Get ready to scream!

Credit: Courtesy of Pirates of Emerson

By ROB KLINDT

An ominous assortment of ghouls, goblins, zombies and other creatures of the night are anxiously awaiting the arrival of unsuspecting visitors to their abodes. Yes, Pirates of Emerson Haunted Themed Park is back, just in time for Halloween haunting season.

The popular scream fest, opening Friday, September 30, has been entertaining East Bay horror fans annually for 31 years. Held at the Alameda County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton, visitors wander through themed haunted houses where they encounter a menagerie of marauding pirates, monsters, witches, gremlins and more.

“We’re excited. Halloween is everyone’s favorite time of the year,” said Brian Fields, vice president of operations for the event. Fields said the event boasts a cast of 60 live performers dressed to thrill and chill visitors as they roam about. Fields added that the four new themed haunts, “Dorm of Doom,” “Hillbilly Holler,” “Maze Haze” and “Mystery Mansion” are the best yet.

The Pirates of Emerson got its start in the early 1990s when Fields and his parents set up a Halloween exhibit in their yard on Emerson Street in Fremont. It soon grew into a larger commercial event and eventually moved to the fairgrounds in 2010.

Fields said preparations for the event start in mid-August when he and his crew of 10 builders start putting the displays together. Fields is principal designer, while his father Karl handles online and social media operations and ticket sales, and his mother, Patty, oversees much of the interior decorating and costuming.

Music at the Mission: Vayamos!

SUBMITTED BY VICKILYN HUSSEY

Music at the Mission opens the Fall 2022 Season with “Vayamos!”, a tango extravaganza celebrating the music of Astor Piazzolla and the passion of Argentine tango. Held on October 13 and 16, the event’s all the inner passion and sparkling virtuosity you’d expect from an ensemble whose motto is “Chamber Music Outside the Box!” “It is great to return again to an audience favorite: the music of Astor Piazzolla,” said bassist Quinteto Quilombo and artistic co-director of Music at the Mission, Bill Everett.

“Piazzolla created his Tango Nuevo style by combining the harmony of jazz and the structure of classical with the tango of his native Argentina,” Everett explained. “As a student, his goal was to be a great classical composer. He studied with two of the greatest of 20th century classical composition: Alberto Ginastera and Nadia Boulanger, all while continuing to play in tango bands to make money. He soon realized that his voice was in tango, but with the goal of elevating it.

“He was at the beginnings of a new movement: world music ... the idea of bringing folk and dance music forms to a wider audience beyond their country of origin. He also wanted to show

Treating and Managing Vascular Disease

Vascular surgeon joins Washington Township Medical Foundation

Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF) warmly welcomes Stella Asuquo, MD, to its vascular surgery and endovascular care team. Dr. Asuquo, who is board-certified and fellowship-trained, previously practiced at the John F. Kennedy Medical Center in New Jersey, and at Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital in California.

Vascular surgeons are specialists in treating diseases of the vascular system. When a disease or injury hinders blood flow, it may result in damage to organs or limbs. Dr. Asuquo has expertise in treating a wide range of vascular and endovascular conditions, including aortic aneurysms, blood clots, carotid disease, diabetic wounds, and peripheral arterial disease (PAD). Vascular and endovascular surgery are two frequent treatments for blockages in the arteries. Vascular surgery is open surgery that usually includes an incision. Endovascular surgery refers to less invasive procedures that use wire-thin catheters to diagnose and treat conditions.

She brings extensive training and experience to WTMF. After earning her medical degree at Indiana University School of Medicine, Dr. Asuquo completed her medical residency at Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Montefiore Medical Center, in New York. She then went on to complete a fellowship in vascular and endovascular surgery at Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in New Jersey. Dr. Asuquo is board-certified in both general and vascular surgery.

Dr. Asuquo decided to specialize in vascular surgery while doing her medical residency. “During my general surgery training at Montefiore Medical Center I got a lot of vascular surgery exposure. The more I did it, the more I enjoyed it and wanted to pursue it for my career.”

What she loves most about her chosen field is the long-term relationships with patients that the specialty entails. Dr. Asuquo explains, “What is wonderful about vascular surgery compared to general surgery and many other surgery specialties is that I often get to follow patients over the course of their lifetime. I see many of my patients for decades, monitoring their vascular health to avoid serious or even fatal outcomes. My patients and I are partners in the management of their disease. I tell them that we are in this together and we are going to get through this together.”

Dr. Asuquo says that she relishes the diversity of procedures in her practice. “In vascular surgery, we are treating patients head to toe. Each new case poses interesting challenges. The continuing cerebral aspects of the work coupled with my long-lasting relationships with patients make my work enjoyable and fulfilling every day,” she says.

Vascular surgeons continue to see patients long after a surgical procedure because by its nature, vascular care is rarely a one-time solution. In part, this is because the vascular system is complex and reaches every part of the human body. Many vascular diseases and conditions occur alongside other diseases, like diabetes or heart disease, that can have an effect on the health of the vascular system. Dr. Asuquo monitors her patients through routine check-ins on their symptoms, noninvasive vascular lab studies, and ultrasound surveillance. Difficulty with coordination or walking, wounds that take a long time to heal, and pain, swelling, or heaviness in one’s extremities can all be symptoms of vascular disease.

The good news is that the techniques and technology for vascular surgery are constantly being improved. “We are doing more and more minimally invasive procedures for endovascular conditions that would have needed a deep incision in the past. We have new techniques for lower extremity arterial disease, particularly for salvaging limbs. These techniques are really making a difference. The potential risks posed by the new procedures are much less than for open surgery, and the recovery time is considerably shorter,” explains Dr. Asuquo.

Dr. Asuquo says that she was drawn to WTMF because of the collaborative approach to providing care to patients. “The WTMF team is great. We are all dedicated to providing comprehensive vascular care to our patients and to improving vascular health in the community. I look forward to working hand-in-hand with patients to ensure that they are receiving the latest, evidence-based vascular care.”

Dr. Asuquo lives in Fremont with her husband and two young children.

Washington Hospital Women's Center, a Place of Comfort and Confidence

The Washington Women's Center was designated a Breast Imaging Center of Excellence in June 2012 by the American College of Radiology. The Women's Center also is accredited by the National Accreditation Program for Breast Centers (NAPBC), a nongovernmental not-for-profit organization established to recognize breast centers that provide the best possible diagnostic and treatment options.

Many patients, however, will say that the most impressive aspects of the Women's Center are the staff and the environment. Understanding that whether a woman is coming in for a routine mammogram or a follow-up to a biopsy, an atmosphere that reduces anxiety is important.

"Our goal at the Washington Women's Center is not only to address how to improve cancer patient survivorship, but also to increase awareness of cancer prevention and screenings," says Christine Mikkelsen, RN, who also serves as a certified breast health nurse navigator at the center. "With cotton robes, soothing music and beautiful wall art, our intention is to make every patient feel calm and comforted."

"Breast cancer is actually fairly common," notes Medical Director of the Women's Center, William E. Dugoni, MD. "Most people's lives will be touched by breast cancer—either directly or because someone they know has been diagnosed."

He emphasizes, however, that if caught early, breast cancer is one of the most treatable cancers. "I encourage women to make sure mammograms are part of their annual preventive health care plans. If problems are found, they are treatable—and we can't say that about a lot of cancers." The Women's Center offers advanced techniques for diagnosis using 3D tomosynthesis which provides better images and more opportunities for early diagnosis.

Dr. Dugoni notes, "It's important that our community members know that they don't have to travel out of the area to receive first-class care."

NAPBC accreditation

To receive NAPBC accreditation, centers must show they offer the following services:

- A multidisciplinary, team approach to coordinate the best care and treatment options available

During the month of October, members of the Women's Center wear pink to remind patients and visitors of the importance of mammograms.

- Access to breast cancer-related information, education and support
- Breast cancer data collection on quality indicators for all subspecialties involved in breast cancer diagnosis and treatment
- Ongoing monitoring and improvement of care
- Information about clinical trials and new treatment options

If a patient's mammogram is abnormal, she will receive a phone call from a nurse navigator to schedule a follow-up appointment. For patients who have been diagnosed with breast cancer, a nurse navigator will meet with the patient to help guide them and their family members through the breast cancer treatment journey.

Whether answering some of the many initial questions, or offering resources such as an introduction to the HERS Breast Cancer Foundation, nurse navigators help patients feel less overwhelmed and more able to focus on the healing process. "It really is a blessing for me to be a nurse navigator to help guide and support women as they embark on this stressful journey," Mikkelsen says.

Dr. Dugoni notes the technology that plays a role in the diagnosis and treatment plans for community members. "By offering these services in a local setting, our community members can receive the care they need without having to travel far from home. In addition to 3D tomosynthesis, the Women's Center offers MRI and MRI-guided breast biopsies. These noninvasive breast imaging procedures can be utilized for high-risk patients, surgical planning, and identifying the extent of the spread of breast cancer. And through our affiliation with UCSF Health, patients have access to linear accelerator radiotherapy using the most advanced linear accelerator. This state-of-the-art system delivers a broad array of powerful radiation oncology therapies with pinpoint accuracy."

genetic testing to patients with a family history of cancer.

Academic-level care in a welcoming environment without having to leave the Tri-City Area is a benefit to local community members. To learn more about the Washington Hospital Women's Center, visit whhs.com/womenscenter. Details about the cancer programs, including the UCSF – Washington Cancer Center can be found at whhs.com/cancer.

Full S.T.E.A.M. Ahead: Science in the Park 2022

By HUGO VERA

As the effects of climate change continue to intensify all over the world, the importance of scientific research and experimentation could not be more relevant.

In California alone, the effects of global warming have led to massive wildfires, the breakdown of land masses along the coast, as well as the ongoing drought.

Fortunately, one local leader and his office are working closely with Hayward's Cal State East Bay (CSUEB) as well as countless local educators to inspire the next generation of thinkers to embrace the challenges ahead.

Dubbed "Science in the Park," the yearly celebration of S.T.E.A.M. (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math) is the brainchild of Alameda County Supervisor Richard Valle of District Two. Valle got his start in both politics and environmentalism when he spearheaded the creation of Union City's Tri-City Environmental Development Corporation Community Recycling Center (known commonly as Tri-CED) and later became its President. For the past 42 years and counting, Valle oversaw the center's growth into a 501(c)(3)-certified organization that has issued "buy backs" for CRV-eligible bottles/cans, diverted more than 75% of Union City's solid waste stream, and provided countless jobs as well as volunteer opportunities. Valle went on to serve in the Union City Council for 13 years and then ran his own election for Alameda County Supervisor when the position had a vacancy in 2012.

Following his appointment as District 2 Supervisor, Valle initiated the Union City Science, Earth and Health Festival in partnership with the California State University (CSU) system. Now "Science in the Park," the annual extravaganza features over 70 displays and exhibits curated by local educators that cover everything from solar energy to LEGO robotics to composting.

"One of the core principles of Science in the Park is that everything has to be interactive," says Valle. "The mystery of science has to be opened up so that kids don't have the fear of raising their hand in the classroom."

During the festival, child participants will be able to learn about local scientific and environmental organizations such as the NASA Ames Research Center in Mountain View as well as the Hayward Area Recreation and Park District (H.A.R.D.) while also building water-bottle rockets, designing egg-parachutes and practicing 3-D printing. Eligible students will be able to compete in a social media-based contest for a chance to win a Lenovo laptop. (Full contest details can be found at www.scienceinthepark.org/general-8)

Valle has stated that every teacher/professor who participates with a table at the event will be compensated $300 for their time with an extra $150 for supplies. In addition, Valle's office has worked closely with Cal State East Bay President Cathy Sandeen to host the event on the CSUEB campus. Valle and his office have explained that in addition to its spacious layout, the exposure that CSUEB has gained from hosting Science in the Park has motivated many parents to send their own children to Cal State East Bay as well as other local California State Universities (CSUs).

While primarily designed to appeal to children, Valle has also stated that parents and other adults will be able to engage in activities themselves such as the, "Are You Smarter Than a Fifth Grader?" trivia game.

"We want to facilitate an experience in which parents can engage with their children in regards to science," adds Valle. "We want to encourage parents to have a dialogue and conversations with their children about the importance of the scientific method, especially in how it relates to real issues like climate change so that we don't shy away from these issues but face them head-on."

$3 million donation to humane society

SUBMITTED BY
MICHELLE TENNANT NICHOLSON

Sue Diekman and John Diekman, PhD, are like family to Humane Society Silicon Valley (HSSV). Their first gift to the non-profit organization was a $5,000 donation in 2004 to support the construction of a new shelter that would become the Detkin/Oates Animal Community Center. That was the beginning of an amazing relationship with HSSV, encompassing both personal and financial support.

Now, 18 years later, they have committed $3 million to support the organization's mission to save and enhance lives -- both two-legged and four-legged. This gift supports and expands the Regional Rescue Program through which HSSV transports and saves thousands of at-risk animals each year.

The Diekmans met their beloved dog, Jeremy, in 2015 after he came to HSSV through the Regional Rescue Program.

Jeremy was an overweight, arthritic golden retriever in need of dental care, and he was transferred in from a Bay Area municipal shelter that didn't have the capacity to care for all his needs. The Diekmans fell in love and adopted him immediately. Three years later, they adopted another regional rescue beneficiary named Benny, a young energetic lab mix. Jeremy has since passed away, but Benny continues to bring them joy every day.

In recognition of the Diekman's generous pledge, HSSV has renamed its rescue program the Sue and John Diekman Regional Rescue Program. The organization partners with dozens of shelters in Santa Clara County, the greater Bay Area, Central Valley, and beyond. HSSV is the safety net for animals in need of extra care and reduces the strain felt by shelters that are running out of space. Through these partnerships, more animals' lives are saved throughout California.

"We are tremendously grateful for this gift, which will allow us to not only increase the number of animals we rescue, but also support our partner shelters by taking in animals with complex medical and behavioral needs that HSSV has the expertise to address," said Kurt Krukenberg, HSSV President.

"We love the Regional Rescue Program because of the significant impact it has both for the individual animals and the shelters they come from," said

Sue Diekman. "Watching the animals come off the Rescue Roadster and knowing that they have a better future is incredibly heartwarming. And it means that the less-resourced shelters they come from can continue to help animals in their communities without worrying about having to euthanize for lack of space."

The City of San Leandro celebrated Downtown's prominence and potential with a Rediscovery event this September. The downtown neighborhood runs from Williams St. to Estudillo Ave. on the west side of E. 14th St. The heart of downtown is a tranquil village of adobe topped store fronts and courtyards that provides a relaxing shopping and leisure experience with plenty of old San Leandro nostalgia.

On a sunny Saturday afternoon throngs of East Bay residents enjoyed gyros, pork baos, tacos and cheese steaks as they explored Downtown San Leandro's hidden gems. The Rhythm and Blues ensemble Mixed Company provided live music at a beer garden while local artisan's and creators vended their wares at a debut Makers' Market. Oil paintings, house plants, tie-dye, and leather goods engaged heavy foot traffic all day long.

San Leandro businesswoman Ayanna Jackson promoted her natural homemade & handcrafted Arbria Creations bath, body and skincare products from one of the dozens of booths at the gathering. Handmade jeweler, Domingo, showcased his unique Impossible Cuts, "We've been in business here in San Leandro now for 12 years and this is our first street event. I love all the people that are out and about. It's been fantastic."

I sampled an excellent milk butter puff pastry from Washington Ave. 85°C Bakery that reminded me strongly of Portuguese sweet bread that was popular at downtown village bakeries in my youth. Christina Ramsey from San Leandro's Bay farm Dyehouse said, "We're so thrilled to be here with the community, walking, sharing the arts."

Top Hat brings together corporate leaders, local philanthropists and community partners for an extraordinary evening featuring delicious cuisine, hosted cocktails, entertainment, dancing and a lively auction.

In June, 2022, Washington Hospital Healthcare System was approved by Alameda County Emergency Medical Services Agency to become the next designated Level II Adult Trauma Center in the County in the next five years. Funds from Top Hat will be used to acquire lifesaving equipment & technology for Washington Hospital's new Level II Adult Trauma Center.

Our event has changed a bit this year with limited attendance due to safety precautions and the need to update our gala, yet be mindful of costs and fundraising goals. There will not be a sit-down dinner as in the past; however, we are offering a strolling dinner including amazing food, cocktails and a dessert wall! We again have partnered with McCalls Catering ensuring the food will be memorable and plentiful. In addition, there will be a hosted garden reception, roaming entertainment, live auction, dancing and more!

SAVE Evening of Empowerment

SUBMITTED BY SAVE

PHOTOGRAPHY

Our “Evening of Empowerment Gala” will be in person this year! As we celebrate the sixth year of SAVE’s (Safe Alternatives to Violent Environments) signature fundraiser, the event will include a cocktail hour, special speaker, plated dinner, and live and silent auctions. This year’s exquisite venue, Casa Bella, is nestled in the heart of downtown Sunol. We look forward to a spectacular event in support of the services SAVE provides for our community.

Last year, 1,265 survivors received critical services to escape intimate partner violence and build safer lives, 1,733 calls received support through our 24-hour crisis line, 98 women and children stayed at the Safe House, 60 families received rent assistance, and much more.

The challenges of the last few years have demonstrated the importance of working toward justice, healing and renewal. We are thrilled to announce that Valarie Kaur, a renowned civil rights leader and best-selling author of SEE NO STRANGER, will be our keynote speaker. Her inspiring vision of Revolutionary Love, deeply rooted in the Sikh faith, aligns with SAVE’s mission and work.

Together, we have overcome a couple of challenging years. We cannot wait to gather for an evening of expressing gratitude, witnessing resiliency, and celebrating empowerment, and we look forward to seeing you there!

Park It: Gathering of Ohlone Peoples

BY NED MACKAY

The land currently within Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont is the ancestral homeland of the Tuibun Ohlone Peoples. Every year the Gathering of Ohlone Peoples is held at the park. In this event Ohlone Peoples from several tribes share information about their culture, history, traditions, and current involvements.

Because of COVID-related concerns, this year’s gathering will be virtual. It will take place from 10 a.m. to noon on Sunday, October 2. The online link to view the event is www.ebparks.org/Gathering-of-Ohlone-Peoples.

The park itself is open to the public as usual. The visitor center explores the ecology while honoring Ohlone Peoples’ knowledge of natural resources and land management skills. These skills enabled Ohlone Peoples to thrive as the First Peoples who have been here for thousands of years and who are still here today. The center will be open from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Coyote Hills is located at the end of Patterson Ranch Road off Paseo Padre Parkway. There’s a parking fee of $5 per vehicle. For information on the park or the virtual gathering, call (510) 544-3220.

Speaking of visitor centers, the Green Barn Visitor Center at Sunol Regional Wilderness has been remodeled extensively in a project funded by the park district and the Regional Parks Foundation. The center now has new interactive exhibits, animal viewing enclosures, and an information center to help guide visitors to park attractions. Exhibits are bilingual in English and Spanish.

The Sunol Visitor Center is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays except Thanksgiving and Christmas Day. It is closed all other days. Entry is free.

And you can find out all about birds during a program at the center from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 1 with naturalist Kristina Parkison. Learn some bird lore, examine some feathers, and try identifying birds by hearing their calls. The free program is for ages seven and older; parent participation is required. Registration isn’t necessary, just drop by. For information, call (510) 544-3243.

Sunol Regional Wilderness is at the end of Geary Road off Calaveras Road about five miles south of I-680 and the town of Sunol. There’s a parking fee of $5 per vehicle.

Birds are also on the agenda in a program from 9:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. on Saturday, October 1 at Crown Beach in Alameda with naturalist Michael Charnofsky. Thousands of migrating and wintering shorebirds often flock to San Francisco Bay at this time of year. For a look, join Michael at the Elsie Roemer Bird Sanctuary pier on Shoreline Drive between Broadway and Park Street.

All levels of bird expertise are welcome, and reservations are not necessary. Binoculars will be provided. For information, call (510) 544-3187.

Lake Temescal in Oakland is the venue for one of the naturalist-led Hikes for Tykes strolls, this one from 10:30 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. on Tuesday, October 4. It’s free and no registration is required. Meet the naturalist at the park’s north parking area on Broadway near the junction of Highways 13 and 24 for a walk around the lake to look for birds, butterflies and flowers. Bring a snack. For information, call Crab Cove at (510) 544-3187.

“Hiding in Plain Sight” is the theme of a program from 11 a.m. to 12 noon on Sunday, October 2 at Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley with naturalist Wyatt Moore. Find out how animals and insects use camouflage to hide from predators, then test your own ability to hide in plain sight.

Meet at the visitor center. The program is free and registration is not necessary. Parent participation is required, though. Big Break is at 69 Big Break Road off Oakley’s Main Street. For information, call (510) 544-2030.

The “Let’s Get Outside Club” is a series of naturalist-led moderate walks of two to four hours, for ages eight and older, perfect for beginning hikers. The club will meet the first Sunday of each month; the hikes proceed, rain or shine. There’s a hike from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Sunday, October 2 at Del Valle Regional Park south of Livermore, led by naturalist Betty Villalta.

Reservations are not needed. To join the group, park in the second lot on the east side of the lake and meet in front of the marina at 9 a.m. Bring water and a snack; be prepared for the weather. All children must be accompanied by an adult, and park district COVID guidelines apply. For information on the club, call Sunol Wilderness at (510) 544-3249.

These columns usually announce events that do not require registration, because the programs could fill before the column appears in the paper. However, the park district offers lots of fun activities, some free and some with fees, that do require advance registration. For the full story, visit www.ebparks.org and click on “Things To Do” at the top of the home page.

Gathering of Ohlone Peoples

SUBMITTED BY
EAST BAY REGIONAL PARK DISTRICT

On Sunday, October 2, Coyote Hills will have a virtual version of their traditional “Gathering of Ohlone Peoples.”

Alameda and Contra Costa Counties fall within the homelands of about 25 tribes of Native peoples, who speak variants of two Ohlone languages (East Bay Costanoan and Karkin), and the Bay Miwok and Delta Yokuts languages. Over 2,000 years ago, the Ohlone and their ancestors established several villages in the area that is now Coyote Hills Regional Park.

European settlement brought severe disruption, dislocation, and suffering to the Tuibun tribe (located in today's Fremont Plain) and to other Ohlone peoples. Despite this tragic history, many Ohlone continue to keep their history and elements of their traditional cultures alive.

Ohlone Peoples knowledge of natural resources and land management skills enabled them to thrive as the First Peoples who were here for over 2000 years and who are still here today.

At the Annual Gathering of Ohlone Peoples, Ohlones of varied tribal backgrounds: share family and tribal history, music, song, dance, and stories; discuss contemporary cultural involvements and concerns; demonstrate basket, jewelry, soaproot brush, and dogbane string making.

This year's gathering will be a virtual presentation over YouTube, where Ohlone peoples from several tribes will share about their culture and traditions, and discuss current involvements. At previous Gatherings, visitors were able to: walk to a more than 2,000-year-old Tuibun village site, make a miniature tule boat, and make acorn soup cooked with heated stones in a basket.

The Coyote Hills Regional Park Visitor Center includes exhibits on Ohlone and other Central California Indian ways of life, as well as exhibits on area wetlands habitats and wildlife.

Sunol visitor center remodeled

By AYN WIESKAMP, BOARD OF DIRECTORS, EAST BAY REGIONAL PARK DISTRICT

The Green Barn Visitor Center at Sunol Regional Wilderness has a new look, thanks to an extensive remodeling funded by the Park District and Regional Parks Foundation. New features include interactive and beautifully illustrated exhibits, new animal viewing enclosures, and an information center to help visitors make the most of their day in the park.

Exhibits are bilingual in English and Spanish. Themes include the value of wilderness, Native American stewardship of the land, birds and other wildlife you may see in the park, and ongoing research being conducted by Park District scientists.

Sunol Regional Wilderness is the gateway to about 20,000 acres of wild and remote public open space, including the 30-mile Ohlone Wilderness Trail, which links all the parklands and water district properties between Fremont and Lake Del Valle south of Livermore.

Completion of the project will be celebrated with a ribbon cutting at 1 p.m. on Thursday, September 29. After the ceremony, the visitor center will be open.

Generally, the Sunol Visitor Center is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays except Thanksgiving and Christmas Day. It is closed all other days. Entry is free. Sunol Regional Wilderness has a parking fee of $5 per vehicle. The park is located at 1895 Geary Road off Calaveras Road, about five miles south of I-680 and the town of Sunol.

Another Park District attraction worth checking out is the new crevice garden at the Regional Parks Botanic Garden in Tilden Regional Park near Berkeley.

The small garden creates an environment for the kinds of native alpine plants that grow in rock fissures at high altitudes in the Sierra Nevada mountain range. Their beauty can now be enjoyed close to home. Funds for the project were provided by the Park District, Regional Parks Foundation and Friends of the Regional Parks Botanic Garden.

The Botanic Garden contains an extensive collection of native California plants. It is divided into ten geographic sections. Each represents a different California environment, and displays the plants that grow there. Examples include Southern California, Shasta-Klamath, Channel Islands, Sierran and Redwood. Because of the diversity, there's almost always something in bloom at the garden.

The garden is located at 1550 Wildcat Canyon Road at the intersection with South Park Drive. Fall hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. A plant sale is scheduled at the garden on October 1. For information and updates, visit the Friends of the Garden website, www.nativeplants.org.

Mark your calendars for Sunday, October 2, when the annual Gathering of the Ohlone Peoples will take place from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The gathering is usually at Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont. However, it is virtual this year, due to COVID concerns. The link to view the event is www.ebparks.org/Gathering-of-Ohlone-Peoples.

Native Americans from several tribes will share information about their culture, history and traditions, and discuss their current involvements.

Coyote Hills is open to the public as usual. The park is located at the end of Patterson Ranch Road off Paseo Padre Parkway. There's a parking fee of $5 per vehicle. For information on the park or the virtual gathering, call (510) 544-3220.

News and Notes FROM AROUND THE WORLD

SUBMITTED BY THE ASSOCIATION OF MATURE AMERICAN CITIZENS

Life is a marshmallow

You'd think the judges at Guinness World Records would honor David Rush for the numbers of world records he's broken -- some 250 Guinness records to date, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens (AMAC). Most recently he broke the record for catching the most marshmallows in his mouth in one minute -- at least 60 of them. His brother-in-law, Jonathan Hannon, helped him out by operating a makeshift, handheld catapult to deliver the sweet treats at an event in New York City recently to celebrate the launch of the 2023 Guinness Book of World Records. See video of the new marshmallow record on YouTube: www.youtube.com/watch?v=PT-MauaybZDQ.

Who doesn't love a cannoli?

It was a tasty record that a team of chefs from all over Italy concocted recently -- a mouthwatering 70-foot, 3.7-inch cannoli, according to AMAC. Its crispy, tasty shell was filled with 1,500 pounds of sweet ricotta much to the delight of the residents of Caltanissetta, Sicily, which is known as the birthplace of the cannoli. See video of the cannoli on YouTube: www.youtube.com/watch?v=64gOSf0zLUC.

It is the 'wurst' of times

Oktoberfest is back! The fest was postponed for two years due to covid, much to the chagrin of beer lovers from around the world. The legendary annual German beer celebration has been attracting local and international tourists since 1810, reports AMAC. In recent years -- prior to the pandemic -- some six to seven million tipplers, ale addicts and hops handlers would gather in Munich each year at about this time for the festivities, downing millions of liters of the brew and devouring millions of bratwursts, bockwursts, weisswursts and any other kind of wurst you desire. The festgoers are back, they are thirsty and hungry. Wunderbar! See video of Oktoberfest 2022 in Munich, Germany on YouTube: www.youtube.com/watch?v=WSxNbPiJQE.

The Association of Mature American Citizens is a nonprofit, nonpartisan advocacy organization representing membership in Washington, D.C. and in local congressional districts nationwide. More information is available on its website at www.amac.us.

New Korean grocery opens in Fremont

By STEPHANIE GERTSCH

On Friday, September 23, Fremont officials cut the ribbon for "Mega Mart" in the former Sprouts location near the HUB and Downtown Fremont. Whether you are a fan of baked goods, meats and produce for Korean cooking, seasonings like gochujang, treats like sushi and gimhap, or Korean skincare—you will be sure to find all your shopping needs.

A Bay Area News Group report states that this is the third U.S. location of Mega Mart. (The one in Sunnyvale operates as "The K Market.")

The new grocery store is around the corner from Korean restaurant Miga and smaller grocery Manna Oriental Market, previously the only specifically Korean grocery in Fremont. (The nearest H Mart is in San Jose.) It's another welcome expansion of Asian food shopping options, after Osaka Marketplace (Japanese grocery and food court) opening in Warm Springs in Fall 2021.

What would you bury in a time capsule?

SUBMITTED BY CITY OF SAN LEANDRO

As part of the City of San Leandro's ongoing 150th anniversary celebrations, city officials are asking community members for suggestions for items to include in a recently excavated time capsule that will be resealed soon and reopened in 50 years.

The time capsule was first buried in 1972 as part of the city's centennial celebrations. Inside it, Centennial Committee members placed souvenirs, mementos, business cards, and other items that they wanted to share with San Leandro of 2022. The time capsule will have new items added and reburied for San Leandro officials to open in 2072.

Officials are looking for items that represent contemporary life in San Leandro, items like menus, maps, masks and Clipper cards, but all suggestions are welcome. Suggestions will be accepted through October 15. Ideas can be submitted online at www.sanleandro.org/150.

Additionally, there are other ways to contribute to the time capsule. A "Notes to the Future" program provides community members with an opportunity to write letters, notes, and doodles that will be included in the time capsule. These items can be contributed at the San Leandro

Main Library. For program dates, check the library's website at www.SanLeandro.org/Library.

The "2022 Yearbook Project" is pulling together a collection of community photos and stories that document everyday life in San Leandro. These items will be compiled into a "yearbook" which will be buried with a time capsule are reopened when the city celebrates its 200th anniversary.

Community members can submit digital pictures or use equipment from the San Leandro Main Library's DIY Memory Lab to digitize material. Items must be submitted by October 31 at www.SanLeandro.org/150. For details, call (510) 577-3971.

Gelett Burgess: The Nonsense Expert

Born January 30, 1866, Gelett Burgess is remembered as a nonsense expert. In fact, he may be one of your favorite authors, even though you have probably never heard of him.

He invented such great words as “blurb” and “goop.”

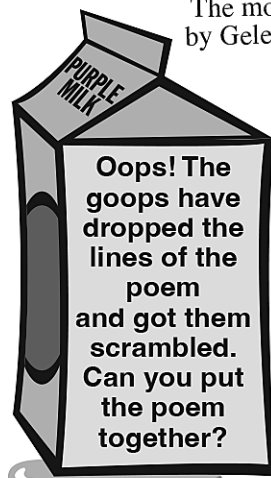

Goop comes from the many tales he told of the boneless, ill-mannered and sort-of-human characters he named “goops.”

The goops, they lick their fingers;
The goops, they lick their knives.
They spill their broth on the table cloth.
Oh, they lead disgusting lives.

The Purple Cow

The most quoted poem of the 1890s was a little ditty by Gelett Burgess called “The Purple Cow.”

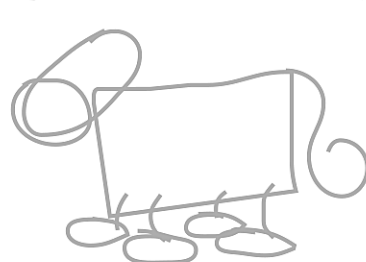

Oops! The goops have dropped the lines of the poem and got them scrambled. Can you put the poem together?

- A But I can tell you anyhow,
B I'd rather see than be one.
C I never hope to see one.
D I never saw a purple cow

ANSWER: The correct order is D, C, A, B.
Standards Link: Reading Comprehension: Follow simple written directions.

How to Draw a Purple Cow

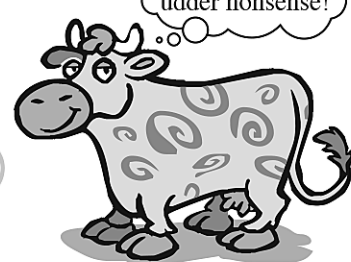

STEP 1

Draw big, simple shapes for your cow's body with a pencil. Draw very lightly. A cow's body is a rectangle. Cows have short legs and a long tail. Draw ovals for the head and feet.

STEP 2

Still drawing with a pencil, start adding details like eyes, hooves, udders, and horns. Remember to draw lightly with the pencil because you'll be erasing the pencil lines.

STEP 3

Draw over the pencil lines in ink. Make sure the ink is dry, then erase all the pencil lines. Color your cow and add spots, stripes, or wild & wacky patterns.

Well, this is udder nonsense!

Extra! Extra!

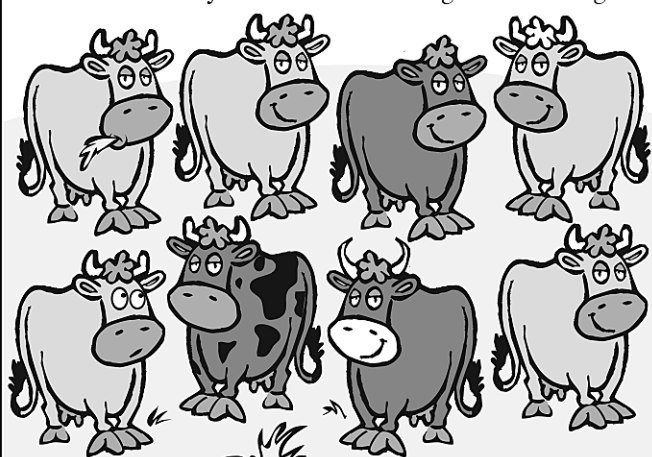

Nonsense Dot-to-Dot

Colored pencil as a fine art medium

BY LINA MELKONIAN

Fremont Art Association is delighted to have Denise Howard as the guest artist at its virtual General Meeting and Art Demo on Wednesday, October 5.

A nationally and internationally recognized artist, Howard is the recipient of numerous awards for her realistic colored pencil and graphite work. In her demo, "Colored Pencil as A Fine Art Medium," she will present a brief history of colored pencil, discuss how it compares to other media such as graphite, pastel, and watercolor, and cover the various types of colored pencil. She'll show some papers and surfaces that work well for colored pencil and demonstrate a few tools and techniques.

Growing up on a Missouri farm surrounded by animals and nature, Howard cultivated her passion for drawing. She went on to earn bachelor's degrees in art and math/computer science as well as a master's in computer science focused on computer graphics. Howard was one of the developers of iPhoto at Apple and has earned movie credits on Antz and the Academy Award-winning Shrek at PDI/Dreamworks.

After working for more than 25 years in software engineering, Howard could no longer ignore the urge to create art, and thus launched her second career. Howard is a Ten-Year Merit Signature Member of the Colored Pencil Society of America (CPSA), and a Silver Signature Member of the United Kingdom Colored Pencil Society (UKCPS). Her artwork, and articles by and about her, have been published in several books and magazines. She is the author of 101 Textures in Colored Pencil and a co-author of The Complete Book of Textures for Artists (Walter Foster Publishing, 2017 and 2020, respectively). She is a sought-after workshop presenter.

It's apparent that Howard's analytical background and inborn creativity pervade her work. The exquisiteness and power is in the detail. Her creations compel us to take a closer look at the world around us and to recognize some inherent beauty and meaning we may have missed.

You may view Howard's work at: www.denisejhowardart.com

Participants must register in advance and will receive the Zoom link via email. Details at: www.fremontartassociation.org/monthlymeetinganddemo.

Creative ways to enjoy pansies this fall

By MELINDA MYERS

Pansies have long been a fall and winter garden favorite. These cheery flowers are sure to brighten landscapes and containers and add a smile to any occasion. Look for fun and new ways to add them to your garden and fall celebrations.

You will find these cool weather favorites at your local garden center. Pansies thrive in the cooler temperatures of fall and during mild winters when your summer annuals fade or succumb to frost. They make great fillers in garden beds and containers or displayed in their own planter.

Cool Wave®, WonderFall and other trailing pansies are perfect for hanging baskets, as trailers in container gardens, or as edging plants in garden beds. You will need half as many of these pansy varieties to cover the same garden space.

Plant a basket of white trailing pansies, add some sunglasses and you have a ghost for Halloween. Scoop out the inside of a pumpkin, add some drainage holes and use it for a planter. Fill it with potting mix and you'll have a biodegradable pot for the compost pile when finished. Or simply set a container of pansies inside your pumpkin pot.

Be sure to include a few favorite colors, fragrant varieties, and some All-America

Selections winners. Ultima Morpho was the 2002 winner, selected for its distinct blue and yellow flower design. Padparadja is a true orange pansy that is perfect for fall, and Majestic Giants pansy, selected in 1966, can still be found for sale. Generations of gardeners have planted this large-flowered, traditional-faced pansy.

Include pansies in your fall meals and gatherings. Only use pansies and other edible flowers that have not been treated with pesticides. Be sure to let your guests know that the pansies are safe to eat, so they can enjoy this unique dining experience. Otherwise, you will find blossoms at the bottom of glasses or left on plates.

Pick a few flowers, remove the reproductive parts, and freeze them in ice cube trays to serve in your favorite beverage. Float a few of the flower ice cubes in your favorite punch.

Add a gourmet touch, some unique flavor, and color to your salads by topping a bed of greens with a few flowers. Continue the theme by decorating cookies or cakes with a few of your favorite pansies. The cheerful flowers will generate happy thoughts and for some, a way to enjoy the last of this season's garden.

Brighten the start of school and your classroom while showing your favorite teacher a bit of appreciation. A do-it-yourself planter filled with cheery pansies is sure to elevate the mood of both students and teachers alike.

All you need are two yardsticks, a 4" x 4" wooden planter box, and a potted pansy and saucer that fit inside the planter box. Gather your glue gun and glue sticks, sandpaper, and a hobby knife to create your gift.

Cut the yardsticks into four-inch pieces and sand the cut edges smooth. Glue the yardstick pieces vertically and next to each other onto all four sides of the planter. Set the saucer in the bottom of the planter box and place the potted pansy on top of it.

Purchase plenty of pansies. You are sure to find other creative ways to utilize them this fall or simply use them as colorful fillers for voids in gardens and containers.

Melinda Myers has written more than 20 gardening books, including the recently released Midwest Gardener's Handbook, 2nd Edition and Small Space Gardening. She hosts The Great Courses "How to Grow Anything" instant video and DVD series and the nationally syndicated Melinda's Garden Moment TV & radio program. Myers is a columnist and contributing editor for Birds & Blooms magazine and her website is www.MelindaMyers.com.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: SEPTEMBER 27, 2022

All Signs: This week is powerful and productive! It will be powerful because everyone wants to network and socialize. People will establish new connections and make new friends. This week is also productive because everyone is happy to work hard. This means now is the time to reach out to others. Also, be open to accepting invitations and offers that come your way.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20):

The energy this week is amazing for your sign, and you can use it to your advantage. For starters, there is a lovely, feel-good dynamic happening between you and partners and close friends. At the beginning of the week, you will roll up your sleeves to get hands-on in your job. Many of you will see ways to make improvements or introduce reforms. Meanwhile, you will be patient with others if things are challenging. In fact, you will feel rewarded by work that requires intellectual or physical perseverance. Whatever you do – you will do carefully.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20):

At the beginning of this week, relations with coworkers are positive! Meanwhile, this is a productive time for you because you are motivated to work hard. Your energy will be slow, steady and persevering. Meanwhile, those of you involved with sports, children, the entertainment world, the hospitality industry or any creative project will be heartened by seeing new approaches and new ways of doing things. Some of you will meet someone who has a strong influence on your approach to your work. Or vice versa – you will influence someone else?

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20):

This is a playful time for you! Accept all invitations to party, enjoy sports events and fun times with children. At the beginning of the week, social occasions – luncheons, dinners, and fun with friends -- will be rewarding. Meanwhile, you will also see ways to make improvements at home, perhaps to bathrooms, plumbing and anything connected to garbage and recycling. You will be super productive this week because Mars in your sign is dancing with Saturn, which makes you motivated, persevering and dogged in your efforts to get things done.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21):

This week begins on a lovely, feel-good note. It's a great time to entertain at home. Group activities will be upbeat. Family gatherings will be joyful. Meanwhile, this week, you will be persuasive when it comes to making others go along with your future plans. Admittedly, you might be obsessed with an idea. It could relate to a business deal or a negotiation. Remind yourself to listen as well as to speak. Something is going on behind the scenes and you might be part of this hidden activity.

Leo the Lion

(July 22-August 22):

This is a busy, fast-paced week! It begins on an upbeat, optimistic note, which means you're happy! However, there is a tendency for you to promise more than you can deliver. You might overestimate something. You have a strong focus on cash flow and finances this week. You want to be resourceful in order to save money. Fortunately, you will also attract money to you! Meanwhile, efforts with groups and friends will bring results. Your involvement with someone else will be focused, relentless and productive. Caution against being obsessed about something. Remember to listen to others.

Virgo the Virgin

(August 23-September 22):

You are focused on money this week. In financial discussions or making money decisions, be careful of the beginning of the week because you might overestimate something. Be conservative to stay on the safe side. Meanwhile, your ambition is aroused this week. You have specific ideas and you want to get things done! This is why you will be convincing when talking to others. In fact, they might view you as being obsessed (which could be the truth). If there's any money left, this is a good week to buy wardrobe items for yourself.

Libra the Scales

(September 23-October 22):

As this week begins, you feel cheerful and optimistic. This is why you might indulge yourself buying beautiful things for yourself or your home. Meanwhile, you're excited about making travel plans or travelling somewhere. In fact, this excitement will translate into a dedicated effort on your part to do something to expand your world so you feel more alive! Fortunately, any research on your part will bring results. This week, your ability to ferret out information that you need is uncanny.

Scorpio the Scorpion

(October 23-November 21):

It's curious because this week, in one way, you're happy keeping a low profile. This might be due to dealing with taxes, debt and shared property, estates, and inheritances. You will be dogged in your attempts to finish this work. Nevertheless, you have this urge to get out and talk to people. You want to share passionate ideas with friends or groups. Some of you will draw a line in the sand and say, "This is important!" Meanwhile, relations with friends and groups are warm and affectionate. (A friend might become a lover.)

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21):

Because you feel upbeat and eager to socialize, this is a popular week for you. You will appreciate the company of children. You will enjoy sports events, social outings and interactions with clubs and groups. Think twice before you volunteer for something because you might bite off more than you can chew. Meanwhile, relations with partners and close friends might be challenging. You might be at odds over something. Discussions with bosses, parents and authority figures will be intense. This is because you have strong opinions about something.

Capricorn the Goat

(December 22-January 19):

Lucky you! You look wonderful to others right now even if you don't do anything special. In fact, at the beginning of the week, you look successful and affluent. Be careful this great press doesn't seduce you into agreeing to something that you might later regret. You have strong opinions about politics, religion or racial issues this week. Meanwhile, you will accomplish a lot this week because you will work extremely hard to achieve something that matters. No matter how overwhelmed you feel, you will doggedly pursue your goals until you're satisfied.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18):

You are in a happy, upbeat state of mind as this week begins, especially if you can travel or do something different and exciting. In your attempt to get thrills, you might go overboard. Because you are involved in political, religious or racial issues – be careful you don't stretch yourself too thin. Those of you involved in sports or the arts will work hard to perfect your technique. Others might work just as hard to pull off a fabulous social event. Meanwhile, you have strong views about how to share or divide something.

Pisces the Fish

(February 19-March 20):

You might be feeling flush at the beginning of the week, which is why you're tempted to go overboard spending money. Or perhaps in your involvement with sharing or dividing something, you're tempted to give away the farm? Think twice so that you have no regrets later. Don't listen to others. Listen to yourself. Do what makes you feel comfortable – and no more. Meanwhile, you are working hard to restore order to your home and possibly a family situation.

Birthday Party for Hayward Library

SUBMITTED BY JACK ALCORN

Hayward's Downtown Library celebrated its 3rd anniversary this September. The milestone was marked by library patrons and community members gathering for arts and cultural festivities in the modern spacious facility at C St. and Mission Blvd. Six months after opening in 2019, the library closed its doors in response to the COVID pandemic. Library Services Director Jayanti Addleman said "This is a very exciting time for us, having this opportunity to celebrate being back to full services. We've had all kinds of lovely events today, celebrating the diversity of Hayward."

At the event, guests wrote down three things they love about the library. People most valued the books, the seed library, tutoring programs and the streaming movies. The California Youth Chinese Symphony and student musicians from Mount Eden High School performed. The audience enjoyed singing "Happy Birthday" to the library in many languages.

The library has three floors of books, CDs, DVDs, computers and classrooms. The facility also offers a well-lit acoustic meeting space that is bookable online. Classrooms hold tech tutoring sessions, citizenship workshops, and grammar courses for learners of English as a second language. The library's Teen Center is a welcoming safe space for teens to study or just hang out. The comfortable enclosed area provides teens with technology programs, arts & crafts space, shows movies and offers opportunities for them to volunteer.

Downtown Hayward gained an architectural asset with completion of this impressive slate and glass structure. The interior is decorated with a worldly collection of cultural art including oil paintings and wood carvings. Technology inspired exhibits also brings the walls to life. The building is well ventilated with ample natural light and durable, cleanable surfaces ensure a COVID resistant environment.

For many of us, the hobbies and passions we have as children remain just that. But, for two sisters, photography quickly changed from a pastime to something more. Jackie and Jennie Wang began their journey with photography when they received their first camera as a birthday gift when they were in 8th grade. Inspired by trending photographers at the time, they decided to experiment with their talents and began to take photos for their friends' student council campaigns in June of 2018. Then, during quarantine, the two sisters decided to take their passion one step further and start a small business, PicturesbyJW. "It originally started as a fun hobby, but then grew to be something more because we were able to meet kindhearted customers who were super polite to us and encouraged us to expand our business further," Jackie explains.

PicturesbyJW is currently run online, where clients can reach out through either Instagram direct message or through the website. Clients can then schedule a photoshoot date and location, and will eventually receive their edited photos through a link. As prom and graduation shoots tend to be the most popular, the sisters have worked to ensure that their prices remain reasonable for the student population. "I think our affordable prices are another thing that draws customers," Jennie shares. "A lot of people want to charge as much as possible to their customers, but I think we've always tried to keep our prices as affordable as possible because we know that most of our customers are high schoolers who do not have jobs or sources of income."

And though their business venture has been successful thus far, Jackie and Jennie note that it was not always so simple. "One of the hardest parts is definitely just getting started and trying to create a brand for yourself. Being minors in high school, we had to navigate the photography realm largely on our own," Jennie notes. "So, networking and meeting different photographers around the Bay Area and seeing what they're doing with their business has been helpful. Getting started, it was really hard to convince people that we were the right business for the photography needs that they were looking for. Over time, building more credibility and trust within our clientele and customer base has been super rewarding."

As seniors, the Wang sisters are currently applying to colleges, but remain hopeful for the future of their business. "I picture that our business may split up if we're living in different places," Jackie says. I think we both want to continue pursuing photography in college and continuing our services during undergraduate. Regardless of whether or not we go to different colleges, we're both still going to be involved with photography," Jennie adds that she hopes to "change people's perceptions on photography," mentioning that, to her, photography "is an art form that can connect people almost across space and time." For other teens interested in starting businesses, Jennie advises them to "just go for it. As long as you have the dedication and drive to keep going with it, you can definitely find success!"

Hertz to order up to 175K GM electric vehicles over 5 years

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hertz plans to order up to 175,000 electric vehicles from General Motors over the next five years.

The agreement announced Sept. 20 includes electric vehicle deliveries through 2027 and will include SUVs, pickups and luxury automobiles from Chevrolet, Buick, GMC, Cadillac and BrightDrop. The companies expect deliveries of the Chevrolet Bolt EV and Bolt EUV will start in the first quarter of next year.

“We are thrilled to partner with GM on this initiative, which will dramatically expand our EV offering to Hertz customers, including leisure and business travelers, rideshare drivers and corporates,” Hertz CEO Stephen Scherr said in a prepared statement. Hertz's current goal is for one-quarter of its fleet to be electric by the end of 2024.

GM Chair and CEO Mary Barra believes the partnership will help create new electric vehicle customers. “With the vehicle choice, technology and driving range we're delivering, I'm confident that each rental experience will further increase purchase consideration for our products and drive growth for our company,” she said. GM said last year that it plans to go fully electric by 2035.

Revealed! Mission Peak Village shows off its plans

SUBMITTED BY
JANE MUELLER AND EVELYN KOHL LATORRE

The crowd at the Downtown Event Center clapped for the short video that explained cohousing, with the aid of Legos, on September 17. The local Mission Peak Village group was showing how they would be bringing cohousing to Fremont. With large posters, and renderings by Gunkel Architecture and landscaper Karin Kaufman, the group's visuals showed the public the progress of their High Street development. Jane Mueller, co-founder of Mission Peak Village, described the group's successful search for land and its recent work in designing the 32-unit complex.

"We've been long on inspiration," Mueller said to the interested group, "and now we have land in a pleasant area, a growing number of enthusiastic members, and an experienced dream team of experts. Our building plans are moving along at a rapid pace."

Before the session began, Mission Peak Village Member, Caroline Harris, rushed in after giving a tour for the Washington Township Museum of Local History. "Fremont's first cohousing development," Harris said, "can be featured in the tour when it's completed."

On an enlarged map, she pointed out the conveniently-located High Street property. The flat units, along with extensive common facilities, are within walking distance of Central Park, the new Irvington BART station, the farmers' market, coffee shops, and shopping areas.

When members removed the poster coverings, the room of interested attendees gathered around the four large posters containing Mission Peak Village's exterior and interior architectural renderings, substantial landscape area, and floor plans of the 1-, 2-, and 3-bedroom units with the extensive common spaces.

Mission Peak Village members stationed at each easel, heard such remarks as:

"Looks like you guys have your act together. Beautiful layout."

"I love the neighborhood. So convenient to everything."

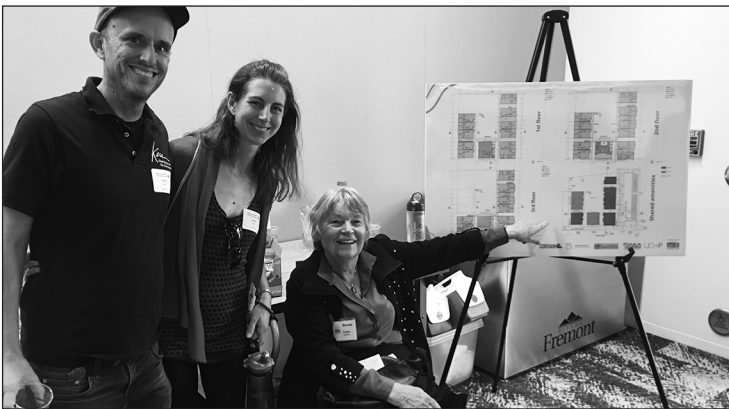

"I'm so glad these are flats with no stairs inside each unit."

"I'd love to come back and live in Fremont in this place."

"It's so close to the lake where I walk."

Questions included: (with members' answers)

"Will there be an elevator to the units on the second and third floors?" Yes, and it goes up to the roof deck on top of the large common dining room. Covered walkways are also planned.

"Will noise be heard from one apartment to the next?" No. Our architect says there have been great advances in soundproofing which we'll use.

"How about noise from the outside?" Again, unlikely as the windows will be several panes thick.

Animated discussions continued between servings of lemonade and snacks until closing time.

This is part of an ongoing series on cohousing. The final article, a Q&A on why people choose to live in cohousing, will appear on October 4.

Those joining Mission Peak Village as Explorers will receive more details about the project. Membership benefits include housing discounts, priority unit selection, and a say in upcoming building and policy decisions. If Mission Peak Village sparks your curiosity, call Kelli at (510) 413-8446.

Get ready to scream!

New this year are a host of unusual animatronic displays, an oddities museum, and a doll, pirate and clown theme area. "It changes every year, so even if you've been to our haunted house before, we change our themes, designs and walk-throughs so there's never the same show twice," Fields said. He cautioned that the event can be intense for younger children, and parents should plan accordingly.

The outdoor exhibit takes up about six acres and also includes music, movies and spooky sound effects. Food will be available for purchase from the popular Crazy Empanada food truck service.

Tickets are available in advance by visiting the event website at www.piratesofemerson.com. New this year is a low-cost Landlubber admission for $20 that does not include admission to the haunted houses, but lets visitors enjoy the ambiance, music, movies characters and food outside. It's also good for parents or those chaperoning children and teenagers going through the attractions while they wait outside.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Policing porch pirates

I'm told that the ubiquitous "porch pirates" -- thieves who steal packages left at the doors of homes -- are not a high police priority. No question that our police have busy schedules in preventing and solving crimes.

However, enterprising police departments should be interested to know that low-cost, high-tech help is available, according to a YouTube video by former NASA engineer, Mark Rober. Mr. Rober has come up with a way to catch high volume porch thieves by using "bait boxes" with GPS technology. With the bait boxes, thieves can be tracked electronically and then caught at the end of their day with all their stolen items.

Since the holiday season is fast approaching when porch pirates are the busiest and the NY Post reported that 210 million "porch packages" went missing in 2021, I hope local police departments seek assistance from Mr. Rober who is available online.

OPINION

WILLIAM MARSHAK

It is obvious that those elected to office typically do not receive the voting support of every constituent they serve. Electoral victory in our democratic society requires a majority of voters to secure the position, which may leave many others in the losing camp(s). Whether this represents a handful, hundreds, thousands or even millions, these people do not relinquish their constituent status due to an election defeat. Therefore, an elected representative at whatever level, assumes an obligation and leadership role that brings responsibility for the welfare and well-being of all represented. Although universal consensus on methods to achieve political goals is highly unlikely and may have formed the basis for candidate positions during an election cycle, concerns and arguments of minority groups is important to consider and acknowledge to achieve widespread peaceful coexistence.

Representation

On a national scale, we have witnessed the results of a successful political campaign that catered to its “majority” of voters, then failed to gather enough support to maintain its role. The backlash of heavily partisan politics resulted in a swing of the political pendulum in the opposite direction. As we enter the final stages of an election cycle, it is important for voters to uncover the true intent and quality of candidates they chose to support. Critical at all levels of governance, mental ability and agility must be paired with a sincere intent to serve the public and represent all facets of those served. Days and weeks following election results are critical to reunite the electorate under common cause without rancor and retribution. Common problems require unified efforts to remedy such issues.

Stark differences have emerged on the political scene and, although they may appear diametrically opposed, there may be some common ground to resolve them. The Constitution and its amendments should, in all scenarios, remain at the core of candidate commitment. This country was formed on the premise that individual freedom and rights are paramount and a pledge of collective action through government is designed to enhance and protect them. It’s a delicate balance; when either oversteps, adverse results are the consequence. It all begins at the local level where smaller groups of voters determine the direction of their representatives. From that base and extended political boundaries, it becomes more difficult to control attitudes and direction.

Your vote and consideration of candidate qualification as well as measures and propositions form the bedrock of our system. As our commitment to an open election, Tri-City Voice will publish, as we have done in the past and at no cost candidates, a statement from any who care to participate. Every voter should have an opportunity to understand policies and issues presented by each candidate. Through an informed, active electorate, our representatives will be held accountable and our system of government will survive and thrive.

Blind dog rescued from hole at California construction site

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Firefighters have rescued a 13-year-old blind dog that fell into a hole at a California construction site.

According to KABC-TV, the dog, named Cesar, lives next to the site in Pasadena with his owner. The dog apparently wandered onto the site, said Cesar's owner Mary, who declined to give her last name. Cesar then fell into the hole, which was about 15 feet deep and 3 feet wide, around 7 p.m. Sept. 20.

Mary was alerted by the barking of her other dog. Cesar responded and she could hear he was no longer in her own yard. A Pasadena search and rescue team soon responded to the scene. Pasadena Fire Chief Chad Augustin said confined-space rescues present unique challenges for firefighters. “There’s a lot of steps we need to do to make it as safe as possible. For not just the dog but also our rescuers,” Augustin said.

The team hooked up a series of ropes and pulleys to lower one team member into the hole. It took the team member about 12 minutes to reach the dog, secure him in a harness and bring him back to the surface.

Cesar appeared to be healthy and uninjured after he was retrieved from the hole. He shook off a heavy coat of construction dirt and dust and was reunited with his owner at the scene.

Man pleads guilty to dousing 'Bewitched' statue in red paint

ASSOCIATED PRESS

A man will be sentenced to 18 months of probation after pleading guilty to vandalizing the “Bewitched” statue by dousing the Salem, Massachusetts tourist attraction with red paint over the summer.

The 32-year-old resident was originally sentenced to a year in jail, but a Salem district court judge suspended the sentence on conditions the man repay the cost of repairing the damage inflicted on the bronze statue, The Salem News reported Sept. 20.

The statue depicts actor Elizabeth Montgomery -- as lead character Samantha Stephens in the 1960s sitcom -- sitting on a broomstick in front of a crescent moon. In June, a prosecutor said the man was “going through a rough time and wanted to do something to get arrested,” and was held on bail. His attorney said he had been living in a shelter for two weeks since his marriage ended, and had been looking for a new job. He was also charged with disorderly conduct, which will be dismissed after 30 days.

The statue was erected in the city famous for the 1692 witch trials in 2005, despite protests from some who said it trivializes the tragedy of the trials.

Tonga volcano blast was unusual, could even warm the Earth

BY MADDIE BURAKOFF
ASSOCIATED PRESS
SCIENCE WRITER

When an undersea volcano erupted in Tonga in January, its watery blast was huge and unusual -- and scientists are still trying to understand its impacts. The volcano, known as Hunga Tonga-Hunga Ha'apai, shot millions of tons of water vapor high up into the atmosphere, according to a study published Sept. 22 in the journal Science.

The researchers estimate the eruption raised the amount of water in the stratosphere -- the second layer of the atmosphere, above the range where humans live and breathe -- by around 5%. Now, scientists are trying to figure out how all that water could affect the atmosphere, and whether it might warm Earth's surface over the next few years.

“This was a once-in-a-lifetime event,” said lead author Holger Voemel, a scientist at the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Colorado.

Big eruptions usually cool the planet. Most volcanoes send up large amounts of sulfur, which blocks the sun's rays, explained Matthew Toohey, a climate researcher at the University of Saskatchewan who was not involved in the study.

The Tongan blast was much soggier: The eruption started under the ocean, so it shot up a plume with much more water than usual. And since water vapor acts as a heat-trapping greenhouse gas, the eruption will probably raise temperatures instead of lowering them, Toohey said.

It's unclear just how much warming could be in store. Karen Rosenlof, a climate scientist at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration who was not involved with the study, said she expects the effects to be minimal and temporary.

“This amount of increase might warm the surface a small amount for a short amount of time,” Rosenlof said in an email. The water vapor will stick around the upper atmosphere for a few years before making its way into the lower atmosphere, Toohey said. In the meantime, the extra water might also speed up ozone loss in the atmosphere, Rosenlof added.

But it's hard for scientists to say for sure, because they've never seen an eruption like this one. The stratosphere stretches from around 7.5 miles to 31 miles above Earth and is usually very dry, Voemel explained.

Voemel's team estimated the volcano's plume using a network of instruments suspended from weather balloons. Usually, these tools can't even measure water levels in the stratosphere because the amounts are so low, Voemel said.

Another research group monitored the blast using an instrument on a NASA satellite. In their study, published earlier this summer, they estimated the eruption to be even bigger, adding around 150 million metric tons of water vapor to the stratosphere -- three times as much as Voemel's study found.

Voemel acknowledged that the satellite imaging might have observed parts of the plume that the balloon instruments couldn't catch, making its estimate higher. Either way, he said, the Tongan blast was unlike anything seen in recent history, and studying its aftermath may hold new insights into our atmosphere.

County education leader honored

SUBMITTED BY
ALAMEDA COUNTY OFFICE OF EDUCATION

Alameda County Superintendent of Schools L.K. Monroe is the newest recipient of the California County Superintendents Champion's Award. The award was presented to her by Dr. Debra Duardo, Los Angeles County Superintendent, during a general membership awards dinner meeting held September 20 in Los Angeles.

“L.K. is an incredible leader, and we are so grateful for your contributions to this organization, and the students you have no doubt impacted in your career,” Duardo said when presenting the award. “Thank you for all that you have done and we can’t wait to root for you in your next endeavor.”

The Champion’s Award is presented to the county superintendent that has been selected by the five most recent California County Superintendents Past Presidents, as the county superintendent that “epitomizes the mission of the organization.” It is the top honor bestowed at the event and was the final award presented that night.

“This is big. Not just this award but my time with all of you,” said Monroe to her fellow County Superintendents in accepting the award. “The County Superintendency wasn't something I really aspired to, but like many of you, I saw the opportunity. I saw the opportunity to lead for children and saw the opportunity to actually step up in ways that are unique and responsive. There are very few jobs that elicit so much for kids.”

In a September 22 statement, Alameda County Office of Education officials noted that Monroe was President of the California County Superintendents (2021-22) during a global pandemic in which she led her colleagues, and spearheaded a much-needed year-long strategic plan process. The outcomes of that process positioned the California County Superintendents to be better suited to address the current needs of its members, and to help the organization move forward with its mission, vision, and goals, while always keeping in mind its responsibility to provide a high-quality education for all students.

Panel: US adults should get routine anxiety screening

BY LINDSEY TANNER ASSOCIATED PRESS MEDICAL WRITER

U.S. doctors should regularly screen all adults under 65 for anxiety, an influential health guidelines group proposed on Sept. 20.

It's the first time the U.S. Preventive Services Task Force has recommended anxiety screening in primary care for adults without symptoms. The proposal is open for public comment until Oct. 17, but the group usually affirms its draft guidance.

The recommendations are based on a review that began before the COVID-19 pandemic, evaluating studies showing potential benefits and risks from screening. Given reports of a surge in mental health problems linked with pandemic isolation and stress, the guidance is "very timely," said Lori Pbert, a task force member and co-author. Pbert is a psychologist-researcher at the University of Massachusetts' Chan Medical School.

The task force said evidence for benefits, including effective treatments, outweighs any risks, which include inaccurate screening results that could lead to unnecessary follow-up care. Anxiety disorders are among the most common mental health complaints, affecting about 40% of U.S. women at some point in their lives and more than 1 in 4 men, Pbert noted.

Black people, those living in poverty, people who have lost partners and those who have other mental health issues are among adults who face higher risks for developing anxiety, which can manifest as panic attacks, phobias or feeling always on edge. Also, about 1 in 10 pregnant and postpartum women experience anxiety.

Common screening tools include brief questionnaires about symptoms such as fears and worries that interfere with usual activities. These can easily be given in a primary care setting, the task force said, although it didn't specify how often patients should be screened.

"The most important thing to recognize is that a screening test alone is not sufficient to diagnose anxiety," Pbert said. The next step is a more thorough evaluation by a mental health professional, though Pbert acknowledged that finding mental health care can be difficult given shortages of specialists.

Megan Whalen, a 31-year-old marketing specialist who was diagnosed with anxiety in 2013, says regular doctors should screen for mental health issues as commonly as they do for physical problems. "Health is health, whether the problem is visible or not," said Whalen, of Hoboken, New Jersey. She has gotten help from medicine and talk therapy, but her symptoms worsened during the pandemic and she temporarily moved back home.

"The pandemic made me afraid to leave home, my anxiety telling me anywhere outside of my childhood house was unsafe," Whelan said. "I absolutely still struggle with feelings of dread and fear sometimes. It's just a part of my life at this point, and I try to manage it as best as I can."

The task force said there isn't enough solid research in older adults to recommend for or against anxiety screening in those aged 65 and up. The group continues to recommend depression screening for adults and children, but said there isn't enough evidence to evaluate potential benefits and harms of suicide screening in adults who show no worrisome symptoms.

In April, the group issued similar draft guidance for children and teens, recommending anxiety screening but stating that more research is needed on potential benefits and harms of suicide screening kids with no obvious signs.

Guidelines from the task force often determine insurance coverage, but anxiety is already on the radar of many primary care doctors. In 2020, a group affiliated with the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists recommended routine primary care anxiety screening for women and girls starting at age 13.

Melissa Lewis-Duarte, a wellness coach in Scottsdale, Arizona, says rhythmic breathing, meditation and making a daily list of three things for which she is grateful have all helped with her anxiety.

"Doctors say, 'Make sure you're sleeping, control your stress.' Yeah, I get that, but not everyone knows how," said the 42-year-old mother of three. "It's difficult to prioritize self-care, but that's what's necessary."

NTSB wants all new vehicles to check drivers for alcohol use

By TOM KRISHER ASSOCIATED PRESS AUTO WRITER

The National Transportation Safety Board is recommending that all new vehicles in the U.S. be equipped with blood alcohol monitoring systems that can stop an intoxicated person from driving. The recommendation, if enacted by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, could reduce the number of alcohol-related crashes, one of the biggest causes of highway deaths in the U.S.

The new push to make roads safer was included in a report released Sept. 20 about a horrific crash last year in which a drunk driver collided head-on with another vehicle near Fresno, California, killing both adult drivers and seven children.

NHTSA said the week of Sept. 19 that roadway deaths in the U.S. are at crisis levels. Nearly 43,000 people were killed last year, the greatest number in 16 years, as Americans returned to roads after pandemic stay-at-home orders. Early estimates show fatalities rising again through the first half of this year, but they declined from April through June, which authorities are hoping is a trend.

The NTSB, which has no regulatory authority and can only ask other agencies to act, said the recommendation is designed to put pressure on NHTSA to move. It could be effective as early as three years from now. "We need NHTSA to act. We see the numbers," NTSB Chairman Jennifer Homendy said. "We need to make sure that we're doing all we can to save lives."

The NTSB, she said, has been pushing NHTSA to explore alcohol monitoring technology since 2012. "The faster the technology is implemented the more lives that will be saved," she said.

The recommendation also calls for systems to monitor a driver's behavior, making sure they're alert. She said many cars now have cameras pointed at the driver, which have the potential to limit impaired driving.

But Homendy says she also understands that perfecting the alcohol tests will take time. "We also know that it's going to take time for NHTSA to evaluate what technologies are available and how to develop a standard."

A message was left Sept. 20 seeking comment from NHTSA.

The agency and a group of 16 automakers have been jointly funding research on alcohol monitoring since 2008, forming a group called Driver Alcohol Detection System for Safety. The group has hired a Swedish company to research technology that would automatically test a driver's breath for alcohol and stop a vehicle from moving if the driver is impaired, said Jake McCook, spokesman for the group. The driver wouldn't have to blow into a tube, and a sensor would check the driver's breath, McCook said.

Another company is working on light technology that could test for blood alcohol in a person's finger, he said. Breath technology could be ready by the end of 2024, while the touch technology would come about a year later. It could take one or two more model years after automakers get the technology for it to be in new vehicles, McCook said. Once the technology is ready, it will take years for it to be in most of the roughly 280 million vehicles on U.S. roads.

Under last year's bipartisan infrastructure law, Congress required NHTSA to make automakers install alcohol monitoring systems within three years. The agency can seek an extension. In the past it has been slow to enact such requirements. The legislation doesn't specify the technology, only that it must "passively monitor" a driver to determine if they are impaired.

In 2020, the most recent figures available, 11,654 people died in alcohol-related crashes, according to NHTSA data. That's about 30% of all U.S. traffic deaths, and a 14% increase over 2019 figures, the last full year before the coronavirus pandemic, the NTSB said.

In the fatal crash included in the report, a 28-year-old driver of an SUV was headed home from a 2021 New Year's Day party where he had been drinking. The SUV went off the right side of State Route 33, crossed the center line and hit a Ford F-150 pickup truck head-on near Avenal, California.

The pickup was carrying 34-year-old Gabriela Pulido and seven children ages 6 to 15 home after a trip to Pismo Beach. The truck quickly caught fire and bystanders couldn't save the passengers, the NTSB said.

The SUV driver's blood alcohol level was 0.21%, nearly three times California's legal limit. He also had marijuana in his system, but the agency said the alcohol was more than enough to severely impair his driving. The SUV was traveling 88-to-98 miles per hour, the report said.

The crash happened less than a second from when the Journey re-entered the road, giving Pulido no time to avoid the collision, the NTSB said.

Juan Pulido, 37, whose wife and four children were killed in the crash, said he's happy the NTSB is pushing for alcohol monitoring because it could stop another person from losing loved ones. "It's something that their families have to live with," he said. "It doesn't go away tomorrow."

Pulido's lawyer, Paul Kiesel, says driver monitoring systems also could stop crashes caused by medical problems or drowsiness, saving anguish and billions in hospital treatment costs.

Russell City justice project meeting set

SUBMITTED BY CITY OF HAYWARD

A second meeting of former Russell City residents and descendants to form a Steering Committee to direct the work of the Russell City Reporative Justice project is set for Thursday, September 29 in Hayward. The online meeting will start at 5:30 p.m. via the Zoom app.

The Russell City Reporative Justice Project was initiated by the City of Hayward in response to calls for Hayward to redress inequitable treatment of Russell City residents arising for redevelopment of the area.

Established in 1853, Russell City was an unincorporated area of Alameda County near the Hayward shoreline between present-day Chabot College and Hayward Executive Airport. In the early 1960s, it was annexed into the city as part of a redevelopment plan that entailed relocation of residents and businesses and rezoning of property for industrial development.

On Nov. 16, 2021, the Hayward City Council voted unanimously to formally apologize for the city’s historical role in and perpetuation of racial discrimination and cited in particular participation in the redevelopment of Russell City.

Initial phases of the Reporative Justice Project have and continue to entail identification and contacting of former Russell City residents and descendants, a program of fact-finding and academic research, and formation of a governing structure including a Steering Committee to direct the project.

For project details, including a video of the first meeting held September 13, visit the City of Hayward website at www.hayward-ca.gov, then enter “Russell City Reporative Justice Project” into the search field and follow the link that appears. For Zoom access information, contact Regina Youngblood, Assistant City manager at Regina.Youngblood@hayward.gov.

PROBATE

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF
JOSE E. MEZA
CASE NO. RP22131139

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: JOSE E. MEZA

A Petition for Probate has been filed by NANCY E. CHRISTEN in the Superior Court of California, County of ALAMEDA. The Petition for Probate requests that NANCY E. CHRISTEN be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court on 10/31/2022 at 2:00PM in Dept. 201 Room located at 2120 MARTIN LUTHER KING JR WAY, BERKELEY, CA 94704.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 916-939-0772 or visit this internet website www.nationwideposting.com, using the file number assigned to this case 220603 Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction, pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 916-939-0772, or visit this internet website www.nationwideposting.com, using the file number assigned to this case 220603 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. Music at the Mission: Vayamos!

that this music belonged in the concert hall, that it deserved the same respect as classical music.

“In doing so, he at first alienated both extremes. The tango purists thought he was maligning their art form. The classical audiences thought bringing what they saw as the music of the brothels into the concert halls was sacrilege. Thankfully he persevered, and proved a point I’ve always tried to make: We can categorize and try to define genre, but in the end great music is great music.”

Everett is joined by Quinteto Quilombo musicians Seth Asarnow, bandoneon; Ertan Torgul, violin; Aileen Chanco, piano; and Carlos Caminos, electric guitar. “I’m happy we will be joined again by dancer and choreographer Count Glover. While this incredible music can stand on its own,” said Everett, “it is dying to be danced to!” Inna Yureneva will also be dancing as part of the concert.

There will be two performances of “Vayamos!”: A one-hour concert followed by an After Party & Milonga with empanadas and wine. And who better to teach you Milonga (literally, a tango dance party) moves than Glover, who studied with the world’s most renowned tango maestros and is considered one of the best?

A full-length two-hour concert will take place at Jackson Theatre, part of the Smith Center for the Performing Arts. “We are performing for the first time at Smith Center at Ohlone College,” noted Everett, “While we love our main venue, Mission San Jose, the larger hall will allow us to do the staging and lighting that the music and dancing call for.” Jackson Theatre holds 400, so you can invite all your friends, all ages, to dance in their seats along with you!

Here are some individual highlights for Cal State East Bay throughout the tournament.

- Owenson placed sixth at 6-under-par 210. He had one eagle and 11 birdies on 54 holes played.
- Tied for 13th on the leaderboard were Won Jun Lee and Quentyn Kowata – each 1-under-par 215. Kowata competed as an individual, thus his score did not affect the Pioneers’ team score.

- Lee, Kowata and Ananjan Kaushik had 12 birdies each.

- In addition to Owenson’s eagle, Easton Hether had an eagle in his first career tournament with Cal State East Bay.

Cal State East Bay head coach Alan Sue reflected on the team’s performance. “This was a solid start to our season,” stated Sue. “The team battled hard in all three rounds. We got some valuable education on this regional course and will be ready for the challenge in the second preview in April.”

The host team, Sonoma State, won the team competition. At 15-under-par 201, Edvin Backstrom from Holy Names was the individual medalist atop the leaderboard.

Washington trounces Newark in varsity football

BY ERIC DONATO

Washington Huskies (Fremont) varsity football team won Saturday’s home non-conference game against Newark Memorial Cougars (Newark) by a score of 30-14.

The Huskies took the early momentum with a touchdown in the first couple minutes of the first quarter, closing the period with a 7-0 lead. They continued their energetic drive again early in the second quarter with a quarterback high yardage rush to the endzone extending the lead to 14-0. The Cougars managed to find their stride scoring on the eight-minute mark with a note-worthy 40-plus-yard rush play to the endzone, 14-7. Huskies quarterback was momentarily relieved during the second quarter due to a slight injury during a tackle, but returned a few drives later. A field goal from the Huskies wrapped up the half at 17-7.

Washington continued their dominance over the Cougars 30-7 in the third quarter with two additional touchdowns, but got short-changed for an extra point with a missed field goal at the first touchdown of the third quarter. The Cougars made an earnest effort to close the gap in the fourth quarter with determined drives scoring a touchdown, but fell short and yielded to a Huskies victory, with a final score of 30-14.

It was an exciting matchup with a game highlight-worthy displays of play rushes and breathtaking completed deep passes from both sides while adding the mix of forced turnovers, third-down conversions and quarterback tackles. Washington Huskies improved their football standing in the MVAL with a 4-1 record and moved up in the California North Coast Section Division 4 Football rankings.
