Halal Fest

SUBMITTED BY IRFAN RYDHAN

On Saturday, June 30, Halal Fest, America's largest Halal Food & Eid Festival, will be holding its 6th annual event at the brand-new Town Fair Plaza in Fremont.

What better way to celebrate the Bay Area's rich and diverse culture than through some of the best culinary feasts by some up-and-coming local chefs and dishes delivered by favorite local restaurants? And don't forget the food trucks! This year's Halal Fest will feature local culinary experts and chefs Lisa Ahmad of Mirchi Cafe (Fremont) and Terry Braggs with Bragging Ryt's Catering (Pittsburg).

Halal Fest will have over 20 different food, dessert, and specialty vendors whose cuisine may have had their origins overseas but have now become an integral part of the American culinary landscape with foods such as hummus, lamb gyro and chicken over rice as well as frozen halal foods being widely available across the whole of the United States.

Freedom, fun, and fireworks

When the Revolutionary War broke out in April 1775, not everyone wanted complete independence from the British Empire; but, as hostility toward England grew, so did the move for complete separation.

In June of 1776 Congress appointed Thomas Jefferson (VA), John Adams (MA), Roger Sherman (CT), Benjamin Franklin (PA), and Robert R. Livingston to draft a resolution justifying colonial independence. On July 2 the congress approved Richard Henry Lee's (VA) resolution for independence of the colonies and two days later, on July 4, the statement (drafted largely by Jefferson) was formally adopted as the Declaration of Independence. Interestingly, Adams believed until his death (on July 4, 1826, the same day as Jefferson) that July 2nd should have been the official date of America's independence.

King George III's birthday had always been a time for speeches, parades, and bonfires, but by the summer of 1776, some colonists were holding mock funerals for the King as a symbolic end of monarchical rule. When July 4 was first celebrated as Independence Day in Philadelphia in 1777, revelries included bonfires and fireworks.

Adams did say he hoped the anniversary of independence would be marked for years to come by "guns" and "bonfires" and "illuminations."

Keep Mosquitoes From Spoiling Summer Fun

Summer is here and it's time to spend as much time out-of-doors as possible. But wait, those pesky mosquitos are buzzing around, just waiting to bite. What should you do?

First, you can protect yourself with the right clothing and bug repellant, says Dr. Dianne Martin, Washington Township Medical Foundation internal medicine and infectious disease specialist. Next, work to eradicate mosquitos from your surroundings.

Mosquitoes generally are more annoying than dangerous, Dr. Martin explains. However, for some individuals mosquito bites can result in a more serious reaction.

“Some people are allergic to mosquito bites and can develop hives and other allergic reactions,” she says. “If you begin to develop hives, or if a bite seems infected, a fever develops, or your body begins to ache, you should go to your doctor or an urgent care center to be treated, most likely with Benadryl or another antihistamine.”

Be sure to closely observe any bites on children. While adults probably have developed some immunity to the mosquito bite, young children can sometimes be affected more seriously. For everyone else, it's just a matter of relieving the itching that comes with mosquito bites. Dr. Martin suggests using calamine lotion or the old-fashioned remedy of baking soda paste. Ice can also help.

The best approach is to try to minimize the bite risk. First, wear protective clothing: long-sleeved shirts, long pants or a swimsuit cover-up when possible. Second, avoid scented lotions, perfumes or cologne. Mosquitoes are attracted to certain fragrances. This is one of the designs of insect repellant—masking attractive odors. Dr. Martin suggests spraying clothing with a bug repellant to keep the mosquitoes away. “Many people don't like to spray their skin with a bug repellant, such as DEET, because they are concerned about the possible toxicity of the spray,” Dr. Martin explains. “Spraying clothing achieves the same repellant effect without having the bug spray end up on your skin,” she says. Mosquitoes are most prevalent at dawn and dusk, so taking extra precaution during those times is recommended. Showering after being outdoors is also a good idea.

In addition to yourself, to minimize the risk of bites, you'll want to minimize your home's attractiveness to the insects. Mosquitoes can lay their eggs in as little as one inch of standing water. It's important, therefore, to check your home and garden for standing water in garden pots, drain pipes and other containers. Bird baths, fountains and fish ponds also can be a breeding place for mosquitoes. Bird baths should be cleaned weekly. If water is collecting in street gutters, clean away debris so that the water will drain. Keep your outdoor pool properly chlorinated. Dr. Martin recommends that you check with the county health department or your local garden store for strategies to combat mosquito larvae in fish ponds.

Other local summer bug problems are caused mainly by ticks and spiders. Tick bites often occur when people hike in the local parks—out in the open space areas. “If you have a tick bite, the best thing to do is go to the local urgent care center and have an expert remove the tick,” suggests Dr. Martin.

If that's not possible, try to remove the tick yourself but be very careful to remove the tick's head along with the body as the submerged head is the source of infection. Watch the bite area for signs of redness, rash or swelling. This can occur days to weeks after a tick bite.

The main complication from tick bites is Lyme disease but Dr. Martin reports she doesn't see much Lyme disease in the South Bay. Alameda County keeps track on its website with each park and risk updated regularly.

As for spider bites, treat a bite topically and keep an eye on it for infection. “If it begins to look like a pimple developing, it's likely infected and should be treated medically,” she adds.

Don't let insects spoil your summertime fun. “Summer is a great time to be outside enjoying the environment,” Dr. Martin says. “Just exercise a little caution and keep an eye on any bites you may get.”

Mosquitos may not actually bite, but their “blood meal” usually causes an itchy reaction.

Babies Do Not Come With Instruction Manuals—Classes Can Help

Washington Hospital offers array of educational classes to prepare parents for labor, delivery and care for newborns

This is your first child and you and your spouse are nervous about how it is all going to go. What about breastfeeding? Is it as easy as others say? Should you worry when the baby cries? What if he/she doesn't sleep as much as the books say an infant normally sleeps?

Or, if you are an experienced parent with an older child, what are the best ways to deal with and minimize sibling issues? What if you are about to have twins — or even triplets — and you are looking for advice on how best to manage caring for multiple infants at the same time?

Washington Hospital's Maternal Child Education Center offers programs and seminars to meet these and other concerns of new and experienced parents. Programs range from preparation for a new baby to a popular support group for new parents. Classes also include: a workshop for babysitters; infant massage and how to continue breastfeeding once back at work. Most programs charge a participation fee.

"New parents and parents-to-be as well as more experienced parents can find programs to help them through this major life event. While some may benefit from the breastfeeding program, others may enjoy prenatal yoga or CPR for family and friends," says Shayna Mann of the Maternal Child Education Center staff.

The free Baby 'n' Me Support Group is open to moms and babies from birth to eight months. Mann says the drop-in program, with its "come as you are, as often as you like" invitation is an excellent way for moms to share the trials and joys of living with a new baby.

The free Babysitting Workshop is open to boys and girls, ages 12-17. Students learn how to be effective babysitters. Topics include safety strategies, how to entertain children of different ages, how to deal with injuries and emergencies, among other topics. Certificates are distributed at the completion of the course. While the workshop is free, registration is required (see contact information below).

Preparation classes and a new mom support group can help parents feel less overwhelmed.

Other popular programs include:

Prepared Childbirth, a series of programs for couples in the last trimester of pregnancy offers detailed information about preparing for labor. Subject matter includes: signs and symptoms of labor, stages of labor, relaxation and breathing techniques, the coach's role, variations in labor, analgesics and anesthetics, cesarean birth, the basics of breast feeding, and postpartum recovery tips. The center offers a variety of programs within this category to meet the schedules and needs of participants. These include:

- Prepared Childbirth/Comprehensive Class: Once a week for five weeks, 2.5 hours for each class. One full class period is devoted to the basics of breastfeeding. Fee $150.
- Prepared Childbirth/Intensive Class: Two six-hour Sunday classes that also include the basics of breastfeeding. Fee $150.
- Prepared Childbirth/Saturday Express: One all-day Saturday session that does not include breastfeeding. A separate breastfeeding class is recommended. Fee $150.

- Prepared Childbirth/Refresher Class: For the mother and coach who have taken Prepared Childbirth classes within the last three to five years. Information about sibling adjustment also is discussed. Fee $90.00

CPR for Family and Friends is an American Heart Association course teaching adults rescue breathing (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) and how to relieve choking in infants and children. Fee $30.

Becoming New Parents is a one-time, three-hour workshop offering sensible tips, demonstration and information on caring for your infant in those first important months. Fee $50.

Other programs offered include: Crawler's Group; Infant

Massage; Prenatal Breastfeeding; Mastering Multiples; Big Brother/Big Sister; Back to Work Breastfeeding; Prenatal Yoga and Prenatal Bollywood Fitness (light cardio/stretching).

All programs are open to dads, except the support group which is limited to moms only. For more information about programs offered by the Maternal Child Education Center, please call (510) 818-5040 or email maternalchileducation@whhs.com. All programs are held at the Maternal Child Education Center, 3569 Beacon Ave., in Fremont. The center is open Monday-Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Moreover, as the 1777 Independence Day fireworks displays happened in the middle of the Revolutionary War, they also functioned as an important morale booster.

With the war's end and increasing concern for public safety, celebratory firearms were replaced by fireworks in a bid to draw citizens to public celebrations and away from dangerous private exhibitions.

Today, though fireworks are now a well-established July 4 tradition, they've still retained some link to their seventh-century Chinese origins: in 2016, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, $296.2 million worth of fireworks were imported to the U.S. from China.

Celebrating the birth of American independence, the greater Tri-Cities are hosting several family-friendly events:

The secrets of coding explained

SUBMITTED BY NATHAN SILVA

Have you ever wondered how apps and webpages are made?

The Castro Valley Library is offering a weekly five session workshop for young people that explores the coding languages of Python, HTML, and Java starting Saturday, July 7 and continuing through Aug. 4 at 3600 Norbridge Ave.

Sessions will meet from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and are recommended for students ages 11 to 14. The class will offer participants the opportunity to learn the basics for different coding languages so that they will be able to go home and start coding on their own.

Laptop computers will be provided to each participant during class. The class is free, but because space is limited to 20 students per class, advance registration is required and should be made by calling (510) 667-7900.

Extraordinary Educator

George Kwong was presented the Bob Grimm Award for Extraordinary Educator at the 2018 Tech Challenge

BY ROBBIE FINLEY

Teaching the next generation is an awesome responsibility and public service, one that fifth grade teacher George Kwong of Schafer Park Elementary in Hayward takes very seriously. His dedication to his students was recently honored during the 31st Annual Tech Challenge in San Jose, when Kwong was awarded the Bob Grimm Award for an Extraordinary Educator.

"This is my 15 year of teaching," Kwong said of his long career, which wasn't his first career at all. "It was a change, I used to be an accountant in the restaurant business," he explained, adding, "but I went back to school to become a teacher." He hasn't looked back yet, and his mentorship has done wonders for the students of Schafer Park. Alongside the school's science teacher Isabel Suoto, they have arranged for the school's participation in the annual Tech Challenge engineering event. "When I moved to fifth grade," Kwong said, "I started doing the Tech Challenge." In the eight years since, he's been an integral part of assembling the teams, fundraising, and keeping the school's teams on track with their projects.

Tech Challenge is held at the Tech Museum of Innovation in San Jose. Grades 4-12 can participate in the event, which creates an engineering challenge for the teams to solve using basic materials and their knowledge of math and science. Each year, specifics of the challenge change, with this year's theme being "Drop and Dash," meaning that teams would have to develop a container with one U.S. penny inside of it. That container would be dropped from 10 feet in the air onto a target, earning points for landing in a specific area of the drop zone. But the challenge wasn't over with a successful drop; the container was then required to launch the penny onto an adjacent ramp. The farther up the ramp the penny landed, the more points earned. The challenge was divided into three groupings based on age. Each team was allowed two attempts.

"Inspire the innovator in everyone" is the challenge's motto, which could be Kwong's motto as well. "I had learned about the Tech Challenge when I was attending a class in Milpitas," he said, "and I was like, 'Okay we can do this!'"

Tech Challenge kicks off in October when rules for the new challenge are released. Kwong springs into action, organizing teams and, with the help of Suoto, finding space for the teams to design their solutions. "The kids sign up and form their own teams. This year, we had five teams, a total of 24 kids," Kwong said. "A lot of kids may want to do it, but don't have the resources to travel to the Tech Museum," He added that each student must commit to meeting on Saturdays.

Another challenge is funding. On occasion they are able to secure funding, as they did one year from the Hayward Education Foundation with a $1,000 grant. "Besides that, pretty much anything the kids want to use, Ms. Suoto and I buy for them," Kwong said. It's this spirit and dedication that drew the attention of Tech Challenge personnel who selected Kwong for the Bob Grimm Award. "Bob Grimm was one of the founders [of the Tech Challenge]. He was an engineer superstar in the Silicon Valley [and] designed the tech challenges. He passed away three years ago," Kwong explained. He had no idea he was even nominated. "I was just watching to see if our kids won anything and then... all of a sudden, I see my name on the screen and I was like, Whoa! I was just in shock."

Though Schafer Park didn't place in any of the Tech Challenge's categories this year, Kwong's recognition is a testament to the wonderful accomplishment of being part of the challenge. For Kwong, the entire experience is much more than participating. "We just want people to open their eyes and see that there's a lot more out there in Hayward. I wish more schools in Hayward participated in the challenge. Mrs. Suoto and I are just teachers, we don't know that much about engineering," he said, laughing, "we'll just keep trying because that's what engineers do!"

Apple inks deal with Sesame Workshop for kids' shows

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Apple is getting into business with the prestigious Sesame Workshop. On Wednesday, June 20 Apple said it has given a multiple-series order to the nonprofit organization.

The shows will be part of a slate of children's programming for Apple's upcoming streaming service. Apple said the long-running "Sesame Street" program, which airs on PBS and HBO, isn't part of the agreement.

Apple has been making content deals with other big names, including Oprah Winfrey, as it prepares to compete with Netflix, Amazon and other streaming services.

A century after deaths, Native American kids to return home

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The remains of four Native American children who died over 100 years ago at the government-run Carlisle Indian Industrial School in Pennsylvania were being disinterred June 14 so they can start the long journey home.

The U.S. Army started the process June 14 at the cemetery on the grounds of the Carlisle Barracks, which also houses the U.S. Army War College. The exhumations are expected to wrap up in early July.

The children being exhumed include 10-year-old Little Plume, of the Northern Arapaho; George Ell, also known as George Eli, of the Blackfeet Nation; Herbert Little Hawk, also known as Herbert J. Littlehawk and as Good Boy, of the Oglala Sioux; and Her Pipe Woman, also known as Dora Brave Bull, of the Standing Rock Sioux. The remains will be transferred to the children's descendants in Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota, who requested the exhumations.

"The Army's commitment remains steadfast to the four Native American families whose sacrifice is known to only a few. Our objective is to reunite the families with their children in a manner of utmost dignity and respect," said Karen Durham-Aguilera, Executive Director of Army National Military Cemeteries.

The first children were disinterred in 2017 at the request of a delegation of Northern Arapaho tribe members. The grave thought to contain Little Plume, also called Hayes Vanderbilt Friday, didn't match his age. Last year's disinterment results combined with newly discovered information and research supports confidence in a different gravesite for Little Plume, the Army said.

The remains of 15-year-old Little Chief, also known as Dickens Nor, and 14-year-old Horse, also called Horace Washington, were returned to the Northern Arapaho last year. They were reburied in Wyoming's Wind River Reservation.

In the early 1880s the children attended the school founded by an Army officer where they were forced to cut their braids, dress in uniforms, speak English, and adopt European names.

It's unclear how they died, although infectious disease and harsh conditions caused other deaths at the school. More than 10,000 children were taught at the school.

Net neutrality backers fume as California bill watered down

By JONATHAN J. COOPER

ASSOCIATED PRESS

California legislation that was billed as one of the nation's most aggressive efforts to revive net neutrality was watered down during a tense legislative hearing Wednesday, leading the author to repudiate what he called a "mutilated" bill.

The legislation has been closely watched by energetic net neutrality advocates, who quickly denounced the decision. Sen. Scott Wiener has been pushing legislation to revive regulations repealed last year by the Federal Communications Commission that prevented internet companies from exercising more control over what people watch and see over the internet.

Wiener urged the Communications and Conveyance Committee not to move forward his legislation, but the panel voted 8-2 to advance it to another Assembly committee. Wiener, a San Francisco Democrat, said passing the diluted measure would be worse than passing nothing at all.

"California is the progressive bastion for the country right now. People look to us to lead the way," Wiener told The Associated Press. "If California passes a weak, watered-down, ineffectual net neutrality bill, that sets a terrible standard not just for other states but for the federal government."

Assemblyman Miguel Santiago, a Los Angeles Democrat who chairs the committee, did not give a specific reason for the amendments. In a tense exchange with Wiener, he said his committee deserves input and said Wiener was trying to be a martyr for a purest view of net neutrality.

Internet providers remain opposed even with the changes. They say it's unrealistic to expect them to comply with internet regulations that vary across the country. "We strongly believe that state-by-state regulation of the internet is inappropriate," Steve Carlson of the wireless industry group CTIA said.

Wiener's bill would prohibit internet providers from blocking or slowing data based on its content or from favoring websites or video streams from companies that pay extra. Those protections remain.

But other provisions Wiener sought were removed — including a ban on so-called "zero rating," in which internet providers don't count content from their own subsidiaries or partners against a monthly data cap. The bill also no-longer includes provisions that Wiener says are necessary to close loopholes that might allow internet providers to get around the spirit of net neutrality.

Wiener's bill has drawn a letter of support from U.S. House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi, a San Francisco Democrat who rarely weighs in on state legislative matters

"I urge you to maintain all of the comprehensive protections in SB 822 to ensure that California citizens, not the companies we pay to get online, are able to decide which apps, services and websites they use," Pelosi wrote in the letter on June 18.

U.S. Rep. Edward Markey, a Massachusetts Democrat, tweeted a day before the hearing that "California lawmakers need to stay strong; everyone is watching."

Sierra Club endorses county's Climate Coalition

SUBMITTED BY JANICE ROMBECK

The Loma Prieta Chapter of the Sierra Club has endorsed the County's Climate Coalition and promised to help enlist other counties across the country to join the commitment.

In a June 18 letter, the Sierra Club praised the initiative, which was launched last year by Supervisor Dave Cortese in response to the United States' withdrawal from the Paris Climate Agreement. Santa Clara County was the first county in the nation to adopt a resolution to continue the efforts locally and to recruit other counties to sign on to the commitment. It was approved unanimously by the Board of Supervisors.

"We wanted to let the world know that Santa Clara County and Silicon Valley have a long-term commitment to sustaining our environment and we have successfully enlisted other counties to join us," said Supervisor Cortese. "Having the support of the Sierra Club will help us step-up our efforts."

Gladwyn D'Souza, Chair of the Sierra Club's Climate Action Team, wrote: "Your efforts to guide the County towards making significant, measurable and sustainable greenhouse gas emissions reductions are to be commended. In the current national discord, where climate science is often being undermined, your leadership is greatly appreciated."

Visit <https://www.sccgov.org/SITES/OSP/Pages/osp.aspx> to learn more about the County's sustainability efforts and visit <https://www.sccgov.org/sites/d3/climate-initiatives/Pages/climate-coalition.aspx> to find out more about the County Climate Coalition. California Lottery sales boom, schools not seeing more funds

ASSOCIATED PRESS

An investigation finds contributions to California schools from the state lottery are unchanged from 12 years ago, despite revenues that have soared in recent years thanks to enormous jackpots.

KPCC-FM reported June 19 that rule changes implemented by state lawmakers eight years ago eliminated the requirement that 34 cents of every lottery dollar go to education. The idea was to free up the California Lottery to sweeten jackpots in the hope that while the percentage going to schools would dip, the extra ticket sales would push the dollar amount higher.

But the changes mean it takes longer to reach the same level of support. These days the contribution is just 23 cents. Lottery spokesman Russ Lopez told the news station that the strategy to maximize sales to boost revenue is working.

New role gives mayor national visibility

SUBMITTED BY ALICE KIM

During their annual conference in Boston, members of the United States Conference of Mayors elected San Leandro Mayor Pauline Russo Cutter to the group’s advisory board.

The influential role will help Cutter increase San Leandro’s visibility on the national stage. “I am excited to serve in my new capacity on the USCM’s Advisory Committee, which I view as an opportunity for San Leandro,” Cutter said. “The position and visibility allows our voice to be heard at the national level in advocating for expanded federal funding and grant opportunities.”

The theme of the conference was “Infrastructure, Innovation and Inclusion,” which provided an opportunity for Cutter to collaborate with her counterparts from other cities to advocate before a national audience on behalf of the shared needs of cities.

Mayor Pauline Russo

“I look forward to continuing to work with my colleagues in our coalition, building momentum for future business and economic development opportunities in our respective cities, and advocating for San Leandro’s needs,” Cutter said.

The Advisory Board functions in an advisory capacity to the USCM Executive Committee on all matters of policy and program. Cutter serves with fellow mayors joining the advisory board, including: Hillary Schieve, Reno, Nevada; Sharon Broome, Baton Rouge, Louisiana; Hardie Davis, Augusta, Georgia; Gary Soiseth, Turlock, California; Mark Mitchell, Tempe, Arizona and Francis X. California counties see higher turnout under new vote model

By SOPHIA BOLLAG
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Election officials in five California counties that mailed ballots to every voter for this month’s primary said the new model appears to have boosted turnout.

Counties were still counting ballots from the June 5 primary, so turnout numbers were preliminary. But the tally done so far in the counties using the new model — Sacramento, Nevada, San Mateo, Madera and Napa — shows turnout on track to exceed or meet voter numbers in the last midterm primary.

In Sacramento County, the largest of the five, turnout among registered voters was on pace to surpass 40 percent, up from just below 30 percent in 2014.

In Napa County, turnout appeared to be at least 47 percent, up from 39 percent in 2014. San Mateo and Nevada counties do not have updated numbers available on their websites, but officials said the rollout went smoothly and that early results are promising. Madera County could not be reached for comment.

It’s too early to make a direct comparison to statewide turnout. It’s surpassed 32 percent, but up to 1.2 million ballots still need to be counted. It’s also too soon to fully assess how the new model, enacted under a 2016 law called the Voters Choice Act, affected turnout, said Mindy Romero, who studies elections and voting at the University of California, Davis.

Numerous other factors could have boosted it, including more competitive races and public outreach from counties about the new model. The 2014 midterm ballot, for example, had no U.S. Senate contest.

The five counties chose to switch to the all-mail ballot model this year, and others have the option to use it moving forward.

Many say the changes make voting easier because people can return their ballots by mail or drop them in boxes located throughout the counties. They also can cast their ballot at any voting center in their county instead of having to vote at the polling place in their neighborhood. Officials said the rollout went smoothly, and the same model will be used in November.

Greg Diaz, Nevada County’s top election official, said it takes several election cycles for voter behavior to change and that the law’s effects will only become clear in two to three cycles. He noted that the number of provisional ballots fell from thousands in 2014 to less than 100 this election.

When a person’s voter eligibility can’t immediately be determined, such as when they show up at the wrong polling place, they must cast a provisional ballot that takes longer to process than a regular ballot.

For the November election, Diaz said he plans to add better signs, install more drop boxes at popular locations and collect ballots from the boxes more frequently.

Alice Jarboe, Sacramento County’s interim registrar, described the rollout as “fantastic,” adding that “we saw a crazy wonderful amount of ballots being returned at a vote center or at a drop box.”

“Voting by mail is the wave of the future,” said Mark Church, San Mateo’s chief elections officer. “The counties that implemented the Voters Choice Act in this election will help to determine the future course of elections throughout the state.”

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JUNE 27 – JULY3, 2018

For All Signs: The Full Moon in Capricorn occurs on Thursday, June 26. It is surrounded by difficult aspects. There likely will be impediments to forward motion during this week. The challenges are related to some situation that was not well grounded in the first place. The general attitude is likely to be negative.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): This looks like a week in which you really want to say your piece, but you have a sense that would be a bad idea. Agreed. Your ruling planet, Mars, is retrograde. If someone ‘attacks’ you, then you may safely defend yourself. But if you want snipe at anyone else, you’d best keep it to yourself for now.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Your mind is restless and easily bored this week, so find a variety of interesting things to read. You are feeling independent and you may want more alone time than is the norm. Sometimes we just need to see different surroundings. If you have these symptoms, try a brief weekend trip. Ground your energy in your body to avoid the jitters.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): A surprise may alter your plans and turn your cart upside down for a time. Don’t waste time and energy trying to keep things the same. Interruptions cannot be avoided, so do your best to go with the flow.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): The Full Moon (see lead paragraph) is particularly favorable for a conversation with partners. It is a no-nonsense, ‘put your cards on the table,’ type of candor that can help each of you see the other’s point of view. Partner may have a negative attitude, but it is up to you to enlighten him or her.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): Issues among people in the workplace may be prominent now. This is the time to seek out win-win solutions for anyone involved. If you have been focused on a physical self-improvement program in recent months, now is the time for display of the outcome. You will be rewarded with what you deserve.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Negative attitudes or habit patterns of thought may be your undoing this week. Reach beyond them, question your mind, look for a meditative place that gives answers to serious questions and encouragement from your source. Avoid signing contracts at this time because it is possible your thinking is skewed.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Your activities this week may be limited to things which you feel you must do, whether or not you want to do them. Requirements call. You also have a responsibility to care for your body. If it is unhappy enough, it may prevent you from going forward. Take good care of yourself this week.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Activities involving travel, legal interests, the internet, or education are put on hold temporarily. It is hard to get answers to your questions. Although this is frustrating, you will not make anything better by making demands. Your vehicle may interfere with your normal forward motion.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): You do not have new aspects this week, so this is a good time to give yourself a breather. It is also favorable for self-reflection. This kind of thing requires time. Don’t let the demands or wants of others rob you of this quiet, restorative time.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): It would be all too easy to carry around a dark and critical attitude this week. Don’t lash out with blame unless you have examined yourself for your contribution to the problem. It is important to respect the Other, whether you agree or not. Keep your mind open to the possibility of a rational and frank discussion of the facts.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): This is not your smoothest week. For every step forward, you may be taking two or more steps in reverse. Don’t raise your blood pressure by fighting it. Allow yourself to go with the flow. On an unconscious level, you may be needing all this interference.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): You may be recognizing an illusion you have had about yourself and your direction. This may be disappointing, but you need to see it. Monitor your inner critic this week. It may be serving up a plate of neurotic guilt to interfere with your attitude. You are not better or worse than anyone else.

Can't decide on rustic or modern decor? Use both

BY ANNA JACOBY

If you've been paying attention, you have probably noticed an immensely popular design trend called 'Rustic Modern' all around us. It involves combining clean, modern lines with more rustic, earthy, organic elements. What do I mean by rustic elements? Examples are reclaimed wood beams, or distressed wood floors, or chunky, hand-crafted furniture. In my mind, rustic means it's got some history to it; maybe the item is handed down from grandparents, or repurposed from an old building, or, as happens today, a brand-new item is made to look old. While I love modern spaces, with their minimalistic decor and smooth, simple lines, sometimes they can appear sterile and unwelcoming. Adding rustic elements helps make modern decor look more friendly and approachable.

In my daughter's apartment, she combined a hand-me-down oak dining table with contemporary white and chrome dining chairs. A client of mine when planning your own interior design projects:

For cabinetry, keep perimeter cabinets clean-lined and modern—perhaps Shaker style, or slab-front doors and drawers—but give your island some character by making out of knotty alder, or distressed oak.

If your house has exposed beams, consider wrapping them in reclaimed wood planks. Keep the walls smooth and simple but repeat the distressed look with wood floors.

Mix textures by topping a rustic bath vanity or kitchen island with polished, refined quartz or granite countertop. Use shiny chrome fixtures. Or, try the reverse—rustic bronze fixtures on a crisp white countertop and modern cabinetry.

Use a farmhouse sink in an otherwise contemporary kitchen.

Select unique and interesting light fixtures. There are so many to choose from nowadays; In a dining room, install a very modern fixture above a farmhouse trestle table. Or how about wall-mounted lantern lights in a contemporary living room? Note the pendant lights and barstools in the kitchen photo; the bronze iron trim and old-looking Edison light bulb, along with the reclaimed wood on the stools, provide rustic elements to an otherwise contemporary kitchen.

Use wood planks, or even bricks or stone, on a wall to create an amazing focal point in a room. How about installing wood plank porcelain tiles in a shower?

I don't see this trend leaving us anytime soon, but, in my opinion, as with all interior design, subtle and understated is much better than being hit over the head with it. In general, aim to keep things simple, by incorporating just a few rustic elements into your contemporary decor, or vice versa. Doing too much of one thing can quickly take a room from elegant to over-the-top. Adopting a 'less is more' philosophy is usually your best bet.

paired a burl wood coffee table, kept for sentimental reasons, with a mid-century modern sofa. The result is a room filled with warmth and personality, as well as a sense of history.

This design trend is really about contrasting textures—think rough and smooth, honed and polished, rustic and refined. Consider these suggestions

Halal Fest

What is halal? “Halal” means “permissible” in Arabic and refers to the dietary law of Islam, which practicing Devon Bank, Main Street Burgers, and Islamic Relief will also be giving away great prizes at this year’s Halal Food Festival.

We invite everyone to come and enjoy the festival with their families, try out some new and delicious ethnic foods while making new friends and learning about different cultures at the same time.
Admission to Halal Fest is only $7 for general admission. There are also VIP passes available for $25, $30, and $40, which includes carnival ride tickets and food tokens for food vendors. Children 10 years and younger get free admission into the festival. Parking is also free. Tickets can be bought online at tix.HalalFest.com.
For more information, visit <http://halalfest.com/> or call (510) 974-3378.

Muslims follow. Similar to kosher food for Jews, halal food avoids anything derived from swine flesh (pork, bacon, lard, gelatin, etc.) as well as alcohol (beer, wine, etc.). Animals which are considered lawful to consume for Muslims include halal chicken, beef, lamb, goat, turkey, deer, and seafood. In order for the meat to be considered “halal” the animal must be slaughtered in a specific way and the name of God must be mentioned at the time of slaughtering the animal by a Muslim. Of course, there are different interpretations of what is considered halal and what is not, but the main goal is to keep away from those items which God has instructed us to avoid for better health and a longer life. Usually, but not always, animals used for halal meat are fed natural grains, grass or corn and are not injected with any hormones or harmful chemicals.
“I love exploring different cultures, and my favorite way to do it is through food! Halal Fest is the perfect chance for fun food explorations for people of all faiths,” says Abbas Mohamed, one of the main organizers of Halal Fest 2018. “Since it has been so popular these past few years, we have extended hours to accommodate more attendees from noon to 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, with an evening music program,” Mohamed added.
There will also be a special entertainment session on Saturday night featuring an ensemble of American jazz, Moroccan, and African musicians from around the Bay Area, as well as a showcase of reggae & hip-hop performer Ummissa (Los Angeles), and American Muslim hip-hop artists Alia Sharrief (Oakland) and Brother Ali (Minnesota).

A large bazaar featuring vendors selling a wide variety of items such as clothing, jewelry, gifts, toys, and artwork from around the world will be onsite, as well as carnival rides and games the whole family can enjoy!
The Grand Sponsors of Halal Fest, Turkish Airlines, will be giving away two free airline tickets to anywhere in the Middle East. Event sponsors Yelp,

County approves first-time homebuyer assistance

SUBMITTED BY BRUCE HERMAN

The County of Santa Clara Board of Supervisors unanimously approved $25 million of 2016 Measure A Affordable Housing Bond funds (Measure A) to finance a new, first-time homebuyer down payment loan program. Through a partnership between the County’s Office of Supportive Housing and Housing Trust Silicon Valley (that will administer the program) the funds will assist approximately 250 households over the first five years of the program by providing deferred loans for down payments of up to 17% of a home’s purchase price.

In November 2016, Santa Clara County voters approved Measure A, a $950 million affordable housing general obligation bond. A portion of those assets were earmarked to fund a loan program for first-time homebuyers with incomes not exceeding 120% of the Area Median Income (AMI).

“As part of our overall strategy to expand affordable housing options in the county, this loan program gives us the opportunity to offer many first-time home buyers a financially viable way to fulfill their dream of homeownership,” said County of Santa Clara Supervisor Mike Wasserman, Vice Chair of the Board’s Housing, Land Use, Environment and Transportation Committee.

As the number of loan assistance programs have declined over the past eight years, many potential first-time homebuyers have either postponed purchasing a home or chosen to relocate to find more affordable housing options.

“Affordable housing has been one of Santa Clara County’s biggest challenges for several years now, and it seems to get worse every month. The first-time homebuyer assistance program will give many residents an opportunity that would otherwise be out of reach. Our people are Santa Clara County’s most valuable asset, and this program will help ensure that the County remains the vibrant, welcoming place to live that we all love,” said County of Santa Clara Supervisor Ken Yeager.

The County’s down payment loan program does not require monthly principal or interest payments. Borrowers will repay the principal loan amount plus a share of the appreciation based on the percentage of the loan borrowed. Payment is deferred until the Maturity Date is reached, sale of the home, or refinancing of the first mortgage.

“Housing Trust is a natural fit to administer the County’s program,” said Kevin Zwick, CEO of Housing Trust Silicon Valley. “We have over 18 years of lending experience to over 2,500 homebuyers. We’re glad to be in a position to assist the County of Santa Clara with this Measure A initiative.”

For information regarding the county-wide first-time homebuyer program, call Housing Trust Silicon Valley at (408) 436-3450, ext. 234.

Opportunity Academy Charter has first graduation

SUBMITTED BY
ALAMEDA COUNTY OFFICE OF EDUCATION

A record numbers of graduates donned caps and gowns for high school commencement at the Alameda County Office of Education recently, as students who have been served directly by ACOE’s Student Programs and Services participated in the Spring graduation ceremony. A combined total of 113 graduates of the Class of 2018 participated in ceremonies in the ACOE Courtyard on Wednesday, June 20 and Friday, June 22.

On Friday evening, ACOE proudly presented its first graduating class from the Opportunity Academy Charter. Opportunity Academy, ACOE’s first county-run charter, serves students ages 16 and older who have previously separated from school or have been unsuccessful in school. These are students who desire a high school diploma and can benefit from support with employment readiness and job search skills.

Opportunity Academy uses a personalized approach to learning, where each student embarks on an individualized plan for graduation.

Opening its doors in September 2017 with one teacher, Opportunity Academy has plans to launch a pilot high school for adult learners. The school has quickly grown and currently has 90 students, 80% of whom are over 18. Currently, the school has a waiting list and a growing staff that now includes three teachers. More than 60 students at Opportunity Academy have completed graduation credits and participated in the commencement.

“The rapid growth of Opportunity Academy, which targets students in need of options within the public school system, is gratifying and is the result of the hard work and commitment of ACOE staff and our partner, the Youth Empowerment Program (YEP),” said L. Karen Monroe, County Superintendent of Schools. “We are proud of this new group of graduates along with all of our ACOE graduates. These students continue to be an inspiration to all of us who believe great things happen when you don’t give up.”

Organize your neighborhood for National Night Out

SUBMITTED BY TIM JONES

Join the Newark Police Department staff along with RAVEN Volunteers, CHP, Paramedics Plus, CERT, Alameda County Fire, neighborhood groups, and City leaders in celebrating the 35th annual National Night Out on Tuesday, August 7, 2018, from 6:00 - 9:00 p.m.

The typical way to participate in National Night Out is to organize a block or neighborhood party. National Night Out provides the opportunity for neighbors to get to know each other a little better and sends a strong message to criminals that our community will look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity in their neighborhood. Individuals can participate by turning on their porch light to support taking a stand against criminal activity. Throughout the night, public safety personnel will make visits to the parties, neighborhoods and get-togethers where they will share information, network, and answer questions that community members may have.

If you are planning to host a party, please register your event with the Newark Police Department by visiting: <https://city-ofnewark.wufoo.com/forms/pmlp52v0neh49h/> or visit the City Of Newark web page and enter “National Night Out” in the search box: <http://www.newark.org/>

If you have questions about National Night Out in Newark, please call the Community Engagement Unit at 510-578-4209 or email at tim.jones@newark.org.

Also, Newark residents will have the opportunity to bring up to four banker sized boxes to a free shredding event hosted by the Newark Police Department and the Community Engagement Team on August 4th, 2018, from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m., curbside at 37101 Newark Boulevard (City Administration Building). The event is only open to Newark, California residents; identification and verification of residency is mandatory to participate.

Water Park Fun!

Water parks are great fun in the summertime. Thrilling, twisty water slides, relaxing lazy rivers and spraying fountains that drench you in cool water make for the perfect place to spend a summer vacation day.

But you need to be careful so you don't get too much sun! Too much sun can cause a painful burn and even increase your chances of skin cancer.

Make Your Own Water Park

If you can't make it to a water park, try making your own water playground in your back yard or at a local park. Here are some ideas!

Juggle or toss water balloons.

Create a squirt gun shower. Squirt water out of the gun and over your head and see if you can turn around two times before the water hits the ground.

Make a water blob. Use two thick sheets of plastic sheeting and a roll of duck tape to make a giant sack to fill with water. Roll around and slide on your water blob!

Play baseball and/or basketball with water balloons instead of balls!

Play a water balloon head catch game by taping a plastic mixing bowl to the top of a bike or batting helmet. One person throws the balloon and the other one tries to catch it in the bowl. Lots of splashes guaranteed!

Always remember to collect broken water balloons at the end of your game and put them in the trash.

Fireworks are banned in Fremont

Fremont’s public safety departments would like to remind Fremont residents, businesses and visitors that the sale, possession, and use of all fireworks are banned within the City of Fremont. This ban includes the “safe and sane” variety of fireworks that are legal in some other cities. The ban, in effect since December 1986, has helped reduce the number of injuries, wildland fires, and structure fires caused by fireworks in the city of Fremont.

Fire and Police resources will be on patrol in Fremont during the peak times of concern to maintain an active vigilance against fireworks use.

In California, possession of illegal fireworks is considered a misdemeanor, which is punishable by a fine of not less than $500 or more than $1,000, or by imprisonment in a county jail for up to one year. If you are found to be in possession of a sufficient amount of illegal fireworks, you may be guilty of a felony and punished by a fine up to $5,000 and/or imprisonment in a state prison or county jail. Parents may be held liable for any damages or injuries caused by their children’s use of illegal fireworks.

To report illegal fireworks use, call the Fremont Police Department Dispatch Center at 510-790-6800 and select option 3.

Please be extremely careful during the Fourth of July holiday season and throughout the summer months with all outdoor activities. The abundance of dry grass and brush in the area has created an extremely dangerous fire condition.

Start organizing your neighborhood to participate in the 35th Annual National Night Out on Tuesday, August 7, 2018, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Join Fremont Police staff along with community organizations, neighborhood groups, and City leaders in celebrating the 35th Annual National Night Out.

The typical way to participate in National Night Out is to organize a block or neighborhood party. Many will organize barbecues or ice cream socials where neighbors share good food, laughter, and updates on what is happening in the neighborhood. National Night Out provides the opportunity for neighbors to get to know each other a little better and sends a strong message to criminals that our community will look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity in their neighborhood. Throughout the night, City staff will make visits to the registered parties where they will share information, network, and answer questions that community members may have.

Registration is now open for Fremont community members to register their parties to participate in this year’s event. Register your event with the Fremont Police Department at www.FremontPolice.org/NNO Registration. The registration deadline is 5 p.m. on July 27, 2018, to be considered for a visit by the Police or Fire Department. Our goal is to provide each party with one visit from City staff; however, it will be dependent upon the number of parties and staff who sign up to participate.

Requests for a visit from the Fire Department must be made separately. First register your party and then contact Pam Franklin at pfranklin@fremont.gov.

If you plan to block off your street for your celebration, you will need to obtain a block party permit from the City of Fremont by contacting Barbara Yee-Charlson at 510-494-4561 or byee-charlson@fremont.gov. The deadline to file for a permit is Friday, July 8, 2018. The cost of the permit is $20. More information is available at www.Fremont.gov/SpecialEvent-Permit.

To learn how other communities celebrate National Night Out, visit the National Association of Town Watch online at <https://natw.org>.

If you have questions about National Night Out in Fremont, please call the Fremont Police Department’s Community Engagement Unit at 510-790-6740.

Henna: Body Art

BY JOHNNA M. LAIRD
RACHEL-ANNE PALACIOS

An ancient body art, steeped in cultural traditions, henna has now moved into the mainstream. Henna products can be found on store shelves, henna designs are posted on collaborative sharing websites like Pinterest, and how-to videos appear on YouTube by the dozens.

Just as the ancient ruler Cleopatra used paste made from leaves of the lawsonia inermis plant that grows wild in hot, arid and drought-stricken countries to adorn her body, middle school students wear henna wristlets, made from the same plant and painted on during school festivals.

No longer is henna reserved for ceremonial occasions. Women host home henna parties for friends to socialize, and decorate hands and feet with intricate, cherry-brown designs made from the natural herb.

Henna artist Ravinder Kattaura of Fremont remembers summers growing up in India where lawsonia inermis plants grow wild, reaching heights of eight feet tall.

She and her friends plucked leaves then spent afternoons grinding them into a powder. Evenings they made paste from the powdered leaves and painted each other's hands and feet, telling stories. "There were no video games. No iPads. We did this for fun," recalls Kattaura.

Not until college did henna or mehndi – the traditional body art from ancient India – captivate Kattaura. She was asked to model for a henna exhibition by a professional artist. "I was totally mesmerized," Kattaura recalls. She sat motionless, her hand transformed with painted curves, twists, and intricate lines of design. "I had scribbled [with henna] as a child," she says. "This was organized into a beautiful pattern."

From the experience Kattaura knew she wanted to master the artistry of henna. She asked the artist to teach her to make the tiny, sharp-pointed cones that artists use to deliver colored paste onto the skin.

Kattaura's enthusiasm was met with disapproval from her father, and she practiced in secret until she arrived in the United States.

Here henna became a source of income to fund a master's degree and the education she needed to become a software engineer in Silicon Valley. Beyond her day job, she worked part time in the evenings to pay for tuition and books. Initially, she reached out to the Indian community in the Bay Area 30 years ago when she began because henna had not become widely popular in the western world. She was invited to fairs and Indian community gatherings.

Even as she worked as a software engineer in Silicon Valley for 20 years, Kattaura continued her artistry, working once or twice a week in the evenings, primarily for brides and bridal showers. "It was my way of unwinding. Some people go to the gym or to the movies. I paint a bride and get paid for it," she explains.

The designs she creates are primarily her own since she developed her skills prior to the Internet and henna classes. "I had no reference points from which to learn. As I practiced, I got better," she says. She has painted the Golden Gate Bridge for a bride who wanted to honor where she and husband met. She has painted Seattle's skyline with the Space Needle and Mount Rainier. To honor a groom, both a football player and medical doctor, Kattaura designed a stethoscope on one hand of the bride and a football on the other, amid an intricate design.

Henna artists today have the opportunity to learn formally, says Kattaura, who is in demand at conferences to teach and demonstrate.

Oakland professional artist Rachel-Anne Palacios, a practitioner with Latin-American roots, has worked as a henna artist for 17 years as well as an instructor. She has taken henna into the Alameda County Public Library system, conducting workshops for seven years, mostly for tweens, teens, and mothers and daughter who fill demonstration classes to capacity.

"Henna is an easy, beautiful and temporary form of art to have on one's body. It reminds a person of a special experience in their life," says Palacios. "It is definitely a conversation piece and a way of feeling blessed, sacred, and sensual."

Her interest in henna sparked in the 1990s when Gwen Stefani and Madonna adorned their bodies with henna. Palacios sought out experiences in Berkeley from a henna artist who painted an Arabic design on Palacios' back. "The rest is history," says Palacios, who pursued henna artists and learned to make her own paste. From the budding Internet and books, she became a self-taught artist. For seven years, Palacios practiced on herself and anyone who would hire her, mimicking designs and creating her own. She then acquired a business license and began to advertise.

As an artist, she enjoys most the traditional, cultural experience when henna is used for Indian weddings or bridal showers, events that require a bride to sit for hours. "I learn a lot about customs and process from people who are adding me into their traditional celebration," she says.

Palacios has recently responded to more unusual requests. She adorned a deceased person's body to aid "their journey into the afterlife," honoring a Kenyan tradition. "I have also created henna on one woman who was on her last days," says Palacios, creating an Aztec crown on the woman's head with traditional indigenous Mexican designs on her hands. A cancer patient, the woman wanted her hands and head adorned for her funeral.

While henna is most often associated with India, Africa, and the Middle East, indigenous people in parts of Mexico, Central America, and South America practice body decoration using unripe Jagua fruit. Palacios is fascinated by how ancient the henna art is. When she traveled to Europe in 2001, she found henna on the fingertips of mummies at the Louvre. It is said that henna dates back at least 5,000 years.

Henna can remain on the skin from seven to 30 days generally, but Palacios suggests using a mixture of lemon juice and sugar mixture to develop the color. Water on the skin should be avoided for 12 to 24 hours, and coconut oil should be applied before each washing to help color last.

For anyone considering henna, Kattaura says stay away from chemical henna that can contain harmful substances. While henna is generally deemed safe, Palacios says that people with sensitivities to citrus or some essential oils can have a reaction. People with a G6PD deficiency, an inherited condition, should avoid henna.

Clinic focuses on good vision care

SUBMITTED BY TOMASA DUEÑAS

In conjunction with Child Vision Awareness Month, more than 100 children and families in Union City and San Leandro recently received free vision exams and vouchers for glasses. The vision care clinic was sponsored by Assembly member Bill Quirk (D-Hayward), in partnership with the Union City Family Center, the San Lorenzo Unified School District, and VSP.

"I can't stress enough how vital proper vision care is for a child's development," said Quirk. "A child does as much as 80 percent of their learning through the eyes, if their eyes aren't healthy they will have difficulty learning," he added. "What's even more concerning is that without routine eye check-ups, health problems or learning disabilities, such as ADHD, can go undiagnosed."

Quirk's long-standing partnership with the Union City Family Center has helped bring necessary vision care services to the community.

"Assembly member Quirk's continued support has been so critical to the families of the Union City Family Center," said Community Specialist Lourdes Villegas. "Not only have we been able to serve our adult and senior populations with VSP vouchers, but through the Assembly member's partnership, we have been able to connect with Vision to Learn, a non-profit who brings free vision care services to low-income communities," she added. "And by the end of the school year we will have served 538 New Haven Unified School District students thanks to the Assembly member's support," Villegas concluded.

During 2018, Quirk has been able to expand his reach and bring vision care services to the San Lorenzo Unified School District, where more than 60 percent of their students are on free and reduced lunch. "With the Assembly member's support we were able to help 50 San Lorenzo families who greatly needed this service and for that we are truly grateful," said Amy Capurro, Director of Special Services.

Pick a pepper for tasty summer heat

SUBMITTED BY PACIFIC COAST FARMERS' MARKET ASSN

Summer peppers are arriving at your local farmers' market this month—everything from mild and sweet bell peppers to wildly spicy Thai chili peppers. The hot summer months are perfect growing weather for these vegetables and we're glad, because any pepper is a good pepper in our estimation.

A pepper's heat is measured in Scoville Units, a system developed by Wilbur Scoville in 1912. Scoville Units measure a pepper's heat in multiples of 100, with bell peppers at 0 and the habanero at over 300,000 Scoville Units. The substance that makes a pepper hot is called capsaicin and is known for its ability to improve one's health by increasing blood circulation and metabolism.

Need a mild pepper to stuff with rice and mushrooms? Then the bell pepper is the one to look for. They come in a rainbow of colors from the standard green, red, and yellow to orange, white, and even purple, depending on the variety. Green peppers are pleasantly bitter, while the reds and yellows have a lovely sweetness to them. Other mild peppers include the Italian and Marconi varieties which are long narrow peppers, green in color with a mildly sweet flavor. They're good for roasting and for stuffing as well.

Want something with a bit more kick to it? Try the poblano pepper. It has just a touch of heat. Fill with cheese and make some chilis rellenos. Toss on the grill and add to side dishes. Poblanos get fairly large, about five inches long, and are usually sold fresh while they are young and dark green. At their red, mature stage they are usually dried (called ancho chilis).

The spicy little jalapeño pepper is probably the best known hot pepper, widely used for stuffing, adding to salsas, and chopping into dishes that require heat. It is hot and spicy, but not so overwhelming that you'll suffer through it. Harvested at both green and red stages, the jalapeño is spicy but easy to seed and devein if you wish to remove some of the heat. When dried and smoked, it's called a chipotle chili.

Now we get to some seriously hot peppers. From the serrano to the habanero to the Thai chili peppers, these can get so hot that you'll be invoking the gods! Habaneros and serranos add a lot of heat to cooking, so they should be used judiciously. You'll find different colors, ranging from red to white-yellow, and even brown, but orange is the most common. They're great for salsa, hot sauces, or a fiery jerk chicken. Thai peppers add serious amounts of heat to Southeast Asian cuisines. You may find either green or red Thai chilis, but both are very spicy.

Whatever mood you're in, you'll find the right pepper at your farmers' market. These farmers grow what they sell and they bring you only the best, so stop by and collect your peppers for good summer eating!

Fremont race car driver inks F3 Asian Championship deal

CRAIG CONWRIGHT FROM ABSOLUTE RACING BLOG

While Jaden Conwright is just 19-years-old, he's clocked up a lot of mileage to build his amateur and professional car-racing resume. The latest step for the Fremont native was signing a deal with Absolute Racing to be one of its drivers for the inaugural season of Formula 3 Asian Championship certified by the Federation Internationale de l'Automobile (FIA). Conwright is the first confirmed driver for Sepang, Shanghai and Zhuhai based team's single seater program and arrives in Asia with a solid racing background in America and Europe.

"We are delighted to announce Jaden as our first Formula 3 Asian Championship driver" said Absolute Racing Team Director Ingo Matter. "When he tested with our Formula Masters Series car in Shanghai, Jaden's displays and professional approach impressed everyone in the team. With his speed never in doubt, our goal is to provide him with all the necessary tools that he can be able to battle for the top positions in every race."

A 2016 World Speed Motorsports Rising Star Award winner, Conwright also competed in the highly competitive Italian F4 Championship in 2015, scoring five top five finishes and one podium finish. Last season Conwright took part of a Driver Development Program from one of the European single seater powerhouses in preparation for the 2018 season.

Featuring an all-new regional F3-FIA spec Tatuus chassis, powered by a four-cylinder turbocharged Autotecnica Motori Alfa Romeo 1750 TBi engine, the F3 Asian teams will race a package that meets the most current global FIA safety specification, including the first Asian application of a race car Halo.

The 2018 F3 Asian Champion will earn 15 points toward qualification for an FIA Super License, which is equivalent to the DTM, Super GT, FIA WTCR or Indy Lights championships. The second placed driver will get 12 points, followed by 10, 7, 5, 3, 2 and 1 in the order of finishing driver positions.

The inaugural F3 regional Asian championship calendar includes 15 races — three at each of the five rounds — at Malaysia's Sepang International Circuit, and China's Ningbo International Speedway and the Shanghai International Circuit. The season will kick start with an official test on July 9 and 10 in Sepang.

Conwright is pleased to be joining the team. "I can't thank Ingo, Fabien, and the entire Absolute Racing team enough for the wonderful opportunity to compete in the inaugural F3 Asian Championship certified by FIA," Conwright said.

"From the first time that we worked together there was a great synergy and atmosphere, as we all strived for the same goal. Absolute Racing's professionalism allowed me to improve my driving in a very structured and efficient manner. There are a lot of uncertainties with a brand-new championship and a new car, but there's no doubt that Absolute Racing and I will be ready to hit the ground running from day one at Sepang."

Niles-Centerville claims Senior Championship

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

In a championship game on June 18th that appeared beyond the reach of Niles-Centerville Little League (NCLL), a rally in the sixth inning turned the tide for a come-from-behind tie at three runs each. It took 11 innings to determine whether Newark American Little League (NALL) would regain the lead to win or Niles-Centerville could maintain its momentum to surge ahead. Both teams were determined and showed strength at the plate and in the field but were unable to convert scoring opportunities. Finally, in the bottom of the 11th inning, NCLL did and claimed the title.

Congratulations to both teams for a hard-fought contest and to Niles-Centerville Little League for their victory in the 2018 CA District 14 Senior Tournament of Champions.

Independence Day in the Regional Parks

Two of the East Bay Regional Parks plan special events to celebrate the Fourth of July holiday.

Ardenwood Historic Farm in Fremont will stage its annual Independence Day Celebration from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, July 4. It’s a nineteenth-century-style community festival with patriotic music on the Patterson House lawn and fiddle music in the farmyard. There will be games, contests and races all day long, including nail driving, egg toss, bucket brigade, tug-of-war, and the always-popular watermelon seed spitting. Visitors can bring their own picnic or purchase food at the Ardenwood Cafe.

Admission to the event is $10 for adults 18 and over, $8 for seniors 55 and older, $5 for children ages 4 through 17, and free for kids under 4. Parking is free.

Ardenwood is located at 34600 Ardenwood Boulevard, just north of Highway 84. For information, call (510) 544-2797.

Crab Cove Visitor Center in Alameda also plans Fourth of July festivities. First, there will be a Crab Cove contingent in the Alameda hometown parade from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. You can see Crab Cove’s mobile visitor center from the sidewalk along the parade route.

After that, there will be an open house from 2 to 4:30 p.m. July 4 back at Crab Cove, with lots of family friendly activities through the afternoon. The visitor center will not be open until 1 p.m., due to the parade. Crab Cove is at the end of McKay Avenue off Alameda’s Central Avenue. For information, call (510) 544-3187.

In general, all the regional parks will be open on July 4, with picnic tables available on a first come, first served basis. If you plan a picnic, it’s best to arrive early, especially at regional parks with swim beaches. Independence Day is one of the more popular and crowded times in the parklands. By the way, no fireworks! All fireworks are illegal in the regional parks.

There’s a lot going on in the regional parks during the days preceding July 4 as well. Here’s a partial list:

Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont has Discovery Days from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday. It’s a drop-in program at the visitor center. You can come at 10:30 a.m. for an introduction to the topic of the week, or, stop by any time for hands-on nature exploration and crafts.

There are also tours of the park’s restored Ohlone Indian village from 10 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Sundays, July 1, 22, and Aug. 26, and from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on July 14 and Aug. 4. It’s a half-mile walk through a marsh to the 2,000-year-old site. Coyote Hills is at the end of Patterson Ranch Road off Paseo Padre Parkway. There’s a parking fee of $5 per vehicle. For information, call (510) 544-3220.

At Tilden Nature Area near Berkeley, it’s ‘Talk With the Animals’ time from 11:00 to 11:30 a.m. every Sunday in July and August. Meet a different live animal each week at the Tilden Little Farm.

Naturalist Trent Pearce will feature snakes and turtles in a program from noon to 1 p.m. on Sunday, July 1 at Tilden’s Environmental Education Center. Trent also plans one of his spider safaris from 3 to 4:30 p.m. on Sunday, July 1, starting at Tilden’s Vollmer Peak trailhead near the Steam Train off Grizzly Peak Boulevard.

The Little Farm and Center are at the north end of Tilden’s Central Park Drive. For information on all three programs, call (510) 544-2233.

At Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve in Antioch, naturalist Eddie Willis will lead a ‘Beat the Heat’ hike from 8:30 to 10 a.m. on Sunday, July 1. The group will hike on steep trails through woodlands and chaparral, then cool off near one of the mine openings.

Meet Eddie at Black Diamond’s uppermost parking lot at the end of Somersville Road, 3.5 miles south of Highway 4.

Black Diamond has a parking fee of $5 per vehicle when the kiosk is staffed. Call (888) 327-2757, ext. 2750 for information.

‘Delta Discoveries’ is the theme of an ongoing program from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday at Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley. Kids or families with kids can learn about the Delta wetlands through nature-themed art and craft activities.

Big Break is at 69 Big Break Road off Oakley’s Main Street (Highway 4). For information, call (888) 327-2757, ext. 3050.

There are lots of other programs available in the regional parks. Check out the website at www.ebparks.org. However you spend it, have a safe and happy Independence Day.

Swim team earns Scholar All-America honors

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY

For the eighth consecutive academic year, the Cal State East Bay (CSUEB) swim team has earned the distinction of Spring Scholar All-America team from the College Swimming and Diving Coaches Association of America (CSCAA), the organization announced June 19, 2018. CSUEB is one 73 women’s programs in Division II to earn the award, which recognizes swim and dive teams that achieved at least at 3.0 grade point average for the 2018 Spring semester.

The Pioneers have captured the honor every year since becoming an official member of Division II in 2010. For institutions on quarter systems like CSUEB, the Spring award reflects academic performance during the Winter quarter. East Bay posted a 3.38 grade point average for Winter, second-highest among Pacific Collegiate Swim Conference schools. The team followed that up with a 3.56 GPA for the recently completed Spring Quarter, which is the highest in the modern era of Pioneer swimming.

The Pioneers also enjoyed an extremely successful 2017-18 season in the pool, placing third at PCSC championships and notching their highest national finish in program history by taking 13th place at NCAA Division II Championships.

OPINION

WILLIAM MARSHAK

To preserve or not preserve, that is the question

On occasion, I watch Antiques Roadshow and marvel at the value placed on some items, especially paintings of deceased artists. Individual preferences may vary and, therefore, the importance attached to a diverse range artwork is based upon how these items are perceived by society and collectors in an historical, artistic and singular context. The value of preserving a variety of styles and genres for present and future generations to view and appreciate is incalculable.

Debate over acknowledgement and protection of historic buildings can be a delicate issue. Some may consider older buildings an architectural resource while others dismiss them as eyesores. Just as the value of art is in the eye of the beholder, so too are structures of yesteryear. The difference between preservation and demolition is that in one instance – preservation – today's attitudes and opinions may shift to another viewpoint in the future, but once an item or structure is demolished, true replication is often difficult and financially untenable.

As our cities grow and demand space for new housing and infrastructure, the tendency to disregard remnants of the past may overwhelm thoughts of preservation and even demand it. Controversy in Fremont over residences such as the Pop Gould House in Centerville and the current furor over possible demolition of Cloverleaf Bowl for a mixed development, pit profit and housing pressures against iconic historic images. While some notable structures and operations such as Ardenwood Historic Farm, Patterson House, Vallejo and Shinn House have been preserved, there are fewer and fewer possibilities left to consider.

In recognition of this conflict of interest, historic registers, monuments and preserves have been created at local, state and national levels. In Fremont, an additional layer of protection of the Historical Architectural Review Board (HARB) is tasked with the responsibility of advising the city about "architectural design, landscaping, and signs for historic resources and buildings other than single-family dwellings within historic districts."

To preserve or demolish is not an isolated conundrum, rather a regional, state and national debate. At the national level, the National Park Service administers a National Register of Historic Places that identifies "districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects significant in American history, architecture, archeology, engineering, and culture. National Register properties have significance to the history of their community state, or the nation." Although the registry places no restrictions on non-federal owned property unless receiving Federal assistance, it does provide notice to state and local officials of its importance.

The State of California also has a register of historic resources administered by the California Office of Historic Preservation. This program recognizes and urges protection of architectural, historical, archeological and cultural resources through grants and the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) [May 29, 2018 Editorial: Do you see what I CEQA?]. Protection of historic assets must be, however, balanced with property owner rights; it is up to local authorities to determine which way the scales tilt when deciding between them. The four criteria for a listing with the California register is a good guide to a rational conversation about preservation:

- Associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of local or regional history or the cultural heritage of California or the United States (Criterion 1).

- Associated with the lives of persons important to local, California or national history (Criterion 2).

- Embodies the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, region or method of construction or represents the work of a master or possesses high artistic values (Criterion 3).

- Has yielded, or has the potential to yield, information important to the prehistory or history of the local area, California or the nation (Criterion 4).

The roots of our identity as a nation, state, community, family and individual come from recognition of not only who we are now, but our heritage as well. Erasure of a tangible part of historical artifacts is a major decision that should be carefully weighed to consider the rights of all involved and preserve our history. If demolition is favored, alternatives might include preserving facades, tangible artifacts, documents and media that chronicle our shared heritage.

No matter which scripture guides you, a common commandment is to "honor thy father and thy mother." In my mind, this should be expanded from immediate family; to preserve the best thoughts and deeds of all those that preceded us.

Obituary

Marguerite Annemarie Gerling

August 6, 1922 - June 12, 2018

Resident of Fremont

Marguerite (Peggy) Gerling, age 95, a longtime resident of Fremont, CA was welcomed into heaven in the early morning hours of Monday, June 12, 2018 of natural causes.

Peggy was born and raised in Davenport, Iowa in 1922. Peggy was the loving wife of Merle E. Gerling until his passing in 2008. She is survived by her sister, Jan Thorstenson, two daughters Kathy Dexter of San Jose and Pamela Endsley of Aptos, son-in-law Robert Dexter, three grandchildren Bradley Dexter, Brooke Endsley, and Shane Endsley, and three great grandchildren.

Peggy moved from the mid-west at a young age to proudly serve in the WAVES during WWII; stationed in San Diego, California. In 1963 Peggy and Merle moved the family to California when Merle accepted a position at Lockheed Martin in Sunnyvale. Soon thereafter, they bought a newly-built home in Fremont where Peggy lived for 55 years. Peggy worked at and retired from the City of Fremont Police Station where she worked as a receptionist.

The family still chuckles when reminiscing about her strong, independent; often stubborn spirit. Contrary to family attempts to dissuade her, Peggy was studying to take the written test to renew her driver's license at the age of 93. A fall causing a hip fracture would interrupt those plans.

There will be a family memorial for Peggy at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Monterey Bay Horsemanship & Therapeutic Center (MBHTC) an organization providing therapeutic horse riding for special-needs individuals at P.O. Box 742, Soquel, CA 95073. For more information: <http://www.gombhtc.org/>

Wieckowski
accessory dwelling unit
bill advances

SUBMITTED BY
JEFF BARBOSA

State Senator Bob Wieckowski's (D-Fremont) bill to make it easier for homeowners to construct accessory dwelling units (ADUs) to help address California's housing crisis passed the Assembly Housing and Community Development on June 20, 2018.

SB 831 contains several elements to make construction easier, including prohibiting owner-occupancy requirements, and exempting ADUs from lot coverage ratio calculations. It also creates an amnesty program that would ease the process of approving a pre-existing unpermitted ADU.

"Local jurisdictions have pushed these units into the shadows and SB 831 will provide homeowners with a pathway to get their pre-existing unit approved and up to code, so we know they meet health and safety codes," said Wieckowski, a member of the Senate's Transportation and Housing Committee. "I am committed to my on-going efforts to reduce prohibitive and exorbitant fees set up by local entities."

A recent study published by the American Planning Association estimated that there are 300,000

unpermitted ADUs in the greater Los Angeles area alone. "We believe that ADUs are a great tool to help with our housing crisis," said Vianey Nava, Accessory Dwelling Units Program Manager for Housing Trust Silicon Valley.

SB 831 is supported by the Bay Area Council. "This bill is a local, local, local bill," said Cornelius Burke, the Bay Area Council's senior government relations director. "It gives power back to the homeowner. You can't get any more local than that."

ADUs are affordable, cost less to build, are managed by a homeowner and require no public subsidy. Since Wieckowski's first ADU bill, SB 1069, was approved in 2016, ADU permit applications have increased 63 percent in California. In some areas, such as Santa Barbara, applications increased by as much as 314 percent.

SB 831 will next be heard in the Assembly Local Government Committee.

In addition to the Bay Area Council and Housing Trust Silicon Valley, the bill is supported by AARP, Silicon Valley at Home, Silicon Valley Leadership Group, California YIMBY, California Chamber of Commerce and the Non-profit Housing Association of Northern California, and a variety of other companies, environmental groups and associations.

Senator Wieckowski represents the 10th District, which includes southern Alameda County and Santa Clara County.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Safety first on
Morrison Canyon Road

The Fremont city council has acted to protect local motorists, pedestrians and bicyclists. On June 19, 2018, they voted five to zero to restrict motor vehicles on the middle portion of Morrison Canyon Road. New gates between Ridge Terrace and Vargas Rd will be installed, under the control of 911 dispatch for emergency access.

The single-lane (nine-foot wide), road was designed for horse-drawn wagons, and carved through the steep canyon in the 19th century. For the better part of the last century, locals have been walking on the formerly-peaceful, wooded path. Because the roads are narrow, dangerous and substandard, residents of Vargas Plateau sued EBRPD in 2008. On weekday afternoons, commuters use the road to bypass congestion on city streets. Head-on conflicts are not uncommon. The large-scale development on Vargas Plateau may put additional traffic on the local roads.

Our city is committed to public safety and a clean environment. The Director of Public Works, Hans Larsen, held a community meeting for public input, and spearheaded the safety improvement as part of the Vision Zero initiative. Illegal dumping has affected the creek-side, and the city Department of Environmental Services will remove the trash this summer. The road changes will help to prevent further dumping. We applaud the city staff and city council for their excellent work.

Government's first duty and highest obligation is public safety. —Arnold Schwarzenegger

Report:
Overall cancer rates and deaths decline in Bay Area

SUBMITTED BY DONNA LOCK

The rates of newly diagnosed cancer cases (incidence) and deaths (mortality) decreased significantly over the past 28 years according to the newly released report from the Greater Bay Area Cancer Registry at the Cancer Prevention Institute of California. The report summarizes the current rates for new cancer cases and cancer deaths for the most common cancers in the Greater Bay Area, with an emphasis on the most recent five years (2011-2015) for which data are available.

The Greater Bay Area is one of the most ethnically diverse regions in the country with a total population of approximately 7 million. The Greater Bay Area Cancer Registry, operated by CPIC as part of the California Cancer Registry, collects information according to state law on all newly diagnosed cancers in residents of nine Greater Bay Area counties (Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Monterey, San Benito, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, and Santa Cruz).

From 2011-2015, the annual rate of newly diagnosed cancer cases declined by an average of 15 percent among males and 4.2 percent among females in the Greater Bay Area. During this time, there were 157,159 new cancer cases diagnosed in the Greater Bay Area. In 2015 alone, 31,361 new cases of cancer were diagnosed. Decreasing incidence of some types of cancers is due in part to greater uptake of cancer screening and improved prevention such as the increase in colorectal cancer screening and the reduction in the number of smokers.

For both males and females, the rates of newly diagnosed cancers declined for several cancer sites including colorectal, lung, bladder, and stomach cancers over the past 10 years alone. Mortality rates also declined for several of the most common cancers over this time including colorectal, lung and stomach cancers. Across racial/ethnic groups, the overall rate of newly diagnosed cancer was highest for black males and white females. Asians/Pacific Islanders had the lowest overall rate of newly diagnosed cancer for both males and females.

Over the most recent five-year period, lung, breast, prostate, colorectal, and pancreatic cancer deaths collectively accounted for 50 percent of all cancer deaths in the Greater Bay Area.

According to Scarlett Lin Gomez, Director of the Greater Bay Area Cancer Registry, "While we continue to observe declining incidence rates across many cancers, the incidence rates of some cancers are increasing among particular racial/ethnic groups. Increased attention needs to be focused on the reasons for these increases, and on directing effective prevention strategies toward these groups."

recommended City Council to relocate and enhance the classroom facility. They installed a modular building with permanent power, landscaping, and new fencing on Central Park grounds behind the Aqua Adventure Waterpark. Curriculum was also expanded to include visits from second grade students. The Nature Learning Center was finally completed, and it was thriving.

While the center's activities and programs were gaining traction, in 2013 they continued to improve the facilities due to a donation from the Thomas F. Faria Living Trust. Faria actively came to Central Park and he wished to fund a project that would provide long-term benefits to the community. Various features were added to the outdoor environment, including a butterfly garden, birdbath, and sun and shade gardens. The modular greenhouse, rehabilitated picnic tables, storage shed, outdoor classroom, and the decorative building sign were other additions that helped the center achieve its purpose.

The goal of the City's Environmental Services Division is to use this center to offer free, engaging field trips to all second and third grade students to learn about watersheds, wetlands, and the effects of litter and pollution on wildlife and the environment. The curriculum also includes information about life cycles and bugs that are beneficial to the environment. One half of the field trip is conducted outdoors, and the other half inside a classroom. "I loved the field trip and learned many new things," said one student, "like how plants are important to the creek's health." Another student commented on an indoor activity: "I liked seeing the microorganisms under the microscope." This structure allows students to experience a diverse set of activities that include both investigative and thought-provoking activities.

Besides field trips, the center also provides additional classroom space to house summer camp programs such as the Junior Ranger Camp, which are conducted during school breaks and summer months. The camp is instructed by the center's Central Park Rangers, who design hands-on activities that encourage environmental safety and appreciation. Participants learn about natural science, local history, ecology, and biodiversity, all in an outdoor explorative environment.

The Nature Learning Center also offers an Open House several times during the year, the only times drop-ins from the public are allowed. During this event, the community can see the garden area and participate in free classes or talks. Upcoming Open Houses will be held September 29, and March 16 and April 27 in 2019, all from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. They are free for the community to enjoy.

This year alone, 70 field trips were conducted reaching out to 1,872 students and 511 adults. Since its initiation in April of 2003, Clean Water Education Field Trips have educated over 28,000 students, teachers, and parents. With activities ranging from water sampling to plant species identification, students get the opportunity to learn various concepts about the environment while exploring the outdoors.

Construction starts on new recycled water system

SUBMITTED BY THE CITY OF HAYWARD

Workers have started turning shovels on a new construction project in Hayward to provide recycled water to a limited number of irrigation and industrial customers within about three miles of the city's Water Pollution Control Facility.

The project will create a new safe and sustainable water source that conserves drinking water supplies. Recycled water is a drought-proof water supply that will improve water-supply reliability while reducing the volume of treated wastewater discharges to San Francisco Bay.

Recycled water meeting all stringent water quality standards for its intended use will be produced at the city's Water Pollution Control Facility on Enterprise Avenue and be distributed to schools, parks and businesses for irrigation and industrial purposes through a new, separate distribution system to be installed over the next 18 months.

Installation of distribution system pipelines, pump station and storage tank will be followed by retrofitting of customer connections to convert irrigation and industrial customers from potable water to recycled water. Recycled water deliveries should begin by the middle of 2020.

Project funding for the nearly $30 million project is being provided through a California Proposition 1 Water Bond grant and a low-interest State Revolving Fund loan.

Initially, the system will extend north of the Water Pollution Control Facility along Cabot Boulevard to West Winton Avenue; south on Whitesell Street to Highway 92; east on Depot Road past Industrial Boulevard; and to the southeast along Industrial Boulevard, branching as far south as Eden Park Place and east across Hesperian Boulevard to Calaroga Avenue.

For a system map, more information on the project and to follow the progress, visit the City of Hayward website at www.hayward-ca.gov, then type “Hayward Recycled Water Project” into the search box and follow the prompts.

CITY OF FREMONT
SUMMARY OF PROPOSED ORDINANCE

Introduced June 19, 2018
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF FREMONT LEVYING SPECIAL TAX WITHIN CITY OF FREMONT COMMUNITY FACILITIES DISTRICT NO. 3 (WARM SPRINGS PUBLIC SERVICES)

On June 19, 2018, the Fremont City Council introduced the above ordinance. The ordinance would levy a property owner approved special tax within City of Fremont Community Facilities District No. 3 (Warm Springs Public Services) (the "CFD") pursuant to the Mello-Roos Community Facilities Act, Chapter 2.5 of Part 1 of Division 2 of Title 5, commencing with Section 53311, of the California Government Code. The special tax would be levied only on lands within the CFD in accordance with the rate and method contained in the resolution of the City Council forming the CFD, commencing in the City's fiscal year 2018-2019. The special tax would be used to pay for municipal services specified in the formation resolution, as well as the City's costs in administering the CFD, and would be collected in the same manner as ordinary ad valorem property taxes.

A certified copy of the full text of the ordinance is posted in the office of the City Clerk, 3300 Capitol Avenue, Fremont, and is available for review upon request. The second reading for adoption is currently scheduled for July 3, 2018, at 7:00 pm, at City Hall, 3300 Capitol Avenue, Fremont.

CITY OF FREMONT
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on July 10, 2018, a public hearing as required by Section 147(f) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 will be held with respect to the proposed issuance by the California Municipal Finance Authority (the "Authority") of its revenue bonds in one or more series in an amount not to exceed $40,000,000, including but not limited to revenue bonds issued as part of a plan to finance the facilities described herein (the "Bonds"). The proceeds of the Bonds will be used to: (1) finance the acquisition, construction, improvement and equipping of a 71-unit affordable rental residential development for lower income households, to be located on an approximately 1.08 acre parcel at the southeast corner of Warm Springs Boulevard and South Grimmer Boulevard (currently 44960 Warm Springs Boulevard) within the City of Fremont, California; and (2) pay certain expenses incurred in connection with the issuance of the Bonds.

The facilities are to be owned and operated by an entity to be created by Eden Housing, Inc. or an affiliate thereof (the "Borrower"). The Bonds, and the obligation to pay principal thereof and interest thereon and any redemption premium with respect thereto, do not constitute indebtedness or an obligation of the City of Fremont, the Authority, the State of California or any political subdivision thereof, within the meaning of any constitutional or statutory debt limitation, or a charge against the general credit or taxing powers of any of them. The Bonds shall be a limited obligation of the Authority, payable solely from certain revenues duly pledged therefor and generally representing amounts paid by the Borrower.

The hearing will commence at 7:00 p.m. or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, and will be held in the City Hall Council Chambers, City of Fremont, 3300 Capitol Avenue, Building A, Fremont, California. Interested persons wishing to express their views on the issuance of the Bonds or on the nature and location of the facilities proposed to be financed may attend the public hearing or, prior to the time of the hearing, submit written comments.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO ADOPT A MITIGATED NEGATIVE DECLARATION

NOTICE OF INTENT TO ADOPT A MITIGATED NEGATIVE DECLARATION - ACWD Kaiser Pond Diversion Pipe Improvement Project. Pursuant to the State of California Public Resources Code and the “Guidelines for Implementation of the California Environmental Quality Act of 1970 as amended to date, this is to advise you that the Alameda County Water District (ACWD) has prepared an Initial Study/Mitigated Negative Declaration (IS/MND) for the Kaiser Pond Diversion Pipe Improvement Project located in Fremont, CA. The proposed project involves: replacement of the existing diversion pipe with a box culvert and erosion repair at the levee bisecting Kaiser Pond. The purpose of the project is to restore hydraulic connectivity between the two segments of Kaiser Pond, enhance groundwater recharge southwest of the Hayward Fault, and prevent further erosion. The IS/MND report describes the proposed project, analyzes whether the project would result in any potential significant environmental impacts, describes measures that would mitigate any potential significant impacts to a less than significant level, and determines that the project, incorporating a number of mitigation measures, will not have a significant adverse effect on the environment. The IS/MND is available for public review at the following locations during business hours: ACWD Headquarters, 43885 South Grimmer Boulevard, Fremont, CA 94538, and Fremont Public Library, 2400 Stevenson Boulevard, Fremont, CA 94538. In addition, the IS/MND is available online at the following link: www.acwd.org under Customers > News & Information > Public Notices. The period for accepting comments on the adequacy of the environmental documents is from June 8, 2018 to 5:00 p.m. July 11, 2018. Any comments must be in writing and be submitted to the following address: Alameda County Water District, 43885 South Grimmer Boulevard, Fremont, CA 94538, attn.: Carlos Sempere, or email address: carlos.sempere@acwd.com. The proposed IS/MND will be considered for adoption by the ACWD Board of Directors at the regularly scheduled board meeting on August 9, 2018, at 6 p.m. at the ACWD office located at 43885 South Grimmer Boulevard, Fremont, CA 94538.

Alameda County has a new electricity provider

SUBMITTED BY MATTHEW EVANS

Commercial and municipal accounts for Alameda County just got a lot greener as East Bay Community Energy (EBCE) has officially launched its clean energy services to accounts within its service area, including the cities of Fremont, Hayward, San Leandro, Union City, Albany, Berkeley, Dublin, Emeryville and portions of unincorporated Alameda County. Residential accounts will be enrolled starting in November.

The commercial launch marks the first of its kind for Alameda County, and EBCE made it official at their Commercial Launch Event hosted at OSIsoft Headquarters in San Leandro on June 7. Speakers at the event included County Supervisor and EBCE Board Chair Scott Haggerty, Emeryville City Council Member and EBCE Board Member Dianne Martinez, NEXTracker CEO Dan Sugar, OSIsoft Founder and CEO Dr. Patrick Kennedy, and EBCE CEO Nick Chaset. The community was also out in support of the special occasion.

As one of the state’s newest Community Choice Energy providers, EBCE is locally governed, and is set to provide higher percentages of renewable and carbon-free energy compared to PG&E at lower rates and invest in energy-related programs within its participating communities.

As part of EBCE’s commitment to Alameda County’s long-term clean energy future, it has taken three significant steps coinciding with its launch. The first is the issuance of a request for proposals for up to 1,000,000 MWh’s of new, California renewable energy projects — enough wind and solar to power the homes of 150,000 Alameda County residents. The second is the release of a draft of EBCE’s Local Development Business Plan, which outlines a series of investments and policies to accelerate local clean energy. The third is EBCE’s receipt of bids for clean energy projects, like solar and storage, as part of the Oakland Clean Energy Initiative, which seeks to replace an old power plant in West Oakland with clean alternatives.

“This really is an exciting time for Alameda County and our 11 partner cities. Our businesses are now powered by clean energy, and we are dedicated to building a sustainable East Bay,” said Nick Chaset, Chief Executive Office of EBCE.

As a not-for-profit government agency, East Bay Community Energy plans to put its revenue back into the local Alameda County economy, keep its rates competitive, and invest in local projects that benefit the communities served within the program’s area.

More information about EBCE is available by visiting its website at www.ebce.org.

Environmental groups back Wieckowski’s bill

SUBMITTED BY JEFF BARBOSA

Several environmental justice organizations spoke in support of legislation by Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont) to ensure that local air quality standards are met and a study is undertaken to prioritize the eventual retirement of natural gas facilities impacting the air quality of disadvantaged communities. The Assembly Natural Resources Committee approved Wieckowski’s legislation, SB 64, to help California transition to more renewable energy.

“As we expand the use of renewable energy and rely on natural gas plants to backup the energy supply, we need to gather better data and limit the harmful effects that cycling power plants has on our communities,” said Wieckowski, chair of the Senate Environmental Quality Committee. “Some communities in California already breathe some of the unhealthiest air in the nation.”

The bill requires that data on natural gas plant startups, shutdowns and cycling be available for local air districts and the public. It also requires local air districts to set limits on cycling when reviewing or revising plant permits. On bad air days, when conditions are expected to exceed state or federal air quality standards, the bill requires local districts to limit the plants’ operations, if doing so would not affect the grid’s reliability.

In addition to the Union of Concerned Scientists, SB 64 is supported by the California Environmental Justice Alliance, Asian Pacific Environmental Network, Coalition for Clean Air, Clean Power Campaign, Community for a Better Environment, Clean Water Action, Sierra Club, Fossil Free California and several other environmental groups.

Olive Hyde Art Guild awards scholarships

SUBMITTED BY
SEEMA GUPTA

On Friday, May 18, 2018, in a room full of artists and art enthusiasts, Olive Hyde Art Guild (OHAG) announced its annual scholarship winners for 2018. Every year since 2000, OHAG has been awarding scholarships for outstanding artistic talent to Fremont high school seniors who intend to pursue visual arts at college level. "This is the first year the art guild has extended their scholarship to Ohlone College students," said Dina Rubiolo, chairperson of the committee. The program has evolved over the years; this year it included two first place winners from Fremont high schools and Ohlone College separately, each receiving $2,000, and two runners-up from each category respectively, who got $150 in Blick Art Supply gift certificates. The teacher of the first-place winner from high school, Kim Parker, is also given $500 for classroom art supplies.

Nineteen students from Fremont high schools and Ohlone College applied for the scholarships this year, out of which three finalists from each category were selected. Jurors Gloria Kim and Susan Longini based their selection on technical skills, expressive and conceptual content, and originality.

Kim, curator of the Olive Hyde Art Gallery, looked for "a story" and something "special and magical" that stood out and continually pulled her into their artwork. "I am always blown away by the talent that is showcased by such young people," said Kim, who is excited to experience the new generation of artists.

Involved in the glass world for over three decades, studio artist, educator, and administrator Longini felt that "judging the 2018 Olive Hyde Art Guild scholarship was truly an uplifting experience." The passion and the skill manifested in the students' work was inspiring. Wonderful works in every medium from photography to collage to ceramics to digital arts were submitted, but the ones to win the contest demonstrated "technical competence, communication of ideas, and an identifiable and unique visual voice."

Among the six finalists were Darren Wong, Jessica Lin, and Yeseul Lee, incidentally all from Irvington High School, and Chengyuan Shi, Elina Wang, and Scott Knell from Ohlone

Longtime nursery earns business honor

SUBMITTED BY
JEFF BARBOSA

Regan Nursery, which has been in operation for more than 60 years in Fremont, providing a selection of flowers and gardening tips for residents, was recognized June 19 as the Small Business of the Year by Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont) at a ceremony in Sacramento.

"Regan Nursery is a local treasure in southern Alameda County and a great resource for people looking to beautify and add color to their yards or plant a garden at their house," said Wieckowski, the chair of the Senate Environmental Quality Committee. "Owner Marsha Hildebrand and her staff have done a wonderful job despite the uncertainty regarding the long-term location of the nursery."

The city-owned property on Decoto Road was almost bought by a developer in 2017 for $32 million. At that point, Regan Nursery was preparing to relocate to the California Nursery Historical Park in Niles. However, the developer opted not to go forward with the project.

"I thank Senator Wieckowski for honoring Regan Nursery as a California Small Business of the Year and for being one of our wonderful customers," said Hildebrand, who purchased the nursery in 1995. "We love serving our customers, sharing tips and information on growing healthy food, making their surroundings more beautiful, and providing information supporting our environment in the San Francisco Bay Area and beyond."

Regan Nursery is the largest supplier of retail roses in California and sells bare root roses across the United States, Hildebrand said.

California Small Business Day is sponsored by the California Small Business Association. The purpose of the day is to recognize the contributions small business makes to California. Each legislator selects one business to honor. More than 1,500 small businesses in the state have been recognized since its inception.

Wieckowski represents the 10th District, which includes southern Alameda County and parts of Santa Clara County.

College. All students showed an exceptional level of expertise, the complexity and depth of the work exhibiting a high level of maturity.

Scott Knell was "very shocked" to hear that he had won first place, "given the impressive work from other students." He plans to double major in communications and art at UC Santa Barbara, with an emphasis on photography and digital design. Knell became interested in photography when he first got a camera at age 16 and enrolled in photography classes in high school. Ever since, he has been inspired by his teachers and professors who have helped and encouraged him along the way. He enjoys photography in mostly all styles, including portrait, documentary, landscape, and surrealism.

The other first place award went to Yeseul Lee of Irvington High. When asked how she felt about winning, she said, "I was very excited and felt like my hard work has paid off." She will be attending ArtCenter College of Design this fall, where she hopes to further develop her artistic talent. Ever since she was little, Yeseul has enjoyed doing art with her father, who has been her role model and mentor. She was inspired by his side of the family, who are all art professionals. In her sketchbook, she liked to create interesting compositions through collage. For now, she finds surface design very attractive, thus plans to take Surface Track in Illustration major at ArtCenter.

Chengyuan Shi and Elina Wang of Ohlone, and Darren Wong and Jessica Lin from Irvington, all received the Blick Art Supply gift certificates. They may not have won the big prize money, but their work was as remarkable and striking, and posed a tough competition to the winners. Lin is already accepted at the Rhode Island School of Design, and Wong plans to attend UC Davis or Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

"Having three of my students win the competition this year exceeded my greatest expectations!" says Parker of Irvington High. She appreciates that OHAG continues to award scholarships for art education, even in today's high tech corporate culture and feels that Fremont Unified School District seniors are fortunate to have this opportunity. "The scholarship amount is very generous," she said, "but moreover this award celebrates the artistic spirit – the spirit that encourages these young artists to pursue their highest potential in creative expression." She expressed gratitude to OHAG "for their continued altruism and community support toward this end."

Rubiolo enjoyed working with and supporting these young and talented artists. "I am amazed and inspired by their level of craft and the sophistication of their conceptual ideas," she said. "These bright, articulate students are well on their way to being, not only critical artists, but also, thoughtful citizens, who will have an impact on contemporary visual culture. Kudos to their professors for helping guide their artistic explorations!"

Wi-Fi will be expanded in San Leandro

SUBMITTED BY ALICE KIM

A unanimous vote on June 18 by the San Leandro City Council will bring an expanded Wi-Fi network to more locations throughout the city.

The council approved a consulting agreement with SmartWAVE Technologies and a license agreement with the County of Alameda for use of county-owned communications facilities to support the expansion project. Expanded Wi-Fi services will be available in the city’s down area, branch libraries, San Leandro Marina and seven public parks.

Expanding public Wi-Fi aligns with the council’s goals to promote civic pride and quality of life, enhance infrastructure, and transform San Leandro into a Center for Innovation. Over the past three years, the city has deployed public Wi-Fi in the downtown core, all city facilities including the Senior and Marina Community Centers, the Casa Peralta and San Leandro History Museum, as well as the area around the annual Cherry Festival grounds.

For more information about San Leandro’s Public Wi-Fi and Smart City initiatives, contact Tony Batalla, Information Technology Manager at (510) 577-3385 or send an email to tbatalla@sanleandro.org.

Assemblymember Quirk Honors Pearl Harbor Survivor

SUBMITTED BY TOMASA DUEÑAS

Assemblymember Quirk (D-Hayward) honored Mr. Mickey Ganitch as his 2018 Veteran of the Year for the 20th Assembly District at an annual event in Sacramento. Mr. Ganitch enlisted in the Navy on January 21, 1941. He was assigned to the USS Pennsylvania battleship at Pearl Habor, as an E-1 Seaman Recruit on August 15, 1941. Mr. Ganitch also tried out for, and was selected as a member of the ship’s football team.

On December 6, 1941, the USS Pennsylvania went into dry dock for propeller repairs. The football team was to disembark at 8:00 a.m. on December 7 in preparation for the 1:00 p.m. game that day against the USS Arizona for the Fleet Football Championship. Plans changed when, at 7:55am that day, the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. Mr. Ganitch went up to the crow’s nest in full football uniform where, being 100 feet above the main deck, he had a bird’s eye view of the attack. A 500-pound armor piercing bomb hit close to the smoke stack, about 45 feet from Mr. Ganitch, killing 23 men and injuring others.

Mr. Ganitch continued to serve throughout WWII and the Korean Conflict. In 1960, after completing recruiting school, he was assigned to recruiting duty at the Post Office in Oakland. “I had come full circle” said Mr. Ganitch, “this is where I enlisted and began my career in the Navy.” Mr. Ganitch retired from the Navy as a Senior Chief Quartermaster on October 10, 1963.

“It was a privilege to have Mr. Gantich join me in Sacramento for this ceremony. He courageously and selflessly served our country for many years. Mr. Ganitch turns 99 this November and I truly admire his spirit and energy. He is deserving of this recognition and more,” stated Assemblymember Quirk. “I’m lucky I survived, but so many didn’t and it is my extreme honor to be here representing all of the veterans who can’t be here. Thank you to Assemblymember Quirk for this special recognition” said Mr. Gantich

Fremont’s public safety departments would like to remind Fremont residents, businesses and visitors that the sale, possession, and use of all fireworks are banned within the City of Fremont. This ban includes the ‘safe and sane’ variety of fireworks that are legal in some other cities. The ban, in effect since December 1986, has helped reduce the number of injuries, wildland fires, and structure fires caused by fireworks in the city of Fremont.

Fire and Police resources will be on patrol in Fremont during the peak times of concern to maintain an active vigilance against fireworks use.

In California, possession of illegal fireworks is considered a misdemeanor, which is punishable by a fine of not less than $500 or more than $1,000, or by imprisonment in a county jail for up to one year. If you are found to be in possession of a sufficient amount of illegal fireworks, you may be guilty of a felony and punished by a fine up to $5,000 and/or imprisonment in a state prison or county jail. Parents may be held liable for any damages or injuries caused by their children’s use of illegal fireworks.

To report illegal fireworks use, call the Fremont Police Department Dispatch Center at 510-790-6800 and select option 3.

Please be extremely careful during the Fourth of July holiday season and throughout the summer months with all outdoor activities. The abundance of dry grass and brush in the area has created an extremely dangerous fire condition.

MY CHOICE IS WTMF,

because I have an entire network of specialists to help me treat my patients.

Doctors join the Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF) for lots of reasons. Dr. Vanessa Wilson always enjoyed the challenge of Internal Medicine because “it’s an investigational discipline requiring that a physician understand all the body’s systems, analyze the patient’s problem and formulate the correct treatment.” Being part of WTMF makes it easier to connect with both her patients and their other doctors on EPIC, and confer with any of her colleagues about patient care. She treats a wide variety of patients—many with multi-organ issues—and likes getting consults quickly from physicians she knows and trusts while maintaining continuity of care between providers. That’s one reason why Dr. Wilson recommends WTMF to all her friends and family members. “WTMF is very selective about their doctors. Everyone follows high care standards and practices evidence-based medicine.” Does your doctor choose WTMF?

Part of Washington Hospital

Because WTMF is an integral part of the Washington Hospital Healthcare System, we have immediate access to the system’s wide array of advanced healthcare services, whenever you need them. This includes their highly awarded inpatient and outpatient facilities and specialty centers.

Washington MyChart

is an online resource which allows our patients to see their personal health information in a safe, secure and private manner. Accessible from your mobile or desktop device, you can view your test results, prescriptions, allergies, immunizations, and other portions of your health record. You can also send a message to your doctor’s office, schedule an appointment, or request a referral.
