Fremont Festival of the Arts, a weekend of fun

By SIMRAN MOZA

From humble beginnings near the Fremont Hub, the "Fremont Festival of the Arts" has grown into the largest two-day street festival west of the Mississippi, attracting nearly 385,000 people annually and hosting over 600 artisans that serve as the heart of the festival. On its 32nd anniversary August 1 and 2, festival-goers can enjoy hand-crafted art, a gourmet food marketplace, and live music spread across several miles of Downtown Fremont's sunny streets. With plenty of hands-on

Olive Hyde hosts Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition

From the builders of some of America's earliest railroads and farms to Civil Rights pioneers and digital technology entrepreneurs, Indian Americans have long been an inextricable part of American life. Indian immigrants helped build the nation's railroads, worked in lumber mills, toiled on farms and established prosperous trading routes that are still in use today. Through a vibrant collection of photographs, artifacts, art, and interactive learning stations, visitors will experience the Indian American story and explore the many dynamic roles Indian Americans have played in shaping America.

Created by the Smithsonian Asian Pacific American Center and the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service, "Beyond Bollywood: Indian Americans Shape the Nation" details the history of Indian Americans and their contributions to the United States from the 1700s to the present.

A night out with local police officers

The nationwide "National Night Out" (NNO) event is now on its 32nd year and continues to unite communities in an effort to take a stand against crime. Community members register for block parties and serve refreshments or host potlucks to promote neighborhood camaraderie. Local law enforcement officers visit these block parties to interact with citizens and engage in conversations on how to make their neighborhood a safer and better place. This year, NNO will be celebrated nationwide on Tuesday, August 4; the City of Milpitas will host NNO on Thursday, August 6.

Tim Jones, Special Assistant for Community Engagement Division in Newark, cites many benefits from participating in NNO. "Neighbors talking to each other and getting to know more about each other's habits and who should be coming and going in the neighborhood can go a long way to help prevent crime...Another benefit is it gives the public a chance to interact with our officers and RAVEN (Ready Active Volunteers Engaged in Newark) volunteers on a more personal level. Both sides walk away with a better understanding of police and citizen interaction."

Union City Police Department (UCPD) Officer Ryan Seto says, "This event is beneficial because it encourages the community to spend the evening meeting their neighbors, elected city officials, and public safety officers. This event is open to everyone – kids and adults – and we try to incorporate everybody into this event. We

Do You Provide Ongoing Care for a Friend or Family Member?

Washington Hospital's Caregiver Series Offers Coping Strategies and Tips for Providing Quality Care

Caring for a loved one can be a difficult job. You may have a range of responsibilities that can often feel overwhelming, and it can take a serious toll on your own health and well-being. Washington Hospital has launched a new Family Caregiver Education Series that can give you the information and strategies you need to cope while providing the quality care your loved one deserves.

Caregiving comes in many forms. You could be taking care of someone with a chronic disease, dementia, or other disabling condition. Maybe it's an aging parent or spouse. There are many reasons you might be providing care to someone you know, which could include everything from shopping and household chores to providing assistance with all the daily tasks of living, including dressing, bathing, and eating, as well as managing medical care and legal affairs.

"As a caregiver, you want to be there for your loved one, but sometimes it can be challenging," said Lucy Hernandez, community outreach project manager at Washington Hospital. "The Family Caregiver Education Series covers a range of issues that are common among those who are caring for someone. It's a comprehensive program and caregivers are encouraged to attend all the sessions. But that's not required. You can choose the sessions that work best for you."

The free six-week series will be held Tuesday evenings from 6 to 8 p.m. beginning on August 4. Subsequent sessions are scheduled for August 11, 18, and 25, September 1 and 10. They will be held at the Conrad E. Anderson, M.D. Auditorium, 2500 Mowry Avenue (Washington West), in Fremont. You can register online at www.whhs.com/events or by calling (800) 963-7070.

Taking Care of the Caregiver. The first session will focus on self-care so you can stay healthy and able to care for your loved one. Caregiving can be both physically and emotionally demanding, so it's important that you take good care of yourself.

"If you don't make sure you get what you need, like enough sleep, proper nutrition, and a break once in a while, you put your own health at risk," Hernandez said.

Advocacy for Caregivers.

Many caregivers also have to advocate for their loved ones when it comes to health matters and other issues. This session will help you learn to navigate the medical system and work with health care professionals.

Day to Day Aspects of Caregiving. The third session covers some of the issues that arise on a daily basis. This could include managing medications and eating schedules or when it's time for a loved one to stop daily activities like driving.

Managing Family Dynamics. Family members don't always agree on the care your loved one should be receiving and negotiating some of these differences can be tough. The fourth session tackles the issue of family dynamics.

Legal and Financial Affairs. The fifth session is about handling legal and financial affairs. This could include medical coverage, wills and trusts, and advance directives, which state your loved ones wishes for medical care, including any life-sustaining treatments, and who will make care decisions for them if they aren't able.

"This session will help caregivers understand what their loved one's health care insurance covers and how these legal documents work," Hernandez said. "Legal matters can be intimidating."

Panel Discussion. The final session will be a panel discussion that includes many of the expert presenters. Attendees will have the opportunity to get their questions answered and make sure they have all the tools they need to provide quality care for their loved ones.

"We know there are many caregivers out there who could use this information and support," Hernandez added. "If they aren't able to attend all of the sessions, they can see them on InHealth."

The caregiver education series will cover a range of issues that are commonly faced by those caring for others. The free six-week series will be held on Tuesday evenings from 6 to 8 p.m. beginning on August 4 in the Conrad E. Anderson, MD Auditorium (2500 Mowry Avenue, Fremont). To register for any, or all sessions, go to www.whhs.com/events or call (800) 963-7070.

Proper Response to Bee or Wasp Stings

Dear Doctor,
What is the proper response to a bee or wasp sting?

Dear Reader,

Three in 100 people will have a life-threatening allergic reaction to a bee or wasp sting. If after sting you have hives over most of your body, swelling of the tongue, or have difficulty breathing, call 911 or get medical help immediately. If you are not allergic but are bothered by a sting you can take Benadryl and Tylenol to lessen the pain and severity of the reaction. Applying ice to the affected area will also help.

Bees and wasps are attracted to flowers and dark colors, which is good to keep in mind when choosing your outdoor clothing options!

Opportunity: Ohlone

As an Ohlone Student you can choose from over 180 degrees and certificates to determine your career pathway. Ohlone College is the college for residents of the Tri Cities and surrounding areas.

Last year, 16,000 students attended classes at Ohlone, each with their own education goals in mind. Many Ohlone students work toward the goal of completing general education requirements, graduating with a two-year Associates degree, and transferring to a university. Others attend Ohlone with the goal of getting job training or retraining, focused on receiving a certificate by completing a few courses focused on the job field they are preparing to enter.

For example, to study accounting, you have a variety of options, all of which begin at Ohlone. A student can receive a Certificate in Accounting by completing 23 course units that include financial and managerial accounting, accounting-focused math and computer classes, income tax principles and microeconomics. Students can forge ahead to earn an Associate degree in accounting by completing general education requirements and taking additional supporting courses in business and accounting. Students can then transfer to a university to get a Bachelor degree in business or accounting, and possibly continue on for an MBA, to qualify as a CPA, and more. It all starts with accounting classes at Ohlone.

Numbers may not be your thing, but maybe you love music! Ohlone's music program can take you in a variety of directions. You can work in broadcasting—Ohlone has a radio station! Or if you're interested in recording—Ohlone offers a certificate for Audio Technician or for Commercial Music, learning about studio recording and how to use the latest recording studio software, Pro Tools. You can participate in music performance classes, either instrument or voice. For example, each semester students from the Jazz Combo and Rock Combo classes and the Ohlone Singers present concerts in Ohlone's performing arts center. Ohlone's music program can also lead to an Associate degree that transfers to university study. Or, you may satisfy your musical cravings by taking a general education course in music, such as History of Rock and Roll, Western Classical Music Appreciation, or Music of World Cultures. Ohlone offers a wide range of other options from paleontology to kinesiology to cybersecurity... and more! We truly have something for everyone. Find out what courses fit your interests at www.ohlone.edu/go/top10!

Ohlone in the Top Ten—Again!

Ohlone was recently rated in the top ten of all community colleges in California—that is 113 colleges, representing over 2 million students! BestColleges.com has ranked Ohlone in the top ten for at least three years running. We credit our faculty and our students for those top marks for their dedication to excellence.

Over 500,000 students have walked through Ohlone's doors over the past 40+ years. Many of you still live in the area and have helped build our community...even the Mayor of Fremont, Bill Harrison, counts himself as an Ohlone alum!

At only $46 per unit, Ohlone offers the most affordable education opportunity available in the Tri Cities...and we offer scholarships and financial aid, too!

As an Ohlone student, you can be...anything! The Time is Now!

Ohlone Wind Orchestra Receives International Acclaim!

The Ohlone Wind Orchestra's musical excellence has captured international attention at this year's World Association for Symphonic Bands and Ensembles' conference. Under the baton of conductor Tony Clements, the Ohlone Wind Orchestra, which consists of professional level musicians, has been performing in association with Ohlone College for almost 25 years.

The Wind Orchestra, which often goes by its acronym OWO, was invited to perform and demonstrate their repertoire to WASBE, the association of wind band conductors, composers, publishers and performers, at the recent international conference held in San Jose, which ended July 18, 2015. This is only the 4th time the WASBE conference has been held in the United States during the event's 34 year history. Next summer it will be in Prague. OWO was one of only six groups invited to perform, some from as far away as Canada, and they were the only group that represented professional level players.

According to William Johnson, WASBE President, the Wind Orchestra "set the tone for the week, as I knew they could," adding that, "because of your outstanding performance, the Ohlone Wind Orchestra is now known throughout the world."

Transforming Ohlone

Ohlone College is removing three academic buildings from the Fremont campus in order to build three new facilities that will be an extreme upgrade to what was there. Everyone is looking forward to the new buildings—especially those step-saving elevators that will take people from lower campus all the way up to the main quad level!

Still, there is a tiny bit of nostalgia for the old buildings which have been a part of Ohlone since almost the beginning of our history as a college. We've been watching and documenting the removal of the buildings with interest. It's difficult to ignore how fascinating the process is! Because the campus is built on a hillside, removal of the retaining walls will be forestalled until construction is further along. But, on July 23, 2015 the last upright structure was removed...the roof of building 8 teetered on wobbly legs while the demolition crew went to lunch (first photo, above). But by the end of the work day, it was gone!

Next morning the "Cats" were busy sorting through the rubble to send it off for recycling.

Right now, the view of the hillside is stupendous...and from the top of the hill overlooking the bay, the sight is just as breathtaking! It's one of the things we love about Ohlone, and why so many campus visitors hike up to the top of our hill. The new buildings will incorporate these vistas into their "foot print" so everyone can enjoy the view.

The three photos show the progress of demolition over the course of one month and then one over one day. On June 23—the framework of building 1 and 8 are exposed, then a month later all that remained of the two buildings is the final bit of roofline, which disappeared a day later.

We ran a caption the photo contest on the College's Facebook page, and here is what won: "Final Exam" from Dr. Leta Stagnaro!

activities, the traditional amusements and rides, and a Kid City stage featuring performances by musicians, magicians and local dance troupes, the festival provides a weekend of endless fun for the kids as well.

Since its inception, hand-crafted art has remained the underpinning of the festival, and the artistic integrity paramount to Fremont Chamber of Commerce coordinators. Festival streets will be lined with booths featuring everything from intricate, hand-made jewelry to beautifully fashioned house décor created by top quality artisans. Each visitor is bound to find something that catches their eye.

Fremont Chamber members will be onsite to share their services and expertise with community members at the Business Marketplace outdoor trade show. In addition, Gourmet Marketplace vendors will tempt with a huge array of specialty food items, cooking ingredients, and condiments. Visitors will find everything from designer oils and vinegars to handmade pastas and jerkies available for sampling as well as pre-packaged to take home. Fine wines, cold beer, and margaritas will also be available for purchase to cool down during the festival.

And what is a summertime festival without the festival food classics, such as funnel cakes and silly spuds? In keeping with tradition, a great range of food will be offered with gourmet food trucks as well as an opportunity to support local non-profits at their various food booths.

Alameda County Supervisor Scott Haggerty, in partnership with the Bay Area Air Quality Management District, Fremont Chamber of Commerce and Bike East Bay, will co-sponsor a free bike valet service as an efficient and convenient transportation alternative to the festival. The service will be able to accommodate over 200 bikes at once. Scooters and skateboards can also be checked in. The bike valet will be located on the northern edge of Paseo Padre near Capitol Avenue and open throughout festival hours both days.

Admission is free, so bring along sunscreen and enjoy a leisurely stroll along the city's streets celebrating art, culture, and summertime.

Kidango names new Executive Director

SUBMITTED BY KIDANGO

Kidango announced today that its Board of Directors has named seasoned early education expert Scott Moore as the new Executive Director. Moore joins Kidango with more than 20 years of experience in education policy and management.

Moore most recently served as the Chief Policy Advisor for Early Edge California, where he was influential in the advocacy and expansion of pre-k education throughout the State of California. Prior to this, Moore served as the Director of Education for Kidango, where he successfully launched 20 new preschools.

Moore holds a Master's in Business Administration from The Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University.

"The promise of Kidango is like the promise of the children we serve, it's limitless. My dream for Kidango is that when a child - any child - walks through our doors, they are walking to their high school graduation, they are walking to college, to a meaningful career, to a home with healthy and loving relationships," said Moore.

Moore is expected to begin on his role as Executive Director of Kidango on August 3.

When "Love Potion #9" makes "Fools Fall in Love," you know that Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller are in town at "Smokey Joe's Café." The songs of Leiber and Stoller are responsible for many a person staring off into the universe and going back in time to a place when rock 'n' roll meant kissing in the back seat, dancing in the student union, and dreaming of falling in love.

Come to Chanticleers and take that trip back with songs such as "Yakety Yak," "Jailhouse Rock," "On Broadway," "Stand by Me," "Poison Ivy," "Kansas City," and "Spanish Harlem." You won't be able to get these songs and the fabulous harmonies out of your mind! Director Mike Kasin's vision comes true with a five-piece band under the leadership of Music Director Dean Starnes, and the performers led by Vocal Director Greg Zema and Choreographer Krista Samboy. Chanticleers is pleased to present this talented company, which includes performers from all over the Bay Area, most making their Chanticleers debut. The company includes: Gemma Bulos, Chris Ciabattoni, Kaylyn Dowd, Zachary David Marshall, Larri Patterson Parms-Ford, Robert Sholty, Shauna Shoptaw, Elmer Strasser, Noel Thomas, Mary Troxell, and Tyrone Woodrow.

A Gala Opening, complete with champagne, is planned for Friday evening, July 31. The show runs July 31 through August 30, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. and Sundays (August 9, 16, 23, and 30) at 6 p.m. to avoid the afternoon heat. Ticket prices are $24 for adults and $20 for seniors and students. Tickets are available online at www.chanticleers.org or by calling 510-SEE-LIVE (733-5483). Group discount tickets are also available.

Join us for a Preshow Dinner on Saturday, August 8 at 6 p.m. at Silver Spoon Gourmet Restaurant, 3563 Castro Valley Boulevard, Castro Valley. Price-fix dinner is $21 - mention "Dinner Group" when making show reservations.

'Stuff the Bus'

Fremont Kiwanis Club partners with Wal-Mart to 'Stuff the Bus'

SUBMITTED BY SHIRLEY SISK

On Saturday, August 8, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., a big yellow Fremont Unified School District (FUSD) bus will be in front of the Wal-Mart Store at 40580 Albrae St. in Fremont.

You can help school children get off to a good start in school by providing much needed supplies. In this economy it is very difficult for many local families to purchase all the items on the list of supplies that students need to start school such as: pencils , 3 ring binders, notebook paper, school scissors, rulers, kleenex, hand sanitizer, Crayons, spiral notebooks, erasers, highlighters, glue sticks, colored pencils, markers, pocket folders, pencil pouches, and more.

Kiwanis Club volunteers will be on hand to accept your donations and you can receive a tax deductible receipt from the Kiwanis Club of Fremont Foundation – the non profit arm of Kiwanis Fremont. Club members are honored to provide this service on behalf of the children of Fremont. Just come by the Albrae St. Wal-Mart Store and help "Stuff the Bus."

If you don't have time to shop, bring a check made out to Kiwanis Club of Fremont Foundation marked "Stuff the Bus." All donations will be turned over to FUSD for distribution. For more information, call Gloria Heminez at (510) -785-2409 or Marsha Badella (510) 489-9305.

Chevrolet Suburban: Big News

BY STEVE SCHAEFER

Chevrolet has sold the capacious Suburban for 80 years now. Today, they still build them in Arlington, risers to provide a neat little cubby. You get the right mixture of matte plastics and metallic accents, and, of course, stitching. The center console bin is unbelievably roomy. It almost serves as a trunk for secure storage.

Texas, conveniently located where these big SUVs are bestsellers.

For 2015, the Suburban wears a brand new suit of clothes. The new look is more slab-sided than before, with subtleties and a high window line contributing to a monumental look. Inlaid doors (GM's terminology) are supposed to aid aerodynamics and reduce cabin noise.

The 5.3-liter EcoTec3 V8 engine is more powerful, with 355 horsepower and 383 lb.-ft. of torque pulling up to 5,896 pounds when you opt for four-wheel drive. This drivetrain earns EPA numbers of 15 City, 22 Highway and 18 overall. This reflects a nearly 10 percent improvement in the highway number.

This could be a result of a neat trick. The V8 engine turns into a V4 with cylinder shutoff when the car doesn't need all eight. You can't tell except by a little instrument panel graphic. Every little bit helps on those long, flat Texas interstates, for sure. I averaged 16.3 mpg in suburban (appropriately) and urban driving.

The EPA's Green scores are 6 for Smog and 4 for Greenhouse Gas—average numbers for a larger-than-average ride.

GM interiors have enjoyed an upgrade in recent years. Compared to Chevy interiors of yore, plastics look and feel better, seams match, and aesthetics are way up. As in the new Impala, the center dash panel

Besides all-new looks inside and out, 2015 brings more electrical and electronic marvels: wireless phone charging (with a panel on top of the aforementioned cargo bin), a hands-free liftgate, updated MyLink system with Text Message Alerts and Siri Eyes Free, and a standard built-in Wi-Fi hotspot.

The Suburban is the largest vehicle I've driven in 23 years of testing, with the exception of the humungous Hummer H1 I tested in the mid 2000's (like Arnold Schwarzenegger's). Driving it is not difficult, thanks to a comfortable cabin with easy to use and reach controls, but you really have to watch where you're going. You do get a bird's eye view over everything except for the semi trucks out on the highway.

The Suburban is not an ideal car for the city. I had to drive into downtown San Francisco one day and was relieved that the car even fit into the underground parking garage. But, they charged me an extra $20 for oversize!

That massive size, however, is very handy for carrying lots of people and cargo. Both the second and third rows fold down and provide a giant 121.1 cubic feet of cargo space. And those people in the Suburban will all have plenty of room to stretch out. At 80.5 inches wide, the Suburban is not much smaller than my first studio apartment

Over the past 23 years, Steve Schaefer has tested more than 1,000 cars and published a weekly story on every one. As a teenager, he visited car dealers' back lots to catch a glimpse of the new models as they first rolled off the transporter. He is a founding member of the Western Automotive Journalists. Contact Steve at sdsauto@sbcglobal.net.

(made from a one-car garage).

With that much metal moving down the road, it's good to be aware of what's around you. My test vehicle, a top-level LTZ with four-wheel drive in Tungsten Metallic (gray), had the safety of the vibrating Safety Alert Seat (!) that warns the driver in a way he or she can't ignore when approaching another vehicle at a speed the computer thinks is risky. There are also audio warnings—some of them mysterious. My tester once told me "Caution – toll booth." Hmmm.

Other available safety devices include Adaptive Cruise control, which keeps a set distance between you and the car in front and includes Crash Imminent Braking. You can also order the Side Blind Zone Alert, Lane Change Alert, Rear Cross Traffic Alert, Forward Collision Alert and Lane Departure Warning. You can see that the self-driving car is evolving out of the human-driven one right before your eyes. Chevy is proud of its segment-first front-seat center airbag, too.

The Suburban comes in three levels, typical for Chevy vehicles—LS, LT, and LTZ. All ride on a long 130-inch wheelbase and stretch 224.4 inches. That's just a few inches under 19 feet long. Loaded up like my LTZ, the base price is $66,785, and by the time you add in $1,195 for shipping and the Sun, Entertainment, Destination package and a few other items, my tester hit $71,930. The LS starts at $51,390.

This is not a vehicle I personally would ever need, but, as Don Jose says in the Dos Equis commercial, if I did, the Suburban would be right up there on the list. Despite its 16 miles per gallon fuel efficiency and parking lot premium pricing, when you fill it with eight people, it begins to be an efficient way to travel.

11 Critical Home Inspection Traps to be Aware of Weeks Before Listing Your Tri-City Home for Sale

Tri-City – According to industry experts, there are over 33 physical problems that will come under scrutiny during a home inspection when your home is for sale. A new report has been prepared which identifies the 11 most common of these problems, and what you should know about them before you list your home for sale.

Whether you own an older home or a brand new one, there are a number of things that can fall short or requirements during a home inspection. If not identified and dealt with, any of these 11 items could cost you dearly in terms of repair. That's why it's critical that you read this report before you list your home. If you wait until the home inspector flags these issues for you, you will almost certainly experience costly delays in the close of your home sale or, worse, turn perspective buyer away altogether. In most cases you, can make a reasonable pre-inspection yourself if you know what you're looking for, and knowing what you're looking for can help you prevent little problems from growing into costly and unmanageable ones.

To help homesellers deal with this issue before their homes are listed a free report entitled "11 Things You Need to Know to Pass Your Home Inspection" has been compiled which explains the issues involved.

To order a FREE Special Report visit www.InspectionErrors.com or to hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report call toll-free 1-800-228-3917 and enter 1003. You can call anytime, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Hayward Bicycle Plan survey

SUBMITTED BY ROBERT PRINZ

Hayward is updating its citywide bicycle plan this year, an opportunity for community stakeholders to weigh in and say what types of improvements and facilities they would like to see over the coming decade and beyond. Projects included in the bike plan will assist the city in winning grant funding for transportation and streetscape projects, making getting around Hayward safer, more convenient, and enjoyable for people biking, as well as those walking, driving, or using transit.

Information about potential improvements is available online at: BikeEastBay.org/news/gearing-haywards-bicycle-plan-update Please take a short survey in English: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/W6NDHKL> Or, take the survey in Spanish: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/SNV9W5C>

Additionally, Bike East Bay is still accepting applications from organizations to host one of our free bicycle education classes in and around central Alameda County this upcoming fall and spring, especially Spanish-language adult or family classes. If you are interested in requesting a class or know of an organization that might be, please visit BikeEastBay.org/ClassRequest to fill out the short application form or contact robert@BikeEastBay.org

Summer camp celebrates 60 years of changing lives

SUBMITTED BY
AMBER FIRESTONE

The Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) is set to kick off another season of summer camp. Now in its 60th year, MDA summer camp supports families by hosting thousands of kids fighting muscular dystrophy and other life-threatening diseases that severely limit strength and mobility. MDA summer camp helps kids build confidence and offers them freedom and independence — all at no cost to their families. Bay Area MDA summer camp began Monday, July 27 with 82 campers and 100 volunteers registered. This summer, MDA expects to have more than 3,500 kids attend nearly 75 camps across the country.

"This is going to be an incredible season for our campers, and I'm sure they are just as excited as I am," said Executive Director PJ Smith. "We've created a world specifically designed for kids fighting neuromuscular diseases, where they can bond with others sharing the same needs and experiences. When I talk to our campers at the end of the week, I'm sure they'll be just as eager to talk about the fun activities as they are about the friendships made and the chance to spend time in a place where physical disabilities are the norm rather than the exception."

The national theme of the 2015 MDA camp season is "Awesome Adventures" because MDA summer camp offers fun and safe outdoor experiences, along with opportunities to engage in a variety of activities such as horseback riding, swimming, adaptive sports, arts and crafts, camp dances and much more. In addition to fun and friendship it offers, MDA summer camp enables campers to stretch their comfort zones and grow in independence as they spend a week away from home; permit someone other than their parents to provide any personal care needed; and make new friends.

For families, MDA summer camp provides a brief break from their roles of caregiver for a child with neuromuscular disease. Parents can send their children for a week of summer fun and be assured that their child's medical and physical needs will be met by a team of dedicated health professionals and trained camp volunteers. MDA staff and volunteers assume all camper care, including physical and emotional support, allowing parents much-needed time to attend to their own needs and, in some cases, spend some special time with the campers' siblings.

MDA summer camps have been a unique and life-changing experience for 60 years, ever since the first camp debuted as an experiment in 1955 with 16 campers with neuromuscular disease. Six decades later, MDA hosts camp sessions each year from May through August in which youngsters age 6-17 with neuromuscular diseases experience a fun-filled week where anything is possible.

The week comes at no cost to the campers' families as MDA covers the $800 cost per child. And according to those campers and more than 12,000 volunteers, sponsors and camp administration staff, the return on investment is priceless.

The success of MDA summer camp is driven by the invaluable national and local corporate partners that support MDA research, health care services, advocacy and education programs, including MDA summer camp. Among MDA's largest sponsors are International Association of Fire Fighters, CITGO Petroleum Corp., Lowe's Home Improvement, Harley-Davidson Motor Co., Jiffy Lube International, The Kroger Company, 7-Eleven, National Association of Letter Carriers, Casey's General Stores, Price Chopper Supermarkets and Acosta Sales and Marketing.

West Nile Virus positive mosquitoes detected

SUBMITTED BY DENISE BONILLA

The Santa Clara County Vector Control District (SCCVCDD) has confirmed that adult mosquitoes collected from the 94089, 95002, and 95054 ZIP code areas of the city of Santa Clara tested positive for West Nile virus (WNV). The detection of mosquitoes infected with WNV has prompted the scheduling of a mosquito fogging treatment in the surrounding areas, in an effort to prevent human cases of WNV. Weather permitting; the ground fogging operations are scheduled for 11 p.m. on Wednesday, July 29, and will conclude a few hours later in the early morning of Thursday, July 30.

"This is our second fogging of the year in the county and the first in this area," said Santa Clara County Vector Control District Manager Denise Bonilla. "Killing infected mosquitoes greatly decreases the chance of people getting sick from West Nile virus. West Nile virus is preventable."

"We want to get ahead of the spread of the virus," Bonilla continued. "The first West Nile virus death in the state happened this week in Nevada County. The death of this senior citizen is a sad reminder that West Nile virus infection can be severe."

Transmitted by mosquito bites, WNV infection does not cause symptoms in most people, but in some individuals it can cause fever, headache, body aches, and in severe cases, significant neurological damage or death. Adults older than 50 years old and individuals with certain chronic medical conditions such as diabetes, high blood pressure, cancer, and kidney disease are most at risk for serious complications. Since the arrival of WNV to California in 2003, 4,806 people across the State have contracted the disease; 177 of those cases were fatal.

Residents can play a strategic role in preventing the spread of West Nile Virus. It is important to remain vigilant by taking practical steps to eliminate standing water around the home.

Shape Our Fremont

Where Fremont residents can learn about shaping proposed housing developments

City Wants Added Density in Quarry Lakes Development

Fremont is reviewing a developer's proposal to build 132 multi-story dwelling units on the 4.5-acre site of the old City of Fremont Corporation Yard at Paseo Padre Parkway and Sequoia Road. The Granite Ridge project will have 76 apartments in a four-story building on Paseo Padre, and 56 townhouses in three-story buildings on the remainder of the property. If approved, the development will be taller and denser than anything else in the neighborhood.

City Pushes for More

According to the developer, the original proposal was for 94 townhouses, but the city staff asked that a significant number of apartments be placed on the site to increase the overall density to the maximum. The current plans call for a net density of about 29 dwelling units per acre (du/ac), which is at the upper end of the 14.6 to 29.9 du/ac range specified for this parcel in the Fremont General Plan.

Parking for the apartments will be uncovered spaces on the site, although some of the spaces may have carports. Parking for the townhouses will be two-car garages on the first floor of each townhouse. Some of those garages will be side-by-side configurations, and others will be end-to-end (tandem) arrangements. Vehicle access to the development will include one driveway off Paseo Padre, and two driveways off Sequoia.

The developer indicated that the City of Fremont had already performed an environmental review and clean-up of the site. An existing City of Fremont Landmark Tree will be preserved and incorporated into the landscaping, and more than 80 new trees will be planted. A sound wall will enclose the south end of the site adjacent to the railroad tracks, and a protective fence will run along the east side adjacent to a former gravel quarry pit.

Residents Push Back

At a recent community outreach meeting, several people noted that parking in the surrounding area was already a problem, and that adding 132 more dwellings was just going to force more vehicles onto the streets. The city's requirement for the developer to provide only 1-1/2 parking spaces per apartment was felt to be unrealistically low and would contribute to the problem.

Other concerns from residents involve the proposed height and architecture of the development, which differ sharply from the lower, more relaxed style of the surrounding neighborhoods. The boxy four-story apartment building will crowd close to the sidewalk along Paseo Padre, and the long row of three-story townhouses along Sequoia will rise straight up like some of the urban townhouse developments proposed on Fremont Boulevard.

The adjacent abandoned gravel pit with its steep, unported sides is another concern. According to a geotechnical report, there are areas of "slope instability" along the edge of the pit that extend up to 55 feet into the development site. Although the report indicates that none of the housing units are within the affected area, other portions of the site may be "susceptible to earthquake-induced landslide". The Hayward Earthquake Fault is less than a mile away.

And finally, some residents are upset to find that the apartments will all be one- and two-bedroom "luxury" units designed to rent at the high end, rather than more modest units in the low/medium range that we need in Fremont.

Time for Comments is Now

The proposal is expected to be ready for final review in the late-Summer or early-Fall. Because this project will conform to the current zoning for the property and is not a Planned District, the Planning Commission will be the approving body, not the City Council. Only if the Planning Commission decision is appealed would the project go to the City Council. Now is the time for residents to speak up. A discussion on California ocean economy

SUBMITTED BY BAY PLANNING COALITION

On Thursday, July 30, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) Office for Coastal Management staff will present on two of their ongoing economic projects – the Economics: National Ocean Watch (ENOW) project and the California Ocean Economy Pilot Study. The presentation will be held at the East Bay Municipal Utility District Office in Oakland.

The ENOW project provides valuable data and tools for coastal managers, planners and policy analysts that characterize the nation's productive ocean economy. The ocean economy data used in ENOW spans 2005-2012 and is based on the six ocean economy sectors: living resources; marine construction; ship and boat building; marine transportation; offshore mineral extraction; and tourism and recreation.

In addition to the ENOW project, NOAA staff recently initiated an innovative pilot study that examines the national significance of California's marine transportation and ocean tourism sectors. This presentation will highlight initial findings from the pilot study with an emphasis on California's and the Bay Area's marine transportation economy. At the conclusion of the presentation, we will have time for a discussion as we are particularly interested in gathering feedback to better understand how these projects may be able to meet your needs.

Youth Empowerment Academy Paints Community Mural with Renowned San Francisco Muralist Cameron Moberg

Youth participating in the City of Fremont's Youth Empowerment Academy spent a day with renowned San Francisco Graffiti Artist/Muralist Cameron Moberg as they completed a mobile community mural to be displayed throughout the community. They also designed a new logo for the program, which will be transferred to T-shirts for those graduating from this 8-week program on August 6. The community mural created a vehicle for the youth to express their abundant creativity, build teamwork skills, and have fun in the process.

Youth Empowerment Academy, now in its third year, is offered through the City of Fremont's Human Services Department, Youth and Family Services Division. It is designed to help "at-risk" youth develop better decision making, health and life skills, while offering opportunities for summer employment, community service, and leadership development. This year, 17 youth from the Tri-City area are participating in the program with an opportunity to earn both elective and work experience high school credits towards graduation.

The program partners with local school districts, the Highway to Work Program, the Alameda County Center for Healthy Schools and Communities, and other organizations in the community. The community mural project was supported by a grant from the Fremont Art Guild.

Even Apple loyalists taking their time on Apple Watch

BY BARBARA ORTUTAY
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

NEW YORK (AP), For all those who hailed the iPhone as the "Jesus Phone" in 2007, the Apple Watch's arrival has hardly been the second coming.

Sure, it can do many useful, even delightful things, such as showing incoming texts and email, tracking heart rates during exercise or sending digital doodles to friends. But is that enough to spend $350 or more, especially when it requires wearing a watch again while still carrying an iPhone around?

Early Apple Watch owners seem generally happy with it, but Apple's bigger worry should be those on the sidelines – even hardcore Apple fans, not to mention everybody else – who are waiting to take the plunge.

The wait-and-see attitude is not exactly helping investor sentiment. Apple hasn't released Apple Watch sales figures, but the company's quarterly financial report Tuesday suggests that they were lower than many Wall Street analysts expected, though Apple said they exceeded internal projections.

A bigger worry for investors: iPhone sales, which at $31 billion account for more than half of Apple's business.

iPhone sales are still growing rapidly, but the pace of growth is slowing. Worries about the iPhone's momentum sent Apple's stock down nearly 5 percent, knocking about $36 billion off the company's market capitalization.

Among people holding off on the watch, some say they are waiting for early kinks to be worked out and others, for an "aha moment."

"It's been cast as a want, not a need," said Matt Quick, a Topeka, Kansas, engineer and Apple fan who is holding off on getting one. "I'm kind of waiting to see what next year's model will bring."

Patrick Clayton, who has had Mac computers all his life and owns an iPhone and several iPads, returned his Apple Watch after three weeks. The last straw? It nagged the physically active New Yorker to stand up during a six-hour flight.

"Apple is famous for telling us what we need before we need them," Clayton said. "I thought this would be the case with the watch. But it (just) added something to my life that I didn't need added."

That's not to say the Apple Watch is a bomb. For one, it's too soon to tell. Expectations are so high that it's easy to forget, as Apple said, that the watch actually sold better in its first 9 weeks than the iPhone and the iPad did when those came out.

Most analysts and tech reviewers, including The Associated Press, see promise, especially compared with rival smartwatches from Samsung and others. Wristly, a research company created to study the watch, found that early buyers are overwhelmingly satisfied, more so than with the original iPad and iPhone.

And of the more than a dozen early Apple Watch owners interviewed by the AP by phone, email or in person, most of them love their watch. After all, early adopters of new technologies tend to understand that what they're getting isn't perfect.

"I'd recommend it to people with an open mind," said Dennis Falkenstein of Danville, California. He said the watch gets him "everything I want" such as local temperature, or the current time in Japan, where many of his business clients are.

But even so, there's a long wish list, including smarter apps. Apple is already addressing some of this with a software update this fall. Falkenstein would also like to see the battery life improve from the 18 hours that's currently promised.

Apple has run television commercials showing the watch in everyday life, and it has devoted tables at its retail stores for people to try one on and learn more.

Connected wirelessly to an iPhone, the Apple Watch isn't meant to replace the phone, but rather provide tidbits of information readily while the phone is in a pocket or purse. There's no keyboard, so searches and messages are done by voice dictation or the selection of a canned response. You can also send doodles and emoji.

David Lubarsky, a Fairfield, Connecticut, photographer, loves that he can get "basic information, quick" and avoid staring at Facebook on the phone all day. It lets him see texts, emails, calendar appointments and baseball scores.

But he gets frustrated when using it to pay for coffee at Starbucks.

"Your wrist doesn't necessarily twist to the right position to the scanner so it's pretty awkward," he said.

Apple Watch also doesn't always provide the right information at the right time. The watch version of one transit app offers bus schedules for your saved locations – even if they are far away – rather than the stops closest to you at the moment, as the phone app does. As for message notifications, it's great when it's from someone you want to hear from – but annoying when it's not.

It'll take time for apps to anticipate what users need most.

Apps will get better when Apple updates the watch's software this fall to permit more "native" apps – those that aren't just extensions of phone apps. Some apps could even work without the phone nearby, including games, audio recorders and tools that analyze golf swings.

Apple also needs to ensure that the watch gets the types of essential "killer apps" that propelled the iPhone into an extension of ourselves. For now, it's sometimes easier to just pull out the phone, and there's no app you absolutely need the watch for. With phones, you now have maps, cameras and other essentials.

It might be hard to remember, but the first iPhone in 2007 was just a little more than a phone. Apps from outside companies didn't come until Apple launched its app store the following year – with just 500 apps. Now, it has more than a million. At first, iPhone apps were dumbed-down versions of websites. Now many apps, such as Instagram, do more than what's possible over Web browsers.

Apple Watch doesn't subject owners to ridicule the way Google Glass had, yet it's still, in essence, a computer on your wrist. Yes, the Apple Watch comes in multiple sizes, materials and bands – 54 configurations in all – and other companies sell additional bands. But the watch isn't stylish enough for everyone and won't match every outfit.

The watch could ultimately be more than just a Rolex for the tech-savvy set. But for that to happen, Apple needs to show how the benefits of wearing a watch outweigh the hassles of wearing a watch.

Instant opera: 2 days to write, compose, rehearse, perform

AP WIRE SERVICE

NEW ORLEANS (AP), You could call it instant opera: A New Orleans nonprofit will create and perform a pair of opera scenes with only two days to get from page to stage.

New Fangled Opera calls it Opera Presto – in musical terms, "Opera really, really, fast."

Organization co-founder Chris Burton says two composers and two writers learned Thursday who's working with whom. They got the day to come up with a scene and songs to show it.

Seven singers and two directors get their scores by 9 a.m. Friday. They'll have rapid-fire rehearsals to learn the songs and devise the staging by performance time: 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the University of New Orleans.

Burton and his wife, Shelley Burton, created New Fangled Opera in 2012.

Pan Pacific Bank names Eric J. Hall to Board of Directors

SUBMITTED BY
BRENDA PATTERSON

Pan Pacific Bank has announced that Eric J. Hall, chartered financial advisor, and partner of FLG Partners, LLC, has joined its board of directors.

Hall has over 30 years of experience serving as president, chief operating officer and chief financial officer for a variety of public and private companies during his career, including his most recent role as a partner and CFO at McKenna Capital/mc3 ventures.

"We are delighted to have Eric's deep global experience in finance, venture capital, banking, treasury, and investment management on our growing board," said Pan Pacific Bank CEO Wayne Doiguchi.

Hall holds an MBA in finance from Vanderbilt Owen Graduate School of Management and a B.A. in economics from the University of California at Davis.

Apple's updates iPod Touch amid declining sales

BY ANICK JESDANUN
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the iPod's popularity has waned, Apple is updating its music player for the first time in nearly three years by giving the flagship Touch model a faster processor and better cameras.

The new iPod Touch also enables Apple Music, a $10-a-month service that offers unlimited playback of millions of songs. Apple Music launched June 30 as music fans increasingly embrace subscriptions over pay-per-song services such as Apple's industry-leading iTunes.

Although music players existed before the original iPod's debut in 2001, the iPod was the first to simplify syncing with digital music collections on personal computers. It was Apple's first success beyond personal computers and began a company transformation that led to the iPhone in 2007, the iPad in 2010 and the Apple Watch this year.

Many people now listen to music on smartphones rather than iPods, though. Sales of iPods peaked at nearly 55 million in fiscal 2008, the year after the iPhone came out. In the most recent fiscal year, which ended last September, Apple sold 14 million iPods. By contrast, Apple sold 169 million iPhones in the same period.

As demand has slowed, so has Apple's updates to the iPod: Apple no longer updates its iPods annually as it usually does with its top sellers.

But Wednesday's update shows Apple isn't giving up on the iPod.

The Touch is essentially an iPhone without cellular capabilities, as it runs the same iOS operating system and most of the same apps. Connected to the Internet over Wi-Fi, the Touch extends Apple Music and iPhone apps to teens and other younger customers who might not need cellphones or cannot afford cellular service.

Beyond music, the iPod Touch might get new customers hooked on Apple's apps, video and other content — such that they'll turn to an iPhone, iPad or Mac when they are ready.

Prices for the Touch start at $199, the same as an iPhone 6 with a two-year service contract, but the iPod Touch requires no monthly service fees for voice, text and data. Calling is possible over Wi-Fi through FaceTime audio and video conferencing.

Without a contract, an iPhone 6 starts at $649, compared with a few hundred dollars for some Android smartphones.

Roger Kay, president of the market research firm Endpoint Technology Associates, said the iPod Touch helps protect Apple from lower-priced competitors.

"Having a $200 small computer without cellular service is a pretty good price," Kay said. "This may be a second, third or fourth device for families that already have a bunch of Apple products. The 9-year-old wants something, so they get them a Touch."

It also makes Apple products more affordable in emerging markets, said Carolina Milanese, who heads U.S. operations for the Kantar Worldpanel ComTech research group.

Rob Enderle of the Enderle Group said that while iPod sales have been declining, they are still massive.

"Not everyone wants an iPhone, yet a lot of those folks loved their iPods," he said. "This product will be far more successful than anyone expects."

Among the improvements:

- The processor now matches that in the iPhone 6 and 6 Plus from last fall, rather than one from the iPhone 4s in 2011. Apple says the new chip is six times faster for general tasks and 10 times faster for graphics.
- The rear camera can take sharper pictures, at 8 megapixels. That matches recent iPhones and exceeds the 5 megapixels in the previous Touch. The front and rear cameras can now take 10 shots per second and slow-motion video at 120 frames per second.

"Customers can experience next-level gameplay, take even more beautiful photos and enjoy their favorite music, TV shows and movies," said Greg Joswiak, Apple's vice president of iPhone, iPod and iOS product marketing.

Although the Touch has an accelerometer to track basic fitness, it doesn't have all of the iPhone's sensors. There's no barometer to measure steps climbed and no fingerprint ID to unlock the device. There's also no Apple Pay, the technology for making payments at retail stores. The screen remains at 4 inches, as measured diagonally, even though iPhones have gotten bigger at 4.7 and 5.5 inches.

Apple is introducing a new $399 model with 128 gigabytes, matching the iPhone's maximum capacity. The $199 base model has 16 gigabytes, enough for thousands of songs, though the iPod Touch is meant to hold photos, video and apps, too.

The $49 iPod Shuffle and the $149 Nano are getting the same colors, but what's inside isn't changing. Neither model can run Apple Music or the various iPhone apps.

Fremont's Annual Festival of the Arts is Back Again

Join the City of Fremont at this year's annual Festival of the Arts, the largest free street festival west of the Mississippi River!

The event takes place on August 1-2 and is hosted by the Fremont Chamber of Commerce. The Festival of the Arts brings local artists, musicians, businesses, and families together for a day filled with live music, gourmet foods, and delicious drinks. The festival draws over 400,000 people to Downtown Fremont and will include booths along Paseo Padre Parkway and Walnut Avenue.

Make sure to visit the City of Fremont and BART interactive booth, which will provide helpful information on the Downtown Fremont and Warm Springs Innovation District projects, including the new Warm Springs/South Fremont BART station that is set to open in late December.

Stop by and meet staff from the City and BART to learn more about these exciting initiatives!

Aqua Adventure Waterpark is the Place to be This Summer

Have fun in the sun this summer at Fremont's Aqua Adventure Waterpark!

The waterpark is open daily through Labor Day and on weekends through August 23. Aqua Adventure offers something for every member of the family, from the Lil' Squirrels Splash Pad, to Bucket Bay, Roundabout River and Oasis Pool, to the 40-foot waterslides. Don't worry about packing a lunch! The Grill serves pizza, hot dogs, salads, and sandwiches all summer long.

Aqua Adventure is the top summer destination with its aquatic camps, swim lessons, birthday packages, and group events. So whether you're planning the entire summer, a birthday party, get-togethers, or a corporate event, make sure to check out Aqua Adventure Waterpark.

For more information, location, and details, visit www.GoAquaAdventure.com.

Fremont's Composting for Business Program is Expanding

The City of Fremont offers a commercial recycling program for collecting food scraps and food-soiled paper called the Composting for Business program.

Alameda County's Mandatory Recycling Ordinance requires food service businesses to separate compostable materials from garbage. To comply with the new law, Fremont is expanding the Composting for Business program and will now offer it to all food service facilities, regardless of size.

Adding composting collection for food scraps can save money and make a big environmental impact. Restaurants and food service facilities can benefit from compost collection since food scraps make up about 60 percent of a sit-down restaurant's waste. And in Fremont, composting services cost less than the same level of monthly garbage service. For example, if your business's garbage service is currently $141.20 per month for a 2 cubic-yard garbage container, the same size composting container for food scraps would only cost $113.80 per month, saving over $320 per year.

The Environmental Services Division staff is available to visit your worksite, estimate potential savings and provide training to your staff, at no cost to your business. For additional information, please contact Environmental Specialist Lori Marra at lmarra@fremont.gov or 510-494-4581.

Fremont's Central Park Summer Concert Series Continues

Want to liven up your Thursday summer evenings? Fremont's Central Park Summer Concert Series is under way!

All concerts are being held at the Central Park Performance Pavilion from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. and will feature a different music genre each week.

7/30 — Rebel Yell (80s Hits, 70s Disco & more!)

8/6 — J.C. Smith (Jumpin' Blues with Old School Soul)

8/13 — East Bay Mudd (Big Horn Band Playin' R&B Hits)

So head to the Central Park Performance Pavilion on Thursday evening and rock out with your local Fremont community!

Help Fremont Take Home the $5 Million Georgetown University Energy Prize

By reducing energy use in your home, you can help the City of Fremont win the $5 Million Georgetown University Energy Prize.

One of the easiest ways to do this — and to benefit community organizations at the same time — is through a service called OhmConnect.

OhmConnect (www.ohmconnect.com/Fremont) is a free online platform that alerts you via text message or email when there is a high amount of energy being drawn from the electric grid. If you lower your usage during an "OhmHour," you not only save money on your utility bill, but you earn extra incentives that you can keep or choose to donate to a community organization such as the Fremont Family Resource Center or the Fremont Senior Center.

Make smart energy choices and you can help the Fremont community in more ways than one.

Keep Your Kid Happy and Healthy in Fremont Summer Camps

Don't let summer just slide by — enroll your child in Fremont summer camps through August 25.

These camps are the perfect way to help your kids stay active, healthy, engaged, and entertained all day long! From science, nature, and academic enrichment, to sports, drama, theater, dance, cooking, and everything in between — you name it, they've got it.

Camp locations include Central Park/Lake Elizabeth, Aqua Adventure, Ardenwood Historical Farm, and several community centers throughout Fremont. Camps vary in length, including full day with extended care options available.

Plan your child's summer with the Central Park Camp Grid, and pick up your free copy of the Summer Recreation Guide at City Hall, Community Centers, and at Central Park/Lake Elizabeth.

You Are Not Alone YANA Program

All too frequently, the Fremont Police Department (FPD) receives calls to conduct a welfare check on a friend, neighbor or family member. The caller usually says they haven't been able to get a hold of someone or seen them for some time. Unfortunately, those calls often end tragically.

The Fremont Police Department has a program called YANA (You Are Not Alone). This is a free program designed to assist the elderly and disabled who live alone and are independent, yet want the assurance of knowing someone will call and check in on them daily.

How it Works

Here's how the program works: On Monday through Friday mornings, well-trained and trusted Police Volunteers call to make sure the enrollee answers. If there is no answer, then they try again shortly thereafter. If there's still no answer, two volunteers in uniform driving a marked police volunteer vehicle respond to the enrollee's house to check in on them. If after conducting some preliminary investigation the volunteers believe the enrollee may be inside, they advise FPD dispatch who confirms if there has been any medical transports with the Fremont Fire Department. If there were none, then Fremont Police Officers respond to gain entry. The idea is that if someone is sick or injured, the YANA Program can aid them as quickly as possible. And, in the worst case scenario—if someone has passed away, we can notify the family and ensure they are not left in the home for a long period of time. This program is especially helpful when the enrollee's family lives far away or has no family to check in on them regularly.

If you are interested or have a family member who may be interested, please call Community Services Officer Diana Allen at 510-790-6800 ext. 2775. Information and enrollment forms are also available on the Fremont Police Department website at www.FremontPolice.org/YANA.

The YANA program will be accepting new enrollees the week of August 27th

Love Your Living room

BY JOHNNA M. LAIRD

Toss out the rules! Create your own style! Almost anything goes in living room décor these days. Decorating principles that apartment and home dwellers used to guide them a generation or two ago no longer apply. Home furnishing budgets used to be concentrated in living rooms for show, with the family room taking a backseat, decorated with leftovers and inexpensive, less comfortable furniture. No more. Interior designer Kim Allen with Connolly's Furniture in Fremont says she's seeing a flip-flop where more money is spent on comfortable family rooms, but even more frequently Bay Area residents strive to make both living and family rooms as stylish and comfortable as budgets permit.

Entertainment

With living rooms functioning as relaxation centers, televisions make living rooms a place to gather on movie nights and for watching “Game of Thrones.” Entertainment centers that prominently display televisions have become more fun, going beyond warm woods, veneers, and lacquered blacks and whites to bold, painted colors as well as distressed woods.

When versatility defines the function of the living room, hiding the screen can play down the focus (and temptation). Cabinetry comes with batten board doors for a sun-exposed look, a natural fit in living rooms with easy chic décor. Lift cabinets with infrared remotes tuck screens away in living rooms with traditional design. Screens also hide behind handcrafted hardwoods disguised as nature-themed art. For the Hollywood Glam look—which is big this year—a mirrored cabinet can add light to a room while concealing the screen.

Sofa

If you are just starting to furnish a living room or you've lived with the same furnishings for the last 20 years, money is best spent on a new sofa, says Allen. Websites can provide a quick course in sofa styles to get familiar with the differences in traditional, camelback, tuxedo, settees, and sectionals, among others. When considering fabric for sofas, Allen advises polyester would be easiest to keep clean.

She notes that leather sofas pair well with fabric ottomans; fabric sofas pair well with leather ottomans in vogue in recent years. They create a casual feel, welcoming feet to go up after a long day. They also take the place of a coffee table. Just add a tray when serving.

Thinking ahead to the holidays and entertaining often provides the push to update and redecorate. For best selection, Allen advises shopping by September to allow six to 10 weeks that custom orders can require.

when a sofa is still in good shape, can leave a room feeling staid and uninteresting. Just as personal wardrobes gain new accessories each year, living rooms need attention to remain vibrant.

Creating a new focal point inlay wood. Mid-century with its curvy shapes recaptures a 1950s flavor with an updated look.

Inexpensive Changes

Allen says painting a wall behind a sofa offers an inexpensive method to revitalize a room.

throw pillows. For a splashier look, select pillows in a shade to match or compliment a new area rug. A rug clues a natural seating area while pillows offer an invitation to sit.

What's Trendy

This season look for more of an animal influence, with cowhide chairs and rugs. Color-wise, avocado greens appear on chairs and sofas. Blue is making a comeback in ranges from deep navy to indigo. Navy pairs well with marsala, another color expected to splash this year. Chocolates are holding strong, paired with gold. Gray, too, continues to hold steady interest. Gray sofas pop with pillows of mustard and teal, says Allen. Global influences abound in folk prints from Mexico, Central America, and Africa, both on walls and in fabric chairs.

Where to begin

In the “anything goes” environment, tentativeness about design lead to feeling overwhelmed.

Consider these questions before overhauling a room: What is the living room's function for people living in the house? Will the room have more than one functional area? How will areas be defined? What mood permeates the room now—what mood is desired? What does the room need to feel harmonious?

Take pictures of your living room. Create a rough sketch with dimensions. Collect pictures from magazines and advertisements that you like. Think about why you like the room or the furnishings. Are they practical given your lifestyle and cleaning habits? Bring the pictures when you shop; these elements can help in-store designers help you.

As you walk into rooms of friends and showrooms, register how you feel. What do you notice? Apply the same technique to your own present living room and living room of the future. Envision how you would like to feel, where you want to pause and notice. A living room reflects your style, so in a way you are answering: Who am I? Who do I want to become?

Beware

Making small changes to a living room can create a similar feeling to that of the character in the children's book, “If You Give a Mouse a Cookie.” One change leads to wanting to make another change and another and another. Keep budget in mind. Pace yourself. A living room can evolve over time, in phases. Like traveling, half the fun arises from planning; the rest comes from sitting in a living room you've created, reflecting your own style.

can mean adding a single item. Regrouping existing art to include a new piece freshens a room. Consider adding a small, versatile desk to handle afternoon homework or computer tasks, which can easily transforms into a serving spot when entertaining evening guests.

Coffee tables come in unique designs and can update to make a statement. Choose from concrete to hammered steel to stone and Color rules of the past have encouraged light on background walls, medium tones in larger furniture and windows, with the darkest colors reserved for decorative accessories. A freedom in home design has opened the door to living large, creating dramatic dark walls of black, navy or wine, and larger furnishings in light and white.

A very inexpensive way to elevate a room, says Allen, is with

PG&E commits to solar-powered Habitat for Humanity

SUBMITTED BY TAMAR SARKISSIAN

Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) today announced its $1 million commitment to support the installation of rooftop solar on 79 homes with 18 different Habitat for Humanity local affiliates throughout Northern and Central California. From the Mendocino Coast to Merced, PG&E's Solar Habitat Program, in partnership with Habitat for Humanity, is making affordable housing and solar energy a reality for deserving families, particularly in neighborhoods that have been historically underserved and overlooked.

For 10 years, PG&E's Solar Habitat Program has provided more than $9.6 million to help respond to the housing needs of families in Northern and Central California. As the exclusive solar partner of Habitat for Humanity in the Bay Area, PG&E's Solar Habitat Program has funded the installation of solar on more than 600 new-construction Habitat for Humanity homes throughout the utility's Northern and Central California service area.

The PG&E Solar Habitat program lowers the electricity bill of an average household by $500 per year. Each solar panel generates nearly 300 kilowatt-hours of clean, renewable energy from sunlight per month, avoiding the release of more than 132,000 pounds of carbon dioxide to the atmosphere over the 30-year life of the system. In total, Habitat families have saved $9 million in energy costs through this partnership.

In addition to the Solar Habitat program, PG&E employees have provided more than 11,000 hours of volunteering with Habitat for Humanity through the years.

East Bay SunShares offers solar group purchasing program

Thinking about installing solar but don't know where to start or think it's just too expensive? East Bay SunShares is here to help!

The City of Fremont has partnered with neighboring communities throughout the East Bay and local nonprofit Vote Solar to launch a solar group-purchasing (bulk buy) program for homeowners. East Bay SunShares pools the power of individual participants to get more competitive pricing from solar companies – with an additional incentive that provides even better savings as more people contract for solar on their homes.

Vote Solar manages the program, working with a community evaluation committee to select qualified contractor(s) and make going solar simple and more affordable than ever. East Bay SunShares launches on August 3 and runs for a limited time. So, sign up to receive a no cost, no obligation site evaluation and learn how you can plug into the sun today and save on your utility bills for years to come.

For more information, visit www.mygroupenergy.com/group/eastbaysunshares or call Vote Solar at (415) 817-5063.

Troubled Waters: Drought and Change show

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD ARTS COUNCIL

Many thought-provoking works examine water and environmental issues in "Troubled Waters: Drought and Change," an art exhibition by members of the Sun Gallery showing at the John O'Lague Galleria from August 3 through September 24.

Galleria curator and artist Gerald Thompson talked about his oil painting called "Ogallala Aquifer": "Ogallala Aquifer" explores the impact of civilization on nature. One of the world's largest, it covers 174,000 square miles. The aquifer provides water to parts of South Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Texas. Deep wells tap the aquifer. Circular irrigation patterns dominate the landscape. Nature flourishes in river channels too steep to farm.

"Two factors undermine long term viability of the aquifer – growing population increases demand for water, and over pumping deep wells threatens to dry up the aquifer.

"Except for radiant energy provided by the sun, the Earth is a closed system. The sun's energy drives weather patterns providing rain that replenishes the aquifer. If we pump the water out faster than it can be replaced, the result is drought. As 'planet guardians' we must ensure we do not outpace nature's water recycling capability."

"Troubled Waters: Drought and Change" is sponsored by the Hayward Arts Council, which promotes local artists and supports visual and performing arts in the community. Meet and greet the artists at a reception on Friday, August 7.

San Leandro's free downtown Wi-Fi to go live

SUBMITTED BY YOLANDA CARRASCO

Mayor Pauline Russo Cutter and the San Leandro City Council announced that San Leandro's new publically accessible Wi-Fi system is set to go live on Wednesday July 29. To celebrate the occasion, Mayor Cutter and officials from City Hall will hold a ceremony at the Downtown San Leandro Farmers' Market beginning at 6 p.m. that day. The new system will be connected to City-owned fibers contained within the Lit San Leandro fiber optic network, providing free wireless internet access in San Leandro's downtown core at some of fastest speeds available anywhere in the Bay Area region.

"I am so excited to announce that this highly anticipated project will now be a reality," stated Mayor Cutter. "Our community residents have made it very clear that expanding public access to the internet should be a priority for our City, and this project is just the first step in the City Council's long-term plan to achieve that goal. Anyone visiting our downtown area to shop at one of our local businesses or have a cup of coffee will now have free access to this incredible resource."

The cost of the new system is approximately $68,000, which includes installation as well as five-years of maintenance and support. The Wi-Fi system infrastructure will include a network gateway device housed atop the existing Pelton Plaza entry sign, along with multiple access points on nearby City-owned decorative street lights. The devices have been painted to blend into their existing surroundings, such that there will be no visible change in their appearance.

The new system will provide free high-speed wireless internet access within an approximately four block radius that includes all of Pelton Plaza and surrounding properties, The Village, Parrott Street (including the Farmers' Market), and parts of Juana Avenue and East 14th Street. Over time, the City plans to build upon the initial installation and expand free Wi-Fi coverage to other surrounding areas, including the Marina Community Center on Wicks Boulevard.

This project is part of a broader effort to reinvest new resources into the City's downtown area. Other recent projects downtown include the formation of the Downtown Community Benefit District, construction of the downtown parking garage, new utility box art wraps, and the reconstruction of San Leandro Boulevard.

- ## Tri-City Stargazer JULY 29 - AUGUST 4, 2015 BY VIVIAN CAROL
- For All Signs: We have multiple cycles that represent the economic outlook. Most of us are aware of the debacle of 2008 and the efforts this country has poured into recovery. Unfortunately between now and the end of May 2016, we have another recessionary cycle, a smaller one that occurs within the larger one we already know. We experience inflation, then recession, followed by inflation once again – a never ending cyclic wheel in our socioeconomic system and our psyches. These two extremes are represented in the sky by Jupiter, planet of optimism, and Saturn, planet of caution. In their orbits of the Sun they periodically move into a relationship of tension which is reflected in our world by a recessionary slump relative to recent years. The Saturn principle dominates our thought and represents a stifling of vision and creative risk taking. We fear starvation, literally or figuratively, so we dare not take chances to increase inventory, add employees or experiment with improvements. During this month we have one more round of the current downtrend so we can anticipate more bad news. Don't allow dreadful expectations of the future decade to negatively influence long range decisions. Fearful thinking only generates more fear. Try to remain cautiously neutral.
- Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): Don't make rash moves or decisions over the next two weeks. You need time to think things through. It's a challenge for you to see yourself into the future with accuracy at this time. Seek out information in order to make good choices later this month. An option to reconnect to a former love may surface.
- Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Venus is beginning to retrograde in your territory of romance, play, creativity and children. This suggests that there is some need to go back or re-evaluate your position in these areas. You may need to slow down or take a breather from forward motion so you can look more deeply at your personal needs in these areas.
- Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): This is not your smoothest week. Details may nag your mind and your time like pecking ducks. You and significant others are not having the best of communications right now. You may be in the mood to nit-pick others. Probably you will feel generally better if you work alone.
- Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): Your heart and mind may be in conflict over just how to proceed with your next projects. This is a good time to reorganize drawers, closets, or maybe your desk. The act of decluttering and making order will clear your mind and then the solution is likely to surface.
- Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): Though you normally have clarity about what is next on your agenda, somehow you are beginning to question one or more previous decisions. Your instinct is accurate here. You may need more information about the costs, people, or circumstances in your path. Take it slowly.
- Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You may need to concentrate in order to avoid critics, whether they are internal or external. Instead of blame, use the discipline to tackle a project that requires concentration. Avoid contracts and business negotiations right now because misunderstandings may develop.
- Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): You might be putting significant effort into issues involving your family, psyche or home at this time. The symbol suggests you are digging deeply into the ground to find rock bottom. It is possible that you are discovering a truth about your family history that completely alters your perspective.
- Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): This is a time to step back from one or more relationships in your life. Energies suggest you may be bringing out the worst in each other. Your attitude about yourself is not altogether accurate right now. You may think way too much of your ideas, or alternately, you may see yourself as lower than scum. Neither is accurate.
- Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): In the big picture you are on the verge of major change. The need became apparent last winter and it looked easier then. Now you are hesitating. It is wisest to make conservative decisions for the next several months. Take a look at how you - can make this change in small increments and observe the progress as you move forward.
- Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): If there are power issues between you and another, this is the week that they will be in full bloom. Discomfort means that change is needed in one or both of your attitudes. Intensity is the theme. Concentrate on remaining conscious so that you won't fall into manipulative games, especially the one called "prove it if you love me."
- Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): Beware of the tendency to obsess and worry over matters that may
- never happen. You are tempted to see the world through a dark lens this week and you may think that is the true version. It's more likely that the pessimistic view is extreme. Set issues aside until you can find a fresh point of view.
- Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): Give plenty of attention to your mental and physical health this week. Avoid negative people, dark thoughts, and the darker news media. Get plenty of sleep and take your vitamins. Exercise moderately. Take every precaution not to abuse your body during this period. Drugs or alcohol could have peculiar side effects that you don't expect.

Phantom Art Gallery Exhibit—Maria Diaz

SUBMITTED BY RUBY GENERAL

The Milpitas Phantom Art Gallery will be showing the exhibit “Landscapes, Portraits and Other Things Beautiful,” by Maria Diaz. Her exhibit will be shown now through Friday, September 18 at the Milpitas Phantom Art Gallery.

Maria Diaz has a Ph.D. in biology and draws from her experience as a biologist by observing the details of life and landscape and portrays that in her art. She studied under the tutelage of Stefan Baumann—“The Grand View” artist from the PBS Station. She has found a new passion in art that equals her passion for genetics and teaching. Diaz’s art passion is pure and unrestrained, and she continues to surprise her audience with new discoveries in techniques and gifts with every project that she undertakes.

For more information regarding this exhibit or the Phantom Art Gallery, please contact Jaime Chew at (408) 586-3234 or jchew@ci.milpitas.ca.gov.

Boneheads Grill is one of Pacific Commons' newest fast casual restaurants and specializes in fresh, flavorful and healthy grilled fish and chicken entrees, salads, tacos, burgers and delicious vegetarian options. Boneheads is known for its variety of sauces including the award winning Piri Piri sauce. All items are fresh made to order and sourced locally.

SAVE will have an information table at both events and each diner will receive a free ticket for a raffle basket donated by Cargill of Newark. So, mark your calendars and join with SAVE at the Boneheads fundraisers!
If you or someone you know is experiencing domestic violence, call SAVE's 24-hour Hotline at (510) 794-6055. For more information, visit www.save-dv.org.

A night out with local police officers

hold crime safety presentations and child ID fingerprinting at NNO. This event also gives our patrol officers and command staff a chance to meet and speak with the citizens that they serve one-on-one to address any neighborhood issues or questions."

NNO was first introduced in 1984 by National Association of Town Watch (NATW) founder and executive director Matt Peshkin. The earlier NNO celebrations began with neighbors coming outside, locking their doors and turning on their front porch lights for a common cause against crime. The event has expanded over the years and now boasts 16,540 community participants from all 50 states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities, and military bases worldwide.

Local participation has also increased over the years. For instance, Newark has about 27 registered parties compared to 19 last year. Fremont has about 108 parties, some of which are in the areas of Ardenwood, Blacow, Brookvale, Glenmoor, Irvington, Mission Valley, Niles and Vineyards/Avalon among others. In Hayward, the Woodland Estates neighborhood will host multiple block parties of about 8 to 10.

Some officers may provide more than just a meet-and-greet opportunity. Officers from Milpitas Police Department will pay a visit to each individual gathering, meet with the residents, distribute crime prevention material and answer questions that concerned residents may have. Children will enjoy police stickers and a peek inside the police vehicles that officers use on a daily basis as they patrol the city.

Union City will host large-scale NNO block parties at four designated parks: Kennedy Park, Veterans Memorial Park, Town Estates Park, and Accinelli Park. All neighborhood watch groups are encouraged to meet at the closest park to enjoy the event and meet members of UCPD SWAT, UCPD K-9, UCPD Traffic, Paramedics Plus, and Alameda County Fire Department, who will be stopping by at each location.

Those with registered parties in Fremont may contact Pam Franklin at (510) 494-4299 or pfranklin@fremont.gov to request a visit from Fremont Fire Department. The department's goal is to provide each party with one visit from city staff, but it will be dependent upon the number of parties and staff who sign up to participate.

The Dinner Party by Neil Simon

July 10 – August 8

Here is a decidedly French dinner party served up in a chaotic mode that only a master of comedy could create. Five people are invited to dine at a first rate restaurant in Paris. They do not know who the other guests will be or why they have been invited. Tossed together in a private dining room, they have a sneaking suspicion that this unorthodox dinner party will forever change their lives.

Call 510-683-9218 for Reservations, or you can buy tickets on our website www.broadwaywest.org.

Youth Employment Training Internship Program

SUBMITTED BY NICKY MORA

Oakland Zoo teams up with Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) and local youth organizations for year four of the PG&E Youth Employment Training Internship Program. The program will train, engage, and motivate underserved teens and young adults in Alameda County to develop an awareness of the jobs available to students with a background in science; cultivate an interest and sustain a working knowledge of these careers; and ultimately prepare students for careers in science and its related fields.

Ten interns, including Gabriela Ponce from Hayward, are participating in 2015, split into three categories:

health and science, land management, and business. The program helps students receive invaluable work readiness skills focusing on communication techniques, time management, accountability, teamwork, and the importance of workplace protocols. Upon completion, interns entering into college are provided $500 scholarships to cover eligible college-level education expenses. Interns interested in employment at Oakland Zoo also have the opportunity to be considered for hire on appropriate part-time or full-time positions.

PG&E has provided funding for this program since its inception as part of its commitment to providing jobs for underserved youth throughout its 70,000 square-mile service area.

Local students win international championship

Five students from Mission San Jose Elementary (MSJE) School, accompanied by their parents, were flown to London to represent the U.S. in the Yes2Chess International School Team Championship held on Wednesday, June 24, 2015. After emerging as champions in the Yes2Chess national tournament held in May, MSJE students David Pan (6th grade), Rishith Susarla (4th grade), Kevin Pan (3rd grade), Annapoorni Meiyappan (4th grade), and Leo Jiang (4th grade) won an all-expenses paid trip to London to compete against winning teams from Sweden, Spain, Norway, Portugal, Germany, Denmark and the UK. MSJE beat Sweden 3.5-1.5; Spain 5-0; and Norway 3.5-1.5 from their group, while Portugal won against UK, Germany, and Denmark. MSJE then beat Portugal 4.5-0.5 in the finals and took home the prestigious Yes2Chess International trophy. After months of practice, the students emerged triumphant for their first out-of-country competition. They were joined by their supportive parents who felt “very proud to be able to represent the country,” shares Kevin Pan’s mother, Hui Wang. All Yes2Chess international participants had an opportunity to play a simultaneous exhibition with British Chess Champion Grand Master David Howell. Out of 40 students, Kevin was the only one to succeed against Howell. As a proud parent, Wang recalls that his son, the youngest of the group, was happy about that achievement. Wang attributed the students’ success to Joe Lonsdale, head coach of the MSJE chess team. Lonsdale was the one who spotted Kevin’s talent when he was in Kindergarten. Likewise, Lonsdale acknowledges the support of the kids’ parents and states, “The parents are the real key to the success of this program. Finding enough parents that are willing to take their children to national chess events all over the country is the key.” Run by Chess in School and Community, a nonprofit organization based in the UK, Yes2Chess is an Internet chess community which offers 1st-6th graders an opportunity to play chess online against children from other countries. Yes2Chess is sponsored by BarclayCards, which also sponsored the students who competed at the international tournament. “BarclayCards has the vision to promote chess to school-age kids around the world, especially those countries they operate. They believe chess helps improve kids’ performance in school and prepares them for a better future. It is a great initiative,” states Wang. For more information, visit www.yes2chess.org.

Help evaluate Envision Silicon Valley projects

SUBMITTED BY SANTA CLARA VALLEY TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY

Santa Clara Valley Transportation Authority (VTA) launched Envision Silicon Valley to engage community leaders in discussing current and future transportation needs, as well as identifying solutions and revenue sources. This effort may result in placing a transportation sales tax measure on the 2016 ballot to enhance transit, local roads, pavement, highways, and expressways. As the next step in the Envision Silicon Valley effort, VTA has asked groups of volunteer stakeholders to help identify evaluation criteria to measure whether proposed projects achieve the program’s goals. So far, 43 potential evaluation criteria have been identified by VTA staff and various stakeholder groups. Now, there’s a need to narrow down those potential criteria to only the most important ones. “Our volunteer stakeholders often have different transportation priorities, which is why we’re bringing voices with different perspectives and priorities into the Envision Silicon Valley process,” said Scott Hayward, Transportation Planning Manager. “There are often multiple valid ways to measure each goal. We expect a consensus will emerge on a narrower set of evaluation criteria after we repeat this exercise with VTA advisory committees and the Board’s Ad-Hoc Committee on Envision Silicon Valley.” The final list of Envision Silicon Valley evaluation criteria will be approved by the VTA Board of Directors. They will guide how VTA evaluates projects proposed for the Envision Silicon Valley effort. A call for projects is currently underway, with submissions due by August 31. Submitted projects must be sponsored by a public agency and result from a planning study or public review process. For more information, visit www.vta.org/envisioncallforprojects.

Park It

SUBMITTED BY CAROLYN JONES

Between El Nino and the drought, the East Bay's natural landscape is filled with oddities these days. Giant purple sea slugs are turning up on the shoreline, birds are migrating months earlier than usual, and mammals appear to be few and far between.

No place is better to observe these natural shifts than Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley. Located at the junction of the Delta and the Bay, the park offers an ideal vantage of how climate change, water policy and natural fluctuations in the weather and currents affect our region.

Among the most notable changes is the influx of salt water toward the Delta. Ordinarily, salt water from the Pacific meets freshwater from the Delta around the Antioch marina. These days, it's moved about 8 miles upstream to the Big Break area.

The water is also warmer than usual – in some cases four or five degrees warmer than normal for this time of year. The reasons for this are many: less cold water from Sierra snowpack, less cold freshwater being released from the Delta due to farming needs and other water policies, warm waters caused by El Nino flowing into the Bay, and other variables.

All these changes affect plants, fish, birds and other wildlife that live along the Carquinez Strait and Delta sloughs. One might see migrating marbled godwits and long-billed curlews months ahead of schedule, or unusual mixes freshwater, saltwater, native and non-native grasses.

"We are right in the middle of it all," said Big Break supervisor Mike Moran. "But Big Break is a great place to visit anyway. It's a little cooler than the inland areas, it's breezy, it's quiet and relaxing...and it's beautiful."

The public can learn more about the changes in the Delta and Carquinez Strait every weekend by helping with water testing. Every Saturday and Sunday from 9 to 10 a.m., join student scientists as they use state-of-the-art equipment to test for dissolved oxygen, pH, conductivity and other variables. The results are sent to a regional database for use by scientists, water managers and researchers.

Big Break also has a first-rate visitor center that focuses on the Delta ecology, history and wildlife. Trails, a fishing pier, boat launch, an amphitheater and picnic areas are also available at the 1,150-acre park.

Big Break is located at 69 Big Break Road, Oakley.

At the other end of the East Bay Regional Park District, stop by Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont on Aug. 2 to learn about Ohlone village life.

Ohlone tribes thrived in the East Bay for 10,000 years and had complex, sophisticated and diverse societies. Learn about the different roles of men and woman, which plants and animals they relied upon for food, medicine and tools, and generally what life was like in an Ohlone village.

This free event is from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the park's visitor center, 8000 Patterson Ranch Road, Fremont. No registration required.

Coyote Hills is home to a reconstructed Tuibun Ohlone village site, complete with family house, shade shelter and sweat house. The visitor center also has an extensive stock of Native American historical information.

After learning about the Ohlone, stop by Ardenwood for a different kind of East Bay history lesson: Victorian lawn games.

Women in the 19th century were not encouraged to participate in many athletic events. Except for croquet, that is. Check out elegantly attired volunteers as they demonstrate the genteel game of croquet, and maybe even try your own hand with the mallet.

Ardenwood is just up Interstate 880 from Coyote Hills, at 34600 Ardenwood Blvd., Fremont.

Spend a day at Lake Chabot on Aug. 8. Participants will ride bikes along the shoreline of this gorgeous lake, return to the marina for lunch, workout (or at least look at) at the outdoor fitness area, and then take a relaxing pontoon boat ride around the lake with a captain who can explain the history and ecology of this historic lake.

Loaner bikes and helmets will be available. Open to participants age 12 and up. Costs range from $32 and $42, which does not include lunch. Register at www.ebparks.org.

Lake Chabot, tucked in the oak-studded hills between Castro Valley and San Leandro, is one of the original reservoirs in the East Bay, and has a fascinating history. Plus, it's one of the most scenic spots for escaping the hubbub of the urban East Bay.

Speaking of Lake Chabot, toxic algae continues to pool in some areas of the 315-acre lake. While the lake remains safe for boat rides, fishing, picnicking and otherwise enjoying the park, dogs should not swim in the lake because they could become ill or die from exposure to the algae toxins.

Dogs are not allowed in Lake Chabot anyway, and neither is swimming. But until the algae clears up, we ask the public to be extra cautious with their pets.

Toxic algae also persists at Lake Temescal in Oakland and Quarry Lakes in Fremont. Park District crews continue to test the lakes regularly and are closely monitoring all the East Bay's swim areas. Updates are posted at www.ebparks.org.

The toxic algae, which until this year had been a rare occurrence in the East Bay, is linked to the drought and warmer weather. We appreciate the public's patience with this natural phenomenon and hope it clears up soon.

Fruit lovers will want to check out "A Taste of Briones," an Aug. 9 event that includes a challenging 3-mile hike capped with a sampling of the pears and other fruit growing in the historic orchards dating from the area's farm days.

The event is free and open to hikers age 10 and up. No registration required.

Meet at the end of Briones Road outside Martinez. Go to www.ebparks.org for more information.

Music & Art in the Park

SUBMITTED BY JULIE MACHADO

Hayward Odd Fellows Sycamore Lodge #129 is partnering with H.A.R.D. (Hayward Area Recreation and Park District) and local non-profits for the 6th Annual "Music & Art in the Park," a series of free Sunday concerts from August to September at the Hayward Memorial Park.

Enjoy a variety of music such as Mariachi, Blues, Big Band & Jazz, Original Feel Good Music, Beatles tunes, and Rock 'n' Roll! Bring a blanket or lawn chairs, a picnic (no alcohol), and enjoy an afternoon in the park with music, art, dance and chess! Kids of all ages are welcome to come create chalk art! Chess players, bring your chess moves or come to learn!

All activities will be at Hayward Memorial Park, from 1 p.m. – 5 p.m. on most Sundays, August 2 through September 27. Best of all, these events are free to the public! A tot lot is nearby, as is a lovely hiking trail, indoor pool (the Hayward Plunge), tennis courts and plenty of free parking. This magnificent local park is managed by the H.A.R.D., the premier agency in the greater Hayward area.

Each event will showcase and feature one of our area's fine non-profit groups, which do much of the heavy lifting in the community. All donations received go to the featured 501c3 non-profit of the day and are tax deductible.

The Hayward Odd Fellows Sycamore Lodge #129 was re-formed in 2010 with a focus on supporting music and arts in the community, as well as doing other good work and providing good fellowship. For more about the lodge, visit www.haywardlodge.org.

Musicians, artists, dancers and chess players are all donating their time for the events:

Sunday, August 2: A celebration of Hayward's Mexican heritage, with Mariachis and Baile Folklorico, benefiting the East Bay Center for the Preservation of Cultural Arts.

Sunday, August 9: Blues Concert: Chris Marquis and the Sycamore 129 Blues Band to benefit FESCO, the Family Emergency Shelter Coalition (www.fescofamilyshelter.org/).

Sunday, August 23: Original Feel Good Music of Sezu with Kari & the Sweetspots benefiting the South Hayward Parish (www.SouthHaywardParish.org).

Sunday, August 30: Jazz Concert: What's Up Big Band benefiting the Hayward-La Honda Music Camp (www.lahondamusiccamp.org/).

Sunday, September 13: Jazz Concert featuring 3 O'Clock Jump and Mt. Eden Choir members to benefit the Mt Eden High School Choir (www.mehschoirs.org/). Guest chef, City Council Member Francisco Zermeno BBQ'ing French Sausage from Fabrique Delices (<http://fabriquedelices.com/>).

Sunday, September 20: Beatles tunes featuring The Collective, Two of Us, and Mt. Eden High School Orchestra, Band and Jazz Band members performing to benefit Mt. Eden High School Instrumental Program (<http://mehsband.wix.com/mehsband>).

Sunday, Sept 27: "Uncle Rico's" Original

Rock'n'Roll featuring Hypnotones, and Hayward High School Marching Band, Band and Jazz Band members performing to benefit the Hayward High School Instrumental Music Program (www.hayward-high.net/AboutUsHHSMusic). Guest chef, City Council Member Mark Salinas and donations from Chavez Market (www.chavezsuper.com/).

Blueprint for “Maker Education”

Launching a City/School District Partnership in Fremont

By SUSAN LEMKE,
PROGRAM MANAGER K-12
MATH 7 SCIENCE

The importance of the so-called “MakerEd” phenomenon, as it relates to nurturing the next generation workforce, is something we’re passionate about in Fremont. You may recall a recent blog post (<http://www.thinksiliconvalley.com/silicon-valley-east/bringing-next-makerspace-new-territoryour-community-and-k-12-classroom/>) by Fremont parent, Grace Karr, which defines the movement and why it’s important to our innovation ecosystem.

We’re happy to report that together, the City and Fremont Unified School District have initiated a conversation about how to bring this idea to life in our K-12 classrooms. Last month, over 30 education and community stakeholders gathered at the “FlexLab” classroom at Hopkins Junior High to discuss the possibilities. Participants included parents, teachers, school district staff, principals, education experts, community-based organizations, and yes, even students!

The initial discussion focused on a few central questions:

- What does a “Maker” classroom or school look like?
- What tools and materials do we need for a successful Maker Initiative?
- What do teachers need to know to engage students in making things, and who else is available to help?
- What are kids making, and how can students help address community challenges?

There was no shortage of great ideas coming out of this exercise. Here’s a snapshot of a few of those ideas:

- Creating more indoor/outdoor classrooms
- Generating more “experiences” for students — even if outside the regular school schedule
- A “maker-mobile” that could travel from school to school, and “touring tools”
- An Idea Fair to identify what problems our students are most interested in tackling
- “Teacher-ships” — a summer internship opportunity for teachers to build stronger relationships with local industries
- A commitment to incorporate tool usage throughout school curriculum

Perhaps the most interesting was a discussion about whether “MakerEd” best captures our thinking about this movement. Many different labels could work beyond “Maker”, including: “Inventor,” “Imagineer,” “Solutionary,” “Actioneer,” or “Techie.”

Regardless of the label, commitment to working on this effort is strong. Perhaps you’d like to join us! And if you need more inspiration, check out this “Kid President” video (<http://www.bing.com/videos/search?q=kid+president+ge+aviation&FORM=VIRE1#view=detail&mid=9621F427D578EDA211239621F427D578EDA21123>) that is charming, funny, and the embodiment of the end goal — curious kids, empowered to create solutions to real-life problems.

Christ, who submitted the petition requesting the name change, showed their support during the meeting.

- Council authorized city manager to negotiate and prepare a term sheet of contract for purchase of an Advanced Metering Infrastructure (AMI) system for Council consideration, and approved resolution to amend the current professional services agreement with TritonAMI to assist with AMI implementation in a total amount not to exceed $110,000. An AMI system is used by water agencies as a measurement and data collection system.

- Council approved resolution authorizing city manager to execute a cooperative agreement, along with all associated grant deeds, with the Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District for Phase 2 of the Line D (Ward Creek) flood-wall improvements project. Phase 2 involves removing and replacing a section of an existing asphalt concrete public trail owned by the city.
- Council approved addenda, providing minor revisions to the plans and specifications for the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) for Hayward Promise Neighborhood Street Improvement Project; increasing the administrative change order to $324,914; and awarding of construction contract to DeSilva Gates Construction LP in the amount of $1,189,328. The following streets were selected for improvement: Cody Road, Culp Avenue, Custer Road, Frederick Avenue, Joyce Street, Lander Avenue, Langley Way, Mardie Street, Muir Street, Sublett Drive, Sycamore Avenue, Thomas Avenue, and Tioga Road.

- Council approved resolution awarding the construction contract to DeSilva Gates Construction LP in the amount of $1,294,277 for the Industrial Boulevard pavement rehabilitation project.

Legislative Business:
Authorization for city Council and the Hayward Public Financing Authority to issue Certificates of Participation in an amount not to exceed $75 million for the new 21st Century Library and Community Learning Center; improvements to fire stations and the Fire Training Center; and improvements to city streets.

Adjournment:
The meeting was adjourned in memory of Suzanne Clemens Fry, the first president of Hayward Unified School District School Board; and Pat Kellner, who was president of Hayward Demos Democratic Club.

An App for TCV

proud to announce that a Mobile App (application) is now available as well. Working with our App guru, David Afana of Afana Enterprises – Mobile Marketing Solutions, access to our newspaper, distribution locations and immediate response to queries of events in the Greater Tri-City area is now at your fingertips through smartphones and tablets.

We learned through conversations with David that applications for the wide variety of mobile devices are structured differently, so Tri-City Voice (TCV at the App Stores) has been created to work with Apple, Android and even Kindle devices. Search any app for QR Code Scanner (free) and/or simply search the respective app stores for Tri-City Voice, Tricity Voice or TCV. Below is a box with marks in it called a QR Code that can be scanned by smartphones and tablets, but you can also visit any of the app stores and download the TCV App - a box with TCV written on a green stripe and TCV within it.

We plan to expand the application, website and newspaper with additional items of interest for our readership including more information about local points of interest and activities. Be assured that our goal is for the content of TCV to remain focused on local people, places and events.

East Bay donates furniture to countries in need

SUBMITTED BY KIMBERLY HAWKINS

Used furniture from Cal State University East Bay (CSUEB) is finding new homes in developing countries across the world. Instead of throwing away desks, chairs, tables and mattresses when they need to be replaced, the university has contracted with the company IRN – The Recycling Network to send the items to a place in need. Often, the destinations are schools and hospitals in countries stricken by poverty or recovering from a devastating natural disaster.

CSUEB has already made four donations and another is likely when faculty and staff move into the new Academic Services building in the fall. Old mattresses from student housing were shipped to an orphanage in El Salvador at the end of the school year, and desks and chairs from the library are on their way to Nicaragua. Last winter, furniture from the dining and study areas of the University Union has been shipped to Rwanda to help rebuild schools. Furniture from CSUEB's Oakland campus was also recently donated abroad.

While donating the furniture does cost more than throwing it away, it's not by a significant amount. Plus, the program promotes sustainability at home while also helping other countries.

"All I think of is we just keep pulling from the Earth and making things and just tossing them in big pits," said Terri Ramirez, CSUEB's logistics specialist, who coordinates the university's furniture recycling efforts.

Ramirez first started working with IRN in 2009 when she was at San Jose State, where she coordinated the recycling of around 100 tons of furniture each year. When she came to CSUEB a couple years ago, she brought the idea with her.

"Before I started it (at San Jose State), we were just throwing everything in dumpsters," Ramirez said. "Nobody wanted to buy it and nobody around here wanted it for a donation. So, IRN was just the perfect opportunity."

For more information, contact CSUEB Communications Office at (510) 885-2878.

City of Hayward announces new Director of Information Technology

SUBMITTED BY FRANK HOLLAND

The City of Hayward is pleased to announce the appointment of the City of Hayward's new Director of Information Technology, Adam Kostrzak. Mr. Kostrzak will lead the City's IT Department, providing strategic vision regarding the use of technology in the City organization and community and stewardship of the City's existing IT infrastructure. Mr. Kostrzak will begin his new role on Monday, July 27, 2015.

Mr. Kostrzak brings a wealth of experience from the private sector with both startups and Fortune 500 organizations. He most recently worked with revolutionary light field imaging startup, Lytro, leading the team responsible for all internal IT functions within that organization. He also worked with Yahoo! for seven years, in the capacity of Global Director of IT Platform and Support Services.

Adam graduated with a BA in Management of Information Systems from the University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh.

"The City is pleased to hire someone with Adam's skill set and background to lead our Information Technology Department. He will leverage his private sector experience to enhance internal customer responsiveness and support while identifying emerging technologies that will help the City better connect with our residents and the public," said Fran David, City Manager.

Mr. Kostrzak states, "I am incredibly excited to join the City of Hayward. I am looking forward to being a part of the IT team and all we will accomplish moving forward. I have spent much of my career at high tech companies in the Silicon Valley, but I come from a family with a long history of civil service; this feels like returning to my roots."

Mr. Kostrzak replaces Mr. Mark Guenther, who retired from the City in May after more than 25 years of service to the Hayward community.

THE FLYSPECK FLYER

Cleaner-Uppers

By Nellie Fly
WORLD'S SMALLEST REPORTER

Dung beetles are nature's clean-up bugs. They eat and bury animal waste. This activity recycles important nutrients into the soil and buries waste that attracts pests such as flies. A dung beetle can bury up to 250 times its own weight in dung in a night.

How much do you weigh?

Multiply that by 250

lbs.

That number is the amount of dung you could bury if you were a dung beetle.

Dung Beetles

NATURE'S CLEAN-UP CREW

It's a dirty job, but someone has to do it!

Monkey See, Monkey Do

In rainforests, dung beetles roll up balls of monkey dung containing fruit seeds from the monkey's meal. They bury the monkey dung, seeds and all. After a while, the seeds sprout and grow new trees.

Number these pictures in order.

Standards Link: Life Science: Students know that all organisms cause changes in their environments and these changes can be beneficial.

Don't Mess with Texas

Some experts say that dung beetles clean up 80% of the cow manure in parts of Texas.

Three Dung Beetle Groups

Each dung beetle belongs to one of three groups: rollers, tunnelers, or dwellers.

Rollers shape dung into balls that they roll. They then bury these dung balls to eat later or to use as a place to lay eggs. When the eggs hatch, the larvae eat the dung.

Tunnelers bury their dung balls by tunneling underneath a pile of dung and taking their treasure underground.

Dwellers – Can you guess what they do? Write your guess here:

Find the dining dung beetle that's different.

How do dung beetles survive on a diet of dung?

Not all of the food an animal eats gets digested. Any undigested bits pass out of the animal in its dung. It is those undigested bits of food that nourish the dung beetle.

Standards Link: Life Science: Behavior of individual organisms is influenced by internal cues (e.g., hunger) and external cues (e.g., changes in the environment).

The Worship of Dung Beetles

Ancient Egyptians viewed the dung beetle as a symbol of their sun god. They thought the sun god pushed the sun around the sky, much as the dung beetle pushes around balls of dung.

Extra! Extra! Grouping Puzzle

Cut out all the ads in today's newspaper. Sort them into at least three groups. The ads in each group should share at least one characteristic that the other groups' ads don't have. Name each group, identifying its important feature.

Standards Link: Scientific Investigation: Things can be grouped according to common characteristics.

Kid Scoop Together: Fill In The Blanks

Ask a friend to give you each type of word. Fill in the blanks and read the story aloud for some silly fun.

Dee Dee on a Roll

Dee Dee was a dung beetle that dreamed of bigger and better things. She wanted to _____ with _____ and _____ amongst the _____.

But those were pretty big dreams for a little dung beetle. Poor Dee Dee thought she might never get her chance to become a _____.

"You have _____ of elephant dung as far as the _____ can see!" said Dee Dee's father. "Stop wasting time and start minding waste!"

One afternoon, Dee Dee saw a bright, _____ object in the _____. It was a marble!

Dee Dee became quite skilled and eventually entered a _____ marble competition. She performed _____ tricks and scored the highest of all.

"_____!" she shouted during her victory speech. "I've gone from the _____ bottom to the _____ top!"

Obama gives monument status to 100-mile range in California

ELLEN KNICKMEYER ASSOCIATED PRESS

BERRYESSA SNOW MOUNTAIN NATIONAL MONUMENT, Calif. (AP) – As a stretch of gold and green coastal range spanning more than 100 miles became California's newest national monument on Friday, geologist Bob Schneider couldn't stop himself from jiggling for joy.

"I'm doing little Snoopy dances," Schneider said just before the ceremony in Washington where President Barack Obama established the Berryessa Snow Mountain National Monument – 331,000 acres that cover inner-coast mountains, wetlands and waterways and are home to bears, otters, eagles and a host of other wildlife.

With the preservation from development that the designation as a monument brings, "I'm happy that my grandchild will be able to come here and visit this place" in decades to come, said Schneider, who has climbed the region's peaks for half a century.

Obama created the new California national monument Friday along with one in Texas and another in Nevada, altogether protecting more than 1 million acres. With Friday's signing, Obama now has made 19 national monuments, using his executive powers after opposition from some Republican lawmakers slowed congressional designations of new conservation areas.

Schneider and other members of a Northern California preservation group called Tuleyome successfully campaigned for monument status – with broad support from federal lawmakers and local officials – in part by assuring hunters and others they would not push to limit recreational use of the area.

There's boating, kayaking, hiking, bird-watching, U.S. Rep. John Garamendi, a Democrat from Fairfield, said by telephone from Washington. "Just about every kind of recreation."

On Friday, gray fog hugged the range's ridges of summer-yellow grass and oak trees swathed in dried moss.

Climbing from reedy marshes to mountain peaks more than 6,000 feet above, the monument will give bears, badgers, otters, mountain lions, bald and golden eagles, and other wildlife room to move as climate change alters habitat, supporters said.

The monument designation excludes the landmark for which the area is best-known locally – Lake Berryessa, a reservoir created in the 1950s by damming Putah Creek. Photographers Dorothea Lange and Pirkle Jones chronicled the damming in a book called "Death of a Valley."

For some Californians who most associate the area with the manmade lake, ringed by signs advertising bingo, jet-ski rentals, and "mobile villas," the monument designation Friday was puzzling.

"Yes, we're in the country, we have animals, but to make us a monument?" asked Marcia Ritz, behind a counter at a general store on the edge of the reservoir. "What have we done to deserve that?"

Schneider, by phone, spoke of standing on the ridge where the North American and Pacific tectonic plates meet, and of 12,000-year-old Indian sites that the public could now more easily learn about.

"When you designate something like this, you create a sense of place," he said. "This isn't about Yosemite. It doesn't have that grandeur like Half Dome and El Capitan. But it does have incredible places. And there are stories here."

In Putah Creek on the new monument's far edge, first-time visitor Rick Grant, 62, reeled in fish after fish Friday, releasing them each time.

"I got the two largest trout I ever got in my life," Grant said, and pointed at another one lurking in water a few feet away. "They're beautiful."

Friday's monument designation was news to Grant. He was good with it, on condition, he said.

"I like some areas being left the way they are," unbuilt, he said. "As long as people can visit them."

Obituary

Donald Stephen Bragg

Nov. 29, 1926 - July 25, 2015

Donald Stephen Bragg, 88, of Fremont, California, passed away on July 25, 2015. Born in Niles California on November 29, 1926 to Anna and Barney Victor Bragg, Don graduated from Washington High School in 1944 whereupon he enlisted in the United States Navy. After his military service he returned to Niles where he married Gertrude Guerra in 1948; they were married 62 years. Don worked for the Morton Salt Company for 41 years in several administrative positions. He also served on the Niles School District Board of directors from 1956 to 1962, was a member of the Washington Chapter of the Native Sons of the Golden West, and volunteered as a tax preparer for the elderly at Fremont's Senior center. Don's greatest joy was his family, grandchildren and great grandchildren. He is survived by his five children and their spouses, Stephen Bragg (wife Ann), Barbara Wakefield (husband Rick), Greg Bragg (wife Debbie), Andrea Watkins and Chris Bragg (wife Christiana), by six grandchildren, Heather, Stephanie, Christopher, Jeffrey, Isabel and Emily, and by seven great grandchildren, Joe, Aaron, Seth, Natalie, Nathan, Ava and Colton. Don was preceded in death in 2010 by his wife Gertrude who he cared for lovingly in her final years. A loving and dedicated husband and father, Don will be dearly missed by his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. Visitation will be held from 5-8pm, with a Vigil service at 6:30pm on Thursday, July 30, at Fremont Chapel of the Roses, 1940 Peralta Blvd., Fremont. Funeral Mass will begin at 10am, Friday, July 31, at Corpus Christi Church, 37891 2nd St., Fremont. Burial to follow at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Hayward.

New urine resistant walls in San Francisco shoot pee back

AP WIRE SERVICE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP), San Francisco now has nine public walls covered with a repellant paint that makes pee spray back on the person's shoes and pants.

The San Francisco Chronicle reports (http://bit.ly/1CZaaq6) Friday that it's the city's latest attempt to clean up urine-soaked alleyways and walls.

Signs reading "Hold it! This wall is not a public restroom. Please respect San Francisco and seek relief in an appropriate place," hang above some walls.

The signs don't explicitly state that the wall will fire back, the newspaper reports.

Public urination has long been a problem in San Francisco. Legislation banning it in 2002 has seen little success, despite a fine of up to $500.

The paint has proved to be effective in Europe. It was applied to walls in Hamburg's St. Pauli quarter, where beer drinkers often can't be bothered to find a bathroom.

Four arrests and 672 marijuana plants seized

SUBMITTED BY FREMONT PD

In May of 2015, the Southern Alameda County Major Crimes Task Force (SACMCTF) received information of an indoor marijuana grow in the City of Fremont. During the months of May and June agents conducted an investigation that culminated in a search warrant for a warehouse located at 42400 Blacow Road, Units A and B, Fremont.

On July 2, agents were conducting surveillance when they observed several subjects exiting the warehouse. Agents detained Qui Khai Loc (10/16/1976), Nansheng Ye (11/20/1975), Johnny Nhan Loc (05/15/1979) and Sau Siu Loc (05/01/1954), all of San Francisco. The search warrant was executed and agents seized 672 marijuana plants, 2 grams of suspected ketamine, a cell phone and indicia. Agents also seized $25,665 in US currency which will be submitted for asset forfeiture. It was determined that the electric line to the warehouse had been illegally bypassed. All of the subjects were arrested for 11358 H&S (cultivation of marijuana) and 11359 H&S (possession of marijuana for sales). Agents are conducting follow up with PG&E regarding the theft of utilities.

Qui Loc, Nansheng Ye and Johnny Loc were booked at the Fremont Jail and Sau Loc was booked at the Santa Rita Jail for the above listed charges.

The Southern Alameda County Major Crimes Task Force is comprised of agents from California Department of Justice, Fremont, Union City, Newark, Alameda County Probation and CHP. Friday, July 17

Between 7:20 a.m. and 11:52 a.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a residence in the 4300 block of Sacramento Avenue through an unlocked front kitchen window. The loss was jewelry.

At 3:59 p.m., Ofc. Burkhammer was dispatched to the area of Parkhurst Drive/Sundale Drive in regards to an adult male who was harassing two female juveniles. Two 15-year-old female juveniles were walking in the area when a male drove up to them in his mid-90s gold Honda Accord. The male spoke in Spanish and offered the juveniles money to get in the car with him. The juveniles called police. The suspect was described as a Hispanic male in his 30s, wearing sunglasses and a green shirt. Officers checked the area with negative results.

Around 9:00 a.m., unknown suspect(s) gained entry into a residence in the 42700 block of Everglades Park Drive through a small kitchen sliding window at the back of the house. The losses were jewelry, cash and electronics.

Between 8:00 a.m. and 5:35 p.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a residence in the 3700 block of Jamestown Road by breaking a window at the rear of the house. The losses were cash and ammunition.

Between 7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a residence in the 4800 block of Mowry Avenue by kicking the front door. The loss was jewelry.

Saturday, July 18

Between 3:00 p.m. and 4:15 p.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a residence in the 90 block of Madrid Place by forcing open a French entry door. An alarm was activated and it appeared the suspect(s) fled the area.

Sunday, July 19

At 7:24 p.m., Ofc. Layfield located an occupied stolen vehicle. Ofc. Layfield attempted to stop the vehicle but it fled. The vehicle became disabled after driving on a center median. The male driver fled on foot. A perimeter was established and the 30-year-old male from Fremont was ultimately located and arrested. A search of the vehicle revealed a loaded firearm was inside. The male was arrested for being in possession of a stolen vehicle and a felon in possession of a firearm.

Monday, July 20

Between 5:00 p.m. on Friday, July 17, 2015 and 5:30 a.m. on Monday, July 20, 2015, unknown suspect(s) entered a business in the 3200 block of Darby Common by cutting through a cyclone fence and cutting a padlock off of a storage container. The losses were power tools.

Between 4:00 p.m. on Friday, July 17, 2015 and 6:45 a.m. on Monday, July 20, 2015, unknown suspect(s) entered a business in the 6300 block of Kaiser Drive by prying a door. The losses were electronics, hand tools and power tools.

At 6:51 p.m., Fremont Police Dispatch received a 911 call of a family disturbance on the 4700 block of Baffin Avenue. The female caller stated she and a second female had been threatened and chased by her male roommate who was armed with a knife. The two females fled the scene for their safety and said the male roommate was on the porch holding the knife. Fremont Police Patrol Officers were dispatched at 6:52 p.m. and immediately responded. Officers arrived on scene at 6:56 p.m. and were confronted in the front yard of the residence by the male suspect who was armed with a knife. During the altercation, two Fremont police officers discharged their firearms, striking the suspect. The suspect was immediately transported to a local trauma center. The suspect is a 54-year-old adult male Fremont resident. Fremont Police Detectives are in the early stages of this investigation and no further information will be released at this time. The Alameda County District Attorney's Office has been notified.

Tuesday, July 21

Between 10:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a residence in the 41500 block of Denise Street through an unlocked patio door. The losses were cash and jewelry.

Around 12:30 a.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a business in the 46900 block of Warm Springs Boulevard by breaking a glass door. The loss was cash.

Wednesday, July 22

At 5:27 a.m., officers were dispatched to Safeway (5 Corners) in regards to a man running through the lot, cursing at people and waving a knife. Officers arrived in the area and located the male near Fremont Boulevard/Chapel Way. The male was arrested for brandishing a deadly weapon.

At around 7:20 p.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a residence in the 4800 block of Mauna Loa Park through an open back door. The loss was jewelry. Video surveillance in the area revealed two males were involved. The first suspect was described as a black male adult in his mid-20s, wearing a black hoodie and blue jeans. The second suspect was described as a black male adult in his mid-20s, wearing a white t-shirt and blue jeans. The suspect vehicle was described as a brand new white Chevrolet Traverse or similar, with the first license plate digit being a number 7 and the last digit being a number 9.

Thursday, July 23

Between 12:01 a.m. and 9:15 a.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a business in the 46300 block of Mission Boulevard by smashing the side door window. The losses were cash, liquor and cigarettes.

Between 9:15 p.m. on Wednesday, July 22, 2015 and 9:15 a.m. on Thursday, July 23, 2015, unknown suspect(s) entered a business in the 46200 block of Warm Springs Boulevard by smashing the front window. The loss was designer eyeglass frames.

Between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., unknown suspect(s) entered a residence in the 1400 block of Gomes Road through an open window. The loss was jewelry.

At 3:50 p.m., Ofc. Forsberg was dispatched to Lucky Supermarket in the 35800 block of Fremont Boulevard in regards to a male who was detained by store security for shoplifting. The 61-year-old male from Fremont was arrested for shoplifting and an outstanding felony warrant.

Officer involved shooting investigation

SUBMITTED BY FREMONT PD

Fremont Police detectives are actively investigating an officer involved shooting that occurred on the 4700 block of Baffin Ave on Monday, July 20.

At 6:51 p.m. on July 20, Fremont Police Dispatch received a 9-1-1 call regarding a family disturbance on the 4700 block of Baffin Ave. The female caller stated she and a second female had been threatened and chased by Troy Francis (54 year-old male) who was armed with a butcher knife. During the altercation, the suspect threatened to physically harm himself and the victims. The two females fled the scene for their safety and dialed 9-1-1.

Fremont Police Dispatch received the 9-1-1 call at 6:51 p.m. Fremont Police Patrol Officers were dispatched at 6:52 p.m. and immediately responded. Officer Timothy Ferrara (10 year police officer with the City of Fremont) and CSI Officer Markel Smith (6 year police officer with the City of Fremont) arrived on scene at 6:56 p.m. The two officers were immediately confronted in the front yard of the residence by the male suspect who was armed with an 8" chef's knife. The suspect raised the knife and charged at the officers. Officers gave the suspect numerous commands and ordered him to drop the knife. The suspect refused and continued toward the officers. Officer T. Ferrara and Officer M. Smith both discharged their firearms, striking the suspect. Additional Fremont Police Officers arrived to the location and began rendering medical aid. Paramedics transported the suspect to a local trauma center. The suspect currently remains hospitalized. No officers were injured during the incident.

This incident remains under investigation by the Fremont Police Detective Unit. Due to the active and ongoing investigation and privacy of the victims, no additional details or evidence will be released at this time. The case will be presented to the Alameda County District Attorney's Office upon completion of the investigation.

Hayward conducting shuttle feasibility study

SUBMITTED BY CITY OF HAYWARD

The City of Hayward is currently conducting a study to determine the feasibility of providing a shuttle service connecting the West and South Industrial Areas with Downtown Hayward, the Hayward BART station and the South Hayward BART station. The City has partnered with Fehr & Peers and D&A Communications to conduct this study. For Hayward businesses, the benefits of improved transit connectivity include attracting new business customers and suppliers to the area, reducing congestion, and facilitating access to a regional workforce.

To better understand and meet the needs of our growing business community, we need feedback from Hayward employers and their employees regarding interest in and need for this type of shuttle service. If you are a business owner or operator in Hayward, we'd appreciate your assistance inviting your employees to complete an online survey regarding their commuting habits and interest in additional transit options. Employees should visit <http://employee.hayward-shuttlesurvey.com> from any Web browser to complete the survey now through August 14. All responses to this survey will be completely anonymous and critical to the success of this effort. For your convenience, a template email message you may wish to forward internally to employees with email access is below.

We also invite you, your friends and co-workers in Hayward to join us for a special lunch event on Friday, July 31, from 11 a.m. – 1 p.m. in the parking lot outside Life Chiropractic College West. This event will feature free coffee from the Salvation Army Coffee Truck and a selection of great lunch options for purchase. While enjoying a break from the usual lunchtime routine, attendees will also have a chance to chat with us about this transit study. Spread the word!

If you have any questions about this study, or wish to share any feedback separate from the survey for area employees linked above, we encourage you to contact Abhishek Parikh, T.E., City of Hayward Traffic Engineer, at (510) 583-4791 or abhishek.parikh@hayward-ca.gov.

Thank you for your continued interest in economic development in Hayward. We appreciate your participation in this important effort!

BART hosts online town hall about transbay shutdown

SUBMITTED BY BART

Got questions about the planned Transbay Tube closure? BART officials will host a live online town hall meeting from Noon-1p.m. on Tuesday, July 28 to answer questions about the work taking place the first weekend in August and during Labor Day weekend to repair a critical section of track near the Transbay Tube. BART officials from Operations and Maintenance and Engineering will take questions that have been emailed or tweeted in before and during the webcast.

Riders can ask questions about how the lifeline bus service will work, the closure of the West Oakland Station, what it means for the rest of the system, details about the work being performed and why it's important, and any other related question.

On July 28, watch the webcast live at www.bart.gov/townhall. Make sure you have Microsoft Silverlight downloaded on your computer. Google Chrome is not compatible with Microsoft Silverlight so you must use another browser to watch the event. You can tweet your question by tagging @SFBART. BART will also monitor the feed during the event for those with questions once the town hall starts, but will not be responding via Twitter.

PROBATE

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF LINDA GEE

CASE NO. RP15777395

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: Linda Gee
A Petition for Probate has been filed by David Belk in the Superior Court of California, County of Alameda.
The Petition for Probate requests that David Belk be appointed as Executor to administer the estate of the decedent. The Petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court on Aug. 19, 2015 at 9:30AM in Dept. D-201 located at 2120 Martin Luther King Jr. Way, Berkeley, CA 94704.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDINGS AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. On August 17, 2015 at 12:30 PM, at the Fallon Street entrance to the County Courthouse, 1225 Fallon Street, Oakland, CA 94612, MTC Financial Inc. dba Trustee Corps, as the duly Appointed Trustee, under and pursuant to the power of sale contained in that certain Deed of Trust recorded on February 4, 2005, as Instrument No. 2005050674, of official records in the Office of the Recorder of Alameda County, California, executed by ROBERTO NONO MUNOZ III, A MARRIED MAN, as Trustor(s), in favor of WASHINGTON MUTUAL BANK, FA, A FEDERAL ASSOCIATION as Beneficiary, WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, that certain property situated in said County, California describing the land therein as: AS MORE FULLY DESCRIBED IN

SAID DEED OF TRUST The property heretofore described is being sold "as is". The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 40166 DAVIS STREET, FREMONT, CA 94538 The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any inaccuracy of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the Note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest thereon, as provided in said Note(s), advances if any, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, estimated fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust. The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligations secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of this Notice of Trustee's Sale is estimated to be $454,163.98 (Estimated). However, prepayment premiums, accrued interest and advances will increase this figure prior to sale. Beneficiary's bid at said sale may include all or part of said amount. In addition to cash, the Trustee will accept a cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the California Financial Code and authorized to do business in California, or other such funds as may be acceptable to the Trustee. In the event tender other than cash is accepted, the Trustee may withhold the issuance of the Trustee's Deed Upon Sale until funds become available to the payee or endorsee as a matter of right. The property offered for sale excludes all funds held on account by the property receiver, if applicable. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on and property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call In Source Logic at 702-659-7766 for information regarding the Trustee's Sale or visit the Internet Web site address listed below for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, CA08000513-15-1. At around 5:20 p.m., Ofc. DeJong conducted a vehicle stop on the northbound I-880 on-ramp from Whipple Road. Two loaded, concealed firearms were located in the vehicle. Hayward residents Juanito Febo and Robert Gogue were both arrested on several firearms charges.

At around 10:30 p.m., Ofc. Jensen conducted a vehicle stop in the area of Decoto Road. and Meyers Drive. A probation search of the vehicle yielded a shaved key. John Alejandres from Union City was cited and released.

Automobile burglary suspect arrested

SUBMITTED BY
SAN LEANDRO PD

Chief Sandra Spagnoli reports that good proactive police work led to the arrest of a man responsible for committing an automobile burglary in the 1000 block of MacArthur Boulevard.

On July 7, 2015, approximately 0502 hours, SLPD Officers were conducting surveillance in the aforementioned area when they observed a subject break into and unlawfully remove contents from an unoccupied vehicle. After committing the automobile burglary, the subject, later identified as Oakland resident Joey Lorenzo Haines, was observed getting into a silver Audi as he left the area. Another SLPD Officer attempted to initiate a traffic stop on the Audi as it drove away on westbound I-580. Haines refused to stop and a vehicle pursuit was initiated. However, due to high speeds and other erratic driving, the officer cancelled his pursuit of the Audi.

As the officer exited the I-580 Keller exit in order to return to San Leandro, he noticed the Audi had collided into a building located at 7980 Mountain Boulevard. A witness to the collision directed the officer to Haines, as he was attempting to walk away from the collision scene, and Haines was detained without incident. A subsequent search of the Audi revealed the loss from the witnessed automobile burglary and a loaded .40 caliber handgun. Haines was arrested for committing the crimes of automobile burglary, evading a police officer in a vehicle, and being a felon in possession of a handgun — all felonies. Haines will be arraigned in the Alameda County Superior Court.

Lottery scams

SUBMITTED BY NEWARK PD

Like other "too good to be true" scams, lottery scams offer the victim great wealth in exchange for paying taxes and other processing fees up-front. In lottery scams, scammers generally send an e-mail, fax, letter or a phone call to potential victims announcing that they have won a foreign lottery. The "winner" need only provide personal bank account information and pay a few fees up-front to collect his or her substantial winnings.

Unfortunately, this occurred in Newark recently. The victim received several phone calls alleging she had won a lottery in another country. The victim unwittingly wired a significant amount of money over several transactions to cover "fees" during the scam.

What to Watch Out For:

If you did not purchase a lottery ticket in this foreign country, it is highly unlikely you can win a prize.

No legitimate lottery requests advance fees.

Characteristically, written notices contain spelling and grammatical mistakes or awkward wording.

The primary methods of distribution for this scam are through the Internet, mail, or by fax. Legitimate government-run lotteries normally choose television, radio, or newspapers to advertise.

Many of the prize letters state the deadline to claim the prize will soon expire.

The written notice may come from a free e-mail account like Yahoo, Hotmail, or Gmail.

You may be told to keep your winnings confidential for "security reasons."

How to Protect Yourself and Your Assets:

Do not send any money! Participation in a foreign lottery through the mail or over the phone violates U.S. federal law. Furthermore, it will be essentially impossible to recover any money you send to a fraudulent operation.

Do not give out personal information! Keep all bank and credit card information to yourself. Sharing this information can make you vulnerable to fraudulent use of your accounts or identity theft.

Do not respond! Simply corresponding with the operators of a scam increases your chances of receiving similar offers.

Recent suspicious circumstance - Attempt to steal vehicle?

Another incident occurred that was suspicious and possibly an attempt to steal a car using deception. The Police Department was made aware of this incident, but the potential victim did not make an official report. However; it is worth making the public aware of the incident. A man contacted an elderly woman in the parking lot of the Newark Marketplace located at 5877 Jarvis Ave. The man struck up a conversation with the woman as she sat in her vehicle preparing to back out of a parking stall. The woman believed the man was attempting to lure her from the her vehicle by telling her to get out of her car as there was something under her vehicle that need to be moved. The woman drove off fearing the possibility of the man attempting to steal her auto.

Eden Area Village: Aging in place, with grace

BY SARA GIUSTI

It’s no secret that one of the largest generations – the Baby Boomers – are aging and retiring. What you may not know is that a novel phenomenon is spreading like wildfire that allows seniors to age with grace, community, and support. The East Bay is soon to be swept into this aging revolution of nonprofit “Villages,” neighborhood communities that allow seniors to “age in place” and thrive.

Eden Area Village, encompassing Hayward, Castro Valley, San Lorenzo, and San Leandro, is currently in the planning and development stage of building their own Village. The first Village was created in 2001 in Boston’s Beacon Hill neighborhood. Senior residents were eager to organize accessible services and support that would allow them to “age in place” at home, or at least delay moving to a nursing facility. They created a nonprofit, Beacon Hill Village, and members decided on what services they most needed and wanted.

Volunteers usually provide the services, such as transportation, meal prep, friendly visitor calls, social activities, and minor household tasks. A big plus of these Villages is access to pre-screened paid service providers for larger household projects, such as plumbers or contractors, and a member discount for these services. Arguably the biggest perk is the sense of community fostered in a Village; instead of growing older in isolation, seniors now have an intimate network right in their own neighborhood. Moreover, Villages lessen the load for caregivers and worried out-of-town family members; it’s really a win-win for everyone.

Villages have taken off across the country since their inception. According to Village to Village Network, a national peer-to-peer network and organization connecting and assisting Villages across the country, there are over 150 Villages operating in the US, Australia, and the Netherlands today, with more than 120 in development. The Bay Area alone has fifteen Villages in Alameda, Marin, San Francisco, and Contra Costa counties, and twelve more developing, including Eden Area Village.

Eden Area Village is a fiscally sponsored project of Community Initiatives, a San Francisco-based organization that supports community projects and partnerships with fiscal sponsorship. Since Eden Area Village is still in development, member dues are yet to be determined, but many other Village memberships range from $100 to $900 a year. Member dues go toward operating the Village, which include some paid staff, usually an administrator who acts as a liaison between members and services.

While there is no projected targeting date at this time, the community can support Eden Area Village operating sooner rather than later. What they need most are volunteers. “We need talented people with business, financial, entrepreneurial, artistic, organizational, technical, or any other skills they have that they feel could be valuable assets in the push to open Eden Area Village,” said Rainer Hochhalter, volunteer of Eden Area Village. “The groundwork has been laid, with a lot of hard work by a small group of dedicated volunteers with a vision, but much still needs to be done to plan which services are needed and how to deliver them,” Hochhalter added.

Eden Area Village holds public meetings every first Friday of the month at Hayward City Hall. The next meeting will be held August 7. Everyone is welcome to come learn more about Villages and help plan one of the Bay Area’s next “age in place” communities. The concept of Villages will be introduced, and there will be a strong emphasis on recruiting development volunteers. PowerPoint and video presentations will be shown, followed by time for Q&A.

“Baby Boomers have always rocked the boat and now as they age, they are continuing down that path and are out to change the way in which we lead our lives in our last years,” explained Hochhalter. “Just as microwave ovens became ubiquitous in most households, so too will Villages in most towns across the country and the world!”

Japanese automaker Mitsubishi Motors to end US production

ported the automaker had decided to end production in the U.S. to focus on Asian markets.

Irvin said Mitsubishi’s board will soon make a formal decision on what will happen to the plant in Normal, Illinois, about 100 miles southwest of Chicago. Company officials hope to find a buyer that will maintain the factory’s employment. The president of UAW Local 2488, Rod DeVary, said workers were told Friday that the plant will cease production on Nov. 30.

Annual production at the plant, which makes the Outlander SUV, has fallen to 64,000 vehicles from more than 200,000 in 2002. The company sold only 82,000 vehicles in the U.S. last year – less than 1 percent of the total market.

Japan’s leading business newspaper, the Nikkei, reported that Mitsubishi would be the first major Japanese automaker to end production in both the U.S. and Europe. The company has built a plant in Thailand, bought one from Ford in the Philippines, and is building one in Indonesia.

Illinois state Sen. Bill Brady, whose district includes Normal, said he and other state officials were already working on a plan to find another manufacturer to buy the factory.

“We are going to do everything we can to make sure people know that Mitsubishi no longer needs the facility, but that this is a facility that has a very efficient, world-class workforce and a supplier network that’s second to none,” he said.

Brady also said he has talked to Mitsubishi officials have assured him that “Mitsubishi’s effort to sell the plant “will not be about getting top dollar for the sale but about doing the right thing.”

The plant is the only Japan-ese-owned auto factory with UAW representation. The union contract at the plant expires next month, with negotiations set to begin in earnest on Monday, said DeVary.

Both Brady and Normal Mayor Chris Koos stressed that Mitsubishi’s decision was not about labor issues but because of dramatically falling sales. Brady said the hope now is that the closure of the plant, which had been not been used to capacity as sales fell, “may bring the opportunity to more fully use the capacity of the plant and bring more jobs.”

State and local officials would not identify specific companies they plan to recruit, but said they would not limit their outreach efforts to automakers.

“We’re confident that we will be able to attract a replacement company in relatively short order,” Koos said.

One industry analyst said factors such as the location of the plant and its proximity to a network of suppliers for the Detroit automobile industry could make it attractive to another automaker. But Karl Brauer, a senior analyst for Kelley Blue Book, also said that given Mitsubishi’s the financial straits over the past decade, he doubts the company has invested much in technology to bring the plant up to date.

Still, “it is a foundation, a footprint, and there is already a process in place to ship cars from (the plant) and components to it,” he said, adding that another company might do as electronic car maker Tesla Motors did a few years ago when it retooled a shuttered plant in Fremont, California.

“They had to basically start from scratch and now it is a very vibrant plant,” he said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Viola Blythe Community Center needs help

Dear Tri-City Voice Readers,

The Viola Blythe Community Center is a small, non-profit organization that helps people with emergency needs such as food and clothing. We assisted nearly 10,000 people in 2014. Our mission is accomplished only with the help of the community. We rely on companies, churches, schools and individuals for continued support.

Our Holiday canned food drives would normally carry us throughout the year, however we are only in July and you might say our cupboards are bare. Not only have we nearly depleted our canned foods, but we are out of fresh items as well. Donations of food items such as those listed below, or donations to purchase food items would be gratefully appreciated. Every dollar we receive is used to purchase needed goods from the Alameda County Food Bank.

We are in need of:

Fresh meats, eggs, milk, butter, flour, sugar, peanut butter, boxed cereal, jam, canned food, fruit, vegetables, beans, etc., and bread.

Answering this request provides nutritional items for the basic needs of our many families, especially with young children. We appreciate any financial donation you may be able to provide, or you can drop off food donations at our location at 37365 Ash Street, Newark. Our hours of operation are Monday /Wednesday, 12 p.m. – 4 p.m., and Tuesday/ Thursday, 9 a.m. – 1p.m. We sincerely appreciate the community’s generous support and donation consideration.

Sincerely,

Debbie Rodriguez

Adobo Festival

SUBMITTED BY
JSCAMINS PRODUCTIONS

Once again, the most sought-after Filipino dish is coming your way this summer. JSCamins Productions and GMA Pinoy TV are whipping-up a double whammy feast for the senses when the “Adobo Festival” celebrates its 10th anniversary on August 1st and 2nd at Kennedy Park in Union City.

Festival organizer Joey S. Camins has witnessed the crowd's enthusiastic reception to the sight and sound treats of the festivities for the last nine years. It is the only Filipino festival that travels around Northern California to celebrate Filipino food and music. Creating solidarity among Filipinos in the US, the festival has visited Daly City, Newark, San Jose, Stockton, Sacramento, Martinez, Vallejo, and Milpitas.

The original Vinta is already in the Bay Area, shipped from the province of Zamboanga, Philippines; see it live at the Adobo Festival! A Vinta is a vessel of ancient heritage closely associated with the people of Western Mindanao in the Philippines. Its vivid, dazzling, and multicolored sail has come to be an eloquent representation of the rich and colorful multi-ethnic culture of the region, particularly in the beautiful city of Zamboanga where a Vinta Regatta is held every year.

Food is central to the Adobo Festival. One of its offerings, the Adobo dish, has moved well beyond the bounds of its regional status. Take part and experience the fun and excitement in savoring this vibrant culinary commodity at the Adobo Contest. Enter your own cooked version of Adobo on August 2 by using Datu Puti products. Prizes await the winners, compliments of Datu Puti / UFC.

Non-stop live entertainment from local bands and talents will liven up the festival, with a Kiddie Pop Star Contest (open to ages four through 10) for all our lovable tykes to showcase their singing prowess (prizes compliments of JS Camins Productions). There will also be kendama competitions for all young kids.

Join the daily raffle for free balikbayan boxes from LBC and a free plane ticket to the Philippines compliments of Mango Tours. Get a chance to win free Android cellphones from Smart World Mobile. Numerous booths with exciting products to give away and an array of mouth-watering foods await one and all.

Now on its 10th year, this festival is definitely going to be bigger and better, so this is the time to perk-up your senses and welcome the 10th annual Adobo Festival. Truly Filipino!

Event partners include GMA Pinoy TV, GMA Life TV, LBC, Ayala Land, Mango Tours, UFC, PLDT US Mobility, Xfinity, Tancinco Law Office, media partners Asian Journal, Philippines Today, Philippine News, Manila Mail, Philippine Fiesta, San Francisco Post, Tri-City Voice, WILD 94.9 /KMEL, Pixel Creations and many more.

THEATRE REVIEW

Lively ‘Mary Poppins’ is glad company indeed

BY JULIE GRABOWSKI

The parrot head handled umbrella, the magical carpet bag, the sensible shoes. A StarStruck wind is blowing in Dublin, carrying in the most beloved of nannies to set the world to rights.

Life is unraveling at number 17 Cherry Tree Lane. The work-absorbed and perpetually ordered Mr. Banks has lost sight of the important things in life, his unruly children are plowing through nannies, and his former actress wife is struggling with the expectations of being Mrs. Banks. All seems lost until Mary Poppins arrives, a no-nonsense nanny with an unorthodox approach and a touch of magic who helps them regain and strengthen their family bonds.

StarStruck Theatre closes out their 20th anniversary season with a musical that is practically perfect in every way. Housed in the outstanding Dublin Center for Performing Arts at Dublin High School, producer/director Lori Stokes has orchestrated another memorable show that should have people piling into their cars for an enchanting night out.

Callie Garrett has unflappable poise and presence as Mary Poppins and is most certainly spot on. Her beautiful voice carries the familiar, infectious songs with ease and ownership. The ever-cheerful, jack-of-all-trades Bert is played by a delightful Tim Sanders, who is light of heart and feet, and a charming host.

Grant Ewing gives a sturdy performance as the proper patriarch Mr. Banks and is well-matched with Julia Brunelli as a sympathetic Mrs. Banks. Allayna Slate and Gabriel Lew provide a stream of energy and sass as the Banks children Jane and Michael, with Heather Warren (Mrs. Brill) and Zac Richey (Robertson Ay) always a pleasure as the household staff.

Carly Tilson-Lumetta stands out as the zany Mrs. Corry and is such vivid fun it is too bad the story doesn't allow for more of her. Kelsey Findlay injects an unexpected and commanding delicious darkness into Act Two as Mr. Banks' fearsome childhood nanny Miss Andrew. Findlay's singular “Brimstone and Treacle” is among the most memorable numbers of the night, and Garrett joins in the song's Part Two for an excellent nanny showdown.

Diane Scherbarth's costume design gives a vibrant, technicolor punch in “Jolly Holiday” and the effervescent “Supercalifragilistic-expialidocious” — arguably the best number of the show. The trio of park statues are also a great nod to her work.

Music and vocals are impeccably led by music director Nancy Godfrey with fine footwork from choreographer Jeanne Batacan-Harper. “Step in Time” is high-impact moment with a rooftop full of fantastic dancing and tapping chimney sweeps that bring a grin to the face and a lightness to the heart. Creative lighting and props bring the stars closer to earth in the lovely “Anything Can Happen,” another highlight of the show.

The scene is always beautifully set by designer Stephen C. Wathen with detailed park and city backdrops and flexible stage pieces that settle you in the story. The presentation and look of the show is so naturally engaging you almost forget everything was created and put into place by numerous hard-working hands, so hats off to the entire production team.

“Mary Poppins” delivers all of the musical favorites and story charm that is expected with no buts about it. No wonder that it's StarStruck that we love!

Get more out of your show experience with a Family Discount Night/Talk Back with Actors on Friday, July 31; take photos with the cast on Saturday, August 1 or dress up as your favorite “Mary Poppins” character on Sunday, August 2 and 9. The Friday, August 7 performance will be ASL interpreted, and the following Saturday is the StarStruck 20th Anniversary Giveaway Night.

Halal Food & Eid Festival

BY CASSANDRA BROADWIN

Over the past few years the Bay Area has become a haven for a new breed of consumer: the foodies. They've popped up across social media feeds, posting snapshots of the latest buzzing brunch spot or super burger, leaving behind ratings and reviews when it comes time for others to place their order. These foodies are real-time critics, widely representative, and most importantly, relentlessly honest. Often times, where they choose to do their dining speaks louder than words, revealing an emphatic demand for quality and specialty meals. Concepts like “natural,” “organic,” and “non-GMO” have become a part of our everyday dining habits, although another buzzword catching interest in the foodie empire... halal.

“Halal products are associated with better food quality, general healthfulness, cleaner foods and food safety due to the stricter guidelines which go into producing halal products,” said Aysha Mohsin, entertainment programming co-lead of this year's “Halal Food & Eid Festival.” She continues, “Halal food is a trillion dollar industry around the world, and it is growing in leaps and bounds every year. We believe that halal has become the new organic—people are interested in making wise choices about food and are keen on keeping up with the latest healthy trend.”

The Halal Food & Eid Festival, or Halal Fest, will take place on Saturday, August 1 in Newark as a celebration of culture through food! Now in its third year, the festival will feature food trucks and vendors with a variety of ethnic, international, and summer-favorite foods including Biryani Bowl, Chutney Mary's Truck, Big Bite Ice Cream Truck, Maui Wowi Hawaiian Coffee and Smoothies, Miss Louise's BBQ, Raoof's San Jose Bean & Carrot Pies, Sunrise Deli, Thunder Ridge Beef Company, and Falafel Corner. There will also be a bazaar with items from around the world, carnival rides, and a full lineup of entertainment for the entire family to enjoy.

The festival aims to promote diversity and togetherness — initiatives built into the very structure of the event itself. “On our core planning team of a dozen people, we have American born-and-raised Muslims of Indian and Pakistani descent from the South Bay, an African-American Muslim from Oakland, a Palestinian-American business owner from Fremont, a Canadian-American airplane pilot from Pleasanton, an architectural designer from San Jose, an IT guy who recently immigrated from India, a CPA in Palo Alto, a fire safety engineer from Fresno and an Ethiopian-American Uber driver, to name a few,” said Mohsin.

The motivation behind assembling such a diverse planning crew was to represent personalities within the American Muslim community that may not otherwise receive media coverage. The festival is a form of engaging the broader community to learn more about the ways of halal and Muslim practice at large. “We'd like the Bay Area community to experience a different side of the American Muslim community,” said Mohsin.

Tickets to the festival are $5 online or at the door, with free admission for children 10 years or younger. Rides require separate tickets from vendors inside the festival.
