Water solutions: a difficult task

An interview with Walt Wadlow, General Manager ACWD

the most popular. Led by an educator and engineer mentor, students learn the basics of city planning and management as they design a virtual city using SimCity software. Via the research essay, the students delve deeper into a citywide issue. This year's question asks them to review the transportation options and needs of their own city, create viable ideas that consider safety, accessibility, intermodality and sustainability in an effort to reimagine a better and more efficient city. From there, each team builds a physical model of their city using recycled materials costing no more than $100.

Along the way, the students also learn about the engineering disciplines that encompass their solutions, including learning and identifying the steps of the design process. For more information on the Future City Competition, visit www.futurecity.org,

Make Healthy Changes This New Year

t the start of the New Year, many of us resolve to lose weight, but by the next week or month, most have already "slipped up' and given up trying. Few will have lost weight, and even fewer would maintain the loss they were able to obtain.

How do we go about achieving the loss we desire and keep it off permanently? Well, we have to look at our resolutions as long-term goals, and not just focus on quick results.

Maggie Villagomez, R.D, a Washington Hospital registered dietitian has some good advice on how you can achieve a weight loss goal this New Year, once and for all.

1. Exercise:

Exercise is a well-known catalyst for weight loss. You burn more calories than you consume, and you lose weight. Dedicated workouts are great, but any physical activity you accumulate throughout the day helps you burn calories, too. Park further away when shopping. Take the stairs instead of the elevator and do jumping jacks during commercials. Better yet, turn off the TV and take a brisk walk. Aim for 30-60 minutes of exercise five days a week.

2. Sleep:

According to data obtained from the 2000-2006 National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey I (NHANES I), skimping on sleep may make you more vulnerable to obesity. People who reported getting less than seven hours of sleep per night were more likely to be obese or develop obesity. If you currently sleep less than 7 hours a night, try to add 1 hour a week until you get to 7-9 hours. Even an extra 60 minutes per night will help lower your risk for obesity.

3. Eat Breakfast:

If you are someone who thinks skipping breakfast will help you lose weight, think again! An ongoing study of people who have maintained weight loss of at least 30 pounds for more than a year shows that eating breakfast helps with weight loss and is associated with better weight control (National Weight Control Registry). Breakfast eaters tend to eat fewer calories, less saturated fat and cholesterol, and have better overall nutritional status than breakfast skippers.

4. Befriend a Farmer:

Think eating more fruits and vegetables will hurt your wallet? People everywhere are discovering the benefits of buying produce at Farmers' Markets. Local fruits and vegetables are cheaper because they don't require transportation from other parts of the country (or world!). They're fresher than anything in the supermarket, making them tastier and more nutritious. And they're also good for your local economy—buying directly from family farmers helps them stay in business.

5. Reading Food Labels Thoroughly:

Healthy eating is not only about looking at the calorie and fat content of food. What is the serving size of this product, and can you realistically stick to it? How high is the sodium content? Is it full of added sugars, such as corn syrup, maltose, or dextrin? What's the first ingredient in the product? Is it made with whole grains, or is it just enriched white flour? Is it considered a high fiber food? All of these things are important to look at when shopping for processed foods; you need to know what you're really buying.

6. Plan Ahead:

Planning your meals ahead of time can be a sure-fire way to stick to your diet. Designating what you're going to eat and when can keep you from choosing whatever is in reach when hunger strikes. This can be as simple as planning and packing your lunch the night before work or school, or even making meal batches on the weekends and freezing them until you're ready to eat them during the busy week.

The Annual Report Edition of Health Signs also comes in a new magazine format featuring former patients in our community that have been on the receiving end of our high quality care. The report includes the accomplishments of many of the Hospital's programs and services that were certified or commended for excellence by respected organizations around the country.

The report highlights several different services within the Hospital that are harnessing technology for better patient care. You'll discover how, besides upgrading and expanding our campus for the future, we're harnessing the latest technology to make our care more personalized, accurate and accessible, including the new MyChart online resource for patients.

The report describes the results of initiatives undertaken by the Hospital's staff and physicians to improve patient care. Charts and graphs are included, comparing Washington Hospital's performance with national and statewide standards over time. The charts present the Hospital's excellent performance for specific nursingsensitive indicators that affect quality of patient care, such as our response to heart attacks and stroke, pressure ulcers and reducing patient falls.

Focus on Nursing

Washington Hospital nurses see their responsibilities as extending beyond the patient beside. They seek additional educational opportunities so that they can be on the cutting edge of nursing, and they embrace a practice of lifelong learning. The report highlights the high number of registered nurses who hold advanced academic degrees in direct care nursing. As a result of these efforts, Washington Hospital is recognized as a Magnet Hospital, the highest level of recognition a hospital can earn for quality of nursing care.

Peter Pany soars with excitement & adventure

By Julie Grabowski Photos by Cassie Broadwin

It is a name known worldwide; a name that has endured and lit the imagination for generations; a name synonymous with fun, freedom, and the eternal spirit of childhood. "Peter Pan" flew into Fremont on Friday night, unleashing that special brand of young exuberance and vitality that only the eternally youthful boy can conjure, bringing audience members of all ages to their feet in unanimous delight.

Peter Pan presides over a band of Lost Boys on a magical island called Neverland "where dreams are born and time is never planned." However, he regularly lingers at the nursery window of the Darling family in London so he can listen to the stories Mrs. Darling tells her children. One evening when the parents are out, Peter comes to retrieve his shadow that Mrs. Darling has captured, and decides to take Wendy to Neverland so she can be a mother to the Lost Boys and tell them stories.

A land with pirates, Indians, mermaids and adventures galore, where you never have to grow up? Who could say no!

Wendy is charmed by Peter and his offer, as long as her brothers John and Michael can come, too. So off they go, unaware of the villainous Captain Hook and the dangers that lie ahead.

A story of irrepressible spirit and charm, "Peter Pan" is in excellent hands with StarStruck Theatre, who under the expert direction of Lori Stokes delivers a vibrant, joyful, and fun production. The cast weighs in at an impressive 69 performers, making quite the rollicking riot of Lost Boys, Indians, and pirates. While you could argue that the stage is a little too over populated at times, the crowd makes a delightful ruckus and you can't help but smile and wish you could join in.

The musical numbers are a fun compliment to the familiar story and a nice addition for those only familiar with the Disney version or J.M. Barrie's book. The awesome pirate crew is very good fun when put to song, delighting in "Pirate Song," "Hook's Tango," and "Tarantella." "I Won't Grow Up" is a charming pledge from Peter and the Lost Boys, but the musical wow factor comes with "Ugh-a-Wug," an impressive percussive explosion performed with rhythm sticks by Tiger Lily, Peter, and the Indian and Lost Boys tribes.

Cheyenne Wells is a fireball as Peter, a tight combination of tremendous vocals, easy humor, and sharp agility that make you believe there is nothing this girl couldn't do. The evil, crocodile-shy Captain Hook is perfectly captured by Jack Smith, who nails Hook's ominous presence, sniveling fears and frustrations with humor and aplomb. Carly Tilson-Lumetta plays the innocent and girlish Wendy with easy and grace, and Buffy Toledo's Tinkerbell adds a splash of color and sass.

The crew of Lost Boys, Indians, and pirates are a fun and lively bunch with Tim Sanders (Smee) Jacob Woll (Starkey), and Brian Loh (Tootles) leading the pack. Loh is the most adorable Lost Boy you've ever seen, his little character making a big bang whenever featured. Special mention goes out to the animal contingent: Daniel Joseph Harper as Nana and the fabulous creeping crocodile Garret Chang.

As Peter's preferred method of transportation is flying, you might wonder how that is addressed in the show; well, by flying, of course! With effects provided by ZFX, Peter, Wendy, John, Michael, and Tinkerbell literally take to the sky in thrilling bounds and sweeps of flight that is tremendous fun. Anyone who has ever yearned to fly will be Tinkerbell-green with envy after seeing "I'm Flying."

The show also benefits from a 21-member live orchestra under the direction of Nancy Godfrey; the enticing, lush, tropical set designs of Neverland created by Andrea Bechert; and costume designer Leah Schaefer's effective introduction of steampunk features into the pirates' wardrobe.

With such outstanding elements there's nothing more to do than close your eyes, think of lovely things and be carried away to Neverland by StarStruck Theatre's magical and joyful production.

A SuperStar donor reception will be held before the Saturday, January 18 performance from 6:30 p.m. - 7:30 p.m.; enjoy a Talk Back with actors after the show on Friday, January 24; and for the hearing impaired the Friday, January 17 performance will be ASL interpreted.

Fremont Ranked 2nd Best Run City in America

Only Silicon Valley City to Make the Top 10

The City of Fremont was just ranked as the second Best Run City in America by 24/7 Wall St. Climbing from last year's fifth spot, Fremont was the only Silicon Valley city to make the top 10.

Fremont was found to be the wealthiest large U.S. city, with the highest median income at over $100,000 per household, which is nearly double the national income average. The City also had the lowest poverty rate of 6.7 percent coming in at less than half the national rate. In terms of safety, Fremont was ranked third lowest for violent crimes and the unemployment rate was only 6.5 percent.

Fremont also proved its continued leadership as an innovation hub for advanced manufacturing. The study found 17.5 percent of workers in Fremont are employed in manufacturing, which is one of the highest percentages in the nation.

The annual ranking of "The Best and Worst Run Cities in America" by 24/7 Wall St. looks at data from a number of sources for the 100 largest cities in the country, as measured by population figures from the U.S. Census Bureau's 2012 American Community Survey. Categories evaluated include income/poverty levels, graduation rates, health insurance coverage, the change in home values between 2008 and 2012, unemployment rates, debt ratings, violent crime rates, gross metropolitan product data, and foreclosure rates. Once sources are reviewed and final metrics compiled, 24/7 Wall St. ranks each city based on its performance in all the categories. For further information on the methodology, visit Fremont.gov/BestRunCity.

David has extensive municipal finance experience in both the public and private sector. Since 2011, he had been serving as the Assistant Finance Director for the City of Pleasanton, where he oversaw the operations of the Finance Department's accounting and budgeting activities. David also brings with him considerable experience in debt administration, having served as the Debt Administrator for the City of San Jose where his responsibilities also included general fund revenue forecasting, budget coordination, debt management and investment of bond proceeds.

David holds a Masters in Policy Analysis from the RAND Graduate School and a Masters of Business Administration from Stanford University. He also received a Bachelor of Science in Mathematics from West Point. Additionally, David is one of only 538 finance professionals to hold a Certified Public Finance Officer (CPFO) designation from the Government Finance Officers Association.

David's professional and academic accomplishments will serve the City of Fremont well in the years to come.

The City's Community Alert System

Have you enrolled in the City's Community Alert system, CodeRED®, to receive voice calls, text messages, or emails for emergency and non-emergency notifications?

The City of Fremont's Community Alert System, CodeRED®, is provided by Emergency Communications Network. CodeRED® is a high-speed notification system that gives City officials the ability to deliver pre-recorded emergency alerts and non-emergency notifications to targeted geographic areas or the entire city.

CodeRED® is a "reverse 911" system that currently contains land-line phone numbers for most residents and businesses. The City of Fremont strongly encourages all residents and businesses, as well as people who send their children to school in Fremont or work in Fremont, to register their contact information into the secure CodeRED® database to receive notifications by email, SMS (text), and cell or work numbers.

To add your information to the CodeRED® system, you will be asked to provide the following information: First and last name; Fremont street address (physical address only, no P.O. Boxes); and telephone number (land-line and/or cell phone), e-mail and/or text addresses. Your contact information remains private and will only be used for community alerts. There is no fee to register.

How the City Uses the Community Alert System

Emergency Notifications

The Police and Fire departments may use the system to notify homes and businesses of situations that pose imminent threat to life or health, such as:

- Evacuation
- · Hazardous materials releases or spills
- Barricaded criminal suspects
- Floods and fires in an immediate area

Non-Emergency Communications

The City also uses the system for non-emergency, time-sensitive information, such as:

- Road closures
- Scheduled major maintenance work
- Planned traffic impacts
- Missing persons
- Criminal descriptions
- City events

Caller ID Phone Numbers

There are two phone numbers used when the City activates the Community Alert system. When you see (866) 419-5000 displayed, you will know the call is from the City of Fremont and it is designated as an "emergency" call. When you see (855) 969-4636 displayed, that call is also from the City of Fremont and it is a "non-emergency" call. If you would like to hear the last message delivered to your phone, simply dial the number back. Add these numbers to your phone's address book so you know the City is calling.

Decorating with Radiant Orchid Color of the Year for 2014

Say goodbye to last year's Emerald green, and hello to Radiant Orchid, Pantone's color of the year for 2014.

According to the Pantone Institute, Radiant Orchid is "an enchanting harmony of fuchsia, purple and pink undertones that inspires confidence and emanates great joy, love and health." As you spend time shopping this year, you will see clothing, jewelry and home décor in this color.

Purple is a great color for interior design, because it is a combination of red and blue, and can work in both warm and cool interiors. It can be elegant and rich, or playful and whimsical, depending on the furnishings and colors you use with it. Try pairing Orchid with greens ranging from olive to teal to Hunter, or use Orchid to perk up neutrals like gray, beige and taupe. Orchid will always look good with white and silver, and also looks surprisingly well with cream and brushed gold. Orchid also pairs well with chocolate brown, charcoal gray and other shades of purples like fuchsia and magenta.

Unless you are truly a lover of purple, using Orchid in small doses will probably work better for you. If you like to change your décor frequently, keep your large pieces (like carpeting, sofas and chairs) neutral, and then play with accessories as the mood strikes you.

Here are some photos of a few Orchid-colored items I found online that you might like to incorporate into your décor. These are all available through www.lampsplus.com.

How about adding an orchidcolored lamp to a guest room, home office or an entry table? You can use a patterned shade like this one, or keep it simple with a white shade.

I love this artwork. It is a fun way to add pattern to a space and you can see how beautifully the orchid color works with the silver on the picture frames. Wouldn't these look pretty in a bedroom or a bathroom?

This cute ottoman shows how nice Orchid looks when combined with greens like teal and olive. Picture it in front of a plain beige sofa or chair. It will instantly liven up your room.

I know this mirror is darker than Orchid, but what a fun look for an entry, bathroom vanity, or above a console or dresser. Perhaps you already have a mirror or a picture frame you can paint yourself.

An easy way to change the look of a room is with new throw pillows. These would look great on a green, cream or beige sofa or perhaps on your bed with a new cream-colored comforter. And while you're at it, how about painting an Orchid accent wall behind your bed? The possibilities are endless!

Washington Women's Center Offers a Variety of Exercise Classes

"Our Arthritis Foundation Tai Chi Program utilizes six basic core movements, six advanced extension movements and directional changes to add challenge," explains Laura Constantine, RN, Women's Center Coordinator. "These movements were all examined by the Arthritis Foundation and Dr. Paul Lam, a tai chi expert and family physician, for safety and effectiveness."

The Washington Women's Center offers several gentle yoga classes, as well as the traditional Arthritis Foundation Exercise Program, and Constantine says offering the tai chi class is a natural extension of these programs, which encourage better health for women of all levels of health and fitness.

"The tai chi program is very complementary to what we're already doing," she says. "This is different than yoga, and it's different from the Arthritis Foundation Exercise Program. Offering the combination of the three different programs is very useful. For instance if people want to start slow, they can start with tai chi. Particularly if they're healing from a surgery or their range of motion is very limited, this is a wonderful place to begin. Then, moving forward, we recommend they choose a combination of two to three classes per week for maximum benefits."

Building strength and balance

Tai chi is unique in that offers a greater emphasis on improving balance than the traditional Arthritis Foundation exercise class, according to Constantine.

"Another element of Tai chi that's a little different than the land classes is that it focuses on balance and core muscle strength," she says. "For people who are at risk for falls, this class can help them with that."

The program also focuses on the concept of "mindful" movement, which Constantine says is beneficial to those with arthritis.

"Tai chi really forms a mind/body connection, and it's been shown to be excellent for the elderly because it has them focus on each extremity and each movement-this hand goes here and this one there. All movements are done smoothly, and it's a very good exercise approach for arthritis because you never over extend your joints."

The classes begin with a warm-up specified to tai chi, moving on to the program's core movements and ending with a proper cool-down.

"It's a very quiet, yet energizing experience and you tend to focus really inward on yourself," Constantine says. "If you come into the classroom and you're stressed, you're really going to leave those thoughts behind when you start tai chi."

The center chose to begin offering tai chi classes two years ago after receiving several requests from women who already enjoyed other exercise programs through the Women's Center.

"I love our Arthritis Foundation-affiliated programs because the foundation works on them for at least two or three years and shows through evidence-based data that they will be safe and improve people's function," she says.

Constantine points out that right now there aren't a lot of options in the community for women who want to take tai chi classes.

"There are classes in the park and in some senior homes, but mostly they're not for the general person," she says. "You can buy a DVD, but most people say they buy the DVD and then never play it because it's not fun to do it by themselves."

The fees for exercise programs like yoga and arthritis foundation exercise classes at the Women's Center are nominal and offer a level of quality that is hard to find elsewhere, according to Constantine. And other benefits of the Women's Center exercise programs are numerous.

"We run quality programs that offer smaller classes and excellent instructors. Plus, people feel comfortable in this environment. It's not competitive like a gym and they feel totally at ease with themselves. Most of the women who take our classes feel more confident and get a lot out of them.'

in California

SUBMITTED BY ANITA GORE

Following the normal seasonal pattern, influenza activity is on the rise in California and nationwide. Many California counties, and other states, are reporting patients who are critically ill with influenza, including healthy young adults.

The H1N1 strain appears to be the predominant strain circulating so far in California and in the rest of the United States this flu season. The H1N1 virus, which emerged during the 2009 pandemic, causes more illness in children and young adults, compared to older adults. It causes severe illness in all age groups, including those younger than 65 years of age. This year's influenza vaccine protects against the strains circulating in the state, including H1N1.

"It is not too late to get the flu vaccine," urged Dr. Ron Chapman, director of the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) and state health officer. "A yearly flu vaccine is the most important step in preventing influenza. It's important to remember that unlike other vaccine preventable diseases, it is necessary to get a flu shot every year."

The vaccine is available now. Once vaccinated, it takes approximately two weeks before you are fully protected against the flu. An influenza vaccine is especially important for pregnant women and other people at higher risk for severe influenza.

"It's impossible to predict the severity of a flu season, but the best way to prevent spread of the flu is to get vaccinated," said Dr. Chapman.

In addition to getting vaccinated, it's crucial to practice good health habits. If you become ill, you should take actions to stop the spread of germs, including:

Stay home when you are sick Cover your coughs and sneezes

Wash your hands with soap/water

Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth.

You can also protect your health by eating a nutritious diet and getting enough sleep. If you think you have influenza, contact your physician. Visit a flu vaccine location near you to get immunized. Some local health departments may also offer free or low-cost immunizations.

II Critical Home Inspection Traps to be Aware of Weeks Before Listing Your Home For Sale

East Bay, CA - According to industry experts, there are over 33 physical problems that will come under scrutiny during a home inspection when your home is for sale. A new report has been prepared which identifies the eleven most common of these problems, and what you should know about them before you list your home for sale.

Whether you own an old home or a brand new one, there are a number of things that can fall short of requirements during a home inspection. If not identified and dealt with, any of these 11 items could cost you dearly in terms of repair. That's why it's critical that you red this report before you list your home. If you wit until the building inspector flags these issues for you, you will almost certainly experience costly delays in the close of your home sale or, worse, turn prospective buyers away altogether. In most cases, you can make a reasonable pre-inspection yourself if you know what you're looking for, and knowing what you're looking for can help you prevent little problems from growing into costly and unmanageable ones.

To help homesellers deal with this issue before their homes are listed, a free report entitled "11 Things You Need to Know to Pass Your Home Inspection" has been complied which explains the issues involved.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

hen it comes to describing steering wheel hand position, driving instructors refer to the numerals on a clock to show where drivers should hold their hands on the wheel. Traditionally, holding hands at "10 and 2" has been the recommended position. However, the introduction of the air bag has led to a change in thinking. Now, the recommended positions to hold the hands are at 9 and 3, with the thumbs placed along the rim rather than hooked around it. The reason behind the change in hand position has to do with the notion that a deploying air bag could send the hands of "10and-2" positioned hands into the driver's head and possibly break his or her thumbs.

No matter how you hold your wheel, you want to make sure your steering is responsive and in good shape. At BAY STAR AUTO

CARE, our ASE Master-certified technicians provide the preventive care that you need to make sure your car stays in good condition. We provide the regular maintenance that can catch small problems before they become safety hazards that would require your airbags to deploy. And don't forget that we use ALLDATA, a computer file for auto techs that will help locate a particular problem. It is the industry leader in providing factory repair information which includes all the diagrams, repair information, and detailed technical service bulletins and recalls for your vehicle.

HINT: With the constant possibility of air-bag deployment, drivers should never rest their hands on the hub of the steering wheel.

Volkswagen Touareg Hybrid: That's a Hybrid?

By Steve Schaefer

Te are accustomed to thinking of hybrids as not only highly fuel efficient vehicles but also as relatively compact. So what to make of a hybrid that's classified as a light truck, stands five-foot-eight and weighs 5,135 pounds?

and Greenhouse Gas are 5's right in the center. And — premium fuel is recommended.

There is plenty of competition in the large, upscale SUV field. What the Touareg does, either in Hybrid form or alternately, with a 3.6-liter, 280-horsepower gas V6 or 3.0-liter, 240-horsepower TDI Diesel, is drive like a Volkswagen.

Over the past 21 years, Steve Schaefer has tested more than 1,000 cars and published a weekly story on every one. As a teenager, he visited car dealers' back lots to catch a glimpse of the new models as they first rolled off the transporter. He is a founding member of the Western Automotive Journalists. Contact Steve at sdsauto@sbcglobal.net.

The Volkswagen Touareg is the brand's large crossover SUV, and now in its second generation, is available in several models. The Hybrid version stands alone, at the top of the mountain, which, with standard 4Motion permanent all-wheel drive, it could surely ascend with ease.

As a typical hybrid, the Touareg pairs a gasoline engine with an electric motor. Like most hybrids, the two can work together, but also power the car independently, depending on circumstances. What makes this car such a rocket is that it mates a turbocharged 333-horsepower V6 with a 47-horsepower electric motor, driving through a sixspeed automatic transmission. That adds up to a whopping 380 horsepower and 428 lb.-ft. of torque. It's like getting a V8 with a V6 and a helper.

Alternately, if you're careful, you can drive along in pure electric mode at up to 31 miles per hour. I did that in town, and it's a rewarding sensation. I saw the big battery, in the back, squeezed under the cargo floor. They have to put it someplace, I guess. The car can carry 32 cubic feet of cargo behind the second row of seats, and doubles that to 64 when you drop those seats.

You've heard about 50-mileper-gallon Priuses (Prii), but the Touareg is not a super fuel sipper. It's rated at 20 City, 24 Highway (21 Combined) by the EPA, and I earned 20.5 mpg during my week. That's not bad for a two-and-ahalf-ton hauler, but hardly something worth jumping up and down about. The EPA's ratings for Smog

That means you feel the road, the controls have heft and accuracy, the design is clean and straightforward, and the materials and finish inside look and feel upscale.

There's no mistaking a VW outside these days. The body styling is a little bit conservative, but the 19-inch alloy wheels add a touch of bling to the sober sides. At least the car won't be radically out of style before you've made it through the payment book.

And, it had better be nice. Touareg prices start at $44,870 for the Sport model and ascend through Sport with Navigation, Lux, R-Line (new for 2014), and Executive. Each level adds more content and cost. But the Hybrid, above them all, goes for $65,045. That's a lot of Volkswagen!

My Tungsten Silver Metallic test unit featured sumptuous Black Anthracite leather seating and the upper-level RNS 850 audio/navigation system. It features a 3-D map view and a 60 GB hard drive, with 18 of those GB available for uploading media. I was impressed by the 180-mph speedometer, but didn't even use half of it. There's real wood trim inside, too.

Cars at this level are bristling with electronics, and this one included a rear-view camera with park distance control, Bluetooth, Sirius Satellite Radio, dual-zone climate control, and all the usual power features.

Above everything is a sprawl of humongous sunroof that measures 57 inches long and 39 inches wide. It made the whole roof feel like one big window, so the dark interior was only really dark at night. A translucent shade protects passengers from baking while riding around in the daytime.

The car is a hybrid, so you do get some chance to try to save fuel. The engine shuts off when stopped, such as waiting at a traffic light; it starts up immediately when you take your foot off the brake. Active diagrams on the large middle screen and a small, basic one in the middle of the instrument panel let you monitor what's going on.

Volkswagen is a German company, but its cars are built in many places around the world. My test Touareg was assembled in Bratislava, Slovakia, but featured an international cast of parts, including a Hungarian engine and a Japanese transmission. These origins had no apparent effect on the overall quality and solidity of

With its impressive size and breathtaking price tag, this is not a car for everyone. However, driving it makes you feel like you've hit the jackpot. And, with three years or 36,000 miles of free maintenance, you won't need to do anything but put gas in it for quite a while.

Avera to start matching pain killers with genetics

AP WIRE SERVICE

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP), Avera Health has started a procedure that uses a patient's DNA to help select medications to reduce pain after orthopedic surgery.

The practice is part of the growing field of personalized medicine, where a blood sample indicating genetic makeup can pinpoint drug treatments that will work and others that won't.

The Argus Leader reports (http://argusne.ws/1d4Djl4) Avera is doing it as a pilot project for patients who need shoulder, hip, knee and other orthopedic surgeries at two of its hospitals, Avera McKennan in Sioux Falls and Queen of Peace in Mitchell.

Avera hopes to expand it someday to its other hospitals in Yankton, Aberdeen, Pierre and Marshall, Minn., and to use it in other situations such as cancer care and heart surgery.

Tri-City – A new report has just been release which reveals 7 costly mistakes that most homeowners make when selling their home, and a 9 Step System that can help you sell your home fast and for the most amount of money.

This industry report shows clearly how the traditional ways of selling homes have become increasingly less and less effective in today's market. The fact of the matter is that nearly three quarters of homesellers don't get what they want for their home and become disillusioned and - worse - financially disadvantaged when they put their home on the market.

As this report uncovers, most homesellers make 7 deadly mistakes that cost them literally thousands of dollars. The good news is that each and every one of these mistakes is entirely preventable.

In answer to this issue, industry insiders have prepared a free special report entitled "The 9 Step System to Get Your Home Sold Fast and For Top Dollar".

Judge: Calif. must count rejected ballot petitions

AP WIRE SERVICE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP), - A judge in Sacramento has ordered the secretary of state's office to add about 5,000 signatures to the total submitted by supporters of a voter referendum that seeks to overturn a new California law guaranteeing certain rights to transgender students in public schools.

Sacramento County Superior Court Judge Allen Sumner issued a tentative ruling on Thursday directing Secretary of State Debra Bowen to "accept, file, and process as timely" the qualifying petitions the referendum's backers circulated in Mono

Bowen's office had refused to tally them, saying they were not turned in by a Nov. 10 deadline.

Sumner says that because Nov. 10 was a Sunday and the next day Veteran's Day, the law's opponents actually had until Tuesday, Nov. 12 to get their paperwork in.

Court to rule on television over Internet service

By Jesse J. Holland ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP), The Supreme Court will decide whether a startup company can offer live television broadcasts over the Internet without paying fees to broadcasters.

The high court agreed on Friday to hear an appeal from television broadcast networks in their attempt to shut down Aereo Inc., which takes free signals from the airwaves and sends them over the Internet to paying subscribers.

Broadcasters have sued Aereo for copyright infringement. The big networks have supplemented their advertising revenue with fees from cable and satellite TV companies for redistributing their stations to subscribers. If customers drop their pay-TV service and use Aereo, broadcasters would lose some of that revenue.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last year Aereo did not violate the copyrights of broadcasters with its service but a similar service has been blocked by other judges.

Aereo claims what it is doing is legal because it has thousands of tiny antennas at its data centers and assigns individual subscribers their own antenna. According to Aereo, that makes it akin to customers picking up free broadcast signals with a regular antenna at home.

Aereo's service starts at $8 a month and currently covers New York, Boston, Houston and Atlanta, among others. Subscribers get about two dozen local over-the-air stations, plus the Bloomberg TV financial channel.

"We believe that consumers have a right to use an antenna to access over-the-air television and to make personal recordings of those broadcasts," said Aereo CEO and founder Chet Kanojia. "The broadcasters are asking the Court to deny consumers the ability to use the cloud to access a more modern-day television antenna and DVR. If the broadcasters succeed, the consequences to consumers and the cloud industry are chilling."

Broadcasters have argued that the use of individual antennas is a mere technicality meant to circumvent copyright law and threatens their ability to produce marquee sports or awards show events, including the Academy Awards, the Grammys and the Super Bowl. CBS, Fox and Univision television networks are among those that say they might end their free broadcasts and become a subscription-only channel like CNN, Nickelodeon and Discovery if Aereo is successful.

We believe that Aereo's business model, and similar offerings that operate on the same principle, are built on stealing the creative content of others. We are pleased that our case will be heard and we look forward to having our day in court," CBS said in a statement.

A cable company took a middle ground on the issue. "Cablevision remains confident that while the Aereo service violates copyright, the Supreme Court will find persuasive grounds for invalidating Aereo without relying on the broadcasters' overreaching _ and wrong _ copyright arguments that challenge the legal underpinning of all cloud-based services," spokeswoman Lisa Anselmo said.

A New York City-based federal appeals court in 2008 ruled that Cablevision Systems Corp. could offer a remote DVR service without paying additional licensing fees to broadcasters because each playback transmission was made to a single subscriber using a single unique copy produced by that subscriber.

This comes as Aereo announced Tuesday that it has secured $34 million in additional funding from outside investors to help it expand beyond the 10 metropolitan areas it currently serves. It will also allow Aereo to develop apps for additional devices, such as Internet-connected TVs and game consoles and battle copyright-infringement lawsuits filed by broadcasters like the one before the Supreme Court.

Justice Samuel Alito is not taking part in the Aereo arguments but the court did not give a reason. The Aereo case was one of eight the court decided to grant Friday, most of which will be argued in April. Included in those are complaints by an antiabortion group in Ohio over a state law that bars false statements about political candidates or ballot initiatives and a labelling dispute between POM Wonderful and the Coca-Cola Co. over a pomegranate- and blueberry-flavored drink made up almost entirely of apple and grape juices.

The court also said it will take up an aspect of the long-running fight between Argentina and hedge funds that are trying to collect a billion-dollar judgment on debts stemming from the country's 2001 crisis. The new case centers on efforts by the hedge funds to locate where Argentina keeps assets in banks in the U.S. and around the world. Argentina is appealing a lower court ruling upholding subpoenas issued to two banks in New York.

The case is ABC, Inc. v. Aereo Inc., 13-461.

BlackRock agrees to stop analyst surveys

By DEEPTI HAJELA ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP), Asset manager BlackRock agreed to end a stock analyst survey program under an agreement that New York's top prosecutor on Thursday said was the result of a financial industry investigation into how the release of some Wall Street analyst information gives some investors an unfair advantage.

New York State Attorney General Eric Schneiderman said BlackRock's surveys would ask analysts about companies they followed and were frequently timed before the official release of publicly available opinions.

Under the program, BlackRock would combine survey responses with the publicly available analyst opinions to make investment decisions, Schneiderman said.

"To their credit, they recognized this was a problematic area and agreed to stop completely," Schneiderman said.

BlackRock didn't confirm or deny any of the attorney general's findings in making the agreement with Schneiderman's office. The company also agreed to pay $400,000 to cover the costs of the investigation and Schneiderman said BlackRock would be cooperating in the office's continuing investigation.

A call to BlackRock seeking comment was not immediately returned.

Schneiderman has made a cause of taking on what he has called "Insider Trading 2.0" - the release of extra or early information to some market players. Modern stock trading is dominated by automated computer systems that make trades in fractions of a second, and traders can profit from receiving data even milliseconds before its

In July, Schneiderman reached an agreement with Thomson Reuters in which the news and business information provider agreed to stop distributing results of consumer surveys a couple of seconds early to clients who paid for advanced access.

Massive Target breach could have lasting effects

By Anne D'Innocenzio and Michelle Chapman AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP), Fallout from Target's pre-Christmas security breach is likely to affect the company's sales and profits well into the new year.

The company disclosed on Friday that the massive data theft was significantly more extensive and affected millions more shoppers than the company reported in December. As a result of the breach, millions of Target customers have become vulnerable to identity theft, experts say.

The nation's second largest discounter said hackers stole personal information – including names, phone numbers as well as email and mailing addresses – from as many as 70 million customers as part of a data breach it discovered last month.

Target announced on Dec. 19 that some 40 million credit and debit card accounts had been affected by a data breach that happened between Nov. 27 and Dec. 15 – just as the holiday shopping season was getting into gear. As part of that announcement, the company said customers' names, credit and debit card numbers, card expiration dates, debit-card PINs and the embedded code on the magnetic strip on the back of cards had been stolen.

According to new information gleaned from its investigation with the Secret Service and the Department of Justice, Target said Friday that criminals also took non-credit card related data for some 70 million shoppers who could have made purchases at Target stores outside the late Nov. to mid-Dec. timeframe.

Some overlap exists between the two data sets, the company said.

The revelations mean more than 70 million people may have had their data stolen. And when the company releases a final tally, the theft could become the largest data breach on record for a retailer, surpassing an incident uncovered in 2007 that saw more than 90 million records pilfered from TJX Cos. Inc.

The latest developments come as Target said that just this week it was starting to see sales recover from the crisis. The company, however, cut its earnings outlook for the quarter that covers the crucial holiday season and warned that sales would be down for the period.

But with the latest news, some analysts believe the breach could be a financial drag on the company for several more quarters.

"This is going to linger like a black cloud over the company's financials for the first half of the year," said Brian S. Sozzi, CEO & chief equities strategist at Belus Capital Advisors.

Meanwhile, the Attorney General from New York announced that it is participating in an investigation into the security breach. Attorney General Eric T. Schneiderman called the latest news "deeply troubling."

Molly Snyder, a Target spokesman, told The Associated Press that she didn't have new details to share about how the data breach was conducted. The company has only said that its point-of sale system in its U.S. stores was compromised.

"I know that it is frustrating for our guests to learn that this information was taken and we are truly sorry they are having to endure this," said Gregg Steinhafel, Target chairman, president and CEO, in a statement.

Target investors have been largely unmoved by the company's disclosures. Target's stock, while volatile, has traded at about $63 since news of the breach leaked on Dec. 18. It slipped just 72 cents, or more than 1 percent, to $62.62 in trading Friday.

But some observers believe the stock could get battered if consumers stay away from Target stores. Several Wall Street analysts downgraded their earnings forecasts for the retailer on Friday.

Colleen McCarthy, 26, of Cleveland, Ohio, is among those who are avoiding Target. McCarthy used her Chase debit card at a local Target on the Friday after Thanksgiving and received a notice from Chase a few days after news of the breach first broke. The letter identified her as a potential victim of the Target breach but said, "don't worry." At the time, she was only somewhat concerned.

But Monday night McCarthy received a call from Chase, alerting her that someone tried to use her debit account twice in Michigan. The thief cleared $150, which caused her rent check to bounce. Chase restored the money to her account. "This has been a nightmare," she said. "My rent check bounced. My debit card had to be canceled. And who's to say what other people have access to my information?"

Target tried to woo scared shoppers back to stores on the last weekend before Christmas with a 10 percent discount on nearly everything in its stores. Target is also offering a year of free credit monitoring and identity theft protection to customers that shopped at its stores.

Still, some experts believe the company should do more.

"Target is in a critical situation with consumers because its credibility and brand loyalty are being questioned," said David E. Johnson, CEO of Strategic Vision, LLC, which specializes in crisis communications.

"Right now, investors think Target can weather the storm. But the longer it gets worse, the worse it is for Target."

Johnson says Target needs to rebuild shoppers' trust. He believes Target needs to air TV commercials assuring them that it's safe to shop in its stores. It also should offer more incentives like deeper discounts to woo consumers, Johnson said.

Clearly, Target shoppers were scared off during the holiday season, when stores can make roughly 20 percent to 40 percent of their annual revenue.

The Minneapolis company also said that it now foresees fourth-quarter sales at stores open at least a year will be down about 2.5 percent. It previously predicted those sales would be about flat.

This figure is a closely-watched indicator of a retailer's health.

Target cautioned that its fourthquarter financials may include charges related to the data breach. The chain said the costs tied to the breach may have a material adverse effect on its quarterly results as well as future periods.

The company has 1,921 stores, with 1,797 locations in the U.S. and 124 in Canada.

Critics unite against Brown's bullet train funding

By Juliet Williams
Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP),Gov. Jerry Brown's proposal to redirect $250 million from California's landmark effort to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and spend it instead on his beleaguered bullet train has renewed debate about the future of the contentious project.

In defending that part of the budget proposal he released this week, Brown pitched the $68 billion rail line as the perfect way to unite a fractured state and help California "pull together to form a greater community."

His proposal does appear to be uniting many lawmakers and interest groups, but perhaps not in the way the governor intended. Some Democrats who have supported high-speed rail have joined their Republican colleagues in rejecting Brown's funding idea, and environmental groups are lukewarm at best on it.

They say the money should be used to improve California's air quality today and not go to a project that is decades away from being finished, if it is ever built at all.

The project has been dogged by setbacks in recent months. In November, a Sacramento County Superior Court judge rescinded the rail authority's funding plan, ordering it to get more environmental clearances and show how it will pay for the first 300 miles of work, agreeing that the voter-approved initiative that authorized funding for the bullet train required it. That segment alone is projected to cost $31 billion.

The judge also blocked the further sale of some $9 billion in bonds that were approved in the 2008 ballot measure, money the state had planned to use to start work in the Central Valley.

Brown has been steadfast in his efforts to keep the high-speed rail dream alive.

On Thursday, he compared the project to building the Golden Gate Bridge, the transcontinental railroad and the Panama Canal, all of which he said faced "criticisms, skepticism and attack."

"It reduces greenhouse gases, it ties our California together. We are divided in many respects: north and south, the coast and the center of the state. We have to pull together to form a greater community, and the high-speed rail serves all of those functions," Brown told reporters during Thursday's budget briefing.

Republican lawmakers pounced on the idea to take money from the cap-and-trade fund, which comes from fees paid by industries participating in California's new market on carbon emissions.

Assemblyman Jeff Gorell, R-Camarillo, vice chairman of the Assembly Budget Committee, called it inappropriate to spend that money "on this doomed project." Sen. Andy Vidak, R-Hanford, said "hijacking cap-and-trade dollars to fund high-speed rail is clearly a desperate measure."

On Friday, Gorell filed language for a proposed ballot initiative that would ask voters to repeal the bonds they had approved to pay for the bullet train.

The proposal contained in Brown's budget blueprint would spend another $600 million from the cap-and-trade fund on energy efficiency, transportation and water infrastructure projects. While those priorities are generally viewed favorably by Democrats and environmental groups, they had a tepid reaction to allotting $250 million to keep the high-speed rail project moving.

It also is just a tiny fraction of the overall price tag for high-speed rail, currently at $68 billion. Senate President Pro Tem Darrell Steinberg, D-Sacramento, said he would seek "a very robust legal analysis" of the proposal.

Assemblyman Rich Gordon, a Democrat from Menlo Park, where residents are suing the High-Speed Rail Authority, said the money should be "put to immediate use by investing in shovel-ready greenhouse gas emissions reduction projects," rather than high-speed rail.

The controversy stems partly from the intended mission of the cap-and-trade program, which is to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and help the state meet an air quality improvement goal by 2020. For that reason, many environmental groups that support the rail project also oppose diverting cap-and-trade money to it.

"We still have an opportunity to make a difference on how bad climate change will be. And the way you do that will be to take all of the available resources, you spend them now on things that get you reductions now," said Kathryn Phillips, director of Sierra Club California. ``If this had been a choice between the Golden Gate Bridge and you had the opportunity to stop typhoid at that very moment, I think the people of San Francisco would've stopped typhoid."

Likewise, the Greenlining Institute does not oppose the rail project but will push law-makers to devote cap-and-trade money to transit operations, spokesman Bruce Mirken said. The organization sponsored successful legislation two years ago requiring that a quarter of the greenhouse gas revenue be targeted to low-income and minority communities most affected by pollution.

"High-speed rail would not have been on our priority list," Mirken said.

There also are questions about whether the money can legally be spent for high-speed rail. The state Legislative Analyst's Office has said that although the system would eventually reduce emissions, the construction and operation would cause more pollution than it would cut for decades.

Supporters note that the California Air Resources Board, which is responsible for implementing the greenhouse gas reduction law, has continued to include high-speed rail as a component in reaching its 2020 goal.

Brown seems committed to making it happen. In releasing his budget plan this week, he said the nation's leaders are not thinking big enough and that California should lead the way as a ``generator of dreams and great initiatives."

"I think the high-speed rail fits into that, and I think the cap-and-trade is a very good source for that," he said. "It's coming right from sources of pollution and going right to reduce pollution."

Flu spreads in California; 7 deaths confirmed

AP WIRE SERVICE

LOS ANGELES (AP), Seven people have died from the flu so far this season, and more people are ending up in the hospital than expected as flu season ramps up, state health officials said Friday.

The California Department of Public Health said flu activity is now considered widespread, though it's too soon to know if this year will be severe.

Flu season in the state typically peaks in February or March, but state health officials said they're already seeing deaths and hospitalizations slightly earlier than usual.

The number of deaths is "rising rapidly," state epidemiologist Dr. Gil Chavez said.

Besides the seven confirmed deaths, officials were investigating an additional 28 deaths to determine if the flu is to blame.

All victims were under 65 years old, and none of this season's flu deaths so far were children. The state does not keep track of flu deaths among the elderly, who are most vulnerable to flu and its complications.

The dominant strain appears to be H1N1, which mostly affects young and middle-aged people. Of the seven who died, six were infected with the swine flu strain, health offi-

In 2009, a swine flu pandemic killed at least 150,000 people worldwide, including more than 600 in California.

Chavez said the latest vaccine is a match to the types of viruses that are circulating and urged people to get immunized before it's too late.

On Friday, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported that at least 35 states are seeing an uptick in flu symptoms.

"Bargain Fever: How to Shop in a

Discounted World" by Mark Ellwood

You thought you'd never reach the door.

There you were, day after Thanksgiving, three o'dark a.m., and the Black Friday line stretched a mile in front of you.

What, exactly, possessed you to get out of your warm bed to stand in line? Was it the sale, the thrill of the hunt, or something else? Read the new book "Bargain Fever" by Mark Ellwood, and you could say it's all in your head...

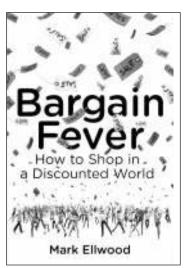

The last time you went to the store, it may've seemed like there were a dozen new products on the shelves. That's entirely possible, actually: since World War II, in supermarkets alone, the number of individual items has increased "more than tenfold."

Your brain loves that – to a point. When you shop, particularly when bargains are involved, dopamine floods your gray matter, giving you a rush of excitement. But that can backfire: if discounts are too frequent, dopamine highs are lessened.

Retailers and manufacturers know that, and they have ways to override your blasé brain. Shoppers are increasingly becoming savvy, though; we're getting better at "spotting the trick first." We're learning to fight back.

Take coupons, for instance.

In 2010, consumers saved almost $2 billion by using coupons. More than sixty percent of U.S. households use them today, including upper-income shoppers. Entire industries (and reality TV) are based on little pieces of paper - and so, alas, is an increasing amount of crime and fraud.

But money-saving doesn't stop with snip of scissor. You can join one of those savings websites, and hope a big enough group wants to join you in a deal. If you know how to do it right, you can save scads of money on flights, hotels, clothing and shoes (even highend designer kicks). Savvy realtors know how to wring more cash from a buyer, and buyers are learning to negotiate. And on that note, we're frequently discovering that a haggle is no hassle.

In the meantime, merchants have learned to utilize our "purchase history" for better marketing. They've learned that we hate nomarkdown stores. And they know that there's no going back: bargainhunting is definitely here to stay.

Can't pass up a good sale? Are the words "marked down" like a balm on your soul? Then open your wallet. You won't be able to resist "Bargain Fever," either.

With the gossipy tone of a sure insider and the info to match, author Mark Ellwood pokes around retail shelves and e-stores to teach us why we shop, how we buy, and why the rules are constantly changing for both seller and shopper. The facts that Elwood shares are fascinating and the secrets he spills are fun to know.

And that's what makes this book so darn good: it's got something for everybody here, no matter which side of the cash register you're on, and no matter how much money you budget for shopping... that is, if you budget at all. Either way, if you plan to spend money anywhere this holiday season, "Bargain Fever" is a book to reach for first. c.2013, Penguin Portfolio $26.95 / $28.50 Canada 278 pages

Artist chosen for San Lorenzo Library Expansion Project

SUBMITTED BY GUY ASHLEY

The Alameda County Arts Commission is pleased to announce that artist Stephen Galloway has been recommended by a selection committee to create the public artwork associated with the San Lorenzo Library Expansion Project. Galloway was selected by a committee including five San Lorenzo residents plus Library staff and a regional art professional. The committee selected Galloway through an open, competitive process. They interviewed five artists who created proposals for the project. The committee also reviewed and discussed the comments collected from 134 community members. The five artists' proposals were on display for public comment for three weeks at the Library and the San Lorenzo Village Homeowners' Association, as well as online.

As part of the expansion project, the public artwork includes images printed onto the glass of 16 tall windows in the new construction as well as other surfaces in the existing part of the building. The artwork on the windows will be viewable from both inside and outside of the library. Galloway's artwork is made from photographs of San Lorenzo and the neighboring areas. In his proposal he says the images are "impressions and ideas, reflections of what this place feels like." The imagery includes vistas and landscapes and references to the area's agricultural past. The compositions are tied together through images of a sycamore tree canopy which is continued throughout the windows.

Galloway's proposal can be viewed online at: http://www.acgov.org/arts/pdfs/S Galloway_Proposal_SLZ_web.pd f. For more information about the public artwork, contact the Alameda County Arts Commission at (510) 208-9646.

Relay For Life Rally

SUBMITTED BY LISA VALENCIA

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Hayward Committee is holding a Rally at the San Felipe Community Center in Hayward, on Wednesday, January 15, to share the importance of Relay For Life in saving lives from cancer. A mini-Relay experience will be created with stations to stop by and learn more about the American Cancer Society's programs and services.

Relay For Life is the signature event of the American Cancer Society. It is a fun-filled, overnight event that mobilizes communities throughout the country to celebrate survivors (anyone who has ever been diagnosed with cancer), remember loved ones and raise money for the fight against cancer.

"Relay For Life is as much an awareness raiser about the progress against cancer as it is a fundraiser," said Ashley Clemens for the American Cancer Society. "Individuals who are willing to give their time and energy to this exciting event, as a volunteer or participant, have made a commitment to fight back against this disease and let the community know that you can beat cancer."

Teams of eight to 15 members gather with tents and sleeping bags to participate in the largest fundraising walk in the nation. Relay For Life brings together friends, families, businesses, hospitals, schools and churches.

Teams seek sponsorship prior to the Relay, all with the goal of eliminating cancer. Volunteers are needed to organize and recruit teams, seek community support, coordinate logistics, find refreshments and prizes, plan entertainment, and lend their support in any way.

Congratulations to National Blue Ribbon Award schools

It is with great admiration that I congratulate the students, staff, faculty and administrators at Joshua Chadbourne Elementary School in Fremont. They continue to dedicate themselves to academic excellence within the classroom, as well as within the community. This devotion to hard work has led the 'Chadbourne Pioneers' to become a nationally recognized Blue Ribbon School.

Along with Superintendent James Morris, the entire Fremont Unified School District Board of Education and Principal Anette Raichbart, I join in celebrating this outstanding achievement by this remarkable local school. The National Blue Ribbon Schools Program has recognized over 7,000 public and private elementary, middle, and high schools since the program's founding. One of 286 schools honored nationwide for 2013, Joshua Chadbourne Elementary School is just one of 15 schools recognized within California, including Jensen Ranch Elementary School Jaguars in Castro Valley [Principal Melodie Stibich, Castro Valley Unified School District Superintendent Jim Negri] also within the 10th State Senate District.

I am always pleased to recognize the dedication and hard work of local students, parents, educators and administrators that help enrich schools within the 10th State Senate District. These students will eventually graduate and trailblaze new paths throughout the East Bay and the nation, making us all so very proud of their many successes. Go Pioneers! Go Jaguars!

How can a small school you have never heard of be better choice for your child than a large one that you hear about all of the time?

Alsion is a small school, with a full time faculty of five highly qualified teachers serving a junior high community of only 48 students. As you might expect from a school with student/teacher ratio 10 to 1, students receive more personal attention than at a larger institution. However, among small schools, Alsion stands out in two important respects.

First, Alsion is a Montessori program for adolescent age students. We recognize children between the ages of 11 and 15 have developmental challenges ("Raging hormones", impulsive behavior, boundless energy, peer group loyalty, etc.) that must be channeled in constructive ways. Each of our teachers completed formal postgraduate study in understanding adolescents and guiding them toward successful maturity. At Alsion each teacher in a five-member team engages with every student in the school every day, all during the three years a student is enrolled here. We have an exceptional insight into each child, who he or she is, and what is likely to unlock his or her potential.

Second, we assume parents want their child to have an edge in college admission. In this respect, Alsion offers a unique advantage. We are located adjacent to Ohlone Community College Mission San Jose campus.

Upon completion of 9th grade, Alsion

Early College students are co-enrolled at the College, where they can earn up to 72 units of college credit transferrable to the University of California. Historically, three out of four Alsion Early College graduates have been accepted for admission to UC. This is an outstanding college placement track record for any school regardless of size or reputation.

Our success in college placement is also due to Alsion's full time college guidance counselor/ Advanced Placement English instructor. His services are spread among only twenty students rather than hundreds, as typical of the larger, better known schools. At the Ohlone he is the Alsion student's advocate among the College's professors and administrators.

To answer my initial question, Alsion is a better choice for your child because he or she will be better supported, both as a middle school adolescent and as a college bound high school student, than anywhere else.

First Lego League Challenge event begins

SUBMITTED BY JILL WILKER

Creativity and science will come together at the FIRST® LEGO® League (FLL®) NorCal East Bay Championship Tournament being held at Newark Memorial High School on Sunday, January 19. Teams of 9 to 14 year-old children will demonstrate their problem-solving skills, creative thinking, teamwork, competitive play, sportsmanship, and sense of community.

Events are free and open to the public to attend. All are invited to come out and watch the robot game rounds and talk to the teams about their solution to a problem caused by one or more natural disasters.

The NorCal Championship tournaments are sponsored by Google, Intel and organized by Playing At Learning.

This year's "NATURE'S FURY" Challenge calls for teams to research and present their own creative solutions to one of today's most relevant topics: natural disasters. Teams will discover what can be done when intense natural events meet the places people live, work, and play.

With game missions such as positioning an evacuation sign, clearing an airplane's runway from debris, and delivering supplies, teams will have to program their LEGO MINDSTORMS® robots to solve a set of missions on an obstacle course set on a thematic LEGO-based playing surface.

For the NATURE'S FURY Challenge, FLL collaborated with organizations such as the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), the Red Cross, the National Weather Service, and other specialists to create a theme and challenge missions that reflect real-world issues.

During the FLL competition, teams are evaluated in several areas: project presentation; technical design and programming of the robot; and teamwork, and overall FLL Core Values. The highest honor, the Champion's Award, will go to the team that best exemplifies the spirit and values of the program and is the best overall team.

Letter to the Editor

Mental and Physical Health

A successful student is well rounded: mentally, intellectually, and physically sound. However more commonly, as students grow older, physical activity and health often recedes into the shadows. Becoming so preoccupied with preparing for the future, namely college for high school students, physical health is often disregarded as of lesser importance as studies take priority over physical fitness. This perception is only heightened by the widespread opinion that students are invincible because of their youth. Moreover mental health is regarded with negative connotations because of the stereotypes often associated with it.

Nevertheless, as stated previously, a successful student is mentally, intellectually, and physically healthy. It is the delicate balance of all three components that constitute and prepare the youth to be the next leaders, thinkers, and innovators of the future. Not only does this foundation result in intellectual health and success, but it moreover builds and shapes the mindset, values, and lifestyles of the generations to come.

Mental health involves social, emotional, and spiritual wellbeing. It provides individuals with the energy and vivacity to formulate and pursue goals and to interact with each other respectfully. To promote mental health in the Fremont community, reinforce positive behaviors and decision making, create a sense of belonging, and encourage physical fitness. Reinforcing positive behaviors and decision making encourages constructive social interactions and conflict resolution. A sense of belonging results in the formation of positive relationships based on trust and care. And physical fitness provides for an outlet in which individuals can release negative emotions and stress.

Furthermore physical health and fitness promotes bodily health and decision making. Physical fitness trains not only one's body but also one's mind and determination. It teaches individuals to take responsibility and concentrate at the task at hand.

Mental and physical health is a significant influence in growth and maturation. They not only set the tone for healthy living, but also affect decision making and study habits. Thus we must emphasize and encourage not only intellectual success, but all three spheres of success: intellectual, mental, and physical health.

Philip Milton Lehrman Beloved teacher, innovator and friend

Philip Milton Lehrman was born into two religious traditions in Denver, Colo. – the Swedish Lutheran Church and Judaism — that, at the time, had little regard for one another. When he died Jan. 1, 2014, at age 85 in Hayward, Calif., a third had won his heart.

Lehrman became an elder in the Melchizedek Priesthood in 2011 after being baptized in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints one year earlier. Lehrman, who embraced study and service throughout his life, visited families to share the monthly message and helped provide for their needs.

In later life he also treasured his reconnection with his Jewish roots and cousins around the country, a linkage spurred by the 1986 centennial celebration of the family's immigration from Russia to America.

Lehrman's friends remember his talent for teaching, whether it be math or real estate.

He lectured at Cogswell Polytechnical College, Diablo Valley College and Western Nevada College. He combined meticulous attention to detail with curiosity about the world and the many people he met.

Friends also smile at his love of dancing, which he taught in his youth at the famed Rainbow Ballroom in Denver and continued into his last months as a member of the Cabrillo Dance Club at Ashland Holy Ghost Association Hall and Five Spot at the Hayward Castro Valley Moose Lodge. He served in the Cabrillo Civic Club and Lion's Club.

He did break rules, sometimes to his daughters' delight – when, for instance, he concealed the family dog in a wriggling cloth suitcase in order to sneak their pet into a snooty four-star hotel.

Lehrman graduated from the University of Colorado, Boulder, earning a bachelor of science in architectural engineering in 1951. After working on federal government projects in Denver, he moved to San Francisco as a district engineer for Shell Oil Co. Later he focused primarily on real estate management and appraisal, also becoming an independent business owner in retail liquor and home security. An innovator, he foresaw the nation's demographic changes and syndicated his own radio show from Las Vegas, Nev., called Voice of Seniors.

Lehrman is survived by his daughter, Sally and her husband, Tom; and his companion of 12 years, Marjorie Sparaco. Services will be held at 10 a.m., Saturday, January 18 at the LDS Chapel at 26101 Gading Rd., Hayward. Lehrman's life was characterized by the ups and downs of bipolar disorder, and donations in his memory can be made to the Depression and Bipolar Support Alliance.

Associate degrees for transfer students

SUBMITTED BY MIKE UHLENKAMP

The state's new streamlined transfer program developed by California Community Colleges and California State University now offers 1,000 associate degrees for transfer in a wide variety of disciplines, making it easier for students to transfer to CSU and earn a bachelor's degree.

California Community Colleges Chancellor Brice W. Harris praised the academic senates from both systems for working diligently to develop the new degrees offered at the system's 112 colleges in a way that properly aligns course requirements for smoother transfer.

"Development of 1,000 degrees over a two year period is an astonishing feat," Harris said. "These degrees guarantee admission to CSU, and students are quickly finding this is an attractive path for transfer. This program makes both systems run more efficiently and will go a long way in helping California meet its need for more college-educated workers."

The Associate Degree for Transfer program allows community college students who complete an Associate in Arts for Transfer or an Associate in Science for Transfer degree with 60 units (two years) priority admission to a CSU program similar to the community college major as determined by CSU. Once admitted to CSU, students only have to complete an additional 60 units to earn a bachelor's degree.

For more information about the transfer program and hear from students who have already earned these degrees and made the jump to CSU, visit http://adegreewithaguarantee.com.

Tri-City Stargazer January 15 – January 21, 2013 By Vivian Carol

For All Signs: The planets Venus and Mars were aligned in April of 2013. Venus, the ancient goddess of love, carries broad feminine and romantic symbolism. Mars is the warrior god and prevails over masculine territory. That alignment suggests the conclusion of one relationship and the beginning of another. Alternatively the conjunction speaks of the beginning and ending of episodes or cycles within a single relationship. On a clock, it would look like 12:00 with both big and little hands in the same place. The hand that moves faster, changes in relationship to its partner. This week Venus has moved into the first quarter square to Mars (in the analogy, it would be 12:15). This marks a time to evaluate the development of what began in April. By now it has come to a point of tweaking; direction may have drifted from the intended purpose. That shift could be a purely creative outcome or perhaps potholes that need to be repaired. The "relationship" can be gender oriented or a singular piece of creative work. Think about what began for you last spring. Don't remain rigid or you might strangle it.

April 20): Check the lead paragraph because Mars is your planetary ruler. At this time you are being asked to invest more deeply into a relationship. The other wants more from you. This could be measured in money, time, energy, or willingness to be intimate. It can be either a personal relationship or business. Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): This is not your best week for getting along with others on the playground or at home. Even if you keep to yourself, you may attract those who want to take pokes at you. Don't get caught in a battle of wills. The energies are short-lived, no more than a few days, and you can return to harmony.

Aries the Ram (March 21-

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Early in the week, you will have particularly bright and creative ideas. Keep a notepad nearby so you can catch them on paper before they evaporate. Whatever you do, in relation to communications or education, is favored. Your wit is sharp and quick.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-

July 21): You may experience a boost of spirit during this period. It could come in the form of a muse who encourages you to pursue some form of art, music, or automatic writing. Perhaps you have an unusually strong connection to the Spirit of your understanding and a deepening of faith. Relationships with children are positive.

Leo the Lion (July 22-Aug

22): Use the early part of the week to clear the decks and complete projects. On the 19th you will be struck with an important shift of your attention in the arena of relationship(s). This episode may require that you transform yourself or your beliefs about that relationship in order to create a positive resolution for both you and the other.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You have had a need to make significant changes in your daily life in order to enhance your personal health. This may include a change of work venue or organizing your schedule in order to give more attention to your health. An opportunity to try out something new opens a door to a new idea in this area. Step through it for a fresh breath of health.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Your love of luxury and fine things may cause a battle with your partner, who prefers to keep the belt tightened. This reflects a genuine inner conflict. A fairly strong part of you also wants to play it safe as well. Look for a way to satisfy your wants a little more inexpensively.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Old issues may rise to the surface and cause you to become angry all over again. Maybe you simply have to replay this scenario, but don't attack, lest you be sorry afterward. Take especially good care of vehicles and use care in driving. Your reflexes are not at their best right now.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): There are others in the world around you who are at odds or in conflict. On the surface of things, it appears this has nothing to do with you. But somehow it affects you and prevents forward motion. Let people resolve things for themselves and make no effort to push them along, lest you become a target.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): Intensity in relationships is the theme of the week. If you are not conscious, you could be pulled into schemes of manipulation or compulsive behaviors. Existing relationships could re-experience the pain of old wounds. You have a choice of whether to work it through differently or act it out in the same ways as the first time.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): You have an idea or a plan. Maybe it would be better to say this thought has you because there are, potentially, elements of obsession involved. You are absolutely certain you are right. Expand your point of view to include others. Would other people also benefit from this plan?

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): You have a green light related to any of the following: legal, educational, and publishing matters; the Internet; an increased sense of connection to your faith and the God of your understanding; and help from the muse wherever it is needed. Social and mundane matters will beckon your attention, but the best choice is to follow the muse.

OPINION

recently attended an unusually well-attended board meeting of the Alameda County Water District (ACWD). The focus of the audience was on a sizeable proposed rate increase for customers. Although sensitive to complaints and the hardship imposed on citizens burdened with increasing bills, especially those with low incomes, escalating rates were a foregone conclusion.

Unfortunately, the most revealing part of the meeting was held after almost all of the audience left to rejoin their families at home. While understandable, this is a typical scenario at many meetings of public entities. Often lengthy, attendance at many public meetings requires quite a bit of fortitude from a small or usually nonexistent cadre of unpaid observers and a scattering of paid media representatives intent on scavenging a story or two. Since morning or afternoon meetings are sparsely attended by the public due to work or other family commitments, even with computer access to internet archives, it takes a special group of folks to watch what is going on. Such inattention comes at a cost.

Price vs. Cost

Agenda items, unless well publicized in advance or of high interest, are often lost within the milieu of business processed and as a result, many factors relating to the cost of government and use of tax-fueled resources are obscured. At the ACWD meeting, board and staff members spoke through a variety of opinions about factors that relate to safe and efficient water delivery to their customers. It was a shame that most people were unable or unwilling to view these and other such discussions that often take place in almost empty rooms. Along with an understanding of these factors, comes an opportunity for creative solutions from not only staff and board members, but the public as well. Knowledge and understanding are the first steps to finding solutions.

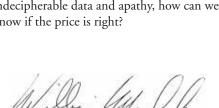

ACWD board and staff acknowledged that informing the public of what and how their organization operates is paramount to good relationships with customers. The same can be said for any goods or services provided by the public sector. Although difficult to adequately cover such proceedings, lack of oversight has, at times, resulted in horrendous examples of waste and malfeasance. We, the public, cannot afford the price of ignorance and inattention. On the other hand, when citizen attention is focused on highly visible aspects without regard for mundane, yet critical components, the price of services can quickly escalate to unacceptable levels. Information and education of the electorate are key elements to honest and fair government. As media attention shifts from thoughtful, in depth coverage to salacious headlines, citizen involvement is more important than ever.

In an attempt to educate young citizens about the workings of local government, schools (and organizations such as Boy Scouts) require students to observe civic affairs. Usually, however, this is an isolated, single exercise designed to introduce young citizens to a city council meeting without significant context. Preparation and understanding may be lacking since these young observers attend meetings with minimal preparation that may actually lead to misinterpretation of the reality of what they see and hear. Misinterpretation and misunderstanding of their role in representative government can be the result. Attendance at meetings and communication with councilmembers by teachers assigning these studies is probably nonexistent. The result is an institutional continuation of indifference and negligence. Is there significant connection between school teachers and government institution personnel? Are we preparing young citizens to participate and strengthen our government?

The price of any government is directly related to a myriad of cost items that accumulate under the umbrella of departments and budget considerations. In an open society, it is imperative that all of us pay attention or we can easily lose our freedom. When the cost of these items is lost within a heap of indecipherable data and apathy, how can we know if the price is right?

TAKES FROM SILICON VALLEY EAST

Fremont Rings in the New Year

By Fred Diaz, City Manager

A new year typically means a new start. Well, we certainly made the most of that new start. The City of Fremont was recently ranked the second Best Run City in the nation by 24/7 Wall St.

Rising from last year's fifth place spot, Fremont was found to be the wealthiest large U.S. city. With the highest median income at more than $100,000 per household (nearly double the national income average) and the lowest poverty rate of 6.7 percent (less than half the national rate), we can't help but be proud of Fremont's smart, hardworking residents.

Fremont also continues to make its name as an innovation hub for advanced manufacturing. With companies like Tesla and LAM Research leading the pack, the study found that a whopping 17.5 percent of workers in Fremont are employed in manufacturing – one of the highest percentages in the nation!

Fremont was the only Silicon Valley city (as well as Northern California city) to make the top 10, ranking just behind Irvine, Calif.

munity Survey. Categories evaluated include income/poverty levels, graduation rates, health insurance coverage, the change in home values between 2008 and 2012, un-

And that's not all. Fremont is also a safe and productive place to live. The City was ranked the third lowest large city for violent crimes, and the unemployment rate was only 6.5 percent.

The annual ranking of "The Best and Worst Run Cities in America" by 24/7 Wall St. looks at data from a number of sources for the 100 largest cities in the country, as measured by population figures from the U.S. Census Bureau's 2012 American Community Survey. Categories evaluated include income/poverty levels, graduation rates, health insurance coverage, the change in home values between 2008 and 2012, unemployment rates, debt ratings, violent crime rates, gross metropolitan product data, and foreclosure rates. Once sources are reviewed and final metrics compiled, 24/7 Wall St. ranks each city based on its performance in all the categories.

2014 has barely begun, and we're already seeing big things happening. We can't wait to see what else this year has in store for Fremont.

About Takes From Silicon Valley East

TheDailyBeast called Fremont the 2nd best U.S. city for innovation. Whether it's manufacturing, clean tech, Fremont or the Silicon Valley scene itself, we're telling the stories that are advancing business here.

Armed robbery suspects sentenced

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

During the late evening hours of November 12, 2010 a series of three armed robberies occurred at ATM machines in Fremont, Newark and Union City. In each of the incidents a group of three male suspects approached the victim while they were using an ATM machine. The suspects pointed a gun directly at the victim and demanded money. During one of the robberies, the suspects physically beat the victim when he refused to comply with their demands.

The case was jointly investigated by Robbery Detectives of the Fremont Police Department and the Union City Police Department. During the investigation it was discovered that the same three suspects also committed a robbery at Chris' Jewelers store in Fremont on November 16, 2010. Investigative leads, physical evidence and witness statements led to three suspects being identified as: - Roderick Lane (22 year old male; Oakland resident)

- Korey Haulcy (25 year old male; Union City resident)

- Michael Fletcher (18 year old male; San Leandro resident)

At the time of the robberies Lane and Haulcy were both on Parole for a prior robbery conviction.

In late November of 2010, Roderick Lane and Korey Haulcy were arrested by members of the Fremont Police Department. Michael Fletcher was also arrested at a later date, in connection with the robberies. All three suspects were charged with multiple counts of robbery at the Fremont Courthouse. All remained in custody until they were convicted of robbery related offenses relating to this series. The charges and convictions are as follows:

On May 17, 2012, Michael Fletcher was found guilty of robbery and sentenced to 18 months in county jail (Hayward Courthouse).

On April 3, 2013, Korey Haulcy was found guilty of robbery and grand theft and sentenced to ten (10) years in prison (Hayward Courthouse).

Lastly, on January 8, 2014, Roderick Lane was found guilty of robbery and grand theft and sentenced to ten (10) years in prison (Hayward Courthouse).

Arson suspected in Fremont fire

SUBMITTED BY CAPT. DANIEL CARDENAS, FREMONT FD

Fremont Fire Department responded on January 7, 2014 to a reported fire alarm sounding at the Century Village Apartments, 41299 Paseo Padre Parkway. Upon arrival of the first engine company, an audible alarm bell was sounding at this apartment complex. Occupants had evacuated from their units. A working fire was declared in a second floor laundry room causing approximately $1,500 to the structure and $1,500 to contents. The apartment complex had sprinklers installed recently which managed to keep the fire confined to the laundry room. Fire companies were able to quickly extinguish a fire still burning within a washing machine. Once the fire was completely out, occupants were allowed to return to their apartment. Fremont Fire Department responded with seven equipment and 17 personnel.

A fire investigator was requested and determined the fire to be arson.

Robbery at Citibank

SUBMITTED BY SGT DAVE MORRIS, MILPITAS PD

On December 19, 2013, at 12:01 P.M., Milpitas Police Department officers responded to Citibank for a robbery that just occurred. The suspect entered the bank and presented a teller with a demand note. The teller complied, gave the suspect the money, and he fled the scene. The suspect was last seen running southbound across Calaveras Blvd. Milpitas Police officers canvassed the area but the suspect was not located.

The bank robbery suspect was described as a Caucasian male, 5'-8" or 5'-9", average build with a pale complexion. He had short, straight red hair, with freckles on his face and arms. He was wearing a black, long-sleeve shirt with a black polo over it, khaki shorts, and black shoes and socks.

Anyone with any information regarding this investigation or other similar incidents occurring in our city is encouraged to call the Milpitas Police Department at (408) 586-2400. Information can be given anonymously by calling the Crime Tip Hotline at (408) 586-2500 or via the Milpitas Police Department website at:

Coyotes Comeback Shocks Pioneers

Women's Basketball

SUBMITTED BY SCOTT CHISHOLM

Cal State East Bay watched its 19-point second half lead with 11 minutes left evaporate as Cal State San Bernardino rallied for a 71-64 conference win on January 11. The Coyotes went from the CCAA cellar to earning back-to-back league wins after knocking out the former league leading Pioneers.

Cal State East Bay matched its largest lead of the game taking a 56-37 advantage at the 11:23 mark of the second half. San Bernardino (3-8, 2-6 CCAA) then scored 12 unanswered points to spark a 16-1 run cutting the deficit to 57-53 with 5:34 left.

The Coyotes defense held the Pioneers without a made field goal for over six minutes while completing the comeback effort. Two of Alexcia Mack's game-high 24 points pulled the home side even at 60-60 with 3:25 left.

Jazzmyn Davis gave San Bernardino the lead with 2:25 left, its first since the opening minute of the game. The Coyotes remained ahead for the rest of the game as Mack and Davis combined to go 8-for-8 at the foul line over the final 53 seconds of regulation.

"All the credit goes to San Bernardino. They played inspired basketball, played as a team, defended well and they wanted the win more than we did," said East Bay Head Coach Suzy Barcomb.

San Bernardino shot over 60 percent from the field (17-of-28) and committed just one turnover in the second half. The Coyotes enjoyed a 30-6 advantage in points off turnovers and a 23-10 margin in free throw makes.

In seven previous California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) contests the Pioneers had not allowed an opponent to score over 36 second half points. San Bernardino scored 46 points on over 60 percent shooting from the field. Mack and Davis combined for 30 second half points in the win.

San Bernardino scored just 25 first half points and made just 6-of-25 (.240) shots. Cal State East Bay led comfortably throughout most of the opening period and by as many as 12 points.

Stephanie Lopez scored a season-high 22 points, coming off the heels of a 21-point effort against UC San Diego the night prior. Danielle Peacon contributed her third double-double over the past four games with 17 points and 11 rebounds.

Cal State East Bay (9-6, 6-2 CCAA) is in sole possession of second place in the league standings following Saturday's results.

East Bay blasts Biola, Azusa Pacific by triple digits

Women's Swimming

SUBMITTED BY SCOTT CHISHOLM

Cal State East Bay cruised to a pair of wins over NAIA squads Biola and Azusa Pacific on January 11, 2014. Madison Hauanio had a flawless meet opening with a win as the anchor of the 200-yard medley relay, to go along with three individual event wins.

East Bay defeated both NAIA squads by over 100 points as each were scored as dual meets. The Pioneers ousted Azusa Pacific 203-63 and host Biola 192-74.

Hauanio won the 200 free (1:55.54), the 100 free (53.19) and 200 individual medley (2:10.03). She was one of three Pioneers to earn multiple individual events wins. Caitlin DeNise was victorious in the 100 back (59.37) and 100 fly (58.51). Courtney Schwiesow notched top finishes in the 100 breast (1:07.09) and 200 breast (2:26.85).

Alyssa Tenney took part in both of East Bay's 1-2-3 sweeps including a victory in the 50 free (24.57). Teammates Kameron Isaacs and Alyssa Littlefield completed the Pioneer sweep. Tenney took runner-up in the 200 back behind teammate Mariam Lowe (2:08.20), and Kamaehu Alboro finished third.

Rachel Shimizu recorded the other Pioneer individual event win in the 500 free (5:18.36) and took second in the 1,650 free. In total Cal State East Bay won 12-of-14 events overall.

Biola's Abby Blake won the 1,650 free (18:10.01) and Christine Tixier the 200 fly (2:12.79).

Pioneer Men win contest with Humbolt State

Men's Basketball

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY

The Cal State East Bay men's basketball team hit 50 percent of its three-pointers on January 4, 2014 en route to an 89-81 win over visiting Humboldt State (5-6, 0-6 CCAA). The Pioneers evened their record at 6-6 overall and 3-3 in conference play.

East Bay was led by a pair of seniors in Gabe Kindred (Oakland, Calif.), who scored 24 points on 8-for-12 shooting, and Mark Samuels (Berkeley, Calif.), who notched 17 points and eight assists. The Pioneers hit the road next weekend for tough games against UC San Diego and Cal State San Bernardino.

The Newark Memorial Cougars started the Mission Valley Athletic League (MVAL) boy's basketball season January 9, 2014, right where they left off last year... on a winning note. In an impressive performance, they beat the Irvington Vikings 64-35 with an offensive attack right from the beginning of the game. Showing great team speed and ball movement, they caught Irvington's defense flat-footed. The Cougars penetrated deep into the Vikings defense, picking their shots at will from under the basket. With no effective response to slow down the Cougar attack, the Cougars quickly opened an 11-point lead in the first quarter.

In the second quarter, Vikings Center Cody Sheldon, named Irvington Player of the Game, became a strong presence in the paint as he and Cougar Damien Banford engaged in a real battle under the hoop. As both teams made great plays under the basket, there was hope that the Vikings could make a game out of it. But hope quickly faded when the Cougars unleashed their well-known full court press and denied Viking shooting opportunities, holding them to just 16 points in the third and fourth quarters. In the end, Cougar speed and defense was just too much for the Vikings. The Cougars showed why they remain as the team to beat in MVAL basketball.

Terrance's Career Night Paces Pioneers in Victory

Women's Basketball

SUBMITTED BY SCOTT CHISHOLM

Cal State East Bay survived an early barrage of 3-pointers from UC San Diego before ousting the host Tritons 78-58 in California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) action on January 10. Brianna Terrance's career-high 27 points are the most by any Pioneer in a CCAA contest since East Bay joined the league for the 2009-10 Season.

UC San Diego (7-4, 4-3 CCAA) led by as many as nine during the first half after shooting 50 percent from the field (13-of-26), including a 6-for-9 effort from deep. Miranda Seto had a flawless shooting first half scoring 10 points, to go along with four assists and two steals. She finished with a team-high 19 points, while no other Triton man-along with four assists and two steals. She finished with a team-high 19 points, while no other Triton mar aged more than eight.

A late first half basket by Meaghan Cichoke put the Pioneers ahead 39-37 at intermission. However it was Terrance who led the way offensively scoring 15 points on 7-of-8 shooting from the floor in just 13 first half minutes. She would end her night 12-of-17 from the field including a pair of 3-pointers.

Cal State East Bay broke the game open early in the second half breaking a 39-39 tie with an 11-1 scoring run to go up for good. Micah Walker, Danielle Peacon, Tori Breshers, and Terrance all contributed points to the go-ahead point spurt.

"We have several key plays each game and it's not necessarily who scores. We want to continue to build upon playing unselfish basketball," said East Bay Head Coach Suzy Barcomb following the team's fifth straight win.

While Seto was the lone major scoring threat for the home squad, Terrance was accompanied by Stephanie Lopez and Danielle Peacon. Lopez matched her season-high effort with 21 points, and Peacon added 15 on an efficient 6-of-7 shooting performance.

Terrance and Peacon saw limited action due to early foul trouble but the vaunted Pioneer defense held the Tritons to 58 points. UC San Diego managed only 21 second half points and was held to its lowest scoring total against any CCAA opponent this season.

"We wanted to try and limit the effectiveness of (San Diego's) big three scorers. We did not execute the game plan in the first half, but came around to defend better in the second half," said Head Coach Suzy Barcomb. "After a sluggish first half, we played with more energy and desire out of halftime. We defended and challenged with more urgency."

UCSD's Megan Perry and Erin Dautremont combined to average over 25 points per game heading into the night. Both were held in check as Perry managed just seven points and Dautremont to a season-low six.

Service was at the heart of Martin Luther King's philosophy. "Everybody can be great because everybody can serve," he once said, and he urged Americans to take action to improve the lives of others.

Today people celebrate Martin Luther King Day as a "Day of Service." This week Kid Scoop's online kids' page at www.kidscoop.com provides instructions on how to put on a Book Drive to collect books for needy children and day care centers.

A Book Drive is just one kind of a service project. Can you think of others?

The words of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. helped to change the world. His words still inspire people today. He was born on January 15, 1929 in Atlanta, Georgia. His father was the minister of the Ebenezer Baptist Church, as was his father before him. Because Martin and his father had the same name, the family called him M.L.

caring

When M.L. was young, he played with all the children who lived in his Atlanta neighborhood.

But when they reached school age, the white children went to a school for white children only, and M.L. was sent to a school for black children. After the first day of school, M.L. and his white friends were never allowed to play together again.

Use Your Marbles

Martin and his friends have been collecting marbles. They counted to see how many marbles in all. Use the clue to see if you can figure out how many marbles

Compassion

M.L. was very sad when his friends would no longer play with him. He asked his mother why they couldn't.

She talked about why the family didn't ride streetcars, why there was a WHITES ONLY sign on the elevator at City Hall, why there were restaurants that refused to serve black people, and theaters that allowed blacks to sit only in the balcony. She said that it was simply because some white people didn't understand that we all deserve equal treatment.

M.L. decided right then and there that someday he would try to change the world. He wanted to make it a place where white children and black children could play together and enjoy the same rights.

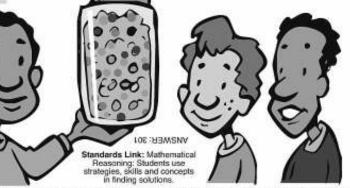

Standards Link: History: Students understand the importance of individual action

As M.L. grew up, he saw more and more examples of segregation. He also saw his father and others speak out against hatred and segregation. These people taught M.L. about the power of words. He learned that words could heal or hurt.

"When the history books are written, someone will say there lived black people who had the courage to stand up for their rights."

- Dr. Martin Luther King

Clue: When counted by 2s, 3s, 4s, 5s, or 6s, there is always one marble left over. When counted by 7s, there are no marbles left over. The answer is between 299 and 310.

NewPark Mall was packed with last minute shoppers. Traffic Officer's Williams and Allum were joined by Officer Fredstrom today. The trio was highly visible all day and made numerous enforcement stops, issuing some citations. As a result, we did not take any collisions in or around the mall nor were there any cases generated from the mall itself. I want to personally thank these officers for there outstanding efforts. As I have been preparing these logs, I am very aware of the calls for service and numerous incidents at the Mall. For these three officers to conduct such visible enforcement and deter criminal behavior for an entire shift is incredible. THANK YOU!!!

Officer Lopez investigated a theft at 8:23 a.m. that occurred overnight in the 6300 block of Buena Vista Drive. All four tires were stolen from a Toyota Prius.

At 12:29 p.m., Officer Taylor investigated a residential burglary in the 36200 block of Dalewood Drive. The homeowner estimated the time frame was between 11 a.m. and 12:29 p.m. Entry was made via "doggy-door" and the loss is jewelry.

Officer Norvell investigated a ransack residential burglary in the 37300 block of Ezra Dr. at 2:35 a.m. It appeared the suspects used rocks to break a rear window. The incident occurred between 5 p.m. – 2:30 a.m. Officer Norvell collected some physical evidence.

At 2:36 a.m., Officer Sandoval investigated the residential burglary in the 6000 block of Tourraine Dr. It appears the suspects pried open the rear sliding glass door to gain entry. Taken in the burglary was a Glock 22 .40 Cal pistol.

Officer Lopez investigated a residential burglary at 6:37 p.m. that occurred at a residence in the 36600 block of Ruschin Drive. It occurred between 8 a.m. - 10:30 a.m. The loss was electronics and entry was made through a side garage door.

Officer Ramos investigated a report of a stolen vehicle that occurred from the parking lot of the NewPark Mall. The vehicle is a Green 1997 Honda Accord, CA Plate 6MMY878.

"Eagle-eye" Ramos noticed the interior lights of La Cabana restaurant had turned off after driving through the area at 3:10 a.m. A warrant check revealed well know probationer Ramon Arreola of Newark had a Felony Warrant for his arrest issued by Alameda County Sheriff Office. Officer Ramos contacted Ramon's mother/owner of the restaurant and she agreed to give us a key to the front door. Officers Revay and Katz followed up on a lead initially forwarded by Fremont PD Detective Lambert at the end of shift the previous day. The burglary occurred on Christmas Eve. Officers Katz and Revay met with Detective Lambert at a Fremont jewelry store and obtained the CCTV Surveillance video. The video was then viewed by Officer Revay, SRO Johnson and SET Detective Todd. Three of the four suspects were positively identified based upon the video.

Officer Revay authored a search warrant for the three identified suspects, their persons and residences in relation to the three residential burglaries that occurred on Christmas Eve. All three burglaries occurred during evening hours on Christmas Eve and had similar modus operandi.

Dayshift, Overlap, Graves, and SET combined personnel and executed search warrants on the three locations. The result was the recovery of the majority of stolen property from a residential burglary on Ezra Dr. on Christmas Eve, property that is possibly stolen from the other two burglaries, two loaded handguns, cocaine for sales and the contact and arrest of the fourth unidentified suspect who tried to pawn the stolen jewelry. The following six persons were arrested:

Officer Knutson located the suspect and stolen bicycle a short distance away. A witness and the victim positively identified the bicycle and the suspect. Anthony Adams, transient from Emeryville, was arrested for the theft. He is currently on CDCR Parole for burglary.

the position of General Manager in 2009 and oversees all operations of the district under the direction and control of a publicly elected board of directors. Tri-City Voice (TCV) spoke with Mr. Wadlow about recent significant rate increases, management of local water resources and challenges many California water districts are facing.

TCV: What factors affect water rates?

Wadlow: A major factor is the cost of water purchased from other entities such as the State of California and regional systems. To the extent that those rates increase, our rate structure is affected. We do not purchase all of our water; we have water rights on Alameda Creek and process brackish ground water in our desalination plant. Another obvious cost is our operating systems including labor, water treatment, monitoring, energy, materials and repairs. Capital improvements are also a major cost. We have 800 miles of mains that need constant attention; it's like painting the Golden Gate Bridge – when you get to the end, you just start all over again. In addition, a seismic retrofit program to strengthen crossings over fault lines is expensive. Less visible is an upgrade of information technology that provides customer information, billing, etc. - hardware and software.

TCV: Do weather conditions affect rates?

Wadlow: At this point, we are in the third dry year, but in the Bay Area, at times we have had dry Januarys followed by a very wet February and/or March. This does have an effect on planning and rates. From a planning perspective, we are, of course, interested in delivering a reliable supply in any year. We are constantly planning for weather variations. ACWD has a diverse portfolio of water supply and determines which supplies (and costs) to use in a particular month.

An effect on rates depends on where it is dry. In some years, even though there may be less rainfall locally, there is plenty of snow in the Sierras; that means our supply from the State Water Project and Hetch Hetchy is plentiful. Sometimes rainfall is okay locally, but storms are from warm systems and there is less snowfall in the mountains, so we rely more on local resources. This year, it is dry locally and in the Sierras. If conditions remain dry, we will probably turn to the regional supply from San Francisco Water District since they have pretty good supply from Hetch Hetchy although it is expensive.

We have been banking water in San Luis Reservoir near Los Banos and sending excess water to a groundwater storage facility called Semitropic near Bakersfield. Semitropic water can be used for farming operations during dry years. If this occurs, less water is taken by these farmers from the Delta (State Water Project) which can then come in our direction as "in lieu" payment. We are also working on a pilot program at Los Vaqueros

ALAMEDA COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

Reservoir in Contra Costa County to develop additional water storage. In this case, some of the water that Contra Costa Water District needs would be taken from our supply in the reservoir and remain in the Delta supply for our use through the South Bay Aqueduct.

Just like an investment portfolio, diversity is an advantage. The more sources of water we have, the better we can make it through dry years.

TCV: Will rates decrease during a series of wet years when the need for water from other entities is lessened?

Wadlow: Rates will most likely continue to increase in most urban agencies of California for a variety of reasons. When we encounter a wet year and we don't have to buy as much water, we put savings in a "rate stabilization fund." The extra money can then be used to moderate the impact of additional purchases during a dry year.

TCV: Although water conservation is emphasized at all times, the public hears more about this during dry years. Since this reduces sales of water, how are rates affected?

Wadlow: We have the weirdest business model on earth. Typically, manufacturers do not use their resources to convince people to use less of the product they produce. We produce water and sell it, then work hard telling people to conserve. In the short run, this can reduce revenue but in the long run, as demand grows there will be a need to look for additional water sources which can be very expensive. Our focus needs to include the long run.

TCV: Can ACWD institute senior or low income rates?

Wadlow: Many people think we should be able to offer some type of lifeline rates like PG&E, an investor owned utility. ACWD is a county water district that operates under a different set of rules and regulations. Under California State statutes, we are not allowed to offer lifeline or senior rates. We understand and are sensitive to the difficulty of individuals on fixed, low incomes to absorb utility rate increases. The staff of ACWD has been asked by the Board to find alternative ways to provide relief for low income individuals. A "Water Savings Assistance Program" is one response and investigation of a tiered-rate approach is another.

TCV: How does significant growth such as projected development near the Warm Springs BART station integrate with the current water supply?

Wadlow: Any new large development in the State requires a water supply assessment. When this is done, the water agency involved can require additional water sources or conservation and funding. If this is part of the General Plan, the water district has expected this to happen and has, hopefully, planned to accommodate increased demand.

TCV: What drives employee costs?

Wadlow: Urban water agencies throughout the State of California, including ACWD, are faced with a complex task of securing, treating, distributing water and maintaining systems, infrastructure to support this. This requires competition for highly skilled individuals such as engineers. But this isn't limited to engineering talent. It is especially hard to find people with the high level of training to operate water treatment plants. We serve over 330,000 people and it is our responsibility to make sure the water sent to them is treated and is reliable and safe. This is a 24 hour, 365 days a year job.

The water supply that comes to us can vary quite a bit depending on the source and season, even in the space of hours. The treatment process is complex and demanding. Those who operate these facilities must make the right decisions and ensure public health. The State of California certifies these people and requires ongoing grueling tests, education and review. A safe drinking water supply is a serious matter of public health.

Unfortunately, there is a shortage of students choosing the field of water or waste water management, especially in the Bay Area where other opportunities are prevalent. As our operators are aging, new plants are required for a growing population. Fewer people are available on the front end; there is high demand for a small group of trained operators.

Reflections on Water

Proceed with conservation; another dry year may be ahead

By Stephanie Nevins, ACWD Water Conservation Supervisor

California is likely headed for a third consecutive dry year. There is no significant rain in the forecast. The first snow survey of 2014 measured a snowpack at 20 percent of average. And by all accounts, statistics and available data, 2013 was the driest calendar year on record. As a result, the Department of Water Resources has set their initial allocation for its State Water Project recipients very low.

So you may be wondering, as a customer of Alameda County Water District, how will this impact you?

Well, first of all ACWD would like to thank its customers for using water wisely - demands have remained low since our last extended dry period. ACWD customer conservation efforts have really paid off, effectively lessening the impact of this continuing dry weather.

And there is more good news. Over the past couple of decades, ACWD ratepayers have made it possible for ACWD to invest in water projects that have and will continue to help offset this lack of snow and rain.

These investments include the development of a diverse water supply portfolio, construction of the Newark Desalination Facility, and participation in a groundwater "bank" in Kern County that provides for a dry year reserve water supply. Pulling from the Kern County water bank and increasing production from water sources under local control (desalination) allows ACWD to get through dry spells of limited duration while substantially reducing the need for measures such as mandatory rationing.

And it is still early – significant rainfall typically comes between January and March.

But while ACWD is not sounding the dry year alarm just yet, we are keeping a close eye on the situation. The reality is that water stored in the Sierra snowpack and run-off from the Alameda Creek Watershed account for a hefty percentage of ACWD's supply.

So we are asking our customers to continue their conservation efforts. Here is a list of some conservation tips and tricks to keep in mind:

- Find and fix leaks.
- Install high-efficiency clothes washers.
- washers. • Take shorter showers
- Take shorter showers.
  Shorter, cooler days mean your landscaping needs significantly less water than in the summer.
  Once a week should be plenty while it is dry this winter but if we get rain please turn the system completely off.
- Water landscaping in the morning before the sun is overhead.
- Adjust sprinklers to avoid watering the sidewalk or driveway.
- Even better, put in drip irrigation
- for shrubs, trees, and gardens.
   Reduce lawn areas and choose drought tolerant plants for your landscapes.

• Get your car washed at a commercial car wash that recycles

Women Pioneers extend win streak

Women's Basketball

SUBMITTED BY SCOTT CHISHOLM

Cal State East Bay extended its season long win streak to four games following a lopsided 61-44 conference win over Humboldt State on January 4, 2014 inside Pioneer Gymnasium. The Pioneers have won their last three games by an average of 20 points and are currently in a three-way tie atop the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) standings.

During that stretch the CCAA's top scoring defense has held tits opponent to its respective season-low scoring total at the time of the contest. Humboldt State (5-5, 2-4 CCAA) had scored at least 65 points in every regular season game this season prior to Saturday night's 44-point effort.

Kersey Wilcox, the league's leading scorer averaging nearly 19 points per game heading into the weekend, was held to just three points on 1-of-6 shooting from the floor. Outside of Elle Anderson's 10 points on 5-of-6 shooting from the floor, the Jacks managed to make just 12-of-41 shots from the field (.293) and no other player scored in double figures.

"We were incredibly sluggish tonight and we must learn to grind out wins on the second night," said East Bay Head Coach Suzy Barcomb. "It wasn't pretty, but we gutted it out in the second half and connected at the free throw line." Stephanie Lopez finished with 10 points, seven rebounds, seven assists, and three steals to follow up her 12-point, 11-assist game the previous night. Lopez is quickly becoming the catalyst of the Pioneer offense as a distributor of the ball leading this year's squad with 50 assists.

"Stephanie played a complete game. She found the open player, worked hard defensively, and got on the glass for us tonight," praised Barcomb following Lopez's season-high 39 minutes of floor time.

One night after recording her first double-double for the Pioneers, Danielle Peacon had a repeat performance with 12 points and 10 rebounds. She has shot .500 or better in each of the past three games and averaged 10 boards per contest during that time. Peacon finished with a season-high five assists in the win.

Brianna Terrance finished with a game-high 17 points and knocked down 4-of-5 at the foul line. The Pioneers enjoyed an efficient night at the charity stripe converting 16-of-20 attempts. East Bay is unbeaten (7-0) when making 16-plus free throws, and just 1-5 when under that mark.

For the third straight game Rachel Finnegan grabbed four steals and has been a leading force in the team's recent stretch of defensive dominance. East Bay has held conference opponents to just 52.2 points per game in six contests this season, nearly 10 points lower than any other CCAA squad.

The Washington Huskies met the Irvington Vikings and came away victorious in a close contest 58-43 on January 10th. Outcome of the game was in doubt until the fourth quarter when the Huskies finally figured out how to penetrate the Viking defense and went on a 10-point unanswered run. With great moves, the Huskies finally got good looks at the basket and the offensive display began. Throughout the entire game, the lady Vikings showed real grit and great pursuit with good hustle under the basket and in the paint. It was an impressive performance by both teams and an important game since Mission Valley Athletic League action is going to fierce this year.
