Katie Train steams into town

The Railroad Museum at Ardenwood is holding our once-a-year celebration of "Katie," our little green locomotive. Designed for children ages 6 and under, the event will be held Saturday, June 17. Ride the Katie Train to Deer Park and enjoy special train-theme activities: build a wooden train set, create a town with our wooden blocks, play engineer and run a locomotive around the wooden train layout, toss beanbags into gondola cars, blow bazillions of bubbles on the lawn, read train books and enjoy a storytime at our Train Library. Toddle through the Toot-A-Loos Tunnels, color a picture of Katie, and pose for a picture with our wooden cutout of Katie. Be sure to bring your camera!

RALLY OVER THE RAINBOWS

BY MAURICIO SEGURA

"For once you have tasted flight you will walk the earth with your eyes turned skywards, for there you have been and there you will long to return." – Leonardo da Vinci

Ever since man took to the skies - when that first Wright Brothers 59-second flight on December 17, 1903 sailed above the Kitty Hawk dunes - pilots have been pushing their flying machines in pursuit of greatness. Tests of skill, endurance, and agility have taken fearless pilots across countries, over oceans, and to the very reaches of space.

The 53-year aerial tradition known as the "Hayward Air Rally" will be lifting off Thursday, June 22 – Sunday, June 25 from the Hayward Executive Airport to Reno/Stead, Nevada, via Redding, California, equaling approximately 250 to 300 nautical miles per leg. It is the longest running continuous air rally of its kind in the country. Between 25 to 35 general aviation flight crews will soar above the clouds in a race that is not judged on speed or who makes it to the finish line first. In fact, flights are judged on the pilot's abilities to navigate using VFR (visual flight rules).

Though pilots know their origin, halfway and destination points, they are not given routes or markers until the night before the race. That's what makes this so

Have Fun in the Sun, But Avoid Burns and Injuries

Protect Yourself and Your Family by Being Prepared

For many people, summer is a time for barbecues and outdoor activities. But there are also some risks that come with spending more time outdoors. Burns, cuts and scrapes, and bug bites can also be part of summer.

“The best thing you can do this summer is be prepared,” said Sherrie Kneebone, nurse practitioner with the Washington Township Medical Foundation. “I recommend having a first-aid kit that you can take with you on trips and outings, wherever you go.” The kit should contain bandages and antibiotic cream for any cuts and scrapes. It may also include an antihistamine like Benadryl for bug bites and poison oak, and aloe vera gel for sunburns. Insect repellent, sunscreen, tweezers, scissors, gauze and disinfectant wipes are also great additions.

“These are some of the items that can help with minor burns, cuts and scrapes, and bug bites,” Kneebone said. “Most of the time, these can be treated at home. For major falls, broken bones, and other more serious injuries, contact your doctor or go to a clinic or emergency room.”

Treating Burns

Most burns that result from barbecuing or cooking can be treated at home, Kneebone noted. “Run cool water over the burn for 10 to 20 minutes, but don’t use ice. Cover the wound with a sterile, non-adhesive bandage. Don’t apply any ointment or cream.”

Sunburns should be treated with aloe vera gel or cream. Kneebone advises to make sure aloe vera is the main ingredient and that the gel or cream doesn’t contain a lot of other ingredients or chemicals. Cool baths or showers can help relieve some of the discomfort. Kneebone also recommends drinking plenty of water to keep the skin hydrated. “It’s important to protect yourself from the sun,” Kneebone added. “You should wear sunscreen, a hat, and protective clothing when you’re outside. Be sure to use sunscreen with at least 30 SPF and reapply it frequently.”

Cuts and Scrapes

Kneebone further advised, “Cuts and scrapes should first be rinsed with cool water to remove dirt or debris, then cleaned with soap and water.” Stronger cleaning solutions like alcohol or hydrogen peroxide are not recommended because they can irritate the wound.

“It’s important to stop any bleeding,” she added. “Gently apply firm, direct pressure using a clean cloth or gauze. Once the bleeding has stopped and the wound is clean, cover it with a sterile bandage or gauze pad and tape. If the cut or scrape is small, you may want to leave it uncovered, but for most wounds, it’s a good idea to cover them. Change the bandage every day until the wound starts to heal.”

Most minor cuts and abrasions can be easily treated at home, but Kneebone pointed out, “If it’s a deep cut or won’t stop bleeding, then you should seek medical care. Watch for signs of infection as the wound heals. If it swells or oozes puss, it may be infected and you should talk to your doctor.”

Bug Bites

With all the time spent outdoors this summer, bug bites are bound to happen. Kneebone suggests wearing insect repellent that contains DEET to protect against mosquito bites and ticks. “While the risk is not high, mosquitoes can carry West Nile virus and you can contract Lyme disease from ticks. After you spend time hiking or being out in nature, you should check your clothing and body for ticks,” she said.

Kneebone recommends treating bug bites with baking soda and water. Make a paste and apply it to the bite. You can also buy over-the-counter creams and lotions that can help reduce the redness, swelling and itching.

Summer is a time for outdoor fun. A little preparation before an outing can go a long way toward protecting you and your family members from the not-so-fun aspects of summertime. For information about Washington Hospital programs and services that can help you stay healthy, visit www.whhs.com.

Safeguarding Men's Health at Every Age

June Is National Men's Health Month

Sunday, June 18, is Father's Day – a time when we thank the men in our lives for all they mean to us. But Father's Day is only one of the days in June set aside for celebrating men. June is designated as National Men's Health Month, with the intention of increasing awareness of health concerns that affect men's lives.

"Women and men both share a number of health concerns, but obviously there are differences related to physical anatomy," says Steven Curran, MD, a family medicine specialist with Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF). "There also can be differences in attitudes, with some men being reluctant to discuss certain aspects of their health with their doctor. We believe it is helpful to focus on preventive care, including regular wellness visits and keeping track of vaccinations from childhood on. For boys and men, as well as for females, we try to make this experience comfortable and to emphasize the importance of taking an active role in maintaining their own health."

Noting his 27 years with WTMF, Dr. Curran observes, "We now are seeing adult patients who 'grew up' in our family medicine practice. Some of them even bring their own kids to see us. That is one advantage of family practice – we are able to develop long-term, trusting relationships with our patients, which means they are more comfortable seeking our help with sensitive personal health concerns."

Concerns of Adolescents

As male patients progress from childhood into adolescence, they face new health concerns, according to Dr. Curran.

"We always emphasize keeping current with vaccines, and parents of preteen male patients need to consider getting the vaccine that protects against the human papillomavirus, or HPV, for their sons," he says.

"HPV is the primary cause of cervical cancer in women, who should be vaccinated, but it also can cause genital warts and cancers of the penis, anus, mouth and throat in males," he explains. "The vaccine is typically recommended for boys beginning at age 11 or 12, although it can be given starting at age 9. In addition to providing lifetime protection for males, the vaccine helps to decrease the spread of the virus to women. We can counsel parents as to the appropriate timing of vaccination against HPV for their children, both male and female."

Other vaccines for preteens and teens include the Tdap vaccine, which protects against tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis (whooping cough). A vaccine to prevent meningitis – an inflammation of the brain and spinal cord – is recommended for all preteens and teens. The first dose generally should be given at age 11 or 12 years, with a booster dose at ages 16 to 18 years.

"Adolescence is also the time for male patients to start screenings for testicular cancer," Dr. Curran advises. "Although testicular cancer is rare, approximately one-half of all cases of testicular cancer are found in young males between the ages of 15 and 35, and testicular cancer can be very aggressive in young patients. We can teach patients how to perform self-exams and encourage them to contact us if they detect any pain, swelling or lumps in the testicles or groin, especially if these signs and symptoms last more than two weeks."

Young Adulthood

For men between ages 18 and 40, regular health checkups can help spot potential future health problems before they progress to serious conditions.

"We want to be on the lookout early for any problems with blood pressure, obesity, high cholesterol, diabetes or a personal or family history of heart disease, kidney problems, cancer or certain other conditions," Dr. Curran says. "We also offer to screen for sexually transmitted diseases (STDs). Young men may be reluctant to discuss sensitive personal health issues, but it is important to have those conversations, including about STDs and reproductive health."

Men in this age group also are likely to take risks with their health, including smoking, overindulging in alcohol or abusing drugs, Dr. Curran notes.

"Smoking has declined, but we do have young patients who smoke," he says. "They often seem sheepish when they admit to smoking, but we can counsel them in a variety of ways to quit the habit. They need to be motivated to quit."

Safeguarding Men’s Health at Every Age

June Is National Men’s Health Month

“We also deal with patients who drink alcohol to excess or have other substance abuse issues, including opioid addictions,” he adds. “Many people with opioid addictions initially used prescription painkillers and would obtain prescriptions from multiple physicians. The State of California’s ‘CURES’ (Controlled Substance Utilization Review and Evaluation System) database now allows us to monitor authorized use of opioids. Drugs bought on the street, however, are not included in the database. Patients may need assistance in finding programs for help.”

Health Issues for Men at Midlife

The years between age 40 and age 60 are often seen as the prime of a man’s life. In many cases, their careers are secure, their families are established, and they are enjoying life. Nevertheless, men in midlife still need to continue managing risk factors for conditions such as heart disease, stroke, diabetes and cancer. That means eating right, exercising and having regular checkups to monitor blood pressure, cholesterol and blood sugar levels.

“The risks for all kinds of conditions increase as we age, so it’s important to continue routine blood tests, which already screen for factors related to heart, liver and kidney health,” Dr. Curran says. “Men in midlife also need to start scheduling additional screenings for other conditions. For example, men aged 50 and older should be screened for colon cancer, with a colonoscopy being the preferred method. Timing for repeat colonoscopies will depend on the patient’s risk factors and original colonoscopy results.

“Prostate cancer screenings are something men in this age group should discuss with their doctors,” he adds. “Prostate cancer becomes more common in men after age 50, but some men with additional risk factors such as a family history of prostate cancer may want to discuss screenings starting at age 40.”

Dr. Curran notes that erectile dysfunction (ED) and loss of libido also may be health concerns for many men, beginning in midlife. “Men who have issues with sexual health don’t need to suffer in silence anymore, with a variety of treatments available to treat ED and loss of libido or low testosterone levels,” he says. “You should feel comfortable talking about these conditions with your doctor. It can make a major difference in your quality of life.”

Keeping the “Gold” in Men’s “Golden Years”

In addition to keeping up with regular vaccines, including an annual flu vaccine, and annual screenings for various conditions, men over age 60 should get a shingles vaccine to protect against this painful disease caused by the same virus as chickenpox. Men over age 65 also should get the two pneumococcal vaccines that can help prevent pneumonia, which can be a very serious condition for older people, who are more susceptible to this disease.

“People in their 60s and beyond also are more prone to muscle and joint health problems, Dr. Curran notes. “Osteoporosis is more common among women, but men are still at risk. Bone density scans can evaluate a loss of bone mass, and a blood test can determine your level of vitamin D, which along with calcium is essential to maintaining bone mass. Sarcopenia, the loss of muscle mass, also can contribute to a lower quality of life. Regular exercise can help men maintain both bone and muscle mass.”

Many health insurance plans offer low- or no-cost memberships at exercise facilities that offer “Silver Sneakers” exercise programs for people over age 65.

“Group exercise programs are great for maintaining overall health, no matter your age,” says Dr. Curran. “Plus, social interaction can improve your mental outlook.”

Another major health concern for men as they age is a potential decline in mental function and memory loss.

“We can offer basic screenings to evaluate cognitive function for those who are experiencing some difficulties,” Dr. Curran suggests. “It is too early to say if activities such as ‘brain-training games’ can help maintain cognitive function. Nevertheless, keeping mentally active certainly can’t hurt!”

FREMONT SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The Fremont Symphony Orchestra (FSO) will hold their annual fundraising gala at the Dominican Sisters Center on Saturday, June 17. This year's theme is "Classics at the Movies: A Hollywood Murder Mystery."

The main event of the gala will feature a murder mystery performance by The Murder Mystery Company that includes audience participation. "Since Fremont has so many galas, we wanted to do something a little different," said Nick Burdick, Executive Director of the Fremont Symphony. "When Eva-Marie [Tisdale, FSO board member and gala chair] brought us the idea of a murder-mystery, we all loved it. It's a really fun idea."

The event will have some traditional features, too. Silent and live auctions will include donations from many Fremont businesses, including fine jewelry, group dinners, travel packages, and much more. And the evening will include plenty of musical entertainment, provided by the Virtuoso International Flute Ensemble. City Council member and former FSO board member David Bonaccorsi will emcee the event.

Another unusual feature is the location: The Dominican Sisters Center is a beautiful hillside venue located in Mission San Jose. With the valet parking service, you'll feel like a movie star entering a Hollywood premiere. Once inside, you'll be greeted with champagne, a no-host bar, and an enchanting space to enjoy the performance and dinner.

The gala is Fremont Symphony Orchestra's main fundraising event of the year. Money from the event goes directly to the Fremont Symphony Orchestra, which provides live symphonic and chamber music for the Fremont and Tri-City community. As the only symphony orchestra in southern Alameda County, the FSO plays a unique role in sustaining cultural and symphonic masterpieces in the community.

"We provide several programs to make sure that cultural masterpieces continue to be shared and loved in our community," said Burdick. "For our young people, we have the Youth Symphony, free children's concerts, and we host two competitions for young musicians. For everyone, we have our Chamber Music Series and our Symphonic Series where we feature both pops and classical masterworks. We try to balance our programs between entertainment, a peaceful refuge from the busy world, and the cultural masterpieces that develop empathy and an appreciation for beauty."

Tickets ($125) and more information are available at www.fremontsymphony.org/gala or by calling (510) 371-4859.

New Google project digitizes world's top fashion archives

BY JOCELYN NOVECK
AP NATIONAL WRITER

NEW YORK (AP), Anyone who has waited on a long, snaking line to get into a fashion exhibit at a top museum knows just how popular they've become — and more broadly, how fashion is increasingly seen as a form of artistic and cultural expression.

Google Inc. is acknowledging this reality by expanding its Google Art Project – launched in 2011 to link users with art collections around the world, online — to include fashion.

The new initiative, “We Wear Culture,” which launched June 8, uses Google’s technology to connect fashion lovers to collections and exhibits at museums and other institutions, giving them the ability to not only view a garment, but to zoom in on the hem of a dress, examine a sleeve or a bit of embroidery on a gown up close, wander around an atelier, or sit down with Metropolitan Museum of Art costume restorers.

The project partners with more than 180 cultural institutions, including the Met's Costume Institute, the Victoria & Albert Museum in London, Japan's Kyoto Costume Institute, and the Musée des Arts Décoratifs in Paris. It comprises more than 30,000 garments.

The site also offers specially curated exhibits. You can click your way to, for example, a curated photo exhibit on Tokyo Street Style, or an exploration of women's gowns in the 18th century. You can search by designer, or by their muse – examining, say, Marilyn Monroe's love of Ferragamo stiletto heels, via the Museo Salvatore Ferragamo in Florence, Italy.

At a preview demonstration this week, Amit Sood, director of the Google Cultural Institute and designer of the Google Art Project (now called Google Arts & Culture) explained that he wasn't initially clued into the possibilities for fashion, because at the tech giant, "we all wear hoodies."

But, he said, collaborating with an institution like the Met showed him that “art and fashion have a long history together.” The idea behind the new project, he said, is to tell the story — or rather, the multiple stories — behind fashion.

There are several virtual reality films included in the project. A 360-degree video displays the Met's conservation studio, with conservators explaining how they keep delicate clothing strong enough for display — one of them explaining, for example, how the team uses needles designed for eye surgeons.

It is the ultimate fragility of clothes, though, that makes the project appealing to museum curators, explained Andrew Bolton, the Costume Institute's head curator — whereas many garments are too delicate to be permanently displayed, digitizing a collection makes it viewable forever. The Costume Institute has provided 500 of the objects on display, noted Loic Tallon, the Met's chief digital officer.

Making a pitch to young users, the site also features YouTube personality Ingrid Nilsen in short videos, in which she explains the evolution of the hoodie, the choker, or colorful Japanese “Sukajan” jackets.

Apple's HomePod speaker pumps up the volume on tech rivals

BY MICHAEL LIEDTKE AND
BARBARA ORTUTAY
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITERS

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Apple is hoping a new smart home speaker will strike a chord with music lovers — the latest test of the iPhone maker's ability to redefine markets originally staked out by its rivals. The trend-setting company also is putting new twists on existing products as it delves deeper into virtual reality and a form of artificial intelligence called machine learning.

The moves announced June 5 escalate Apple's technological battle of wits with Google, Amazon, Microsoft and Facebook. These giants are battling over still-emerging fields that are expected to turn into technological gold mines, much the way personal computers and smartphones became moneymaking machines in previous decades.

The “HomePod” speaker unveiled at Apple’s annual developers conference is similar to rival devices that have been released during the past two years. Like the Amazon Echo and Google Home, the HomePod will play music while also helping people to manage their lives and homes. Siri, a digital assistant that has been on Apple's iPhone since 2011, will be voice activated to respond to requests for information and other help around the house.

Unlike those other smart speakers, Apple is positioning the HomePod primarily as a way to listen to and discover new songs and artists. Making the most of it will require a subscription to Apple's own music streaming service, which runs $10 to $15 per month and has attracted 27 million subscribers so far.

The company is casting Siri as a music connoisseur that will learn and cater to the tastes of the HomePod's owners, as well as answer questions about the songs as they are played. "It will reinvent home audio," boasted Apple CEO Tim Cook.

The speaker will sell for about $350 in December in the U.S., U.K. and Australia. Amazon sells the main version of the Echo for $180; Google's Home speaker goes for $130.

The Echo, released in 2015, and Google Home, released last year, were the first entrants in a promising market. The research firm eMarketer says that 35 million people in the U.S. are expected to use a voice-activated speaker at least once a month this year, more than double its estimate from last year.

The HomePod is Apple's first new gadget in nearly three years, following its announcement of the Apple Watch in September 2014. Although that product came out after other smart-watches hit the market, it quickly outshone competitors, according to industry research firms.

Still, the Apple Watch hasn't been a smash hit, fueling worries that the company's ability to transfix customers had waned after the 2011 death of co-founder Steve Jobs. During Jobs' last decade, Apple introduced the iPod, iPhone and iPad — all huge commercial successes that both reshaped daily life and swamped previous digital music players, smartphones and tablets.

Analysts said the smart home speaker market is ripe for Apple. The company “can’t afford to yield valuable real-estate in the heart of people’s homes to Amazon, Google and others,” said Geoff Blaber, research analyst at CCS Insight. That’s especially important because people are starting to access information, entertainment and search in a more “pervasive” way that’s less dependent on smartphones, he said.

But it's also possible that the HomePod could expose Siri as less capable than Amazon's Alexa, Google's Assistant and Microsoft's Cortana, Blaber said. (Many reviewers have suggested that the current incarnation of Apple's assistant already trails competitors in key respects.) "This is the start of the AI wars," he said.

Existing climate efforts expected to keep US goals on track

BY ELLEN KNICKMEYER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP), More than a dozen governors representing nearly 40 percent of the U.S. economy have signed new climate change pledges since President Donald Trump announced he was pulling out of the Paris climate accord.

Climate experts said Tuesday that they expect existing climate change programs and the affordability of cleaner forms of power like natural gas to mean U.S. greenhouse gas emissions will keep falling. That's despite Trump's announcement last week that the United States doesn't intend to honor the 2015 global accord.

Thirteen states, including New York and California, and about 200 mayors from Houston, Atlanta and other cities have signed pledges since Thursday committing to fighting climate change.

Texas, the country's No. 2 state economy and biggest carbon emitter, has not.

Wayne unanimously appointed to Superintendent

SUBMITTED BY
DIONICIA RAMOS

The Hayward Unified School District (HUSD) Board of Trustees unanimously voted to appoint Dr. Matt Wayne as superintendent of the Hayward Unified School District (HUSD), pending approval of a contract. Dr. Wayne has served as Interim Superintendent since September 2016.

The five-member board took this action following the completion of a comprehensive evaluation of his leadership during this past year.

Prior to being the interim superintendent, Dr. Wayne was the Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services. During his tenure in Hayward, the district has made great gains in student achievement—from an over 10% increase in the graduation rate to being named an AP Honor Roll District by the College Board. As interim superintendent, he successfully continued the district's Made in Hayward campaign to bring the community together and showcase the achievements of Hayward students, both present and past.

"We've been very pleased with the overall climate of the district under his leadership and we would like to see that continue," School Board President Lisa Brunner said at the June 7 board meeting. President Brunner also cited improvements in CAASPP scores and English learner achievement for the board's decision.

Dr. Wayne received his B.A. in Rhetoric from the University of California, Berkeley. He went on to earn an M.A. and M.Ed. from the Teachers College at Columbia University and later returned to UC Berkeley to complete a doctoral program at the Graduate School of Education. He has served as an English teacher, assistant principal, principal, literacy consultant, district leader, and lecturer at UC Berkeley prior to his arrival at HUSD.

"I am thrilled to be able to continue to serve the HUSD students. We have wonderful families, a supportive community, and incredibly committed staff and educators in the district, all working together to make our Made in Hayward vision a reality for our students."

The purpose of the academy is to educate youths on what laws are enforced and their importance, as well as strengthen the relationship between the community and police.

Classes will meet 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. July 10 – 14 at police facilities on Winton Avenue or Main Street in Hayward; a light breakfast will be provided each day. Topics and activities covered during the include:

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JUNE 14 - JUNE 20

For All Signs: Both the Sun and Mercury are opposed to Saturn across the signs of Gemini and Sagittarius. Oppositions often imply confrontations. At worst, critiquing and finger pointing will be the predominant mood of the world. At best, many will be tested literally, via school or job applications. Usually the applicant will get what he or she deserves during when the Sun opposes Saturn. Whomever has made the effort required to pass the test, will win the desired prize. Gemini-Sagittarius oppositions are known for the art of debate. Donald Trump is born with a prominent Gemini Sun opposite his Moon. This is what symbolizes his interest in Twitter and “The Art of the Deal.”

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): You will be concentrating on bringing a lot of details into a cohesive whole. Perhaps you are building something with multiple parts. The focus may be on vehicles or personal property. Or maybe you have a jumble of ideas that need to be sorted into a coherent plan. Be quiet and steady your mind. Make lists to ground yourself.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): A “teacher” comes into your life to help you learn more about yourself and your relationship(s). Follow your instincts about where you need to be, particularly if that includes a new social situation. There may be someone who gives you needed information or guidance.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): It is a wise Gemini who thinks carefully before he/she speaks at this time. You are tempted to respond without thinking of the consequences. Watch your tendency to be critical without knowing the circumstances of the “other”.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): You may be especially chatty this week. Words have higher importance than usual. You could be writing a speech, teaching or mentoring. It would serve you well to attend social gatherings and generally put yourself “out there.” One or more people are likely to enter your life who help you make the connections that need to come next.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): You are in a position to help others negotiate a reasonable peace. Activities involving high tech appliances are favored. Your knowledge will help others adjust to new electronics or a change in directions. A lover or significant other may ask for your intentions. Be realistic. Don’t promise more than is likely.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): A project that you began in late fall of 2016 is now coming to its first fulfillment. The outcome is apparent for you and all to see. The probability is that this creation is more success than failure. Don’t listen to that inner Critic who can find fault with every little thing. It lies.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): A debt may be repaid for work you have done in the past. It is possible that you will be called upon to give your time or energy beyond what you intended. Note how you are feeling as you do this. If you begin to feel resentment, set some boundaries around how far you will go.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): This is a good time to look over your financial resources. You may want to move things around a bit. Travel may be on your mind. Alternatively, you may have a desire to contact people at a distance. Aspects favor your use of the inter

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): You may feel isolated or as though no one around you can possibly understand who or what you are. In some way life circumstances may be preventing you from communicating. The inner critic could overrun your mind if you allow it. Remember that feelings come and go like waves. They never remain the same.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): The Goats live always with a strong internal Critic. Sometimes it is louder than others and it rarely tells the whole truth. During this period, you may be hearing a dark “tape” about your inability to organize your life according to someone else's standard. Take good care of your physical health now.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): You have a choice of mood this week. On one hand you may be “hearing” a load of internal criticism, which is probably not substantiated. On the other, there are some options to get outside of yourself and play freely or take a short, refreshing trip. It's obvious which is the better for your mental health.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): One of your planetary rulers, Neptune, turns retrograde this week. This suggests that one or more anxieties will go underground for a few months and you will actually feel better than before. You know that sometimes your imagination is just too potent and you react to it as though it were the real thing.

OAKLAND ZOO

Oakland Zoo's 25th annual "Walk in the Wild" premier event to benefit animals and education takes place on Saturday, June 24. The annual fundraiser, a completely sold out event last year, offers guests an evening of live musical entertainment, scrumptious dining from the Bay Area's top chefs and restaurants, an impressive selection of regional beers and wines, and delicious desserts. Over 100 Bay Area restaurants, caterers, wineries, breweries, and bakeries are participating.

In addition to the main event, the Private Patron (pre-)Party will take place at The Landing Café in the zoo's new Kaiser Permanente Visitor Center. The Patron Party will include a VIP preview of the monumental California Trail expansion, presentations by Oakland Zoo President and CEO Dr. Joel Parrott, and tapas-style appetizers prepared by five executive chefs. The California Trail (www.californiatrail.org), a transformational project that more than doubles our size, opens in 2018, and will further our commitment to animal care, education, and conservation with a focus on this state's remarkable native wildlife.

With each Walk in the Wild reservation, guests receive a commemorative wine glass and butler tray to try samples of superb culinary cuisine paired with fine wine, beer, and specialty drinks. Participating vendors include 21st Amendment Brewery, ala-

Oakland Zoo's Walk in the Wild event is sponsored by Taiwan, the Heart of Asia. Praised by The New York Times as the "island of green in Asia," Taiwan has been devoting tremendous efforts and resources into the development of Green Tourism. Nature and wildlife conservation is the driving force behind Taiwan's infrastructural development that links tourists to Taiwan's wilderness – the home to the world's highest concentration of butterfly and bird species as well as a protected habitat for the critically endangered Taiwan Formosan Black Bear and white dolphin. As an avid supporter of animal conservation, Taiwan Tourism Bureau San Francisco Office is extending their efforts in the U.S. through collaboration with Oakland Zoo.

Reservations start at $150 per person. Due to the service of alcohol, this event is for adults only. No guests under 21 please. All proceeds support Oakland Zoo in providing the highest quality animal care and habitats, supporting conservation of endangered species worldwide, and delivering impactful education programs to inspire the next generation of conservation leaders. Life's mysteries revealed in 'Kintsugi'

Overall the work is about survival and overcoming odds. Tim Rice creates canvases with atmospheric qualities that quietly demand us to feel. Sometimes brooding, at times moody, but always dimensional, his pieces are kinesthetic and entropic while suggesting the orderly systems of organic experience. Leah Virsik's work suggests narratives and healing structures in assemblages and associations. Her pieces are intimate and physical, inviting the viewer to engage and touch. Through tactile interactions, Virsik encourages us to become involved in her process. There will be a public reception on Saturday, June 17 and a gallery talk on Tuesday, June 27. Both events are free and all are invited. The exhibition continues through August 17. PhotoCentral offers quality artwork in its gallery and outstanding facilities for the dedicated photographic artist with classes, workshops, darkrooms, and a matting facility. Expand your creativity in a supportive community! For more information, please contact PhotoCentral at (510) 881-6721 and info@photocentral.org. Home & Garden

(FAMILY FEATURES)

Not every renovation project is intended to make the space look shiny and new. A design that celebrates decades (or even centuries) past can carry the same big impact for a dramatically updated look.

Antique upgrades celebrate the old-timey charm that modern design often ignores. An added benefit to an antique motif: the opportunity to display family heirlooms and treasures from previous generations that blend seamlessly into your home.

In most houses, the kitchen and bathrooms are where modern conveniences are most obvious. The appliances and fixtures in these rooms offer convenience and function few homeowners are willing to sacrifice for the sake of aesthetics. Fortunately, these tips show how you can capture old-world ambiance while enjoying the comforts of modern living.

Back-to-basics bathroom

Indoor plumbing is arguably the greatest asset of the modern home, but there's no need to sacrifice contemporary function when you take a step back in time with your bathroom decor. A claw foot tub makes for a stunning focal point, and a stylish pedestal sink adds character a modern vanity simply can't deliver.

RENOVATIONS FOR THE AGES

Antique upgrades for kitchen and bath

The one downside, limited storage space, can be easily remedied. A distressed cupboard or cabinet fitted with an antique window pane door is a simple DIY solution, or rely on stacked wooden crates (sanded and finished, of course) for a whimsical tower to fill with towels and other necessities.

In a small space like a bathroom, it can be difficult to evoke just the right impression with fixtures and furnishings alone. That's where accessories can play a transformative role. Rely on historic photographs, vintage mirrors and antique curios such as old buckets and chairs to let your creativity run wild. A bucket makes a perfect toilet paper holder and the rungs of a forgotten old chair are ideal for an old-fashioned towel rack.

Old-meets-new kitchen

For a kitchen stylized to honor the past, there's nothing more distracting than modern appliances. Fully capturing the warmth and charm of a country, century or Victorian kitchen requires complementing antique-style appliances. With careful attention to vintage design, a line like Elmira Stove Works' appliances complete the traditional feel of a "vintage" kitchen, rather than detract from it, as would modern-style black, white or stainless steel.

Fortunately, the "antique" aspect of these appliances ends with the appearance, as the complete line features the latest in cooking technology to ease routine food preparation and meet the high standards of the home chef.

For example, among the features is a full-size, self-cleaning true convection oven with the look of a vintage two-door range. The front panel displaying the "fire door," "oven door" and "ash catch" conceals the full-size oven behind. A matching 1,200-watt microwave features a removable turntable, 10 power levels, turbo-defrost and five-stage programmable cooking with an optional nickel or antique copper door frame.

The complete line includes a customizable collection of ranges, wall ovens, microwaves, refrigerators and matching panels for dishwashers. To learn more, visit ElmiraStoveWorks.com

Internship matching site launched by local high school student

Ayush Jain was awarded a 2017 Community Hero designation by California Assembly member Kansen Chu.

BY JULIE HUSON

Ayush Jain had a problem... the solution he came up with went global. The solution... myhighschoolinternship.org was created by the 15-year-old Newark Memorial High School student to connect young internship seekers with interested internship providers. Jain was eager to apply for internship opportunities, but because he was 12 when he entered high school, the application age of 16 made him ineligible for internship programs sponsored by companies such as Bank of America, Hewlett Packard, NASA, and Stanford University. Further, Jain witnessed friends missing out on internship opportunities because they were unaware of other requirements such as grade point averages and high application fees. All this got him thinking, and the thinking propelled him into action. Not to be dissuaded from pursuing an internship, Jain took on a larger goal than merely making himself more eligible for work experiences. Instead, he created a platform that would bring internship seekers and businesses offering such opportunities together and named it Massive Open Online Internships or MOOI. Jain proudly calls it “the first step in democratizing skill-based career-building learning experiences for high school students around the world.” With only $200, Jain started his business after finishing the MIT Launch X entrepreneurship program. He recruited fellow programmer Sandip Gawade to help and launched the official version of MOOI on January 1, 2017. So significant was this development of an accessible resource for internships, Jain was awarded a 2017 Community Hero designation by California Assembly member Kansen Chu. Jain received the commendation in a ceremony on May 25, 2017. The site myhighschoolinternship.org has already signed on members from India, China, Turkey, Germany, the Philippines, Egypt, Japan, and West Africa along with other worldwide participants. He continues to grow the business and is actively recruiting volunteers and students into varied roles from graphic designers and video editors to marketing and legal assistance.

At direct invitation from founder Curtis L. DeBerg, Jain was recently recognized by SAGE (Students for the Advancement of Global Entrepreneurship) Global USA in a national competition held in Henderson, Nevada, where his team placed in the top six business teams. SAGE emphasizes civic duty and responsibility among high school students. Teams organize themselves and develop socially responsible businesses to compete annually in the SAGE World Cup competition. Jain shares this about his venture: “It creates unlimited opportunities for online peer-graded and supervisor-certified work-based learning for skilled high school students and also routes high school students who need skill development in their area of interest to specialized tuition-free and affordable paid occupational training programs. Myhighschoolinternship.org does not discriminate on the basis of nationality, race, color, citizenship, gender, age, academic score/GPA, financial status, social status or disability.” He adds that while his business primarily focuses on high school students, it is open to anyone wanting to acquire skills

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Stand Up 4 Fremont sues the City of Fremont over Walnut Residences

Local advocacy group Stand Up 4 Fremont is in litigation with the City of Fremont over Walnut Residences, a planned apartment complex at 1031 Walnut Avenue. SU4F filed a lawsuit on December 23, 2016 against the City of Fremont on California Environmental Quality Act grounds. The group believes that Walnut Residences as currently planned will negatively affect traffic, parking, and aesthetics. It is inconsistent with the Fremont General Plan and the character of the neighborhood. While the Bay Area is in dire need of more housing, this complex is not the solution for our community. Walnut Residences will be located at the intersection of Walnut and Guardino, approximately a half mile from the Fremont BART station. The project will include 632 apartments, in 4 stories, with only 1100 unbundled parking spaces in 4-story aboveground garages. Half the units will be one bedroom, and the other half will have two or three bedrooms. The apartments will rent at market rate, with one-bedroom units expected to start at around $2200 per month. The site is owned by Carmel Partners, headquartered in San Francisco, an investment and development firm specializing in multifamily real estate. This apartment complex will be built on the 13-acre former Ramirez Farm property. The Fremont City Council voted to change the zoning of the area to a Transit-Oriented District and require a density of between 50.1 and 70 units per acre and 1.75 parking spaces per unit. This zoning change was pushed through by the standing City Council after the November election that ousted the sitting mayor, Harrison. Many residents called for the vote to be postponed until the new council could be seated in January. Stand Up 4 Fremont is a residents group formed to advocate thoughtful, sustainable development in the growing city of Fremont. SU4F is not against all development. In contrast to the lower-density location of Walnut Residences, the land surrounding the new Warm Springs BART station is prime for higher-density residential development. However, the City of Fremont has not designated this area of 850 acres as a Transit-Oriented District. In some cases the residential density at a half mile from the Warm Springs BART station will be lower than the density of Walnut Residences, which is about a half mile from the Fremont BART station. This is not thoughtful planning by the City of Fremont. According to Sally Morgan, a member of SU4F’s leadership group, the Walnut Residences “project does not suit the neighborhood: it’s too dense, the buildings are too high, and there are too many cars. Why isn’t the City of Fremont planning this type of development at Warm Springs instead?” Christina Broadwin, also with SU4F leadership, states that “this project can be improved in many ways to make it better for the community.” SU4F’s lawsuit is the second such lawsuit against the City of Fremont by a local group protesting the rampant development supported by the City and developers. Protect Niles recently won a case against the City of Fremont over the Niles Gateway project. A judge granted the petition, but the City is expected to appeal. Stand Up 4 Fremont enjoys broad community support. A city-wide Garage Sale Day in March 2017 raised over $8,000 for legal fees. Additional fundraising events will be held in the future. Please support the cause for thoughtful development in Fremont! Volunteers and donations needed. Send a check to “Stand Up 4 Fremont” P.O. Preventing Food Waste– Tips to Help You Eat Well and Waste Less

Did You Know? 63 million tons of food is wasted in the United States every year!

Wasted food is a growing problem with profound financial, social, and environmental impacts. Food scraps and food-soiled paper are the largest single item in our waste stream—making up about 35% of what we throw away in Alameda County. By making small changes in how you shop, prepare, and store food, you can toss less, eat well, save money, and save resources used to produce and distribute food.

StopFoodWaste.org aims to help residents keep food from going to waste, with tips on how to plan, shop, store and prepare food, so households save money and less food ends up in the landfill. Downloads include a fruit and vegetable storage guide, shopping list and more. Sign up on the mailing list to get tips and recipes to help reduce food waste and save money.

Fun with the Sun

Woodward is beginning his summer solar system journey starting at the sun. But his spacecraft text message is breaking up. Can you replace the missing words?

Dear Kid Scoop Readers –

I am starting my solar system _____ with a fly-by visit to our sun. Of course, I can't _____ there because it is way too hot!!!

Even though our sun is _____ of miles away, it provides the _____ that makes life possible on Earth. All plants need sunlight to _____. Animals need plants to survive, and people need plants and animals to survive.

The sun's solar flares can cause _____ for electronic communication on Earth.

The sun is a star. It is a hot ball of glowing gases. Do the math to label the layers of the sun.

17 = photosphere
19 = corona
15 = core

How many suns can you find on this page?

While our sun is special to us, there are billions of stars like our sun scattered across the Milky Way galaxy. The sun's gravitational pull is what keeps the planets in orbit.

Help Woodward navigate his ship to the center of this maze, where an important message for YOU awaits! Hold it up to a mirror to read it.

Solar Flares

Every now and then a tremendous explosion occurs on the sun releasing gas into the atmosphere. These are called solar flares.

Solar flares can affect radio and wireless communications millions of miles away on Earth and create light shows such as the Aurora Borealis or Northern Lights.

Sunspots

Sunspots are dark areas that appear on the surface of the sun. They are caused by strong magnetic activity within the sun. Sunspots can change size and move slowly across the surface of sun.

Kid Scoop Together:

SLIP, SLOP, SLAP, SEEK and SLIDE

Kids in Australia learn at an early age the five steps to protecting their skin from the sun. They are:

SLIP

on some protective clothing like a T-shirt.

SLOP

on some sunscreen – SPF 30+.

SLAP

SEEK

some shade to get out of the sun's rays.

SLIDE

on a pair of sunglasses to protect your eyes.

Yeeouch!

If you forget to slip, slop, slap, seek and slide, your skin can burn.

A sunburn can be very painful and is much like a burn from fire. Your skin will turn red and you may even get blisters. As the burned area heals, your skin peels, which can be very itchy.

How to Treat a Sunburn

- Take a cool bath or use wet cloths to cool down the burned part of your skin.
- Apply aloe gel or sprays for sunburned skin.
- Don't use soap, as this could dry and irritate your burned skin.

IMPORTANT: If watery blisters appear on your skin, you should see your doctor.

Think Fremont

June 6, 2017

An Open Letter to the Fremont Community:

As Mayor of the City of Fremont, and on behalf of the entire City Council, I'd like to take this opportunity to reaffirm the City's commitment to the fight against climate change. We understand that the threats of global warming are real and thus we remain steadfast in our ambitious goals of reducing greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions and achieving community-wide sustainability. Fremont will continue to demonstrate strong leadership in these efforts.

Fremont's commitment to climate action planning and implementation dates back to 2006 when the City signed onto the U.S. Conference of Mayors Climate Protection Agreement to meet or exceed the Kyoto Protocol goals of reducing human-emitted greenhouse gases. In 2011, the City's award-winning General Plan put forth the vision for Fremont to serve as a national model of how an auto-oriented suburb can evolve into a sustainable, strategically urban, modern city. By 2012, Council adopted the City's first Climate Action Plan, setting a goal to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by 25 percent from a 2005 baseline by the year 2020 and providing a roadmap for these reductions. In December 2015, Fremont was a signatory to the Compact of Mayors, an agreement by cities around the world to reduce GHG emissions and enhance resilience; the Compact of Mayors is now known as the Global Covenant of Mayors for Climate & Energy.

Some notable examples of Fremont's leadership in this area include:

- Solar Friendly Initiatives such as the reduction in solar permitting fees, over-the-counter solar plan review, discounted solar purchasing through the Bay Area SunShares program, and most recently the adoption of a mandatory solar ordinance for new residential construction.
- Solar projects at City facilities including the installation of solar carports at the Police Building Complex, Aqua Adventure Waterpark, Irvington Community Center, and Maintenance Center.
- Zero emissions vehicle readiness planning, including the installation of publicly accessible electric vehicle charging stations and requirements for the installation of electric vehicle charging infrastructure in new single-family, multifamily, and non-residential developments.
- Support and encouragement of waste reduction efforts through education, incentives, and technical assistance for recycling and food waste capture in the residential and business sectors.
- Creation of a Sustainability Commission to advise the Council on emerging policy issues related to environmental sustainability.
- Implementation of a comprehensive energy and water savings project to upgrade all City-owned streetlights, park lights, and facility lights to the most efficient LED technologies, as well as to upgrade the efficiency of City plumbing fixtures and irrigation systems.

Sustainability is not only a strong value in this community but also an important driver of our economy. With over 50 cleantech companies in Fremont, we as a City are supporting innovation across the entire smart grid value chain. Fremont is a recognized pioneer in the cleantech economy, with our semiconductor roots paving the way for today's advances in everything from LEDs and energy storage to solar and electric vehicles. As an example of our long-term commitment, for nearly a decade, we have offered a business tax exemption for cleantech companies, as a gesture of our partnership in their growth. And the City maintains strong ties to industry associations, such as the Cleantech Open, California Clean Energy Fund, and GreenBiz, to champion the causes of cleantech industries in our region and beyond.

To further signal Fremont's dedication to continue efforts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and alleviate the impacts of global warming, I recently signed onto a coalition statement to the domestic and international community that speaks to the urgency of staving off climate change and shows our continued support for the Paris Climate Accord. You can find the full statement online at www.WeAreStillIn.com, which includes a growing list of city leaders, governors, universities, and businesses as its signatories. Additionally, I signed the "Mayor's for 100% Clean Energy," an initiative of the Sierra Club's Ready for 100 Campaign and viewable at www.sierraclub.org/ready-for-100/mayors-for-clean-energy, and the "We are Climate Mayors," which is an initiative of the Mayors' National Climate Action Agenda (MNCAA) and viewable at <https://medium.com/@ClimateMayors/climate-mayors-commit-to-adopt-honor-and-uphold-paris-climate-agreement-goals-ba566e260097>.

How Can You Help?

Finally, understanding that everyone can make choices that will greatly reduce our global warming impacts, I invite the entire community (residents, businesses, and schools) to join us in taking steps to stop global warming. By reducing excessive consumption, using clean and renewable energy resources, buying locally produced products, and recycling, reusing, and composting our waste, we will continue to pave the way for a more vibrant and healthier future, sustaining the planet for generations to come. Join the Fremont Green Challenge and help create a clean, vibrant, and healthy future for our families. Visit this local climate action engagement platform at www.FremontGreenChallenge.org to learn more.

Lily Mei

RALLY OVER THE RAINBOWS

interesting. Without the use of GPS (Global Positioning System), DME (Distance Measuring Equipment), RNAV (Area Navigation), LORAN (Long range navigation), or other navigational instruments, pilots are required to present predicted flight times and fuel consumption estimates prior to takeoff and will be judged on how close they match those predictions. If that doesn't sound difficult enough, flight times are scored to the tenth of a gallon, and they are required to identify and log checkpoints along the flight route. Any deviation or incorrect identification is penalized by a point. The pilot that lands in Reno with the least amount of points is proclaimed the winner. Past winners are remarkable, able to identify all markers and predict flight times with accuracy to within 15 seconds and one percent fuel consumption! Upon landing in Reno/Stead, the top ten pilots are awarded monetary prizes and trophies; the winner takes home $500. Secondary awards are presented such as "Top Gun" for the fastest speed and timing, "Highest Altitude," "Best Rookie Racer," and to keep things humorous, "The Wright Flyer" for the slowest flight, and the "Tail End" for last place. Awards and prizes are given out at a banquet dinner Saturday evening at the Renaissance Reno Downtown by Marriott, and then all pilots fly back home Sunday morning.

Though the rally takeoff is not open to spectators, those interested can keep track of the race and gather additional information at: www.hwdairrally.org. The event is organized by the Hayward Air Rally, Inc., a charitable non-profit organization that promotes aviation safety through competition in skills-based events. Each year the rally offers scholarships to deserving students to attend the EAA (Experimental Aircraft Association) Air Academy. Donations are always welcome.

Grab a book
and start reading
SUBMITTED BY ALICIA REYES

Alameda County Library has launched its annual Summer Reading program at branches throughout the region. This year's theme — Ready for Tomorrow – inspires readers of all ages to learn something new and connect with their communities through various games and activities. Examples include reading a new book, visiting a new place, trying a new craft, volunteering at an organization, and meeting new people.

Participants in the program, continuing through Sept. 15, will have a chance to win free books and prizes by reading and completing selected activities. Sign-ups can be made by visiting the Summer Reading Program website at <http://summer.aclibrary.org>.

“Our Summer Reading program helps bridge the gap in academic achievement by getting books and other literacy tools into the hands of children and families who need it the most,” said Cindy Chadwick, County Librarian.

This year's Summer Reading program incorporates an intergenerational format that enhances participation between people of all ages. There are no age specific formats; everyone plays one game. “With this intergenerational format, a child can play with their parents, teens can play with their grandparents, and siblings of different ages can play together. The point is that these activities model learning and help foster connections within families and communities,” said Anna Gonzalez, Children's Services Coordinator.

Participating children, teenagers and adults will be included in a drawing where they may win one of five grand prizes:

- Fjallraven Backpack (for Children)
- VTech Camera (for Children)
- Beats Earbud Headphones (for Teens and Adults)
- Fujifilm Waterproof Camera (for Teens and Adults)
- Timbuk2 Backpack (for Teens and Adults)

This year's program will run an extra four weeks to accommodate learning throughout the entire summer break for students. Research shows that youths who read over the summer months avoid summer learning loss and return to school better equipped to continue with their studies.

Last year, more than 15,000 people signed up for Alameda County Library's Summer Reading program. To learn more about the program visit www.aclibrary.org.

CSUEB matches own best Cup finish

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY

Cal State East Bay has placed seventh in the 2016-17 California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) Robert J. Hiegert Commissioner's Cup standings, the conference office announced June 7. This the second year in a row the Pioneers have finished seventh, which matches their highest standing since joining the conference.

CSUEB garnered 59.76 points in yearlong race, putting the department in the middle of the 13-member conference, ahead of six rival institutions. Prior to 2015-16, East Bay had never finished higher than 11th in the CCAA Hiegert Cup standings since joining the league. The school has now improved its point total every year since 2010.

Named in honor of former Commissioner and CCAA Hall of Famer Robert J. Hiegert, the Hiegert Cup rankings are calculated using an institution's top two conference finishes in the fall, winter, and spring sports seasons, as well as the highest two other finishes, regardless of season. An institution's numerical finish for team sports is determined by regular-season standings. Individual sports finishes are determined by the finishes at the season-ending championship event.

2016-17 Robert J. Hiegert Commissioner's Cup Results
1. UC San Diego - 97.62
2. Chico State - 95.00
3. Cal Poly Pomona - 82.94
4. Sonoma State - 72.69
5. Cal State San Bernardino - 71.84
6. Stanislaus State - 71.53
7. Cal State East Bay - 59.76

Sasaki accepts Tritons bid

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

An emotional ceremony was held at Irvington High School (Fremont) on June 7th as Riley Sasaki, an exceptional track athlete, completed his senior year and traded blue and white Viking athletic gear for the blue and gold of the University of California San Diego Tritons. Sasaki signed an athletic scholarship acceptance letter to continue his formidable track and field record that includes a 100-meter freshman-sophomore record and 200-meter varsity record. Riley said he anticipates a good future with the Tritons and will continue his hard work to remain a success both in the classroom and on the track. He added that this moment is the result of unwavering support by his family and friends.

FATHER’S DAY WITH NILES CANYON RAILWAY

SUBMITTED BY
HELENE MARIE ROYLANCE

Niles Canyon Railway is celebrating Father’s Day with a scenic ride through the Sunol valley, pulled by two historic diesel engines. Fathers will be treated to free beer or root beer during the leisure ninety-minute ride. The trains will depart from both the Sunol Depot and the Niles Station, and all tickets are round trip. Riders can depart from their preferred location, ride one way and hop on a later train to return! In addition, the Niles Canyon Artisans will be set up displaying hand-produced fine arts, jewelry and crafts at the Sunol Depot location. Give Dad a special treat this year, and come take a ride on these wonderful, historical engines through the beautiful hills of Sunol!

The rides that depart from the Sunol Depot will be pulled by the Western Pacific 918-D. The 918-D is an EMD F7, powered by a 16-cylinder EMD engine with 1500 horsepower. She was built on January 27, 1950 and although originally produced as a freight hauling engine, the 918-D was also used in passenger service. In her final run, she was heading eastbound over the Altmont Pass, when she suffered a fire that caused extensive damage to her main electrical cabinet. Deemed too costly to fix, she was retired on March 30, 1981. Luckily, shortly thereafter in June 1982, she was donated to the Pacific Locomotive Association, who began the efforts to restore the engine back to running condition. She has been in Niles Canyon for over ten years now!

The trains departing from the Niles Station in Fremont will be pulled by the Western Pacific 713, a diesel-electric built in April 1953. The 713 is part of the GP7 models which feature large “Pyle National” single bulb headlights, dynamic brakes, and dual controls. The dual controls were a design breakthrough that allowed the engineers to operate from either side of the cab, always ensuring that the engineers were on the righthand side of the track to see signals. This improvement eliminated the need to turn the locomotive at the end of a run so the short hood end was leading. With the addition of these GP7 models, Western Pacific was able to retire all of their remaining steam locomotives, becoming the first railroad to fully dieselize. The 713 was retired in January 1983, and donated to the Pacific Locomotive Association in January of 1984.

Along with the featured trains, the Niles Canyon Artisans will have several booths set up just outside the Sunol Depot, featuring hand-produced fine arts and crafts by local artisans. The booths will feature a variety of art, including paintings and prints, jewelry, pottery, ceramics, wood turned items and much much more! For more information regarding the Niles Canyon Artisans please visit our website at <http://nilescanyonartisans.com>.

The trains will be departing at 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 18th from the Sunol Depot, located at 6 Kilkare Road, Sunol, CA. Trains will alternately be departing on the same day from the Niles Station at 11:20 a.m., and 1:20 p.m., located at 37029 Mission Boulevard, Fremont, CA. Tickets can be purchased at the ticket booth at the station. Adult tickets start at $13. Senior tickets (62+) are $10. Tickets for children 3-12 are $7. Under 3 is free. Cribbage Club

MARTY FROOMIN

Combining luck and skill, cribbage is a two-player card game invented in the seventeenth century and still played today by young and old alike. Members of Christopher’s Crusaders, formally known as the American Cribbage Congress (ACC) Grass Roots Cribbage Club #43 in Fremont, one of 185 clubs in North America sanctioned by the ACC, compete every Wednesday evening in a 9-game round-robin tournament.

The Grass Roots (GR) official season consists of 36 weeks of play between September 1 and May 31 each year. This season marks the 31st season since GR 43 was chartered in 1987. Tournament players are a nice mix of male and female, young and old, and skill levels that include novice, intermediate and advanced. The club welcomed new member Darryl Dawson this season.

Roy Kaufmann of San Leandro had a strong season and was not to be caught. He led the last 16 weeks of the season to become the 2016-17 Club Champion, finishing with 249 GR points. In second place was Farokh Ziari from Fremont with 186 GR points. Marty Froomin, of Fremont, secured third place with 163 GR points.

Congratulations go to Roy Kaufmann for earning his Gold Award (4,000 GR points lifetime). No one had a Grand Slam this season, winning all nine games of a tournament. The most points that can be earned in a single hand is 29. Just as rare is the 28 hand, but amazingly, Theo Mattingly and Sharon Kemp, both of Fremont, drew to a 28 hand this last season. Three people never missed a week of play, Roy Kaufmann, Sharon Kemp and Reginald Lennie.

Many players arrive up to 90 minutes early to have dinner, catch up with friends, and discuss movies, books, gardening, and Sudoku and maybe even play a warm-up game or two.

This is also my [Marty Froomin] last year as Club Director. Craig Rothbach and Loren Lookabill have decided to share the duties as Co-Directors. I could not have done the job without the helpful assistance of

WILLIAM MARSHAK

We are entering a new era of district council elections in Fremont. It didn't take long for politics and the pressure of continuance on the council to become paramount when the City Council decided by a 3-2 vote (sound familiar?) to split Glenmoor and create districts that will preserve an incumbency advantage for two sitting councilmembers. Councilmembers' choice between two maps (C-1a, C-2b) was delivered in grand terms – "what's best for all citizens" and "for the benefit of the whole city" – but was it?

Although couched in favor of an Afghan constituency, Rick Jones and David Bonaccorsi gained the most from the map selected. Jones, who persevered even though visibly ill (and quickly left following the vote) made the interesting statement, "If it was a matter of political expediency, I would be voting for C-1a." What??? Bonaccorsi, an appointed member of the council who can use an "appointed incumbent" label in the 2018 election, came closest to the truth when he emphatically said, "There is nothing wrong as long if every protected class is being protected to consider incumbency as a factor." He cited "institutional continuity" as a reason for election of existing councilmembers in 2018. When speaking of the Afghan community, it was termed as a "community of interest" with a district that should encompass not only residences but businesses as well. When speaking about Parkmont, another community of interest, no mention was made of where or if those residents have businesses and where they are located.

The alternative map, favored by an overwhelming majority of citizens responding to an "unofficial" survey, would have placed Jones and Bonaccorsi in the same district. If so, only one could retain the seat. This move is reminiscent of previous years filled with 3-2 votes that were predictable when the same three councilmembers voted as a bloc in almost every instance. As the council increases in size, the contest is on to see whether the political establishment can overcome an upset at the polls as occurred in the last election when Mayor Mei was elected. With the increase of council seats to six plus a citywide mayoral election and more geographic representation from areas such as Ardenwood and Irvington, changes are sure to emerge. It will not be easy for any group or political party to control Fremont as in the past.

Arguments for Map C-2b included an attempt to cover the Afghan community, including businesses and residences, in a single district. The argument contends that control of business character will rest with Afghans who also reside in the district. Maybe, but it appears that Centerville will redevelop as a transit oriented development area and change from its current low rent, economically depressed condition no matter which district map was chosen. Also, the demographics of Afghan residences shown in both maps reveal a significant number of "Afghan community locations" outside district 2 boundaries. Splitting Glenmoor was glossed over as a division between Glenmoor and Glen Manor, a subtle distinction that relies on homeowner associations. The division of Parkmont was also used as a talking point, but in each map, a portion of that residential area is assigned to a different district.

In the long run, districts will adjust to census changes every ten years. However, the next census in 2020 will not necessarily show significant change since many residential projects are still in the planning stage and will not be built or occupied by that time. If so, especially in areas of the most impact from this decision such as Centerville, this decision could have an effect for the next decade, until the 2030 census. In the meantime, Councilmembers Jones and Bonaccorsi may face some tough questions and competition in their 2018 campaigns; Raj Salwan will be able to wait until 2020 before his turn comes.

Those voting for Map C-1a had no ulterior motives in this selection since Councilmember Bacon will term out in 2020 and Mayor Mei's first term ends in 2020 and, if she decides to run for a second term, will face a city-wide vote. Councilmember Bacon opened comments about what he called "an interesting and long trip." Although lobbied by political parties, he said, "For me the biggest issue here is that we focus on, what the residents of Fremont want and not what the politicians up on this dais want." He was on the losing end of the 3-2 vote.

It will be interesting to watch the election process as it changes dramatically in 2018. No longer will those with large war chests be able to dominate the political scene. Councilmember Salwan noted a "net positive result" of district elections. Let's hope he is right.

For those who missed the June 6, 2017 council meeting, visit: www.fremont.gov, look for "City Council" under "Your Government" and find "Agendas, Minutes & Webcasts"; listen for yourself.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Vargas access needs improvement

Vargas Plateau Regional Park reopened recently after being closed for nearly a year over concerns regarding the safety of access roads. Morrison Canyon Road is single-lane, and Vargas Road is narrow; both are maintained by the city [of Fremont]. Nearly all the 1,250-acre park (90%) lies within the city, and it frames the city's eastern skyline.

The staging area has just 25 spaces. When it fills, your choices are to circle around and wait, to park on the side of Morrison Canyon Road, or to return the way you came. Note that the road shoulders are eight to nine feet wide. Few vehicles venture beyond the park, since Vargas Plateau is agricultural and rural, and the road dead-ends a half-mile past the park. Visitors should not have to turn around, and retrace their steps down these narrow roads for lack of parking.

We call upon the City Council, park district and County to address the bottleneck in access. We believe the city should stand alongside EBRPD and protect park access for our residents while minimizing vehicle trips and vehicle miles traveled. In order to protect safety and reduce the risk of head-on collisions, the single-lane portion of Morrison Canyon should be made one-way. By utilizing the existing roadside parking, public access to open space in Fremont can be preserved.

Obituary

Suzanne Bassett Fitzpatrick

Suzanne Bassett Fitzpatrick, formerly of Menlo Park, CA, and Bend, OR, passed peacefully at home in Fremont, CA, on May 14, 2017. Her devotion to God supported her both in life and in death.

Sue was born in Columbus, Ohio, and was the younger of two siblings. She attended St. Mary of the Springs for High School. She earned a B.S. in Pharmacy from Ohio State University at a time when not many women went to or graduated from College, especially from such a rigorous program.

Sue is survived by her four children, four step children, and fifteen grandchildren; by a beloved cousin, brothers-and sisters-in-laws, various nieces and nephews, and many dear friends. Sue was preceded in death by her husband, an infant grandson, by her brother and his wife, by another beloved cousin, and by her parents as well as various aunts, uncles, and other relatives.

Sue was a good cook and a gracious hostess. There was always room at her table to add another person, especially during the holidays. Friends and family gathered on numerous occasions for "pot lucks" as well. Additionally, she liked to make "To Do" lists; family and friends alike were often invited to join her in completing the tasks.

Sue was very devoted to her church and in particular to the prayerful devotion of Mother Mary and to the Heavenly Host. She was an active member of the 24-Hour Adoration Rosary

Prayer Group at Church of the Nativity in Menlo Park, CA, and later worked tirelessly to bring a similar Adoration program to St. Francis Parish in Bend, OR. She travelled extensively with her husband Joe all over the world to sacred sites of religious apparitions for prayer and learning opportunities. During their travels, they were privileged to meet many devout persons and to experience many prayerful miracles, among them smelling certain scents during prayerful moments, seeing various images in the sun and sky both in person and later on film, having rosaries change colors during prayer at the sites, and more.

Sue was particularly taken with the Marian apparitions that were witnessed by three shepherd children beginning on May 13, 1917, in Fátima, Portugal. It was a great honor for her to live to experience prayers on the 100th Anniversary of this miraculous event, especially since this occurred the same weekend as Mother's Day. Her devotion was inspiring to those around her.

Obituary

Catherine “Katie” Smith

June 4, 1944 – April 30, 2017

Resident of Fremont

Catherine Jane Smith, better known as Katie, was called to the Lord’s presence on April 30, 2017. She was born in Moreton-In-Marsh, Gloucestershire, England to Robert (Bob) and Mary Nicholson. She was raised in the Cotswold area and in Sussex. Her upbringing was in rural areas where she developed a lasting interest in horticulture. While her parents are gone, she has two siblings who live in England, Winifred (Bunty) Reed (John dec) and Maria Barber (Phil). While she had no children of her own, there are many nephews, nieces, and cousins who mourn her loss. Katie was adventurous and spent a year after school working in France under the auspices of the University of Paris, teaching glass house horticultural techniques. In 1968, she came to America and settled in the Bay Area where she found work as a nanny to several families. She attended Neighborhood Church in Castro Valley where she met the love of her life, Rodney Smith. They were married in December 1970 and set up housekeeping in Fremont, Calif, where she lived out her life. Katie was a home-maker, avid racquetball player, and she volunteered at numerous activities. She spent many years working in the church office. She and Rodney traveled widely in the US and Britain, visiting many renowned gardens and parks. Her real passion was caring for the gardens at Shinn Park in Fremont. She joined the Friends of Heirloom Flowers and spent many hours each week caring for the flowers and plants in this park. Her knowledge of horticulture helped the Friends keep the gardens beautiful for weddings, family get-togethers and photos. She helped each December making wreaths to adorn the windows of the Shinn House at Christmastime. She did this as recently as Christmas 2016.

In January 2017, Katie was diagnosed with inoperable pancreatic cancer. She faced this illness with a stoic outlook and found peace as she trusted the Lord’s will for her, whatever that might be. She never lost her enthusiasm for matters she felt important. She prepared her husband for life without her presence and accepted the Lord’s will for her. God gave her the grace to be a truly brave and courageous person up to the end of her life on this earth.

A Celebration of Life Memorial service will be held June 22, 2017 at 1:00 PM at Fremont Memorial Chapel. In lieu of flowers, Katie asks any donations in her honor be sent to the charity of your choice.

Gas station attendant shot in robbery; suspect sought

SUBMITTED BY
SAN LEANDRO
POLICE DEPARTMENT

San Leandro Police detectives are searching for a suspect who shot and wounded a gas station attendant during a recent robbery.

Just before 8 p.m. on Sunday, June 4 a man entered the convenience store at a Chevron station at 15201 Washington Ave. and approached the counter. He appeared to be interested in making a purchase, but instead he pointed a handgun at the store clerk and demanded money.

As soon as the clerk, who was working alone, opened the cash register the suspect fired the gun and hit the clerk. The suspect then grabbed the cash and fled the store. The wounded clerk laid in the store for several minutes until he could call for help. He was taken to a hospital and is listed in critical condition.

Detectives have located video surveillance and other items of evidence which will be processed for investigative leads. Police describe the suspect as a black man, between 5-feet-8- and 5-feet-10-inches tall and weighing between 175 and 200 pounds. He was wearing a gray hooded sweatshirt, dark pants and white shoes.

Anyone who may have information about the suspect is encouraged to call San Leandro Police at (510) 577-2740.

Students spearhead K-9 retirement project

SUBMITTED BY
THOMASA DUEÑAS

A budget request made by Assemblymember Bill Quirk (D-Hayward) and Fremont students to provide a retirement program for retired police dogs has made it into the Assembly Budget.

"I am thrilled that the students were successful in eloquently expressing their arguments to my colleagues about why police dogs deserve to be provided with a modest budget allocation to help cover the cost of their care. After all, police dogs do heroic and strenuous work while on active duty," said Assemblymember Quirk after learning of the Assembly Budget Committee's action.

Students, Trinidad Hellman, Samih Qureshi, Sahir Qureshi, Malin Sapkota and Karina Sapkota from Niles Elementary School and Washington High School, are members of "We Love Pi," part of the First Lego League, an international robotics competition. As part of the program, students are required to identify a problem based on the year's theme and develop a solution. These students spent months on their project, named 401K-9, to create a program for police dogs when they retire.

Hellman summed up the feelings of the group, saying, "Since medical care for older dogs is so expensive, many hard-working police K-9s end up either creating a big bill for their owners or are unable to get the care they need, simply because their handlers can't afford it. I am very happy to know we are one step closer to paying our debt to police dogs doing dangerous and difficult work, because they have earned it and deserve it. This is the right thing to do. Go California!"

Senate and Assembly Budget Committees will meet in Conference Committee to finalize the 2017-2018 Budget. A decision on whether to include the retirement program in the State budget will be made public as early as this week.

Tuesday, May 30

At around 7:30 p.m. Officer Jensen was in the area of Alvarado Niles and Hop Ranch roads when he located a vehicle reported stolen out of Fremont. Cherrelle McMillon, a 27-year-old Oakland resident, was arrested on suspicion of vehicle theft.

Wednesday, May 31

Around 1 a.m. Officer Olson was in the area of Ithaca Street and Whipple Road when he noticed a vehicle idling in a parking lot. He followed the vehicle out of the parking lot, until the driver abruptly pulled to the side of the road and began walking away. Dispatch confirmed the vehicle was an unreported stolen vehicle out of Union City, and Joseph Deltoro, a 27-year-old Union City resident, was arrested on suspicion of vehicle theft.

At around 10:30 p.m. Officer Paul was dispatched to the report of an armed robbery that had just occurred near Gemini and Uranus drives. The victim said that a juvenile suspect hit him in the face with a handgun, and then demanded his phone, wallet and other property. The victim handed over his items, and the suspect fled on foot. The victim recognized the suspect, and later identified him in a photo line-up. Detectives later went to the suspect's Union City home and arrested the 17-year-old on various charges, including robbery, multiple weapons charges, and assault with a firearm. A search of the residence turned up a loaded pistol that matched the description by the victim.

Sunday, June 4

At about 9:45 p.m., Officer Stables was dispatched to the 3000 block of San Mateo Way on the report of a burglary that occurred about 15 minutes earlier. The victim said three suspects ran up to her, told her to drop her backpack, then they grabbed it off her arm and ran to a newer model (2007-2017) white Toyota sedan, possibly with an Oregon license plate. The first suspect was described as a black man, 14-22 years old, 5-feet-4 to 5-feet-5-inches tall with a medium build. The second suspect was described as a black man, about 5-feet-7-inches tall with medium length dreadlocks. The third suspect could only be described as 5-feet-7-inches tall.

Around 1:50 a.m., officers were dispatched to the 2800 block of Hop Ranch Road on the report of shots fired near the Alameda Creek Trail. Several subjects in the area immediately started running away. Officer. Mangan caught up to one of the subjects, a 17-year-old Hayward male. Nearby in the bushes, officers located a discarded loaded semi-automatic handgun, which had been stolen in a residential burglary last year. The male was arrested on suspicion of for resisting arrest, in addition to numerous weapons charges.

Neighborhood Watch program deters crime

SUBMITTED BY TIM JONES, NEWARK PD

To deter crime in their area, neighbors on Magnolia Street in Newark have banded together to form a Neighborhood Watch group in coordination with the Newark Police Department.

Launched in 1972, the Neighborhood Watch program is one of the most effective crime prevention tools in the nation. Citizens participating in local programs organize themselves and work with local law enforcement agencies to keep a trained eye and ear on their communities, while making their presence known all day and night. Neighborhood Watch works because it reduces opportunities for crime to occur; it doesn't rely on altering or changing a criminal's behavior or motivation.

Newark residents in other areas who are interested in starting a Neighborhood Watch program are encouraged to call Tim Jones, in the Community Engagement Division of the Newark Police Department at (510) 578-4209 or send him an email at tim.jones@newark.org.

The incident was being reported to have occurred near Fremont Boulevard and Decoto Road. Officer Fuellenbach and Crime Scene Investigator O'Neal responded to interview the victim. Officers obtained very little information about the incident. Officers went to the location where the incident was said to have occurred during the night and again during day light hours, but were unable to locate a crime scene. A follow-up is being conducted by Officer Fuellenbach.
A family attending graduation near the 43000 block of Mission Boulevard reported that while walking back toward their vehicle, an unknown man picked up their 5-year-old child. The father removed the child from the man's arms. The family did not believe the man was attempting to kidnap or injure the child but felt he may have mental health issues. The man boarded a bus and the left the area. Officer Wong is following up with AC transit in the hope of getting surveillance images of the man. The suspect was described as a white man about 45-years-old, about 5-feet-10-inches tall with a thin build. He had blond hair and was last seen wearing a white shirt and khaki pants.
Multiple street racers were reported near Kato Road and left when officers arrived. The racers then gathered near Fremont and

Saturday, June 3
Unwelcomed guests met partygoers at a family birthday party being held at a business on Albrae Street near Stevenson Boulevard. During the course of conversation someone used the word "gun" which caused a frenzy (likely due to intoxication). Officers responded and conducted two separate high risk stops with no gun found. In the end, the party was shut down. Officer Wong documented the incident with assists by Officer Knudson and Officer Higgins.
Sunday, June 4
A suspect entered a business on the 500 block of Mowry Ave. and stole a basket full of purses while attendees were meditating. One of the patrons noticed the missing purses and confronted two suspects. They were located at the back of the business going through the purses they had just taken. The suspects gave back the property and then fled eastbound on the nearby Creek Trail. Officer Vucurevich arrived on the scene and located one of the suspects along with the assistance of Officer Floresca and Field Training Officer Madsen. The detained suspect was identified as a 55-year-old man; a female suspect is still at large. She is described as a white woman in her 20s, brown hair, and last seen wearing a black shirt with a red sweater, black tights and orange shoes. Case being investigated by Officer Floresca.

At 8 p.m. officers were dispatched to Kaiser Hospital on the report of a battery. Officers learned that someone brought a German shepherd and two chihuahuas with them to visit a family member in the hospital. When security learned there were dogs in one of the rooms, they asked the visitors to remove them, but they refused. One of the family members pushed a security guard. Officers arrived and took a 39-year-old man into custody. He was booked into Santa Rita jail.

Tuesday, June 6

At just after noon, a 40-year-old woman was robbed of a gold chain in the 47100 block of Fernald Street in the Warm Springs district. The suspect was described as a black man about 25-year-old and standing about 5-feet-4-inches tall with a medium build. He was wearing a black hoodie and black pants. The suspect was only able to leave with a partial section of the chain. The victim sustained small scratches to her neck. Nearby Leitch Elementary was put into lockdown for about ten minutes while the area was being checked. The suspect was not located. Officer Carter investigated this robbery.
At 12:34 p.m. a citizen called to report a chain snatch robbery in the 3900 block of Stevenson Boulevard. The victim, a 29-year-old woman, was approached from behind and shoved to the ground by the suspect and he pulled the necklace from her neck. She sustained minor lacerations during the incident. The suspect was described as a black man between 20 and 30-year-old, standing about 5-feet-4-inches tall with a medium build. He was wearing a black hoodie and white shoes. He was seen getting into the passenger seat of a black or dark grey Nissan Altima that went northbound on Fremont Boulevard from Bidwell Drive. Officer Scherer investigated this robbery which may be related to a similar one earlier in the day in the Warm Springs area.

Police seeking clues in hit-and-run investigation

MILPITAS PD

Just before 10 a.m. on Monday, June 5, police in Milpitas received a call about an injured woman in the roadway on South Market Street, near West Curtis Avenue.
During their preliminary investigation, police determined the woman was struck by a car as she was using a crosswalk. The woman was taken to a hospital in critical condition. The driver fled the scene in the car, later identified from surveillance video as a white 2011 Dodge Avenger four-door sedan.
The next day at about 11 a.m. officers located the car near Alum Rock and North Jackson avenues. The windshield had been recently replaced and the passenger side mirror had been repaired, but there was still body damage on the car that investigators said was consistent with being involved with the previous day's hit-and-run collision.

Milpitas Police officers arrested the car's driver, Lorelay Robles-Parta, 35, of San Jose on suspicion of felony hit-and-run, driving without a license and destruction of evidence. She was booked into the Santa Clara County Jail.
The case is still under investigation. Police are asking that anyone with information about the collision or about the car repairs being made is asked to call them at (408) 586-2400. Information also can be sent online by visiting the Milpitas Crime Tip page at www.ci.milpitas.ca.gov/crimetip.

Block parties can be small or large, with barbecues, ice cream or any other ideas, where neighbors share good food, laughter and remind neighbors on how to keep the neighborhood safe

Citizens who register their National Night Out party by Thursday, July 27 may receive a visit by police or fire department personnel or city staff members and volunteers working with the program. Police and fire department officials said they will do their best to visit as many block parties as possible.

Durham Elementary welcomes leafy newcomers

By William Marshak

A cool mist greeted two new residents of Durham Elementary School on June 8th. Sponsored by Pacific Gas and Electric, Ms. Grace DeLadurantaye and her class of third graders gathered to watch as two lavender flowering Crepe Myrtle trees were planted in the front lawn of the school. Students discussed how trees help the environment by providing habitat for birds, shade on hot, sunny days and clean the air by absorbing carbon dioxide and using the sun’s energy to release oxygen. Crepe myrtle trees are deciduous (drop their leaves during winter months), drought tolerant, low maintenance and bloom with big, showy clusters during the summer.

Principal Teresa Bonaccorsi told the students that the Crepe Myrtle trees, selected under guidelines of the Fremont School District, will bloom with lavender flowers. Jillian Keller, speaking for PG&E, said that Durham’s new trees are expected to grow 2-3 feet every year, typically reaching a height of 15-25 feet although sometimes much taller. As landscaper Martin Lopez and Christopher Marshall of PG&E positioned and planted the trees, it was evident that students were happy to welcome their new schoolmates.

Microvi named Small Business of the Year

A pioneering green technology company in Hayward that creates methods to clean water and convert biomass into sustainable biofuels and biochemicals is the Small Business of the Year in Senate District 10. Sen. Bob Wieckowski announced June 5th. Microvi was honored at a ceremony recognizing businesses across the state as part of the California Small Business Association’s Small Business Day 2017.

“Access to clean water is an increasingly important issue in our state and around the world,” said Wieckowski, chair of the Senate Environmental Quality Committee. “We need safe, sustainable systems in place and Microvi’s advanced nitrate removal technology is providing more than 200 million gallons of potable water to thousands of households in California.”

In addition to nitrates, Microvi says its technology can be adapted to eliminate other groundwater pollutants, including uranium, Chromium-6 and perchlorate. Its technology leads to other cleanup savings by eliminating the need for pipelines and more disposal vehicles, cutting vehicle emission rates and decreasing the impact on landfills and the environment.

Wieckowski presented the award to Dr. Fatemeh Shirazi, Microvi’s chief executive officer. As CEO since 2008, Shirazi has guided the privately-held company through its first round of investment, scaled up its technology platform and forged many strategic partnerships.

“It is an honor to be recognized as a California Small Business of the Year,” Shirazi said. “Our state is a world leader in clean technology, and Microvi is thrilled to continue to play a role in delivering breakthrough technologies for the world’s needs in water, energy and the environment.”

Microvi has partnerships around the world with municipal agencies, public and private firms and academic institutions. In March, it received a Clean Tech award from the East Bay Economic Development Alliance.

Water study earns Fremont student honors

SUBMITTED BY MICHELE HUTRIC

June 8 the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency announced that 13-year-old Shreya Ramachandran, of Fremont, Calif., will receive the 2016 President’s Environmental Youth Award for her study of grey water use in water conservation. This national award is presented each year to K-12 students who demonstrate the initiative, creativity, and problem-solving skills needed to address environmental problems and find sustainable solutions.

“Today, we are pleased to honor these impressive young leaders, who demonstrate the impact that a few individuals can make to protect our environment,” said

EPA Administrator Scott Pruitt. “These students are empowering their peers, educating their communities, and demonstrating the STEM skills needed for this country to thrive in the global economy.”

Shreya, a student at Stratford School in Fremont, started her water conservation project in 2014. Having seen firsthand the effects of drought in California and in India, Shreya began researching ways to conserve and reuse water.

Shreya found that many commercial laundry detergents include chemicals that can be detrimental to soil, plants, and aquatic life. To address this, she conducted tests to see if grey water from soap nuts—a natural laundry detergent derived from the Indian soap berry—could be used as irrigation water without harming the environment. She conducted multiple tests, comparing grass that had been exposed to regular water, soap-nut grey water, organic and non-organic detergent grey water. She found that soap nut grey water was beneficial to plant growth and cost less than an organic detergent.

“Although I started this project to find a solution to California’s drought, doing it gave me exposure to the many water problems throughout the world and an eye-opening view of how devastating droughts can really be and how it affects people’s lives,” said Shreya. “I learned that I don’t have to be an adult to initiate change, and

I can make a real impact on my community. I hope my project will help people across the globe conserve water.”

The PEYA program promotes awareness of our nation’s natural resources and encourages positive community involvement. Since 1971, the President of the United States has joined with EPA to recognize young people for protecting our nation’s air, water, land and ecology. It is one of the most important ways EPA and the Administration demonstrate commitment to environmental stewardship efforts created and conducted by our nation’s youth.

Dandilyonn

a growing concern

QUYNHLAN NGUYEN

Back in 2015, a year of drought which left California drier than it had been at any time during the past 1,200 years, two Fremont middle school girlfriends, Shreeya Indap and Ojaswee Chaudary, were inspired by the book “Be a Changemaker: How to Start Something That Matters” by Laurie Ann Thompson. This book describes how very young people can make a positive difference in the world, and to these young girls, aware that they will be living in a world of rising ocean levels and more extreme weather, it was a call to action. They decided to tackle one of the biggest issues of the day: climate change. Given encouragement by their parents, the young ladies were off and running, with a mission statement, clear goals, and a strong social media presence.

With goals of educating generations of youngsters about climate change, promoting green habits, and raising money for community projects benefitting the environment, the duo created and sold, under the name Greenlyonn, a line of T-shirts featuring Shreeya's original drawings of a warming planet. A new enterprise, Dandilyonn, was initiated to host fun and educational events such as art parties for grade school age children at the Fremont Main Library. It is focused on reaching and teaching elementary school-age children, those who will feel the full effect of climate changes. Participants have enjoyed arts activities, learned about climate change and human activities that contribute to it, current and future effects, and what can be done to slow and reverse it.

Dandilyonn is a spelling variation derived from the name of the common dandelion plant. The dandelion plant itself is a powerful symbol for an environmental organization. This herb is an edible global citizen, found in temperate zones around the world. Its scientific name, Taraxacum Officinale, is derived from the Greek words for “disorder” and “remedy” – tonics made from the plant can be found in nearly every corner of the globe. Hardy and persistent, dandelions thrive in the slightest crack or crevice. And who among us hasn't enjoyed puffing on a dandelion to send seed parachutes flying on a summer breeze?

Dandilyonn's founders have worked hard at networking, developing sponsors, and coming up with activities that are both fun and focused on climate change education. Their Facebook page features weekly articles of interest, and green tips – for example, using fabric to wrap presents, rather than non-recyclable wrapping paper. They participated in Adobe's 2017 Earth Day Fair at the San Jose headquarters, and on April 30, 2017 hosted their first ever walkathon at Lake Elizabeth in Fremont. While both Shreeya and Ojaswee agreed that it was a lot of work, it was also fun for everyone. Over 60 people participated, and the event was so successful that they were able to donate $1,200 to Greenpeace San Jose.

Joshua Amos Wapner of Greenpeace San Jose said, “On behalf of Greenpeace I'd truly like to take a moment to thank you for the work you put into this walkathon. I frequently come back to the words of Robert Kennedy who said ‘The future will be shaped in the arena of human activity, by those willing to commit their minds and their bodies to the task.’ The issues confronting us as a society are indeed profound, but it will be when each of us stands up and lends our time and efforts to a common cause that we will prevail. It is so deeply reassuring to see that here today and as a global citizen, an organizer, and a parent I am truly thankful.”

Now freshmen in high school, Shreeya and Ojaswee have even bigger plans for the future of Dandilyonn, plans that disprove the idea that younger people are blasé and uninvolved in world affairs. In addition to providing tips on green living through social media and at their events, they are currently working on a fundraising dance show – both are students of classic kathak Indian dance. Proceeds will assist a local high school replace lights with LED bulbs, saving significant energy. Keep an eye on Dandilyonn, these young ladies are making a difference!

To learn more about Dandilyonn, visit www.dandilyonn.com or e-mail dandilyonn@gmail.com. Find them on social media: Instagram: @dandilyonn, Google+: Dandilyonn Co., and Facebook: www.facebook.com/dandilyonn.co. Greenlyonn T-shirts can be ordered via the website.
