Walk in the Wild at Oakland Zoo

BY DENNY STEIN

Annual! What a great word. Just as June rolls around again every year, so does the best party in the Bay Area. Before last year's memories of twinkling lights and supercilious howler monkeys have faded, here's your chance to make it happen again – make it better, make it exciting.

Oakland Zoo's "Walk in the Wild," also known as an Epicurean Escapade, is happening on Saturday, June 27. If you've been to this event before, I know you're already planning on going this year – it's addictive. If you have never attended, here's what to expect: 120 vendors of fine food,

Growing together at Paradise Community Garden

As urban farming grows in popularity across the Bay Area, a community garden in Hayward joins the seed-to-table DIY ranks as it celebrates its one year anniversary this month, just in time to kick off summer.

Paradise Community Garden, located at Mission and Paradise Boulevards, started simply: the community wanted a garden to tend and harvest from while educating each other about gardening and healthy food. Beautifying an empty lot and building community pride weren't such bad benefits, either.

The garden's lot was home to a Chrysler Jeep dealership until 2008 when it closed its doors, and Alameda County's Redevelopment Agency purchased the property that same year. The lot sat empty until Alameda County's Office of Education (ACOE) had ideas to transform it into an educational community garden. Members of the neighborhood jumped in to help, as they had wanted to improve the vacant lot for years.

After much planning, Paradise Community Garden was born in 2014. Even in its roots, the garden is undeniably one of community; its creation couldn't have happened without support and sponsorship from Olive Hyde Art Gallery's annual "Textiles Exhibit" began in 1968 in recognition of the Art Center's original benefactor and textile art enthusiast, Olive Hyde. Primarily a quilt exhibition in its early years, this show currently spans a broad spectrum of the textile arts.

As one of Olive Hyde's most popular exhibits, this year's 47th textile show will feature the work of artists well known in the Bay Area as well as that of several others who have exhibited extensively throughout the United States.

Faster, Safer Procedure Is a More Effective Family Planning Option for Men

One of the many important roles that men play in the lives of their families has to do with family planning, or contraception. Vasectomies are a common and effective form of male contraception that is estimated to be the preferred contraception by one of every five American men over the age of 35.

Father’s Day is right around the corner—time to celebrate the dads and father-figures in our lives. It’s also a chance for men to think about all the roles they play in the lives of their families. One important aspect is family planning, or contraception.

Years ago, family planning was assumed to be the woman’s responsibility. This changed with the growing popularity of the vasectomy. With this minor surgical procedure, the doctor closes off the vas deferens (vas), a tube in the male reproductive system that carries sperm from the testicles.

Today, it is estimated that one in every five American men over 35 has had a vasectomy. The Urology Care Foundation reports that, each year, more than 500,000 men in the U.S. choose to have a vasectomy for birth control.

“The vasectomy is a very effective form of contraception for men,” said Mark Saleh, MD, board certified urologist with Washington Township Medical Foundation. “It is more than 99 percent effective, which makes it the most dependable means of contraception available.”

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services reports male condoms, another contraception option, have a failure rate of between 11 percent and 16 percent.

Dr. Saleh pointed out that vasectomy is safer than a tubal ligation, which is the most common means of permanent contraception for women. That procedure is more invasive and requires the woman to be under general anesthesia.

“With tubal ligation, there is always the risk of injuring a blood vessel or internal organ during the procedure,” explained Dr. Saleh. “The time needed for the woman to recover is also longer.”

Although there is a procedure available to reverse a vasectomy, it is important for men to consider it permanent, Dr. Saleh advises. In his practice, if couples aren’t sure about permanent contraception, he advises them to use another form, such as condoms or birth control pills, until they decide.

“Once a couple makes the decision, it’s a great option,” he added.

In the past, the conventional method used for a vasectomy required the doctor to make an incision in the scrotum and tie off the vas. Now, most doctors perform the newer “no scalpel” vasectomy.

With this procedure, a small puncture is made in the skin of the scrotum, just big enough to insert a ring clamp that fits around the vas. The doctor pulls the vas up through the tiny opening and ties it off or uses heat to cauterize it. Then, the closed-off vas is allowed to go back into the scrotum.

“This procedure requires just one tiny hole and one stitch to close it,” reported Dr. Saleh. “It’s faster, taking about 20 minutes, and there is less bleeding, swelling and bruising. We do it in the office with just a small amount of anesthesia, and the man can go straight home afterwards.”

Men can resume most of their normal activities the next day but must avoid anything strenuous for about a week.

Dr. Saleh cautions it may take three or more months after the vasectomy is done for it to be fully effective. There may be sperm present in other parts of the reproductive system, and it takes a while for them to clear away.

“During this time, we tell men to continue using protection,” he said. “We perform two sperm counts to make sure the semen is clear before advising that other forms of contraception are no longer needed.”

Teenagers Need Physical Exams and Vaccines, Too

Part 2 of a 2-Part Series on Adolescent Health Concerns

In many cases, schools in California do not require evidence of an annual back-to-school physical exam for teenagers, unless the student needs a pre-participation sports physical or written documentation from a physician for taking medication during school hours. Nevertheless, the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP) encourages teens to visit their doctor once a year for a full physical exam. If the teen has a chronic medical condition or has signs or symptoms of an acute illness, more frequent office visits may be advised.

“Teenagers sometimes think they’re ‘too old’ to seek advice from their family doctor, but primary care physicians are a valuable source of information and advice about the health concerns of teens and how teenagers can safeguard their health,” says Dr. Steven Curran, a family medicine physician with Washington Township Medical Foundation.

“Adolescents typically face concerns about topics such as weight, body image, disease prevention and treatment,” Dr. Curran explains. “Accidents and sports injuries also are common concerns.”

What Teens Might Expect During a Physical Exam

The summer months – when school pressures are not as common – are a good time of year for scheduling your teen’s physical exam. During a comprehensive physical exam, the doctor will review the teen’s medical history, making note of any chronic conditions such as allergies, asthma, eczema, diabetes or pre-diabetes, heart conditions or gastrointestinal problems.

“It’s usually ideal to have your teen visit the same physician who has provided care throughout childhood so that the medical records are all readily available and up-to-date,” Dr. Curran suggests. “If that is not possible, or if the teen prefers to see a different doctor, you generally can request to have the teen’s medical files transferred to another physician.”

In addition to discussing the teen’s medical history, the doctor may:

The American Academy of Family Physicians recommends that teens visit their physician once a year for a full physical exam. Teenagers with chronic medical conditions or those with signs or symptoms of an acute illness may need to visit their physician more often. The summer months are a good time for teens to see their physician and be ready for the next school year.

- Measure height, weight, heart rate, temperature and blood pressure.
- Screen for tuberculosis (TB), especially if the teen has a history of exposure to people who have TB or who have tested positive to a TB skin test.
- Order laboratory tests to check general health, find certain diseases or determine risks for certain health problems such as diabetes or asthma.
- Check young men for hernias and testicular cancer.
- Screen for sexually transmitted diseases with a simple urine test.
- Teach young women how to perform a self-breast examination, and educate them on when to obtain a pelvic examination.
- Test vision and hearing if not done elsewhere.
- Ask about potentially harmful behaviors and social or emotional problems.

Vaccinations Protect Your Teen’s Health

In addition to the physical exam, the doctor should review the teen’s vaccination records and make sure the teen is caught up on any necessary booster shots. By age 13, teens should already have received a variety of vaccinations:

- Polio
- Chickenpox vaccine if they have not had chickenpox (two doses)
- Measles, mumps and rubella (MMR) vaccine (two doses)
- Hepatitis B (HBV) vaccine series
- Hepatitis A (HAV) vaccine series
- Haemophilus influenza type B (Hib)
- Meningococcal vaccine at 11-12 years of age
- Tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis (Tdap) booster at 11-12 years of age

Many vaccinations are required by the state of California for children attending public school, and many private schools also require proof of vaccination. As of January 2014, parents who want to “opt out” of required vaccines must submit a signed statement that they have received information about vaccines from a health care professional.

“With the recent outbreak of measles in California, various laws for when a parent can opt out of vaccinations are still being discussed,” Dr. Curran says. “My advice, though, is to have an enlightened conversation with your family physician about the safety and benefits of vaccines. There is a lot of misinformation out there, and the protection provided by vaccines far outweighs the very small risk of any serious reactions to the vaccines.”

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) now also recommends the three-dose human papillomavirus (HPV) vaccine for all girls and boys at 11 or 12 years of age. The recommendation also allows for vaccination of girls beginning at 9 years old, as well as vaccination of girls and women 13 to 26 years old, and for males through 21 years of age.

“HPV is the major cause of cervical cancer,” Dr. Curran explains. “Because the virus is transmitted by sexual contact, the CDC believes it is important to vaccinate girls and boys before they become sexually active. The HPV vaccine is not required by law, but you should consult your doctor about the important new means of protecting your teen’s health.”

Dr. Curran also advises teens and their families who are traveling outside the United States to consult their doctors regarding any vaccinations that may be recommended or required prior to their travel.

“Don’t forget that teens are susceptible to the flu, too,” he adds. “Mark your calendars for September-October to get flu shots for the entire family.”

Weather Conditions and Joint Aches and The Biology Behind Blushing

Dear Doctor,
My joints seem to ache whenever the weather is overcast. Is there any science behind this?

Dear Reader,
There is a link between joint pain and the weather. When there is a drop in barometric pressure the tissues around the joint can swell and put added pressure onto an already sensitive area. In many cases the barometric pressure drops before the weather changes, which may explain how some people seem to “predict” the weather with their joints!

Dear Doctor,
Why do we blush when we are embarrassed?

Dear Reader,
Blushing is a natural response that usually accompanies embarrassing behavior. It occurs in response to the activation of the sympathetic nervous system, or the fight-or-flight response. A release of adrenaline increases blood flow to parts of the body, including the cheeks. It has been well studied and is even considered a positive social attribute!

regional brews, local wines, bountiful bakeries, mouth-watering meats, terrific teas and tisanes. And it's all included, so have a bite of this and a taste of that and experience it all as you wind your way through the Oakland Zoo. I swear, even the animals are nodding their thanks and appreciation for your presence.

You can just wander or consult your map to head straight for your favorites. Drake's Brewing Company might be near the ducks, Christine's Upper Crust Pies may be across from the fruit bats, Bear Republic Brewing could be... by the sun bears? I have yet to figure out if there's a method to the enchanting madness of the layout, but by the time you've been treated to fare by Oliveto Restaurant and the Wood Tavern, Otaez Taqueira and Semifreddi's, you really won't care if Scott's Seafood is near the pancake tortoise (should that be the spot for Home of Chicken and Waffles?) or Bison Brewing is... well, you get the idea. And that's just the first part of the evening.

The party continues with dessert and dancing from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. under the stars in Adventure Landing. It's a sweet evening soiree accompanied by Mika's Cupcakes, the creameries Cookiebar and Fenton's, and the Bay Area's own Ghirardelli Chocolate Company. Don't worry about the calories; you've done three circuits of the entire zoo and the music will keep your feet hopping.

There's a new sponsor in town for this year's event: Taiwan, the Heart of Asia. Taiwan's wilderness is home to the world's highest concentration of butterfly and bird species as well as a protected habitat for the critically endangered Taiwan Formosan

Black Bear and white dolphins. Besides making a generous contribution, Taiwan Tourism Bureau's mascot Moon bear will greet guests during Walk in the Wild, along with an art installation of a giant Xiao Long Bao and bubble milk tea in the Wayne and Gladys Valley Children's Zoo.

This is the Oakland Zoo's 23rd annual Walk in the Wild fundraiser. In 2009 there were 847 attendees and $155,000 was raised. Last year the guest count almost doubled and $237,300 was raised. OJ, the Aldabra tortoise, remembers back to at least 1915, and knows that all proceeds from this event benefit the zoo's conservation, education, and animal care programs. Joining him this spring at the zoo are baby baboons and Wallaroo joeys.

Zookeepers and docents will be working the crowd with the Animal Ambassadors, and entertainment areas feature local bands, singers, and performers. The Adventure Landing rides are open and free, and there are no children, for this is an adults-only party, though you, too, have to keep your hands inside of the train cars.

So, come out on June 27 to support the local and global conservation work of the Oakland Zoo, enjoy the generosity of your regional food purveyors, and revel in the magical feeling of "If I Ran the Zoo" (thank you, Dr. Seuss).

Make your reservations online now or buy tickets at the Main Entrance on event day. The Walk in the Wild main event is $125 per person for zoo members and $150 per person for non-members in advance; day-of cost is $150 for all guests (members and non-members). Visit http://www.oaklandzoo.org/Walk_In_Wild.php for more information.

Teenagers Need Physical Exams and Vaccines, Too

Additional Health Concerns for Adolescents

And then there are all the health topics that teens might be embarrassed to discuss with their doctors – such as puberty, sexual development and activity, eating disorders, drug or alcohol use, smoking, depression and suicidal thoughts.

Dr. Curran notes that ignoring a potentially embarrassing health problem won't make it go away, and it might make the problem worse.

“Doctors have seen all kinds of health problems and answered innumerable questions about every imaginable health topic, so they’re not going to be surprised or alarmed by any health issue a teen might raise,” he says.

“Your teen’s doctor is interesting in keeping patients healthy, not in criticizing or judging them,” he emphasizes. “Adolescents might want a private exam and consultation. Teens do have a right to privacy with respect to concerns about sexually transmitted diseases and contraception. If a teen’s life – or someone else’s life – is at risk, the doctor may be required to disclose private information. You should ask your family doctor about his or her policy for keeping a teen’s health discussions confidential.”

Millions of gallons lost in vandalism

SUBMITTED BY FRANK JAHN,
ALAMEDA COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

On May 21st, the Alameda County Water District was the victim of an act of vandalism that destroyed district equipment and resulted in the loss of nearly 50 million gallons of water. Fremont Police believe that the perpetrators entered a restricted area sometime that morning and intentionally damaged an inflatable dam on Alameda Creek. The dam, which is instrumental to the district’s water supply operations, suffered irreversible damage.

More than 150 acre-feet of water – or 49 million gallons – washed past the destroyed dam and into the San Francisco Bay. The water was to have been percolated into the Niles Cone Groundwater Basin for use by residents and businesses in Fremont, Newark, and Union City as a critical water supply. This amount of water is enough to supply the needs of approximately 500 homes for one year.

District staff was able to quickly open upstream diversions, allowing water which would have been impounded behind the dam to flow into nearby groundwater recharge facilities, thus eliminating further water loss.

“This is a very significant loss of water under any circumstances, and more so in the drought conditions we are experiencing,” said ACWD General Manager Robert Shaver. “It is an utterly senseless, destructive, and wasteful thing to do.”

While the water loss was substantial, the District does not believe it will have a long-term impact on its water supply operations. ACWD delivers more than 47,000 acre-feet of water each year to more than 81,000 homes and businesses in the tri-city area. An acre-foot of water is the amount needed to cover one acre of land to a depth of one foot, or 325,850 gallons.

District staff also has begun work on securing a replacement for the dam, which was constructed in 1971. Because of the dam’s age, much of the work of identifying vendors and equipment already was underway. The vandalized dam is one of a pair ACWD maintains on Alameda Creek. The dams are large, heavy-duty devices, which can be inflated to impound needed water or deflated to allow water to flow through the creek in storm conditions.

This crime is under investigation by the Fremont Police Department, and ACWD is providing information and assistance wherever possible. Anyone with information about this crime is encouraged to contact Detective A. Cenicerros at Acenicerros@fremont.gov or (510) 790-6900.

Hayward firm chosen as Small Business of the Year

SUBMITTED BY DEREK CHERNOW

State Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont) has selected Porifera, Inc. (www.porifera.com) as the Small Business of the Year in the Tenth Senate District. The company was honored on June 10 along with several others from throughout California, during a celebration of small businesses in Sacramento.

"Porifera is doing pioneering work in the water treatment field and its projects are being recognized by several important state and national agencies. I am proud that this innovative company flourishes in the 10th Senate District, home to much of our state's clean tech economy," Wieckowski said.

Porifera, based in Hayward, has successfully executed projects for the Department of Energy, NASA, the Department of Defense, and the National Science Foundation to demonstrate and design water treatment systems that are energy-efficient. Earlier this year, the California Energy Commission recommended Porifera for $5.7 million in awards for developing advanced water treatment systems. The awards are granted for pilot demonstration testing with a variety of customers in California's agricultural, industrial and water sectors.

"I want to thank Senate Wieckowski for honoring Porifera with this Small Business Award," said Porifera CEO Olgica Bakajin. "We appreciate the opportunity to develop and grow our unique technologies in Hayward and believe our forward osmosis technology provides high quality water treatment at a low cost."

California Small Business Day is dedicated to recognizing the contributions of small business to the state of California.

Senator Wieckowski represents the 10th Senate District, which stretches from southern Alameda County to parts of Santa Clara County.

Cypress Mandela

BY FRANK ADDIEGO

In an effort to offer a future to young men who have fallen into trouble with the law, the City of Union City has teamed with the Cypress Mandela organization, offering at-risk, gang affiliated and incarcerated youth a chance for a brighter future. At a city council meeting, held May 26th, Union City recognized the achievements of the city's Cypress Mandela satellite program and first graduating class.

Youth and Family Services Department of Union City worked to set up the satellite training facility last year at the Bernard-White Middle School Kids Zone in Union City. Nancy George of Kids Zone and New Haven School District said, "I am extremely proud of this group behind me in their uniforms and hats who are making us very, very proud and putting the name of the Union City satellite program of Cypress Mandela on the map."

The graduating class is from Hayward, Union City, Newark and Fremont. "They showed me that I had a higher limit," said Luis Arroyo, a graduate of the program. Other graduates of the program spoke at the meeting, praising its impact on them, including Ricky Zahn who said, "To be honest, I'm gonna miss it."

Art Shanks, the Program Director of Cypress Mandela said of the satellite campus, "Never have I seen a city put something together so fast that was so positive." During the ceremony, Alameda County Supervisor Richard Valle presented the program with a check for $20,000.

"We work with really high risk youth; they have some barriers," said Patricia Abadesco, Program Manager of Youth & Family Services, "Let's say they've been arrested and or have felonies so it's hard for them to get living wage jobs... I think the trade is something that attracts them."

The Cypress Mandela organization was founded in 1993 to create jobs in West Oakland after the Cypress Street Viaduct was damaged in the Loma Prieta earthquake four years earlier. "They essentially prepare anyone who's 18 or older, is a US Citizen and a high school graduate to enter the building trades within a sixteen week program," said Sergio Abundis Case Manager for Youth and Family Services, "we've been sending people to them over the last five years to help clients who have barriers to find jobs at a living wage."

Take action at Relay for Life

Greater Tri-City communities are gearing up for "Relay for Life," an organized, overnight fundraising walk to raise awareness of cancer. Cities are represented by teams, whose members take turns walking around the track to symbolize that cancer never sleeps. To kick off the event, cancer survivors take the first lap around the track as their victory over the disease is celebrated and cheered on by other participants. Candles are lit and placed around the tracks at night to pay tribute to those who have succumbed to the disease and those whose fight continues. Ceremonies are also held to encourage participants to take action.

Although the American Cancer Society is making great strides in their fight against cancer, there is still much work to do. Show your support, find an event near you and register as a team or join individually at www.relayforlife.org.

Lexus NX: Luxury Sport Vehicle, Jr.

BY STEVE SCHAEFER

After years of growing larger, the latest trend in the world of crossover SUVs is towards more compact models. So, to compete in this segment, Lexus introduces the brand new NX below its popular RX model.

As the newest Lexus, the NX proudly wears the L-finesse styling exemplified by the GS and IS sedans from Toyota's luxury brand. This means lots of visual excitement from the spindle grille to the dramatic sculpted side panels to the slashed L-shaped taillamps. Lexus claims they went for the "carved from a solid piece of metal" look, and they have succeeded as much as any company has in that elusive goal.

The NX is smaller than the RX, but still weighs in at two tons. Propelling the car is either a 2.0-liter turbocharged four-cylinder engine (a first for Lexus) in the NX 200t or a hybrid drivetrain that mates a 2.5-liter four to an electric motor in the NX 300h. You can add Lexus' all-wheel drive system to either model. The NX 300h is the sixth member of the Lexus hybrid portfolio.

As these cars, particularly the Germans, have very specific styling and handling qualities, Lexus has gone all-out to stress its own look and feel. Besides the overt angularity of the body, the interior avoids subtlety as well. The complex dash juts out horizontally towards driver and passenger, and materials and surfaces are definitely upscale. Black and silver heighten the metallic feel. Everything feels strong and solid, and in an aggressive way, elegant.

Two high tech items of note: The map lights are proximity sensitive, so when you move your hand close to one, it turns on (or off). Also, the center console contains a wireless phone charger—just set your compatible phone in there and it'll fill up with no cable required.

There's a lot more high tech in the rest of the car, too. The new Remote Touch Interface (RTI) controller replaces the joystick used in the RX and other models.

The 2.0-liter turbo four in my Eminent White NX 200t test car put out 235 horsepower and 258 lb.-ft. of torque through a six-speed automatic. You can select Normal, ECO or Sport settings using a console dial. These let you be more environmentally conscious or fun loving, but the EPA numbers show the NX is no fuel sipper. Numbers for two-wheel-drive models are 22 City, 28 Highway, and 25 Overall. I averaged 21.3 mpg using the Normal setting most of the time. Green scores are 5 for Smog and 6 for Greenhouse Gas.

The hybrid powertrain in the NX 300h puts out a total of 194 total horsepower from engine and motor, and improves upon the gas version with EPA numbers of 35 City, 31 Highway, and 33 Overall. Green scores jump to 8 for both Smog and Greenhouse Gas.

The NX enters a field with some strong competition, including the German Audi A5, BMW X3, and Mercedes-Benz GLK 350, as well as the Acura RDX.

Over the past 22 years, Steve Schaefer has tested more than 1,000 cars and published a weekly story on every one. As a teenager, he visited car dealers' back lots to catch a glimpse of the new models as they first rolled off the transporter. He is a founding member of the Western Automotive Journalists. with exclusive 18-inch wheels and F SPORT badging. Inside, quilted NuLuxe seats in Rioja Red, a special steering wheel, and brushed metallic gearshift spice up the look. The instrumentation and drilled aluminum pedals are inspired by the Lexus LFA supercar. There's even Active Sound Control to pump in a sportier engine note in the otherwise extra quiet cabin.

Prices start at $35,405 for the 200t and $37,505 for the 200t F SPORT model. My tester contained several options, including the Navigation Package, electrochromatic (auto-dimming) exterior mirrors with blind-spot monitoring, Intuitive Parking As-

Place your right wrist on the ergonomic pad and use your finger to select areas of the color display in the upper dash. It's more like interacting with a smart phone, and with practice, lets you keep your eyes on the road, glancing slightly over at the screen rather than down at a button. The home page in my test car displayed a map, radio settings and fuel economy readings all at once, and you can use the RTI to pick from many other choices.

My tester arrived with the F SPORT package, which adds a bolder black mesh grille, metallic lower bumper molding and black mirrors on the outside, along sist, and a power moonroof, bringing the grand total to $43,230. The NX 300h hybrid starts at $40,645 with front-wheel drive.

The Luxury Utility Vehicle (Lexus' term) market is a busy place, so having another player in the segment is a good move for Lexus. Although it's smaller than the RX, the NX boasts all of the luxury, performance, safety, and style features it needs to be competitive. And with the hybrid powertrain, it's a compelling green vehicle. The hyperactive design separates it from the others, but if the look works for you, go for it.

Shape Our Fremont

Where Fremont residents can learn about shaping proposed housing developments

Connolly Townhouses Up for Review

Warmington Residential submitted their latest plans to build townhouses on the site currently occupied by Connolly's Furniture, Bob's Giant Burger, the American Cancer Society Discovery Shop, Dominos Pizza, and several other popular businesses in Irvington.

Tentative plans for this project were presented to the Fremont City Council in November 2014. At that time, the Council gave preliminary approval to convert the property from commercial to residential. Many local residents opposed the project — some because they felt the new buildings did not fit the neighborhood and others because they did not want to lose the businesses that had been there for so many years.

New Numbers

The latest proposal is to build 61 townhouses on the property and a row of 10 live-work units facing onto Fremont Boulevard. Most of the buildings will be three-stories tall. A few end units will be two-stories.

The townhouses range from two bedroom/two-and-a-half bath units to larger two bedroom/four bath units with both an office and a den. The office and den of the larger units can easily be converted into bedrooms for extended families or multiple-roommate living arrangements.

The live-work units have a work space and half bath on the first floor with a business entry door to the street. Living space is on the second and third floors. The owners of the live-work units would be required to live above their individual work spaces.

Each townhouse and live-work unit has its own attached two-car garage. Parking for guests and customers will be on the site or along Chapel Way. Vehicle entry will be from Fremont Boulevard and Chapel Way. A locked emergency vehicle access gate on Kvistad Drive will give an alternate point of entry for fire apparatus.

Old Issues

Although the latest proposal brings new numbers, it raises many old issues that have been sources of concern for residents and the business community since the start.

First, approval of this project will require a General Plan Amendment. The General Plan is the basic planning document for growth throughout the entire city, and opponents claim it should not be amended on a lot-by-lot basis for individual developments. Plans for schools, water, and traffic all use the General Plan for their forecasts. The impact of this development would not be reflected in those forecasts.

Second, most of the townhouse units can have four or five occupants with vehicles, but the developer is providing only two parking spaces per unit. Nearby residential and business neighbors are concerned that vehicles from the project will overflow onto the surrounding streets and into private parking lots where they will increase noise and congestion.

Third, some people contend the live-work units simply won't work and will produce a patchwork of unattractive covered-over storefronts. For example, owners of the live-work units will not be required to move if their businesses close and will be prohibited from renting or leasing their work spaces to other businesses. Without business operations on the ground floor, owners may simply put drapes across the front windows, lock the front doors, and use the spaces for storage or living areas. Critics say that is exactly what will happen with this project.

Other concerns are that some of the townhouses are too close to the adjacent properties, depriving neighbors of privacy in their backyards. Nearby business owners point out that the tall live-work buildings along the sidewalk on Fremont Boulevard will block the view of their businesses from the street. The business owners on the site who will be forced to move are concerned about the expense of relocation and the loss of customers.

Comments Shape Changes

This project is just entering the formal review process by the Planning Department, and the City of Fremont welcomes public input about the proposed development.

Residents should send their comments and concerns directly to the Planning Department by emailing Staff Planner Bill Roth at broth@fremont.gov. This will ensure that all public correspondence becomes part of the legal record and is forwarded to the Planning Commission and City Council members for consideration.

The developer is holding a Community Outreach Meeting to let residents view the project plans, ask questions, and express their concerns. The meeting will be on Tuesday, June 30, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. in Fukaya Meeting Room B of the Fremont Main Library.

Caliber Collision Food Drive in high gear

SUBMITTED BY KIM KIMBRIEL

Knowing that kids can't have summer fun on an empty stomach, Caliber Collision is launching its fourth annual "Rhythm Restoration Food Drive" through Friday, June 26 to benefit the Second Harvest Food Bank of Santa Clara and San Mateo counties. Caliber Collision has set up food collection bins at each of its nine centers in the San Jose area and urges customers and the public to drop off food items or cash donations to the local center in Fremont.

Local Caliber locations are part of a company-wide national food drive that provided more than 1 million meals last year for children in need of food. The annual food drive is a grassroots, volunteer effort by Caliber teammates who have challenged each other to break last year's record and have set a nationwide goal of two million meals this year for at-risk children and families.

According to a recent report by Feeding America, despite the economic recovery, 1 in 5 children in the U.S. continue to struggle with hunger. Chronic illness is reported to be higher among children living in food-insecure households, and the lack of adequate nutrition can literally change the structure of a child's brain and affect learning.

"For too many children, no school means no lunch," said Steve Grimshaw, Caliber Collision's Chief Executive Officer. "Local food banks need extra help during the summer to ensure that those in need don't go hungry. We are committed to doubling our efforts this year to restore the rhythm of regular meals to children in each of the communities that Caliber serves."

In addition to the food items, Caliber Collision has also committed to a corporate matching contribution for local food banks based on the amount collected by Caliber teammates locally. The food bank cannot accept glass or open containers, perishable or homemade items. Non-perishable food items or cash donations can be dropped off at any of the Caliber Collision locations in the greater Tri-City area:

BUSINESS

Murdoch's sons to become CEO, co-chair at 21st Century Fox

BY RYAN NAKASHIMA AND TALI ARBEL
AP BUSINESS WRITERS

NEW YORK (AP), Rupert Murdoch is preparing to hand over the CEO job at Twenty-First Century Fox Inc. to his son, James, while his other son, Lachlan, will become executive co-chairman, according to a person with direct knowledge with the matter.

Murdoch, 84, one of the world's most powerful media magnates, will become executive chairman and remain deeply involved in the company, while his sons are to run the business in a partnership, the person said.

The person was not authorized to speak publicly and spoke on condition of anonymity.

The elder Murdoch will retain a grip on the corporation behind Fox News Channel, Fox broadcast network and the 20th Century Fox movie studio through a family trust that owns 38 percent of the voting shares. He has been CEO since 1979 and chairman since 1991.

Chase Carey, the company's president and chief operating officer, will stay on in an advisory role through the end of his contract in June 2016.

The moves will be discussed at a board meeting in the coming weeks, the person said.

In a statement, 21st Century Fox acknowledged the pending changes. "The matter of succession is on the agenda at our upcoming, regularly scheduled board meeting," it said.

Fox News and CNBC reported the news earlier Thursday.

The moves are the next step in the gradual handover of the company to the next generation of Murdochs. In March of 2014, the company elevated James, 42, to co-chief operating officer, while Lachlan, 43, was promoted to nonexecutive co-chairman.

Murdoch told employees in an internal memo at the time, "this evolution of our leadership team underscores the considerable planning that both the company and the board have undertaken to ensure a vibrant future for 21st Century Fox and its shareholders."

Murdoch, an ambitious executive with a flair for big acquisitions, has been known for upending the media establishment with bold moves, but also for over-paying for assets he sets his sights on.

The company started with a single newspaper in his native Australia. He expanded it across many media platforms in Britain, the U.S., Germany, Italy and India.

He started the Fox network in the 1980s after ABC, CBS and NBC had dominated for a half-century. Then he tackled cable TV with Fox News, which quickly toppled CNN as the cable news leader.

But his newspapers have had a harder time. A phone hacking scandal in the U.K. stung the company. Under pressure from investors, he split the original News Corp. into print and entertainment companies in 2013.

Murdoch is also the executive chairman at News Corp., the company that now contains The Wall Street Journal and New York Post newspapers and book publisher HarperCollins.

Nakashima reported from Los Angeles.

Q&A: A look at California's senior water rights holders

AP WIRE SERVICE

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP), Farmers and other landowners who staked some of the earliest claims to California's water are the latest to face mandatory cutbacks ordered by the state during the relentless drought.

Regulators on Friday ordered more than 100 so-called senior water rights holders to stop taking water from some rivers and streams, the first of several rounds of cutbacks expected this summer.

Here's a primer on who holds senior water rights:

WHO ARE THEY?

More than half are corporations such as power companies that use water for hydroelectric dams. Claims are also held by rural irrigation districts that serve thousands of farmers throughout Central California and the Sierra Nevada foothills. Water departments in San Francisco and Los Angeles are among the biggest users, although those agencies have multiple sources of water and have yet to be curtailed.

HOW DID THEY GET WATER RIGHTS?

Establishing an early right to California water was as simple as going ahead and diverting it. The paperwork came later. San Francisco got the Sierra Nevada water that fed its lush gardens by tacking a handwritten notice to a tree in 1902. The state started requiring applications and monitoring consumption after 1914 but exempted previous claims from the process.

WHO WATCHES THEM?

The State Water Resources Control Board oversees the water rights system and decides when conditions are too dry to meet demand. Every three years, it requires senior water rights holders to report how much water they have diverted, used and conserved. Since regulators lack widespread remote sensors or meters, they depend largely on the honor system to guard against illegal uses and conduct field inspections in response to complaints.

HOW MUCH WATER DO THEY USE?

Trillions of gallons a year, but no one knows exactly how much. An Associated Press investigation last year found the data riddled with obvious errors. State water officials concede they need better real-time monitoring of flows and diversions. As it is, they generally enforce cut-back orders when someone complains.

WHY DO THEY HAVE SPECIAL STATUS?

Much of the parched West was developed around the principle that water goes to those who claimed the limited resource first. Unused water may be sold or transferred. But California is unusual among Western states, in that it doesn't monitor senior rights holders as closely as it does junior rights holders.

Water conservation bill introduced

SUBMITTED BY DEREK CHERNOW

With the impact of California's historic drought reaching record proportions, Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont) has introduced a bill to allow local water authorities to levy an excise tax on excessive water users to fund critical water conservation measures. The bill, SB 789, would allow local water agencies to local water agencies to impose the tax at a rate not to exceed 300 percent of the purchase price of the water. Wieckowski chairs the Senate Committee on Environmental Quality.

"California's economy and way of life are being threatened by this historic drought. The Governor and Legislature have taken some excellent actions to provide short-term and long-term relief. This is another measure that will give local agencies the much needed flexibility to change the bad behaviors of water guzzlers," Wieckowski said. "There is no excuse for excessive water use. Whether it is mega-mansions keeping their lawns lush and green, bottled water companies buying a town's water cheap and selling for large profit, or companies using way too much water in the production of their goods or services, local entities should have the ability to charge them appropriately for their wasteful consumption."

The measure is voluntary. The bill only allows, but does not force, a local water agency to impose the tax. Revenue generated from the tax will be equally distributed between the local water agency and the State Water Resources Control Board. All proceeds will go directly to water conservation efforts.

SB 789 has an urgency clause, which would allow it to go into effect immediately upon signature of the Governor. Recently, the State instituted mandatory drought measures adopted in accordance with the Governor's Executive Order. The emergency regulations require an immediate 25 percent reduction in potable urban water use throughout California.

Senator Wieckowski represents the 10th Senate District, which stretches from southern Alameda County to Santa Clara County.

National Night Out Registration Underway

Join Fremont Police staff along with community organizations, neighborhood groups, and City leaders in celebrating National Night Out on Tuesday, August 4 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The typical way to participate in National Night Out is to organize a block or neighborhood party. Many will organize barbecues or ice cream socials where neighbors share good food, laughter and updates on what is happening in the neighborhood.

National Night Out provides the opportunity for neighbors to get to know each other a little better and sends a strong message to criminals that our community will look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity in their neighborhood. Throughout the night, City staff will make visits to the parties where they will share information, network, and answer questions that community members may have.

Community members can register their event with the Fremont Police Department by visiting www.FremontPolice.org/NNORegistration. The registration deadline is 5 p.m. on July 24 to be considered for a visit by the police or fire department. If you plan to block off your street for your celebration, you will need to obtain a block party permit from the City of Fremont by contacting Teresa Garcia at 510-494-4523 or tgarcia@fremont.gov. The deadline to file for a permit is Friday, July 3. For more information about the permit, which costs $20, visit www.Fremont.gov/SpecialEventPermit.

Once you register your party, you may request a visit from the Fire Department by contacting Pam Franklin at pfranklin@fremont.gov or 510-494-4299. To learn how other communities celebrate National Night Out, visit the National Association of Town Watch online at www.natw.org.

If you have questions about National Night Out in Fremont, please call the Community Engagement Unit at 510-790-6740.

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE IN OUR COMMUNITIES

Many people understand that Alzheimer's disease is related to memory, but misperceptions about its causes, symptoms, and effects continue to perpetuate. Some common myths are that Alzheimer's is a natural part of the aging process and everyone will experience it; that it is solely a genetic condition (you are only susceptible if an immediate family member has it); that Alzheimer's patients are all volatile and dangerous; and that quality of life diminishes immediately upon diagnosis. Yet none of these beliefs are true.

So, what is Alzheimer's, exactly? The National Institute on Aging (NIA) defines Alzheimer's as "an irreversible, progressive brain disease that slowly destroys memory and thinking skills, and eventually even the ability to carry out the simplest tasks." It is the leading cause of dementia, which the NIA describes as "loss of cognitive thinking, remembering, and reasoning – and behavioral abilities, to such an extent that it interferes with a person's life and activities."

Raise your rooms to new heights with eye-catching ceilings

Want to infuse your home with architectural interest? Start at the top.

"The ceiling is really the most overlooked design element in a space, hands down," said Brian Patrick Flynn, whose interior designs are regularly featured on HGTV.com and often showcased by his own company, FlynnnsOut Productions.

Consider this: The largest solid surface in a room - besides the floor - is the ceiling. Instead of leaving it bright white or builder beige, convert this blank canvas into a decorative canopy of color and texture.

Flynn and other influential designers are forecasting a ceiling "revival" in 2015. Fresh interpretations of vintage styles - such as gleaming metal tiles and textural wood beams - are helping inspire that trend, along with new, easy-to-install products that put these ceiling projects well within the reach of today's DIY-ers.

"Just like people, rooms need different layers to be one-of-a kind," Flynn said. "That includes a ceiling that makes people look up and scan the entire space."

Here are some hot ceiling trends to take your rooms to new heights:

Layer on the luster

Stamped metal ceilings have contributed shine and sophistication to American homes since they were introduced in the 1880s. Besides beauty, metal ceilings offer quite some practicality. They resist mold and mildew, offer sag resistance and last longer than plaster or dry-wall. Metallaire metal ceiling tiles from Armstrong are available in twelve patterns, and a variety of finishes, including chrome, copper, brass, white and lacquered steel. The lacquered steel panels also can be painted to accent or blend with the rest of the room. Regardless of the finish, the texture of the tiles creates a tactile top layer to the space.

Mix and match ceiling styles

Some room designers are combining different decorating elements at the top, such as inlaying the recesses of coffered ceilings with gold or copper tiles. Flynn said he's also a fan of tongue-and-groove ceilings accented with beams. "This adds a ton of visual interest to the room, and can make it feel much larger," he said.

Create character with wood

From rustic timber to sleek teak, wood hues help set the tone in a room. Besides imparting a sense of warmth, the grains and knots in wood panels add a textural layer that contrasts nicely with smooth surfaces like painted walls and granite countertops.

Add architectural depth

Coffered ceilings first appeared in Roman architecture, and their geometric elegance has graced grand buildings ever since. Today, the cost and complexity of building coffered ceilings have been reduced by lightweight materials and easy-to-install prefabricated systems that boast features like mold, mildew and sag resistance.

Flynn recommends homeowners start thinking about their ceiling by exploring websites for ideas. A good place to start is www.armstrong.com/residential-ceilings, which offers hundreds of examples, including some really interesting before and after photos.

Olive Hyde hosts Textile Arts

“Otter Daze” by Emi Tabuchi

Curator Gloria Kim has selected the work of 21 contemporary Bay Area artists – Adriane Dedic, Ann May, Denise Oyama Miller, Diane Goff, Emi Tabuchi, Geri Patterson-Kutras, Giny Dixon, Irene Schlesinger, Jeri Bodemar, Joan Dyer, Kay Hille-Hatten, Melba Vincent, Michael Rohde, Miran Lee, Mirka Knaster, Moitreyee Chowdhury, Nancy Bardach, Nancy Ryan, Sandra Wagner, Schatzi Brimer, and Susan Helmer – creating an exhibit featuring the spectrum of today’s textile arts.

As a watercolor and collage artist, Emi Tabuchi strives through her art to honor her father, her heritage, and to record the intimacy of her soul. Her whimsical fabric piece “Otter Daze” captures otters at play. “Quiet Stream,” created with handmade papers from Japan, reminds us of the power and beauty of nature.

For “Serenity in the Forest,” Nancy Ryan uses an Impressionistic technique of cutting and slicing fabric and scattering the pieces onto a canvas. She then covers the fabric with netting and heavily machine quilts the work. She prefers techniques that allow her to create realism with abstraction.

Inspired by a trip to Japan, photographer and jewelry artist Kay Hille-Hatten took a class in Japanese Boro Stitching. She included Boro stitching in her necklace to be shown at Olive Hyde. In addition, after experimentation, she used paper and fabric to create beads for both her unique necklaces and bracelets.

The “elegant simplicity” of the Japanese aesthetic holds a strong attraction for Mirka Knaster. A chance bag of fabric with a Japanese sensibility led Knaster to a fit the pieces of fabric together, as though working on a jigsaw puzzle, and create a new series of work. For her, the joy of the creative process derives from the unexpected.

Incorporating her love of textiles and beads in painting, Susan Helmer paints her vivid landscapes on stretched silk with liquid dyes. Resist is used to contain the colors. Finished pieces are steamed for at least three hours to set the dyes. Susan then embroiders with beads or silk thread to create details, shadows, and texture. Finally the piece is stretched and framed.

From an early age, Miran Lee painted and participated in many art projects, eventually earning an M.A. in product design. After moving from Seoul, Korea, to the U.S. in 2010, Lee has tried to express her adjustment to her new environment through her art work. Using traditional Korean needlework and silk, she adopts new ideas in shape and color. Each of her works represents her stories and ideas about her life.

Finding inspiration in the landscape around her, Sandra Wagner’s wearable art and art quilts feature her hand-dyed fabrics. She stitches, fuses raw edges, machine appliques, builds layers and machine quilts. Her work speaks in color and movement. She hopes that others see the beauty and excitement that she sees as she works.

The Textile Exhibit opens with a reception on June 19 and runs through July 18.

DIG THESE BUGS!

TRICKY TRAPDOOR

by Nellie Fly
WORLD'S SMALLEST REPORTER

UNDERGROUND – Trapdoor spiders are _____ to dig at undercover work. They use their _____ to dig deep, cleverly-designed burrows.

These underground _____ have several uses. They make cozy _____ and safe hiding places. The trapdoor spider also makes a hinged _____ or trapdoor, at the top of its burrow and then uses the burrow as a _____ for tasty insect prey.

How it makes the trapdoor
The trapdoor made by the trapdoor spider is made up of layers of their special spider _____ and soil. The spider spends long periods of _____ to make sure the trapdoor is a perfect fit.

Standards Link: Reading Comprehension: Students use strategies to determine the meaning of unknown words.

This trapdoor spider snagged some of the words out of Nellie's article. Can you draw a line to where each word belongs?

Hunting From Home
The trapdoor spider sits under the trapdoor with its legs sticking out.

When an insect comes near, the trapdoor spider senses the vibrations it makes on the ground with special sensitive leg hairs.

It takes some kinds of trapdoor spiders just 0.03 (that's three hundredths) of a second to grab a victim. That is faster than the blink of an eye!

It pounces! In a rapid pounce the spider snatches the insect, injects it with poison and pulls it down into the burrow to be eaten.

Standards Link: Life Science: Know that the behavior of individual organisms is influenced by internal and external cues.

Killer Driller

Another bug that uses special digging skills is the ichneumon (ik-new-man) wasp. This wasp lives in the pine forests of North America, Europe and New Zealand.

When it is time to lay her eggs, the female ichneumon wasp finds a pine tree. She lands on a trunk or branch and gently taps the wood with her antennae. She is listening for a hollow sound that tells her there is a grub inside.

With the sharp tip of her ovipositor, she pierces through the bark and drills until she finds the grub. She lays a single egg in the grub's body.

In a few days, the tiny ichneumon young hatches and feasts on the grub's fat body. When it is big enough, it tunnels out of the tree and flies.

Adult ichneumon wasps drink the nectar of flowers.

Student Art Exhibition

SUBMITTED BY ARATHI SATISH

Fremont Cultural Arts Council, Induz and Fremont Main Library are jointly holding a Student Art Exhibition at the Fremont Main Library on Friday, June 19. This exhibit connects local students with different cultures of the world using the arts. As many local schools have limited access to art programs, Induz is dedicated to providing arts for children that will help them be more creative.

Passport to World Arts program is a creative way of taking the students on a journey through the world of art-making, based on cultural artifacts and crafts of many people. Connie Chew, FCAC board member coordinating the event said, "Fremont Cultural Arts Council saw the Passport to World Arts program as a good opportunity to bring arts to kids in our community through our Cultural Arts in the School funds."

FCAC teamed up with the Fremont Main Library to provide eight after-school sessions from April 3 to May 22, to the first 40 kids (elementary through middle school aged) who wished to participate.

Each student was provided a "passport," and taught about a different country each week and an art form from that country was done as a project. Art included African Masks, Egyptian Portrait Painting, Australian Dot Painting, Oaxacan Alebrijes, Chinese Dragon, European Stained Glass Painting, Peruvian Sun Discs and Indian Madhubani Painting. At the end of each session, students were given a "stamp" for their passport relating to the country of the day.

This gave local children an opportunity to be creative and at the same time develop an appreciation for arts of different cultures. It was a great way to meet new friends and get involved with the diverse local community. With some initial guidance and materials, students let their imaginations flow.

Students Art Exhibition is a display of projects created in April and May. Light snacks will be provided. Admission is free and guests are welcome.

Tri-City Stargazer JUNE 17 – JUNE 23, 2014 BY VIVIAN CAROL

For All Signs: We come to the point of the summer solstice at 12:38 p.m. EDT on the 21st. This is the point of the year at which the northern hemisphere is tilted closest to the sun. So this is also theoretically the longest day of the year. For centuries, pagans (country people) celebrated this day with prayers and requests for blessings from Mother Earth, which would soon yield the summer harvests. Take a moment to give honor and thanks to the trees, which are weakening in their battle against our pollution.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): There are various irritants at your place of daily work. The environment may be cluttered by things requiring repair. Maybe even the street needs to be fixed. For some reason it is hard for you to get organized and stay on target with these irritating conditions. You are not in control, but it is not your fault.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Necessary expenses (those not of the fun type) may develop this week. If not that, you could be just having a little blue mood. It is one of those times when we operate better in solitude. This is an existential dilemma that everyone encounters now and then. It will pass quickly.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Take everything slowly and easily throughout this week. Aspects warn against attempts to move aggressively in any direction. Concentrate carefully on any project requiring calculations and multiple plans. The probability of making an error or accessing inaccurate information is high.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): The sun returns home to your sign this week, as it always does on the solstice. You likely will find it to be energizing. Now is the time to focus on new plans for this next year of your life. You are in a reasonably good place with yourself at this time. Your heart and mind are flowing together.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): A new initiative or idea that began in late October of 2014 has come to a point in which you can move no further without making adjustments. You may be required to wait on another factor before proceeding. This is not a fault of anyone. You just need to wait for the timing to catch up with you.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Your mind may be sharp as a pointed pencil in your work and daily routine. However, communications with significant others may be misunderstood, snarled, or lost altogether. Do not make assumptions about what others are saying. Ask questions and clarify for best results.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): You may be taking a sober look at one or more relationships. Even the very closest friends cannot know each other from the inside. Sometimes we forget this fact and need to become aware that we are actually separate beings, helping when we can. Sometimes our energy is too low to be there for one another.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): There are fears lurking in the back of your mind that may cause you to feel discouraged and prone to quit. Make an effort to shine a bright light upon them. Are they real or imagined? Is there any way to bring them out of the darkness so you can engage them?

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): Cosmic energies favor new design of old or outmoded business or organizational systems. Financial or business pressures may be the motivator. It is time to update and modernize, especially if you are working with a method out of old habit. Constructive and fresh ideas will flow freely and you may wonder why a particular solution hasn't occurred to you before now.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): Your life is not your own this week. Multiple demands call for a variety of tools and skills, and use all your time. Moving forward with your own agenda is a real challenge. It will be easier if you just accept this time is not your best and wait for better weeks ahead. They will come.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): For any number of reasons, circumstances may leave you out of the social loop this week. Astrologically this is a time for self-reflection and not self-condemnation. Having a quiet week is appropriate at this time. Don't turn this into a negative belief about yourself.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): A misunderstanding could develop between you and a close friend or family member. The blame game is useless. Do your best to unwind the thread to the point that it began and start fresh. It is possible that you will have a minor case of laryngitis. Pipes, whether in your body or your house, may need to be cleared.

There's something very charming about young performers. Perhaps it's their blossoming love of an instrument and enthusiastic discovery of classical music. Or the lighthearted freshness of the compositions they play. Whatever the reason, Music at the Mission's student "ChamberFest" concert promises to be a delightful experience.

The concert program took shape as Music at the Mission ChamberFest students worked hard during an intensive week of coachings and masterclasses with faculty members, acclaimed professional musicians

Dr. Katherine Lee (piano), Steve Huber (violin), Michael Graham (cello), and Ronald McKean (Baroque workshop).

The hour-long concert will include movements from Mozart's "Piano Trio K. 254," Frank Bridge's "Miniatures for Piano Trio," Gabriel Fauré's "Dolly Suite," and David Karp's "Polka."

"Chamber music is a smaller version of the orchestral experience. Students work one-on-one with only two or three other students," observed Dr. Lee, Director of Music at the Mission's Student Summer ChamberFest in Fremont. "The outcome is a fun experience for musicians and audience!"

ChamberFest concert

The young musicians range from ages 8 through 15, making this the perfect concert experience for families with children and anyone who loves music. The concert on June 20 at Old Mission San Jose will begin at 7 p.m., followed by a complimentary reception. No tickets or reservations are required. Simply show up and enjoy yourself!

Muslim hijabi hipsters fusing fashion with faith

BY AYA BATRAWY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates (AP), Fashion-conscious Muslim women from Kuala Lumpur to Los Angeles who wear the Islamic headscarf, known as the hijab, have had to get creative.

By fusing both their sense of fashion with their faith, this growing group, some of whom have dubbed themselves hipster hijabis, is reinterpreting traditional notions of what it means to dress conservatively. They're spawning a new market for niche fashion brands and finding unexpected supporters among some mainstream brands, as well as from conservative Christian and Orthodox Jewish women who also dress modestly.

"We want to be current in fashion and adhere to the tenets of our faith," said Ibtihaj Muhammad, who owns Louella, a fashion brand catering to women who combine modest dressing with fashion.

The Los Angeles-based brand has sold nearly 4,000 pieces since its launch three months ago. Muhammad, a professional athlete and member of the United States fencing team, said she struggled trying to find long-sleeved, floor-length dresses to wear when she traveled on speaking tours on behalf of Team USA and the State Department.

Her line, which include floor-length sheer cardigans and dresses, ranges from $45 for a colorful, Picasso-inspired print cardigan to $100 for a pink lace, empire-cut dress. Though there are countless Muslim-owned companies around the world making clothes that cater to women who wear the hijab, many are selling traditional black-flowing robes known as abayas.

"I just got tired of spending money and chasing this idea of this perfect modest dress," she said.

Some mainstream designers also have started to cater to this growing demand for stylish modest wear. This summer, DKNY released a collection during the Islamic holy month of Ramadan that sold exclusively in the Arabian Gulf. Karl Lagerfeld also brought his Chanel Cruise Collection this year to Dubai, unveiling an array of designs inspired by the rich culture and patterns of the Middle East.

Still, the market is ripe for more investment said Albert Momdjian, founder and CEO of Dubai-based Sokotra Capital.

"The Muslim population is the second largest population in the world with roughly 1.8 billion people so it's a large population that you definitely cannot ignore. And 50 percent are below the age of 25," he said. "It's a young population, it's a growing population and it's a large addressable market."

The hipster hijabi movement is the byproduct of a young generation of Muslim women coming of age. It grew organically, spurred in part by social media, and continues to take on new meaning by the women who embrace it.

Summer Albarcha coined her photo-sharing Instagram account "Hipster Hijabis" in 2012, when the teenager from St.

Louis, Missouri was just 16. She now has almost 23,000 people following her on Instagram. Her loyal following prompted New-York based label Mimux Maxi, run by two Orthodox Jewish women, to send her one of their popular maxi skirts to model.

The collaboration caused a stir, with many Jewish customers blasting Mimux Maxi for featuring a Muslim woman in hijab. Albarcha says the experience only reaffirmed the universal struggle women of all faiths and backgrounds have when trying to find stylish conservative pieces to wear.

"It came out that our ideas of wanting modest fashion and in promoting it is something really similar and something we have in common between our religions," she said. "We should both be working together to embrace this idea and expand it."

There also are challenges from within the Muslim community. Women in hijab wearing eye-catching styles often find themselves at odds with conservatives who say hijab should be about covering a woman's beauty and concealing it from strangers.

"People are resistant to change and people like to keep things the same," said fashion blogger Maria Al-Sadek. "It's just like a stigma to be stylish and resemble Western wear sometimes."

Last year, a group called Mipsterz, or Muslim Hipsters, made a short video of a group of American Muslim women skateboarding in heels and showing off their ultra-stylish hijabi styles. The video drew mixed reactions, including criticism from people who thought it bent too much toward Western notions of beauty and went against Islamic principles of humility.

Marwa Atik, 23, was in the video and saw it as a chance to position her fashion line, Vela Scarves, which she produces in Los Angeles.

The graduate of Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising in Los Angeles says she sold more than 3,200 scarves last year to customers around the world and plans to expand her offerings to include apparel.

For her, wearing the headscarf has never been a barrier to being fashionable.

"It's very easy to get into the stereotypes and start to feel insecure," she said. "I made sure people see me as I see me."

Fashion insider Bong Guerrero, founder and CEO of Fashion Forward, a platform in Dubai for local designers to showcase their collections, says the explosion of design-oriented modest street wear has given "a new perspective on hijabi style."

"Because hijabi has an archaic and demure connotation, adding hipster to it adds color and fun," he said, but "is it modest fashion? It is conservative fashion? Is it Islamic fashion?"

For Atik in trend-setting California, the word hipster is already out of style. But modesty, she says, is here to stay.

"I am not looking at the name of hipster, but the hijabi girl that is much more stylish," she said.

Every year, the Boy Scouts Troop 176 of Fremont serve breakfast to about 250 people. The parent committee helps the scouts by taking jobs in the kitchen, while eager scouts serve food to a crowd of hungry visitors. Boy Scouts Troop 176 will host another "Pancake Breakfast Fundraiser" on Sunday, June 28 at Centerville Presbyterian Church. They will serve pancakes, eggs, hash browns, sausages, tea, coffee and juice.

Funds go directly to the troop to pay for badges, outings, food on camping trips, and equipment. Proceeds will also help pay for scouts otherwise unable to attend camp. Individual tickets cost $7; family tickets (four people) cost $24. To purchase tickets, call (510) 928-7837 or visit www.troop176.us.

Anyone interested in joining Boy Scouts Troop 176 can talk to one of the adult leaders during the weekly Monday meetings at Centerville Presbyterian Church at 7 p.m. For more information about scouting within the San Francisco Bay Area Council, visit www.sfbac.org.

Garcia chosen as Teacher of the Year

SUBMITTED BY PATRICK GANNON

As the school bell rings, Alicia Garcia sits engaging a group of immigrant students and youth with English as a second language who, until now, were at risk of falling through the cracks in the classroom. An advocate for English Learners, Alicia has dedicated her career to empowering hundreds of students limited in English proficiency to have a voice in the classroom. As a passionate mentor for both students and teachers in the Alameda County Office of Education's (ACOE) eight court and community schools, Alicia supports the success of the county's most vulnerable youth. For this, and many other reasons, the Alameda County Office of Education is proud to announce Alicia Garcia as its 2015-16 Teacher of the Year.

Garcia works as ACOE's English Language Learner teacher on special assignment overseeing the English Learner program; she supports students whose English-language proficiency ranges from conversational speaking to only understanding several words. In her capacity she also provides professional development workshops, teacher coaching, and support to school principals in best practices/strategies to better serve the needs of English Language Learners. Alicia works tirelessly developing English learners' reading and writing skills to create an environment that supports equity and success for all students.

"I got into education for social justice, to advocate for those who are vulnerable and to give them opportunity and a fighting chance," expressed Garcia.

Garcia's fellow teachers know and love her for her commitment to continually seek out new classroom resources and strategies that match the needs and strengths of students. But more than anything, it's her focus on building relationships and trust with students that defines the impact Garcia makes in the classroom.

She taught elementary school for 12 years before returning to college to receive a degree in social work. She has counseled and taught teenage mothers and at-risk youth for the past ten years and in the spring of 2010 was awarded of Educator of the Year for English Language

"Alicia Garcia is not only a phenomenal teacher, but an advocate and champion for youth struggling with language proficiency in the classroom and the educators working to reach them," said Alameda County Superintendent L. Karen Monroe. "We are honored to recognize Alicia for the many ways she inspires our youth to not only find their voice, but to use it to forge themselves a better future."

Alicia Garcia will be celebrated along with other district Teacher of the Year honorees at ACOE's 26th Annual Teacher of the Year Awards Ceremony on October 8.

Warrior Fever

As the Golden State Warriors advance in their quest for a National Basketball Association title, enthusiasm knows no bounds. Among those waiting for decades to watch finals that include their home team were several residents at Aegis Assisted Living in Fremont. Clearly demonstrating their preference in a tough series with Cleveland, they gathered on June 13th to add their support to Bay Area partisans rooting for the Warriors.

Newark Chamber of Commerce celebrated business

At a luncheon meeting on Wednesday, June 10th, members of the Newark Chamber of Commerce gathered to recognize the importance of the business community for the health of the City of Newark. Chamber CEO Valerie Boyle opened the proceedings with comments about the value of longtime members whose commitment to the community is critical for a healthy, vibrant and growing community. Cargill was recognized for an astounding eight decades of membership and Kaiser Permanente as recipient of the 2015 Community Partner Award. The Outstanding Service Award was presented to Bernie Nillo (Viola Blythe and other organizations) and Joellen Sutterfield of Unitek College.

An important part of the ceremonies was recognition of Bernie Nillo, outgoing chamber president and the installation of David Bible and board members for 2015-2016. Following a new tradition of passing the football to the new president, Bible spoke of his plans for the chamber. Mayor Alan Nagy followed with comments about Newark's 60 year anniversary, its growth and bright future, finishing with "When business succeeds, our City succeeds."

Certain sports such as basketball, baseball, and football are highly recognized with ample coverage by the media and overwhelming support from loyal fans. However, there are other sports available that have much to offer as well – one of which is cricket.

Cricket is a bat-and-ball game involving two teams with 11 players each. One team bats and attempts to score more runs than its opponent, while the other team bowls and fields the ball. A bowler throws the ball toward the

Sunnyvale, Richmond, Tracy, Fresno, and Lathrop. Established in 1892, Northern California Cricket Association (NCCA) is the largest and oldest association in the U.S., with about 40 teams around Northern California. According to NCCA President Sunil Kumar, there is a “huge potential for the sport to grow,” citing that cricket is a global sport, popular in England, India, Australia and other countries. Locally, NCCA includes teams from Richmond, Union City, Fremont, Milpitas, San Jose, and Santa Clara to name a few. Both organizations rely on support from community and ity, as there is no aggression in the sport. Composure, discipline, good sportsmanship and teamwork are valued before, during and after the game. In addition, Ahmad states, “It has a lot of personal values and lifelong learning that you achieve through playing cricket and it can come in handy for the rest of your life.”

NCCA caters to two types of players – recreational and aspirational. The sport generates interest from people of different walks of life, whether they choose to play for leisure or professionally. NCCA welcomes adults, youth, and women in their league. They have a premier league of two divi-

Irvington track star holds promise

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

Haris Khalig of Irvington High School is on the watch list for the future. His accomplishments on the track, so far, are signs of good things to come. Coach Wayne Stone says Khaliq displayed real potential in his first year on the team. A 100 yard dash matchup with American High School in 2012, produced promising results; he now holds the school record in the 200 meter run. This year, he was clocked at 11.14 at the Dan Gabor Invitational, earning first place in the 100 meter run.

In the 200 meter run at the North Coast Section (NCS) Championships, Khalig was clocked at 21.97 for third place. He captured second place in the Bayshore Championships and showed great promise at the California State Championships with an 11th place finish in a field crowded with talent.

This year, Khaliq has been instrumental in helping the Viking track and field efforts by running in 400 meter races and participating in the 400x100 relay team.

The first Intermediate (50/70) TOC game of the 2015 season was played June 15th at Gomes School, home to Mission San Jose Little League. A lively opening promises an interesting season as Mission San Jose and Warm Springs fought hard to the very end. A rally in the bottom of the seventh inning secured victory for Warm Springs 9-8, as each team showed fire power at the plate with no clear victor until the final out.

Each recruit received a free SMR t-shirt and a SMR Certificate of Appreciation, welcoming them into the military and thanking them for choosing to serve and protect our country.

About 100 recruits were in attendance, joined by their recruiters, family members and local veterans. The Travis Air Force Base Honor Guard presented the Colors. U.S. Marine Corps (Ret.) Major General James M. "Mike" Myatt, U.S. Navy (Ret.) Senior Chief Mickey Ganitch, and California State Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont) also graced the event.

We want to thank all of the recruiters, the local people and organizations, and AMVETS Hayward Post 911 who all donated and supported us. For more details, please visit www.SMR1.org. Next year's event will be on Saturday, June 4, 2016.

Infographic Shows Rapid Growth in Renewable Energy Jobs

By CHRISTINA BRIGGS, ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT MANAGER

The International Renewable Energy Agency (IRENA) recently released its Annual Review citing an 18% increase in worldwide renewable energy jobs since last year. Today the total number of jobs stands at an impressive 7.7 million. This is in line with trends we are observing right here, with sectors like solar and energy storage experiencing strong growth. The global perspective of this report also highlights the need to help clean tech companies strengthen international connections. Bottom line—this is further validation of our long standing strategy to support clean tech and its potential for improving our planet and as well as our economy.

Career Pathways Grant

SUBMITTED BY PATRICK GANNON

The Alameda County Office of Education (ACOE) has recently been awarded a $14.2 million grant to expand career-based education to over 2,700 at-risk students in the East Bay through the California Career Pathways Trust (CCPT). With the grant, ACOE will lead a new career pathways program reaching youth previously unserved by the CCPT program enrolled in 18 Continuation, Community and Court schools across Alameda and Contra Costa County.

The CCPT program funds K-14 programs that blend academic and

Through this landmark program, ACOE will partner with the Contra Costa County Office of Education, eight Alameda and Contra Costa County school districts, and nine community colleges.

ACOE’s program will provide high-skill, high-demand pathways to college and career in the following areas: Education, Child Development & Family Services; Public Service; Law; Building and Construction Trades (including Energy) and Hospitality, Tourism and Recreation.

OPINION

WILLIAM MARSHAK

I have always been fascinated and entertained by balloon magicians. Starting with sausage-shaped balloons, a few twists and manipulations of one or more of these latex items flows from a singular shape to something entirely different... a dog, hat, flower and so on. Changing shapes and function reminds me of all the amendments cities tack on to their General Plans. I understand that when you create a document designed to guide a city for 20-30 years, there are bound to be a plethora of changes, but when such alterations begin to change the basic fabric of our communities, it is time to revisit the fundamental plan.

The City of Fremont is moving forward with plans to encourage high density residential development anywhere within a defined radius (1/4 mile; 1/2 mile) of mass transit, whether BART, ACE, AMTRAK, AC Transit, etc. Just as the balloon magician can squeeze more and more air into sections of a designed creation allowing areas to bulge under extra pressure, there are limits and, if not observed, balloons will explode, ruining the intended result. Just as the balloon magician must be cognizant of pressure within each component of the final sculpture, planners should also recognize the overall impact of more and more high density housing and the pressure it exerts on adjacent residential and commercial areas.

The City's "pruning efforts" to restrict and compress commercial properties within and in proximity to the historic districts must be balanced with services offered in the commercial core. High density residential additions replacing commercial property exert more pressure on what remains and introduce significant traffic on already overloaded roads. The result may also constrict access to shopping and amenities. Not everyone who occupies a residence next to mass transit opts for the same mode of transportation, adding to traffic woes spreading to other areas. For instance, all tenants of the proposed Peralta Crossing may not use Centerville Station, traveling instead to BART (by automobile?). A close connection to Centerville will hopefully stimulate development, but for now, Fremont Boulevard, some of which is State controlled Highway 84 offers few amenities and no major grocery store. Is this how Fremont promotes a pedestrian friendly atmosphere?

Those desperate for a foothold in the crazy local housing market will buy (or rent) almost anything even though traffic congestion, noise, train whistles and more are literally on their doorstep. How long before complaints arise similar to those living next to airports although, in most cases, the airport was part of the landscape well before housing moved in. As planners allow, even encourage, infill into commercial properties that have been allowed to degenerate, what happens to the overall quality of life for residents? Properties in Centerville, Irvington and infill along Mission Boulevard will have an important impact on everyone, whether next door neighbor or not. Maybe the rush to high density infill is not such a good idea. While housing pressures dominate planning, is a new planned district on every block compatible with the General Plan?

The proposed housing development at the Connolly's site in Irvington will break continuity of the district, eventually compromising nearby commercial enterprises. Businesses in Irvington will be constricted to a small area just as commercial properties on Peralta Boulevard in Centerville are facing extinction. Live/work units that attempt to combine small business and residential uses are an experiment that promotes a narrow range of residents and, in my view, unlikely to be conducive to a vibrant business district. It appears to be a twist that allows additional residential development under the guise of mixed use.

The General Plan allows for flexibility, but just as the balloon magician twists and shapes, undue pressure on our quality of life can result in a detrimental big bang.

Four suspects arrested in armed robbery

SUBMITTED BY
LT. ROBERT MCMANUS, SAN LEANDRO PD

On June 9, 2015 at 4:45 pm, a man walking on E. 14th St. near Oakes Blvd. was approached by four males driving a black Honda. As the vehicle pulled alongside of the man, two of the suspects pointed handguns at him, demanding his wallet and other personal property. Fearing for his safety, the man complied, and as the car sped off, he called 911 to report the robbery.

Dispatchers broadcasted the incident to officers, who responded to the scene and began to look for the suspects. A patrol officer driving on MacArthur Blvd. near Dutton Ave. saw the black Honda parked on St. Mary's Ave., adjacent to the Quik Stop Market and watched the suspects inside duck down, attempting to hide from the officer.

As the officer began to make a u-turn to investigate, the Honda sped off, and ran through the red light at the intersection of Dutton Ave. and MacArthur Blvd., colliding with two vehicles near the intersection. Fortunately, no one was injured.

The suspects immediately got out of the car and began to flee the scene. The officer instantly apprehended two of the suspects. The other two jumped fences in the nearby residential neighborhood.

As more officers responded to search for the outstanding suspects, a patrol officer spotted one about a block away and quickly arrested him.

Police used social media, including Nixle, Twitter, and Facebook to notify residents about the police activity in the neighborhood, asking them to stay in their homes and call 911 if they saw the outstanding suspect in the area.

As a team of officers, including a San Leandro Police canine prepared to search for the fourth suspect, an officer made several announcements over the police car's loudspeaker, ordering the suspect to surrender. After several announcements and no response, the team of officers began to search several yards in the neighborhood, before finding the outstanding suspect hiding in a rear yard in the 1500 block of Glen Dr., just a few houses away from where the loudspeaker announcements had been made.

The suspect came out from where he had been hiding and charged towards the officers. He was apprehended by the canine and taken into custody. He sustained minor injuries during his apprehension and was treated at the scene by paramedics. He was transported to a local hospital for additional treatment, before being released back into police custody.

During the investigation, officers located a black pistol, later determined to be a replica firearm that had been discarded by one of the suspects, after they fled the car. The second handgun has not been located.

During the investigation, police learned that the Honda used during the robbery had been stolen earlier in the day. The robbery victim's wallet was found inside of the stolen car.

"The prompt actions of the victim, great police work and cooperation from the residents in the Glen Drive neighborhood led to the quick arrests of these suspects," said Lt. Robert McManus. "This was truly a team effort by everyone involved," he said.

Police report that the suspects ranged in age from mid-teens to early 20s. Their names and additional information about them is not being released at this time, as investigators are comparing this robbery to others, and are checking with other East Bay cities to see if these suspects may be responsible for other robberies in the area.

The four suspects are being held on suspicion of armed robbery, auto theft, and resisting arrest. The driver of the stolen Honda is also being held on suspicion of hit and run, after colliding with the two vehicles on MacArthur Blvd.

City of Hayward reaches tentative labor agreement

SUBMITTED BY KELLY MCADOO

Hayward City Manager Fran David released the following statement after the City and representatives from Hayward Association of Management Employees (HAME) reached a tentative agreement on a new labor contract, which will now be presented to the employees for a ratification vote: “I am happy to announce that the City has come to terms with the HAME bargaining group on a new contract after a swift and efficient negotiation.” “Our HAME employees have shown true leadership in good times and in bad, coming forward quickly and responsibly during the Great Recession to share in the cost of our valuable benefits and working respectfully and thoughtfully throughout these negotiations to craft a reasonable, mutually acceptable agreement.” “I extend my sincere thanks to the HAME bargaining team for their candor and understanding in this process. I also thank our City negotiating team for exhibiting an extraordinary degree of openness, flexibility and motivation to reach a mutually acceptable deal in such a short time.” Upon ratification, the terms of the agreement will be available at the City’s labor negotiations website, www.haywardworks.com.

Santa Clara County Board votes to strengthen enforcement of illegal fireworks

SUBMITTED BY JANICE ROMBECK

This Fourth of July Holiday, law enforcement officers in Santa Clara County will have a new tool to help stop the use of illegal fireworks that are posing threats of a large-scale fire on dry landscapes brought by years of drought. The Board voted on June 9, to adopt an ordinance that holds property owners responsible when fireworks are discharged on their properties. The new regulations will take effect after the Board votes again on June 23, in time for the July 4 weekend. “With our dry drought conditions, there’s a real fear of sparks igniting fires in neighborhoods and in our hills,” said Board President Dave Cortese. “We needed this ordinance to help law enforcement hold responsible parties accountable whether they are tenants, property owners or apartment managers.” Enforcement has been difficult because violators often flee before officers arrive to an area where illegal fireworks displays have happened. Under the revised regulations, property owners not present when illegal fireworks are being discharged, would be sent a notification letter but could also be cited if future violations occur. Once made aware of the illegal use of fireworks, they are expected to try to ensure the incidents don’t happen again, similar to code enforcement rules for other nuisances and similar to “social host” ordinances that hold adults responsible for under-age drinking at parties even if they are not present. “Law enforcement officers often hear, ‘I had no idea this was going on,’ Once they’ve been warned, property owners really don’t have that excuse,” said Cortese, who grew up on a ranch and has managed thousands of acres of property. “I want them to be good stewards of their land.” Under the revised regulations, people caught in the act of discharging fireworks in unincorporated areas of the County could be fined $350 for the first violation, $700 for the second and $1,000 for the third. Violators could also be held responsible for recovery costs if there are injuries or property damage in the discharging of fireworks, including fine of $1,000 and six months in jail. The amended ordinance also provides that individuals could be cited for the storage of fireworks as a separate offense. The sale and use of firework is banned in Santa Clara County, except for the professional displays in which organizers have received permits. Only the City of Gilroy allows residents to buy “safe and sane” fireworks. For more information, call the office of Supervisor Dave Cortese at (408) 299-5030.

Growing together at Paradise Community Garden

Alameda County Public Health Department, Kaiser Permanente, Alameda County's Economic and Civic Development Department, the Department of Social Services, the Ashland/Cherryland Food and Policy Council, and Supervisor Nate Miley's office.

Collectively run by garden members from the community – all volunteers – a range of vegetables, fruits, and herbs are grown. Onions, potatoes, kale, strawberries, limes, cilantro, and basil are only a small sample of the bounty Paradise Community Garden members enjoy. Moreover, there is an active compost system and worm bin at the garden, managed by Rick Hatcher of Eden Urban Farms.

On the first Saturday of each month, the garden hosts an open house from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., offering workshops led by community members. Past workshops have included beekeeping, native landscaping, plants as medicine, and soil fertility. Member meetings are also held once a month, providing time to introduce new members to the garden and brainstorm and plan for the garden's future.

The garden is the size of a residential lot, and currently has twenty families growing food in planter boxes. Grown produce is not open to the public to harvest themselves, but anyone is welcome to join the garden. And becoming a member is quite a good bargain: there is no fee to join, a raised planter box is provided at no cost, and members are required to volunteer only two hours a month to upkeep the garden. Member applications are available on the garden's fence.

While members run the garden, the logistics – such as coordinating sponsor support, access to tools, building planter boxes, workshops and new member orientation – are operated by ACOE's Project EAT program. The decade-old program's mission is to "end health inequities and close the achievement gap in school communities." Project EAT contends with these injustices through a myriad of community and educational engagement programs.

"We support two community gardens and two educational production farms at local high schools, run internship programs for youth, provide workforce development opportunities and career pathways, deliver nutrition education and physical activity programs, and offer professional development for educators in the areas of youth development, nutrition education, physical activity, garden-based education programs, and cooking in the classroom," explained ACOE Community Outreach Specialist Debbie Jelincic. Project EAT is currently serving 19,000 students in 33 schools in the Hayward, Livermore Valley, San Leandro, and San Lorenzo school districts.

Paradise Community Garden's one year anniversary will be celebrated on Sunday, June 21 with an afternoon full of fun, health, and education. Activities include a worm bin demonstration, planting your own seeds to take home in paper pots, chalk art, jump rope, and hula hooping. Free seeds will be available to try out at home, as well as information on 4-H (national youth development and mentoring program), CalFresh (California's Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program), and the Hayward Seed Lending Library (community seed exchange program).

Come ready to eat good food, too; there will be a potluck, and people are encouraged to bring dishes made from local, fresh, and seasonal ingredients. Current seasonal vegetables and fruits are berries, plums, apricots, cherries, peas, fava beans, cilantro, salad greens, chard, and onions.

Everyone is welcome to join the celebration and experience the joy of gardening – you may just walk away with a green thumb!

Don't lose your water to thieves

SUBMITTED BY LT. RAJ MAHARAJ, MILPITAS PD

As California's drought drags on, water thieves are starting to surface and steal water from both public and private properties. The Milpitas Police Department suggests residents and business owners secure their water spigots and other water sources on their property. There are several commercial water locks available at your local hardware store. The use of these locks may deter a would-be thief from stealing your water and affecting your wallet with higher utility bills.

Recently on the west side of Milpitas, thieves were seen carrying away gallons of water from a shopping center at night. This theft would have gone undetected if it was not for the large utility bill received by the property owner and witnesses. In other cases around the state, trucks in need of water for dust control and construction tap fire hydrants without using meters that charge them, which impacts revenue generation for local municipalities. Some California cities have seen an increase in water theft for the purpose of illegal marijuana cultivation. Water theft will impact you one way or another during our current drought; so please report suspicious activity near spigots, fire hydrants, water towers, and other water sources to your local law enforcement agency.

Anyone with any information regarding the theft of water within the City of Milpitas is encouraged to call the Milpitas Police Department at (408) 586-2400. Information can be given anonymously by calling the Crime Tip Hotline at (408) 586-2500 or via the Milpitas Police Department website at:

Child abduction suspect arrested

SUBMITTED BY
LT. RAJ MAHARAJ, MILPITAS PD

On Friday, June 5 at approximately 10:41 a.m., the Milpitas Police Department received a report of a missing child from the Milpitas Public Library, located at 160 North Main Street. Officers arrived within a minute of the call and searched the library for the missing child, but they could not locate him.

Milpitas Police received information the child was seen walking with an African American male approximately 25 years old and wearing a black hooded sweatshirt, jeans, and carrying a tan colored backpack, prior to him being reported missing.

At approximately 11:35 a.m., the Santa Clara County Sheriff's Office advised that one of their bus drivers believed the suspect and missing child were on his coach and they were arriving at the Fremont BART Station.

The Fremont Police Department was requested to respond to the BART Station and check the bus for the suspect. Fremont Police Officers located the bus at 11:40 a.m. and contacted Alfonso David Edington (23 year-old male, Pittsburg, CA resident), as he exited the bus with the child in his arms. A Fremont Police Officer pried the child away from Edington, who briefly struggled with the officers before being taken into custody.

The missing child appears to be unharmed and has been reunited with his family. The suspect is now in Milpitas Police Department custody and detectives are beginning their investigation into this suspect and the day's events.

Anyone with any information regarding this abduction or who may have been present at the library is encouraged to call the Milpitas Police Department at (408) 586-2400. Information can be given anonymously by calling the Crime Tip Hotline at (408) 586-2500 or via the Milpitas Police Department website at: http://www.ci.milpitas.ca.gov/government/police/crime_tip.asp

Purchase age raised for Tobacco and Electronic Smoking Products

SUBMITTED BY GWENDOLYN MITCHELL
LAUREL ANDERSON

On June 9, the County of Santa Clara became the first California county to pass an ordinance raising the purchase age for tobacco and electronic smoking products from 18 to 21, effective January 1, 2016. A recent report by the Institute of Medicine predicts that raising the minimum age for the sale of tobacco products to 21 will, over time, reduce the smoking rate by about 12 percent and smoking-related deaths by 10 percent.

The March 2015 report by the Institute of Medicine concluded that adolescents are particularly vulnerable to the addictive effects of nicotine, and found that “the parts of the brain most responsible for decision making, impulse control, sensation seeking, future perspective taking, and peer susceptibility and conformity continue to develop and change through young adulthood. Adolescent brains are uniquely vulnerable to the effects of nicotine and nicotine addiction.”

“Increasing age restrictions for the sale of tobacco and electronic smoking products is a necessary action to address heavy use among teens and young adults,” said President Dave

The amendment to the ordinance (No. NS-300.883, Chapter XXIII of Division A18), will prohibit retailers in unincorporated areas of Santa Clara County from selling or distributing tobacco products and electronic smoking devices to anyone under age 21.

Once the new ordinance goes into effect:

Retailers will be required to post a notice of minimum age for purchase of tobacco products and electronic smoking devices at each point of purchase.

Positive identification will be required. No retailer shall sell or transfer a tobacco product or electronic smoking device to another person who appears to be under 30 years of age without first examining the customer’s identification.

Tobacco retailers in the unincorporated areas will be notified by letter of the changes to the County Ordinance. All affected tobacco retailers will be provided with notification signs regarding the minimum age for purchase of tobacco products and electronic smoking devices. The County will also conduct in-store education of recent changes with tobacco retailer store owners and/or employees to facilitate the new age restrictions.

Ofc. Han and Field Training Officer (FTO) Ehling were patrolling in the Niles area when they attempted to stop a yellow motorcycle with no license plate. The motorcycle immediately fled at a high rate of speed northbound on Mission Boulevard. After several minutes, a resident on the 36000 block of Easterday Way called Fremont dispatch, stating a yellow motorcycle was parked in his driveway and the two subjects associated with the motorcycle (unreported stolen vehicle out of Oakland) walked toward Mission Boulevard. While searching the area of Mission Boulevard and Niles Boulevard, Ofc. Han and FTO Ehling spotted a male subject matching the description of the driver running westbound through the Niles Nursery property. A perimeter was quickly established and within minutes officers arrested the adult male as he attempted to break the perimeter. The passenger, an adult female, was subsequently contacted and arrested at a nearby house on G Street. A search of the motorcycle revealed a concealed pistol within the storage compartment.

Ofc. Chinn and Ofc. San Luis were detailed to Home Depot for a reported robbery. The caller stated that two females were caught stealing items and then began fighting with loss prevention officers. Ofc. San Luis arrived on scene and attempted to contact one of the suspects, who fled on foot. Ofc. San Luis and Ofc. Chinn gave chase and eventually took the female into custody near Automall Parkway. The other suspect was also located and arrested.

Ofc. Piol was stopped at Fremont Boulevard and Thornton Avenue when a red 1990 Acura blew through a red light in front of him. He attempted to stop the car when it backed out and accelerated. Officers caught up to the vehicle, determined it was stolen, and initiated a brief pursuit. The vehicle collided with a parked car near Joseph Street/Peralta Boulevard and continued to flee. Approximately one mile later, the suspect crashed into two more parked cars and a fence near Dusterberry Way and Hansen Avenue. The suspect attempted to flee on foot but was quickly apprehended by officers. A 31-year-old adult male was arrested for a variety of offenses. He was booked at Santa Rita Jail.

Friday, June 5

Milpitas Police Department (MPD) requested our assistance at 11:35 a.m. for an abduction investigation. A 3-year-old boy was taken by an unknown male subject while he and his mother were at a library in Milpitas. Fremont officers were informed that the male subject and the boy were possibly on a VTA bus headed to BART. Ofc. Han, FTO Ehling and Sgt. Morrison were in the area of BART when the call came out and quickly located the bus just off of Walnut Avenue. They followed the bus into the loading/unloading area and witnessed the male subject, who was holding the young boy, exit the bus. Officers approached and struggled with the male subject as they took the boy out of his arms. The boy was not injured. Fremont officers detained the suspect until MPD confirmed he was the missing 3-year-old, and the suspect was arrested.

Saturday, June 6

Numerous patrol and traffic units responded to the scene, but the suspect was able to elude the business owner. While a hasty perimeter was being set up, Traffic Officer Nevin spotted the suspect hiding in some bushes at a business on Stevenson Boulevard. Ofc. Nevin took the suspect into custody with the assistance of other traffic units. The loss was recovered in the bushes where the male, a 30-year-old from Union City, had been hiding. Suspect sentenced for Christmas morning armed robbery

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

On December 25, 2014, at approximately 4:40 a.m., a masked gunman robbed the Motel 6, located at 46101 Research Ave in Fremont. The suspect pointed a gun at the victim clerk and demanded money from the cash register. The victim complied and the suspect fled the scene with US Currency.

The Crimes Against Persons Detectives began investigating the case and quickly released details to the public requesting assistance to help identify the suspect. Shortly after releasing information to the public, a citizen called detectives and provided information that led to a potential suspect, Justin Pate (37/Fremont).

Detectives learned that Pate had prior criminal history and had just been released from State Prison in November 2014. In an effort to locate Pate, Detectives coordinated with members of the Fremont Street Crimes Unit and members of the Southern Alameda County Major Crimes Task Force to find him.

On December 29, 2014, Pate was located and arrested as he exited a room at the Motel 6 in Hayward, located at 30155 Industrial Pkwy. Inside Pate's room detectives located clothing worn during the robbery as well as a loaded Norinco 9mm semi-auto pistol, which is believed to be the firearm used during the robbery and had been reported stolen during a residential burglary that had occurred in Citrus Heights, California in July of 2013.

On December 31, 2014, Justin Pate was charged with armed robbery, being a felon in possession of a firearm and multiple other felony charges. On April 10, 2015, Pate pled guilty to the December 25, 2014, Motel 6 armed robbery. This week on June 9, 2015, Pate was sentenced at the Hayward Courthouse to six (6) years in state prison.

This was a very dangerous crime and we are extremely thankful to the citizen who came forward to assist us with this investigation. We'd also like to thank our community for their continued support and partnership!

Structure Fire on Paseo Padre Parkway

SUBMITTED BY DIVISION CHIEF DIANE HENDRY, FREMONT FD

On June 10 at 7:14 p.m. Fremont Fire responded with 7 Engines, 2 Trucks and 2 Battalion Chiefs to a structure fire at 39767 Paseo Padre Parkway. Mutual aid was requested to handle additional emergencies in the City. The fire started in a Doctor's Office on the second floor of a two-story multi-tenant office complex. The fire spread to the common roof and affected two adjacent occupancies. Salvage operations were performed to protect the contents of the adjacent occupancies. Preliminary property damage is estimated at 500k structure, 200k contents.

Spokesman for the building complex, Larry Fudenna, noted that the fire was contained to approximately 250 square feet, although smoke damage and water effects extended to other offices. He said that the response from Fremont Fire Department was swift and effective: "Fremont Fire Department did an excellent job of containing what could have been a much more destructive fire."

A Fire Investigator was called to the scene and the fire is still under investigation. There were no firefighter or civilian injuries. Approximately 15 people were evacuated from the building when initial crews arrived on-scene.

Students, Community Leaders and Educators advocate for school funding in Sacramento

SUBMITTED BY
SANTA CLARA COUNTY
SUPERVISOR DAVE CORTESE

Our 2015 Bus Trip for Education arrived in Sacramento on May 20 at the best possible time for the 170 participants eager to voice their support for schools in Santa Clara County. Governor Jerry Brown had just released his revised budget that promised $6.1 billion more for education, or $1,000 more for each student.

Unlike other years, when our bus trips found legislators tearing their hair out trying to figure out how to cut millions out of an already bleak education budget, the legislators and education officials who spoke to us were in pretty good moods. The school funding generated through Proposition 98, which requires a certain amount of revenue be spent on schools, was a healthy start in making up for years of cuts.

We also heard more about how the biggest changes in education in 40 years were progressing. The Local Control Funding Formula gives school districts more say in how their allocations are being spent, and Common Core sets new standards for English and math. There is also a new set of standards for teaching science.

This year, we had even more high school students on our advocacy trip, which was sponsored by my office and the Silicon Valley Education Foundation. Two buses were filled with students from Independence, Oak Grove and Santa Teresa high schools, and the third bus was occupied by community members, teachers and school board members.

As in other years, Estelle LeMieux with the California Teachers Association started us off with the association's assessment of the budget: "This is a very good year." We also met with Assembly Members Even Low, Nora Campos, Mark Stone and Kansen Chu, Senators Jim Beall and Bob Wieckowski, State Controller Betty Yee, State Board of Education Member Brooks Allen, Trevor Taylor from the Office of Senator Bill Monning and Patrick Welch from Senator Jerry Hill's Office.

As rosy as the education funding picture appeared to be, we still had a lot of questions for our speakers. I was especially impressed with our younger bus trip participants concerned about Common Core, loss of arts in high schools, out-of-date technology in the classroom, immigration rights and unaffordable college tuition.

"Lots of students won't go to the UC System because they can't afford it or the long-term financial burden," said one Oak Grove student. "Is there help for students to get out of that debt? More jobs? Financial aid? And what if there are more tuition hikes?"

"It is wise for you to believe it (tuition) can go up," said Assembly Member Nora Campos, who grew up in San Jose and has served 16 years as an elected official. "I'm more than happy to sit down with you and have that dialogue here."

Assembly Member Campos also talked about bills she is working on, including AB891, the Student Success Act of 2015. The legislation would provide free public transportation, increased access to after-school activities and more support services to low-income youth.

We also heard from other Legislators about their bills in the works:

Mark Stone – AB206 that would establish a university work-study program for undocumented immigrant students and AB43 to create a California Earned Income Tax Credit, similar to the federal government, for low-income residents, and AB403, which would revamp the foster care system.

Senator Bob Weikowski — SB 246, which creates new state goals for reducing greenhouse gas emissions and addressing the need to include climate adaptation strategies in state planning.

Senator Jim Beall – SB311 that establishes a pilot program for preschool education in San Jose's Alum Rock School District and SB15 to provide financial aid for college students to help them graduate.

Assembly Member Kansen Chu – AB718 to prohibit law enforcement agencies from giving tickets to homeless people resting in their lawfully parked vehicles.

The students also received this message from many of our speakers: "Get involved in government."

Said Controller Betty Yee, "Look at ways you can be involved. Find your role in how you're going to be involved. That's what democracy is about. That's what politics is about."

Extreme Heat

SUBMITTED BY ANITA GORE

As temperatures begin to warm up throughout the state, California Department of Public Health (CDPH) Director Dr. Karen Smith advises California residents to prepare themselves for what could be a very hot, dry summer.

In areas where air quality is impacted, people with heart disease, asthma or other respiratory diseases should minimize outdoor activities. Summer schools and programs with children who have sensitive conditions, including heart disease, asthma and other respiratory diseases should not participate in outdoor physical activity and should stay indoors as much as possible.

Extreme heat poses a substantial health risk, especially in vulnerable populations including young children, the elderly, people with chronic diseases, pregnant women, people with disabilities, and people who are socially isolated. Heat-related illnesses include cramps, heat exhaustion and, most seriously, heat stroke and death. Warning signs of heat-related illnesses vary, but may include heavy sweating, muscle cramps, weakness, headache, nausea or vomiting, paleness, tiredness or dizziness.

Smith offers the following tips to stay safe in extreme heat:

Those lacking air conditioning should go to a cooling center, library, or public place such as a shopping mall to cool off for a few hours each day.

Avoid physical exertion/exercise outdoors during the hottest parts of the day to avoid overheating. Reduce exposure to the sun from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

when UV rays are strongest, and keep physical activities to a minimum during that time. When working outside, drink plenty of water or juice even if you are not thirsty, and take rest breaks in the shade.

Check on elderly who live alone every 24 hours; many may be on medications which increase likelihood of dehydration.

Those lacking air conditioning should go to a cooling center, library, or public place such as a shopping mall to cool off for a few hours each day.

To prevent overheating, use cool compresses, misting, showers and baths. Get medical attention if you experience a rapid, strong pulse, feel delirious, or have a body temperature above 102 degrees.

Never, EVER leave infants, children or frail elderly unattended in a parked car – it can take as little as 10 minutes for the temperature inside a car to rise to levels that can kill.

Wear a wide-brimmed hat to cover the face and neck, and wear loose-fitting clothing to keep cool and to protect your skin from the sun and mosquitoes.

Wear sunglasses that provide 100 percent UVA and UVB protection. Chronic exposure to the sun can cause cataracts, which left untreated, can lead to blindness.

Liberal apply sunscreen (at least SPF 15) 15 minutes before venturing outdoors and re-apply at least every two hours – sunscreen may reduce the risk of skin cancer, the number one cancer affecting Californians. Sunscreen may also prevent premature aging.

Students in green clubs convene first Green Summit

By SIMRAN MOZA

After several years of inactivity since its inception in 2010, FIERCE, an organization founded by students from Mission San Jose High School, was finally resurrected with the “Green Summit” on Sunday, May 24, 2015. FIERCE, or Fremont is Enabling Real Change in the Environment, is an intra-district organization led by and consisting of students in green-related clubs from high schools all across the Fremont Unified School District.

FIERCE aims to bring environmental awareness to the forefront of community issues by providing a fresh perspective on the subject of climate change, what the City of Fremont is doing to improve its sustainability, and how each individual can make a difference. “We also strive to connect interested individuals to industry professionals,” said club Registration and Publicity Chair Anna Chen, adding that their team hopes to make the Green Summit an annual tradition and expand beyond the borders of Fremont.

At the Green Summit, student attendees listened to keynote speeches and panel discussions and participated in interactive guest speaker workshops. Students representing green-related clubs at their high schools also had the opportunity to reflect on their accomplishments they had as a club over the past year and present their achievements. The speeches, discussions, and workshops were delivered by experts from institutions and companies related to the sustainability field, including both well-known businesses and brand-new start-ups alike.

The event’s keynote speaker was Nokia’s CTO, Dr. Guido Jouret. Jouret discussed the ways tech companies are integrating sustainable practices into their existing products, as well as how his own experiences from working in the green sector of a tech company has influenced his experience at Nokia.

In various workshops and discussions, Dr. June Flora, Senior Research Scientist at Stanford University, explained her research on understanding the drivers of human behavior change and how they are relevant to health and climate change. In addition, Rachel DiFranco, Sustainability Coordinator of the City of Fremont, described the steps the City of Fremont has been taking in its transition to a more sustainably efficient urban area.

Industry experts from companies such as Ohmconnect, Stop-Waste, SolarCity, GroGuru, and more shared their insights regarding career opportunities, policies and regulations concerning the environment, and the incorporating of greener practices into our lives.

“We feel elated to know that we are taking our futures into our own hands, and that sharing this knowledge about environmental awareness and protection through FIERCE and through our everyday lives makes us leaders in our generation” said Chen, adding that with nearly 100 attendees, the Green Summit proved an unforgettable experience.

Rare Wisps of Icy Light

By DIANE K. FISHER

The sky has to be clear to see them. They are wispy clouds that glow in the dark sky for a while after the Sun goes down. They are called noctilucent clouds. Noctilucent means “night glowing.”

These clouds are too faint to see during the day. The twilight sky gives a dark background to their delicate white or slightly blue wisps. And the Sun, having set below the horizon, still shines through the upper atmosphere where these clouds form and sets aglow their tiny ice crystals.

Even the highest cumulonimbus, or thunder storm clouds, are not found above about 12 miles high. Passenger jets fly under about seven miles high. But noctilucent clouds are about 50 miles high! This part of the atmosphere is called the mesosphere. It is the coldest region on or near Earth!

In order to turn into a water drop or an ice crystal, water vapor needs a little particle of dust to condense around. What kind of dust floats up that high? And how does the water get up that high to make ice crystals?

Although noctilucent clouds are still somewhat of a mystery, scientists think that some of the tiny particles could be small meteors from space that have burned up in Earth’s upper atmosphere. They leave behind tiny particles of soot and dust. Another source of particles is erupting volcanoes. Their ash is so fine that some of it could well float up to that altitude.

Now, what about the water? How did it get way up there? There is very little water in that part of the atmosphere. It’s much drier than the Sahara Desert! But some water could have come from methane, volcanoes, and rising from lower in the atmosphere. The greenhouse gas methane is a source because it can react with other things in the atmosphere and produce water at this high altitude. Methane is produced by both natural activities (like rotting plant material) and human activities (like dairy farming, with all its burping cows).

Noctilucent clouds are made of ice crystals very high in the atmosphere, far above all other clouds. These were photographed near Edmonton, Alberta Canada on July 2, 2011. Credit: NASA/Dave Hughes

In the Northern Hemisphere, noctilucent clouds are most often seen in the summer from mid-May to mid-August. They are most often seen at higher latitudes. In North America, that would be the northern USA and Canada, although they have been spotted as far south as Utah.

Rings dedicated, First Lady Memorial rejuvenated

Following weeks of preparation including landscaping, moving a sculpture of six large interlocking rings – Unity – into position, Fremont celebrated its newest artwork at the intersection of Stevenson Boulevard and Paseo Padre Parkway. Adjacent to the main library, the ceremony on June 11, 2015, officially welcomed “Unity” representing the “synergy of Fremont” and rededicated Fremont’s memorial to Oakland Tribune reporter and Niles resident Gladys Williamson, influential in the creation of the City of Fremont and known as “Fremont’s First Lady.” Her efforts helped Fremont become a national finalist as an All American City in 1966.

Speakers at the ceremony included Mayor Bill Harrison, Art Review Board Chairperson Carol

Lawton, sculptor Bruce Beasley and Community Development Director Jeff Schwob. They recounted the “arduous process” and “positive message” at the major intersection of the City. Beasley noted that Unity was conceived to express the “dynamic, upbeat energy” of Fremont and integrate rather than dominate its surroundings.

*Note:
Artificial turf was installed at the base of Unity, recognizing restrictions of lawnmower access. The dark green circle was designed to blend with adjacent grass, but during the drought and watering limitations, it is clearly evident.*
