Swashbuckling evening at Buccaneer's Ball

SUBMITTED BY VICKILYN HUSSEY

Music at the Mission salutes champions of the arts and culture in the Tri-City area, and has a ball doing it! The Music at the Mission "Buccaneer's Ball" on Friday, April 13 is a fabulously "outside the box" fundraiser for non-profit Music at the Mission and the organization's classical concerts, music education, community outreach, and ChamberFest, a summer music festival for aspiring young musicians. Fremont Bank is the Buccaneer's Ball main event sponsor. The Ball's Sapphire Sponsor is Robson Homes, and Ruby Sponsor is Dutra Enterprises.

"We are very proud to honor champions of the arts and culture in the Tri-City area," said Music at the Mission executive director Aileen Chanco. "This year, we are recognizing the Niles Rotary Club of Fremont and our Volunteer of the Year Katherine Lee.

"The Niles Rotary Club has made Music at the Mission's Outreach Programs possible for countless schools in the Tri-City area through their financial support of our programs. Music at the Mission's goal is to continue to create greater access to high-quality classical chamber music for all ages through our concerts and our outreach programs. Niles Rotary has been the primary funder of this program and we are deeply grateful.

"Katherine Lee is Volunteer of the Year because of her countless hours and dedication to Music at the Mission outside of her primary duties as board member, ChamberFest director, and performing artist. She has volunteered at the front of the house during concerts and events when she was not performing.

"This past year, she has worked tirelessly with board president Carmela Waugh to step outside of her level of expertise and go through database software training in order to migrate Music at the Mission's database into a more efficient system for the future."

The annual Mission Masquerade Ball is known for exceptional entertainment, dining, dancing, games, and auctions. At this year's Buccaneer's Ball, the organizing committee, chaired by Gael Stewart and Christina Valdez, Krysten Laine, Beth Wong, Carmela Waugh, and Harriet Whitney, have gone overboard with the entertainment, especially The Pirates Charles!

The Pirates Charles is a wildly popular rock/folk-metal band from Los Angeles, featuring three to four-part vocal harmony, violin, flute, mandolin, electric and acoustic guitars, bass and drums. The band is a concert favorite at clubs, music venues, and pirate festivals up and down the coast. Despite their on-stage appearance, this isn't a motley crew when it comes to music; one of the band members is virtuoso violinist Steve Huber.

"We use piracy as a metaphor for struggles of daily life, and play music for adventure," explained bandleader Spencer Smilanick. "We combine traditional sea chanty storytelling with modern instrumentation to add dynamic power to our tales of battle, adventure, courage, and victory."

Dress for the Buccaneer's Ball is formal or buccaneer-inspired costume. The gourmet three-course dinner menu has three delicious entrée choices. All the details and tickets for what promises to be a memorable evening are available online at www.musicatmsj.org. The deadline for reservations is April 11.

This Doctor and Her Colleagues Are “All About the Kids”

New Pediatrician Joins Washington Township Medical Foundation

At a very early age, Hiya Asrani, MD, knew she wanted to work with children. Her interest in science and her love for children led her to become a doctor. “It was hard for me as a kid to see other kids in pain, so my parents, teachers and school principal encouraged me to become a pediatrician,” she explains.

Becoming a physician in her native Mumbai, India, required five and a half years of medical school, including a one-year internship, which she completed at the prestigious Grant Medical College, Mumbai, one of the oldest medical colleges in Asia. At the time of her graduation, doctors in her state were required to perform a year of government service providing medical care at a hospital in a rural community.

“During that year, I cared for patients of all ages, practicing general medicine, which included obstetrics/gynecology and family medicine as well as pediatrics,” she notes. “My work also involved implementing national programs as well as conducting public health education projects and immunization outreach. After completing my year of public service, I was able to undertake a three-year residency in pediatrics.”

Dr. Asrani completed her residency at the highly respected University of Mumbai, ranking first among all the candidates who successfully passed the Branch IV – Pediatrics exam. Following this residency, Dr. Asrani remained in India for a couple of years, working in pediatric emergency care and pediatric urgent care, and serving as a consulting pediatrician. She then moved to the United States after marrying her husband, who lived in the U.S.

Settling in New Jersey, Dr. Asrani completed a second three-year pediatric residency at St. Joseph's Children's Hospital, which at that time was affiliated with the Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City. The Helping children get healthy and stay healthy is the goal of Dr. Hiya Asrami and her colleagues at Washington Township Medical Foundation.

Department of Pediatrics at St. Joseph's awarded Dr. Asrani the “Best Teaching Resident Award” in June 2008.

“It was good for me to have that second residency in the U.S. because the tropical disease spectrum in India is different,” she says. “The pediatric residency program, all the senior doctors and my co-residents at St. Joseph's were exceptional. All of us were like family. I also enjoyed being 30 minutes away from New York City, which was fun to visit.”

After completing her New Jersey residency in 2008, Dr. Asrani returned to India for about a year before she could move back to the U.S. to join her husband in Fremont, where they continue to live and raise their two children.

“My husband works in information technology and the Bay Area is the IT capital of the country,” she explains. “Fremont was a good central location for his work, and there were opportunities for me, too.”

In 2010, Dr. Asrani started working as a physician for the Contra Costa County Medical Center, serving in place of regular physicians who were absent or when the organization was short-staffed. Her assignments primarily involved eastern Contra Costa County locations such as Martinez, Concord, Antioch and Pittsburg as well as the western Contra Costa County city of Richmond.

Dr. Asrani later worked in a similar capacity for both Alameda County Medical Center and Santa Clara County Valley Medical Center, where she was named to the Pediatric Clerkship Teaching Honor Roll of Stanford University. While working for Santa Clara County, she met Bhaskari Peela, MD, a pediatrician with Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF). She also met Jacob Eapen, MD, who serves on the board of directors for Washington Township Health

Antibiotic Stewardship Prompts Agricultural Choices at Washington Hospital

Antibiotic resistance, defined as the ineffectiveness of medical drugs to treat bacterial infections, is now among the top concerns of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The CDC estimates that each year, approximately 23,000 Americans die as a result of antibiotic-resistant infections.

The prevalence of antibiotics, both as direct medications and as part of industrial animal agriculture, has created this dangerous trend. As stewards of antibiotics, physicians have created rigorous new guidelines for antibiotic distribution. But what about the antibiotics we are exposed to through the foods we eat? According to government estimates, approximately 30 million pounds of antibiotics are sold for use in industrial animal agriculture.

Hospitals are on the frontline of treating infection, so a commitment to providing the healthiest possible food choices makes sense. Director of Food and Nutrition Services, Kimberlee Alvari, notes that Washington Hospital strives to provide locally sourced, environmentally responsible food to their patients.

Recently patients were treated to a special Mexican dish, a tasty soup with “albondigas” (meatballs). The meatballs were made from antibiotic-free meat. “We try to use locally-sourced, antibiotic-free meat whenever possible.”

In the case of the meatball soup, patients may not have realized they were eating a healthy meal, but they knew they were eating a delicious one!

SOPA DE ALBONDIGAS

Ingredients For the meatballs

- 1 pound lean ground beef—antibiotic free
- 1-1/4 pounds ground turkey—antibiotic free
- 1/3 cup long-grain rice, uncooked
- 1/3 cup dried bread crumbs
- 1-1/2 teaspoons coarse salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon dried Mexican oregano, crushed
- 2 large eggs
- 3 Roma tomatoes, finely chopped
- 1/2 medium white onion, finely chopped
- 2 garlic cloves, minced

For the soup

- 16 cups water
- 6 medium carrots, peeled and roughly chopped
- 6 medium potatoes, peeled and roughly chopped
- 1-1/2 teaspoons coarse salt
- 1/2 teaspoon dried Mexican oregano, crushed
- 4 medium Mexican calabacitas, cubed
- Chopped cilantro (for garnish)
- Lime wedges (for garnish)

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Combine the ground beef and turkey, rice, and dried bread crumbs in a large mixing bowl; season with salt, black pepper, and crushed Mexican oregano. Stir in the eggs, tomatoes, onion, and garlic until completely combined. Divide and shape meat mixture into 1-1/2-inch meatballs.

2. In a Dutch oven or in stock pot, pour in 16 cups of water. Carefully drop in the albóndigas, one at a time. Resist the urge to stir! (You don't want to break up the albóndigas.) Add a handful of fresh cilantro. Bring meatballs to a boil over high heat, skimming off any foam that rises to the top. Cover and reduce heat to low: let simmer for about 20 minutes.
3. Add the carrots and potatoes. Remember not to stir! Season broth with crushed Mexican oregano and coarse salt to taste. Cover and let simmer over low heat for 5 minutes. Add in the Mexican calabacitas. Taste broth and adjust seasoning, if necessary. Cover and let simmer for about 15 minutes until the calabacitas are cooked through.
4. To serve, ladle into bowls. Garnish with chopped fresh cilantro, a spoonful of your favorite salsa and a squeeze of fresh lime juice. Serve with plenty of warm corn tortillas.

care District; Dr. Eapen recommended her for a pediatric opening at WTMF.

“When the opportunity arose to apply to join Dr. Peela at WTMF in January and work in my own community of Fremont, I was very excited,” Dr. Asrani says. “The medical professionals and all staff in our Fremont clinic are very cordial and efficient. I have great respect for the devotion and pursuit of excellence with which they serve the kids and their families. I believe the work we do in caring for children goes beyond the physical realm. We share a philosophy of care that focuses on the whole child, tailoring medical care to the child’s circumstances and needs.”

Dr. Asrani is fluent in many languages, including English,

Hindi (and various regional dialects), Marathi, Sindhi, Urdu and Kutchi. She also understands Punjabi, Marwari and Gujarati, and knows basic medical Spanish.

“We emphasize working with our pediatric patients’ families and understanding the children’s culture and environment,” she adds. “We want to promote healthy habits that sow the seeds for making good lifestyle choices later on. That way, we can help our patients grow up to become healthy adults.”

NEWARK UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT

Dear Team NUSD and Newark Community,

I wanted to provide an update for you as we head into this well-deserved weekend. First of all, I wanted to share with you that when we started planning and budgeting for worst case scenario in our staffing, we initially thought we would have to reduce 20 positions pending the requirement for us to notify employees by March 15, 2018.

In my last update on March 7, I was able to share with you that based on your input and Board direction, we were successful in reducing class sizes and we were able to reduce the number of potential layoffs from 20 to eight positions. Today I am happy to share with you that we have reduced the final number of layoffs to ZERO, thanks to the great work of our staff to identify alternative funding solutions combined with natural attrition, resignations, and retirements.

I want to share information with you about how this was achieved and our next steps in this continuing budget reduction process.

Where did the money come from?

During the Governor's Budget Presentation at the Board Meeting on January 16, 2018, we announced that we were receiving $1.6 million in one-time dollars, $1.134 million in ongoing dollars. The breakdown is as follows:

Line A - One Time Dollars $1,600,000

Allocated for much needed upcoming curriculum adoptions

Line B - Ongoing Dollars $1,134,000

Line C - Base $816,000

Line D - Plus Supplemental Concentration $318,000

Line E - *Minus Routine Restricted Maintenance - $640,000

Line F - Total Remaining Ongoing Dollars = $494,000

Line G – General Fund Savings $240,000

Savings from recoding .2 of custodial staff to RRM

*Statutory requirement to increase Routine Restricted Maintenance (RRM) funding to 3% At the Board meeting on December 5, 2017, the Board gave direction to first reduce class sizes, then restore positions, with any funding that could be identified. We saw an opportunity to apply a majority of the ongoing dollars to reduce the average student to teacher ratio from 29:1 to 26:1 for Kindergarten to 3rd grade classes. We could then fund one fifth, or .2, of each 1.0 custodial position with the Routine Restricted Maintenance (RRM) dollars, since custodians are responsible for a portion of RRM. This funding shift would result in $240,000 of the general fund to be freed up for saving two counseling positions. At its February 20, 2018 meeting, the Board accepted our recommendation to utilize the remaining ongoing dollars and the general fund savings (Line F + Line G totaling $734,000) to reduce K-3 class size back to 26:1, get back two much needed counselors, and bring the staffing reductions down to eight positions. The balance of the positions saved came from natural attrition, resignations and retirements bringing us to the ZERO layoffs I am reporting today. There was not magical new money that appeared to solve this challenge, it was just plain old work and the natural ebb and flow found in any school district in California, which – as many of our veteran employees know – occurs each year. Why wasn't this solution found sooner? Piecing together solutions takes time. We needed to ensure the financial stability of the District and meet our statutory responsibilities. With the Governor's Budget release in January we were hopeful we could find solutions, but we also knew that the March 15 deadline for employee notifications was fast approaching, requiring us to continue planning as if no solution would come. The natural attrition, resignations, and retirements that occurred since we first announced potential layoffs allowed us to continually make adjustments, which ultimately resulted in the positive outcome of zero layoffs. On behalf of the Board and myself, thank you for the hard work you do every day for our students, families and the Newark Community.

SUBMITTED BY CARYL DOCKTER

Three famous and very individual composers—Beethoven, Ravel, and Saint-Saëns—have used different combinations of seven instruments to create the three masterworks on the Fremont Symphony's Saturday, April 7 program. Featuring twelve musicians in different groupings of seven, "The Power of Seven" concert will introduce you to the composers' more intimate side, and the power of seven instruments to produce works of great power, beauty, and individuality.

Beethoven composed his septet for the four string instruments plus clarinet, bassoon, and horn in 1800. The septet immediately caught the public's fancy, and that combination of instruments became, for some time, the standard for other composers' septets.

When asked in 1879 to compose a chamber work including the trumpet, Saint-Saëns' initial reaction was "Impossible!" But perhaps intrigued by the challenge, he eventually wrote a light-hearted septet, using the trumpet with strings and piano, and its catchy tunes and spirited nature brought it immediate popularity.

Ravel's impressionistic Introduction and Allegro was commissioned by the Érard company in 1906 to display the expressive range of its double-action pedal harp. Ravel's septet is the first piece ever to have explored and exploited the full resources of the instrument. It is sometimes described as a miniature harp concerto, showcasing the harp's expressive range and elegant finesse, and includes flute, clarinet, and string quartet.

These are works that sound orchestral, despite their limited forces. To those who have not yet made their acquaintance, we are happy to introduce these seldom-heard gems, while those familiar with them can look forward to an evening of renewed enjoyment!

Products Council honors Quirk

SUBMITTED BY
TOMASA DUEÑAS

The California Personal Care Products Council recognized Assemblymember Bill Quirk (D-Hayward) as 'Legislator of the Year' at their annual industry lunch.

The California Personal Care Products Council's (PCPC) Legislator of the Year Award is presented annually to lawmakers who have demonstrated an appreciation of the industry's many economic and social contributions. The PCPC's award also recognizes legislators for their leadership in educating colleagues and constituents about the industry's commitment to sound science, product safety, innovation and environmental stewardship.

"At a time when emotion often drives public policy, Assemblyman Quirk has consistently demonstrated the ability to apply his scientific background to objectively address complex issues related to our industry," said Mike Thompson, PCPC's Senior Vice President for Government Relations. "This award recognizes Assemblyman Quirk's thoughtful approach to shaping policies that directly impact our member companies and California consumers."

"I am thankful for this recognition. The California Personal Care Products Council is great about reaching out to me early on issues of interest and presenting me with a lot of information so that I can understand their position. They are also respectful when, after looking at the science and the data, I disagree with their position. The council and I care about consumer safety and I believe that is why we have been able to work as well as we have," said Assemblymember Quirk. "I look forward to continuing my working relationship with the PCPC and continue to develop good policy."

Meals on Wheels

Each year, Meals on Wheels highlights their invaluable service through a day of special delivery service by local mayors, elected officials and dignitaries. Accompanied by volunteers who donate their time and vehicles every week, all year long, these officials who are no strangers to community service, fit right in as they delivered hot meals and weekend nourishment on Friday, March 23, 2018. Recipients of Meals on Wheels, people who have difficulty traveling to stores and preparing a nourishing mid-day meal for themselves, are a welcome respite for those who may have limited social contact otherwise. In addition to regular meals, those with special nutrition needs can request vegetarian, renal or diabetic menu options. Although some mayors and councilmembers are regular community service volunteers, greeting a mayor, councilmember or dignitary at their door was a special treat for many.

Among the elected officials participating were: Fremont Mayor Lily Mei, Newark Mayor Alan Nagy, Newark Vice Mayor Michael Hannon, Fremont Councilmember Rick Jones w/wife Dana Fremont Councilmember Raj Salwan, Fremont Councilmember David Bonaccorsi, Leah Doyle-Stevens representing Alameda County Supervisor Scott Haggerty and Daren Young with Dryco and Niles Rotary.

Postwar buildings may gain new status

Banks, bowling alleys, and other structures built in Fremont during the years following World War II may have historically significant architecture and should be considered for preservation. In some cases, entire residential neighborhoods could also be considered because the house designs are rarely found today and are valued by the residents who want to preserve the unique character of the area.

These are some of the recommendations contained in a 118-page report prepared by an independent consultant group. The report will be part of the presentation to the Historical Architectural Review Board (HARB) on April 5.

It’s the Architecture

The focus of the report was on the architectural significance of structures built from 1945 to 1970, rather than on the history associated with individual structures. The report considered all kinds of structures including residences, businesses, churches, schools, and even industrial plants such as the General Motors plant in Warm Springs, now the Tesla assembly facility.

For example, some of the residential neighborhoods mentioned as having potentially significant architecture include the houses in the Orchard Homes tract of Niles, which were built starting in the late-1940s and featured a variety of roof styles and orientations on their lots to give the area an open and rural feel. Another example was the Glenmoor Homes tract built in the 1950s in Centerville with their broad, low, one-story Ranch-style houses.

Business buildings with potentially notable styles of architecture from the postwar era include the former Southern Alameda County Office Building (now New Horizons School) on Peralta Boulevard in Centerville, which was built in 1948 in the Post Moderne style, and the Cloverleaf Bowl on Fremont Boulevard in Irvington, which was built in 1959 with its exuberant Googie-style angled roof entrance.

Other potentially significant buildings include various schools, churches, fire stations, hospitals, meeting halls, and shopping centers throughout the city.

To Preserve or Not

According to the report, simply identifying a postwar building as having potentially significant architecture is not enough to actually recommend it for preservation. A building must also be evaluated by a set of standards regarding its eligibility, character, and integrity. These standards vary for each type of building.

For example, most postwar residential buildings were single-family houses that were part of a larger housing tract. As such, postwar tracts would be evaluated as a whole, rather than by evaluating individual houses. It is unlikely that the presence of an individual house that meets the standards would be sufficient to declare that the house, or the entire tract, meets the standards.

To meet the eligibility standards, a housing tract must have been built by a notable developer, or was an example of a significant architectural style of the time, or represented a significant new direction in development standards set by the city. The consultant’s report listed some of the notable developers and architectural styles of the era. Not all tracts would be eligible.

To meet the character standards, a tract must have been built with distinct boundaries, usually within a specific period of time, and have a uniform pattern of streets, sidewalks, curbs, and street landscaping—or have a deliberate lack of these features in order to achieve a specific effect such as providing a rural setting.

Finally, in order to meet the integrity standards, a tract should retain the overall look and feel of the original development. Specifically, it must retain a majority of the houses and street features that date from the original development and have not been significantly altered. Because the size, look, and architecture of many tract houses have been changed over the years, not all tracts would retain enough overall integrity to be considered for preservation.

What’s Next?

The Historical Architectural Review Board will meet to review city staff’s recommendations of standards and criteria for evaluating the architectural significance of post-1945 buildings, objects, sites, and districts in Fremont.

To learn more about this topic, and to express your comments and concerns, the public is invited to the HARB meeting on Thursday, April 5, at 6:30 p.m. in the Niles Conference Room of the Fremont Planning Department at 39550 Liberty Street.

Fremont City Manager Fred Diaz will retire in July

SUBMITTED BY CHERYL GOLDEN

On March 23, 2018, Fremont City Manager released the following statement regarding his impending retirement: “A nationwide executive recruitment is currently underway for a new Fremont city manager. After further guidance from our recruitment firm, I am moving up my retirement date from the City of Fremont effective July 27, 2018 from the previously announced September 21, 2018 date. This decision is better for the recruitment as it allows the new executive additional time to work with City staff and the City Council prior to Fremont moving to district-based elections from its current at-large city elections. By stepping down earlier, it will also give me more valuable time over the summer with my family.”

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: APRIL 3 – APRIL 10, 2018

For All Signs: The Sun is parallel a retrograde Mercury. That is astrologese for ‘lack of perspective, or lack of objectivity.’ The Sun shines so brightly that it obliterates our ability to see clearly and fully understand what is going on.

Whatever seems to be happening right now will change soon. Time passage of 2-3 weeks will give us a better vantage point. Be especially cautious with decisions. Accurate information is especially hard to access now.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): Read the lead paragraph carefully. The Sun is shining brightest in your sign now. Remain conscious that you cannot know all the facts because some things are hidden from you. Therefore decisions are challenging. On a Mercury retrograde it is useful to try out solutions and experiment, but don’t sell the farm based only on what you can see today.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): A changing social situation or a particular friend wanders across your radar this week. You are left with a lot to think about as a result. Your feathers may be ruffled a bit, but this is no major deal. Stay in communication with your partner. The role of woman as Lover versus woman as Caretaker may be mildly challenging now, whether you are male or female.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Take whatever you hear with just a grain of salt this week. Rumors are spreading rapidly. Take plenty of time before you react or express an opinion. You don’t want to appear overbearing or opinionated.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): Making decisions too quickly will set you up for financial trauma later. Double check all figures before you make a purchase. Your desired object may be something that is too good to be true. If you have even one thought of that nature, set the purchase aside until you can be certain.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): You may have many opinions this week, but don’t believe everything you think. Your objectivity is limited right now so you may be missing an important perspective. Travel to somewhere you have been before could prove fun and may lift your spirits.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You may discover an error in your taxes or bank accounts. Check your accounting carefully to ensure that you are covered. Mistakes are common during times like these. See the lead paragraph for additional information.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): It is favorable to attend to matters concerning home and security now. Perspective is a general challenge to all this week. Make a conscious effort to avoid jumping to conclusions with little evidence. Concentrate on the long-term view if you can and wait until you have all the facts.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Keep your tongue on a tight tether. Whatever you say may come back to haunt you on May 12. Drive with caution. Your reflexes may be out of sync, setting you up for an accident or injury. You can prevent it with careful handling.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): You have a desire to celebrate. The temptation to overspend is strong. Consider what would be fun and interesting that doesn’t require a lot of money. Activities concerning education, publishing, the law, and travel have positive aspects. You are talkative and in an exploring frame of mind. Curb your tendency to be opinionated.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): Slow down. Your mind may be racing you into a ditch. Social and romantic life is favored this week, particularly over the weekend. You may be mixing business and pleasure in a pleasant combination.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): This is a good time to kick back and enjoy the days. Your home is your sanctuary. Don’t allow it to work you to death. Smell the spring flowers.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): Be careful if you feel compelled to buy. You are likely to splurge on an item that ultimately doesn’t fully offer what you think. The promise is big, but the result may fall short of your expectations.

Pie Party and Celebration

SUBMITTED BY CAROLYN BERKE

Niles Pie Company is an artisanal worker-owned bakery in Union City that specializes in handmade seasonal pie and pastry with fresh, local produce. In business since 2010, they opened their retail location in the Dowe Business Park on Alvarado-Niles Road in the spring of 2013. In the summer of 2017, they changed their business model from being a sole proprietorship to a worker-owned cooperative, and have continued to grow and expand their business. In addition to their retail shop, they sell at farmers' markets from Oakland to San Jose, host monthly dinners and regular baking and cooking classes, and provide pie and pastry to East Bay and Silicon Valley companies. They are deeply committed to their support of local non-profit organizations, particularly those that directly support local people and families in need.

Niles Pie is celebrating the beginning of their sixth year in the Dowe Business Park, and looking forward to the next five years, by throwing a celebration and pie party on Saturday, April 7. If you haven't figured out where their shop is yet, now is the time to seek them out! They've been transforming their bakery and retail space over the past five years into a bright and welcoming haven for local pie lovers. There's a comfy couch, a giant communal table, plenty of reading material, and free Wi-Fi. Chalkboards change around with various talented customers drawing their love for pie and community. At the celebration, there will be more chalkboards and plenty of colored chalk for artists of all ages to leave their marks too. There will be live music and promotions and specials, perhaps a giveaway or two.

Niles Pie wants to thank the local community for the strong support they've given the business in their first five years in Union City, and to celebrate the promise of their future growth and commitment to the community. If the weather cooperates we'll bring our party into the parking lot. We'll have a pie-eating contest for kids – and maybe for the grownups too. Prizes, treats, and all the happiness that pie brings will be the order of the day!

Centennial Stories

How the Clean Water Act
Put the "Super" in the USD's Super Sewer

MICHELLE POWELL

Most readers have heard of the Federal Clean Water Act, but did you know that it was the catalyst that made Union Sanitary District's (USD) infrastructure what it is today? Prior to changes required by 1972 amendments to the Act, USD had three treatment plants: Irvington in south Fremont, Newark, and Alvarado in Union City. The Irvington and Newark plants disposed of treated wastewater in the bay, south of the Dumbarton bridge, as did several other agencies in the region. The amended Clean Water Act led the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to determine that the bay was too shallow in those areas to receive wastewater at the level of treatment that was common back then. USD and many other agencies were given a timetable for phasing out those types of discharges there.

New regulations affecting discharges close to shorelines all around the Bay led several agencies to search for solutions. USD teamed up with Oro Loma and Castro Valley Sanitary Districts and the Cities of Hayward and San Leandro, forming the East Bay Dischargers Authority (EBDA), to explore possibilities. This is where the concept of the "Super Sewer", a shared large-diameter line that would discharge treated wastewater further offshore and in deeper waters of the Bay, was developed.

This seemingly simple idea was in fact a very complex venture. To participate in the "Super Sewer", USD had to find a way to convey wastewater from its former Irvington and Newark locations up to the Alvarado plant for treatment, and the plant would need expansion to handle the additional flows. Although the EPA and state would partially fund the project, investment by communities using the EBDA line would be necessary.

There were many potential downsides to not moving forward with the Super Sewer, including daily fines for discharging in the current locations, cease and desist orders from the State Water Board, and building moratoriums imposed by the state. Still, public debate about the necessity of the project was lively, to say the least, sparking extensive media coverage and passionate campaigns for USD Board directorships.

A bond measure for the Super Sewer was on the November 1976 ballot, and after many public meetings, newspaper articles, and advertisements, Measure W to fund the EBDA line was passed by its communities. Twin pressurized lines called Force Mains, each about three feet in diameter, and three large pump stations were completed in 1980 to transport wastewater from the Irvington and Newark locations to our Alvarado Plant, where it is treated and released to the much larger EBDA line. USD's discharge is joined by the releases of our EBDA partners as it travels north underground near the East Bay's edge. The EBDA pipeline turns left just below the Oakland airport, moving treated wastewater about four miles out into a deeper shipping channel in the Bay where it is dispersed through a diffuser.

USD's Newark and Irvington Plants were decommissioned after the EBDA line became operational. Our Newark and Irvington pump stations constructed on their sites are still in use today to pump wastewater into the Force Mains. Like much of the nation's infrastructure, the Super Sewer is aging and requires attentive maintenance. You can find out more about how USD's staff cleans and maintains our Force Mains at our Centennial Open House on May 19, 2018, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at our Treatment Plant and Headquarters in Union City. Hear about "pigging the Force Mains" – and no, real pigs are not involved!

Looking through the Terrarium Glass

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY DANIEL O'DONNELL

Life is just as busy today as it was in 1829. So, it's not surprising that Dr. Nathaniel Bradshaw Ward, a botanist/entomologist, would forget about a sealed jar he filled with a little soil and a moth pupa. Sometime later he stumbled upon the jar and noticed there was some grass and a fern growing in it. This jar inspired him to create a line of airtight containers that plants could grow in. They were referred to at the time as Wardian cases; today they are called terrariums.

Dr. Ward's glass jar was the first time that plants were grown in an airtight environment. This would dramatically change the world of botany because exotic plants could now survive long journeys. Terrariums were not only important for scientific research, but quickly became a trendy hobby among English households. Terrarium trends have since come and gone, including their resurgence in the U.S. during the 1970s. Today there are countless ways to occupy personal time, and building terrariums is still one of them.

There are two types of terrariums: a closed terrarium that is sealed off to outside air or an open-sided terrarium that allows air to circulate freely. Both types can be visually stunning and fun to create, however their constructions will differ.

A closed terrarium creates a habitat independent from the one outside. The clear glass allows light to come in for plants to photosynthesize and to generate heat that will create a mini water cycle. Even the most efficient closed terrariums will need to be opened occasionally to refresh the air or allow the excess water vapor to escape if there is condensation.

A closed terrarium starts with an airtight glass container. The size and shape of it are entirely arbitrary. A glass wine carafe, large mason jar, or clear cookie jar are just a few of the diverse options. The wider the opening, the easier it will be to create and maintain. Long tweezers may be necessary if the opening is too narrow for a hand to fit through. Small openings also limit the inorganic items that can be incorporated into the terrarium setting, such as rocks, driftwood, miniature statues and figurines, or tiny structures.

Construction of a closed terrarium begins with a one- to two-inch layer of gravel to collect water that has passed through the soil. A one-inch layer of activated charcoal (found in most pet store fish departments) placed on top of the gravel will provide air and water filtration. Next, add a layer of potting soil deep enough to plant in but leaving plenty of air space for the plants to grow into. Add the plants and any rocks, colored gravel, or ceramic figurines that will personalize the terrarium. Water the plants and close the lid. The terrarium should be placed in a location that gets plenty of indirect sunlight.

The plants used in a closed terrarium will be primarily limited to ferns, mosses, and tropical plants due to the high humidity of the sealed environment. There is a greater scope of plants that can be used in an open-sided terrarium. They range from succulents and cacti that prefer dry desert conditions to sub-tropical houseplants that like their environment moist. The size and number of plants will depend upon the size of the terrarium, regardless if it is closed or open-sided.

An open-sided terrarium will have the mouth of the container on the front side. This makes it harder to create from a household object than it is to simply purchase. There are a wide variety of ready-made shapes and sizes available. Planting any open-sided terrarium begins with a thin gravel layer followed by a layer of potting soil that is conducive to the needs of the plants. Open space is an important design element, so do not over plant. The non-planted space gives an opportunity to create vibrant patterns with colored sand or polished gravel paths. An open-sided terrarium can be placed anywhere that meets the light requirements of the plants.

Open-sided terrariums can also be used to create miniature themed worlds by pairing plants with objects that echo the motif. Bright green moss, a small clump of Mondo grass, some feather rock, and a miniature pagoda will create a Japanese-style terrarium. Baby tears, purple Spiderwort, small ceramic mushrooms, and a gnome will portray a fanciful theme. Any small figurine or art piece is fair game for making a personalized terrarium.

A wide variety of terrarium planters can be purchased at Succulence in San Francisco (www.thesucculence.com). Succulence has an extensive inventory of terrarium appropriate plants, polished gravels, brightly colored sands, and they host terrarium building classes. If the class schedule is not suitable, they have a DIY planting bar with whatever supplies and expert advice might be needed.

Do not be afraid to indulge in the delightful hobby of building terrariums. Dr. Ward's first terrarium was a happy accident and it turned out fine.

Leprechaun Shenanigans

SUBMITTED BY ROSEANNE LYON

Leprechauns made a BIG mess in the Kindergarten class room at St. Edward School (Newark). The Leprechauns’ shenanigans consisted of moving the students’ tables around the room so they couldn’t find their seats, placing their friendly little grey monkey in the front of the classroom where he did not belong, and leaving the student’s traps in disarray! Kinders and their families created innovative traps to catch the Leprechauns but unfortunately came up empty handed. Maybe next year’s Kinder families will have better luck! Students also learned about St. Patrick the “Apostle of Ireland”.

Theater Program takes home top honors

At the 24th Annual Ohlone College High School Theater Festival, students from James Logan High School competed with over 1,000 high school student artists from more than 34 different schools. The Logan troupe consisted of 11 competitors. In the end, results were nothing short of amazing:

- Manase Misa: 2nd Place overall in Men’s Dramatic Classical Monologue
- JJ Sarmiento, Manase Misa, Jeffery Beckerleg, Nathan Ng: 2nd Place overall in Improv/Theater Games

James Logan High School received the Judge’s Sweepstakes Award for the school that receives the highest average points per entry, one of the most coveted awards given at the festival.

- The Logan Princess Club will be loaning graduation caps and gowns to seniors who are homeless or displaced, foster youth, or have severe financial need. They encourage anybody with an Achievers brand cap and gown sitting around to donate it for a student in need. They especially need black gowns this year. Anyone who would like to donate or borrow should send an email to Erin Dal Porto at Logan, edalporto@nhusd.k12.ca.us, or call (510) 471-2520, Extension 60243.

Community Development Director set to retire

A familiar face at Fremont City Council meetings will soon be absent. After over 20 years of service in Fremont – beginning as a contract planner in 1999 working on the Niles Concept Plan - Community Development Director Jeff Schwob is retiring May 4, 2018. As a senior official and long-term employee, Schwob is often asked by councilmembers and fellow employees to provide the background of projects and policies under review. His calm, level-headed responses are welcome to those with less tenure who require context for current and future decisions. When asked about the timing of his departure and other senior Fremont personnel who have recently announced retirements, Schwob said, “In part, it may be that people feel that things will be different going forward with district elections. This is a time for adaptation and adjustment. It will be a big change in structure.” He says that the new Community Development Director will have a bit of breathing room, “The General Plan is in place, the zoning code is in place and we are in fiscal good health with a good team. Whoever comes in will be able to take a breath and digest it all while figuring out the next steps. I am leaving a good, solid foundation for my successor.”

As Community Development Director, Schwob is responsible for the Planning Department – “my roots” – the Building and Safety Division that reviews all construction drawings to make sure they are built to code, field inspection to make sure plans are being followed and fire plan reviews/inspections on new construction. He also oversees Code Enforcement that is responsible for non-police enforcement on private property. He notes that the affordable housing aspect of Community Development was inherited from the now defunct Redevelopment Agency. Building affordable housing is one of the most challenging aspects of the job.

“This year”, says Schwob, “we will probably build more of these than we have ever done in any one year of the past. The program has become much more robust due to fees collected, a county bond measure, linkage fees for non-residential development and other sources. There are many projects in the works and that will be a positive thing for the community.” Recently Fremont added a Sustainability Coordinator to the department to oversee streetlight replacement, microgrids at fire stations, solar carports, the Green Challenge to let people review their energy consumption and make better choices.

“Our legislators are constantly passing new laws; we are being micromanaged by the State.”

“It is really hard to hear a representative mix of responses. The challenge is to get people engaged.”

The complexity of Community Development is integrated with other city departments to allow an efficient flow of information between departments. A “Development Cabinet” - police, fire, public works, environmental services, community services, economic and community development - meets quarterly under the guidance of the City Manager. “We talk about high priority projects in the city and any assistance needed so we can all be on the same page in terms of our goals. These projects have to deal not only with the city, but other entities such as utility companies and, at times, flood control, etc. Our staff needs to coordinate with their staffs to facilitate a project,” says Schwob.

Fremont also has a “Business Ally” who helps guide people through the permitting process. Schwob says that this position began as assistance for small business but grew quickly to encompass all businesses. If someone needs help to navigate the permit process with the city, our business ally will help them to partner with the right team of individuals to guide them. He adds that the Business Ally is a special person with “technical and social skills” acting as a liaison with Economic Development as well.”

Asked about challenges facing his replacement, Schwob says that new State laws create difficulties at the local level. “Our legislators are constantly passing new laws; we are being micromanaged by the State.” He cites new land use laws as examples: “One will take control away from local community’s land use decisions of transit-owned properties to those agencies. Loss of local control and accountability is troubling. Even more challenging is that if within one-half mile of a transit station (i.e. BART, Centerville Train Station, etc.) or one-quarter mile of a bus or transit line with 15-minute headways, buildings at least 85 ft. tall and 4.5 floor area ratio [4.5 x lot size] are allowed without density limits; no parking requirements. There are rules about replacing housing and tenant relocation, but overall there isn’t much the city can do should laws like these be passed.

Also included in this law is a density bonus that gives leniency on other rules. Local control is being eroded.” He adds, “In some cities, this may make sense where an area is dilapidated and rundown but doing this in places with existing single-family residences, giving carte blanche, is asking for trouble.”

Planning issues are important for a community but Schwob realizes that people are busy with family and personal issues so when listening to residents, “It is really hard to hear a representative mix of responses. The challenge is to get people engaged.” Fremont is trying all types of outreach – permit software, citizen access, development digest and other newsletters – to become more transparent.

Traffic congestion has become a major problem throughout the Bay Area. This not a localized problem. There is a tremendous job base in the area and people cannot find a place to live so they live further and further away; they are cutting through every neighborhood to get here. This is challenging because the jobs are creating the traffic. Everyone wants a good-paying job so a partial solution is creating efficient transportation to these jobs – shuttle systems and incentives to encourage use of alternative transportation models.

Although new regulations will present significant challenges, Schwob is confident his replacement will inherit competent assistance. “We have some very talented people in the department who have experience and can help with the transition.” He has learned that success depends on a team effort and cautions, “You can’t do it all by yourself; there will need to be a rebalancing, a team that will complement each other. Everyone has their own strengths and needs assistance in other areas.”

Plans for the future are not definitive; Schwob says his favorite – and facetious - answer is to “sit on the sofa and eat Bon Bons!” On a more serious note, he says he will eventually consider consulting work. The bonus of retirement is “I can pick and choose what appeals to me.” Whatever he chooses, Jeff Schwob will have left an indelible impression on the future of Fremont.

Safety book project

THE JENNY LIN
FOUNDATION

In collaboration with the Castro Valley Library, the Jenny Lin Foundation recently established a safety book project aimed at helping young readers and adults learn to recognize and handle various safety issues including bullying and conflicts with others.

The success of the program prompted the foundation to expand it into the San Lorenzo and Union City library branches. Books covering a wide range of safety-related topics are now being added to these three Alameda County Library locations. Interested readers may search in the library catalog for these materials using the community tag “Jenny Lin Collection.”

Established in Castro Valley following the 1994 murder of 14-year-old Jennifer Han-chi Lin, Jenny Lin Foundation has for more than 20 years organized fairs, workshops, and contests to educate the public about safety precautions for members of all ages.

The group offers a variety of online resources to help everyone stay safe anytime — from fire, home hazard, boating and water safety to cyberbullying. For details, visit their website at <https://jennylinfoundation.org/jennys-safety-links/>.

Shred unneeded, sensitive documents

SUBMITTED BY FREMONT PD

To help people stop identity theft, the Union City and Fremont police departments are co-sponsoring a free Community Shred Day where people can drop off sensitive documents like bank statements or tax returns for secure and convenient shredding.

The event is set for 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at American High School, 36300 Fremont Blvd. Residents can bring up to 4 banker box sizes of material to discard and shred at the event. A banker box is approximately 12 by 10 by 15-inches. The service is provided by PROSHRED Security and residents don't need to remove paper clips, staples or hanging files from the documents.

New web service would follow users across multiple devices

BY ANICK JESDANUN
ASSOCIATED PRESS
TECHNOLOGY WRITER

Some 60 companies including such leading brands as Subway, Sprint and the NFL are joining forces to help each other follow you around online.

Adobe, a company better known for Photoshop and PDF files, said the new Device Co-op initiative it is organizing will help companies offer more personalized experiences and make ads less annoying by filtering out products and services you have already bought or will never buy. Under the initiative, Adobe can tell you're the same person on a home PC, a work laptop, a phone and a tablet by analyzing past sign-ins with member companies.

The initiative comes amid heightened privacy sensitivities after reports that Facebook allowed a political consulting firm, Cambridge Analytica, to harvest data on millions of Facebook users to influence elections. Facebook also has been criticized for collecting call and text logs from phones running Google's Android system.

Adobe's initiative underscores the role data plays in helping companies make money. Many of the initial uses are for better ad targeting. The company timed its March 28 announcement to a digital marketing conference it was hosting in Las Vegas. Adobe executives said they believed their initiative offers strong privacy safeguards and weren't worried about a backlash considering the Facebook scandal.

“With this stuff coming out now around Cambridge Analytica and Facebook, the bar has to be so high in terms of privacy,” Adobe executive Amit Ahuja said.

Adobe said no personal data is being exchanged among participating companies, which also include Allstate, Lenovo, Intel, Barnes & Noble, Subaru and the Food Network. Adobe said the program links about 300 million consumers across nearly 2 billion devices in the U.S. and Canada.

The program would let Sprint, for instance, know that Bob is already a customer when he visits from a new device. Bob wouldn't get a promotion to switch from another carrier but might get instead a phone upgrade offer. Or if Mary has declared herself a Giants fan on the NFL's app, she might see ads with Giants banners when visiting NFL.com from a laptop for the first time.

All this might feel creepy, but such cross-device tracking is already commonly done by matching attributes such as devices that from the same internet location, or IP address. Consumers typically have little control over it.

Adobe said it will give consumers a chance to opt out of such tracking. And it's breaking industry practices in a few ways. Adobe said it will honor opt-out requests for all participating companies and for all devices at once. It's more typical for such setups to require people do so one by one. All companies in the initiative are listed on Adobe's website, a break from some companies' practice of referring only to unspecified partners.

“We're doing everything we can not letting brands hide themselves,” Ahuja said.

But in taking an opt-out approach, which is common in the industry, Adobe assumes that users consent. And it places the burden on consumers to learn about this initiative and to figure out how they can opt out of it.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Our devoted patrons

The last 21 years have been an amazing journey for us. We have experienced so much joy and love from owning Broadway West. We believe the environment we have created has become a special place to experience theatre from both sides of the stage. We are so proud of all our productions and feel our commitment to quality has never wavered. As much as we would love for it to go on forever, our wonderful voyage will have to come to an end this year.

As some of you may know, our rent went up substantially a couple of years ago. At the time, we didn't know how we were going to make ends meet, but we kept persisting; we didn't have the heart to give up, but it put quite a strain on our personal finances. In October 2017, the rent unexpectedly went up again. Had we known this was going to occur, we would have taken action sooner and decided not to renew season tickets for 2018. Unfortunately, the latest increase has put us in too poor of a financial state to continue on, so it is with heavy hearts that we must announce the need to close the theatre. Please know that this decision to close our beloved theatre is two-fold. We have also taken our age into consideration. We have found that in the last couple of years, it has become more difficult for us to keep up with the rigors needed to run a theatre and serve up the quality that our wonderful patrons deserve. This factor, along with the financial situation, has cemented our decision to close our doors this June.

There is good news on the horizon, however! A wonderful group from Fremont, Made Up Theatre (www.madeuptheatre.com), will continue the theatre tradition in our place. They have been performing in Fremont since 2010 and are such an amazing and talented group! Made Up Theatre specializes in improvisational theatre and are planning to include full-length plays in their line-up. They perform every weekend and offer classes during the week. We are so pleased and relieved that they will continue to provide Fremont with quality theatre. What is especially wonderful is that they will be honoring all our season ticket holders for the rest of 2018, obviously with the hope that you will love them as much as we do and continue to attend in the upcoming years.

Our final show for the year will run from May 11th through June 9th this summer.

In anticipation of additional questions that you may have for us as a result of this announcement, the FAQ at <http://www.broadwaywest.org/faq/> is to help provide you with the answers to your questions. Please take a moment to review the FAQ and if you still have any outstanding questions, feel free to reach out to us when we see you at one of our upcoming shows.

This decision has been an extremely hard one for us. Broadway West has been a major part of our lives for over two decades and we will miss it every day. Your continued support has been the reason we have been able to sustain it for as long as we have. Please know how much we appreciate you.

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts,

Paula and Mary

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Greenway applauded

A new pedestrian/bicycle pathway will connect the Alameda Creek Trail to Lake Elizabeth via a Union Pacific Railroad easement within several years. The city of Fremont is in negotiation to acquire 1.7 miles of right-of-way from Union Pacific Railroad for three million dollars, for development of the new multi-use trail. This path will enhance our city parks, improve transportation safety by separating automobiles from pedestrians/cyclists and provide a new commute option for citizens.

Fremont residents support construction of new linear parks to make our city more bike and pedestrian-friendly and to reduce the number of deaths due to vehicular collisions impacting pedestrians and cyclists. Expanded greenways will also add more useable open space, reduce greenhouse gases and improve local property values. Suzanne Wolf, Director of Community Services, notes that "the proposed trail is. . .[one] segment of a larger regional trail [the East Bay Greenway] that is ultimately envisioned to stretch from Oakland to Milpitas." The trail is modeled on the Iron Horse Trail, that stretches from Concord to Pleasanton. The following link has maps, reports and more info: http://fremontcityca.iqm2.com/Citizens/De-tail_Meeting.aspx?ID=1579

We encourage the expansion of linear parks and support the separation of automobiles from pedestrians and cyclists. Vision Zero will work more effectively if we can create more bike and pedestrian friendly paths in our city. We encourage Fremont residents to work together to make our city safer for all residents.

Counting Your Change

Christina has a one dollar bill to buy a set of tiny colored pencils which costs 78¢.

How much change will she get?

To figure this out, first count from 78 to 80. Because you are counting by 1s, circle a penny for each number.

Now that you are at 80, counting by 1s to 100 would call for a lot of pennies to make change. You could do that, but most people like to get their change with a small number of coins.

Providing the rest of the change in dimes would mean counting by 10s. With the 2 pennies you are at 80, so with the next dime, you would be at 90. Another dime makes 100. Circle the 2 dimes to show the change you counted to get to $1.00.

CHALLENGE: This shows how to give Christina her 22¢ in change with four coins. How could you give her 22¢ change with six coins? Circle them.

Change-Making Challenge

Circle the change that Scott the store clerk needs to give each customer.

Mrs. Greene gives Scott $3.00 to buy a ball for her dog. Circle her change in coins.

Justin gives Scott $4.00 to buy a fidget spinner. Circle his change in coins.

Charlotte gives Scott $5.00 for a flashlight. Circle her change.

Wine, Food, and Fashion Fun

BY ROELLE BALAN

Imagine a great time with friends while sipping wine and shopping. The best part is, all of it will help support a local hospital. The St. Rose Hospital Foundation is hosting "A Taste of Style," a fun event for friends, family, and the fashionable. The event, previously called "Wine, Women & Shoes," started in 2013 and is now in its 6th year, offering a live and silent auction, raffle, wine samples, hors d'oeuvres, ice cream, and fashion vendors.

The St. Rose Hospital Foundation was established in 1977 to support Hayward's non-profit St. Rose Hospital in its mission to provide quality healthcare to the community. The hospital depends on donations through foundation fundraising events, grant writing, and planned giving. The foundation holds four annual events every year, with "A Taste of Style" kicking things off each spring.

This event will help fund a renovation of the hospital's clinical laboratory. Gloria Lara, Special Events Coordinator for the St. Rose Hospital Foundation, said the funds will go to new lab equipment, building permits, and new tables to help make them handicap accessible. Lara also explained the new equipment will make it easier for lab workers to get results in at a faster pace. "It would be that much more important to getting our patients the services that they need," Lara said. The foundation expects to raise at least $75,000 – $90,000 from "A Taste of Style" alone.

Funds will be raised through vendors, wineries, raffle, silent and live auction, and ticket sales. "What we ask is for a donation for them to be able to sell there," Lara said of the vendors. She explained they pay a $175 merchant fee that's a tax-deductible donation to the lab fund. There is an option for vendors who want to donate a percentage of their sales in lieu of the merchant fee donation.

Fashion vendors that will be in attendance include Bolotaolo by Carla Bolotaolo, LulaRoe, gsDesigns, LipSense, and June Sablan Designs. Wineries will also be giving free samples of their wines. Get a taste of offerings from Castello di Amorosa, Leisure Street Winery, Murrieta's Well, and Rockwall Wines.

Lara noted the exciting layout of the venue. "What we have is called our 'Shop and Sip Marketplace,' so we have merchant, merchant, winery, merchant, merchant, winery, so as they're going through they're able to taste, you know, 'A Taste of Style!' she said with a laugh.

She also explained how important their relationship with their vendors are. "Most of our vendors are returning vendors that really believe in the mission of St. Rose and believe in what we're doing here in the hospital. We're the only hospital in Hayward," she said. As the only hospital, St. Rose serves a city population of 150,000. "We're very crucial to everyone in this area," Lara said.

There will be a silent and live auction at the event, with prizes like clothing items, bottles of wine, and one grand prize involving the Hayward Fire Department. Silent auction items include anything vendors may be selling, as merchants are asked to donate an item.

The live auction, with a possible professional auctioneer, is something to look forward to. The six prizes are exciting, like a pair of Golden State Warriors courtside tickets to the possible first round of the playoffs. Lara said their "hot ticket" prize is dinner with the Hayward Fire Department, which includes a tour of the firehouse and dinner prepared by the firefighters. "It's a really nice package and it's what everyone looks forward to every year," she said. Other prizes are a trip to Monterey and a custom art item. Everything is donated to the silent and live auctions. There will also be a raffle with prizes like a $300 Macy's gift card and a $150 Forbes Mill Steakhouse gift card.

"A Taste of Style" is nothing without a runway fashion show. Hospital staff, foundation board directors, and friends and family of the foundation take part as models. Vendors and their employees participate too. Models get a fitting and choose what they want to wear. The clothes and shoes are all provided by Macy's in Stoneridge Shopping Center, Pleasanton.

Lara assures that participants can expect to have "tons of fun." A catering company is going to pass out hors d'oeuvres and there will be another bar area with a menu that is not confirmed yet. Organizers are working with a catering and special events company that provides a bartender who is going to create a complementary cocktail that will work with this year's theme, Tiffany Blue.

Ticket and sponsorship funds for this event go directly to the hospital's clinical laboratory renovation. Tickets are $75 each and can be bought in advance or at the door. For ticket and sponsor information, go to www.strosehospital.org/donate_a_taste_of_style_2018.

#ClimateChange: An Unfolding Emergency

SUBMITTED BY DORSI DIAZ

The Sun Gallery proudly announces its 5th Annual Environmental Show: “#ClimateChange: An Unfolding Emergency,” opening Friday, April 6.

In the space of just one year since last year's exhibit, there have been an unprecedented amount of climate-related disasters including catastrophic flooding around the world, record hurricanes (Maria, Jose, Harvey, and Irma) along with drought, record fires, mudslides, and record cold conditions. In an effort to put into visuals the sense of urgency surrounding the issue of climate change, over 20 artists have submitted work for this year's show ranging from photos of the disappearing Arctic (and Iceland) to the human response to environmental degradation.

In January, citing recent devastating wildfires in California, Los Angeles County councilmembers didn't mince words about the climate emergency: “We're out of time.

perform her live art on the gallery's stage in the courtyard during the event that will also include free appetizers, beverages, and activities for children.

“#ClimateChange: An Unfolding Emergency” includes a wide range of artists from as far away as Europe to several well-known local artists: James O'Donnell, Susan Deming, Renea Turner, Patra Nesseth-Steffes, Alexandre Dang, Sheila Mun Jacobs, Jon Kerpel, Bonnie Kuhr, Hollie Adamic, Carmen Avila, Ruey Syrop, Andrea Spearman, Elinor Cheung, Claudia Schwalm, Janet Brugos, Nina Starr, Amy Nelson Smith, Renee Kelly, Marcel Peragine, Rachel Finn Romero, Peter Politanoff, and Grumpy Green.

School field trips for the environmental exhibit inside the gallery can also be scheduled Monday-Friday. Field trips have become extremely popular for teachers and students because of the STEAM element the field trips provide (science, technology, engineering, art and a math

We can't keep waiting around thinking, once it gets bad enough, we'll have enough time to do something. We're here today to tell you, it's bad enough now,” said Paul Koretz at a press conference. Koretz is the lead proponent of the idea of using emergency funds to set up a “climate emergency mobilization department.” “We are out of time and need to act, quickly and boldly, like the very planet beneath our feet depends upon it. Like our home depends upon it. Because it does.”

This year's show has a very interactive twist with a multi-media presentation by Belgian artist Alexandre Dang with dancing solar flowers, to newly composed music about climate change by musician Marcel Peragine and his band. Peragine adds: “THE SCIENTISTS' is a song dedicated to all the hard-working scientists confronting the issue of manmade climate change with facts and innovation.”

Performance artist Andrea Spearman, Founder/Choreographer of A. Spearman & Co., will be performing a special dance performance at the Artist Reception, which will be held on Saturday April 14. Spearman will

School trips include a gallery tour and art project in the spacious Sun Gallery studio. The Sun also offers special in-classroom art lesson and can come into the classroom with the books, art, materials, and project. To book your tour, email the gallery at sungallery@comcast.net or call (510) 581-4050.

An encore debut of “#ClimateChange: An Unfolding Emergency” will be held at Hayward City Hall in the John O'Lague Galleria July 27 – October 5.

Spring is in bloom at
WILDFLOWER FEST

SUBMITTED BY ASHLEY ADAMS
PARK DISTRICT

It’s time to celebrate the season of the birds, bees, flowers, and trees! Join us for hikes, crafts, music, and nature activities at the “Spring Wildflower Festival” Sunday, April 8 at Sunol Regional Wilderness. Hikes are geared for different ages, distances, and topics. There is something for everyone. Pack a picnic lunch, put on your hiking boots and join us for a glorious day filled with flowers in this very special wilderness!

This year, guided naturalist-led hikes will be offered every 15 minutes leaving from the festival meadow. Hikes are either one-hour easy strolls to see wildflowers or a three-hour three-mile hike into the hills of Sunol to view flowers in a variety of habitats.

All activities offered will be celebrating spring. From making your own seed ball or butterfly mask to take home or dissecting a flower, we’ll have activities for all ages and abilities.

Information and activities will be available from a variety of different agencies including the California Native Plant Society, Zone 7 Water District, East Bay Regional Park District Botanic Garden and more! There will be some items available for sale.

We are pleased to celebrate spring this year with the sounds of strings in the morning with Extended Roots and rockin’ out to mow-town hits from Steady Eddy and the Shakers in the afternoon.

Visitors are encouraged to bring a picnic lunch as there is no food vendor at this event. There is no cell service in the park. Parking may be limited; please consider the environment and carpool. Off-site parking with shuttle bus service will be offered.

For information, visit www.ebparks.org or call (510) 544-3249.

'Little Women': beloved story with song and dance

GEORGIA BARNES

The novel "Little Women" by Louisa May Alcott comes alive as a captivating all-new Broadway musical adaptation, opening Friday, April 6 at Chanticleers Theatre in Castro Valley. This high-energy production is co-directed by Chanticleers' Artistic Director John Baiocchi and choreographer Todd Aragon, with musical direction and conducting by Luis Zuniga—the same creative team behind last season's hit, "The Addams Family: A New Musical."

"Little Women" follows four sisters – independent, aspiring writer Jo, romantic Meg, pretentious Amy, and kind-hearted Beth – all under the watchful eye of their beloved mother, Marmee, while their father is away serving in the Civil War. Each sister follows a different path but not necessarily what is expected. This coming-of-age tale is filled with drama, romance, humor, and music.

Chanticleers' "Little Women, The Musical," with book by Allan Knee, music by Jason Howland, and lyrics by Mindi Dickstein, soars with vibrant and sweeping song and dance, and features Chloe Angst (Jo), Georgia Lee (Marmee), Heather Warren (Meg), Riley Hyde (Amy), Jordana Meltzer (Beth), Judy Beall (Aunt March), Roger Caetano (Professor Bhaer), Darrien Cabreana (Laurie), Carl R. Smith Jr. (Mr. Brooke), and Matt Beall (Mr. Laurence). The principle characters are backed by live musicians and an ensemble of singers and dancers, including Francesca Cipponeri, Maitland Johnson, and Jennifer Willis. This timeless tale about the power of family, friendship, and romance will delight the entire family.

"Little Women" opens with Chanticleers' traditional complimentary hors d'oeuvres, desserts, and beverage gala on April 6 and runs through Sunday, May 6. Curtain time for Friday and Saturday evening shows is 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees start at 2 p.m. (no show on April 8).

General admission is $25, and $20 for seniors (60+)/students/military. On Bargain Night, Saturday, April 7, all tickets are $18. Eight find spots on Winter All-Academic Team

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY

Cal State East Bay has placed eight student-athletes on the 2017-18 California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) Winter All-Academic Team, the conference office announced March 26th. A total of 87 men's and women's basketball players from the league's 13 institutions were honored for their performance in the classroom. The CCAA season awards recognize student-athletes who have reached at least sophomore athletic standing and maintain at least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average.

The CSUEB women's basketball team boasted six honorees: Senior Bri Guillory made the team for the season straight year, while Kayla Blair, Morgan Greene, Kayley Hsiung, Kinsco Kelemen, and Chloe Kellum earned their first career honor.

The East Bay men's program was represented by juniors Jordan Balser and Patrick Marr. Balser also captured the award as a sophomore in 2015-16.

Chang named Women's Golfer of the Week

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY

Cal State East Bay junior Carolin Chang has been named California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) Women's Golfer of the Week for Mar. 21-27, the conference office announced Wednesday.

She is the first Pioneer to capture the award in 2017-18, which is the first season with women's golf as a CCAA-sponsored sport. Chang took third place individually in an extremely strong field this week at the Barry University Invitational in Miami Lakes, Fla. She turned in rounds of 75, 72, and 71 for a 54-hole total of 218 (+2) at the Senator Course on Don Shula's Golf Course. She helped the Pioneers capture 13th place in a 17-team field that featured five of the top six and 14 of the top 50 squads in the nation.

Chang's one-under-par round on Tuesday ranked as the second-lowest of any golfer in the field of 89. Overall, she beat 36 golfers this week who were ranked in the top 100 in Division II according to Golfstat. Eight of the top 10 individuals were in competition at the Barry Invite, and Chang beat seven of them.

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY

Cal State East Bay junior Greg Smith has been named California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) Men's Golfer of the Week for Mar. 21-27, the conference office announced Wednesday. The Egham, England native captured the first CCAA award of the 2017-18 season for the Pioneers after finishing as the individual runner-up this week at UC San Diego's SoCal Intercollegiate. Smith turned in rounds of 74, 72, and 67 for a 54-hole total of 213 (-3) at Carlton Oaks Golf Club. His six-under score on Tuesday was the second-lowest round in the tournament and the lowest of Smith's career. He was the top CCAA finisher in the event and led the Pioneers to third place in the team standings, the squad's best finish of the season thus far. CSUEB topped all six CCAA opponents in the 11-team field.

Huskies earn bragging rights

The annual cross-town game between intercity rivals, Washington Huskies (Fremont) and Newark Memorial Cougars is always an exciting contest. Both schools look forward to bragging rights for the season and each team plays with an extra bit of effort to come away with a win. This year, on March 29th, the Huskies' offense exploded early with two runs in the first inning and added six more in the fifth, earning the "W". The Cougars did not go quietly as they challenged from the plate, scoring four runs in the sixth inning; but well-timed Huskies defense slowed the offensive effort. Final score: Washington 8, Newark Memorial 4.

Bill named Player of the Week

Cal State East bay sophomore Auriel Bill has been selected as the Western Water Polo Association (WWPA) Player of the Week for Mar. 19-25, the conference office announced Wednesday. It’s the third career weekly award for the reigning WWPA Newcomer of the Year, who was honored twice last season on Mar. 1 and Apr. 11. This marks CSUEB’s third WWPA Player of the Week award this season, the most of any team in the conference. Makenna Nation claimed it back on Feb. 6, and then Adrien Van Dyke won last week to give the Pioneers back-to-back honorees.

Bill was typically outstanding in leading East Bay to a 3-1 record last week on the team’s Southern California road trip. The Estevan, Saskatchewan native totaled eight goals, eight assists, four steals, and seven drawn ejections. Bill opened the week with a hat trick on a 16-7 win over Redlands last Wednesday. She had a goal and two assists in a win over La Verne on Thursday, then scored twice in CSUEB’s loss to No. 20 ranked Cal State Northridge on Friday. She closed out the week with two more goals and a season-high five assists in an 18-1 rout of Chapman Saturday afternoon.

The second-year driver leads the Pioneers in goals (36), assists (35), and steals (29) this season. She is currently the top overall scorer in the WWPA with 71 total points.

Mayor Mei gives State of the City Address

SUBMITTED BY
CHERYL GOLDEN

On March 28, Fremont Mayor Lily Mei delivered this year’s State of the City address at a luncheon hosted by the Fremont Chamber of Commerce at the Fremont Marriott Silicon Valley. Mayor Mei outlined the City’s achievements in 2017 and its goals for the year ahead. Highlights included:

- This November, residents will vote in the first district-based election in Fremont, moving away from at-large city elections. Information on districts and which seats are up for election in 2018 can be found at <https://fremont.gov/DistrictElections>. Also, a new Council District locator tool was introduced for community members to plug in their address to determine which district they live in.
- Decreasing residential burglaries in neighborhoods remains a priority for the Fremont Police Department, and thanks to their efforts, Fremont has seen an overall reduction of 62 percent since 2011. In 2017, there was a 32 percent decrease.
- The Fremont Fire Department deployed first responders to the devastating fires throughout California and hurricane responses across the country and Puerto Rico. Locally, the newly created Office of Emergency Services educated over 2,600 residents about emergency best practices at community events.
- The City achieved a 70 to 90 percent traffic reduction in residential neighborhoods by implementing changes to signal timing, commute period turn restrictions, and other measures. Improvements are planned for

- Interstate 680 and 880 through Fremont and include Express Lanes to ease traffic congestion.
- Startup Grind is in its third year and provides an opportunity to enhance Fremont’s entrepreneurship eco-system. Fireside chats are taking place on a monthly basis.
 - The City’s sustainability efforts are well underway; by replacing 15,000 streetlights with energy-saving LEDS and completing a host of other energy and water saving projects, the City will collectively save $13 million over the life of the new fixtures.
 - Fremont’s new Rent Review Ordinance is now in effect, and the newly formed Rent Review Board will shepherd fair and equitable resolutions for both renters and landlords.
 - Fremont joined the World Health Organization’s global network of Age Friendly cities to better meet the needs of our aging residents and launched a monthly online newsletter.
 - Local activity by Lennar, Sobrato, Toll Brothers, Tesla, and Valley Oak Partners is anticipated to bring over 8,000 potential new jobs and 4,000 residential units to the Warm Springs District.
 - This Spring, the City will activate the site at Town Fair Plaza in Downtown Fremont with flexible programming; the site will be managed by Public Space Authority. The City encourages community members to share thoughts on the type of programing and activities they’d like to see when it opens daily.
- The full presentation from Mayor Mei’s State of the City address is available at <https://fremont.gov/StateoftheCity>

Carbon-free Electricity

SUBMITTED BY CITY OF HAYWARD

Hayward took a big step toward meeting some of the country’s most ambitious municipal climate-protection goals with a City Council vote earlier this month to move to entirely carbon-free electricity. The Council vote on March 6 established the ‘default product’ for when electricity customers in Hayward are shifted off Pacific Gas and Electric Company-supplied electricity as part of the formation of nonprofit East Bay Community Energy (EBCE). The goal is to provide a cleaner, greener, more affordable choice of electricity than offered by the incumbent utilities, which tend to be more reliant on natural gas, other carbon-based fuels, and nuclear power plants. Under state law providing for creation of local energy aggregation networks like EBCE, PG&E will remain responsible for transmitting all electricity, maintaining distribution infrastructure, and billing services for all Hayward customers. The migration of customers to EBCE starts in June with commercial accounts. Residential customers will begin being enrolled in January 2019. Initially, EBCE is offering two products. Brilliant 100, the one selected as the default option for Hayward, is 100 percent carbon free, drawing from a combination of solar, wind and other renewable sources and large-scale hydrogenation. It will be priced equal to the PG&E supply. The alternative EBCE product, Bright Choice, will be a minimum 85 percent carbon-free. It will be priced 1.5 percent below PG&E electricity. Prior to enrollment, customers can opt out of EBCE and remain on PG&E or opt down to EBCE’s slightly less expensive and less green, Bright Choice.

Scaling Up Your Business: How To Succeed When Others Fail

BY KIM MARSHALL,
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT
SPECIALIST

Starting a business is often both challenging and exciting. But, while most entrepreneurs know their own products well, understand customers’ needs, and want to do good in the world, too few succeed. So why do some companies grow by leaps and bounds while others struggle to stay in business?

Last week in Fremont, business coach Bill Gallagher shared a simple set of tools and practices for smarter business growth at a city-sponsored workshop for small businesses.

The Scaling Up model from Bill’s workshop originated with “The Rockefeller Habits” and teaches how to master the Four Decisions of growth. Leaders learn how to build a company culture that sustains vision and passion and promotes profitable expansion.

The Rockefeller Habits and the Four Decisions are practices that successful businesses use to grow. These habits include things like: executive team alignment, priority alignment for the team, consistent communication, clear accountability, regular employee input, customer feedback, a culture rooted in core values and purpose, balanced performance metrics, and last but not least, transparency on the company’s

- plan and performance. When businesses follow these habits, they tend to succeed.
- The Four Decisions that drive and scale growth include:
1. People – Are all the employees happy and engaged? Would you rehire them all if you were starting over right now?
 2. Strategy – Is the plan simple enough that all employees know it? Is it working to drive growth?
 3. Execution – Are all processes running without drama? Are they also producing industry-leading profitability?
 4. Cash – Is there enough money within the business to fuel growth, without having to go to banks and investors?
- Growing a business ultimately comes down to leadership that scales; leaders that build trust, have compassion, create stability, and give hope. These kinds of leaders have employees that will follow, and companies that scale.

Public discussion on creek sediment removal

SUBMITTED BY SOPHIE RIEDEL

Unlocking Alameda Creek is a proposal to move the sediment of Alameda Creek to the Bay to regenerate marshes and mudflats at the bay edge—the region’s protective ecological infrastructure. Our team, named Public Sediment, is learning from watershed communities and working to redesign the creek to more effectively deliver sediment, reconnect steelhead with their historic spawning grounds, and organize a water-based network of communities that physically connect to the bay.

We want to hear from you! Please join us and our partners to hear more about the project, provide feedback, and learn about the ecosystem of Alameda Creek. This project is part of Resilient By Design, a year-long collaborative design challenge developing innovative solutions for building resilience to climate change in the Bay Area.

The event will begin with a presentation at 5:00 p.m. and the rest of the evening will be a chance to mingle, meet the team and put ideas to paper. Children are welcome. Free, but registration is required.

Public to participate in transportation plan

SUBMITTED BY THE METROPOLITAN
TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION

How can we get more people involved in prioritizing transportation policies and investments? What are the best ways to encourage Bay Area residents to participate in planning for the region’s future? The Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC), the Bay Area’s transportation planning and financing agency, is inviting public review and comments on its Draft 2018 Public Participation Plan.

The draft document can be viewed online at mtc.ca.gov/about-mtc/public-participation/public-participation-plan. Comments are due by 4 p.m. Monday, May 7, 2018.

The Draft 2018 Public Participation Plan highlights opportunities for Bay Area residents to engage in the range of MTC’s planning work and funding allocations. Also included as Appendix A are planning and decision milestones for the pending update to the region’s long-range transportation and land use blueprint, known as Plan Bay Area—slated to be adopted jointly by MTC and the Association of Bay Area Governments in 2021.

MTC’s current Public Participation Plan was adopted in 2015 to satisfy state and federal requirements for a transparent and inclusive public process. A final 2018 Public Participation Plan is slated for adoption in June 2018. OPINION

WILLIAM MARSHAK

Fremont is entering a new era... district elections. As with most changes, there are positive and negative aspects to this transformation. However, it was probably inevitable that district representation would come to the city of Fremont. Although less populous cities have been able to retain a basic General Law status and at-large elections within a one-size fits all approach, larger cities have typically chosen district representation and instituted charters. These are political changes that allow municipal governments to tailor operations to suit their specific needs. Even though this structural change of Fremont is of great importance, much of the debate will take place when primary elections are complete in June.

Fremont has passed the quarter million resident mark and that number will soon escalate as large housing projects are completed and occupied. Pressure for more housing has prompted state mandates that can stifle the particular needs of municipalities. By the same token, district elections allow distinctive representation for each section of a city. Does this separate and divide or simply facilitate less expensive and more representative government. Currently Fremont's council, although elected (with one appointee) by the at-large electorate, does not represent an even geographic distribution. Council gerrymandering of district formation in order to allow incumbents to reside in different districts and avoid facing head-to-head competition is telling. Whether districts will lead to better representation or an additional layer of bickering and geographic obstruction is unknown, but we will find out at the end of this year.

As the cost of elections escalates, the quest for a council seat becomes more financially attainable when candidates for office can focus their appeals to a smaller audience; that can be a plus factor. The effect of more councilmembers is also an unknown factor at this time. Will council meetings drone on until the midnight hour as each representative decides to weigh in with lengthy discourse or will the mayor moderate this tendency through persuasion or time limits? Since Mayor Mei has been able to contain excessive public comment by enforcing time limits, it may be appropriate to evaluate the possibility of doing the same for her colleagues on the council.

We are at the beginning of this electoral season and so far, appeals and oratory has been largely limited to councilmember speeches to convince those who watch council meetings of their sincerity, focus and serious attention to matters before them. As the June 5, 2018 primary election nears, few county positions are up for grabs; many will not even appear on the ballot due to lack of contestants to incumbents. The race for Alameda County Assessor, however, will be one to watch as local candidates John Weed and Phong La challenge others imbedded within the county bureaucracy. There is even a rare contest for a judgeship on the ballot. A few hotspots may erupt in the meantime including an effort to recall School Board members in Newark and controversy at Fremont Unified School District. It remains to be seen whether these issues will percolate or erupt.

With a slim June ballot, most political fireworks will likely wait for post-summer months prior to the General Election in November. It should be an interesting year with U.S. House of Representatives and U.S. Senate elections serving as a national referendum on the Trump administration, state contests and significant challenges in local contests. Will June elections be a harbinger of things to come or simply the calm before the storm?

GiveTeens20 is a 501(c)(3) non-profit that helps high school students find their career 'fit.' With the help of successful individuals who give their time to answer questions in video form about their careers, and no-cost online self-assessment materials designed to uncover students' skills and interests, GiveTeens20 intends to boost students' engagement with school by showing how classwork supports success in career areas they can look forward to and enjoy for years to come.

In addition to its video and self-assessment resources, GT20 also gives out one $5000 scholarship every year to a graduating high school student, the Femme for STEM scholarship, funded by the Gary and Bonnie Beck Fund through the Silicon Valley Community Foundation. The award honors women in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) careers. The successful scholarship candidate is a female student who:

- is pursuing a STEM education and career
- attends an in-class GiveTeens20 presentation
- uses the GT20 two-step 'Know Yourself & Learn' method
- conducts research into her chosen field
- makes a decision about the next step and understands what is needed to achieve it
- completes the application packet.

The 'next step' for the winning student could be $5,000 towards a four-year school, community college, or vocational training. What matters is that the applicant both attends the in-class presentation and utilizes the GT20 resources at www.gt20.org.

To be considered for the GT20 award, students must demonstrate academic performance with a Senior Year (or cumulative) GPA of 2.3 (on a 4.0 scale), be in good academic standing, and be currently enrolled as a full-time student. The application packet is due by May 14, 2018.

The GT20 in-class presentation will be given Saturday, April 21 from 10 a.m. to noon at the GiveTeens20 office at 7100 Stevenson Blvd., Ste. 108 in Fremont. Attending this session is required to be considered. Presentation reservations are required and available by emailing office@giveteens20.org. Under 18 students need not have a parent present, but photo waivers must be signed either by the student if over 18, or by the parent if under. Waiver will be emailed along with the reservation acknowledgement.

Interested students should visit www.gt20.org for complete details and application procedures.

The Invisible War

SUBMITTED BY
THE REV. JEFFREY SPENCER

One of the biggest and well-kept secrets of the U.S. is the number and frequency of sexual assaults on military service women by their fellow comrades. In the 2012 documentary ‘The Invisible War,’ filmmaker Kirby Dick investigates how over 500,000 female service members have experienced sexual assault with little to no justice.

The film will be shown on April 14 at 1:30 p.m. as part of the Second Saturday Documentary Series at Niles Discovery Church. The screening is free and open to the public.

Only eight per cent of known cases are prosecuted with a marginally low two per cent conviction rate. The documentary features interviews with several women from different military branches, who bravely share the details of their assaults and the chain of events that followed. Along with sharing their stories some of the women record their daily lives and routines as assault victims.

The Invisible War reveals an absence of emotional and physical treatment for assault victims, lack of an impartial judicial process, reprisals against victims instead of those found guilty of sexual assault, uninterrupted promotion of perpetrators, and forced discharge of the victims from the armed services.

The film also takes an in-depth look at several sexual abuse scandals in the U.S. military, including Tailhook (1991, Navy), Aberdeen (1996, Army), Air Force Academy (2003), and Marine Barracks Washington (2012).

The film screening will be followed by discussion.

The Second Saturday Documentary Series is co-sponsored by Niles Discovery Church and the San Jose Peace and Justice Center. Learn more about the series at <http://bit.ly/nilessds>.

Bicycle groups impact
police resources

SUBMITTED BY
OFFICER RON CLARK,
SAN LEANDRO PD

Over the last few months, the San Leandro Police Department’s communication center has received numerous calls from concerned citizens regarding bicyclists riding recklessly and taking over city streets and intersections. This ‘flash mob’ practice of bicycle riding with no regard to traffic laws is dangerous to everyone including the bicyclists, motorists, and pedestrians.

The power of social media can organize a group of riders at any given time and location with one text or post. Law enforcement agencies presented with these unexpected traffic circumstances seldom have the resources available to manage hundreds of unruly bicyclists.

To put numbers in perspective, the San Leandro Police Department received 107 calls for service regarding bicyclists disrupting traffic since November of last year. Officers that responded to these calls make every effort to escort the groups of bicyclists to safer paths. In many occasions, officers utilize their emergency lights and sirens to warn motorists to yield to the bicycles to ensure everyone’s safety.

However, on some occasions, the bicyclists turn to more aggressive behaviors by damaging motorist’s vehicles, knocking over trash cans and disregarding officers’ commands. Officers at times must resort to enforcing the traffic laws when necessary.

Since November of last year, a total of four bikes have been impounded by the San Leandro Police Department as part of arrests being made. In these cases, three juveniles were released with citations and one adult was taken to jail. Two of the four bikes impounded have been released back to their owners; the other two have not yet been claimed. In addition, a few citations have been issued for a variety of California Vehicle Code violations.

The San Leandro Police Department promotes and encourages safe and responsible bicycle riding. As we enter warmer months, we will see an increase of bicyclists and pedestrians in our community. It is paramount that we maintain an environment where everyone can safely use the roadways, parks, and sidewalks.

The San Leandro Police Department invites anyone with questions about bicycle safety or the rules of the road to contact us or your local Law Enforcement agency. The San Leandro Police Department Traffic Division can be reached at 510-577-3208.

Shooting incident and SWAT Team activity result in an arrest

SUBMITTED BY
GENEVA BOSQUES,
FREMONT PD

At 2:47 a.m., Friday, March 30, patrol officers responded to a shooting in the McDonald’s parking lot located at the intersection of Decoto Rd. and Fremont Blvd. Upon arrival officers located three victims in a vehicle. The victims told officers they had been in the drive-thru of the restaurant when they became involved in a verbal disagreement with the occupant of the car behind them.

The victim’s got their food and parked in the lot. About five minutes later, the male occupant of the vehicle they were arguing with, returned in his vehicle. The male then fired several rounds hitting the victim’s vehicle. Despite multiple rounds being fired into their vehicle, the three occupants were fortunately not injured.

The suspect was only described as either a Hispanic or Asian male and his vehicle had no plates.

Early this afternoon, the suspect vehicle was located in the Cabrillo neighborhood. At that time, an undercover operation to monitor the vehicle and associated residence took place. A full Fremont Police SWAT Team callout was initiated to safely apprehend the suspect, who was believed to be armed.

At approximately 4:00 p.m., the suspect was seen exiting his residence and was taken into custody without incident. The house has been secured and will be searched pending a search warrant.

This incident is being investigated as an attempt homicide. The suspect was transported back to the police department where he will be given the opportunity to speak with detectives.

This remains an active and ongoing investigation and we are unable to release any further details at this time. Anyone with information or who may have witnessed this incident, is asked to please contact Detective Butcher via email at Bbutcher@fremont.gov or call 510-790-6900. We will also accept anonymous tips via text. Text “Tip FremontPD” followed by the message to 899-777.

Police seek help in solving wheel theft case

SUBMITTED BY SAN LEANDRO PD

Early in the morning on Friday, March 30 officers from the San Leandro Police Department were dispatched to a wheel theft in progress from a newer Honda in the 2100 block of Benedict Drive. Officers arrived as the theft was still in progress, prompting the suspect to run. An officer tried to apprehend the suspect, but the suspect entered a waiting vehicle and fled. The fleeing vehicle collided into a parked car and the officer had to jump out of the way to avoid being struck.

Officers pursued the suspect vehicle south on Benedict Drive until it crashed into the hillside near Kindrid Hospital in the 2800 block of Benedict Drive. One suspect was immediately taken into custody while another suspect fled up the hill into unincorporated San Leandro.

A perimeter was set up just before 6 a.m. with the assistance of the Alameda County Sheriff’s Office and the California Highway Patrol. The Alameda County Sheriff’s Office sent their air support unit with three drones. After an extensive search of the hillside and yards, a police canine tracked suspect footprints suggesting he made it out of the perimeter along the freeway.

The suspect vehicle was a black Mercedes sports utility vehicle and was reported stolen in October and was displaying paper dealer plates. This vehicle was seen at two prior wheel thefts in San Leandro over the past few months. Officers located eight additional tires and wheels inside the vehicle suggesting there were two additional victim vehicles having yet to be identified.

“This could have ended with tragic results had the officer not been able to move out of the way of the fleeing suspect vehicle,” said Lieutenant Ron Clark. “More and more frequently we are seeing suspects that have a wanton disregard for public safety as they focus on getting away from the police.”

Investigators are asking that anyone who had their tires and rims stolen the night of March 29 to call Detective Jason Vincent at (510) 577-3234 or send an email to jvincent@sanleandro.org.

Keeping promises to voters

By Supervisor Richard Valle

The Alameda County Transportation Commission (Alameda CTC) has a long history of fulfilling commitments to voters in Alameda County. As the second agency in the State to pass a transportation sales tax measure in 1986, Alameda CTC has also subsequently passed two additional transportation sales tax measures (2000 with 81.5% voter support and 2014 with over 70% support) with some of the highest voter approval ratings in the state.

Keeping the trust of the voters is what drives all of our work at the Alameda CTC. This is evident in the delivery of major capital improvement projects, such as the first express lanes in the Bay Area and Northern California, extending BART to Warm Springs in Fremont to allow for BART to go to San Jose, extending BART to Dublin/Pleasanton, and the Oakland Airport, the first Bus Rapid Transit project in the East Bay and Northern California, goods movement projects at the Port of Oakland, and highway interchange and mainline improvements on every major freight corridor in the county.

Alameda CTC has been a leader in bicycle and pedestrian funding for trails and local safety improvements, senior and disabled transportation, safe routes to schools, affordable student transit pass programs and transit operations. These are only a few examples of how Alameda CTC keeps its promises to voters. In addition, Triple A ratings from Fitch and Standard & Poor, and 100% clean audits as verified by independent auditors and the Independent Watchdog Committee also attest to Alameda CTC’s performance in fulfilling voter promises.

Alameda CTC has one remaining project to deliver from its 1986 voter-approved sales tax measure: the East-West Connector Project in Union City and related road improvements in Fremont. This project has had a long history of development by several agencies, including Caltrans, Alameda CTC and now Union City. As a major local and complex project, the project design and costs have increased over time, as occurs with many projects once the site conditions are analyzed and detailed designs are developed.

The complexity of the project includes right of way needs, hazardous materials clean up due to past developments in the area, railroad and BART facilities which require rail-specific design features, and local creeks and waterways. These complexities have resulted in an estimated project cost of $320 million, which far exceeds the $109 million of local funds currently programmed to the project. Because the East-West Connector Project is a local project, funding availability from federal, state and regional sources are limited. As such, Alameda CTC performed an analysis to identify potential funding sources that could be eligible for the project from local sources to determine if there was a possibility to fulfill the commitment to the final project in the 1986 voter-approved expenditure plan.

On March 22, the Alameda CTC approved $2.5 million out of the existing 1986 voter approved project funds to complete designs for the roadway, and additional funds to evaluate if the environmental document needs to be updated and to update the traffic analysis. The City has until 2020 to see if it can complete the design and return to the Alameda CTC to address if the project can move forward.

Alameda CTC is committed to open and transparent planning and programming processes. No funds have been allocated to uses inconsistent with the voter approved expenditure plans. All programming actions now and in the future will be conducted through our open and transparent processes established at the agency that have enabled us to plan, fund and deliver essential transportation projects as approved by voters.

Library amnesty seeks food in lieu of fines

Submitted by Erik Sanjurjo

Are overdue fines or lost items keeping you away from the library? Santa Clara County residents have a great opportunity to eliminate outstanding library fines and fees during the entire month of April.

The Santa Clara County Library District (SCCLD) is launching its Food for Fines program, waiving up to $100 in exchange for the donation of any amount of non-perishable food.

“Over 100,000 of our patrons have outstanding fees or fines,” says County Librarian Nancy Howe. “Food for Fines provides them with a unique opportunity to come back to the library and start fresh, while at the same time being able to help out the less fortunate with a food donation.”

Food for Fines will be available at each of SCCLD’s seven community libraries and one branch library, as well as through its Bookmobile. Patrons bring their food donations to the Accounts Desk during business hours to have up to $100 in fines and fees waived. In the case of lost or expired library cards, participants should bring a valid form of photo identification. A list of most needed and allowable food donations can be found at www.sccl.org/foodforfines/

Students crunch numbers on Pi Day

Submitted by Cathreene Ingham-Watters

On Wednesday, March 14, students at Birch Grove Intermediate School in Newark had a chance to crunch numbers with visitors from The Calculus Roundtable in Oakland in honor of National Pi Day. Pi Day commemorates one of mathematics’ most useful infinite series of digits, called Pi, which is a mathematical constant for the ratio of a circle’s circumference to its diameter and is approximately 3.14159. March 14 is represented numerically by the numbers 3.14 which are also the first three digits of Pi.

The day included math mentor visits from Jim Hollis, founder of The Calculus Roundtable which promotes Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) education for students. Also, Nina Demediuk, an electrical engineer attended the event and visited classrooms and shared her experiences in using math and science to help solve real-life problems, such as her work with rockets.

While teachers at Birch Grove focus on STEM education daily, they added various Pi -related activities and lessons for this day, including a fun Pi numbers memorization contest.

Political animals

Below are a few animal welfare bills now before the California State Legislature, all in need of your support:

Senate Bill 1138 (by Senator Nancy Skinner, D-Berkeley): Plant-based Food Initiative. Would require that state-run hospitals, prisons, and public schools always have plant-based meals available, as well as reduce or cut out completely servings of processed meat. Contact john.skoglund@sen.ca.gov

Senate Bill 1249 (by Senator Cathleen Galgiani, D-Stockton): Cruelty-Free Cosmetics Testing and Sales Act. Co-sponsored by Social Compassion in Legislation (SCI) and Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine (PCRM). Would ban the sale or marketing of any cosmetics that have been tested on animals, including any of the cosmetics’ component ingredients. Long-overdue; would be the first such in the nation. Contact: bob.alvarez@sen.ca.gov

Senate Bill 1487 (by Senator Henry Stern, D-Canoga Park/Malibu): Endangered Species Trophy Act. Would ban the possession of sport-hunted trophies of some iconic endangered species, such as lions, elephants, and rhinos. We can’t depend upon the Trump Administration. Contact: shaina.brown@sen.ca.gov

Assembly Bill 2362 (Assembly-member Blanca Rubio (D-Azusa/West Covina): Safe Transportation of Dogs and Cats Act. Would establish health and safety standards for mobile or traveling housing facilities for dogs and cats, including standards governing sufficient heating and cooling, ventilation, and lighting. The bill would apply to animal control agencies, SPCA’s and humane societies, or a rescue group that is in cooperative agreement. Contact: taylor.wool-fork@asm.ca.gov

All State Legislators may be written c/o The State Capitol, Sacramento, CA 95814. Google their websites for further info.

Most legislators keep a bill or two in reserve for emergency situations, called ‘spot bills.’ Here are three in need of an author: (1) to amend current rodeo law, Penal Code 596.7, require on-site veterinary care at all rodeos. The current on-call option is not working, and animals are suffering needlessly; (2) ban the rodeo’s brutal ‘steer tailing’ event, standard at the Mexican ‘charreadas,’ some 800 held in California annually. Tails may be stripped to the bone, even torn off, and horses risk broken legs when the steers run the wrong way. Already outlawed in Alameda and Contra Costa Counties, and the State of Nebraska;

(3) ban the cruel and indiscriminate glue traps. Rodents and wildlife alike suffer. There are humane alternatives. (Banned in New Zealand.) Likely authors: Senators Nancy Skinner (D-Berkeley/Oakland), Steven Glazer (D-Walnut Creek), Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont), Jim Beall (D-San Jose), Scott Wiener (D-S.F.); and Assemblymembers Rob Bonta (D-Alameda) and Marc Levine (D-San Rafael). Let them hear from you!

HARD update

On March 1 the Hayward Recreation and Park District (HARD) yet again betrayed the animals and their own human constituents. For three years, advocates have been asking for HARD to ban two particularly cruel (and non-sanctioned) rodeo events: ‘wild cow milking’ (in which a cow was killed at the 2015 Rowell Ranch Rodeo), and the children’s ‘mutton busting’ event, dangerous for all, and banned in New Zealand.

HARD has received more than 400 letters in support of the requested bans (East Bay SPCA, Ohlone Humane Society, Hayward Friends of Animals, State Humane Association, Humane Society Veterinary Medical Association (with 1,000-plus California members), Humane Farming Association, In Defense of Animals, and the Animal Legal Defense Fund, et al., as well as an on-line petition posted by Animal Place, with more than 168,000 signatures, all to no avail.

The ethically-challenged Board again voted 4-1 for the status quo. Only Director Minane Jameson showed any ethics or heart. As Dr. Rene Gandolfi noted, “This ain’t rocket science, folks!” Write: Paul McCreary, General Manager, HARD, 1099 E Street, Hayward, CA 94541; email - mccp@haywardrec.org (Note: Rowell Ranch Rodeo takes place at the Castro Valley arena this year on May 19-20, 1:30 p.m. Demo, anyone (afa@mcn.org))

Hope on the Horizon

The Alameda County Board of Supervisors is currently considering these same rodeo issues and needs to hear from you. Note that both wild cow milking and mutton busting are also featured at the June Livermore Rodeo; mutton busting has also been featured at the Alameda County Fair. Write to: Supervisor Wilma Chan, president, Alameda County Board of Supervisors, 1221 Oak Street, Oakland, CA 94612; email Chan’s Chief-of-Staff, Dave Brown, at dave.brown@acgov.org

Finally, some Good News

The San Francisco Board of Supervisors recently voted unanimously to ban the sale of new furs throughout the city. May other jurisdictions soon follow suit. On the rodeo front, the Los Angeles City Council is presently considering a ban on all rodeo events within the city limits. Can the Bay Area/state/country be far behind?

As Wendell Berry says, “Be cheerful, even after considering all the facts.”

Quirk and colleagues clean up toxic paint

SUBMITTED BY
TOMASA DUEÑAS

Advocates for children, the environment and social justice joined Assemblymembers Bill Quirk (D-Hayward), Rob Bonta (D-Alameda), Wendy Carrillo (D-Los Angeles), David Chiu (D-San Francisco), Mark Stone (D-Scotts Valley), and Monique Limón (D-Santa Barbara) to unveil a package of bills that will safeguard children from the health consequences of toxic lead and protect homeowners from threats of frivolous lawsuits by giant paint corporations.

The March 29 announcement by Assemblymember Quirk and others comes after a state appellate court upheld the key legal ruling in People v. ConAgra Grocery Products (2017), which found that three paint manufacturers created a widespread public nuisance by marketing and selling lead paint when dangers of lead exposure were well known.

California listed lead as a substance that can cause reproductive damage and birth defects under Proposition 65 in 1987. That same year, the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission banned the use of lead-based paint.

The court found three companies—Sherwin Williams, Con Agra, and NL Products—all had “actual knowledge of the hazards of lead paint, including childhood lead poisoning.” But that didn’t stop them from marketing lead paint for use in California homes. In fact, plaintiffs, that included Alameda County, pointed to a 1937 document from the companies’ own doctors showing that lead-based paint could lead to lead poisoning.

Lead has multiple toxic effects on the human body. This includes brain and kidney damage, infertility and serious developmental challenges in children.

“The court ruling affirmed that these corporations had actual knowledge that their products were poisoning babies at the very same time they were promoting them, placing them in the same infamous company as Big Tobacco when it comes to immorality,” said Ed Howard, Senior Counsel for the Children’s Advocacy Institute. “The fact that these corporate behemoths are now trying to escape responsibility for their poisoning of babies shows they haven’t changed and adds a new layer of dishonor to their disgrace.”

Bill Allayaud, Director of Government Affairs for the Environmental Working Group added, “The federal Centers for Disease Control has categorically stated ‘there is no safe level of lead,’ which is why we must safeguard pregnant women and children from everyday exposure. And, just last week, newly published research demonstrated that adults remain at risk from premature death due cardiovascular disease caused by historic lead exposure.”

“After putting poison in California homes, schools, and public places for decades, the paint giants are trying to hide behind another layer of lies. The California Legislature must pick up where the courts left off and pass this crucial package of bills to protect California children and homeowners,” said Anya Lawler, advocate for Western Center and Law and Poverty. “As advocates for the communities hurt most by poison paint, Western Center on Law and Poverty calls on legislators to demand accountability for the damage these toxic paint companies have done to California.”

“It took over a decade of litigation for the courts to reach a careful and well thought out decision about the role the paint industry played in knowingly selling poisonous paint. It was poisonous because it contained lead. There is no safe exposure to lead. Now, industry wants to circumvent the court ruling with an initiative,” explained Assemblymember Quirk. “AB 3009 holds them accountable. Specifically, this bill would enact a fee on paint manufacturers for all paint sold in California. The money from the fee would be used to clean up lead paint that has contaminated homes throughout California. AB 3009 goes into effect only if the initiative that the paint industry is sponsoring passes.”

Mock Trial Competition Winners Shine

SUBMITTED BY
MICHELLE SMITH

The 2018 Phillip A. Harley Memorial Alameda County Mock Trial Awards were presented at the San Leandro Performing Arts Center on Monday, March 19th. Mock Trial Competition is a county-wide high school criminal trial competition designed to increase understanding of our judicial system and the processes necessary to create a just society. Teams of nine to 25 students study a hypothetical case, conduct legal research and receive individual coaching by volunteer attorneys in trial preparation, courtroom protocol, courtroom procedure, analysis and communication. Preparation begins in the fall and culminates in competition in January and February. More than 200 students from public and private schools from around the county participated. This year’s winning team, Moreau Catholic High School, will represent Alameda County at the state competition in the spring.

Alameda County Office of Education appreciates the support and participation of all of the ACOE staff, including event coordinator Katrielle Veslenio, volunteers and organizations who contribute to make this a great event, particularly Kazan, McClain, Satterley & Greenwood, the Oakland law firm which serves as

Reflections on Water

The secret water engineer

SUBMITTED BY SHANE O’NESKY

The Empire State Building, Hoover Dam, and the Golden Gate Bridge—I marvel at the ingenuity of man, and how our need to make things bigger and to improve our surroundings has produced these icons, the modern wonders that inspired me to become an engineer.

When I first joined the water district, veteran engineers and treatment plant operators guided me around the District’s remote facilities, located throughout Fremont, Newark, and Union City. As we reviewed these sites I was surprised at how unaware I was of their existence until I was right on top of them, and sometimes not even then; at the first facility we visited, I had to be waved to the side because I was unknowingly standing on top of a steel access door!

Once inside the underground vault, I saw a veritable treasure chest of machinery and instruments that provide the evenly regulated water pressure that prevents your bathroom faucet from merely trickling or gushing like a fire hydrant. At the next stop I encountered a row of dense trees. I had no clue from simply looking around that they masked a six-million-gallon reservoir ready to cool a dry throat, bring joy to a flowerbed, or spray the words ‘wash me’ off the rear end of a minivan.

Since my first days with the District I have carried on the theme of hidden equipment by designing and supervising buried pipelines. I’ve also spent weeks ensuring that the computer programs that monitor and operate treatment plants will react in time should some rare occurrence threaten to compromise them. I’ve purchased pumping equipment that is as powerful as a car engine but fits down a 10-inch hole, hundreds of feet below ground. I’ve installed self-cleaning screens that submerge completely underwater to keep endangered fish safe.

Several years ago, when I was driving my then four-year-old son through town on a Saturday afternoon, he asked me what I did for work. Given we weren’t too far from one of my jobsites, I made a quick detour to show him. When we pulled up to the site I excitedly pointed out the newly placed electrical gear and the location of a new pipe that ran under the roadway. I also showed him the plan drawings which happened to be in my car and described how a big pump would bring lots of water up from the ground and provide drinking water to people.

Clearly unimpressed, he paused, and then asked me two questions: “Do they let you color the drawings?” and, pointing to backhoe, “Do you get to drive the yellow tractor?” Readjusting to his level, I tried again: “Making the water we drink better is like solving a puzzle and I’m the puzzle solver. After I find the answer I get to play with others in that sandbox over there, and when we’re done it works better than before. As long as the stuff keeps working, you’ll see a busy, growing city around it.”

I don’t have the most glamorous job in town, and I have yet to see my son build a water facility from his LEGOS, but I am proud to serve the public knowing that I’ve done the best I can to bring quality water and reliable service to everyone’s taps for years to come.

the program’s primary benefactor. We also appreciate the support of the Alameda County Bar Association, the Superior Court of California, County of Alameda, the Alameda County Training and Education Center, the Alameda County Law Library and The Honorable Stephen M. Pulido, who presided over one of our Mock Trials this year and spoke at the Awards ceremony along with L. Karen Monroe, Alameda County Superintendent of Schools.

Park District seeks lifeguards

SUBMITTED BY DAVE MASON

The East Bay Regional Park District (EBRPD) will soon be hiring 180-200 lifeguards to work at its 11 lakes, lagoons, and pools in the East Bay. The pay ranges from $16.15 to $24.89 per hour. All positions are seasonal, full-time May through September. Anyone age 16 and over is welcome to apply.

“Over the years, the Park District has trained and employed thousands of East Bay youth and young adults as lifeguards,” said EBRPD Board President Dennis Waespi. “Many lifeguards have gone on to careers in firefighting, law enforcement, medicine, emergency services, and teaching.”

There are three tryouts scheduled over the next few weeks. Participants will be asked to swim 550 yards in under 10 minutes, carry a rescue board 50 feet; retrieve dive rings under 4-7 feet of water, tread water for two minutes using only their legs, and retrieve a 10-pound brick from under water. There will also be a short interview.

Those who pass the tests will be invited to the District’s Lifeguard Academy where they will receive free training and certification in open water lifeguarding. The Academy takes place over five weekends in April and May, with the swim season beginning in May at most facilities.

“The District takes visitor safety very seriously,” said East Bay Regional Park District Aquatic Manager Pete DeQuincy. “Lifeguards play a major role in educating the public about water safety and responding to emergencies.

Tryout Schedule:

Saturday, March 31, 2018 (1:00 p.m.) Granada High School Swimming Pool, Livermore

Saturday, April 7, 2018 (1:00 p.m.) Roberts Pool, Oakland,

Sunday, April 8, 2018 (1:00 pm) Roberts Pool, Oakland

Lifeguards can work at any of the Park District’s 11 swim facilities: Lake Del Valle in Livermore (east and west sides of the lake), Shadow Cliffs in Pleasanton, Quarry Lakes in Fremont, Lake Don Castro in Hayward, Cull Canyon in Castro Valley, Roberts in Oakland, Lake Temescal in Oakland, Lake Anza in Berkeley, Diablo Foothills in Walnut Creek, and Contra Loma in Antioch.

Tech bus teamsters seek contract

SUBMITTED BY STACY MURPHY

Negotiations for a contract covering Teamster drivers in Silicon Valley will get under way soon. The drivers operate shuttle buses transporting employees for Apple, Facebook, Twitter, and other tech companies.

Teamsters Local 853 representatives and a negotiating committee of 15 drivers will head into negotiations for a contract which will cover nearly 1,000 shuttle drivers. A master agreement would provide uniform standards for drivers with Loop/Hallcon Transportation and WeDriveU, contractors to Apple, Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, Salesforce, and Amazon.

Negotiations are ongoing and noneconomic aspects of the agreement have already been discussed. The drivers’ current agreement expires in 2018. They organized with the Teamsters in 2015.

“The committee is excited and united in the goal of achieving a strong contract that improves wages and provides for retirement security for drivers after they’ve spent years in service to these profitable companies,” said Stacy Murphy, Teamsters Local 853 Vice President with the negotiating team. “Local 853 previously negotiated a defined contribution pension plan for the drivers, but one of the main proposals is to enter the $42 billion dollar Western Conference of Teamsters Pension Trust, a defined benefit plan, which awards past service credits of up to 10 years for these drivers and will provide them a monthly income for their retirement years.”

The contract for Compass Transportation workers at eBay, Yahoo, PayPal, Genentech, Tesla, Apple and Amtrak expires in October. Compass drivers are participating in the negotiations and the union fully intends to have all terms and conditions of the master agreement cover these workers.

Arrest made in armed robbery case

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

A 22-year-old Vallejo man, a suspect in a recent armed robbery case in Fremont, was arrested on Thursday, March 15 in Vallejo. The case stems from an armed robbery that occurred about 11:05 a.m. Feb. 25 at the A1 Quickstop store on the 3800 block of Lake Arrowhead Avenue in Fremont. Two suspects, one armed with a firearm, entered the store and robbed two victims at gunpoint. The suspects stole currency from the register and other items from inside the store.

Detectives from the Fremont Police Department Crimes Against Persons Unit jumped on the incident. Their investigation revealed the same suspects were believed to have also committed armed robberies in other cities and jurisdictions. Fremont detectives worked closely with the San Leandro Police Department, the Alameda County Sheriff’s Office and the Vallejo Police Department to share information regarding the cases and suspects.

Community camera license plate readers and surveillance video from the Fremont store provided suspect leads in the case which eventually led detectives to Dominic Sears, 22 of Vallejo, as a potential suspect. At the time Sears had an active felony warrant for his arrest from a separate and unrelated investigation.

Eventually, on March 15, the Vallejo Police Department’s Crime Reduction Team arrested Sears in their city. When he was arrested, Sears was reportedly in possession of items that connected him to additional robbery cases.

“This was a great effort by many to solve this armed robbery so quickly,” said Fremont Police Lieutenant Michael Tegner. “Our detective’s ability to work with outside agencies and arrest the suspect began with the use of community-based video surveillance cameras and automated license plate readers. Visual evidence is always a plus and incredibly invaluable to the prosecution.”

Farmers’ markets provide the taste of spring

SUBMITTED BY DEBRA MORRIS

Spring is making its presence known at your farmers’ market with the appearance of fresh green herbs, asparagus, local honey, flowers, and spring lamb. It’s also Earth Month and we’d like to remind you that shopping locally is better for the environment by reducing the number of miles your food travels to get to your table. Best of all, produce that is locally grown tastes so much fresh, don’t you think?

Fresh soft herbs are at the top of spring’s list as well. Soft herbs are those that have soft stems, big leaves, and mild flavor. Basil, parsley, chervil, chives, cilantro, tarragon, coriander, mint, and dill are examples of soft herbs. (Hard herbs are usually perennial plants with woody stems like rosemary, thyme, lavender, and sage.) These soft herbs are perfect for marinades and sauces when roasting or grilling lamb.

At the Milpitas Farmers’ Market, the Kheang’s Family Farm from Fresno will have some lovely fresh herbs. Nha Trang Produce from Sacramento will have mint, chives, cilantro, parsley, and basil. Alma Produce from Oroquieta will have chives, parsley, basil, and cilantro. At the Irvington Farmers’ Market, you’ll find Esquivel Farms of Watsonville and KYK Produce from Fresno with fresh herbs. Why should you get soft herbs from your farmers’ market? They’re going to be just-picked and fresh from the farm.

Freshness is very important for keeping the delicate flavors of soft herbs.

Spring is also the time when bees are out collecting nectar from new flowers and the taste of the honey reflects these lively flavors. Make sure you purchase your honey from your local purveyor at the farmers’ market because you are then assured the honey comes directly from the bees to you, without additions or subtractions, like most supermarket honey! Purchase sweet local honey from All Honey Apiary, who have their hives in San Jose and surrounding local areas.

And lastly, spring means fresh eggs. Easter was early this year but that doesn’t mean you need to forget fresh eggs. They are a fantastic and inexpensive source of protein. Doan Farm is from Merced and they offer both brown and white eggs at the Milpitas Farmers’ Market and Great Valley Poultry of Petaluma has eggs at the Irvington Farmers’ Market. Make the perfect spring quiche with asparagus, omelets loaded with fresh spring herbs, and any spring cookies or breads you might be baking.

Let’s say thank you to your local farmers this month. They offer the best in local produce and with very little carbon footprint! Remember to buy fresh and buy local!
