BY SIMRAN MOZA

If a trip to Central America seems infeasible this summer, let the City of Newark bring a taste of the region's cultural traditions to your own backyard! The "Newark Mariachi Festival," returns on Sunday, July 19, as the perfect opportunity to preserve and embrace an integral part of the community's heritage through live mariachi music and authentic Mexican food.

Fine Art at Casa Peralta

Art has the power to uplift, inspire, challenge, and encourage. The 56th annual "Festival of Fine Art" at the historic Casa Peralta on Saturday, July 18 and Sunday, July 19 will attempt to do just that with a variety of engaging works created by community members of all ages. Hosted by the San Leandro Art Association (SLAA), the festival will feature award-winning artworks by local artists, youth artwork from San Leandro schools, and Art-in-Action by SLAA members.

Founded in 1957, the SLAA serves to support emerging, professional, and youth artists, and provides several art activities to the local community in addition to grants for art teachers, and support of students in the San Leandro School District.

This year's open show drew 177 adult entries and 35 youth entries in various categories, including Oil & Acrylics, Watercolor/Water Media, Graphics (pastel, colored pencils, mixed media), Photography, Digital Creations (composite photo, digital painting and drawing) and Three-Dimensional Art (porcelain, pottery, sculpture.) Watercolor artist Leslie Wilson served as this year's judge, with First, Second, and Third Place awards in both

Sports Physicals Help Ensure Student Athlete Safety

Low-Cost Exams for High School Athletes Planned for August 3

Most states, including California, require a pre-participation physical exam for all athletes participating in interscholastic sports. Many community athletic organizations also require a physical exam before an athlete can participate in sports activities. To make it easier – and less expensive – for high school student athletes and their families to obtain pre-participation sports physical exams, Washington Sports Medicine is offering a one-day clinic to provide the exams on Monday, August 3, from 3 to 6 p.m.

“The purpose of these sports physical exams is to help ensure the safety of young athletes who participate in various sports and to reduce their risk of injury,” says Washington Sports Medicine Medical Director Dr. Russell Nord.

An orthopedic surgeon and sports medicine specialist, Dr. Nord notes, “Summer is a great time for student athletes to have a pre-participation sports physical exam since it is before the start of the school year and the beginning of practices for fall sports. The clinic on August 3 is not just for high school athletes who want to participate in fall sports, however. Once an athlete has received medical clearance to participate in athletics, that clearance is valid for a full year. So athletes who want to participate in sports during other seasons can take advantage of this service, too.”

The exams will be performed at the Washington Sports Medicine office, located at 38690 Stivers Street, Suite A, in Fremont. The cost of the physical is $15, which is lower than many co-payments for such exams. The first 25 athletes to have their sports physical exams that day will be entered to win a $50 iTunes gift card.

“Washington Sports Medicine donates all the exam fees to help purchase sports medicine supplies at high schools where we provide sports medicine services,” notes Washington Hospital’s Manager of Off-

Site Services Mike Rogers, who also is a certified athletic trainer.

Before coming for their sports physicals, athletes must fill out the “Pre-participation Physical Evaluation” form developed by the California Interscholastic Federation. A parent or legal guardian must sign the form for any student athlete under age 18. The forms can be downloaded for free from Washington Hospital’s website at www.whhs.com/services/sports. The download link can be found on the right-hand side of the page.

“At the clinic, athletic trainers go over detailed medical histories for each athlete and conduct a preliminary exam before a physician or physician assistant sees the athlete for a more thorough evaluation,” Mr. Rogers explains. “The information provided on the evaluation form is important because it can help us evaluate the athlete’s medical history for any problems that might preclude or limit sports participation.”

During the exam, the medical staff at Washington Sports Medicine will examine the student athlete from head to toe.

“We check the athletes’ height, weight, heart rate and blood pressure,” says Dr. Nord. “We listen to their heart and lungs. We examine their ears and mouths. We feel their necks to make sure they don’t have any swollen lymph nodes. We also test their vision. It is not uncommon to detect visual problems in patients who may not have had a thorough eye exam. It can be a safety issue if an athlete doesn’t see well. If the athlete’s vision is less than 20/40, we would recommend corrective lenses – either glasses or contacts.”

The medical staff also assesses any chronic medical conditions, such as asthma or severe allergic reactions, and makes sure those conditions are controlled. Chronic conditions such as diabetes don’t necessarily preclude participation in sports, but it is important to determine whether the patients

Washington Sports Medicine is offering a one-day clinic to provide pre-participation physical exams for all athletes participating in interscholastic sports. The clinic is scheduled for Monday, August 3 from 3 to 6 p.m. in the Washington Sports Medicine office located at 38690 Stivers Street, suite A in Fremont. The cost is $15. are managing those conditions.

“Musculoskeletal problems, including prior injuries, represent the final area of evaluation” Dr. Nord says. “We evaluate the range of motion, strength and stability of the athletes’ joints. If an injury hasn’t yet been treated, we can coordinate x-rays or a referral to physical therapy if the athlete needs it before participating in sports.”

In addition to bringing their completed forms, students participating in the screenings on August 3 should wear comfortable clothing – shorts and short-sleeved T-shirts. Each student also should have a parent or legal guardian present. At the end of the physical exam, the medical provider will have a conference with the parent or guardian to explain any findings.

“If there is a concern with the athlete, it’s best to address it with the parents right away,” says Dr. Nord. “Plus, it’s good to have parents there during the exams in case we have any questions about the family medical history. For example, teens don’t usually have detailed knowledge of any cardiac events that may have occurred in the family.”

According to Dr. Nord, if a patient has a condition that precludes participation in some specific sports, it may not eliminate all sports activities. For example, someone who is not cleared to participate in contact sports such as football, basketball or soccer might be able to take part in swimming, tennis or track.

“In most cases, the athletes are cleared for participation in all sports without restriction,” he says. “There is a small subset of patients who do have conditions, such as asthma, that need attention. One of the most common recommendations we make is to tell patients with asthma to be sure to have their inhalers with them at all practices and games.

“The pre-participation sports physical actually can be a fun experience,” he adds. “Plus, the athletes can benefit from getting advice from the athletic trainers and physicians on ways to avoid injuries that can disrupt their participation in sports.”

For more information about the pre-participation sports physicals on August 3, call (510) 248-1030. To download the required “Pre-participation Physical Evaluation” forms, visit www.whhs.com/services/sports. The $15 physical fee must be paid in cash or by check made out to WHHS.

Frequent Summer Accidents

Dear Doctor,
I heard from my co-worker that lawn mower injuries are common. Do people really get injured this way?

Dear Reader,

Believe it or not this is one of the most common summertime injuries. Here are some ways to avoid injury: wear closed-toe shoes, long pants, protective eyewear, and keep children away from all mowers, including ride mowers. Better yet, if you can afford it, hire a lawn service!

Dear Doctor,
My family is thinking about purchasing a boat for family outings. Anything we should consider from a doctor’s perspective?

Dear Reader,

Think safety when in and around boats. Most boating accidents are caused from drinking while driving a boat. Having a “no alcohol” policy is essential for boat safety and will also help you avoid dehydration. Everyone on the boat, but particularly children, should wear life vests at all times. This rule should be followed even if the boat is docked! Learning basic CPR will be helpful in case you need to provide life saving skills to accident victims.

Passeio do Vinho

“It’s incredible to see how this event has grown,” said City spokesperson Frank Holland. “People throughout the region are discovering the many wonderful things Hayward has to offer, and the wine stroll is a prime example. This year’s Passeio promises to be even richer and more exciting.”

The popularity of the event has increased the number of tasting locations from 15 in 2014 to 21 in 2015. Participating restaurants include the newly opened Red Rocket Grill and Brews and Brats, as well as Ristorante di Palermo, serving Italian sodas as one of three non-alcohol locations. Attendees will get pours from several local wineries such as Westover Winery, Twining Vine Winery, Heritage Oak Winery, Fenestra Winery, Chouinard Vineyards and Winery, and 5 Bridges Vineyard – our very own Hayward Winery.

In 2014 the first Artist Alley was introduced with five artists selling their works. Having received a good reception, this year’s Artist Alley has expanded to 22 artists in five locations around town. Art lovers will find ceramics, watercolor, paintings, jewelry and more.

Participants will receive maps of the event route to help them wend their way through Downtown Hayward to the sounds of pop, jazz, and R&B music performed by live artists including Knights on Fire, Joey T and Ron Matthews, Kalimba King Band, and Tablues band.

“So many great things are happening in Downtown Hayward right now. I really hope to keep growing this event to showcase our local businesses,” said event organizer and Economic Development Specialist Ramona Thomas. “Each year we try to add more entertainment, more culture and more excitement to the program. There’s significant demand for events like this in the Bay Area, and we hope that over time it will become a regional draw.”

A range of ticket options between $35 and $65 are available with a 10 percent discount for seniors. All ticket holders receive admission to the event, a commemorative wine glass, and a Passeio do Vinho T-shirt. An exciting new partnership with sponsor TPC Stonebrae will also provide Passeio participants with a free single entry ticket to the final round of the Web.com Tour’s Stonebrae Classic golf tournament taking place high in the Hayward hills on July 19. Premium ticket holders will also receive a wine glass holder, fruit fusion sports bottle, and a jumbo zipper tote bag. All commemorative event merchandise will also be available for purchase.

Tickets are available now online at haywardwinestroll.eventbrite.com or in person at Doc’s Wine Shop (22570 Foothill Boulevard) and at Hayward City Hall (777 B Street, Revenue Department). All event participants must be 21 years of age or older.

Walk-a-thon to fight obesity

DR. VEENA PURI

Dr. Anamika Sharma, a pediatrician with Puri Pediatric Medical Group, is doing a 5K walk-a-thon to fight obesity on Saturday, July 18 at Lake Elizabeth in Fremont. The purpose of this walk-a-thon is to raise money to help needy and struggling children, as well as promote healthy eating. Dr. Sharma will match the funds raised.

While America is fighting with obesity, other parts of the world are battling with hunger and malnutrition. Dr. Sharma will help two Indian orphanages for a month – one located near Mumbai and another in Ahmedabad. Dr. Sharma will be staying in the orphanage to volunteer and help in their everyday struggles without a proper family. “My other purpose for this event is to spread awareness about a healthy diet and exercise in daily life. Being a pediatrician, I see high rise in obesity, high cholesterol, and high triglyceride. I would like to promote healthy eating and healthy lifestyle,” stated Dr. Sharma. Celebrate Leonard Nimoy at the Niles Essanay Silent Film Museum with a double feature for one low price! The "Leonard Nimoy Tribute" will be held Sunday, July 19 with several treats for Spock enthusiasts. In the 1970s and 1980s, Nimoy was a guest many times on KTVU's "Creature Features" show hosted by Bob Wilkins and John Stanley. The subjects range from "Star Trek: The Motion Picture" to the "Search for Spock."

See all the rare original guest appearances in one great show. The earliest interview is with Sacramento newscaster Harry Martin from 1966, and we are throwing in the "Star Trek" blooper reels for kicks and giggles. During Intermission, there will be a Star Trek Costume Contest with the Grand Prize of a 24 x 36 framed poster of Mr. Spock. Other great door prizes will be available.

After intermission will be the screening of "Kid Monk Baroni" (1952), Nimoy's first starring feature film. 20-year-old Nimoy is "Kid" Monk Baroni, the leader of a street gang who becomes a professional boxer to escape his life in Little Italy, New York.

Cancer patients get free rides to treatment appointments

SUBMITTED BY KPIX 5 AND DRIVERS FOR SURVIVORS

Sherry Higgs, founder of the local organization Drivers for Survivors, has been selected as a Jefferson Award winner. The three-year old-nonprofit gives cancer patients from Fremont, Newark, and Union City a free ride to and from medical appointments up to 60 miles away. Higgs also says you can even qualify for free rides to your medical appointment if your doctor suspects you have cancer. The organization is expecting to expand to Hayward.

"If you're dealing with saving your own life, the last thing you need to worry about is getting a ride to your treatment," Higgs said.

When Higgs herself underwent chemotherapy for inflammatory breast cancer in 2010, her friend Barbara Lapre-O'Leary offered to drive her. And, when Higgs began organizing rides for cancer patients, Lapre-O'Leary was one of the first volunteers.

"I never thought the simple gesture of taking her to her appointments would lead to all of this," Lapre-O'Leary marveled. "She's very driven. She just saw the need."

Today, more than 100 volunteers drive about 300 cancer survivors for medical treatment every month. The volunteer is not only a driver, but also a companion — someone to talk to, someone to listen. Patients can ask the driver to sit in during a doctor's appointment, to be their second set of ears.

"What would I have done if I didn't have Drivers for Survivors?" Angelides asked her volunteer driver, Sandi Cole. The two have forged a special bond. "Being a good listener is 'numero uno' as far as doing these drives," Cole explained. "I didn't worry about anything. It gave me a lot of relief," Angelides said later.

Higgs says she and her volunteers are simply sharing the kind of support Lapre-O'Leary gave her during her battle with cancer, "My soul needed to do something big. And I'm not done yet."

If you or someone you know needs a ride to cancer treatment appointments, email: info@driversforsurvivors.org or call Drivers for Survivors at (510) 579-0535.

Clean and Green Careers in the Tri Cities

BY ANNE CHAN, PhD, MFT

Every cloud has a silver lining, goes the old proverb. Even with our cloudless skies, even with all the bad news about the drought, and even with all the grim forecasts about global warming, I'm really hoping that this saying is true. Of course I am deeply concerned about the dire predictions about the drought and global warming. However, I am not one to throw in the towel and simply give in to doom and gloom. Instead, I like to be proactive and take action, even when things seem hopeless. Thinking about our drought inspired me to think about jobs and careers that can address climate change. I gave myself the challenge to find and provide some silver career linings in the midst of the gloom.

Silver Lining #1

You can make a difference through your work by choosing "clean" and/or "green" careers that focus on protecting, improving, or reducing harm to our environment. There is an impressive array of clean and green careers requiring diverse skill sets, ranging from environmental remediation, recycling, alternative energy, and water conservation, to name just a few.

If you are hoping to have a green career, consider the following fields of study: environmental science, environmental engineering, forestry, sustainable farming, hydrology, waste management, alternative energy, and climatology. These are just a few ideas that could get you started toward having a green career. There are plenty of additional green options in other fields as well. For instance, if you are passionate about chemistry, there is much research and technology currently addressing issues of waste management and alternative energy. If you are interested in the environment but do not wish to pursue a science degree – you could still get a green job by focusing your studies on environmental or sustainable living issues and aiming for jobs centered around these issues.

Silver Lining #2

The Tri Cities area has many offerings for those wishing to pursue a green career path. Check your local community college or state university for affordable programs. Ohlone College in Fremont, for instance, offers classes in environmental science, environmental stewardship, renewable energy and sustainable development.

Silver Lining #3

If a two- or four-year degree is not for you, bear in mind that you don't have to get a degree in order to have a green career. Community colleges offer many programs and certificates that can put you on a green career path without a college degree. Examples of such training include solar photovoltaic installation and permaculture.

Silver Lining #4

According to the BlueGreen Alliance, a nonprofit with the mission of increasing green jobs, California leads the nation in the number of green jobs available.

The BlueGreen Alliance reports that the following are rapidly growing Californian industries in the clean and green sector: smart grid, renewable energy, fuel cells, solar thermal, and wind. The clean and green industry outstripped the rest of the economy in growth, even when we were thick in our recent recession.

Silver Lining #5

Here in the Tri Cities, there are many clean and green companies with missions to change our world for the better. Tesla, of course, is one example of a local company with its expressed mission of being a "technology and design company with a focus on energy innovation." I have also seen numerous local postings for green jobs such as environmental resources coordinator, solar technician, and drought response coordinator.

Silver Lining #6

Last but not least, there is even more good news. According to the BlueGreen Alliance, California could create over half a million new green collar jobs in the next several decades. So if past history is a predictor of the future, then putting a career bet on a clean and green career might not only be good for the earth but might be a very smart professional move as well!

Scholarship awarded to local student

SUBMITTED BY
NATALIE ASHOORY

Local student Kevin Zeng (Fremont) has been awarded $1,000 towards his college education from the UPS Scholars Award Program, in partnership with The National Society of High School Scholars Foundation (NSHSS).

The UPS Scholars Award Program recognizes students who have demonstrated a commitment to UPS's core values of integrity, excellence, innovation, helping others through community involvement and humanitarian efforts, and supporting the overall well-being of people worldwide. These scholarships encourage and recognize young community leaders in our schools and help support their higher education.

Scholarship funds will be sent to the university where the student enrolls and can be used for tuition, books, room and board, or other college-related expenses. The scholarship funding is for the freshman year in college and is non-renewable.

Awardee Kevin Zeng, a recent graduate of Mission San Jose High School in Fremont, will be attending Columbia University in the fall.

The strength of Kevin's integrity was tested when the performance of his model rocket had been misjudged in a competition. Although aware that revealing the miscalculation could disqualify him from national competition, Kevin maintained his honesty. Kevin is grateful to have had the opportunity to study rocketry and also for the invaluable educational resources he has relished in since childhood. In hopes of offering others the same experience, Kevin created Engineering for Youth, an organization for underprivileged youth that provides science, technology, and engineering education through rocketry. Kevin is a researcher for the University of Louisville and the National Science Foundation EC3 EarthCube Initiative. He is also a research intern for Stanford iLabs. For the past three years, Kevin has served as president of the Computer Science Club, and he founded the Bay Area Rubik's Cube Organization.

The NSHSS Foundation, founded in 2004 by Claes Nobel, senior member of the family that established the Nobel Prizes, is dedicated to supporting education in the form of scholarships for under-represented students in STEM career majors, as well as business, economics, and public policy career majors. Student project offers look at resource-starved future

STEPHANIE HAMMON

An idea conceived on a camping trip evolved into an award-winning project for three Cal State University East Bay (CSUEB) graduate students. Jason Anaya, Michael Emono and Richard Rizzo combined their shared interests in tiny houses, sustainability and dystopian fiction with their individual talents and expertise to create "Live Cube."

The project, part of their multimedia graduate program at Cal State East Bay, has generated interest beyond the classroom, earning two Editor's Choice awards at the Bay Area Maker Faire.

"We wanted to share this message about how (society) over-consumes and how minimalistic we could actually be to survive," Emono said. "That was one of the motivations for this project, and telling a cool story built it into this."

A visit into the Live Cube, a one-room space, gives a glimpse of what Earth might be like in a resource-starved future. It tells the story of one man's life in the dystopian society through the objects in his tiny house. As visitors explore the space, the objects they touch will trigger an audio excerpt of the life the fictional man leads in a world lacking sufficient water, energy and oil. For example, pushing the water pump triggers the man's thoughts about living with a rationed amount of water sent by the government.

"Right now the way they're trying to make us conserve water is charging us more for it," Anaya said. "We figure the ultimate way is to not have plumbing. If you don't have water coming into the house, you only get what (the government) sends you. In this future, they would ship you the water. You'd use it, and you'd ship back the dirty water. They'd keep cleaning and recycling it."

The creative and innovative project was run entirely on solar power at several Maker Faires in the spring, where it was a hit with judges and fair-goers. In Reno, people braved 45-minute lines to learn more about Anaya, Emono and Rizzo's idea of a dystopian society.

Though the three students graduated in June, they're hoping Live Cube can live on. They still have ideas to make the space more detailed and realistic.

"We're trying to come up with all kinds of different angles so this project can benefit not just our degrees," said Anaya, who also teaches in the art department at CSUEB. "Maybe we can involve the school and continue to work on it."

Besides being able to create a fascinating look at Earth's potentially grim future, the collaborative nature of CSUEB's multimedia graduate program allowed Rizzo, Anaya and Emono to learn from each other and build real-world skills.

"It allowed us to work creatively and collaboratively with other people," Rizzo said. "In a good working environment you want people who can collaborate because ego gets in the way a lot of times. This program totally is great for that and exploring the creative process."

Shape Our Fremont

Where Fremont residents can learn about shaping proposed housing developments

More Townhouses on Fremont Boulevard

The city is reviewing a proposal to tear down two old houses on Fremont Boulevard in the North Fremont Area and replace them with townhouse-style condominiums. The project, known as Fremont Blvd Condos, is the latest step towards the City of Fremont's goal to become "strategically urban," and to focus new development "..... in the City Center, along major corridors (especially Fremont Boulevard), and around exiting and future transit stations."

The Facts

The proposal calls for the existing houses at 34615 and 34621 Fremont Boulevard to be demolished. One was built in 1914, the first floor. The remaining eight condos will be traditional townhouses with three bedrooms and an optional fourth bedroom on the first floor.

All the units will have two-car attached garages. An additional six uncovered spaces will be provided on the site for guest parking. Vehicle entrance and exit is from a single driveway.

Because this project will conform to the zoning requirements, the Planning Commission will make the final review, not the City Council.

The Issues

The biggest issue for many people is that this project, and every other higher-density hous-cantly increase traffic congestion on all the roads in Fremont — most of which are already overcrowded. You can build three-story housing, but you can't build three-story roadways.

Why does the city continue to approve General Plan Amendments that let higher-density housing eat away at business districts along Fremont Boulevard? Fewer business properties means higher business rents and higher prices. Displacing businesses means some will simply close, and customers must travel greater distances to reach those that are left. None of that is good.

And finally as we face the fourth year of drought in Califor-and the other in 1939. Despite their age, an evaluation by city staff indicates these houses have no historical significance and do not merit preservation.

In their place, the developer is proposing to build twelve three-story condominiums in four buildings on 0.58 acres. The density will be approximately 20 units per acre, which is within the current Medium Density Residential land use designation for the property.

Four of the condos will be grouped in pairs of stacked flats with two bedrooms apiece. The living and sleeping areas of one unit in each pair will occupy the second floor, and those of the other unit will be stacked above it on the third floor. Individual interior staircases will connect to the garages and entry doors on ing project like it, moves Fremont closer to becoming an urban city and further from being the suburban town that made many people want to live here. What made the city think that was what the residents wanted?

Taken individually, each new development along Fremont Boulevard may have only a small effect, but taken cumulatively, the effect can be enormous. To make it worse, the city has extended the zone of higher-density housing to 1,000 feet on either side of Fremont Boulevard along its entire length. What made the city think that won't create problems?

Why doesn't the city recognize that Fremont Boulevard is landlocked on both sides and cannot be widened in most places? Increasing the housing density along this main road will signifinia, why is the city in such a rush to build any more houses at all?

Tell the City How You Feel

To voice your comments and concerns about the Fremont Blvd Condos development, send an email directly to Terry Wong in the Fremont Planning Department at twong@fremont.gov

To voice your comments and concerns about Fremont's goal of becoming strategically urban, speak during the Public/Oral Communications portion of any City Council meeting — all the elected officials and city staff who need to hear your message will be there.

Deepening dependency on technology raises risk of breakdowns

By MICHAEL LIEDTKE AND BARBARA ORTUTAY
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITERS

Technology has become so indispensable that when it breaks down, people's lives go haywire, too.

Computer outages at United Airlines, the New York Stock Exchange and The Wall Street Journal on Wednesday delivered a reminder about our growing dependence on interconnected networks to get through each day.

For the most part, technology has worked smoothly while hatching innovations and conveniences that have made our lives easier and our jobs more productive. Computers, though, could bring more frequent headaches as they link together with billions of other electronic devices and household appliances_ a phenomenon that has become known as the "Internet of things."

This technological daisy chain will increase the complexity of the systems and raise the risks of massive breakdowns, either through an inadvertent glitch or a malicious attack.

"The problem is humans can't keep up with all the technology they have created," said Avivah Litan, an analyst at Gartner. "It's becoming unmanageable by the human brain. Our best hope may be that computers eventually will become smart enough to maintain themselves."

Technology already is controlling critical systems such as airline routes, electricity grids, financial markets, military weapons, commuter trains, street traffic lights and our lines of communications.

Now, computers are taking other aspects of our lives as we depend on smartphones to wake us up in the morning before an app turns on the coffee pot in the kitchen for a caffeine fix that can be enjoyed in a the comfort of a home kept at an ideal temperature by an Internet-connected thermostat designed to learn the occupant's preferences.

Within the next few years, we may even be unlocking our doors with high-tech watches after being chauffeured home in robotic cars.

Technology's relentless march demands better security measures to prevent hackers from breaking into system and more rigid programming standards to reduce the chances of crippling outages, said Lillian Ablon, a technology researcher for the Rand Corp.

"Instead of just letting the technology rush ahead of us and then trying to catch up in terms of privacy and security, we should be baking those things into the systems from the start," she said. "We need to be a little smarter on how we are coding things."

The sequence of Wednesday's outages appears to have been a fluke. Sabotage isn't suspected, FBI Director James Comey said during an appearance before Congress.

But a domino effect may have contributed to The Wall Street Journal's outage. Comey believes the newspaper's website buckled after the New York Stock Exchange's problems caused alarmed investors looking for information to swamp the Journal's website.

The length of Wednesday's outages also is disconcerting, Gartner's Litan said.

It took the New York Stock Exchange more than three-and-a-half hours to resume trading, slowing Wall Street's usually furious pace. A "router issue" at United Airlines grounded its planes for nearly two hours, leading to 800 flight delays and 60 cancellations.

"Everyone needs to assume technology is going to go down sometimes, but you should be resilient enough to quickly recover from the outage within a half hour, if not a few minutes," Litan said.

Wednesday's breakdowns were minor inconveniences compared with what might happen if better security measures aren't imposed to keep out intruders bent on wreaking havoc, said Jeff Williams, chief technology officer for Contrast Security.

Too often, the technology industry's focus is on creating something cool and worrying about security later, Williams said. He said the lackadaisical attitude breeds a mindset like this: "Oh, we'll just put your blender on the Internet, there are no security issues there. And hackers figure out a way to turn on your blender in the middle of the night and set your house on fire."

Computers may get smarter through a combination of better programming, machine learning and more sophisticated chips. If computers can reach the still far-off goal of becoming artificially intelligent, they could be better equipped to prevent problems and fend off unauthorized users. Self-reliant and self-aware computers would still confront humans with a scary question, Litan said: "Are the computers going to be nice to us or are they going to take us out?"

Liedtke reported from San Francisco and Ortutay reported from New York. Jon Fahey in New York and Deb Riechmann in Washington contributed to this story.

What went wrong on the stock exchange?

By BERNARD CONDON AP BUSINESS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP), A shutdown in trading at one the world's most famous exchanges raised the tension in financial markets Wednesday.

Investors already were unnerved by plunging Chinese stocks and a jarring Greek debt crisis. Then the New York Stock Exchange halted buying and selling of stocks for about 3 1/2 hours due to what it called a "technical issue," putting traders even more on edge and raising questions about the reliability of computerized trading systems.

The halt came after a technical snafu at United Continental that forced the nation's second-biggest airline to ground dozens of flights. And it was followed by temporary trouble accessing the Wall Street Journal's website, and a flood of conspiracy theories on social media about a coordinated hack attack.

Government officials said it did not appear that the technical troubles were related, or that the various shutdowns were due to hacking or sabotage. And stock trading resumed on the NYSE late in the afternoon.

Here is a look at what happened at the exchange, why it could have been worse and the possible fallout in the long run:

Q: WHAT WENT WRONG?

A: The NYSE stopped trading at 11:32 a.m. because of a technical problem that it has yet to provide much detail on. The exchange did say, however, its trouble was not due to a cyber breach.

Stocks continued to trade elsewhere, and without any dramatic moves up or down. The NYSE opened again at 3:10 p.m., and stocks continued to fall, but in an orderly fashion.

Investors had been selling before the halt on worries over steep drops in China stocks and the possibility that Greece won't be able to strike a deal with its creditors.

The Standard and Poor's 500 index ended the day down 1.7 percent.

Q: HOW CAN STOCKS TRADE WITH THE EXCHANGE DOWN?

A: When trading halted at NYSE, buying and selling quickly moved onto rival exchanges.

That wouldn't have been possible years ago when the Corinthian-columned New York Stock Exchange, a symbol of American capitalism, dominated stock trading. But the NYSE now competes with some 60 trading venues to attract buy and sell orders from brokers.

The competition is fierce, and the NYSE is suffering. The NYSE accounted for less than a quarter of U.S. stock trading in the past month, according to data from BATS Global Markets, one of its rivals.

"It's a glitch. It's an inconvenience," Tom Caldwell, chairman of Toronto-based Caldwell Securities, said of the NYSE shutdown, "But the slack is picked up right away."

Q: HAVEN'T SIMILAR TROUBLES HIT THE MARKET BEFORE?

A: If all this sounds familiar, you're not mistaken. Trading exchanges have long struggled with technical troubles.

Most famously, the so-called flash crash sent the Dow Jones industrial average plunging 600 points in five minutes. Regulators later blamed the May 2010 plunge on a computerized selling program.

In March 2012, BATS, the rival exchange, canceled an initial public offering of its own stock after several technical snafus on its exchange. Two months later, a highly anticipated IPO of Facebook on the Nasdaq exchange was marred by a series of technical problems.

Then, in April 2013, trading in options in Chicago was halted due to an outage caused by software problems.

Caldwell, the Toronto investor, said the outages have to be put in perspective.

"The shutdowns are not very frequent given the gazillion of dollars that trade every day."

Q: WHAT'S THE FALLOUT FOR THE EXCHANGE?

A: The near-term impact will be limited, said Larry Tabb, founder and CEO of the Tabb Group, a financial research firm that focuses on markets and trading. However, in the long run, the snafu could make it more difficult for exchanges to argue against greater oversight from regulators.

The Securities and Exchange Commission voted last November to require routine testing of exchanges' trading systems. The exchanges also will be required to notify the SEC about problems, including any systems that are compromised by hacking.

Tabb said exchanges are not happy about the new rule, but that Wednesday's outage is "not going to help them in terms of fighting, or pushing back."

Aetna to buy Humana as health insurer landscape shifts

AP WIRE SERVICE
BY TOM MURPHY

Aetna aims to spend about $35 billion to buy rival Humana and become the latest health insurer bulking up on government business as the industry adjusts to the federal health care overhaul.

The proposed cash-and-stock deal, announced early Friday, would make Aetna a sizeable player in the rapidly growing Medicare Advantage business, which offers privately run versions of the federally funded health care program for the elderly and some people with disabilities.

The combination also would bolster Aetna's presence in the state- and federally funded Medicaid program and Tricare coverage for military personnel and their families.

Health insurers are eager to do more business with government payers due in part to a Medicaid expansion fostered by the health care overhaul and Medicare Advantage's surging enrollment. The overhaul is expanding Medicaid coverage in several states as it seeks to provide health coverage for millions of uninsured people.

Meanwhile, total enrollment in Medicare Advantage plans has tripled over the past decade to about 16.8 million people and is expected to keep growing as more baby boomers become eligible for the plans. Aetna's acquisition of Humana would make it the largest provider of Medicare Advantage coverage, with 4.4 million members, a figure that could change depending on regulatory review.

"Government markets are the most rapidly growing aspect of the system," said Dan Mendelson, CEO of the market research firm Avalere Health.

Hartford, Conn.-based Aetna announced its deal a day after the Medicaid coverage provider Cen-tene Corp. said it would spend $6.3 billion to buy fellow insurer Health Net. That deal would help Centene expand in the nation's biggest Medicaid market, California, and give it a Medicare presence in several western states.

In addition to these deals, the Blue Cross-Blue Shield carrier Anthem went public late last month with an offer of more than $47 billion for another insurer, Cigna.

Health insurers see more advantages to these big combinations than a chance to build their government portfolios.

Major acquisitions can offer an infusion of new business at time when growth has slowed in the biggest part of their business, employer-sponsored health coverage. Plus more employers are opting to pay their own insurance claims and hire insurers to administer the coverage. That's a less lucrative line of work for managed care companies.

Big deals also allow companies to quickly diversify their products and cover more territory. They also can yield savings when the companies combine back-office functions and cut overlapping jobs.

Both Aetna and Anthem also have cited the potential to improve their technology as a major reason behind their deals. Insurers are working to develop more apps and other tools that customers can use to shop for health care, since plans are exposing those customers to bigger medical bills through high deductibles and other insurance expenses.

They also are using technology more to help monitor and improve patient care. The overhaul is accelerating a push in the industry to reimburse doctors and hospitals more based on the quality of care they provide instead of just shelling out a certain amount for each procedure performed.

"Any time an industry is changing ... it requires investments to sort of successfully make that change," said Shawn Guertin, Aetna's chief financial officer.

The impact these big acquisitions have on consumers can be murky and likely won't be felt for at least a year, because insurers have already finalized most of their plans for coverage that starts in January. A combination may lead to fewer choices and some price changes for consumers, depending on where they live and who already is in their market.

Aetna's purchase price for Humana includes a combination of $125 in cash and $105.11 in Aetna shares for each Humana share. The total of about $230 per share, which is based on the closing price of Aetna's stock Thursday, represents a premium of 29 percent to Humana's trading price in late May, before The Wall Street Journal reported that it was an acquisition target.

The deal's total value amounts to about $37 billion counting debt.

The combined company would be based in Hartford, Conn., led by Aetna Chairman and CEO Mark Bertolini and cover more than 33 million people. Only UnitedHealth Group Inc. and the Blue Cross-Blue Shield carrier Anthem Inc. cover more. A combined Aetna-Humana would be the second-largest insurer by revenue.

The deal is expected to close in the second half of next year.

Shares of Aetna and Humana closed at $125.51 and $187.50, respectively on Thursday. Markets were closed Friday for the July 4th holiday.

The shares of both companies, like several other insurers, have soared to all-time-high prices this year.

IBM claims breakthrough in making chips even smaller

AP WIRE SERVICE

NEW YORK (AP) — IBM says it has achieved a breakthrough in making computer chips even smaller, creating a test version of the world's first semiconductor that shrinks down the circuitry by overcoming "one of the grand challenges" of the tech industry.

The microchip industry has consistently created smaller and more powerful semiconductors. However, the more chips shrink the greater the physical and technological hurdles become.

Companies are racing to create smaller, more powerful chips to perform the increasingly complex task that our wired lives demand. At the same time that computer chips have grown more powerful, though, they have also gotten smaller, to the point where you can now hold in your hand a computer many times more powerful than computers that used to fill a room.

Today's servers are powered by microprocessors that use 22-nanometer or 14-nanometer node chips.

IBM, working with a development partners at SUNY Polytechnic Institute, says it's figured out how to create 7 nanometer chips.

To get to the width of a human hair, you'd need roughly 10,000 of them. A strand of human DNA, in comparison is 2.5 nanometers.

The company last year announced a $3 billion investment over five years to advance chip technology to meet the growing demand that cloud computing, big data, mobile products and other new technologies are placing on semiconductors.

The chip is still development and IBM did not say when it expects to put it on the market. IBM will still have to figure out how to manufacture large numbers of the chips cheaply.

Improving Bicycle Safety in Fremont

In an effort to improve commuting for bicyclists, the City has undertaken or will be implementing various projects to improve bicycle facilities, which include roadways and paths. The 2012 Bicycle Master Plan, Chapter 7, outlines a list of planned bikeway projects and can be viewed at www.Fremont.gov/BicycleMasterPlan.

One of the projects currently under design is the installation of green bike lanes at all freeway interchanges in the City of Fremont. As a first phase, the City has scheduled four interchanges to have green bike lanes installed within the next two years. The planned locations for the first phase include:

1. Mowry Avenue/Interstate 880
2. Stevenson Boulevard/Interstate 880
3. Auto Mall Parkway/Interstate 880
4. South Fremont Boulevard/Interstate 880

This project will delineate a green bike lane pathway for bicyclists traveling over the freeway interchange and giving awareness to motorists while outlining a clear pathway for bicyclists. The City has also been installing bike lanes in all the arterial streets as part of its road resurfacing project and recently just began to install buffered bike lane striping to provide greater separation between the vehicle travel way and the bicycle lane. The buffered bike lane striping ranges from 2 feet to 5 feet in width. Recently installed buffered bike lanes are along Stevenson Boulevard between Fremont Boulevard and Civic Center Drive and on Civic Center Drive between Mowry Avenue and BART Way. The City's plan is to install buffered bike lanes citywide where there is adequate roadway width.

The City is also modifying its signalized intersections citywide to remove the raised corner islands (area between traffic lanes used for control of traffic movements) at the free right turn lane approaches of signalized intersections. The removal of the raised corner islands will allow the bicycle lanes to be striped continuously to the intersection approach limit lines and provide bicyclists an unobstructed path of travel through the intersection. Intersections that recently were modified to remove raised corner islands are Fremont Boulevard/Alder Avenue, Fremont Boulevard/Eggers Drive, Fremont Boulevard/Nicolet Avenue, and Fremont Boulevard/Grimmer Boulevard.

Carsharing is Coming to Fremont

The City of Fremont is collaborating with Zipcar, one of the largest carshare companies in the U.S., on a pilot program to bring five carshare vehicles to Fremont. Three of the vehicles will be parked on Civic Center Drive near the Fremont BART Station, with the other two located in the parking lot at the Centerville Amtrak/ACE Train Station.

Zipcar was selected through a competitive bidding process. In return for the parking spaces, Zipcar will provide the City with usage statistics over the next 18 months to help determine how viable vehicle-sharing is in our community.

Carsharing is one of many strategies the City is pursuing to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. People tend to drive less after joining a carshare program, and to walk, bicycle, and use transit more.

As part of the pilot launch, Zipcar will offer Fremont residents and employees access to these carshare vehicles at a discounted membership rate at www.Zipcar.com/CityofFremont.

National Night Out Registration Underway

Join Fremont Police staff along with community organizations, neighborhood groups, and City leaders in celebrating National Night Out on Tuesday, August 4 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The typical way to participate in National Night Out is to organize a block or neighborhood party. Many will organize barbecues or ice cream socials where neighbors share good food, laughter and updates on what is happening in the neighborhood. National Night Out provides the opportunity for neighbors to get to know each other a little better and sends a strong message to criminals that our community will look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity in their neighborhood. Throughout the night, City staff will make visits to the parties where they will share information, network, and answer questions that community members may have.

Community members can register their event with the Fremont Police Department by visiting www.FremontPolice.org/NNORRegistration. The registration deadline is 5 p.m. on July 24 to be considered for a visit by the police or fire department.

And don't forget to keep your National Night Out neighborhood party eco-friendly! Reserve your free recycling and composting collection containers at www.Fremont.gov/RecyclingContainers or call Environmental Services staff at 510-494-4570.

To learn how other communities celebrate National Night Out, visit the National Association of Town Watch online at www.natw.org.

Painting tips from the pros

By DAVID R. NEWMAN

Painting is a fairly easy and affordable way to give a room a brand new look. But many do-it-yourself homeowners don't have a lot of time to invest in perfecting their painting skills. With that in mind, here are some tips and techniques to help give you that edge when tackling a new painting project.

taPro Painters of the Peninsula, warns, "You want to make sure it's completely dry, otherwise it's going to change the sheen and color of the paint you're applying." He suggests using a product that goes on pink but turns white when it dries.

You should also prepare the walls by sanding to smooth over

The first thing to realize is that there are no shortcuts when it comes to painting. In fact, it usually takes the professionals two to four days to prep, prime, and paint an average-sized room. And if you take the time to do it right, you'll appreciate your efforts when you stand back to admire your work.

The first step in painting any room is to clear out all furniture. This is important, especially if you plan to make any wall repairs, as dust tends to go everywhere. You should also remove all hardware and light fixtures, and label them with masking tape. And invest in a high-quality drop cloth, as paint can soak through many materials.

The second step is to prepare the walls, removing all cracks, holes, and dents. This is usually done by applying a lightweight spackle. Steve Bonbright, Owner and General Manager of Cerany bumps, and by cleaning off any dust using a trisodium phosphate solution (TSP). Also, use painter's tape around edges where you don't want the paint to adhere. Painter's tapes usually come in different adhesion strengths, denoted by color, and are designed for specific surfaces, so be sure to read the label before purchasing. Blue is the most popular, an all purpose tape with a medium adhesion strength that can be used on painted walls, wood, metal, and glass. Going over it with a putty knife helps stick the tape to the surface, and when removing use a utility knife to score the edge of the tape to prevent tearing.

The third step is to pick your paint and primer. Most pros use alcohol and alkyd primers because they'll cover almost anything. Eric Dokey, who founded D&D Painting in Fremont in 1987, strongly suggests using primer when there are stains present to help create a seal so the paint doesn't get absorbed into the wall. And for brand new walls there is a special primer called PVA (Poly Vinyl Acetate), which cleans and seals.

When choosing a paint opt for one of high-quality. While this can cost you $20 to $35 per gallon, it will look nicer and last longer. Due to state regulations, most interior paints now are latex, with little or no volatile organic compounds (VOC's). Bonbright points out that this doesn't eliminate the paint smell, but does make it safer to breathe. He also warns people with latex allergies that they may want to consider an oil-based paint instead.

Paints come in a variety of sheens from flat, which has no coats are generally recommended.

If you're adventurous, says Bonbright, you may want to try some more creative products, like metallic paint, which has tiny reflective bits of metal in it, or textured paint, which can look like leather or stone. There are paint kits available with material you can embed in the wall, like leaves, and also paints that go on as a chalkboard or whiteboard. And shine, to high gloss, which is super shiny. In between are eggshell, satin, and semi-gloss. The higher the sheen, the more durable and easy to clean. However, wall imperfections are often more visible with a higher sheen. Professional painters usually compromise by using eggshell for rooms with high traffic, and flat for bedrooms and offices. Two Dokey has used scented paint additives on occasion to give a room a more pleasing odor.

After deciding on the type of paint, you'll need to invest in a few tools. Obviously, a paint brush is essential. A brush with a soft nylon bristle is best, with a tapered edge to help cut a line where walls meet. Most of the painting, though, is done with a roller, which can come in different nap lengths (the thickness of the material on the roller). Bonbright explains, “If you’ve got a really flat wall, you don’t want to be introducing any stipple, so you want to use a really tight, thin roller on that. If you’ve got a wall with a really heavy texture, the really small nap roller’s just going to roll right on top and never get into nooks & crannies.”

Painting tips from the pros

Also essential is a 5-in-1 tool, which combines a putty knife, scraper, paint can opener, roller squeegee, and gouger all in one. And most professionals use a two gallon bucket (called a “deuce”) with a grate inside instead of a paint tray. A bucket is easier to carry around with you, especially as you go higher up the ladder, and dipping the roller into the paint and wiping it on the grate is a fairly easy operation. In addition, a painter’s rod, which extends a roller’s length, makes painting ceilings easier. And keep lots of rags handy, for wiping up those errant drops.

As with anything, practice makes perfect, but knowing some trade secrets can help boost your confidence and have you painting like a professional in no time.

Local landscape professionals receive honors

SUBMITTED BY AMY CONRAD

The East Bay chapter of California Landscape Contractors Association (CLCA), which spans all of Alameda and Contra Costa counties, recently held the 2015 Beautification Awards honoring 12 local landscape contractors for excellence in landscape installation and maintenance, and demonstrating the best quality, construction, originality, and attention to detail on projects completed within the last year.

A total of 25 awards were presented in 15 categories culled from 42 entries, which encompassed residential and commercial landscape construction, maintenance and renovation, along with water features, outdoor lighting and water-saving, California-friendly landscaping. Among the recipients is Gachina Landscape Management of Menlo Park for its Stonebrae HOA (Homeowners Association) project in Hayward. Gachina received an Achievement Award in the Large Commercial Maintenance category. For a full list of winners, visit www.clcaeastbay.org.

Niles Raises the Woof!

SUBMITTED BY NILES MAIN STREET ASSOCIATION

For the 17th consecutive year, Niles Main Street Association (NMSA) will present “Niles Dog Show/Pooch Pow-Wow and Canine Convention” on Saturday, July 18 at Niles Community Park in Fremont. The show offers canines (and their companions) a chance to show off their talents, assets, and even good looks.

Once again the show will feature demonstrations including sheep herding with Cutter’s Quarters’ Border Collies, Frisbee with Disc Dogs of the Golden Gate, Fremont Police Department K-9 unit, service dog training with Halo Dog Training and more. There will also be a water park for the dogs, and a bounce house for some of our younger attendees. A giant inflatable dog plans to be in attendance as well.

Numerous gourmet food purveyors will be on hand as well as vendors offering both information and all manner of dog

(and some human) related items for sale. A major prize drawing is also included. The Circle of Friends adoption van will help those who wish to provide a new home for a furry friend.

Numerous classifications at this singular show are rarely found in the animal kingdom; they include Prettiest Female, Handsomest Male, Best Costume, Best Performer, Most Unusual Mix and Best Veteran. While purebred dogs are welcome, the emphasis is on companion animals that make good family pets. The show theme of “no pedigree, no problem” has boosted attendance over the years, as the show attracts about 150 dogs and 700 to 800 people during the day’s festivities.

Admission is free to all. Those who wish to enter their dog(s) in any class must register and pay $20 per dog for the first class and $5 for each additional class. On-line registration is available at www.niles.org/dog-show. Ribbons are awarded through 5th place in each class; class winners compete for the Bo Dewey

Cup, awarded to the “Best in Show.”

Registration begins at 9 a.m.; a pancake breakfast for $5 will be available as well. The show benefits the Ohlone Humane Society and Niles Main Street Association, both 501(c)3 charitable organizations. For further information, please contact George Spindler at (510) 792-7387.

THE FLYSPECK FLYER

GOOD BUGS

By Nellie Fly
WORLD'S SMALLEST REPORTER

Nature needs insects. All bugs are part of the ecological balance.

When people grow plants for food or decoration, insects often eat these plants, and that leads people to think of insects as pests.

But, not all bugs are pests. Some help gardeners and farmers. When they do that, people call them "beneficial insects."

Exact count for the water given insect harvest season

Bugs That Eat Bugs

Ladybugs love aphids. Aphids are among the most common plant pests.

Aphids damage plants by feeding on them and by carrying diseases from plant to plant. One farmer's field can host millions of aphids.

Draw the other half of this ladybug.

Ladybugs

Ladybugs sometimes roll over and play dead if they are disturbed. Many predators will not eat an insect that doesn't move.

Praying Mantis

The praying mantis is the only known insect that can turn its head and look over its shoulder. It waits for an insect to stray close, and then snaps it up with a lightning grab of its strong forelegs. It can move twice as fast as a housefly.

When young, praying mantises eat aphids, leafhoppers, mosquitoes, caterpillars and other soft-bodied insects. Later they eat larger insects, beetles, grasshoppers, crickets and other pest insects.

Pirate Bugs

These pirates are good guys. They don't hurt plants, people or pets. They don't eat grain. They eat insects that eat grain. Farmers put them into grain bins to eat the insect pests. Then they are easily removed before the grain is used.

How many pirate bugs can you find on this page?

Pollinators

Some insects help people by pollinating flowers and blossoms. Without pollinators, there would be no apples, pears, cherries, citrus fruit, nuts, berries, coffee, melons, cucumbers, squash or many other food that depend upon the pollination of their blossoms to create fruit.

Pollinating insects are estimated to be worth at least one billion dollars annually to the farming and agriculture industries.

You Are Not Alone, YANA Program

All too frequently, the Fremont Police Department receives calls to conduct a welfare check on a friend, neighbor or family member. The caller usually says they haven't been able to get ahold of someone or they haven't seen someone for some time. Unfortunately, those calls often end tragically.

The Fremont Police Department has a program called YANA (You Are Not Alone). This is a free program designed to assist the elderly and disabled who live alone and are independent, yet want the assurance of knowing someone will call and check in on them daily.

Here's how the program works: On Monday through Friday mornings, well-trained and trusted Police Volunteers call to make sure the enrollee answers. If there is no answer, then they try again shortly thereafter. If there's still no answer, two volunteers in uniforms and a marked police volunteer vehicle respond to the enrollee's house to check on them. If after conducting some preliminary investigation the volunteers believe the enrollee may be inside, they advise FPD dispatch who confirms if there had been any medical transports with the Fremont Fire Department. If there were none, then Fremont Police Officers respond to gain entry.

The idea is that if someone is sick or injured, we can aid them as quickly as possible. And, in the worst case scenario—if someone has passed away, we can notify the family and ensure they are not left in the home for a long period of time. This program is especially helpful when the enrollee's family lives far away or has no family to check on them regularly.

If you are interested or have a family member who may be interested, please call Community Services Officer Diana Allen at 510-790-6800 ext. 2775. Information and enrollment forms are also available on our website at www.FremontPolice.org/YANA.

FEMA Flood Map Service Center

The City of Fremont has been a member of the National Flood Insurance Program since 1983 and has adopted a floodplain management ordinance to reduce flood risks for properties within Special Flood Hazard Areas.

To help communities, FEMA offers user-friendly tools that support the needs of the public in viewing, analyzing, and printing flood hazard maps in an online website called FEMA's Flood Map Service Center at www.MSC.fema.gov. The Flood Map Service Center provides the ability to download maps and Letters of Map Change. It also provides a link to view flood hazard information as Geographic Information Systems (GIS) data through a free interactive mapping application called the FEMA GeoPlatform.

As the official public source for flood hazard information, the Flood Map Service Center is a great resource for novice and advanced users alike. For those who cannot access the online system, the City of Fremont Development Services Center located at 39550 Liberty St. will continue to maintain copies of Letters of Map Change and Elevation Certificates.

For more information, visit www.Fremont.gov/FloodInfo.

Reducing our Greenhouse Gas "Footprint"

Much of the electricity used to run the City of Fremont's operations will now come from the sun, thanks to the new solar carport structures at Aqua Adventure

Waterpark, the Robert Wasserman Fremont Police Center, Irvington Community Center and soon-to-be-added Maintenance Center.

Fremont contracted with SunEdison, a nationwide solar firm, to install the systems, to reduce the City's entire greenhouse gas "footprint" by more than five percent. The systems will also realize an estimated $2.6 million in cost savings over 25 years and, as a bonus, provide shade and rain protection for vehicles.

The carports are the result of the City's participation in the Regional Renewable Energy Project, a multi-agency effort spearheaded by Alameda County that represents the largest collaborative purchase of renewables in the nation. By joining together with other agencies to procure solar, the City of Fremont has benefited from reduced transaction costs, competitive contract terms, and standardized procurement documents, financing, and processing.

For more information, visit www.acgov.org/rrep. For questions regarding Fremont's solar projects, contact Deputy Community Development Director Dan Schoenholz at dschoenholz@fremont.gov or 510-494-4438.

City of Fremont Streets

Fremont pavement projects have shifted into high gear this summer, thanks to various funding sources, including Measure B and Vehicle Registration Fees (voter-approved funds) and other grant funds. In addition to voter-approved funds, the City aggressively pursues grant funds for roadway projects. This year's projects are funded by the $2.1 million One Bay Area Grant and the $250,000 CalRecycle grant. The CalRecycle grant also helps divert discarded rubber tires from the landfill by instead using them in an asphalt blend. This program has diverted an estimated 23,000 tires this year.

The Pavement Rehabilitation Project has nearly completed new pavement work on segments of Alvarado Blvd., Durham Rd., Fremont Blvd., Irvington Ave., Mowry Ave., Osgood Rd., and Paseo Padre Pkwy. The Cape and Slurry Seal Project is applying pavement sealants to the surface of more than 300 different street segments throughout the city.

It is widely acknowledged that funding has been far below what is needed to prevent a decline to the overall pavement condition. Considering Gas Tax has not experienced an increase in more than 20 years, Measure B and VRF, along with the City's pursuit of grant funds and the benefit of an improving economy have all helped to manage this problem in recent years. While these are positive steps toward improving the Fremont roadways, there is still plenty more that remains to be done.

Calling All Older Adults in the Fremont Community

Are you 55 years or older and a member of the Fremont community? If so, the City of Fremont is looking for your input. Fremont residents can help inform the City of Fremont and Alameda County about the needs of older adults and the best way to create an aging-friendly community. It just takes 15 minutes of your time.

Complete the online survey at www.surveymonkey.com/s/ACOlderAdultSurvey2015 or pick up a paper copy at the Fremont Senior Center, 40086 Paseo Padre Pkwy.

You may also download a printed version of the survey in Cambodian, English, Farsi, Mandarin, Spanish, Tagalog, and Vietnamese at www.seniorservicescoalition.org/alameda-county-older-adult-survey-toolkit.

Tri-City Stargazer JULY 15 - JULY 21, 2015 BY VIVIAN CAROL

For All Signs: Venus, goddess of love, will turn retrograde on July 25. She is in the pre-shadow now and you may sense it coming. Her message when retrograde: Give careful thought to your values and don't misplace your love energy; the priority in relationship to others is to love oneself deeply enough to make well-considered choices. Though Venus goes direct on September 6, she will not be back to her starting position until October 8. From now until mid-October we are all advised to pay attention to how and with whom we relate, with one ear listening to the truth of the heart. Do not be concerned about whether someone loves you at this time. Focus attention instead on how you feel within a given relationship.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): You may have more than one opportunity to be drawn into a combative position with another. One or more persons of power will be making demands. You are truly tempted to argue the point with a vengeance. However, the one who has the established power will win this round. If that is not you, then save your anger for a better time.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Your patience may be worn very thin by someone who has entered your life since the beginning of the year. If the issues are large enough, perhaps it would be better to suggest that you take a break for a while. Maybe all you really need is to retreat for a few days of R&R. Take some time to rest your mind and feelings.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): News concerning financial affairs is likely to be unpleasant. You are not in a position to make demands while the other has all the power. Make an effort to use your well known mental agility and persuasive ability, but don't turn a discussion into a battle of wills. Letting it go for the present may leave the door open for the future.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): Irritability and a tendency to short temper may be your companions this week. Beware the temptation to obsess over minor issues. Take especially good care of your body at this time. You are in a physically low cycle and subject to accident or minor injuries with tools, or vehicles.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): It is normal to feel somewhat lethargic during the month just prior to one's birthday. At this time the sun is figuratively at its darkest and we experience a natural low in our personal annual cycle. Don't take the dip too seriously. It is meant to happen this way, so that you can rest before your new year begins.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You have more than a few challenges this week. Get plenty of sleep so as to keep your mind sharp because you will need it to meet difficult people and issues. Though you are normally tactful, your mouth may speak before you can think about it. Make an effort to prepare statements ahead of time.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): The early part of the week is unusually stressed by people challenges. By mid-week you are likely to retreat into the quiet of your comforting solitary place. Perhaps you need to be still and meditate. Or you may have a desire to enjoy the arts, some music, and escape into a few good movies.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): You will be more than a little bit tempted to pour everything you've got into your objectives now. This energy requires tender handling. If you push too hard or too fast, you will find others are shoving back. Use your powers of persuasion to get others on board, so that they add to the energy for good, lest you fail. Watch the accelerator foot.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): You know that you are working toward a major change of identity in the big picture. That is as it should be. However, this summer you have a hiatus in which you can relax for a few weeks before you tackle the big changes that will alter your future.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): There are conflicts all around you. Do your best to maintain an ethical stance, even though others may not. Do not stoop to physical combat unless you must save your own skin. Do not go looking for trouble. There is a possibility that this is an internal quarrel with yourself. If so, heavy exercise may help you relieve the mental stress.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): You and the authority figures in your world are cooperating and helping each other accomplish a project. Your mind is both steady and imaginative - able to see how one thing flows into the next. At times like these, work becomes a positive experience. It integrates with your personal rhythm and feels smooth.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): It may seem to you as though almost everything is unsure, uncertain and up for grabs right now. This makes it challenging to make even relatively small decisions. Circumstances around you are not at all clear and it is better to leave as many options as possible open. When you see daylight you will want to act as soon as possible.

Retirement
Doesn’t Mean Inactive

So, you’ve punched that 8:00 to 5:00 time clock for the last time and you are ready for retirement. Retirement should mean no more time clocks, but it shouldn’t mean you just stop all activity!

Now is the time to do those things you have always wanted to do, make new friends, try new things, associate with like-minded men, catch up on the things that interest you.

Why not join your local SIR organization?! Sons In Retirement is a state-wide organization of local branches for men to meet and mutually enjoy the benefits of retirement. SIR conducts a monthly luncheon meeting where you can associate with other retired men, listen to topical speakers, sign up for activities of interest, make new friends, and keep happily active.

Fremont/Newark/Union City Branch 59, meets the third Thursday of the month at the Newark Pavilion on Thornton Ave and Cherry St in Newark. Socializing is from 11:00 to 12:00, and there is time to look over an extensive library of books, sign up for activities, and meet new people or shoot the breeze with old friends. The formal meeting starts at 12:00 with club announcements, birthday wishes, a sing-a-long, and lunch, followed by a selected speaker. Meetings usually end about 1:30.

Activities run the gamut from golf, bowling, computers, wine tasting, bridge, bocce, and couples dining out, and more are being added as interest dictates.

There are also activities which can include your wives or girlfriends, and the ladies seem to enjoy getting their retired men out of the house on occasion.

SIR Branch 59 is looking for new members. Visit their website at www.sirinc.org or call Jim Ulam at (510) 797-9357 or email time4golf@snakebite.com for more information.

San Leandro Library awarded 2016 Big Read

SUBMITTED BY TERESA MEYER

Mayor Pauline Russo Cutter and the San Leandro City Council announced that the San Leandro Public Library has been awarded a sixth consecutive Big Read grant. A program of the National Endowment for the Arts, The Big Read broadens our understanding of our world, our communities, and ourselves through the joy of sharing a good book. The San Leandro Public Library is one of 75 nonprofit organizations to receive the grant.

“We are tremendously grateful to the organizations that sponsor the Big Read,” stated Mayor Cutter. “This program promotes reading and literacy, and brings San Leandrans together through a wide array of fascinating artistic and cultural programs. Receiving this grant for an unprecedented sixth consecutive year is a testament to the ingenuity and hard work of our library staff.”

San Leandro’s 2016 book selection will be The Maltese Falcon, a novel by acclaimed author Dashiell Hammett. The National Endowment for the Arts has selected this book because it is one of the best detective novels ever written. Published in 1930, it set the standard by which all subsequent detective fiction would be judged. Hammett’s clean prose and sharp ear for dialogue produced an exceedingly readable novel with enough twists to keep the reader turning the pages in search of clues.

Set in San Francisco, the story takes place over a six-day period, beginning Wednesday, December 5, and ending Monday morning, December 10, 1928. A tough, independent detective, Samuel Spade is hired by the beautiful and mysterious “Miss Wonderly,” who walks into his office pleading desperately for help finding her sister. This bogus job gets Spade’s partner, Miles Archer, and a thug named Thursby killed that same night. Though he disliked Archer, Spade’s personal moral code dictates that “when a man’s partner is killed he’s supposed to do something about it.”

The 2016 Big Read will kick off in February, 2016 and will continue through the months of March and April. The community is invited to be active in the Big Read experience, which is always a wonderful journey of activities, events and insights. More information about the 2016 program will be available starting in January 2016. For more information, call (510) 577-3991.

Take action at Relay for Life

The greater Tri-City communities are gearing up for “Relay for Life,” an organized, overnight fundraising walk to raise awareness of cancer. Cities are represented by teams, whose members take turns walking around the track to symbolize that cancer never sleeps. To kick off the event, cancer survivors take the first lap around the track as their victory over the disease is celebrated and cheered on by other participants. Candles are lit and placed around the tracks at night to pay tribute to those who have succumbed to the disease and those whose fight continues. Ceremonies are also held to encourage participants to take action. Although the American Cancer Society is making great strides in their fight against cancer, there is still so much work to do on the road to recovery. Show your support, find an event near you and register as a team or join one at www.relayforlife.org.

Roots run deep for East Bay newcomer

SUBMITTED BY SCOTT CHISHOLM

Cal State University East Bay (CSUEB) women's hoops has announced former Idaho State student-athlete Katrina Bacovcin will suit up for the Pioneers in 2015-16. The six-foot tall forward was a key reserve last season, and a two-year member of the Bengals squad.

"Katrina is eager to move to the Bay Area and join our program. She is dedicated to making the most of her summer in terms of getting stronger and working on all phases of her game in order to make a positive impact upon our team," praised East Bay Head Coach Suzy Barcomb.

The family ties with the school run deep in the Bacovcin family. Both of Katrina's parents attended CSUEB (Cal State Hayward at the time).

"My mother Carol attended (Hayward) for two years before transferring to UC Berkeley to finish her degree in mathematics. My father Mike earned his master's degree in computer science," Bacovcin said.

Katrina's aunt Chris and uncle Steve Dreher competed for the Pioneers in the 1980's. The pair met on campus and later married after graduating from CSUH. Patty Hanafee, another aunt of Katrina's also competed for CSUH in swimming and completed her degree in Hayward.

Bacovcin headed to Idaho State University by way of Chaparral High School located in Parker, Colo. As a senior at CHS she averaged 13 points per game and was named a First Team All-League selection. Her collegiate career started at ISU playing 19 games as a freshman. Bacovcin knocked down better than 51 percent of her shots from the floor as a sophomore and scored a career-high seven points during a flawless shooting effort against Montana State.

East Bay Women's Water Polo places seven on All-Academic list

SUBMITTED BY SCOTT CHISHOLM

Cal State University East Bay (CSUEB) was one of 25 NCAA women's water polo programs to earn the Association of Collegiate Water Polo Coaches (ACWPC) All-Academic Team Award. Seven different Pioneers earned individual honors led by Tori Dettloff's Outstanding All-Academic Award. CSUEB (Pioneers) led the Western Water Polo Association (WWPA) with its 3.17 team grade point average. The Pioneers were the only WWPA program to earn team recognition.

Dettloff, a junior utility player from Stockton, joined a select group of student-athletes to earn the top honor of "Outstanding" by maintaining a grade point average above 3.70. She was also named an ACWPC All-American in addition to her academic achievement.

Simonne Call, Katelyn Clark, Sabrina Hatzler, Jenn Lightbody, and Olivia Mackell all received "Superior" honors with grade point averages higher than 3.40. Call and Lightbody have earned certificates in each of their first three seasons.

Taylor Cross rounds out the seven Pioneer award recipients after receiving "Excellent" status. She is one of three repeat recipients on this year's club.

It is the third time over the past five years that CSUEB has placed at least seven team members on the ACWPC All-Academic list. Last year the Pioneers set a program record with 10 selections.

Threepeat for California District 14 Big League Allstars

Little League Baseball

SUBMITTED BY FRANK BONTEMPO AND
BARB FUHS

For the third year in a row, Little League Baseball's California District 14 (Fremont/Newark) Big League All-Star team has won the California Sectional 3 Big League title. The title earned CA D14 a trip to the California Division II (Northern California State) Big League All-Star Tournament for the third year in a row, after topping California District 57 (Pleasanton/Danville/San Ramon/Livermore/Dublin) and California District 45 (Hayward/Union City/San Lorenzo/Castro Valley) in the Section 3 Tournament.

The tournament, held at Gomes Elementary School – home to Mission San Jose Little League, opened with District 45 playing District 57 in this double-elimination tournament; District 14 drew a bye. D45 scored first in the 2nd inning with a walk and two consecutive singles by Dominick Higaes and Aaron Dixon. They added two more in the 4th with hits by Dixon, Jonathan Torres, and Steven Bernallie-Solis. D57 fought back with a solo homerun by Zach Scherman in the 6th but they could not capitalize on seven scattered hits allowed by pitching duo Elias Yasini and Emilio Vasquez, who combined for eight strikeouts in the 3-1 D45 victory. The loss moved D57 to the Elimination Bracket.

District 45 advanced in the Winner's Bracket to face D14. This game soon became all D14, as the team opened a very strong second inning, scoring six runs with hits by pitcher Adriano Arroyo, followed by Ryan Gibson, Jacob Walter, and Mark Bontempo. In the 4th inning, Nicky Maldonado started off the inning with a hit and Gibson getting the RBI by hitting Maldonado in. Later in the inning, two were on base when Walter added his 2-RBI single. In the 5th inning, Eswar Vinnakota's double brought in Aaron Havard and Jordan Terbeek, each of whom had reached base on strong hits. Arroyo pitched four strong innings, giving up only two hits and striking out one. Bontempo finished off the game by pitching to four batters in the final inning, and D14 coming out on top 12-0 to advance to the Championship Game.

With the loss, D45 moved in to the Elimination Bracket to face D57, in a rematch of the Tournament opener. D57 scored first and built a 3-0 lead with hits by Andrew Kroll and Stephen Chipman. John Schofield contributed hits while Brett Degeus came through with a double, holding the D57 lead through 5. In the 6th inning, a lead-off homer by pitcher Steven Bernallie-Solis woke up D45. Miguel Delfin's knockout brought in Emilio Vasquez, who had reached base with an error, leaving D57 ahead by one run after six innings. D57 couldn't add any runs in the top of the 7th, then in the bottom of the 7th, D45 capitalized on two walks and three hits, scoring two runs, with the winning RBI single coming from Jonathan Torres, giving D45 the win. D45 pitcher Bernallie-Solis combined with Vasquez to give up the 3 earned runs with a combined 10 strikeouts. D45's strong comeback gave them the 4-3 victory and a slot in the Championship Game.

Coming out of the elimination bracket, D45 was playing their 4th game in four days in the Championship Game. As with their first meeting, D14 controlled the game, as D14 pitcher, Mark Bontempo superbly pitched a complete game and held D45 to one hit, two walks and forced five strikeouts to earn the victory.

D14 got on the board early with David Shan and Adriano Arroyo each having a two-hit day. Adding to the strong hitting were Nicky Maldonado, Ryan Gibson, Aaron Havard, and Jordan Terbeek. Aggressive base-running combined with the timely hits, gave D14 eight earned runs in the win. D45 could only muster one unearned run in the contest.

With the 8-1 win, California District 14 captured the California Section 3 Big League Championship for the third year in row. California District 14 Administrator, Reggie Torres presented the Section 3 Championship flag to Manager Mike Arnold, Coaches Pat Lemucchi and JD da Silva and the entire D14 Big League All-Star team.

The Championship victory propels the team in to the California Division II (Northern California State) Big League All-Star Tournament. The Northern California State Big League All-Star Tournament will be played at the San Leandro Ball Park beginning July 8, with the Championship Game scheduled for Monday, July 13. The winner of the State Tournament moves on the Big League West Region All-Star Tournament in Bremerton, Washington.

In 2013 California District 14 captured the Section 3 Title and the Northern California State Crown and went on to play in the Championship Game of the Western Region Tournament. In 2014, the District captured the Section 3 Title again, but fell short in the Northern California State Tournament.

Big League baseball is a full-fledged Little League program for players 15 to 18. It offers players a competitive game played on a 90' diamond using traditional baseball rules. California District 14 covers the Southern Alameda County cities of Fremont – which has six Little Leagues – and Newark – which has two Little Leagues. The District 14 Big League All-Stars come from four of the eight member leagues in the District. Nearly 3000 children participate in District 14 Little Leagues in baseball programs for ages 4 to 18 years old.

Mission San Jose captures Intermediate Championship

Little League Baseball

SUBMITTED BY GREG WERNER

Mission San Jose Little League's intermediate baseball team captured the California District 14 All Star championship with a hard fought 6-5 victory over Fremont American. This marks the third consecutive district championship for this cohort of players. However many faces were new in this year's roster. Aditya Krishnan, Ansh Singh, Anthony Zhou, Daniel Chang, Michael Bettencourt, Rahul Rangarajan, and Ravi Pathak joined the All Star squad after successful regular season campaigns. Manager Daniel Stanley, and coaches John Bettencourt and John Zhang will be pleased with how their efforts molded players who contributed to a successful post season run. Players returning from previous years included Andy Yang, Apurv Prabhakar, Blake Werner, Jonah Woo, Kyano Voong, Matthew Cho, and Pritam Reddy.

Mission started off their All Star season on the wrong foot, falling to Fremont American 13-5 in their first game, putting them in a precarious do-or-die situation for the rest of the tournament.

In game two, versus Warm Springs Little League, the team combined for 24 hits and ran away with a 20-9 victory. Blake Werner led the offence with four hits, including a triple and double, and Matthew Cho, Michael Bettencourt, Apurv Prabhakar, and Kyano Voong each registered three. Matthew Cho chipped in some fine play at shortstop, cleanly retiring four batters.

Game three saw a return of the Fremont American team who were hoping to close out the championship with a victory.

Apurv Prabhakar struck out seven and was able to keep opposing hits on the ground. Blake Werner fielded six chances at second base without an error to anchor the defense. Michael Bettencourt got four hits, and Ansh Singh stole second base four times, to lead the offence. In a wild finish, with two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning, the tying run for Fremont American was caught in a rundown between home and third base. When the runner was finally retired, Mission claimed an 11-10 victory.

The championship game, a repeat of game four, promised to be entertaining, and it delivered. Pritam Reddy pitched a strong game, conceding only three runs in six innings against a very strong hitting team. Matthew Cho smashed three hits and Jonah Woo added two doubles.

Blake Werner added a pair of hits and continued his sparkling glove work, again flawless in 6 attempts. Another exciting finish saw Jonah Woo make a great catch in left field to snare what seemed to be a certain game-tying hit, then calmly throw to second to complete a double play and win the championship 6-5.

Manager Daniel Stanley showed his athleticism during the post game festivities by mostly avoiding repeated attempts by happy players to dump a cooler on him. Some of the players were not so lucky.

The team moved on to play in the California Section 3 tournament in Half Moon Bay. In the opener against the hosts, a succession of Mission pitchers combined to strike out nine. Michael Bettencourt homered, and Matthew Cho, Kyano Voong, and Blake Werner each crossed the plate three times en route to a 17-7 win.

In the second game, Anthony Zhou and Michael Bettencourt both homered. But it wasn't enough as a very strong Pleasanton team seemed to have an answer for every pitcher Mission sent to the mound, scoring 17 runs in the third inning leading to an easy 24-6 win.

A depleted pitching staff fought gamely in Mission's third contest, but succumbed to Half Moon Bay's outpouring of powerful hitting 15-6.

Notably, the spirit and enthusiasm of the players on the bench only increased as the last game approached its conclusion. As the season ended, the players took with them happy memories, friendships, and a championship banner.

New Industrial Project Crosses the Finish Line; another Major Silicon Valley Connection

By CHRISTINA BRIGGS,
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT
MANAGER

Regular followers of Think Silicon Valley East may recall a blog post (<http://www.thinksiliconvalley.com/silicon-valley-east/meeting-needs-todays-industrial-tenants-why-im-betting-fremont/>) last year contributed by Overton Moore CEO Timur Tecimer. In it, he discussed plans for their large industrial development project and why he is so bullish on Fremont. This week, we celebrated the completion of The Crossings @ 880 and the corresponding extension of Fremont Boulevard to Dixon Landing Road.

The Crossings is a 691,000 square foot Class A industrial development that was built on a speculative basis. All three buildings were pre-leased before construction completed, which speaks to the strong demand for high quality space among corporate users looking to establish a high-identity location. Prominent visibility along I-880 works well for distribution users who want immediate freeway access to infill markets within the San Francisco Bay Area. The project is one of the largest speculative industrial projects in the Bay Area in the last 15 years.

Equally encouraging is the tenant mix, which includes Apple, Pivot Interiors (an office furniture distributor), and the first Northern California store for Living Spaces, a well-known furniture retailer from Southern California. The fact that the Crossings has already attracted a global tech giant, a traditional warehouse operation, and a retailer just goes to show the flexible nature of the space.

A critical component of the development is a three-quarter mile extension of Fremont Blvd from its existing southerly terminus to Dixon Landing Road. The extension includes:

- 2 vehicular lanes and a bike lane in each direction
- 2 bridges over an Alameda County Flood Control Channel and Scott Creek; and a low-flow bypass culvert for Scott Creek
- A 9-foot bay trail on the west side and a 5-foot sidewalk on the east side
- Signal modification at the intersection of Fremont Blvd and Dixon Landing Road

An estimate for construction of the street extension is approximately $12 million. The extension provides a long-awaited connection to the rest of Silicon Valley for the Bayside area of Fremont's Innovation District. With significant employment concentration in this area, including emerging technology startups and large anchor companies like Lam Research and Delta Products, this connection more easily facilitates workforce commuting and enhances business-to-business connections with other parts of Silicon Valley.

WILLIAM MARSHAK

A longstanding segment of the judicial system, dating as far back as ancient Greece, are Grand Jury citizen oversight committees that investigate allegations of wrongdoing in civil and criminal proceedings. Recently, a report dated June 30, 2015, issued by the civil Grand Jury of Alameda County, covered a host of cases, some directly related to the Tri-Cities.

In its report of June 30, 2015, a letter to presiding Judge Winifred Y. Smith, states: "This report was prepared by a civil grand jury whose role is to investigate all aspects of local government and municipalities to ensure government is being run efficiently, and that government monies are being handled appropriately."

Allegations of improper behavior may be brought by citizens or those within the political system and selected for review by the grand jury at its discretion. Review and recommendations in the current report range from issues of political interference, travel expenses, tax oversight, land purchase procedures, official communication and jail oversight. Several investigations were the result of citizen complaints about local jurisdictions:

An extensive review of recent Newark Unified School District furor over Board-Superintendent-Staff communications and directives indicated a failure of all parties to clarify their roles in spite of policy statements in district documents. Within its recommendations, the Grand Jury states: "The Newark Unified School District Board of Education must amend its bylaws and handbook by adding a formal policy that does not allow individual board members to interfere with faculty and staff on school issues, or visit school sites, without permission from the superintendent or from the board as a whole."

Another allegation within the report investigates a citizen complaint that the City of Fremont violates transparency and retention statutes by discarding city emails after 30 days, defining them as "preliminary drafts." The report states the Grand Jury is "deeply concerned" by these actions and goes further, calling the procedure "apparent intentional efforts to exclude the public from accessing city emails." The dispute centers on the definition of emails that should be retained as a public record and how to determine that status. Cost of compliance was also noted in investigation. In conclusion, the Grand Jury stated, "...all government agencies should be open and transparent.

Emails must therefore be retained as public records and must be accessible for public review when warranted" and "The city of Fremont must overhaul its email retention/purge policy." Noting inconsistencies within the State of California, the report advises "...integrating its retention statute into the Public Records Act. The absence of uniform guidelines means government emails will continue to be treated inconsistently across jurisdictions."

A healthy review of allegations of interference with proper and transparent governance is welcome for all concerned. Often citizen vigilance is a key factor when determining whether procedures and actions of public agencies, elected officials and their staff are following acceptable standards of behavior. A range of disputes from an honest difference of opinion to outright chicanery can be controlled through official investigative bodies such as the Grand Jury system. In these cases, it will be interesting to view the responses by those in this report. Agencies cited in the report are required to respond within 90 days of date of public release.

Chinese Pistache trees planted for Eagle Scout project

SUBMITTED BY NELSON KIRK

Vikram Dhillon of Boy Scout of America Troop #273 and volunteers planted drought tolerant Chinese Pistache trees along Dyer Street, between Regents Boulevard and Deborah Drive on Saturday May 16, 2015 to complete his Eagle Scout project.

Public Works recently shut down the irrigation to numerous lawns along Union City Boulevard, Mission Boulevard, Willow Lane, and Myrtle Lane as part of our drought response plan. Vikram had planned his project before Jerry Brown declared the drought emergency. We have five Eagle Scout projects pending that we are committed to complete. Each project calls for drip irrigation using two gallon per hour emitters as per Alameda County Water District requirements for new plantings. That equates to about 140 gallons of water per week to water these trees compared to the thousands of gallons used to water the recently shut down lawns.

The role of trees in storm water retention and resulting benefits to public health and municipal budgets deserves greater appreciation. It is one more reason why the planting and care of trees in our communities is of critical importance.

Vikram was assisted by Public Works staff Alex Quintero, Julio Duran, and William Avendano.

Park It

It’s hard to overlook the impact of the drought in the East Bay Regional Park District’s 190,000 acres of grasslands, forests and shoreline. Anyone who’s hiked lately has likely noticed the dry creeks, the stressed trees, the parched soil.

Mammals have also been in short supply. Lack of rain has translated to less vegetation and less prey for the deer, bobcats, badgers, and myriad other animals that live in our parks.

But the parks still yield some great animal-watching activities. Birds and reptiles appear to be coping with the drought a bit better than their furry cousins, and can be spotted in every park in the District, from Coyote Hills in Fremont to Big Break in Oakley.

July is a great time to watch young birds learn to fly. Fledgling hawks, robins, turkeys and everything in between are testing out their new feathers, squawking at their parents for food, and exploring the world beyond their nests.

Juvenile red-tailed hawks are perhaps the most interesting to watch. Unlike the adults, which are a sleek reddish brown, the juveniles are mottled white and dark gray, and fluffy. They typically stay in the nest until they’re 6 or 7 weeks old before trying their first flights, and then stick around another few weeks before departing for good. Red-tailed hawks are common in the East Bay and can be found in every park.

Another common inhabitant of our parks is the western fence lizard. As every kid knows, fence lizards have bright blue bellies and they (apparently) love to have their bellies rubbed. They’re also an important part of the food chain – both as a meal for the aforementioned red-tailed hawks and other raptors, but also as major consumers of mosquitoes, spiders, ticks, flies and other bugs. They’re often seen basking on rocks and logs, and with their patterned brown and tan scales, are a treat to behold.

If you’re lucky, you might come across another blue reptile: the skink. Skinks look like shiny, striped lizards, but the juveniles have neon blue tails. Even more bizarre, skinks can release their tails to trick a predator, and the tail will keep wiggling while the skink wiggles away to safety, eventually growing a new tail.

Bored this summer? The Park District has many opportunities to volunteer for the whole family, especially with habitat restoration. Removing non-native and invasive plants and replacing them with natives is an ongoing process at the District, and couldn’t be accomplished without the help of volunteers. Trail repair, creek stabilization, erosion control, fence building and general maintenance are also needed.

If pulling weeds isn’t your cup of tea, the District offers many other volunteer opportunities. Docents, safety patrol, park ambassadors, help with wildlife projects and working at the Botanic Garden are among the jobs available. Go to www.ebparks.org/about/get-involved, email volunteers@ebparks.org, or call (510) 544-2515 to learn more.

Crime is relatively rare in our parks, but it never hurts to take precautions when you’re out on the trails. Here are a few safety tips from our police staff:

1. Stay alert and be aware of your surroundings.
2. Bring a friend.
3. Don’t go hiking at night.
4. Don’t wear headphones.
5. Leave valuables at home.
6. Stay on marked trails.
7. Let someone know where you’re going and when you expect to return.
8. If you need help, call 911 or (510) 881-1121.

AP WIRE SERVICE

LOS ANGELES (AP), – The outdoor showers at beaches across drought-stricken California will be shut off to save water, so surfers and sunbathers will have to get creative this summer when it comes time to shake off the sand.

Public rinse stations in all state-run beaches and parks will be off limits effective July 15 as the state endures a four-year dry spell. The severe drought has led Gov. Jerry Brown to order California communities to cut water use by 25 percent compared with 2013 levels.

California State Parks said its 278 parks have successfully met the water reduction mandate, but those in areas with more water scarcity will have to further reduce consumption.

Todd Lewis, acting superintendent for the department’s Orange Coast district, said visitors should look for alternatives to the showers, such as using a broom to brush off their bodies or bringing their own water, the Los Angeles Times reported Friday (<http://lat.ms/1KUYhp3>).

“Bring a bottle of water? How big? A tank? That is not a good idea,” Sara Israelsson told the newspaper as she finished rinsing at a public shower at Santa Monica State Beach.

Israelsson said she won’t swim in the ocean anymore if she can’t rinse afterward.

While many beachgoers aren’t so thrilled about the showerheads running dry, some said the inconvenience was worth it to conserve water.

“Take your shirt off and dust your feet off,” said Brithany McGinty, a visitor from Arizona. “We are in a drought.”

Shutting off public showers could save more than 18 million gallons of water annually, the department estimated.

“California is facing extremely severe drought conditions,” California State Parks director Lisa Mangat said in a press release. “It is important for all Californians to conserve water at home, at work and even when recreating outdoors.”

For now, it will be “ocean air, salty hair” until beachgoers reach home for a cool rinse.

Hewlett-Packard moves forward with plan to split in 2

BY BRANDON BAILEY
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP),Hewlett-Packard is moving forward with plans to split into two companies, filing paperwork to create a new entity that will sell commercial technology, while a separate spinoff will sell personal computers and printers.

HP said in a regulatory filing Wednesday that the new company called Hewlett Packard Enterprise will include units of the old HP that sold computer hardware, software and tech services for large organizations. The papers show those units had $25.6 billion in sales over the last two quarters, with net earnings of $852 million.

CEO Meg Whitman, who will lead the new enterprise company, said in a statement that the split remains on track to occur by November.

HP, meanwhile, said one of its senior executives, Bill Veghte, resigned this week to pursue an unspecified new opportunity.

Last flight for US Airways expected in October

BY DAVID KOENIG
AP AIRLINES WRITER

DALLAS (AP), The last flight for US Airways will take place this fall, and one more name in airline history will disappear.

The farewell flight for US Airways will be a red-eye – Flight 434 is scheduled to leave San Francisco around 10 p.m. and land in Philadelphia after 6 a.m. on Oct. 17. The US Airways website will be turned off. Airport kiosks and signs will change to American Airlines.

The two airlines merged in December 2013 and decided to keep the better-known American name. Vestiges of the carrier will survive for some time, however, as some planes won't be repainted yet in American's colors and logo.

In the last 10 years, mergers have eliminated Northwest, Continental and AirTran. Before that, Pan Am, TWA and many smaller carriers disappeared.

American Airlines Group Inc. announced the timing of the curtain call on Friday. The company's biggest challenge may be combining the computer systems of two airlines without creating the kinds of problems that have plagued United and Continental after they combined reservations systems in 2012. This week, all United flights were grounded and more than 1,000 were delayed after a problem that the airline blamed on a faulty router.

Maya Leibman, American's chief information officer, said American has built in redundancies and disaster-recovery programs in key systems. But referring to United, she said, "There is no technology leader that could stand up and say with 100 percent certainty that nothing like this could ever happen to them."

American officials said they have hired about 1,900 airport and reservations agents and will give special training to nearly 10,000 current employees to perform the switch from the US Airways reservations system, called Shares, to American's, which is provided by Sabre. The airline is also reducing flights around the switchover to lighten the load on computer systems.

Customers booked on US Airways flights after Oct. 17 will get a new flight number bearing American's AA code. That's only about 4 percent of all reservations in the American and US Airways systems, they said.

American will have more technology work to do after October. It still must combine crew-scheduling and maintenance-tracking systems. The Fort Worth, Texas, company has about 113,000 employees, including those at wholly owned regional subsidiaries such as Envoy Air.

American is the biggest airline operator in the world by passenger traffic, having surpassed United after the merger with US Airways.

California shark attack rates plunge 90 percent since 1950s

CHRISTOPHER WEBER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES (AP), Swimmers and surfers today are about 90 percent less likely to be attacked by sharks off California's coast than they were in the 1950s, even though there are hundreds of thousands more people in the water, according to a new study.

The findings mark a stark contrast to recent headlines out of North Carolina, where a record number of shark attacks have been reported this year. Eight people were bitten in the past three weeks alone.

More research is needed to explain the apparent disparity, said Francesco Ferretti of Stanford University's Hopkins Marine Station.

What the study did show was that although the reported number of attacks along California has risen slightly over the past six decades, the risk of attack has plummeted, according to Ferretti and fellow Stanford researcher Fiorenza Micheli.

"Considering how many more people are out there in the ocean, we should expect many more attacks," Ferretti said Thursday.

Researchers said the decline likely was the result of sharks focusing their attention on their natural prey, such as sea lions and elephant seals – whose populations have surged in recent years thanks to conservation efforts. There might also be fewer sharks in the water, they said. It's been tough historically to track shark populations.

On average in the 1950s, California saw less than one attack on humans per year, Micheli said. That number has gone up to about one or two attacks a year over the past decade.

The human population in coastal California tripled during the same period – from 7 million in the 1950s to 21 million in 2013, the study said. Meanwhile, the number of surfers, scuba divers and beachgoers has spiked.

In December, a juvenile great white pulled a man off his surfboard along the Central Coast. That was about 50 miles up the coast from the site of an attack on a surfer near Vandenberg Air Force Base in October. Both men survived.

In North Carolina, most of this year's attacks happened in shallow water. The eight reported in the past three weeks broke a record for the most shark bites off the state's coast in the 80 years in which records have been kept.

Ferretti said more research is needed to determine what's behind that spike. Some experts say it might be related to an unseasonably hot June that rapidly raised ocean temperatures off North Carolina and prompted fish to migrate

Obituary

Mary A. Petee
May 23, 1920 - July 10, 2015
Resident of Newark

Mary A. Petee, born May 23, 1920, died July 10, 2015. She served in the United States Navy for over 22 years; during World War II and the Korean and Vietnam wars. She obtained the rating of Storekeeper First Class Petty Officer. She then worked at Stanford Research Institute International in Palo Alto as expeditor until her retirement when she became very active as a volunteer worker with many organizations. Mary was born in Crockett, California to Eugene W. Petee & Cecile Keller Petee who are now deceased along with all her brothers and sisters. Memorial Services are planned to be held at St. Edward Catholic Church, 5788 Thornton Ave., Newark, CA 94560, on Thursday, July 16, 2015 at 11am.

north earlier than usual.

In California, researchers put the odds of a swimmer getting attacked by a great white at about one in every 738 million beach visits.

"You have a better chance of winning the lottery," Ferretti said. For surfers, the chances were one in 17 million.

"It's a saying in the community: You're more at risk of getting hit by a falling coconut," said Chris Plante, an assistant curator at Aquarium of the Pacific in Long Beach. "I don't have numbers to back that up, but I do know you're more at risk of getting bit by a dog than a shark."

Swimmers and surfers can further reduce their risk by taking to the water in the spring. Attack rates vary throughout the year, with the highest in October and November and the lowest between March and May. The pattern matches sharks' seasonal shifts in migration, Ferretti said.

Attacks are much less likely in San Diego, Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura counties. That's because sharks in Southern California tend to be juveniles, so they're smaller and less dangerous, researchers said.

As they grow, they migrate north to find prey, so they're more dangerous in Northern California.

The Stanford study will be published in this month's issue of the journal Frontiers in Ecology and the Environment.

Mariachi Festival celebrates heritage and community

Mariachi is a genre of music that found its origins in 18th century Jalisco in Western Mexico. The indigenous peoples created the original mariachi sound using rattles, drums, flutes, and conch shells. Upon the arrival of the Spanish, however, new instruments such as violins and guitars replaced native ones. Today, a typical ensemble integrates violins, guitars, trumpets, harps, and a vihuela and guitarrón — a high pitched guitar and a bass guitar—to produce an infectious rhythm. Mariachi musicians don silver-studded Charro suits and wide brimmed hats, an attire that has become emblematic of Mexican culture.

The festival's debut last year was one of the largest events hosted by the City of Newark, attracting nearly 800 people. "Everyone responded exuberantly and we're hoping that events like this will help diversify our community," said Edda Rivera, who helped organize the event last year.

"Newark is approximately 35 percent Hispanic," said Rivera. "Having a Mariachi Festival is a great way to embrace their heritage in our community."

A great lineup of mariachi bands are set to take the festival stage, including Mariachi Mexicanísimo de Hayward, Mariachi Halcones de Oakland, Ballet Folklórico de James Logan High School, and Ballet Folklórico de Niños de Music Elementary School. Along with the live entertainment, guests will be able to enjoy flavorful Mexican food and refreshments, courtesy of Arteaga's Food Center and Avanzado, which will host two booths on site.

It's time to harvest those crops! Join the "Wheat Harvesting" program at Ardenwood Historic Farm on Sunday, July 19 and July 26. Follow a plump wheat berry's journey from the farm's field to your table. You'll bring in the sheaves of grain and thresh it to separate the wheat from the chaff. Next we'll mill the grain into wholesome, stone-ground flour.

Participants will see a historic stationary threshing machine in operation, learn the difference between hay and straw, and try some hand tools such as flails and scythes. "Over the years this program has been popular with families. It is beneficial to the community to understand how their food is processed," stated Christina Garcia, a Naturalist at Ardenwood.

This is a drop-in program; no registration is required. Ardenwood admission fees apply. For more information, call (510) 544-2797.

Man's best friend makes a great partner in crime prevention

By JESSICA NOËL CHAPIN

What's on your daily to-do list? Walking the dog? How about fighting crime and making your neighborhood a safer place? In communities across the nation, dog-walking citizens are turning into secret superheroes just by engaging in a routine task with their four-legged companions.

According to Matt Peskin, Executive Director for the National Association of Town Watch (NATW), there are over 75 million dog walkers in the United States. The Humane Society estimates that 47 percent of households have at least one dog. By comparison, in cities with over 50,000 residents, there is an average of only 17 police officers for every 10,000 residents. Grassroots programs like Neighborhood Watch and Dog Walker Watch can help ease the burden of local law enforcement agencies.

Dog Walker Watch began in 2013 as an extension of the National Association of Town Watch. Local law enforcement agencies coordinate with NATW to provide training for average citizens to be "extra eyes and ears" in their communities. The Dog Walker Watch program operates in a similar fashion as the Neighborhood Watch programs. After receiving appropriate safety training, program participants observe and report suspicious activity they might notice while going on their daily walk. Dog walkers do not try to interrupt or apprehend criminals on their own; the idea is to aid police with tips, not to endanger one's life by trying to make a citizen's arrest.

Today, there are over 1,000 communities participating in the Dog Walker Watch program across the nation. Newark began its Dog Walker Watch training in June 2014. Tim Jones, Special Assistant with the Community Engagement Division of the Newark Police Department, is the overseer for the program in Newark. Jones says that the program has grown over the last year from four to 18 participants and has been very successful so far, based on feedback he has received. "We have had a few good tips turned in. A few of our walkers routinely send us information on graffiti so that our abatement team can clean it up. I think it has been very successful."

Mike Serna is a long-time Newark resident and Dog Walker Watch participant. Serna learned about the program through Jones and his Neighborhood Watch chapter. "I am proud to be able to provide some level of security to my neighborhood by participating in the Dog Walker Watch program," says Serna.

Jones hopes that more people will hear about the program and join in. "There is no such thing as too many people taking an active role in making their community a safer place to live in. People usually walk the same route on a regular basis. They get to know the neighborhood and it's fairly easy to notice when something is out of the norm." Jones emphasizes that the key to the program is safe reporting of suspicious activity. Their mantra is: Hear it, see it, report it. "Call us; we will do the rest," Jones says.

Although the program is called Dog Walker Watch, it is not limited to dog walkers. Anyone who walks, jogs, or rides through his or her neighborhood is welcome to join the program. After registration and an hour-long safety training, anyone can become a participant. To learn more about the Dog Walker Watch program, visit <http://natw.org/dog> or contact Jones at tim.jones@newark.org or (510) 578-4209.

Armed robbery suspects arrested

SUBMITTED BY
LT. HENRY KWOK,
MILPITAS PD

On June 22, at 12:47 p.m., Milpitas Police Department officers responded to an armed robbery that just occurred at Cheap Cigarettes, 1201 East Calaveras Blvd. A suspect came into the business, brandished a handgun at an employee, and stole cash and cigars. The suspect fled in a black Honda Civic that was driven by another suspect.

A few hours later, an officer saw the black Honda Civic traveling on Dixon Landing Road towards Interstate 880. When the officer tried to stop the car, it fled onto Interstate 880. Officers terminated the pursuit when the car exceeded 100 MPH. Based on the vehicle information, detectives identified the driver of the car as Jonathan Alexander Cereno (20-year-old resident of Santa Clara), and the suspect who entered the business with the handgun as Marco Joseph Gurrola Jr (19-year-old resident of Milpitas). Both suspects were eventually arrested and booked into the Santa Clara County Main Jail for several criminal charges, including armed robbery.

Detectives are seeking a man and a woman who walked into the business during the armed robbery but were scared away by the armed suspect. Anyone with any information regarding this armed robbery, including the identity of the man and woman who walked into the business during the robbery, is encouraged to call the Milpitas Police Department at (408) 586-2400. Gruesome Playground Injuries’ Doesn’t Hurt One Bit

By JULIE GRABOWSKI

Most everyone has a story of a battle scar contracted in youth — that time you fell out of the tree and broke your arm, got hit in the head with a baseball, when that dog attacked you in the park or the day you tried to fly with homemade wings.

Playwright Rajiv Joseph explores the nature and effects of physical injuries and couples them with emotional trauma in the unique and engaging “Gruesome Playground Injuries.” The play is a series of snapshots throughout the 30-year relationship of Doug and Kayleen who meet as eight year olds in the school nurse’s office, she with a stomach ache, he with a head wound from riding his bike off the school roof Evel Knievel style. Told at five-year age intervals in non-linear scenes, the two reunite over and over in various hospitals and care facilities, bound together by their internal and external wounds. Navigating the tangle of friendship, love, and life, there is always the need to feel each other’s pain and provide the healing no one else can.

Made Up Theatre makes a successful foray into scripted theater with this production, helmed by director Iu-Hui Chua. While you might not guess it with such a subject matter, “Gruesome Playground Injuries” is actually very funny, and many times the lightness and laughs make you forget that maybe these two have a problem. The humor radiates from Bobby August Jr., whose Doug is playful, endearing, and supremely likable. Is Doug accident prone as his mother declares or stupid as Kayleen often suggests? He recounts his numerous accidents as just a fact, not disturbed by them at all, instead relishing his injuries and viewing himself as brave. August is completely at home in his character and a delight throughout.

Maria Candelaria serves as the darker counterpart of the friendship, Kayleen being a moody, serious, name-calling girl forever battling chronic stomach troubles and inner demons. Candelaria wears the darkness well and is excellent at conveying all of Kayleen’s conflicts and complexities with her carriage and facial expressions that strike right at the heart.

While some of the duo’s injuries are deliberate, most seem to be just the side effects of life, and August and Candelaria make it all seem oddly understandable and moving. They have a comfortable and fluid rapport that creates a seamless pairing which never goes amiss. They deftly handle the wide-range of age changes and weave an interesting and believable relationship. And they’re pretty good with the dance moves, too!

Scenic and costume designer Maggie Chan keeps things simple and mostly color-free with a black and white palette in both domains, allowing only brief appearances of red with Doug’s cape in Scene One and Kayleen’s coat in Scene Eight. The choice doesn’t help or hinder the show and the meaning is uncertain, but ends up creating no distinction and is merely forgettable.

Chalkboard walls of the theater invite viewers to contribute their memories, doodles, or statements to those already in place continue onto the stage, serving as a sign marker for the characters’ changing ages and some harsh teenage expression. Artistic chalkboards are also used to indicate the location of each scene. The thin staging, while necessary with such a small space, also keeps the focus on the characters without distractions.

What was distracting, however, were the on-set wardrobe changes between scenes. Watching the actors scurry in and out of their costumes right in front of the audience, takes you out of the story and feels disappointing.

If you’re looking for a unique and fresh story that is completely unpredictable, “Gruesome Playground Injuries” should be your pick. Made Up Theatre makes a strong move with it’s first Summer Play Spectacular and creates a solid foundation upon which to build in the future.

“Gruesome Playground Injuries” continues its run Thursday, July 16 through Sunday, July 19. For ages 15 and up. Purchase tickets online at http://madeuptheatre.com/Summer_Play_Spectacular.html or call (510) 573 - 3633 for more information.

Join the Alameda Creek Alliance (ACA) for a special screening of “DamNation,” an award-winning documentary about dam removal. The event is on Friday, July 24 at the Niles Essanay Silent Film Museum, and benefits the ACA.

Get your tickets today to view this powerful film odyssey across America that explores the sea change in our national attitude from pride in big dams as engineering wonders to the growing awareness that our own future is bound to the life and health of our rivers. Dam removal has moved beyond the fictional Monkey Wrench Gang to go mainstream. Where obsolete dams come down, rivers bound back to life, giving salmon and other wild fish the right of return to primeval spawning grounds after decades without access.

The film’s majestic cinematography and unexpected discoveries move through rivers and landscapes altered by dams, but also through a metamorphosis in values, from conquest of the natural world to knowing ourselves as part of nature.

The 87-minute film will be followed by a brief discussion of the progress on dam removal and fish passage projects in the Alameda Creek watershed and San Francisquito Creek in Palo Alto. Special guest Gordon Becker, Senior Scientist at the Center for Ecosystem Management and Restoration, will speak on the topic of Stanford University’s Searsville Dam. Becker is expert for the plaintiff in an Endangered Species Act lawsuit alleging harm to Steelhead and other species from the dam and its operations. He will offer his observation on Stanford’s track record regarding regulatory compliance and their proposed solutions to the problems presented by the dam and diversion.

The Dinner Party by Neil Simon

July 10 – August 8

Here is a decidedly French dinner party served up in a chaotic mode that only a master of comedy could create. Five people are invited to dine at a first rate restaurant in Paris. They do not know who the other guests will be or why they have been invited. Tossed together in a private dining room, they have a sneaking suspicion that this unorthodox dinner party will forever change their lives.

THEATRE REVIEW

French roasts serve up the The Dinner Party

BY JANET GRANT

CHRISTIAN PIZZIRANI

A mysterious gathering, a secretive atmosphere, suspicious characters... a plot from an Agatha Christie novel? Not quite. The newest offering of Broadway West Theatre Company is actually, "The Dinner Party," by one of America's favorite Pulitzer Prize winning authors, Neil Simon.

Under the talented guidance of director Bryan Freeman, the opening night audience was offered a witty, complex, farcical, surprising and somewhat shocking comedy... but not a typical comedy by the usually affable Neil Simon. "The Dinner Party" instead, presented a rather bleak accounting of love, marriage and divorce interspersed with comic one-liners.

The play opens upon two tuxedoed gentlemen in an upscale gourmet restaurant in Paris, where a party is being thrown by a well-known divorce lawyer. There is comic banter among them as they try to discern why the party has been thrown and who the guests might be. They are eventually joined by a third man whose contemptuous air incites instant discord. None of these fellows know each other and their increasing puzzlement turns into horror at the realization with the entrance of the first woman, that the party includes their ex-spouses.

A night of French Roast ensues with insults, recriminations, and surprising confessions. Everything ugly and awful that you may think happens in a divorce seems to be on display in this black comedy. When you wonder how much darker can this get, you are treated to brilliant one-liners that makes you laugh out loud.

Ben Ortega was superb as antique bookstore owner, Claude Pichon. His amazing timing was accentuated with his ability to bite off words as comic punctuation so as not to reveal himself too much. You gathered that there lies a very insecure human inside an urbane exterior.

Chase Kinsey was wonderful in his portrayal as the puppyish, dim bulb in the light socket. Some of the best comic lines of the night were his and he delivered them with just the right punch. You never quite knew if you should roll your eyes or laugh outright.

Mark Alan Flores deftly portrayed Andre Bouville with just the right quality of disdain. As soon as he walked on the stage his reek of haughtiness made you want to boo and hiss. His complex and human portrayal however, left you wondering if there was any chance for atonement.

Leslie Howard's expansive portrayal of Mariette Levieux aptly covered the full gamut of emotional experiences. In the course of the evening she was loud, opinionated, supportive, and surprisingly vulnerable. The revela-

Jytte Galsgaard was delightful as the rather hypersensitive and naïve Yvonne Fouchet. Her on-the-edge portrayal of Albert's ex-wife left you both wondering at her sanity as well as hoping for a possible reunion.

Kelly Lotz played the enigmatic Gabrielle Buonocelli with elegance and silkiness. With her, you were treated to a story of pure pathos but delivered with truth, courage, and more than a bit of roguishness. You were not always sure if you were supposed to dislike her intensely or applaud her sly machinations.

A carefully selected group of antagonistic guests and an unknown manipulative figure sets the stage for Broadway West's production of "The Dinner Party." What ensues is a night of surprises and a sense of the bewildering ways husbands and wives seem doomed to hurt each other. This might not be everyone's cup of tea, but it certainly presents entertainment at its most enlightening.
