Film weekend celebrates Buster Keaton

SUBMITTED BY LARRY TELLES

With his trademark pork pie hat and stoic physical comedy, classic cinema star Buster Keaton gets a weekend celebration all his own at Niles' Edison Theater. "Buster Keaton Weekend Celebration" features 12 hours of Keaton films and shorts, live piano accompaniment, and panel discussion with historians.

The event kicks off Friday night, March 24 with a meet and greet with Buster's nephew Harry Keaton, and film historians Martha Jett and Lloyd Williams, followed by a presentation on Keaton's early life by Jett.

Attendees will be treated to 15 Keaton films over the weekend including films from the Cottage Grove Historical Society provided by Williams, plus a Buster Keaton Cartoon:

"Hollywood Steps Out," and a documentary with "home movies" of Keaton filming "The General." See Keaton's film debut in "The Butcher Boy" (1917), and the highly regarded "The Cameraman" (1928) where, after becoming infatuated with a pretty office worker for MGM Newsreels, Keaton trades in his tintype photographic operation for a movie camera and sets out to impress the girl (and MGM) with his work.

The two things engineer Johnny Gray (Keaton) loves most in the world are his Southern belle sweetheart and his locomotive. When Northern spies steal the latter, the intrepid Confederate single-handedly takes on the entire Union army in order to get it back. Against a backdrop of magnificently photographed Civil War battle

Mission Peak Chamber Singers under the direction of Ofer dal Lal invite you to share a chuckle, a few laughs and a big smile with their mid-spring performance entitled

"Sing :-)." We will be presenting works ranging from the Renaissance to Bernstein, which all share a common theme – an inside joke from the composer. A German lothario sings his ardor in broken Italian in Orlando di Lasso's "Matona, mia cara." A British Admiral describes his path to success in Gilbert and Sullivan's "When I Was a Lad." The Beatles poke fun at the cold war in their especially timely "Back in the U.S.S.R." Ensemble groups from the ranks of the choir will "Teach the World to Sing," hope that "Nothin' Gonna Stumble My Feet," and implore "Let It Be Me," plus much more. Oh – and don't forget a little baseball and a visit from some pirates!

Performances will be on Saturday, March 25 at Niles Discovery Church in Fremont and on Sunday, March 26 at the First Presbyterian Church Livermore. Please join us for a fun-filled afternoon of music to bring a smile to your face.

Take a deep

questions.*

Question: My husband has just been diagnosed with cancer and he wants to start treatment right away, but I'm not sure if we're making the right decisions. I trust his doctor, but I'm feeling so uncertain.

Leslie Michelson: A diagnosis of cancer can be incredibly scary. It's no wonder that your husband wants to put this problem in his rearview mirror as quickly as possible. But now is not the time to rush toward treatment. Now is when we must summon the courage to ask hard questions and do more research. Thankfully, he has a thoughtful, caring spouse who knows this instinctively.

To really be in the No-Mistake Zone, he needs to get his diagnosis independently confirmed. Diagnostic error accounts for 10 percent of all deaths in the United States, and each of us will experience a diagnostic error in our lifetime according to the Institute of Medicine. Help your husband find a specialist with deep expertise in his exact type of cancer, so he can independently confirm his diagnosis and ask about the pros and cons of different treatment approaches.

If your husband's current oncologist is an expert in his disease, he's likely providing sound advice. But you both will still benefit from learning more about his condition. I recommend visiting the National

Comprehensive Cancer Network's "Patient and Caregiver Resources" page to find evidence-based treatment guidelines you can compare with the advice he receives from his physicians. The National Cancer Institute has information on

Springing Into a New Sports Season

Washington Sports Medicine Provides Certified Athletic Trainers to Local High Schools

Winter high school sports schedules are wrapping up, and spring sports activities are ramping up. As the focus shifts from basketball, soccer and wrestling to sports such as swimming, tennis, badminton, golf, baseball, softball and track, young athletes need to adjust their training workouts to reflect the physical demands of different sports.

“All sports require training and conditioning, but each sport can cause different injuries and requires different conditioning,” says Steven Zonner, DO, a primary care sports medicine specialist with Washington Sports Medicine. “Building core body strength is important for all sports. Sports such as tennis and badminton also require ‘plyometric’ exercises, also known as ‘jump training,’ to increase leg muscle power for higher jumps and faster sprints. Swimming, on the other hand, requires working out with weights to strengthen the shoulders – particularly the rotator cuff – and the upper back, in addition to strengthening the body’s core.”

Dr. Zonner notes that track and field athletes need to work on flexibility and body mechanics early in the season to avoid injuries such as shin splints, plantar fasciitis, hamstring pulls, quadriceps strains and low back pain.

“Runners also can be quite prone to side aches, often called side stitches, early in the season,” he says. “These painful side stitches result from spasms or cramps of the diaphragm, the large dome-shaped muscle below the lungs that expands and contracts as you breathe in and out. The tendency for runners to suffer side stitches decreases with better conditioning and training.”

According to Primary Care Sports Medicine physician, Steven Zonner, the type of sport played by athletes should dictate the type of training workout that meets the physical demands of the sport. The proper conditioning for specific sports can help prevent injuries.

treatments, clinical trials and more. And the philanthropies devoted to his cancer (<http://patientsplaybook.com/news-insights/2016/9/6/newly-diagnosed-heres-where-to-turn-for-more-help>) have a wealth of resources, support groups and guidance.

Finally, remember to give yourself time and space to recharge during this process. You'll be better prepared to take on new challenges that you face together, and your bond with your husband will deepen as you support him through this journey.

Question: My 80-year-old father went to see an orthopedic surgeon about his leg and back pain and was told he needed an artificial hip implanted immediately. I'm not sure he can handle surgery at his age, but I hate to see dad suffer.

Leslie Michelson: I can understand your concerns. And while I'm not a physician and cannot diagnose your father, it's likely that your dad's doctor is an accomplished surgeon who sees a hip problem that he knows he can fix. But you're right to be fearful that, at 80, your father might endure a painful surgery and recovery process that may be unnecessary or even harmful. A key question to ask is whether there are more conservative measures—perhaps physical therapy first and, if that doesn't work, steroid injections—that can alleviate his pain without resorting to surgery.

I suggest that the two of you consult with his primary care physician (PCP) for guidance, as this doctor likely has a fuller picture of your father's health status. And why not go back to the specialist to ask more questions? Your father's PCP might even facilitate a conference call among the four of you. The following "questions to ask your specialist" can be helpful for anyone facing treatment decisions. Be sure to add questions that speak to your personal health status, medical history and wellness goals.

1. Why is this surgery/drug/test necessary?
2. What are the risks/side effects of this procedure?
3. How long is the recovery period, and what will it involve?
4. How many times have you done this surgery/used this protocol, and have you had any complications?
5. What will happen if we don't do it?
6. Are there nonsurgical/less aggressive options we can try first? How do they compare to my surgical/more aggressive options?

Listen carefully to the answers you receive. Are your concerns being heard? Is this physician considering your father's age and health risks? If you still feel uncertain, respectfully request a copy of your father's imaging and medical records and get a second opinion from an expert on hip problems.

Leslie D. Michelson is the author of The Patient's Playbook and host of The No-Mistake Zone™ podcast. He is a highly sought-after expert who has spent the last 30 years guiding thousands of people through our complex health care system.

Get a smile and laughs with Sing :-) Sing :-) will be conducted by Ofer dal Lal who took over as Music Director last fall for our annual Christmas at the Mission. Dal Lal stepped into the daunting "shoes" of Michael Morris who led the Chamber Singers for over five years. The choir expresses our appreciation to Michael for making the choir what it is today.

Dal Lal has a master's degree in conducting from the Buchmann-Mehta School of Music in Tel-Aviv. He first came into prominence as the musical director of the Jerusalem Oratorio Choir – an organization of five choirs consisting of 150 singers and one of Israel's leading non-professional choirs. With a growing demand as a guest conductor abroad, dal Lal has conducted choirs from Germany, Italy, Sweden, Indonesia, Palestine and Israel.

Springing Into a New Sports Season

Washington Sports Medicine Provides Certified Athletic Trainers to Local High Schools

Baseball and softball are both sports that require a variety of quick actions followed by sometimes lengthy periods of relative rest.

“Conditioning drills for baseball and softball should include training to improve speed and quickness, as well as upper- and lower-body strength,” Dr. Zonner says. “This will help players get stronger and faster, while also developing more stamina and avoiding injury. Pitchers, especially, are prone to injuries to the shoulder and elbow, so learning good throwing mechanics early in the season is an important part of training.”

To help local young athletes train for various sports, Washington Hospital and Washington Sports Medicine have been providing certified athletic trainers to three area high schools for several years. Carmen Charleston currently serves as the athletic trainer for Irvington High School. Igor Nosovitskiy is the athletic trainer for American High School, and Gabrielle Calabretta is the athletic trainer for Washington High School. This past fall, athletic trainers also were provided for the football teams at Newark High School and Kennedy High School.

In addition, Washington Sports Medicine has offered low-cost pre-participation sports physical exams for student athletes, including a recent clinic at Washington High School in February, where the Washington Sports Medicine team performed 101 physicals for spring sports competitors from all schools in the area.

“The sports physical exams help identify factors that might put young athletes at risk for certain medical problems,” Dr. Zonner explains. “As for having the athletic trainers available at these local schools, we recognize that the athletes’ parents are often busy, with many student athletes having both parents working full time. That means the student athletes sometimes have to make health decisions, and our trainers are there to answer questions about everything from sleep and diet to athletic performance and injuries.

“Our athletic trainers are at the schools for most of the afternoon every day, offering guidance in conditioning and training,” he adds. “If they notice a physical injury or other health issue, they know how to refer the student athlete to the proper medical professional, such as an orthopedic specialist or a doctor who has expertise in treating concussions. For less serious injuries, athletic trainers can help with injury rehabilitation and also may recommend that your child see a doctor when the injury is not improving as expected.”

Dr. Zonner emphasizes that the athletic trainers are a very important part of the Washington Sports Medicine team.

“Our trainers do their jobs so well it sometimes goes unnoticed, but without athletic trainers at these schools, many injuries would go unrecognized and untreated, leading to consequences such as delayed healing and missed school,” he says. “Our trainers know when and to whom to refer our student athletes so that medical care with the right doctor is expedited. Sometimes just finding a physician who is on the patient’s insurance is the issue. Ultimately, our medical team at Washington Sports Medicine can handle everything from serious fractures and ligament tears to neck or back injuries and concussions – all in one convenient location.”

Imagine exhibits with high-tech iPads and breathtaking documentaries about special moments in history. These were only some of the interesting projects on display at Hopkins Junior High School March 8, 2017, when the school hosted the regional level of National History Day (NHD) Competition for the first time.

In each of six categories, students helped the audience understand the lives of historical figures that were firm in their beliefs. Under the mentorship of Mission San Jose High School student Lavanya Singh, John Gomes Elementary School was able to participate in NHD for the first time. Four students from Gomes were selected to compete at the state level May 6, 2017.

Celebrating St. Patrick's Day at BACC

SUBMITTED BY ANUSHKA MADHAVANI

Bay Area Child Care (BACC) has celebrated this festive holiday for many years and has always read to the children about St. Patrick. St Patrick's Day is a bank holiday in Northern Ireland and celebrated by people of Irish (and Irish for the day) descent. Many people wear an item of green clothing and attend parties featuring Irish food and drinks dyed in green as part of this celebration.

Each year, children in BACC color decorative clover leaf pictures on this special day. But this year, the celebration was a little bit different. Students also drew pictures of snakes. According to legend, the patron saint of Ireland chased the reptiles into the sea after they began attacking him during a 40-day fast. Students had lots of fun with this new activity.

Computer science coding experience

SUBMITTED BY ANITA YEPEZ

A new club where students can learn and create computer science coding has started at Walters Junior High School in Fremont. The Warriors Code Club meets monthly in the school's computer lab and is affiliated with the educational Google CS-First program. More than 4,600 schools have used CS First clubs to increase student access and exposure to computer science during school hours, after-school and in summer programs. The CS First curriculum is free and easy to use and no computer science experience required. All clubs are run by teachers and/or community volunteers. The club targets students in local schools from 4th through 8th grades and is free. Students learn block-based coding using Scratch and are themed to attract participants with varied interests. There are many opportunities for graduates with computer science degrees. Jobs in computing are growing at 2 times the national rate of other types of jobs. By 2020, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics predicts there will be 1 million more computer science jobs than graduating students qualified for them. More information about the Google CS-First program is available on their website at <https://www.cs-first.com>. Tesla to sell $1B in stock and notes to increase capital

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Electric car and solar cell maker Tesla Inc. wants to raise more than $1 billion in new capital by selling stock and five-year convertible notes. The company, which has a manufacturing plant in Fremont, California says the offerings will strengthen its balance sheet and reduce risks from scaling up to produce the $35,000 Model 3 electric car starting in July. Tesla plans to offer $250 million worth of common stock and $750 million in notes due in 2022. Underwriters can buy another 15 percent, which would bring the total proceeds to about $1.15 billion. Chief Executive Officer Elon Musk will buy $25 million of the stock. The company lost just under $675 million last year but revenue rose 73 percent to just over $7 billion.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: MARCH 22 - MARCH 28

For All Signs: The planets Mars and Saturn are in a tense relationship this week, precisely so on Monday. Mars represents the energetic and assertive warrior side of each of us while Saturn symbolizes caution, conservatism and maintenance of the status quo. When these planets are in adverse aspect it becomes difficult for a short time to know whether to move forward or fall back. It resembles driving a car with one foot on the brake and the other on the accelerator. This aspect often coincides with minor accidents or failures involving vehicles, tools or mechanical objects.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): This is an incredibly busy week with aspects to your sign coming from everywhere! Surprise shifts and changes will be coming out of the woodwork. Beware of an authority figure who may try to undermine you. Think carefully about what is truly important to you now in your life. Don't allow old habits or rules from the past to make your decision for you.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Mars, the Warrior planet, is in your sign. You may find that you anger more easily. This started near March 9 and will be relieved after April 21. Take good care of yourself. No risky or potentially harmful activities. Your subconscious mind is trying to give you a message. Pay attention to "coincidences", and remember your dreams. If you have experienced abuse in the past, memories may surface for resolution.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Information has been flying your way thick and fast. A surprise concerning a friend or a family member might have you reeling. This is a good week to let yourself be quiet while you absorb the changes that have come your way. If you feel on edge, transfer that energy to physical exercise.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): This continues to be a period in which you should give yourself every opportunity to be out and about in the social world. New people who come into your life during this time may become teachers or guides on your next path. Give thought to what you need from your closest relationships for a few weeks and then talk it over later after Venus goes direct.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): Travel and connecting to others may feel healing to you now. Allow those you encounter the opportunity to teach you something. You may literally be experiencing education this month but it does not have to be formal.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You may be the recipient of a flood of information. It is unsettling and hard to process. However, it is not a good idea to share any of it with others right now, because you don't know what is fact or fiction. Recognize that you may manifest your thoughts, both positive and negative, into reality. Avoid brooding.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Partners and significant others may seem to move into retreat mode. If it is not "out there," it may be inside. You may need to retreat into the quiet and have fewer people in your daily activities. Clientele may diminish for a while. It is not permanent, so don't worry about yourself. Examine what you really need from those who are in your life daily and prepare to ask for it.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): This is going to be a challenging week. Read the lead paragraph and take very good care of yourself. Machines, tools, and kitchen knives can be weapons if not handled with care. It is possible that your partner or lover may be of assistance if you get into a tight place. Beware of obsessive thinking about something you cannot change. That just uses your energy.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): Circumstances on the romantic front are favorable with one who shares intellectual interests.

Activities involving teaching/learning are favored, along with good aspects for travel. Stretch your mind and open it for new perspectives.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): Stressors related to home, hearth and family members may be an irritation to you this week. If someone disagrees with you, don't run them over with the tank. Open your mind and listen for the kernel of truth. Follow the advice in the lead paragraph and take care not to attempt more than your body can do.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): It will be a challenge to accomplish forward motion this week. Do what you can and let it go for another time. You may experience problems with broken equipment that distracts your time and energy. Some weeks are like that. Be patient with yourself.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): Your mind needs a break from tedium. Give it a break with a delicious novel, art work, and music. Pisces worries about everybody and particularly this country, given present circumstances. You do not have to be "on duty" at all times. This is a good week for a break.

Film weekend celebrates Buster Keaton

scenes unfolds one of the great chases in movie history. Set almost entirely aboard moving trains, Keaton's "The General" (1926) is physical comedy refined to elegant perfection and widely considered to be the actor-director's greatest film.

Keaton finds himself involved in a radical secret society known as the "Blinking Buzzards" where he stumbles from assassin to bodyguard in "The High Sign" (1921), "The Scarecrow" (1920) tells the tale of two bachelors living in a small but marvelous house crammed full of an array of household inventions, and bathing beauties and Keystone Kops abound in "Coney Island" (1917).

After waking up from his wacky dream in "The Play House" (1921), a theater stagehand inadvertently causes havoc everywhere he works. Keaton's imagination is front and center here. When nine of him appear together in the same frame some amusing, if not hilarious, gags occur. For the remainder of the film Keaton goes through more hilarious mishaps that have to be seen to be believed.

Show programs will be hosted by Michael Bonham, author and film historian John Bengtson, Cottage Grove Film Historian Lloyd Williams, and author and film historian Larry Telles. Live piano accompaniment will be provided by Greg Pane, Judy Rosenberg, Jon Mirsalis, Bruce Loeb, and Dean Mora.

The six programs are $15 each for non-museum members and $12 for members. Get access to all programs for $70 non-mem-

Event Marketing Seminar

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Whether you already produce events to promote your business, or are planning to begin an event marketing program, there is something to learn at the Hayward Chamber of Commerce's Event Marketing seminar on March 29. Topics fall under three broad categories: planning, tracking, and managing.

Planning: Professionally promote your event, set up an ad-free event homepage, collect registration fees with secure payment processing, and keep registration open for attendees to register online at their convenience.

Tracking: Reduce repetitive tasks. Reduce the number of day-to-day "to-dos" with online event registration, reminders, invitations, a calendar, and event themes. Do more, but in minutes by managing all your promotions, registrations, and communications in one place.

Managing: Monitor and course-correct. Save money by taking the guesswork out of capturing attendance information. Use event tracking and reporting tools to plan for exact catering needs, room size, parking spaces, and more.

Home & Garden

Before and after contemporary kitchen

BY ANNA JACOBY

After decades of living in their Fremont home, this couple opted for a full remodel of their kitchen. The old kitchen was dated and dark, lacking in storage and counter space, and definitely in need of a makeover. My clients told me that, at this stage of their life, they were ready for their home to finally reflect their taste and larger and more open by changing the layout of the cabinets. We moved the refrigerator to the back of the kitchen, removing a large visual block in the front. The removal of the wall was also key in opening up the space. Replacing the old hood vent and cabinet with a new chimney hood also opened up the space. One other trick to make a space feel larger is to use the same flooring throughout the space. In this case, they already had hardwood floors in the living room and dining space, so we extended the same wood floor into the new kitchen.

3. Add storage. You may have noticed that we extended the cabinets as close to the garage door as possible; this added several inches of cabinet space to the lower and upper cabinets. By moving the refrigerator, we were able to extend the cabinets to the edge of the wall, and also add a peninsula for additional counter space and storage space.

4. Add functionality. The flow through the kitchen was improved by relocating the major appliances. Moving the refrigerator was the biggest change. That opened up the space tremendously. Putting the microwave in an upper cabinet created more counter space. And,

design aesthetic.

We had a few goals for the new kitchen:

1. Increase the lighting. One important way to get more light into the kitchen was to remove part of the wall separating the kitchen and living room. In place of the wall, we maintained separation by creating a high counter. At the end of the counter, we installed a three-light pendant fixture both for extra light, balance, and to create an interesting focal point. In place of the old ceiling-mounted fixtures, we installed dimmable LED recessed can lights, and LED under-cabinet lights. As a result, the new kitchen is much lighter and brighter.

2. Make the kitchen feel more spacious and open. We could not increase the size of the kitchen, but we make it feel of course, the new custom cabinetry is outfitted with full-extension drawer glides and pullout shelves. One thing you don't see in the photos is inside one of the cabinets: we added outlets inside the upper cabinet next to the garage door. This gives them dedicated space to charge their phones and tablets without everything sitting on the counters.

5. Add beauty and style. The gorgeous granite, with its dramatic colors and patterns adds a real wow factor to this kitchen. And we chose horizontal grain cherry wood cabinets for a sleek, contemporary look. Everything is streamlined, clean and crisp, with a mix of textures, patterns and colors. My clients are thrilled with their new space—it finally is an accurate reflection of their style.

Gala celebrates People with Purpose

SUBMITTED BY JENNIFER KINDRED

HERS Breast Cancer Foundation will hold their eighth annual community awards event, "People with Purpose: A Pink Tie Gala," on Saturday, April 1. Awards recognize individuals and organizations whose work supports breast cancer survivors and the foundation's programs.

The event, held at Pleasanton's historic hilltop Castlewood Country Club in a ballroom with sweeping views of the valley, features a cocktail hour, charity auction, three-course dinner, award presentation, and dance to celebrate breast cancer survivors. KTVU's Heather Holmes will be master of ceremonies.

Renewal Award – Paul Wotowic, MD, Plastic Surgeon at San Ramon Regional Medical Center.

Empowerment Award – Denise Estrada, Manager, Women's Imaging and Cancer Services, Stanford Health Care ValleyCare.

served in leadership positions as Chief of Surgery and two terms as Chief of Staff. His training and practice reflects the full spectrum of plastic surgery including cosmetic, reconstructive, and nuanced areas of pediatric plastic surgery and facial reconstruction; struggled to find proper fitting garments and prostheses after her treatment. The award being presented to Florence has been renamed the Harriet Despeaux Award in memory of another longtime HERS supporter and friend.

The Harriet Despeaux Award – Janice Florence, Volunteer of HERS Breast Cancer Foundation.

Funds raised will go toward HERS Breast Cancer Foundation programs, including "We Support, YOU Survive," which serves low-income women in need of post-surgical garments including bras and prostheses. The funds will also support the organization's Lymphedema Project, which provides specialty garments for the prevention and ancillary treatment of the painful condition. HERS Breast Cancer Foundation assists clients with insurance claims and provides free products when needed. Funds are being raised through corporate sponsorship, donations, auction proceeds, and ticket sales.

This year's honorees include Friends of Faith, a nonprofit in Oakland that raises money for breast cancer organizations; Denise Estrada, manager of Women's Imaging and Cancer Services at Stanford Health Care ValleyCare in Pleasanton; Dr. Paul Wotowic, plastic surgeon at San Ramon Regional Medical Center; and Janice Florence, longtime volunteer at HERS.

Friends of Faith provides information and financial support to organizations helping low income, underinsured women (and men) undergoing treatment for breast cancer. Faith Fancher was a journalist and highly visible Bay Area personality. When she was diagnosed with breast cancer in 1997, she turned her private battle into a public forum to raise awareness about the disease. Fancher worked to raise money for grassroots programs benefiting low-income women with breast cancer; the Friends of Hope Award – Friends of Faith, Nonprofit Organization in Oakland.

Faith organization is committed to continuing that work and following through on her vision.

Denise Estrada has worked for 25 years to provide Tri-Valley cancer patients with high-quality care, leading multiple successful accreditation efforts for the Cancer Program. She develops local community partnerships with cancer-focused support programs and coordinates community outreach events to educate the community on breast health, latest treatments, and support services. Estrada is a dedicated supporter of HERS Breast Cancer Foundation and was instrumental in establishing the organization's program store in Pleasanton.

After serving as a medical officer in the U.S. Navy, Paul Wotowic, M.D. started a private practice in the Bay Area. He has active staff privileges at John Muir and San Ramon Region Medical Center where he

he is board certified in both plastic surgery and otolaryngology. Dr. Wotowic understands the effects breast cancer surgeries have on a woman's body and self-image and takes a holistic approach to helping survivors feel whole and beautiful again, a philosophy that aligns closely with the HERS Breast Cancer Foundation's mission.

A San Jose native, Janice Florence raised a family in the Bay Area and volunteered in school and community organizations. She worked for many years at the Child Abuse Prevention Agency. Upon retiring, she learned about HERS and volunteered to assist with the foundation's outreach efforts. She puts her presentation skills to good use at health fairs and cancer conferences, and enjoys speaking with survivors. Florence is inspired by memories of her mother, who was profoundly affected by breast cancer and HERS Breast Cancer Foundation's services for breast cancer survivors are provided at three locations: program stores at Stanford Health Care ValleyCare in Pleasanton and the Stanford Cancer Center in Palo Alto, as well as their flagship program store at Washington Hospital in Fremont.

Youths speak out on immigration policies

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY
JULIE HUSON

The Alvarado District in Union City is a calm environment most days, but students from Itliong-Vera Cruz Middle School woke things up on the afternoon of March 15, 2017. Over 300 6th, 7th and 8th grade students, organized by the school's Social Justice Club, walked out of seventh period classes and massed at Old Alvarado Park to protest the White House administration's recent decisions affecting immigrants to the U.S.

"No ban! No wall!" chorused the young protestors as they made their way out of classes and past Alvarado Elementary School. Student Gwen Tam said, "We hope to raise awareness about discriminatory beliefs against immigrants. We hope to show the community that immigrants should not be discriminated against just because they don't come from here. This is also a chance for us to show the community that kids have opinions about these things and that we will not stand by and let this happen if we don't think it's right." Although the administration of the middle school didn't officially support the walkout, Assistant Principal Kevin Packham followed the students and said although staff wanted the students to be able to express their opinions, the school's first concern was safety. Staff members escorted students on the walkout, and police motorcycle riders controlled traffic. Packham noted that the students were passionate because recent issues seriously affected so many local families.

While some students appeared to be joining in for a break in routine, most students carried signs and posters, and gathered respectfully at the park gazebo to receive stickers to wear, and postcards to mail to house and senate representatives.

Club member Alisa Johnson offered this insight: "Because we are in middle school, not many people take us seriously. By doing this walkout, we wanted to make sure that the community and politicians took us seriously. We want to make sure that our voices are heard. We are not too young to understand politics and where we stand." Others agreed and eighth grader Ellie Kim stated, "Being a child of parents who are very realistic, they tell me that protesting and walkouts like what we're doing should be done properly, with proper contact of police stations, a message, and done professionally. But that's exactly what we're doing, and I'm so proud of that." Larissa Carrasco wanted the community to know that children still have a voice. She wanted others to know that by participating in the walkout she was being an example to students on how to project their voices in a positive way that would have an impact. "Kids do have a say in what's going on in today's politics," she continued, "and what's going on in our world today and they do have the ability to show our community that we do care and we are concerned because in the end even though we are kids and we are still young we still have a voice, a powerful voice, and that voice will be heard."

First on the agenda is “Soapy Suds, DIY Cleaning Supplies,” from 2 to 3 p.m. on Saturday, March 25, hosted by interpretive student aide Brianna Contaxis-Tucker.

Brianna will show visitors how to use natural materials to mix up some cleaning potions that smell great. You can also learn how soap works, what chemicals to avoid in your household cleaning supplies, and take home recipes to make your own cleansers.

Hikers will enjoy a lake-to-lake watershed walk from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday, March 26, led by naturalist “Trail Gail” Broesder. Along the way Gail will point out some hidden waterfalls and talk about how the East Bay Regional Park District got started way back in 1934. Tilden was one of the original parks.

Then from 2 to 3 p.m. the same day, Gail will guide visitors in making miniature boats out of tule reeds. The reeds were used in many ways by California Indians. The program includes testing to see if the mini-boats will float.

Recreation and Park District announces Board of Director Awards

SUBMITTED BY
NICOLE ESPINOZA ROA

In 1962 the Hayward Area Recreation and Park District (H.A.R.D.) Board of Directors initiated annual awards to honor and thank individuals and organizations that assist the District in its mission to provide quality parks, recreation programs and facilities. This marks the 54th year for the awards program. The District is pleased to announce and congratulate the 2016 Board of Directors’ Awards recipients:

- Organization Award: Cargill
- Individuals Winners: Delina Cheung and Ivy Lum
- Special Recognition: Ms. Donna Boyer
- Volunteer of the Year: Ms. Ann-Marie Tucker

2016 Organization Winner - Cargill

The Organization Award for 2016 is being presented to Cargill, a local salt manufacturer. Cargill has been a tremendous supporter of HARD, with a special interest in the Hayward Shoreline Interpretive Center. HARD and Cargill have had a long-standing partnership to ensure our shoreline is well maintained for public use, notably donating 82 acres of wetlands that the Interpretive Center sits on in the early 1980’s.

In 2014, Cargill approached HARD with a request to provide a permanent home for two historic artifacts: Archimedes Screw Pump and a Salt Harvesting Train. Cargill donated $5000 to assist the District with the cost of relocating these important historic artifacts that were added to the Hayward shoreline’s Oliver Salt Trail. Cargill partnered with HARD to host a special event dedicating the Archimedes Screw Pump in October 2016. Cargill contributed staff time and $4000 to create invitations and other printed materials for the Archimedes Screw Pump Dedication. The event received a CPRS District 3 award for Outstanding Special Event.

At the end of 2016, Cargill pledged to fund the creation of a smart phone tour for the Hayward shoreline’s Oliver Salt Trail. Production of that smart phone app is currently in process. The $12,500 contribution from Cargill covers all cost associated with the creation of the new shoreline smart phone app. Additionally, Cargill contributed $3000 to the 13th Annual 10K on the Bay Race/Walk, making them the largest cash sponsor of 2016.

Cargill has demonstrated a commitment to tangible improvements along the Hayward shoreline by donating over $24,000 over the last three years. Please recognize this organization for their outstanding contributions to the Hayward Area Recreation and Park District.

2016 Individual Winners – Delina Cheung and Ivy Lum

Ms. Delina Cheung and Ms. Ivy Lum are receiving the 2016 Individual Board of Directors Award. These two incredible individuals work tirelessly in the Senior Program’s Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program (VITA). This is an essential free tax program that serves over 700 low to moderate income seniors, families and individuals each year at the Hayward Area Senior Center and Kenneth C. Aitken Senior Center.

Their work is amazing as Volunteer Coordinators in the VITA Program. Delina and Ivy are in a position of great responsibility that entail long hours, knowledge of tax law, knowledge of computers and software tax programs and much more. Tax season is only four months, but it is a very intense and challenging time. During tax season, they coordinate site volunteers, prepare volunteer schedules, conduct interviews and client intake, quality review and electronically file the hundreds of tax-returns prepared. Pre-tax season, both attend mandatory trainings and monthly meetings led by the IRS and United Way Bay Area. They order training material, coordinate an annual 40-hour training with an Enrolled Agent for all the volunteers. They also work with the IT department to set up the computers and software. All the volunteers must pass a vigorous IRS test and ethics test.

Delina works at the Hayward Area Senior Center as Volunteer Coordinator and has been volunteering over 14 years. She began at the Kenneth Aitken Senior Center as a tax preparer and took on more responsibility and later moved to the Hayward Area Senior Center where taxes are prepared three days a week.

Ivy works at the Kenneth Aitken Senior Center as the Volunteer Coordinator and has been volunteering seven years. Ivy began working at the Hayward Area Senior Center and took on more responsibility and now oversees the Kenneth Aitken Senior Center site, where taxes are prepared two days a week during tax season. Both are outstanding and committed volunteers.

2016 Special Recognition - Ms. Donna Boyer

Ms. Donna Boyer and her family have deep roots in the HARD District. As an early teen, Donna’s family moved to San Lorenzo where she attended San Lorenzo High School. Donna has resided in the District since that time. During Donna’s high school years, it was mandatory to take the Alameda County Civil Service Exam prior to graduation. Donna scored in the highest percentile and as a result, she was offered a job in the Alameda County Adult Probation Department. This was the beginning of an illustrious 44-year career with Alameda County. In 2011 Donna became a Board of Director. Donna has flourished as a member of the HARD Foundation. Donna’s keen strategy, social skills, and the ability to raise funds and friends in the District made her a perfect fit. Donna conceived “A Night in The Garden”, a fundraiser at the Japanese Gardens, that had food, fun, flair, and was a financial success.

Donna has been one of the most active members of the Foundation, leading the charge with the annual Golf Tournament by taking on the Silent Auction. Additionally, Donna has chaired various committees on the Foundation. Donna is a doer, she talks the talk with poise and graciousness, and walks the walk with dogged determination. The end-result is always of tremendous benefit for the Foundation.

In 2014 Donna assumed a leadership role in the HARD Foundation as the Board President. She has taken this position as she does all ~ with strategy and purpose. As the President, Donna has instituted needed policies and brought in new membership.

Last year, when HARD chose to put a $250M Bond Measure on the ballot, Donna was pivotal in the Bond’s passage. As one of the co-chairs of the HARD Bond Campaign, Donna assembled community leaders and members to engage in discussion about the benefits of the Bond. She strategized to ensure our target audience was informed and the campaign hit its milestones. Donna phone banked consistently throughout the campaign and garnered needed support. She put up lawn signs, knocked on doors and led the campaign with a positive force.

Donna’s community outreach has not been limited to HARD. She is an active member of the 100 Club which provides financial support to spouses and children of police officers and firefighters that are killed in the line of duty in Alameda County. Donna also is very active in the Bay County Peace Officers Association and has coordinated their annual events. Donna is a compassionate, inspirational individual that clearly advances HARD’s mission to enrich the quality of life for our community.

Volunteer of the Year 2016 - Ms. Ann-Marie Tucker

Ms. Ann-Marie Tucker volunteers in the Sulphur Creek wildlife hospital cleaning cages, overseeing care of the rodent colony and the Animal Lending Library animals along with anything else that needs to be done in the kitchen. She also works with our naturalist staff leading education programs, going out on rest home programs, after school programs (at MJCC), nature programs for the East Avenue Camps, and special events. She is trained in handling many of our resident animals and works very well with the public.

During her time volunteering she has successfully completed Docent Training and Continuing Education courses in both animal care and education. Ann-Marie has volunteered over 2100 hours in her 10-1/2 years as a volunteer with Sulphur Creek.

Ms. Tucker has a gift in making the new volunteers feel welcomed and enjoys helping to train in the hospital. As an Educational Docent, she is also reported to be amazing with kids and brings energy to her programs through her enthusiasm. Over the past ten years Ann-Marie has worked many fairs, festivals and special events.

For the annual Unhaunted House she has been a character several times sharing animals while being Maleficent or a Regal Queen. She has also helped naturalists with campfire programs and special bug classes. Ann-Marie is one of our go-to volunteers who is ready and willing to volunteer for every job that we need her for and always goes into these tasks with 100% effort and enthusiasm. She works well with kids and adults of all ages and is an excellent representative of HARD.

Fremont City Council to consider transition to district-based election system

SUBMITTED BY CHERYL GOLDEN

The Fremont City Council will consider at its regularly scheduled City Council meeting on Tuesday, March 21, 2017 taking action to transition to a district-based voting system to select its councilmembers. This would replace its current at-large election system. The meeting begins at 7 p.m. at City Hall Council Chambers, located at 3300 Capitol Ave.

The City Council is taking this action after receipt of a letter on February 15, 2017 by Malibu, California-based attorney Kevin I. Shenkman. The letter states that Fremont’s at-large elections violate the California Voting Rights Act of 2001 (CVRA) and alleges that there is evidence of racially polarized voting in the City of Fremont electorate, resulting in minority vote dilution. Under the CVRA, minimal evidence of racially polarized voting can result in a court ordering a change from at-large voting to district-based voting, even if there is no evidence of electoral injury.

A number of cities in California have been sued since the CVRA was adopted in 2001, and none have avoided the mandate for district-based elections. There is a low threshold for plaintiffs to establish a valid claim under the CVRA, and if the plaintiff prevails, the city is required to pay the plaintiff’s costs. Awards in these cases reportedly have reached upwards of $3.5 million. Considering the significant costs to defend against a CVRA lawsuit and the fact that no city has prevailed, a majority of cities have voluntarily transitioned to district-based election systems.

On January 1, 2017, the California Voter Rights Act Reform (AB 350) became effective which allows cities a “safe harbor” following receipt of a CVRA demand letter. This provides 45 days of protection from litigation to assess the situation, and if a resolution declaring intent to transition to district-based elections is adopted within the 45-day period, then the potential plaintiff cannot file a CVRA action for an additional 90-day period, providing the City time to assess and implement a course of action.

“City staff recommends that the Fremont City Council adopt the proposed resolution initiating the process to transition to district-based elections to serve the public interest. It will avoid the significant spending of taxpayer dollars that would have to be spent if the Council chose to defend the lawsuit,” said City Manager Fred Diaz. “If the Council moves forward with the recommendation, we encourage our residents to participate in the upcoming meetings by sharing ideas and submitting district boundary map suggestions as we work to implement this change for Fremont.”

The City of Fremont currently uses an at-large election system in which all voters in the City have the opportunity to vote for candidates for all four councilmember seats and the mayor’s position. In a district-based election system, the City is physically divided into separate districts, and a candidate must live in the district he or she intends to represent. The number and make-up of the voting districts will be decided upon by the Fremont City Council through a minimum of five public hearings required by California Elections Code.

These public hearings will give the Fremont community an opportunity weigh in on the composition of the districts during the first two public hearings. Then, district maps will be drafted and two additional public hearings will be held for the public to provide input on the draft maps and proposed sequence of elections. At the final public hearing, the City Council will vote to consider an ordinance establishing district-based elections.

Repair beats recycle and trash at Fixit Clinics

SUBMITTED BY BARBARA TELFORD-ISHIDA

Fixit Clinics, founded by Peter Mui from Berkeley, are energizing, fun events where volunteer Fixit coaches help owners of busted stuff take it apart, explore the guts, and dive into repair. Successful Clinics need both coaches and people with broken appliances, electronics, clothing, textiles and other portable broken things. Items are repaired about 70 percent of the time. Repaired units at recent Fixit Clinics at Newark Library include a laser disk player, battery-operated 1980s pinball machine, pressure cooker and video recorder, and a number of lamps, kitchen mixers and sewing machines. Electronics are also popular Fixit items: phones, tablets, game equipment, laptops and more. One teen coach commented after helping to restore a laptop that had been inoperative for two or three years, “It has over 3,000 updates running!”

Fixit Clinics are do-it-together events where parents and children often work together to revive broken toys, bikes, and electronics under the guidance of Fixit coaches. Accompanied children are always welcome. Mui wants people to become accustomed to asking what could be wrong with things that are not working, open to the idea that they are fixable, and confident enough to tackle the repairs. After all, what is the worst that you can do to something that is already broken?

The impetus behind Fixit Clinics is Peter Mui’s dissatisfaction with the throw-away attitude that consumers have about things that no longer work, such as a ‘broken’ cassette player he saw at a garage sale whose only problem was that someone had pressed ‘pause.’ An electrical engineer who graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mui is annoyed by manufacturers who design shoddy products that break easily and are difficult or impossible to repair. Often products cannot even be opened for troubleshooting without special tools. Ultimately, Mui would like Fixit Clinics to become a movement that holds manufacturers accountable for producing high-quality merchandise designed with easily available replaceable parts.

To expand, Fixit always needs new local coaches and coaches who are willing to travel to help at other venues. Some of the best coaches began as people who brought their busted stuff to a Fixit Clinic for help. Mui is always glad to see teenagers and young adults get involved as coaches, even if they have limited repair experience. More than anything else, fixit coaches need to be (or want to become) fearless about taking on broken things. Interested volunteers should sign up at goo.gl/kwVNlv.

Fixit Clinics are hosted by libraries, City and County governments, environmental organizations and schools. “I love the idea of having people repair things, rather than replace them,” commented Lori Marra, an Environmental Specialist for the City of Fremont who organized the upcoming Fremont Clinic. In addition to nearby libraries, Clinics have been offered at libraries in Albany, Castro Valley and Dublin. Protect Niles wins case against City of Fremont

Environmental Review will be required for Niles Gateway Housing Project on Henkel Site

SUBMITTED BY PROTECT NILES

The citizens group known as Protect Niles won a public-interest lawsuit March 17, 2017 against the City of Fremont in Alameda County Superior Court, Case No. RG15-765052. The group enforced the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA).

Following a court hearing in January, Judge Frank Roesch ordered the city to set aside approvals of the 98-unit Niles Gateway project and prepare an environmental impact report (EIR) before further consideration of approval. The site lies between the historic town center and Alameda Creek Regional Trail.

The court ruling states that the city’s approval of the project was “an abuse of [the city’s] discretion in the face of a fair argument of the possibility of significant environmental impacts.” In particular, the judge relied on substantial evidence that the project may have significant impacts relating to traffic and aesthetics.

Protect Niles’ attorney, Susan Brandt-Hawley, stated that the EIR process will allow full public review of impacts and will also require adoption of mitigation measures and feasible alternatives to reduce environmental problems.

Protect Niles member Julie Cain said that “I’m happy Protect Niles has won an EIR to make sure that this project will be fully studied and revised as needed to truly benefit the Niles community.”

Protect Niles member Deni Caster noted that concerns about the project brought together community members “who formed Protect Niles City and raised funds from the Fremont community to support their efforts.”

Renee Guild, Protect Niles member, said, “The Judge’s decision notes that ‘substantial evidence’ supporting his ruling includes views held by members of the public including a plethora of commentary by members of the public on traffic and other issues. This underscores the importance of standing up and speaking in public hearings and writing letters about land use matters that affect us all! I am hopeful that this decision may give the City of Fremont pause before again approving a project without an EIR where the record contains substantial evidence that there might be a significant environmental impact.”

The Niles Gateway project was approved by the Fremont City Council by a three-to-two vote in March of 2015. The Historic Architectural Review Board had recommended denial.

Eden Township Healthcare

SUBMITTED BY ASHLEY GUY

The draft final special study of the Eden Township Healthcare District (ETHD), also known as the Eden Health District, is now available for review on the website of the Alameda Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCo), www.acgov.org/lafco. The special study reviews the services ETHD currently provides, its financial position including any future obligations, and a fiscal analysis of various governance options, including dissolution. The draft final special study incorporates public comments received by LAFCo on the draft special study and includes the project consultant’s responses to those comments.

Critics, including the Alameda County Grand Jury, have asserted that ETHD should be dissolved. Earlier this year, legislation was introduced in the State Assembly affecting the District including one bill signed into law (AB 2737) that imposes spending requirements on healthcare districts such as ETHD. At its July 2016 meeting, LAFCo approved a request from the City of Hayward to prepare a “Special Study” to help determine the future of ETHD.

HOME ON THE HILL

The Origins of the Masonic Home at Union City: Part Three

The Masonic Home at Union City, located on Mission Boulevard near Dry Creek Regional Park, has been part of the Tri-City community for more than a century. In line with the principles upon which it was founded, the Home has provided shelter and compassionate care for residents since its earliest days. Today, that spirit of generosity extends to the surrounding community, where residents and staff actively support and champion public education and other charitable causes throughout the Tri-City region.

In the first and second parts of this series, we explored the history of the Masonic Home at Union City, from its 1850 conception through World War I. To read these stories, go to tricityvoice.com, select "Archives" from the top menu bar, then select January 17, 2017, page 12 and February 1, 2017, page 20.

A TRANSFORMING COMMUNITY

In 1915, Bay Area residents were thrilled to invite the Panama-Pacific International Exposition to San Francisco as part of a celebration for the completion of the Panama Canal. The festivities lasted nine months, covered more than 600 acres, and drew more than 18 million people – including Masonic Homes residents, who were amazed and delighted by the exhibits and spectacle. The fair included a number of scientific and education presentations, a highlight of which was the first demonstration of a transcontinental phone call. San Francisco's Marina Green and Chrissy Field, two of today's most popular recreation areas, are actually filled-in waterfront marshland that was developed as part of the fair grounds.

As the darker days of World War I took effect, Masonic Homes residents once again joined with their community – this time taking part in relief efforts. Residents were actively supporting troops as much as possible. Many sewed and knit garments to be mailed overseas to soldiers in the trenches, and a number of soldiers were "adopted" by residents, who provided care packages, inspirational letters, and other support to boost morale.

In 1920, to commemorate the conclusion of the war, local Mason Max Hornlein dedicated a statue, "Angel of Grief," to grace the Home's cemetery on Mission Road. Created in Italy, the statue is a replica of William Wetmore Story's 1894 sculpture, "The Angel of Grief Weeping Over the Dismantled Altar of Life," located in Rome. It was commissioned by Jane Stanford (wife of Leland Stanford the famed railroad baron, Mason, and founder of Stanford University) in honor of her late brother, Henry Clay Lathrop. Hornlein acquired this statue from Stanford University following the 1906 earthquake in which it was damaged. The Stanfords chose to replace the statue, but Hornlein was moved by its beauty despite the flaws.

Less than 20 years later, as the United States entered World War II, the Masonic Homes made a lasting contribution and sacrifice. Nearly 170 former child residents served in the Armed Forces. The boys ranged in rank from private to colonel, and 10 girls served as nurses. Sadly, 12 became casualties of the war. Following the war, some Masons who had been captured as prisoners of war recuperated at the Masonic Homes.

Learn more about the history of the Masonic Homes in next month's issue of "Living Well."

INSPIRED BY GLOBAL LIFESTYLES

What do the Barbagia region of Sardinia, Italy; Okinawa, Japan; Loma Linda, California; Costa Rica's Nicoya Peninsula; and Ikaria, Greece have in common?

According to author Dan Buettner, they're all Blue Zones – in his words, "cultures where the proportion of healthy 90+ or 100-year-olds to the overall population is unusually high." Drawing together a team of demographers, scientists, and longevity experts, Buettner led a multiyear study of these cultures, revealing dietary and lifestyle choices that have enabled elders to thrive. His book, "The Blue Zones: Lessons for Living Longer from the People Who've Lived the Longest," was a New York Times bestseller.

Among those impressed by its results-driven research was gerontologist Nancy Schier Anzelmo, founder and principal of Alzheimer's Care Associates, LLC; professor of gerontology at California State University, Sacramento; and advisor to the Masonic Homes.

"I've worked in dementia care for 25 years, and I'm not waiting for a 'magic pill' to conquer memory loss," Anzelmo says. "Science shows that outcomes are based one-third on genetics and two-thirds on lifestyle choices – what you eat, how you live, what you do."

A crucial component of the Blue Zones lifestyle is diet. Recipes – many of which are available on the Blue Zones website – focus on whole, unprocessed foods. Guidelines specify that plant-based foods, such as fruits, vegetables, grains, greens, beans, and fruits, should compose 95 percent of foods consumed. Limited amounts of fish, meat, and nuts are also permitted. And, occasional imbibers will be pleased to learn that a daily glass of wine enjoyed with friends is highly encouraged.

In fact, the social element is a crucial component of the Blue Zones lifestyle: Many of the lifestyle choices that researchers identified as contributing towards longevity were based on building strong communities and relationships – from devoting oneself to family members and close friends to belonging to a faith-based organization.

Moreau Catholic moves on

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

Moreau Catholic's Mariners moved on in the Division II state basketball tournament. Although they had a slow start as they met the Cardinal Newman Cardinals (Santa Rosa) on February 14th, it soon became evident that the Mariners were intent on continuing their quest for a championship. Behind in the first quarter of play, the Mariners, as they have done all year, took control and jumped out to a lead with great rebounding and fast breaks. Once they established control under and around the basket, Mariners defense shut down the shooting lanes and Cardinal Newman could not find a path to the hoop. Moreau Catholic dominated and posted a decisive 82-66 victory.

Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo

SUBMITTED BY ALFREDA SEBASTO

Tickets are on sale now for the 97th Annual Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo. Held at the Rowell Ranch Rodeo Park off of Dublin Canyon Road and Highway 580, the 97th Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo continues a tradition started in 1921 by local legend, businessman, cattleman, philanthropist and stock contractor Harry Rowell.

Rodeo is a popular professional American sport that honors the ranching traditions of roping and riding, which continue to be a part of life for many, in the East Bay, who raise cattle on some of the country's most historic ranches. History claims rodeo began when one ranch said they had a horse that couldn't be ridden and another said they had a cowboy that couldn't be thrown.

Castro Valley will see more than 100 cowboys and cowgirls compete for their share of the prize money during this leg of the California rodeo. This time of year there are a series of professionally sanctioned rodeos that see some of the sport's best athletes hoping to win a piece of the more than $350,000 in added prize money from the SIXPAC Rodeos that includes rodeos in Rowell Ranch (Hayward) Red Bluff, Clovis, Oakdale, Redding, Livermore and Reno, NV.

Rodeo Week begins Friday May 12 with the Chili Cook-off held at the rodeo grounds; followed by the Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo Parade winding down Castro Valley Boulevard on Saturday, May 13.

A local Team Roping event kicks off the heart of rodeo weekend on Thursday, May 18 at 5:00 p.m. Watch hometown cowgirl Jana Centoni compete for a champion belt buckle and bragging rights. The team roping is free.

The Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo officially thunders into town on Friday, May 19 at 7:30 p.m. with the PRCA Professional Bull Riding "Rocking Bull Bash" event. Two days of full throttle rodeo action continue on Saturday and Sunday with performances beginning at 1:30 p.m. The historic Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo grand entry of a single rider carrying the American Flag gallops into the arena at full speed from "Harry's Hill" to open the Saturday and Sunday performances.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

answer your
rate questions

The way Californians are being charged for energy is changing and customers may have questions. We're here to answer those questions, help you avoid bill surprises and take control of your energy use.

The rate changes that took effect on March 1—developed jointly between PG&E, the CPUC, and many consumer groups—align customers' bills with the cost of service being provided and ncourage extremely high energy users to conserve energy. Additionally, there was a 2.1 percent increase in electric rates for residential customers, and a decrease in the California Climate Credit, a state program that is fighting climate change.

This is a lot of change at once and we are here to help. PG&E has a variety of tools and programs that give you the information you need to make the best energy choices for your family. All of us who live and work in the East Bay are ready to help answer your questions. For more information please visit us online at pge.com/ratechoices or call our rates hotline for more information at 1-800-743-0514.

Preserving a world we know

NILES CHURCH PRESENTS DiCAPRIO DOCUMENTARY
SUBMITTED BY REV. JEFFREY SPENCER

Actor and environmental activist Leonardo DiCaprio interviews world leaders and scientists as he tours the globe in the climate change documentary "Before the Flood," to be screened at 1:30 p.m., April 8, at Niles Discovery Church. The Second Saturday Documentary Series is free and open to the public.

Moving from Florida to Greenland to inundated island nations to the Paris Climate Change Conference, the film was directed by Fisher Stevens for the National Geographic Channel where it first aired last fall.

While there are some low-lying Pacific islands that are no longer habitable because of more frequent king tides and increasingly powerful ocean storm surges, the film also shows us the problems of Miami Beach, Florida, which is experiencing "sunny day flooding." The ocean rises with little warning, spilling up through storm drains to flood roads and ocean-side properties.

Miami Beach is spending an estimated $500 million on short-term solutions that include raising roads and sidewalks and building powerful pumping stations. The film also discusses long-term solutions to rising temperatures while noting that the window to keep a world that we might recognize in 50 years is closing rapidly.

A discussion will follow the film, led by local environmentalist Dr. Richard Godfrey.

The Second Saturday Documentary Series is co-sponsored by Niles Discovery Church and the San Jose Peace & Justice Center.

Help restore
Sabrecat Creek

SUBMITTED BY
CITY OF FREMONT

Love nature and serving the community? Join the City of Fremont's Environmental Services for a day of habitat restoration work on Sabercat Creek the first Saturday of every month from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Heavy rain 12 hours prior to or during will postpone the event.

The next day of work will be held on Saturday, April 1. Volunteers will assist with removing invasive plants, sheet mulching, and providing care for native plants. Planting additional native plants may also take place. This work will help increase native plant diversity, and improve food and shelter for wildlife. No experience is necessary. A habitat steward will guide you through the projects along Sabercat Creek in Sabercat Historical Park.

No experience is necessary. Volunteers of all ages are welcome, and a signed waiver form is required for each participant. Children under 12 years old must be accompanied by an adult. Habitat stewards will guide you through the projects.

Come dressed for the weather and prepared to get dirty (sturdy, closed-toe shoes/boots, long pants, hat, sunscreen, and long-sleeved shirt are recommended). Bring a signed waiver form, a reusable water bottle, and community service hour forms, if applicable. We'll provide tools, some gloves, and water to refill bottles. If you wish to bring your own gloves or tools, please label them.

For complete details and to register visit the Sabercat Restoration website. Be sure to check the location on the map, and print the map and waiver form.

Cal State East Bay Swim Places 15th at NCAA Championships

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY

The Cal State East Bay women's swim team scored points in three events on the last day of the 2016-17 NCAA Division II Championships to finish in 15th place in the final team standings with a total of 93 points at the national meet in Birmingham's Crossplex Natatorium.

The Pioneers, who were ranked No. 21 in the nation according to the final Collegiate Swim Coaches Association of America (CSCAA) poll, match their best national finish in program history. They also placed 15th when the team last competed at NCAA Championships in 2014.

The highlight of the day came during the morning prelims, when Claire Beaty broke her own school record in the 200 Breast to qualify fourth for the championship final in the evening. Beaty's mark of 2:14.56 was nearly a second better than her previous record. The junior placed eighth in the 200 Breast championship, earning First Team All-America honors.

Beaty's achievement marks the second time this week the Pioneers have had a top-eight finish in a championship final, as she joins Morgan McClure in the 400 IM.

Speaking of McClure, she added another point to East Bay's team score by qualifying for the consolation finals in the 200 Back with a time of 2:00.90. The junior took 16th place overall after placing eighth in her evening race. Mariam Lowe also competed in the 200 Back, finishing 28th in prelims with a time of 2:04.07.

The Pioneers closed out the NCAA meet with an outstanding effort in the final event of the week, the 400 Free Relay. The foursome of Madison Hauanio, McClure, Vivy Vua, and Shelby Parker qualified 12th in prelims to reach the consolation final. They swam even faster in the evening, finishing in 3:26.51 to place 11th in the nation and add a dozen points to the team score.

All in all, CSUEB broke five school records in the four-day meet. McClure (400 IM) and Beaty (200 Breast) became the first Pioneers since 2014 to claim First Team All-America honors. McClure is also an honorable mention All-American with top-16 individual finishes in the 200 IM, 100 Back, and 200 Back. In addition, all six East Bay swimmers will be honorable mention All-Americans as the Pioneers impressively finished top-16 in all three Free Relays and both Medley Relays.

Marcus Wise Named CCAA Baseball Player of the Week

SUBMITTED BY STEPHEN CONNOLLY

Cal State East Bay senior Marcus Wise has been selected as the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) Baseball Player of the Week for Mar. 6-12. The Antioch, Calif. native had a huge weekend as Cal State East Bay won two out of three games on the road at Cal State San Marcos, out-scoring the Cougars 49-34 in a weekend chocked full of offense. Wise had two hits and two RBI in each of the first two games of the series. Then in the finale, he went 5-for-6 with two doubles, four runs, and four RBI, as the Pioneers set a program record with 27 hits.

In just three games at CSUSM, Wise went 9-for-17 with three walks, four doubles, seven runs scored, and eight RBI. He also went 3-for-3 on stolen base attempts.

The four-year senior has a .388 on-base percentage for the season as CSUEB's primary leadoff hitter. He has swiped 19 bases in 21 attempts this season, which leads the CCAA and ranks second in the entire nation. Wise now has 71 steals in his career as he continues to extend his program record, and he's within range of Ray Stokes' single-season record of 29 stolen bags.

This is the first career CCAA Player of the Week award for Wise, who also ranks sixth in Cal State East Bay history in career runs scored (103) and eighth in career walks (61).

College ID Exposure at Fremont Youth Soccer Club

SUBMITTED BY DAI REDWOOD

Fremont Youth Soccer Club has teamed up with iSoccerPath to further the exposure of its players to college coaches. College recruitment has become a competitive environment for all sports, with the desire of the youth sportsperson to become a college athlete.

Traditionally high school and tournament play has been the perceived route for players to gain exposure, but current trends show players are being scouted from College ID Camps due to its cost-effective method for tight college budgets. iSoccerPath takes the guesswork away by helping the player select their soccer ID Camp based on education and soccer ability.

"We strongly encourage the youth to pursue their education as the priority, but our relationship with iSoccerPath enables the player to continue focusing on their academics while at the same time working towards a college sports experience," said Dai Redwood, executive director of Fremont Youth Soccer Club.

Redwood added: "With increased incidence and severity of injuries while participating in tournaments, due to highly intense physical and emotional situations over short periods with limited rest, College ID Camps reduce the injury risk and narrows the search for college recruitment."

Details about Fremont Youth Soccer Club are posted on its website at www.fremontyouth-soccer.com.

Charity game pits Irvington Varsity against Alumni

SUBMITTED BY NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Robert Turbin, Super Bowl winner and starting running back for the Indianapolis Colts, is proud to announce the First Annual Spring Ball Charity Basketball Game to be held at Irvington High School in Fremont. The game will feature the current Irvington varsity squad against a team of Irvington alumni, including Turbin and special guest Frank Gore, five-time NFL Pro Bowler and member of the 10,000 Rushing Yards Club.

All proceeds from the event will be split evenly between Irvington High School and Turbin's Runnin4U Foundation, which helps to enrich the lives of those afflicted with Multiple Sclerosis (MS) and Cerebral Palsy (CP). Raffle tickets ($3) will be sold for a chance to participate in free throw, three-point and half-court shooting contests for prizes including autographed merchandise and other items.

"It's important for me to stay grounded," said Turbin. "I want to give back to the people who helped make me who I am today. My hope is that the money made for the school will go to help other athletes better themselves through sports and achieve their dreams. And of course, support for the Foundation is also crucial to help a cause that's dear to my heart. It's really a win-win for everybody involved and I can't wait to get out there on the court and play."

The James Logan Colts pulled off a stunning comeback victory on March 18, 2017 to win the NorCal regional Division One championship 65-61 over the Palo Alto Vikings. Behind at halftime 26-19, the fantastic comeback began in the third quarter; slowly but surely, the Colts clawed their way back into the game by establishing control of the pant area. This led to a memorable fourth quarter when the Colts fought their way to within two points of the Vikings with just 5.2 seconds left in the game.

Two fantastic offensive plays under the basket tied the score and forced the game into overtime play. The Colts took control as they found shooting lanes and played rock solid defense and pulled out a victory that will be talked about for years; final score: 65-61. The victory moves the James Logan Colts (Union City) to state championships in Sacramento where they will face the Roosevelt Mustangs (Eastvale) on March 24, 2017.

Another local team, the Moreau Catholic Mariners (Hayward) will play in the state Division II championships on March 25, 2017 against the Esperanza Aztecs (Anaheim). The Mariners also won regional finals with a comeback victory over St. Francis 81-77 on March 18, 2017.

Eagles lose to Carlmont Scots

Baseball

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

Coaches of the American High School (Fremont) Eagles varsity baseball team are optimistic about the coming season. Focused on building competitiveness, it came to the surface early in a February 15th contest with the Carlmont Scots (Belmont). The Scots led early on but the Eagles rallied to be competitive, loading the bases twice. However, the Eagles could not find hits to convert their scoring opportunities and ended on the wrong end of a 10-2 score.

Compassionate Sanctuary City status adopted

SUBMITTED BY
CHERYL GOLDEN

On March 7, 2017, the City of Fremont adopted the recommendation of its Human Relations Commission and proclaimed itself a Compassionate Sanctuary City at the Fremont City Council meeting. This action intends to protect those who live, study, and work in the City of Fremont regardless of race, religion, national origin, gender, disability, or sexual orientation, and to allow them to do so in harmony. The Fremont Police Department confirms that it is committed to protecting and serving the entire Fremont community and will continue to treat all individuals with dignity. Under Fremont Police Department’s current Policy 428, the department will share information with Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) if it is requested and if it would otherwise be communicated with other law enforcement agencies or is available to the public. The Fremont Police Department will also notify ICE of the pending release of an offender if the case meets specific criteria, such as investigations that involve terrorism, criminal street gang offenses, aggravated or violent felonies, significant misdemeanors, or if the violator poses a threat to public safety. The City of Fremont acknowledges the current political climate and that it is potentially putting itself at risk of losing future federal funding, and possibly significant levels of current federal funding, by being declared a Compassionate Sanctuary City. “Fremont is one of the most diverse mid-sized cities in America,” said Fremont Mayor Lily Mei. “By declaring Fremont as a Compassionate Sanctuary City, we are simply upholding Fremont’s core values to celebrate diversity, to protect human rights, and to treat all of our people fairly. As a City, we will continue to adopt policies that reflect the inclusive values that our community has upheld since its founding.”

Travel ban challenges mount

SUBMITTED BY
LAUREL ANDERSON

County of Santa Clara joins Chicago, Los Angeles and New York City in filing an amicus brief in support of States’ constitutional challenge to President Trump’s Executive Order

The County of Santa Clara has announced that it joined the Cities of Chicago, Los Angeles and New York City in filing a friend-of-the-court (amicus curiae) brief in the federal district court in Seattle, where six States have challenged President Donald Trump’s renewed attempt at restricting travel into the United States from six majority-Muslim nations. The executive order prohibits people from six countries—Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen—from entering the U.S. for 90 days, and halts the admission into the U.S. of all refugees for 120 days while the Trump administration says it will revise immigration screening procedures. After those 120 days, refugee admissions will be cut by more than fifty percent. “Santa Clara County is eager to join the opposition to this unconstitutional executive order,” said Dave Cortese, President of the Board of Supervisors.

“Immigrants are central to the economic, social and political fabric of our communities, and they should be welcomed, not shut out.” The brief, filed late yesterday, explains the vital contribution that immigrants make to our cities, counties, and nation; points out that classifications based on religion and national origin are presumptively invalid; and argues that the travel ban is misguided and unconstitutional. “Despite the President’s attempts to revise it, the travel ban is still unconstitutional,” said County Counsel James R. Williams. “Targeting individuals because of their religion and national origin is illegal and undermines the values of our nation and Santa Clara County.” Chicago, Los Angeles and New York City, joining with Boston, Central Falls (RI), Gary (IN), Ithaca, Jersey City, Madison, Minneapolis, Montgomery County (MD), Oakland, Portland (OR), Philadelphia, Saint Paul, San Diego, San Francisco, San Jose, Santa Clara County, Santa Monica, Seattle, Skokie (IL), South Bend (IN), and West Hollywood, presented the local government position to the district court, which is considering the States’ emergency motion to apply the court’s existing nationwide injunction to the new executive order.

Innovation Award for Lam Research

BY KELLY KLINE

Five years ago, the East Bay Economic Development Alliance (www.eastbayeda.org) created a showcase for innovation that perfectly conveys the unique local ecosystem’s nurturing of transformative ideas and products. The East Bay Innovation Awards (www.eastbayeda.org/iawards/innovation_home.html) honors competitors in nine different categories including clean tech, engineering and design, life sciences, and advanced manufacturing. Advanced manufacturing is the backbone of our local economy and is a category that we covet. Therefore, we were thrilled to see Lam Research, an anchor tenant in the Fremont Innovation District, take home this prestigious award. Lam’s local operations in both Fremont and Livermore are focused on designing, engineering, and manufacturing semiconductor chip process equipment. Lam joins two other Fremont companies that are past winners in this category, Tesla and Boehringer Ingelheim. Congratulations to Lam Research and to the other impressive winners who are featured in this five-minute mini-documentary at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DSTJ0pM2zao>.

WILLIAM MARSHAK

Definition of Paradigm Shift: An important change that happens when the usual way of thinking about or doing something is replaced by a new and different way.

—Merriam-Webster

From within and without, the political landscape of Fremont is in flux. The recent election of “outsiders” into influential positions on the council has coupled with awareness by traditional political forces that the city and its environs is rapidly changing – it is large, influential and growing in importance within the Bay Area and State of California. A letter to the City of Fremont [See page 17 of this edition] alleging discrimination by the current method of at-large council elections and a demand to transition to district elections has accelerated a process of political maturation that has been in the works for several years.

A Paradigm Shift for Fremont

Apparently this legal challenge has been percolating in the courts for a while and Fremont will acquiesce rather than face a costly battle to try to retain at-large elections - unsuccessful in other court actions. As a consequence, the City will be forced to examine the composition of its council and how to divide into voting districts. As this transition occurs, it may also be time to determine whether General Law remains a good fit for a city of Fremont's size and population.

The one size fits all approach of a General Law city is not necessarily the best approach for Fremont; it determines much of the structure including whether a City Manager should control employees or if an elected Mayor is a better managerial option. The argument for a City Manager is that this person can run the city without political preference, answering only to the city council as a body. A Charter City can set its own rules that may include, among other things, an elected mayor who runs the city and is directly responsible to voters.

Beside the challenges of addressing the administrative form of government, converting to district elections poses a daunting task for the city. How many districts should be formed? For a city the geographical and population size of Fremont, are four councilmembers enough? Should they conform to historic districts? Should they equalize the present population or include anticipated growth? How many new residents of transit oriented developments will become Fremont voters? During the transition, will those elected for four year terms represent a particular district or continue as at-large representatives? What if continuing councilmembers live in the same district? Will there be an interim election for that district? These and many more questions remain to be answered.

A change of this magnitude will alter the dynamic of growth and district politics. If Niles, for instance, becomes a political district, does that isolate its influence at council or enhance it? City partitions need a unifying influence. Since the mayor will remain as a city-wide elected official, that position will gain importance. The mayor will have the responsibility of blending the characteristics and preferences of all districts. This may be the greatest challenge of the new structure and be a significant argument for a mayor who administers city operations.

Through public sessions and citizen input, there will be a myriad of options presented and considered. This is truly a paradigm shift.

Wayne Paul Davis

September 16, 1926 – March 10, 2017
Resident of Fremont

Wayne Davis of Fremont has passed away to join the love of his life Barbara Re Davis who preceded him (2004) after 54 years together. He was preceded also by his parents, Margaret and Robert Davis of Niles, both in 1982. His half-brother Lester was mortally wounded prior to the end of World War II after being in combat in the South Pacific for 4 years.

Wayne basically grew up in the Niles district of Fremont where he also met and married Barbara after completing their education. They were joined as one in the Corpus Christi Parish in Niles in 1950 and enjoyed a happily married life until her demise in 2004 after 54 years together. They sadly leave no children.

Wayne and Barbara both attended Washington Union High where they were school sweethearts. While attending WUHS, Wayne was active in school affairs. He was named on the All Valley basketball squad, was a member of the football and track teams, was a member of the football and track teams, secretary treasurer of the Block "W" society, and a staff member of the student council.

Both attended San Jose State where Wayne was a business administration graduate, a member of the Eta Mu Pi honorary society.

Wayne was active in community affairs where he was vice president of the Washington Township 20-30 club, and past president of the Fremont Dance Club along with Barbara as co-president. An avid golfer, Wayne was a member of Castlewood Country Club for more than three decades and a past president of the 19th Holers Golf Club.

Upon graduating from San Jose State, he went to work as assistant car distribution manager for the Chevrolet division of General Motors and after two years he was appointed Credit and Distribution supervisor of the Western Division of the Kaiser-Frazer Sales Corp. in San Francisco offices which contracted car distribution in eight western states. Wayne later on left Kaiser-Frazer and entered the financial sector as a financial advisor and stock broker where he remained for thirty-one years until his retirement.

Both Wayne and Barbara retired the same year (she after 41 years) to spend the rest of their lives together.

Wayne was very active in church affairs. 15 years as an usher and then another fifteen years as a Eucharistic minister. He was a parishioner for more than fifty years at Holy Spirit.

Any donations should be made to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Obituary

Beulah Smith Williams

December 13, 1918 - February 21, 2017

Beulah Smith Williams, beloved wife, mother, grandmother & great-grandmother passed away peacefully on February 21, 2017.

Beulah was born in Loveland, Colorado, where she met and married Glen Smith in 1937. They lived happily together until his death in 1988. They moved to Fremont, California in March, 1951 where they raised their children and forged strong bonds with friends, neighbors and the community at large. Beulah’s love of sewing lead to her positions at Smith’s Fabrics in Irvington, the Singer Sewing Center in the Fremont Hub and Mervyn’s where she taught sewing. Working and raising her family didn’t deter her from helping her community; she worked tirelessly with the Irvington Elementary School PTA, the Fremont PTA Council, Irvington Presbyterian Church and the Cub Scouts.

After Glen’s retirement they moved to Modesto, California, where they lived quietly and happily until his death in 1988. She then returned to Fremont briefly, later to return to Modesto where she married Bob Williams. There they stayed until his death in 2002. In her twilight years she resided at Fremont Village and later at Isherwood Care.

Beulah’s family wants to offer their heartfelt thanks to Zora, Larry and the caregivers at Isherwood Care for the loving care she was given there for the last seven years. Thanks as well to the wonderful team of Vitas Hospice who made her final days as comfortable and loving as anyone could hope.

She is survived -and sorely missed- by daughter Beverly Rose of Fremont, son Jerry Smith of Fremont, the late Carolyn Thompson of Stockton, seven grandchildren, six great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren who all cherish the time they had with her, and treasure all memories she left behind for them.

Assemblyman Brough
Advances Political Reform

SUBMITTED BY
BRENT FINKEL

Assemblyman Bill Brough (R-Dana Point) introduced sweeping political reform legislation that would stop candidates or interested agencies from sending taxpayer funded mass mailings close to an election. “Voter contact is an essential and honorable aspect of our democracy, but it must also be protected from abuse and manipulation,” said Brough. “My legislation will restore both common sense and common purpose to an aspect of elections that is well out of control.”

Brough’s legislation will stop the issuing of “mass mailings” by both political candidates and government agencies with a direct financial interest in a ballot measure within 90 days of an election. The Assemblyman specifically stated that elections habitually witness activity of this kind, and that it is both a nuisance to voters and an abuse of government power to meddle in an election in which it has a direct financial stake.

“The fact is, politicians, agencies and special interests take direct and unfair advantage to influence voters and elections by flooding mailboxes with political material or disguised as official government correspondence. It’s time to call this what it is and put a stop to it. Government agencies need to stop this unethical practice that’s sole purpose is to secure taxpayer votes with taxpayer dollars,” said Brough.

The measure would amend and strengthen California’s landmark political reform act of 1974, one of the first of its kind in the nation. Brough’s measure targets this reform even more clearly and ensures it will close an obvious loophole. AB 1524 would change the state law so elected officials and public offices couldn’t use their public accounts for mass mailings within 90 days of election. This new state law would directly affect incumbent state lawmakers, local elected officials, and public agencies where local or statewide ballot measures would have a financial impact on the agency.

Doris Mae (Talbert) Palmer

July 15, 1922 – March 13, 2017

Resident of Fremont

Doris was born on July 15, 1922 to Gladys and Emmett Talbert. She graduated from Jonesboro Arkansas high school. She studied at what is now Arkansas State University and taught in a rural school.

She married George Clements June 1, 1940 and had three daughters; Melissa, Melinda and Melania. They divorced in June 1955.

Doris pursued a career in fashion working for a large department store in Lincoln, NE as fashion coordinator. She organized fashion shows; chose clothes and accessories for each model, wrote the script and produced the show.

She married William Palmer May 18, 1958 and the moved to Greeley, CO. Bill was manager of a small womens clothing store and Doris continued to produce fashion shows for that store. While they lived in Greeley a daughter Peri-Lyn was born.

Doris and Bill moved to Denver, CO and she continued to produce fashion shows for Bill’s store in addition to working for a small insurance company.

Off to CA where the family settled in Fremont. Doris was active in many civic organizations during her years in Fremont. She was a Candlelighter for over 40 years, a Beta Sigma Phi member for over 50 years, and Fremont Symphony Guild. She also enjoyed playing bridge with several groups.

Wherever she went she was always a southern belle. Doris’s real obsession was had-held antique fans which she collected. She loved to educate people about the language of the fan, its history and the materials used in the fan. She was a member of the Fan Association of North America and traveled the US and Europe to view fan collections. How many fans did Doris collect during her years of searching antique stores and buying and selling from other collectors? Five hundred? One Thousand? Or more? Not even her family knows for sure.

Family and friends are invited to attend a visitation from 1-2 PM, followed by a 2 PM funeral, on Tuesday, March 28, 2017 at Berge-Pappas-Smith Chapel of the Angels, 40842 Fremont Blvd., Fremont, CA 94538. Interment at Irvington Memorial Cemetery will follow the service

Unexpected death of police service dog hits community hard

ARTICLE SUBMITTED BY
LT. JOHN TORREZ
POLICE DEPARTMENT

With great sorrow, police in Milpitas recently announced the death of Jax, a beloved member of the department's K9 unit. The 5-year-old dog and his partner Officer Ryon Lawson had been together since 2014. On March 6, Jax was taken to an emergency veterinary clinic suffering from an unexpected medical condition. He was taken into surgery right away, but didn't survive.

Jax and Officer Lawson were assigned to the Field Services Division. Their partnership started when they attended an intensive Basic K9 Handler School program in 2014. Later, Jax passed the California Peace Officer Standard and Training Police Service Dog certification program.

Jax made an immediate impact on crime upon hitting the street. On his second day as a police service dog, Jax located a weapon used in an attempted armed robbery that had been discarded by a suspect. A year later he would assist in the search for a suspect who had led officers on a vehicle pursuit and collided with two officers in an effort to evade capture. Jax searched for nearly 2.5 hours and located the suspect hiding in a backyard.

Officer Lawson and Jax were scheduled to attend the SWAT and K9's Interacting During Deployment School (SKIDDS), along with SWAT officers later this year. This would have enabled them to have been the second SWAT K9 team in the department's history. Their level of commitment to the K9 program was exceptional.

While Jax was a great asset on the street, he was a great ambassador for the City of Milpitas and the Milpitas Police Department. Officer Lawson and Jax participated in numerous public and school events throughout the city. The duo made hundreds of positive contacts with schools, children, and adults alike.

Jax will be missed by all.

Newark Police Log

CMDR. MIKE CARROLL,
NEWARK PD

Thursday, March 9

At 3:04 a.m. Officer Johnson was checking a suspicious vehicle parked at Starbucks, 7324 Thornton Avenue when he saw and arrested a 20-year-old Newark woman on suspicion of possessing a collapsible baton. She was booked into the Fremont Jail.

At 8:22 a.m. officers responded to the area of Wilma Avenue and Leone Street to investigate a suspicious vehicle call. Officer Rivas stopped the suspected vehicle as the driver tried to leave the area. The driver, a 30-year-old Fremont man and his passenger, a 34-year-old transient male, were detained. The passenger was linked to a backpack recovered at the scene that contained burglary tools and suspected stolen mail. He was booked into the Fremont Jail for on suspicion of possessing burglary tools, receiving known stolen property, ID theft and giving false information to a police officer. The vehicle's driver was released at the scene.

Friday, March 10

At 12:46 p.m. officers responded to a report of a strong-arm robbery reported near Macy's at NewPark Mall. Two suspects approached a woman on the west side of Macy's and took her purse. The suspects fled in a white Toyota Camry which was reported stolen out of Oakland. It appears these same suspects were responsible for multiple auto burglaries on the second floor of the NewPark Mall parking structure with a variety of losses from the vehicles.

At 7:54 p.m. Officer Losier investigated a grab-and-run theft at Victoria's Secret at NewPark Mall where approximately $6,000 worth of bras was stolen.

Sunday, March 12

At 5:49 p.m. Officers responded to a reported assault on the 7900 block of Thornton Avenue. The suspect was located at his home on the 37000 block of Locust Street. When contacted by police he initially refused to come outside, so more officers and SWAT members responded to the scene. The man eventually came outside and was taken into custody. He was booked into the Santa Rita Jail on assault charges and for obstructing a police officer.

Tuesday, March 14

At 7:33 a.m. Officer Rivas responded to a report of a stolen van on the 37000 block of Rockspray Street. Before Rivas arrived, the van's owner located it a block away on Dahlia Drive, near Birch Street. Taken from the van were carpentry tools.

At 10:08 p.m. while doing a probation search at the EZ-8 Motel, 5555 Cedar Court, Officer Warren arrested a 51-year-old Newark man on suspicion of possessing drug paraphernalia. The man was issued a citation and released. A 50-year-old Newark woman also was arrested on suspicion of being under the influence and possession of a controlled substance. She was booked into the Fremont Jail.

Police shooting leaves one dead in Hayward

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD
POLICE DEPARTMENT

Fremont police detectives were involved in an officer involved shooting incident in Hayward in which a woman was hit by gunfire. She later died.

The events started at around 5:20 p.m. March 14 when Fremont police detectives were in Hayward and located a vehicle that was wanted in connection with multiple armed robberies in Fremont and throughout the Bay Area.

The detectives attempted to stop the vehicle, which was reported as stolen, in an apartment complex located at 25200 Carlos Bee Blvd. As they contacted the occupants, the driver of the vehicle suddenly rammed the detective's police vehicles injuring two Fremont detectives.

During the incident, Fremont detectives were forced to fire their duty weapons at the suspect driving the vehicle and one of the female occupants was struck by gunfire. The vehicle continued to flee out of the complex and eventually crashed near the intersection of Campus and Oaks drives.

Police said at least one male suspect fled the vehicle on foot. He was not immediately located. He was described as a black man with a heavy build, standing about 5-feet-8-inches tall with short hair.

A second female and another male occupant of the vehicle were taken into custody near the scene without incident.

The female suffering from the gunshot wounds was treated by the Hayward Fire Department at the scene and taken to a nearby trauma center where she died.

Both injured Fremont police detectives were treated and released from a local hospital.

The investigation into the incident is ongoing. Because the events occurred in Hayward, the Hayward Police Department is the primary investigating agency. Anyone who may have witnessed the incident, is encouraged to contact Det. Steve Riley at (510)-293-7034 or by emailing HaywardPDTips@hayward-ca.gov

Mayor boosts girl power at little league

Baseball

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS SUBMITTED BY SHITAL SHAH

The goal of Mission San Jose Little League (MSJLL) is to promote teamwork, leadership, friendship and sportsmanship for all the youth in our baseball league. MSJLL offers programs and divisions of play that serve boys and girls, ages 4 to 18.

Last fall, MSJLL formed their first all-girls baseball team, a team whose members truly “just wanted to play baseball.” They took on the name Dynamite Divas and proudly wore their pink jerseys to tackle the baseball diamond. Throughout the season, some opposing teams voiced concerns about the pitching capabilities of an all-girl team. However, once the umpires yelled, “Play ball!” the girls demonstrated their equality on the field, and all doubts were quickly removed — even those from the most uncertain all-boy teams. The MSJLL girls’ team enjoyed playing baseball so much last season, that they are back again this spring.

Fremont Mayor Lily Mei recently applauded the girls at the MSJLL opening ceremony, saying, “I think it is great that we have girls’ teams, and that we have female leaders in our leagues.” The mayor went on to say, “One very important thing is that you [ladies] are able to do everything that young men are able to do!”

When the first pitch was thrown to signify the start of their 2017 season, MSJLL chose one girl and one boy — Krisa Desai pitched to catcher Danny Stephen — celebrating the many co-ed teams in the league. At the conclusion of the ceremony, MSJLL president Gary Marks had only one remark, of course: “Play Ball!”

For more information about MSJLL Girls Teams, visit their website at www.msjll.com or their “MissionSanJoseLittleLeague” page on Facebook.

THEATRE

SUBMITTED BY BOB MILLER

On April 7, 2017, the Douglas Morrisson Theatre (DMT) closes our 2016-2017 Season with ‘Side by Side by Sondheim,’ a musical revue featuring the earlier songs of one of the greatest composers of American musical theatre. Director Michael Ryken returns to back to DMT. He last directed Grey Gardenshere, but his history with the company goes back 30 years to when he was a cast member of DMT’s 1987 production of ‘The Music Man.’ Music Director Dean Starnes last worked here 20 years ago, and he’s excited to be back working once again with this talented company.

A musical retrospective by undeniably one of Broadway’s all-time most celebrated composers, ‘Side by Side by Sondheim’ features songs from shows as diverse as Follies, Company, (a song from which gives the revue its title), A Little Night Music, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Pacific Overtures and Sweeney Todd. Small gems from these Sondheim musicals, including the work of Leonard Bernstein, Mary Rodgers, Richard Rodgers and Jule Styne, with whom the composer collaborated on various shows, are seamlessly tied together by a narrator in this intimate show showcasing some of the best known works from his early career.

‘Side by Side by Sondheim’ originated as a revue put together to benefit a theatre in the English village of Wavendon. Cameron Mackintosh saw the benefit and agreed to produce the show. In May 1976, the show premiered at London’s Mermaid Theatre, transferring to the West End for a total of 806 performances. Ned Sherrin directed, assisted by Sondheim himself. ‘Side by Side by Sondheim’ was first produced on Broadway by Harold Prince in association with Ruth Mitchell, again directed by Sherrin, opening on April 18, 1977, at the Music Box Theatre, and later transferring to the Morosco Theatre, for a total of 384 performances. In that first Broadway incarnation, ‘Side by Side by Sondheim’ was nominated for five Tony Awards. The revue has since been revived twice in London, in 2007 and 2015. Through the last four decades, the show has enjoyed tremendous success regionally throughout the U.S., and arguably has played a big part in Sondheim’s ever-growing popularity.

THEATRE REVIEW

Broadway West's Loves and Hours, a comedy of life

By JANET GRANT

"The loves and hours of the life of man are swift and sad being borne by the sea..." wrote English poet and playwright, Algernon Charles Swinburne. Though this may be true, it's always and foremost what everyone aspires to anyway—to find love, no matter how swift or fleeting.

In Broadway West Theatre Company's newest season offering, "Loves and Hours," by Stephen Metcalfe, we follow the theme of love and aging through the perspective of one man, but whose story could be that of any man's. Expertly directed by Jason Salazar and assistant directed by Rachael Campbell, this gentle comedy explores the quest to find love and meaning in life, even if not really looking for it.

At the core of the play is Dan Tilney (Jim Woodbury), a newly divorced, about to be empty nester, who is at a loss in his life. His friends believe he needs a new woman but will it be beautiful Charlotte (Gretta Hestenez Stimson), 20 years his junior? Or will it be Julia (Alma Pasic-Tran), his life-long friend and confidant? Meanwhile, there is his teenage son who is having an affair with a neighbor, an ex-wife who announces she is gay, a best friend who is going through a mid-life crises, and a daughter who's just furious with everyone. It seems that not only is love swift and unpredictable, it's also very complicated!

Jim Woodbury did a phenomenal job of the affable, yet clueless Dan Tilney. His foibles were easy to relate to and he adds the right amount of pathos and humor to his role. He draws you in to his character easily and his strength acts as the foundation for all the other characters to build on.

Dan's son Dan Jr., is charmingly played by Justin Viz and his daughter, Rebecca, played by Casey Semple, is quite believable in her justifiable anger and vulnerability.

The three women in Dan's life, Linda (Deborah Murphy), Charlotte (Gretta Hestenez Stimson), and Julia, (Alma Pasic-Tran) all bring unique personalities to their roles and different aspects of life's complications with amazing sensitivity.

Next door neighbors, Tom Houghton (Joel Butler) and Sara Houghton (Tressa Kate Small) realistically portray a troubled marriage with sides of loneliness and love gone sour.

Much of the humor of the night was supplied by Dan's best friend, Harold Schwab, played comically and energetically by Mark Alan Flores. Kudos also go to Amanda Vogel playing Harold's ditzzy young bride, Andrea. Their unique marriage provides another take on love and aging with many laughs in between.

Special mention goes to the set and design crew and set director Craig Cutting, who staged an entire life on a minimal set. And director Jason Salazar did a remarkable job in moving the cast and crew through an enormous amount of setting changes with seamless precision.

Broadway West's "Loves and Hours," is an entertaining, thought-provoking night of great theatre not to be missed. The loves and hours of the life of man might be swift and sad, but by way of good community theatre, it can also be hopeful, funny, and quite enjoyable too.
