Olive Hyde Art Gallery's newest exhibit will showcase juried art by talented members of the Olive Hyde Art Guild. The public is invited to meet the artists and enjoy an evening of art and live music by the Newark Saxophone Quartet, and refreshments during an opening reception on Friday, June 28. An original watercolor painting by late Fremont artist Hal Booth will also be presented as a silent auction item at the reception. The Members' Juried Show runs through Saturday, July 27. From a field of 131 pieces of work, both two dimensional and three-dimensional, 36 artists with a total of 61 works were selected to exhibit.

Established in 2001 and held biennially, the Member's Juried Show celebrates a unique and diverse sampling of premier local art.

where food and cultures meet

BY JUI SADEKAR

There are a few tangible items that humans need: air, water, shelter, and food. Eating is essential for most forms of life, and experimenting with different spices, ingredients and recipes is a common way to socialize. Food brings cultures and people together. And what better way to celebrate Bay Area's rich diversity than the "Halal Food & Eid Festival" on Saturday, June 29. "Halal Fest" as it is widely known is a collaborative event organized by a group of American Muslims from different backgrounds and ethnicities who have one thing in common: their love of food. The festival commemorates and celebrates the Muslim month of fasting, Ramadan.

Bone Health Is an Essential Part of Aging

Primary Care Physician
Offers Bone Health Tips for Older Adults

Keeping your bones strong is as essential for successful aging as maintaining a healthy diet, getting regular exercise, having mental stimulation and enjoying social interaction, according to Dr. Vanessa Wilson, a primary care physician with Washington Township Medical Foundation.

As we age, our bones change, our bodies make less new bone material which means our bones become weaker and are more prone to breaking with falls and other traumas, Dr. Wilson explains. Bones are at peak strength around the age of 30 and then bone loss — which occurs naturally throughout our lives — outpaces the building of new bone material. Healthy bones are important for overall health. Bones anchor muscles, protect internal organs, and store calcium that the body needs.

Bone loss can be exacerbated by smoking, excessive alcohol consumption and inactivity. Also, excessive bone loss can be genetic or it can be caused by the thyroid producing too much hormone. Bone loss in women is increased during menopause with the reduced production of estrogen.

Other causes of bone loss include eating disorders, celiac or other colon diseases, and some medications. Long-term use of prednisone for asthma, for example, can result in bone loss as can some breast cancer treatments, the use of certain antidepressants, antiseizure and ulcer medications, according to Dr. Wilson.

Older people should have bone density checks as part of their regular health checkups. “It’s a simple procedure, just like an X-ray and doesn’t require any preparation.” Dr. Wilson recommends a bone scan every two years for women over the age of 65, unless they have pre-conditions that signal the need for a bone check earlier or more frequently.

Scans for men are elective unless they have health conditions or other symptoms that indicate the need for a scan. If a man has broken a bone from a minimal fall or impact, for example, he should be checked.

If a patient has low bone density, then medications to build bone strength can help, along with diet and exercise. “However, the cheapest medical treatments to prevent bone loss are diet and exercise.” She recommends a minimum of three hours a week of weight-bearing walking, but adds, “Lifting weights is not a cardio exercise. Weight lifting can supplement cardio exercise but not replace it.”

Dr. Wilson recommends that individuals of all ages think about the health of their bones. “Eating a healthy diet, rich in vitamin D and calcium, along with a regular exercise program, can keep your bones strong and healthy even as you age.”

In addition to muscle tone, weight lifting can help strengthen bones.

Vitamin D helps the body absorb calcium which is necessary for bone building. Vitamin D intake is recommended at 400-800 international units (IU) per day for adults over the age of 21. However, depending on your vitamin D levels, a higher daily intake of 1000-4000 IU per day might be needed to maintain optimal blood levels.

Sources of vitamin D include trout, salmon, mushrooms, milk and fortified cereals, among other foods. A number of foods are fortified with vitamin D, so a person should be able to get enough vitamin D in his/her diet without taking supplements. Foods rich in calcium include milk, cheese, yogurt, beans, lentils, broccoli, sardines, kale, tofu, salmon and almonds.

Keeping active with regular exercise is essential for older individuals, Dr. Wilson warns. Inactivity leads to increased bone loss and other health issues—a “storm brewing” she calls it. An inactive person may be more prone to blood clots along with thinning, weakened bones. A fall could set off a cascade of health complications that seriously diminish quality of life.

It’s a simple investment to help maintain a quality of life as you age, Dr. Wilson says: eat a healthy, vitamin D- and calcium-rich diet, and exercise regularly.

Summertime Picnics and Barbecues

Handle Food with Care and Enjoy Outdoor Dining

Summer has officially arrived, bringing with it the promise of fun in the sun—picnics in the park, barbecues on the beach and backyard parties.

But, with higher temperatures comes a higher risk of foodborne illnesses from bacteria. Bacteria thrive in warm conditions, so it's critical to follow some basic guidelines for preparing, transporting and serving your picnic goodies in the heat.

“One simple rule of thumb is to keep cold foods cold and hot foods hot,” says Kimberlee Alvari, director of Food and Nutrition Services at Washington Hospital.

She offers the following tips for enjoying your outdoor celebrations safely:

Keep it Cool

Don't keep food out in the open for long periods of time, especially in temperatures over 90 degrees. Heat speeds up the spoiling process, so keep food covered and when not being served, return it to the cooler. “The key is to never let your food remain in the ‘danger zone’—between 40 degrees and 140 degrees—for more than two hours,” Alvari advises. “If the temperature is over 90 degrees, food is unsafe when left out for more than one hour, and after one hour you should toss out any remaining perishable foods.”

Package and Separate

When packing your cooler, make sure meat, poultry or seafood is wrapped and sealed tightly, and place it on the bottom—or in a separate cooler—to avoid cross-contamination from any juices that might leak out. Also, rinse your raw fruits and vegetables before packing them, in case there's no running water at your picnic site.

Safely Cook and Serve Meat

You may think you'll save time by partially pre-cooking your meat before leaving home, but Alvari doesn't recommend it. “You can't pre-cook meat and wait to grill it; it must be fully cooked immediately.” She adds that it's best to use a food thermometer to determine when your meat is thoroughly cooked. “The internal temperature of chicken and other poultry is safest at 165 degrees, and a beef patty at 160 degrees.”

TEXAS CAVIAR

Ingredients

- 2 (15 ounce) cans black beans, rinsed and drained
- 2 (15 ounce) cans pinto beans, rinsed and drained
- 2 (15 ounce) cans white corn, rinsed and drained
- 1 (4 ounce) can chopped green chilies, undrained
- 1 jalapeno chili pepper, seeded and finely chopped (optional)
- 1 red pepper, cored, seeded and finely chopped
- 1 green pepper, cored, seeded and finely chopped
- 1 small red onion, finely chopped
- 1 bunch cilantro leaves, finely chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/2 cup rice vinegar
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/3 cup white sugar

Directions

Mix the black beans, pinto beans, white corn, green chilies, jalapeno pepper, red and green bell peppers, red onion and cilantro together in a large bowl.

To make the dressing, stir the rice vinegar, olive oil, sugar and garlic powder together in a pan. Bring to a boil, then remove from heat and cool. Pour dressing over bean mixture and toss to mix evenly.

A protein-packed salad can be a tasty side dish or meatless option.

Once you put meat on the grill, do not return it to the same platter you brought it out on. Instead, have an extra plate on hand. Thoroughly wash any utensil, dish, or surface that has touched raw meat or seafood with hot, soapy water before reusing.

Separate the Marinades

Who doesn't love the mouthwatering taste of a marinade on their meat? But, Alvari cautions, separate the marinade from the meat before packing the meat and don't use leftover marinade that has touched uncooked meat.

Basics tips for Barbecuing Meat

Many people are concerned about the potential link between charred meat and cancer. “It's best not to eat blackened meat,” advises Alvari. She recommends trimming the fat off meat before grilling to decrease the drippings that cause the flame and smoke to fire back onto the meat. Also, she notes, the coals should not be searing hot. When to flip the meat? “Recent research shows you should flip meat about once every minute, checking the temperature with a thermometer each time.”

Have Meatless Options

These days, plenty of people are embracing vegetarian or vegan lifestyles. Alvari offers a recipe for “Texas Caviar,” a hearty dish that's packed with protein. “This is a great main course for vegetarians and vegans, as it contains excellent alternative sources of protein.” Alvari also notes that it earns rave reviews when served at Washington Hospital.

So, have fun in the sun and let the good times roll—safely!

Union City's City Manager Retires

By ROELLE BALAN

Former president of the United States Jimmy Carter and Union City City Manager Tony Acosta have one thing in common – they both started government jobs in the same year.

In January of 1977, Jimmy Carter started his role as president of the United States. In March of that year, Union City's City Manager Tony Acosta will be retiring on June 30, 2019. He has worked in public service for a total of 41 years in Oakland and Union City.

Tony Acosta started his 41-year public service career in Oakland, California as an entry level employee in the Parks and Recreation Department. He worked his way up for over 23 years and became the Director of that department for about five years in the late 1990's. Acosta started working at Union City in 2001. After serving as a deputy City Manager 14 years, he became City Manager in 2015.

Acosta is a man of many words. "Our weekly staff meetings started running longer and longer because I am an inherent storyteller and truth be told, I think they got tired of my stories in early 2015," Acosta said during a phone interview, with a laugh. "You ask a simple question; you're going to get an extended answer; that's kind of my style." He said his career highlights include helping the city to become more efficient, being one of the founders of what is now the Union City Family Center (formerly Union City Kids' Zone), and as a storyteller.

One of his first orders of business as City Manager involved the reorganization of internal operations. He wanted to split up the administrative services department into Human Resources and finance, because they had different goals. One department is about supplying employees and the other is about money management. "The executive leadership in those two disciplines follow different paths," Acosta said. "Most folks are either really good at HR or really good at finance, and it's not often can you find someone who can do both." Eventually he hired a director for both departments and said they have improved the internal operations and outcomes in finance.

A legacy Acosta left for the City was a collaborative effort with New Haven Unified School District (NHUSD) to form the Union City Family Center. "I've always thought that school districts and cities, we should cooperate with each other. We serve the same community, we serve the same children, we serve their parents. And I think people expect us to cooperate," Acosta said. He was an eager partner of the organization, which started as an initiative led by the NHUSD. One of the facilitators of the process was Dr. Arlando Smith, current Superintendent of the school district. Union City Kids' Zone was formed in 2010.

Acosta said the organization has grown from 15-20 people, meeting in a room with a goal of doing something better for the community, to a network of over 30 non-profit organizations. He hopes both the school district and the City can continue to work together, an important goal considering that this year, Union City School Board Superintendent Arlando Smith also retired. "With Dr. Smith retiring the same day I am, we're working very hard to make sure our organizations carry on that collaborative spirit because that pays off benefits for everybody in Union City," Acosta said.

Acosta cares about his employees and he shows that by putting family values at the forefront. He has established flexible work schedules for parents that need to take care of their young children. "Nowadays with our network capabilities, all the computer networks and smartphones, for a lot of work it doesn't really matter where you are anymore. So, being in city hall is important, but it shouldn't disrupt the family life," Acosta said.

Acosta is looking forward to spending time with his own family after retirement.

"My son, my daughter, my brothers, my mom. I've sacrificed those relationships to a certain extent because of my professional duties. Now that I won't have any professional duties I'm going to make up for some lost time," Acosta said.

Future plans for Acosta and his wife include buying a new house and taking part in a business opportunity involving the importation of Portuguese wine with Acosta's former City Manager colleague. "We are wine aficionados so it seemed rather fitting that we would join his business," Acosta said.

He thinks the next City Manager will have a big job to do. "They're going to have to be a problem solver and a strong leader to continue to motivate folks. And if there is some expertise that they have, hopefully considerable expertise in economic development; our biggest challenge is to grow the local economy, which then in turn grows city revenues," he said.

That person happened to be someone the City Council knew very well. After an extensive search, the council unanimously voted for Joan Malloy to become the next City Manager on May 28, 2019. Malloy is, and has been, the City's Economic and Community Development Director for the past 10 years. Her future role as City Manager will include management of 230 city employees, distributing city services to 73,000 residents, and managing the city's $116 million budget.

During the May 28, 2019 City Council meeting, Malloy was announced as the new City Manager. As for Acosta, his career was long, detailed, successful, and fulfilling. "After 41 years I figured that's a long enough career," Acosta said with a laugh.

Union City's Economic and Community Development Director Joan Malloy will be the new City Manager starting July 1, 2019.

Take a splash while swimming, but be careful

SUBMITTED BY DAVE MASON

In light of two drownings in early June in non-lifeguarded areas at Lake Del Valle Regional Recreation Area in Livermore, the East Bay Regional Park District is urging visitors to learn how to be water safe when they go swimming or boating in a regional lake or water facility.

“Keeping visitors safe is our number one priority at East Bay Regional Parks, whether you’re on land or water,” said Robert Doyle, General Manager. “We want people to enjoy their experience at our parks, and we want our visitors to go home safely at the end of their visit. It’s imperative for people using the Park District’s water facilities and lakes to know how to stay safe when boating or swimming.”

Here are some water safety tips provided by the Park District’s Aquatics Manager Pete DeQuincy.

• Keep a close eye on your children. Drowning can occur quickly and silently, even in a foot of water.

• Do not drink alcohol if you plan on swimming or boating.

• Obey all rules and posted signs.

• Only swim in areas with a lifeguard on duty.

• If you’re not a strong swimmer, take swim lessons. The Park District offers swim lessons throughout the summer.

• Swim with a buddy and don’t engage in horseplay in the water.

• If you’re unsure of your swimming abilities, wear a life jacket. Regional park swim facilities has free loaner life jackets available. Boaters should always wear a life jacket.

• Children 12 years old and under are not permitted in the swimming area unless accompanied by a responsible, actively-supervising individual 16 years old or older.

• No lifeguard service is provided at bay beaches.

• Swimming at your own risk is allowed in designated areas and when lifeguards are off duty at some parks.

East Bay Regional Park District provides life-guarded lakes and swim facilities from April through September. “While some 120 lifeguards patrol our swim beaches and lagoons, water safety should be a serious concern for every person entering our parks,” said DeQuincy. “Our lifeguards are trained rescuers not babysitters. We often find unattended youngsters around water. Ultimately, we want to see happy families go home together after a fun day at the park.”

For more information about East Bay Regional Parks or safety messages, visit their website at www.ebparks.org.

Chabot College selects interim safety director

SUBMITTED BY GUISELLE NUNEZ

Veteran Bay Area law enforcement professional Sheryl Boykins has been named as interim Director of Safety and Security at Chabot College in Hayward. Officials made the announcement Tuesday, June 18.

With more than 30 years of service in law enforcement, Boykins will help Chabot move forward with a number of planned initiatives and assist in the hiring of a new, permanent director.

“Any time we have the opportunity to bring a lifelong public servant — and a Chabot alumna — on campus we’re happy to do it,” said Dr Susan Sperling, President of Chabot College. “Sheryl is a highly accomplished professional with a proven track record of serving the Hayward community and she knows what is needed to keep our department on track and progressing forward.”

Prior to her position at Chabot, Boykins spent five years as the Chief of Police for California State University East Bay and served the City of Hayward as part of the Hayward Police Department where she rose to the rank of Police Commander.

A native of Hayward, Boykins is deeply familiar with Chabot and its communities and has worked to ensure best practices in policing and bridge the often-complicated relationship between the community and police department with compassion and success.

Assembly Committee OKs accessory dwelling units bill

SUBMITTED BY JEFF BARBOSA

State Senator Bob Wieckowski’s (D-Fremont) Senate Bill 13 to reduce some of the remaining barriers homeowners face when trying to build accessory dwelling units (ADUs), also known as granny flats, passed the Assembly Housing and Community Development Committee on June 19.

“We are in a severe housing crisis and homeowners who build ADUs are making an important contribution to help us resolve it by providing additional housing,” said Wieckowski. “This bill will help more of them achieve their goal of building a small unit on their own property. We should be encouraging this behavior rather than blocking it with excessive fees, owner occupancy requirements and other restrictions.”

SB 13 reduces developer impact fees on ADUs, eliminates owner occupancy requirements, and provides an amnesty program to bring existing unpermitted units up to code within five years if they already meet health and safety codes. Wieckowski accepted amendments in the committee to limit the amnesty clause to units built before Jan. 1, 2020 and to make a 60-day time period for considering an ADU application begin when the jurisdiction receives a “complete” application.

The state Department of Housing and Community Development testified at an informational hearing earlier this year that excessive impact fees and owner occupancy requirements were two of the biggest remaining obstacles preventing more people from pursuing development of an ADU.

In addition to the Bay Area Council, SB 13 is supported by several organizations including California YIMBY, California Association of REALTORS, California Building Industry Association, Nonprofit Housing Association of Northern California, Eden Housing.

where food and cultures meet

“The purpose of Halal Food & Eid Festival is to showcase the diversity of Halal food scene as well as share the ethnic diversity of the Muslim American experience with our fellow friends and neighbors of other faiths and backgrounds,” said Irfan Rydhan, founder and event director of Halal Fest.

What exactly does “halal” mean? “Halal” means “permissible” in Arabic and refers to the dietary law of Islam, which practicing Muslims follow. Basically, like what “kosher” is for Jews, “halal” is for Muslims. It means the meat has been blessed and is considered pure and lawful to consume. Animals considered lawful to consume for Muslims include halal chicken, beef, lamb, goat, turkey, deer, and seafood.

The festival was started in 2012 by Rydhan, a well-known online halal food reviewer. After hearing about a similar event in New Jersey, Rydhan decided to put together a team to organize a Halal Food Festival in the Bay Area. Rydhan and his original team of five put in their own money to get this effort off the ground, and after a year of planning, had their first event in August 2013 at the NewPark Mall parking lot.

“At the time [2013], it was a free admission festival. Being a first-of-its kind event in Bay Area, an unexpected crowd of around 10,000 attendees showed up,” said Rydhan. He added that the event has changed greatly since its inception. “We started out [Halal Food & Eid Festival] in a parking lot. To organize an event in a parking lot was more expensive and complex – to bring all the infrastructure, from fences to lighting to chairs. Now, we have upgraded to an actual event plaza with infrastructure and restrooms for the public.”

The festival has made improvements every year for a better attendee experience and a diverse range of halal food and bazaar vendors, according to Rydhan. “This year’s event will focus more on different types of food rather than outside entertainment. In the past, we had a lot of entertainers, musicians, and comedians come in. This time, we will still have live music but have more cooking demos and new food booths. For the first time, there will be halal Vietnamese and halal Filipino food vendors at the event.”

The public can enjoy special cooking demos by Chef Nora Haron with Local Kitchen in San Francisco, Chef Terry Braggs with Bragging Ryt’s Catering, and Chef Zareen Khan with Zareen’s Restaurant in Palo Alto, as well as by Halal Fest’s core team member and a halal foodie, Abbas Sheikh.

A wide variety of cuisine from around the world, including Indian, Pakistani, Middle Eastern, Arab, Mediterranean, African as well as American will be available at the festival; approximately 20 food vendors and trucks ranging from mom and pop spots and home cooks to full restaurants. Food vendors include Bragging Ryt’s Private Chef & Catering, Cali Kabab Guys, Blocks and Bubbles, Eden Silk Road, Emirelli, Garlic Goodness, Sheefa Honey, Phil Me Up, among others.

The event will also feature a large bazaar with vendors selling clothes, toys, artwork, perfumes, and crafts from all over the world. Other activities and entertainment will include carnival rides and games for kids, eating contests, and live music from various cultural backgrounds such as American Jazz and Indian music. This year, the family friendly event will add larger rides that both adults and children can enjoy.

There will also be an area for people to perform prayers on-site. Although no official congregational prayer is scheduled, attendees are welcome at any time.

“The [Halal Fest] event is a unique and fun experience. It has become a staple celebration for the Bay Area community,” said Rydhan. “We will also give away Halal Fest “Swag Bags” for free to the first 1,000 attendees and there will be a free raffle for one roundtrip airline ticket to anywhere in South Asia or the Middle East – sponsored by G1G Travel Insurance and 123 Insure.”

Some of the fest’s major sponsors for 2019 are Saffron Road Foods, Haute Hijab New York, Islamic Relief, Yelp, Splashgear USA, The Salon Professional Academy, G1G Travel Insurance, and Illume Media & Arts Foundation. Appeals court allows Trump abortion rules to take effect

By GENE JOHNSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

A federal appeals court said Thursday new Trump administration rules imposing additional hurdles for women seeking abortions can take effect while the government appeals decisions that blocked them.

More than 20 states and several civil rights and health organizations challenged the rules in cases filed in Oregon, Washington and California. Judges in all three states blocked the rules from taking effect, with Oregon and Washington judges issuing nationwide injunctions. One judge called the new policy “madness.”

But a three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco called the rules a “reasonable” interpretation of a federal law that prohibits taxpayer-funded health clinics from advocating, encouraging or promoting abortion.

The panel said the lower courts appeared to have gotten the rulings wrong, and it granted a stay of those orders requested by the Justice Department. That allows the rules to take effect while the government appeals the lower court rulings.

“We are pleased that the Ninth Circuit has cleared the way for this important executive branch action to take effect while our appeals are pending,” Justice Department spokeswoman Kelly Laco said in an emailed statement. “The Department of Justice’s position is supported by long-standing Supreme Court precedent and we are confident we will ultimately prevail on appeal.”

The new rules ban taxpayer-funded clinics from making abortion referrals and prohibit clinics that receive federal money from sharing office space with abortion providers – a rule critics said would force many to find new locations, undergo expensive remodels or shut down. Many considered the rules an attack on Planned Parenthood.

Planned Parenthood said it would immediately ask the 9th Circuit to reconsider the decision.

“The Trump-Pence administration’s gag rule is unethical, illegal, and harmful to public health,” Dr. Leana Wen, president of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, said in a written statement. “The news out of the 9th Circuit this morning is devastating for the millions of people who rely on Title X health centers for cancer screenings, HIV tests, affordable birth control and other critical primary and preventive care.”

A federal court in Maryland has also issued an order blocking the rules from taking effect, but that ruling only applies in that state. The Justice Department has appealed it.

Walmart service to deliver groceries inside customers’ homes

By ANNE D’INNOCENZIO
AP RETAIL WRITER

The online delivery wars are heating up inside shoppers’ homes.

Walmart is now offering to have one of its employees deliver fresh groceries and put them in your refrigerator when you’re not home.

The nation’s largest grocer said Friday that it will be offering the service this fall for more than one million customers in three cities: Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Missouri, and Vero Beach, Florida. Later this year, the service, called InHome Delivery, will also accept returns for items purchased on Walmart.com.

Two years ago, Walmart tested a similar service in the Silicon Valley area but teamed up with delivery startup Deliv and worked with August Home, makers of smart locks and smart home accessories. That test has since been stopped.

The new service is part of Walmart’s drive to expand its shopping options that include curbside pickup and online grocery delivery.

Amazon offers a similar service in certain cities, dropping off packages inside homes, garages or car trunks. But the service is not for groceries.

With Walmart’s new service, customers place a grocery delivery order online and then select InHome Delivery and a delivery day at checkout.

Walmart workers will use smart entry technology and a proprietary wearable camera to access the customer’s home. That allows shoppers to control access into their home and give them the ability to watch the delivery remotely.

Walmart said that the workers will go through an extensive training program that would prepare them for things like how to select the freshest groceries and how best to organize the refrigerator. Walmart declined to give specifics on the technology. It said it will share the fee details ahead of the fall launch.

“Now, we can serve customers not in just the last mile, but in the last 15 feet,” wrote Marc Lore, CEO of Walmart’s U.S. e-commerce division, in a corporate blog post.

With Amazon’s service, customers need to be an Amazon Prime member and they have to buy a camera and a Wi-Fi-connected lock from the Seattle-based company that starts at $250. Shoppers will then be able to select in-home delivery on the Amazon app. When the delivery person shows up, he or she will knock first and scan the package, then Amazon will make sure the delivery person is at the right home and unlock the door. No codes are needed, and the indoor camera will record the in-home delivery.

California turns to military technology to help fight fires

By DON THOMPSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

California is improving cooperation with the Pentagon as it tries to avoid another deadly, destructive fire season.

Gov. Gavin Newsom said Monday that the Defense Department has agreed to provide information from a Cold War-era military satellite to help spot new wildfires.

The defense secretary also gave the California National Guard blanket approval through year’s end

California governor, lawmaker alter proposed vaccine rules

By DON THOMPSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

California public health officials would have oversight of doctors and schools with high numbers of medical exemptions for vaccinations under a legislative compromise announced Tuesday.

Gov. Gavin Newsom and the bill’s author disclosed the deal aimed at cracking down on fraudulent exemptions issued by sympathetic doctors.

The updated measure by Sen. Richard Pan removes a provision that would have required health officials to consider every exemption requested and expands the criteria for granting exemptions.

The California bill is aimed at deterring “doctor-shopping.” Proponents said some doctors have been selling immunization exemptions since California ended non-medical exemptions in 2016.

The proposed bill would bar doctors from charging for filing out a medical exemption form and conducting a related medical examination.

Health officials would take a targeted approach on exemptions, concentrating on doctors who write five or more exemptions each year and schools with a vaccination rate below 95 percent.

Newsom, a Democrat, said he supports immunizations but has expressed doubts about giving state officials the authority to decide which children can skip their shots before attending school.

California lawmakers are considering the changes as the nation attempts to stem the highest number of measles cases in decades. Lawmakers in Oregon defeated a bill that would have made it harder for families to opt out of immunizations, while Washington state ended most exemptions for the measles vaccine. Maine eliminated religious and philosophical exemptions, while New York legislators eliminated a religious exemption.

California Health & Human Services Secretary Mark Ghaly, speaking for Newsom’s administration, said the bill “protects the doctor-patient relationship, strengthens the state’s ability to target doctors who abuse the medical exemption process and gives state public health officials the tools to identify and protect schools and communities where herd immunity is in danger.”

Proponents said the amended measure would still allow exemptions for the less than 1 percent of students who should avoid vaccinations because they have a severe allergic reaction or impaired immunity from a liver problem, HIV virus, chemotherapy or other conditions.

Pan, a Democrat from Sacramento, agreed to the changes as the Assembly Health Committee prepares to consider the bill on Thursday. Busloads of opponents again plan to crowd what have become raucous public hearings.

The previous iteration of the bill cleared a Senate committee and the full Senate, riding on Democrats’ overwhelming legislative majorities. It had no Republican votes.

Pan has cited new annual immunization figures showing the rate of kindergartners with permanent medical exemptions has quadrupled in the three years since the state banned personal exemptions. The figures also show more than 100 schools have medical exemption rates exceeding 10 percent.

Under the changes, California Department of Public Health doctors or registered nurses would review exemptions issued by local to use unmanned drones to map fires, count destroyed houses and spot survivors. The drones can peer through smoke, work at night and stay aloft much longer than manned aircraft.

Previously, state officials had to get separate federal approval each time they wanted to use the unarmed drones.

The agreements are another step in preparing for wildfires like ones that devastated the Northern California city of Paradise last fall.

medical providers. The state public health officer, who is a doctor, could revoke any that don’t meet national guidelines. The earlier version of the bill was not as specific on who would make the decisions.

It also gives parents a chance to appeal to an independent panel of doctors.

Assembly Republican Leader Marie Waldron of Escondido, who sits on the health committee, the bill still allows “unaccountable bureaucrats in Sacramento” to interfere with the doctor-patient relationship.

The group Educate. Advocate said it remains opposed to the bill in part because it now calls for using an existing state immunization registry instead of creating a separate, expensive, medical exemption database.

The group also objected to a provision requiring doctors to sign exemptions under threat of perjury, potentially subjecting them to prosecution if the state disagrees with their reasoning.

“It’s the same only nastier, but it’s going to get the same result,” said attorney Rick Jaffe, who represents some of the doctors writing exemptions.

He agreed with Pan’s office that broadening acceptable exemptions beyond U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidelines won’t significantly increase the number of children approved to skip vaccinations.

The amendments allow criteria developed by the CDC, the federal Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices and the American Academy of Pediatrics. They also permit “other contraindications or precautions, including consideration of family medical history” if they are “consistent with the relevant standard of care.”

“It’s extremely limited,” Jaffe said even of the broader criteria. Most exemptions are written for siblings of family members who have had a previous bad reaction to a vaccination, he said, and those would be rare even under the amendments.

Mastercard to allow transgender people to use chosen name

By KEN SWEET
AP BUSINESS WRITER

Mastercard will allow transgender people to use their chosen names on credit and debit cards to combat discrimination at the cash register.

That means that the name on the credit card owned by a transgender person could be different than that found on their birth certificate or driver’s license.

It is up to the banks that issue the cards to implement the change and on Monday, Mastercard called on those banks to do so.

Three states – Tennessee, Kansas and Ohio – legally bar a transgender person from changing the sex listed on their birth certificate, according to Out Leadership, a LGBT rights organization that focuses on advocacy at the corporate level. This can create confusion when a person uses one name to reflect their identity but may have a different name legally.

A 2015 study showed that 32% of transgender people who had to show an ID with a name or gender that did not match their presentation experienced harassment, were denied services or were attacked.

“When we were alerted to this, we realized we could do something about it,” said Raj Seshadri, president of U.S. issuers for Mastercard.

A transgender person will no longer have to wait to get a legal name change, make changes to their birth certificate or other legal maneuvers, Seshadri said. The change of name on a card will not create any security issues, she said, since Mastercard uses other security metrics to determine whether a purchase is legitimate or not.

San Francisco weighs 1st US city ban on e-cigarette sales

By SAMANTHA MALDONADO
ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Francisco supervisors are considering Tuesday whether to move the city toward becoming the first in the United States to ban all sales of electronic cigarettes as part of an effort to crack down on youth vaping.

Supervisors will weigh a ban on the sale and distribution of e-cigarettes in San Francisco until the U.S. Food and Drug Administration completes a review of the effects of e-cigarettes on public health, as well as ban manufacturing e-cigarettes on city property.

If supervisors approve the ban Tuesday, the measures will require a subsequent vote before they become law.

“Young people have almost indiscriminate access to a product that shouldn’t even be on the market,” said city attorney Dennis Herrera. Because the FDA hasn’t acted, he said, “it’s unfortunately falling to states and localities to step into the breach.”

Since 2014, e-cigarettes have been the most commonly used tobacco product among young people in the country. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control reported that the number of middle and high school students who use tobacco products increased by 36% from 2017 to 2018, a rise attributed to the use of e-cigarettes.

FDA spokesman Michael Felberbaum said in a statement that the agency will continue to “tackle the troubling epidemic of e-cigarette use among kids.”

“This includes preventing youth access to, and appeal of, flavored tobacco products like e-cigarettes and cigars, taking action against manufacturers and retailers who illegally market or sell these products to minors, and educating youth about the dangers of e-cigarettes and other tobacco products,” he said.

Leading San Francisco-based e-cigarette company Juul frames vaping as a healthier alternative to smoking tobacco. Juul says it has taken steps to deter kids from using its products. The company said in a statement that it has made its online age verification process more robust and shut down its Instagram and Facebook accounts to try to discourage vaping by those under 21 years old.

“But the prohibition of vapor products for all adults in San Francisco will not effectively address underage use and will leave cigarettes on shelves as the only choice for adult smokers, even though they kill 40,000 Californians every year,” said Juul spokesman Ted Kwong.

The American Vaping Association also opposes San Francisco’s proposal, saying adult smokers deserve access to less hazardous alternatives.

“Going after youth is a step that you can take before taking these out of the hands of adults,” said association president Gregory Conley.

Groups representing small businesses also oppose the measures, which they say could force stores to close.

“We need to enforce the rules that we have in place already,” said Carlos Solorzano, CEO of the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco.

Although San Francisco’s proposed ban is unlike any other in the country, the Public Health Law Center at Mitchell Hamline School of Law reports that all but two states have at least one law restricting youth access to e-cigarettes. City voters last year approved a ban on sales of fruit and candy flavored tobacco products.

Stanton Glantz, a professor of medicine at the University of California San Francisco Center for Tobacco Control and Research and a supporter of the measures, said the presence of e-cigarettes has “completely reversed the progress we’ve made in youth smoking in the last few years.” E-cigarette use is also associated with heart attacks, strokes and lung disease, he said.

Google pledges $1B to tackle housing problem it helped create

AP WIRE SERVICE

Google is making a $1 billion commitment to address the soaring price of housing in the San Francisco Bay Area, a problem that the internet company and its Silicon Valley peers helped create as the technology industry hired tens of thousands of high-paid workers.

The pledge announced Tuesday by Google CEO Sundar Pichai consists of a $250 million investment fund and $750 million of company-owned land that will be used to build at least 15,000 homes that will include low- and mid-income housing.

Google is lending a helping hand as it draws up plans to expand into sprawling offices beyond its headquarters in Mountain View, California. That suburban city of roughly 80,000 people has been swamped with affluent tech workers since Google moved there shortly after its 1998 inception.

New BART cars to be built in Bay Area

SUBMITTED BY BART

On June 14 Bombardier Transportation announced it is opening a rail car assembly site in Pittsburg, California to assemble BART’s new Fleet of the Future rail cars. This work, which is now taking place in upstate New York, will be moved to the Bay Area over the coming months.

The new facility is expected to employ local workers, contribute tax dollars to the local economy and, thanks to its proximity to BART’s Hayward Test Track, greatly reduce the vehicle emissions needed to transport the cars to BART property.

What used to be a 3,600-mile journey home to the Bay Area, will now be a quick 50 miles. “The Fleet of the Future cars have received rave reviews from our riders, and we are thrilled to welcome Bombardier to the Bay Area,” said BART General Manager Grace Crunican.

Bombardier was awarded the contract in May 2012 to replace BART’s aging fleet with 775 Fleet of the Future cars. “We are pleased that the new rail cars for Bay Area passengers will now be produced in the Bay Area by Bay Area citizens, said Elliot G. (Lee) Sander, President, Americas Division, Bombardier Transportation.

Assembly approves phone bill fee to improve 911 system

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The California Assembly has voted to raise fees on phones to pay for an upgrade of the state’s 911 system.

It’s estimated to total about 34 cents on each bill and includes landlines and cellphones.

Republican Assemblyman Jay Obernolte says lawmakers should use some of the state’s budget surplus to pay for improving 911 services instead of raising fees.

Democratic Assemblywoman Christy Smith countered that while the state always has emergencies, it does not always have a surplus. She says 911 services need a reliable stream of funding.

Three Democrats in competitive districts voted against the fee. They are Assemblywomen Sharon Quirk-Silva and Cottie Petrie-Norris and Assemblyman Rudy Salas.

Quirk-Silva’s district overlaps with an Orange County Senate district where a lawmaker was recalled last year for passing a tax increase.

Cellphone-focused video service Quibi planned for April 2020

AP WIRE SERVICE

There’s yet another new streaming service coming in the next year.

Quibi’s twist is that it’s focused on short videos for cellphones. Spokeswoman Gina Stikes confirmed Monday that Quibi will launch in April 2020 and cost $5 a month with ads and $8 a month without ads.

It’s run by big names – Jeffrey Katzenberg, the former Disney chairman and co-founder of DreamWorks Animation, and Meg Whitman, the former head of eBay and Hewlett-Packard – and it has attracted top Hollywood stars to make videos. It has raised $1 billion to pay for content and expects to raise $500 million for business purposes including marketing.

It would enter an increasingly crowded market of subscription streaming video services, including upcoming offerings from Disney, Apple and AT&T.

Fiat Chrysler in talks with Aurora on autonomous vehicles

AP WIRE SERVICE

Fiat Chrysler is in talks to produce self-driving commercial vehicles with Aurora, an autonomous vehicle company led by former Google, Tesla and Uber executives.

FCA and Aurora have a deal to lay the groundwork for a partnership to use Aurora’s self-driving system globally in Ram and Fiat vehicles used for deliveries and other duties.

The partnership would not affect FCA’s deal to provide hybrid Chrysler minivans to Waymo, the autonomous vehicle spinoff from Google.

Aurora is developing hardware, software and data services. It was started in 2017 by former Google autonomous vehicle chief Chris Urmson, former Tesla Autopilot head Sterling Anderson, and ex-Uber autonomous vehicle leader Drew Bagnell. Aurora already has partnerships with Hyundai and Volkswagen.

FCA says there are no plans to use Aurora’s system in passenger vehicles.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JUNE 26 – JULY 3, 2019

For All Signs: At 3:16 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time (EDT) July 2, our globe will experience a total solar eclipse in the sign of Cancer. It will be best viewed in South America. In ancient times eclipses were believed frightening, heralding negative omens, especially in regions of their visibility. Contemporary astrologers have the benefit of a long history and a broader world view. We perceive eclipse seasons as periods that relieve critical mass. For many of us this month there will be an experience of manifestation or illumination about situations that have been long in the making. It is a time to look upon the facts but not all those facts are frightening or negative. Sometimes people experience positive results of past effort during eclipse periods. The Cancerian eclipses will complete in approximately 18 months.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): The eclipse will focus a certain amount of intensity in the arenas of career (work in the world), home, hearth, family and security. You will stretch your worldly boundaries in the next 18 months to serve a new group people. Family relationships will include one loss and one gain. This includes pets.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): During this new 18-month series of eclipses you will be learning to value yourself in new ways. Alongside comes education in the management of money and other resources, such as time and energy. There will be less assistance from others in these arenas, but you are creating these resources for yourself.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): The accent of this eclipse cycle will be on travel, education, care of vehicles and relationships to siblings, roommates, neighbors, or others who daily traverse your life. Habit patterns of thought will be brought to consciousness so negative thinking can be corrected. You will be introduced to new practical life skills.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): Your sense of personal identity becomes the subject under consideration. Who are you becoming and who do you need to be? How do you wish to define yourself before the world? You will be learning what is required for you to hold onto your identity while simultaneously maintaining a personally rewarding relationship.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): The new series of eclipses emphasize your need to create order, both internally and externally. The development of your projects will call upon you to develop faith in your deepest self. Bringing order out of chaos is done on both the inner and outer levels simultaneously, so while you organized files you will be also organizing your mind.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): The new eclipse season will be opening your mind and heart to accept a larger circle of friends. You may become a leader or a strong supporter of a community network that has shared ideals. Certainly, you will continue to have the friendships you have built in the past. However, your attention may be focused on goals greater than your personal interests.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Matters concerning your career, family and property will be accented for the next 18 months. Old problems in relationships, even with the deceased, will surface for cleansing and healing. A new family member may enter the scene, or you may begin to spend more time with family in general.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Legal, ethical or educational issues will be emphasized by the new 18-month series of eclipses. Travel will be punctuated, whether via body, mind or spirit. Exposure to those of different backgrounds or cultures opens your heart and expands your philosophy. A challenge concerning siblings, roommates, or neighbors may press you to seek a higher road.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): This new eclipse pattern will emphasize issues of sexuality, intimacy, and material accumulation. Reorganization of debt, investments and your estate may be in progress. You may become more conscious than usual about existential matters related to life, death, and what is on "the other side" of normal, waking consciousness.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): The eclipses of this new 18-month series will draw your attention to your partnerships. Patterns from your childhood history needed to be uncovered, repaired or removed in order to allow your growth into a more mature relationship. Psychotherapy may be truly helpful. You may experience a crisis of consciousness at this time.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): This new series of eclipses will pressure you to concentrate on improvement of work-related relationships and health maintenance. Diet, exercise and improvement of physical regimen are imperative. Honing your management systems in personal and work arenas is necessary to create order in your daily work routine.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): The eclipse pattern emphasizes your progeny or other personally creative births. Romantic ventures will be intensely emotional and self-revealing. You will also learn a few lessons in discernment concerning friendships and associations that no longer serve you well.

Cargill Salt honored for educational donation

SUBMITTED BY
ALLISON ALDINGER

At their Thursday, June 20 meeting, officials from the Mission Valley ROP (MVROP) Governing Council honored Cargill Salt for its longtime support of MVROP programs and their recent donation of $20,000 to benefit the Project Lead the Way (PLTW) Program pathway.

MVROP is a regional occupational program aimed at students in the Tri-City Area. During the last school year, it recognized the need for trained professionals and launched a Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) career pathway driven by the nationally recognized Project Lead the Way curriculum

When MVROP sought new business and community leaders to join the conversation and play a role in supporting the successful futures of students in the Tri-City area, Cargill answered the call by granting financial support and valued participation in the MVROP PLTW Consortium. Since then, pathway growth and expanded course offerings have reached more students than could have been imagined in the 2009 pilot program offering.

Cargill Salt’s ongoing participation in the PLTW Consortium and its financial support of $20,000, allows for MVROP to continue training instructors who teach the rigorous STEM curriculum to local students. Additionally, the company has opened its doors to on-site trips for students and mentorship interaction with their talented employees. The ongoing popularity and success of this program has only increased the importance of continued teacher training to ensure students flourish within the unique activity-, project-, and problem-based curriculum.

The Governing Council commended Cargill Salt for their support of the program, the school, for their investment in the students of the Tri-Cities and applauded the valuable partnership. Information provided in all MVROP Governing Council reports is posed online at www.mvrop.org/board.

EARTHTALK

Dear EarthTalk: Summer’s going to be a scorcher this year, and I’d like to know how I can keep cool indoors without just running my energy-hogging air conditioners all the time. Any tips?

— John McCaskill, Framingham, Massachusetts

According to Harvey Sachs of the non-profit American Council for an Energy-Efficient Economy, the movement of air over the skin is what’s key to keeping the body cool. So instead of turning on that air conditioner, see which direction the breeze is blowing outside (no matter how minimal it may be), and then open a few windows strategically to try to get it flowing through the house from end-to-end or side-to-side.

If the breeze alone isn’t enough, apply some fan power. Even small tabletop fans, which can be had for $30 or so at Target and similar stores, can really whip the air around. Placing one facing in by the window where air is coming in, and one at an opposite window positioned to blow warm air out, can create a nice “wind tunnel” effect in pulling air through the house.

This strategy can be especially effective at night when it is cooler. But then it’s important to shut the windows when you leave for the day in the morning to keep the cooler air in and the warmth of the new day out. Keep blinds shut and curtains drawn, too, as sunlight pouring into the house only creates more heat. And remember that lights left on are not only wasting electricity – they’re creating heat, as well.

Ceiling fans also do a nice job of circulating air in the rooms you occupy most, and though they do require some up-front costs for installation they use only about 1/30th the electricity of a room air conditioner.

Beyond moving the air around to keep cool, the website WikiHow.com lists several tips for using water to keep cool sans air conditioning. One tried and true method is to wet your wrists and other pulse points with cold water, and then keep those spots cool by holding an ice cube wrapped in a face cloth against them. The relief is immediate, and this method will cool down the entire body – by as much as three degrees Fahrenheit – for upwards of an hour. Another WikiHow suggestion: Wear a short-sleeved shirt and keep the sleeves wet with cold water (from a squirt bottle, faucet or hose). Keeping the pant legs of long pants wet is also a good way to keep your legs cool. Add in a breeze or a fan, and you can actually get cold.

Of course, if you just can’t live without air conditioning, there are greener options out there. For starters, a single window unit that keeps one room cool is far less energy intensive and polluting than central air conditioning that keeps all the rooms in the house cool (including those you’re not using). Look for new models sporting the federal Energy Star label, which marks units as energy efficient.

Another option for those in hot, dry climates is an evaporative cooler, which cools outdoor air through evaporation and blows it inside the house. These units make for a nice alternative to traditional central air conditioning, as they cost about half as much to install and use only one quarter of the energy overall.

Kitchen with a View

BY ANNA JACOBY

My clients are fortunate to have a gorgeous view from their backyard. They have a large deck on the back of their house, with access from the breakfast nook. Each morning they get to enjoy their coffee while taking in the beautiful views of trees and hills. Their kitchen was designed to maximize the view while creating a more efficient layout and, of course, updating all the finish materials.

You can't miss the expansive 11-foot window; we made this window as large as possible, spanning almost the entire wall. This may be a stretch, but I think this view would make even washing dishes feel like less of a chore. A small eating bar provides a place for morning coffee or an afternoon glass of wine.

The cooktop wall is quite efficient, with the range in the center, flanked by the microwave on the left and the refrigerator on the right. Because we used custom cabinetry, we were able to position the microwave at the perfect height for the homeowners – not too high, not too low, and off the counter to open more counter space. Just beyond the refrigerator, in the breakfast nook, you'll see

Anna Jacoby is a local Certified Interior Designer. Contact her at 510-378-6989 or info@annajacobyinteriors.com. You could also visit her website at www.annajacobyinteriors.com the pantry, along with a customized spot for charging phones and opening mail.

The new slide-in range features two ovens in one footprint, eliminating the need for separate wall ovens. This freed up cabinets and gave the clients additional storage space. And speaking of additional storage, the new layout includes lazy Susan cabinets in both corners, making every inch count in this hardworking kitchen. Ample prep space around the sink and on each side of the cooktop allows for more than one cook, with plenty of room to spread out.

The color scheme was kept quiet and peaceful, so as not to distract from the views. But you'll notice we brought the outdoors in, with the light blue wall color, stained wood cabinets, and wood flooring. The soft blue walls mimic the sky, and the warm wood pays tribute to the trees outside. Not wanting to darken the kitchen, the upper cabinets and backsplash were kept a creamy white. On the backsplash, a thin accent stripe of slate and glass mosaic tile adds a subtle pop of color and a contrast of textures.

The clients are very happy with their new kitchen. The customized design features make this kitchen both beautiful and functional, while reflecting their taste and lifestyle. And the gorgeous views don't hurt either.

This is America

Title Sponsor Fremont Chevrolet who has supported this event for many years and Premier Sponsor SiliconSage Builders. We would also like to thank the Fremont City Council who recently voted to become a sponsor of the parade after an absence of almost 18 years... Welcome Back!

This event is produced by a local group of dedicated volunteers that work hard to ensure a fabulous event for the over 15,000 parade spectators and highlight our wonderful city. This year’s lineup includes over 70 parade entries, marching bands, helium and cold air balloons, historical vehicles, car clubs, and local non-profits.

Flyover:

As the parade is about to begin, keep your eyes peeled for the Beech Boys Flight Team. This fantastic team of Beechcraft Planes will perform their annual flyover just before the start of the parade. Maneuvers will include the “Missing Man Formation,” an aerial salute in memory of fallen pilots and military service members or veterans we have lost. In formation with the Beech Boys will be a historic Boeing-Stearman Biplane.

National Anthem:

Isabel Garcia recently graduated from Irvington High School and has performed in many local productions with StarStruck Youth Theatre and Irvington Conservatory Theatre.

Grand Marshal:

Irvington High School graduate and current NFL Indianapolis Colts Running Back Robert Turbin will be our 2019 Grand Marshal.

Parade Judges:

Awards for overall appeal, creativity and uniqueness, parade theme adaptation, patriotic display and the People’s Choice which reflects the crowd response.

- Lianne Woo – digital marketer at the Public Policy Institute of California, Rotaract District 5170 Marketing Director and an active member of the Rotaract Club of Greater Fremont.

- Jasper Tran – music teacher in the Dublin Unified School District who has also taught in the Fremont Unified School District. Beginning-advanced band director for seven elementary schools, clarinet/saxophone specialist for the Hopkins Jr. High advanced elementary band, American/Mission San Jose/ Washington High School attendance area coordinator, and winter drum major instructor for American High School.

- Sameer Jha – one of the top 10 trans youth activists of color in America and founder of The Empathy Alliance. 2017 Youth Grand Marshal for Oakland Pride and recently released a book called "Read This, Save Lives!"

Parade Route and Road Closures:

Parade will begin at Stevenson Boulevard (Fremont Main Library) and travel along Paseo Padre Parkway to Capitol Avenue, ending at Liberty Street and Capitol Avenue. Please be advised that the following road closures will begin to take effect at 7 a.m. and will be in place until roughly 1 p.m.

- Paseo Padre Parkway between Mowry and Stevenson
- Capitol Avenue between

Paseo Padre Parkway and State Street

- Liberty Street between Beacon Avenue and Capitol Avenue

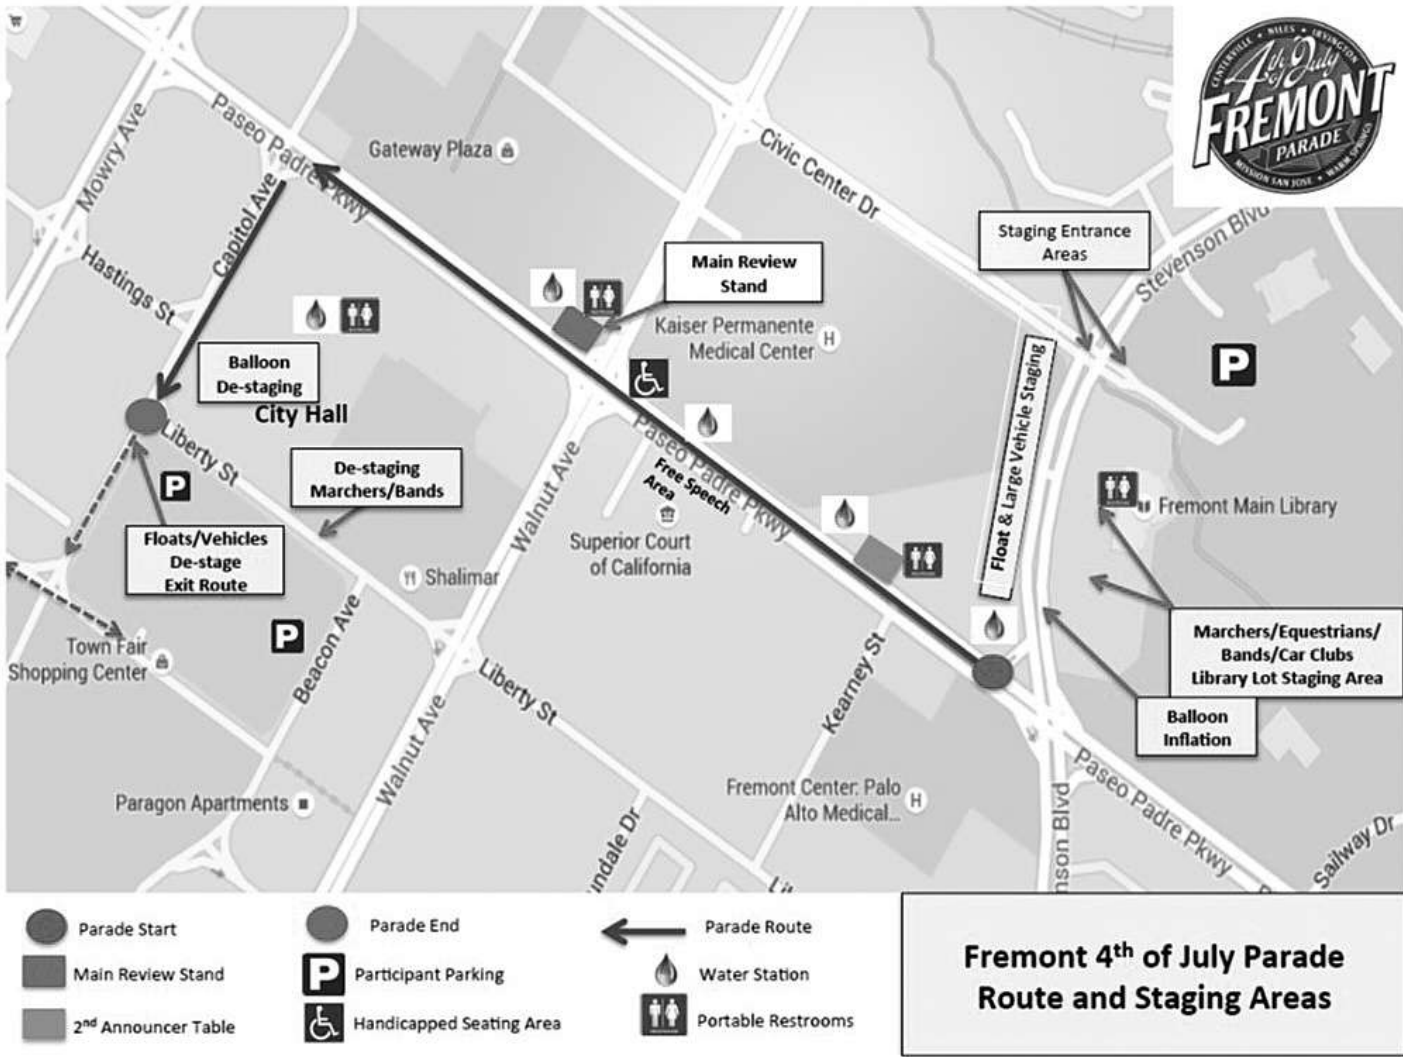

- Walnut Avenue between Liberty Street and Paseo Padre Parkway

- Hastings Street between Mowry Avenue and Capitol Avenue

Real Estate Notebook

‘Tis the season for home buying and selling

BY DAVID STARK
PUBLIC AFFAIRS DIRECTOR, BAY EAST ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®

“Location, location, location” is the standard real estate cliché that’s based in reality; another equally true cliché is, “season, season, season.”

Asked if summer months are more advantageous for sellers or if there are also opportunities for buyers, Nancie Allen, 2019 president of Bay East Association of REALTORS® said, “This feels like an ‘equal’ time of year because there are more properties on the market and there are more buyers, as well. It’s the high season for both.” Allen said the summer rush isn’t the only time when more homes are on the market. “There is typically a bump up in inventory of homes for sale during the Fall and buyers are still out there looking, too.”

The slower real estate seasons offer their own opportunities. “When you get into winter season when it’s a little darker and a little cooler, there’s typically less inventory and fewer buyers. This is good for sellers because there are fewer properties on the market, and good for buyers as well because there is less competition to purchase those properties,” Allen said.

Asked if there is anything a buyer should be doing now to take advantage of the homes that may be on the market in the fall, Allen said, “Make sure that you’re pre-approved, and know the area that you want to live in so you can be really focused on where you want to look.”

880 Corridor Real Estate Market Conditions

Market conditions during May show large percentage increases in the homes listed for sale in some of the smaller communities. Homes for sale increased 200 percent in Albany, 63 percent in Castro Valley, 185 percent in Newark, and 173 percent in Union City.

More homes for sale translated, for the most part, into more homes sold. Home sales increased 36 percent in Berkeley, 38 percent in Newark and 19 percent in Oakland. Increasing sales prices kept buyers on the sidelines in Albany and Castro Valley, where sales dropped compared with last May.

“Sellers were so used to everything that was going on the last couple of years where you put your house on the market and it immediately sold over asking,” Allen said. “Sellers are now wrapping their heads around the fact that the market has changed and that their marketing approach has to change as well.”

Allen said that depending on the area, sellers may need to be prepared for their home sitting on the market for up to 20 days or longer.

Buyers are also changing their expectations. Allen said, “I do think buyer mindset has changed, they are being more particular and waiting for just the right property. Before they felt so stressed and pushed to get into any home they could, now they’re looking for something that’s more of a true fit to what they really want.”

While sales prices along 880 are still at historically high levels, Allen said “Buyers feel more hopeful, they feel the market has slowed down and moved a little bit more to the middle, so they now have a chance to get into their desired home.”

Charlie Chaplin Days

NILES ESSANAY SILENT
FILM MUSEUM

Natives of the Tri-City Area love Niles for its quaint charm and old-fashioned railroad, but fewer know that Charlie Chaplin worked at Niles’ own Essanay Film Company, creating five short films, including his first with costar Edna Purviance. That’s why each summer Niles hosts their classic “Charlie Chaplin Days” festival to honor the shared history of the film star and the town. Charlie merchandise, special film screenings, contests and other Niles fun will be happening from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Saturday, June 29 – Sunday, June 30. Look at our website nilesfilmmuseum.org for more details. This event is co-sponsored with the Niles Main Street Association.

Friday

The weekend will kick off on Friday with a series of special early bird events. At 1:00 p.m., a walking tour of San Francisco Silent Film locations will start from The Station Café at 596 Pacific Street, conducted by Rory O’Connor under the auspices of the Friends of the Library City Guides. If you’re interested in taking part, RSVP to Rena Kiehn at pr@nilesfilmmuseum.org. (There will be a $12 Tour Fee.) At 7:30 p.m. that evening back in Niles, Dan Kamin, leading authority on Chaplin’s comedy and body language, will give a talk on Chaplin’s career. The entertaining and informative presentation focuses on Chaplin’s rise to fame and his controversial decision not to fight in World War I, the first of many scandals that would dog the comedian during his long career. The presentation will be followed by a Q&A and book signing. (Suggested member donation $8, not yet member $10.) Friday’s events will conclude with film screenings of Shoulder Arms (with Jeff Rapsis at the piano) and Chaplin Studio Tour.

Saturday

On Saturday, the fun starts in the morning with the 11 a.m. walking tour of Niles. Find out what happened here one hundred years ago. Important landmarks will be discussed and stories will be shared! Meet at the museum and bring your camera. Includes our museum Walking Tour of Niles booklet. ($5 donation.)

On both Saturday and Sunday, stop by the Expansion Area of the museum to screen short Chaplin films made Niles or around the Bay Area, and get commentary from various Chaplin fans! (Suggested donation per film 50¢)

Short film schedule:
11:30 a.m. A Night Out
12:15 p.m. The Champion
1:45 p.m. In The Park
2:15 p.m. A Jitney Elopement
3:00 p.m. The Tramp

Lecture Schedule

Learn the history and culture behind Chaplin’s films from scholars and film buffs.
1:00 p.m. Chaplin and his Music
Nigel Dreiner takes us on a journey into an aspect of Charlie’s career that often gets forgotten. The Music!
2:15 p.m. Screening of The Movies Go West
2:45 p.m. The Importance of Chuck Reisner
Presented by Hooman Mehran.
Chuck Reisner started with Chaplin at First National in 1918, and contributed as an assistant director, actor, and gagman to many of his best films.
4:00 p.m. The Chaplin Studio
Marc Wanamaker, vintage Los Angeles film studios expert, will share some behind the scenes images and amazing tales of the Chaplin studio and old Hollywood.

7:30 p.m. Screening of The Pilgrim, How to Make Movies, Chaplin Studio Tour, A Dog’s Life

Doors open at 7:00 p.m.

Sunday Events

Sunday’s activities include a train ride through Niles Canyon. You should be at the train station off Mission Blvd by 11:00 a.m. for the 1 and 1/4-hour long ride. See: www.ncry.org for more information and train ticket rates. Adults $15 / Seniors (62 and older) $12 / Children 3-12 $9 / 2 and under – Free

On Sunday, Saturday’s list of short films will be screened in the Main Theater at the same time slots. (Suggested donation per film 50¢)

On Sunday only, we will host the Charlie Chaplin look-alike contest at 1:15. We have some costumes if you want to “suit up,” or wear your own. You may win a prize! Google Doodle on Chaplin will be shown before the contest.

Purchase an all weekend pass in advance: $39 includes all programs, weekend theater seat reservation (specific seat of your choice) and a ticket for the 11:20 a.m. Sunday train ride. Add the San Francisco Silent Film Walking Tour for only $10 (at a discount). You also get a museum member’s discount all weekend in the museum store.

The Eagle Has Landed!

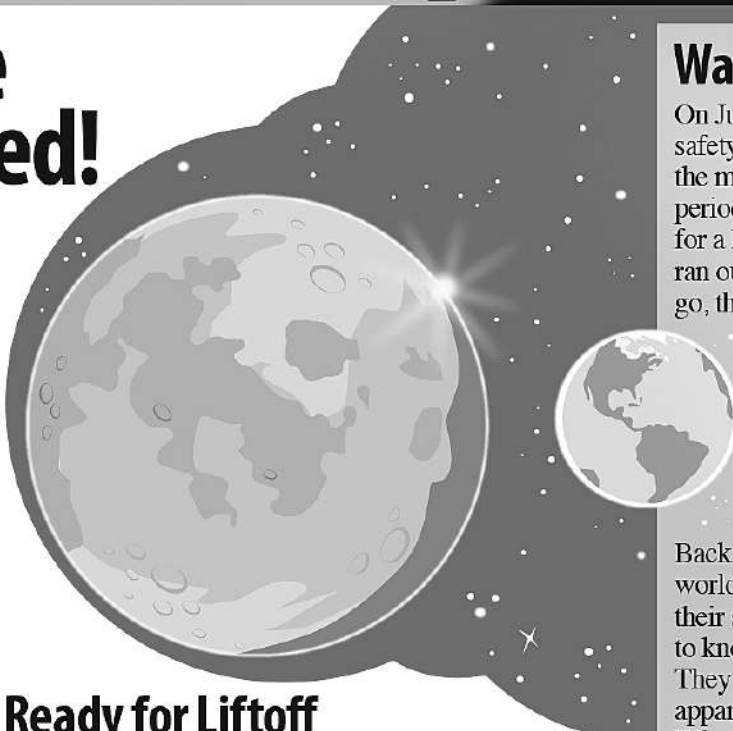

On July 16, 1969, three astronauts and two spacecraft were launched into space to do things man had never done before. They would hear and see things no man or woman had ever seen or heard. They were the first humans to land a man on the moon!

The crew was in this command module for liftoff and again for splashdown.

The lunar module, the spacecraft that would land on the moon, was carried into space here.

The lower sections of the rocket lifted the crew into space, but after fuel was used up they were released to fall back to Earth.

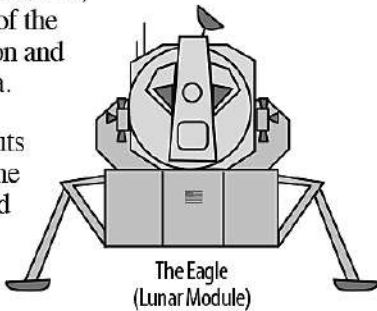

Ready for Liftoff

The men and the two small spacecraft sat attached to the top of a powerful rocket called a Saturn V. (Saturn Five – V is the Roman numeral for the number 5.)

Why two spacecrafts?

The Columbia took the three astronauts to the moon. The other smaller spacecraft, the Eagle, took two of the astronauts to the moon and back to the Columbia.

One of these astronauts had to stay back on the Columbia to fly it and be ready for the Eagle to return with the other two.

Walking on the Moon

On July 20, 1969 the Eagle left the safety of the Columbia and headed to the moon. For a nerve-wracking period of time the astronauts looked for a level place to land before they ran out of fuel. With only seconds to go, they found a level spot in an area named the Sea of Tranquility.

Slowly the astronauts landed and Neil Armstrong uttered the famous words, "The Eagle has landed."

Back on Earth, people all over the world had been sitting on the edge of their seats as they watched and waited to know if the spacecraft was safe. They held their breath as it became apparent that fuel was running low. When these famous words came across their televisions and radios, cheers went up worldwide!

The footprints could stay on the moon for millions of years since there is no wind or rain to disturb them!

June 18 City Council Work Session Discussed Update on Strategies and Priorities to Address Homelessness

On Tuesday, June 18, 2019, the Fremont City Council held a Work Session to discuss an update on strategies and priorities to address homelessness. City staff presented an overview of ongoing efforts to reduce homelessness since 2017, provide an update on homeless count data for Alameda County and Fremont, and review state funding opportunities to support homeless mitigation efforts. City staff concluded the presentation with an update on siting a navigation center and the proposed criteria to use when evaluating potential locations.

Every two years the Department of Housing and Urban Development requires counties and local jurisdictions across the country to count homeless persons within their boundaries. In the Bay Area, this year's point-in-time count took place on January 30. EveryOne Home, the non-profit agency that conducts the count and helps in developing countywide strategies to end homelessness in Alameda County, recently released the 2019 countywide point-in-time figures. In Alameda County, 8,022 individuals were counted as homeless, which represents a 43% increase from 5,629 in 2017. The 2019 count nearly doubles the number of homeless from 2015, which was 4,040. In Fremont, preliminary data counted 608 unhoused residents, a 21% increase from 2017, which was 479.

In response to the growing number of unhoused residents in Fremont and direction from the City Council at a previous Council meeting on July 17, 2018, City staff presented the framework for a temporary navigation center and recommended initial criteria for siting a center within Fremont at the June 18 Work Session meeting. A navigation center provides a clean, safe, calm and flexible environment that allows homeless persons to rebuild their lives and intensely focus on the job of finding stable permanent housing. Participants are accepted into the center after outreach and intake, and generally stay six months or less, before finding a permanent placement. This model has been proven successful in the Bay Area through the City of Berkeley STAIR Center, a housing navigation center that has been in operation for more than a year with 82% of individuals exiting the STAIR Center moving into permanent housing.

The meeting was well attended by community members and the Council heard more than 75 speakers regarding homelessness and a navigation center. After public comment, the City Council reaffirmed the decision to create a navigation center and directed staff to move forward with analyzing both City-owned and privately-owned sites based on the recommended criteria. While considering potential locations, City staff will use an objective criteria process taking into consideration:

- Minimum Qualifications
- At least 16,000 square feet
 - A slope less than 5% area of buildable footprint

- Not developed parkland or property that has approved and funded projects by the City Council
- Immediate availability
- Availability for a period up to five years

Accessibility

- Within 0.50 miles of food services
- Within 0.50 miles of bus stop
- Bus service with access to BART

Physical Suitability

- Utility connection points about property

Environmental Suitability

- Located outside of fault trace zone
- No known significant environmental issues exist

City staff will return to Council on July 9, 2019 with results from the analysis and present multiple locations for consideration by Council. At the July 9 City Council meeting, the Council will select a limited number of sites for further analysis and staff will conduct community outreach and a deeper analysis for each site throughout the summer. After analysis and community outreach is completed, the City Council will select a final site during a September Council Meeting (date not confirmed yet) to move forward with, and City staff will immediately proceed with procurement of contracts to implement the navigation center.

To watch the recording of the June 18 City Council Work Session visit <https://fremont.gov/AgendaCenter/City-Council-4>. Copies of the full staff report and presentation can be accessed by visiting http://fremont.gov/AgendaCenter/ViewFile/Agenda/_06182019-1728

City of Fremont Considers Tobacco Retail License Program

On May 21, 2019, the Fremont City Council heard a proposal from the Human Relations Commission recommending the establishment of a Tobacco Retail License program. At that meeting, the Council directed staff to conduct further outreach to stakeholders before the topic returns to Council later this summer.

The proposed Tobacco Retail License program for Fremont would require retailers, who sell tobacco products, to acquire an annual Tobacco Retail License from the City. Policies associated with the Tobacco Retail License may include a ban on all flavored tobacco products, and a set minimum pack size and/or set minimum price per pack. The goal of these policies is to discourage young adults from buying tobacco products. As of May 2019, 158 California municipalities have implemented Tobacco Retail License programs including ordinances restricting the sale of flavored tobacco products and devices.

The City will be holding a community meeting focused on explaining the proposed Tobacco Retail License program and receiving input from the community. The meeting will be held on Wednesday, June 26, 2019 at 7 p.m. in the Large Fire Training Room, rear entrance of Building A, Fremont City Hall, located at 3300 Capitol Ave. Feedback can also be provided online at www.Fremont.gov/OpenCityHallTobacco.

Fireworks are banned in Fremont

Fremont's public safety departments would like to remind Fremont residents, businesses and visitors that the sale, possession, and use of all fireworks are banned within the City of Fremont. This ban includes the "safe and sane" variety of fireworks that are legal in some other cities. The ban, in effect since December 1986, has helped reduce the number of injuries, wildland fires, and structure fires caused by fireworks in the city of Fremont.

Fire and Police resources will be on patrol in Fremont during the peak times of concern to maintain an active vigilance against fireworks use.

In California, possession of illegal fireworks is considered a misdemeanor, which is punishable by a fine of not less than $500 or more than $1,000, or by imprisonment in a county jail for up to one year. If you are found to be in possession of a sufficient amount of illegal fireworks, you may be guilty of a felony and punished by a fine up to $5,000 and/or imprisonment in a state prison or county jail. Parents may be held liable for any damages or injuries caused by their children's use of illegal fireworks.

Fremont Police and Fire are anticipating a high call volume during the Fourth of July holiday season. We ask that community members help due their part to keep our City safe and dial 9-1-1 in case of a true emergency. To report illegal firework use, call the Fremont Police Department Dispatch Center at 510-790-6800 x3.

Please be extremely careful during the Fourth of July holiday season and throughout the summer months with all outdoor activities. The abundance of dry grass and brush coupled with wind and high temperatures creates extremely dangerous fire conditions.

Have a Happy and Safe 4th of July!

Fremont's first pedestrian signal was activated the week of June 17th at the intersection of Mowry Avenue/Waterside Circle. The pedestrian signal will offer pedestrians a protected crossing for this busy arterial intersection, enhancing access to the Fremont BART station and City Center area.

Pedestrian signals are a newer type of traffic control device. A Federal Highway Administration study found that pedestrian signals can reduce vehicle/pedestrian crashes by 69%.

Pedestrian signals feature a unique type of operations, as illustrated in the graphic to the left. For more information on how to use pedestrian signals and other new traffic control devices (including instructional videos), please visit www.Fremont.gov/VisionZero2020.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS
EAST BAY REGIONAL PARK DISTRICT

With the arrival of summer vacation, parents are always looking for enjoyable and educational things their children can do. The East Bay Regional Park District stands ready to help. One of the great regional park summer activities for kids is Park’n It Day Camp. Kids ages 5 through 12 can spend five days exploring a regional park with recreation leaders, lifeguards and naturalists. Activities can include hiking, fishing, swimming, arts and crafts and sports.

There’s a day camp scheduled for Monday, July 15 through Friday, July 19 at Coyote Hills Regional Park, and one from Monday, July 29 through Friday, August 2 at Ardenwood Historic Farm. Registration is required, and there’s a fee of $200 per child ($220 for non-district residents). There’s a 10 percent family discount for registration of the second child from the same family, when both children register and pay in one transaction, online, or by phone. For information on the day camp, call (888) 327-2757; select option 2, for Coyote Hills refer to program number 24384, and for Ardenwood, select 24376.

The park district’s Trails Challenge is a free family activity. Download the guidebook at www.ebparks.org/TC, complete any five of the listed trails by Sunday, December 1 and receive a commemorative pin, while supplies last. Trails vary in difficulty levels – there’s an easy Trails Challenge hike at Coyote Hills; and a challenging one at Sunol Regional Wilderness, south of I-680 and Sunol.

Besides the Trails Challenge, both these parks have lots of fun activities on schedule. Check out Nature Yoga from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Sunday, August 11 at Coyote Hills, or Wednesday Night Bat Watch from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. July 17 and July 31 at Sunol Regional Wilderness. Visit the park district website, www.ebparks.org, for details.

There’s always something interesting going on at Ardenwood Historic Farm, which recreates life on an 19th century farming estate. Kids can learn about life on a farm from 10:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. Sundays, July 21 and July 28 by joining “Farm Chores for Kids” program. They get to crack corn, feed animals, and help with other farm morning chores. Other programs include farmyard games, ice cream making, puppet shows, wheat harvesting, and beekeeping. Ardenwood always celebrates the Fourth of July with elaborate festivities (no fire-works).

Ardenwood is located at 34600 Ardenwood Boulevard, just north of Highway 84. For information on programs and entry fees, call (510) 544-2797.

Dogs and people need water on these hot summer days. So, when you venture out on the trails, carry lots of water for both you and your pet. Often the only drinking water source available in regional parks is at the trailhead. There are lightweight dog water dishes available at pet stores. Or you can just take along a one-gallon plastic bag, into which you can pour water for your dog as needed. Splash some on your dog’s tummy, too. Rover will love you for it.

For more information on park district programs and facilities, visit the website, www.ebparks.org.

Summer brings live music

Summer is the perfect time to lay out a blanket or pull up a lawn chair and listen to your favorite bands (or discover new ones!) in the long pleasant evenings around the East Bay. In 2019, the summer season will kick off with on June 15 in Fremont with the Pacific Commons Summer Concert Series, starting with pop and rock hits from Cover Story. The fun will continue with concerts from Milpitas to San Leandro. Milpitas will start their season with their Juneteenth summer concert on June 18, to pick up again on July 16 with Lyin I’s. Meanwhile, Hayward will join in with their Municipal Band and Summer Music in the park series, starting June 16 and August 4 respectively. Hayward’s lineup includes Chris Marquis’ Giant Garage Spiders, Sycamore 129 Blues Band, and What’s Up Big Band—and that’s just the start of the season. Newark will host Music at the Grove (starting June 21 with Big Band Beat), and San Leandro will join in with Hot August Thursdays.

With concerts running through September, there is plenty of time for music lovers to make the most of those summer days.

Giants win District 14 Tournament of Champions

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY

The Niles-Centerville Giants won the District 14 Major Baseball Tournament of Champions with a win over Newark National 5-1 on June 20th. With runs in the second and fourth innings, the Giants were in the driver's seat even though Newark tried to close the gap but could only put one run across the plate.

White Sox win District 14 Juniors Tournament of Champions

MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

The Mission San Jose Little League White Sox Juniors team won the 2019 District 14 Junior Tournament of Champions 16-2 on June 19th with an impressive offensive show at the plate and a competent defense. Although the Centerville American Angels made some great defensive plays, they could not keep up with their opponent's barrage with the bat that began in the first inning and continued throughout the game.

Tri-City Animal Shelter gets an upgrade

By ZOYA HAJEE AND WILLIAM MARSHAK

It takes special people to care for animals stranded by circumstances beyond their control in desperate situations. Animal Services personnel at the Tri-City Animal Shelter are at the top of that category. A wide variety of calls to these folks ranges from nuisance to dangerous and wildlife to domestic control situations. In some cases, expertise and support is necessary to educate residents about habits that can exacerbate a problem while in other instances, for everyone's safety, temporary shelter is the best solution. Shelter staff work tirelessly to place animals into humane environments, promote responsible pet ownership and work with partners to reduce animal overpopulation.

Since its dedication in 1988, Tri-City Animal Shelter has been an integral part of the community, ensuring humane care and animal companion adoptions for families. Shelter staff provide a wide range of services in addition to adoptions including protecting lost and injured animals and minimizing the threat of animal-carried diseases. Under the auspices of the Fremont Police Department, officers respond to animal-related calls such as Currently, a small cadre of volunteers helps to bring a bit of enrichment and socialization from hours confined to kennel spaces. While dedicated staff is essential to its operation, volunteers are the bedrock of services and comfort for shelter residents. From fostering underage kittens too young for adoption, needing anywhere from one to four weeks of care, to transporting animals to adoption partners as well as others who can give the animals a bit of love and fun for a few hours, volunteers are not only welcome, but always in need. Donations of time and/or financial support are always welcome and the Tri-City Animal Advocates maintain an Amazon wish list to support the shelter's needs.

As a resource for owners of companion animals, those contemplating adoption and others who just want to help the dedicated personnel at the Tri City Animal Shelter, a visit or call can make a big difference for animals that need permanent placement for a healthy, stimulating and fulfilling life beyond institutional care.

The shelter is increasing their community outreach and are now active on Instagram, NextDoor, Facebook and Twitter. A new updated website provides a wealth of information. The shelter also provides sheltering services for Newark, Union City and San Leandro. For information about animal services in contract cities and other areas, visit city websites.

reports of animal bites, dead animals, community cats, snakes, and wildlife problems.

Following decades of use and in response to an expanding population of people and animal companions, it was time to remodel and upgrade the shelter. Work began last year as an outdated layout and amenities were addressed. Although still a work in progress, access to kennels, new flooring, covered drainage in kennel areas, an upgraded spay/neuter clinic for shelter animals and expanded outdoor areas for exercise and play have been the result.

A cat habitat is being created where adoptable cats that have passed health quarantine and spay/neuter requirements can strut their stuff in a comfortable and visible setting to attract that special someone who will provide a permanent home. Although the room construction is complete, shelter management is working to make a space for cats to socialize, with shy or scared cats learning from more confident cats how to interact with humans. Guests and cats will interact in a relaxed environment for both human and feline.

Proposed measure would limit rent increases

SUBMITTED BY THE CITY OF HAYWARD

In an effort toward addressing the area’s housing crisis, the Hayward City Council has given initial approval to new legislation that would establish a mandatory mediation and binding arbitration process that can be used by tenants when their landlord wants to raise their rent by more than five percent in a year.

The new regulation whereby landlords can be required to participate in mediation and justify in arbitration a rent increase in excess of five percent applies to multi-unit residential properties constructed prior to 1979, and exempts all single-family homes and condominiums as required by state law.

The new mediation and arbitration process for rent increases greater than five percent is part of a broader update of the City’s 40-year-old Residential Rent Stabilization Ordinance (RRSO) that received initial council approval on Tuesday, June 18.

Under the new legislation, landlords will be required to begin filing residential rent increase notices and notices to terminate tenancy with the city. City housing officials intend to use the data to more accurately track rental housing trends and to support development of future housing policy.

Other provisions of the new legislation:

- Set forth justifications by which landlords can lawfully evict a tenant;
- Prohibit discrimination against housing applicants who intend to use government vouchers to pay their rent; and
- Protect tenants against retaliation by landlords for exercising their rights under the ordinance.

In a significant departure from the prior RRSO, the new legislation eliminates the ability of landlords to apply to have a vacant unit constructed prior to 1979 permanently exempted from local rent increase regulation in exchange for making improvements to the property.

However, as required by state law, landlords will still be free to reset rent levels on pre-1979 units to whatever the market will bear each time the unit is voluntarily vacated by its tenants.

The new Residential Rent Stabilization and Tenant Protection Ordinance is scheduled to come back before the City Council for a second reading and vote on Tuesday, June 25. If passed, it would take effect July 25.

WILLIAM MARSHAK

Facebook, are you listening

Facebook has come to Fremont in a big way. Fergus O’Shea, Director of Campus Development for the Bay Area, attended the June 11, 2019 Fremont City Council session to advise the city of plans to develop the previous Sun campus (Ardenwood area) in addition to its existing “Commerce Campus” close by. At this time, about 800 employees are inhabiting the space, but the future may see as many as 5,000 Facebook employees working at the Fremont location.

With its mission statement commitment: “Give people the power to build community and bring the world closer together”, it is incumbent upon such large enterprises to support the communities they impact. The economic benefits are palpable through increased revenue but societal concerns are also important and, as O’Shea iterated for Facebook, “We will continue to look for ways to connect with the community; it’s very important to us.” Traffic impacts of such a large influx of commuters was a primary focus of the presentation, emphasizing efforts by Facebook to encourage alternative modes of transportation.

One glaring widespread problem that is beginning to rise to the top of corporate consciousness is where all of these employees will live and their quality of life. At the forefront is the conundrum of truly affordable housing and its concomitant issue of homelessness. The term “affordable” by Bay Area standards is absurd when compared with most other locales within the United States. Starter “homes” are listed at over one-half million dollars! This not only creates havoc in the housing market, but puts extreme pressure on the lower economic strata to absorb the most basic costs of food, shelter and transportation. Additional expenses of medical care, education, recreation and communication are, for many, luxuries.

The widespread problem of housing is linked to many corollary concerns and can be found at the root of the Bay Area environmental crisis. Although regional in nature, it is only solvable on a local scale, supported by a broad coalition of ethically concerned and engaged public and private partnerships. We can’t do anything about our wonderful weather, concentration and synergy of technical talent and pleasant natural environment that attracts more and more people, but we can do something about the influx we create. It is imperative that those directly responsible for attracting huge workforces, understand and respond to infrastructure needs such as housing, traffic and environmental damage.

A recent statement [Published Jun 18, 2019] by Google CEO Sundar Pichai addressed the housing problems with a commendable approach. He notes, “...we know our responsibility to help starts at home.” Google will repurpose “at least $750 million of Google’s land, most of which is currently zoned for office or commercial space, as residential housing.” According to Pichai, this is equivalent to at least 15,000 homes for middle- and low- income families. In addition, a $250 million fund will provide developer incentives spurring an additional 5,000 affordable units. He adds, “...we will give $50 million in grants through Google.org to nonprofits focused on the issues of homelessness and displacement.

This builds on the $18 million in grants we’ve given to help address homelessness over the last five years, including $3 million we gave to the newly opened SF Navigation Center and $1.5 million to affordable housing for low income veterans and households in Mountain View.”

The current uproar over the location of a navigation center for Fremont has universal consensus on its primary objective, to assist those in desperate economic and social situations with the basic requirements of dignified living... shelter, physical and emotional support. Wherever the location - some have suggested a series of centers throughout the city to attack the problems of homelessness – the answer lies in not only addressing the manifestations, but root causes as well. Large corporations such as Facebook are reaping the benefits of Southeast East Bay communities; it is time for them to confront the problems associated with their success too.

Pichai concludes, “Solving a big issue like the housing shortage will take collaboration across business, government and community organizations, and we look forward to working alongside others to make the Bay Area a place where everyone who lives here can thrive.”

Amen

Partially electric airplane makes California test flight

AP WIRE SERVICE

A California company has conducted a test flight of a hybrid-electric airplane capable of carrying six people.

A pilot and flight engineer flew Ampaire Inc.’s modified Cessna 337 Skymaster over Camarillo Airport on Thursday.

The aircraft normally has two combustion engines, one in front and another at the rear, that turn propellers in a push-pull configuration.

Ampaire has replaced one engine with a battery-powered electric motor.

The company says the result is savings on greenhouse gas emissions and operating costs.

Ampaire aims to supply aircraft to short-haul regional airlines.

It plans to test a pre-production prototype this year on a Maui in partnership with Mokulele Airlines and hopes to achieve commercial operations in 2021.

Alameda County recognized as age-friendly community

SUBMITTED BY LIFE ELDERCARE

On June 4, Alameda County became part of the World Health Organization (WHO) Global Network for Age-Friendly Cities and Communities (the Network). Alameda County joins 318 communities across the United States that are actively working to meet the needs of older adults. The county is continuing to expand its initiatives to improve access to information, health care and outdoor space, availability of housing & transportation, civic participation opportunities, and more.

The Network was established to foster exchange of experience and mutual learning between cities and communities worldwide. Their efforts to become more age-friendly take place within very diverse cultural and socio-economic contexts.

County officials call for stronger outreach on parcel tax exemptions

SUBMITTED BY JANICE ROMBECK

Thousands of seniors and people with disabilities who own property in Santa Clara County are eligible for parcel tax exemptions on their property tax bills and do not know it, and those who do often find the exemption applications process challenging and overly burdensome.

At the initiative of Supervisors Dave Cortese and Cindy Chavez, the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday, June 18 called for an outreach plan that would help fill in those information gaps and make the process more transparent. The Board voted unanimously for administrators to report back to the Board with a plan proposal by September 10.

“We want to help clear up the confusion for taxpayers by providing them with more information and, hopefully, simplify the application process,” Cortese said. “There are ways the county could help, especially with outreach.”

Both Supervisors heard from property owners and representatives from county school districts during a May 22 hearing at a special meeting of the Children, Seniors and Families Committee. The meeting was held in response to a Civil Grand Jury Report that identified flaws in outreach and exemption renewal systems among some of the 24 school districts that collect a voter-approved parcel tax.

Property owners do not have to pay parcel taxes to school districts if they are age 65 or older, receive Supplemental Security Income for disability at any age, or receive Social Security Disability Insurance benefits at any age and meet the income requirements. But they must apply for an exemption through the school district that receives the parcel tax. Under a state law, however, they only need to apply once.

Some suggestions that emerged from the hearing included the county helping school districts receive information when property changes ownership, inserting a letter into property tax bills, enlisting the Registrar of Voters, the Department on Aging or the Social Services Agency to help with reaching underrepresented segments of the county's older residents and residents with disabilities.

For more information, contact the office of Supervisor Cortese at (408) 299-5030.

SOCIAL SECURITY COLUMN

Understanding social security benefits

BY LINDA ZAMFINO
SOCIAL SECURITY REPRESENTATIVE

Social Security touches the lives of nearly every American, whether at the birth of a child, loss of a loved one, onset of a disability, or transition from work to retirement. For more than 80 years, our programs have contributed to the financial security of the elderly and the disabled. Social Security replaces a percentage of a worker's pre-retirement income based on their lifetime earnings. The amount of your average wages that Social Security retirement benefits replace varies depending on your earnings and when you choose to start benefits. If you start benefits after full retirement age, these percentages are higher. If you start benefits earlier, these percentages are lower. Most financial advisers say you will need about 70 percent of pre-retirement income to live comfortably in retirement, including your Social Security benefits, investments, and personal savings.

You can learn more about retirement benefits at www.socialsecurity.gov/benefits/r etirement. Our resources and publications are easy to share with people you think might need the information. Many people think of Social Security as just a retirement program. And it's true that most of the people receiving benefits are retired, but others receive benefits because they're individuals with disabilities, spouse or child of someone who receives benefits, divorced spouse of someone getting or eligible for social security, spouse or child of a worker who died, divorced spouse of a worker who died, or dependent parent of a worker who died. If you can't work because of a physical or mental condition that's expected to last at least one year or result in death, you may be eligible for Social Security disability benefits.

Our disability rules are different from private or other government agency programs. Qualifying for disability from another agency or program doesn't mean you will be eligible for disability benefits from us. Having a statement from your doctor saying you're disabled doesn't mean you'll automatically be eligible for Social Security disability benefits. We've made learning about our disability programs very easy at www.socialsecurity.gov/benefits/d isability.

Thursday, June 20

At 12:00 a.m. officers responded to a 911 call about a man throwing rocks at another person for wearing a Muslim cap. Officers spotted a man matching the suspect’s description at the intersection of Porter and Robin streets in the Irvington district. The incident started when the suspect allegedly threw a rock at two men speaking to each other the parking lot of an apartment complex. The rock almost hit one of the men in the face. Both men spotted the suspect peeking over a concrete wall and eventually walked around the wall where the suspect brandished a wooden stick about four feet long. While holding the stick in a threatening manner, the man commented on the victim’s ethnicity and stated something similar to “you are not allowed to be here” before fleeing the scene on a bicycle. The men followed the suspect from a distance in their vehicle before he again stopped and brandished a wooden stick and swinging it in their direction.

Officers soon arrived and detained the suspect, later identified by police as John Mata, 55 on the 39800 Block of Sundale Drive. Meanwhile, a third man showed up and provided officers with a very similar statement regarding his involvement with the suspect. He believed the unprovoked attack on him could have been due to his ethnicity by the fact he was wearing a traditional Kufi or Topi cap that is a traditional Muslim laced hat for men. After police made a positive identification, Mata was arrested. A record check showed that Mata was on active probation with a search clause for a prior assault with a deadly weapon and had several prior arrests for violent behavior. He was booked at the Fremont Detention facility on various charges including assault with a deadly weapon, brandishing a weapon, probation violation and a committing a hate crime. This is Fremont’s only hate crime report yet for 2019.

At about 5:25 a.m. officers responded to a 911 call about a collision involving a motorcyclist and a vehicle on Mission Boulevard at Brown Road in the Warm Springs district. The caller said the motorcyclist was on the ground and the vehicle fled the scene. Police and Fremont Fire Department personnel arrived and provided medical aid to the motorcyclist before he was taken to a trauma center where he died at about 8:30 a.m.

During their investigation, officers developed information about the registered owner of the vehicle. The registered owner and a second person were soon contacted at a motel room near the scene of the collision and were cooperating with police. Westbound Mission Boulevard at Brown Road and the offramp from I-680 to Mission were closed until about noon. Drugs and alcohol are being investigated as a factor in the incident which is still under investigation.

Anyone with information about the case is asked to call Fremont Police Department’s Traffic Unit at (510) 790-6760. Anonymous tips can be sent by sending a text to Tip FremontPD followed by a short message to 888-777 or via the web at https://local.nixle.com/tip/alert/6216337.

Tuesday, June 18

At 4:23 p.m. a man identified by police as Steve Arroyo, 26, of Oakland was arrested at the Bay Fair station in San Leandro on a warrant out of Alameda County. He was booked into Santa Rita Jail.

Thursday, June 20

At 10:05 p.m. a man identified by police as Gary Carter Jr., of Oakland was arrested at the San Leandro station on suspicion of trespassing, disturbing the peace, possession of burglary tools and drug paraphernalia. He was booked into Alameda County Jail.

Motorists should check their license plates

SUBMITTED BY NEWARK PD

Officials from the Newark Police Department (NPD) are spreading the word to the community about a dangerous and ongoing trend that has been recently gaining popularity: License plate swapping. Commonly referred to as “cold-plating,” license plate theft from vehicles happens for a variety of reasons, such as hiding the identity of a stolen vehicle from law enforcement.

When a stolen vehicle is reported to police the license plate is entered into a state database for police detection. Often, a car thief will steal a license plate from a vehicle with a similar make and model and then swap the plate from the stolen vehicle with the plate of the unsuspecting similar make and model victim.

If not detected, a victim driving his or her own vehicle could be stopped by law enforcement, who believe they are stopping a stolen vehicle. This type of stop can involve the exhibition of firearms for safety reasons.

Vehicle owners can quickly and easily protect themselves by confirming that both that both of their vehicle’s license plates attached before getting driving it. If a vehicle owner finds one or both of their license plates missing, they should report it to law enforcement as soon as possible. Additionally, if a motorist discovers the wrong license plate is attached to their vehicle, they should not drive it and should immediately report it to police.

At about 8:00 p.m. an officer was investigating a possible auto burglary in the parking lot of the Great Mall of the Bay Area and spotted a man sitting inside a black 2001 Honda Civic. While talking with the man, later identified by police as Leonard Frazier, 46, of Oakland, the officer did a record check and learned Frazier was on probation in Alameda County for auto theft and had two outstanding drug-related arrest warrants. While searching the Honda, officers found a loaded High Point C9 semi-automatic handgun and a methamphetamine glass pipe. The handgun had been reported stolen to the Vallejo Police Department. Frazier was arrested and booked at the Santa Clara County Main Jail.

Saturday, June 15

At about 5:07 a.m. police responded to a call from a resident about an unknown female attempting to enter his home through a backyard window. Arriving officers found a woman, later identified by police as Maria Barraza-Hernandez, 23, holding a shovel in the backyard of the home on the 800 Block of Alisal Court. A record check showed Barraza-Hernandez had an outstanding felony warrant from Concord. Officers also found she was in possession of drug paraphernalia. She was arrested and booked into the Santa Clara County Main Jail.

PUBLIC NOTICES

CITY OF FREMONT PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that the City of Fremont City Council will hold a public hearing to consider the following proposal. Said public hearing will be held at 7:00 p.m., Tuesday, July 9, 2019, Council Chambers, 3300 Capitol Ave., Bldg. A, Fremont, CA, at which time all interested parties may attend and be heard:

Fee Deferral Program Amendment—Public hearing (published notice) to consider Planning Commission recommendation of a City-initiated Zoning Text Amendment (PLN2019-00309) to amend FMC Chapter 18.290 (Development Impact Fees) and FMC Chapter 18.165 (Density Bonus and Affordable Housing Incentives) to modify the timing of payment of development impact fees for certain types of development projects and to consider an exemption from the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) per CEQA Guidelines Section 15061(b)(3) in that the Zoning Text Amendment is not a project which has the potential to cause a significant effect on the environment.

If you challenge any decision of the City Council in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City Council at, or prior to, the public hearing.

Questions about this public hearing item should be directed to Deputy Community Development Director, Wayne Morris, at 510-494-4729 or wmorris@fremont.gov.

City Council Work Session Update

On June 18, the Fremont City Council held a work session to discuss an update on strategies and priorities to address homelessness. City staff presented an overview of ongoing efforts to reduce homelessness since 2017, provide an update on homeless count data for Alameda County and Fremont, and review state funding opportunities to support homeless mitigation efforts. City staff presented the framework for a temporary navigation center and recommended initial criteria for siting a center within Fremont.

The meeting was well attended by community members and the council heard more than 75 speakers regarding homelessness and a navigation center. After public comment, the city council reaffirmed the decision to create a navigation center and directed staff to move forward with analyzing both city-owned and privately owned sites based on the recommended criteria. While considering potential locations, city staff will use an objective criteria process taking into consideration:

Minimum Qualifications

- At least 16,000 square feet
- A slope less than 5 percent area of buildable footprint
- Not developed parkland or property that has approved and funded projects by the council

Immediate availability

- Availability for a period up to five years

- Accessibility
 - Within 0.50 miles of food services
 - Within 0.50 miles of bus stop
 - Bus service with access to BART
- Physical Suitability
 - Utility connection points abut property
- Environmental Suitability
 - Located outside of fault trace zone
 - No known significant environmental issues exist

City staff will return to council on July 9 with results from the analysis and present multiple locations for consideration by council. The council will then select a limited number of sites for further analysis and staff will conduct community outreach and a deeper analysis for each site throughout the summer. After analysis and community outreach is completed, the council will select a final site during a September Council Meeting to move forward with, and city staff will immediately proceed with procurement of contracts to implement the navigation center. To watch the recording of the June 18 work session, visit <https://fremont.gov/AgendaCenter/City-Council-4>.

Tobacco Retail License Program

On May 21, the Fremont City Council heard a proposal from Human Relations Commission recommending the establishment of a Tobacco Retail License program. At that meeting, the council directed city staff to conduct further outreach to stakeholders before the topic returns to council later this summer.

The proposed program would require retailers who sell tobacco products to acquire an annual tobacco retail license from the city. Policies associated with the tobacco retail license may include a ban on all flavored tobacco products, and a set minimum pack size and/or set minimum price per pack. The goal of these policies is to discourage young adults from buying tobacco products.

The city will host a community meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 26, focused on explaining the proposed license program and receiving input from the community. The meeting will take place in the large fire training room, rear entrance of Building A, Fremont City Hall at 3300 Capitol Avenue. Feedback can also be provided online at www.Fremont.gov/OpenCity-HallTobacco.

New Version of Fremont Open City Hall

The City of Fremont has launched a new and improved Fremont Open City Hall platform. This updated version allows subscribers to access a sleeker interface to learn more about each new topic the City posts and participate in online survey exercises to share feedback.

As before, the forum will continue to provide information on a variety of city initiatives. The city believes that regularly soliciting community feedback is essential to the decision-making process and development of programs and policies that will enable Fremont to thrive. Open City Hall is run by OpenGov, a nonpartisan company whose mission is to broaden civic engagement and build public trust in government. To share feedback, visit www.Fremont.gov/OpenCity-Hall.

Fremont Boulevard Safe and Smart Corridor Project

The city is working to employ cutting-edge technology along Fremont Boulevard between Paseo Padre Parkway and Cushing Parkway that will alleviate congestion and improve safety for all modes of travelers. Improvements include traffic signal modernization, smart sensors to ensure adequate crossing times at intersections, and signal priority for transit and emergency vehicles.

To learn more about the Fremont Boulevard Smart and Safe Corridor project, the Public Works Department will host a community meeting at 6 p.m. Thursday, July 18 at Centerville Community Center, 3355 Country Drive. For information, visit www.FremontSmartCorridor.org.

Workforce Training Guide is Now Online

The Tri-City Workforce Training Resource is an informational website for adults who need to obtain their GED, as well as those beginning or already established in their career. Since post-secondary education is not just a four-year degree, a variety of training opportunities for adults at different points in their careers are included. The site provides information on GED, English as a second language, and basic skills classes available through local adult schools. The training resource provides access to not only training and educational options in the local area but also to links and other resources available in the Greater Bay Area.

For more information, call Tamara Dehnert at (510) 574-2009 or email TDehnert@Fremont.gov. To explore options for short-term, low-cost educational and training opportunities in the Tri-City Area, visit www.Fremont.gov/WorkForce-Training.

Ban on Fireworks

Fremont’s public safety departments would like to remind residents, businesses and visitors that the sale, possession, and use of all fireworks are banned within the city. This ban includes the “safe and sane” variety of fireworks that are legal in some other cities. Fire and police resources will be on patrol during the peak times of concern to maintain an active vigilance against fireworks use.

In California, possession of illegal fireworks is considered a misdemeanor, which is punishable by a fine of not less than $500 or more than $1,000, or by imprisonment in a county jail for up to one year. If you are found to be in possession of a sufficient amount of illegal fireworks, you may be guilty of a felony and punished by a fine up to $5,000 and/or imprisonment in a state prison or county jail. Parents may be held liable for any damages or injuries caused by their children’s use of illegal fireworks.

Fremont police and fire departments are anticipating a high call volume during the Fourth of July holiday season. We ask that community members help due their part to keep our city safe and dial 911 in case of a true emergency. To report illegal firework use, call the Fremont Police Department Dispatch Center at (510) 790-6800 x3.

Crush Comics recognized as Small Business of the Year

JEFF BARBOSA

Crush Comics, a Castro Valley comic bookstore, was honored on June 19 by Senator Bob Wieckowski (D-Fremont) as the Small Business of the Year for Senate District 10. California Small Business Day is an annual event organized by the California Small Business Association to honor the contributions of small businesses.

“Superheroes are seemingly more popular than ever, and small business owners are some of the real superheroes in our state,” Wieckowski said. “They put their time, talent and energy at work every day to keep their businesses going and serve the needs of their customers. Josh and Andrea Hunter, owners of Crush Comics, are no different. Their passion for comics and their business skills have enabled their store to continue to serve the community since they bought it from the original owner.”

Crush Comics has been serving customers in southern Alameda County since 1990. It sells a large variety of new comics, back issues, trade paperbacks, manga, card games, sport cards, statues, posters, and toys. Crush Comics serves the community by donating to schools and promoting literacy and creativity; it also hosts free events throughout the year.

“We’re so very honored to be selected by Wieckowski for this award,” said Josh Hunter. “We love our community and strive as always to be your friendly neighborhood comic shop.”

Brask House Concerts presents Grammy nominee

WAYNE BRASK

Music has been marked time and time again as a universal language that many emotionally connect to. Wayne and Sue Brask continue to uphold this marking through their Brask House Concerts Series, which provides musicians a personal platform to express themselves in a setting that intimately allows them to do so.

The Brasks were first inspired to start their own concert series in 1997, when they attended a restaurant pub that featured a Celtic group. "The lead singer had a beautiful voice and their music was amazing, but we noticed that it was hard to hear them due to all the background noise like chatting or the grinding of drinks being made," Wayne explains. This led to the pair personally offering the Celtic group an opportunity to perform preview everyone," Wayne states. Sue adds, "We love when artists have a story to share through their lyrics. It's such a talent to be able to tell an entire story within four to five minutes."

A concert is held at Mission Coffee every month (except December). Each show is specifically a listening concert, meaning once the artist begins performing, drink making is halted, along with all conversation from the audience. "We want everyone to enjoy the music and be respectful toward the artist. To have people sit there and listen to them is important to the performers and to us," the Brasks state. On Saturday, June 29 Grammy nominee Maria Muldaur will perform songs from her latest album, "Don't You Feel My Leg." This will be Muldaur's third performance for the Brask Concerts Series.

Muldaur has explored the deepest forms of American Roots music. Her sound is an intersection between blues and jazz. Muldaur's career as a musician has surpassed nearly 50 years. "Music is the thing that moves me more than anything else on this earth. I feel like I could never finish exploring it all," she states. Her popular song "Midnight at the Oasis" garnished much attention in the 1970s, leading to a Grammy nomination for Record of the Year in 1974. Since then, Muldaur has been nominated for many other Grammy categories, from Best Traditional Blues Album to Best Traditional Folk Album.

Muldaur's album, "Don't You Feel My Leg," is a tribute to her dear friend and American jazz and blues singer Blue Lu Barker. Muldaur found inspiration from several outlets for the album, including female empowerment. "Blues women in the 1930s and 1940s were very self-assertive. They wanted to remove gender barriers and were economic warriors that created the lives they wanted for themselves. They've been my main role models," Muldaur states.

The Brask Concerts Series offers a musical escape to those who wish to savor songs that tell significant and remarkable stories. "We want to add to the growing, innovative music scene here in Fremont," the Brasks state. With the success of each stunning and heartwarming performance, the ongoing concert series will surely heighten Fremont's encouragement and admiration toward music.

in their home. Over 20 house concerts highlighting several other artists took place in the Brask household from 1997 to 2005. Sue states, "The most our home could handle was 50 guests. We had one friend of ours attend and stand in the corner of the hallway with his head tilted. He said, 'I'm sorry I'm late but I just had to come.'"

Fremont Mission Coffee owner, Gael Stewart, catered for a Brask House performance held to benefit the Hope Empowerment Renewal and Support (HERS) Breast Cancer Foundation. After witnessing the positive turnout of guests and sensational performances, the Brasks and Stewart decided to collaborate. "Gael approached us and told us she'd always wanted to have live music at her coffee shop. We held our first one in January 2006," Sue states. The Brask House Concerts moved to Mission Coffee and have remained there ever since. From 2006 until today, nearly 174 Brask House performances have been held at Mission Coffee.

The Brask Concerts Series has featured worldwide musicians, from individual artists to whole bands. The genres typically included are folk, jazz, blues, and several others, as the Brasks have a wide, and eclectic taste in music. A few performers have even gone on to play larger platforms, such as the David Letterman show and national PBS. Each artist is carefully selected after the Brasks attend one of their live performances. "It's not enough to just hear their music. We want entertaining performers. We

Thai Classical Dance & Music

SUBMITTED BY DANG GUIO

Wat Buddhansorn, a Thai Buddhist temple, invites the community to its annual fundraising event, "Thai Classical Night," on Saturday, June 29. Enjoy light snacks and Thai classical dances and music performed by students of Wat Buddhansorn School, founded in 1983 after the temple was established. The school teaches Thai language, traditional dance and classical music.

Wat Buddhansorn, a nonprofit religious organization, propagates Buddha's teachings and practices, to promote Thai culture and to serve as a pillar of the Thai community. In addition to the activities of the temple, the monks and supporters are involved in the greater community of Fremont and abroad. They work with the Tri-Cities Ministerial Association; donate food and supplies to local and national charities, and homeless shelters; provide scholarships and meal funds for students in Thai villages; and support traditional Thai medical pharmacies, the Chai Pattana Foundation, and the National Council of Welfare of Thailand.

On Saturday, June 29th, the Milpitas Historical Society is conducting its annual tour of historic sites in Milpitas. We will visit numerous sites riding in an airconditioned tour bus with reserved seating. Society docents provide knowledgeable commentary to participants, who also will receive a multi-page color pamphlet documenting the historic sites. The bus tour is open to the public and free of charge. Pre-registration check-in starts at 9 a.m.

9:30 a.m.: The tour will begin at the Milpitas Library with commentary about the wall photomurals illustrating Milpitas history back to the early 1900s. This will include looking at the encased wood wall from the 1922 Winsor blacksmith shop (demolished in 2005), and the Leapin’ Lena fire engine that saw service from 1947 to 1956. Inside the Library, we will look at what previously were aspects of the 1916 Milpitas Grammar School and the civic spaces it provided afterward. On Main Street itself, participants will learn more of the history of the 1916 Milpitas Grammar School and the 1915 Dr. Renselaer Smith house across the street. The group will pose for a commemorative photo in front of the old Milpitas Grammar School entrance.

10:30 a.m.: The group will board the bus to proceed to the historic intersection of Serra Way and Main St. (originally Alviso Road and Mission Road). Our docent will relate the importance of that historic location and talk about various businesses that served the community going back to the 1850s. 11:30 a.m.: From there the tour will travel to the José Alviso Adobe Park to learn about the adobe residence on what was the 1835 4,458-acre Mexican land grant, Rancho Milpitas. The group will walk around the property to learn about and examine various outbuildings with our docent. 12:30 p.m.: We will proceed by bus a short distance on Piedmont Rd to the historic (now closed to the general public) 1902 St. John the Baptist Catholic Cemetery where many Milpitas pioneer families are buried. 2 p.m.: The tour bus will return to the Milpitas Library. To reserve a seat on the tour bus or to obtain additional information, call (408) 262-7979. Anyone without a reservation wanting to join the tour on June 29th is welcome. After the check-in process is complete, we will add registrants on standby status to fill any empty seats resulting from cancellations and no-shows. Last-minute participants will be gladly added to the tour bus if seating is still available. Please note that the bus has been over-reserved the previous three years. Ensure your space in the tour... reserve a seat soon!

Hayward brewery honored at small business celebration

ARTICLE AND PHOTO SUBMITTED BY TOMASA DUENAS

In a vote of confidence in local businesses, Assemblyman Bill Quirk (D-Hayward) recently selected Buffalo Bill’s Brewery in Hayward as his 2019 Small Business of the Year Honoree. To mark the occasion on June 19 Geoff Harries, owner of Buffalo Bills Brewery, joined Quirk in Sacramento for a luncheon and ceremony. “Small businesses play such a critical role in our economy. They create jobs — employing half of our state’s private workforce, they generate taxes, support important industry sectors, and revitalize communities,” said Quirk, “we must support small businesses so that they can start, grow, and stay in California.” Buffalo Bill’s, one of the first brewpubs in America, opened in 1983 and helped launch the burgeoning craft beer movement across the United States. Their advocacy efforts were instrumental in the passing of landmark legislation in California that allowed brewers to sell to the consumer directly in a restaurant setting. Bill Owens, previous owner of Buffalo Bill’s, continued to advocate for the extension of this bill across the 50 states and prompted a nationwide surge of beer pubs and microbreweries. “It’s a great honor to have Buffalo Bill’s Brewery recognized by the California Assembly. After 36 years, it’s a testament to the dedicated and hardworking employees of Buffalo Bill’s who are the real recipients of this award. Many thanks to my team and to Bill Quirk,” said Harries upon receiving the award. Having started as a homebrewer going on to win awards, Harries has carried on the brewing legacy and continues to put Buffalo Bill’s on the map. In 2018, Buffalo Bills got inducted into the Smithsonian American history Museum as one of the most historic brewpubs in America. Harries is now embarking on his newest venture, Russel City Distillery.

“Buffalo Bill’s is my favorite local brewery. You can feel the family environment when you come into the establishment — something I know trickles down from Geoff. He has such an incredible work ethic, I am just thrilled to have him and Buffalo Bill’s in Hayward and not at all surprised he is being highlighted at the Smithsonian,” said Quirk.

Union City native supports U.S. Navy nuclear deterrence

A 2013 James Logan High School graduate and Union City, California, native in the U.S. Navy supports the nation’s nuclear deterrence mission. Petty Officer 2nd Class Shayne Erizel Santos Buck is a

Navy aviation structural mechanic serving with Strategic Communications Wing One, a versatile command capable of consisting of three Navy squadrons and a Wing staff that employs over 1,700 active-duty sailors and 100 contractors to provide maintenance, security, operations, administration, training, and logistic support for the E-6B Mercury aircraft fleet. Buck is responsible for working on the E-6 B Mercury aircraft.

Buck credits success in the Navy to many of the lessons learned growing up in Union City. “Being exposed to the diverse community made me more aware that people come from many backgrounds and not everyone gets to experience that growing up,” said Buck. The mission stems from the original 1961 Cold War order known as ‘Take Charge and Move Out!’ Adapted as TACAMO and now the command’s nickname, today, the men and women of TACAMO continue to provide a survivable communication link between national decision makers and the nation’s nuclear weapons. Sailors aboard TACAMO E-6 Mercury aircraft provide the one-of-a-kind and most-survivable communication needed for this critical mission.

“It is a very small community, so you get to know all of your colleagues,” said Buck. “It is much different than working on an aircraft carrier with 5,000 crew members.” The Navy’s presence aboard an Air Force base in the middle of America [Tinker Air Force Base, Oklahoma] may seem like an odd location given its distance from any ocean; however, the central location allows for the deployment of aircraft to both coasts and the Gulf of Mexico on a moment’s notice. This quick response is key to the success of the nuclear deterrence mission. “Serving has been an honor,” said Buck. “It’s definitely an experience I would recommend for those graduating high school needing some guidance and discipline.”

MY CHOICE IS WTMF,

because I have an entire network of specialists to help me treat my patients.

Doctors join the Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF) for lots of reasons. Dr. Vanessa Wilson always enjoyed the challenge of Internal Medicine because “it’s an investigational discipline requiring that a physician understand all the body’s systems, analyze the patient’s problem and formulate the correct treatment.” Being part of WTMF makes it easier to connect with both her patients and their other doctors on EPIC, and confer with any of her colleagues about patient care. She treats a wide variety of patients—many with multi-organ issues—and likes getting consults quickly from physicians she knows and trusts while maintaining continuity of care between providers. That’s one reason why Dr. Wilson recommends WTMF to all her friends and family members. “WTMF is very selective about their doctors. Everyone follows high care standards and practices evidence-based medicine.” Does your doctor choose WTMF?
