Unusual circumstances bring four black bears to Oakland Zoo

SUBMITTED BY ERIN HARRISON

A female black bear and her three cubs recently arrived at the Oakland Zoo after being under the care of the California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW).

Although it is CDFW policy not to place large adult mammals into captivity, a sequence of unique circumstances provided these bears an opportunity for a life as educational ambassadors at the zoo's upcoming California Trail exhibit, rather than euthanasia for the sow and attempted rehabilitation of the cubs.

One woman's diagnosis leads to classes for Parkinson's patients

BY JOHNNA M. LAIRD

A diagnosis of Parkinson's disease can be devastating. Timing for Ann Boylan seemed particularly unfair. A month into her retirement from 30 years' teaching in public schools, she felt her first tremor.

"That was my retirement gift," says Boylan of Union City without an ounce of self-pity. Allowing herself about "five seconds of 'Why me?'" Boylan said she kicked in her teaching skills and researched everything she could find to learn about Parkinson's disease. "I glommed onto a free booklet from the National Parkinson's Foundation, Fitness Counts," she explains, "about the importance of exercise in coping with the course of the disease."

Like many people, Boylan at first kept quiet about her diagnosis. She didn't mention it when she attended exercise classes at Union City's Mark Green Sports Center where she has been a member since 2007, participating in kickboxing, dancing, and other aerobic classes. When Boylan decided to participate in a Parkinson's fundraising, she mentioned it to a few friends and received "a wonderful response." Encouraged by the support, she approached Corina

Amateur Radio enthusiasts test skills during Field Day

SUBMITTED BY AL RENDON

Amateur Radio ("ham") operators across the country will leave the comfort of their home-based radio "shacks" for a weekend of emergency preparedness activity called "Field Day." The event is designed to test operators' skills in setting up and operating radio communication equipment in situations where electrical power is limited or unavailable. The idea is to simulate conditions that can occur during natural disasters: hurricane, earthquake, flood, and man-made. Sponsored by the national association for Amateur Radio – the American Radio Relay League (ARRL), the first Field Day took place in 1933.

During Field Day, operators set up radio transmitting and receiving equipment in local parks, at shopping malls, or even in backyards, and get on the air using generators, battery or solar power to run their equipment. This type of exercise, along with the operators' dedication to public service, allows them to step in and help emergency officials and relief organizations when disaster strikes. Cell phones, the Internet and other communications technologies have yet to replace what Amateur Radio operators can do. They have a long track record of getting the message through when all other systems fail!

This year, the South Bay Amateur Radio Club (SBARA) will be holding its preparedness exercise at Central Park in

Summertime Barbecues and Picnics—Handle Food with Care to Keep Your Fun Flowing

Summer is in full swing, bringing fun in the sun with picnics and barbecues at pools, parks, beaches and backyards.

But summertime heat also brings the potential for harmful bacteria to multiply in food, which could cause foodborne illnesses. It's vital to take extra care during preparation, transporting and storage. "From preparing food at home to serving it outdoors, it's important to follow some basic food safety guidelines, such as those from the FDA," says Lorie Roffelsen, registered dietitian and certified diabetes educator at Washington Hospital.

She offers the following tips for safe food handling:

Keep it Clean: First and foremost, make sure your hands, utensils, countertops and cutting boards are clean at all times to avoid cross-contamination—not only at home, but also at the picnic site. Wash cutting boards between preparing meats and fresh fruit or vegetables, or use separate ones for each.

Food Prep at Home: While preparing meat, poultry or seafood at home, Roffelsen advises thawing them under refrigeration, as opposed to leaving them on a countertop. "The meat could be too warm on the outside while you're waiting for the inside to thaw," she explains. These items should be kept at 40 degrees Fahrenheit or below in order to slow or prevent bacterial growth—and reheat at a temperature of at least 165 degrees. Roffelsen recommends using a meat thermometer to be safe. Also, be sure to refrigerate your dish while it's marinating, rather than leaving it on the counter or outside. Remember to bring a separate container of marinade to the picnic, as reusing it could be harmful.

At the Picnic Site: If you're bringing raw meat, poultry or fish to be grilled at the picnic, be sure to use a newly cleaned platter and utensils for them once they're grilled. Cold foods containing protein, such as chicken, tuna and egg salads are especially at risk for bacteria. Therefore, Roffelsen says, "Meat dishes and casseroles should not be left out for more than two hours. If the outside temperature is above 90 degrees, reduce the time out to no more than one hour." If possible, keep cold protein dishes on ice while out for service. And don't forget to keep your hands clean while preparing and setting out your meals. If you'll be at a park or beach where you won't have access to soap and water, she suggests bringing hand sanitizer or moist towelettes.

Storing and Transporting Food: "Don't store raw vegetables or fruit beneath any type of meat in order to avoid the danger of contamination from meat drippings. You should even use separate shopping bags for meat and produce if possible," Roffelsen says. If you carry food in a reusable bag, wash it after removing the food. If the bag isn't machine washable, she notes, use disinfectant wipes. She also cautions against leaving any type of food in a car in the heat—especially any dish containing mayonnaise.

If you're toting your food in a cooler, be sure to keep the cooler closed as much as possible to decrease the amount of heat exposure. Foods such as chicken salad and desserts in individual serving dishes can be placed directly on ice, or in a shallow container set in a deep pan with ice.

You may even want to consider packing beverages in a separate cooler from meats. That way, as picnickers reach into the cooler to pull out their drinks, your meat won't be unnecessarily exposed to heat.

Following these simple, yet crucial guidelines could be your recipe for a healthy, fun-filled day in the sun.

Stay safe with outdoor food prep tips.

$1000 Scholarships available for high school and college singers

SUBMITTED BY DARRYL GUZMAN

Centerville Presbyterian Church in Fremont is holding auditions for scholarship positions in its 60-voice church choir.

Auditions for Centerian Choral Scholars for the 2017-18 school year are now taking place. If you are a high school- or college-aged singer, you could receive a $1000 scholarship for singing next year with the church choir at Centerville Presbyterian.

The successful Centerian Choral Scholar passes an audition and then rehearses and performs for a full year with the Choir, attending all rehearsals and performances, demonstrating excellent singing skills and actively participating. Choir Scholars report directly to the Director of Traditional Worship. Current Choral Scholars come from American High School, Fremont Christian High School, Irvington High School, Washington High School, Ohlone College and the San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

Choral Scholars who fulfill the attendance and performance requirements for the choir year (September through June) will receive a $1000 scholarship. Scholarship funds will be paid directly to the college of the Scholar's choice and may be used for tuition, room and board, textbooks, and other school expenses. Scholars who are still in high school may have the scholarship funds held by Centerville Presbyterian Church until they are enrolled in college, at which time the funds will be dispersed. Funds not used within ten years are forfeited.

Rehearsals are normally scheduled in the church sanctuary Thursday nights from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., though they frequently end sooner. In the fall, the choir rehearses Christmas music one Saturday a month from 9:00 a.m. to noon. The choir rehearsal and performance schedule is published in the weekly bulletin.

Students and Legislators meet

SUBMITTED BY JANICE ROMBECK

The youngest members of our Bus Trip to Sacramento 2017 were prepared. They had done their homework for the May 31 forum with our Legislators, and, although shy at first, they raised their hands along with the grown-ups to ask questions about high school exit exams, violence prevention in the classroom, government efficiency, and women in politics.

One young woman asked, "What can be done to get more girls interested in government so they might run for office some day?"

"Women don't get involved in politics because no one asks them. We expect someone to ask us to do it," said Assemblywoman Anna M. Caballero, one of 26 women in the 120-member California Assembly and Senate. "Find something you're passionate about and want to get done. If you see something that isn't right and needs to be changed, you've got to be ready to lead the battle and change it," she said. "Figure out how to get organized. No question we need more women."

The 15th Annual Bus Trip for Education, sponsored by the office of Supervisor Dave Cortese and the Silicon Valley Education Foundation, included 155 participants from Evergreen School District, representing Chaboya and Leyva Middle Schools. When the bus arrived, Assemblymembers and Senators were at full speed trying to get their bills approved by the Friday June 1 deadline.

"We're a little stressed right now," said Assemblyman Mark Stone, the first Legislator to meet the students. Assemblyman Ash Kalra joined Stone in greeting the students before they both rushed off for a 10 a.m. session.

Stone talked about his efforts to ensure health care for children, including mental health services, and addressed the issue of youths' competency to stand trial. He and other Legislators also voiced concerns over proposed federal budget cuts to and their effect on State spending. The 2018 U.S. Education Budget proposes to slash funding for the Education Department by more than 13 percent.

"It would be devastating to education," Stone said. "We're waiting to see what the federal government does and what we need to do."

Among Assemblyman Kalra's bills is AB830, which would eliminate the high school exit exam and remove it as a condition of receiving a high school diploma. The exam was suspended in 2015 because it was outdated.

Supervisor Cortese wants to thank all participants and speakers.

If anyone has suggestions for next year's trip, call Supervisor Cortese's office at (408) 299-5030 or email dave.cortese@bos.sccgov.org.

San Leandro Extends National Bicycle Safety Month

SUBMITTED BY
REH-LIN N. CHEN

May was National Bicycle Safety Month, but the City of San Leandro and the California Office of Traffic Safety (OTS) want cyclists and motorists to be cautious all summer long.

"After a wet winter season," says Mayor Pauline Cutter, "we are eager to enjoy the summer weather by putting our helmets on, hopping on a bike, and exploring our streets and bike paths. Everybody who shares the roads should know about bicycle safety."

- Be A 'Roll Model'
- Ride and Drive Focused - Never ride or drive distracted.
 - Ride and Drive Prepared - Always expect the unexpected.
 - Safety First - Always wear a bicycle helmet when on a bicycle and a seat belt when in a vehicle.
 - Know the Rules of the Road - A bicyclist is considered a vehicle on the road, with all the rights and responsibilities of motorized traffic. California has a "Move Over Law" which requires motorists to pass bike riders with at least a 3-foot cushion.
 - Share the Road - Both motorist and bicyclist should look out for each other and show mutual respect.

For riders and drivers, 'Roll Model' means actively decreasing the risks of traffic crashes, preventable injuries, and deaths. In 2015, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) reported 818 cyclist deaths and over 45,000 cyclist injuries, representing a 12% increase from 2014. Over the 10-year period from 2006 to 2015, the average age of cyclists killed in motor vehicle crashes increased from 41 to 45. Alcohol involvement, either for the motor vehicle operator or for the cyclist, was reported in 37% of all fatal cyclist crashes in 2015.

For more information on Bicycle Safety Month, please visit www.NHTSA.gov/bicycle-safety

Summer Music Program

SUBMITTED BY JUDY LAM

The Fremont Youth Symphony Orchestra (FYSO) Summer Music Program is a fun, interactive, and progressive approach that helps school band/orchestra students to improve in sight-reading, counting, and playing challenging pieces, and where students can learn about efficient and effective practice methods and audition preparations.

This program makes Music Theory come alive through class games and real applications in popular pieces by famous composers. The music classes and instrumental workshops are designed to help students obtain a better understanding and appreciation of different music genres and periods relating to world history.

Students will participate in the Instrumental Ensembles and learn technique in performance skills and how to overcome stage fright. Ensemble playing offers a positive social experience and helps develop self-confidence and self-esteem in real-time performances.

For more information regarding the auditions and summer program, please visit www.fremontsymphony.org/youth, call (510) 936-0570 or e-mail youth@fremontsymphony.org.

San Francisco celebrates 1967 Summer of Love

By JOCELYN GECKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

They came for the music, the mind-bending drugs, to resist the Vietnam War and 1960s American orthodoxy, or simply to escape summer boredom. And they left an enduring legacy.

This season marks the 50th anniversary of that legendary “Summer of Love,” when throngs of American youth descended on San Francisco to join a cultural revolution. Thinking back on 1967, Bob Weir of the Grateful Dead recalls a creative explosion that sprouted from fissures in American society. That summer marked a pivot point in rock-and-roll history, he says, but it was about much more than the music.

“There was a spirit in the air,” said Weir, who dropped out of high school and then helped form the Grateful Dead in 1965. “We figured that if enough of us got together and put our hearts and minds to it, we could make anything happen.”

San Francisco, now a hub of technology and unrecognizable from its grittier, more freewheeling former self, is taking the anniversary seriously. Hoping for another invasion of visitors — this time with tourist dollars — the city is celebrating with museum exhibits, music and film festivals, Summer of Love-inspired dance parties and lecture panels. Hotels are offering discount packages that include “psychedelic cocktails,” “Love Bus” tours, tie-dyed tote bags and bubble wands.

The city’s travel bureau, which is coordinating the effort, calls it an “exhilarating celebration of the most iconic cultural event in San Francisco history.”

One thing the anniversary makes clear is that what happened here in the 1960s could never happen in San Francisco today, simply because struggling artists can’t afford the city anymore. In the Haight-Ashbury neighborhood, which was ground zero for the counterculture, two-bedroom apartments now rent for $5,000 a month. San Francisco remains a magnet for young people, but even those earning six-figure Silicon Valley salaries complain about the cost of living.

In the mid-1960s, rent in Haight-Ashbury was extremely cheap, Weir, now 69, told The Associated Press. “That attracted artists and bohemians in general because the bohemian community tended to move in where they could afford it,” he said.

During those years, the Grateful Dead shared a spacious Victorian on Ashbury Street. Janis Joplin lived down the street. Across from her was Joe McDonald, of the psychedelic rock band Country Joe and the Fish.

Jefferson Airplane eventually bought a house a few blocks away on Fulton Street, where they hosted legendary, wild parties. “The music is what everyone seems to remember, but it was a lot more than that,” said David Freiberg, 75, a singer and bassist for Quicksilver Messenger Service who later joined Jefferson Airplane. “It was artists, poets, musicians, all the beautiful shops of clothes and hippie food stores. It was a whole community.”

The bands dropped by each other’s houses and played music nearby, often in free outdoor concerts at Golden Gate Park and its eastward extension known as the Panhandle. Their exciting new breed of folk, jazz and blues-inspired electrical music became known as the San Francisco Sound. Several of its most influential local acts — the Grateful Dead, Jefferson Airplane, Big Brother and the Holding Company, which launched Joplin’s career — shot to fame during the summer’s three-day Monterey Pop Festival.

One song served as a national invitation to hippies across the land. “San Francisco (Be Sure to Wear Flowers in Your Hair),” written by John Phillips of the Mamas & the Papas and sung by Scott McKenzie, came out in May 1967. It bolted up the charts and was used to help promote the Monterey festival that June.

“Every fantasy about the summer of ‘67 that was ever created — peace, joy, love, nonviolence, wear flowers in your hair and fantastic music — was real at Monterey. It was bliss,” said Dennis McNally, the Grateful Dead’s longtime publicist and official biographer who has curated an exhibit at the California Historical Society that runs through Sept. 10. The exhibit, “On the Road to the Summer of Love,” explains how that epic summer came about and why San Francisco was its inevitable home. McNally uncovered 100 photographs, some never seen publicly, that trace San Francisco’s contrarian roots to the Beat poets of the 1950s, followed by civil rights demonstrations and the Free Speech Movement at the University of California, Berkeley in the early 1960s.

The national media paid little attention to San Francisco’s psychedelic community until January 1967, when poets and bands joined forces for the “Human Be-In,” a Golden Gate Park gathering that unexpectedly drew about 50,000 people, McNally said. It was there that psychologist and LSD-advocate Timothy Leary stood on stage and delivered his famous mantra: “Turn on. Tune In. Drop out.”

“After the media got hold, it just exploded,” McNally said. “Suddenly, a flood descends on Haight Street. Every bored high school kid — and that’s all of them — is saying, ‘How do I get to San Francisco?’”

An exhaustive exhibit at San Francisco’s de Young museum, “The Summer of Love Experience,” offers a feel-good trip back in time. There’s a psychedelic light show, a 1960s soundtrack and galleries with iconic concert posters, classic photographs and hippie chic fashions worn by Joplin, Jerry Garcia and others. It runs through Aug. 20.

But that summer’s invasion carried a dark cloud. Tens of thousands of youths looking for free love and drugs flooded into San Francisco, living in the streets, begging for food. Parents journeyed to the city in search of their young runaways. An epidemic of toxic psychedelics and harder drugs hit the streets. “Every loose nut and bolt in America rattled out here to San Francisco, and it got pretty messy,” Weir said.

The long-timers saw it as the end of an era, but one that shaped history. “We created a mindset that became intrinsic to the fabric of America today,” said Country Joe McDonald, now 75. “Every single thing we did was adapted, folded into America — gender attitudes, ecological attitudes, the invention of rock and roll.”

Half a century later, McDonald, who lives in Berkeley, feels the rumblings of history repeating itself. UC Berkeley is again at the center of a free speech debate, albeit of a different nature. Discontent with the U.S. government and President Donald Trump has stirred the largest protests he’s seen since the Vietnam War. In the women’s marches across America, he felt echoes of the Summer of Love.

“I think there’s a similarity,” McDonald said, drawing a parallel to the massive anti-Trump turnout marked by nonviolence, playful pink protest hats, creative signs and a determination to change the country’s political course. “Both were about saying goodbye to the past and hello to the future.”

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JUNE 21 - JUNE 27

For All Signs: We arrive at the point of the summer solstice on June 21 at 12:24 am EDT. This is the point of the year at which the northern hemisphere is tilted closest to the sun. This is also theoretically the longest day of the year. For centuries, pagans (country people) celebrated this day with prayers and requests for blessings from mother earth, who would soon yield the summer harvests.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): Going off on your own might make your life easier for the next few days. However, give more attention to the roles played by the important people in your life. The reward might be longer term peace and harmony. You have to decide which is more valuable: short term freedom or the support of a long-term relationship.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Circumstances will work in your favor as you deal with travel, legal interests, higher education, religious activities, or publishing matters. In some situations, it is a matter of good will from others; in others, it may just be your good fortune that the rule of the Powers that Be helps things flow in your direction.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Your ruling planet, Mercury, moves into the sign of Cancer for the next two to three weeks. Your attention will be drawn to organizing your financial picture. Be open to a realistic check on this area. If there are issues, leave the credit cards at home on the weekend. You will be prone to overspend.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): On June 21, 2017, not only will you have the solstice (see lead paragraph) but also Mercury enters your sign. You may need to think out loud about whatever you are pondering. If there is no one to listen, satisfy that need by making outlines or lists. Your mind is flowing with good ideas. Perhaps you need to diagram how all these things fit together. Your mind is working fast. You will need to find a way to bring order out of the apparent chaos.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): It is normal to feel somewhat lethargic during the month just prior to one's birthday. At this time, the sun is figuratively at its darkest and we experience a natural low in our personal annual cycle. Don't take the dip too seriously. It is meant to happen this way, so that you can rest before your new year begins. Take a vacation if possible.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You are finishing a work project and shifting gears into new territory this week. You will be focusing on communications with friends, acquaintances, and building your network. You are tempted to speak about things that are better left unsaid. Avoid the temptation to gossip.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Aspects favor collection of debts and small gifts or favors from others. All you must do is be present and open to receiving them. Communications with family and friends is a large part of your weekend. You have a lot of energy to share and likely will be involved in activities that help you burn up some of that excess. Keep your opinions to yourself unless asked.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Take yourself outdoors this week and enjoy the summer weather. Go somewhere or do an activity that soothes your nerves and offers peace of mind. Things are improving in your primary relationship. Perhaps you are using better diplomacy, so exchanges go more smoothly.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): You are especially interested in paying off debts and organizing your finances. In less than a year you will make some big changes and you don't want to be encumbered by bills or financial promises that might slow your forward motion. Time with family and home interests are rewarding to you now.

Take a moment to give honor and thanks to the trees, which are weakening in their battle against our pollution. The solstices and equinoxes throughout the years are especially significant points in time on this planet. Give attention to the main events both one month before and after the solstice. They represent a global message.

will make some big changes and you don't want to be encumbered by bills or financial promises that might slow your forward motion. Time with family and home interests are rewarding to you now.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): The bells of romance may be ringing this week. You are unusually open and friendly, which attracts people to you. If you have wanted to ask someone for coffee, now is the time. You are also especially creative. That does not imply that you should do something artistic, but you may have a good time with any type of media.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): This is an unusually quiet week for the Waterbearer. Your avatar planets are Saturn and Uranus. During this week neither of them is sending you new messages. Chill. Take a week's breather. Go on a vacation. Read some books or watch some good movies.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): This is a fine time to enjoy books, watch TV, meditate, and journal. Give yourself time for self-exploration or even just "diddling around" and relaxing. Your dreams are meaningful and your intuition strong. Romance is on the horizon if you are interested. Allow your intuition to be your guide.

Muslim community deepens commitment to the environment

SUBMITTED BY RAJ MUNAIM

During the holy month of Ramadan, Dawoodi Bohra Muslims across the Bay Area are answering the call of their community’s 53rd spiritual leader, His Holiness Dr. Syedna Mufaddal Saifuddin Saheb (TUS), by embarking on an ambitious effort to plant over 100 trees as part of a global community effort to protect the environment. “His Holiness has great love for the environment and believes strongly in the role we can play in ensuring a sustainable, green future for generations to come. The benefits of trees are well-known and we’re excited to bring more trees to the neighborhoods throughout the Bay Area during this holy month,” said Raj Munaim, Director, Public Relations for Anjuman-e-Najmi, SF the Dawoodi Bohra community based in Fremont, California. The tree planting initiative was launched in 2013 by the 52nd leader of the Dawoodi Bohra community, the late His Holiness Dr. Syedna Mohammed Burhanuddin Saheb (RA). This original effort resulted in the planting of hundreds of thousands of trees throughout the world—with many right here in the Bay Area. Homeless student persists, graduates

SUBMITTED BY
KIMBERLY HAWKINS

On Saturday, June 10, Brenda Brown accepted her diploma from Cal State East Bay, but the journey to get there included many ups and downs and periods of being homeless, having to decide between food, school costs and rent. The 55-year-old came to the Bay Area in 2011 and “lived on God’s grace and mercy through friends.” Unable to find work, she decided to return to school and enrolled at Chabot Community College before transferring to Cal State East Bay. “I was moving a lot,” the communication major said. “I’m not as young as I used to be. I would rent a room, three months here, six months there. To rent rooms in people’s homes kept getting higher and higher until I couldn’t afford it anymore.” She kept her expenses low by restricting her monthly bills to payments on a storage unit, a cell phone and insurance on her 1996 Saturn. But come June 2016, it just wasn’t enough anymore. So, she decided to move into her car, still determined to not give up on school. Brown maintained a membership at a 24 Hour Fitness, where she showered and used the parking lot to sleep. She organized her wardrobe in her trunk. She tapped into Starbucks’ Wi-Fi to do schoolwork, but lacked privacy and says she lived in fear. “I had some scary nights,” she says. “I was grateful I had a car and it wasn’t cold. There had been times in the past when I had utilized shelters, but this time, whenever I called, there was always a waitlist. They’re geared more toward women with children and families.” Still, she was resolute in continuing with her education. “I made the best of it,” Brown says. “As long as I could change, wash, brush my teeth and make it to school, that’s all I was really concerned with.”

Brown also began receiving support from Cal State East Bay’s newly formed H.O.P.E. program, which offers resources and community to homeless and food-insecure students. “To me, Brenda is amazing,” says Alex Baker, program director for H.O.P.E. “She is a storybook of determination and progress, motivation. She’s been through so much, and even at her age, she’s never let circumstances hold her back.” Recently, Brown found a more stable living situation, thanks to retired university employee Suzy Stidham and her husband Lee, who have given her their guest room until graduation. Brown is looking for internships and work in communications. She says she has learned perseverance matters and that no matter how bad things seem, they will pass. Brown was featured on East Bay Today. You can see the full article here: <https://www.ebtoday.com/stories/the-indomitable-spirit-of-brenda-brown>

MASONIC HOMES OF CALIFORNIA

CONGRATULATIONS, MICHELLE!

The Masonic Homes awards Michelle Chiu with a college scholarship through Pathways to Success

Michelle Chiu of James Logan High School in Union City has been honored with a Pathways to Success Scholarship, awarded by the Masonic Homes. Chiu, who has a 4.61 weighted GPA, completed an internship with the Stanford Institutes of Medicine Summer Research Program last summer. She hopes to one day achieve a doctoral degree and be a research scientist in a field where she will make a meaningful impact upon society – perhaps through environmental research or studies of climate change. “I’m going to let my compassion, curiosity, perseverance, and responsibility be my guides,” Chiu wrote in her application essay.

The Masonic Homes evaluates scholarship applicants based on criteria that reflect its organizational values and priorities. Some of the key areas considered are community service, scholarship focus area, financial need, personal essay, and academics. The selection committee was moved by Chiu’s essay, in which she described herself as “a prospective college student who hopes to help the world.” In addition to serving as co-president of the Science Club, Chiu helped start the Acts of Random Kindness Club at her school, which seeks to support and motivate the student body. She also enjoys sharing her love of science with the next generation through hands-on science activities with children, helping her younger brother succeed, and tutoring peers on science and Chinese language.

In a glowing letter of recommendation, Elisabeth Childres, AP biology teacher, wrote “Michelle has extremely strong intellect, drive, and the confident demeanor of an individual who knows she can make a contribution to the scientific community and broader society. She is an exceptional candidate for you to make an investment in.” Social Science Instructor Alida Lombardi agreed, writing, “She is an excellent role model, demonstrating healthy choices, the importance of challenging oneself academically, and being engaged in the community and the world.”

The Masonic Homes was thrilled to learn that following the Pathways to Success Scholarship, Chiu also received a prestigious National Merit Scholarship. Only around 300 California high school students receive this highly competitive award annually. It requires extremely high academic standards, demanding a record of excellence throughout grades nine to 12, including any college coursework. “We are beyond thrilled to support Michelle in her academic journey,” says Masonic Homes Executive Vice President Gary Charland. “Her motivation and sincere desire to make a difference in the world will one day benefit us all.”

THE MASONIC HOMES SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE PRESENTS THIS YEAR'S AWARD TO MICHELLE CHIU.

The Pathways to Success Scholarships are awarded in coordination with the New Haven Schools Foundation. This year, nearly 90 local students received more than $133,000 in scholarships in the Union City community.

CONNECTING WITH YOUR TEEN

Teens have a lot on their minds, from homework to hormones to how they fit in with their friends. They need to know you’re there for them, but sometimes connecting can be a challenge. Here are tips to help strengthen your relationship.

- Create time, without distractions, for a conversation. Turn off the TV and put away phones for a few minutes every day.
- Listen instead of lecturing. Rather than rushing to offer advice, be a sounding board. Ask questions to help your teen work through their feelings.
- Withhold judgment; give your teen a safe space to express emotions and feelings. Be open-minded about the person your teen is becoming, and let them know that you’re always available to listen without judgment or criticism.
- If you’re concerned about your teen’s health or safety, let them know. Explain that you are monitoring them because you care about them. Be honest and transparent, and communicate from a place of love.
- Encourage your teen to develop their own solutions. Besides offering a great learning experience, this shows your teen that you believe in them, which will ultimately build their confidence and sense of autonomy.

- Connect by finding common ground and similar interests. Shoot hoops, go camping together, or start a family book club. Volunteer together. Create a ritual out of whatever works best.
- Send your teen one text a day that includes a positive statement. This gives your teen the affection they need while respecting their space. It may seem small, but each positive interaction strengthens your connection.

The Magic of Dry Riverbeds

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY DANIEL O'DONNELL

The world of magic has come a long way since Harry Houdini was performing solo escape stunts in the late 1800s and early 1900s. Today, magicians are more accurately referred to as illusionists as they take on bigger challenges. David Copperfield, possibly the most successful illusionist of all time, famously made the Statue of Liberty vanish. Although we know it did not really disappear, it gave us a sense of amazement. A person can construct a dry riverbed, an illusion on a much smaller scale, to create the sense of water running through their garden. Although we know there is no water flowing down the riverbed, the peacefulness associated with an actual river will be perceived.

A dry creek or riverbed is self explanatory. It is a dry waterway created by using rocks, gravel, and boulders to simulate the path that a stream or river might take if flowing through a yard. A dry riverbed can create interest in a garden, be an artistic way to divide a yard into different sections, provide a simple solution for a hard to plant area, or allow for a low maintenance "negative" or "open space" area.

The first and most important thing to consider when planning and constructing a dry riverbed is how rivers or streams normally flow. A dry riverbed needs to look natural if it is going to provide the illusion of running water. Designing a dry riverbed can be a great excuse for a field trip: pack a lunch, go on a hike to a river or stream, and sit down and look at some of the characteristics a watercourse has to offer.

Water flows downhill; a dry riverbed should do the same. Rivers do not flow in straight lines and neither should a dry riverbed. Glaciers carve U-shaped valleys while rivers carve V-shaped valleys. A dry riverbed should neither be completely flat, nor should it have gradually ascending U-shaped sides. A narrow flat bottom is fine, but the sides should rise sharply to simulate the erosive power that water has when it cuts a path.

A dry riverbed needs a distinct starting point. It can begin from a wall, a fence, or the side of a house. A cluster of boulders, a fallen tree trunk, a clump of plants, or a salvaged well pump are a few of the options that can be used as the source of the dry water feature. It is best to end the dry river flowing onto a sidewalk or driveway, or underneath a fence. This might not seem realistic, but most people's conception of an urban garden ends at the boundaries of the yard.

After the beginning and the flow or shape, and endpoint of the dry riverbed are determined, the first phase of construction can begin. The entire riverbed should be dug out in a V-shape and the excavated soil mounded up along the two sides. It is okay if the excavated soil for the riverbed edge is higher than the garden's ground level. This will add a natural looking depth to the dry riverbed.

The second phase of construction will be adding gravel and rocks to create the visual riverbed. Cardboard – not plastic or landscape fabric – should be used to line the riverbed before any rock or gravel is laid out. The cardboard will create a barrier for the gravel and rock to sit on before it degrades. This will make it difficult for weeds to grow. Plastic or landscape fabric on the other hand does not degrade and will build up a loose layer of debris on top that allows weeds to thrive.

Natural rivers have rocks of all sizes and so should a dry river. There are many types of gravels and rocks available in a range of prices. Choosing a low-cost drain rock for the first layer, Sonoma fieldstones for the large periphery boulders, and river rock for the secondary layer and the banks can be cost effective. All of these can be purchased at Tri-City Rock in Fremont (www.tricityrock.com), or Clarks Home and Garden in Hayward (www.Clarkshome-andgarden.net).

Once some lower cost options are used to create the backbone of the dry riverbed, a smaller amount of more expensive, colorful, and unique rocks can be purchased to sprinkle on top to add character. Lyngso Garden

Materials in San Carlos (www.lyngsogarden.com) and American Soil and Stone in El Cerrito (www.americansoil.com) have a large selection of colorful gravels and pebbles.

Incorporating large pieces of driftwood, interesting tree branches, artwork, or a sprinkling of tumbled glass are some of the final touches that will personalize a dry riverbed. Large rocks with a flat surface or tree stumps placed upright will not only enhance the dry river's visual appeal, but also provide great places to sit and enjoy the garden.

The great Harry Houdini performed some of the greatest illusions and escapes of all time. People who had the privilege to watch the stunts were briefly pulled from the realities of the world around them and delighted. The illusion of a flowing river helps us escape the daily grind and enjoy time in the garden.

Unusual circumstances bring four black bears to Oakland Zoo

The bears arrived in Oakland on Tuesday, June 13.

Their unusual story started in the early hours of Monday, May 15, when the sow and her cubs broke into a home in Pine Mountain Club in Kern County. The elderly resident of the home attempted to haze the bears by banging pots and pans to no avail. The sow charged and swiped at the resident, causing injury to her left arm. She was treated at a local hospital and is recovering.

Per the CDFW public safety policy, a black bear that is known to have attacked or injured a human is deemed a threat to public safety and must be euthanized.

During the investigation, CDFW learned of eight other incidents in the same vicinity over the three weeks leading up to the incident involving a sow with three cubs, believed to be the same four bears. These incidents were not reported to CDFW and none of these incidents resulted in human injury, however the bears did significant property damage to vehicles, garages and homes.

On the night of May 15, CDFW set a culvert trap in Pine Mountain Club and by the early morning of May 16, the sow and her cubs were safely captured.

CDFW transported them to a holding facility at the Wildlife Investigations Laboratory near Sacramento. The cubs weighed about 12 to 15 pounds and were not yet weaned from the sow.

CDFW decided to hold and monitor all four bears until the cubs were weaned, with the hope that the cubs could be rehabilitated and eventually returned to their natural habitat. As a known public safety animal, the sow was to be euthanized per CDFW policy.

However as monitoring continued, CDFW staff determined that the bears were habituated to humans and not suitable candidates for release. CDFW began to search for a captive facility for the cubs.

Oakland Zoo asked to take the three cubs, as well as the sow, for its 56-acre California Trail expansion which will focus on highlighting California's natural habitat. It's part of an initiative to emphasize native species and educate the public about human-wildlife issues. In the interest of the cubs' well-being and outreach opportunity, CDFW officials agreed.

The exhibit, scheduled to open in summer of 2018, is intended to mimic California habitat, educate visitors about wildlife in California and inspire people to take action to insure the future of the state's wildlife resources and habitats.

“Oakland Zoo is very grateful to be in a position to provide a home for these bears,” said Dr. Joel Parrott, President and CEO of Oakland Zoo. “They are an important example of the human-wildlife conflict and highlight how we need to care for wildlife throughout California.”

Tuesday's transfer of a sow, predestined for euthanasia, with her three cubs was highly unusual. No opportunity for transfer of a known public safety animal has previously existed. CDFW and zoo officials stress that this event does not set precedent for future outcomes for other habituated bears, public safety animals or nuisance wildlife. Additionally, captivity is far from an ideal outcome for a wild bear.

The best outcome for these black bears would have been to exhibit natural, healthy behaviors in their native habitat, free of human-related attractants, wildlife feeding issues and eventual habituation. During CDFW's investigation, Pine Mountain Club residents reported that the sow had been well known in the area for a couple of years and they believed this was her first litter of cubs. The sow was known to scavenge for human-related food sources, cause property damage, and was teaching her cubs how to enter vehicles and homes in search of food. As a result of habituation, these bears did not recognize how to search for or rely on natural food sources.

“We are thankful for the unique opportunity Oakland Zoo has provided for these bears, and for the partnership that developed because of it,” said CDFW Wildlife Veterinarian Brandon Munk. “These four bears will have a new facility to call home and a group of people to help care for them. While it is always best to keep wildlife in the wild, sometimes that is not a good option. Wildlife that habituates to humans or becomes a public safety concern are not good candidates to be released back into the wild. There will never be enough space in zoos to place habituated or public safety animals, so we all must do our part to keep wildlife wild, by not feeding wildlife.”

The CDFW regularly educates communities about how to keep both humans and wild animals safe. Learn more at www.wildlife.ca.gov/Keep-Me-Wild.

Helping Seniors Build Strong, Meaningful Friendships

SUBMITTED BY GUS NODAL

Making new friends as we get older can be especially difficult, considering most seniors no longer have a ready-made pool of classmates or colleagues with whom to share interests and connections.

Struggling to make friends later in life—especially when retired or disabled—can lead to isolation and loneliness and affects health and well-being. Information published in the Journal of the American Medical Association suggests that loneliness in older persons increases the risks of early death.

To help seniors build strong, meaningful friendships, On Lok Lifeways' Peralta PACE Center in Fremont features a year-round calendar of recreational, social and cultural activities.

Among the seniors who have found their best friends at the Peralta PACE Center are Khin Khin and Su Li. The pair are Burmese and Chinese, respectively, but even though they don't speak the same language, over the last three years they have forged a strong bond. They always sit next to each other and communicate through their love of art and other activities at the Center.

Mary and Chu Wan, both Cantonese speakers, are another close pair. They can always be found together, talking, knitting, and even singing. They are considered the leaders of the group and can always be counted on to offer a helping hand.

Film festival celebrates 20 years of history

SUBMITTED BY
RENA KIEHN

In 1995, film historian David Kiehn walked the streets of Niles to gather some clues to what had happened there in the early part of the century. He hoped to write a screenplay, a two-hour treatment, but what he found deserved more.

Kiehn knew that a cast and crew from a Chicago-based silent film company had stepped off a train to create the look of the Old West. Niles in 1912 fit the bill, and soon movies were being cranked out by the dozen – comedies set in the fictional town of Snakeville, Arizona, when the menfolk with names like Mustang Pete, Slippery Slim, Rawhide Bill were vying for the affections of the lone female in town, Sophie Clutts. A western anti-hero by the name of Broncho Billy (Gilbert Anderson) rode his horse through Niles Canyon on a series of adventures, the original “good bad man,” the kind of maverick who would rob a stagecoach at the beginning of the picture but by the end has saved the children from the burning orphanage and reluctantly is redeemed.

A few years later, a Little Tramp made his way from the streets of Niles into every picture show around the world in a matter of months. His time in Niles caused Charlie Chaplin to shoot to a frenzied super-stardom orbit, the likes of which has never been equaled in all cinematic history.

As Kiehn gathered information from microfilmed newspaper articles and personal stories of some local, long-time residents, he realized there was much more than a script would hold; he’d have to write a book to even scratch the surface. Kiehn was invited to speak at the Niles Rotary Club and newly formed Niles Main Street Association about his discoveries. Bruce Cates and others said there should be a film festival that showed some of the movies made here. And so it came to be.

In 1998, the very first “Broncho Billy Silent Film Festival” starring the original cowboy movie star and the Little Tramp debuted in the original nickelodeon theater, at the time housing a photography studio, kindly loaned for the day by the photographer. In order to make the proceedings legitimate, the group needed to contact Hollywood. Someone in the know said to call a man named David Shepard – a film preservationist and someone known in the industry. Not only was Shepard willing to provide information, he offered to bring film prints and serve as the projectionist.

Shepard was an important yet humble man, someone with an incessant need to educate people on early cinema. Not only did he preserve the past, he had met it in person. He talked with many of the great silent film directors and stars, including Broncho Billy himself. Shepard was all of 16 when he met the aging cowboy actor around the time Anderson was receiving an honorary Oscar in 1958.

The film festival became an annual event and in 2001 the committee became a separate 501c3 non-profit and three years later a brick-and-mortar institution. Kiehn published his book, “Broncho Billy and the Essanay Film Company” in 2003 in 2003 to acclaim. Weekly film screenings and tours of photographs and a few artifacts began in 2015, and the next year the original lobby was reconnected with the auditorium. In 2009, a museum store was added, and in 2016 the storefront on the left was added; the museum is furthering its expansion with new exhibits.

After a lifetime of hard work behind him, Shepard passed away in January 2017. He leaves an amazing legacy of hundreds of films preserved for future generations of audiences.

The Niles Essanay Silent Film Museum presents the 20th annual “Broncho Billy Silent Film Festival” Friday, June 23 – Sunday, June 25. In 2017, we salute film preservationist David Shepard, Essanay Studio films, films shot in Pleasanton, films celebrating their centennials, director Frank Borzage and more!

We will be showing films you won’t see anywhere else plus two classic films made in Pleasanton: “Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm” (1917) starring Mary Pickford, and “Peck’s Bad Boy” (1921) starring Jackie Coogan. Important landmarks will be discussed and stories shared on a walking tour of Niles. There will also be a pre-festival silent film walking tour of San Francisco on Friday, June 23. From iconic locations to obscure alleys, San Francisco was the setting for hundreds of silent films from the 1890s on with stars like Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, Mary Pickford, and Rudolph Valentino. The tour will take about an hour and 45 minutes. Arrive 5 to 10 minutes early to sign in and to allow for a prompt start. If you’re planning to go, please RSVP to pr@nilesfilmmuseum.org.

In addition to the movies, ride the train through Niles Canyon on Sunday, June 25 and see what made it such a perfect backdrop for filmmaking. Visit www.ncry.org for more information.

Seating is very limited for the festival; purchasing tickets in advance is recommended. Purchase tickets at www.nilesfilmmuseum.org. If you have questions, e-mail pr@nilesfilmmuseum.org or leave a message at (510) 494-1411.

Meet Mercury

Woodward is cruising by Mercury this week. Mercury is the closest planet to the sun in our solar system. Replace the missing words in his interstellar text message.

AIR FULL BURN SURFACE MOON CRASHED

Dear Kid Scoop Readers -

Mercury is very much like our _____. It is dry, airless and _____ of craters.

Because there is nearly no _____, or atmosphere, around Mercury, flying space rocks called meteorites and asteroids have _____ into the planet's _____ leaving behind deep craters. Earth's atmosphere slows down meteorites and asteroids that hurtle towards us, and nearly all _____ up before they hit the ground.

Your spacey friend, Woodward

Mercury's surface is covered with deep craters.

Circle every third letter for the answer.

Mercury has an enormous crater called the Caloris basin. It was formed by a really big flying space rock. The impact was so strong that it formed H _____ on the other side of the planet!

WRHTNIKMLBVLDS

Use the comparison chart at right to answer these questions.

1. About how many Earth days does a day on Mercury last?
☐ 24 ☐ 59 ☐ 99

2. About how many times in one Earth year will Mercury orbit the sun?
☐ 4 ☐ 6 ☐ 10

	MERCURY	EARTH
DISTANCE FROM THE SUN	36 MILLION MILES	93 MILLION MILES
TIME TO ORBIT THE SUN	88 DAYS	365 DAYS
ORBIT SPEED	107,372 MILES PER HOUR	70,000 MILES PER HOUR
LENGTH OF DAY	1,416 HOURS	24 HOURS
DIAMETER	3,100 MILES	7,926 MILES
NUMBER OF MOONS	0	1

Hot vs. Cold

Mercury has no atmosphere to protect it from the sun's heat, or to capture and hold in the heat on the dark side.

Mercury's sunny side can heat up to 750°F (399°C). The dark side is much, much colder with a temperature that can go down to -328°F (-200°C).

Find the differences between the hot side and the cold side in this silly picture.

How Mercury Got Its Name

Mercury zips around the sun every 88 days – faster than any other planet. It gets its name from the quickest of the ancient gods – Mercury, the messenger of the gods. Mercury was depicted as wearing sandals with wings on them, the secret to his great speed.

All but one of these running shoes has an exact match. Can you find it?

Olive Hyde Art Guild awards scholarships

SUBMITTED BY SEEMA GUPTA

At a reception on May 19, 2017, Olive Hyde Art Guild (OHAG) in Fremont announced its annual scholarship winners for 2017. Every year since 2000, OHAG has been awarding scholarships for outstanding artistic talent to Fremont high school seniors who intend to pursue visual arts at the college level. Currently the program gives out three scholarships: the 1st place winner receives $2,000, while two runner-ups get $1,000 each. The teacher of the 1st place winner is also given $500 for classroom art supplies. To date, OHAG has given away $42,850 in award money.

This year's judges Nancy Benton, an artist, art teacher, and high school history teacher; and Dina Rubiolo, an artist and gallery director at Ohlone College, had a challenging task of reviewing all submissions to select the three finalists. Benton, a second-time judge for the program, explained that they first individually reviewed the artwork and applications online, then conferred with each other to determine the top three finalists. On the night of the awards they saw the works in person as well as spoke with each of the finalists to select the 1st place winner. The most important criterion for selection was the artwork. It had to show "a pretty high level of mastery; something about the artist's voice; and growth and experimentation." Artist's vision, process, and personal goals were also considered while making a final decision.

This year's finalists were Alyssa Lo and Jenny Xie, both from Mission High School, and Joshua Chen from Irvington High School.

Alyssa Lo, a $1,000 scholarship winner, will be attending UC Berkeley to pursue Computer Science and Digital Art. Alyssa "felt very honored" when she heard she was one of the winners. She has always been interested in art, and credits her achievements to hard work and perseverance as her "art changed from stick figures to figure drawings through time." Alyssa's talent for capturing light and emotion in her figurative art is already at the level of a professional artist. Her large oil painting of a young girl gazing into her future titled "Colors of a Dream" was awarded 1st place in the 34th Congressional Art Competition and was displayed in the U.S. Capitol for an entire year from 2015-2016.

Jenny Xie is also a $1,000 scholarship winner. Jenny began to draw when she was four years old, starting with cute little cartoons that she drew every day in her sketchbook. "From there my love for art developed, and I practiced gaining more skill and experience from my dad who taught me at home." Jenny took AP Studio Art this year and submitted some of her favorite work for the scholarship. She has been shy about publicly sharing her art; as such, she was "very excited" when she got the results. Her art displays a mastery of figurative drawing, which will be an asset as she pursues her interest in film, cinematography, costume design, and set production at California State University, Northridge.

Joshua Chen, the recipient of a $2,000 scholarship "did not expect to receive the 1st place award." He has been accepted to Art Center College of Design in Pasadena where he intends to undertake a rigorous curriculum in his extremely passionate pursuit of art. Joshua's work is exceptionally original and creative. He uses mixed media and collage techniques to devise interesting textures and unexpected compositions. In 2015 Joshua participated in the congressional art competition and received a certificate of special recognition from Congressman Mike Honda. Despite his talent and strong interest in art, Joshua gives credit to his art teacher, Ms. Parker, who gave him the opportunity to experience various mediums.

"I was overjoyed!" Kim Parker said. She has been working with Joshua for several years now, and has closely observed his commitment and hard work in pursuit of his creative goals. This year Parker felt that his work was strongest and merited the top award. She believes that Olive Hyde's scholarship program is remarkable in that it is very student-centered and a positive experience for everyone involved. Parker also appreciates that OHAG "provides students the rewarding opportunity to display their work in a professional gallery setting and gather positive feedback from a multitude of visitors and art aficionados," which she considers a priceless experience.

Committee Chairperson Adriane Dedic commended the winners for being "role models for young people," and said that, "the Olive Hyde Art Guild is proud to offer the scholarship program for students such as Alyssa, Jenny, and Joshua."

Saving Lives & Celebrating Life

The American Cancer Society is on a mission: to save lives and celebrate life. Every single day. They are aided in this goal by communities around the world who take part in the world's largest volunteer-based fundraising event – Relay For Life.

Relay is a powerful tool, a time when stranger and friends band together, forming teams and donning purple to strike back at cancer. Teams gather at local schools or parks for up to 24 hours to walk or run around a track to raise money for cancer research. After an Opening Ceremony, cancer survivors take the first lap of the day, followed by a Caregivers Lap. Teams have a member on the track at all times to show that cancer never sleeps.

When dark falls, the Luminaria Ceremony is held, candles lighting personalized bags that represent a loved one lost to cancer, those currently fighting the disease, and honors the survivors who have overcome. This ceremony is an opportunity to grieve, but also symbolizes hope and perseverance, with an eye to a cancer-free future.

Food, games, and activities are also part of the event, with plenty of fun opportunities to take part and donate to the cause.

Join Relay For Life and your local community to support the fight against our biggest health threat.

To learn more, contact your local city representative or register online at <http://relay.acsevents.org>. Learn more about the American Cancer Society at www.cancer.org.

Exercising her options

One woman's diagnosis leads to classes for Parkinson's patients

Hahn, Union City's Community & Recreation Services Manager, suggesting the center apply for a National Parkinson's Disease grant to pay for instructor certification for Parkinson's disease (PD) classes. Boylan expected to seek funding for a single class, but Hahn's attitude was "let's go for it" and seek funds to train instructors in three different types of exercise tailored to improve PD functioning.

Boylan researched to pack the grant full of studies supporting exercise as a key health enhancer for PD patients. Through its local Bay Area Moving Day fundraiser, the National Parkinson's Foundation awarded Mark Green Sports Center a $13,500 grant in December 2015 to certify three instructors in premier exercise classes: Dance for PD, developed through a cooperative effort of the Mark Morris Dance Group and Brooklyn's Parkinson Group; PWR! Moves, developed by Arizona-based rehabilitation specialist and physiologist Dr. Becky Farley; and Rock Steady Boxing, a boxing class, developed by an Indiana prosecutor living with PD.

Dance for PD certification requires trainees to have prior dance training; instructors Carmen Davis, a specialist in Flamenco, and Jessica Vasquez, a specialist in Samba and her own Brazilian Boom Boom, qualified. Along with Fitness and Program Coordinator Robert Magbanua, the dance instructors completed trainings in Davis, Paso Robles, and Indianapolis to gain certification.

Mark Green Sports Center offered its first PD exercise class, Dance for PD in May 2016 with two participants; by October 2016, word spread and PWR! Moves drew 20 participants. Rock Steady Boxing, begun December 2016, filled with 20 participants. Class selection rotates; one class offered each season on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Only PD patients may take the class, but participation is not limited to Union City residents. Classes attract Tri-Cities participants and beyond.

"Dance for PD provides a fun way to treat symptoms," explains Magbanua. "People can lose enjoyment of moving because of symptoms. People stop moving and that's the very thing they need to do more. Dancing addresses balance and instability and calls for attentional focus while providing visual and auditory cues to combat a freezing (rigidity of limbs) involved with PD. With practice, dance can help train movements to become automatic and transfer to everyday activities like walking that most of us take for granted."

PWR! Moves focuses on symptoms using four different "power" exaggerated movements, emphasizing limb extension, trunk rotation, weight shifting, and transitions while sitting, standing, on all fours (hands and knees), prone on the belly and supine on the back. These amplitude-focused exercises are designed to transfer to daily activities (grabbing an item from a high shelf, getting out of bed, stepping out of a car, and standing up after being on the floor).

Rock Steady Boxing, which focuses on PD as the opponent on the other side of the glove, offers rigorous work on balance, agility, coordination, and overall strength using a heavy boxing bag, agility ladders, and focus mitts, just like a boxer.

Boylan says the classes encourage big movements. "If I were to characterize what happens over time (with PD), the body contracts. The posture stoops. The body tries to shrink. Exercises target big arm and leg movements, strengthening the midsection for better balance, putting your chin up and making your voice louder. You fully extend when you jab in boxing. You make a strong fist. Your elbow is close to your body. Then you extend all the way out. . . against the symptoms of Parkinson's. Muscle memory (from the classes) takes over."

The PD program is still new and growing, and Magbanua says the goal is to grow the program to offer regular classes with more instructors to accommodate people who cannot attend Tuesday-Thursday classes. Class costs vary; rates differ for Union City residents and non-residents. People who become Sports Center members receive a discounted rate.

Boylan says the exercise classes have helped her "on a number of levels." "The classes improve the way I think and learn, my overall health, which helps in just being able to stay the course on as normal a life as I can have. The classes work on balance and strengthening my core, helping me so I am less likely to fall. I've gained arm strength. And it helps me to have a positive outlook about life.

"When I go to see my doctor and go through a battery of tests, he shakes his head and says 'Whatever you're doing, you're doing a great job. Keep it up.'"

While exercise classes empower Boylan to do something medicines cannot, classes go beyond physical support and improvement. Boylan says these exercise classes give participants the sense "that we are not alone. There's emotional support in these classes. Being with other people having movement issues, there is the sense that we can do this together. We can keep our symptoms at bay."

As many as one million Americans live with Parkinson's disease and about 60,000 Americans are diagnosed annually, according to the National Parkinson's Disease Foundation. A chronic and progressive movement disorder, Parkinson's disease (PD) does not have a known cause or cure. Neurons in the brain – some that produce dopamine, a chemical that sends messages to control movement and coordination – malfunction and die. As PD progresses, according to the National Parkinson's Disease Foundation, the amount of dopamine produced in the brain decreases, leaving a person unable to control movement normally. Symptoms may include tremor of hands, arms, legs, jaw and face; slowness of movement; rigidity or stiffness of limbs and trunk; and/or postural instability or impaired balance and coordination.

Resolution to recognize Muslim Americans

SUBMITTED BY TOMASA DUEÑAS

Assemblymember Bill Quirk (D-Hayward), along with Assemblymember Kansen Chu (D-Fremont) and Assemblymember Ash Kalra (D-San Jose) introduced House Resolution 43 (HR 43) June 6 to recognize the month of August 2017 as Muslim American Appreciation and Awareness Month.

"In light of everything occurring nationally and internationally, I felt it necessary to once again introduce a resolution to celebrate and recognize the many social, cultural, and economic

TAKES FROM SILICON VALLEY EAST

Futurist Ann Badillo and Entrepreneur Murray Newlands

BY SHILPI SHARMA

Last month, Startup Grind Fremont celebrated Female Founders Month with eloquent reflections from Futurist and Advisor Ann Badillo. Ann recounted her personal experiences as a female leader and offered thoughts on why the millennial generation embraces a different social contract and why they will rely on women for leadership more than ever before.

A longtime strategist on "systems thinking," Ann suggests that the future rigor of Silicon Valley will rely heavily on this model, which includes asking the right questions and high levels of collaboration. She believes that many women naturally excel in both these areas and are inherently better positioned to tackle tomorrow's problems. One of Ann's recent projects includes a next generation entrepreneur and investor ecosystem for women that reimagine the current incubator model and redefines the founder-funder relationship.

Another insightful lesson from the event was Ann's discussion around the need to contrast between brand and narrative—an important concept for budding entrepreneurs and startups. Ann argues that a narrative is more authentic considering it reflects perspectives and stories. A brand may not always be sincere and does not provide enough depth for long-term adoption. As the thread that runs through all levels of an organization, the narrative has the power to captivate ecosystems for longer periods of time and to a much greater degree.

The next Startup Grind Fremont event will be on Tuesday, June 20 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. at EFI (Electronics for Imaging) located at 6700 Dumbarton Circle, Fremont CA 94555.

Join us as Murray Newlands – entrepreneur, investor, business advisor, and speaker – discusses how to market your startup. He'll provide guidance on how to be an influencer by using online marketing and communication tools. Murray Newlands is the founder of Sighted.com, an online invoicing company based in Palo Alto. He is also an adviser to the Draper Nexus Network of Things fund, which invests in IoT companies and advises entrepreneurs and startups on everything from funding to growth strategies. Additionally, Newlands is the author of "Online Marketing: A User's Manual" and frequently contributes to Forbes and Entrepreneur.

Marijuana in the city? Have your say

SUBMITTED BY THE CITY OF HAYWARD

The Hayward City Council is seeking public input as it considers whether and, if so, how to permit the establishment and operation of marijuana cultivation, manufacturing, distribution and retail businesses in the city.

State-voter approval last November of Proposition 64, the Adult Use of Marijuana Act, legalized recreational use of cannabis by people 21 and older, as well as the cultivation of up to six marijuana plants for personal use by adults.

However, the Adult Use of Marijuana Act (AMUA) leaves it to local governments to decide whether to permit marijuana businesses to operate in their communities — and, if so, how many, where, and the scale and type of business.

The Council plans to make those decisions for the City of Hayward later this year — both with respect to adult recreational and medical use of marijuana. The Council intends to act before January when the State of California begins issuing licenses to businesses under the AMUA.

Hayward residents can participate in the decision-making by completing on online form at www.surveymonkey.com/r/haywardthc. Residents also are encouraged to attend future public hearings and meetings and follow staff reports and other materials posted on the city website at www.hayward-ca.gov/thc.

contributions Muslim Americans have made in science, film, athletics, education, and other areas" said Assemblymember Quirk.

"The Muslim community is an integral part of what makes California great. As a progressive state, we adamantly promote tolerance, equality and inclusivity. For a group of people who contribute to the state's economy and diverse cultural heritage, it is paramount to continue to support and stand by their side" stated Assemblymember Chu.

The majority of Muslim Americans within California and throughout the nation strive to promote peace and understanding between all faiths, identities, and nationalities while upholding those values and principles that define the American people. They have nonetheless been forced to endure harassment, assault, and discrimination. In the year 2015 alone, there were approximately 174 reported incidents of anti-Muslim violence and vandalism in the United States.

In 2016, Assemblymember Quirk became the first legislator in the country to introduce a resolution in recognition of Muslim Americans.

Assemblymember Quirk, Chu and Kalra will be presenting HR 43 during floor session on August 21, 2017.

Historic District faces historic renewal

Long after the now defunct Fremont Redevelopment Agency promised changes and failed to deliver on them, dramatic development is in progress and on the horizon, transforming the economically depressed and vacant storefronts of Centerville. An ambitious project has been proposed by Silicon Sage Builders along Fremont Boulevard between Parish Avenue and Peralta Boulevard. With additional action to renovate the streetscape along Fremont Boulevard, construction of Artist Walk and movement toward removal of State Highway 84 from its grip on the district, Centerville is about to undergo a profound change. Activation of Fremont Boulevard will change the character and vibrancy of this district as new retail is stimulated.

Of course, renewal of commercial properties in Centerville will come at a price. Residential development is the economic engine that drives all of this and the declaration of portions of Centerville as a Transit Oriented Development (TOD) gives certain perks to those who choose to build. With any development will come an exacerbation of an already horrific traffic problem but change is coming nonetheless. It's a choice between long overdue redevelopment and problems of growth. Although close to the train depot, all of those choosing to live in the new developments will not be train commuters. Along with other creative solutions to traffic congestion, consideration of a shuttle system to BART would be welcome. Large companies in Silicon Valley have filled our streets with unmarked buses that shuttle workers to and from Fremont. Maybe a bus/trolley system from Centerville to BART could be the beginning of a broader system to enhance mobility within the city and beyond.

Since growth, development and redevelopment is inevitable, solutions to intracity mobility should be a priority concern. Recently the city council attempted to establish a commission to address this issue, noted as one of the top priorities of Fremont residents. This attempt by the Fremont City Council to establish a Mobility Commission was met with resistance by city administration; the result was a downgrade from a commission to a paid consultant and probably a place on a dusty shelf next to many other plans long since abandoned and ignored. Although the Council lacked the fortitude to persist with a commission to harness the creative energy of their community, there is always hope that pressure by citizens to seriously study the issue and create a practical mobility model can prevail. Piecemeal projects that treat each part of the City as separate entities will not solve a city-wide problem.

To welcome quality developments to Fremont and its environs, a comprehensive plan for mobility within its boundaries and connecting adjacent cities is critical. We should be far beyond horse and buggy days when a trip to an adjacent town a few miles away, took hours and much planning. Now, with many horsepower at our fingertips, similar trips can take just as long. Why has the city council shied away from an honest and serious look at such a fundamental problem? What was so difficult about creating a Mobility Commission?

State budget puts new limits on University of California

By SOPHIA BOLLAG
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP), The University of California system will face new financial restrictions and enrollment targets under the proposed state budget after an audit found administrators hid tens of millions of dollars from the public.

Lawmakers planned to pass the budget June 14. It withholds $50 million from the UC system if recommendations in the audit aren’t met and gives lawmakers more control over funding for the UC president’s office. The proposal also aims to admit more in-state students and transfer students.

The April audit report said administrators didn’t disclose $175 million in the president’s office even as tuition was increasing.

UC President Janet Napolitano has committed to keeping clearer budget plans and records. But she has disputed the audit’s charge of hidden money. She says money in reserves actually totals $38 million.

Red Cross plans open house

SUBMITTED BY CHRISTINE WELCH

The American Red Cross is looking to boost the number of Blood Services volunteers in Alameda County and is hosting a volunteer open house on Wednesday, June 21, at the Red Cross Fremont-Newark Blood Donation Center.

“By joining the Red Cross, one can help make a difference in the community,” said Rhonda Davis, supervisor of Volunteer Management, Red Cross Northern California Blood Services Region. “The Red Cross is always looking for people with various backgrounds, talents and skill levels to help support our lifesaving mission.”

Every two seconds a patient in the United States needs a blood transfusion. As the single largest supplier of blood products to hospitals in the U.S., the Red Cross is seeking volunteer donor ambassadors to assist with blood drives throughout the year.

Donor ambassadors help ensure that blood donors have the best experience possible when giving blood to those in need. Accident and burn victims, heart surgery patients, organ transplant patients, and those receiving treatment for leukemia, cancer or sickle cell disease may all need blood or platelets. Donor ambassadors will assist with registration or serving snacks to donors after they give blood.

Interested community members are invited to stop in for refreshments and snacks at the 9 a.m. – 11 a.m. event where they will have an opportunity to learn more about how to get involved with the Red Cross.

Edith Mae Watson

Resident of Fremont

February 27, 1922 – May 15, 2017

Edith Mae Watson passed away peacefully in her sleep Monday, May 15, 2017 at home in Fremont, California at age 95. Her loving grandson Ryan Watson was with her. Edith Mae was preceded in death by husband Robert Watson and son Richard Watson.

She led a happy, fulfilling life punctuated with a quick wit and humor. She was the compassionate peacemaker who learned while growing up in a family with three brothers and a sister to value her siblings as good and sensitive human beings. Over the years her tolerance and kindness became wisdom that family members relied upon. Trips to the California seashore delighted her as she looked out at the ocean and in at the plants near the beach. She especially loved being with her family on such outings.

Funeral Service is private. Memorials may be made to Fremont Hospice.

SURVIVORS: son Ronald Watson and his wife Metaxia, her sister Betty Jo Dalgas, grandsons Sean Watson wife Jennifer and Ryan Watson, grand daughters Julie Watson and husband David Dunakin, Molly Watson Forbes, and Nancy Watson and husband John Metzger. She also leaves behind four great grandchildren and one great-great-grand child.

Pursuant to Cal. Gov't Code §36503, the general municipal election of the city of Fremont shall be held on the same day as the statewide general election, as set forth in Cal. Elec. Code §1301.

Editor's Note: Section 2.05.080 was originally adopted by Ord. No. 1500 following an advisory vote of the voters of the city of Fremont in April 1982, changing the general municipal election date from April in even-numbered years to November in odd-numbered years (the first election under this provision took place in November 1983, and the last in November 1991). Section 2.05.080 was amended by Ord. No. 1977, subject to the approval of and subsequently approved by the voters of the city of Fremont in November 1991, voting on a binding nonadvisory measure, changing the general municipal election date from November in odd-numbered years to same day as the statewide general election which, pursuant to Cal. Elec. Code §1301, is held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in each even-numbered year (the first election under this provision was set for November 1994). Ord. No. 1977 set forth numerous findings in support of changing the date of the general municipal election to the same day as the statewide general election, including the larger number of voters participating in consolidated elections for national, state, regional and local agency candidates and measures; the cost benefits of consolidated elections; and the general benefits of consolidating the general municipal election with the governing board elections of several other local agencies with the same or substantially the same electorate (in 1991, this included the Alameda County water district, Fremont unified school district, Fremont-Newark (Ohlone) community college district, and the Washington County fire district).

Sec. 2.05.090 Filling council vacancies.

(a) If a vacancy occurs in an office of councilmember, the city council shall, within 60 days from the commencement of the vacancy, either fill the vacancy by appointment or call a special election to fill the vacancy. If the council fills the vacancy by appointment, the person appointed shall reside in the council district where the vacancy occurred and hold office as set forth in California Government Code Section 36512(b)(2).

(b) If the vacancy in an office of councilmember is due to resignation, the resigning city council member may cast a vote on the appointment if the resignation will go into effect upon the appointment of a successor subject to the limitations set forth in California Government Code Section 36512(e).

(c) If a vacancy occurs in an office of councilmember, the council shall fill the vacancy by appointment in accordance with California Government Code Section 34902. If the council fails to fill it within 60 days, it shall call an election to fill the vacancy to be held on the next established election date to be held not less than 114 days thereafter. A person appointed or elected to fill a vacancy shall hold office for the unexpired term of the former incumbent.

(d) If the council calls a special election, the special election shall be held on the next regularly established election date not less than 114 days from the call of the special election. A person elected to fill a vacancy shall reside in the council district where the vacancy occurred and hold office for the unexpired term of the former incumbent.

Sec. 2.05.100 Term of office for mayor and councilmembers.

(a) No mayor who has served terms comprising eight consecutive years as mayor shall be qualified for further service in that office until he or she has a break in service in that office of at least four years.

(b) No councilmember who has served terms comprising eight consecutive years as a councilmember shall be qualified for further service in that office until he or she has a break in service in that office of at least four years.

(c) The disqualifications imposed by this section shall not prevent a person who is disqualified from serving as mayor from serving as a councilmember or a person who is disqualified from serving as a councilmember from serving as mayor. However, any person who has served terms comprising 16 consecutive years in the offices of mayor and councilmember shall be disqualified from further service in either office until he or she has a break in service from both offices of at least four years.

(d) Time spent in office while serving less than a full term shall not be counted in computing consecutive years in any office.

(e) Time spent in office prior to the enactment of this section shall not be counted in computing consecutive years in any office.

(f) In computing the number of years served, full, four-year terms shall count as four years of service even though the period encompassed by such terms may not be exactly four years in duration.

Sec. 2.05.110 Term of office for mayor and councilmembers.

The term of office for the mayor and each councilmember shall be four years.

Sec. 2.05.120 By-district electoral system for six city council members.

(a) Pursuant to California Government Code Sections 34886 and 34871(c), councilmembers shall be elected by-districts in six (6) single-member districts. The Mayor will be separately elected by a citywide vote.

(1) Beginning with the general municipal election in November 2018, councilmembers shall be elected in the electoral districts established by Section 2.05.130 and as subsequently reapportioned as provided by State law. Elections shall take place on a by-district basis as that term is defined in California Government Code Section 34871; meaning one member of the City Council shall be elected from each district, by the voters of that district alone, except for the Mayor, who shall be elected citywide. In accordance with Section 2.05.110, and except as provided in Section 2.05.140(b), each councilmember, including the Mayor, shall serve a four-year term until his or her successor has qualified.

(2) Except as provided in subdivision (b)(3) hereof, the councilmember elected to represent a district must reside in that district and be a registered voter in that district, and any candidate for City Council must live in, and be a registered voter in, the district in which he or she seeks election at the time nomination papers are issued, pursuant to California Government Code Section 34882 and Elections Code Section 10227. Termination of residency in a district by a Council Member shall create an immediate vacancy for that council district unless a substitute residence within the district is established within 30 days after the termination of residency.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the councilmembers in office at the time this Chapter takes effect, shall continue in office until the expiration of the full term to which he or she was elected and until his or her successor is qualified. Notwithstanding Section 2.05.090, vacancies in councilmember offices elected at-large may be filled from the City at-large. PUBLIC NOTICE CITY OF NEWARK SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE NO. 499

ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NEWARK REPEALING URGENCY ORDINANCE 496-U AND AMENDING NEWARK MUNICIPAL CODE CHAPTERS 17.08 (DEFINITIONS) AND 17.16 ("R RESIDENTIAL DISTRICTS") TO COMPLY WITH RECENT AMENDMENTS TO STATE LAW REGARDING ACCESSORY DWELLING UNITS
 On January 12, 2017, the City Council adopted Urgency Ordinance No. 496-U amending the Zoning Ordinance to relax regulations on accessory dwelling units. This was in compliance with State-mandated standards for certain types of accessory dwelling units that went into effect in January. On May 25, 2017, the City Council introduced an ordinance repealing Urgency Ordinance 496-U and amending Newark Municipal Code Chapters 17.08 ("Definitions") and 17.16 ("Residential Districts") to comply with recent amendments to state law regarding accessory dwelling units.
 An Accessory Dwelling Unit is an attached or detached residential dwelling that is subordinate to a principal residence on the same lot, and that provides complete independent living facilities for one or more persons. The proposed ordinance is essentially the same as the urgency ordinance, but includes the following revisions to Standard ADUs: no requirement for property owner to live at the property, allows two bedroom units and specifies that a second off street parking space would be provided, removes the Conditional Use Permit requirement for an area that has an existing parking problem.
 This ordinance was adopted at the regular meeting of the Newark City Council on June 8, 2017, and shall take effect in 30 days. Council Member Hannon moved that it be adopted and passed, which motion was duly seconded, and said ordinance was passed and adopted, and ordered published pursuant to Government Code 36933 (c) (1) within 15 days of the date of adoption in The Tri City Voice by the following vote: AYES: Hannon, Collazo, Bucc, Freitas, and Nagy; NOES: None.
 Certified copies of the full text of this ordinance are available in the City Clerk's office, 37101 Newark Boulevard, 5th Floor and in the Newark Library, 6300 Civic Terrace Avenue, Newark, California.

Friday, June 9
A man reported that he confronted an unknown man trying to drill out the ignition of his Chevy Silverado. The suspect ran and the victim saw him get into the passenger seat of an older primer gray Dodge Ram 1500, driven by a woman. Officer Butcher spotted a vehicle matching the description near Bay Street and Papazion Way and followed it until it stopped near Fremont and Washington boulevards. A high-risk stop was made and a loaded firearm was located and seized during a search of the vehicle. Both suspects were identified and arrested.

A strong-arm robbery was reported on the 3200 block of Trafalgar Road. While a woman and her juvenile daughter were walking they were approached by an unknown man who exited a green vehicle, and asked for directions. Immediately upon distracting the woman, he pushed her to the ground and ripped a gold chain and pendant from her neck. The woman described the suspect as a black man between 20 and 30 years-old, about 6-feet-1-inches tall with a thin build and no facial hair. A witness described the suspect’s vehicle as a late 1990s dark green Buick LaSaber.

At 9:49 p.m. police received multiple reports about gun shots in the area of Bidwell and Bissy Common. An investigation found a shooting occurred on the mid-block of Trinity Way and several shell casings were found. A possible vehicle involved may be a black sedan with a chrome grill. A search of the area found no victims or property damage. Police are looking for more details in a video surveillance from a nearby home.

Saturday, June 10
A citizen reported seeing a handgun in the bushes off Automall Parkway near the railroad tracks. The firearm was reported stolen in a 2016 residential burglary. The registered owner was notified.

Unknown suspects broke into the Irvington High School cafeteria and student union on Blacow Road and stole a surveillance camera and disconnected four other surveillance cameras. The case is being investigated by Community Service Officer Schwartz.

At about 9:11 p.m. Officer J. Harvey was near Farwell Drive and Brophy drives when he saw a van that fit the description of a reported stolen vehicle. Harvey turned around to get behind the van, and it sped away southbound on Farwell Drive with Harvey in pursuit. Later Harvey located the van near Farwell Drive and Farwell Place. It had collided with several parked vehicles and the suspect driver was seen running westbound on Farwell Drive leaving an injured passenger inside the van. Police set a large perimeter in the area and at 10:01 p.m. the suspect was found hiding inside The Country Way restaurant under a dish washing table in the kitchen area. The 33-year-old suspect was booked into Santa Rita Jail.

Sunday, June 11
At 9:47 a.m. dispatchers received a 911 call from inside an apartment on the 800 block of Mowry Avenue. Family members inside the apartment said that another family member was breaking things inside the home and had struck one member with an object. Arriving officers found a victim with a severe laceration to his head. Other family members, including a child, were evacuated from the apartment. A perimeter was set in the area because the suspect refused to come out of the apartment. Officer Richards tried unsuccessfully to negotiate with the suspect. Eventually a canine was sent into the apartment and the suspect was arrested.

Officers investigated a report of a strong-arm robbery at about 9:40 p.m. on the 4200 block of Peregrine Way. The victims arrived home and while inside their garage they are assaulted by suspects who took the victim’s car and house keys. Both suspects were described as black males, about 15 to 16-year-old and wearing dark-colored hoodies. The suspect’s vehicle was described as a newer model black Honda Accord with paper license plates.

Monday, June 12
The owner of Mission Pizza on Washington Boulevard arrived at the store to find the safe had been stolen. An alarm went off at 5:44 a.m. and video surveillance showed an older black 4-door sedan with a spoiler in the parking lot. A possible suspect was described as a white man of average height and build, wearing a black hoodie and jeans. The loss was a small gun safe containing personal papers.

Wednesday, June 14
At 7:32 a.m. officers responded to a collision involving a pedestrian at Fremont Boulevard and Capital Avenue. Arriving officers immediately provided emergency medical aid to the pedestrian until emergency medical personnel arrived. Unfortunately, the victim, described as a 47-year-old woman, died at the scene. The driver, an adult male, cooperated with the investigation. Traffic units took over the investigation with Traffic Officer Chinn as the lead investigator.

Live poultry a Salmonella source

SUBMITTED BY
COREY ENGEL

The California Department of Public Health (CDPH) is warning people of the risks of Salmonella infection associated with contact with live poultry. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) reported that from January 2017 through May 25, 2017, 372 ill persons in 47 states have been infected with several Salmonella strains that have been linked to live poultry contact; 36% are children younger than 5 years old. Seventy-one ill persons have been hospitalized and no deaths have been reported. Infected persons include 21 California residents from 15 counties.

Salmonella symptoms include diarrhea, fever, and abdominal cramps, and usually begin 12 to 72 hours after a person has been infected. Most infected people recover within a week without treatment. However, some people may have severe illness that requires hospitalization. Young children, older adults, and people with weakened immune systems are at highest risk for more severe illness.

Outbreaks linked to contact with live poultry have increased in recent years as more people keep backyard flocks.

Live poultry, especially baby chicks and ducklings, may have Salmonella in their feces and on their bodies (feathers, feet, and beaks) even when they appear healthy and clean, which can get on the hands, shoes, and clothing of people who handle or care for the birds. Salmonella can get on cages, coops, feed and water dishes, bedding, plants, and soil in the area where the birds live and roam.

If you have contact with live poultry:

- Always wash hands with soap and water after handling live poultry, their eggs, or anything in the area where they live and roam.
- Prevent live chickens, ducks, and geese from coming into the house.
- Do not allow children younger than 5 years to handle or touch live poultry and eggs without supervision and subsequent handwashing.
- Do not snuggle or kiss the birds.
- Do not touch your mouth, or eat or drink while near live poultry.

State budget supports jobs, education, health

SUBMITTED BY JEFF BARBOSA

In response to the Senate passage of California’s 2017-2018 state budget, State Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont), a member of the Senate Budget and Fiscal Review Committee, made this statement:

“This budget creates jobs through a real infrastructure plan, increases per pupil funding for the sixth straight year, makes substantial investments in health care, and expands legal aid funding when it is under serious threat from Washington. It is a strong, on-time budget that reflects the state’s values, while also building reserves for a rainy day.

“We recognize that not all Californians have benefited equally in our economic gains, and by expanding the state Earned Income Tax Credit, we are extending a hand up to thousands of needy families. I also recognize that laws don’t mean much if there’s no one to enforce them when they’re broken. That’s why I am especially pleased that we are providing an additional $20 million over two years for legal aid to the poor who cannot afford legal representation.

“By budgeting these increases to the Equal Access Fund, we will expand the number of Californians who can resolve their legal troubles and obtain services more efficiently. Seniors with disabilities, domestic violence survivors, and elder financial abuse victims will benefit from having a legal service provider guide them through our judicial system or avoid it altogether. I am proud to help champion this expansion of funding that will assist many families across the state.

“As chair of the Environmental Quality Committee, I am also pleased that we are building our resiliency to climate change and making a multi-million dollar commitment over several years to help entities such as the Bay Conservation Development Commission collaborate with local governments on climate adaptation projects.

“As the session continues I look forward to accomplishing more for California, including working with my colleagues and the Governor on extending the Cap and Trade system in SB 775 to enable us to achieve our goal of reducing greenhouse gas emissions by 40 percent below 1990 levels by 2030.”

Put a little Speakeasy into your Saturday

SUBMITTED BY BRASK CONCERTS

Brask Concerts and Mission Coffee welcome you to the Roaring '20s – 2017 that is. The music of Tumbledown House has been described as “gritty saloon jazz” or “modern Speakeasy music” and even “Tom Waits in a cocktail dress.” Start off with the powerful, sultry voice of Gillian Howe and the indie-jazz guitar of Tyler Ryan Miller and you are on your way!

Tumbledown House began in the rain-soaked streets of Portland, Oregon back in 2009. Since then, the band has performed over 700 shows throughout 25 states and is in the process of releasing their third full-length studio album, due this fall. In 2012, the band relocated to the San Francisco Bay Area, where they teamed up with clarinet virtuoso Zac Johnson, ragtime trumpeter Jeff Bordes, upright bass wizard Ryan Lukas, and a wide, varied cast of drummers and percussionists which provides the perfect sonic landscapes for the intricately crafted songs of sultry vocalist Howe and producer/guitarist Miller. The resulting group has become just as notorious for their raucous speakeasy parties as they are adored for their intimate seated events, which are oftentimes enriched by lush storytelling; their ability to charm audiences of all walks of life is making Tumbledown House a rising festival favorite throughout Northern California and beyond.

Tumbledown House's upcoming studio album, Sum and Substance, is a slight departure from the vaudevillian carnival ride of their earlier work. Accessing a certain vulnerability, the album showcases the growth and maturity that the band has experienced as artists and songwriters, while still holding on to a bit of the whimsical playfulness that sets them apart from other acts (songs from the upcoming album include an ode to Josephine Baker, a commentary on the modern dating game using animal safari metaphors, and an account of a shamanic journey into the Peruvian jungle).

The band has performed at such illustrious events as the sold out Edwardian Ball, Stern Grove's pop-up festival, The Priceless Festival, The Midpoint Music Festival, Oakland's Eastlake Music Festival, in clubs such as Yoshi's, The Regency Ballroom, and Amnesia, and alongside notable artists like The Devil Makes Three, Crooked Still, Keller Williams, The Dirty Dozen Brass Band, and countless others. The Irvington Business Association liked them so much they booked them twice, and Saturday, June 24 will be their third time at Mission Coffee.
