Washington Urgent Care to Relocate from Second Floor to First

Community Health Resource Library to Close

In a move that will provide added accessibility and convenience to patients, Washington Urgent Care is finalizing plans to relocate from its current second floor location to the ground floor in the Washington West building at 2500 Mowry Ave. Plans include a new direct entrance, providing improved access for those with mobility limitations.

After construction, Urgent Care will be situated in the space currently occupied by the Hospital's Community Health Resource Library. "We look forward to this relocation which will make Urgent Care easier to find and a shorter distance for our patients to walk," says Patti Coffey, Washington Urgent Care manager.

Coffey explains that in its new location, Washington Urgent Care will continue to provide the same care and services and will still be open daily. Patients will continue to be served on a walk-in basis for minor emergencies, illnesses and other urgent medical needs. Some appointments are now available. Before coming in, patients can see current wait times by viewing the urgent care section at www.whhs.com/Services.

The library, which has been a valuable resource for Hospital staff, physicians, patients and members of the community since 1999, has been underutilized in recent years and is slated to close mid-July. "With today's technology, people can easily conduct research in the comfort of their own homes," says Lucy Hernandez, the Hospital's community outreach project manager. "When the library first opened, technology wasn't nearly as advanced as it is today, with information literally at our fingertips," she adds.

Even without the library, Washington Hospital offers a wealth of medical information to community members. The Community Outreach Program continues to coordinate free Health & Wellness seminars, where participants meet medical experts presenting on specific topics of interest.

These seminars—in addition to other programming—are televised on Comcast channel 78, the Hospital's InHealth TV channel and are available for viewing online (see whhs.com for program links). Also on the Hospital website is a link to an online medical resource library (Elsevier) which provides articles and information on most medical topics.

Washington Hospital has recently entered into a partnership with ABC7 to create Bay Area Healthier Together, programing that provides accurate local health and wellness information. In addition to televised programing, the website, bayareahealthiertogether.com, offers informative insight on specialized procedures from spine surgery to cancer care.

Regarding the reference materials currently in the library, they will be distributed to various Hospital departments, providing resources for patients. Books about pregnancy, childbirth and healthy parenting, for example, will be given to the Maternal Child Health Education Center while materials regarding nutrition and fitness will be given to the Diabetes Education Department. Several departments are developing lending libraries which will allow patients to take books home. Other materials will be donated to local schools.

In addition to the changes for the library and the urgent care clinic, the Health Insurance Information Services office will also be relocating. That office will still be located in the Washington West building, but soon will move to suite 106, across the hall from the outpatient laboratory. This is a free and confidential service to help patients with all the information they need to make an informed decision about their health insurance. The office can be reached by phone at (800) 770-9447 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Washington Hospital continues its commitment to meet the health care needs of the community through its many service lines and education programs.

Plans are underway for the 2019 Washington Hospital Urgent Care ground floor move.

The Community Health Resource Library will close effective July 13.

Low-Cost Physicals and Health Information for Teen Athletes

Washington Hospital hosts mini health fairs and pre-participation physicals for local students

On Tuesday, July 17, and Wednesday, July 18, the Washington Sports Medicine Program will be providing pre-participation sports physicals at Irvington High School (Tuesday) and John F. Kennedy High School (Wednesday) from 3 to 6 p.m. High school athletes of any sport are eligible to attend.

“These physicals are required by the California Interscholastic Federation (CIF), but more importantly, we want to make sure these young athletes are healthy enough to play their sport,” says Director of Off-site Services, Mike Rogers. “Though we’ve had our sports medicine program for several years, for the past two years, we’ve held the physicals at one of the local high schools.” Rogers notes both the quality of the exam and the convenience to the students and their parents. “These exams cover basic screenings, an orthopedic exam and a physical with a sports medicine physician. Feedback we received from community members was that having them at one of the high schools made it easier on students and parents.”

In order to reduce wait times and ensure that as many students as possible are accommodated, the Hospital is taking appointments ahead of time. “By pre-purchasing a time slot, students won’t have to wait in line for long periods of time,” says Rogers. Time slots can be purchased from the athletic trainer at each of the five high schools in the Fremont Unified School District and Newark Memorial High School or at Washington Hospital in the Washington West building at 2500 Mowry Ave., suite 109, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The $20 exam fee (cash or check) is divided among all six participating schools to be used for their individual sports medicine programs.

Once the appointment is made, students will receive a confirmation form with instructions for the day of their exam and the website address for downloading the history and physical form (www.whhs.com/services/sports). The history portion of the form must be completely filled out ahead of time and must be signed by the student’s parent or guardian.

Drop-ins will be accepted, but those without an appointment may be given a later time slot. “This way, drop-ins won’t have to wait long; they can leave and return at their appointed time,” Rogers explains.

As an added bonus this year, staff members from Washington Hospital and Washington Township Medical Foundation will host a mini health fair during the exam times. Registered dietitians will be on hand to provide information on sports nutrition, hydration, and sports and fasting during Ramadan. On Wednesday, July 18, a respiratory care specialist will provide information about asthma and the dangers of vaping. Other topics, such as sun protection, chiropractic medicine and acupuncture may also be covered at the health fairs.

Washington Hospital’s sports medicine program is led by Russell Nord, MD, who is board certified in orthopedic surgery and sports medicine. Through the sports medicine program, a certified athletic trainer is located at each of the schools to help maintain the safety of student athletes, and in the case of injury, getting that student back in the game with minimal downtime. “Students are more likely to have their injuries evaluated earlier when a trainer is on the school grounds,” says Dr. Nord. He explains that early evaluation could help prevent further damage and reduce recovery times.

If you have questions about the physicals, ask the athletic trainer at your school or contact Mike Rogers at (510) 608-1320.

Council to hear referral on Cloverleaf bowling center

SUBMITTED BY DAVID BONACCORSI

At the Tuesday, July 10 Fremont City Council meeting, council members David Bonaccorsi and Raj Salwan are leading a referral to ask the council to authorize a process to consider adding Cloverleaf Family Bowl to the city’s historic register.

The bowling center, on Grimmer Boulevard in the Irvington district, may be forced to close in the next several years if the site where its building sits is redeveloped for residential use. Cloverleaf has operated in Fremont for more than 50 years and leases a building constructed in 1959 in a “mid-century modern” architectural style.

The Fremont register is a “permanent public record...of historic resources.” the referral, if authorized by council, will give the public the right to speak before the Historical Architectural Review Board and again before the Fremont Council to say why Cloverleaf Family Bowl is deserving of being added to Fremont’s permanent public record as an historic asset in the community.

The City Council will meet at 7 p.m. at 3300 Capitol Ave., Building A, Fremont. The meeting is open to the public and comments are welcome.

Auto Review

BY STEVE SCHAEFER

The Lexus NX 300h brings Toyota’s famous hybrid technology to a compact crossover shape. That’s good for about a 25 percent improvement in fuel economy and substantially improved emissions over the standard NX 300, in a luxurious package.

The secret to any hybrid is that it uses less fuel because it’s running electrically part of the time. In this case, instead of the NX 300’s 275-horsepower 2.0-liter turbocharged four-cylinder, the NX 300h gets a non-turbo 2.5 liter four, with just 154 horsepower (152 lb.-ft. of torque). However, it’s the addition of three electric motor generators and a 204-cell nickel metal hydride battery that make the difference. This car has no plug, so all energy is generated by regeneration when braking.

The three motor generators have different locations and functions. One, up front, serves as the engine’s generator and starter and charges the hybrid battery. A second front-mounted unit drives the front wheels and regenerates energy during braking. The third motor generator lives in the rear and also regenerates electricity, as well as allowing “all-weather-drive.” Combined, the system puts out 194 horsepower, which is significantly less than the NX 300, but still enough to move the two-ton machine down the road respectfully. Interestingly, the all-wheel-drive 300 and the 300h weigh within 30 pounds of each other.

Interaction between the drivetrain components is invisible to the driver. Because electric motors have torque from the moment they engage, there’s no hesitation when you start out. Sometimes, that means silent of EV motoring, but when the engine kicks in, you just keep on going.

The NX 300h pulls in EPA mileage figures of 33 City, 30 Highway, and 31 Combined. Compare this to the gas-only NX 300’s 22 City, 28 Highway, and 24 respectively and you see a nice improvement. Naturally, if you drive primarily in slower suburban situations you may be able to get more regeneration and shift the electric/gasoline ratio for better numbers. I averaged 29.0 mpg in a week of mostly freeway commuting (a mix of 70 mph cruising and crawling).

EPA Green numbers tell another happy tale. The NX 300h receives a pair of lucky 7’s for Smog and Greenhouse Gas, while the NX 300 earns a 3 and a 5 respectively. Emissions are 283 grams of CO2 per mile for the hybrid vs. 363 for the gas-only model.

Numbers aside, the NX is a typical Lexus, with bold, slashing designs in the sheet metal and a luxuriously appointed interior. The huge grille has become a Lexus hallmark, even if it still looks a bit frightening. The sides are aggressively sculpted to match. Although this is the smallest Lexus crossover (for now), it fits right in with its larger sibling, the popular RX.

Inside, the design features layered surfaces and materials. A “blade” of wood trim pops out in a few spots, keeping your eye moving. The edginess continues onto the steering wheel, where beveled edges make the buttons easy to find. The user experience is heavy on buttons and lights, so at night you may feel a bit like a pilot.

The comfy seats provide that above-the-fray crossover feeling that today’s buyers covet.

Commuting is pleasant, and I expect that longer road trips would be as well.

As a luxury model, you expect the NX to deliver certain features. However, my test car contained some significant upgrades, which drove the price up substantially. The base price, not including delivery, started at $38,335, but the final sticker for my Atomic Silver test car came to $49,770. How did we get there?

Nearly half of the upgrade came from the Luxury Package ($4,705), with 18-inch alloy wheels, fancier wood trim, heated and cooled leather front seats, rain-sensing wipers, a moonroof, blind-spot monitor with cross-traffic alert, and more. My car also came with the Navigation package ($1,800), panoramic-view backup monitor ($800), Intuitive Parking Assist ($535), power rear door ($400), power folding rear seats ($400), and a towing package ($160). It makes me wonder if a vehicle without these things would deliver the same experience.

I had a few nitpicks. The left front wheel well intrudes above the dead pedal. The heated steering wheel only heats in the 3 and 9 areas, so when you’re turning it on a cold morning it’s a little disconcerting. But otherwise the NX provides a very pleasant experience, and with its commodious rear cargo area, serves as a perfect hauler as well.

Lexus offers seven hybrids, including four sedans, a coupe and the NX and RX crossovers. Each features a proven, highly developed system that can save you money and lower your carbon footprint incrementally. The brand doesn’t offer a pure electric vehicle yet, but this model would be a great place to start.

Latin Rhythms and high-energy blues

SUBMITTED BY KASSIE SHREVE

The entertaining Patron Latin Rhythms comes to the Pig on Friday July 13. Their intoxicating blend of energy and creativity includes multiple styles including Latin Jazz, Latin Rock, Mambo, and even Old School R&B/Latin Funk. Their driving percussion rhythms, hair raising guitar licks, and horn section is reminiscent of Tower of Power. The music starts at 9 p.m.; admission is free.

On Saturday, July 14, Tommy Castro and the Painkillers take the stage in an inspired blend of high-energy blues, R&B and roadhouse in this ticketed event. Ninth Circuit announces 2018
Civics Contest winners

SUBMITTED BY KATHERINE M. RODRIGUEZ

Young people from Arizona and California have been selected the winners of the 2018 Ninth Circuit Civics Contest, an educational outreach effort to high school students sponsored by the federal courts. The theme of the 2018 contest was "The 14th Amendment 150 Years After Ratification: What Does Equal Protection Mean to Students?" Students were asked to write an essay or produce a short video explaining how Congress and the federal courts have applied the Equal Protection Clause to public education, whether in admissions, classrooms or on the athletic fields.

Winners in the essay competition were:

- 1st place – Kelsey Luu, a senior at Irvington High School in Fremont, California
- 2nd place – James Freedman, a sophomore at Torrey Pines High School in San Diego, California
- 3rd place – Kayla Pebdani, a sophomore at La Costa Canyon High School in Carlsbad, California.

Winners in the video competition were:

- 1st place – Veronica Yu, Cindy Law and Karen Thai, seniors at Arcadia High School in Arcadia, California
- 2nd place – Robert Lowell, Desarae Millet and Mariah Vasquez, seniors at Walden Grove High School in Sahuarita, Arizona
- 3rd place – Ivan Velasco and Natalia Escobedo, seniors at Coronado High School in Coronado, California

The winning essay will be read and winning video shown on July 23, 2018, during the opening session of the Ninth Circuit Judicial Conference in Anaheim, California, a major gathering of the federal bench and bar from the western states. Essays and videos from all of the finalists will be posted to the contest website (www.ca9.uscourts.gov/civicscontest).

The competition was open to students in grades 9-12 in public, private and parochial schools and home-schooled students of equivalent grade status in nine western states and two Pacific island jurisdictions. Approximately 1,300 young people entered the contest, which offered cash prizes, an opportunity for travel, and a chance to meet some of the nation's preeminent jurists and legal practitioners.

Federal courts in all 15 judicial districts in the Ninth Circuit held local contests with winners going on to compete in the circuit-wide competition. In all, 45 essays and 27 videos were selected for final consideration by the Ninth Circuit Courts and Community Committee, which organized the contest. Blind judging was employed in both the preliminary and final rounds.

At the circuit level, prizes of $2,000, $1,000 and $500 will be awarded to 1st-, 2nd- and 3rd -place winners in both the writing and video competition. In addition, first-place winners along with a parent/guardian will be invited to attend the opening session of the Ninth Circuit Judicial Conference.

The California State Senate approved the 2018-2019 Cap & Trade budget spending plan on June 25, including $1.4 billion in discretionary investments in climate adaptation, research, wildfire prevention, and a number of other programs.

“These investments show California’s commitment to comprehensively fighting climate change and adapting to its multiple effects on our state’s environment and infrastructure,” said Senator Bob Wieckowski, chair of the Senate Budget and Fiscal Review subcommittee that oversees the Cap & Trade plan. “From modernizing our school buses and trucks, to investing in wildfire prevention and new equipment for Cal Fire, this plan addresses the many challenges we face every day. It contains $86 million for climate mitigation and resilience, and $20 million for climate research at a time when we need to increase our resiliency across the state.”

Cap & Trade was established to help reduce heat-trapping gases that cause global warming. Putting a price on carbon is key to reducing its production and driving investment and innovation into new, cleaner technologies.

California's Cap & Trade program was set to expire in 2020, but last year the Legislature voted to extend it. The state is seeking to reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions to 40 percent below the 1990 levels by 2030. The program's extension has removed the uncertainty surrounding its future and resulted in increased revenue from Cap & Trade auctions.

Other elements in the funding plan target $468 million for low carbon transportation, including $175 million for clean vehicle rebates. It also contains $240 million for Healthy Forests which includes $30 million for prescribed fires and fuel reduction by Cal Fire. Another $275 million is for reducing air pollution and assisting local air districts and community groups with air monitoring, a key part of last year's agreement to extend Cap & Trade.

The program also includes funding for urban greening, coastal resilience, wetlands restoration, and low-income weatherization.

Wrong Lady Liberty on stamp to cost US Postal Service $3.5M

BY MICHELLE L. PRICE, ASSOCIATED PRESS

A stamp that mistakenly featured the image of a Statue of Liberty replica in Las Vegas instead of the original New York Statue will cost the U.S. Postal Service $3.5 million in a copyright infringement lawsuit.

Las Vegas sculptor Robert Davidson, who created the replica Lady Liberty in the facade at the New-York-New York casino-resort on the Las Vegas Strip, sued the Postal Service five years ago over its 2011 “Forever” stamp design.

The stamp featured the face of his Lady Liberty, which his attorneys argued in court filings was unmistakably different from the original and was more “fresh-faced,” “sultry” and even “sexier.”

The Postal Service had been releasing the stamps for at least three months before discovering it was not an image of the New York statue.

Postal Service attorneys argued Davidson's design was too similar for him to claim copyright.

Federal Judge Eric Bruggink sided with Davidson last week and agreed his work was an original design with a more modern, feminine, and contemporary face. He ordered the Postal Service to pay $3.5 million to the artist—a slice of the $70 million the service made in profit from the stamp.

Postal Service spokesman Dave Partenheimer said in an email that the agency was reviewing the decision and would comment "if and when appropriate."

Todd Bice, Davidson's attorney, said in an emailed statement that his client was pleased that the court recognized the significance of his work.

“As the court noted, Mr. Davidson’s artistic creation of the Las Vegas Lady Liberty is highly unique and attractive, which is what prompted the US Postal Service to select a photo of his work for the second ever Forever Stamp, over hundreds of other images,” he said.

Court documents show Davidson said he wanted his sculpture, like the rest of the casino-resort's facade, to have the feel of New York's iconic skyline without duplicating it.

National certification

SUBMITTED BY LANA GILSON

Fremont Parents' Nursery School has earned national recognition as a Certified Nature Explore Classroom from the Nature Explore program, which is a division of Dimensions Educational Research Foundation.

This certification gives the school numerous benefits, including membership in a network of more than 400 like-minded spaces across the nation that foster highly effective, nature-based outdoor learning.

"Fremont Parents' Nursery School's commitment to providing research-based and nature-rich learning offers a wonderful example to programs and educators throughout the country," said Heather Fox, director of communications and outreach for the Nature Explore program. "These spaces inspire hands-on activity, creativity, play and plenty of time exploring the natural world."

These unique outdoor classrooms offer interactive elements such as musical instruments made of natural materials, garden pathway areas, and natural materials for building and creating art. Research has shown that children who learn and grow in Nature Explore Classrooms exhibit enhanced concentration, develop creativity and problem-solving techniques, manage stress in healthy ways and develop skills across the spectrum of academic and creative learning.

California revives 100-percent carbon-free energy bill

BY JONATHAN J. COOPER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

California lawmakers have revived a long-stalled proposal to set a goal of generating 100 percent of the state's energy from carbon-free sources.

With other controversial and high-stakes energy legislation also moving forward, California lawmakers face an array of decisions with vast implications for the Western energy grid, the future of renewable power and consumers' electric bills.

A state legislative committee sent the 100 percent clean energy bill to the full Assembly, setting up a vote later this year. The bill's revival is a tentative victory for its author, Democratic Sen. Kevin de Leon, who is waging an uphill battle to unseat Democratic U.S. Sen. Dianne Feinstein in the November election.

De Leon fought aggressively to push the bill forward in the final days of last year's legislative session but was unsuccessful.

The bill would bump up California's energy mandate, known as the renewable portfolio standard, from 50 percent to 60 percent by 2030. That energy would have to come from specific renewable resources including wind, solar, geothermal and small dams.

It would then set a goal of getting all remaining energy from resources that don't produce climate changing gases by 2045, leaving details of the plan to be hashed out later. "This will put us on the pathway to clean renewable energy and economic growth for the future of California," de Leon said.

Critics include business interests and utilities, which warn that industrial power users, like factories and food processors, and consumers will be left paying higher prices. They worry that the bill would prematurely make fossil fuel plants obsolete, rendering them stranded assets that don't generate revenue but still must be paid off by ratepayers.

“Not now,” said Assemblyman Jim Patterson, a Republican from Fresno. “This is a leap of faith and a gamble.”

The action came as the Senate also considers legislation to turn California’s energy grid manager, the Independent System Operator, into a regional entity open to utilities across the West, and as Gov. Jerry Brown and legislative leaders consider making it easier for utilities to reduce liability for wildfire damage. Those issues could get linked in negotiations.

California pot shops offered discounts as new standards approached

BY BRIAN MELLEY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bargain basement bud is on the menu in California, but buyers needed to act fast to cash in on the cheap weed.

Regulations being phased in six months after the state broadly legalized marijuana require that pot sold after June 30 meet strict quality standards, so retailers spent the last days of June unloading untested inventory at blowout prices.

Deep discounts on everything from edibles to joints reflect the last days of the heady first phase of legal recreational pot. They could be followed by empty shelves as many stores scramble to restock with properly tested and packaged products.

“You can smell it. There’s a certain desperation from stores that bought too much, and they have to dump it,” said John Atari, CEO of Source Cannabis Farms, a licensed cultivator in Los Angeles. “There’s going to be a big shortage of clean product come July 1.”

At Firehaus, a shop along an LA freeway, a fire sale of sorts unfolded during June with a 50 percent off “summer blowout” sale advertised on a popular marijuana app and texted and emailed to regular customers. Patrons leaving the brick storefront on a recent day were happy to double their value but were unaware of the reason behind the bargains.

A half-dozen of those interviewed said they welcomed testing designed to weed out pesticides and contaminants such as solvents and mold, though they were largely unconcerned about the safety of the cannabis they’ve used for years.

“I smoked pot for 40 years that wasn’t tested, from dealers on the street, and it smelled like anything from gasoline to perfume,” said Catherine Lanzarotta, who stocked up on “Blue Dream.” “So I’ve never had that concern.”

Testing will also examine concentrations and potency of the ingredient that gives users a buzz. The change in rules was part of the state’s decision to allow the industry in its legal infancy to get a running start at the beginning of the year. Shops were given six months to burn through supplies of grass grown and cookies and other products made without strict testing requirements.

Before the legalization of recreational marijuana, testing of pot sold for medical purposes was largely done for marketing. Growers could promote the potency of their product or the fact that it was free of contaminants.

There are concerns that the 28 testing facilities licensed by the state will not be enough, though labs said even with a spike in recent months, they have been able to handle capacity.

A larger concern is a lag in testing as business owners banked on delayed implementation of the new rules. That could put them in a precarious position as they try to push product through a limited pipeline to restock shops with clean weed.

The fear is there will be a repeat of what Oregon experienced two years ago as distributors held out for a rules reprieve that never materialized and held up the supply chain. The resulting bottleneck at labs meant testing that should have taken days dragged on for weeks, said Lori Glauser, chief operating officer of EVIO Labs, which has locations in California, Oregon, Colorado, Florida and Massachusetts.

Glauser said the recent surge in business she’s seen indicates a similar scenario in California that will lead to a temporary shortage of marijuana in dispensaries once they can no longer sell untested product.

Some shops prepared for the new regulations by gradually replacing pot they sold with products that pass the tests. Jamie Garzot said she reopened her Shasta Lake medical marijuana shop to recreational customers Jan. 1 with the same untested inventory as the day before.

But by February, Garzot estimated, about 15 percent of inventory at 530 Cannabis had been approved by testing labs. In April, that jumped to about 50 percent, and earlier this month Garzot said she figured about 95 percent of her goods passed muster.

“Everyone in the game knew this was coming,” Garzot said. “My hope is that everybody has been doing their job getting systems dialed in for an uninterrupted supply chain.”

California senators reach agreement on net neutrality bill

BY JONATHAN J. COOPER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Key California lawmakers say they’ve reached an agreement on legislation to enshrine net neutrality provisions in state law after the Federal Communications Commission dumped rules requiring an equal playing field on the internet.

The agreement announced on July 5 comes two weeks after a state Assembly committee infuriated net neutrality advocates by scaling back the legislation. California’s bill is seen as one of the nation’s most aggressive efforts to continue net neutrality principles.

Democratic Sen. Scott Wiener, who wrote the bill, repudiated his own legislation when major pieces were removed. He says those provisions have been restored under his agreement with Democratic Assemblyman Miguel Santiago. Wiener said lawmakers will vote on the bill after they return in August from a summer break.

Internet companies say state-level net neutrality provisions are not practical.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JULY 11 – JULY 17, 2018

For All Signs: This week we begin an eclipse season on July 12 with the new Moon in Cancer. It continues through and beyond the Full Moon eclipse in Aquarius on July 27. The sign of Cancer is about nourishing, food and safety for those unable to care for themselves (children, elderly, handicapped). There are numerous global and local issues active on this subject. The USA, with its Cancer Ascendant has been long known as the breadbasket of the world. This country's face is twisting into an evil entity and has lost its reputation as the receptive, Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): You may be feeling stressed due to relationship challenges. Don't let it blow your blood pressure. Everyone else is stressed this summer and people freak easily. Step back from your criticism of others and recognize that people in general are doing the best they can.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Love life, travel, and play are favored this week. Avoid situations that put you at odds with someone in authority. The answer will be no. This is a good time to discuss issues within a relationship because you are steady of mind and likely to be realistic, in relation to yourself as well as others.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Circumstances may cause you to feel cornered into giving time and attention to something or someone you would rather not. This looks like a situation in which you can't win. Either you will feel guilty or you will comply. Fortunately, this dilemma looks relatively short.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): Please read the lead paragraph. On the 12th of July, the eclipsed New Moon will be in your sign. Your ideals may be challenged by others who do not wish to cooperate. Make no effort to persuade them now. Do what you can do on your own. In time your challenger(s) will see your vision.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): This summer you are likely being confronted with a shocking truth. It is probably something about yourself or your early history that you did not previously know, and it may alter your perspective forever. It is meant to bring freedom from a lie, whether that lie was intentionally perpetrated or not.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You may need to concentrate in order to avoid critics, whether they be internal or external. In an ideal world, you would be on vacation now and beyond the fray of daily demands. Relationships with children or lovers should be going smoothly.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Some elements in your life are flowing easily and others are roadblocked. The solution is simple. 'Go with the flow.' Relationships may require extra work and attention. Do what you can, but don't take on problems that are not yours to solve. If you feel as though you are in a double-bind, you are. You cannot be everywhere at once.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Issues that have been brewing for a while in relationship(s) are coming to a turning point. You and another may be vying for emotional control. This can be very subtle and create long term issues that occasionally explode to the surface. You know control is not satisfying. Look for a means of cooperating equally in the solution.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): There are signals in your path that give you clues about what to do next. You may meet one or more people who give you an mother-like caretaker. The Full Moon eclipse on July 27 is in Aquarius, a sign whose dark side is politically tough and favors corporate bodies over individuals. It does have its better qualities, but much of what I am seeing is the lower side of Aquarius, rigid and opinionated. It may be that we have to experience this darker side in order to motivate us to fight for the brighter, open-minded and freedom-oriented version described in 'The Age of Aquarius.'

idea or plan that could serve you well in the future. This energy is subtle. Don't expect to be knocked over. Look more deeply if something new occurs that leaves you thinking about it over and over. It represents a message.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): This is not your smoothest week. Details may nag your mind and your time like pecking ducks. You and significant others are not having the best of communications right now. Think carefully about what is truly important to you now, at this time in your life. Don't allow old habits or rules from the past to make your decisions for you.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): Read the lead paragraph. This eclipse occurs in your sixth house of health, co-workers, and activities related to your job. Your physical self is more than normally reactive to the general environment. Take especially good care of yourself. Don't take risks with exercise or with tools.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): You may feel as though you came from another planet this week. Communications may be misunderstood, snarled, or lost altogether. Do not make assumptions about what others mean. Ask questions and clarify for best results.

Shiver We Timbers

direction by Casey Robbins. The cast includes Sam Bertken (Meekins), Paul Collins (Guy Hank), Joan Howard (Thumper), Casey Robbins (Samuel Peaches), Marlene Yarosh (Princess Gwen), and Longworth (Madame Directrix).

“The Peripatetic Players are inconsolably elated to be adventuring on the high seas this summer,” said Longworth. “Meekins was relieved to learn that we wouldn’t have to meet any real pirates, though. We’re looking forward to a mash-up of pirate myths and we hope to unearth some treasure!”

The creative team also includes Maya Herbsman (assistant director), Joan Howard (visual design lead and FluxWagon designer), Megan Hillard (scenic painter) and Addie McDowell (costume designer).

“Shiver We Timbers!” will be performed on FluxWagon, the Peripatetic Players’ folding mobile stage that is set up by the ensemble shortly before each show. As with previous productions, the Players will playfully interact with the audience before, during, and after their show. Based on pirate stories from history, pop culture, and myth, “Shiver We Timbers!” features a structure inspired by “Choose Your Own Adventure” books, and original songs as well as new takes on traditional sea shanties.

The adventure begins when the Players set theatrical sail on the high seas, but when they can’t decide what course to take, it’s up to the audience to weigh in. The audience is asked to “choose their own adventure” at key points in the narrative, which will alter the story and outcome – sometimes resulting in the epic demise of one or all Players, or the audience themselves. And like a “Choose Your Own Adventure Book,” the story can pick up again at a different spot to keep the fun going.

“Shiver We Timbers!” is presented in association with San Francisco Recreation and Parks and Berkeley Parks and Recreation. The production is made possible by the generous sponsorship of Niles Main Street Association; Oakland Department of Parks, Recreation and Youth Development; Port Costa Conservation Society; Downtown San Mateo Association; Santa Clara City Library; and the City of Pleasanton.

Idiot String was co-founded by Joan Howard and Rebecca Longworth in 2013. The company’s first production, “O Best Beloved,” featured an eccentric group of actor-characters who would become the Samuel Peaches Peripatetic Players. “O Best Beloved” premiered at the 2013 San Francisco Fringe Festival and went on to tour Bay Area parks and public spaces during the summer of 2014. Idiot String’s next productions, also starring the Peripatetic Players and touring the Bay Area, were “Aesop Amuck” (2015) and “Shakespeare or Space Wars” (2016 and 2017). In 2017 Idiot String premiered a new play, “Elixir of Life” – an ensemble-devised play based on apocryphal stories of a travelling snake-oil seller. It also toured Bay Area parks, with an immersive design that placed the audience in a fictional late-Victorian town named Port Promise.

Idiot String is sponsored by Independent Arts and Media, with support from Theatre Bay Area CASH Creates. The company’s annual summer tours with the Peripatetic Players are made possible through individual donations made either online or in person at each show. The East Bay Fund for Artists at the East Bay Community Foundation is matching gifts made to Idiot String through July 15.

Goodwill cuts prices

SUBMITTED BY KAMARRI DATES

Goodwill Industries of the Greater East Bay, a social enterprise organization, has reduced its prices by approximately 15% at stores located in Alameda, Contra Costa and Solano counties. The decrease took effect in mid-June at Goodwill’s 30 Greater East Bay stores and will continue through 2018.

The mission of Goodwill Industries of the Greater East Bay, to turn donations into jobs offering lifetime purpose and opportunity, is achieved through its core business model. In 2017, the company processed 901,410 donations and served 3,854 people living in East Bay communities, resulting in the employment of 1,690 people and an economic impact of $124.5 million across the three counties it serves. With ambitious targets for 2018, Goodwill is reducing its prices to attract new and existing customers and boost sales.

“At Goodwill Industries of the Greater East Bay, we measure our success by the breadth of opportunities that we provide and the number of people we support. We have strong aspirations for 2018, including plans to continue breaking down the barriers that prevent people from reaching financial independence. Reducing our prices is an important opportunity to attract more customers and drive sales, helping us meet our goals,” said

Jim Caponigro, President and CEO of Goodwill Industries of the Greater East Bay. “Goodwill has served its local communities for almost 100 years, and we intend to continue this tradition for 100 more.

“Goodwill took a chance on me and believed I could do the job. I will be forever grateful for that,” said Goodwill Industries of the Greater East Bay employee Anita Tobar, who applied to the Goodwill Apprentice Program in 2012. “At Goodwill I’ve learned the meaning of teamwork and responsibility. I’ve learned how to communicate. I have a stable and sturdy structure in my life and I’ve grown in ways I never thought possible.”

Big is beautiful

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY
DANIEL O'DONNELL

Throughout history there has been a fascination with making miniature recreations. These include small scale furniture for doll houses, tiny ships in bottles, and miniature portraits. The latest trend from Japan in the miniature arts is making tiny edible meals. Videos showing the process of making a micro-hamburger that can sit on a fingertip and creating a micro-breakfast with bacon, eggs, and toast on a plate the size of a quarter are just a couple of the creations that inspired many people worldwide to take up the hobby and millions to watch the videos. The popularity does not mean that giant sized things are not equally as impressive. People still watch movies about dinosaurs, visit the tallest buildings, and grow giant varieties of some common plants.

There are plenty of enormous plants that look remarkable. A massive Redwood or giant Sequoia cannot be beaten on the impressive scale. Fifteen-foot-tall Saguaro cacti symbolize the seductive charm of the Southwestern desert and fifteen-foot-wide Fremontodendrons carpeted with spring flowers are admired locally. There is no surprise factor that produces a visceral reaction when they are seen in a home garden because these plants are expected to be large. The element of wonder needs to come from the unexpected. That is what sets an extraordinary garden apart. There are several large plant varieties that can provide this surprise factor.

Dahlias are loved by beginner and experienced gardeners alike for their striking display of blossom color combinations and diverse array of flower shapes and sizes. The Bell Tree Dahlia, Dahlia imperialis, is treasured for its height. Its deciduous bamboo-like stalks can get up to 20 feet tall and produce multiple large lavender flowers in late fall and into early winter. The Bell Tree Dahlia can be purchased at Annie's Annuals in Richmond (www.anniesannuals.com).

Gunnera

There are over 10,000 different fern species. Over 1,000 are different types of tree ferns. The Australian Tree Fern, Cyathea cooperia, literally overshadows most of the others. They can grow over 40 feet tall and have individual bright green lacy fronds that can measure up to 20 feet long. They prefer bright shade but can tolerate full sun if the temperature is not scorching. They do not require as much water as many other ferns but are not drought tolerant. They will need weekly watering. Australian Tree Ferns or closely related species can be purchased or ordered from many local retail nurseries.

Giant Rhubarb, Poor Man's Umbrella, and Dinosaur Food are some of the more colorful common names for Great Gunnera, Gunnera manicata. It is one of the largest Gunnera species. As if the massive six-foot umbrella shaped leaves did not make a big enough impact, they sit on thick rhubarb-like stalks that can reach eight feet long. This particular species prefers full sun but can tolerate partial shade. It grows well in the Bay Area but needs plenty of moisture. Try using collected rain water or laundry-to-landscape irrigation. Check local nurseries or Direct Gardening (www.directgardening.com).

The vibrant orange Bird of Paradise flowers that sit on the end of stalks about three or four feet off the ground in many Bay Area landscapes are universally loved for their tropical look. Look a little further up the pecking order and into the sky and you will find the Giant Bird of Paradise, Strelitzia nicolai. It can grow up to 30 feet tall and fifteen feet wide and produces the same bird head-shaped flowers as the orange variety but quadruple the size. These impressive white flowers, even 20 feet above, give the tropical feeling of being in paradise.

Russia is not only the largest country in the world but is also famous for the enormous Mammoth Russian Sunflower, Helianthus annuus. Grown from an average-sized black sunflower seed, within 80 to 120 days it will have germinated, sprouted, and grown to 10 feet tall and have produced a giant two-foot diameter bright yellow flower with well over 1,000 seeds. The initial set of seeds (and for the Giant Pumpkin below) can be purchased from Baker Creek Heirloom Seeds in Petaluma (www.rareseeds.com).

Everyone wants to grow large vegetables to show off their ability as a gardener. Nothing displays agrarian expertise like growing a 2,000-pound giant pumpkin, which is botanically a fruit. The Atlantic Giant Pumpkin is the plant that will make it possible in only 120 days. It can be grown like any other pumpkin or squash vine, the only difference is that to get a trophy pumpkin, only one fruit can be supported by the plant. Although a 2,000-pound pumpkin is at the top of the maximum size range, a 500-pound pumpkin would still be a massive success.

Miniature trends are not new in the gardening world. The art of bonsai has been around for centuries. Although growing a giant variety of a common plant might not become a trend, it will surely create a big impact.

How should businesses respond to bad reviews?

BY DAMIAN J. TROISE, ASSOCIATED PRESS

A bad review can easily damage the reputation of a small business. Failing to address negative social media and online posts could make it worse.

Yelp.com recently won a case in California where an aggrieved law firm tried to force it to remove negative posts. That, the state’s supreme court ruled, would be a legal no-no. While it’s a victory for freedom-of-speech advocates, many business owners say they are vulnerable to anyone who chooses to spread falsehoods because there are no consequences for doing so.

There are several measures a business can take to respond to negative reviews to mitigate any potential damage.

“This is something you simply can’t ignore,” said Columbia Business School professor Jeremy Kagan. “The best defense is a good offense.”

Here are some key points for business owners:

ASK HAPPY CUSTOMERS TO POST REVIEWS OF THEIR EXPERIENCE

It’s important to be proactive and have staff ask customers to post their experience. The offensive part of this strategy involves having a base of good reviews from happy customers. It’s even more important because people who are upset are usually more motivated, Kagan said.

That can leave a skewed picture of a business. A solid base of good reviews will help give a potential customer a broader view.

RESPOND IMMEDIATELY AND POLITELY

People want to know that the owner is professional and cares about fixing legitimate problems. Simple things, like saying “I’m very sorry you didn’t enjoy”

Work from home — too good to be true?

BY ANNE CHAN, PHD, MFT

With Bay Area commutes getting longer and longer, many of you might be dreaming of a job with no commute. Imagine getting up in the morning and padding leisurely down to your home office where you can work comfortably in your pajamas. Your commute is a very doable 7 seconds by foot (with coffee cup in hand). Sounds wonderful, doesn't it? Well, it is entirely possible to have a work from home job, but there are a few caveats.

First, be wary of all ads promising work from home jobs with unbelievable pay rates. Here are the major red flags to watch out for:

- You see an ad on a telephone pole that promises you thousands of dollars work from home. Moreover, the handwritten notice assures you that no training is required. As the saying goes, if it's too good to be true, it probably is. Scams like these will lure you by enticements of working only a few hours and earning a lot of money. It sounds too good to be true, doesn't it? Well, it probably is — be extremely cautious of such ads!
- You should not have to pay money upfront to land a work from home job. Some scams work by asking for fees or requiring you to pay for equipment or supplies. You are told that you would be paid by each piece made to their standards. That last phrase is crucial — you are likely to find out that your work never “meets their standards,” meaning that you will never be paid, and you have lost money paying for equipment.
- Be cautious of ads touting jobs for medical billing or coding — again you are asked for a sum of money upfront for software and training, but you are unlikely to earn the salaries advertised because there are already a plethora of established companies providing medical billing services.
- Are you feeling pressured to act right away? If you are feeling pressured to say yes to a work at home job, it is very likely that you are being lured into a scam (especially if the other red flags are waving as well). Scams often prey on people's insecurities and fears by making you feel that the opportunity will disappear soon. You should not feel pressured by an intense sales pitch.

Scams aside, the good news is that it is now easier than ever to get a work-from-home job. Legitimate work-at-home-jobs are being advertised through job sites like indeed.com. Use keyword searches like “remote” and “telecommute” to help locate these jobs. Another job portal is <https://www.flexjobs.com/>, which specializes in remote and flexible work.

If you're currently in an office job, you could consider inching your way toward a work-from-home situation. Perhaps you could ask for one work-from-home day. My suggestion would be to think about a way in which working from home would be advantageous to your employer (we already know that you would benefit from working at home, but you need to sell your employer on the idea). Perhaps you could put forth the idea that you would get more done in the quiet of your home. Perhaps you could tackle a backlog of paperwork or a project that been sitting dormant for months because you lacked dedicated time.

When you broach the work-from-home topic with your employer, be prepared to discuss how the arrangement could work without inconvenience. For instance, think through the various ways you could communicate and attend meetings. In most instances, it doesn't hurt to ask to work from home. If you are a valued employee, your employer might be willing to consider having you telecommute for part or even all your workdays.

In 2015, the Bureau of Labor Statistics found that more than half of self-employed workers and 20 percent of wage and salary employees work at home. These statistics show that working from home is more common than one might imagine. Perhaps you too could become part of this work from home workforce!

Fremont Welcomes Community Feedback on Plastic Usage

The City of Fremont is starting to research the usage of plastic in our city and looking for feedback from the community. The goal is to improve local waste reduction efforts and create a more sustainable future for Fremont.

Fremont is calling on community members to share their thoughts via an online survey conducted on the City's online civic engagement forum, Fremont Open City Hall. The feedback received will help to inform outreach and education activities, local programs, and future policy-making efforts.

Community members can visit www.Fremont.gov/OpenCity-HallPlastic to take the survey, which runs until July 16. There are sixteen questions in the survey, and it should take approximately 10 minutes to complete.

The City appreciates the community's time and feedback in helping Fremont become a healthier and greener city!

Reminder about City of Fremont Permit Center Cashier Hours

The City of Fremont would like to notify those who plan to visit the City's Permit Center that starting July 1, 2018, the cashier in the Permit Center will close promptly at 4 p.m. on Monday through Thursday and at 12 p.m. on Friday. This is necessary to provide sufficient time for the daily processing of Permit Center financial transactions.

The City is recommending that persons needing to apply and/or pay for a permit should arrive by 3 p.m. on Monday through Thursday and 11 a.m. on Friday. Persons arriving after these times may need to return the next business day to make a payment.

The City's Permit Center is a one-stop shop for accepting, reviewing, and approving permit applications for all types of projects. Staff members from Building and Safety, Engineering, and Planning are available to answer questions and assist the public. The Permit Center is open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Fridays from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. It is located on the first floor of the Development Services Center at 39550 Liberty Street in Fremont.

For more information, please call the Permit Center at 510-494-4443 or email dsc_recep@fremont.gov.

Three Large Construction Projects to start this summer in Fremont

The City of Fremont Public Works Engineering Division's Construction section will begin three large construction projects this summer. These projects include the BART West Access Bridge in South Fremont, Central Park Large Group Picnic Area, and bicycle and pedestrian improvements for BART Way and Gateway Plaza near the Fremont BART Station.

The BART West Access Bridge project will begin construction of a bicycle and pedestrian bridge over the BART and Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) tracks, connecting a new plaza on the west side to the Warm Springs/South Fremont BART Station. Construction is expected to last approximately two years.

Over in Central Park, the construction of a new concessions building just north of Aqua Adventure Waterpark is in the works as part of the Central Park Large Group Picnic Area project. The picnic area will include 50 picnic tables covered by shade sails, two sand volleyball courts, and barbecues. Construction is expected to last approximately eight months.

To better connect BART Way and Gateway Plaza to Downtown Fremont, bicycle and pedestrian improvements are planned. This project entails a streetscape reconstruction of BART Way and Gateway Plaza, including raised bike lanes to curb level, a protected intersection at Civic Center Drive, and wayfinding signage installation throughout. Construction is expected to last approximately eight months.

For more information about these projects, contact the City's Engineering division at 510-494-4700 or engineering@fremont.gov.

City of Fremont Encourages Community to Report Abandoned Shopping Carts

The City of Fremont would like to remind our community that if you see a stray shopping cart, you can report it. Most large retailers in Fremont subscribe to a private retrieval service to periodically pick up their carts, but these services also accept calls from the public.

To report a stray cart, find the name of the retailer listed on the cart, note the address or approximate location, and visit www.Fremont.gov/ShoppingCartList for a list of retailers and phone numbers. If a retailer is not listed, please contact them directly.

The City remains committed to partnering with retailers and the community to reduce the number of abandoned carts throughout Fremont. For more information, contact the City's Code Enforcement team at 510-494-4430 or code_enf@fremont.gov.

Fremont National Night Out Registration Underway

Help make 2018 the biggest National Night Out event in Fremont's history!

Start organizing your neighborhood to participate in the 35th Annual National Night Out on Tuesday, August 7, 2018, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Join Fremont Police staff along with community organizations, neighborhood groups, and City leaders in celebrating the 35th Annual National Night Out.

The typical way to participate in National Night Out is to organize a block or neighborhood party. Many will organize barbecues or ice cream socials where neighbors share good food, laughter, and updates on what is happening in the neighborhood. National Night Out provides the opportunity for neighbors to get to know each other a little better and sends a strong message to criminals that our community will look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity in their neighborhood. Throughout the night, City staff will make visits to the registered parties where they will share information, network, and answer questions that community members may have.

Registration is now open for Fremont community members to register their parties to participate in this year's event. Register your event with the Fremont Police Department at www.FremontPolice.org/NNORegistration. The registration deadline is 5 p.m. on July 27, 2018, to be considered for a visit by the Police or Fire Department. Our goal is to provide each party with one visit from City staff; however, it will be dependent upon the number of parties and staff who sign up to participate.

Requests for a visit from the Fire Department must be made separately. First register your party and then contact Pam Franklin at pfranklin@fremont.gov.

To learn how other communities celebrate National Night Out, visit the National Association of Town Watch online at <https://natw.org>.

If you have questions about National Night Out in Fremont, please call the Fremont Police Department's Community Engagement Unit at 510-790-6740.

Campo di Bocce - From Italy to Fremont

SUBMITTED BY BOB RAUH

Tom Albanese and his friends enjoyed their Thursday night Los Gatos Bocce group. They rotated among homes where friends had built Bocce courts in their backyards. The rules were simple: bring food and wine to share and have fun. Eventually, Tom built his own Bocce court in his backyard. "It's such a social game; anyone and any age can play, enjoy friends, food, and wine—all around a fun game of Bocce," says Tom.

Tom's family originated in Italy, and when he took his wife and daughters on vacation to the small hilltop town of Cam-pobasso, amidst the fine Italian cooking and local wines, Tom discovered the town's Bocce courts at the local Bocciodromo (a large building with Bocce courts, a restaurant, a bar, and a children's play area). As he watched families enjoying their time together, the idea for Campo di Bocce was born.

Upon his return home, Tom looked for a property that would house his idea. He also interested his Bocce friends in investing. A local lumberyard was for sale. The size and location were perfect for the design, which included eight Bocce courts, an Italian restaurant, and a bar. Campo di Bocce opened in 1997, its mission to show the Los Gatos community just what fun Bocce is.

Campo di Bocce soon became a popular destination for friends, families, and even corporate team-building events. Apple, Google, Adobe, and other Silicon Valley companies brought their employees to enjoy great food and foster camaraderie. Campo di Bocce's influence became more than local: it paved the way for the popularization of Bocce on the West Coast, hosting numerous tournaments, among them the National Bocce Championships.

After 10 successful years in Los Gatos, Campo di Bocce expanded to include a new location in Livermore. Nestled in a rolling valley of vineyards, Campo di Bocce's second location boasted a larger restaurant and eight Bocce courts—four inside and four outside beneath under vine-covered trellises. Every year it hosts the Madden-Mariucci charity Bocce tournament.

In 2016, Campo di Bocce built on its former successes by occupying the 44,000 sq. ft. former City Beach building in Fremont at Auto Mall Parkway and Fremont Boulevard where it stands as the premier Bocce/restaurant/meeting/con-vention facility on the West Coast. This newest Campo di Bocce facility has meeting and event spaces for groups from 12 to 1200 people, a 375-seat Italian restaurant, a full bar with craft beers and custom cocktails, a large, outdoor patio to seat up to 250 people, and 8 championship-level Bocce courts. The Campo di Bocce staff will gladly teach any beginner or group how to play the game.

Changes to animal licensing

SUBMITTED BY CITY OF UNION CITY

As of July 1, 2018, all licensing of animals will be done at City Hall in Union City, NOT the Fremont Animal Shelter.

Effective July 5, 2018 residents will no longer have the option to redeem their dog from an adopter within 30 days of the adoption. Previously, the owner of the animal was able to redeem the adopted dog back from the adopter within 20 days and with a full refund in fees paid to the animal shelter.

There is also a new section of law related to the impound of strays that are not spayed or neutered, which requires a dog or cat that is impounded two or more times to be spayed or neutered and microchipped before it is released to the owner. The owner is responsible for all fees payable to Fremont Animal Shelter.

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

The 2018 Robert Turbin camp, hosted by Irvington High School alumnus at Irvington High School in Fremont Saturday, June 30 and Sunday, July 1, attracted many young athletes interested in improving their skills on the football field. Activities began Saturday morning as young athletes ages 8 to 12 learned well-balanced football fundamentals for future safe endeavors on the field. Participants were excited by the presence of professional football talent and encouragement to make their dreams of future success come true through sports.

Football star Robert Turbin, who has emerged as an example of overcoming tremendous obstacles to achieve success gave an inspirational talk about achieving goals both on and off the field. On Sunday, it was time for those ages 13 to 17 to participate in real game simulations and learn strategies for success in Mission Valley Athletic League sports.

Youth cricket comes to Stevenson Cricket Ground

SUBMITTED BY SIMRAN THADANI

EYCA (East Bay Youth Cricket Association) hosted the National Youth Cricket League tournament, June 30 - July 8. This is the largest youth cricket tournament held in the USA. More than 1500 adults and 1000 kids in 60 teams from all over the US visited Bay Area cricket fields including Central Park in Fremont.

The organization is focused on teaching the art of Cricket to boys and girls age 5 and up by providing options from social cricket to serious curriculum-based programs. Though EYCA promotes passion for cricket, the club maintains an on-field fair play and off-field family-oriented culture. We have been the U10, U12, and U14 National Champions and have been awarded the ICC America's Best Junior Participation Award.

The parent/volunteer-run EYCA is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. Parent volunteers have played key role in growth of the club since its inception. Check out eastbaycricket.org for more details.

Youth volleyball coming to town

SUBMITTED BY
ANAHI TORRES

Learning to play the net and when to spike the ball are important skills to have for successful volleyball players. While practicing these moves during a game is a good start, formal instruction and critiques by a teacher can make the difference between a good volleyball player and a great one.

For young people in the Fremont area who want to learn or develop their volleyball skills, the United States Youth Volleyball League (USYVL) can help. The non-profit organization is forming an instructional volleyball league for boys and girls ages 7 to 15 that will meet Sept. 12 through Nov. 3.

The eight-week developmental league will meet twice a week and will teach players basic volleyball skills in a positive environment. The program is structured around the principles of participation, teamwork, skill development, sportsmanship, and fun. Practices and games operate in a coed format and offer participants the opportunity to develop self-esteem and confidence.

League practices will be 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Wednesdays with games from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. at Irvington Community Park, 41885 Blacov Road, Fremont. The registration fee is $175 per student through Aug. 1; and $195 per student from Aug. 2 through Sept. 1. The fee includes a volleyball, T-shirt and end of season participation award for each player.

To register, visit the USYVL website at www.usyvl.org/locations/fremont. More information is available at 1-(800) 988-7985 or by sending an email to info@usyvl.org.

THEATRE REVIEW

BY JULIE GRABOWSKI
DEBBIE OTTERSTETTER

Stage 1 Theatre and Ohlone Summerfest rewind the clock to 1962 Baltimore where kids are dancing the Stricken Chicken, The Madison, and Peyton Place After Midnight and securing their towering hairdos with gallons of Ultra Clutch Hairspray.

Dance-crazed, plus-size girl Tracy Turnblad and her best friend Penny are devoted to The Corny Collins Show, a local TV dance program which features teen heartthrob Link Larkin. When there is an opening for a new girl on the show, Tracy is determined to audition, though her mother Edna, who is ashamed of her own weight, warns her, “They don’t put people like us on television – except to be laughed at.”

But size isn’t the only thing to overcome on The Corny Collins Show. The all-white program allows a token Negro Day once a month, and Tracy thinks it’s stupid that everyone can’t dance together and wants to “make every day Negro Day.” And when she wins over Corny Collins and lands on the show, that’s just what she’s determined to do. Corny thinks Tracy’s arrival is the perfect launch to integrating the show, saying, “It’s time we put kids on the show who look like the kids who watch the show.”

But controlling, racist producer Velma Von Tussle thinks the show is just fine as is and will do anything she can to prevent change.

With her big heart, big hair, and indomitable spirit, Tracy challenges stereotypes and social norms and chases love in the unique world of colorful characters, playful, upbeat songs and dance that is the Tony-Award winning musical “Hairspray.”

Director Gary Ferguson presents a candy shop of a production with seamless weaving of elements that create a visual and aural party. Fred Alim’s set design takes us through Tracy’s Baltimore with plenty of texture, color, and interest, while costume designer Isaac Booth parades a bevy of fun and fabulous fashions with some choice Corny Collins suits and a wonderful butterfly-inspired dress for Tracy. The show is also supported by excellent live orchestration under the direction of Josh Milbourne.

Jamie Gussman’s energy and enthusiasm make a strong, likable Tracy, and Randall Watts has no trouble working a dress and a towering hairdo as Edna. He has you firmly in her corner as she struggles to accept herself and revive her dreams, moving beyond the view of herself as “a mere housewife of indeterminable girth.” Greg Lynch nicely rounds out the Turnblad family as zany joke shop owner Wilbur who encourages Tracy to follow her dreams. Watts and Lynch are a sweet, off-beat pair, best shown in “You’re Timeless to Me.”

Melissa Momboisse makes geeky, gum chewing Penny an instant favorite with her easy, relentless spot-on humor and fun, and budding romance with the smooth dancing Seaweed (Justin Daily). Allie Townsend is a shiny, full-service package of evil delight. She wears Velma’s privilege and superiority with surety and displays excellent vocals in “Miss Baltimore Crabs.”

Mauriah McHenry scores big points as Little Inez, proving a crowd favorite in “Run and Tell That” and further impressing with her gymnastic moves in “You Can’t Stop the Beat.” Dane Lentz is a solid Corny Collins, Ashley Rose Mulfich fits the bill as “plastic little spastic” mean girl

Amber, and Max Cordoba’s Link is sweet and a fitting match with Gussman.

“Welcome to the ‘60s” is arguably the hit of Act 1, the encouraging anthem delivering a dramatic makeover, a band of pink fashionistas, and the wonderful shimmering Dynamites (Marissa Madan, Jackie Bolivar, Jasmine Mallory).

While racism and body image are serious matters, “Hairspray” treats them with a very light touch. However, Act 2 gets some brief added weight with the inclusion of a video clip of Martin Luther King, Jr.’s “I Have a Dream” speech. The gravity is further solidified by the song which follows, “I Know Where I’ve Been,” sung by the remarkable Juanita Harris (Motormouth Maybelle), who brought audience members to their feet. Harris is also a showstopper in “Big, Blond and Beautiful.”

“You Can’t Stop the Beat” is the perfect finish to a tale which affirms that color, weight, or hair height doesn’t determine our value or diminish the power of our dreams, passions, and love.

Join National Surprise Family Play Day!

JENNIFER HILL

Life tends to get so overscheduled and busy these days. You’d think that summer would mean we might slow down a bit, but that’s not always the case!

August is just around the corner and we are running short on time to create summer 2018 memories with our families. What better way to do that than with a Surprise Family Play Day? What’s that you ask? A day of fun and surprise for your kids and family. Let’s take Saturday, July 14 as the official Surprise Family

Play Day this summer and create some lifelong lasting memories with your family.

The surprise fun can be as simple or as elaborate as you’d like. And there are no rules as to who’s invited; limit it to just your immediate family, include the grandparents, an aunt or uncle, cousins, family friends, or anyone you’d like to share this fun day with.

What should you do? This can be as simple or as elaborate as you’d like. Here are some local suggestions to get your ideas flowing:

Fishing

Wake the kids up with a dirt cup (chocolate pudding with Oreo crumbs and gummy worms) for a silly breakfast and announce an outing to Quarry Lakes in Fremont for some family fishing fun.

Teddy Bear Farm Picnic

Wake the kids up with a new stuffed animal, pack a picnic of everyone’s favorites, and head to Ardenwood Farm to enjoy a Teddy Bear picnic.

Hit the Water Park

Surprise the kids with the announcement of a day at the water park. Visit Aqua Adventure in Fremont or Silliman Aquatic Center in Newark.

Family Hike

We are so lucky to live in an area with not only great weather, but also some awesome areas to hike. From toddler-friendly Coyote Hills to difficult Mission Peak and many in between, you are sure to find something to suit your family. Pack a lunch and head out for a fun day in the outdoors.

Shoot Your Town A to Z

Wake the kids with a disposable camera or two and head out to shoot something around town that starts with each letter of the alphabet. At the end of the day, drop them to get developed, while teaching the kids patience, and then when you pick them up, relive the memories over and over again by putting them into an album.

Jump for Joy at a Trampoline Park

Get exercise and lots of family fun for all ages at one of our local trampoline parks or bounce play places.

Backyard Camping

Set up the backyard for a family campout either under the stars or in a tent. Play games, make s’mores, sleep under the stars.

Outdoor Movie Night

Plan an outdoor movie night or head to a drive-in theater (there is one in San Jose) and enjoy a family film. Stock up on some movie treats at the dollar store, pop some popcorn and relax.

Ride the Rails

Visit Ardenwood Farm to make this one easy and local from 10:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Bring a picnic and enjoy the farm for the afternoon.

Visit an Aquarium

Wake the kids with a fishbowl and a goldfish and announce your plans to visit an aquarium. If a live goldfish is too much of a commitment, fill the bowl with goldfish crackers or Swedish Fish. Visit the Monterey Bay Aquarium or the Aquarium of the Bay in San Francisco for a fun day trip.

There are three caveats: 1) Don’t tell the kids in advance. 2) Turn off your cell phone and leave the kids’ devices at home. 3) Tell us about your family fun! Post on social media and use #MKPlayDay so we can see all the fun families enjoyed.

Wake the kids up on Saturday, July 14 with a fun plan for the day and enjoy! Visit www.fremont.macaronikid.com for more family fun ideas.

Traditional dance group celebrates 25 years in Bay Area

SUBMITTED BY
TANUJA GAIROLA

Guru Jyoti Rout founded the Fremont-based Jyoti Kala Mandir College of Indian Classical Arts in 1993 to preserve, promote, and showcase the beautiful classical dance form from India called Odissi. The institution not only trains the students in music and dance, it also conducts events like dance and music festivals, workshops, seminars, and dance recitals by eminent artists.

Odissi dance originated in Orissa, India, as a form of worship in temples. Many dance pieces retell stories about Krishna and other deities through hand gestures and facial expressions (see <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Odissi>).

Odissi has survived for over two thousand years as an oral tradition. To preserve this ancient art, a group of dance gurus, scholars, and musicians are dedicated to reconstructing this form from authentic sources. In doing so, they breathe life into the formalized movements and standard stage repertoire.

Distinct in style from other classical Indian dance forms, Odissi distinguishes itself by its lyrical grace and charm, its rounded, fluid movements, and its sculpturesque poses.

This year we are celebrating the school’s 25th anniversary and have put together a series of shows and performances, starting with our showcase event, ‘Samaya,’ on July 21. For a list of future events visit <http://www.jyotikalamandir.org/?itemID=7>

Alameda County budget approved

SUBMITTED BY GUY ASHLEY

The Alameda County Board of Supervisors on June 29 approved a $3.2 billion Alameda County Budget for FY 2018-19 that is balanced and closes a $65.9 million funding gap without significant reductions to services or staff.

The Final Budget includes funding increases to community service providers, allows the County to continue building its financial reserves, and supports a workforce of more than 9,700 employees. It also expands funding for initiatives addressing some of the County’s most difficult challenges—including the lack of affordable housing, chronic homelessness, and maintenance and improvement of aging infrastructure.

These efforts benefit from a strong regional economy and energized housing market that continue to provide much-needed revenues to the County. For Alameda County, the new fiscal year begins with no shortage of concern about what lies ahead. “The possibility of an economic downturn in the next few years and questions about future State and federal support mean that we should be prepared for significant additional challenges in funding services for County residents,” said Susan S. Muranishi, Alameda County Administrator.

Throughout hearings and deliberations on a Final Budget, County supervisors signaled their support for the $3.2 billion balanced spending plan recommended by Muranishi on June 12. The Final Budget reflected Muranishi’s recommendations, plus the following commitments advanced by individual Board members to address priority issues:

- Homelessness and Housing. The Board declared a ‘shelter crisis’ in Alameda County in order to access additional State funding to deal with the expanding numbers of homeless residents and homeless encampments in the community. The move will add $2.5 million to the County’s Affordable Housing Trust Fund and $5 million to a new Capital Project Fund to provide housing for unsheltered residents. The Board also acted to require local cities to provide matching funds when accessing homelessness funds administered by the County.

- Economic Development/Infrastructure. The Board also committed $5 million to the establishment of a new Economic Development/Infrastructure Fund for East Alameda County that will be administered by the Public Works and Community Development agencies in collaboration with the Board of Supervisors’ District One.
- Census 2020. The Board designated $1.5 million for activities to support a ‘complete count’ for Alameda County in the 2020 Census, due to concerns that the County is short-changed in population-based allocations when residents are missed in the census count. Because the funds come from an existing reserve established by the Board, the action has no direct financial impact on the FY 2018-19 Final Budget.
- Children, Youth and Families. The Board endorsed establishment of a new ‘Enhancing Vision 2026’ Fund to provide $5 million annually for three years to programs supporting children, youth and families. Although not funded in the current year, the fund will provide $1 million annually to enhance programs each supervisor’s district starting in FY 2019-20.

Though resources are limited, the strength of the local economy has allowed Alameda County to fund some modest enhancements to services and to forge ahead with innovative programs to address some of our community’s most difficult challenges:

- Over the past year, the County reasserted its leadership in the areas of sustainability and environmental protection in many ways, including the installation of 1.7 megawatts of new solar panels at Santa Rita Jail. Alameda County facilities now generate more solar energy than any other local government in the country.

- A school immunization program led by the Department of Public Health spurred the largest improvement in immunization rates in local schools in the state.
- East Bay Community Energy, a County launched regional energy authority, became the official energy provider for the unincorporated County and 11 local cities in June.
- The County is spearheading numerous initiatives to address the regional housing crisis by leveraging resources generated by the Measure A1 Affordable Housing General Obligation Bond passed by voters in 2016. These include programs to assist renters, new homeowners and residents at risk of losing their homes, through numerous partnerships with cities and nonprofits.
- Construction of the Cherryland Community Center is expected to be completed in 2019. The $22 million project will provide much needed recreation and gathering space in the Cherryland community near Hayward.
- The Health Care Services Agency continues to expand vital health services, with its “\Healthy Teeth, Healthy Community’ pilot program projected to provide 15,000 low-income children and youth with preventive dental care. The County is also spearheading a palliative care initiative to expand access to end of life planning services and care.

These efforts all reflect priorities outlined in long-term planning efforts by the Board of Supervisors. Earlier this year, the Board approved a new strategic plan, ‘Vision 2026,’ that outlines County priorities for advancing local communities toward a healthy, prosperous future. Our democracy

However, when an issue is paramount in the minds of citizens and they do not feel adequately represented, there are avenues of communication available, both politically and as an alternative response. Protests through organizations using demonstrations of support or opposition can be effective when publicized by the media, but doing so requires significant resources to strategize, organize and define effective tactics. Individuals without substantial access to elected representatives may voice an opinion but usually find themselves restricted to a small audience with limited influence.

There have been attempts to remedy this discrepancy between direct democracy and representative democracy. Some are irregular, disruptive and even dangerous. But, there are methods within our system to address officials and demand to be heard. Among these are the ability to sponsor a citizen initiative, referendum and recall. In California, the struggle to empower citizens to bring an issue directly to voters began in Los Angeles in 1895 through the efforts of Dr. John Haynes. Now, referendums can be found with regularity on ballots throughout the State of California.

In addition, at the local level, there are opportunities for citizens to voice opinions at public meetings within an agenda framework. When items are brought before an elected body in open session, all are invited to comment whether in support or opposition. This form of direct democracy allows each resident or interested party to voice their opinion within a set time limit. Although time consuming and, at times, unorganized, this is an important right... to be heard. Even under a "consent agenda" when what are considered routine decisions are grouped and voted as one, the right to remove an item from this list to be reviewed separately is given to elected officials, staff AND the public.

In addition, time is set aside in government meetings for communications from the public on topics not included in a published agenda. This allows a free and open transfer of information and possible inclusion in a future agenda for action by a governing body. Even elected officials have this option through a "referral" process. If persuaded by constituents or other factors to bring attention to an issue not found on a meeting agenda, an elected official can request consideration and subsequent action. Issues of rent control, marijuana delivery, mega-homes and, on this evening's agenda, development of Cloverleaf Bowl are important topics addressed through council referrals.

All of these actions are an important aspect of our system reflecting the existence of direct democracy even as we practice a representative form of democracy. Although there is much to criticize in our form of government, as Winston Churchill said in a speech to the House of Commons on November 11, 1947:

"Many forms of Government have been tried and will be tried in this world of sin and woe. No one pretends that democracy is perfect or all-wise. Indeed, it has been said that democracy is the worst form of Government except for all those other forms that have been tried from time to time...."

"At the bottom of all the tributes paid to democracy is the little man, walking into the little booth, with a little pencil, making a little cross on a little bit of paper—no amount of rhetoric or voluminous discussion can possibly diminish the overwhelming importance of that point."

Winston Churchill—House of Commons, October, 31, 1944

Our form of government is not a true democracy — one person, one vote. Instead, it is a variation, typically termed a representative democracy. As citizens, we do not decide every issue on an individual voting basis. Instead, those eligible to vote have the right and obligation to choose from our ranks those we trust to lobby and vote with their best judgement on our behalf. This political system, in various versions, has been around since the ancient Greeks employed it to make weighty decisions. They, too, were aware of the clumsy nature of submitting every issue to a popular vote. Individuals were selected to represent groups of people and narrowed the process even further by defining those eligible to participate (i.e. slaves and women were barred from voting).

Obituary

Frederick T. Alfred

Resident of Fremont

June 15, 1929 – June 11, 2018

We are sad to announce the passing of Fred Alfred (Frederick Tanner Alfred) on June 11, 2018. He was born in 1929 in Tennessee. He was a few days shy of his 89th birthday. Fred worked for the United States Postal Service for 40 years. After retirement Fred was a volunteer at Kaiser Fremont for many years. He drove the shuttle and helped direct patients from the desk in the Embarcadero Building. This was a great job for him because he loved striking up lively conversations and was quite the joker. He loved sports, music and his church and participated in many social groups in the Fremont and Hayward areas. A few years after our mother became a widow, she met Fred. He became her “prince charming” and she his “princess”. They were inseparable. Fred was always willing to drive grandkids around to all their events and never hesitated to do so. Thank you Fred for always being there for us. Fred has touched more than just the lives in our family. His desire to help whenever needed was a constant passion of his. A celebration of life will be held 11AM, Saturday, July 21, 2018 at Pathway Community Church, 4500 Thornton Ave, Fremont. 510-797-7910

Gloria Madeline Barnhill

March 6, 1922 – June 30, 2018

Resident of Fremont

Gloria gave her family a gift, a rather special gift, to be passed on from one generation to the next and beyond; the gift of love, devotion, a gentle spirit, kindness, honesty and the belief that everything will be fine.

Her three daughters, Patricia von Buelow, Shelley Barnhill, Kelly Rose, 8 grandchildren, 15 great grandchildren and 1 on the way, 1 great-great grandchild and 1 brother, Frank Acosta and his family, survive Gloria.

Gloria inspired her family in so many ways. The family would like to share their thoughts and memories of their grandmother and great grandmother, also known as GG:

Michael – What a gal – Grams passed down her car to me at 16 years old. That gave me all the freedom one could hope for! I will always have great memories of you.

Gina – Grandma was a beautiful person on the inside and out. I will always remember our childhood poker game on the holidays and the ping-pong matches at Parkmont.

Esiah – I will always remember grams for being a true East Bay sports fan, Go Raiders! We so enjoyed our meals at El Patio. Every birthday I would get a very neatly written B-day card with a check in it.

When I would call her to thank her I would always say, “I’m 40 grams, please don’t send me a check anymore, but every year they came. “ The world is a lesser place without her.

Kristal – Gloria had this grace about her, always looked effortlessly gorgeous. She was kind, generous and loved to laugh. We will miss her dearly.

Hannah – A favorite person to me in this life, the lovely Grandma Gloria; a woman of great moral character, strength and ability to persevere. She taught me the most about humanity. Always, she comes from a place of love.

Scott – Some of my favorite nights as a kid were watching Laurel and Hardy movies with Grandma. We were always watching movies. Me and my brother spent many times on her staircase after small arguments and if we dared curse in front of her chili peppers were promptly placed in our mouths. That’s how it was. She taught us manners and showed us how to have a good heart and be respectful. Could go on forever. I had Grandma’s name tattooed on me when I was 14 years old. Grandma will always be with me forever.

John – All grandma ever asked for was for us as a family all to be happy. She would want us to be happy. Grandma has PURE values and a PURE heart. They don’t make them like you anymore Grandma. You are one of a kind.

Madeline – Grandma was always the calm in the crazy. One of my favorite memories of her was in the delivery room when I was having (baby Gloria) I looked to her (Grandma Gloria) when I needed strength and without any words she encouraged me to stay strong.

Brooklyn and Mason – We had lunch in Tiburon and great-grandma insisted on paying for ice cream after lunch. She was so generous.

Joseph – I miss GG. Every birthday and Christmas she would send me a card. I love her and miss her. I’ll never forget her.

City Council approves separation agreement with City Manager Zapata

SUBMITTED BY ERIC ENGELBART

The San Leandro City Council voted July 2 to approve a mutual separation agreement with City Manager Chris Zapata. “We have agreed to enter into a mutual separation agreement with the City Manager,” said Mayor Pauline Russo Cutter. “Since coming to San Leandro in 2012, Chris has been a valued leader in our community. Included in a long list of accomplishments, our city has made advances in technology, has a strong support net in place for those residents who depend on City services and is more diverse financially than ever before in our history. I am appreciative of Chris’s input to make that happen. I know Chris and his mentoring abilities will be missed but I want to assure you we are planning for his departure and will be in good hands going forward.”

“Chris Zapata has done an excellent job in representing the interests of all San Leandro residents,” the Mayor continued. “We wish him all the best in his future endeavors.”

As part of the mutual separation agreement approved unanimously by the City Council, Zapata will receive a $350,000 severance payment. His employment contract had been set to expire in January 2020.

“I want to thank San Leandro and particularly want to thank City staff and the Mayor and City Council for their work during my time here,” stated Zapata.

Zapata has served as San Leandro City Manager since 2012. He previously had served as City Manager for National City in San Diego County and Deputy City Manager in Glendale, Arizona.

Requests for any further information regarding this matter should be directed to Eric Engelbart at eengelbart@sanleandro.org

The five juvenile swallows sat on my front porch holding their flight suitcases. Swallow departure makes me sad. They had two nests this year, high in my front eaves. Their attentive audience is my ancient cat. Swallows looked down on me from my roof, flied floppily around, and prepared to go. Ciao. By morning they were gone. Maybe. One is flying around. I hear a swallow sound from an overhead nest. I see a long tail sticking out. Perhaps another brood? In honor, some stories.

There are several swallow types breeding in California: Bank, Rough-winged, Violet-green, Tree, Barn, and Cliff. I think mine are Barn with forked tail and zippity flight. In the early evenings, when I watched them play tag across the sky, sometimes I felt like I could almost do it, fly. If you ever see an idjit standing on the sidewalk gently flapping her arms, maybe it's me.

Hope is an eternal thing. Did you know that in Christian lore, a swallow was often portrayed hovering by Christ on the cross as a symbol of the resurrection? To have a swallow nesting on your home is widely believed to be a good omen. In Egyptian lore the swallow was sacred to the mother-goddess Isis. In early Roman times, swallows represented household spirit guardians. Because swallows

Surprise passenger prompts Delta flight to return to Detroit

ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's a bird. It's a plane. No, it's a bird on a plane.

A Delta Air Lines flight captain decided to turn his plane around and return to Detroit after a bird was discovered inside the flight deck.

The airline says in a statement that shortly after takeoff Saturday, the pilots of Flight 1943 from Detroit to Atlanta saw a small bird in the flight deck. The unexpected passenger had entered the aircraft during boarding.

The captain decided to turn the plane around to “avoid a potential distraction” during the flight. The aircraft landed without incident and the bird was removed and set free.

THE ROBOT REPORT

Industrial exoskeletons

By DAN KARA

“Exoskeletons” are those mechanical devices or soft materials worn by patients/operators, whose construction mirrors the structure of operator’s limbs, joints, and muscles, works in tandem with them. Exoskeletons are used as a capabilities amplifier, assistive device, haptic controller, or for rehabilitation. Exoskeletons stand in contrast to non-articulated mechanisms such as braces and slings that do not work complementarily with human operators.

Many early models were designed for military applications, with defense departments, primarily in the US, funding research and development initiatives. Commercialization efforts followed, led by exoskeletons designed for medical rehabilitation (often for wounded veterans), or as mobility aids allowing paraplegics to stand upright, walk and climb stairs (quality-of-life exos).

Exoskeletons designed for performing manual labor tasks in industrial environments are now commercially available. More importantly, exo research is ongoing and more industrial products are coming. It is easy to see why. Many industrial processes are too complex to automate with existing technology. At the same time, some of this same work is too physically demanding or risky to be accomplished by humans.

Exoskeleton technology can act as a bridging solution between the extremes of fully manual, non-technology enabled tasks, to those operations that demand traditional industrial robots. Exoskeletons exploit the intelligence of human operators and the strength, precision and endurance of industrial robots.

The business benefits of commercial/industrial exoskeletons are obvious and easily quantified. They include increased productivity, with a concomitant reduction in the number of worker related injuries, as well as decreased need for expensive, “full on” robotic solutions.

Nascent market

Industrial exoskeletons are primarily being used (or under evaluation) in support manufacturing and logistics work. While the market for wearable, human-guided, industrial exoskeletons is still in its nascence, the opportunity for solution providers is very large.

For example, ABI Research finds that the total addressable market (TAM) for commercial/industrial exoskeletons currently exceeds 2.6 million units, with those featuring technologies that support standing and squatting, the most common type. Many developers of military and healthcare exoskeleton technologies have now added industrial systems to their product lines.

First-generation exoskeletons

The first generation of military and rehabilitation exoskeletons shared many features. Both types were composed of ridged, often heavy, structural elements, including belts, actuators, struts, clips and more. When used, the devices often interfered with the body’s natural movements, decreasing efficiency and run times, and forcing the wearer to expend a great deal of energy to compensate. That is, the use of the exoskeletons produced results that are the opposite of the purported benefits of the technology – power and endurance augmentation. The early military and rehabilitation exoskeletons were also powered using battery packs. Unfortunately, the portable power technology of the time was often too power limited and heavy to for extended work.

Powered and unpowered exoskeletons

The new generation of commercial/industrial exos, some still under development, have benefitted from more efficient battery solutions, while some have resorted non-traditional power solutions such as compressed air. Examples of commercial class powered exoskeletons include Innophys’ Muscle Suit, Activelink’s Powerloader Ninja, Cyberdyne’s HAL for Labor Support RB3D’s HERCULE, Esko Bionics’ Esko Vest, Sarcos Robotics’ Guardian XO and Noonee’s Chairless Chair.

In contrast to powered exoskeletons, unpowered or ‘passive’ exoskeletons increase strength and provide stability through a combination of human guided flexion/extension and locking mechanisms. Unpowered exos for commercial and industrial use includes suitX’s MAX Exoskeleton Suite, Ekso Bionics’ Work Vest, StrongArm Technologies’ FLx ErgoSkeleton, Laevo’s Laevo and Lockheed Martin’s Fortis.

Rigid and soft exoskeletons

Rigid exos can produce musculoskeletal stress and fatigue due to their weight, as well as the unnatural or constrained movement of the suit. As a result, several companies are developing new types of soft exoskeletons made of soft, lightweight, compliant materials. The systems themselves are powered with soft muscle actuators or compressed air or use flexion/extension mechanisms. Bioservo Technologies’ Ironhand and Daiya Industry’s Power Assist Glove serve as examples.

In a manner to first generation systems, groups developing soft exo systems for military, and even consumer applications, such as Harvard University and SuperFlex, respectively, are sure to target the industrial sector at some point.

Researchers from the Wyss Institute for Biologically Inspired Engineering and the Harvard John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied and Sciences (SEAS) are exploring how machine learning can personalize soft exoskeleton controls. The researchers used a technique called “human-in-the-loop optimization.” This uses real-time measurements of human physiological signals, such as breathing rate, to adjust the control parameters. As the algorithm homed in on the best parameters, it directed the exosuit on when and where to deliver assistive force.

More to come

Supported by advances in materials, battery and actuator technologies, new exoskeletons designed for industrial work will continue to come to market. The role for these systems will also expand, and the number of industries employing these technologies will also increase (think construction, agriculture and more). The reasons are obvious: business benefits in terms of increased productivity, reduced worker injuries, and more, are simply too many, and too large, to ignore.

Have you ever wanted to learn more about the Fremont Police Department? An opportunity is coming soon. Starting Tuesday, Aug. 7, the Fremont Police Department will kick off its 43rd Community Police Academy session. The free 40-hour course is designed to give community members a behind the scenes look at the Fremont Police Department.

Academy classes will meet 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesdays, with one Saturday class in the field. The program continues through Oct. 16.

Topics covered in the classes include:

- Communications
- Crime analysis
- Crime prevention
- Criminal Law
- Critical incidents
- Firearms training
- Gangs
- Internal investigations
- Narcotics
- Patrol operations
- Traffic enforcement

To be eligible for the program participants must live or work in the City of Fremont and be at least 18 years-old. Those selected for the academy are expected to participate in 11 out of the 12 sessions. All eligible candidates are subject to a records check. A prior conviction will not automatically disqualify an applicant and will be considered only as it relates to the academy program. This program is not designed for police officer candidates.

Applications are being accepted on a first come first serve basis for the upcoming academy. Because space is limited, only the first 30 qualifying applicants will be selected. The first class will be Tuesday, Aug. 7 with graduation set for Tuesday, Oct. 16.

The academy is an educational experience taught primarily in a classroom setting. Classes are lecture based with some role-playing exercises. Academy participants are not expected to perform actual police officer duties and may elect to not take part in any of the practical exercises.

To download a brochure about the academy or fill out an application, visit the Fremont Police Department website at www.fremontpolice.org/ and then click “Programs” in the navigation bar and choose “Community Police Academy” from the drop-down menu. Completed applications can be sent via email to FPDCommunityAcadejy@Fremont.gov or printed copies can be turned into the police department, attention: Lt. Eric Tang or Lt. Steve Delema.

West Nile Virus

SUBMITTED BY ERIKA CASTILLO

So far this season, Alameda County Mosquito Abatement District has detected four dead birds and seven groups of mosquitoes which have tested positive for West Nile virus. The birds were collected from Union City and Castro Valley. The mosquitoes were collected in Union City and Hayward. Recent West Nile virus positive detections indicate heightened virus transmission in the Union City area west of Interstate 880.

Intensified efforts are focused on locating areas of standing water where the West Nile virus positive bird and mosquito were discovered. Residents are urged to be proactive by eliminating sources of water where mosquitoes can breed and protecting themselves from mosquito bites. If you come across a dead bird, please report it by calling (877) WNV-BIRD or online at www.westnile.ca.gov.

“Infected mosquitoes in the area means there is an increased risk for West Nile virus transmission to people,” said Laboratory Director Eric Haas-Stapleton. “Protect yourself and your family by applying mosquito repellent when spending time outdoors. Containers of water in yards should be dumped and drained, or tightly covered to prevent mosquitoes from breeding in your neighborhood.”

Mosquitoes may breed in almost any type of standing water including but not limited to catch basins, storm drain systems, and swimming pools. Neglected swimming pools continue to be a mosquito breeding issue in Alameda County. If you or anyone you know has an unmaintained swimming pool inform the District, so the proper treatment can be made.

- Reduce the risk of contracting mosquito-borne diseases by following these guidelines:
 - Dump or drain standing water on your property because that is where mosquitoes develop
 - Dawn and dusk is when mosquito activity peaks, limit outdoor activities during this time
 - Defend yourself from mosquito bites by wearing long pants and long-sleeved shirts and apply insect repellent containing EPA-registered active ingredients such as DEET, Picaridin, IR3535, or Oil of lemon eucalyptus

- Door and window screens should be in good repair with no tears or holes
- West Nile virus is transmitted to people and animals through the bite of an infected mosquito

There is no cure for West Nile virus. Approximately one in five people who are infected with West Nile virus will develop symptoms such as fever, headache, body aches, joint pains, vomiting, or rash. Fewer than one percent will develop a serious neurological illness such as encephalitis or meningitis. Adults over 50 years old and people with compromised immune systems are at increased risk of serious complications. Anyone who develops symptoms should seek medical care immediately.

For information about mosquitoes, West Nile virus, or to request any services offered by the District, visit their website at www.mosquitoes.org or call (510) 783-7744. Residents can also request mosquito-fish for their fish ponds, horse troughs, or neglected swimming pools at the District office located in Hayward at 23187 Connecticut St. For information concerning West Nile virus symptoms, prevention or testing please contact the Alameda County Public Health Department at (510) 267-8001.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. Police ask for help identifying indecent exposure suspect

GENEVA BOSQUES,
FREMONT P.D.

Detectives are seeking the help of our community to identify a suspect responsible for several recent indecent exposure incidents. Since sending out a press release and sketch of a suspect wanted in connection with a residential burglary and indecent exposure incident on June 21, we have been able to connect three additional Fremont cases We also believe the same suspect was caught on video in a Pleasanton incident that occurred the night of July 5 (<http://nixle.com/alert/6671150/>). We believe the first Fremont case took place June 15, 2018 at 12:39 a.m. Two females were sitting inside their residence, located in the 42800 block of Deauville Part Ct., when they noticed motion in their backyard. One of the female's looked outside and saw a naked man touching his genitals waving at them. They immediately called the police and the suspect left the area before police arrived.

The second incident took place on June 21. at 2:20 a.m., Fremont Dispatchers received a 911 call reporting an in-progress residential burglary on Andromeda Circle. When officers arrived at the scene they learned the suspect had also exposed himself to the victim. Sometime between approximately 2:00 a.m. – 2:15 a.m., an unknown male suspect entered the side yard of the residence and then through an unlocked rear glass sliding door to gain entry into the house. An 18-year-old female resident was awoken to the sound of the suspect inside the residence. She opened her eyes to see the male completely naked standing near her bedroom doorway and masturbating. The victim screamed to alert the other occupants and the suspect immediately fled the residence on foot.

The third and fourth incidents both occurred on June 27. The first took place at 9:15 p.m. in the 39000 block of Blacow Road. Two victims were sitting in a car when a naked man touching his genitals emerged. The suspect tried to speak to the victims. They watched the suspect flee and get into a vehicle, described as a newer model white Cadillac SUV crossover 4-door similar to the XT5 or SRX, with dark tinted windows. The second incident occurred less than an hour later at 10:07 p.m. in the 1400 block of Red Hawk Circle. The naked suspect approached a female victim who was walking her dog through an apartment complex. The victim ran away to safety and the male did not follow her.

The victim described the suspect as a white male, possibly mixed race with olive skin in his early 20's, about 5'05" - 5'06" and weighing approximately 160 lbs. He had dirty brown colored hair kept in a fade style haircut (possibly a #1 cut on the side and a #2 cut on the top). Based on the recent photos obtained, we believe the suspect could be closer to about 6' in height. The suspect was described as athletic but not muscular and had a tattoo on his left arm at or just below his bicep, a thin green ring or band encircling the lower left portion of his bicep. She described the tattoo as being similar to barbed wire or rose stem with thorns.

One key piece of identifying evidence in this series, is the suspect's distinct tattoo. In the most recent Pleasanton incident, the tattoo clearly depicts a feather hanging from a ring around the suspect's right bicep. Anyone with information about this case is asked to please contact the Fremont Police Department's Investigative Unit at 510-790-6900 or email Detective Collins at MJCollins@fremont.gov. We will also accept anonymous tips. Text TIP FREMONT PD followed by your message to 888-777 or submit the tip online <https://local.nixle.com/tip/alert/6216337>.

Bill targeting HOA abuses moves forward

SUBMITTED BY JEFF BARBOSA

A bill to curb abuses in California's more than 55,000 homeowner associations (HOA) by adding requirements that will lead to fairer elections was approved July 3 by the Assembly Judiciary Committee. Senate Bill 1265, authored by Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont), now heads to the Assembly floor. It has already been approved by the state Senate.

"When people cast a vote in a presidential, state, city or homeowner association election, they expect fairness and integrity in the electoral process," said Wieckowski, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee. "Unfortunately, a number of HOA boards have used their rules and by-laws to keep their control and power over the association to the exclusion of other residents. SB 1265 adds reasonable requirements that will lead to more transparency and make sure homeowners' rights will not be infringed upon."

Some boards have fined and disqualified HOA residents from running for a board seat, failed to properly notice an election, thrown out valid ballots and failed to deliver ballots.

SB 1265 places limits on the unchecked authority of homeowner associations to impose "qualifications" on HOA candidates. It also requires that the meeting at which ballots are counted be accessible to all members and their representatives. The meeting must also take place on the common area of the association's property or within reasonable distance from the property. The bill also contains several notice requirements to ensure residents have reasonable time to become aware of the candidates and the voting procedures.

People or businesses currently employed or under contract with the HOA for other services would be prohibited from serving as the inspector of elections.

SB 1265 is supported by the American Civil Liberties Union, the California Alliance for Retired Americans and several other organizations across California.

Warm Springs BART Bridge and Plaza

Construction on the new Warm Springs BART West Access Bridge and Plaza is starting this summer. The project includes a pedestrian and bicycle bridge that will cross over the existing Union Pacific railroad tracks and connect the Warm Springs/South Fremont BART Station to a new public plaza west of the station.

The bridge will facilitate access from the BART station to the new residential and commercial development in the area and nearby major employers such as Tesla and Thermo Fisher. The plaza will provide a pleasant space for people to gather, meet, and play. It will include several features, such as seating areas, event space, public art, solar charging stations for mobile devices, and LED column lighting. Both the bridge and plaza are expected to be completed in early 2020. Construction is funded by Measure BB and the Alameda County Transportation Commission.

For more information, including site maps and renderings, please visit www.Fremont.gov/WarmSpringsPlaza.

Fremont City Council Elections

This November, four Fremont City Council seats will be up for election on the General Municipal Ballot. Under Fremont’s new district-based election system, voters may elect candidates only from the district that they live in. Voters residing in District 1 (Northwest Fremont), District 2 (Central North Fremont), District 3 (Central Fremont), and District 4 (Eastern Fremont) will elect a City Councilmember to represent their district in the upcoming election.

Fremont residents can identify the district they live in by visiting the Council District Locator tool at www.Fremont.gov/CouncilDistrictLocator and plugging in a home address. This tool includes mapping layers of City and public safety facilities, public schools, shopping centers, and Alameda County voter precincts as reference points. In addition, the locator includes a link to designated polling places.

The candidate nomination period opens on Monday, July 16 and ends on Friday, August 10. Information about the preliminary candidates will be available during that nomination period.

To vote in the election, you must be a U.S. citizen, at least 18 years old, a resident of Fremont, and neither in prison nor on parole for a felony conviction. Make sure you are registered at least 15 days before the election. Re-registration is required if you have moved since you last registered, changed your name, or changed your political party affiliation. Polls open at 7 a.m. on Tuesday, November 6 and close at 8 p.m.

Those interested in learning more about how Fremont launched the process to convert elections from the at-large voting system to a district-based process can read more at www.Fremont.gov/DistrictElectionsBackground. For more information contact the City Clerk’s Office at (510) 284-4060 or cclerk@fremont.gov.

Fremont Hosts Homelessness Conversations

The City held a Council Study Session on April 17, 2018 to discuss the topic of homelessness, related challenges and opportunities, and possible actions the City can take to improve the current situation in Fremont.

Homelessness is a complex societal issue created by a variety of factors including lack of affordable housing, mental illness, and substance abuse, among others. In recent years, the number of unsheltered or homeless individuals has increased not just in Fremont, but for the entire state of California. As of January 2017, the City’s biennial homeless count indicated there were 479 homeless persons in Fremont and it is estimated the actual number is higher.

Historically, the City has managed its homeless efforts with existing resources but given the growing magnitude of the issue, staff is recommending additional resources and a new, more coordinated approach to mitigate the impact of homelessness on our community and on the homeless individuals within it. The City Council directed staff to analyze the following options for future consideration:

- Increasing staffing to address homeless issues
- Expanding temporary shelter options
- Creating a day center
- Offering temporary safe parking
- Creating a flexible spending fund which can be used to:

- 1) Offer incentives to landlords to accept residents who have governmental housing subsidies
 - 2) Provide subsidies for rapid rehousing and to help those facing a housing crisis maintain their housing and avoid eviction
- Modify City requirements to allow faith-based organizations to shelter homeless individuals on a temporary and/or seasonal basis, without permit fees/or cost

This is a pressing societal issue and the entire community is encouraged to engage and assist Fremont in identifying solutions. The City will be holding another meeting to discuss homelessness issues at the July 17 Council meeting that begins at 7 p.m.

National Night Out

The 35th annual Night Out 2018 is right around the corner. This annual event is designed to strengthen neighborhood spirit and raise crime prevention awareness throughout the nation. Fremont Police will partner with staff from across City departments to visit block parties throughout the community between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Tuesday, August 7, 2018.

Mark the date and visit www.FremontPolice.org/NNO for more information on how to register your block party.

Governor Brown Signs Final State Budget

SUBMITTED BY GOVERNOR’S PRESS OFFICE

Seven and a half years after taking office and inheriting a $27 billion budget deficit, California Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. today signed his final state budget, which fills the Rainy Day Fund to the brim and sends record funding to California’s classrooms.

“When I took office back in 2011 with the state facing a $27 billion deficit, I pledged to work with the Legislature to fix California’s financial mess,” said Governor Brown. “Today, the final budget I sign delivers on that pledge and prepares us for the future.”

On June 27, 2018, the Governor was joined by Senate President pro Tempore Toni Atkins, Assembly Speaker Anthony Rendon and budget chairs Senator Holly J. Mitchell and Assemblymember Phil Ting.

“This budget is the product of all of us working together to craft a fiscally responsible plan that serves the people of California while at the same time saves for the future,” said Senate President pro Tempore Atkins. “I especially want to thank Governor Brown’s leadership – in this, his last budget – for helping to bring back California from a historic recession and onto a solid economic footing.”

“Devastating budget cuts first compelled me to run for the Assembly. I thought we needed to do better, and this budget does better,” said Assembly Speaker Rendon. “There is more to do, but by investing in our people and saving for the future, this budget gives us the tools we need to keep doing better.”

“Governor Brown has done an admirable job in leading our state out of budget deficits to financial stability. This is a spending plan we can be proud of because it makes the right investments and reflects many of California’s values,” said Assemblymember and Assembly Budget Committee Chair Ting. “I’m especially glad we were able to partner with cities and counties to help them address the homeless crisis with unprecedented funding for more shelters and services.”

“This budget strikes an appropriate balance that strengthens our state’s fiscal stability with an unprecedented level of reserves, while prioritizing investments that will address the pressing needs of this state,” said Senator and Senate Budget and Fiscal Review Committee Chair Mitchell. “We continue to work toward restoring programs that still have yet to be made whole from devastating cuts during the great recession and prioritize funding to confront the challenges associated with homelessness and disaster response.”

Significant Details of the 2018-19 State Budget:

Saving for Uncertain Times
The state’s Rainy Day Fund, established by a vote of the people in 2014, saves money when the economy is strong for uncertain times ahead. By the end of 2018-19, the current economic expansion will have matched the longest in post-war history. The budget fully fills the fund, growing the balance to an unprecedented $13.8 billion.

Supporting our Schools
The budget increases funding by more than $4,600 per student over 2011-12 levels and directs $78.4 billion in funding to K-14 schools – a 66 percent increase in annual funding from seven years ago. Additionally, the state will fully implement the Local Control Funding Formula, correcting historical inequities in school district funding.

Counteracting the Effects of Poverty and Combatting Homelessness

The budget invests $5 billion to help address challenges with affordable housing and homelessness, including providing $500 million to assist local governments in their immediate efforts to help homeless Californians. The state also continues to provide billions of dollars to: raise the state’s minimum wage; grow the state’s Earned Income Tax Credit program; expand health care coverage to millions more Californians; restore low-income health benefits eliminated during the recession; boost CalWORKs grants; and increase child care and early education provider rates and the number of children served.

Strengthening Infrastructure

This budget delivers the first full year of funding under Senate Bill 1 – the state’s Road Repair and Accountability Act – with $4.6 billion in new transportation funding in 2018-19. The funding will repair neighborhood roads, state highways and bridges, fill potholes, ease congestion in busy trade and commute corridors and improve and modernize passenger rail and public transit.

Investing in Higher Education

The budget continues to increase funding for the state’s university and community colleges systems with no tuition or fees hikes and establishes the state’s first-ever online community college. Since 2012, the University of California has received $1.2 billion in new funding, with $1.7 billion for the California State University and $2.4 billion for community colleges over the same period.

Combating Climate Change

The budget includes a $1.4 billion Cap and Trade Expenditure Plan to invest in programs that further reduce carbon pollution and support climate resiliency efforts, including $210 million for forest improvement and fire prevention projects that protect the state’s forests from wildfires and $334.5 million for the California Energy Commission and the California Air Resources Board to begin the implementation of a multi-year initiative to accelerate sales of zero-emission vehicles through vehicle rebates and infrastructure investments.

Protecting Hardworking Immigrants

The budget provides $79 million to support hardworking immigrants through a number of legal services programs, including deportation defense, naturalization services and DACA assistance.

The budget and related acts signed by the Governor today include:

- AB 1808 by the Committee on Budget – Education finance: education omnibus trailer bill.

Hayward Street Party

SUBMITTED BY THE
HAYWARD CHAMBER OF
VICTOR CARVELLAS

The 2018 Downtown Hayward Street Party season continues its 19th year on Thursday, July 19 with bands, the second of three summer car shows, street entertainers, food, and family fun. The season kicked off with a celebration June 21 and concludes August 16.

On July 19, the Bank of the West Stage will feature Third Sol in the Buffalo Bill's Brewery Beer Garden between PLAT Restaurant and Bank of the West. Also performing that night will be Mitch Polzak and The Royal Deuces on the Bistro Patio Stage, and an additional act on the Buffalo Bill's Stage. DJ Robert Louis will entertain at Car Show Central at the chamber of commerce's Main Street Stage.

Additional fun will be provided by street entertainers, face painters, and rides for kids. All ages will appreciate the more than 100 hot rods and classics at the FH Dailey Chevrolet Car Show on Main Street. Car show participants should enter at C and Main streets, where they'll pay $10 and then receive a swag bag of goodies and coupons to use at Hayward businesses. Vehicles should be pre-1975 (but exceptions are always made for beautiful vehicles of all types).

“It says a lot about Hayward that our participants look at the Street Parties as a family reunion,” said Kim Huggett, president of the Hayward Chamber of Commerce. “These are events that not only are family-friendly, but the coolness factor is there too.”

The Street Party series is made possible through a partnership of the Downtown Business Improvement Area, the City of Hayward, and the Hayward Chamber of Commerce.

Corporate sponsors of the Street Party series include Buffalo Bill's, Kaiser Permanente, Anheuser Busch, the East Bay Times, Calpine's Russell City Energy Center, FH Dailey Chevrolet, KKIQ, Hayward's Grocery Outlet, St. Rose Hospital, Bay Area News Group, Moler Barber College, Eden Medical Center, Quick Quack Car Wash, Waste Management of Alameda County, and PG&E.

The chamber office is still accepting reservations from vendors for the July and August events, but the deadline is near.
