Justice Project. Stemming from a proclamation made on behalf of the City of Hayward following the George Floyd and Breonna Taylor demonstrations in 2020, in which the city apologized to its Black community for its role in red-lining and other discriminatory housing practices in decades past, the Russell City Reparative Justice Project was established to empower the descendants of those who lived in the storied community.

So, what exactly is or was Russell City?

First established in 1853 along the upper-west Hayward shoreline, Russell City is often described by historians and locals as Hayward's first predominantly-Black neighborhood. Russell City's first settlers were Danish immigrants, and the community was later named after Joel Russell, a New England-born educator who came to the East Bay during the Gold Rush. The community initially drew in large pockets of poor Danish and German immigrants and later welcomed the massive migration of African-Americans who journeyed west from the East Coast and American South following the Civil War. In the years that followed, Mexican-Americans, Italian-Americans and other marginalized ethnic groups that could not find housing in other parts of Hayward began new lives in Russell City.

"I think what's very overlooked, which is also very impressive, is just how autonomous the Russell City community was," says Russell City Reparative Justice Project manager and management analyst Daniel Mao. "This was a multicultural community in a time when that was unheard of and it was truly self-governed with its own schools, fire station, you-name-it."

Following the project's formation in 2020, Mao and the City Manager's office have been actively working to reach out to the community and identify former residents of Russell City and their descendants. The city's goal is to collect as many testimonies from Russell City residents/resident-descendants as possible and commemorate these stories in projects such as historical walking tours.

Cal State East Bay Department of Ethnic Studies professor and chair Dr. Nicholas Baham is just one many scholars working on a historical walking tour that will lead to a future museum near Hayward Airport that aims to tell the story of Russell City as well as the African-American experience in Hayward. For Dr. Baham, a Black educator, the importance of telling the Russell City story could not be overstated.

"We're living in a time in American history in which a sizable portion of the population simply does not want to learn or discuss difficult chapters of our history such as Black history, the treatment of Native Americans and the current border crisis," states Baham. "The population change that we've seen in Hayward, and one that is continuing to change due to rapid gentrification and the washing out of Black history, demands that we look at the history of working-class communities [such as Russell City]. When you're able to tell the story of this community, it not only makes you visible but it gives you a lineage to that space and time in history."

The city of Hayward hopes to have a functioning walking tour and museum commemorating Russell City and other components of Hayward's Black history by the end of 2023 or early 2024. In the meantime, anyone with stories or any other connections to Russell City is invited to contact Russell City Reparative Justice Project by visiting <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/RussellCityRJP>.

Comic-Con returns in full force with costumes, crowds

AP WIRE SERVICE

The pop culture extravaganza that is Comic-Con International is back to its old extravagance. Stars, cosplayers and hordes of fans are filling the San Diego Convention Center in full force for the first time since 2019. Here's a look at this year's version of the four day festival.

COMIC-CROWDS

The pandemic necessitated virtual versions of Comic-Con in the summers of 2020 and 2021, and a scaled-back in-person version in November, but none were anything like the usual spectacle, with lovers of all things geeky descending from around the globe and arena-sized panels on films and TV shows that resemble sporting events.

It's not clear whether the convention will draw the estimated 135,000 people who flooded San Diego before the pandemic.

But thousands of fans came in droves on Thursday for the convention's first day. As required, nearly all wore masks – the protective kind, not the super-villain kind, though there were plenty of those too – and the excitement amid the crowd was palpable.

"Everybody's just been cooped up for a while, and they've been anticipating this," said Minneapolis resident Dinh Truong, 34, who came to Comic-Con for the second time and attended Wednesday's preview night. "It's nice just to see everybody in the same atmosphere. I'm excited to see the program, see what's going on, see everybody cosplaying and all that, and just getting back to what we used to be."

COMIC-COSPLAY

It's likely no one has missed the in-person convention more than the captains, queens and connoisseurs of cosplay. Comic-Con is their Met Gala, and no getup is too elaborate.

Lorelei McKelvey, 54, who is from San Diego but now lives in Yokosuka, Japan, was dressed as Captain Carter, Captain America's British, World War II-era counterpart.

"I had to do one that I could authentically replicate," McKelvey said. "I went and did my research and found out what were the authentic British officer leathers worn in World War II, and I found manufacturers to actually make those leathers."

She walked the Convention Center floor in real-as-possible officer cavalry boots and Royal Air Force gauntlets, and carried a 5-pound steel shield.

McKelvey came to Comic-Con and worked a booth for 20 straight years. This is her first time coming as a cosplayer, and her second time coming as a trans woman, and she's excited to be reunited with the cherished friends she's made here.

"My last convention is the first time they've seen me as Lorelei," McKelvey said. "This is their first time to see me four years later and to see how much I've grown since then."

Others wandered the halls as "Star Wars" Stormtroopers, the Mandalorian, Wonder Woman, Thor and Sailor Moon. Chuckie from "Child's Play" emerged from one cosplayer's stomach.

COMIC-COMING ATTRACTIONS

Comic-Con makes most of its news as a venue to show off trailers and footage from forthcoming films and TV shows during star-studded mega-panels held in Hall H, which holds some 6,000 people. Announced panels include Warner Bros. and the DC Universe's "Black Adam." It will include Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson, who plays the titular antihero, director Jaume Collet-Serra, and the stars playing Hawkman, Dr. Fate, and other members of the Justice Society.

"Get ready, because the hype is real," Johnson said in pro-wrestler promo mode on Instagram earlier this month. "Guess who's coming to town, the most electrifying man in all the DC Universe."

Warner Bros. will also provide a preview of "Shazam: Fury of the Gods."

Marvel may hold back its best material for Disney's forthcoming D23 Expo, but is expected to tease its next film, "Black Panther: Wakanda Forever" and the Disney+ TV series "She-Hulk: Attorney at Law."

A pair of much-anticipated fantasy prequels will also give fans a taste of their worlds. A new trailer dropped Wednesday in advance of a panel from HBO Max that will show off the "Game of Thrones" spinoff "House of the Dragon," set 200 years before the original series.

Amazon is going back in time 2000 years for "The Lord of the Rings: The Rings of Power," a tale of the emergence of evil among the elves long before Frodo and Bilbo walked Middle Earth. Their panel this year comes 21 years after director Peter Jackson presented footage from the first of the original films at Comic-Con.

Tesla 2Q profit drops from 1Q, but company beats estimates

BY TOM KRISHER AP AUTO WRITER

Tesla's second-quarter profit fell 32% from record levels in the first quarter as supply chain issues and pandemic lockdowns in China slowed production of its electric vehicles.

But the Austin, Texas, company still surprised Wall Street with a $2.26 billion net profit for the quarter. Tesla stuck with a prediction of 50% annual vehicle sales growth over the next few years, but said that depends on the supply chain, equipment capacity and other issues.

The company made a record $3.32 billion in this year's first quarter.

Tesla's sales from April through June fell to 254,000 vehicles, their lowest quarterly level since last fall. But the company predicted record-breaking production in the second half and said that in June it had the highest production month in its history.

Industry analysts had been expecting lower earnings after the lower sales figures and tweets by CEO Elon Musk about laying off 10% of the company's work force due to fears of a recession. In an interview, Musk described new factories in Austin and Berlin as "money furnaces" that were losing billions of dollars because supply chain breakdowns were limiting the number of cars they can produce.

But Tesla exceeded Wall Street expectations from April through June with adjusted earnings of $2.27 per share. Analysts polled by FactSet expected $1.81. Revenue was $16.93 billion, beating estimates of $16.54 billion.

Wedbush analyst Dan Ives said the company's results were "better than feared" for the quarter. The reiteration of the 50% annual sales growth will make bullish investors happy, he wrote in an email.

Tesla shares rose slightly in extended trading Wednesday to $745.23.

The company said it converted 75% of its bitcoin investment to government currency during the quarter, adding $936 million in cash to its balance sheet. It spent $1.5 billion on the investment last year, but it was unclear how much it has lost. Analysts say it is in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

The price of bitcoin has fallen about 50% so far this year.

Donation promotes children's music education

SUBMITTED BY CAROL ZILLI, MFMII EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR/FOUNDER

Music for Minors II (MFMII), the 501 (c)(3) nonprofit keeping music in children's classrooms and lives since 1988, is the grateful recipient of community support once again from a great realty, the Intero Foundation! This is the third time the Foundation has supported MFMII's annual fall music docent training class for community volunteers. This year the Intero Foundation has also supported our MFMII's Got Talent Children's Showcase.

Recently, Intero Realty Union City staff presented MFMII Executive Director Carol Zilli with a large replica of the $5,200 check to the nonprofit. Carol will be writing a song for Intero as a token of appreciation for their generosity at a key time for the nonprofit given the impact COVID19 has had on the program with school closures. Some of the lyrics include "Intero's Got Integrity (3x)... I-N-T (clap clap), E-R-O (clap clap) Intero is (clap clap), the place to go..." Complete lyrics and audio are on the MFMII website: www.musicforminors2.org.

MFMII is recruiting new volunteers from now until mid September when the annual, fun-filled music docent training class begins. MFMII will also have a booth and be on stage at the Fremont Art Festival on August 6 and 7. If you love music and children and know that music is a powerful learning tool that feeds the brain while it touches the heart, then come to the free hybrid training orientation on September 14 and first day of class on September 19. Class will be taught virtually and in person. Email info@musicforminors2.org or call (510) 733-1189 for more information.

Hope to see you at our interactive booth at the festival!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Retirees are uncomfortable with 40-year high inflation

This letter is a true picture and represents what is actually happening with all 65 million American retirees receiving social security benefits. And of course, they are not comfortable with 40-year high inflation in the United States as announced at 9.1%, the largest annual increase since Nov. 1981.

We have noticed the 5.9% increase in social security cost of living adjustment (COLA) in 2022 which was the largest increase since the 7.4% hike in 1982. But inflation in the current year (2022) has only continued to accelerate, and it seems all but inevitable at this point that cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) for 2023 will be even larger. Analysts predict the bump could be as high as 8.6% if current inflationary trends continue.

On the one hand, it could be bad news for others, and on the flip side, a higher COLA for 2023 may force higher income earners to pay more for Medicare part B & part D benefits. Also, lower-income beneficiaries may see cuts to income-related benefits as their monthly payments increase.

All of this means retirees won't have extra money, despite a huge benefit increase. However, they will buy the same amount of goods and services or less if inflation continues to increase after the COLA is calculated for the year.

Retirees should be aware of the big raise that's coming so they aren't shocked by it - and should make sure to think about the impact of such high inflation on their overall financial picture.

Are oil companies really greener?

BY DYLAN STOLL

*Dear EarthTalk:
 Are oil companies actually taking steps to cut emissions overall or are their claims mostly just “greenwashing”?*

– P.B., New Haven, Connecticut

Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) stated in its latest report that we are facing a “code red” for humanity if we are unable to make substantive changes. According to the IPCC we must cut our carbon dioxide (CO2) emissions in half by 2030 in order to secure a livable future. Even though there has been a push for emissions reduction, global emissions are not showing signs of declining.

As top contributors of pollution, oil companies are under a microscope. In response to increased pressure, many have begun to make promises that they are working toward being part of the solution. The scientific journal PLOS One reports that major oil companies are using terms like “climate,” “low-carbon” and “transition” more frequently in their reports and claim that they are striving to go “carbon neutral.”

Carbon neutral is as much of an oxymoron as there can be when applied to oil companies, which begs the question: How do they plan to accomplish this goal? One way they are trying to achieve net-zero emissions is by investing in nature-based carbon credits. Essentially, they are pledging money to plant trees that absorb the CO2 equivalent of the output of their company.

While this solution seems simple enough, common criticisms of oil companies’ responses are that net-zero promises are solely based on facility operations and not on the fuel sales themselves; additionally, oil companies have continued to invest in more acreage for the express purpose of extracting more oil -- thereby showing their true priorities. Researchers at Tohoku University and Kyoto University conclude that transitioning to clean energy is not occurring because investments and actions by oil companies simply do not match the public promises they are making.

It’s important to understand that nature-based credits come with complications. It takes years for trees to mature so it’s often unclear how much CO2 they’ll absorb. In addition, the lifespan of these trees is not a guarantee either: With increasingly warm and dry conditions, there is an increased likelihood that these trees could die due to drought or fire, in which case the carbon offset becomes worthless.

So, are oil companies simply greenwashing? Some have made minor efforts but it is not nearly enough. That being said, it is important to know how we as individuals can still make a difference. Divesting from oil companies will help reduce the amount of money going toward these polluters. Even if you are not giving money directly to oil companies, your money can indirectly exacerbate the problem. Doing your due diligence to make sure that your bank is not funding oil companies along with other investments in your portfolio can make a world of difference. Reallocating money to make sure you are investing in a clean energy future will help to take the fate of our planet out of the hands of big oil companies.

SUBMITTED BY CITY OF FREMONT

Officials from the City of Fremont's Senior Peer Counselor program recently welcomed seven new volunteers who recently graduated from a training class and soon will join the program as Senior Peer Counselors.

The newest graduates are:

- Janet Quilici
- Aditie Panda
- Noorein Inamdar
- Beth Newell
- Pai Chie Chen Chow
- Thomas Tran
- Thom Hoffman

The program was developed in 1989 by the city's Human Services Department to address the emotional needs of older adults residing in the Tri-City area. Since its inception, Senior Peer Counselors have provided emotional support to hundreds of residents.

"We are extremely grateful to our senior volunteers, members of this Senior Peer Counselor graduation class. They have committed their time, energy and life experiences to the ideal that all seniors should live happy and productive lives," said Ahmad Tarin, Senior Peer Counselor Program Coordinator. "Without their commitment and individual talents, our program could not exist."

Anyone with questions about the program, or who would like information about services for older adults in the Tri-City area can call the Senior Infoline at (510) 574-2041.

News and Notes FROM AROUND THE WORLD

SUBMITTED BY THE ASSOCIATION OF MATURE AMERICAN CITIZENS

Bling!
Hey, guys, if you're in love and are looking for a sure-fire way to pop the question, you might want to get in touch with Abdul Gafur Anadiyan, managing director at SWA Diamonds, says the Association of Mature American Citizens (AMAC). You'll find him in Malappuram, India and, if you have the dough, he has an engagement ring that will knock your lady's socks off. It features 24,679 diamonds and the Guinness Book of World Records attests to the fact that it's a one of a kind. Guinness describes Abdul as specializing "in diamond jewelry with a mission of making it affordable for all." Sure enough, he's asking a mere $95,243 for this piece of bling.

A sunny story
It happened on July 12 -- a New York City event known as "Manhattanhenge," when the sun sets in perfect alignment with the streets of Manhattan. And as usual, huge crowds of tourists joined Manhattanites to get a glimpse of the phenomenon, according to the AMAC. They gathered on the East side of town facing due West to watch the sun as it made its descent beyond the Hudson River, its rays falling perfectly between Manhattan's sky scrapers. It happens each year for two days in May and two days in July. Astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson came up with the moniker, Manhattanhenge, comparing it to Britain's Stonehenge. See video of "Manhattanhenge" on YouTube: www.youtube.com/watch?v=i-70Nt9hqHI.

Don't wake the sea lions
It can get pretty crowded at the balmy beaches of La Jolla, California and, recently, the crowd at La Jolla Cove got a wakeup call when a beachgoer accidentally roused a group of sea lions, reports AMAC. Apparently, the sleeping mammals were awakened by a visitor who had gotten too close to them. She was frightened and started running away, the sea lions allegedly ran after her, which in turn caused a panicked mass evacuation of sunbathers. The sea lions eventually returned to the water and no one was hurt. See video of charging sea lions: www.nbcsandiego.com/news/local/sea-lions-chase-away-beachgoers-at-la-jolla-shores/2990905/.

The Association of Mature American Citizens is a nonprofit, nonpartisan advocacy organization representing membership in Washington, D.C. and in local congressional districts nationwide. More information is available on its website at www.amac.us.

HOW TO DRAW A SHARK

SHARKS! Which scares you more? A shark or a bee?

Most people are more afraid of sharks than bees. Yet bee stings have killed more people than sharks! Out of around 500 different kinds of sharks, most are not dangerous. The Great White shark is the most dangerous of all, but hardly anyone sees it. It likes to stay in deep ocean water where most people don't swim.

Shark Shapes

Sharks come in all shapes and sizes. Some have stripes. Others have spots. Can you list one or more ways each of these sharks is different from the others?

Example: The Leopard shark has spotted markings.

Nothing but the Tooth

No two kinds of sharks have the same kind of teeth. Scientists can tell what kind of shark a tooth came from just by the way it looks.

To find out what type of shark each tooth came from, unscramble the words.

Standards Link: Life Science: Animals have features that help them survive in different environments.

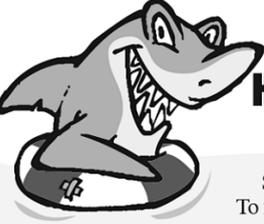

Shark Teeth

Use this code to find out more amazing facts about shark teeth.

Most sharks have rows of teeth.
Sharks get a new set of teeth every weeks. In years, a Tiger shark will lose as many as teeth.

How Do Sharks Float?

Shark livers are full of oil. To find out how oil helps sharks float, try this experiment.

- Put two tablespoons of cooking oil in a small jar.
- Fill the jar half full of water and put on the lid.
- Shake the jar.
- Set the jar down and watch what happens to the oil and water. Which one floats?

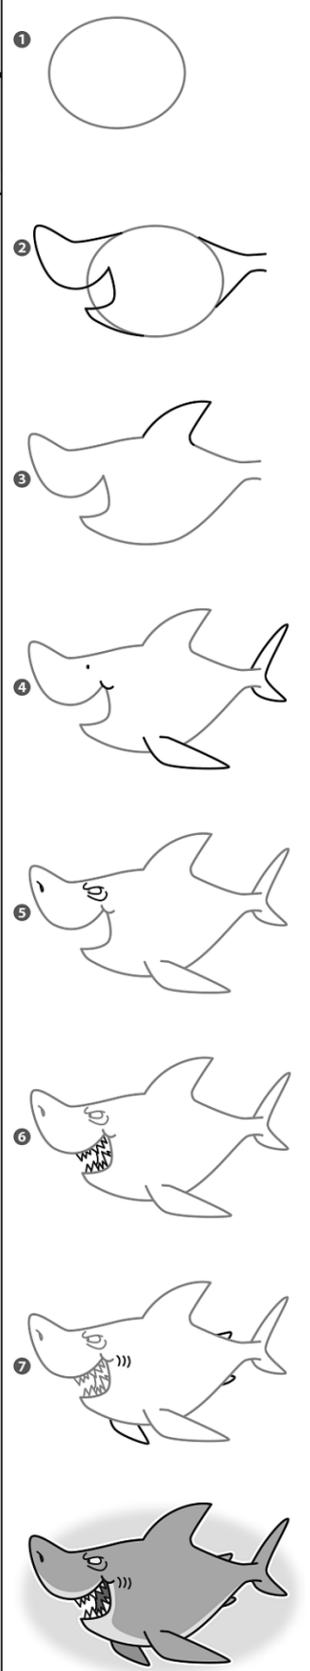

Standards Link: Physical Science: Conduct a simple investigation and analyze results to develop a logical conclusion.

City of Fremont and Ohlone College Expand Smart Manufacturing Technology Back to Work Program with Tesla

Assisting dislocated, ESL workers in establishing careers in advanced manufacturing

The City of Fremont Economic Development Department and Ohlone College have launched the expanded Smart Manufacturing Technology Back to Work (SMTech B2W) program, formerly known as the Earn & Learn Fremont (ELF) pilot program, aimed at assisting dislocated, English as a Second Language (ESL) workers by helping them establish careers in advanced manufacturing.

The 10 participants in the first cohort received an industry-recognized credential as well as a certificate of completion, a pathway to an associate and undergraduate degree, and a portion of the cohort received paid work experience at Fortune 500 automotive and clean energy company Tesla. Following the program, all 10 participants have been offered full-time employment at Tesla, including benefits and stock options.

Tesla hosted a graduation ceremony on July 11, 2022 to celebrate the participants, with Fremont Mayor Lily Mei also in attendance to give opening remarks.

“This program not only aims to address the immediate industry need for manufacturing employees, but also is designed to break down the ‘sticky floor’ in manufacturing, which has historically prevented upward mobility for ESL workers due to language constraints,” Dr. Rose-Margaret Ekeng Itua, Professor of Engineering and Coordinator of the Smart Manufacturing Technology Program at Ohlone College, said. “With our enhanced Back to Work program, we hope to give individuals of all backgrounds an equal opportunity to achieve meaningful, long-term careers in manufacturing in Fremont and provide a framework for nationwide partnerships aimed at educating, growing, and diversifying the manufacturing workforce.”

The initial cohort included several ESL participants who were previously enrolled in Fremont Adult & Continuing Education (FACE), which offers lifelong educational opportunities and services for residents of all ages. The other participants are also of diverse backgrounds, including women and veterans. To be eligible for acceptance, participants had to be currently receiving unemployment benefits or had their benefits exhausted.

Participants completed a custom six-week, accelerated Smart Technology Program with Ohlone College where they learned Industry 4.0 standards and skills in additive manufacturing, industrial internet of things, and emerging manufacturing processes. In conjunction, some participants received eight weeks of full-time, paid manufacturing work at Tesla.

In addition to Tesla’s sponsorship contribution of employee wages, the Alameda County Workforce Development Board provided $160,000 in funds to support the program through the Ohlone Career Center. The Corporate and Community Education Office at Ohlone College provided technology support for the participants.

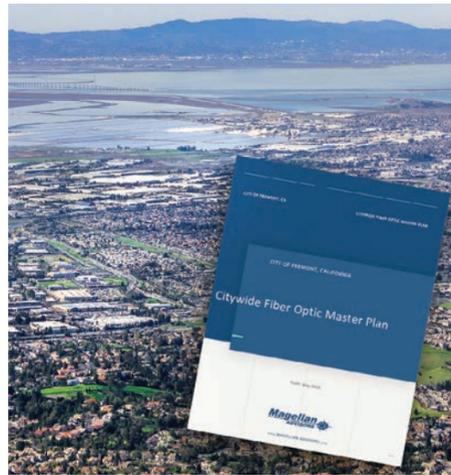

The City of Fremont and Ohlone College plan to continue the SMTech B2W program in October 2022 with another cohort which will focus on establishing long-term manufacturing careers for Ukrainian and Afghan refugees, who are largely part of the ESL community. To expand future opportunities for participants, the program’s next iteration will include a new English language class at FACE as a prerequisite and funding through a combination of California’s Strong Workforce program to cover the curriculum as well as participating employers who will cover full wages.

Initially launched in March 2021, the inaugural Earn and Learn Fremont (ELF) pilot program resulted in all participants receiving full-time employment offers from local partner Evolve Manufacturing as well as at semiconductor company Lam Research.

For more information on the SMTech B2W program as well as to express interest in future cohorts, please visit: www.ohlone.edu/smtech/earn-n-learn.

City Council Approves Citywide Fiber Optic Master Plan

On Tuesday, July 19, the Fremont City Council adopted the Citywide Fiber Optic Master Plan, which was created to guide the implementation of a City-owned fiber-optic network that will serve as a critical investment in our community’s future.

Jointly developed by Magellan Advisors and the City, the approved plan outlines how the City will facilitate increased robust broadband infrastructure in the community, enabling economic development and ‘smart city’ initiatives, such as high-speed connectivity, sensors, and automated devices. It also strategizes the use and deployment of broadband infrastructure for government facilities and commercial and industrial corridors, as well as examines options for expanding broadband assets to City residents. The plan incorporates findings from interviews that Magellan conducted with City departments, a market assessment, and responses from a community survey.

With this plan, our City aims to transform Fremont into a broadband-rich environment, which will attract and retain businesses, as well as promote digital equity in underserved areas of the community.

For more information, please visit: <https://city.fremont.gov/fiberopticplan>.

New Outdoor Commercial Patio Program for Fremont Businesses

The City’s new Outdoor Commercial Patio Program is now accepting applications. The new program offers businesses a streamlined and low-cost process for obtaining a permit for their permanent outdoor space. Businesses can develop outdoor patios up to 750 square feet. All businesses who apply before January 2023—whether or not they were part of the City’s temporary Pop Up Patio Pilot Program—may qualify for reimbursement of the $500 permit fee. For more information, including permit application instructions and materials, businesses can visit our website.

Broncho Billy rides again

(This time in person!)

Find out what happened here one hundred years ago. Important landmarks will be discussed and stories will be shared by historian David Kiehn and museum docent Rena Kiehn. Meet at the film museum and bring your camera. Includes a Walking Tour of Niles booklet.

Johnny Crawford Remembrance

12:45 p.m.
 Many of you will remember Johnny Crawford as Mark McCain, the son of Lucas McCain (as portrayed by Chuck Connors) in The Rifleman back in the late 1950s. But did you know he was a singer, musician and big band leader? That he was a champion rodeo rider? There will be a recorded video interview with his very-accomplished-in-their-own-right siblings, Bobby and Nance. We will screen clips of his television, film and musical career.

Tribute to Diana Serra Cary (Baby Peggy)

3 p.m.
 Diana was a great friend and supporter of our silent film museum, and silent film child star herself, who passed on February 24, 2020. Her father, Jack Montgomery, a real-life cowboy, worked for Broncho Billy. Come see some films on the big screen. Going back to the nickelodeon time machine, we ask for a 50-cent donation for each film. Facemasks required.

Phlox adds color and pollinator appeal all season long

BY MELINDA MYERS

Fill your gardens with color from spring through summer and even into fall with a variety of pollinator-friendly phlox. The beauty, diversity, and usefulness in the garden of this group of plants had the National Garden Bureau declare 2022 Year of the Phlox.

Start out the growing season with creeping phlox (Phlox subulata). This low growing phlox is perfect for rock gardens, as a groundcover or planted at the front of a perennial garden. Grow it in full sun with well-drained soil in growing zones three to nine. (You can check your growing zone online). Once flowers fade, shear plants back halfway to encourage attractive new growth that will last all season long.

Woodland phlox (Phlox divaricata) is native to Midwestern woods and fields and hardy in zones three to eight. The periwinkle blue flowers add some welcome color to shady spots in spring. Grow it in moist rich soil and watch for hummingbirds and butterflies that visit the blooms.

The Garden Club of America named Blue Moon woodland phlox its Plant of the Year, awarding it with the 2022 Montine McDaniel Freeman Horticulture Award. This award is given to native underutilized plants with superior ecological and ornamental attributes. Their goal is to increase the use of these plants in gardens. Blue Moon is mildew resistant, long blooming and like the species is an early source of pollen for native bees and swallowtail butterflies, and nectar for hummingbirds.

Downy or prairie phlox (Phlox pilosa) is another North American native phlox that can be found in prairies and is hardy in zones three to nine. The pale pink to purple-pink blossoms appear in the spring. Grow it in full sun with moist to well-drained loam or sandy soils. Like other phlox, it attracts and supports butterflies and hummingbirds.

Marsh phlox (Phlox globerrima) is native to wet prairies and open woodlands and thrives in moist soil and even damp clay. The intense magenta flowers appear June to July and are a hummingbird magnet. Grow this phlox in zones four to eight.

The North American native tall garden phlox has long been popular with gardeners. It blooms mid-season, adding color and height to any garden bed or mixed border. Perfectly round flower clusters top each stem and come in a variety of colors from white to pink, purple, salmon and more. Grow these in full sun with moist, rich, well-drained soil.

The flowers of many tall phlox varieties are fragrant, attract pollinators and make great cut flowers. Remove faded flowers and provide sufficient moisture and nutrients to encourage more blooms. The Fashionably Early series of tall phlox blooms early and for a long period with rebloom in fall.

Grow tall phlox in full sun, provide sufficient space, and avoid overhead watering to reduce the risk of powdery mildew. Select mildew-resistant varieties like LUMINARY™, Opening Act, Sweet Summer and Super Ka-pow to reduce the risk of this disease.

Consider adding a variety of phlox plants to your garden this season or next. You and the pollinators will appreciate the long season of beautiful flowers, pollen, and nectar.

SEVERE DROUGHT
Please Save Water

Alameda Creek 2018

Alameda Creek 2022

Alameda Creek provides 40% of the water supply for Fremont, Newark and Union City. Photos taken May 2018 and June 2022.

The drought is worsening, as California is in its driest 3-year period on record, and water conservation is urgently needed.

Mandatory water use restrictions and drought emergency stage rates are in effect. Let's work together to reduce water use by 15%. Please save water now.

For ways to save with rebates and tips, or to report water waste, visit acwd.org/drought.

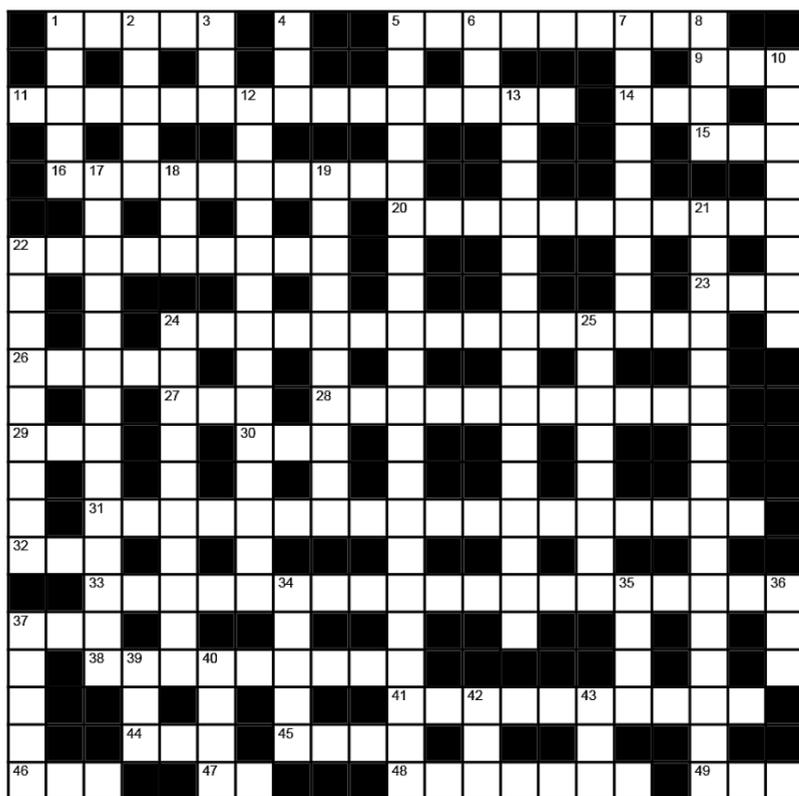

Proud to provide a reliable supply of high quality water at a reasonable price to Fremont, Newark and Union City

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JULY 26, 2022

All Signs: Now and then we have a week when we need to defend ourselves from those who diminish us or wear us down. That week has arrived. Be on guard! Do not get sucked into words that confirm your worst fears about yourself. Don't beat yourself up for what you can't or didn't do. Stay strong. You are doing your best dealing with your life. Be kind. Help others.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20):

This is a tough week for romance, which is why lovers' quarrels might take place. It might also be a challenging week dealing with your kids. Take note: This is an accident-prone time for your kids so be extra vigilant to keep them safe. Know where they are and make sure toddlers are free from hazardous situations. Authority figures and parents might be critical about your style for dealing with sports, creative projects, vacations and social outings. Fear not, with lucky Jupiter in your sign, you have divine protection.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20):

Tread carefully this week. You will have difficulty dealing with family members, especially parents. They will be critical or block your actions and ideas. However, your response might be a tad heavy because fiery Mars is in your sign. This makes you much more of a fighter for your own rights. You won't let anyone take anything away from you; and you will be more irritable and touchy than usual. If attacked – you will respond! Helpful tip: Get physical exercise or do physical work to blow off any pent-up steam.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20):

Both the Sun and your ruler Mercury are in the part of your chart that is your "home." And while they are sitting there this week, they are challenged by Saturn, Mars and Uranus! This means you will feel that rules, regulations and laws block what you want to do. Meanwhile, something going on behind the scenes will also create obstacles; around Thursday, you're in an accident-prone situation. Therefore, pay attention to everything you say and do. Think before you speak or act, for your own benefit – and the benefit of others.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21):

All of us are facing challenges this week because four different planetary combinations will be tough to deal with. Much of the frustration you feel will pertain to money, cash flow, earnings, and personal belongings. You might want to keep some cash on hand. Stay in touch with your bank account and your finances. Guard your possessions against loss, theft or damage. Know what's going on ahead of time so that you can do damage control. By Sunday, things are fine and all this is in the past.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22):

Be prepared! You are in the firing line of tough planetary aspects this week, and many involve Mercury (the planet with domain over daily communications and activities) – and right now, Mercury is in your sign! Because Mercury will be at odds with Mars, you will be touchy, irritable and view communications as a challenge. The worst scenario is you will have to defend yourself, especially with bosses, parents and authority figures. Later in the week, life will be fast-paced and frantic. You might feel isolated and lonely. By Sunday, all is well.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22):

This will be a relatively tough week because your ruler Mercury is at odds with three different planets on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Meanwhile, Mercury is hiding in your chart, which means you might feel powerless to deal with whatever annoys you. You might feel attacked, but can't actually do or say anything. Don't let this get you down. It's temporary, and by Sunday, things return to normal. Furthermore, a lot of this is your own negative perception. Look for activities and social diversions. A friend will be a source of comfort and pleasure.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22):

You are a social sign and a people pleaser. Meanwhile, this week promises dissension and stressful interactions with others. (Disputes about shared property or inheritances are likely.) Obviously, you don't like arguing with others. It's good to know that the entire world is facing these challenges in different ways according to their sign. Accept these upsets knowing that by Sunday, the dust will settle. Fortunately, with Venus at the top of your chart, you look good to others. Be part of the solution not the problem.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21):

You are the most strong-willed sign in the zodiac. When you're unhappy – everyone knows it. This week, you will likely encounter challenges dealing with parents, bosses, authority figures and police. Arguments and disputes will be tough to avoid. Even family members and parents will slow you down or create problems for you. If you can travel, this will be a welcome escape. (However, some of your challenges might be with a partner or close friend travelling with you!) Be aware that you are high visibility. Demonstrate grace under pressure.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21):

Many of you are interested in philosophical ideas and politics. This is one reason why this week, you might encounter obstacles dealing with the media, higher education and medicine. Legal issues and entanglements will be difficult. You might be upset by political situations or something you learn about in the news. Work-related travel will be challenging. Conversations with siblings, relatives and neighbors might discourage you. This is tough because optimism and physical activity are survival issues for your sign. Get out and do some physical exercise.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19):

We all face a lot of challenges this week, and according to our sign, these challenges are slightly different. You might encounter serious obstacles related to financial matters. Something might be cancelled at the last minute leaving you high and dry. You might encounter disputes about shared property or inheritances. Insurance people might be tough to deal with. On top of this, financial matters in general, especially disputes about bills or taxes, might be a headache. Fortunately, a close friend or partner will be supportive. By Sunday, all is well. Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): This week, you might find it challenging dealing with a close friend, spouse or a business partner. You might feel that no matter what you do, you end up in the doghouse. Clashes and arguments might take place, especially within your family. These difficulties could trigger feelings of loneliness and depression. But likely, your problems seem worse than they really are. Keep in mind that the other person is suffering too. In fact, this is a tough week for the entire world! Therefore, be happy with whatever fortunate circumstances you do have.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20):

This is a challenging week for everyone; these challenges will occur in different ways for different people, but they will exist for us all. You might find it difficult to deal with work colleagues. This could be due to equipment breakdowns, late deliveries or an unexpected interruption. If possible, work ahead of time so that you have wiggle room to deal with the unexpected. Meanwhile, criticism from a boss or an authority figure could be a bummer. Fortunately, romance and social occasions will be a lovely escape. By Sunday all of this is history.

Park It: Ohlone information table

BY NED MACKAY

The Ohlone Peoples have lived in what is now California for thousands of years; Sunol Regional Wilderness is a place important to their culture and history. You can learn more about these Native Americans during a program from 9:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 30 in the Sunol Visitor Center with naturalist Kristina Parkison. The program is free and registration is not required.

Washington Hospital's WOOF PROGRAM

“Molly is a two-year-old beagle, and weighs around 20 lbs. She has been a Pet Partners pet therapy dog for six months and has been working at Washington Hospital for about a month... She even has her own Washington Hospital badge!”

“A cute story about Molly: Patients can't reach her from their beds since she is so small, so we always pull up a chair when we visit. Molly sits on my lap and is perfectly content to be petted and part of the conversation! And, of course, she is as popular with the staff as with the patients!” - Constance Gertsch (From Ohlone Humane Society Facebook Page)

Chosen volunteers must first undergo the process of training and certification. WOOF uses nationally recognized third-party organizations such as Pet Partners and Therapy Dogs International for vetting whether a dog has the skillset and temperament for the program. Therapy dogs are ideally gentle, friendly and open to meeting strangers. Following verification comes training at Washington Hospital. Imana-Iyemura explains, “Once the dog and owner has been approved, they shadow an existing team with a coordinator.” WOOF volunteers visit rooms in different hospital wings, where therapy dogs greet and interact with the patient. Since the WOOF program has gone into effect, volunteers and staff have witnessed the remarkable impact that these dogs have on patients.

Therapy dogs are known for easing numerous symptoms, including depression and fatigue. For patients who may be in the hospital for an indefinite amount of time, brief moments of joy with an animal that they otherwise would not have access to are highly beneficial. “A staff member received an alert for a high blood pressure patient,” Imana-Iyemura recalls. “When they arrived at their room, they noticed the patient had a drop in blood pressure because the therapy dog came to visit.” This event, along with many others, only heightens the program's significance and precisely why it is in place. WOOF not only comforts patients, but medical staff as well. Imana-Iyemura adds, “Our staff is our biggest fan. WOOF volunteers and dogs try to visit our nurses' stations often and the result is like one of a child in school who gets that jolt of surprising excitement.”

As WOOF continues its journey, Washington Hospital Service League upholds its mission to positively influence and serve the community. During incredibly strenuous and uncertain times of the pandemic, it takes the efforts of both medical staff and volunteers to deliver patients with care that embodies support and reassurance. For patients and staff, WOOF is certain to uplift and inspire.

For more information on WOOF, visit: <https://www.whhs.com/giving-volunteering/volunteer-opportunity/>. Those interested in learning more or volunteering for WOOF, visit volunteer_services@whhs.com or call (510) 818-7465.

others— is further emphasized by Washington's Outreach of Fur (WOOF), a dog therapy program.

Established in 2019, WOOF focuses on bringing patients encouragement and attentiveness through volunteers and their vetted therapy dogs. In the past three years alone, WOOF has become a highly favored service among patients who seek that boost of comfort. Assistant Director of Volunteer Services Evangeline Imana-Iyemura states, “Patients are first asked if they are interested in the program and then we check that they are medically approved to have visitors.” WOOF currently has five active therapy dogs alongside a group of volunteers. The program is consistently seeking to grow.

Positive West Nile Virus mosquitoes found in Milpitas

SUBMITTED BY SANTA CLARA COUNTY

A surveillance program by the County of Santa Clara Vector Control District recently confirmed the presence of West Nile positive mosquitos in a small area of Milpitas.

As a result, officials ordered the area centered around Gingerwood and Aspenridge drives to be treated with insecticide using truck-mounted equipment from about 10 p.m. Saturday, July 23 until 1 a.m. the next day.

The broader area targeted for treatment was:

- North -- Border of Alameda County/Santa Clara County
- East -- North Milpitas Boulevard
- South -- Redwood Avenue and North Abel Street
- West -- Border of I-880 Northbound

The goal is to reduce West Nile Virus-transmitting mosquito populations. Officials emphasized that mosquito treatments pose minimal risk to people, pets, animals and the environment when applied by a licensed vector control professional.

Anyone that is being bothered by mosquitoes or who knows of a potential mosquito-breeding source is asked to contact the County of Santa Clara Vector Control District at (408) 918-4770 or visit their webpage at www.sccvector.org for more information.

Cal State East Bay Women's Volleyball receives academic award

SUBMITTED BY CSUEB ATHLETIC COMMUNICATIONS

On Monday, July 18, United States Marine Corps (USMC) and American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA) announced its 2021-22 USMC/AVCA Team Academic Awards. Among more than 1,200 teams total (collegiate and high school), and 147 NCAA Division II women's volleyball programs, Cal State East Bay, under the direction of head coach Kim Lambert, received the honor for success in the classroom during the 2021-22 academic year.

The Pioneers' program garnered the AVCA Team Academic Award for the fifth time as NCAA Division II members. The award commenced in 1992-93 and is celebrating its 30th academic year in 2021-22.

Among the 1,200-plus programs to be honored are men's and women's volleyball programs in all

NCAA Divisions, NAIA, two-year colleges, NCCAA, USCAA, high school boys' and girls' volleyball and beach volleyball.

For a program to be recognized for the USMC/AVCA Team Academic Award, the team must maintain a grade point average of 3.3 on a 4.0 scale (4.1 on a 5.0 scale) during the specific academic year.

2022 East Bay Swim League Championships

BY ANGELA XIONG

On July 22-23, the 46th Annual East Bay Swim League Championship (EBSL) took place at Chabot College in Hayward. The decision to split the meet into two days, with ages 13-18 swimmers competing the first day, and ages 12 and under swimmers competing the second day, was made in order to provide an additional safety measure, accommodating ongoing COVID-19 concerns. Following a two-year hiatus due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the 46th EBSL Championship meet kicked off stronger than ever with 11 local Bay Area teams competing for the title of League Champion.

The meet started off with Medley Relays followed shortly by a variety of swim events including 50-yard Backstroke, 25-yard Breaststroke, 200-yard freestyle, and more. Over the course of both meet days, onlookers gathered around the pool's perimeter during each event, consistently cheering the swimmers on – promoting a positive meet environment.

Since its establishment thirty years ago, the EBSL has been dedicated to providing young swimmers with the opportunity for summer recreational swimming competitions in order to foster sportsmanship, team spirit, and cooperation within the sport of swimming. In the 2022 EBSL Championship meet, this mission was accomplished through the supportive and educational emphasis promoted by coaches, friends and family members. Not only has splitting the meet between two days provide increased COVID-19 safety, but it also allowed the swimmers to receive more individual attention, the younger swimmers g benefiting from this championship meet format. In the end, the Newark Bluefins emerged victorious in first place, followed by the Mission Valley Barracudas, and the Chabot Marlins.

Reflecting on the 2022 EBSL Championship Meet, Co-meet Director Patrick Ryken shared, "Swimming is such a life-long skill [and] to see young swimmers develop the skills and grow into strong competitive swimmers going into middle school and high school ages is really special."

POLICE TO HOST COMMUNITY BARBECUE

SUBMITTED BY SAN LEANDRO PD

A barbecue is often a good time to meet friends and neighbors and promote community togetherness and safety. That's the idea behind a free United 4 Safety BBQ & Badges community barbecue planned by The San Leandro Police Department.

San Leandro residents are invited to visit the police station on E. 14th Street on Saturday, August 27 to meet and get to know police officers and other department members while enjoying a free barbecue lunch. The four-hour event starts at 10 a.m. and will include various children's activities including a photo opportunity with McGruff the Crime Dog.

supportive housing." Millions of dollars have already been released by the State through two "rounds" of the program and the City of Fremont waited for its acceptance letter in the second round.

On July 22nd, an update from the city gave disappointing news. A brief statement indicated that the application had been rejected due to "technical" issues. Although given five days to respond and staff assurances that the proposal, as submitted was a "good project," the decision was made to abandon it for a new application in a future round of Homekey awards. A question that remains unanswered is why, if the State objection was technical and might have been corrected without the time and expense of a new application, did the City fail to pursue an appeal or correction?

This misstep highlights a larger issue that has faced Fremont for quite a long time. Periodically, citizen groups have questioned whether General Law status is appropriate for Fremont. Most other cities with populations similar or exceeding Fremont's - some even smaller - have opted to become a "charter" city. It may be time to revisit the argument for a change from the proscribed provisions of a General Law City and convert to a charter with the possibility of a strong mayor form of executive authority. The city council has been able to evade responsibility for problems such as the prior City Manager Mark Danaj debacle and other administrative issues by deferring to a city manager or blending into group think. Fremont has grown in population and influence, so too should its organizational structure.

With salary creep toward full-time status, the mayor and council should assume more responsibility for the day-to-day operations of the city and, in turn, answer directly to the public for staff decisions. In the current political environment, the mayor is focused on the coming election for higher office and there is obvious friction within the council. This can weaken any resolve to solve internal issues and leave the city under the control of staff. Many of these people are seasoned professionals who deserve credit for their service to the community, but it may be time for our elected leaders to find the lost keys to the city.

Advocates for homeless individuals and families eagerly anticipated the fruition of Fremont's application to the California Department of Housing and Community Development for Project Homekey funds. Although the Motel 6 site chosen was controversial, sparking debate, program goals were laudable. After all, the plan would create 156 units of permanent housing in an area of astronomical real estate valuation and exorbitant rent.

A commensurate "living wage" in the Bay Area stretches to six figures. Add rampant inflation to the mix and even middle-class households are hard-pressed to maintain a roof over their heads. Homekey is a government response, awarding funds to communities for affordable housing. This includes conversion of existing transient housing (hotels, motels, etc.) to "permanent

Netflix to rely on Microsoft for its ad-backed video service

BY MICHAEL LIEDTKE
ASSOCIATED PRESS TECHNOLOGY WRITER

Netflix has picked Microsoft to help deliver the commercials in a cheaper version of its video streaming service expected to launch later this year with a pledge to minimize the intrusions into personal privacy that often accompany digital ads.

The alliance, announced July 13, marks a major step toward Netflix's first foray into advertising after steadfastly refusing to include commercials in its video streaming service since its inception 15 years ago. Netflix announced it would abandon its resistance to ads three months ago after disclosing it had lost 200,000 subscribers during the first three months of the year amid stiffer competition and rising inflation that has pressured household budgets, causing management to realize the time had come for a less expensive option.

Netflix has warned it will likely report even larger subscriber losses for the April-June period, increasing the urgency to roll out a cheaper version of its service backed by ads to help reverse customer erosion. That decline has contributed to a 70% decline in its stock price so far this year, wiped out in about $190 billion in shareholder wealth and triggered hundreds of layoffs.

The Los Gatos, California, company is scheduled to release its April-June numbers on July 19, but still hasn't specified when its ad-supported option will be available except it will roll out before 2023. Netflix's announcement about the Microsoft partnership also omitted a crucial piece of information: the anticipated price of the ad-supported option.

"It's very early days and we have much to work through," Greg Peters, Netflix's chief operating officer, said in a post that also highlighted Microsoft's "strong privacy protections."

Landing the ad deal with a video streaming service that boasts more than 220 million subscribers represents a major coup for Microsoft, which has been engaged in a long-running and often acrimonious battle for the past 20 years with Google, the dominant force in digital advertising. "This deal gives Microsoft something its growing ad business has lacked -- quality streaming video inventory that has potential to scale" said Insider Intelligence analyst Ross Benes.

Mikhail Parakhin, Microsoft's president of web experiences, said the Redmond, Washington, company is "thrilled" with Netflix's choice in a post that also underscored the company's commitment to privacy.

While Microsoft still makes software that powers most of the world's personal computers, Google has become increasingly powerful through its dominant search engine, ubiquitous Android software for smartphones and other popular digital services that last year generated more than $200 billion in ad revenue -- far more than any other marketing network.

But Google ad sales depend heavily on the personal information that its mostly free services collect about their billions of worldwide users, a form of surveillance that Netflix evidently wants to avoid with the commercial interruptions in its video service to lessen the chances of alienating subscribers. Google also owns YouTube's video site, which already competes against Netflix for people's attention and will soon be an advertising rival, too.

Microsoft also may have had another factor working in its favor. Netflix Inc.'s co-founder and co-CEO, Reed Hastings, served on Microsoft Corp.'s board of directors from 2007 to 2012.

CHP Hayward and Castro Valley merger

SUBMITTED BY CALIFORNIA HIGHWAY PATROL

July 15

The California Highway Patrol (CHP) has started construction on a new, state of the art facility in Hayward, that will allow us to merge the existing Hayward Area and Castro Valley Area offices into a single office. This new facility, located at the intersection of Jackson Street and Santa Clara Street, will operate as the Hayward Area office, however it's area of responsibility will include all areas currently covered by both the Hayward Area and the Castro Valley Area offices. Combining the two offices will allow us to improve communication between jurisdictions, increase the number of officers able to respond to calls for service, and nourish community outreach across a wider range. While we understand that some residents in the Castro Valley area may be concerned when learning that their local CHP office is moving to Hayward, we want to reassure everyone that this merger will

August 2, 2022 SAVE THE DATE! Activities from 4-7pm

National Night Out is celebrating their 39th Anniversary. This year UCPD will have one location to celebrate the evening in the Union Landing Shopping Center. The purpose of this night is to allow local businesses, community groups, CIT professionals and First responders in the Community to partner with law enforcement for a positive night of fun and festivities. Help us celebrate our community partnerships and learn about safety awareness in our city, in our neighborhoods and suggestions for preventing theft of autos and electronic devices.

If you would like to help sponsor this event, have a booth on-site or make a product or monetary donation, please contact UCPD Community Coordinator Crystal Raine at 510 675-5284 or UCPDCommunity@unioncity.org

passed away on July 9, 2022
at the age of 89

Beverly was born on August 3, 1932 in Niles, California to Charles and Josephine Santos. She graduated from Washington High School in Fremont, California in 1950 and then went to work at Bank of America as a teller. Beverly married Joseph Souza in 1951 in the original Mission San Jose church in Fremont. Once she had children, she stayed home to raise them and became involved in their school activities and was PTA president. When her children were older, she went back to work in a dental office in Fremont as a dental assistant and then office manager which was a perfect job for her because she loved interacting with people.

Beverly's favorite family vacations were to Pacific Grove and Lake Tahoe. Once she had grandchildren, she started a tradition of taking them on trips to Pacific Grove so she could share her love of this special place with them. Her grandchildren always looked forward to their trips to Pacific Grove with "Grandma Bev".

Spending time with family and cheering on her grandchildren at their sporting events were some of Beverly's favorite things to do. She also enjoyed dancing to country music with Joseph.

Beverly loved having family and friends stop by for visits, and she never let anyone leave without a hug goodbye.

Beverly is survived by her husband of 71 years, Joseph; son, Gary; daughter, Cheryl (Dan); daughter, Kathy (Chris); son, Dale (Rose) and her brother, Jack Soito (Roberta). She is also survived by her grandchildren; Zachary (Amanda); Matt, Tori, Joe and Katie and great-grandchildren; Warren, Beverly, Alana, Aribella and Jeanine.

A private family celebration of life will be held at a later date.

Helen Elston

April 12, 1934 – July 9, 2022
Resident of Fremont

Helen Elston, age 88 of Fremont, CA passed away peacefully on July 9, 2022 at Vasona Creek Health Center in Los Gatos, CA. She was told she had two days to live but she held on strong for 3 weeks due to kidney failure. Helen is survived by Daughters Linda Lynch & Diane Elston, numerous grandchildren, great grandchildren, sisters, nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by her Mother, Father, Donald Elston, JoAnn Tablizo, Kathleen Elston, some sisters and a brother.

Helen was born on April 12, 1934 in Niles, CA to Rosario (mama child) and Jesus (papa chewy) Jaramillo. In 1946-1947 Helen met Donald Elston at an apricot farm in Niles. Helen and Donald Elston went on to have 4 children; Linda, Kathleen, JoAnn and Diane. She loved playing her Mexican music, making her delicious tamale pie, her yummy potato salad, having family around, singing and playing her guitar. She was a strong amazing mother, grandmother, great grandmother, auntie, sister and friend.

She will never be forgotten.....

Paul William Niemuth

June 20, 1955 – July 10, 2022

Resident of Newark

Paul William Niemuth (67) of Newark passed away peacefully on July 10, 2022. Paul is survived by his loving partner, Marcia, his children Jonathan (Allyson) Niemuth and Laura (Ben) Cook, his four sisters, Shirley (Tom) Lane, Nancy (Leon) Schupelius, Karen (Brian) Mitchell, Susan (Tom) Colligan and many nieces and nephews. He is predeceased by his parents, Winifred and Bill Niemuth.

Paul grew up in Hood River, OR and graduated from Oregon State University with a degree in Landscape Architecture. He moved to California after college and became an accomplished Landscape Architect having worked in both the public and private sectors throughout his career. He had a hand in many public projects mainly in Stockton, the East Bay Area and then in Fremont where he retired after 15 years with the City. He advocated for quality design and the protection of the environment and helped to build the foundation of the City of Fremont's Urban Forestry. He loved the design and planning process, but he got some of his greatest enjoyment working in the garden or hiking and seeing the beauty in nature.

Paul will be greatly missed and a celebration honoring his life will take place later this fall.

Donations may be made in his memory to UCSF Helen Diller Family Comprehensive Cancer Center/Blood Cancers, the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society or to a charity of choice.

Yvonne Marie Sanchez (Rose)

Yvonne passed away on Monday, July 4, 2022 in San Leandro California. She was born on April 29, 1960 in Hayward California to Lawrence and Mary Rose and lived her entire life in the bay area where she also met Anthony Sanchez her husband of 32 years. Yvonne started her career with Lucky Supermarkets in the late 80s and stayed with the company until the mid 90s when she started a career in quality control for Micrel Semiconductor Inc. in San Jose. Yvonne was known for her generosity, her love for the Oakland Athletics and being an amazing cook and baker - Christmas was her time to shine, baking hundreds of cookies and treats to gift to family, friends, and neighbors. She loved slot machines and bingo and traveling to Hawaii & Las Vegas but more than anything she loved and adored her family! Doting over them always, especially her many grandchildren - showering them with anything their hearts desired. She is survived by her husband Anthony Sanchez, her son Roem (Cynthia) Rose her daughter Amberlynn (Domingo Ene) Sanchez and several grandsons and granddaughters. Yvonne is also survived by her brother Tom (Kathy) Rose, and many nieces and nephews. She was loved by all and will be greatly missed

Patricia Anne Deggelman

July 20, 1930 - July 11, 2022

Patricia Anne (Thurman) Deggelman passed away peacefully days before her 92nd birthday in her Fremont, California home of 62 years on July 11, 2022, surrounded by her large loving family.

Pat was born July 20, 1930, to Anne and John Thurman Sr. and grew up on a dairy farm in Modesto, California. She was one of 11 children and often told stories about growing up on a country farm. Pat graduated from Modesto Junior College. At 22, she met Eugene Deggelman on a blind date at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. They were married for 48 years until Gene's passing in 2001. Together, they enjoyed raising a large and beautiful family.

Pat was Mom to 9 children, Michael (Yvonne) Deggelman, the late Richard (Kath McCormack) Deggelman, Margaret (Bruce) Wetter, Kathleen (Mark Wolski) Deggelman, Stevan (Ann) Deggelman, David Deggelman, Dennis Deggelman, the late Nora Deggelman, and Mary (Dan Lyons) Deggelman. She was Bestemor (Besti) to 18 grandchildren and Besti the Great to 7 great-grandchildren. Pat was a beloved aunt to dozens of nieces and nephews and a second mother to many.

Pat had many talents. She was an accomplished cook, baker and home canner to the enjoyment of her family and many friends. Pat was famous for her homemade dinner rolls and her recipe lives on with her family today. Pat was an avid gardener and created what she called a heritage garden as so many of her plants came from slips from other family and friends' gardens. Pat was a talented seamstress often sewing all night to make her own and her 4 daughters' clothes.

Pat worked for 22 years at Ohlone College in Fremont, California as the Executive Assistant to the President. She didn't retire until she was 73 because she enjoyed being with people so much. Pat juggled raising 9 children and a career and somehow made it all look manageable.

Pat made many friends during her life. She was actively involved in St. Joseph's Ladies Guild when her children were young. She was an avid fan and cheerer at the Little League games Gene coached and her sons played. Pat was known for her incredible sense of humor and pranks (she loved Halloween!). In her later years, Pat was a member of the Tri-City Women's Club, a book club, and a Rummikub game club. She loved politics, current events, the San Francisco Giants, and the Golden State Warriors and spent many hours discussing them with her sister-in-law and maid of honor, Julie Thurman.

We will celebrate Pat's long, happy and industrious life with a memorial mass at the Mission San Jose Church on Saturday, September 17 at 11:00 am. Please park at the St. Joseph Church and School parking lot next door to the Mission. A reception will follow the mass in the Church Hall at St. Joseph's Church. Pat's ashes are interred at the Old St. Joseph's Cemetery on Mission Boulevard, Fremont, California. In lieu of flowers, the family asks any donations to be sent to the Richard and Nora Deggelman Scholarship Memorial Fund payable to St. Joseph School, P.O. Box 3246, Fremont, California 94539.

We will miss our Mom's smile, her sense of humor, her wisdom and her generous spirit.

Resident of Fremont

"I am heartbroken to announce the death of my father Andrei M. Ioni. He is survived by his loving wife Georgeta and son Andrei Ionitra.

Andrei passed away after a long battle with cancer, surrounded by loved ones. My father enjoyed tool and die making as a profession and hobby since the age of 14. His creative mind coupled with his great abilities generated fine work over the years. He was very knowledgeable in many fields of life, with a great sense of humor and unique charisma, my father was someone fun and interesting to speak to. He had a way of making you think outside the box about any topic. A great father and friend who would drop everything without hesitation to be where needed, to help as much as he could, and to support with good advice and guidance. This was my father, and he will always be loved and missed."

A Chapel Service will be held, Sunday, July 31, 2022 at 1:00 PM at Fremont Chapel of the Roses, 940 Peralta Blvd., Fremont.

SOCIAL SECURITY MATTERS

By RUSSELL GLOOR, NATIONAL SOCIAL SECURITY ADVISOR, AMAC FOUNDATION

Dear Rusty: My wife passed away a few days ago and I have three children - ages 15, 11, and 10. Is there anything I need to do? Signed: Suddenly Widowed

Dear Suddenly Widowed: We are so sorry to hear of your wife's passing; please accept our condolences for your loss. Here's what you need to know about Social Security:

- Your wife's minor children will all be eligible for a survivor benefit, which will be based upon the Social Security benefit amount your wife had earned up to the month she died. The children can collect their survivor benefit until they are 18 years old (or 19 if they are still in high school).

- The standard minor child benefit amount is 75% of your wife's "primary insurance amount" (or PIA, which is the benefit she had earned until she died) but, since there will be three children collecting, the Family Maximum will apply. The Family Maximum limits total survivor benefits to between 150% and 180% of your wife's PIA. Typically, with three survivors, the Family Maximum should come out to about 175% of your wife's PIA. Social Security will determine these numbers when you apply for benefits for the children, which you should do by calling 1 (800) 772-1213, or making an appointment at your local SS field office (find it at www.ssa.gov/locator). The funeral home which handled your wife's arrangements will send a copy of her death certificate to Social Security, but SS will probably require you to provide each child's Social Security number and birth certificate, and you may also need to provide your wife's death certificate if they ask for it. As each child becomes age-ineligible for minor child benefits, the benefit for each remaining minor child will automatically increase, up to their maximum 75% of your wife's PIA.

- Because your children are minors, you will need to act as their Representative Payee. Social Security will guide you through that when you contact them to apply for benefits for the children, but it essentially means that their benefits will be paid directly to you and you will be obligated to use that money on behalf of the children. You can review Social Security's Representative Payee rules at this link: www.ssa.gov/payee/.

- Regardless of your age, as your wife's surviving spouse with minor children you could be eligible for a "child in care" surviving spouse benefit until the youngest child is 16, but you should be aware of the following:

- If you are working full time, you probably will be ineligible for child-in-care spouse benefits because of your earnings. Social Security imposes an earnings limit for those collecting early spousal or survivor benefits.

- If you are eligible for child-in-care benefits and collect the same, it would detract from the benefit amount each of your children will get because of the Family Maximum discussed above. In other words, the Family Maximum amount (which Social Security will determine based on your wife's PIA) is the total amount that can be paid out on your wife's record, regardless of how many survivors are collecting.

As your wife's spouse, you will also be entitled to a one-time lump sum death benefit of $255, which you can request when you speak with Social Security. Once again, please accept our condolences on the loss of your wife. I hope the above information is helpful at this difficult time.

Ronald Alfonso Elola Sr.

Ronald Alfonso Elola Sr. was born on February 6, 1945 in Superior, Arizona. At 5 years old, he moved to Hayward, California with his parents (Alfonso and Elisa) and siblings (Diana, Norma, and later Mark). He attended Hayward High where he was an All-Star athlete excelling at football (JV Captain), wrestling, and track (a record-breaking pole vaulter).

After graduation, he joined the Navy where he served 1 year on USS Haven (Long Beach), 3 years on USS Henderson (Vietnam), and achieved the rank of Machinist Mate 2. After his Honorable Discharge, he returned to Hayward where he met Linda Basurto. Within a year they were married (1970) and made their 1st home in Hayward, where Ron started the Millwright apprenticeship program. They later moved to Fremont and started their family (daughters Janine and Michelle). When Michelle was 8 months old, Linda was diagnosed with non-Hodgkins Lymphoma and passed away 9 months later.

Now a widower, Ron continued working as a Millwright while raising his 2 young daughters.

Three years later, in 1982, he met Maria Hamblett (aka Tina) and after several years of dating they married and joined their families as one: Antoinette, Harry, Janine, Michelle, and Joseph. They completed their family with one additional child, Ronald Alfonso Elola Jr.

In 1992, Ron had his 1st heart attack which led him to early retirement. He filled his time with multiple hobbies such as building computers, home improvements, working on his kids' cars, and became a cigar and Budweiser aficionado. He also became a great stay at home Dad.

Over the next 28 years, he enjoyed being with friends, family, and went on multiple vacations. He enjoyed watching boxing and football (Go Raiders!), going to car shows and listening to music like Jazz and Salsa. He looked forward to his Friday nights going to Jim's Bar with his best friend Leroy.

In 2020 Ron's health began to decline. He made the best of his situation and he never gave up hope. On July 14, 2022 Ron tragically passed away from a sudden heart attack.

Ron is survived by his wife Tina whom he was happily married to for 34 years as well as his 6 children and their spouses: Antoinette (Patrick), late-son Harry (Olga), Janine (Gilbert), Michelle (Sam), Joseph (Sonia), Ronald Jr., 12 grandchildren, and 1 great grandson.

Ron was loved and respected by many. He will be tremendously missed by all who were blessed to know him.

Man arrested in shooting of Northern California officer

ASSOCIATED PRESS

A central California man has been arrested on suspicion of shooting and wounding a San Francisco Bay Area police officer during a traffic stop on Saturday, July 16, authorities said.

Jeffrey Choy, 33, of Stockton, was arrested Sunday, July 17 by U.S. Marshals agents and Mountain View police officers after a short foot pursuit in Fremont, the Mountain View Police Department said in a statement.

Officials said the officer, whose name has not been released, had pulled over Choy while conducting DUI enforcement on July 16 in Mountain View. As the officer approached Choy's vehicle, he pulled out a gun and shot the officer in the torso and drove away, crashing his car a short distance later and fleeing on foot, police said. The officer was taken to a hospital where he was treated and later released, authorities said.

Officials arrested Choy the next day in Fremont after a brief foot pursuit. He faces attempted murder of a peace officer charges, the department said. It was not immediately known if Choy had retained an attorney who can speak on his behalf.

More than a dozen local, state and federal law enforcement agencies helped in the search and arrest of Choy, officials said. "To say that I am proud of the around-the-clock work our teams did to find the man responsible for wounding our officer is an understatement," Mountain View Police Chief Chris Hsiung said in a statement.

Thursday, July 7

• Officers responded to a report of a possible active auto burglary on Enterprise Street. A witness reported watching a live security camera feed and seeing several people that appeared to be loading items from a van into a truck. Upon arrival, officers saw one vehicle being driven away and three suspects fleeing on foot. One suspect was stopped and found to be in possession of a controlled substance. An adult suspect from San Ramon was arrested. The case is still under investigation.

Wednesday, July 6

• Officers received report of a commercial burglary at a storage facility that likely took place between 10:00 p.m. July 4 and 6:00 a.m. July 5. Someone entered the property by using pallets to climb over a concrete wall and cut the razor wire along the top of the wall. Catalytic converters were stolen from RVs being stored on the property. It's unclear if other items were stolen. No video surveillance footage is available. The case remains under investigation.

• Officers received a report about an unknown person approaching a victim a discount warehouse. While one suspect distracted the victim, another person took the victim's purse containing $5,000 from their shopping cart. The case is being investigated as a grand theft and remains under investigation.

Friday, July 8

• A victim reported being approached by three unknown people in the parking lot at his apartment complex. One of the suspects was armed with a knife. The suspects demanded the victim's cell phone, which the victim gave to the suspects. The suspects returned the phone and demanded the victim's wallet. The victim told the suspects that the wallet is in the apartment. The suspects followed the victim to the apartment and waited outside, while the victim retrieved the wallet and brought it outside to the suspects. The suspects then demanded the victim's car keys. The victim went back to the apartment, locked the door, and called police. Officers responded to the area and set up a perimeter, but no suspects were located. The case remains under investigation.

Sunday, July 10

• When officers tried to make a traffic stop near Auto Mall Parkway and Osgood Road, the driver of the vehicle sped away and immediately crashed. The driver/suspect fled on foot and was last seen running southbound on I-680. A search of the area was made, but the suspect was not located. A stolen handgun was found inside the suspect vehicle and officers were able to determine the suspect's identity; an arrest warrant was requested.

record-smashing heat wave and hosting climate talks last week, also faces a short-term winter energy crunch, which could cause the continent to backtrack a tad and push other nations into longer, dirtier energy deals, experts said.

"Even if Europe meets all of its climate goals and the rest of us don't, we all lose," said Kate Larsen, head of international energy and climate for the research firm Rhodium Group. Emissions of heat-trapping gases don't stop at national borders, nor does the extreme weather that's being felt throughout the Northern Hemisphere.

"It's a grim outlook. There's no getting away from it, I'm afraid," said climate scientist Bill Hare, CEO of Climate Analytics. His group joined with the New Climate Institute to create the Climate Action Tracker, which analyzes nations' climate targets and policies compared to the goals of the 2015 Paris Agreement.

The tracker describes as "insufficient" the policies and actions of the world's top two carbon polluters, China and the U.S., as well as Japan, Saudi Arabia and Indonesia. It calls Russia and South Korea's policies "highly insufficient," and Iran comes in as "critically insufficient." Hare says No. 3 emitter India "remains an enigma."

"We are losing ground against ambitious goals" such as keeping global warming to less than 2 degrees Celsius (3.6 degrees Fahrenheit) or 1.5 Celsius (2.7 degrees Fahrenheit) since pre-industrial times, said veteran international climate negotiator Nigel Purvis of Climate Advisers. The world has already warmed 1.1 degrees (2 degrees Fahrenheit) since pre-industrial times.

Seven years ago, when almost all the nations of the world were preparing for what would become the Paris climate agreement, "it was all about ambition and setting ambitious targets," Larsen said. "Now we are transitioning into a new phase that's really about implementation ... I don't think the international community knows how to do implementation."

Other nations and the United Nations can pressure countries to set goals, but enacting laws and rules is a tougher sell. While Europe has been successful with "a long history of implementing and ratcheting up existing policies," Larsen said, that's not the case in the United States. The U.S. is on path to cut emissions by 24% to 35% below 2005 levels by 2030, far shy of the nation's pledge to reduce emissions by 50% to 52% in that time, according to a new analysis by Rhodium Group.

Biden is running low on options, said Larsen, a report co-author. Congress -- specifically key Sen. Joe Manchin of West Virginia -- is balking on the president's climate-fighting legislation, and the Supreme Court curbed power plant regulations.

Congressional action "was a big window of opportunity that would have allowed us to be on track to our goal," Larsen said. A second window is available in "the suite of federal regulations that the Biden administration plans to release."

"These are the two big deciders of whether the U.S. will meet its target, and one we have largely failed on. So, in that sense, it is a big miss because these opportunities don't come along very often," Larsen said. The U.S. can get close to reaching its goal, but it's not close yet, Larsen said. Whether that happens "depends on the next three to 18 months of what the administration does."

Other nations, particularly China, look at what the U.S. is doing to fight climate change and are reluctant to ratchet up their efforts if America isn't doing much, Purvis and Hare said. At the urging of activists and some Democrats, the Biden administration is considering declaring a national emergency because of climate change and using special powers to cut carbon pollution from power plants and vehicles. Calling it an emergency is not enough; what matters is the actions that follow, Purvis said.

Biden could put a moratorium on federal lands and water. He could reinstate a ban on U.S. oil exports. He could move up spending on wind and solar. But all are subject to a conservative Supreme Court. "The big question is where can Biden go with executive orders and how convincing is that going to be to other leaders?" Hare asked.

Elsewhere in the world, "the Russian energy crisis has definitely been a major setback," Hare said. It's a short-term problem for Europe, and it's even loosened some of their rules, but "their long-term policy framework is very robust, and this might help them double down on alternative energy," Larsen said.

But the panic over natural gas has other countries, specifically in Africa, jumping onto the bandwagon of liquified natural gas, which still emits carbon. The pivot to LNG has added 15% to 20% to the amount that the world uses, Hare said.

While there is a risk Europe might add infrastructure for natural gas that will be hard to abandon, it looks like the Russian invasion of Ukraine strengthened Europe's resolve to reduce Russia's energy influence and get off fossil fuels, Purvis said.

There are other places where weaning the world off carbon looks more possible. A new report from the International Renewable Energy Agency found the cost of electricity last year from onshore wind fell by 15%, offshore wind by 13% and solar panels by 13% compared to 2020. Meanwhile, electric vehicle sales in America are rising, and the time when they could hit "escape velocity" and really make a difference is on the horizon, Larsen said.

Most major nations lag in acting on climate-fighting goals

For most of the major carbon-polluting nations, promising to fight climate change is a lot easier than actually doing it. In the United States, President Joe Biden has learned that the hard way.

Among the 10 biggest carbon emitters, only the European Union has enacted policies close to or consistent with international goals of limiting warming to just a few more tenths of a degrees, according to scientists and experts who track climate action in countries.

But Europe, which was broiling through a

Ask the DMV

You're always first at the DMV online. Learn more about how to take your written driver's license knowledge test online.

Take care of your DMV transactions, such as the online driver's knowledge test, from the comfort of your home with the DMV's online services! Online services allow you to take advantage of fast and convenient service, with the comfort of knowing that your transaction is safe and secure. The online driver's knowledge test is available in over 35 languages for eligible customers who complete the online driver's license application. Along with the knowledge test, there is also an interactive eLearning course option for those who need to renew their license and have trouble with exams or prefer an alternative learning method. The eLearning course is approximately 45 minutes and is currently only available in English.

Don't wait! Start your driver's license application now at dmv.ca.gov/online/!

Q1: Can I take the online drivers test on my mobile device?

A1: No, the test cannot be taken on a tablet or a mobile device. You will need to take the online test on an internet-enabled computer or a laptop with a webcam. You can begin the online exam between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, excluding state holidays. For identity verification and as a fraud prevention measure, online test participants are required to verify their identity and agree to be monitored throughout the exam.

Q2: How many times can I attempt to the online driver's test?

A2: The test can be attempted online twice. If you fail to pass the test after two tries, you will be prompted to go to a DMV office to take the test a third time.

Q3: What happens after I take my online knowledge test or eLearning course?

A3: Customers with a testing requirement for their license must still go to an office after completing one of the online options to provide the required identity and residency documents, take a photo, provide a thumbprint, complete a vision screening, and be issued a licensing document.

East Bay getting ready for National Night Out

STAFF REPORT

Police, community groups and residents from numerous East Bay cities are busily preparing for National Night Out, a nationwide campaign held each August designed to heighten crime and drug prevention awareness, strengthen neighborhood spirit and community partnerships with law enforcement.

Now in its 38th year, National Night Out is set for Tuesday, August 2. The idea is to provide an opportunity for neighbors to hold a block party to get to know each other better and send a strong message to criminals that community residents look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity in their neighborhood. Parties can include food, games or crime prevention tips. In some cities, participants can register their party with local police who will try to stop by and offer support. Individually, people can show their support for the program by turning their porch lights on from 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

Here is a roundup of National Night Out events from local law enforcement agencies. Citizens who want to host a party and have police representatives visit, should contact their local department.

Sony making sensors for autonomous vehicles

THE ROBOT REPORT

By BRIANNA WESSLING

Sony Group is developing a sensor for self-driving vehicles that uses 70% less electricity, according to reporting from Nikkei Asia. The sensor will be made by Sony Semiconductor Solution and will be paired with software developed by Tier IV.

Sony plans to lower the amount of electricity needed for the sensors by relying on edge computing. The company plans to process as much data as possible through AI-equipped sensors and software on the vehicle itself, instead of transmitting that information to an external network.

Sony said this approach should make autonomous vehicles safer, as it will shrink communication lags. The company also plans to incorporate image recognition and radar technologies into its sensor to make a self-driving vehicle better equipped for rain, fog or other adverse conditions.

Autonomous vehicles use large amounts of power because of all of the added technology on board, which can result in at least a 35% smaller range for electric vehicles (EVs), according to Japan's Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry. If Sony reaches its goals, it could limit this impact to just around 10%.

Sony has already commercialized edge computing technology in chips for retailers and industrial equipment. The company's goal is to reduce the amount of power used by an electric vehicle's on-board systems by 70%.

Tier IV is a startup backed by Sompo Holdings that creates open-source software for autonomous vehicles. The company's software is used by Yamaha Motor and in the EV operations of Foxconn. The company hopes to develop basic self-driving technology with Sony for use in Japan and overseas.

The project will be overseen by Japan's New Energy and Industrial Technology Development Organization under the ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry.

Slowly, the autonomous vehicle industry has been making progress in getting autonomous cars on the roads. Last month, Cruise hit a new milestone by charging for its first robotaxi rides in San Francisco, a city that's become popular testing ground for the technology.

Many autonomous vehicle developers, however, focus on increasing battery capacity instead of trying to decrease the amount of power used by the system. Sony's approach could make electric vehicles easier to use for autonomous operations.

NOTICE OF DEFAULT AND ELECTION TO SELL UNDER HOMEOWNERS ASSOCIATION LIEN

IF YOUR PROPERTY IS IN FORECLOSURE BECAUSE YOU ARE BEHIND IN YOUR PAYMENTS, IT MAY BE SOLD WITHOUT ANY COURT ACTION, and you may have the legal right to bring your account in good standing by paying all of your past due payments plus permitted costs and expenses within the time permitted by law for reinstatement of your account, which is normally five business days prior to the date set for the sale of your property.

While your property is in foreclosure, you still must pay other obligations (such as insurance and taxes) required by your Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions. If you fail to make future payments on the loan, pay taxes on the property, provide insurance on the property, or pay other obligations as required in the Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions, the Association may insist that you do so in order to reinstate your account in good standing.

Upon your written request, the Association will give you a written itemization of the entire amount you must pay. You may not have to pay the entire unpaid portion of your account, even though full payment was demanded, but you must pay all amounts in default at the time payment is made.

Following the expiration of the time period referred to in the first paragraph of this notice, unless the obligation being foreclosed upon or a separate written agreement between you and your creditor permits a longer period, you have only the legal right to stop the sale of your property by paying the entire amount demanded by your creditor.

THIS NOTICE is given pursuant to Civil Code Sections 2924, and other relevant provisions of the California Civil Code, pursuant to that certain Assessment Lien, recorded on March 29, 2021 as document no. 2021124907, of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of Alameda County, California.

Owner(s): Homer John Lillie, Jr., and Margaret Ann Lillie, Trustees of the Homer John Lillie, Jr. and Margaret Ann Lillie Living Trust Dated November 19, 1990

See "Legal Description" attached as shown upon the Contract of Sale. Recorded on N/A as document no. N/A, as shown on the Subdivision map recorded in Maps of the County of Alameda, State of California.

PROPERTY ADDRESS: 114 Lurene Drive, Fremont, California 94539

IF you have any questions, you should contact a lawyer or the Association to ascertain the right of assessment upon your property.

Notwithstanding the fact that if you fail to pay all money lawfully due the Association, it may foreclose against your property, you may offer your property for sale, provided the sale is concluded prior to the conclusion of the foreclosure.

Remember, YOU MAY LOSE YOUR RIGHTS IF YOU DO NOT TAKE PROMPT ACTION. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT ASSOCIATION LIEN SERVICES is duly appointed Trustee Agent under the above referenced Lien, dated March 25, 2021, executed by Olazaba Terrace Homeowners Association (Association) to secure assessment obligations in favor of said Association pursuant to the terms contained in the certain Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions recorded May 13, 1996 as document no. 96115417, of Official Records in the Office of the Recorder of Alameda County, California, describing the land therein, that the beneficial interest under said Homeowners Association Lien and the obligations secured thereby are presently held by the Association. That a breach of, the obligation for which said Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions as security has occurred in that the payment(s) have not been made of: HOMEOWNER'S ASSESSMENTS AND ALL SUBSEQUENT HOMEOWNER'S ASSESSMENTS, MONTHLY OR OTHERWISE, LESS CREDITS AND OFFSETS, PLUS LATE CHARGES, INTEREST, ASSOCIATION'S FEES AND COSTS, TRUSTEE'S FEES AND COSTS, AND ATTORNEY'S FEES AND COSTS.

That by reason thereof, the present Association under such Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions has executed and delivered to said Trustee, a Written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and has deposited with said duly appointed Trustee, such Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions and all documents evidencing the obligations secured thereby, and has declared and does hereby declare all sums secured thereby immediately due and payable and has elected and does hereby elect to cause the herein described property Liened by said Association, to be sold, if in compliance with the applicable statutory requirements, to satisfy the obligations secured thereby.

Fremont LEAF, Daily Bowl and Daylight Foods win StopWaste awards

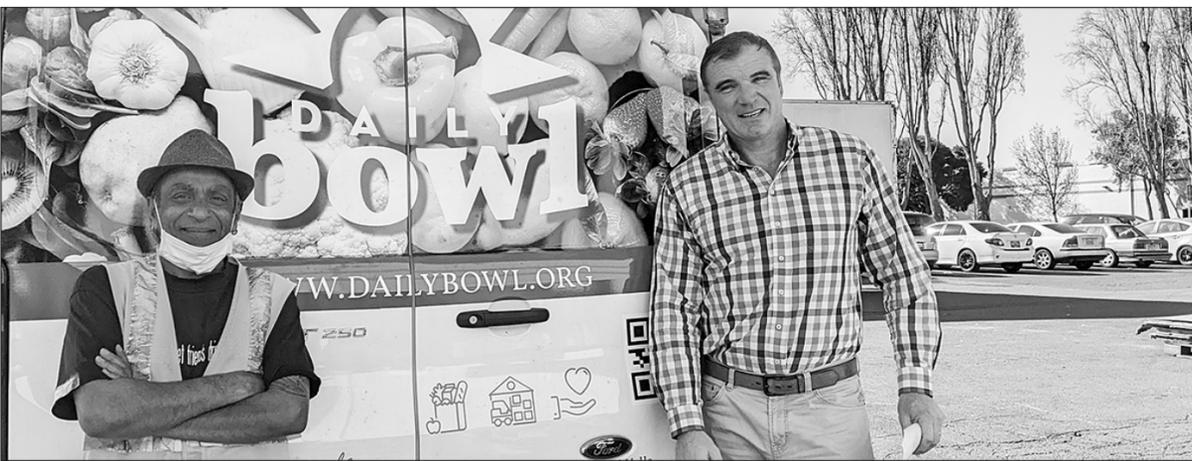

SUBMITTED BY STOPWASTE STAFF

At a recent recognition event, Alameda County public agency StopWaste celebrated the recipients of the 2022 StopWaste Efficiency Awards, given for outstanding achievements in waste reduction, community engagement, and environmental stewardship. Among this year's winners are local nonprofit Local Ecology and Agriculture Fremont (LEAF); as well as Daily Bowl, a non-profit food recovery service, and Daylight Foods, a fresh food distributor, both located in Union City. In addition to resource efficiency through reuse, recycling, composting, and waste prevention, each of these organizations excels at building partnerships in the community.

Fremont LEAF was awarded for Excellence in Community Engagement. Founded in 2008, the organization builds community through activities focused on sustainable living. LEAF manages both a community garden and a food garden where residents learn about composting and organic agriculture; attend workshops on beekeeping, plastic waste reduction and other hands-on topics; and contribute to growing produce and seedlings for donation. "Last year we grew and donated over 6,000 pounds of produce to local food pantries," says LEAF President Elaine Owyang. LEAF also manages a Glean Campaign to rescue backyard fruit and engages community members and organizations in City of Fremont's annual Go Green Earth Day event.

Daily Bowl and Daylight Foods won an Award for Excellence in Food Recovery Collaboration.

The two Union City-based organizations have partnered to recover surplus edible food to feed people for nearly three years. Daily Bowl collects Daylight Foods' surplus perishables on a regular basis and distributes them to agencies and nonprofits who share the rescued food with local families in need. This is harder than it sounds, as produce orders are often canceled at short notice, or there's perishable food left over that can't be sold quickly at a discount. That's where the two organizations' collaboration comes in. "Working together, we've developed a reliable but flexible process that minimizes waste and maximizes community benefits," says Paddy Iyer, Daily Bowl's Executive Director. In 2021 alone, the partnership rescued 124,158 pounds of produce, dairy, prepared foods, and other perishables.

With such community connections, it is no surprise that Fremont LEAF and Daily Bowl had crossed paths prior to the award event. Owyang and Iyer met at a StopWaste event, and when LEAF needed a new food recovery partner to distribute produce from their garden, Daily Bowl connected them with Centro de Servicios in Union City, to whom LEAF has donated produce ever since.
