The shades that never fade Celebrating Holi

BY MADHIKA SINGH

RANA BAY AREA

Two traditional folk tales illustrate the origin of Holi, a festival of fire and color.

Fire:

Once upon a time there lived a demonic king named Hiranyakashipu. With a lust for power, control and desire to become God, he wanted everybody in his kingdom to worship only him. However, his own son Prahlada, God's true devotee, refused to worship him. Outraged with anger and driven to insanity at the disobedience of his son, Hiranyakashipu tried killing Prahalad without success. Maddened by his failure, he reached out to his sister Holika who possessed a special power that protected her from fire. He asked Holika to enter a pyre along with Prahlada, with the intention to kill him. However, upon entering the fire, she was burned but the fire did nothing

Juried exhibit showcases creative Photographic Art Work

SUBMITTED BY ARATHI SATISH

Photography is an artistic medium of capturing images seen through the eyes of a photographer. As Ansel Adams said, "Photography, as a powerful medium of expression and communications, offers an infinite variety of perception, interpretation and execution." The Fremont Cultural Arts Council's (FCAC) mission to support the practice and enjoyment of photography in the Fremont community continues with the upcoming 25th annual "Juried Photography Exhibit." With the assistance of the City of Fremont, original photographs will be displayed at the opening night reception on Saturday, March 16 at the Fremont Main Library.

Exhibit Chairman Gregory Smith said, "There are 100 photographs from over 25 photographers. As in the past years, the quality of submissions was high. The subject matter of the photographs ranges widely, so there is something certain to appeal to everyone." Smith pointed out there are many talented photographers locally and this is an opportunity to see some creative photographic artwork. It is also an occasion to meet and talk with the photographers.

Your Blood Pressure, Glucose Levels—Even Your Waistline, May Be Telling You Something Serious

Free Community Seminar
Explains Symptoms and Treatment of Metabolic Disorders

The human body's process to convert the foods we eat into the energy we need for keeping our bodies healthy and fueling our everyday activities is known as metabolism. This remarkable, intricate process relies on various chemicals in the digestive system – including enzymes, hormones and vitamins – to break down the proteins, carbohydrates and fats in our food to produce energy. When something disrupts this process, such as a diseased organ or gland that produces an essential enzyme or hormone, it is considered a metabolic disorder, which can sometimes result in serious health consequences.

“By far, the most common metabolic disorder is diabetes,” says Prasad Katta, MD, an endocrinologist with Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF) and medical director of the Washington Outpatient Diabetes Center.

The American Diabetes Association estimates approximately 30.3 million adults and children in the U.S. – about 9.4 percent of the population – have diabetes. There are two types of diabetes:

- Type 1, in which the body does not produce insulin, a hormone produced by the pancreas to move glucose from the bloodstream into the body's cells
- Type 2, the most common form of diabetes, in which the body does not use insulin properly

“The incidence of type 2 diabetes has increased dramatically, including among children and adolescents,” Dr. Katta notes. “Reasons for this could include lack of exercise, as well as diets that are high in carbohydrates, saturated fats, red meat and processed foods. Obesity – another risk factor for diabetes and other metabolic disorders – also is increasing dramatically.”

To help people learn more about metabolic disorders and other conditions that can affect the body's metabolism, Washington Hospital is offering a free seminar on Wednesday, April 3, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Conrad E. Anderson, MD, Auditorium located in the Washington West building at 2500 Mowry Ave. in Fremont. Dr. Katta will discuss various risk factors for metabolic disorders, including genetic predispositions, organ or gland malfunctions, obesity, and lifestyle considerations such as diet and exercise. He also will cover symptoms of certain metabolic disorders, in addition to screening and treatment options.

Dr. Katta notes, “We want people to be aware of their risk factors for diabetes – including their family history of the disease – and to be seen by their doctors sooner, rather than later. It’s important to catch diabetes before it progresses to serious complications.”

Other conditions that may be considered a type of metabolic disorder or related to metabolic disorders include high cholesterol and high blood pressure. In addition, there are a variety of extremely rare metabolic disorders caused by gene mutations that can be passed down through families. While mutation-caused disorders will not be a major focus of the seminar, Dr. Katta will address any questions attendees may have.

"In recent years, we have moved to a more comprehensive model of treating 'metabolic syndrome,' which is a cluster of conditions that increase the risk for diabetes, heart attack and stroke," he notes.

At his seminar, Dr. Katta will also discuss thyroid disease, another fairly common condition.

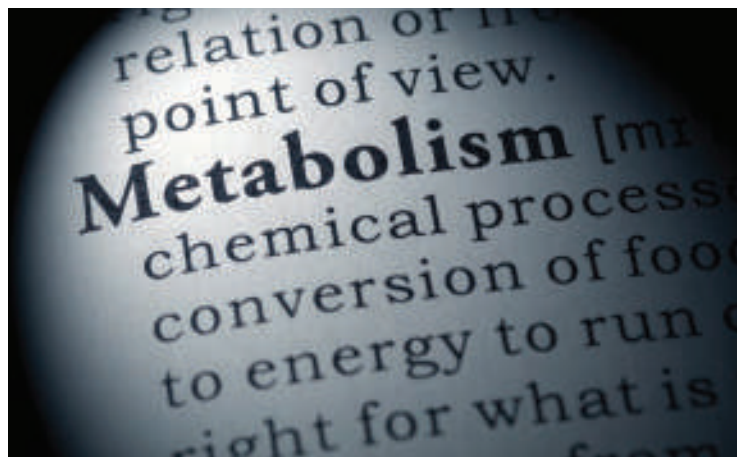

A small gland in the lower neck, the thyroid produces hormones to control the amount of energy used by the body's cells.

“The most common type of thyroid disease is hypothyroidism – an abnormally low level of thyroid hormones,” Dr. Katta explains. “When the thyroid doesn't produce enough hormones, the body uses energy more slowly than it should. Symptoms could include weight gain, constipation, dry or itchy skin, hair loss, muscle pain, brittle hair and nails, and feeling cold all the time." Hypothyroidism affects approximately 10 percent of the population.

Dr. Katta will review various treatment plans for hypothyroidism, including monitoring thyroid hormone levels, medication, and when necessary, low-dose radiation.

To register for the April 3 seminar, visit www.whhs.com/event/class-registration or call (800) 963-7070. For more information about the many services offered through the Washington Outpatient Diabetes Center, visit www.whhs.com/diabetes.

Metabolic disorders can be confusing and hard to diagnose. All community members are welcome to hear from a specialist who will explain the conditions and answers questions.

When it comes to how to eat right, it seems there are too many opinions out there. On Thursday, April 11, join Dr. Victoria Leiphart at the WTMF Newark Clinic to learn the science behind the opinion.

Keto, Paleo, Vegan, Whole30 – we are inundated every day with information about various diet trends. Promotional emails flood our inbox; we see people we know trying a whole new way to eat; and we get conflicting nutrition advice on the radio and TV. Some of these diets focus on eating low-fat foods, while others promote consuming most of your calories from fat. It's confusing. How can we navigate through the myriad of nutrition myths and learn the proper way to eat for long-term health?

Washington Hospital is hosting a free community seminar, Nutrition Myths, on Thursday, April 11, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Newark Clinic conference room located at 6236 Thornton Ave. in Newark. People of all ages will find the information valuable and are invited to attend.

“The question I hear most often from my patients is, ‘What should I be eating to stay or get healthy?’” says gynecologist and lifestyle medicine physician, Victoria Leiphart, MD, a member of Washington Township Medical Foundation, who will present the seminar. Dr. Leiphart has practiced medicine locally for 30 years and counsels her patients on management and prevention of disease through nutrition, exercise and stress management. “When it comes to nutrition, I use science to help sort out the confusion about fad diets and provide a solid foundation for the healthiest way to eat,” she says.

Research Shows “You Are What You Eat”

Seventy-one percent of Americans are overweight and one-third of us, or nearly 80 million people, are classified as obese according to the Journal of the American Medical Association. Obesity contributes to heart disease, stroke, diabetes, high blood pressure, high cholesterol, asthma, sleep apnea, certain cancers and other diseases. Excess weight and obesity have also been associated with high rates of depression and a poorer quality of life.

According to Dr. Leiphart, “Scientific evidence is proving more and more that what we eat significantly affects our well-being. Choosing which foods we put on our plates, and even more importantly what we avoid, gives us the power to regain and maintain good health.”

Some recent nutrition-related research findings that will be discussed at the seminar include:

- Why artificial sweeteners should be avoided
- People who consume artificially-sweetened beverages have the same rate of diabetes and obesity as people who consume sugar-sweetened beverages. The reason is unknown, but preliminary research provides clues.
- Why Americans are fatter than Europeans
- Social factors such as eating more meals on the run and consuming fast food are likely to blame.
- The importance of gut microbiome
- The trillions of bacteria, viruses, and fungi that live in your gut affect your mood and your health. You can control them through what you eat.
- The good and the bad of fad diets
- Fast, temporary results may not always be the best choice.
- Regional diets and their effect on health
- India has the lowest rate of colon cancer in first-world countries. This is tied to a predominantly vegetarian diet and may be linked to the inclusion of turmeric in many dishes.
- How small changes in behavior can lead to healthier eating
- A few adjustments to the way you shop for food and plan meals can make a big impact on your weight and your health.

“In my work, it’s essential to follow ongoing research about nutrition and eating habits so I can share new information with my patients and larger audiences at these community seminars,” says Dr. Leiphart. “At the same time, I try to practice what I preach. Because of this, I’m healthier now than I was five years ago. I enjoy touting the benefits of eating a whole food, plant-based diet because it makes you feel good, keeps you healthy, and leads to a longer, happier life.”

Holi

to Prahalad. Fire vanquished the evil while protecting the good!

Color:

When Lord Krishna was a baby, his maternal uncle Kans sent an ogress called Putna to kill him by nursing him with poisoned milk. Krishna survived, as he was an avatar of a god, but ended up acquiring a deep blue color due to ingesting poisoned milk. The fear of rejection due to colored skin used to bother him as he thought now his beloved Radha, who was fair, would not like him. His mother Yashodha could not see her darling son in distress and asked him to color Radha's face any color he liked. When Krishna splashed color on Radha's face they united. The metaphor in the mythology reminds us of the prejudices that are caused when we see differences. And that's probably the relevance of indulging in color on Holi.

The Indian Festival of colors, Holi is an occasion to remember and celebrate these legends. Falling on the full moon of the Hindu calendar month Phalgun, the two-day Holi celebration involves Holika takes many forms from playing with flower petals, events in temples, to city processions. Another kind of celebration, Lathmaar Holi, involves women hitting men with sticks called laths. Holi enactments can also be seen in classical Indian dance recitals depicting Radha and Krishna playing Holi.

Gujiya, a special sweet, and Thandai, a special drink, are synonymous with Holi celebration. Different kinds of chaat, a mouth-watering spicy assortment of a Holi celebration on Saturday, March 23 at Lake Elizabeth in Fremont with live dhol, nonstop DJ and dance performances.

The splash of color that Holi creates touches upon something timeless. The color of love and devotion can overcome all stains and tarnish of power, poison, and prejudice. Humility, equality, and justice are priceless values to be forever cherished and celebrated.

Dahan (Burning Holika) and Holi or Phag (Color Splash). This year Holi falls on March 21 and 22.

On the first day, Holika Dahan, people gather around a pyre to perform prayer as a symbol of the triumph of good over evil. The next day of Holi (or Phag) is the day when people apply color to one another in celebration of love and rejoice. The word Phag comes from the word Phalgun, meaning spring. People play with color powders called gulal and water guns called pichkaris creating a fun-filled atmosphere to celebrate the day.

While a two-day celebration is more common for Holi, a region in Uttar Pradesh called Braj celebrates Holi over a span of a week or longer. Celebration here

Prepare to delight your taste buds and learn about great local businesses when the Castro Valley/Eden Area Chamber of Commerce hosts the 3rd annual "Taste of Castro Valley and Business Expo." The free event is on Thursday, March 21 at the Castro Valley Moose Lodge and offers food, giveaways, music, drinks, prizes and more. Tasting and raffle tickets can be purchased at the door.

Taste of Castro Valley and Business Expo is an opportunity for businesses to meet community members and offer samples from local restaurants. "The Business Expo has been an event of ours for about 27 years," said Ashley

Strasburg, Executive Director of Castro Valley/Eden Area Chamber of Commerce. Although previously closed to the general public, "five years ago we opened it up to the community and then two years ago, in keeping with chamber trends, we did the 'Taste of.'"

"Everybody is always looking for good places to eat in our area," Strasburg said. "The Business Expo started to get businesses to network with each other, and then, as time progressed and our community changed, our businesses wanted more interaction with the community than our monthly networking mixers." The Taste of Castro Valley was the answer.

The Castro Valley Chamber of Commerce, established in 1937, has been serving the Eden Area of Ashland, Cherryland, and San Lorenzo since 2006. The chamber provides support for its local businesses and chamber member businesses attend monthly networking events hosted by various groups and get more visibility through networking events. Members have access to chamber-hosted seminars, symposiums about business ownership and discounts to networking events.

Forty-two businesses are expected to participate in the Taste of Castro Valley and Business Expo; there will be a variety of tasty sweet and savory foods to sample. Vendors are still being confirmed, but past participants have included Mama Cho's Homestyle Korean BBQ, Golden Safari, Jenn's Cupcakes and Parties, Desserts First, Aurora Catering, Pokeatery, and Aroma Cuisine of India. Some vendors will offer vegetarian food samples. Other businesses that participated in the past include retail, service businesses, hair salons, and arts and craft businesses.

In addition to food sampling, food vendors will vie for the title of "Best Bite of the Night." A top contender, Aurora Catering, received that honor one year for their short rib samples. Participants with a tasting ticket can choose which food booth has the best samples. Raffle prizes, donated by business vendors and chamber sponsors, will be a bonus for lucky ticket holders.

The chamber anticipates about 300 people will attend the event.

For those interested in being a vendor or a sponsor, visit the Castro Valley/Eden Area Chamber of Commerce office, call (510) 537-5300, or visit www.edenareachamber.com. Chamber members pay an entry fee of $175 and non-members pay $275.

Tickets for the raffle and food tastings can be purchased the day of the event or by phone. Tasting tickets are $7 presale and $10 at the door for all food samples. Raffle tickets: $3 for one ticket; $25 for 35 raffle tickets.

Airbnb acquires last-minute booking service HotelTonight

AP WIRE SERVICE

Airbnb is acquiring last-minute booking service HotelTonight in order to boost its offerings. The two San Francisco-based companies announced the deal Thursday. Terms weren’t revealed.

HotelTonight co-founder and CEO Sam Shank will lead Airbnb’s boutique-hotel category.

HotelTonight will operate separately, offering discounted rooms for last-minute trips. It has partnerships with thousands of hotels in North and South America, Europe and Australia.

Gradually, some of those rooms – particularly ones in boutique hotels – will also be offered by Airbnb. Airbnb may also direct users to HotelTonight to help them find last-minute properties.

Airbnb lists more than 6 million places to stay worldwide. Last year, it doubled the number of hotels and bed and breakfasts on its site in order to meet users’ demands.

Amazon to close all its pop-up shops

AP WIRE SERVICE

Amazon said Wednesday that it will shut down all its pop-up shops and focus on opening more of its bookstores as it rethinks its brick-and-mortar strategy.

The online retail giant has 87 pop-up shops in malls, Whole Foods grocery stores and Kohl’s department stores that sell Amazon’s Echo voice-activated devices, Kindle tablets and other gadgets.

Amazon did not say when the pop-up shops would shut down, but the Wall Street Journal, citing anonymous sources, reported that they will shutter at the end of April. The news comes a day after Kohl’s said it was moving away from having Amazon shops in its stores and instead plans to sell Amazon gadgets in a designated section.

Amazon has been making a big push into brick-and-mortar stores, buying up the Whole Foods grocery chain, opening 19 bookstores and 10 cashier-less convenience stores around the country. But sales at its physical stores slipped 3 percent in the last three months of 2018, compared with the same period the year before.

Besides opening more bookstores, Amazon said it also plans expand its 4-star stores beyond the three it has now. The 4-star stores, which it began to open last year, sell a mix of products including cookware and toys.

California: Trump plan to take back rail money ‘disastrous’

By KATHLEEN RONAYNE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leaders of California’s high-speed rail project told the Trump administration Monday its plans to withhold or claw back $3.5 billion in federal money for the project was “legally indefensible” and “disastrous policy.”

Terminating the money “would cause massive disruption, dislocation, and waste, damaging the region and endangering the future of high-speed rail in California and elsewhere in the nation,” Brian Kelly, the chief executive for the project, wrote in a letter to Jamie Rennert of the Federal Railroad Administration.

Kelly’s letter is in response to a February threat by the U.S. Department of Transportation to withhold a $929 million grant for the project and possibly take back $2.5 billion in federal money the state has already spent.

Congress and the Obama administration allocated the money almost a decade ago for California to build a high-speed rail line between Los Angeles and San Francisco. A segment of the train in the Central Valley is now under construction, and the $3.5 billion is a key piece of its budget.

The threat was an escalation in California’s ongoing feud with the Trump administration. It came after Gov. Gavin Newsom suggested changes to the project in his State of the State address. He said the project as currently planned would cost too much and take too long, and said he wanted to focus first on building a longer line in the Central Valley.

Newsom has since said he still intends to build the full line, but Trump used his comments to decry the project as a “failure.” Newsom said Trump’s call to take back the money was retaliation for the state’s lawsuit against the president’s declaration of a national emergency at the U.S.-Mexico border.

California must meet certain construction and environmental review deadlines by 2022 as part of its agreement with the federal government. Kelly said the state is meeting its obligations and that the vision of the project has not changed.

He said the threat to withhold the roughly $1 billion the state hasn’t yet received was not legally defensible, and that efforts to take back what’s already been spent “disastrous policy.”

Tesla to close stores to reduce costs for $35,000 Model 3

By MICHAEL LIEDTKE AND TOM KRISHER AP BUSINESS WRITERS

Tesla will only sell its electric cars online as it accelerates its cost cutting so it can realize its long-running goal of selling a mass-market sedan for $35,000.

The change announced Thursday will allow the Silicon Valley automaker to begin selling its Model 3 for $35,000 – a price point that Tesla CEO Elon Musk has been striving to reach in order to appeal to more consumers and generate the sales the company needs to survive.

The cheapest Model 3 that could be ordered before Thursday started at $42,900.

To save money, Tesla will close many of its stores, but leave some open as galleries or “information centers” in high-traffic areas. Musk declined to specify how many stores will be closed or how many employees will be laid off. The company has 378 stores and service locations worldwide.

“This is the only way to achieve the savings for this car and be financially sustainable,” Musk told reporters during a conference call. “It is excruciatingly difficult to make this car for $35,000 and be financially sustainable.”

The online sales shift will enable Tesla to lower all vehicle prices by 6 percent, on average, including its higher-end Model S and Model X.

All other major automakers rely on vast dealer networks, but Musk co-founded Tesla in 2003 in an effort to shake up the industry, starting with a focus entirely on a fleet of cars powered by electricity instead of gasoline.

Although he said going online-only was a difficult decision, Musk believes it’s the right one.

“It’s 2019,” he said. “People want to buy things online.”

That is particularly true of younger, technologically fluent consumers who already are accustomed to buying almost everything at Amazon and having it delivered to them quickly, said Karl Brauer, executive publisher of Kelley Blue Book.

Musk “doesn’t need the whole world to buy into this,” Brauer said. “All he needs is the same basic demographic that has been interested in his cars from Day One.”

Although he said he didn’t know for certain, Musk predicted there’s enough pent-up demand to sell about 500,000 Model 3s annually at the starting price of $35,000.

But buyers will have to wait far longer than they do when shopping on Amazon.

A U.S. consumer who places an order for the Model 3 at its new lower price now will likely get it by the end of June before a tax credit for electric vehicles is scheduled to be reduced, Musk said.

The store closures will come on top of a decision to cut 3,150 jobs, or about 7 percent of Tesla’s workforce, announced earlier this year.

Despite the austerity measures, Musk told reporters Tesla will lose money in the current quarter ending in March, backpedaling a statement he made last October when he pledged the company would remain profitable from that point on. But Musk said it’s “likely” Tesla will bounce back with a profit during the April-June period.

Tesla’s stock fell 3 percent in extended trading after the news came out.

The Palo Alto, California, company is slashing costs just a few months after paying half of a $40 million settlement of a case that the Securities and Exchange Commission filed against Musk last September after he tweeted that he had lined up financing for a potential buyout for the company. The SEC alleged Musk misled investors after concluding he didn’t have the money to pull off the deal.

The SEC has asked a federal judge to hold Musk in contempt after he posted another tweet about key Tesla information without getting company approval as required in the settlement of its previous case.

Musk declined to take questions about the SEC’s attempt to hold him in contempt – an action that legal experts say could culminate in him being forced out as CEO in a worst-case scenario.

New medical clinic opens doors

SUBMITTED BY TRI-CITY HEALTH CENTER

Officials from the Tri-City Health Center (TCHC) recently announced the opening of a new clinic that will provide critical primary/complementary medicine, behavioral health, and expanded enabling services to the area. The clinic is named Mowry III-The Behavioral Health and Social Services (BHSS) Clinic and is located on Mowry Avenue across the street from the health center’s Mowry I and Mowry II clinics and shares a parking lot with Washington Hospital.

Behavioral Health providers will continue to provide an integrated model of care with each clinic; however, with a central location, providers will be able to offer group activities, specialty services to include tele-psychiatry and alternative therapies, and a broader range of enabling and social services.

“To be able to coordinate those things in the same place is important,” Interim BHSS Director Dr. Josh McKeever said. “With this centralized location we will be able to better manage patients dually diagnosed with behavioral health and substance use disorder who will receive counseling, case management and medical care under one roof.”

Mowry III will also be a home for the Medication-Assisted Treatment (MAT) program, substance use disorder services (SUD), and other programs, including pain management therapies, acupuncture and chiropractic care. At Mowry III, Social Services will play a large role, supporting patients with care delivery, enhancing health literacy and accessing care.

Other services include benefits counseling, transportation, translation services, housing and eligibility assistance, with enrollment in CalFresh, HealthPAC, Medi-Cal and other benefits. These services will continue to eliminate the barriers for patients to receive the best care they need. Increased collaboration in a new location for Behavioral Health and Social Services will bring a more unified approach to care for the health center’s Behavioral Health patients.

Mowry III is the eighth Fremont-based clinic operated by TCHC and is located at 1860 Mowry Ave, Suite 400. Federal funding was provided by the Health Resources & Services Administration.

US regulators outline oversight on meat grown in lab dishes

AP WIRE SERVICE

U.S. officials are outlining how they will regulate burgers made from cells grown in a lab.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says that meat from cultured animal cells will have to undergo agency inspection, as with other meat and poultry products. The agency will oversee production and labeling, while the Food and Drug Administration will oversee the first stages of the process, such as cell collection and growth, according to the agencies' agreement on joint oversight.

The announcement Thursday gives the emerging food category a clearer path to reaching supermarkets.

Cell-cultured meat products aren't yet commercially available. The startups developing them say the products would be more humane and environmentally friendly, since they don't require raising and slaughtering animals.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: MARCH 13 – MARCH 19, 2019

For All Signs: At the end of December 2018, I wrote a column in which I projected 2019-2020 to be the years of Karma's playground. (I used the term "karma" loosely, as in retribution or reward for past behavior, not as a religious message.) The astrological symbols that represent this condition are the presence of both Saturn and Pluto in the sign of Capricorn. Last week, the two began a long series of conjunctions and parallels in this sign of politics, business, building, and governing that will not be complete until after March 2020. This is a potent arrangement that can be destructive to anyone or entity that is doing harm to others or the public good. The fallout will be financial for the globe and potentially represents wars among those that cannot think in terms larger than their personal interests.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): This is a fine week to finish tasks you have in process. Aries is prone to procrastinate, so there are probably several things in the works. You have an increase in energy and can win at anything you try.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): This is a time in which you may be studying something. It could be a new skill, a language (use the word broadly), or instead you may become the teacher or mentor for someone else. You have the big picture and can communicate well with those at a distance.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Your ruling planet, Mercury, has turned retrograde in the area of casual friends, and organizational contacts. People from your past may be returning for a catch-up visit. It is possible that you are re-evaluating your participation in groups. The retrograde lasts through the end of March, so you need not make snap decisions.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): You are in the flow of things now. There are few who would stand in your way. Friendships, partnerships and other social relationships are cooperative and even helpful to your goals if you need that. You will likely find yourself a leader of one or more groups of peers.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): The Mercury retrograde spotlight is shining on you so brightly this week that the glare may hurt your eyes. Try not to offer opinions. Inquire of others about their attitudes. If you make flat statements, you are likely incorrect or too forceful for comfort.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Mercury is retrograding in the territory of significant relationships, contracts, and clientele. These areas may be challenging right now because it is difficult to make decisions or finalize activities. Have patience with yourself and everyone else. It is temporary.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Listen carefully to your intuition. Don't dismiss unusual ideas or information until you have tried it. Dreams may be informative. Your special talents are particularly helpful this week.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Your relationship to partner(s) is favored. This is a good time to discuss important topics. You can smooth the skids now if you are willing to converse in a peaceful manner. This is a good time to bring a creative work to fruition. It may not be totally complete, but you can see that a project will become successful

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): This is a time in which your exuberance and enthusiasm may carry you farther than you really intended to go. You will certainly have more energy to do whatever you choose but take care that you don't promise way more than you can deliver. Your warm and generous heart could get you into trouble.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): Give special consideration to the lead paragraph. It is probable that you are already seeing signs of major change in your life. It is not yet over. Stay prepared for transitions and transformations in the structure of your life.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): Your timing and stability are giving you a leadership position in a developing project which may not be unveiled for another year. For now, hold steady. Your plans are developing well, and others will be supportive of your ideas.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): People are recognizing the value of your commitment and production. This can be in any arena where you have given your energy. You will see this via new opportunities that come your way.

Juried exhibit showcases creative Photographic Art Work

This annual Juried Photography Exhibit is considered a prestigious event for local photographers. A panel of highly qualified judges recognized these works based on artistic merit, originality, difficulty, and technical aspects. Apart from merit awards, special awards including Presidents Choice Award, People's Choice Award, and Alvin Dockter Nature Photography Award will also be presented.

FCAC President Margaret Thornberry said, "As President of Fremont Cultural Arts Council, I steal a sneak peak at the photos laid out for the judges. Any indication as to who the photographers are is concealed to keep the judging impartial; the winners are only announced at the opening reception on March 16. Amazingly, the high quality of submitted photos just seems to get even better every year, and I get the sense this year that behind each one, there's an interesting story. Seeing the world through the eyes of our talented local photographers is fascinating!"

Photographs selected will be on display on the Fremont Main Library's second floor from Sunday, March 17 to Saturday, April 13. Some prints are also available for sale. Title cards for the accepted prints will indicate availability. A master list of items available for purchase and prices will be kept at the library's reference desk. Interested visitors are given the photographer's contact information. Sales are between the photographer and buyer; FCAC and the library are not parties to any sales. Any print sold will remain in the exhibit until April 13.

This event is free and open to general public; the local community is invited to attend the reception and vote for their favorite People's Choice Photograph. Light refreshments will be served.

For more information, please contact Exhibit Chairman Gregory Smith at (510) 828-2893 or fcacphotoshow@gmail.com. Visit the FCAC office at 3375 Country Drive, call (510) 794-7166 or visit www.fremontculturalartscouncil.org.

Plants of the Emerald Isle meet the Golden State

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY DANIEL O'DONNELL

The hills are always green on Saint Patrick's Day in Ireland. And with all the recent rain, the Bay Area should have green hills as well on March 17. Whatever the color of the landscape, there are plenty of plants commonly grown in Ireland that might remind Irish immigrants of home and surprise Bay Area residents that they grow here too.

The Irish landscape was much different in the past than it is today. Ireland was heavily forested. Today, nine percent of Ireland's habitat is non-native coniferous forest and only one percent is native woodland. This is not great for biodiversity in the country but has created the picturesque scenery that makes Ireland one of the world's most beautiful places. Deforestation has created the opportunity for some native and non-native plant species to flourish.

Ireland gets 150 days of rain per year on average on the east side of the island and 225 days on the west side. The typical amount of rainfall can range from 39 to 78 inches depending upon the location. Temperatures in summer range between 50- and 70-degrees Fahrenheit. Ireland only receives about seven and a half hours of daylight on the winter solstice but gets up to 17 hours on the summer solstice. This is far different than the Bay Area's climate. Fremont, for example, gets an average of 16 inches annual rainfall, has a more balanced amount of sunlight hours throughout the year, and is much warmer, especially in the summer. It might seem impossible that there are plants that can tolerate both habitats with such a wide range of environmental factors, but there are a handful that do.

Arguably the most well-known plant associated with Ireland is the shamrock. Shamrock is the common name of a few different types of plants that are referred to in the Bay Area as clover, oxalis, or sorrel. The shamrock has become a symbol of Ireland over the last few hundred years and can be found on sports jerseys, commercial aircrafts, national stamps, and building facades countrywide. Live shamrocks can also be found in some local grocery stores and other floral shops beginning in March. They are easy to keep alive well after Saint Patrick's Day passes. They should be grown indoors or in protected areas of the garden, watered regularly, and placed in bright indirect sunlight.

Spectacular spring wildflowers can be found growing in valleys and mountain ranges all over the world including the picturesque green hills and rugged seaside cliffs throughout Ireland. Ox-eye daisy, yellow buttercup, cowslip (primrose), sea thrift, and saxifrage are some of the common names of wildflowers in Ireland. They come from some of the same families and some are even the same varieties of wildflowers that make up the dazzling urban meadows people plant in the Bay Area. Specific Irish wildflower seed packs and mixes can be purchased on Amazon.

A few types of large plants might be grown in a Bay Area landscape as focal points. The same plants are occasionally used in mass as hedges in Ireland. It might be hard to imagine here in California a spiky eight-foot-tall row of cordylines dividing two Irish fields or a line of six-foot-wide phormiums creating a fence in front of a thatched cottage. These two plants are used in Ireland more as they would be in their native New Zealand home.

Gunnera or dinosaur plant as the name suggests is a plant with gigantic leaves that can grow to five feet across. It is used locally by designers and architects in commercial and residential properties to impress people in a massive way. It is not commonly used as a hedge plant in Ireland, but because of its impressive size and prehistoric grandeur, a single plant can elevate an already breathtaking landscape into a spectacular one.

Two plants that are commonly seen in Ireland and the Bay Area do not rely on their size to enhance the scenery around them. Colorful foxgloves can be seen brightening up the green Irish countryside during spring and into summer. They are splashing droplets of color around Bay Area gardens at the same time of the year. Rushes do not have sought-after colorful flowers but do have clumps of dark evergreen narrow stalks that can grow up to two feet tall. Their slender lines contrast with the low growing grasses in Irish fields, and the various rounded leaf shapes of plants found in many Bay Area gardens.

Whenever Ireland is mentioned, inevitably the next sentence will be how incredibly beautiful the country is. But if we use some of the same plants that grow there, we will not have to travel overseas to enjoy a little bit of Ireland in our own gardens.

Time to Shear Sheep

SUBMITTED BY MINDY CASTLE

Spring has sprung and it's time for our sheep's annual haircut. Watch as Ardenwood Farm's sheep get sheared on Saturday, March 16. Out of the six ewes four will be sheared more historically with the use of non-electric shears, and the others including some from local 4-H members will be sheared using modern electric shears. There will be a staff person at each of those shearings to talk about the process and answer any questions. The wool sheared will be used for school and public programs at the farm; attendees can buy wool from previous years' shearings in small souvenir bags.

Visitors can also try wool carding and see the transformation from fiber to yarn. Activities will be centered in the farmyard, sheep pens, and near the barn. Other activities include dog herding demonstrations, crafts, spinning demonstrations, sheep cheese tasting at the outdoor Country Kitchen, live music, face painting, and felting. This is a drop-in event and no registration is required. For information, call (510) 544-2797 or visit www.ebparks.org/parks/ardenwood/.

Ardenwood has had sheep since the late 1980s close to when the park opened. The farm has two sheep breeds and some that are a mix of both breeds. The Suffolk breed is primarily a meat breed, and Romney breed is used for its wool as it has a nice length to the fiber and is wonderful for spinning into yarn or for felting.

Liam Payne Concert

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY
TOSHALI GOEL

Fremont's Mission San Jose High School hosted Liam Payne, famed singer and ex-member of the celebrated boy band One Direction, in a private concert on Friday, February 15, 2019 as a result of winning a contest sponsored by education technology company Chegg. Mission San Jose also won a $10,000 grant to their music department.

Payne performed some of his most well-known songs at the event, including “For You” from the “Fifty Shades Freed” soundtrack and his smash-hit debut solo single “Strip That Down,” the biggest selling solo single yet from any member of One Direction. The concert was well-organized, with a dynamic mix of energetic pop songs and slower ballads. Payne was accompanied by backup dancers on his more animated numbers, all of whom added greatly to the enthusiastic and lively atmosphere. He also hosted an exclusive Q&A session, taking questions from a few members of the audience on his career and the possibility of an upcoming album.

“It was very exciting to see an internationally recognized artist perform up close, and I think it was a really fun experience as a whole,” said Mission San Jose High School senior Girija Prabhu. “I really liked the way he made us feel transported out of our gym and into a real concert venue. I know that many people at Mission used to be huge fans of Liam Payne when he was a part of One Direction, and it was like seeing those old dreams of seeing them in concert partially come true. I’m so happy he came, sang for us, and recognized our school for winning the $10,000 donation to our music department.”

The competition was part of the Chegg Music 101 series, which brings $10,000 music grants and top artists to schools to support music education. Previous Chegg Music 101 events have featured other top artists, such as Shawn Mendes, Rachel Platten, Ed Sheeran, and Taylor Swift. Chegg puts out an advertisement for the concert series every year, and student voting determines the winner. Students can vote multiple times, but not more than once per day. Schools in the past have even put up billboards to encourage voting. The Chegg Music 101 series has donated $130,000 to high schools and college campuses since the program’s launch in 2012, with Mission San Jose High’s concert being the fourth in the series thus far. The grant is funded from the Chegg David B. Goldberg Music Scholarship fund.

Many schools in the past have used the grants to build music labs, purchase instruments, or send their school band to perform in the widely known Macy’s Thanksgiving Day Parade. While Mission San Jose has no conclusive plans yet for how to use their new funds, band students say they are considering updating their equipment and classroom, specifically things like chairs that are not in top condition.

The Chegg series is powered by truth, one of the largest and most successful youth tobacco prevention campaigns in the nation, to further promote the importance of musical and other artistic education as well as to inspire students to pour their creativity and hard work into positivity. In an interview with Chegg, Payne said he was proud to be a part of the series to “showcase the importance of music and arts education since music has been such a positive force in my life.”

Celebrating Purim

The most festive of Jewish holidays, Purim celebrates the deliverance of the Jewish people from annihilation, as told in the book of Esther, also known as the Megillah

In the 4th century BCE, Jews were under the rule of the Persian Empire. When King Ahasuerus' wife, Queen Vashti, disobeyed his orders, he had her killed, then held a beauty pageant to find his new queen. He chose Esther, a Jewish girl, but she did not reveal her heritage.

Haman, the king's advisor, hated the Jews, and when Mordechai, leader of the Jews and cousin to Esther, refused to bow to him, Haman plotted the destruction of the Jewish people. When his plan was discovered, Esther bravely revealed her heritage to the king to save her people. King Ahasuerus was outraged by Haman's plans, and commanded that he be hung on the gallows that Haman had built for Mordechai's execution.

Purim is celebrated each year on the 14th day of the Hebrew month of Adar, which begins this year on the evening of Wednesday, March 20 and ends the evening of Thursday, March 21. The holiday is observed by reading the Megillah; giving money to the poor; sending gifts of food; dressing up in costumes; the baking of hamantaschen, a three-cornered pastry with sweet fillings; and a Purim feast. It is a time of joy, thanksgiving, and a lot of fun!

Temples in the Tri-City area will be hosting services and celebrations, beginning with Chabad of Fremont Jewish Center's "A Hypnotic Purim" Wednesday, March 20 featuring hypnotist Dr. Dave Hill, Megillah reading, and festive buffet. Chabad follows that with their "Purim Under the Sea" on Thursday, March 21 with a seafood dinner, face painting, masquerade, bubblemania show, and multimedia Megillah reading. Join Temple Beth Sholom for their Purim Carnival or attend a service at Congregation Shir Ami or Temple Beth Torah. Temple Beth Torah welcomes the community to don a costume and join in the fun!

Hummingbird Tales

BY PAT KITE

Hummingbirds seem to be the “IT” bird this spring. By now we may all know: there are 340 species; wings swirl 12 to 80 times per second, depend on species; they can travel 34 mph; and they are important pollinators. Now let’s move on to something perhaps more interesting. This bird’s ability to fly forward, backward, sideways, and upside down plus hover motionless gives rise to tales of magical powers. In Native American cultures, hummingbirds are healers and bringers of love, good luck and joy. In Central America, they are a sign of love and will bring love to the person who spots them. These tiny birds are supposed to take prayers to the gods. They might come bringing a message from a deceased loved one. The ancient Mayans believed that hummingbird was the “sun in disguise” that appears in a hummingbird form to court the moon. The Aztecs believed every warrior killed in battle eventually came back as a hummingbird. In a Native American Pima legend, a hummingbird acted like Noah’s dove, bringing back a flower as proof the great flood was subsiding.

A native American Seneca Story: Long ago, animals and birds gathered regularly when there were important items to discuss. The council meeting, before humans came into existence, was about the Creation of the Universe. The great Chief – Bear – spoke. He wondered if they were the only people in the world. A great argument ensued. Before things got too serious, it was decided to have a contest instead of a fight. A bird or animal with special powers would be chosen to fly past Grandfather Sun, discovering on the way whether there were other “people” anywhere. Since only bird people could fly, off they went. Eagle went the highest, but eventually began to tire. Then he felt something on his head. There was hummingbird, bringing her own food for the journey: a tiny mustard seed. She thanked the eagle for the ride, and off she went.

She was gone seven days. Upon returning to the council gathering, she was questioned. Well, are there other people? From her pocket, the hummingbird took out a small quartz crystal. “I traded my mustard seed for this sacred healing rock. It comes from people in outer space who live on other planets. Someday they will come to visit us.” [Author’s note: Apparently, we are still waiting.]

Studies have shown that hummingbirds can remember every flower they’ve ever visited, including on migration routes. Some favorites: fuchsias, lantana, morning glories, geraniums, butterfly bush, etc. They can even recognize humans and know which ones can be counted on to refill empty hummingbird feeders.

Lawmaker pushing for year-round daylight saving time

SUBMITTED BY
ASSEMBLYMAN
KANSEN CHU’S OFFICE

With the recent return of daylight saving time, Assemblyman Kansen Chu (D-San Jose) is continuing his work on AB 7, which would eliminate the biannual clock change in California and set the state on daylight saving time year-round, pending federal authorization.

Chu introduced AB 7 in response to 60 percent of voters supporting Proposition 7, which authorized the Legislature to consider eliminating the clock change if two-thirds of the Legislature approves the measure, and the governor signs the bill.

“Countless studies show the sleep loss alone causes tragic accidents on the road and in the workplace. In the wake of the convincing support of Proposition 7, it is clear that voters want to do away with the biannual clock change,” Chu explained. “That’s why I’m working on AB 7, which will eliminate the spring forward and fall back, and set California on daylight saving time year-round. While this practice was instituted to save energy, research shows that this is no longer the case and the practice is bad for public health and safety. We are not at all alone in reconsidering this practice. At least 28 states have introduced related legislation this year, putting pressure on the federal government to act. The time is now.”

Chu represents the 25th Assembly District which includes Newark, Fremont and northern Santa Clara County.

AB 7 has been referred to the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee and the Assembly Utilities and Energy Committee. The bill has not yet been set for a hearing. AB 7 will place the state on daylight saving time year-round. Federal authorization is needed to move forward. Earlier this month, Senator Marco Rubio filed federal Senate Bill 670 to place the country on daylight saving time year-round.

How Do Leprechauns Get Their Pots of Gold?

Around St. Patrick's Day, you will often hear legends about leprechauns and their pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. Have you ever wondered where they get all of that gold?

We make shoes for fairies!

So, we are always busy making new shoes for them. And they pay us in gold - LOTS of gold!

Their shoes wear out very quickly because fairies dance all night.

Watching the Costs

Just making and selling shoes isn't enough to collect the gold needed to fill a leprechaun's pot. Leprechauns have to keep an eye on the costs of making fairy shoes, too.

Take a look at the cost of shoe supplies on this list.

Tree Bark for Shoe Soles: 2 coins
Pine Needles for Sewing: 1 coin
Daisy Petals for Shoe Liners: 2 coins
Lilac Petals: 3 coins
Petunia Petals: 2 coins
Rose Petals: 4 coins

How many shamrocks can you find on this page?

What if the leprechaun spent more gold coins to make the shoes than he charged the fairies? He would run out of gold pretty quickly!

If it costs 7 gold coins for the supplies to make one pair of fairy shoes, what should the leprechaun charge so that he covers his costs and has some money left over to pay himself for his work to make the shoes?

Price matters!
Picking the right price is important. If the leprechaun charges too little, he will lose money. But if he charges too much, he will lose customers.

Use these worksheets to add up the costs of making each pair of shoes. Then find the difference between the costs and the selling price to determine the profit for each pair of shoes.

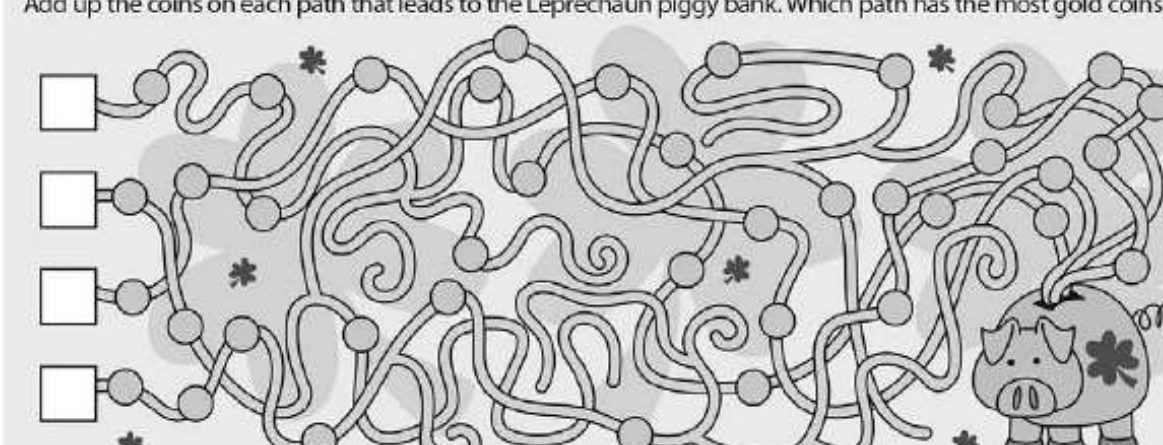

50 gold coins? That's way too expensive for me!

By selling fairy shoes, Lily Leprechaun has earned a lot of golden lepre-coins (that's Leprechaun money).

Fremont Launches Online Express Building Permits

The City of Fremont is pleased to announce that starting March 4, 2019, Fremont residents planning simple upgrades to their home can obtain the necessary building permits online.

As the City streamlines the permitting process for these types of express permits, the option to obtain these permits by fax will no longer be available. The City is encouraging applicants to start using the easier online process. It improves customer flow at the permitting counter, saves time and money, and reduces paper clutter. It's a win-win for the City and the Fremont community!

Online express permits are available for the following residential projects:

- Re-roofing
- Minor electrical panel upgrades
- Minor electrical work such as re-wiring or adding circuits
- Furnace replacement
- Addition or replacement of an air conditioning unit
- Water heater replacement
- Repair of gas, water, or drainage lines

- Window or patio door replacement
- Non-structural bathroom remodels
- Non-structural kitchen remodels

To get started, applicants need to submit a building permit application and any supporting documentation by email to expresspermits@fremont.gov. The turnaround time for issuance of online express permits is within one to two business days.

For more information, please visit www.Fremont.gov/ExpressPermits or call the City's Plans and Permits at 510-494-4460.

Fremont City Council Retreat Report 2019 Now Available

The City of Fremont held a City Council retreat for the newly seated councilmembers on January 10 and 11 to discuss how the Council and staff can best work together to serve the Fremont community. This workshop provided an opportunity for councilmembers and executive staff to develop norms and protocols, strengthen Council-staff teamwork, and identify Council priorities for the coming year.

At the end of the two-day retreat, the Council came to a consensus on the following priorities for City staff: Decrease the impacts of residential development; reduce traffic congestion; and provide support to neighborhood commercial districts. A report of the retreat summarizing the results is now available.

Over the next several months, staff will be presenting the Council with information and updates on various items that fall within these priority areas. Below is a tentative agenda on when the items will come before the Council:

Tentative Date	Item/Topic
March 19, 2019	Capital Improvement Program Work Session
April 2, 2019	Housing/Growth Management Work Session
April 9, 2019	Irrington BART Station Area Plan

Fremont Adopts New Carbon Neutral Goal and Post-Carbon Community Framework

Demonstrates climate leadership as first city in the region to align with State's 2045 Carbon Neutrality Goal

On Tuesday, February 19, the Fremont City Council voted to adopt a resolution to achieve carbon neutrality by the year 2045. This new carbon neutrality target positions Fremont to achieve deep and rapid decarbonization, which significantly enhances the goals established in its first Climate Action Plan of 2012 – to achieve a 25 percent community-wide greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions reduction by the year 2020 from a 2005 baseline.

"I'm proud of the unanimous Council approval as it demonstrates Fremont's continued bold climate leadership," said Mayor Lily Mei. "We are the first city in the region to align local policies with California's most ambitious target of carbon neutrality by 2045, set last September by former Governor Jerry Brown."

The carbon neutral target also supports the goals of the Paris Climate Agreement to keep global temperature increase within 1.5 degrees Celsius above pre-industrial levels in order avoid the most harmful impacts of climate change.

Additionally, the resolution establishes a Post-Carbon Community Framework that incorporates the values of equity and access, innovation and efficiency, health and wellness, and resiliency and capacity-building as principles for achieving long-term economic, social, and environmental sustainability.

The Framework includes seven key strategies to guide the development of an updated Climate Action Plan:

1. Clean and Renewable Power
2. Electrification and Fossil Fuel Phase-Out
3. Carbon Sequestration
4. Mobility and Connectivity
5. Resource Conservation and Elimination of Waste
6. Restorative Ecology and Green Infrastructure
7. Climate Adaptation and Resilience

Over the next year, the City will conduct robust outreach, analyze data, evaluate impacts, and engage with community stakeholders to identify specific implementation actions for achieving carbon neutrality.

Fremont residents are encouraged to join the conversation and provide input by attending public meetings, participating in online forums, or sending their ideas directly to sustainability@fremont.gov. Interested individuals can receive updates by signing up for the City's Sustainability email list at www.Fremont.gov/SustainabilityList. To view a copy of the complete resolution, visit www.Fremont.gov/CarbonNeutralityResolution.

I need a Forever Home

Toby is a spunky, 2 years young bunny with lots of personality. He likes his room to be just so and has no qualms about letting you know that fact. While not very fond of being picked up or being held, he loves snacking on basil, cilantro, and parsley. Meet Toby at the Hayward Animal Shelter.

Fiona is a sweet, 9 month old pup who loves life! She enjoys bounding around on walks and picking up sticks, and she loves to play with other dogs. She needs an active, experienced family who'll take her to training so she can learn good manners. May be OK with teens. Meet Fiona at the Hayward Animal Shelter.

Film Screening of ‘Human Flow’

SUBMITTED BY LYN LEONE

Over 65 million people around the world have been forced from their homes to escape famine, climate change and war in the greatest human displacement since World War II. “Human Flow,” an epic film journey led by the internationally renowned artist Ai Weiwei, gives a powerful visual expression to this massive human migration. Watch the film screening on Sunday, March 17 as part of the celebration of Castro Valley Reads. “Human Flow” comes at a crucial time when tolerance, compassion and trust are needed more than ever and poses one of the questions that will define this century: Will our global society emerge from fear, isolation, and self-interest and choose a path of openness, freedom, and respect for humanity? This program is free, and no advance registration is required.

Cougars Report

SUBMITTED BY TIMOTHY HESS

The Newark Memorial Lady Cougars’ varsity softball team spotted the Lady Cowboys of Livermore three runs in the top of the first inning, then bounced back with four runs in the bottom of the frame to take the lead on their way to a 6-3 victory on March 7th.

In an encore performance, the Lady Cougars pounced on the visiting Lady Dragons of Bishop O’Dowd (Oakland) with a 10-4 victory the next day, scoring in almost every inning.

Colts head for State finals; come close in championship

Boys Basketball

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

The James Logan Colts (Union City) won the semifinal round of the Division 1 State Basketball Tournament 54-49 with dramatic victory over Branson Bulls (Ross, CA) on March 5th. A slow start put the Colts in a hole at the beginning of play, but the team proved their tenacity and self-control as they responded to a powerful Branson attack with outstanding defense and a resurgent offense.

In a tense matchup on March 8th with the Chino Hills Huskies for the Division 1 crown at Golden 1 Center in Sacramento, it appeared that the Colts were poised to take the State champion crown. In an even match, the Colts edged the Huskies 17-16 in the first quarter but faltered, leaving the hardwood at the half with a 41-28 deficit. However, great teams do not fold and neither did the Colts as they played an almost even third quarter and stormed back in the fourth quarter to gain momentum, closing within a basket of the Huskies. However, as the clock ran out, the Huskies maintained their poise and just enough offense and defense to claim the title: Huskies 69, Colts 63.

Congratulations to the James Logan Colts for an exceptional season and a spectacular post-season run to the finals!

THEATRE

Two artists, one story: The Window Cleaner

SUBMITTED BY THE THEATER FACTORY

Rachel wants to learn ballet, but her mom wants her to fulfil her dream of mastering piano. On the other hand, Ashwin has not had success with the S.A.T. and refuses to take it another time. The window cleaner peeps into their lives and cleans windows, but is he really cleaning windows or clearing our minds?

The Theater Factory presents a new age, ground-breaking drama based on a true story which embraces the lives of teenagers, whining little kindergartners, and all parents. A true collaboration from diverse artists from all over the Bay Area, “The Window Cleaner,” written and directed by Ish Amitoj Kaur with original music by Barry Bailey, will be presented at Hayward’s Douglas Morrisson Theatre on Saturday, March 16.

Kaur, founder of The Theater Factory, strives to create original plays dealing with contemporary social issues that need immediate attention. She has the temptation of trying a tried and tested musical which comes with all the blueprints but has resisted. “We need to touch the pressing issues of today and we need an audience to enjoy them and see their stories produced for them,” said Kaur.

Kaur has written five plays in the last five years, which have been performed by over 500 children in the Bay Area and received by packed houses.

“When I read Robert Frost as a child, I was tempted to take the untrodden path. Running a theatre program with kids is the best job one can have but selecting a script to culminate into a production always led me to the trodden path,” said Kaur. “I, on the other hand, wanted to seek something original, contemporary, something that needed attention. Meanwhile, I was blessed with a baby, took a break from filmmaking, and decided to resume theater.”

Kaur read about cyberbullying, how a mom can lose a child to bullying, which led her to write the play “The Ugly Buckling,” the story of a girl who could not tie or buckle her shoes, a story of empowerment. The plays that followed dealt with important social issues, the most powerful being “Betty and Her Feast,” a dystopian play dealing with digital dementia. “It was never easy to write new plays, edit, publish, perform, but it was such a therapeutic experience and life changing for many. Students and parents welcomed the new themes with open arms and enjoyed the transformational experience,” said Kaur.

In her sixth year of production, Kaur’s imagination was distracted by her colleague, musician Barry Bailey, who plays guitar and composes original music for The Theater Factory. “I came to learn he cleans windows for a living and lives a wonderful life in his own house on Mission. Well, then unfolded a saga of stories: what he had metaphorically seen through these windows,” said Kaur. “It was time again to choose between a Mary Poppins or Peter Pan, but we decided to yet again to open our hearts to a new play, ‘The Window Cleaner,’ and what a treat it is!”

Don’t miss the special one night only performance on March 16! For tickets or to learn more about The Theater Factory, visit www.thetheaterfactory.com.

Marco Castaneda: a true life-long volunteer

SUBMITTED BY
TCV FOOD BANK AND
THRIFT STORE

Born two months premature at Washington Hospital 32 years ago, Marco Castaneda has overcome many physical and health challenges. While attending Patterson Elementary School he would assist his wheelchair bound classmates with their back packs and computer stations. Castaneda even earned a “wheelchair license” to help get classmates around campus and volunteered as a student cross guard. He attended special education programs in Fremont Unified School District and graduated from American High School.

Since 2011, Castaneda has been volunteering at Tri-City Volunteers (TCV) Food Bank and on Thursday, February 28, 2019 they celebrated his volunteer milestone – 5,000 volunteer hours! In congratulating Castaneda (who was surrounded by proud family and friends), TCV Executive Director Taylor Johnson commented, “Not only does Marco show up every day to proudly help serve the community, he actively participates in TCV community events such as the Fremont 4th of July Parade and our annual Holiday Toy Party. He’s an important member of the “TCV Family.” Volunteer Coordinator Stephanie Bristow added, “Marco brings so much passion, hard work, and great conversation to everyone here at TCV. He’s a true stellar volunteer and 5,000 hours is an amazing achievement.”

Planning Commission and Human Relations Commission. Mayor Mei asked for blanket approval of her slate of referrals but was rebuffed and relegated to individual votes. Although the slate prevailed, the split in some votes was interesting.

In another instance, exemption of accelerated minimum wage requirements for socially-oriented nonprofit organizations was questioned. Although previously discussed at length, a philosophical divide was exposed with the Bacon/Kassan bloc in dissent. Although firmly in the affirmative for minimum wage requirements, details of to whom and how applied was disputed. These are important nuances to proposed ordinances and should be debated before being put into practice. It is through informed, coherent discourse that the council can reach a rational decision.

Exercise of a councilmember’s right and obligation to reasonably question or dissent is paramount to a functional democracy. It is with this understanding that, when appropriate, a thorough discussion of items on the agenda is necessary. However, with the requirement for rational consideration of agenda items comes another obligation. Each councilmember has a duty to study and understand the purpose and details of items on the agenda; to attend council meetings prepared. When a referral such as that proposed by Councilmember Bacon requests a study of whether the City should pay for police/fire staff services at the Fourth of July Parade, the process should not be mired in cost specifics since the referral asked Staff to present that information at a future meeting. It was simply a proposal to ask Staff for an analysis. Consent or dissent is a straight-forward decision at that stage – are you in favor of requesting additional data or not.

When it comes to differences of opinion, there should be no question that our elected representatives be informed and make reasonable decisions based upon the evidence, common sense and the will of their constituents. While fissures in the face of the council can be damaging if irrational, any rock-climbing enthusiast will tell you that often such fissures can be helpful when finding the proper path for assent as well.

California lawmakers want $100 billion toward clean energy

BY KATHLEEN RONAYNE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

A group of Democratic California lawmakers called Monday for the state to invest $100 billion to drastically reduce its carbon emissions and reliance on fossil fuels by 2030.

A resolution proposed by Democratic Sen. Henry Stern would set the non-binding goal and also declare a climate emergency, citing recent devastating wildfires and the impacts of air pollution on child asthma. It comes as Democrats in Congress advocate for the passage of the Green New Deal, a massive investment in rebuilding the nation’s infrastructure and workforce to fight climate change.

“We have to live in California, hopefully for the rest of our lives, and hopefully in a way that doesn’t burn down our homes, that doesn’t make our kids sick (and) allows us to get to work without losing our minds in traffic,” Stern said on the steps of the state Capitol with students from eight different University of California schools behind him.

The $100 billion would be spent over 12 years and come from existing pots of money, including the state’s carbon emissions auction program and a gas tax increase to fund transportation projects. The resolution would say all that money should be spent toward projects that reduce, sequester or remove greenhouse gas emissions.

While Stern’s resolution would not be binding, Democratic state

Assemblyman Todd Gloria has introduced legislation to eliminate greenhouse gas emissions by 2030. The state’s current goal is eliminating fossil fuel use for electricity by 2045 and to achieve carbon neutrality by that year, meaning the state takes as much carbon out of the atmosphere as it puts in.

The goals are aggressive and ambitious even for California, a state viewed as a global leader on confronting climate change. The 2045 clean energy goal passed the 80-member state Assembly last year by just four votes, with some Democrats voting against it.

Gloria’s proposal would require an “immediate phase out of fossil fuels.”

“The emergency facing our state, our nation, our world is climate change, and don’t let anybody tell you anything different,” Gloria said.

Stern’s proposal, meanwhile, would call for the elimination of fossil fuels in the energy sector by 2030. He does not propose eliminating fossil fuel use in transportation, but drastically diminishing it.

Have a Clipper Card?
Get ready to travel!

SUBMITTED BY THE CITY OF FREMONT

For many people in the Bay Area who ride BART, light rail or a bus regularly, using a Clipper Card can help smooth the process for buying tickets, keeping track of multiple transit passes and obtaining transfers or ride discounts.

While these all-in-one transit cards are available for people of all ages, they are an especially good deal for people age 65 and older who are eligible to buy a Senior Clipper Card and receive a discounted fare. Each time a rider uses the card on most Bay Area public transit systems, it will automatically calculate the discounted senior cash fare, monthly pass or transfer fare.

Anyone who doesn’t have a Clipper Card but is curious to know more about how they work and where to get one is invited to attend a Clipper Card Workshop held at 10 a.m. on the second Thursday of every month at the Fremont Senior Center.

Topics covered during the one-hour workshop include:

- How to use a Clipper Card on transit
- How to add cash value and/or passes to a card
- How to check the balance on a card

- What transit agencies accept Clipper Cards
- What to do if a card is lost or stolen

After the presentation, people 65 and older can apply for and obtain a free Senior Clipper Card. Please bring documentation showing proof of age if applying for a Senior Clipper Card. Clipper cards have no value and must be loaded with value prior to using the card on transit. The next workshop will be March 14. For details, call the Ride-On Tri-City Helpline at (510) 574-2053.

Police planning
DUI checkpoint

SUBMITTED BY SGT. JOSEPH A. HEYLEN,
MILPITAS PD

As part of its ongoing effort to promote safe driving on city streets, the Milpitas Police Department is planning a DUI/Driver’s License Checkpoint on one of the city’s busiest thoroughfares.

Officers will be conducting the checkpoint at Great Mall Parkway and Interstate 880 starting at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 16 and continuing through 3 a.m. the next day. DUI Checkpoints are placed in locations like this based on collision statistics and frequency of DUI arrests. Officers will be looking for signs of alcohol and/or drug impairment, with officers checking drivers for proper licensing.

As part of the effort, police are reminding motorists that “DUI Doesn’t Just Mean Booze.” Anyone who take prescription drugs, particularly those with a driving or operating machinery warning on the label, might be impaired enough to get a DUI. Marijuana can also be impairing, especially in combination with alcohol or other drugs, and can result in a DUI.

In 2017, 1,120 people were killed in alcohol-involved crashes on California roads. In 2018, the Milpitas Police Department investigated 32 DUI/Drug collisions which resulted in 21 injuries.

To ensure you have a safe night of fun that doesn’t involve a DUI, police offer the following guidelines:

- Always use a designated sober driver — a friend who is not drinking, ride-share, cab or public transportation — to get home.
- If you see someone who is clearly impaired try to drive, take the keys and help them make other arrangements to find a safe way home.
- Report drunk drivers by calling 911.
- Hosting a party? Offer non-alcoholic drinks. Monitor those who are drinking and ensure they have a safe way home.

Using a paid service to get home is cheap, but getting a DUI is not. Drivers convicted of DUI can expect the pay upwards of $13,500 in fines, fees, DUI classes, license suspension(s) and other expenses; not to mention possible jail time.

Funding for this checkpoint is provided to Milpitas Police Department by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

• At about 2:09 a.m. officers made a traffic stop on the 500 block of McCarthy Boulevard. While talking with the vehicle’s three occupants, officers noticed the smell of marijuana and traces of it on one of the occupants’ clothing. A search of the car turned up a loaded Smith and Wesson Model 469, 9mm caliber pistol and a black ski mask and leather gloves. Police arrested Jorge Antonio Vasquez, 18, of San Jose on suspicion of possessing a concealed firearm and other charges. Two 17-year-old juveniles in the car were cited and released to their parents on suspicion of possessing a concealed firearm. An investigation is continuing.

Wednesday, March 6

• At about 4:00 p.m. an officer stopped at 1988 Toyota van on suspicion of running a red light at West Calaveras Boulevard and South Abbott Avenue. The driver, identified by police as Joseph David Milana, 48, of San Jose, had a suspended driver’s license. During a vehicle search, officers found a quarter pound of methamphetamine, six grams of heroin, hypodermic needles, Xanax pills and a digital scale. Milana was arrested and booked into Santa Clara County Main Jail on various drug charges and driving on a suspended license.

Heads up!
Auto burglaries on the rise

SUBMITTED BY LT. JOHN TORREZ

The number of auto burglaries in Milpitas has hit 145 since the beginning of the year according to The Milpitas Police Department. There were 88 auto burglaries in January alone, making it the highest for auto burglaries in the past year. In February, there were 57 reported auto burglaries. If the current trend continues, this crime is projected to surpass last year’s total.

Police say the majority of these auto burglaries have occurred in the parking lots of retail shopping centers. Among centers hardest hit are Ulfert’s Center, Milpitas Square, McCarthy Ranch, and the Great Mall of the Bay Area.

In an effort to the reduce the number of auto burglaries, the Milpitas Police Department has deployed personnel at the shopping centers, conducted operations to identify and apprehend suspects, met with property management, and met with contracted security services of affected shopping centers.

Using their social media platforms, police are sharing safety tips with the public on how to reduce the likelihood of becoming a victim. Information also is being disseminated via electronic signboards, and by making direct contact with high-tech companies whose employees frequent the shopping centers.

Combatting auto burglaries is a priority for the Milpitas Police Department and with help from watchful and careful citizens, police say the crime can be significantly reduced. A typical auto burglary occurs when suspects look inside parked vehicles for bags (briefcases, backpacks, luggage), that may contain electronics or other valuables. The suspects will usually shatter a window to reach inside and grab items in plain view. An auto burglary only takes a few seconds to commit.

Here are tips on how to reduce the chances of being an auto burglary victim:

- Do not leave bags in your vehicle that can be seen by looking through windows
- Remove all valuables from your vehicle, especially laptops, tablets, and phones
- When items must be left in a vehicle, place them in the trunk before arriving and parking
- Park in well-lit areas
- Be aware of your surroundings
- Report suspicious activity immediately by calling the Milpitas Police Department at 408-586-2400 or calling 911 if a crime is in progress

Anyone who has information about auto burglaries that have occurred in Milpitas is encouraged to call the Milpitas Police Department at (408) 586-2400. Information also can be shared anonymously by calling the Crime Tip Hotline at (408) 586-2500 or via the Milpitas Police Department Website at: www.ci.milpitas.ca.gov/crimetip.

Beware of suspicious
telephone calls

SUBMITTED BY LT. JOHN TORREZ,
MILPITAS PD

Officials from the Milpitas Police Department are alerting the public that telephone fraud calls are an ongoing issue that can cost victims money.

On Tuesday, February 19 a Milpitas resident called police at about 6:39 p.m. to report that she received a fraudulent scam telephone call where the suspect identified himself as “Milpitas Police Sergeant Hardy Watson.” The suspect was able to “spoof call” the victim which enabled the suspect’s phone number to appear on her telephone as the Milpitas Police Department’s business phone number. The suspect told the victim she would be transferred to a “translator” and then a U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) official to speak with her regarding her bank accounts being compromised.

The “translator” told the victim that in order to resolve the issue she would need to go to the U.S. Social Security Administration but would need to prepay first to make an appointment. The “translator” requested payment in the form of Google Play gift cards. Believing this to be a legitimate request, the victim purchased the gift cards in the sum requested and provided the gift card numbers and PINs to the “translator.”

The Milpitas Police Department would like to remind everyone to be aware of these types of scams and to be suspicious of any telephone calls where the caller imposes a problem or crisis and the only solution is to immediately send money. The fictitious problem or crisis can include an arrest warrant, an immigration issue, delinquent taxes, a relative in jail, or a kidnapped relative. The money demanded can be in the form of prepaid gift cards or money wire transfers through private money transfer companies.

As a reminder, genuine governmental agencies never accept payments by prepaid gift cards or through private money transfer companies. If someone calls and identifies themselves as a law enforcement officer or a representative of a law enforcement agency and you believe the phone call is suspicious in nature, you are encouraged to contact the law enforcement agency in question to verify the caller’s identity.

Police are investigating this fraudulent telephone scam. Anyone who has information about it is asked to call the Milpitas Police Department at (408) 586-2400. The information can also be shared anonymously by calling the Crime Tip Hotline at (408) 586-2500 or online at www.ci.milpitas.ca.gov/crimetip.

SOCIAL SECURITY COLUMN

Social Security’s Resources for Women

BY LINDA ZAMFINO
SOCIAL SECURITY SOCIAL SECURITY REPRESENTATIVE

March is Women’s History Month. It’s a time when we reflect on the achievements and contributions of our nation’s remarkable women. Many of these heroes might be people close to you: mothers, daughters, aunts, and grandmothers. Each of them plays a special role in our lives as they provide love and support.

Social Security plays an important role in providing economic security for women. Nearly 55 percent of people receiving Social Security benefits are women. In the 21st century, more women work, pay Social Security taxes, and earn credit toward monthly retirement income than at any other time in our nation’s history.

Women face greater economic challenges in retirement. First, women tend to live longer than men. A woman who is 65 years old today can expect to live, on average, until about 87, while a 65-year-old man can expect to live, on average, until about 84. Second, women often have lower lifetime earnings than men. And, third, women may reach retirement with smaller pensions and other assets than men.

Today, women have challenging choices to make. Some may spend their entire adulthood in a career or job outside home. Some may work for a few years, leave the labor force to raise children, and eventually return to work. Others may choose not to work outside home. Whether they work, have worked, or have never worked outside home, women should understand how Social Security can help them and their families.

If you’ve worked and paid taxes into the Social Security system for at least 10 years and have earned a minimum of 40 work credits, you may be eligible for your own benefits. Once you reach age 62, you may be eligible for your own Social Security benefit whether you’re married or not and whether your spouse collects Social Security or not. If you’re eligible and apply for benefits on more than one work record you generally receive the higher benefit amount. We have specific information for women at www.socialsecurity.gov/people/women that you can share with friends and family. Giving this gift of knowledge can change the life of a woman you care about.

How do you market and sell a book?

SUBMITTED BY
KNUTI VANHOVEN

You’ve almost finished the book. You want to sell it, but how? Not enough people know who you are for your phone to start ringing with publication offers. You’ve heard that you can make more money per book selling online through Smash Words or Amazon, but they barely push your book. Almost no one will know it exists unless you can get the word out. So now what? Do what other writers have done. Go to seminars on marketing.

The next meeting of Fremont Area Writers on March 23 will feature a presentation by author and writers’ consultant LeeAnne Krusemark who’ll discuss book-marketing options, including internet sites that authors can post on for free. As Adjunct Professor of Publishing and the owner of her own home-based consultancy, Krusemark has spoken widely on publishing topics. She’s worked in the news media as a writer and editor, written numerous “How-to” books for writers and other creative-industry professionals, some of which will be available for sale at the event.

Fremont Area Writers is a branch of the California Writers Club. The meeting will be at 42 Silicon Valley, a computer learning site in Fremont. Admission is free and open to all writers and aspiring writers. For details, visit their website at cwc-fremontareawriters.org.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dirt Dumping must be regulated

Construction development in the Bay Area is excavating large volumes of dirt, and it has to go somewhere. Mission Peak Conservancy is concerned about the diversion or dumping of earthen material on rural parcels in the watershed of Alameda Creek. Since 2017 or before, residents of Sunol, Palomares Canyon, Castro Valley Canyonlands, Fairview and unincorporated Livermore/Pleasanton have reported that “agricultural” operations are grading hillsides, carving/extending roads and filling canyons. In 2017, residents of Palomares Canyon, Sunol and other rural communities reported that more than 100 truckloads were being dumped each day. The rural roads were being worn down from the heavy trucks, and neighbors were affected by noise, dust and spillage.

We understand that farmers may import clean dirt to raise pastures, replace lost topsoil, and fill in washed out areas. The revenue from fees paid by dumpers can rival or exceed the value of the underlying agricultural land: $10,000–$15,000 per acre. Thus, the monetary incentives of the disposal industry are substantial, $20 per cu yd. This may rise to $50 per cu yd for material not certified as clean. Officially-sanctioned landfills in east Alameda County are charging twice as much: $36–$48 per cubic yard (per ton) of clean fill.

Private dumping evades the countywide Solid Waste Facility Fee of $4.34 per ton ($4 per cu yd), at landfills inside or outside of the county. The Solid Waste Fee is necessary for regulatory oversight, and issuance of Conditional Use Permits where needed. It covers the costs of preparing, adopting and implementing the Countywide Integrated Waste Management Plan and using Solid Waste Facilities. Landfills outside the county also charge the fee, per Ordinance 2009-0 of the Waste Management Authority. We believe the $4.34 fee should apply across the board to private agricultural operations that operate as landfills. This fee would pay to ensure that the dirt is clean, graded appropriately and to a fixed depth. [www.stopwaste.org/sites/default/files/Documents/ordinance2009-01.pdf]

We’re calling for regulatory oversight of these “unofficial” landfills. What’s at stake here is the quality of life for rural communities, and the stewardship of rural lands, roads and watersheds. Our main concern is environmental: landslides, sedimentation runoff and aquifer contamination. County agencies need to protect rural roadways, local canyons, hillsides, watercourses (in particular, Alameda Creek) and landscapes. The county imposed a dumping moratorium in summer 2018, though it is set to expire later this month (March 2019). Dumping should not be allowed to resume without regulation. The county will sponsor a half-dozen hearings on the draft regulations during the next few months. We’re urging local environmental organizations and residents to speak out in favor of broadening the scope of dumping restrictions and working to ensure that the $4.34 fee is enacted to ensure that regulators have the funds to oversee dirt dumping operations.

Local student moves forward in GeoBee competition

SUBMITTED BY CHARLENE AQUINO

A Newark Junior High School seventh grader’s curiosity about world geography has landed her a coveted spot in the National Geographic GeoBee competition which is open to students in fourth through eighth grades nationwide. Alessandra Castaneda was recently notified by the National Geographic Society that she is one of the semifinalists eligible to compete in the 2019 National Geographic GeoBee California State Competition. The contest will be held at Maya Cinemas, near California State University, Fresno on Friday, March 29.

This is the second level of the National Geographic GeoBee competition, now in its 31st year. School GeoBees were held in schools with fourth- through eighth-grade students throughout California to determine each school champion. School champions then took an online qualifying test, which they submitted to the National Geographic Society. Up to 100 of the top-scoring student in each of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Department of Defense Dependents Schools and U.S. territories will compete in the State GeoBees.

State champion winners will receive a medal, $1,000 in cash, and other prizes, as well as a trip to Washington, D.C., to represent their state in the National Championship to be held at National Geographic Society headquarters, May 19-22. Students that come in second and third place will receive cash awards of $300 and $100, respectively.

Each State Champion will advance to the National Championship and compete for cash awards and college scholarships. In 2019, the national champion will receive a $25,000 college scholarship, $1,000 in cash, a lifetime membership in the National Geographic Society, and an all-expenses-paid Lindblad expedition to the Galápagos Islands aboard the National Geographic Endeavour II. The second place winner will receive a $10,000 college scholarship and $1,000 in cash and the third place winner will receive a $5,000 college scholarship and $1,000 in cash. Seven runners-up winners will receive $1,000 in cash each.

Cheryl Galvez named Newark’s Employee of the Year

SUBMITTED BY DAVID BENOUN

Cheryl Galvez was selected as the City of Newark’s 2018 Employee of the Year at the City’s annual Employee Service Awards Program held at the Newark Pavilion on February 20, 2019.

Cheryl was chosen from a list of employees who were nominated by their work colleagues, who has been a recipient of a PRIDE Award in 2018, or was selected Police Officer or Dispatcher of the Year for 2018.

The Employee of the Year Award recognizes the individual who best personifies excellence.

Cheryl began her career with the City of Newark in 1997 as an Assistant Support Specialist II in the City’s Recreation Department. In 2004, Cheryl was transferred to the Newark

Senior Center and was reclassified to a Senior Administrative Support Specialist. At the beginning of last year, Cheryl was promoted to her current position of Recreation Coordinator.

Cheryl was awarded the honor of Employee of the Year for going above and beyond her duties and for reviewing programs and making recommendations for improvements. She helped create an environment where seniors at the Newark Senior Center feel welcomed and where they are encouraged to get involved. Cheryl was also a major contributor in the revision and improvement of the City of Newark Winter/Spring 2018/2019 Recreation Activity Guide.

The City of Newark is proud of Cheryl’s accomplishments and congratulates her on a job well done.

eBay rethinking future of StubHub and classified business eBay is initiating review concerning the future of its StubHub and its classified ads business.

AP WIRE SERVICE

The e-commerce company said Friday that there’s no guarantee that the review will result in a sale, spin-off or other business combination involving its assets.

Activist investor Elliott Management said in a letter to the San Jose, California, company in January that it believed it would be better off without those businesses. Elliott wants eBay to focus on its online marketplace, saying that the change in direction could double the company’s stock price by the end of next year.

eBay Inc. is also adding Jesse Cohn of Elliott and Matt Murphy of Marvell Technology to its board. The company will add an independent director later in the year.

Veteran educator named Woman of the Year

SUBMITTED BY
JEFF BARBOSA

Parvin Ahmadi, superintendent of the Castro Valley Unified School District (CVUSD), has been named the 2019 Woman of the Year for Senate District 10. The announcement was made March 4 by State Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont). Ahmadi and other Women of the Year honorees were recognized during a ceremony on the Senate floor in Sacramento.

“Superintendent Ahmadi is a statewide educational leader who has dedicated her professional career to educating all students and enhancing their learning opportunities so they can achieve their goals,” Wieckowski said. “For over 30 years, she has worked in several positions in our educational system, including as a teacher, site administrator, assistant superintendent and now as a superintendent who also teaches aspiring superintendents. Her commitment to public education, students of all ages and social justice is recognized throughout our community.”

Ahmadi has been superintendent of CVUSD since 2015. She started her career as a teacher in San Jose and taught there for 10 years before moving to the Fremont Unified School District. She worked there for 13 years as a teacher and a site administrator before becoming an assistant superintendent. Next, she became the superintendent of the Pleasanton Unified School District for five years. In 2017 Ahmadi was appointed to the Assembly Blue Ribbon Commission on Early Childhood Education and is currently working with other advocates to develop recommendations to improve support services for children up to five years old in California.

In the community, Ahmadi is active in a number of organizations, such as the Eden Area Chamber of Commerce, the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters of the Eden Area and Castro Valley Rotary. Green vehicle sales growing, but gas competition is still tough

The California green vehicle market continues to experience increases year over year, especially zero emission vehicles (ZEVs) where sales nearly doubled from 2017 to 2018. Despite ZEVs achieving this all-time high market share, according to the California Green Vehicle Report, consumers still strongly prefer gasoline powered vehicles, with sales making up more than 85 percent of total new vehicles registered in the state last year.

“An increase in green vehicle sales is positive for California consumers, businesses and the state’s environmental goals, and we are pleased to see that consumers are increasingly choosing the option of zero emission vehicles,” said California New Car Dealers Association (CNCDa) Chairman Ted Nicholas of Three-Way Chevrolet.

“That said, California has a long way to go to overcome challenges, support the needs of zero emission vehicles and get consumer buy-in for this advanced technology,” Nicholas added. “Factors like charging infrastructure, convenience, range and affordability all come into play when consumers purchase a vehicle. While we continue to see progress on this front, the pace of change is relatively slow, especially in regions of the state that are outside of the San Francisco Bay Area.”

The 2018 electric vehicle market saw an increase of 2.1 percent from 2017, primarily attributed to Tesla’s Model 3, which made up a majority of electric vehicle sales with more than 51,000 vehicles sold. The Toyota Prius came in second place in the alternative powertrain market, selling just over 19,000 hybrids in 2018.

Total hybrid sales actually dropped in 2018, down .5 percent from 2017. Additionally, brand share in the alternative powertrain market shifted this year. With Toyota typically being the front runner, Tesla now takes that title with 29.3 percent market share. Rounding out the Top 5 California brands for hybrid, plug in hybrid, electric and fuel cell vehicles were Toyota, Chevrolet, Honda and Ford.

The California Green Vehicle Report provides comprehensive information on the state’s green vehicle market. The report includes a segment watch, including top 20 best-selling alternative powertrain vehicles; best sellers in market segments including hybrid, plug in hybrid, electric and fuel cell; market trends by powertrain type and brand shares in alternative powertrain market.

The complete report can be accessed by visiting the CNCDa’s website at: www.cncdca.org.

Hayward leader honored in Sacramento

SUBMITTED BY
LYANNE MENDEZ

In recognition of Women’s History Month, the California Legislature recently honored women who have contributed to their communities throughout California. During this year’s Woman of the Year Ceremony, held March 4 in Sacramento, Assemblyman Bill Quirk (D-Hayward) chose to honor Hayward City Councilmember, Aisha Wahab.

“This annual celebration is an opportunity for us to collectively celebrate the strides women have made in our communities and how they have changed history. Moreover, I hope that this ceremony serves to inspire young women,” said Quirk. Wahab, a former foster child, recently became one of two Afghan-American women to serve in public office in the United States last year. Prior to being elected to the Hayward City Council, Wahab worked within the Afghan community to ensure housing for low and extremely low-income individuals, provide seniors with programs to stay active, educate immigrants to become more civically engaged, and support victims of domestic violence as they find safety and re-start their lives.

“I am deeply honored and humbled to be named Woman of the Year by Assemblyman Quirk.

Aisha Wahab with Assemblyman Bill Quirk, Assemblywoman Marie Waldron (Republican Leader), Assemblywoman Monique Limón (Vice Chair, Women’s Caucus) and Speaker Anthony Rendon on the Assembly Floor to receive Woman of the Year recognition

Service for the public good has been my goal for many years and to be recognized for my work is incredible. Our community is based on the commitment of every individual and I am proud to say that our community of the Bay Area all work for each other,” Wahab said.

“Aisha Wahab is an extraordinary individual who I know will be an exemplary public servant,” Quirk said in describing his honoree. “Being one of the first Afghan-American women to serve in public office — and the youngest woman to serve in Hayward — she is a role model to other women and girls everywhere. I am proud to have her as my 2019 Woman of the Year.”

Lawmakers oppose rollback of federal clean car standards

SUBMITTED BY
JEFF BARBOSA

As the Trump administration is poised to roll back federal clean car standards, 200 legislators from 14 states joined together on February 20 in calling on the auto industry to oppose the rollback and instead support the lifesaving and money-saving standards. A letter signed by the lawmakers was sent to 20 automakers and appeared in an ad in The Hill, a Washington, D.C.-based political journalism newspaper and website.

Fuel economy and greenhouse gas emissions standards, also known as clean car standards, took effect during the Obama administration and already have made the air cleaner and saved consumers at the pump. But as soon as President Donald Trump took office, automakers lobbied him to roll them back. It appears that Trump will comply; his administration issued a proposal last year to dramatically roll back the standards and revoke states’ authority to set their own more stringent pollution standards to protect public health.

The letter notes, “Preliminary analyses indicate that the administration’s proposal will result in an additional 2.2 billion metric tons of global warming emissions by 2040. Increasing emissions at a time when scientists are warning us that we must do everything we can to prevent the worst impacts of climate change, is a reckless U-turn that poses a grave threat to the health and future of the constituents we were elected to serve. What’s more, in exchange for increased pollution, Americans will face increased expenses at the gas pump — up to $500 more each year.”

The lawmakers are calling on automakers to publicly oppose the Trump administration’s proposal and to discontinue its lobby efforts for loopholes that would yield more pollution and higher gas bills. The letter also urges the automakers to remove themselves as parties (via membership in The Alliance of Automobile Manufacturers) to a lawsuit challenging the Trump administration’s Final Determination, that was based almost entirely on auto industry statements, without any independent analysis.

In the letter, lawmakers also voiced concern at the Trump administration’s proposal to revoke the California waiver, which gives California and 13 other states the ability to enact stronger safeguards than the federal government. The state lawmakers said that Trump’s plan “directly attacks our states’ authority to protect our citizens by proposing to revoke the right of states to put in place stronger safeguards to address harmful air pollution from vehicles. This directly threatens the 118 million people living in our states and assails the Clean Air Act’s longstanding recognition of state leadership on clean cars.”

“Any move to revoke our ability to enforce higher standards would be an unprecedented act and eliminate over 50 years of bipartisan cooperation on clean air policies that reduce pollution,” said California state Sen. Bob Wieckowski, chair of the California Senate’s Budget and Fiscal Review Subcommittee on Resources, Environmental Protection, Energy and Transportation. “We have received more than 145 waivers from Republican and Democratic administrations. Revoking the state’s ability to enact these standards would lead to more pollution and increased health problems, not just for Californians, but also for all the other states that follow our standards.”

The letter was signed by state legislators representing California and all 13 of the states that have elected to impose more stringent standards (Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and Washington). It was sent to Aston Martin, BMW, FCA, Ferrari, Ford, General Motors, Honda, Hyundai, Jaguar Land Rover, Kia, Maserati, Mazda, Mercedes-Benz, Mitsubishi Motors, Nissan, Porsche, Subaru, Toyota and Volkswagen as well as Global Automakers and the Alliance of Automobile Manufacturers.

Added Madeline Page, Public Citizen’s clean cars campaign coordinator, “Over the past year, hundreds of thousands of Americans, 150 members of Congress and 20 state attorneys general have spoken out about the folly of rolling back our clean car standards. But the Trump administration is poised to undo the rules regardless, doing the bidding of the auto industry. We applaud the 200 state legislators who are publicly challenging the industry to change course and choose American families over America’s polluter-in-chief.”

Senator Wieckowski represents the 10th District, which includes southern Alameda County and parts of Santa Clara County.

Nestle, AT&T pull YouTube ads over pedophile concerns

AP WIRE SERVICE

Several companies, including AT&T and Nestle, are pulling advertisements from YouTube over concerns about inappropriate comments on videos of children.

A video from a popular YouTuber and a report from Wired showed that pedophiles have made unseemly comments on innocuous videos of kids. The comments reportedly included timestamps that showed where kids innocently bared body parts.

YouTube says it disabled comments on tens of millions of videos and deleted offending accounts and channels.

Nestle and Fortnite maker Epic Games say they paused ads on YouTube while the company works on the issue. AT&T says it has removed ads until YouTube can assure that its ads aren’t associated with offensive material.

YouTube has faced advertiser boycotts in the past, including a widespread boycott in early 2017.
