Canine adventures await at Workindoggz

BY ROBBIE FINLEY

Working professionals often need a place to take their canine family while away at work or on vacation. That's where Hayward's Workindoggz comes into play. An East Bay daycare, boarding, and pet hiking company, Workindoggz provides stellar care for your furry friends.

Started in 2012 in Castro Valley, the family-run business has provided daycare, boarding, and hike services for dogs throughout the East Bay. Now operating off Hayward's C Street since August 2018, Workindoggz has transformed their space and made it their own with a campground/national parks theme that is evident everywhere, from the cabin-styled dog houses to the signage and giant nature murals along the walls, painted by Rebekka G. A giant Workindoggz mural in the building's lobby was done by SF Bay Murals. "We call the staff

'Rangers,'" said Marie Kulka, Workindoggz's campground manager. She added, "We're doing a lot of buildout, ramping up..." Owner Cody Kulka added, "Having a complete facility that's not polished yet, you get a lot of good input."

Pakistani American Community Center

What started off as Urdu classes for kids developed into a center for an entire community. Pakistani American Community Center (PACC) is a non-profit, non-religious, and non-partisan organization in Milpitas and the first Pakistani American community center in California.

The organization was founded in 2007 by Farrukh Shah Khan and M. Asghar Aboobaker. They noticed children in their community were not speaking Urdu, the national language of Pakistan, and decided to start Urdu language classes. Rabia Adil, PACC Board of Trustees President, said Milpitas became a good location for the center, while reaching many in the Pakistani community. "We have a large community in the South Bay and we have a large community in the East Bay. Milpitas is kind of like the middle ground, which is approachable from all sides," said Adil.

Kwanzaa celebrates family, community, and culture

SUBMITTED BY AFRO-AMERICAN CULTURAL & HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Kwanzaa is an African American celebration that embraces African American heritage and a strong sense of human values. It is not a religious holiday, nor does it replace Christmas. The word "Kwanzaa" means "first fruit of the harvest" in Swahili. Swahili is used because it is one of the easiest languages spoken in West Africa for English speakers to learn. West Africa was chosen because it is where slaves were taken from.

Kwanzaa was created by Dr. Karenga of California State University in Long Beach in 1965

Community members, family and friends came together to attend Washington Hospital Healthcare Foundation's annual holiday tree lighting ceremonies. These tree lightings raise awareness and funds for hospice and palliative care in Washington Township Health Care District.

Trees of Angels was founded 23 years ago by Al Bernardin, the owner of several McDonald's restaurants in the Tri-City Area. After seeing the exceptional care given to a loved one by hospice nurses, Bernardin decided to work with the Washington Hospital Healthcare Foundation to help raise funds for families that did not have the means to pay for hospice care.

Al's son, Mark Bernardin, and his wife Gaby, have continued the tradition. Each year the Foundation and the Bernardin family light the first Angel Tree together. In recent years, Trees of Angels have also provided funds to help establish a palliative care program at Washington Hospital that focuses on relieving suffering for patients being treated for a serious illness.

The 2018 Trees of Angels celebration began with a tree lighting ceremony on Monday, November 26. Fremont Mayor, Lily Mei, offered remarks and lit the Angel Tree at the Bernardin Family McDonald's restaurant at the corner of I-680 and Mission Boulevard. Guests enjoyed holiday favorites sung by Saint Joseph school children's choir. The tent was adorned with holiday lights and miniature rosemary trees.

On Thursday, November 29, community members, Hospital employees, and children of all ages gathered in Washington West to enjoy entertainment, a photo with Santa, refreshments and tree lighting. The tree, adorned with beautiful lights and ornaments, was decorated by Washington Hospital Service League Parliamentarian, Debbie Jackson. Helen Kennedy, President of the Foundation, emceed the event. The children of Little Washington Township, Kidango entertained the crowd with songs. Following their performance, the Tap Dancing Christmas Trees took the stage for a festive show. Santa and Mrs. Claus were available to take photos and hear wish list requests.

On Monday, December 3, the third tree lighting was held at the Newark City Hall. This event was co-hosted by the City of Newark. Santa and Mrs. Claus mingled in the crowd and Mayor Al Nagy emceed the program. The little ones from the City of Newark Licensed Child Care enthusiastically sang holiday favorites, followed by a performance by the talented Newark Memorial Advanced Choir, led by Joanne Hong. The beautiful tree was lit once again this year in memory of Newark Police Chief, Carl Pierce, who passed away in 1986.

The final tree lighting, co-hosted by the City of Union City and the Union City Chamber of Commerce, took place at City Hall on December 5. The James Logan Jazz Singers, led by Erin McShane, entertained attendees with holiday favorites. Union City Mayor, Carol Dutra-Vernaci, gave remarks. Following the tree lighting, Santa and Mrs. Claus took photos with the children while volunteers handed out cookies and refreshments generously donated by Union City chamber members.

"On behalf of the Foundation, I would like to thank our Trees of Angels sponsors and all the community members who attended the tree lightings this year. It is always a wonderful way to kick off the holiday season with friends and family in support of such a worthy cause," said Helen Kennedy.

Fossils

spark interest in local Ice Age artifacts

SUBMITTED BY
JOYCE R. BLUEFORD

Everyone talks about climate change, but few understand how scientists develop evidence. Paleontology plays an important part in understanding the story of how organisms live and die over time. Fossils in the San Francisco Bay area reveal a complex change from marine conditions to land as the California coastline started to emerge. The interaction of land and water allows paleontologists to look at these climate changes over time.

In the Fremont area, Ice Age Fossils reveal a megafauna that roamed and lived in the area. The Irvingtonian time (mid Pleistocene of ,24-1.8 million years ago) showed a warm and wet time, with lush vegetation to support the mammoths, mastodons, sabertooth cats, camels, horses, sloths, short faced bear, pronghorn antelopes, and more.

The City of Fremont and Math Science Nucleus have been working over the last 15 years to preserve the area where they were excavated (area between Osgood and Mission area along Sabercat Historical Park). The City has done extensive environmental restoration of the creek and trail while the Math Science Nucleus with the help of the Gordon Family have preserved the fossils at the Children's Natural History Museum. A bold new plan to build a new walking/bicycle bridge to connect the fossil site on the east side of 680 freeway with the new museum on the west side. How climate change through time affect's life will be one of the main themes of the museum.

State Senator Bob Wieckowski, an avid supporter of the fossils and the Gordon Family is helping craft a concept that that would include a bridge over 680 to an area near the original quarry, which is now owned by the state (Caltrans).

Different organizations are starting to work together to visualize a new museum near the proposed Irvington BART Station. This museum would house the over 1500 fossils already provided by the Gordon Family and other fossils found in the San Francisco Bay area. About 1000 were recently found under the house of Wes Gordon. They were wrapped in newspaper from 1963, and were neatly arranged in a dirt cellar. Presently they are being identified and added to the original collection of Wes Gordon's and the Math Science Nucleus' extensive fossil collection.

Thousand more fossils are located at the University of California Museum of Paleontology, which were collected mainly by the boy paleontologist's under Wes Gordon's watchful eyes.

Interested in learning more? A series of informational lectures are being held at the Children's Natural History Museum on Tuesday, December 27 (3 p.m. - 4 p.m.) and Thursday, January 3 (1:30 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.). These presentations will help people visualize the configuration of the planned museum. A tour of the museum will be given after the lecture. We are also looking for people to help with the present museum, including displays or becoming docents or helping find funds to help with staffing and upgrades to the museum. Fremont residents who might have specimens from this area may want to donate them. If anyone is interested in helping with the Children's Natural History Museum, please contact Dr. Joyce Blueford, Board President of the Math Science Nucleus (510) 790-6284 or blueford@msnucleus.org. The museum is looking for people to serve on different committees from docents to fundraisers, to help keep the museum in Fremont.

The museum is currently open to the public on Tuesdays and Thursdays (2 p.m. - 5 p.m.) and First and Third Saturday (1 p.m. - 5 p.m.). Ken and Sam Miller, docents at the museum keep visitors occupied with fossils and other science fun.

Volunteers distribute gifts to local children

ARTICLE AND PHOTO SUBMITTED BY GLORIA PEÑA

As part of its effort to promote goodwill during the holiday season, St. Rose Hospital again partnered with The Salvation Army to promote The Angel Tree Program.

Through this Program, anonymous donors adopt The Salvation Army's little "angels" in an expanding Christmas tradition that makes the Holiday Season brighter for both the gift giver and receiver. This year, St. Rose Hospital doctors, staff, and volunteers donated more than 100 gifts for distribution to children in the Hayward Area.

St. Rose Hospital is an independent, nonprofit community hospital has been an integral part of the Hayward community for more than 55 years. The Hospital, accredited by The Joint Commission, has built a strong reputation for outstanding cardiology, emergency, diagnostics and women's services. More than 300 highly-skilled physicians practice at the hospital, along with an experienced staff to provide high quality, yet cost-effective health care to the community, regardless of income or insurance status.

School conversion project extended one year

SUBMITTED BY KENNETH BLACKSTONE

At its December 12 meeting the Fremont Unified School District (FUSD) Board of Trustees voted to extend the timetable for the conversion of Horner Middle School by one year to the fall of 2020. The remaining schedule for the conversion of the other four FUSD junior high schools to middle schools is unchanged.

"We believe this proactive decision by the Board at this time is in the best interest of students and their families as they can adequately plan for the schools they will attend next year," said Dr. Kim Wallace, Superintendent. "It also benefits teachers and staff as we plan for the shifts in personnel necessary to support the middle school conversion."

During the meeting, board members received a presentation on the status of the new construction and modernization project at Horner Middle School, which is located on Chapel Way in the Irvington district. Despite a sixth-month setback in starting the project due to delayed approval from the Division of the State Architect, Phase 1 of construction is on track to be completed by next fall but the compressed schedule meant that any unforeseen delays could have caused disruptions to the opening of Horner.

The district has mitigation strategies in place to deal with common delays, such as a set number of rain days. However, the unpredictable delays resulting from extended bad weather, shortages of raw materials and labor from natural disasters, delays in utility connections and a highly competitive construction market increase that risk. Board members cited optimized student safety, the number of other construction projects, and ample time remaining to inform parents and adjust staffing needs accordingly as reasons to modify the Horner conversion timetable now.

Construction is continuing but with a less aggressive schedule. The alternate plan will allow for some project costs to be credited back to the school district, the substantial completion of all core facilities and a safer transition because construction will be minimized around the student population.

East Bay Chinese community raises funds for fire victims

SUBMITTED BY JEFF WANG

Greater Shanghai Alliance, a non-profit organization devoted to promoting culture exchange between China and the United States along with JD McCallum Inc. and the International Culture Exchange Alliance, recently organized a fundraising dinner and charity show to help with the rebuilding of Paradise, California after the deadly Camp Fire. The event raised more than $12,000 which will go toward the relief efforts to people displaced by the blaze.

The fire, which started November 8, destroyed 18,793 buildings including 13,972 homes and 528 business, leaving many people homeless during the holiday season.

More than 400 people attended the event, held December 15 at Conley-Caraballo High School in Hayward. Richard Valle, Alameda County Supervisor, District 2, opened the show by delivering a speech on the importance of helping fire victims in Paradise. Maria Long, a member of Valle's office staff, also performed a song that she wrote to memorialize victims of the Camp Fire. The song's lyrics asked the community to take action in preventing future fires. "Will we change our ways," Long wrote, "Or remain the same and let it all burn up in flames?"

Other local officials attending the event included Sarabjit Cheema, the New Haven Unified School District Board of Education President and Board Members of Trustees for Ohlone Community College District. Entertainment during the program included a Kung Fu show, dance performances, Sichuan Opera, Peking Opera, and traditional cheongsam show.

Fremont Hosts Irvington Community Workshop

In November 2018, City of Fremont Planning staff received direction from Fremont City Council to conduct a community workshop to provide an overview of the city's general plan for Irvington Community Plan Area. The plan is intended to strengthen the historic heart of Irvington and allow it to grow in a vibrant way that maintains its neighborhood character. The public is invited to attend Irvington Community Workshop, which will provide an opportunity to discuss the general plan for Irvington and explain the new state legislation that affects local planning efforts. City staff from Planning, Police Department, and Transportation Engineering will also be available to answer questions. The session will take place from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, January 16 at Fremont Main Library, Fukaya Room, 2400 Stevenson Blvd. For more information, visit www.Fremont.gov/IrvingtonCommunityWorkshop.

Recycled Material Standards

Recycling provides raw materials to manufacture new products that are consumed every day. Paper, plastic bottles, jars, and metal cans placed in recycling bins are sorted and shipped to manufacturers in the U.S. and around the world. But the task of washing recyclable material is up to each household and business rather than a local recycling center. Only clean recyclables meet strict new standards and have a chance to be used to create new products.

What can you do to help sustain a healthy recycling system in your community?

Keep items clean and dry. Materials soiled by liquids or food are not acceptable for making new products. Because recyclables are mixed into one bin, it's important for cans and food containers to be rinsed and free of residue in order to keep the paper products clean. Any remaining food on containers can become moldy and rancid, creating an unhealthy environment for the recycling workers who handle the materials. Items that are not rinsed cannot be recycled.

Recyclables should be placed loose in household recycling carts – neither bagged materials nor plastic bags of any type belong in the carts. Bags of recycling must be opened by hand and often appear to be bags of garbage to the recycling workers, increasing the chance that they could end up in the landfill. Also, torn or loose bags get tangled in the equipment at the recycling facility, creating maintenance delays that slow the process and make recycling more expensive. Plastic bags can generally be returned to the grocery store for recycling. For more information about the recycling program, call the city's Environmental Services Division at (510) 494-4570 or visit www.Fremont.gov/Environment.

Community Feedback Sought for Town Fair Plaza

Downtown Fremont's temporary community space, Town Fair Plaza, has hosted a variety of events, classes, workshops, and food trucks throughout the year. Programming at Town Fair Plaza will be reduced during the winter months while the plaza operator, Public Space Authority, begins planning for 2019 program and event calendar. New winter hours of operation are from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays and 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. Saturdays. If you visited Town Fair Plaza in 2018, share your experience and feedback by visiting www.TownFairPlaza.com/feedback. This input will be used to develop the 2019 event calendar and influence the space design for next year.

Oregon and California crabbers sue fossil fuel companies

AP WIRE SERVICE

Commercial crabbers in Oregon and California are suing 30 fossil fuel companies, claiming they are to blame for climate change, which has hurt their industry.

The Pacific Coast Federation of Fishermen's Associations filed the lawsuit last week in California State Superior Court in San Francisco against companies including Chevron and Exxon Mobil, news outlets reported.

"The scientific linkage between the combustion of fossil fuels and ocean warming, which leads to domoic acid impacts in our fisheries, is clear," Noah Oppenheim, executive director of the Pacific Coast Federation of Fishermen's Associations, told the San Francisco Chronicle. "We know it, and it's time to hold that industry accountable for the damage they've caused."

West Coast crabbers experienced significant losses starting in the 2015-16 season when massive algal blooms caused by warm ocean temperatures resulted in a domoic acid outbreak that reduced the length of the crabbing season.

The season was cut short again in 2016-2017 for the same reason.

In California, Dungeness crab brought in over $47 million in 2017 and $83 million in 2016; the amount was down to $17 million in 2015, during the industry's first major problem with domoic acid.

Crab is the most valuable single species commercial fishery in Oregon, with an average harvest of 16 million pounds per season, the Statesman Journal in Salem, Oregon, reported.

There are nearly 1,000 Dungeness crab permit holders in California and Oregon.

Scott J. Silvestri, corporate media relations manager of Exxon Mobil Corp., said in an email to the Chronicle that reducing greenhouse gas emissions is a global issue and requires global participation and actions.

"Lawsuits like this – filed by trial attorneys against an industry that provides products we all rely upon to power the economy and enable our domestic life – simply do not do that," he said.

In California, the cities of San Francisco and Oakland also filed lawsuits against five oil companies earlier this year, seeking to recoup the cost of paying for seawalls to fend off sea-level rise. A federal judge tossed those lawsuits in June, saying courts couldn't decide who should be held accountable for an issue as big as climate change.

In October, the Pacific Coast Federation of Fishermen's Associations successfully sued the U.S. Environmental Protection Association to protect salmon and steelhead trout populations in the Columbia River basin from warm water temperatures caused by dams and climate change.

Antora Energy selected for Shell GameChanger Cleantech Accelerator

SUBMITTED BY
BETHANY OSBORN

The Shell GameChanger Accelerator Powered by NREL (GCxN) recently announced that Antora Energy is one of four companies to participate in the program's inaugural cohort. The Fremont-based company was selected for its innovations in developing technologies designed to enable the energy grid of the future through long-term energy storage and controls.

Antora Energy is an early-stage startup on a mission to move electricity grids worldwide away from fossil fuels and toward clean renewable energy by developing inexpensive, reliable energy storage. As a benefit of participation in the invitation-only program, Antora Energy will receive up to $250,000 in non-dilutive funding to test, validate and advance its technologies with a network of experts from the U.S.

Department of Energy's National Renewable Energy Laboratory (NREL) and Shell's GameChanger program. The assistance is designed to help companies de-risk technology development while accelerating their path to market.

"We're excited to be working with NREL and Shell to tackle some of the biggest risks we face," said Antora CEO Andrew Ponec.

Launched in September 2018, GCxN is a multimillion-dollar, multiyear program that facilitates the commercialization and adoption of clean energy technologies. Unlike most accelerators, companies cannot simply apply to GCxN. Instead, companies must be recommended by a member of the Channel Partners network (cleantech incubators, accelerators and universities), with finalists selected after review by technology experts at NREL and Shell. Antora Energy was successfully nominated by Cyclotron Road.

"We are very excited to begin work with this first round of GCxN companies," said GCxN Program co-directors Haibin Xu (Shell) and Adam Duran (NREL). "It is our goal to fill this program with game-changing ideas, and our first cohort of startup companies meets that goal and shows real promise to enable the grid of the future through their unique technologies."

Facebook-Local News - With an eye on past problems, Facebook expands local feature

BY BARBARA ORTUTAY, AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

Facebook is cautiously expanding a feature that shows people local news and information, including missing-person alerts, road closures, crime reports and school announcements.

Called "Today In," the service shows people information from their towns and cities from such sources as news outlets, government entities and community groups. Facebook launched the service in January with six cities and expanded that to 25, then more. On Wednesday, "Today In" is expanding to 400 cities in the U.S. – and a few others in Australia.

The move comes as Facebook tries to shake off its reputation as a hotbed for misinformation and elections-meddling and rather a place for communities and people to come together and stay informed.

Here are some things to know about this effort, and why it matters:

THE BIG PICTURE

It's something users have asked for, the company says. Think of it as an evolution of a "trending" feature the company dropped earlier this year. That feature, which showed news articles that were popular among users, but was rife with such problems as fake news and accusations of bias.

Anthea Watson Strong, product manager for local news and community information, said her team learned from the problems with that feature.

"We feel deeply the mistakes of our foremothers and forefathers," she said.

This time around, Facebook employees went to some of the cities they were launching in and met with users. They tried to predict problems by doing "pre-mortem" assessments, she said. That is, instead of a "post-mortem" where engineers dissect what went wrong after the fact, they tried to anticipate how people might misuse a feature – for financial gain, for example.

Facebook isn't saying how long it has been taking this "pre-mortem" approach, though the practice isn't unique to the company. Nonetheless, it's a significant step given that many of Facebook's current problems stem from its failure to foresee how bad actors might co-opt the service.

Facebook also hopes the feature's slow rollout will prevent problems.

HOW IT WORKS

To find out if "Today In" is available in your city or town, tap the "menu" icon with the three horizontal lines. Then scroll down until you see it. If you want, you can choose to see the local updates directly in your news feed.

For now, the company is offering this only in small and mid-sized cities such as Conroe, Texas, Morgantown, West Virginia, and Santa Fe, New Mexico. Large cities such as New York or Los Angeles have added challenges, such as an abundance of news and information, and may need to be broken up into smaller neighborhoods.

The posts in "Today In" are curated by artificial intelligence; there is no human involvement. The service aggregates posts from the Facebook pages for news organizations, government agencies and community groups like dog shelters. For this reason, a kid couldn't declare a snow day, because "Today In" relies on the school's official page. Discussion posts from local Facebook groups may also be included.

For now, the information is tailored only by geography, but this might change. A person with no kids, for example, might not want to see updates from schools.

SAFEGUARDS?

Facebook uses software filters to weed out objectionable content, just as it does on people's regular news feed. But the filters are turned up for "Today In." If a good friend posts something a bit objectionable, you are still likely to see it because Facebook takes your friendship into account. But "Today In" posts aren't coming from your friends, so Facebook is more likely to keep it out.

Elon Musk to unveil underground tunnel, transport cars

BY AMANDA LEE MYERS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tech entrepreneur Elon Musk is set to unveil an underground transportation tunnel on Tuesday that could move people faster than subways.

Musk also plans to show off the autonomous cars that will carry people through the test tunnel, which runs about 2 miles (3.2 kilometers) under the streets of Hawthorne, California, Musk's SpaceX headquarters. He's also planning to unveil elevators he says will bring users' own cars from street level to the tunnel.

Tuesday's reveal comes almost two years to the day since Musk announced on Twitter that "traffic is driving me nuts" and he was "going to build a tunnel boring machine and just start digging."

"I am actually going to do this," he added in response to initial skepticism.

So, began The Boring Company, tongue in cheek intentional. Since the announcement, Musk has revealed a handful of photos and videos of the tunnel's progress.

The tunnel, meant to be a "proof of concept," is being used to help Musk and The Boring Company conduct research and development for a broader system in traffic-plagued Los Angeles and beyond.

One, known as the Dugout Loop, would take Los Angeles baseball fans to Dodger Stadium from one of three subway stations. Another would take travelers from downtown Chicago to O'Hare International Airport. Both projects are in the environmental review phase.

The Boring Company canceled its plans for another test tunnel on Los Angeles' west side last month after a neighborhood coalition filed a lawsuit expressing concerns about traffic and disruptions from trucks hauling out dirt during the boring process.

Musk has described a system in which vehicles would descend via elevators into tunnels and move on electrically powered platforms called skates. Up to 16 pedestrians and bicyclists could board autonomous vehicles also traveling on the skates as fast as 150 mph (240 kph).

"Once fully operational (demo system rides will be free), the system will always give priority to pods for pedestrians & cyclists for less than the cost of a bus ticket," Musk tweeted in May.

For the privately funded test tunnel, Musk acquired a tunnel-boring machine that had

"Once fully operational (demo system rides will be free), the system will always give priority to pods for pedestrians & cyclists for less than the cost of a bus ticket,"

been used in a San Francisco Bay Area project and put it down a shaft in a parking lot at the SpaceX headquarters.

Musk's vision for the underground tunnels, known as loop, is not the same as another of his transportation concepts known as hyperloop. That would involve a network of nearly airless tubes that would speed special capsules over long distances at up to 750 mph (1,200 kph), using a thin cushion of air, magnetism and solar power.

The loop system is designed for shorter routes that wouldn't require the elimination of air friction, according to The Boring Company.

The company says on its website that the reason such a system hasn't been done before is that tunnels can be as expensive as $1 billion a mile to dig. But by using the skates to transport cars, which reduces the size of the tunnels needed by about half, thus reducing the cost to build them by up to four times, the company says.

Historic San Francisco luxury store closing after 157 years

AP WIRE SERVICE

San Francisco's oldest department store, Gump's, is closing its doors after 157 years in business. Shoppers rummaged through the iconic store's remains Thursday, with all items marked down 70 percent to 90 percent off.

Gump's was founded in 1861 as a frame and mirror shop. It transformed itself into an exclusive store, located in the city's Union Square neighborhood, catering to a clientele that craved engraved note cards, crystal vases, fancy dinner ware and an array of luxury items. The San Francisco Chronicle once reported that the store's customers included French actress Sarah Bernhardt and President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who bought ship models and smoking jackets. As San Francisco changed, Gump's mostly stayed the same. Earlier this year Gump's filed for bankruptcy. Its final day of business is Sunday.

Fremont Grind Talks Innovative Financing

By ASOK CHATTERJEE

After a very successful meeting on October 11, dealing with today's buzzwords, blockchain, artificial intelligence and their value propositions to startup companies, the Fremont Chapter of Startup Grind hosted a fireside chat on money matters. Funding at the very early stages of the life of any startup is perhaps the most critical issue that keeps its leaders awake throughout the night. And, that is a phase when the venture capitalists and Angel Investors are least likely to offer a lending hand. Enter a very powerful concept of crowdsourcing that can help the organization at its starting block. On December 6, Fremont Grind featured Jonny Price to engage with entrepreneurs of the East Bay with down-to-earth discussions about a not-so-well-known funding mechanism. Price is the Director of Business Development of Wefunder, a crowdfunding service that connects startups with potential investors online. While many startups may not be accustomed to this source of funding, it is equally true that very few would-be investors know about the possibility of investing as little as $100 in a startup or small business. So, given the right circumstances, it could lead to a match made in Heaven. This can be the bridge for a successful startup to demonstrate growth that will bring more formal investors to their doors. And, early investors will happily see substantial rewards. The event was hosted by Gaytri Khandelwal, Chapter Director of Fremont Grind, and supported by the City of Fremont. During the meeting, a wide swathe of subjects was discussed including success strategies and potential pitfalls, federal laws of crowdfunding, mechanics of the process and key steps along the way. The evening started with pizza offered by Fremont Grind, and concluded with one potential startup company pitching its proposal to Wefunder. The next Startup Grind meeting will explore "Marketing Strategies that Deliver Results" with marketing guru Jai Rawat on January 24, 2019 at 6 p.m. Meetings are held at Peerbuds Innovation Lab, 4580 Auto Mall Parkway, Suite 121 in Fremont. Tri-City Stargazer 2019 – 2020: KARMA’S PLAYGROUND

The subject at hand is “Karma,” defined in this article as the outcome of previous choices and behaviors. Although Karma is often used in the context of the belief in reincarnation, I am maintaining a boundary of the most recent 30 or 40 years. Karma can be experienced as reward or punishment, depending upon how we have chosen to offer our energies to the world in recent times. It can be corporate, global, or very personal. Karmic energies affect us at many levels via personal health and relationships, career developments, social and political dynamics. Our value systems are up for evaluation and judgment in every arena.ascendant (rising sign), you may read and apply two zodiac signs below.

Saturn in Capricorn

On December 19, 2017, Saturn rolled into Capricorn for a three-year sojourn. Saturn, the teacher within us, is now in the sign of corporations, politics and business. Whenever Saturn changes signs, there are multiple changes in the world and the laws we must abide to get along in society. Saturn in Capricorn can be hard-nosed, indeed. It rewards those who benefit the world and punishes those who have not demonstrated the lessons of social and corporate give-and-take.

Saturn and Pluto together in Capricorn

Pluto is the original god of the underworld and represents transformation of both individuals and corporate bodies. It also is a symbol of Raw Power, such as that which drives destructive storms. Saturn began to make challenging aspects to Pluto in February 2016. These formidable aspects are steadily increasing toward a crescendo in the first quarter of 2020. Pluto demands the absolute.

Truth and Saturn is the Judge

This pair, as all planets, has both positive and negative sides. On the bright side we have work which is both hard and transforming. On the darker side, we see those who have claimed demigod status and are mean, even vicious, to others. The dark side is criminal in an ongoing way. On the personal level, it requires that we work hard to hold onto personal power in the face of circumstances that are not at all conducive to our use of it. Be creative. When this is over, the winners will be those who have managed to maintain their social values throughout the period and still contribute favorably to the collective.

There likely will be much more crumbling in the economic systems worldwide throughout this period. Making this statement is not likely to “win friends and influence people,” but I hope my readers will take this warning and pay off creditors. Those with a little bit of power are likely to exploit it well beyond what it is worth. We don’t want others to have financial control over us.

Failing infrastructures that have just “held together” in the past few years will be letting go of their tenuous hold. For the next two years there likely will be “surprise” accidents in water, sewer, roads, bridges, and anything else considered infrastructure. That which has been built with foresight to weather challenging events will become apparent and serve as a guide to future development. We have already seen examples of this by observing what structures remain in the aftermath of hurricanes and fires.

The more personal message is that one or more structures that we have built into our lives are crumbling. This is the third of four years to correct the problem. Maybe that structure or plan needs to go. Perhaps it has been impeding us from moving forward. It is possible that this process began in 2016. If it continues to have value in your life, much effort and probably considerable money will be required to repair and restore damage. Consider allowing the disintegrating structure to transform into an updated version of itself.

Eclipses

During 2019 and the beginning of 2020 the eclipses will occur in the signs of Cancer and Capricorn. These are opposing signs which represent caretaking/mothering versus world building. On the basic level of human existence, the polarity is family/caring relationships versus work and making a living. Many of us will be dealing with the desire to earn resources while doing something that we love. That which we value and hold dear will surface in our hearts and demand to be manifested with greater emphasis in our lives.

The eclipse seasons in 2019 will occur in January and July. It is at these times the consequences of our past actions will be revealed, for good or ill. This may occur periodically throughout the year, but eclipses tend to punctuate events with surprising clarity. We will become aware of what is not working to the good.

That will require revision and change. We may also be rewarded with unexpected favors and applause.

Though it may be tempting to focus attention on the dark Karma, we need to be realistic and do what we can to interfere with it. Beyond that, we need to shoot for making improvements in areas that we can control. For most of us, we can concentrate on managing outcomes that achieve positive results. Hold onto a basic "love of people" ethic, despite what we may see. Refuse to play to the lowest common denominator.

EARTHTALK
FROM THE EDITORS OF E - THE ENVIRONMENTAL MAGAZINE

EarthTalk is produced by Roddy Scheer and Doug Moss for the nonprofit EarthTalk. To donate, visit www.earthtalk.org. Send questions to: question@earthtalk.org.

Dear EarthTalk:
It seems to me the single biggest potential “environmental” problem we could face — even bigger than global warming or a nuclear war — is a comet or asteroid striking the Earth. Do we currently track these space rocks and if so, how? And do we have any hope of deflecting them if they are headed right for us?

— James McClintock,
Austin, Texas

Environmental advocates don't normally consider interstellar rocks to be their discipline, per se, but it is true that such an event could cause considerable environmental damage and even threaten the very existence of life on Earth. Indeed, when a 10-kilometer-wide asteroid struck the Earth some 66 million years ago, it wiped out three-quarters of the planet's plant and animal species (including the dinosaurs) and caused damage to the environment that lasted centuries.

Humans weren't around to witness the effects of that cataclysm, of course, but we do know that a large impact today could trigger massive firestorms, mudflows, earthquakes and tsunamis as well as acid rain, ozone depletion and rapid greenhouse warming — not to mention an “impact winter” whereby pulverized rock dust and other debris would blanket the skies and block the transmission of sunlight, effectively stopping photosynthesis around the globe. A big enough strike could effectively wipe out life on Earth.

NASA's Planetary Defense Coordination Office (PDCO) is charged with providing timely and accurate communications on these threatening space rocks — including issuing warnings about potential impacts — and leading the coordination of federal response planning. Currently PDCO uses a combination of existing satellite and telescope technologies to track comets and asteroids but is currently developing a new space-based infrared telescope dubbed “NEOCam” (short for Near-Earth Object Camera) specifically for the purpose of surveying the solar system for large space rocks (larger than 140 meters across). But the project is far from a front-burner concern for NASA right now, and proponents are hoping Congress will earmark funds specifically to complete its development in the short term.

Meanwhile, the California-based B612 Foundation is focusing on detection of smaller asteroids. “The real gap is the 100 times as many asteroids smaller than 140 meters but still large enough to destroy things on the ground,” reports Ed Lu, the co-founder of B612. His team is currently working on a network of five to 10 telescope-equipped satellites to track these smaller space rocks and provide early warning services.

But just because we're able to detect and track asteroids doesn't mean we can deflect them. According to expert witness testimony at a 2013 Congressional hearing on the topic, NASA would need five years' lead time — and a commitment of hundreds of millions of dollars — to be able to intercept an asteroid.

Despite this warning, we've made no progress in the intervening years. A June 2018 report from the Cabinet-level National Science and Technology Council warns that America remains unprepared for an asteroid impact event and urges the federal government to fund efforts to get ready for what astronomers say is inevitable at some point in the future. That said, unlike other environmental problems besetting us, there isn't anything individuals can do to protect the planet from asteroid or comet strikes — except to urge their representatives in Congress to support legislation that funds programs and technologies designed to detect and deflect those incoming civilization busters.

Daycare runs six days a week with two large areas dedicated to their canine guests, divided by size and energy level. On the small dog/lower energy side, up to 20 dogs can enjoy the day socializing, sleeping, or playing on the camp-themed platforms.
The large dog/high energy side, also able to host about 20 dogs, is set up in a similar fashion, with access to Erwin's Lodge, the boarding room designed to look and feel like a typical living room. Daycare costs $40 a day and $35 for additional family dogs.

Workindoggz offers two types of hikes: regular and adventure hikes. The regular hikes cover about two miles and usually take about half an hour. The Workindoggz rangers utilize positive reinforcement and consistent training while hiking along the East Bay's greatest trails, from Green Bel Park, to Garin Regional Park and Lake Chabot Regional Park; just a few of the places Workindoggz frequents. These hikes cost $20, with a $15 charge for additional family dogs. Adventure hikes, like their name implies, are more challenging in nature. These hikes cover anywhere from three to five miles and are only recommended for larger breeds, as the fast pace will tucker out smaller breeds. Adventure hikes cost $35, with a $30 charge for additional family dogs.

Workindoggz also offers boarding service in its open space boarding areas, also themed in the campground style. Dogs can stay in the play area overnight, in Erwin's Lodge, or in one of five kennels. Workindoggz has two kennel rooms, known as campgrounds: Ceaser's and Hampton's, with Hampton's currently under construction.
Though not as busy as daycare, boarding is still a crucial part of their operations. "We're doing the same level of boarding as we did at our old facility in Castro Valley," Cody said. Boarding runs $60 a night and $55 for additional family dogs.

The staff's dedication to its guests is evident in each of the services they provide. Food is complimentary, as is the administration of medications as needed. Of course, if a dog requires a special diet, the owner may bring in food and it will be served to them. All dogs are also required to pass an evaluation to make sure they are a proper fit with the other guests and that they are not aggressive towards humans.

"We never try to make ourselves the only option, we always offer to find other options if dogs don't fit with us," Cody explained. Marie added, "There are still a lot of home-based daycares. We want to network with them because it's all about the dogs."

Workindoggz grew out of Cody's passion for four-legged friends. "It all started as a personal passion," Marie noted. "Cody and his dad love to hike," she added.
"It's a mixed bag of things," Cody said of his experience with dogs, continuing, "We had a Malamute that was a hyper aggressive dog, which took eight years to get a handle on. When she passed, we had our Lab and a really nice kennel. My Lab was very friendly, and we had a knowledge of trails."

Soon, Cody and his family were providing daycare services and hikes for a small amount of dog guests. "We wanted to fix problem dogs and thought we could do so through exercise," he explained.

Alongside his Chocolate Labrador Ceaser, who is also Workindoggz's mascot, Cody embarked on a journey that has led them to where they are today.
Ceaser even has a co-mascot now, a younger Chocolate Labrador named Cassius. "They have a contentious relationship," Marie said with a laugh. "Cassius is more fearless," she added.

Daycare can be purchased as a drop-in day by day fee, or in packs of 10 or 20 days. When it comes to daycare, boarding, and outdoor adventures, Workindoggz is hard to beat.

Favorite Design Projects of 2018

It's hard to believe we are saying goodbye to 2018 already! With this last column of 2018, I thought I'd share with you some of my favorite design projects from this year, and what I like most about them. They all came out beautifully, capturing the needs and wants of the clients, and each space has its own unique personality. Perhaps they will inspire you for your own projects in 2019.

Parisian-Inspired Kitchen

Why I love it:

- The kitchen has so much personality, with display space designed especially for the client's treasures and collectibles.
- I love the toile wallpaper— it is so subtle and pretty.
- The countertops are stunning— it is quartz material from Cambria, called Britannica. Not only is it hard-working and easy to maintain, its pattern is very striking and beautiful.
- The finishing touches really do give this kitchen the feel of a French bakery.

Contemporary Kitchen

Why I love it:

- I absolutely love the horizontal grain of the light wood cabinets— so modern and sleek!
- I love that we used the stunning quartz countertop on the backsplash also— that steak of color is even prettier in person.
- I love the dark walnut island— it provides a beautiful contrast to all the lighter tones in the kitchen.

Colorful Kitchen

Why I love it:

- Great use of space: where there were no cabinets at all, we added a wall of them for food storage, but also for a dedicated prayer space, as requested by the clients.
- The backsplash is gorgeous— a colorful mixture of glass, metal and stone, in reds and coppers. It really adds a bold and fun touch in this room.
- I love the two-tone cabinetry— if you can't decide whether to use painted or stained cabinets, this solution allows you to have both!

"Vintage" Master Bath

Why I love it:

- I just love the overall look of this bath— the client desired a traditional, feminine, look, and she certainly got it!
- I love the crystal chandelier above the vanity— so sparkly and pretty.
- I love the huge shower with the shiny chrome fixtures. It's functional as well as beautiful. Even the grab bar is pretty!

Master Bath "Wet Room"

Why I love it:

- I love the challenge of taking a client's wish list and making it all fit into a new space. In place of the too-large, dangerous step-down tub, we created an enclosed wet room with a separate tub and luxurious shower. Great use of space!
- I love the color scheme and the mix of tiles— it's very restful and elegant.
 - Lighting on dimmers allows for every scenario.

THE ACWD CONNECTION

A Tap Water Toast to 2019!

Bring in the new year with a water conservation resolution! Here are a few tips to get a jump start:

- ♦ Replace old 3.5 gallon per flush toilets with water-efficient models. By installing water-efficient toilets you can save 19 gallons of water per person per day. ACWD offers rebates of up to $100 per qualifying toilet for a maximum of 3 toilets per residential account.
- ♦ Install a rain barrel to capture rainwater for use in your garden and indoor plants. Take advantage of rain barrel rebates of up to $50 per qualifying rain barrel, with a maximum of two per residential account.
- ♦ Remember to turn the faucet off when you brush your teeth, shave or wash your hands for a savings of 10 gallons per person per day.
- ♦ Use a broom instead of a hose when you clean sidewalks or driveways. This simple tip saves 8-18 gallons of water per minute.

Holiday Tree Recycling

Each year approximately 33 million live Christmas trees are sold in North America! After the holidays recycle trees instead of sending them to the landfill. Trees will be taken to a compost facility and processed into beneficial mulch and compost.

Be sure to remove all ornaments, tinsel, other decorations, and stands before placing your tree at the curb during these weeks:

Offices that are taking part in the Holiday Closure include:

- The Parks and Recreation Division will offer camps and other programs at some facilities. Visit www.RegeRec.com for more info.

- Community members with active building permits can coordinate building inspections with their building inspector at least one week prior to the closure. For questions, call 510-494-4400.
- The Fremont Tennis Center will be open for public play, weather permitting. There will be some limited holiday public hours; call 510-790-5510 for more info.

Artists can receive more information and apply online at www.Fremont.gov/TempArtDowntown. Submissions are due Friday, January 11, 2019.

The Downtown Fremont Public Art Program is a result of an art fund that was established from framework set forth by the Downtown, Warm Springs, and City Center community plans. The art fund is financed through development fees and will focus on showcasing interesting pieces of artwork to support the arts and create a sense of identity for these areas. The Art Review Board is responsible for administering the fund and making art selection recommendations to the Fremont City Council.

Fremont Issues Call for Artists for Downtown Temporary Art Installation

The City of Fremont recently issued a Call for Artists for a temporary installation as part of its Downtown Fremont Public Art Program. The City is seeking one sculpture to display for a period of two years, from May 2019 through May 2021, at its gateway location to Downtown Fremont. This temporary installation opportunity is to focus on Community: Sharing Energy and Collaborating as its theme.

The selected piece will replace the Space Glow sculpture, which is located at Capitol Avenue and Fremont Boulevard, a

Fremont Appoints New Community Development Director

Fremont City Manager Mark Danaj announced the appointment of Dan Schoenholz as Community Development Director for the City of Fremont. Schoenholz has been serving as Fremont's Interim Community Development Director since May 2018, when Community Development Director Jeff Schwob retired.

Schoenholz's career with the City of Fremont began October 1, 1998 in the City Manager's Office where he started as an administrative analyst. He then joined the Human Services Department where he rose to the position of deputy director. In 2006 Schoenholz joined the Community Development Department as a special project manager leading the City's General Plan update effort before promoting to deputy director of community development in 2011. Recent notable projects he oversaw included the installation of 1.5 MW (megawatts) of solar carports at City facilities and a $9.1 million energy and water efficiency upgrade on City facilities. He has also led the City's creation of several hundred units of affordable housing. Prior to coming to Fremont, Schoenholz was an environmental scientist with the US Environmental Protection Agency and the Port of Oakland.

"Dan is the consummate City of Fremont manager, having worked in various leadership roles over the last 20 years in Fremont," said City Manager

Mark Danaj. "Dan has demonstrated that he has the skill set, attitude, and keen understanding of the City's direction and values necessary to succeed in this important role. I am confident Dan will continue his track record of exceptional service to the City of Fremont."

Schoenholz earned both a Bachelor of Science degree and a Master's degree in Public Policy from the University of California, Berkeley where he graduated with honors. As Fremont's community development director, Schoenholz oversees the Planning, Building, Housing, Environmental Sustainability, and Code Enforcement divisions.

Christmas Tree Composting Guidelines

Every year, thousands of Christmas trees end up in landfills because they are not properly composted. The negative environmental impacts of the holiday season can be reduced by planting a living tree, purchasing a reusable tree, and/or ensuring proper disposal of live Christmas trees. Trees are only compostable if they are free of all decorations, tinsel, nails, and tree stands (including wooden stands that are nailed to the bottom of the trunk). Additionally, any tree that is flocked with artificial snow contains fire retardant and cannot be composted. Trees that have decorations or tinsel cannot be composted and will be disposed of in the landfill.

The various ways to properly dispose of a Christmas tree in Fremont are listed below:

Gutter (Single-family homes only)

- Republic Services curbside collection from December 31, 2018 to January 11, 2019.
- If your tree is less than 6 feet in length, place the whole tree in the gutter on your collection day.
- If your tree is over 6 feet in length, cut the tree in half and place both halves in the gutter on your collection day.
- Make sure your tree is in the gutter, not on the sidewalk.
- Check that your tree is free of all decorations when placed in the gutter to keep our storm drains litter-free.

Green Organics Cart

- Cut the compostable tree so that pieces fit loosely in your organics cart with the lid closed.
- Place the cart at the curb on your scheduled collection day.

Garbage Cart

- Please use this option as your last resort; compost your tree first, if possible.
- Cut up your tree containing flocking or decorations so that pieces fit loosely in your garbage cart with the lid closed.
- Place the blue or black garbage cart at the curb on your scheduled collection day.

Drop-off at Republic Services

- Between December 26, 2018 and January 11, 2019 take your Christmas tree to the Republic Services customer center located at 42600 Boyce Rd. in Fremont (Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. – 5 p.m.). Compostable trees may be dropped off for free. Non-compostable trees may be dropped off at a $5 charge.

If you live in a multifamily complex, please contact your property manager to learn how your tree can be properly composted.

For more information, visit www.Fremont.gov/Environment or contact the Environmental Services Division at environment@fremont.gov or 510-494-4570.

Kwanzaa

celebrates family, community, and culture and first celebrated in 1966 in Los Angeles. Today, with traditional African harvest rituals in mind, many African Americans observe this unique holiday season that pays homage to our age-old legacy of humanistic ethics.

The celebration takes place from December 26 through January 1, one day for each of the Seven Principles: Umoja (Unity), Kujichagulia (Self-determination), Ujima (Collective work and responsibility), Ujamaa (Cooperative economics), Nia (Purpose), Kuumba (Creativity), and Imani (Faith).

Held since 1980, AACHS's Kwanzaa celebration first started in a home and as it grew, moved to various locations in the community until it was hosted at Palma Ceia about five years ago and has remained there since. At this location, Program Coordinator Suzie Smith says, "We can reach more kids so they can have a full understanding of what Kwanzaa's all about; it keeps the tradition alive."

The free event includes saxophone music, gospel singing, original poetry readings and display tables on basket weaving with sweetgrass baskets courtesy of the Mazyzk, Freeman, and Smith families. Information about Colonel Allensworth State Historic Park in Earlimart, California, a town founded in 1908 by former slave Allen Allensworth for African Americans to live, free from oppression will be available. Hungry? Try delicious Soul food such as fried chicken, jambalaya, and sweet tea during the festivities. Attendees are encouraged to wear African attire and "celebrate our color in red, black, and green" said Smith.

Begun in 1974 by Jean Ficklin, the mission of AACHS is to provide a vehicle for Black Americans in the area to share our history through educational and cultural activities and network in harmony, friendship, and kinship with multiethnic groups throughout our community.

We believe that disseminating information and sharing promotes understanding the values, customs, and beliefs of our multiethnic community. This awareness enhances respect of diversity, bringing about more unity. We honor the ties that bind us all together.

Join the Afro-American Cultural & Historical Society Tri-City Area & Hayward (AACHS) for our annual Kwanzaa celebration on Saturday, December 29 at Palma Ceia Baptist Church in Hayward. Come share an afternoon full of culture, homemade soul food, live entertainment, and family fun.

New Leadership for 2019

ARTICLE AND
PHOTO SUBMITTED
BY JIM WHEELER

The Hayward Area Recreation and Park District (HARD) Board of Directors has elected Rick J. Hatcher as the board president for 2019.

Hatcher has been a board member with HARD since 2015. The HARD Board of Directors has also elected Director Paul Hodges, Jr. as board vice president, and Director Minane Jameson as board secretary. They are joined on the HARD five-person board by Director Louis M. Andrade and Director Carol Pereria.

"Growing up with HARD, I know it is one of our community's true gems. With the diverse breadth of programs, facilities and open space, I am truly honored to serve as board president. The upcoming year will bring new transformative parks, and upgrades to parks and facilities due the passing of the Measure F1 Bond," said Hatcher.

Lambert named Head Volleyball Coach

SUBMITTED BY STEVE CONNOLLY

Kimberly Lambert has officially been named the seventh head coach of the Cal State East Bay volleyball team, CSUEB Director of Athletics Jason Carmichael announced on December 20, 2018. An 11-year veteran of the East Bay volleyball program, Lambert served as interim head coach for the last eight months following the retirement of longtime head coach Jim Spagle in April. She guided the Pioneers to a historic season in 2018, prompting the removal of her “interim” tag. “Kim has been an integral part of this program’s growth into a CCAA contender over the last several years,” Carmichael praised. “Her recruiting track record is impressive, and her student-athletes have consistently performed well in the classroom. I believe the future of Pioneer volleyball is in excellent hands.”

This past Fall, Lambert led East Bay to its third straight CCAA Tournament berth, its first-ever California Collegiate Athletic Association North Division title, and its first-ever NCAA Division II Tournament appearance. The Pioneers also set a program record by placing five players on the 2018 All-CCAA team.

“I’d like to thank Jason Carmichael for this wonderful opportunity,” Lambert said. “I am excited to lead an amazing group of young women in our volleyball program and continue to represent an amazing athletic department. I’m excited to continue building this program toward consistent excellence on the court, in the classroom, and within the community.”

Prior to taking the reins this year, Lambert spent 10 seasons as an assistant coach under Spagle, joining the Pioneers for their first season as members of Division II and the CCAA in 2009 to specialize in coaching the middle blockers. In 2015, she was promoted to associate head coach. She has served in a multitude of roles for the volleyball program over the past decade, coordinating everything from practices to travel, recruiting, equipment, finances, and NCAA compliance.

“I also want to thank Jim Spagle for his years of mentorship and guidance,” Lambert added. “I have been fortunate to learn from one of the greatest. I wish him all the best in his much-deserved retirement.”

A native of Stockton, Lambert earned her bachelor’s degree in kinesiology with a concentration in sports management from Cal State Monterey Bay. She competed as a student-athlete on the Otters’ volleyball team for two seasons (2007-08), enjoying a standout career as a middle hitter.

Park It

By NED MacKAY

New Year in the regional parks

As 2018 yields to 2019, you can ring out the old year and ring in the new with a variety of activities in the East Bay Regional Parks. There are lots of choices:

At Del Valle Regional Park south of Livermore, take a year's end hike from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, December 30 with naturalist Ashley Adams. Ashley will lead the group on a stroll alongside the lake, while discussing future plans for the park. Meet at the Del Valle marina. For information, call 510-544-3249.

Snake lore and the world of animal senses are the themes of two programs at Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont, with naturalist Dino Labiste. Dino will showcase the park's snakes in a program from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Saturday, December 29. And visitors can make a snake spiral craft to take home.

Many animals sense their environment in ways that seem strange to us. Dino will lead a program of activities and experiments on that theme from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. the same day.

Both programs meet at the visitor center. Coyote Hills is at the end of Patterson Ranch Road off Paseo Padre Parkway. Call 510-544-3220.

"Critter Crafts" is the theme of a program from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday, December 28 at Crab Cove Visitor Center in Alameda. Drop in any time to create your own animal masterpiece with materials provided by the park. Crab Cove is at 1252 McKay Avenue off Alameda's Central Avenue. Call 510-544-3187.

Energetic hikers will enjoy a "Jumpstart the New Year's Resolution" hike from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, December 29 at Anthony Chabot Regional Park with naturalist Morgan Dill. This is a five-miler that dips down to the creek and back up again. Meet at the parking lot on Marciel Road (the Marciel Gate) off Redwood Road between Oakland and Castro Valley. For information, call 510-544-3187.

Tilden Nature Area near Berkeley plans a couple of programs on Saturday, December 29, both with naturalist Jenna S. Collins:

The first is "Meet the Rabbits," from 12 noon to 1 p.m. Learn all about the hoppers while meeting some live ones at the rabbit hutch. "Wool to Dye For" is from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. on the same day. It's all about creating color from natural ingredients, then dyeing yarn using modern pantry staples. Both programs meet at Tilden's Little Farm and Environmental Education Center, which are at the north end of Central Park Drive. Call 510-544-2233.

There are also snakes at Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve in Antioch. Naturalist Virginia Delgado will show off some live ones in a program for ages three and older from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, December 29 at the Sidney Flat Visitor Center. The center is in the group of buildings to the left of the park's entrance kiosk on Somersville Road. And from 10 a.m. to noon on Sunday, December 30, naturalist Eddie Willis will lead a walk to the Somersville town site, while telling stories of the miners and their families who once lived there. Meet Eddie in the parking lot at the end of Somersville Road, 3½ miles south of Highway 4. Call 888-327-2757, ext. 2750.

Farming below sea level is the topic of a program from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, December 29 at Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley. It's all about the past and future of farming in the Delta. Big Break is at 69 Big Break Road off Oakley's Main Street. For information, call 888-327-2757, ext. 3050.

When you're out in the parks this time of year, remember to dress in layers for winter weather, which can change suddenly from sun to rain. And, however you spend your time as the old year passes, here's wishing you a happy and prosperous new one.

Eagles grapplers win dual meet with Huskies

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

The American Eagles (Fremont) faced off against the Washington Huskies in a dual meet December 19th. Both teams performed well and their coaches are looking forward to a good year on the mat. With a large turnout for the Eagles wrestling team and experience on the side of the Huskies, the match was exciting and competitive. While the Junior Varsity squad of the Eagles garnered a 12-0 sweep, the experienced Huskies varsity made a run to snatch the victory from an early Eagles lead. It was just a case of too little, too late as the Eagles prevailed. This should be an interesting season for both teams.

Celebration honors local National Blue Ribbon Schools

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS SUBMITTED BY QUEENIE CHONG

Gomes Elementary School in Fremont is one of four elementary schools that feed students to Hopkins Junior High School in the Mission attendance area. Apart from sharing a neighborhood, Gomes and Hopkins recently found common ground; both received the National Blue Ribbon School Award from the U.S. Department of Education. It was the second time: Gomes previously named in 1987 and Hopkins in 2012.

The National Blue Ribbon recognition is based on a school's overall academic achievement or progress in closing the achievement gaps among student subgroups. Gomes and Hopkins represent two of 12 California schools and 349 schools nationwide to have received the National Blue Ribbon designation in 2018.

At Gomes School's award celebration gala on December 14, the community enjoyed a treat of excellence when Jazz Ensemble of Hopkins, the other National Blue Ribbon honoree, took the stage to provide background entertainment and share their gift of music with the audience.

Families of current Gomes students and staff members, plus several former officers of the Parent-Teacher Association attended to celebrate under the banner of National Blue Ribbon School. Among them was guest of honor Fremont Mayor

Lily Mei, a longtime supporter of Gomes.

A cake-cutting ceremony officiated by Gomes Principal Douglas Whipple and Mayor Mei followed the entertainment. Those in attendance enjoyed an abundance of sparkling cider for toasting, savored a continuous supply of cake, and displayed enormous pride in the achievement which helped bring them together that evening.

Supervisor Cortese selects Rocha as Chief of Staff

SUBMITTED BY JANICE ROMBECK

Beginning January 2019, outgoing District 9 San Jose City Councilmember Donald Rocha will lead the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors District 3 Team as Chief of Staff. Supervisor Dave Cortese announced his selection on December 21, as his staff of nine was winding down work for 2018 and looking ahead to initiatives for 2019. As Chief of Staff, Rocha will replace Mike Donohoe, who is retiring. Rocha was also Cortese’s Chief of Staff when Cortese was serving his first time on the San Jose City Council from 2000 to 2004.

“I’m grateful to Mike Donohoe for his service to the County and I look forward to working with Don Rocha,” Cortese said. “I’m confident of his leadership as we head into a new year with challenges and initiatives.”

“As I conclude my eight years on the San Jose City Council, I’m excited to have another opportunity to continue my path of public service,” said Rocha. “Dave has been not only a leader in the community, but also a mentor to me and an excellent role model as an elected official. It is a perfect transition for me and I look forward to continuing to serve the community and residents of Santa Clara County.”

WILLIAM MARSHAK

It's one of the great mysteries of life. Without it, our world order would be unimaginable but with it, our lives move in a seemingly linear progression. Once it is used there is no amount of money or influence that, so far, can reverse it. Even though Einstein developed a theory of relativity that describes a space-time dimension that is flexible, in our day-to-day lives, once used, time cannot be recaptured. Stephen Hawking also theorized that time can be bent and manipulated, but in our current reality, seconds, minutes and hours are precious commodities; waste of it is not recyclable.

Infatuation with time is rampant in all facets of our lives. Music tends to reflect the variety of emotions that accompany life; time is at the center of it all. From Frank Sinatra, Shirley Bassey, Chet Baker, Pink, Electric Light Orchestra, Cyndi Lauper and many others, the theme and rhythm of "Time After Time" is ubiquitous. A lament of lost time, loves and choices haunts our memories and serves as a reminder to use the present to our advantage without unnecessary waste.

Time after time

What has this to do with our political scene? Plenty. Just as personal lives can degenerate into a wasteland of regrets without concerted effort to value and enjoy the present, so too can our political environment. Skirmishes and salvos of dissent without coherence is counterproductive and relegates our lives to the mundane. In a new year, fraught with troubling signs of economic and social upheaval, local civic response can do much to alleviate confusion and anxiety, substituting purpose and design in the place of petty infighting. As new members of councils, boards and commissions take their place, hopefully Father Time, with his scythe and hourglass, will be indicative of a smooth transition without rancor or dishonest dissent.

As with many city councils, Fremont bid adieu to some councilmembers while welcoming new faces to the dais. "Newbies" are often reticent at first to express themselves although it doesn't take long for their true personalities to be revealed. This is similar to the quip by Mark Twain about understanding the wisdom of those with some experience under their belt:

"When I was a boy of 14, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be 21, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years." - Mark Twain

The importance of using time wisely has always been a challenge for politicians. A dangerous specter over council meetings is the tendency toward lengthy oratory with little substance even as Father Time inexorably treads his path. William Penn noted, "Time is what we want most, but... what we use worst." Referred to as life's "coin" or most valuable commodity, Carl Sandberg warned, "Time is the coin of your life. It is the only coin you have, and only you can determine how it will be spent. Be careful lest you let other people spend it for you."

While it is incumbent on our elected representatives to study, understand and debate issues that fall within their realm, it should also be evident that preparedness can and should result in clarity of purpose and, usually, brevity. One of the most succinct cautions to our elected representatives buried in mountains of detail, who may be inclined to flaunt their knowledge or, unfortunately, display their ignorance, is a quip from a well-known source:

"How did it get so late so soon?"

California is first state to mandate zero-emission bus fleet

AP WIRE SERVICE

California moved Friday to eliminate climate-changing fossil fuels from its fleet of 12,000 transit buses, enacting a first-in-the-nation mandate that will vastly increase the number of electric buses on the road.

The California Air Resources Board voted unanimously to require that all new buses be carbon-free by 2029. Environmental advocates project that the last buses emitting greenhouse gases will be phased out by 2040.

While clean buses cost more than the diesel and natural gas vehicles they will replace, say they have lower maintenance and fuel costs. Supporters hope creating demand for thousands of clean buses will bring down their price and eventually other heavy-duty vehicles like trucks.

California has 153 zero-emission buses on the road now with hundreds more on order. Most of them are electric, though technology also exists for buses powered by hydrogen fuel cells.

"Every state could do a strategy like this," said Adrian Martinez, an attorney for Earthjustice, an environmental legal group that supports the rule. "This is something that California did first because we have major air quality and pollution problems, but this is something other states could pursue."

Existing state and federal subsidies are available to help transit agencies absorb some of the higher costs of carbon-free buses, along with money from the state's settlement with Volkswagen over the German automaker's emission-cheating software.

In approving the mandate, air board members cited both a reduction in greenhouse gas emissions and improved air quality along heavily trafficked transit corridors in smog-polluted cities.

The transportation sector accounts for 40 percent of California's greenhouse gases, and those emissions are rising even as electrical emissions have fallen substantially.

California needs to drastically reduce transportation emissions to meet its aggressive climate change goals.

The California Transit Association, a lobbying group, does not oppose electrifying the fleet but is concerned that zero-emission buses can't match the performance of the existing fleet and that there isn't enough money available for the transition, said Michael Pimentel, who is leading the organization's work on the issue.

"We do want to work alongside the Air Resources Board and our partners at the state and federal level to address these concerns and to ultimately achieve the goal of fully electrified fleets by 2040," Pimentel said.

Obituary

Patricia Mary Vargas

Resident of Fremont

November 3, 1931 – December 19, 2018

There is no real way to describe such an important life as that of our mother, Patricia Mary Vargas. She was a wife, a mother and a friend. She was born in San Francisco on November 3, 1931, and entered into rest at 87 years old on December 19, 2018, in the family home. Patricia is survived by her loving children Connie Elkhouri, Andy Vargas, Dana (Joe) Bearce, Guy Vargas, Ronald Wayne, Ruth Vargas and Terra (Adalberto) Orozco. Adoring 26 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren. Preceded in death by her husband Earl Vargas in 1996 and her daughters Sandra D. Harman, Teresa Mills and Crystal Rojas.

Our mother and father were foster parents for over 40 years in Alameda County. It was the joy of her life. Mom also worked as a cashier for Toy’s R Us for 6 years, and Walmart for 14 years. In her younger years, she volunteered as a Pink Lady at Washington for many years and was on bowling leagues.

She loved her dogs, Seamus and Sheela intensely. Loved roses, collected dolls, knitting, red wine, and all things Irish. Most of all, the family was everything to her and she sacrificed a lot for us, expecting nothing except we love each other. This is her legacy. Our sorrow is overwhelming.

Visitation will be held from 4PM – 8PM on Thursday, January 3, 2019 with a Vigil at 6:30PM, Fremont Chapel of the Roses, 1940 Peralta Blvd., Fremont. A Funeral Mass will be held at 10AM, Friday, January 4, 2019 at Holy Spirit Catholic Church, 37588 Fremont Blvd., Fremont.

• At 10:05 p.m. Fremont Police officers and Fremont Fire Department personnel responded to a report of a traffic collision between a vehicle and a pedestrian on Fremont Boulevard at Clough Avenue in the city’s Irvington district. When officers arrived, paramedics were treating the pedestrian, later identified as a 33-year-old Mountain View man, for his major injuries. The man died at the scene a short time later. The 53-year-old female driver remained at the scene and cooperated with investigators. It was not initially determined if the pedestrian was in the crosswalk when he was struck. Drugs and alcohol did not appear to be factors in the incident which remains under investigation. Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Traffic Investigator Snow at ksnow@fremont.gov or call (510) 790-6760. The incident is the fifth fatal traffic collision in Fremont this year.

Wednesday, December 12

• At about 5:30 p.m. a team of marshals in Pflugerville, Texas arrested Christian Kelling, 21, of Fremont in connection with fatal shooting that took place on December 4 in Fremont’s Northgate neighborhood. The incident occurred when patrol officers responded the 34000 Block of Torrington Court at about 11:18 p.m. December 4 on the report of gunshots heard and a vehicle colliding into a fence. Arriving officers found a 17-year-old male, later identified by local media as Damani Chadly, suffering multiple gunshot wounds and critically injured in the passenger seat of a car that had crashed into the side of a house at Chaucer Drive and Torrington Court. Fremont Fire Paramedics arrived, but Chadly was pronounced dead at 11:35 p.m.

Christian Kelling

Around 11:50 p.m. witnessed reported a 19-year-old male running from the scene. Officers found him nearby suffering from non-life threatening gunshot wounds; preliminary information indicated he was the driver of the crashed vehicle. He was taken to a hospital for treatment. Crimes Against Persons Detectives investigators determined the shooting occurred during the commission of a transaction involving the sale of marijuana. The suspect, Kelling, reportedly was selling marijuana to the deceased male and the injured victim. A dispute occurred, prompting Kelling to fire several rounds into the victim’s vehicle as it fled, striking both victims multiple times. During a search of the victim’s vehicle, marijuana packaged for sales was located.

A search of the Fremont’s Community Cameras eight minutes after the shooting showed a 2013 Honda Civic associated to Kelling traveling northbound on Fremont Boulevard at Enea Court. During their investigation, detectives determined that Kelling fled to Texas. Meanwhile, a warrant for Kelling’s arrest was issued. With the help of the Lone Star US Marshal Apprehension Unit, Kelling was found and taken into custody. On Wednesday, December 18 Kelling was charged with homicide and attempted homicide in Alameda County; he is expected to be transported to California soon for arraignment.

‘Teddy Bear Bandit’ arrested

SUBMITTED BY SAN LEANDRO PD

After two months at large, a suspect dubbed by San Leandro Police as the “teddy bear bandit” was arrested in Oakland on Friday, December 14 on a burglary warrant issued by an Alameda County judge.

The suspect got his name after he reportedly burglarized the East Bay Flower Shop at 1200 E 14th. St., San Leandro at 1200 E 14th. St. in October. This incident occurred around 2:00 am as the thief used a BB style handgun to shoot out the front glass windows to the business. After shattering the glass, the burglar entered the store and stole numerous flowers and stuffed animals. The entire incident was captured on the store’s video surveillance system.

San Leandro Policed Detectives began working the case and received a lead from another police agency that led them to the identity of the suspect, Andre Benny Murphy, 46, of Oakland. During the investigation, some of the stuffed teddy bears were found at a female’s home in Alameda. A warrant was issued for Murphy’s arrest. It turned out that several other law enforcement agencies are also investigating Murphy for similar style burglaries.

“The case is an example of how law enforcement agencies network together, sharing information to solve cases,” said San Leandro Police Lieutenant Isaac Benabou. “We know that the suspect had given the stolen flowers and stuffed animals to a female friend. Now, the teddy bear bandit will have to find other ways to show his affection.”

Murphy remains in custody at Santa Rita Jail in Dublin.

• At 10:45 p.m. officers responded to a report about an in-progress residential burglary on the 30 Block of Ede Lane. Residents told arriving officers a man attempted to enter their house by kicking in the front door and identifying himself as a police officer. When family members confronted the suspect, he fled with some family members chasing him. Officers joined the pursuit and located the suspect, later identified by police as Charles Whittington, 66, of San Jose, in a business complex several blocks away and took him into custody. A searched showed that Whittington was in the possession of methamphetamines and narcotic paraphernalia. He was booked into the Santa Clara County Main Jail on suspicion of attempted burglary, impersonating police and possession of narcotics and paraphernalia.

Saturday, December 8

• At 9:15 p.m. officers responded to a report about an armed robbery at the Lucky supermarket at 1350 S. Park Victoria Drive. A man had entered the store and tried to steal a large amount of alcohol but was confronted by a store employee. During the confrontation, the man reportedly pulled a handgun from his waistband and threatened to shoot the employee who retreated to the back of the store. The employee saw the man exit the store and enter a Nissan Quest minivan, change his clothes and then flee on foot. Responding officers surrounded the minivan and detained several occupants. They also found a loaded Smith and Wesson .38 caliber handgun inside the vehicle. A check showed the handgun was reported stolen from Las Vegas. A short time later an officer saw a man matching the original suspect’s description leaving a nearby restaurant. He was later identified by police as Ezequiel Gutierrez, 25, of Hayward. He also was positively identified by witnesses and through store surveillance footage. A searched showed he was in possession of methamphetamines and drug paraphernalia. Gutierrez was booked into the Santa Clara County Main jail on various robbery, weapon violation and drug charges.

SUMMARY OF ADOPTED ORDINANCE NO. 28-2018
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF FREMONT AMENDING FREMONT MUNICIPAL CODE TITLE 1, GENERAL PROVISIONS, CHAPTER 1.15, PENALTY PROVISIONS, CHAPTER 1.15.020, PENALTY AND CHAPTER 1.20 ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES, SECTION 1.20.040 PROCEDURES FOR ADMINISTRATIVE CITATIONS AND

SECTION 1.20.080 PENALTIES ASSESSED
On December 4, 2018, the Fremont City Council introduced the above ordinance amending certain sections of the Administrative Remedies ordinance and the associated penalty provisions. The amendments increase the amounts of the criminal and administrative fines for violations of a building and safety codes listed in Title 15 of the Fremont Municipal Code determined to be an infraction to $130 for a first violation, $700 for a 2nd violation of the same ordinance within one year, $1,300 for each additional violation of the same ordinance within one year of the first violation, and $2,500 for each additional violation of the same ordinance within 2 years of the first violation if the property is a commercial property with an existing building at the time of the violation and the violation is due to failure by the owner to remove visible refuse or to prohibit unauthorized use of the property.

The amendments also include a process for granting a hardship waiver to reduce the amount of the fine for a second or third violation of the same local building and safety code that is an infraction upon a showing by the responsible party that the responsible party has made a bona fide effort to comply after the first violation and that payment of the full amount of the fine would impose an undue financial burden on the responsible party. In addition, the amendments authorize the City to immediately impose administrative fines or penalties for violations of building, plumbing, electrical, or other similar structural, health and safety, or zoning requirements if the violation is the result of or facilitates the illegal cultivation of cannabis.

This Ordinance was adopted at a regular meeting of the City of Fremont City Council held December 18, 2018, by the following vote, to wit:

Bridge tolls set to rise with new year

SUBMITTED BY METROPOLITAN TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION

Officials from the Bay Area Toll Authority (BATA) are reminding drivers that several important changes will become effective starting January 1 at the region’s seven state-owned toll bridges. These include the first of the $1 toll increases approved last year through state Senate Bill 595 and by voters through Regional Measure 3 in June 2018. This will mark the first toll hike at the state-owned toll bridges since 2010. Additional $1 increases will go into effect on New Year’s Day.

Regular tolls for two-axle cars and trucks (as well as for motorcycles) at the Dumbarton, San Mateo-Hayward, Antioch, Benicia-Martinez, Carquinez, and Richmond-San Rafael bridges will rise to $6 from the current $5.

Meanwhile, at the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, regular tolls will climb to $7 from the current $6 on weekdays from 5:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. and from 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. During weekday off-peak hours from 12:00 midnight to 5:00 a.m., from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., and from 7:00 p.m. to 12:00 midnight, Bay Bridge tolls will rise from $4 to $5; and on Saturdays and Sundays, Bay Bridge tolls will increase to $6 from the current $5.

Tolls for vehicles with three or more axles also will rise by $1 on all seven of the state-owned toll bridges: to $16 for three axles, $21 for four-axles, $26 for five axles, $31 for six axles, and $36 for combinations with seven or more axles.

Senate Bill 595 and Regional Measure 3 continue the peak-period toll discount for motorcycles, carpools and qualifying clean-air vehicles crossing any of the state-owned toll bridges on weekdays from 5:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. and from 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. The discounted toll is scheduled to increase to $3 on January 1 from the current $2.50. To qualify for this discount, carpools, motorcyclists and drivers of qualifying clean-air vehicles must use FasTrak to pay their tolls electronically and must use a designated carpool lane at each toll plaza.

The legislation also established a 50-cent toll discount for two-axle vehicles crossing more than one of the state-owned toll bridges during weekday commute hours of 5:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. To be eligible for the toll discount, which is to be applied to the second toll crossing of the day, motorists must pay their tolls electronically with FasTrak. Carpools, motorcycles and qualifying clean-air vehicles making a second peak-period toll crossing in a single day will qualify for an additional 25-cent discount off the already-discounted carpool toll. The two-bridge discount will not be available to drivers who use cash to pay their tolls.

New FasTrak customers can obtain toll tags at most Walgreens and Costco stores around the Bay Area. A complete list of participating locations – along with an online enrollment and registration feature — is available by visiting the FasTrak website at www.bayareafastrak.org.

Customers also may enroll in the FasTrak program by phone at 1 (877) 229-8655; by calling 511 and asking for “FasTrak” at the first prompt; or in person at the FasTrak customer service center at 375 Beale Street in San Francisco. Operating hours are Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturdays, 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. FasTrak can be used in all lanes at all Bay Area toll plazas.

Meanwhile, a pair of lawsuits challenging Senate Bill 595 and Regional Measure 3 are pending in the Superior Court in the City and County of San Francisco. The toll increases, when collected, will be placed into an escrow account managed by an independent trustee. Following a process similar to voter-approved sales tax measures that face legal challenge, these funds will be transferred at least once each week from BATA to a Union Bank (Mitsubishi United Financial Group - MUFG) trust account, where the funds will be managed by a bank trust officer until final resolution of all litigation. Once the BATA legal team certifies there is a final resolution, the Authority will be asked to release the escrow. If BATA prevails in the litigation, the funds will be applied to BATA-approved programs. If BATA should lose the litigation, the funds will be reimbursed to toll payers.

BATA, which is directed by the same policy board as the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC), administers toll revenues from the Bay Area’s seven state-owned toll bridges. Toll revenues from the Golden Gate Bridge are administered by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, which joined with BATA to operate a single regional FasTrak customer service center in San Francisco. MTC is the transportation planning, financing and coordinating agency for the nine-county San Francisco Bay Area.

Hayward School District goes solar

SUBMITTED BY DIONICIA RAMOS

The Hayward Unified School District (HUSD) has begun construction of solar panel projects at several school sites and a few district sites as part its new solar energy program. Over the next 10 to 12 months, solar arrays will be installed at a total of 31 district sites. The installations will take the form of parking canopies, ground-mounted structures, and playground canopy structures with mounted solar panels. For the project, the district is partnering with Engie – global energy and services group focused on low-carbon power generation.

The program will generate substantial savings for the district’s general fund, provide project-based learning opportunities for students, reduce the district’s carbon footprint, and create local green jobs. HUSD is set to open STEAM (science, technology, engineering, arts, and math) buildings at all three of its high school campuses. The solar energy program will allow for access to lesson plans and customized sessions for teachers across the district.

MY CHOICE IS WTMF,

because I don't want to navigate all over the Bay for my health care.

Convenient locations and flexible office hours are often a key consideration when patients choose Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF). Since Fremont resident Justin Ruhnke's first visit to a WTMF Orthopedist, he's come to appreciate how easy it's been to find top-notch doctors just minutes from his home. Now, he doesn't have to deal with long trips, traffic delays, and bridge tolls. And he likes being able to get appointments quickly. But there are still other factors that prompted Justin to choose WTMF. "I've received really great care here. Their services are extensive and all work in tandem with each other. Plus, the doctors generally spend more time, are good at listening and offer up-to-date treatment options." Just as important is the fact that his doctors work with him, value his opinions and respect him. It's a win-win for Justin (and he doesn't need those maps anymore).
