Visitors will see examples of baskets, traditional dances, demonstrations of crafts, informational displays, and more. ## Washington Hospital Welcomes Dr. William Wood

General Surgeon Hails from Bay Area

ashington Hospital is pleased to welcome William Wood, MD, a general surgeon who recently joined the Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF).

Dr. Wood, who began practicing with WTMF in August, chose to practice general surgery because he enjoys performing a broad range of procedures and helping people in various ways. He began his college career studying biology, and decided to become a general surgeon because it would afford him the opportunity to blend his love of science with his love of working with people.

Upon earning his medical degree from the University of California, San Francisco, Dr. Wood elected to practice in his native Bay Area. "I grew up in San Francisco and it's very rewarding to get to practice in a community where I came from." Dr. Wood especially appreciates Washington Hospital's mission and philosophy, which closely match his own values. "Washington Hospital is a community service hospital. In addition to providing excellent care to the community, this is a place where I can participate in research and teach patients about their bodies," he says. He notes that the word "doctor" means "teacher" in Latin.

Dr. Wood enjoys working in a hospital with multi-specialty providers, where he and other doctors share their knowledge and where he can refer patients to a specialist right here in this community. "I enjoy communicating and collaborating with other specialties to help my patients," he says. "I also enjoy using my knowledge of anatomy and physiology, coupled with my surgical skills to benefit patients."

As a general surgeon, Dr. Wood performs inpatient and outpatient procedures for a wide array of conditions, including diseases of the gastrointestinal system, such as many different types of hernias, colon and rectal diseases, and diseases of the gall bladder, liver and pancreas. He also performs surgeries pertaining adrenal glands and hemorrhoids, as well as diseases of the breast and skin cancers. Dr. Wood is trained to perform both laparoscopic and traditional open surgeries. "The most rewarding part of my job is meeting people in their time of need, reassuring them that I'll help them, and seeing their recovery," he remarks.

Dr. Wood is married and has an 8-year-old son, with whom he enjoys playing video games. "He loves it when we play together," Dr. Wood says of his son. When he's not working, Dr. Wood values spending time with his family, as well as making music. He is an accomplished trumpet player.

With his love of research, teaching and providing compassionate care to his patients, Dr. Wood has already become a valuable member of the Washington Hospital team and the community they serve.

UCSF – Washington Cancer Center provides hope for Bay Area grandmother with incurable cancer

Fighting multiple myeloma, patient plans her 50th Wedding Anniversary

"Sachi is a remarkable person," said hematologist-oncologist Jeffrey Wolf, MD. "She understands that her cancer will just keep coming back, but she always remains optimistic and upbeat."

Dr. Wolf is describing the medical journey of Sachi Churilo of Pleasanton. Suddenly diagnosed with multiple myeloma in 2008, Churilo is thrilled to have beaten the odds on survival. She considers the new UCSF – Washington Cancer Center in Fremont essential to her ongoing health.

"I wouldn't be here without Dr. Wolf at UCSF and Dr. Bogdan Eftimie at the Cancer Center," said Sachi, a cheerful grandmother of 3 and ex-realtor who's making plans for her 50th wedding anniversary next Valentine's Day. "They're a wonderful team that truly partners on my care. I am so blessed to have them fighting for me, and that's why I continue to survive."

Dr. Wolf, director of the Steve and Nancy Grand Multiple Myeloma Program at the UCSF Helen Diller Family Comprehensive Cancer Center in San Francisco, and Dr. Eftimie, medical co-director at the UCSF – Washington Cancer Center in Fremont, are long-time collaborators on Sachi's care. "She's an amazing and inspiring woman who's been at death's door numerous times," said Dr. Eftimie.

The program at Washington Hospital, which opened this past January, creates a highly coordinated medical oncology network for patients receiving care locally, and facilitates referring and transferring patients to UCSF when needed. "For patients like Sachi," Dr. Eftimie continued, "we're providing increased access to highly specialized cancer services and specialists that weren't previously available in the local communities." Medical Co-director of the center is David Lee, MD, of UCSF Health.

"Dr. Eftimie and Dr. Lee can provide in Fremont most of the therapies Sachi would receive here at UCSF," said Dr. Wolf. "Having a community physician collaborate with a major academic center is a unique relationship that really works."

Diagnosis: an incurable cancer

Sachi's near-decade of battling multiple myeloma started with feeling badly all over. "I felt poorly for months and my doctors were puzzled," she recalled. "Finally, a local emergency room doctor in Pleasanton ordered blood tests on one of my many visits. That's when the cancer was found."

The shock led Sachi and family to seek Dr. Wolf, professor of clinical medicine at UCSF and one of the world's foremost authorities and researchers on the disease.

"Healthy plasma cells are found in bone marrow and key to a functioning immune system," explained Dr. Wolf. "Plasma cells work by making antibodies that protect the body from bacteria, viruses and fungi. But multiple myeloma means that Sachi's plasma cells were cancerous, thus making many cells just like themselves and causing damage to her body. The result was a weakening of her immune system, bone fractures, kidney damage and anemia. Her skeleton was being destroyed."

Dr. Wolf told Sachi she was Stage III – the most advanced stage of the disease. He immediately started an aggressive treatment plan that included chemotherapy, radiation, periodic blood and platelet transfusions and, when appropriate, participation in clinical trials.

"I was driven to get well," said Sachi, "regardless of the odds."

Those odds can be tough.

"This type of cancer constantly mutates through sub-clones and just keeps popping up, sort of like a Whack-A-Mole game," Dr. Wolf explained. "It requires constant attention, and that means that we have to keep adjusting our game plan."

Thankfully, the UCSF program, led by Wolf and Thomas Martin, MD, clinical professor of medicine, is part of a network of major academic and research centers that offer emerging treatments before they are widely known. "We are always first in Northern California with the latest ways to help patients," said Dr. Wolf, who also works with Dr. Martin to develop therapies in their UCSF lab. "We're in touch with all the research in the world."

Much of the research has been around the effectiveness of differ-painted by representatives of the small business Tickle My Face, and take home twisty, balloon animals. Union City Community Recreation Services will supply endless play with interactive games for children.

Local dance groups from Union City and Hayward perform, starting at 10:30 a.m. Groups include Tehani Hula Dance Studio, Ollin Anahuac Aztec Dancers, Punjabi Dhadkan Pinku and Dimples Dance Academy, Viva Gala Studio, and Record Rockers DJ Academy. Pacific Soul takes the stage at 1:30 p.m., and Native Elements, which has performed at Gilroy Garlic Festival and Mountain View Arts & Wine Festival, returns to the fest at 3:30 p.m.

"We expect even more people to attend Fall Fest," says
Adrienne Realiza, President of the Alvarado Historic District
Merchants Association
(AHDMA), lead sponsor of the festival, now in its third year.
"The bands we chose have followers and are popular for their performances throughout the Bay Area."

Realiza says AHDMA's first fall festival included arts and wine in its title; it was changed to Fall Fest at the request of sponsors who wanted a more inclusive designation, attracting families.

I BIKE Union City Bike Show and Swap Meet, sponsored by Union City's Community Recreation Services, is a festival feature. Last year, the event attracted more than 250 bikes in friendly competition for best bicycle in Vintage, Stretch, What's Up Frankenstein, and Kids' categories. With decision by public choice, Fall Fest attendees can cast votes for their favorites and determine winners. Vendors will also sell bicycle parts and accessories; Union City's Teen Workshop will be on hand to help with simple bicycle repairs.

"This event celebrates bike culture, "explains Maynard Estrellado, who grew up in Union City and now works at Union City Community Recreation Services and is the coordinator of I BIKE Union City. "Custom bicycles can be an art."

Estrellado says bicycle enthusiasts, of which there are many in Union City, operate with a motto of "Built Not Bought." Expect lowrider bikes, vintage tricycle bikes and bikes with music systems, among others at this year's show, he says. Last year's winner of What's Up Frankenstein, which Estrellado describes as a category of "putting parts together and riding it," was a dragon steel foil bike.

"It's a weird underground culture of bike enthusiast who like to work on bikes, and we celebrate it in Union City," says Estrellado. "They use their skills to build and they have fun riding. We throw a bike show so they can show off their art."

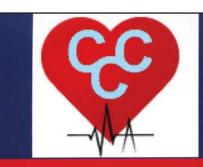

Union City's bike club, Bay Bomb, will showcase vintage cars in addition to bicycles. BMX bikes will also be on display.

Realiza, who co-chairs
Alvarado Fall Fest with Sarah Lantimo, describes the event as a time to connect with community.
"For some people, it's like a reunion. There's an old-time feeling to the area, where everyone knows each other." The event is also designed to attract attendees from neighboring cities and spark more interest by prospective small businesses looking for a site or to relocate to the historic district.

The Alvarado Historic District Merchants Association incorporated in June 2014 and now has more than 40 small business members. In addition to Fall Fest, AHDMA sponsors a spring egg hunt and a winter fest. Proceeds from the $5 children pay for the pumpkin patch and face painting will go toward future events. Union City Chamber of Commerce and Union City Community and Recreation Services is assisting with this year's festival.

ent chemotherapy and targeted drug combinations. This knowledge has allowed Dr. Wolf to successfully modify Sachi's treatments each time the cancer returns. "Whenever her cancer starts growing again," said Dr. Wolf, "we figure out how to hit it with something else."

The most advanced treatment recommended by Dr. Wolf occurred in 2010, after Sachi's cancer returned and caused a spine compression fracture - she underwent an autologous stem cell transplant, an extremely difficult procedure that only a major center like UCSF can provide.

"The transplant was hard," Sachi recalled. "I was in the hospital for 27 days, but the care was remarkable. The transplant was so effective that I didn't need chemotherapy for 16 months." However, the cancer eventually came back, and Dr. Wolf had to design a new treatment regimen. (She received another stem cell transplant in 2015.)

The community connection

In 2012, four years into the disease, Sachi was looking for a top community oncologist to regularly manage and coordinate UCSF's overarching plan. She interviewed Dr. Eftimie, who had a local office in Fremont. "I decided right away that he was perfect," Sachi said. "He treats me like I'm the only person he is taking care of, and I've been seeing him ever since."

Sachi was thrilled to follow Dr. Eftimie when he became Medical Co-director, along with Lee, of the UCSF – Washington Cancer Center in Fremont earlier this year. Drs. Wolf, Eftimie and Lee are all part of UCSF Health, ranked number one in Northern California and in the top 10 nationwide for cancer care. The oncology affiliation, which provides both inpatient and outpatient care, furthers a strong relationship that began in 2013. That's when Washington Hospital initiated a program to provide local access to a number of UCSF premier medical specialties, including neonatal intensive care, cardiac surgery and several pediatric specialties.

"We're able to follow Sachi on a local level to manage her ongoing therapies, and in conjunction with the plan at UCSF," said Dr. Eftimie, who regularly consults with Dr. Wolf. Sachi visits the team in Fremont weekly for various treatments, including chemotherapy infusions at the Sandy Amos, RN, Infusion Center, a "wonderful team," Sachi said. She goes to San Francisco to meet with Dr. Wolf every two to three months. "Everyone is so good to me," said Sachi, "I am so, so grateful for the care."

Today, and the future

In late July, Sachi's cancer returned, and she was hospitalized at Washington Hospital. Once again, Dr. Wolf had to design a new combination of chemotherapies to attack the relapse. "I know the chance of recurrence is always there," said Sachi, "and that there is no cure."

During recovery, Sachi is keeping her usual sunny outlook and gradually returning to her regular routine - dancing, tending the garden, visiting children and grandkids and, of course, planning that golden anniversary with husband Carl. She notes that some of her treatments bring an inability to sleep, along with unpleasant

"Regardless of what happens, cancer has taught me so much about life," said Sachi, who is thankful to the many friends who have donated blood and platelets on her behalf, thus saving the lives of many. "Cancer has brought me a renewed passion for helping others, and this brings me great pleasure.

As Dr. Wolf said, she is one of the most unforgettably optimistic and upbeat patients ever. "I am truly blessed," said Sachi, who marks 10 years with the disease next summer. "I'm surrounded by a beautiful family, a loving husband, and two of the best oncologists in the world. Life is very, very good, and I am filled with thanks."

Rodeo Hall of Fame inducts Randy Corley

SUBMITTED BY ALFREDA SEBASTO

For more than 30 years Randy Corley has been a part of the Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo. The 12- time PRCA Announcer of the Year has helped East Bay rodeo fans learn more about the sport and experience the fast-paced action at the annual Hayward/Castro Valley event. In August, the long-time friend to our hometown rodeo, was amongst an elite group inducted into the prestigious ProRodeo Hall of Fame in Colorado Springs, CO. Corley joined five world champions to headline the 12-member 2017 induction class.

"We couldn't be prouder of our friend Randy Corley, he does so much for our rodeo, and the sport of rodeo, by entertaining and educating fans while announcing the play by play in the arena. He understands the heart of a cowboy and is able to convey to our fans why the Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo is an important piece of our community's history," said Russ Fields, Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo President.

Corley's resume reads like a member of the Hall of Fame, he has been selected PRCA

Announcer of the Year 12 times (1984, 1990-96, 1998, 2003, 2011 and 2015). He also has been an announcer at the National Finals Rodeo 16 times (1985-86, 1992, 1994-96, 2007-2016). Upon learning about his honor, Corley stated, "I'm in a pretty select group and I'm so honored. My whole thing is cowboys are the stars. When they are nodding their head, you've already told everyone who they are.

"That's what I strive for, and have forever, and to be a good person to everybody, inside the arena and outside the arena. Those are the deals that I think make vou a better announcer because then you're true, and true is the best way to announce."

Corley's induction follows several Pro Rodeo Hall of Fame honorees from our hometown rodeo including the Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo itself in 2014, while past president Cecil Jones was included in the class of 2000 and Harry Rowell in 1979.

The 98th Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo will take place May 18-20, 2018, with Randy Corley back behind the microphone announcing the action, as world champion cowboys and cowgirls take part of one of the toughest shows on dirt. Tickets will go on sale in March 2018. Visit rowellranchrodeo.com to Corley was inducted along with gold buckle winners the late Buck Rutherford (all-around, 1954), Enoch Walker (saddle bronc riding, 1960), Tommy Puryear (steer wrestling, 1974), Mike Beers (team roping, 1984), Cody Custer (bull riding, 1992) and rodeo notable Bob Ragsdale, a 22-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier in three events. Also inducted into the Hall was the four-time bareback horse of the year, Christensen Bros.' Smith & Velvet, and the committee for the Ogden (Utah) Pioneer Days.

Apple says its new watch has cellular connectivity problems

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP), Apple confirmed that its new Series 3 Apple Watch can encounter problems connecting to a cellular network. The problems arise when the watch joins unauthenticated Wi-Fi networks without connectivity.

This can happen when the watch tries to join a Wi-Fi network the user has previously logged in to using another Apple device, like an iPhone or a computer. The company says it is investigating a fix for the problem. Meanwhile, to work around the problem, users can set their phone to "forget" the

The latest watch, which starts at $399, has been hotly anticipated because its cellular connectivity means people can use it without carrying their phone around. The watch doesn't require a new data plan, but an add-on to existing plans. This generally costs $5 to $10 a month.

Kohl's to open Amazon shops inside some of its stores

By Joseph Pisanti AP BUSINESS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP), Sept. 6 – Clothing store retailer Kohl's recently announced that it will open Amazon shops in 10 of its stores, making it the latest department store operator to make a deal with the e-commerce giant.

Kohl's shoppers will be able to buy Amazon Echos, Fire tablets and other gadgets from the 1,000-square-foot Amazon shops. Customers can also ask to have an Amazon employee come to their home and install a device or suggest products to buy.

Kohl's Corp. said the Amazon shops will open next month in Chicago and Los Angeles stores. The Menomonee Falls, Wisconsin-based company has more than 1,100 across the country. The Kohl's deal comes a few months after department store operator Sears said it would sell its Kenmore appliances on Amazon.com. At the same time, Seattle-based Amazon.com Inc. has been growing its brick-and-mortar presence: It has opened 11 bookstores in two years and recently bought organic grocer Whole Foods, selling the Amazon Echo voice assistant device next to organic grapes and corn.

Disney streaming service just got a lot bigger

By Tali Arbel AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

NEW YORK (AP), Disney is adding more firepower to its upcoming streaming service.

Its "Star Wars" and Marvel comic-book movies will be included in the service, making it the only way to stream those movies on demand in the U.S. as part of a monthly subscription. A price hasn't been announced yet, but the service is expected in late 2019 after Disney's current deal with Netflix expires.

Previously Disney announced the inclusion of just Disney and Pixar movies and Disney TV shows. Adding the "Star Wars" and Marvel movies could make the new service appealing to teenagers and adults, not just families with young children. The Marvel movies include the "Avengers" and "Guardians of the Galaxy" franchises.

The service will also have original Disney movies, TV series and shorts. Disney CEO Bob Iger said thousands of TV episodes and hundreds of movies will be available, though shows from Disney's ABC network aren't coming to the service. Disney said last month that it was considering moving "Star Wars" and Marvel to the new service, but a decision wasn't announced until last week.

Disney's offering is one of many online film and TV options coming from entertainment and tech companies, with more in the works. Disney, for example, is also launching an ESPN sports streaming service early next year. It won't replicate what's on ESPN, for now, so it's expected to be somewhat niche.

Google hit with class action lawsuit over gender pay

By Ryan Nakashima AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP), Google faces a new lawsuit accusing it of gender-based pay discrimination. A lawyer representing three female former Google employees is seeking class action status for the claim.

The suit, filed Sept. 14 in San Francisco Superior Court, follows a federal labor investigation that made a preliminary finding of systemic pay discrimination among the 21,000 employees at Google's headquarters in Mountain View, California. The initial stages of the review found women earned less than men in nearly every job classification.

Google disputes those findings and says its analysis shows no gender pay gap.

The suit, led by lawyer James Finberg of Altshuler Berzon LLP, is on behalf of three women — Kelly Ellis, Holly Pease and Kelli Wisuri — who all quit after being put on career tracks that they claimed would pay them less than their male counterparts. The suit aims to represent thousands of Google employees in California and seeks lost wages and a slice of Google's profits.

"I have come forward to correct a pervasive problem of gender bias at Google," Ellis said in a statement. She says she quit Google in 2014 after male engineers with similar experience were hired to higher-paying job levels and she was denied a promotion despite excellent performance reviews. "It is time to stop ignoring these issues in tech.'

Google spokeswoman Gina Scigliano said the company will review the suit in detail, "but we disagree with the central allegations."

"Job levels and promotions are determined through rigorous hiring and promotion committees, and must pass multiple levels of review, including checks to make sure there is no gender bias in these decisions," she said.

Charges of gender discrimination have swirled at Alphabet Inc.-owned Google since the U.S. Labor Department sued in January to bar Google from doing business with the federal government until it released thousands of documents related to an audit over its pay practices. The sides have been battling in court over how much information Google must turn over.

The lawsuit also follows the firing of male engineer James Damore, who wrote a memo circulated on internal message boards that blamed inherent differences between men and women for the underrepresentation of women in engineering roles.

Car navigation tech brings new twists and turns to driving

By MICHAEL LIEDTKE AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP), Digital maps that dodge traffic jams are saving time for millions of motorists, but they're also turning some neighborhood streets into headache-inducing escape routes from congested highways.

The unsettling side effects of traffic-tackling technology are popping up more frequently as more drivers depend on smartphones equipped with navigation apps like Waze, Google Maps and Apple Maps. Now, automakers are increasingly integrating those tools into dashboard consoles, making it likely that even more drivers will follow directions down roads that they otherwise would never have known.

"People are becoming trained to just blindly follow their mapping apps. The concern is the apps aren't making any distinction between what happens when cars travel on highways and when they travel on city streets by schools and through neighborhoods," says Hans Larsen, public works director in Fremont, California, on the fringes of Silicon Valley.

The traffic being diverted off clogged highways during the morning and evening commutes became so insufferable in Fremont that city leaders decided about a year ago to try to outwit the apps. The city of about 230,000 people started to ban turns at several key intersections at certain times along the shortcuts being touted by Waze and other mapping services.

Before police began handing out tickets, Fremont even set up electronic signs blinking this admonishment: "Don't Trust Your Apps."

The countermeasures turned the shortcuts into slower routes, no longer recommended as bypasses around traffic. But the apps have since found other shortcuts, including some that direct drivers down even smaller side streets that weren't designed to accommodate so many cars. That's frustrating some residents. "Sometimes people get so focused on taking a shortcut that they won't even stop to let other people back out of their driveways at home," Larsen said.

Similar headaches are vexing communities across the country, prompting traffic planners to find ways to make their side streets less convenient alternatives to highways.

Waze, which Google bought for about $1 billion four years ago, originally set out to save every driver five minutes when they got into their cars to go anywhere beyond a few miles away. The app plots its routes with computer algorithms that analyze data gathered from users of Waze's app. Waze recalculates the best routes based on real-time traffic conditions, updated roughly every three minutes.

The technology has become so accurate and widely used that Waze has broadened its mission to "eliminating congestion altogether," says Waze spokeswoman Julie Mossler. "We can do that by providing smarter routes to drivers. We can't snap our fingers and make traffic go away. Waze isn't always going to be the solution, but it is certainly a key that helps."

Cities need to do their part too, Mossler says. Waze says it works with municipalities to help them ease traffic on local roads, even when its app is steering cars on to them. Those steps can include lowering the speed limit, adding speed bumps or banning turns at some intersections to increase the chances that Waze won't recommend them as shortcuts.

Waze has done a lot of good by reducing the amount of time that commuters spend on the road, which helps decrease air pollution, said Sam Schwartz, a transportation consultant and former traffic commissioner in New York city. "But no good deed goes unpunished, so more and more communities are seeing more and more traffic because of the way these apps send drivers on to local streets," he said.

Schwartz believes that cities facing technology-driven traffic problems will ultimately need to start charging tolls to use their roads during certain times of day. The congestion pricing would be like the system already used in some lanes on many California highways. Cameras could be used to identify cars and charge vehicles registered outside a city's limit, Schwartz said.

First new elementary in twenty-five years

SUBMITTED BY ROBIN MICHEL

In 2014, the Fremont City Council adopted the Warm Springs/South Fremont Community Plan. A new community is now taking shape, including the construction of a new elementary school to serve students in the area. Partners in the construction of the new school are Fremont Unified School District (FUSD), the City of Fremont, Lennar Homes, Toll Brothers and Fairfield Warm Springs LLC.

Designed by Quattrocchi Kwok Architects (QKA), the 1,100-student school and adjacent four-acre joint-use park are intended to serve as a community hub, unifying the urban, transit-oriented setting of the new development. The design affords the teachers and students optimal environments for today's learning methods and academic excellence, and infuses specialized facilities like a media center, student-led learning rooms, flexible laboratories and an outdoor amphitheater.

Key players in the project will be available after the brief ceremony, including:

- Elected officials, including Fremont Mayor Lily Mei and City Councilmembers
- FUSD Board of Education President Ann Crosbie, Trustees
- and former Board members Superintendent Kim Wallace
- Representatives from Lennar Homes, Toll Brothers, Fairfield, QKA, and others.

The new elementary school is in the Walters Junior High and Kennedy High School attendance area, and the Kennedy High School Band will perform.

"This groundbreaking is an opportunity to celebrate the strong partnerships between FUSD, the City of Fremont, and the developers who understand the importance of quality schools and public education," says FUSD Board President

Ann Crosbie. "The ceremonial groundbreaking is the first milestone in creating this brand-new school for our youngest learners."

The new elementary school will feature a modern design and technological advancements, and provide a learning environment to match the instructional excellence that has earned Fremont schools local, state and national

For All Signs: Next week, on Oct. 4 – 6, the planets Venus and Mars will be conjoined in our sky. They will be visible in the east early in the mornings and Venus is the brighter. Venus, the ancient goddess of love and art, carries broad feminine and romantic symbolism. Mars is the warrior god and prevails over masculine territory. The symbolism of this conjunction suggests the conclusion of one relationship and the beginning of another. Alternatively, the conjunctions speak of the beginning and ending of episodes or cycles within a single relationship. This conjunction concludes a cycle that began in November, 2015. It marks the beginning of the new cycle which will last for 23 months. This particular conjunction occurs in the sign of Virgo, that represents our planet and all our earthy connections. There will be attention in the news to labor unions along with farming and agricultural issues. Virgo is also a sign that represents health, so it is possible that another bill related to health insurance will be presented..

Aries the Ram (March 21-

April 20): Please give careful attention to the lead paragraph. The symbolism of Virgo will be prominent for you for the next few weeks. This is a time to believe your dreams and make that push toward success. The Force is with you now. Activities requiring strength and/or endurance are favored.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Venus is your Avatar planet and next week she encounters her partner, Mars, in your house of romance, creativity, and children. If you are an artist of any type, this is the time to begin anew on a project. Don't carry the Critic with you. Just experience the medium, whether it is paint, food, or music. Creative work will build upon itself if you just give it a chance to begin.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Mercury, your ruling planet, moves into the sector of life related to children, recreation, personal creativity, and romance. Your attention will be focused in these areas for three weeks. You will enjoy everything more if you can leave your Inner Critic in a box and not let it loose while you

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): The week begins on a social note. Then you may experience a minor conflict with a family member over home, hearth, and finances. Do not fret. Everything will be resolved during the next week. In general, your mind is at peace now.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): You may feel called upon to devote energy to the wellbeing of siblings, cousins, or neighbors. If you have anything to do with school(s), you may be giving energy to a special project that will help get the year off to a good start.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Your creativity is strong now. It is unusual for the Virgins to make a first step in a relationship, but if you are thinking about it, the next two weeks are prime time. Activities involving romance, children, and play augur well. Whatever you do to promote healing for yourself and others will be golden.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Mercury travels rapidly through your sign between Sept. 29 and October 17. During this period there likely will be greater emphasis on communications, errands, and other short distance travels. You will be ready to make decisions that you have hesitated over for several weeks. A positive outcome to home improvements is likely at hand.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Your charisma is powerful and you can be at your most persuasive now. It is unnecessary to manipulate anyone to get what you want. Step aside from such temptations. Activities requiring physical energy are accented and favored now. You have a need to get out and about to refresh your spirit.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): You are restless and excitable. You want to make changes in your routine and/or home and hearth. Those who are fortunate have travel plans during this period, which can use some of that extra adrenaline you are toting. Your exuberant mood might cause you to overextend your promises. Think before committing.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19):

Circumstances will work in your favor as you deal with travel, legal interests, higher education, religious activities, or publishing matters. In some situations, it is a matter of good will from others, and in other situations, it may just be happenstance that the rule of the Powers that Be helps things flow in your direction.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): This is a great time to kick back, go on vacation, or watch your favorite movies. October brings more action and pulls you out of your comfort zone toward multiple activities. For now, you can enjoy some days of R&R.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): Much of your attention is focused on one or more significant others during this period. Give as much as you truly want to give. If you have a sense that your help is being extracted from you, stop and look carefully at what you are doing. Allowing someone to "take" your energy is not a healthy practice.

SUBMITTED BY MARCESS OWINGS

In the spirit of the spooking season, the Hayward Area Historical Society (HAHS) is sponsoring its annual Shrouded Tales program featuring tours of historic properties during the fall season.

Not your usual haunted house tour packed with jump scares, these tours are more like a spooky historical tour. The one-hour tours are family friendly. "Our volunteer actors look forward to these tours each year. They have a great time bringing the historic content to life, but even more so when they actually startle our guests," said HAHS Collections and Historic Properties Manager Gretta Stimson.

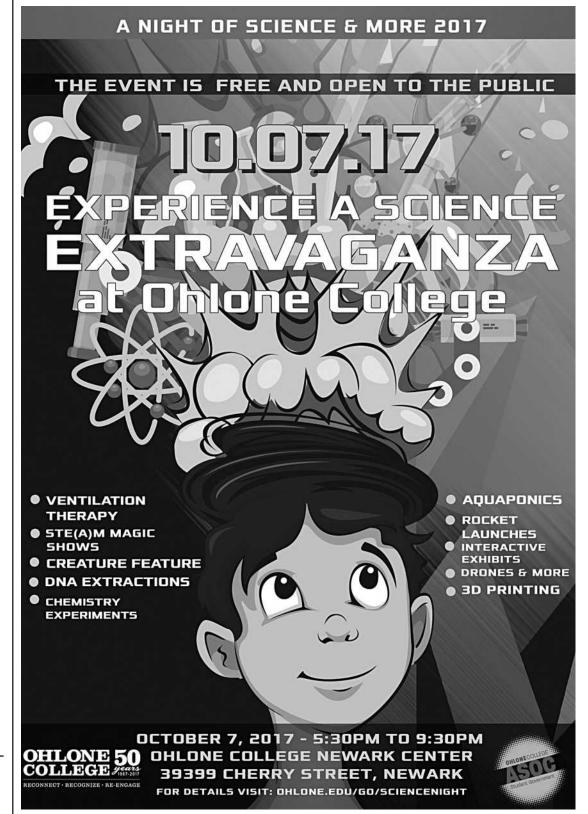

Tour guests will join "The Undertaker" on special tours of the McConaghy House, San Lorenzo Pioneer Cemetery, and Meek Mansion. They will explore reportedly haunted sites, hear recounts of tragic tales of the area's pioneers and families, and perhaps meet a specter or two.

Tour schedule:

- Oct. 6: McConaghy House, 18701 Hesperian Blvd., Hayward, 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.
- Oct. 20: San Lorenzo Pioneer Cemetery, 15506 Hesperian Blvd., Hayward, 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.
- Oct. 27: Meek Mansion, 240 Hampton Road, Hayward, 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Because the tours are very popular, buying tickets in advance is strongly recommended. Tickets are $15 for general admission and $10 for seniors, students and HAHS members. Proceeds from the tours will benefit the maintenance and preservation of the historic sites.

Tickets can be purchased online by visiting www.haywardareahistory.org/shrouded-tales or by calling (510) 581-0223. Proceeds from ticket sales benefit the maintenance and preservation of the historic sites.

Workshop and rally to protect Dreamers

SUBMITTED BY CHRISTOPHER CARA

Community members are invited to participate in a workshop and rally hosted by Union City Dreamers. This coalition of Union City immigrant advocates formed in response to President Trump's rescission of the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program, putting thousands of young immigrants at risk. The workshop will educate immigrants and mixed status families on their rights and provide critical information for DACA participants. We welcome all to attend. Steps will be taken to be sure that community members feel safe while participating. A rally will be held in the coming weeks to express the importance of protecting and keeping Union City families together.

The coalition will:

- Strengthen immigrant defense through know your rights education
- Provide a system of support/solidarity for Dreamers and other immigrants who are at risk
- Plan creative responses from faith, school and general communities.

Union City Dreamers is comprised of families, youth, educators, faith groups, community advocates and service providers. Its focus is to stand in solidarity with the Dreamers leading the fight for the immigrant community. All concerned community members are welcome to attend the workshop and rally. #### Ohlone Humane Society

Bird season briefs

By Pat Kite

Baby bird season has come and gone. A lot of fledglings came plopping from nest to ground. Some survived, with your help. Some became cat appetizers. It's difficult to save a cat or dog "catch," but a few, caught in time, are now out in the wilds of suburbia. Let's take a peek at what came through the doors of the Ohlone Humane Society Wildlife Rehabilitation Center (WRC) in Newark, CA.

A bird kindergarten of American Crows. Some folk have a lack of fondness for noisy Crows, but many American Indian tribes saw the crow as a wise adviser and the spirit of wisdom and the law. Highly intelligent, crows can be masterful mimics. They have been trained to count aloud up to seven, and some crows have learned more than 100 words and up to 50 complete sentences. Our WRC intake sheet reads, fledgling "was hopping around their yard, unable to fly. Rescuer reported that other crows were very concerned and vocal when rescuer approached." Other youngsters came in from San Ramon, Newark, Fremont, and Hayward. Yes, they grew feathers and grew up. Caw, caw, caw. Caw.

What would baby bird season be without ducklings? Two were rescued from Fremont's Petsmart parking lot. Five were running unchaperoned down a street in Newark. Another batch were caught in a drain. Another batch stuck in a pit. Three from a park near Azeveda School. Four more from the Quarry Lakes area. And another "hanging in tree by its foot." Baby ducks are kept for about five weeks. They have their very own kiddy swimming pool at the WRC.

In came a domestic Japanese quail. Rescuer said, "He was all alone with no other birds around and he was on the floor. We took care of him." Once checked at WRC and ok, a specialist adopted the Quail.

A young Anna's hummingbird was released locally. The painted turtle possibly checking out the antique stores in Niles was adopted. So was the rescued box turtle. A young dehydrated Black-tailed Hare [Jack rabbit] went to homecare, and was later hopping elsewhere.

Some folk think opossums are sort of ugly. But babies are cute, as babies are. We got a batch. One kept coming into a Fremont home. Another was found under a shed being demolished. What do they eat while recuperating? Canned and dry cat food, dry dog food, hard-boiled egg, fruit, smelt. And superworms.

Two Nuttall's woodpeckers fell out of a backyard tree in Union City. They did well, as did two Newark mockingbirds. A little brown myotis ('little brown' actually part of the official name) bat was found in a Newark storage shed. "I did not want it to die in storage. Felt sorry for it." Zipping around at night now.

Along came a turkey vulture, sitting all sad at a roadside. Caring folk called the WRC and Supersaver David went to the rescue. He also found the owner of a lost banded pigeon.

If you like a little fancier, we got two Cooper's Hawks from Fremont, a young White-Tailed Kite fallen from a nest, a Red-Tailed hawk rescued from a sticky salt pond—how does one give a grouchy hawk a bath?and a whole batch of fledgling American Kestrels. They came from Brentwood, Pittsburg, Orinda, Antioch, Oakley, Union City and Livermore. The word is out on the great rehabilitation services offered at our Newark wildlife rescue site. You will see these small colorful falcons sitting on telephone wires looking to dive for a snack.

But, of course, they didn't get one field mouse. It was brought into our WRC by a rescuer and later set free. People can be so earnest. Like the lady who brought us a nest with three eggs in it. Such caring makes me happy. You too?

Animals we saw this season: field mouse, American kestrels, Muscovy duck, pigeons, house finches, cliff swallows, mockingbirds. Woodpeckers, Rufous hummingbird, white-throated swift, lesser goldfinch, Cooper's hawks, red-tailed hawk, turkey vulture, Nuttall's woodpecker, acorn woodpecker, little brown myotis bat, killdeer plover, opossums, barn swallow, box turtle, Canada goose, Black-tailed hare, painted turtle, Anna's hummingbirds, domestic Japanese quail, Mallard ducklings, American crows, striped skunks, fox squirrels, black-crowned night heron, brown towhee, rock dove and mourning doves.

Rescuers from Fremont, Union City, Newark, Livermore, Alameda, Oakland, Walnut Creek, Hayward, San Ramon, San Leandro, Milpitas, Castro Valley, Pleasanton, Oakley, Antioch, Orinda, Berkeley, Pittsburg, Brentwood.

We are having an open house on Saturday, October 7. Ambassador animals on show from Sulphur Creek Nature Center, children's activities, educational talks, and tours of the facility. If you would like to make a donation, we need the following items: Paper towels, toilet paper, exam gloves size medium, unscented laundry soap, birdseed, trash bags, bleach. Gift cards from hardware stores, office supply stores, and grocery stores. We also take pennies, nickels, dimes and other small blessings.

Teachers of the Year honored on October 5

SUBMITTED BY ALAMEDA COUNTY OFFICE OF EDUCATION

In July educator Veronica Aguilar was named the Alameda County Office of Education (ACOE) 2017 – 18 Teacher of the Year. Ms. Aguilar, a teacher at ACOE's Burke Academy, recently celebrated 10 years with ACOE.

Each year, school districts nominate deserving teachers to receive the award, who are then in the running to become one of two county winners. Fourteen of Alameda County's eighteen districts and each of the county's three Regional Occupational Programs (ROPs) participated in honoring teachers for the 2017 – 18 award.

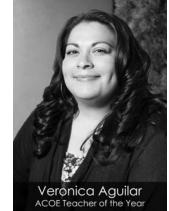

Annually, ACOE hosts an elegant and inspirational award ceremony to honor each district's Teacher of the Year and announce the county winners. The event will be held at the Castro Valley Center for the Arts on Thursday, October 5, 2017.

Alameda County Superintendent of Schools L. Karen Monroe kicked off the new school season with classroom visits of each district teacher.

"I have been visiting each of our winners in their classrooms, enabling me to witness the incredible work of our county's well-deserving educators," says Monroe. "I am especially excited to celebrate ACOE's own Veronica Aguilar and witness the incredible work that her program does to support some of the county's most vulnerable youth. I look forward to celebrating all of the honorees."

New Eagle Scouts recognized for community projects

Sajan Khatkar

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS SUBMITTED BY MICHELE MELADY YOUNG

Two East Bay youths recently earned Eagle Rank Awards from the Boy Scouts of America.

During a presentation on July 29, Boy Scouts Troop 103 in Fremont proudly presented Sajan Khatkar and Alex Young with the awards, the highest award a scout can achieve. The pair completed requirements for the awards in April and May, respectively.

Among the requirements for Eagle Rank recognition is to design, organize and lead a project that benefits the local community.

Sajan, a 2017 graduate of Irvington High School, worked with Local Ecology & Agriculture Fremont (FremontLEAF.org) to build a "hügelkultur" (loosely translated: hill culture). Measuring approximately 1,800 cubic feet, this self-composting garden hill will help the volunteers of LEAF to continue to increase its sustainable production of fresh vegetables that are donated to local organizations to feed people in need.

Alex, a 2017 graduate of Moreau Catholic High School, designed and installed a threepart compost bin for the Master Gardeners of Alameda County. The bin will allow the Master Gardeners to recycle the materials from the Demonstration Garden and use the resulting beneficial compost back in the garden.

Alex Young

Located in Quarry Lakes
Regional Park, the Demonstration Garden serves the public with free monthly educational talks and on-site examples of native plants.

Troop 103, sponsored by Rotary Club Fremont Warm Springs Sunrise, is proud of its most recent Eagle Scouts, Sajan Khatkar and Alex Young.

No room for a sofa? Try this instead

For a variety of reasons, some living rooms are difficult to furnish. Maybe the room is too small, or even too large, or just awkwardly laid out. Or maybe you'd just like a new idea for furniture arrangement. Instead of your typical sofa, try a grouping of chairs instead. Here are some reasons to try this arrangement in your house.

piano, which is definitely the center of attention in this amazing living room. The group of four teal chairs fits nicely alongside the piano, perfect for listening to music and conversation.

When you need a flexible seating arrangement. Let's say you often have gatherings at your house and need to be able to move or expand the seating area easily, or clear the floorspace. Chairs are much easier to move around than large sofas.

Some guidelines when planning your space and before you make your purchases:

Measurements are key—you don't want chairs that are too large! Measure your space carefully, and err on the side of narrower and shallower, over wider and deeper.

Chairs should coordinate in terms of color and style, but they don't necessarily have to match. If you're not sure what to do, though, go for matching chairs. Or perhaps two different chairs, but in the same fabric. If you choose two different chairs, make sure they are the same height and width, give or take an inch or two. You don't want two of the chairs to dwarf the other two.

Make sure the chairs are comfortable. If you're forgoing a comfy sofa, you want to make sure the chairs are just as comfortable.

There is no interior design rule that says a living room must have a sofa, so look objectively at your space and see if this type of seating arrangement will work for you.

When your fireplace is awkwardly placed. A fireplace is often the focal point of the room, but if it is off in a corner, or is splitting your room in two, then mostly likely, a sofa facing it will not work. A grouping of two or four chairs might work better, and still provide the same amount of seating as a sofa.

When your living room is small, with no obvious spot for a sofa. If this is the case, then bring the furniture away from the walls with a cluster of four chairs around a coffee table. This creates an intimate and conversational seating arrangement.

When the focal point is something grand, like a piano, for example. In the photo, you'll notice the stunning black grand

THE ACWD CONNECTION

Did you know that nearly 40 percent of ACWD's water supply is local and much of that comes from Alameda Creek? Protecting our natural resources benefits us all, and caring for the creek is essential.

ACWD's operations on Alameda Creek help ensure our local supply sources are reliable while protecting the environment and steelhead trout. With the operation of two inflatable dams, and a series of fish screens and pipelines, water is diverted to Quarry Lakes where it provides recreation opportunities while recharging the Niles Cone Groundwater Basin.

The Niles Canyon Stroll & Roll event is an excellent time to enjoy the beauty of Alameda Creek and ACWD is excited to partner in this effort. This family-fun event will allow you to bike, walk, or run through Niles Canyon without vehicle traffic.

Mutt Strut

SUBMITTED BY EMMA BLANCO PHOTOS BY TEO DECIERDO (VTM PHOTOGRAPHY)

It won't be the typical brunch with your best friend. Yes, there'll be pancakes and a leisurely stroll, but there will also be a hot dog dunking contest and musical chairs. Grab your canine bestie and the rest of the family and head on over to the much-antici pated "Mutt Strut." New Haven Schools Foundation (NHSF)'s popular annual fundraiser takes place on Saturday, October 7 at the Masonic Home grounds, located along the Union City foothills on Mission Boulevard, and promises, once again, to delight and entertain dogs and their two-legged companions.

Participants will start the day at 8 a.m. with an energizing pancake breakfast followed by the main event, the walk/run, at 9 a.m. But the fun doesn't end when you cross the finish line. In addition to the doggie Halloween Costume Contest (which will also award prizes to the "best pair" adult-and-dog and child-and-dog costumes), there will be a Pet Vendor Fair as well as other games and activities (like the aforementioned hot dog dunking contest and musical chairs). The best part of the event is that all funds raised go directly to support NHSF's scholarship and grant programs.

NHSF would like to thank this year's Mutt Strut sponsors, including the Masonic Homes of California, Washington Hospital, Fremont Bank, Al and Marsha Badella, Paradise Ballrooms, Acacia Creek, and Tri-CED Community Recycling.

Mutt Strut welcomes everyone to come and enjoy the fun event and invites all dogs from near and far.

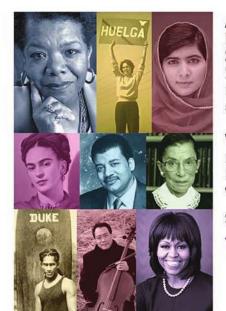

For more information or to purchase tickets, visit www.muttstrutt.org or call (510) 909-9263. Individual tickets cost $30 and cover registration for one adult and up to two dogs, one pancake breakfast, a Mutt Strut T-shirt, and a doggie goody bag. Family Registration ($50) covers up to four people and two dogs, pancake breakfast for two, two event T-shirts, and two doggie goodie bags. Children under 10 get complimentary entry to the event as well as free breakfast but a parent must accompany them.

Peace on Your Winds

Young players deliver a message of peace

SUBMITTED BY OHANA ARTS

If you are concerned about the long-term effects of war on the young, if you believe that world peace will come from the way we educate the next generation, take time to go see 'Peace On Your Wings.' Set in post-war 1950's Japan, 'Peace' is a new musical inspired by the life of Sadako Sasaki, a 12-year old girl who died from leukemia resulting from radiation caused by the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima. She is remembered for having folded over a thousand paper cranes to fulfill an old Japanese legend that would grant one wish to anyone who would fold one thousand cranes. To this day she is a reminder of innocent victims of war, and her story of her thousand paper cranes has inspired an international movement of folding cranes for peace. 'Peace' is performed by youth for youth, and juxtaposes Sadako's true story and the events leading up to her death in November 1955 with a fictional story about a group of her friends who rallied support from around Japan to have a monument built in Sadako's memory to honor the children who were victims of the atomic bomb. The unique and uplifting score combines modern musical theater, 1950's boogie-woogie and Japanese taiko, while the young characters, through grappling with terminal illness and death, discover their own strength, the importance of friendship and the wisdom to live every precious moment to its fullest. 'Peace On Your Wings' teaches the lesson of "Ichigo Ichie," meaning "Today is the first and last day of your life."

The Bay Area cast, ages 7 to 17, hail from San Francisco, San Jose, Santa Cruz, Sacramento, Marin County and Alameda County and cast members range in age from 7-17. Chris Apy, Felicia Chang and Kylie Walrod attend Azevada Elementary, Irvington High School and Mission San Jose High School in Fremont. Allayna Slate from Newark and Drew Hope from Milpitas were also selected to participate in the production.

There will only be six public Bay Area performances, but school shows are also available on September 29 and October 5 and 6. Recommended for ages 9

Fear Overload Scream Park

SUBMITTED BY FEAR OVERLOAD SCREAM PARK

Noted as the Bay Area's premier haunted house, Fear Overload Scream Park's nightmares are worth revisiting and gawking over. Open 23 nights starting September 29, Fear Overload offers two ecstatic, over-the-top haunted houses rich with monsters and unsavory demons from the darkest depths of your fears. Expertly crafted and built up from scratch, the ideas keep flowing and construction is non-stop, providing some of the most detailed mazes and areas that'll make you believe you're in the home of The Plastic Surgeon or the warehouse of Static Noise.

This year, our signature haunted house attraction is The Plastic Surgeon. The Plastic Surgeon was a bullied, neglected child, tormented for having hideous facial deformities. Grown up, he became more than a man, he became a leviathan of pain, dabbling in the methods of bodily torture, mainly to the face. If he couldn't have the face he wanted, no one else could. Now, you and your group have stumbled into the home of The Plastic Surgeon. The electricity has been shut off, and your group has only one dim flashlight to explore his den. A little white noise is good to put you to sleep but static noise will probably just drag you to depths of the underworld. Inhabited by a ghastly girl, the warehouse full of useless TVs will come to life whenever flesh is in the vicinity. Beware the grasp of the girl who watched too much TV as a child and eventually died as a cause. Built to keep the spirit at bay, the girl inhabits any television set she can get her hands on in the warehouse but be warned, if you enter the house and stare too long at the set, you may find something reaching out for you. And it is not because of the 3D gimmicks.

On November 10 and 11 only, take part in a special interactive event: Aliens vs. Nerf Guns. Armed with one Nerf gun, navigate a massive, black-lit haunted house infested with aliens.

Named by Forbes as "The best in the West" and "Scariest in California" by HauntWorld, Fear Overload lives up to its titles by placing you in the center of terror and letting your imagination run wild.

Fremont Receives Prestigious Beacon Award for Sustainability Achievements

At this year's League of Cities Annual Conference in Sacramento, the City of Fremont was presented with the "Silver Level" Beacon Award for its work to create a healthier, more efficient, vibrant, and prosperous community. Created by the Institute for Local Government (ILG) in 2009, the Beacon Program honors local governments for their voluntary efforts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, save energy, and adopt policies that promote sustainability. Fremont was one of only eight cities to receive the ILG's prestigious Beacon Award this year. Other 2017 awardees included Sacramento, Scotts Valley, Foster City, Hayward, San Carlos, Palo Alto, and Claremont.

Fremont's "Silver Level" Beacon Award recognizes the City's achievements for reducing community greenhouse gas emissions by 11 percent, municipal greenhouse gas emissions by 7 percent, electricity use reductions of 28 percent, and natural gas use reductions of 6 percent. Fremont also received "Gold Level" recognition for achievements in each of the ten best practice areas highlighted in the ILG's Sustainability Best Practices Framework. One major Fremont achievement is the comprehensive energy and water efficiency upgrade of City facilities, which includes the citywide upgrade to LED streetlights. This project will result in annual savings of 4.1 million kWh of electricity, 12,000 therms of natural gas,

9.1 million gallons of water, and 976 metric tons of carbon dioxide. Other notable projects include the implementation of a solar plus energy storage "Microgrid" demonstration project on City of Fremont fire stations, the adoption of green building reach codes requiring mandatory solar on new residential developments and electric vehicle charging in 10 percent of all new parking spaces, and the launch of the online Fremont Green Challenge residential climate action engagement platform (www.Fre montGreenChallenge.org.)

For more information on the City of Fremont's sustainability initiatives, please contact Sustainability Manager Rachel DiFranco at 510-494-4451 or rdifranco@fremont.gov.

Fremont Police are Building Bridges with Fremont 6th Graders

The Fremont Police Department has officially launched Building Bridges, a new program in partnership with Fremont Unified School District. The one-year pilot program is designed to allow Fremont Police officers and civilian staff to interact, educate, and build bridges with 6th graders throughout the City of Fremont in the 2017/18 school year. The short one-hour Building Bridges outreach program was designed with the assistance of school administrators, parents, and officers who work with our youth. The overall goal of the program is to build stronger police/youth relationships in our

The program concept emerged after Police Captain Fred Bobbitt visited Grimmer Elementary School 6th graders in March 2017 for the Read Across America program. During his visit, he engaged with the students about their relationship with the police in our community. Each student hand wrote a letter to Captain Bobbitt providing their feedback, ideas, and suggestions. The feedback led to internal discussions about how the Police Department could better develop relationships with the youth in our community and, ultimately, led to the development of Building Bridges.

All 28 of Fremont Unified School District elementary schools were invited to participate in the program for the 2017/18 school year. Within the first weeks of the announcement, more than half have signed up. On September 6 the Fremont Police Department kicked off the program with their first school visit to Oliveira Elementary and on September 13, they visited Brier Elementary.

The program is divided into three segments: education, show and tell/networking, and bonding on the playground. Educational components include short presentations on topics age-appropriate for a 6th grader. These topics include internet/social media safety, staying home alone, how and when to call 9-1-1, traffic, pedestrian safety, and bullying. The goal of the education is to help our youth build self-esteem and awareness to assist them handle new experiences such as staying home alone and pre-teen social pressures.

During the show and tell/networking component, students rotate in small groups to meet with all of the police staff in attendance. During this time, students can try on uniform shirts, exterior police vests, SWAT tactical gear, touch equipment and ask questions about it, and have an up-close view of a police motorcycle. Many of the conversations revolve around family, pets, hobbies, and the officers answer questions students have about what it's like to be a police officer. This segment is focused on breaking down barriers, stigmas, and building one-on-one relationships with the students. The end of the presentation concludes with all of the police staff joining students on the blacktop and in the field for recess. Special program-designed footballs, basketballs, wall-balls and hula hoops are presented and left with each school as a reminder of the visit. In addition, patrol vehicles and traffic motorcycles are parked out on the playground and students have the opportunity to climb inside and pretend they are an officer for the day as they sit behind the wheel and talk over the loud speaker!

The Fremont Police Department is excited about this one-year pilot program, and the feedback so far is very encouraging. The department anticipates reviewing the program goals and evaluating longer-term implementation at the beginning of 2018.

Autumn Celebration supports kids in palliative care

When a gala event raises spirits as well as funds, it is indeed a very worthy cause. Those wishing to do both are invited to join the staff and

Based on a model from the UK, the facility was built and intentionally designed to give respite care for patients and their families. At one-third the cost of hospital intensive care unit stays, children whose lives are restricted to hospital beds and wheelchairs can be cared for in a nurturing environment at no cost to the families. The staff focuses on quality of life and continuity of care.

With inspirational stories and house tours, guests will enjoy a gourmet dinner, entertainment, enticing interactive and silent auctions, cognac tasting, raffle, and more. The event takes place on the beautifully landscaped grounds of the George Mark Children's House, situated on five picturesque acres in San Leandro.

Ken Sommer, Director of Advancement, says the mission of George Mark Children's House is to provide transitional care between hospital and home, hospice care for end of life situations, and as a place for families to connect outside the constraints of a hospital.

The facility will get dolled up on October 7 for the George

George Mark Children's House was the first pediatric palliative respite care center to open in the United States. Psychologist Kathy Hull founded the facility in 2004 to receive children with life-limiting and restrictive illnesses. "Working as a psychologist in pediatric intensive care units, I was frustrated with the undignified hospital deaths that so many families had to endure," she says in a recent TED talk, which has garnered international attention. "Fluorescent lights on the ward were too bright, monitors beeped, as did the elevator announcing its arrival; families were experiencing the most excruciating moments of their

Mark's biggest fundraiser of the year. Under a tented pavilion, guests will enjoy cocktails and hors d'oeuvres while browsing a silent auction. The fun ramps up with plenty of chances for giving, such as purchasing a $100 glass of prosecco at the "Sip and Sparkle" table. One of those glasses will contain a real diamond, while the others tease with a sparkling imposter! Should gala goers want a guaranteed gift, they can opt to spend $100 on a sealed box containing a jewelry piece valued between $75 and $100. With a raffle, a cognac tasting, musical entertainment, a seated dinner and a live auction featuring Warrior's announcer Franko Finn, everyone benefits from a full evening of fun.

Gala guests can bid for trips to Mexico and Hawaii, a fly-fishing venture in Idaho, or a Kevin Durant signed jersey. Media host Diane Dwyer will introduce speakers, including founder and board president Hull. The night will end with a personal story from a mother and son, before the "Fund-a Need" paddle-raising conclusion.

"This event provides about one-half of our operating expenses for the year," Sommer notes. "Families who stay at George Mark's never see a bill."

With 48 staff members and a doctor on call 24-hours a day, financial needs of the facility are significant. Since the field of pediatric palliative care is still relatively new in the United States, it has taken considerable time to educate insurance companies that this care is both available and less expensive than hospital care for the same level of service.

Sommers outlines the kind of care offered: A variety of treatments provide pain relief for children afflicted with life-limiting illnesses; there is a hydrotherapy spa and sensory room. Eight playfully-themed children's rooms look out onto a lovely garden; there is a playground with equipment for children with special needs, an art room, and a game room. George Mark provides places for children and their families to connect and enjoy one another's company free from the stresses that come with caring for a sick child.

"We're forever grateful to the wonderful supporters who believe in this important work we're doing," says Hull. "We cannot change the outcome, but we can change the journey."

She recalls a father whose daughter died in infancy say, "There are plenty of people who help you bring a baby into the world, but very few to help you usher a baby out." The upcoming gala event at George Mark Children's House makes it possible for many more families to spend special moments together supported by a caring staff.

Day on the Bay packed with activities & information

SUBMITTED BY JANICE ROMBECK

Launched last year, Bike to the Bay is our newest feature of the Day on the Bay festival, now in its eighth year. About 200 bicyclists joined Supervisors Dave Cortese and Ken Yeager on the 2016 Bike to the Bay, an 8.5-mile ride along the Guadalupe River Trail. More riders are anticipated for this year.

The free festival will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday, October 8, at Alviso Marina Park. To join the Bike to the Bay, sponsored by the San Jose Bike Party and the Silicon Valley Bike Coalition, meet at 9 a.m. at the Guadalupe River Park. A Bike Valet will take care of your bicycle while you're enjoying the festival. Visit the Day on the Bay page to register (https://www.sccgov.org/sites/d3/events/dob/Pages/dob.aspx).

The annual event promises to be jam-packed with fun activities, entertainment. There's a resource fair focused on health, and the popular kayak rides, pumpkin patch, and zucchini car races will be back and ready for the enjoyment of children.

If you're new to the festival experience, the zucchini car races are fun to watch and join. Kids decorate a zucchini, install wheels and set it free down a ramp. Young guests can also visit the pumpkin patch to choose their own pumpkin to take home. The Los Gatos Recreation Department provides the kayak rides on the waterway to the Bay. And it's all free.

The Santa Clara County Fire Department will be there to grill hamburgers and veggie burgers for all festival-goers. New hydration stations will be on hand to fill your water bottles.

The resource fair is focused on health, but there will be information and connections to other county and agency services. About 120 service providers have already signed up, offering free vision and hearing screenings, blood pressure checks, and flu shots.

Two stages host continuous entertainment throughout the day. Be sure to watch for the giveaways, with such prizes as tickets to sporting events, gift cards to restaurants, and kids' bicycles.

It all happens in the 18.9-acre bayside park that is the gateway to the Don Edwards San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge, with boardwalks and trails that offer fantastic views and an opportunity to meet the wildlife who call the refuge home. In 2013, the park was designated as a site on the San Francisco Bay Area Water Trail.

Be German for a day at Oktoberfest!

The best German food and beer will be on hand at Newark's OktoberFest celebration, which kicks off at 11 a.m. with the All Makes European Car Show. Up to 100 beautiful, meticulously maintained European cars will be on display thanks to the efforts of Team District 10 car club. "The car show is set up and ready for people to wander through an hour before gates open," explained Newark Chamber of Commerce President and CEO Valerie Boyle.

At noon, the official OktoberFest festivities will begin with food, games, and of course, beer! German beer fanatics will have a number of popular beers to choose from. "Swiss Park provides many different German beers, and then our local provider JP DasBrew provides their locally made beer," Boyle said. Delicious Bavarian sausages, bratwursts, sauerkraut, and much more will be available for purchase. "During the day, it's all out under the trees, a beautiful setting," Boyle said.

Enjoy beer pong? There will be tables set up for some one-on-one or team action. Also Brat Toss, Best-Dressed Bavarian Family, and Fetching Fraulein/Masculine "Manly Mann" Costume, Women's and Men's Stein Hoisting, as well as polka and chicken dance lessons, yodeling, a raffle, and of course, traditional OktoberFest music from Bill Bly and the Continentals. Boyle adds, "We call them the 'oompah-pah band.' You can do the polka and get into the whole atmosphere! It's also enjoyable to watch the men and women hoist the giant beer steins before their arms go." Festivities will wind down around 5 p.m.

The party won't end with daytime OktoberFest. This year, OktoBEERfest After Dark has been added. Starting at 7 p.m., revelers 21 years old and over are invited into Swiss Park's banquet hall to party all night long. OktoBEERfest After Dark will feature a lot of the same fun and games, but because it is an evening event, Boyle hopes that it will appeal to a different crowd. "We'll have very popular music to dance to that will mix in with the traditional fare. It's a slight variation on the daytime event," she said. Feedback from previous years led to the creation of After Dark. "A lot of people have said, 'I wish I could have come but I had to work,' so when we heard enough of those, we thought, why not? We could move it from the outdoors to indoors."

Newark's Swiss Park has been home to the Chamber of Commerce's OktoberFest since the chamber first organized the event five years ago. "No one in the area is doing an OktoberFest, so it seemed like a really good fit," Boyle explained, adding, "it had all those parameters that seemed liked it wasn't just another festival... [and] we couldn't do it without Swiss Park and the sponsors. It wouldn't be possible." With OktoberFest, the chamber has found a unique way to bring the community together with local businesses, and include fundraising. "That's how we make our money to stay open and do the things we want to do," Boyle said.

Since its inception, attendance has been strong, with an estimated 600 - 700 people last year and similar numbers expected this year. Boyle and the chamber are happy with how the event has come together over the vears "We would like to think it'll continue and evolve and grow. Even if you come for a couple hours, that's fine. Come out and enjoy yourselves. If you're looking for something to do that might be fun, you don't have to travel 20 miles to get to an OktoberFest – it's right in your own backyard," she said.

Gather your steins, dirndls, and lederhosen and head over to Swiss Park on Saturday, September 30 for a day like no other. For more information on the 5th annual Newark Oktoberfest, please visit www.newarkoktoberfest.com.

Annie

Stage 1 Theatre's next production, directed by Sue Ellen Nelsen and produced by Belinda Maloney and Judy Byrne, is a musical based on the popular comic strip about a little orphaned redhead named Annie. Often called "America's Happiest Musical," "Annie" tells the story of a spunky orphan (played by Elliana McKean) who longs to leave the orphanage and find her real parents.

When Grace Farrell (Anne Milbourne), personal secretary to billionaire Oliver Warbucks (Robert Sholty), invites Annie to spend Christmas at his mansion, Annie jumps at the chance to find her family, with the help of Warbucks' promise of a $50,000 reward, of course. But when the mean, spiteful Miss Hannigan (Sarah Sloan), her con artist brother Rooster (Kevin Hammond), and dim-witted girlfriend (Justine Caron) try to make off with the reward money, the good guys win, the bad guys get caught and Annie finds love in the arms of her adopted "Daddy" Warbucks. What musical could be happier than that? She even gets to keep her loveable mutt Sandy (Roger Roberts)!

Choreographed by Dallis
Wright, "Annie" will have you toe tapping to "You're Never Fully Dressed," "Hard Knock Life," and of course "Tomorrow."

Arts Gala

SUBMITTED BY DORSI DIAZ

Sun Gallery's "Evening for the Arts Gala" will be held Friday, September 29 at the Hayward City Hall Rotunda. The event, a once-a-year fundraiser for the gallery, raises money for children's programs at Sun Gallery all year long – Free Art Saturdays for kids and families, Summer Art Camp and Field Trip tours for local East Bay school children.

This year's event theme is an "Interactive Night of Art" featuring well-loved local musicians and dancers:
Milt Bowerman (director of LaHonda Music Camp), Henry Call with Charleah Bender and FourPlus, Sun Gallery's own resident Uke Jammer group (ukulele), and the Grupo Folklorico Tlapalli dance group. Finishing off the evening with dancing and classic rock will be Andrew Kong Knight and the Angry Tired Teachers Band.

Sketch artist and illustrator Linda Lens will be sketching guests during the evening and silent/live auctions will he held, with four Park Hopper tickets for Disneyland as one of the many items up for bid. Other auction items include tickets for Gilroy Gardens, Oakland Zoo, the Discovery Museum, signed sports memorabilia, art and jewelry, Art Party certificates, plus gift certificates for local restaurants. Over 70 unique and special items will be up for auction including special raffle packages prepared for the evening.

Sun Gallery, in its 42nd year, is a non-profit organization that depends on its membership, community, and the City of Hayward to continue providing the many services it offers during the year. Evening for the Arts is its biggest fundraiser, and everyone that loves and supports the arts is encouraged to attend. A full dinner by El Taquitos #2 in Hayward will be served along with appetizers, wine, beer, dessert, and refreshments.

Current shows at the Sun Gallery are "The '60s and '70s Revisited" in the Main Gallery, and the "Creative Veterans Art Project Exhibit" in the Ken Cook Room. Admission is always free. An encore presentation of Sun's 4th Annual Environmental Exhibit: "#StandupforScience: A Blue Planet" is also on display inside the John O'Lague Galleria at Hayward City Hall; guests are invited to walk the exhibit during the Gala.

Gala tickets are $45 each and $55 at the door. You can buy tickets at www.SunGallery.org or call the gallery and purchase tickets over the phone with one of the staff.

Park It

By NED MACKAY

Native Americans from several tribes will convene for their annual Gathering of the Ohlone Peoples, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 1 at Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont.

All kinds of activities are planned, including music, song, dance and stories. Ohlones will demonstrate basketry, jewelry, soaproot brush and dogbane string making. Visitors can tour the park's reconstructed 2,000-year-old Ohlone village site, play an Ohlone game, try starting a fire without matches (it takes practice), make a miniature boat from tule reeds, and taste native plant tea or acorn soup.

While you're at Coyote Hills, check out Discovery Days, a drop-in program of crafts and nature exploration. It's in session from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday, with a different topic each week.

Coyote Hills is at the end of Patterson Ranch Road off Paseo Padre Parkway. There's a parking fee of $5 per vehicle; the Gathering and Discovery Days programs are free. Meet at the visitor center. For information, call (510) 544-3220.

Up the road at Tilden Nat Area near Berkeley, mystery mammals are the focus of a program from 10 to 11:30 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 1 and again on Oct. 29, both times led by naturalist Trent Pearce.

During short walks, Trent will talk about the elusive mammals that can show up in your backyard: coyotes, bobcats, foxes and more.

The program is free. Meet Trent at Tilden's Environmental Education Center, which is at the north end of Central Park Drive. Call (510) 544-2233 for information.

Wednesday Walks are naturalist-led hikes of varying length and difficulty that explore a different regional park each time.

There's a Wednesday Walk from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Oct. 4 at Redwood Regional Park in Oakland, led by naturalist Susan Ramos. This one is a 4.5-miler through a serpentine prairie and redwood forest. Meet at the Trudeau Training Center, which is at 11500 Skyline Boulevard, just past the intersection with Joaquin Miller Road. Call (510) 544-3182 for information.

Birdwatchers and artists will enjoy two programs scheduled on Saturday, Sept. 30 at Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley.

The bird watch is from 10 to 11:30 a.m., led by naturalist Cat Taylor. All levels of expertise are welcome. Bring your own binoculars or borrow one from the park staff.

Then from 2 to 3 p.m. it's watercolor time. The interpretive staff will help visitors get creative in capturing the Delta landscape using watercolor paints.

Big Break also plans a coffee talk and Delta news update from 8:30 to 9 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 4. It's discussion with the park naturalists about current events affecting the Delta environment, and it takes place the first Wednesday of each month.

Big Break is at 69 Big Break Road off Oakley's Main Street. For information, call (888) 327-2757, ext. 3050.

Located south of Brentwood and east of Mt. Diablo, Round Valley Regional Preserve is beautiful and remote, with an interesting history. It was a gathering place for Native Americans for thousands of years, then later home of a pioneer ranching family. There's abundant wildlife, including hawks and golden eagles.

Naturalist Kevin Dixon will lead a picnic walk to Round Valley from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 30. The program is for ages eight and older; bring lunch for a picnic.

Because the valley is habitat for the rare and endangered San Joaquin kit fox, dogs are not allowed in the preserve. For information and directions to Round Valley, call (888) 327-2757, ext. 2750.

There are lots of other programs scheduled in the regional parks, too. You can find out more by visiting the website, www.ebparks.org

Arts Commission confers Leadership Awards

SUBMITTED BY GUY ASHLEY

The Alameda County Arts Commission is pleased to recognize eight individuals for their achievements and contributions impacting the arts community and residents of Alameda County. This year, there was a tie-vote for the nominees in District 1 and two teams, each comprised of two people, were selected for District 1 and 3. Therefore, in total there are eight award recipients this year.

The recipients of the 2017 Alameda County Arts Leadership Award are the following listed by the Supervisorial District they represent: Denny Stein and Mary Bobik (team), Carol Zilli, Ami Ferreira, Greg Morozumi and Elena Serrano (team), Catherine Ndungu-Case, and Joyce Gordon.

The Alameda County Board of Supervisors will commend these eight individuals during the Board's public meeting on Tuesday, September 26. This event is presented in conjunction with the County's celebration of National Arts and Humanities Month of October.

District One: Working as co-leaders of the Fremont Art Association, Denny Stein is the president and Mary Bobik is the vice-president and gallery director. The Fremont Art Association operates as the oldest cooperative art gallery, working studio, and shop in Fremont. The Association presents demonstrations, showcases, annual events, and art classes in a welcoming and friendly atmosphere.

District One: Carol Zilli is the founder and executive director of Music for Minors II in Fremont, which will be celebrating its 30th anniversary in 2018. Each year, Music for Minors II provides music enrichment for almost 5,000 elementary school students in 30 public schools throughout Fremont as well as other areas of south and east Alameda County.

District Two: Ami Ferreira (also known as Tsunami) is an arts educator and cultural diplomat with All The Way Live Foundation in Hayward. She is also a member of the Soulshifter artistry collective and world-renowned dance crew "Circle of Fire." As an educator, Ami nurtures the freestyle dance movement locally at MVMNT studio and worldwide through performing, teaching, and judging competitions as well as mentoring at-risk youth.

District Three: Greg Morozumi and Elena Serrano are the Principal Co-Founders of the EastSide Cultural Center located in the San Antonio District of Oakland. The EastSide Arts Alliance is an organization of artists, cultural workers, and community organizers of color to support a creative environment that improves the quality of life for local communities and advocates for progressive, systemic social change.

District Four: Catherine Ndungu-Case is the founder and CEO of Cheza Nami Foundation in Pleasanton. Cheza Nami (which means, "come play with me" in Swahili) was founded in 2011 to encourage young people's appreciation of the rich culture of Africa through active exploration of African dance, drumming and play.

District Five: Joyce Gordon is the founder and owner of Joyce Gordon Gallery in Oakland. The Joyce Gordon Gallery, now in its 14th year, exhibits art that reflects the social and cultural diversity of the Bay Area and international artists. Shasta Classic Tournament September 15, 2017

Renegades win fourth tournament of the season

Ohlone Renegades defeat Shasta Knights, 3-2 (25-15, 24-26, 21-25, 25-21, 15-9) Ohlone Renegades defeat College of the Siskiyous Eagles, 3-2 (19-25, 23-25, 25-23, 25-21, 15-10)

After having suffered their first two losses of the season to state ranked #1 Cabrillo College and #12 Butte College at the Folsom Lake Classic, the Renegades looked to bounce back despite having lost three of their players to injury going into the Shasta Classic Tournament. And the odds continued to stack against them as middle blocker Carley Bond suffered an ankle injury that sidelined her for the rest of the day. With only eight remaining players, the Renegades continued to compete with a makeshift lineup made up of two setters, two outside hitters, one middle blocker, and three defensive specialists.

The Renegades seemed to be inspired by defensive specialist Maggie Del Grande sliding into the middle position, hitting 0.467 with 9 kills on 15 attempts, as they ended up taking the first set from Shasta 25-15. The Knights would rally back and take sets 2 and 3 behind the hitting of outside hitter Lexi Bradshaw who added 15 kills of her own. Down two sets to one, the Renegades would follow the lead of outside hitter Sabrina Quilalang, who added 23 kills,

Outside hitter Sabrina Quilalang

11 digs, and 2 service aces and took them to the eventual five Twenty minutes later the Renegades would take on the College of the Siskiyous, a team they had previously faced and narrowly beat at their very own Renegade Classic Tournament. Fatigue from the previous match definitely showed in the Renegades' play as they dropped the first two sets to Siskiyous 19-25 and 23-25. But the Renegades bounced back to narrowly take set 3 at 25-23 behind the 15 kills of outside hitter Hailey Amaral. Both setters Cassie Carino and Katie Souza combined contributed 57 total assists to sustain the charge to come back for the match, but it was outside hitter Sabrina Quilalang, yet again, that would take the reins leading with 33 kills, a hitting percentage of 0.325, and 26 digs. The Renegades would end up taking the match.

Ohlone, having now won the Ohlone College Classic, Renegade Classic, Diablo Valley Classic, and the Shasta Classic, improve to a record of 8-2 for the season.

- Middle blocker Carly Bond tied for the lead in blocks with 5
- Outside hitter Sabrina Quilalang led in kills with 10

Battle of Blacow

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

Across the southern part of Fremont, talk all week has been who would win the big game on September 22nd, dubbed the "Battle of Blacow." The annual match-up between varsity squads of schools a few miles apart on Blacow Road began in front of a packed Tak Stadium. With years of great competition between them, the 2017 game between the Irvington Vikings and John F. Kennedy Titans did not disappoint; both teams played their hearts out to claim bragging

The game quickly turned into a close contest that could tilt in any direction as neither team was able to mount a sizeable lead. The Titan lead was a single point (11-10) at halftime. In the third quarter, two touchdowns gave the Titans a bit of breathing space, but the Vikings would not release their grip and scored an answering touchdown to move within one score. In the last six minutes of the game, a great defensive effort allowed the Titans to leave the field with a victory. Both teams showed great spirit on the gridiron and foretold many more exciting "Big Game" contests in the future. Final score: Titans 24,

Vikings 16.

Public invited to assess Municipal Services Review

SUBMITTED BY GUY ASHLEY

The Alameda Local Agency Formation Commission's (LAFCo) draft Cities Municipal Services Review (MSR) report is now available for public comment and review.

This report is prepared as part of Alameda LAFCo's review and update of Alameda County's 14 cities' spheres of influence (SOIs). Pursuant to Government Code Section 56430, LAFCo must conduct a review of the municipal services provided by the cities prior to or in conjunction with updating SOIs. The Cities MSR report includes recommended service review determinations, as well as recommended SOI updates and determinations.

An SOI is defined as "a plan for the probable physical boundaries and service area of a local agency." An MSR evaluates the capability of an agency to serve its existing residents and future development within its SOI and must include specific written determinations.

The Public Review Draft Cities MSR report can be viewed on the Alameda LAFCo website at www.acgov.org/lafco. Written comments may be submitted online on the LAFCo website or directly to Mona Palacios, LAFCo Executive Officer, at mona.palacios@acgov.org or via US Mail at: 1221 Oak Street, Room 555, Oakland, CA

Comments submitted by October 20, 2017 will be considered in the development of the final Cities MSR report.

Alameda LAFCo will hold a public hearing to consider adoption of the report and its recommendations in December 2017 or January 2018.

Please contact Mona Palacios at mona.palacios@acgov.org or (510) 272-3894 if you have any questions

OPINION

hakespeare's Hamlet spoke the phrase, "To be, or not to be: that is the question:" but it wasn't applied in quite the same sense as a dilemma facing Fremont's city council during a September 19th meeting. While Prince Hamlet contemplated the pros and cons of leaving this life for the hereafter, the Council was dealing with the pros and cons of the "here."

Many citizens are facing, as Shakespeare would say, "a sea of troubles" when confronted with the outrageous cost of living in the Bay Area. Prince Hamlet railed against "The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" and in the context of our time and place, a desperate battle to cling to or reach a standard of living that can sustain comfortable living circumstances is raging.

A proposed Rent Review Ordinance (RRO) was hotly debated by landlords, tenants and interested parties. While some argued that they have worked hard to buy rental units and maintain them, thereby earning the right to charge what they consider reasonable rental rates and increase them as individual and/or market forces dictate, some abuse is apparent and requires at least a modicum of regulation. Tenants ask for protection from predatory practices that result in frequent and unsustainable rent increases.

Who is best suited to mediate disputes and how can a system of checks and balances work? The proposed Rent Review Board will only work if the body has a mandate with teeth. A voluntary system, even with stiffer penalties, can only function if tenants are unafraid to use it, landlords are bound by its decisions and resolution is public record. Only when both tenants and landlords are held accountable can such a board be effective. Those unjustly accused as well as those who charge unfair rent and/or unsafe housing should be held accountable. Landlords who are honest, fair and maintain their property for their benefit and that of their tenants should have nothing to fear. As with any governmental body, the key to success is a rational and transparent system that adheres to best practices to protect both parties of a dispute.

There is a natural reluctance by those who own property to put unfavorable limits on its use. However, cities and counties have an obligation to all residents including those who are unable or unwilling to become homeowners. The balance of power rests with those who have property, whether homeowners or landlords. Just as landowners have a right and responsibility to maintain their property and protect it against any gross infringement by their neighbors, renters should also be able to maintain their households within appropriate management rules. In a perfect world, there would be no need for regulations since we would all follow the Golden Rule: Do to others as you would have them do to you. However, take a short drive in our area; watch a small minority of fellow citizens drive carelessly and disregard the health and wellbeing of their fellow human beings. It just takes a few inconsiderate actions to spoil things.

Although Fremont has been reluctant to impose strict regulations on landlords, an annual report to the Council is required by the new ordinance. Not only should a comprehensive accounting take place at that time, but councilmembers (do all of them own their own homes?) should be acutely aware of a renter's predicament. Hamlet agonized over the plight of the living and asked,

": / Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer / / Or to take arms against a sea of troubles" (III.i.59-61)

Suffering is not noble or kind. The new Rent Review Board can and should make a difference. If not, stricter controls are in order.

Women's shelter gets makeover from Rotary

SUBMITTED BY GREG BOGDANOFF

From Monday, September 11 to Thursday, September 14, the Fremont Morning Rotary club gave a fresh coat of paint to counseling rooms at SAVE (Safe Alternatives to Violent Environments) headquarters.

The walls were showing their age, so Rotarian club volunteers used 21 gallons of a more up-to-date beige (donated by Kelly Moore through the efforts of Lexi Padilla and Girl Scouts from Troop 30797) while spending over 160 hours of volunteer time to freshen up the 2500 square foot center. Lexi Padilla is working on her 'gold' Girl Scout service star.

SAVE is a non-profit organization addressing the needs of victims of domestic violence in Alameda County, with headquarters are located at 1900 Mowry Ave, Fremont. SAVE has dozens of shelters, emergency call centers, and counseling centers for women and children throughout Alameda

Ro Khanna holds Town Hall to stay connected

By Rhoda J. Shapiro

U.S. Representative Ro Khanna's (CA-17) Town Hall event on September 20, made for an evening of thoughtful discussion. Held at the Jackson Theater on the Ohlone College campus, he spoke to constituents, elected officials, and community leaders about the challenges facing our communities.

Before the Town Hall, Representative Khanna spoke briefly with Tri-City Voice.

"I think it's so important for local officials to stay connected to community. I think there's a disconnect today between people in Congress at the federal level and the local community... What I love about my job, the thing I get most energized about, is meeting with constituents of mine. I get their input. And they have such creative ideas," the Congressman said.

Khanna also spent some time discussing his commitment to the working class.

"We've got to fully prioritize helping the working class. And that's going to help a lot of people in my district pay rent, stay in the area, and afford to live here. We've got to have more housing in this area for folks who don't have a job in technology. We need housing for our nurses, we need housing for our students, we need housing for our students, we need housing for our skilled trades folks. And we've got to build that [housing] near transit. We need to have investment in affordable housing in our district so that kids, the folks who grew up here, can afford to live here," said Khanna.

Mayor of Fremont Lily Mei began the meeting with a warm welcome for the congressman. "I want to applaud Congressman Khanna because he's been accessible and very successful in terms of outreach to the community, which I think is so critical..." Khanna greeted the crowd and began by highlighting National Hispanic Heritage Month, taking a moment to speak on behalf of Deferred Action of Childhood Arrivals (DACA).

"To me, there are some things beyond politics. There are some things that are about moral conscience and who we are as a people. As a son of immigrants, I recognize so strongly... we're talking about real people's lives," Khanna said. "...and I really hope... if we really want to celebrate Hispanic Heritage month... that Republicans and Democrats in Congress will get together and finally pass the Dream Act, and get these kids the rights they deserve as citizens in this country."

In honor of National Hispanic Heritage Month, Rep. Khanna acknowledged: Ron Gonzales, the first Latino Mayor of San Jose; Magdalena Carrasco, the first Latina Vice Mayor of San Jose; Bob Nuñez, Councilmember of Milpitas; Roxane Fuentes, Superintendent of Berryessa Union School District; Sylvia Alvarez, longest serving Board Member at the Evergreen

Elementary School District; Teresa Castellanos, of the Santa Clara County Office of Immigrant Relations, and Governing Board Vice-President of San Jose Unified School District; and Maricela Gutiérrez, Executive Director of SIREN (Services, Immigrant Rights and Education Network).

In a question and answer format, constituents were invited to ask the Congressman questions. Topics ranged through a variety of topics including: Myanmar, immigration, the environment, national debt, and affordable housing.

The next Town Hall event will be held on Wednesday, October 18, at Kennedy Middle School in Cupertino, from 6:30 p.m. - 8:00 p.m. For more information about Rep. Ro Khanna, visit https://khanna.house.gov/

San Francisco sues oil companies over climate change

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP), San Francisco is suing five of the world's largest oil and gas companies for the costs of sea walls and other infrastructure needed to protect against climate change.

The lawsuit filed Sept. 19 in California court accuses the companies of ignoring warnings that fossil fuels would cause catastrophic global warming and mounting campaigns to discredit climate change science. It says the companies have created a public nuisance. The neighboring city of Oakland filed a separate, but similar suit.

The five companies include Chevron, Exxon Mobil and ConocoPhillips. Chevron said in a statement that it welcomes serious attempts to address climate change, but these suits do not do that.

ExxonMobil and ConocoPhillips did not immediately comment. The American Petroleum Institute said in a statement the industry continues to actively address climate change. At least two other California counties and one city have filed similar suits.

Make A Difference Day

Fremont Residents, Families, Clubs, Schools, Faith Communities, and Nonprofit Organizations Join Together for a "National Day Of Doing Good." The annual Make A Difference Day, sponsored by the City of Fremont Human Relations Commission, Kaiser, Fremont Bank Foundation, CityServe's Compassion Network, Cargill, and Dale Hardware, is an opportunity for Fremont residents to serve their community in a variety of practical ways. Volunteers can help with activities such as sprucing up parks and community gardens, graffiti removal, beautification projects at participating local schools, yard projects at mobile home parks, trail maintenance, writing thank you notes to veterans, serving at the food bank, feeding the homeless, gathering warm winter clothing for those in need, and much more. Service projects will be available throughout Fremont on Saturday, October 28.

In 2015, Fremont received the "National City Award" and $10,000 from USA Weekend and Newman's Own for going above and beyond in its efforts. Last year's event drew more than 1,700 people who served on 100 projects. These projects greatly benefited residents, schools, and religious organizations within Fremont. This year, we already have more than 80 projects planned. We encourage Fremont residents of all ages to create a community service project or sign up to volunteer for someone else's posted project. Opportunities exist for families, for students to earn service hours, and for companies to serve as teams.

If you are unable to volunteer, there are additional opportunities to donate items such as shoes or peanut butter at local drives.

For more information about Make A Difference Day, contact Fremont's Project Manager Christine Beitsch at makeadifferenceday@fremont.gov or 510-574-2099, or visit the local Fremont Make A Difference Day website at www.MakeaDifferenceDayFremontca.com to search, submit, or register for a project. The first 1,000 people who sign up and volunteer this year will receive a free Make A Difference Day T-shirt. Keep up-to-date on the Make A Difference Day Facebook page for all the latest information at www.Facebook.com/FremontcaVolunteer.

Street Maintenance Manager Honored

The City of Fremont takes pride in our hardworking staff, whose dedication to community and excellence in service have been consistently recognized by industry authorities. This month, Street Maintenance Manager Carl Valdez, was named the 2017 Recipient of the Maintenance Superintendents Association (MSA) Peter Walsh Award.

The MSA is comprised of nearly 1,500 public agency and vendor members throughout the Western United States. Each year, every chapter nominates a worthy member for the Peter Walsh Award, the MSA's most prestigious honor. Equivalent to a "lifetime achievement award," the Peter Walsh Award is given to the member that the Associate Executive Board deems most representative of the values and mission of the entire Association.

An active MSA member since 2007, Carl has served as Executive Board President in 2016, and President of the newly formed "Foundation of the MSA," a nonprofit organization dedicated to providing education and training to its members. Carl embodies the MSA Mission Statement that he wrote, as exemplified by his commitment to maintaining vital public infrastructure and ongoing efforts to educate members.

Carl received the honor at the MSA Annual Conference Banquet Dinner in Santa Maria on Thursday, September 14. A trophy of the Peter Walsh Award will be proudly displayed at City offices.

Police warm up unsolved homicide cold case

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

Even after 35 years, detectives from the Fremont Police Department are still hoping someone in the area can offer a clue to help them solve the 1982 slaying of Kathy Ann Miramontes.

The case started at around 5 a.m. on March 8, 1982 when a woman, later identified as Miramontes (AKA Sweedie) was found dead on Chase Court in the Niles District of Fremont.

According to police, the body showed signs of extreme trauma and was quickly determined to be a homicide. Fremont Detectives investigated the case, but it ultimately went unsolved. Then, about two-and-a-half years ago, the department's cold case detective began reviewing the case. After meeting with family and friends of Miramontes, her case was officially reopened to spark new leads in the investigation.

Through an extensive investigation, including interviews with numerous people, possible suspects, and family members, detectives determined the homicide was an intentional act and possibly related to drug use and sales.

Using newly available technology, evidence originally collected at the scene was recently submitted for DNA testing, which resulted in new leads for detectives to investigate. Detectives also learned the homicide may have been committed in a nearby city and the Niles location was most likely where the body was left.

At the time of her death, Miramontes was a Union City resident; according to police her local hangouts and friends were typically in the Decoto area of Union City. Miramontes was the mother of two boys, who were ages 5 and 10 at the time. Other family members at the time of her death included her parents, sister and brother.

Police are encouraging the public to share any information they feel might help them solve the case. When combined with new tips and leads, information that once may have seemed insignificant could prove to be the missing element in solving this case.

Anyone with information about the killing is asked to contact Detective Jacob Blass at (510) 790-6963 or send an email to coldcasedetective@fremont.gov. Anonymous tips can be left on the silent witness hotline at (510) 494-4856 or sent electronically to https://local.nixle.com/tip/alert/61 57639, or via text at "TIPFremontPD followed by the tip to 888-7777.

Arrest made on assault against two SLPD officers

SUBMITTED BY SAN LEANDRO PD

After an overnight investigation, police in San Leandro announced they had located a vehicle in Oakland that was tied to a suspect responsible for striking two officers on Sunday, Sept. 17 at the Greenhouse Marketplace shopping center.

The two officers were injured during the evening hours while attempting to detain a man who had just shoplifted from the Safeway store at 699 Lewelling Blvd. The suspect disregarded the officers' orders and ran to his vehicle, striking the officers with it as he fled the scene. Both officers were taken by ambulance to a local hospital.

Detectives later located the suspect vehicle being driven by Terry Gordon, 57, of Oakland, and attempted to stop him. Gordon failed to stop and led officers on a short pursuit before crashing into a parked vehicle. He was then taken into custody without incident. The suspect vehicle, a black 1998 Lexis ES300, also had damage consistent with the previous night's incident.

Gordon was positively identified as the suspect by both officers. The vehicle has also been identified as the vehicle used in the assault against the officers.

"We are grateful that this subject has been located and arrested," said Lt. Isaac Benabou. "We are also very thankful that both officers are doing well and we expect a full recovery. Thank you to everyone who extended their thoughts and prayers for our officers."

Gordon was arrested on suspicion of attempted murder and evading police and was taken to the Alameda County Jail in Dublin.

Officers responded to a business in the 39100 block of the Fremont Hub to investigate a battery on a security guard and employee. When officers arrived, they learned that a customer, later identified as a 68-year-old Fremont man, became angry and after a disturbance and punched and then kicked a security guard in the head multiple times. When a female employee tried to assist, he punched her in the face. Several employees and patrons got the man's vehicle license number plate before he fled the scene. The security guard required medical treatment for his injuries and was taken to the hospital. The suspect was interviewed by police, and then arrested on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and battery. He was booked into Santa Rita County Jail.

At 5:17 p.m. officers were dispatched to a grocery store in the 39200 block of Paseo Padre Parkway to investigate a shoplifting incident. The store manager attempted to stop a shoplifter after the suspect failed to pay for food and tried to leave the store. The suspect then punched the manager in the face and fled the area. He was last seen walking toward a bank across the street. Officers Roberts and Bordy located the suspect and he was taken into custody. The suspect was identified as a 35-year-old Oakland man. He was arrested and booked into Santa Rita County Jail.

Sunday, Sept. 17

At 9:58 p.m. officers were dispatched to a report of a robbery with a firearm in the 34400 block of Fremont Boulevard. At approximately 9:50 p.m. a male victim was approaching a bus stop on Paseo Padre Parkway at Milton Street when two suspects appeared from behind the bus stop advertisement sign. One suspect held a handgun and pushed the victim to the ground. He then searched the victim's pockets and took his ID and iPhone. They were last seen fleeing westbound on Paseo Padre Parkway. No vehicle was seen. The suspects were described as two black male adults wearing black hooded sweatshirts. Tuesday, Sept. 19

Officers Tucker and Richards responded to a local hospital regarding a report of a man who had been discharged but refused to leave and pounding on the entry doors to the ER and causing a disturbance. Once officers had the man out on the sidewalk, he was issued a trespass citation, however he refused to sign it and attempted to go back on the hospital property. It was later determined the man's pounding on the doors caused approximately $500 damage. Officers determined that the 61-year-old man was on probation and had a stay-away order of 100 yards from the hospital. The man was arrested on suspicion of vandalism, criminal threats, trespassing, battery on a police officer and violating the stay away order. He was taken to Santa Rita County Jail.

At 5:09 p.m. a local hospital reported that they had 20-year-old Fremont man in their ER with a gunshot wound to his foot. The male refused to give any details about the incident. He eventually admitted he accidentally shot himself with a friend's gun near his residence, but he refused to say anything more. Officers responded to the residence and conducted a probation search based on the house probation status. Officers located a vehicle associated with the man parked in the hospital lot. Inside the vehicle, officer found the man's shoe with a small hole in it, as well as bloody clothing. Officers also found a handgun, ammunition and baggies containing aa white powdery substance, believed to be cocaine or methamphetamine. Officers eventually arrested the man on suspicion of several felony charges including possession of a handgun not registered to him and possession of a controlled substance with a loaded firearm.

At about 8:07 p.m. the Fremont Police Department received a report of a collision in the 40100 block of Paseo Padre Parkway. Responding officers found a Mercedes Benz with major damage. A 33-year-old man trapped in the vehicle, and was the only occupant. Fremont Fire personnel extricated the driver, who was taken to a trauma hospital to be treated for life threatening injuries. Members of the Fremont Police Traffic Unit are investigating the collision. The preliminary investigation indicates that the driver was southbound on Paseo Padre and drove into the center median, colliding with several trees. It is unknown if alcohol or drugs were factors. The man was later upgraded to stable condition at the hospital.

Wednesday, Sept. 20 At 3:51 a.m., officers responded to Moraine Street and Bonde Avenue for a collision and a battery. Officers arrived and found a Ford Mustang on the grass next to a brick wall with airbags deployed and a man lying on the grass near the vehicle; he was unable to tell officers what had happened. Eventually, officers learned that the 19-yearold man met a female whom he had contacted on the Backpage website near Mowry Avenue. When a dispute about money started, the woman's friend demanded money from the victim and got in the victim's passenger seat. Fearing for his safety, the victim drove erratically as another person followed in another vehicle. The suspect in the passenger seat grabbed the steering wheel and the vehicle crashed at Moraine and Bonde. The victim was then battered by both suspects outside the vehicle and then both suspects fled in a Subaru-type vehicle. The vehicle was captured on one of the city's community surveillance cameras exiting the onto Interstate 880. The victim was taken to a hospital for treatment of his injuries. The suspects were described as a black woman with unknown clothing, and a black man in his 30s, about 6-feet-tall, and wearing dark clothing. The case is under investigation.

Ohlone Gathering: An affirmation of heritage, solidarity, and hope

The Spanish mission system introduced by Junipero Serra with the aid of military might relied heavily on Native American labor to harvest its crops, tend its animals, and provide domestic services. When the Missions were secularized in 1821, rights to the land were highly contested between the territorial government and ranchers. Property they fought over, however, were ancestral lands wrested from the Ohlone, who, though technically entitled to at least a portion, received no rights in it.

Until the rapid influx of white settlers in the wake of the Gold Rush, Ohlone continued to work on the ranchos. Native women who married into the Spanish land-grant families gave birth to a generation of Californios, people of mixed blood, descendants of which are among remaining strains of Ohlone, particularly the Muwekma of the East Bay. By the early twentieth century, Ohlone descendants bore names like Guzman, Arellano, and Juarez.

Ohlone assimilated and made lives in the East Bay but their cultural heritage was so diluted by the mid-1920s that anthropologist Alfred Kroeber declared the tribe extinct in 1925, a pronouncement that abetted the federal government's termination of its relationship with the tribe. At one time, nearly 500 shell mounds dominated the Bay Area. These funerary sites held great importance for the Ohlone, but were destroyed in the decades-long expansion of European and American settlers. Moreover, pockets of Ohlone descendants were forcefully removed as others sought gold and other natural resources.

The Ohlone lost a majority of their population between 1780 and 1850 because of an abysmal birth rate, high infant mortality, diseases, and social upheaval associated with European immigration into California. By all estimates, the Ohlone were reduced to less than ten percent of their original pre-mission era population. By 1852, the Ohlone population had shrunk to about 900, and was continuing to decline. By the early 1880s, northern Ohlone were virtually extinct, and southern Ohlone people were severely impacted, largely displaced from their communal land grant in Carmel Valley. To call attention to the plight of the California Indians, Indian Agent, reformer, and popular novelist Helen Hunt Jackson published accounts of her travels among the Mission Indians of California in 1883.

As Ohlone languages (there were originally more than 50 tribes before European contact, many with their own languages), traditional ways of life, sacred sites, and legal rights to participate in treaties with the federal government disappeared, in one sense, Kroeber's pronouncement of "extinction" was fulfilled.

In the early 1980s, however, ties kept alive through shared community and a reverence for their past, Ohlone descendants formed the Muwekma Tribal Council; it began applying for tribal recognition in 1989. In 1996, the Bureau of Indian Affairs conceded that the federal government had in fact recognized the Verona Band of Alameda County as the Muwekma ancestors as late as 1927. Enough genealogical evidence existed to support a kinship relation between contemporary Ohlone and the Verona, and it seemed that status as a Federally Recognized Tribe was certain.

The truth, however, is that the tribe was on a waiting list that in practice was a two-decade process; a situation unacceptable to the Muwekma. In 1999, the Tribal Council sued the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), and a federal judge ordered the BIA to expedite the recognition process. But to this day, the Tribe is struggling with the BIA's Branch of Acknowledgement and Research (BAR) for a positive ruling. Even with the support of numerous local, state, and federal lawmakers, Muwekma are still seeking recognition as a Federally Recognized Tribe.

In mid-1992, construction of the SR-85 freeway in Santa Clara county unearthed several 2,000-year-old Ohlone graves (the Kaphan Unux or Three Wolves site, named for the burial of wolves near the graves). For perhaps the first time in American history, Ohlone people, through the Ohlone Families Consulting services (OFCS, the archaeological firm of the Muwekma Tribe), found themselves in the position of being their own ethnographers.

Considering the power white academics have historically held to control access to the cultural history of native peoples, this was nothing less than extraordinary. In partnership with San Jose State University, Muwekma tribal council members and elders filed for and received the permits and funding for anthropology research at the site. Two major outcomes followed from the project: 1) the Muwekma gained first-hand experience with their ancestors, a circumstance that strengthened community ties; 2) government agencies, by granting the permissions and access to tribal authorities, lent credence to the Muwekma claim of legitimacy.

Excavated remains were returned to the ground near the completed freeway around 1996. What could not be buried, however, was the renewed energy that the Kaphan Unux project lent the movement for recognition but much Muwekma cultural history has been lost, stolen, defaced, or destroyed. Kroeber based his assessment of extinction upon just such losses. What has been retained, however, is a sacred nucleus of shared ancestry and a love of community around which modern Muwekma Ohlone are reweaving their culture, and for which they seek the official recognition.

MY CHOICE IS WTMF,

because my doctor makes me feel like I'm her only patient.

People choose Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF) for lots of reasons. When Jessica Rivas was pregnant with twins, she was looking for a great obstetrician close to her home in Fremont. Jessica's mom, a nurse at Washington Hospital, knew that Dr. Stacey Barrie, a WTMF OB/GYN, would be the perfect choice for her daughter. Jessica took her mom's advice, and couldn't be happier. "Not only do I get attentive, individualized care from Dr. Barrie," said Jessica, "she's incredibly knowledgeable and experienced – and hilarious! You can tell that she really loves what she does." Since the twins' birth, Jessica continues to see Dr. Barrie and has recommended her to friends. And because Jessica's experience with the rest of the staff has been so positive, she has recommended other physicians in the group to friends and family as well.
