FREMONT SYMPHONY presents

Symphonic Sinatra

STARRING BRIAN DUPREY

SUBMITTED BY PAUL IANNACONE

Jung-Ho Pak Artistic Advisor and conductor of Fremont Symphony presents Brian Duprey in Symphonic Sinatra, Sunday, July 14 at 3 p.m. at James Logan Center for the Performing Arts, Union City. When Brian Duprey sings Frank Sinatra classics, those listening might swear they were hearing Ol' Blue Eyes himself. At least that's what happened to Frank's own daughter, Nancy Sinatra, when she first heard Brian's voice on the Howard Stern Radio.

The show will be conducted by Jung-Ho Pak, who became Artistic Advisor and Conductor of the Fremont Symphony in 2018. His goal is to create a "passionate synergy" between himself and the orchestra that's "palpable to the audience." To accomplish his mission, Jung-Ho crafted a season ranging from Broadway's best to Tchaikovsky's masterpiece, Romeo and Juliet. Symphonic Sinatra is the season's culmination, featuring the finest Sinatra entertainer of our times in an evening of Frank's greatest hits including "My Way," "Luck Be A Lady," "Strangers In The Night," "Fly me to the Moon," and "Come Fly With Me."

Third Thursdays are going to be a hit with the 2019 "Downtown Hayward Street Parties." If you missed the first in the series on June 20, don't worry about being a little late to the party. The fun continues on July 18 and August 15. Bring your friends and family to enjoy live bands, food, classic car show, street entertainers, kids' rides, Alan the Amazing, and face painters. Brews will be served in the beer garden adjacent the Bank of the West Stage.

At the July party, the B Street Main Stage will feature Third Sol while Mitch Polzak and the Royal Deuces perform at the Bistro Patio and attendees will find Mission Dilirium at the Newman Park Stage. Additional stage performances include DJ Robert Hoffman's Club Nowhere at the

Russell City Blues festival

SUBMITTED BY RONNIE STEWART

Each summer, a variety of artists bring the lively sound of Blues to downtown Hayward. The "Hayward/Russell City Blues festival" is a celebration honoring the rich Blues tradition of our area.

Although the unincorporated area known as Russell City started out as a primarily Danish farming community in the mid-1800s, an influx of Latino and African Americans made the area part of the Blues scene during the late 1930s and onward. Russell City always had a rich musical culture, with seven churches of various denominations, each with at least one choir, some with up to four.

Fitness over 40, Advice from Sports Medicine Specialist

It's officially summer and you realize you've put on a few pounds during the winter. The nice weather has inspired you to start a serious exercise routine, but it's been some years since you've consistently exercised and now you are 40 (or older) and not as in shape as you were 20 years ago. What's the best way to start exercising again without causing injury or becoming discouraged after a few days?

Getting Started

If it's been more than six months since you've exercised seriously, you should start slowly, according to Dr. Steve Zonner, a Washington Hospital board-certified Family Medicine and Sports Medicine specialist. "It is important to get your muscles loosened up and get your body adjusted to the increased activity." He suggests starting first with brisk walking and stretching.

When you begin walking, choose a distance that's comfortable for you and one you can consistently maintain for 15 minutes a day, five days a week, advises Dr. Zonner. Keep it short so that you can complete it each day. He notes the first stage should last at least three weeks. "The goal you set should be easy to attain; it will make you feel better when you achieve your exercise goal each day. The human body was meant to move, and the key to physical and mental health is to get back the enjoyment of purposeful activity."

After the first three weeks, add distance/time and increase your pace—but in reasonable increments that continue to be achievable so you stay motivated to exercise daily. At each three-week increment, set new goals to challenge yourself. Dr. Zonner warns against the "weekend warrior syndrome" where you try to do too much in one weekend of activity.

"You'll be surprised at how much better and stronger you feel as you increase the program," he notes. "The benefits of consistent exercise are well documented. The most important thing is to get started at a pace and level that is sustainable so you can see improvement in your fitness."

Importance of Stretching

Dr. Zonner advises that stretching every day—even on the days you are not exercising—is important to build flexibility and avoid injury. "The benefits of stretching are often overlooked, yet stretching is very important to keeping one's body in shape for continued regular exercise." Dr. Zonner also notes using a foam roller may help loosen your muscles. "You can see various foam roller exercises on YouTube (make sure you use the beginner exercises), but basically you should put the roller on the floor, parallel to your thigh, as you lay on it over the outside of your hip and buttock. Next, roll back and forth over the roller to begin to work those muscles. If you're not having lower back pain, you can also try placing the foam roller perpendicular to your spine and start rolling up from your buttocks along the very lowest part of your lower back. There should be a satisfying stretching sensation or deep massage-like feeling, not any severe pain."

Keys to Success

Dr. Zonner's keys to a successful exercise program include: start slowly, build flexibility, hydrate, increase intensity slowly and stretch daily. Also, "Make sure your shoes have good arch support, wear comfortable exercise clothing, and hydrate, hydrate, hydrate before and during your exercise program." Water is adequate unless you are sweating profusely, then you may need a sports drink that contains electrolytes, such as Gatorade.

Keep Things Interesting

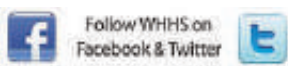

If you find yourself becoming bored, change the scenery. Use the gym at your local community center, ride a stationary bike, or walk the same route in a different direction. Some gyms offer water aerobics classes which are an excellent exercise for those who enjoy the water. Or, just "walking laps" in a pool with the water up to your waist provides enough resistance to be good aerobic exercise too.

Dr. Zonner cautions against taking up weight lifting without professional instruction. "It's too easy to overdo and hurt yourself — which then will take you away from exercising while you recover." Pilates and tai chi are good core strength training and balance enhancement alternatives to incorporate into a sustained exercise program, he adds.

He recommends "planks" for those who wish to build up core body strength. To create a plank, start by kneeling on the

Babies Do Not Come With Instruction Manuals—Classes Can Help

Washington Hospital offers array of educational classes to prepare parents for labor, delivery and care for newborns

This is your first child and you and your spouse are nervous about how it is all going to go. What about breastfeeding? Is it as easy as others say? Should you worry when the baby cries? What if he/she doesn’t sleep as much as the books say an infant normally sleeps?

Or, if you are an experienced parent with an older child, what are the best ways to deal with and minimize sibling issues? What if you are about to have twins — or even triplets — and you are looking for advice on how best to manage caring for multiple infants at the same time?

Washington Hospital’s Maternal Child Education Center offers programs and seminars to meet these and other concerns of new and experienced parents. Programs range from preparation for a new baby to a popular support group for new parents. Classes also include a workshop for babysitters and how to continue breastfeeding once back at work. Most programs charge a participation fee.

“New parents and parents-to-be, as well as more experienced parents, can find programs to help them through this major life event. While some may benefit from the breastfeeding program, others may enjoy prenatal yoga or CPR for family and friends,” says Shayna Mann, office manager of the Maternal Child Education Center staff.

The free Baby ‘n’ Me Support Group is open to moms and babies from birth to one year. Mann says the drop-in program, with its “come as you are, as often as you like” invitation is an excellent way for moms to share the trials and joys of living with a new baby.

The free Babysitting Workshop is open to boys and girls, ages 12-17. Students learn how to be effective babysitters. Topics include safety strategies, how to entertain children of different ages, how to deal with injuries and emergencies, among other topics. Certificates are distributed at the completion of the course. While the workshop is free, registration is required (see contact information below).

Other popular programs include:

Prepared Childbirth, a series of programs for couples in the last trimester of pregnancy offers detailed information about preparing for labor. Subject matter includes: signs and symptoms of labor, stages of labor, relaxation and breathing techniques, the coach’s role, variations in labor, analgesics and anesthetics, cesarean birth, the basics of breastfeeding, and postpartum recovery tips. The center offers a variety of programs within this category to meet the schedules and needs of participants. These include:

- Prepared Childbirth/Comprehensive Class: Once a week for four weeks, three hours for each class. One full class period is devoted to the basics of breastfeeding. Fee $150.
- Prepared Childbirth/Intensive Class: Two six-hour Sunday classes that also include the basics of breastfeeding. Fee $150.
- Prepared Childbirth/Saturday Express: One all-day

Being new parents can sometimes be overwhelming. Washington Hospital offers low-cost classes and support groups to all members of the community.

Saturday session that does not include breastfeeding. A separate breastfeeding class is recommended. Fee $150.

- Prepared Childbirth/Refresher Class: For the mother and coach who have taken Prepared Childbirth classes within the last three to five years. Information about sibling adjustment also is discussed. Fee $90.00

CPR for Family and Friends is an American Heart Association course teaching adults rescue breathing (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) and how to relieve choking in infants and children. Fee $30 each.

Becoming New Parents is a one-time, three-hour workshop offering sensible tips, demonstration and information on caring for your infant in those first important months. Fee $50.

Other programs offered include: Crawler’s Group; Infant Massage; Prenatal Breastfeeding; Mastering Multiples; Big Brother/Big Sister; Back to Work Breastfeeding; Prenatal Yoga and Prenatal Bollywood Fitness (light cardio/stretching).

All programs are open to dads, except the support group which is limited to moms only.

For more information about programs offered by the Maternal Child Education Center, please call (510) 818-5040 or email maternalchildeducation@whhs.com. All programs are held at the Maternal Child Education Center, in the Washington West building, 2500 Mowry Ave., Fremont. The center is open Monday-Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

FREMONT SYMPHONY presents Symphonic Sinatra STARRING BRIAN DUPREY

“With one song, Brian establishes that he not only has Sinatra’s sound, but his gift for phrasing” - Duluth News Tribune

“He’s got it down!” Nancy Sinatra

As the lead actor in the hit musical, "The Rat Pack is Back," Brian spent 15 years perfecting his craft in Las Vegas and in over 200 Performing Arts Centers and Casinos across the country. His lead role and creative development of the show built a 48-state tour and secured of tile of Best Tribute Show of Las Vegas in 2014.

Showered with awards and recognition for his live and recorded performances, Brian Duprey had his big break on FOX TV’s “Performing As,” where he won top prize by portraying his idol, Frank Sinatra. Brian has been featured on CSI Las Vegas, The History Channel, NBA Allstar Jam, and the hit movie Get Him to The Greek. He also opened for the likes of Paul Anka and the cast of HBO’s “The Sopranos” and wowed specials guests like Steve Wynn at The Smith Center in Las Vegas.

With breathtaking stage charisma, sparkling blue eyes, and a velvet baritone voice, Brian Duprey truly embodies “Frankie Boy.” To reserve seats for the Fremont Symphony’s Symphonic Sinatra, call the symphony box office at (510) 371-4859 or online at www.fremontsymphony.org.

Russell City Blues festival

Saturday nights, clubs were filled with the sounds of the Blues and Sunday mornings, churches were filled with the sounds of Gospel. Many influential musicians passed through Russell City. Ray Charles, Big Mama Thornton, and Lowell Fulson are just some of the names known to play the clubs.

West Coast Blues music eventually influenced traditional sounds when horns replaced the harmonica. Russell City is a landmark on the map of American's contributions to world culture giving Hayward a unique musical leg reflecting the African-American experience. In 1999, the West Coast Blues Society initiated the Hayward-Russell City Blues Festival, a celebration honoring the rich Blues tradition of the area.

2019 marks the festival's 20th anniversary. This year's lineup will include, among a host of Blues stars and legends: Lonnie Shields, Queen Iretta Sanders, Blues Harmonica Explosion, and Russell City Memorial Blues Band (featuring Lee Ashford). The roster will change from Saturday to Sunday, so please check online which day your favorite artists will be performing.

The festival is a joint venture between the City of Hayward and the West Coast Blues Society. Taking place in July annually, the festival is an excellent opportunity to spend time with family and friends in Downtown Hayward while experiencing an important piece of Hayward's history. Advance two-day tickets (including a BBQ meal) are $50, while admission for one day is $35 or $30 for students and seniors (with a $5 discount for those purchasing in advance).

Message from Ronnie K. Stewart,
Executive Director of the West Coast Blues Society and Director and Creator of the 20th Annual Hayward/Russell City Blues Festival:

With great sadness I must tell you that after 20 years, the Hayward Russell City Blues Festival will be discontinued due to lack of adequate funding. Our plans are to create a 3- to 4-week Hayward Russell City Blues Concert Series at the new Library Plaza on C Street in Hayward. We will continue to perpetuate the great musical Legacy of Russell City which featured such artists as Etta James, Jimmy McCracklin, Big Mama Thornton, Ray Charles T- Bone Walker and more... the list is too long to mention everyone. BLUES ALWAYS!

New Haven Unified School District
Superintendent retires

BY ROELLE BALAN

People can say they care about kids. But not everyone can show it like Dr. Arlando Smith has his whole career. He was the superintendent of New Haven Unified School District for two years and co-superintendent for four. But his life, his legacy, can be seen through the admiration of students.

Smith grew up in South Los Angeles. Most of the teachers in his life left a good impression on him. He was set on teaching middle school because he had a wonderful experience with those teachers. "But when I got to high school, I didn't really enjoy high school. The teachers weren't very accommodating, they were not very warm," he said. "I decided to teach high school because I wanted to do for high school students what the teachers in junior high did for me. I wanted to give that life," he said.

Smith's career was straightforward. He graduated from Cal State Fullerton with a bachelor's degree in political science, then received a master's in the same subject. After earning a master's degree, he taught political science at Cal State Fullerton for four years, part time, while also teaching high school. He then received a doctorate degree from the University of La Verne.

Smith has a passion for students and it showed. When he was a high school teacher, he took on many roles. "I was a coach, I was a club advisor, I was the activities director, I was the leadership teacher," he said. "I would always have kids at my home. During breaks I used to take kids to Dodger's games, I was the Chess Club advisor." Smith was a support system for students. "They used to do a survey at the end of every year, and they would say, where is your favorite place to eat lunch? My room was always number one and McDonald's was number two."

As principal at Gunderson High School in San Jose, Smith also made an impact. "We had close to 1,700 students, and my reputation was I knew every student's name in the school," he said. Smith said he loved the kids there. "They were warm, funny, compassionate, kind. Very supportive, they helped turn the campus around. It was not a very friendly place when I got there. I used to say 'Every day, tell someone you love them.' They would buy into that and you'd see kids being kind and hugging each other; it was a very good place."

When asked how he became superintendent, Smith burst into laughter. "Being superintendent was not in my plans." However, he did such a great job as principal, Smith ended up becoming a principal coach and mentor for new principals and superintendents.

Smith's wife, Wendy Gudalewicz, suggested he move from teaching at San Jose State to New Haven Unified School District to facilitate meetings and start a network of non-profit organizations, known as Union City Family Center. Gudalewicz was working as Chief Academic Officer of New Haven at the time. She became superintendent in Cupertino and Smith took her position at New Haven. After a year in that position, he was selected as a co-superintendent in 2013, later becoming superintendent in 2017.

He is an advocate of collaborative leadership and letting teachers do the work. "The people closest to the work should be the people who have a lot of input into the work, and so, as we built the collaborative efforts, teacher leadership rose to the top."

Asked about the impact of the recent teacher strike at New Haven Unified School District, Smith said, "I don't necessarily feel good about the last six months, but I would say in the totality of 44 years, I'm not going let that last six months jaundice what the first 43 and a half years were like."

Smith's core belief is, "School revolves around students, and we have a constitutional responsibility to give them the best we have to offer." Referring to his career experience, he said, "I have loved what I was able to do and what I was able to learn."

His retirement plans include taking piano lessons again after a long break, tackling a list of 70 books he wants to read, spending time with his grandchildren, taking trips with his wife, going to silent retreats, meditating, and playing golf.

Irvington Area Plan Update

On June 27, the Fremont Planning Commission recommended approval of the proposed Irvington BART Station Area Plan, which includes the commercial area in the Irvington Town Center along Washington and Fremont Boulevards and the residential area along Osgood Road. The plan will now go to the Fremont City Council on July 16 for a final review and decision.

The planning commission's consideration of the plan had been carried forward from a previous meeting in order to give time to review one of the commissioner's request for several changes. City staff reviewed the changes and presented its findings, which the planning commission accepted as part of its recommendation. The vote was 5 ayes, 1 nay, with 1 seat vacant.

What's the plan?

The plan incorporates the same general plan land use designations, zoning requirements, and basic layout that have been in effect since 2011. The question is whether the plan is the best way to develop the area, and whether the plan would be able to deal with the problems that could arise?

The BART station would be at the southwest corner of Washington and Osgood with access for cars, busses, and pedestrians. Instead of parking capacity for about 900 private vehicles, BART has decided they would provide parking for only about 300 vehicles. According to city staff, this reduction was intended to discourage I-680 commuters from using the station. To prevent commuters from parking on the nearby streets, the city would require local residents to obtain permits to park in front of their houses.

West of the station, the plan would allow development of buildings up to five- or six-stories tall on both sides of Washington and along Fremont north to Chapel. Under the current standards, some of the buildings could have commercial spaces on the ground floors and residential units on the upper floors. Other buildings could have office spaces on all floors or residential units on all floors. New townhouse developments would not be allowed. City staff emphasized that developers have not submitted any formal plans for this area yet.

South of the station along a half-mile stretch of Osgood, the plan would require high-rise, urban-density housing on both sides of the street. New townhouses or lower-density housing would not be allowed. The plan for this area also defines details of architecture and site planning to make the individual developments blend with each other and to minimize the number of driveways. The plan is a Transit Oriented Development housing area, and it is expected that many people who live in the area would walk or take a bus to use BART.

Residents speak out

During the planning commission meeting, several residents voiced their feelings about the Irvington BART Station Area Plan – some were for it, and others against.

Traffic was one of the biggest concerns. Despite the plan's conclusion that the estimated 3,700 daily BART riders using the station would not cause a significant increase in traffic, many residents disagreed. Others expressed concerns that the proposed resident parking permit program would place an unfair burden on the local residents and would not be effective in preventing commuter parking on the streets surrounding the station.

The impact on the Irvington Town Center was another concern. The plan would encourage construction of 65-foot-high buildings out to the edge of the sidewalks, but residents said that was too tall and the new buildings would dwarf the Leal Theatre, Odd Fellows Hall, and other historic landmarks in the Five Corners area.

Some residents went so far as to say the Irvington BART station wasn't needed and shouldn't be built. They pointed out that funding for the station is still $50-$60 million short, and the Warm Springs station is just a five-minute bus ride away.

All residents are encouraged to email their comments about the Irvington BART Station Area Plan to City Staff Planner Wayland Li at wli@fremont.gov or to attend the city council meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 16 at 3300 Capitol Avenue

Zuckerberg says company ‘evaluating’ deepfake video policy

By BARBARA ORTUTAY
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg says the company is evaluating how it should handle “deepfake” videos created with artificial intelligence and high-tech tools to yield false but realistic clips.

In an interview at the Aspen Ideas Festival in Colorado on Wednesday, Zuckerberg said it might make sense to treat such videos differently from other misinformation such as false news. Facebook has long held that it should not decide what is and isn't true, leaving such calls instead to outside fact-checkers.

But Zuckerberg says it's worth asking whether deepfakes are a “completely different category” from regular false statements. He says developing a policy on these videos is “really important” as AI technology grows more sophisticated.

Facebook, like other social media companies, does not have a specific policy against deepfakes, whose potential threat has emerged only in the last couple of years. Company executives have said in the past that it makes sense to look at them under the broader umbrella of false or misleading information. But Zuckerberg is signaling that this view might be changing, leaving open the possibility that Facebook might ban deepfakes altogether.

Doing so, of course, could get complicated. Satire, art and political dissent could be swept up in any overly broad ban, creating more headaches from Facebook.

Other false videos could still get a pass. For instance, the recent altered video of House Speaker Nancy Pelosi that made her sound like she was slurring her words does not meet the definition of a deepfake.

MAD magazine leaving newsstands after 67-year run (Really!)

By RACHEL LERMAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

MAD, the long-running satirical magazine that influenced everyone from “Weird Al” Yankovic to the writers of “The Simpsons,” will be leaving newsstands after its August issue. Really.

The illustrated humor magazine – instantly recognizable by the gap-toothed smiling face of mascot Alfred E. Neuman – will still be available in comic shops and through mail to subscribers. But after its fall issue it will just reprint previously published material.

The only new material will come in special editions at the end of the year.

DC, the division of Warner Brothers that publishes the magazine, said MAD will pull from nostalgic cartoons and parodies published over the magazine's 67-year run.

As Neuman would say, “What, me worry?” Worry not, for MAD has more than 550 issues packed full of political parodies and edgy humor to pull from.

The magazine set itself apart as a cultural beacon for decades with its unabashed tendency to make fun of anything and push conventional boundaries. One of MAD's best known comic series, Spy vs. Spy, featured two spies with beak-like faces and big eyes – costumes that are still regularly worn on Halloween.

It even seemingly parodied fellow popular magazine Playboy, with its Fold-In feature that appeared in nearly every issue. But instead of featuring scantily-clad models, the Fold-In printed – what else? – another joke.

DC will keep publishing MAD special collections and books.

Illustrators and comedians, including one-time guest editor Yankovic, mourned the magazine's effective closure.

“It's pretty much the reason I turned out weird,” he wrote on Twitter.

Josh Weinstein, a writer and producer of “The Simpsons” – which has referenced MAD many times – thanked the magazine on Twitter for its inspiring effect on eras of comedy.

“There was a moment in so many of our childhoods where you were the greatest thing ever,” he wrote.

Comedian Harry Shearer, the voice of several characters on “The Simpsons,” cracked on Twitter: “An American institution has closed. And who wants to live in an institution?”

When President Donald Trump referred to Democratic presidential candidate Pete Buttigieg as Neuman, while insisting he wouldn't be fit to serve as president, the 37-year-old candidate said he had to Google the reference.

“I guess it's just a generational thing,” Buttigieg told Politico. “I didn't get the reference.”

Cartoonist Evan Dorkin, who worked for MAD, wrote on Twitter that the magazine was long a source of happiness and inspiration for him.

“I hope we provided some smiles to some readers of the past 12 yrs,” he wrote.

The magazine changed as its circumstances did, he wrote, including when the magazine began printing advertisements in 2001 and when it moved from New York City to Burbank, California, at the end of 2017. That move warped MAD's identity, Dorkin said.

MAD was long a venue for comic artists and cartoonists to grow artistically and shape national conversation. Well-known names such as Al Jaffee, Harvey Kurtzman and Mort Drucker were associated with the magazine for decades.

California becomes first state to ban hairstyle discrimination

By KATHLEEN RONAYNE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Gavin Newsom signed into law Wednesday a bill making California the first state to ban workplace and school discrimination against black people for wearing hairstyles such as braids, twists and locks.

The law by Democratic Sen. Holly Mitchell of Los Angeles, a black woman who wears her hair in locks, makes California the first state to explicitly say that those hairstyles are associated with race and therefore protected against discrimination in the workplace and in schools.

“We are changing the course of history, hopefully, across this country by acknowledging that what has been defined as professional hair styles and attire in the workplace has historically been based on a Euro-centric model – based on straight hair,” Mitchell said.

Stephanie Hunter-Ray, who works at a makeup counter, says she typically wears her hair braided or in an afro, but one day she showed up to work with it straightened and styled in a bob. Her manager told Hunter-Ray her hair had never looked so normal.

“It bothered me,” Hunter-Ray said in an interview at the hair salon she owns in Sacramento that specializes in natural hair styles. “What do you mean by ‘normal?’ Your normal is not my normal. My normal is my ‘fro or my braids.”

Alikah Hatchett-Fall, who runs Sacred Crowns Salon in Sacramento, said she's had black men come into her salon asking to have their hair cut off because they can't find jobs.

The law, she said, “means that psychologically and mentally people can be at ease and be able to get the jobs they want, keep the jobs they want, and get promoted at the jobs they want.”

California's new law, which takes effect Jan. 1, is significant because federal courts have historically held that hair is a characteristic that can be changed, meaning there's no basis for discrimination complaints based on hairstyle. The U.S. Supreme Court recently declined to hear the case of an Alabama woman who said she didn't get a job because she refused to change her hair.

The issue burst into public view last December, when a black high school wrestler in New Jersey was told by a referee that he had to cut off his dreadlocks if he wanted to compete. California's Democratic governor said the video was a clear example of the discrimination black Americans face.

“His decision whether or not to lose an athletic competition or lose his identity came into, I think, stark terms for millions of Americans,” Newsom said before signing the bill alongside Mitchell and half a dozen advocates. “That is played out in workplaces, it's played out in schools – not just athletic competitions and settings – every single day all across America in ways subtle and overt.”

Though California is the first state with such a law, New York City earlier this year issued legal guidance banning discrimination against someone based on their hairstyle. The beauty company Dove is part of a coalition pushing for more hairstyle protections, and Mitchell said she hopes other states follow California.

Mitchell's bill adds language to the state's discrimination laws to say that “race” also includes “traits historically associated with race,” including hair texture and protective hairstyles. It further defines protective hairstyles as braids, twists and locks.

The term locks, or “locs,” is the preferred term to dreadlocks, which has a derogatory connotation.

At Hunter-Ray's studio, Exquisite U, on Wednesday, her stylists and customers reflected on the new law.

Shereen Africa, who was having her hair re-braided by Elicia Drayton, said she used to work at a television station in Mississippi where a black anchor quit after facing resistance to wearing her hair in locks. Africa said she did not wear her hair in braids at the job, even though she wasn't on air, because the environment wasn't supportive of it.

“If I'm in a professional setting, I won't wear my hair in certain ways,” she said.

An anchor at a different Mississippi TV station made national news when she said she was fired after she stopped straightening her hair.

“You want to go to work and feel free,” Drayton said. “You don't want to have to feel like you have to put on a wig, or you have to have your hair straight to please someone else.”

California Senate approves homelessness, housing bill

BY ANDREW OXFORD
ASSOCIATED PRESS

The California Senate approved on Monday what some lawmakers have called a carrot-and-stick approach to the state’s housing crunch by setting aside $2.4 billion to address housing and homelessness while setting up a process to punish cities that consistently flout the state’s housing policies.

The plan comes amid tensions between housing rights advocates and local governments they accuse of taking a “not in my back yard” attitude to housing even as rents increase, home prices rise beyond reach for many and a growing number of people take to sleeping on the streets across the state.

Assembly Bill 101 incentivizes the construction of housing in some areas and sets aside $650 million in the state budget to address homelessness. It also attempts to allow for faster construction of homeless shelters by scrapping some environmental reviews and making it harder for local officials to delay projects.

While the state is pouring hundreds of millions of dollars into addressing homelessness, plans for some new homeless shelters are getting bogged down in court.

“The timelines need to be shorter,” said Senate Majority Leader Bob Hertzberg, a Democrat from Van Nuys, who bemoaned the length of time it can take to build affordable housing or open homeless shelters.

The plan could also land some communities in court if local governments don’t allow more housing to be built.

Cities and counties that take steps to promote new housing would be deemed “pro-housing” and rewarded with more grant funding for housing and transportation.

Local governments that don’t comply with state housing requirements could face court-imposed fines. In some cases, the court could take over a local government’s authority to issue housing permits.

“There is a law, and you’ve got to abide by the law,” Gov. Gavin Newsom told reporters. “And if you don’t, it’s nice to have a tool to encourage you along. And that’s all this is.”

The state Senate passed the bill by a vote of 39-0, and it is expected to win approval in the Assembly later this week.

Still, the plan amounted to something of a compromise after Newsom’s administration sued one city earlier this year over its compliance with the state’s housing policies, and local governments raised concerns about state government overreach. Some counties worried they would not get a fair share of money to address homelessness.

Housing has emerged as one of the most contentious issues of California’s legislative session. Surveys released over the last several months have shown increases in homelessness across California, and neighboring states are seeing an influx of Californians leaving, in part, a high cost of living.

Some lawmakers argued the bill would not address the cost of building in California and does not do enough to prevent homelessness by helping renters, raising bigger issues of housing that have proven politically fraught.

The biggest housing bill still standing would cap rent increases at 7% plus the rate of inflation for homes older than 10 years.

That bill’s author, Assemblyman David Chiu, D-San Francisco, said Monday he would amend it to include tighter rules on evicting tenants, giving another shot to a separate piece of legislation that sputtered in the Assembly amid heavy opposition.

But the most sweeping proposals have sputtered, such as legislation that would have overridden local zoning laws to allow the construction of more multi-family housing in some areas.

Backers blamed the failure of that bill on pushback from local governments and a “not in my backyard” attitude. But some cities argued it would represent an overreach by the state government and potentially change the character of existing neighborhoods.

Associated Press writer Adam Beam contributed reporting.

Facebook to make jobs, credit ads searchable

BY FRANK BAJAK
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITER

Facebook says it plans to make advertisements for U.S. jobs and loans and credit card offers searchable for all users.

That’s in addition to how the social media giant currently delivers ads – customized for individuals based on data harvested from their digital activity.

Creation of the jobs and credit databases is a voluntary expansion by Facebook of a legal settlement it reached in March following lawsuits complaining of age, race, gender and other discrimination blamed on Facebook’s highly customized ad-targeting.

As part of that settlement, Facebook agreed to make its U.S. housing ads searchable by location and advertiser.

An internal audit Facebook published Sunday says that database will be ready by year’s end. Audit leader Laura Murphy says she expects the jobs and credit products databases to be available within the next year.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JULY 10 – JULY 16, 2019

For All Signs: This period is generally stressful because it is the valley between two eclipses. The first eclipse was on July 2 and the upcoming full moon eclipse is on July 16, representing crises that must be addressed. In addition, we have Mercury retrograding that symbolizes communications errors, computer snafus, problems with transportation, and challenges to our decision making. It may seem as though everything important is in a state of suspension and we do not know where it is going. Reduce stress by recognizing that you don't have the answers on-hand just this minute and a waiting period is required. Accepting that factor will relieve your mind of trying to force outcomes. Currently, it is best to wait for almost anything rather than pushing things to a premature conclusion.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): A surprise in the areas of resources (money, time, energy) may throw you off balance at the beginning of the week. It may cause anxiety, but you are good at working through emergencies with quick dispatch. Don't let distraction interfere with your concentration while driving or using tools.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): You may be subject to surprise in relation to home, hearth, and family. Someone is shifting gears, maybe even a 180 degree shift in direction. Try not to overreact. Remember that Mercury is retrograde, and most decisions made this month will be reversed or altered soon.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): No matter how well-meaning you are, others may misunderstand and be offended. The issue is over ego. If the other needs to cling to it, let it be. You have a grasp of the big picture and many around you cannot fly in the ethers with you or understand your perspective.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): Between now and the end of July, old issues may surface in any relationship. This time frame is an exercise in truth telling and open discussions of what you know. If you sense that someone, whether you or the other, is not forthright, do your best to create an environment of trust.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): Your life direction is in the midst of a change. Every day brings a new challenge. You are getting new lessons in thinking on your feet and adapting to diversity. This may not be fun now, but the lions can become rigid, so sometimes the habit patterns must be altered. It keeps life interesting.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Monitor your inner critic this week. It may be serving up a plate of neurotic guilt to interfere with your attitude. A better use of this energy calls for rising above the yada, yada of the droning voice. Set it aside and realize it is just the shadow self, trying to keep your attention in a negative place.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): It may be a challenge to get anything accomplished this week. Your lazy side is temporarily taking over. It seems a better idea to eat bonbons and live in the fantasy world of TV and movies. Give yourself a breather. Compensate for the lazies by exercising with vigor.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Plan to work and play alone early in the week. You likely will be feeling restless and generally tense. Your patience could be short, and you might say things you'll wish you hadn't. You have a desire to break free from restraints. It is a short transit. Look for a way to handle this moderately.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): This is a week in which it would be all too easy to slip into self-indulgent behaviors and attitudes. Your usual activities seem to be on hold. The archers like to keep moving forward, never backward or at a standstill. For the present, focus your attention on lightweight activities. You'll feel better and this time will pass soon.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): The weekend brings illumination to things you haven't wanted to know about yourself. Most of us are minimally conscious, so it is a shock to discover that which you did not really know. If you need to make apologies, do so. But self-flogging is not allowed.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): You are probably on a low cycle at this time. This could be affecting you emotionally or physically. Try not to brood. Keep your mind occupied with movies, TV, or good book. Engaging in fantasy is a good antidote for pessimistic thinking.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): Do the best you can to keep business and paperwork in order. You might misfile something that would cost you plenty of time to recover. You have a poetic turn of mind at this time. You likely will enjoy reading spiritual or philosophical material. Follow up on your artistic or musical interests.

Phantom of the Opera

SUBMITTED BY SMITH CENTER AT OHLONE COLLEGE

“The Phantom of the Opera” has taken over the Jackson Theatre (indoors) and his story begins Friday, July 12. Get your tickets to Andrew Lloyd Webber’s masterpiece before a mysterious accident snatches them all.

One of the longest-running musicals on Broadway, and winner of seven Tony awards including Best Musical. The Phantom of the Opera is based on the novel by Gaston Leroux, which tells the story of a hideously deformed phantom who lurks beneath the state of the Paris Opera, exercising a reign of terror over its occupants. The phantom falls in love with the young soprano Christine, devoting himself to creating a new star for the opera by nurturing her extraordinary talents and employing all the skills at his disposal. Though appropriate for all ages, this musical has some dark and possibly scary moments.

Music by Andrew Lloyd Webber, lyrics by Charles Hart with additional lyrics by Richard Stilgoe. Directed by Michael Navarra. The July 25 performance will be ASL interpreted. Event parking is available behind and above the Smith Center in lots A, U, D, and E. You can purchase a parking permit for $4 online with your tickets. A shuttle will run from Lot D up to the theatre before and after the performance.

Seeking kitten fosters

SUBMITTED BY
CITY OF FREMONT

Want to serve your community during the busy summer season? Foster a litter of kittens. The amount of time that kittens are in your care varies from two to seven weeks, depending on how young they are when you start fostering.

Kittens must be kept separate from your resident pets – using a spare bedroom or bathroom for your fosters is ideal. Tri-City Animal Shelter provides initial food and litter and will loan you a kitchen scale for weigh-ins. The shelter will also provide medical support to your litter. To apply and for more information, call the shelter at (510) 790-6630 or visit <http://www.tricityanimalshelter.org/188/Fostering>.

Express to De-Stress

SUBMITTED BY PALLAS WANG

Being a teen means dealing with a variety of stress—whether from school, family, or just the constant stream of dour news that bombards us through social media. One way to deal with stress is to channel inner anxiety into a creative outlet: processing emotions and reaching out to others at the same time. SoundPost offers Bay Area youth ages 12 – 18 (or rising 7-12 graders) the chance to turn negative emotions into positive outreach through their “Express to De-Stress” contest, accepting submissions through Wednesday, July 31.

The SoundPost Youth Foundation was founded in the Silicon Valley in 2014 with the primary goal of creating a platform for youth to utilize their talents - musical or otherwise - and interact with the community. SoundPost assists these students’ developments by providing various activities for them to participate in, and in encouraging them to be independent and recognize their strengths. Through this community engagement and outreach program, SoundPost hopes that its members will gain self-confidence, face challenges bravely, be resourceful, give generously and establish a foundation for a well-rounded life.

Express to Destress has two tiers. For Step 1, all you need to do is fill out a survey about yourself and your current stress level. Step 2, the creative project, teens have the chance to create a 15-second to two-minute inspirational video on how they alleviate stress and stay positive. Humor is a plus! If you’re looking for inspiration, past finalists can be viewed at <http://soundpostcontest.weebly.com/finalist-video-entries.html>.

Why should you join? Well, teens have inevitably experienced high levels of stress in their lives at one point or another, and this contest allows them to utilize their creativity and gives them a break from the harsh realities of school, extracurriculars, and the like to talk exactly about what makes them feel happy and relaxed. What better of a way to spend your time? If that’s not enough, contestants will be eligible for a variety of awards, ranging from raffle prizes (including an AirPods set) to gift cards and $100-300 scholarships.

SoundPost Youth is also looking for Express to Destress (E2D) teen captains to help with outreach for this contest. Responsibilities include inviting 10+ people to participate, doing two to eight hours of outreach, and filling out the survey. In return, you earn some valuable community service hours—and you get to vote on the winners. An awards ceremony will be held on Wednesday, September 11 at the Tech Museum of Innovation in San Jose.

Visit <http://soundpostyouth.org/express-to-de-stress.html> for more details and to enter! Or email questions to soundpostyouth@gmail.com.

A woofing good time at Niles Dog Show

BY MARISOL CABRERA
NILES DOG SHOW

It's that time of the year again! Summer is in full swing, and that means that the Niles Main Street Association will again host hold their annual Pooch Pow-Wow. Families and pet lovers are welcome to enter their canines in fun competitions at the 21st

"Niles Dog Show" scheduled for Saturday, July 20 in Niles Community Park (Fremont). Family pets are welcome to the event, and any breed of dog may enter the competitions, regardless of pedigree. The event will feature a doggie water park, Police K-9 demonstrations, rescue adoption along with food vendors for families and their beloved pets as well as exciting prize drawings and goodie bags. Competitions include best costume, best dog/person look-a-like, prettiest female, handsomest male, and most unusual mix. Best in show will be chosen by a panel of judges. A $5 pancake breakfast at the Ambrose Butchery booth is an added bonus for early attendees.

The Niles Main Street Association has dedicated every summer in July since 1998 to this event led by longtime Fremont resident, Turquoise Shop owner and Niles Main Street Committee member, Don Dewey. Dewey and fellow committee members spend months each year making sure that this event runs smoothly and its longevity has created a tradition in the Niles District and City of Fremont. Niles Dog Show committee member, George Spindler has created a binder of information to assure information and considerations from years of experience at previous shows point the way toward a successful show this year. He explains that the dog show is an important asset to the community.

"It's for dog owners and dog lovers. It's got three [reasons].

First, it's to teach your own animals. Second, it's to raise money for Ohlone [Humane Society]. The third [reason] would be to support Niles Main Street Association."

Some of the most memorable costumes that committee members shared as they remembered past competitors ranged from a dachshund in a hot dog bun, a dog dressed like a plumber, two pugs dressed as Mexican wrestlers, and a dog dressed in graduation attire. "[Dog owners are] really creative... it's not just always buying a costume, its thinking stuff up," said Niles Main Street Committee member Rosanne Dudley.

The Fremont Police Department will bring in their K-9 team for a live session to "capture the criminal" and demonstrate how dogs work within SWAT, Narcotics and Tracking teams. Niles Main Street Committee member, Karen Lupo, along with other volunteers, will be teaching some sign language commands to use with your dog and sign language interpretation. Rescue groups will introduce purebred and mixed breed dogs available for adoption and exhibit them throughout the event. Information booths on pet grooming and rescue dogs will be available to the public to show better ways of taking care of your pet.

"We have the adoption parade so they [rescue organization] put little vests on [the dogs] that say, 'available for adoption' and run them through the park so some people will adopt them. I think we adopted like three dogs last year," said Dudley. "It gives people a chance to see the dogs."

There will be around 40 vendors ranging from information booths from local businesses to local food vendors. The committee joked about how organizing this show makes it feel as if they had double the number of vendors and shared some of their longtime sponsors such as Beacon Veterinary Specialists, Mission Valley Vets and Hawgs for Dogs, a motorcycle club that always sets up a big blow up dog to raise money for training guide dogs.

Proceeds from the event go to Ohlone Humane Society and Niles Main Street Association. There is no admission fee. The fee for competition registrations will be $20/dog in advance and $25 at the day of the event. You can register your dog online at www.niles.org/dog-show/.

Who wants to be a backyard beekeeper?

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY
LALITHA VISVESWARAN

So, you want to be a beekeeper? Welcome to the world's coolest and sweetest club. Beekeeping, also known as Apiculture, is part science, part art and mostly stewardship of nature and her favorite, most generous pollinator, Apis Mellifera, aka the honeybee.

Remember that keeping bees is not just an adventure; it is also a vocation and involves a fair amount of investment. You might want to ask yourself if you want to be a beekeeper or if you just want honey from your own garden. If the former is your goal, this is a lifelong vocation. If the latter, it's easy to give access to experienced beekeepers, who will use your yard to maintain their hives at no cost to you and in return, you can enjoy honey from the hives. In a way, you are renting your garden for the most local honey.

This is key because maintaining beehives is an education, which will continue for a very long time. You must be patient, observant, and possess a special set of skills that would determine the success of your colony. You must know how to care for the garden, the buffet table and foraging area for your bees. This means taking good care of your plants so they'll bloom at the right season, knowing how to be a good gardener, and maintaining integrity of the environment by keeping it free of chemicals, toxins and pesticides.

You must also check with your neighbors before installing hives. People might have allergies to bee stings or have fearful children or energetic pets that like to jump fences to rip through your garden. It is always better to keep the neighbors in the loop.

You will also need to check with the City to see if a permit or paperwork is needed to keep beehives at home. For cities in Alameda County, Alameda Beekeepers Association is a good resource to ask for help and network with other beekeepers; neighbors, street, and home. There should be some shade, lots of room around the beehives to work, and no debris, weeds etc. Hives are generally made of wood and painted white, light pink or pastel green to make them visible in the dark.

level of expertise, the kind of honey you would like (with or without comb) and space/facilities to live, sanitize and observe the hives.

Checklist for keeping beehives

- Location: Check if your backyard is for keeping beehives. Do you have space to store materials and equipment? Do you have a garden area for the bees to forage?
- Regulations: What is your city's stance on beehives in homes? Are your neighbors fine with beehives next to their fences? Will you be able to keep the bees' foraging radius free of toxins, chemicals and spraying?
- Expertise: How much time can you devote to learning about beekeeping? Would you rather give the job to a professional beekeeper in return for honey?
- Network: What is your local beekeeping network? There are online beekeeping forums and internet groups. Sometimes, it helps to network with other beekeepers to share equipment and sell honey as a co-op.
- Money: There is a significant initial investment for hives, bee suits and other equipment. Sometimes swarms can occupy hives, but a lot of times, one must purchase a queen bee and nucs. While harvesting honey, there is also the cost of extraction equipment, containers, honey buckets, etc.

Now that you know the questions, do you have the answer? Are you ready to be a backyard beekeeper?

Lalitha Visveswaran is a full-time farmer at Jellicles Farm in the Sunol AgPark. www.jelliclesfarm.com

You might also consider a rooftop beehive. Although a little more complicated, rooftop beehives are not uncommon at all. In fact, many urban centers encourage office and apartment buildings to keep a rooftop hive. Often, urban bees can forage more and produce more honey than bees in rural areas where there are more beehives and higher bee density. Do remember that bees consume most of the nectar they collect and need a lot of energy to fly. For enough honey production, bees need to have ample food sources and a comfortable environment; thus, location is the key component of beekeeping.

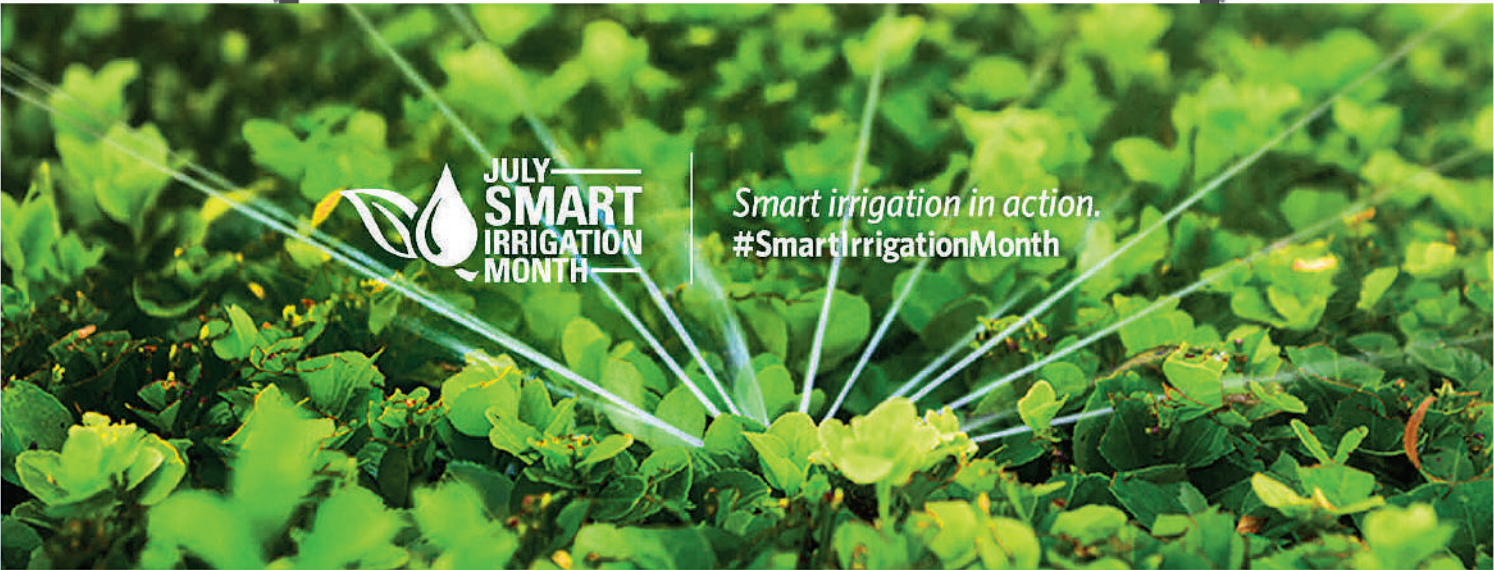

Order as many beekeeping catalogs as you can find; they are free and can also be found online. The catalogs contain a wealth of information and some even offer pre-assembled hives. There are different kinds of hive designs. Your choice will depend on your in Santa Clara County, Santa Clara Valley Beekeepers Guild has a section of local beekeeping ordinances.

Location, location, location. Knowing where you will place your beehive is important. Consider sun, shade, and water drainage that your yard will get at different times of the day and throughout the season. You must also provide nectar plants for the bees, and they must also carry pollen. It is essential to plan your garden so that the bees always have some source of food, especially in early spring when they are likely running out of their stored winter supply. Make sure you have a clean water source for your bees. Avoid placing the hives near swimming pools, especially if the pools are uncovered and have chlorinated water.

The beehives should be screened visually from your Mosquito problems? Call the mosquito police!

ALAMEDA COUNTY
MOSQUITO ABATEMENT
DISTRICT

Summer has arrived. A perfect time for outdoor activities, barbecue, swimming. While people relish the warm weather, they must also contend with pests of the season—such as mosquitos. Bay Area residents have it even worse: while mosquito season is usually associated with the hotter summer months, our temperate region has mosquitoes active all year round. Most people probably don't give much thought to mosquitoes – until they get a red, itchy welt on their skin... a sure sign of a mosquito bite. Mosquitoes can be much more than a nuisance; they can transmit diseases and be a threat to the health and safety of humans and animals.

To combat this threat, a dedicated public mosquito control program is essential. Alameda County residents have Alameda County Mosquito Abatement District (ACMAD) on their side to help with mosquito-related issues. ACMAD is an independent special district governed by a board of trustees, comprised of one representative from each city in the service area and additional member representing the county at large. The district has provided mosquito control for the citizens of Alameda County (except Albany) since 1930.

"The district is committed to improving the health and comfort of Alameda County residents by controlling mosquitoes and limiting the transmission of mosquito-borne diseases. We are funded through property taxes, which cost less than $5 per property per year. This revenue funds all our mosquito control operations," says Ryan Clausnitzer, general manager, ACMAD.

There are 22 different mosquito species in the county, each of which has unique biology and behavior. Some species, such as winter marsh mosquitoes, prefer the cooler winter months or rely on flooding from the winter rain to hatch their eggs, while other species such as house mosquitoes, encephalitis mosquitoes, and salt marsh mosquitoes are most active during the summer months. Floodwater mosquitoes are aggressive day biters. They can stay close to the water they grow in or travel many miles, flying from the marshes surrounding the Bay to the hills, biting people along the way. One of the common mosquitoes in residential areas, Culiseta incensens, prefers to bite people who are outdoors around dusk and dawn, while the Northern House mosquito (Culex pipens) is known for biting people at night.

Mosquitoes can thrive in very small amounts of standing water. Any site that holds water for more than a few days can be a suitable place for mosquitoes to grow. The district suggests dumping, draining, or covering areas with standing water to eliminate mosquito breeding. Erika Castillo, regulatory & public affairs director at ACMAD, states that mosquitofish, which eat mosquito larvae, can be used in contained manmade sites such as ornamental ponds, horse troughs, and abandoned swimming pools. The fish require minimal feeding or care other than protection from garden sprays, chlorine, chloramines or other chemicals, and predators such as raccoons, cats, opossums, herons or egrets.

"To obtain free mosquitofish call the district office. Mosquitofish are normally available from March through October. The district is always glad to provide mosquitofish to county residents, even on repeat calls, to encourage the biological control of mosquitoes in ponds and other permanent water sources." Mosquitofish are intended for mosquito control only and should not be introduced into natural water bodies.

Providing mosquitofish is just one of the methods used to control mosquito population. The district determines the species and abundance of mosquitoes in an area through larval and adult surveillance and then selects the most efficient, effective, and environmentally sensitive means of control, according to Castillo. "Our methods for controlling mosquitoes may rely on any combination of physical, biological, or chemical control along with public education."

As part of operations, the district uses technology and innovation to enhance mosquito detection and public health pesticide applications. "As several species of mosquitoes can fly over 20 miles into more populated areas," Clausnitzer says, "it is essential to have access to these far-off and wild areas of Alameda County. We access these areas of the county either by truck on paved or unpaved roads, all-terrain vehicles, or by foot in sensitive habitats. We have also begun using unmanned aircraft systems (UAS, or "drones") to collect imagery of standing water in these difficult to access and sensitive habitat areas."

Clausnitzer believes that community awareness and public education are very important in minimizing and controlling mosquitoes. "The district's public outreach component includes community events, social media, print and electronic advertising, and educational curricula. We have a staffed booth at over 20 community event fairs throughout Alameda County. At these events, staff promotes our district's services directly with residents and provide educational information on what they can do to reduce the risk from mosquitoes."

Tips to prevent mosquito bites

DUMP/DRAIN standing water on your property because that is where mosquitoes develop

DAWN/DUSK is when mosquito activity peaks; limit outdoor activities during this time

DEFEND yourself from mosquito bites by wearing long pants and long-sleeved shirts and apply insect repellent containing EPA-registered active ingredients such as DEET, Picaridin, IR3535, or oil of lemon eucalyptus.

DOOR/window screens should be in good repair with no tears or holes

Pumpkin Seeds

By PAT KITE

It is time to plant pumpkin seeds. I have planted many over the years, and I achieved one small pumpkin a while back. I was so proud of that little orange pumpkin that I kept it on display on my porch until it melted away.

Those of you who grow ginormous pumpkins without any effort might think I am slacking as a pumpkin parent. Not in the least. I give my seeds big pots full of organic soil, plant a few seeds per pot, and the pots go in full sun. When seedlings come up, I thin to two per pot. I fertilize the pot and water it. Sometimes, along with lots of leaves, I get a few starter pumpkins. A board goes underneath those trailing on the ground. I talk to them. Sometimes I sing. Eventually they drop dead.

I am not a pumpkin snob. Along with jumbo Atlantic Giant, I have tried Baby Boo, Big Max, Jack Be Little, Jarrahdale [green], and Lady Godiva [orange and green]. Just so you know, pumpkins, squash, and gourds are often lumped together in catalogues.

Some history. Around 1540, Hernando de Alvarado, a scout for Spanish explorer Francisco Coronado, reported that the new American southwestern territory grew melons. Melons? Melons didn't exist in America until Europeans brought them. So, what were these “melons”? They were pumpkins and squash. In ancient days, the word for a melon was “Pepo.” The Greeks called large melons “pepon;” the French “pompons;” the British “Pompion;” and the Americans “pumpkin.” If that gets confusing, another name is “winter squash.”

Like other squash, the original territory was northeastern Mexico. Remnants of pumpkin/squash date back to 7000 B.C. The original pumpkins were small, hard, and bitter; however, they stored well and were eaten when times were tough. People eventually tinkered with the produce. Our early nobleman ran away, telling everybody. Some local thieves decided to steal the pumpkin and make it into a fishpond in their yard. But when they lifted the pumpkin, the child leaped out. The thieves dropped the pumpkin. It smashed. All the water came out, and so did the black fishes, which once had been the pumpkin seeds. But the whale, which was the child’s spirit, was never seen again.

2020 Corolla Hybrid: a blend of two classic Toyotas

By STEVE SCHAEFER

It was inevitable, really. The Corolla, Toyota’s oldest nameplate, with 46+ million units sold over 53 years, is now available with the company’s famous hybrid powertrain. Adding two electric motors and a nickel-metal hydride battery to the Corolla’s 1.8-liter gas engine creates the Hybrid Synergy Drive system. It brings up the fuel economy numbers while generating 121 horsepower.

The last gas-only Corolla I tested, almost exactly a year ago, had official EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) numbers of 28 City, 35 Highway, and 31 Combined, and I got 26 mpg during my test. My Blueprint (blue) Hybrid test car, on the other hand, earned EPA figures of 53 City, 52 Highway, and 52 Combined. It got 44.8 mpg during its weeklong stay, again a bit below EPA numbers but much improved over the gas model. EPA green scores for the hybrid are 7 for Smog and a perfect 10 for Greenhouse Gas vs. 3 and 7 for the gas model.

Besides all this efficiency, the 12th-generation 2020 Corolla is completely restyled. Taking its cue from the wildly energized Camry and other recently updated offerings, the new Corolla is more aggressive, with slices for eyes up front and a chiseled taillamp that stretches across the tail.

Inside, the dash and everything else are brought up to modern standards, with an 8-inch touch screen prominently floating above the dash center.

Apple CarPlay is finally available, and it provides an up-to-date interface. The six-speaker audio system was decent. The fabric-wrapped seats were comfortable, and as you would expect, everything felt and worked just fine.

As with the Prius and Toyota’s other hybrids, the drivetrain balances use of the gasoline engine with the electric motor, while using regenerative braking to charge up the small battery. The car often used battery only while cruising through town, providing an EV experience. If your battery is full, you can press a button to make the car an EV only, but only under certain conditions.

Choose from three drive modes – Power, Eco, and Normal. I sampled Power briefly, but it’s not really in the spirit of a hybrid to race around. Normal was fine, but Eco, when commuting or in town, gets the most efficiency out of the powertrain.

With no plug, the Corolla requires absolutely no special attention – you just get in and go. The instrument panel and screen provide you with information and incentives to drive intelligently, avoiding stomping on the pedals for quick acceleration or sudden braking. That’s the way to drive any car more efficiently, but with a hybrid, it just makes sense. For each trip I received a score on my driving, based on acceleration, cruising, and braking. When I got a 93 (presumably out of 100) I received an “Excellent Steady Driving” message, but there were other suggestions as well.

The Corolla Hybrid comes only as an LE model, while the standard Corollas offer multiple trim levels. The LE is not the base car, but doesn’t have the upgrades of the XLE level, either. My tester had plastic wheel covers and cloth seats – not premium features. It did boast several options, including a HomeLink frameless rearview mirror ($175), which looked great but a little fancy for the Corolla’s straightforward interior. The Body Protection Package ($467) included body side moldings, a rear bumper protector, door sill enhancements, and a Paint Protection Film ($395) would surely keep your Corolla looking good over its likely very long life, if history is an indicator.

Corollas are made all over the world, but my test car came from Japan. I think it’s the first Japanese-built Toyota I’ve tested in years.

The car is safe, with standard Toyota Safety Sense 2.0. This package includes a pre-collision system with pedestrian detection, full-speed range dynamic radar cruise control, lane departure alert with steering assist, lane tracing assist, automatic high beams, and road sign assist. That’s a mouthful, but it could save your life.

Corollas have never been expensive cars. The Hybrid starts at $22,950 – $3,000 over the base price of the non-hybrid LE model. The base gas-only Corolla L starts at just $19,500. My tester came to $25,233, with options.

Driving the Corolla Hybrid is pleasant, but not exciting or particularly quiet. My wife commented on the drone of the continuously-variable automatic transmission when we were climbing a grade or entering the freeway, and some road noise permeates the cabin. That’s part of what makes it feel less than premium. I did grow to like the car over a week, as it is honest, and the interior is nicely upgraded. However, the real rewards of ownership are the age-old Corolla virtues – reliability, efficiency, and longevity. You just get more style now, thanks to the 2020 significant update.

SPACE ROCKS

Meteors, asteroids, meteorites ... what's the difference?

Meteors, asteroids, meteorites and meteoroids are all names for space rocks. The rocks have different names depending on their location, whether they are hurtling through space or zooming through the atmosphere and hitting the Earth's surface.

Read each description and label each item on the chart at left.

Asteroids are large rocks in space that orbit the sun. Most are found in the asteroid belt.

When two asteroids collide, the particles that break off are called meteoroids.

A meteoroid that enters Earth's atmosphere begins to vaporize, becoming a meteor.

If a meteor survives its flaming trip through our atmosphere and lands on Earth's surface, it is called a meteorite.

Solar System Leftovers

Our solar system is made up of planets revolving around a sun. Strangely, between the planets Mars and Jupiter, there is gap large enough for another planet, but there is not a planet there.

Instead there are millions of asteroids – small and large rocks that scientists believe are the leftover rocks from when the solar system formed. This zone is called the asteroid belt.

Blast from the Past

65 million years ago, dinosaurs had a really bad day. Scientists have a theory that a humongous asteroid hit the Earth. This event likely caused the end of dinosaurs and many other forms of life.

The asteroid that might have wiped out the dinosaurs was about 6 miles wide. The crash filled Earth's atmosphere with huge clouds of dust and debris that changed the planet's climate.

Circle every other letter to discover another name for meteors.

Each of these meteorites has an exact duplicate. Draw a line connecting each matching pair.

Cap and hat are synonyms. Large and huge are synonyms. Synonyms are different words that mean the same or almost the same thing. Look through the newspaper to find five examples of synonyms.

Use the Kid Scoop Secret Decoder Ring to discover the name of this book by Dr. Franklyn M. Branley, illustrated by Marc Simont, which is available at the library.

For millions of years these fantastic creatures roamed our planet. Then, suddenly, they all disappeared. Scientists wonder why. What could have caused this huge extinction 65 million years ago?

To discover the name of this book, find the letter on the outer ring, then replace it with the letter below it on the inner ring.

Summer Library Storytime Rocks!

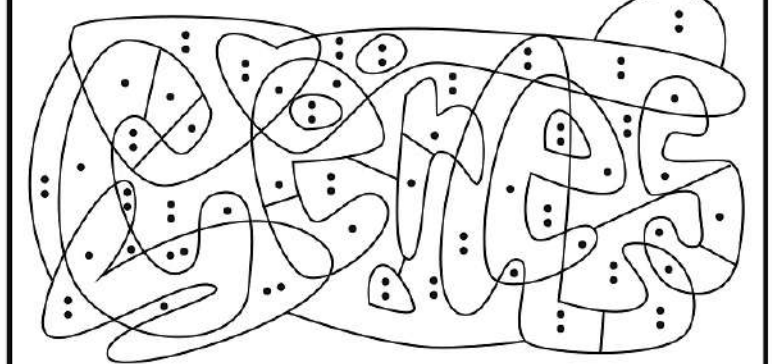

Parents with their children sit in a circle while the librarian reads one story or more. There may be songs and rhymes, but the main focus is on books. Groups start with babies and toddlers. For older kids, there may be crafts or games. Most storytimes follow a theme and the librarian will select other books on the theme to be browsed or taken home.

Ask your local librarian about storytimes. Listening to stories will build your imagination, increase your vocabulary, and it's fun for the whole family. And it's a great way to beat the heat, too!

Kid Scoop Puzzler

The largest asteroid in the asteroid belt is about ¼ the size of the moon. It is so large that in 2006 it was decided it should be called a dwarf planet. This asteroid rotates very fast. One day on this asteroid is only 9 hours long. It takes it about five Earth years to orbit the sun.

To find out the name of this asteroid, color the spaces with one dot red and with two dots yellow.

Fremont National Night Out Registration Underway

Help make 2019 the biggest National Night Out event in Fremont’s history!

Start organizing your neighborhood to participate in the 36th Annual National Night Out on Tuesday, August 6, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Join Fremont Police staff along with community organizations, neighborhood groups, and City leaders in celebrating the 36th Annual National Night Out.

In years past, neighborhoods have participated in National Night Out by organizing a social gathering such as a block party, barbecue, or ice cream social where neighbors share good food, laughter, and updates on neighborhood happenings. National Night Out provides the opportunity for neighbors to get to know each other better and sends a strong message to criminals that our community will look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity in their neighborhoods. Throughout the night, City staff will make visits to the registered parties where they will share information, network, and answer questions that community members may have.

Registration is open for Fremont community members to register their parties to participate in this year’s event. Register your event with the Fremont Police Department at www.FremontPolice.org/NNOReg. The registration deadline is 5 p.m. on July 30, 2019, to be considered for a visit by the Police or Fire Department. Our goal is to provide each party with one visit from City staff, but it will depend upon the number of parties and staff who sign up to participate.

Requests for a visit from the Fire Department must be made separately. First register your party and then contact Pam Franklin at pfranklin@fremont.gov or call 510-494-4200.

To learn how other communities celebrate National Night Out, visit the National Association of Town Watch online at <https://natw.org>.

If you have questions about National Night Out in Fremont, please call the Fremont Police Department’s Community Engagement Unit at 510-790-6740.

June 18 City Council Work Session Discussed Update on Strategies and Priorities to Address Homelessness

On Tuesday, June 18, 2019, the Fremont City Council held a Work Session to discuss an update on strategies and priorities to address homelessness. City staff presented an overview of ongoing efforts to reduce homelessness since 2017, provide an update on homeless count data for Alameda County and Fremont, and review state funding opportunities to support homeless mitigation efforts. City staff concluded the presentation with an update on siting a navigation center and the proposed criteria to use when evaluating potential locations.

Every two years the Department of Housing and Urban Development requires counties and local jurisdictions across the country to count homeless persons within their boundaries. In the Bay Area, this year’s point-in-time count took place on January 30. EveryOne Home, the non-profit agency that conducts the count and helps in developing countywide strategies to end homelessness in Alameda County, recently released the 2019 countywide point-in-time figures. In Alameda County, 8,022 individuals were counted as homeless, which represents a 43% increase from 5,629 in 2017. The 2019 count nearly doubles the number of homeless from 2015, which was 4,040. In Fremont, preliminary data counted 608 unhoused residents, a 21% increase from 2017, which was 479.

In response to the growing number of unhoused residents in Fremont and direction from the City Council at a previous Council meeting on July 17, 2018, City staff presented the framework for a temporary navigation center and recommended initial criteria for siting a center within Fremont at the June 18 Work Session meeting. A navigation center provides a clean, safe, calm and flexible environment that allows homeless persons to rebuild their lives and intensely focus on the job of finding stable permanent housing. Participants are accepted into the center after outreach and intake, and generally stay six months or less, before finding a permanent placement. This model has been proven successful in the Bay Area through the City of Berkeley STAIR Center, a housing navigation center that has been in operation for more than a year with 82% of individuals exiting the STAIR Center moving into permanent housing.

The meeting was well attended by community members and the Council heard more than 75 speakers regarding homelessness and a navigation center. After public comment, the City Council reaffirmed the decision to create a navigation center and directed staff to move forward with analyzing both City-owned and privately-owned sites based on the recommended criteria. While considering

- potential locations, City staff will use an objective criteria process taking into consideration:
- Minimum Qualifications
 - At least 16,000 square feet
 - A slope less than 5% area of buildable footprint
 - Not developed parkland or property that has approved and funded projects by the City Council
 - Immediate availability
 - Availability for a period up to five years
 - Accessibility
 - Within 0.50 miles of food services
 - Within 0.50 miles of bus stop
 - Bus service with access to BART
 - Physical Suitability
 - Utility connection points about property
 - Environmental Suitability
 - Located outside of fault trace zone
 - No known significant environmental issues exist

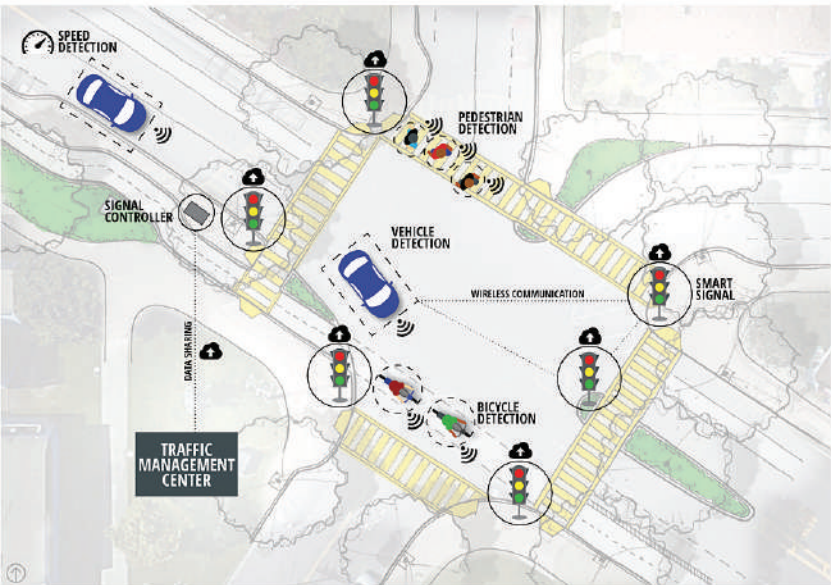

City staff will return to Council on July 9, 2019 with results from the analysis and present multiple locations for consideration by Council. At the July 9 City Council meeting, the Council will select a limited number of sites for further analysis and staff will conduct community outreach and a deeper analysis for each site throughout the summer.

After analysis and community outreach is completed, the City Council will select a final site during a September Council Meeting (date not confirmed yet) to move forward with, and City staff will immediately proceed with procurement of contracts to implement the navigation center.

Attend Community Meeting about Fremont Boulevard Safe and Smart Corridor Project

The City of Fremont is working to employ cutting-edge technology along Fremont Boulevard between Paseo Padre Parkway and Cushing Parkway that will alleviate congestion and improve safety for all modes of travelers. Improvements include traffic signal modernization, smart sensors to ensure adequate crossing times at intersections, and signal priority for transit and emergency vehicles.

To learn more about the Fremont Boulevard Smart and Safe Corridor project, please attend the community meeting on Thursday, July 18 at 6 p.m. at the Centerville Community Center Centerville Room, 3355 Country Drive in Fremont. The meeting is hosted by the City of Fremont Public Works Department.

For more information, visit www.FremontSmartCorridor.org.

Fremont Launches a New Version of Fremont Open City Hall

The City of Fremont has launched a new and improved Fremont Open City Hall platform! This updated version allows subscribers to access a sleeker interface to learn more about each new topic the City posts and participate in online survey exercises to share feedback.

As before, the forum will continue to provide information on a variety of City of Fremont initiatives. The City believes that regularly soliciting community feedback is essential to the decision making process and development of programs and policies that will enable Fremont to thrive.

Open City Hall is run by OpenGov, a non-partisan company whose mission is to broaden civic engagement and build public trust in government.

To start sharing feedback visit www.Fremont.gov/OpenCityHall.

Park It

BY NED MACKAY

As the summer season reaches its peak, there’s lots to see and to do in the East Bay Regional Park District.

For instance, original work by local artists will be showcased in an exhibit from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, July 13, 14, 20, and 21 at Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley. The paintings reflect the variety and beauty of the area’s landscapes.

From 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, July 13, a hunt for beetles during a nature walk at Big Break will reveal how insects benefit the environment. Big Break also plans “Second Sunday Campfires,” from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. July 14 and August 11. Attend these family-friendly evenings to explore the park through activities and a campfire with s’mores. Bring a picnic to enjoy before the program starts. The campfire theme on July 14 is “What’s in the Water,” and the theme on August 11 is “Stories of the Night Sky” – with optional stargazing from 8:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

For a more strenuous adventure, join naturalist Kevin Dixon on a “Night Challenge” hike from 5:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. Saturday, July 20, at Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve in Antioch. The 8½-mile hike, for ages 12 and up, is over steep, uneven terrain with at least 1,500 feet of elevation gain. Registration is required; for more information, call (888) 327-2757, select option 2 and refer to program number 25763.

Meet reptiles from 11 a.m. to 12 noon Saturdays, July 13 and July 27 at Tilden Nature Area near Berkeley. Naturalist Trent Pearce will help visitors get up close and personal with live snakes and turtles.

Naturalist Jenna Collins will lead a felting program from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, July 14. Visitors can learn how to turn sheep’s wool into cloth and make their own felted creation. Collins will also host an ice cream making session from 3:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Sundays, July 14 and July 28. Turn a crank to make ice cream the old-fashioned way.

To participate in all three programs, meet at Tilden’s Environmental Education Center, north end of Central Park Drive. For information, call (510) 544-2233.

Wednesday Walks are naturalist-led explorations of various regional parks, and everyone is welcome. Wear sturdy shoes, bring water, and dress for the weather. Led by Christina Garcia, a Wednesday Walk will begin at 9:30 a.m. July 17 at Garin Regional Park in Hayward. The walk is a moderately strenuous 4-miler up a secluded canyon and along shady Dry Creek.

Garin Regional Park is at the end of Garin Avenue, off Mission Boulevard. Meet Christina at the park’s Garin Barn Interpretive Center. Call (510) 544-3282.

“Canine Capers” walks are a monthly series of naturalist-led strolls with a friend, furry, or otherwise. Attend the walk from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Saturday, July 13 at Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont, led by naturalist Kristina Parkison.

The walk is for ages 8 and up (human). Registration is required; for details, call (888) 327-2757, select option 2 and refer to program 25713.

Del Valle Regional Park, south of Livermore, offers campfire programs from 7:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. every Friday through August 30; 8:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. every Saturday through August 17; and 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays, August 24 and August 31. The Friday campfires’ theme is “Days of the Pioneers,” and Saturdays’ theme is “Night with a Naturalist. Drop by anytime for hands-on activities and stories.

The park is at the end of Del Valle Road, off Mines Road about 10 miles south of Livermore. For information on the campfires, call Sunol Regional Wilderness at (510) 544-3249.

These aren’t even half of the programs available in the regional parks. For full information, visit www.ebparks.org.

Summer brings live music

Summer is the perfect time to lay out a blanket or pull up a lawn chair and listen to your favorite bands (or discover new ones!) in the long pleasant evenings around the East Bay. In 2019, the summer season will kick off with on June 15 in Fremont with the Pacific Commons Summer Concert Series, starting with pop and rock hits from Cover Story. The fun will continue with concerts from Milpitas to San Leandro. Milpitas will start their season with their Juneteenth summer concert on June 18, to pick up again on July 16 with Lyin I’s. Meanwhile, Hayward will join in with their Municipal Band and Summer Music in the park series, starting June 16 and August 4 respectively. Hayward’s lineup includes Chris Marquis’ Giant Garage Spiders, Sycamore 129 Blues Band, and What’s Up Big Band—and that’s just the start of the season. Newark will host Music at the Grove (starting June 21 with Big Band Beat), and San Leandro will join in with Hot August Thursdays.

With concerts running through September, there is plenty of time for music lovers to make the most of those summer days.

Oakland A's PLAY BALL with Fremont Newark Little Leagues

Baseball

SUBMITTED BY
CALIFORNIA DISTRICT 14
LITTLE LEAGUE

Little League's California District 14 welcomes the Oakland A's "PLAY BALL" presented by Bank of America to Fremont, Saturday, July 13 at Marshall Park, home of Fremont American Little League.

The A's "PLAY BALL" is a free and family-oriented two-hour event that brings fun baseball and softball-related activities to East Bay parks every weekend throughout the MLB season. There are multiple stations that are adaptable to kids of all ages. This fun-filled event starts at 12 noon and runs until 2 p.m. There will be pick-up style baseball games, baseball and softball skill stations, and more. No equipment or experience is required.

Along with the PLAY BALL festivities, California District 14 will also be hosting Little League's California Section 3 9-10-11 Year Old International Baseball Tournament at the baseball fields of Fremont American Little League. This All-Star baseball tournament will feature teams from the Union City-Hayward-Castro Valley, Pleasanton-Livermore to Danville and San Mateo County Little Leagues, along with a representative from Fremont-Newark, competing to reach the Little League Northern California State Championship for 9-10-11 year-olds.

The Northern California Section 3 Tournament opens on Saturday, July 13 with Game 1 at 11 a.m., as California District 52 (San Mateo County) plays California District 57 (Pleasanton-Livermore to Danville). Game 2 follows at 2 p.m. with Fremont-Newark's California District 14 playing California District 45 (Union City-Hayward-Castro Valley).

It is a great opportunity for you and your children to experience a full day of baseball-related activities and games and watch Little League International Tournament Baseball.

"We are very happy to bring the A's PLAY BALL program to Fremont and Newark", declared California District 14 Administrator, Bruce Marcellus. "The A's are very supportive, donating uniforms to many of the Fremont and Newark leagues. We were very excited when they reached out to Fremont American Little League to host this event", continued Mr. Marcellus, "Little League is all about community. Children play with their friends from their neighborhood or school in leagues near them, building special bonds with other children, while playing softball or baseball. And in Little League, every child plays in every game".

California District 14 has seven baseball leagues - six in Fremont, one in Newark - one softball league that covers all of Fremont and Newark and our Challenger Division, serving girls and boys ages 5 through 16. Families interested in joining their local Little League program can get more information at Fremont American Little League fields during the PLAY BALL event.

Whether you've played baseball for years, or never picked up a bat, kids and adults of all ages are invited to come PLAY BALL with the A's at Marshall Park. For more information and register early, go to: www.athletics.com/playball. Parking for Marshall Park is located at 5301 Curtis Street Fremont, CA 94538.

Rumor has it that the A's lovable mascot Stomper and the A's Green Machine may make an appearance.

Centerville defeats Newark in close contest

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

In a game that was undecided right down to the last out, Centerville National Little League 10-11-12 team edged Newark National Little League 7-5 on July 5th. With a late inning surge, Centerville put together just enough deep hits to score crucial runs and continue to compete in the District 14 International Tournament. Both teams were competitive and in a game like this, it is unfortunate that only one of them can advance.

Cost of proposed Navigation Center

On June 18, the Fremont City Council met for a special working session on the issue of homelessness and the past and future actions that are being taken by the city to try and solve this complex issue.

Of particular interest at this meeting was the homeless navigation center that is being proposed at the corner of Nursery and Niles Blvd in the Niles district. This controversial project has stirred considerable outrage among Niles residents, who turned out in the hundreds at the meeting to voice their views on this project. With the sheer volume of speakers driving the meeting, which started at 5:30 p.m., to be paused and then resumed after the regularly scheduled City Council meeting at 7:00 p.m. In the end, the meeting would last until after 11:00 p.m. Ultimately, over 90 people spoke on the topic, with a conservative 80-90% stating that they want the city to find solutions to the homeless problem, but that this particular location has far too many flaws to successfully accommodate a navigation center.

People listed many reasons why the navigation center should not be located at the corner of Nursery and Niles Blvd. They spoke out about the lack medical providers, employment opportunities, government offices, retail stores to buy food, public transportation, and other services that the homeless in the area would need. Detailed examples of the criteria other cities have used to select a site for a navigation center where shown to contrast the Niles site and highlight just how poor a choice the site would be.

Many spoke out about how the center would house people in thin-walled modular units only a few feet from a major railway and they spoke about how the center would be directly along the Hayward fault. While everyone agreed that something needs to be done for the homeless, a laundry list of reasons was presented to highlight why this location is a poor choice that would consume precious resources which could have a much bigger impact if used differently.

Yet after hours of the citizens of Fremont standing up to say that the proposed Niles location could not be a worse choice, one of the few things that resonated with the City Council was cost.

And since they are spending our tax dollars, cost is an important thing to focus on. Let’s look at the cost of this navigation center.

The proposed center is to be paid for through a one-time Homeless Emergency Aid Program (HEAP) grant. Total funds allocated to Fremont (and Newark which has agreed to pool their funds with Fremont) equal $2,078,880.00. There is a second potential grant that may be coming from the state, but that has not yet been finalized. For our purposes, we will assume that the second grant will be approved, and that Fremont will get about the same amount of funding as in the first grant. Further, as a requirement to receive the HEAP grant, the city is required to provide matching funds equal to 30% of the grant, which equals $623,664.00. For the purposes of this exercise, we will assume that applies to the theoretical second grant as well. That results in a total amount of $5,405,088.00 in tax dollars.

The proposed center will consist of four modular units that will provide living quarters, laundry, personal hygiene facilities, food preparation areas, and administrative offices. Either no bids have been taken for these units or the results of those bids have not been made public, but the school district currently utilizes these types of portable units and we can safely assume that the costs will be similar.

Currently, the school district pays roughly $100,000.00 for setup and delivery of each modular unit. They then pay approximately $600.00 per month to rent each unit. This equates to a first-year cost for the four modular units of $428,800.00 and a five-year cost of $544,000.00. There are additional costs associated with the cessation of use of these units, but those incremental costs vary considerably, so we will not include those in this discussion.

Use of the land the center will be on is to be obtained through a 5-year lease from the Niles Discovery Church, at a cost of $40,000.00 per year. That makes the total lease cost of the land $200,000.00.

There will also be incremental costs to improve the land. As unimproved land situated along the Hayward fault, the cost to make the land habitable, plus the placement and compaction of gravel that the modular units will be placed upon, as well as the addition of utilities such as power, water and sewer can easily add an additional $100,000.00-$200,000.00. While these costs will be incurred, since they are currently unknown, we will not include them here.

BACS is the provider that has been selected to operate the navigation center and has provided a proposal that totals $2,306,033.00. The obtained public records do not disclose if this is a per year cost or for the total five year lease the city would have for the land. However, given that BACS is also the operator of the Stair Navigation Center in Berkeley, which this center is supposedly modeled after, and has an annual operating budget of $2.44 Million, it seems to be a reasonable conclusion that this is a one-year cost.

Assuming that the center will operate for the full five years of the land lease from the Niles Discovery Church, and that the costs remain fixed over time, this nets out to a total cost of $12,274,165.00. Again, for this calculation we will leave out the incremental, but undetermined, one-time costs of improving the land and returning the modular units.

Subtracting the one-time HEAP grant, the assumed (but not guaranteed) incremental second grant from the state, and the 30% required city contributions, leaves a net cost to the City of Fremont of $6,869,077.00 that will have to be paid for out of either the general fund or some other source of tax dollars.

The navigation center will house 45 people for up to six months. For the sake of argument, we will assume that the center will achieve a 100% success rate in placing the homeless into long term housing, which seems unlikely given that navigation centers in San Francisco have only achieved a 14% success rate. The center in Berkeley has not yet been in operation for a year and has not published official numbers of people placed in long term housing. While extremely high numbers have been suggested for the Berkeley site, they are not official. Prior to publication, the San Francisco centers had equally high numbers discussed in the media, only to show those numbers to be fallacious when final results were officially made public.

Regardless, for this exercise, we will assume a 100% success rate and that the average stay is four months. Using these assumptions (and unrealistically high expectations), we can determine that over 5 years, this navigation center will enable 675 people to move into long term housing. With a total cost of $12,274,165.50 that is an average cost of $18,183.95 per person.

Just about everyone agrees that the homeless crisis is both a very large and highly complex problem. It is something that we can and should deal with as a modern society. Helping the homeless get off the streets and into housing is the right thing to do with our tax dollars. Ignoring the problem would be unconscionable. Yet given the complexity of the problem, the sheer volume of people being impacted, and real-world limitations of available funding to address the problem, is a solution that costs over $18,000.00 per person, before housing subsidies and other on-going costs, really the best way to spend our limited resources?

Cities across California have received funds as part of the HEAP grant to combat homelessness. There are many different ways to apply those funds, including building shelters or warming centers, food programs, providing mental health or addiction services, giving housing subsidies, and more. Naturally, one of the first things cities did was to perform a study to determine the best way to spend the money, so they could help as many people as possible. While other cities took this commonsense approach, Fremont did not. Perhaps it is time we did.

Niles-Centerville moves on with impressive offense

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

The 10-11-12 team from Niles-Centerville Little League beat the team from Centerville National Little League 9-4 with an 8-run rally in the top of the sixth inning on July 2nd. Although Centerville National put the first runs on the scoreboard early in the game and appeared on the road to victory, the top of the sixth inning proved their undoing. Niles-Centerville put together an impressive offensive show with deep drives that brought in eight runs and sealed the deal, moving on to the next round of the District 14 International Tournament to meet the winner of a July 5th Centerville National/Newark National matchup.

Mission San Jose All Stars

SUBMITTED BY RAVI SANJEEV

The Mission San Jose Little League (MSJLL), Junior All Star team won the Northern California, District 14 All Star Tournament. The team won three consecutive games to capture their second flag of the 2019 season, 11-0 over the Centerville American All Stars in the first round, then 18-3 over the Centerville National All Stars in the winner’s semi-final, and finally 8-1 over the Warm Springs All Stars in the Championship on July 2nd.

MSJLL’s offense was prolific, including a team batting average of .471, slugging average of .588, and on-base percentage of .579 for the tournament. Aidan Paragas rapped out 7 hits and stole 6 bases in the 3 games, to lead the team in both categories. Roshan Sanjeev showed his power in the semi-final, crushing 3 doubles, a single and a walk in that game alone. All 13 players got base hits in the tournament.

But the real key was the pitching, as the team’s three aces each dealt complete game victories, striking out 18 while walking only 4. Arjun Singh pitched a 5-inning shutout in the opener. Kaden Voong pitched a 6-inning complete game in the semi-final, scattering 6 hits without walking a batter. Zachary Okino pitched a 7-inning complete game, allowing only 5 hits and a walk.

Congratulations to Warm Springs and Mission San Jose on a terrific All-Stars season.

MSJLL will miss playing on the beautiful field at Gomes Elementary. During the last two seasons, the team recorded a perfect 32 wins, no losses on home turf, and won three of their four flags there.

Championship Team members for MSJLL include: Arjun Singh, Vinhson Nguyen, Roshan Sanjeev, Joseph Du, Kaden Voong, Rithik Ram, Aidan Paragas, Ratik Iyer, Monish Harwani, Suraj Kumar, Arjun Vaidun, Henry Zhao, Ragav Basker, and Zachary Okino. The team is coached by Bobby Kanno and Wayne Sakuda, managed by Paul Okino.

The team’s next step is the Northern California, Section 3 All Star Tournament taking place at San Leandro Ballpark, July 8-11.

Police seize more than 2,000 pounds of fireworks

SUBMITTED BY SAN LEANDRO PD

In the late evening of Tuesday, July 2, officers responded to a report about two suspicious men inside the locked gates of a public storage facility on Davis Street which was closed for the day.

Arriving officers found the men about 10 p.m. unloading boxes from a storage locker at Storquest Storage and loading them into a cargo van. Officers discovered that the boxes and storage unit contained more than 2,000 pounds of illegal fireworks including explosive, aerial fireworks that were capable of shooting 125 feet into the sky before exploding.

The men, identified by police only as a 41-year-old Oakland resident and a 51-year-old Fremont resident, were cooperative while talking to officers and were eventually released from the scene. Investigators are trying to determine where the explosives came from and where they were going to be used or sold. When the investigation is complete, it will be forwarded to the Alameda County District Attorney for charging.

Among the explosives recovered:

- 5-inch XL “Barrel Bombs”
- 5-shot XL “Roman Candles”
- 1” Mini-Artillery Plastic Balls
- 192-shot, rapid fire “Barrage Candles”

Due to the excessive quantity of explosives recovered by police on Tuesday night, members of the Alameda County Sheriff’s Bomb Squad responded and took custody of the illegal fireworks, which will be disposed of in a safe manner.

“Although the display of fireworks on July 4th may be a tradition for many, they can be extremely dangerous,” said Lt. Robert McManus. “In years past, the use of fireworks has been the cause of several fires throughout the Bay Area, as well as the cause of serious injury to those who light them off. The loud explosions are harmful to pets and animals. Please refrain from using any fireworks, and notify police if you see anyone using them, where they are prohibited.” he added.

harmful tactics but, nonetheless, fall victim to the allure of the predator. Nature has a way of providing sustenance for life at all levels of the food chain; sometimes it involves some creative, yet barbaric survival tactics.

Mankind has evolved to the top of the food chain and has, among other sentient beings, organized into social behaviors. Powerful attractive forces are at work within our own environment, just as the spider spins its web to catch an unwary fly. Mythical Sirens lured sailors to doom with sweet sounds; the human equivalent is a song of money, power and prestige - hard to resist, especially for those granted the opportunity to govern.

An example of this lure is the current obsession at all levels of government to solve a housing crisis that plagues the Bay Area. Navigation Centers are the current rage for homelessness and conversion of suburban and rural settings to mega “campuses” and massive buildings of urbanization are on the menu for the Irvington District of Fremont and along the Dumbarton Bridge corridor. As three-and four-story buildings give way to five and six story monoliths, the lure of development and its perceived riches can be intoxicating.

Jay & the Americans 1964 hit song “Come a Little Bit Closer” might be considered an allegory to this flirtation with possibly disastrous consequences of a seemingly enjoyable and positive experience. Just like the protagonist of the song, everything looks okay with, maybe, a tinge of misgiving. We build and build with a wink and nod toward disappearing neighborhoods, districts and quality of life. Termed a strategically urban community, Fremont’s General Plan calls for “intense development around transit stations and along transit corridors.” In contrast, a Community Character Element emphasizes the notion that “new development should be compatible and respectful of existing development without compromising the capacity for innovation, urbanism, and cutting-edge design.”

The enchantress of urbanization is waiting...

What could possibly go wrong?

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Thank a lineworker

July 10 is National Lineworker Appreciation Day, a day when we ask East Bay residents to take a moment to recognize the men and women who work around-the-clock to keep the lights on for our community.

PG&E has thousands of lineworkers serving five million customers across our service territory, and the lineworkers are often unsung heroes. Day and night, no matter the weather, these heroes are up in bucket trucks, operating heavy machinery and often arriving first on emergency scenes, all to serve our customers.

The dedication and sacrifice of a lineworker is something to be celebrated, and that’s why the Edison Electric Institute (EEI), International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), and Utility Workers Union of America (UWUA) has established July 10 as Lineworker Appreciation Day.

If you see a lineworker today, please stop and say thank you and let them know you appreciate the work they do.

Care about animals?
Put an end to rodeo

The Rowell Ranch Rodeo has come and gone. Kind people hope this will be the last. Countless animals have paid with their lives to satisfy people’s desire to play cowboy. Cattle may be zapped with electric hot shots, so they’ll charge out of the chute; calves have their necks twisted as they are violently slammed into the ground; and horses are viciously spurred into bucking. Animals have suffered broken backs and necks, heart attacks, and aneurysms.

Those who manage to make it through unscathed are given little time to rest or recuperate. They are loaded into trucks, hauled to the next event, and forced to participate again and again. When too old or worn out to continue, “retirement” is a one-way trip to the slaughterhouse. People who care about animals want rodeo to be put out to pasture once and for all.

Obituary

Grant Addison Bartlow

Grant Addison Bartlow, 33 years old resident of Fremont, CA. Died tragically in Union City, CA on Friday Jun 28th, 2019.

He is survived by his loving wife Noel (Berman) Bartlow and their daughter Caitlin Rose. Parents Bob Bartlow of Williamsport, PA and Stacey Bartlow of Hilton Head Island, SC, mother in-law Suzanne Griffin of Fremont, CA, father in-law David Berman of Detroit, MI, brother Patrick Bartlow, sister in-law Diana (Lievano) of Philadelphia, his identical twin brother Jordan Bartlow, niece Celia Marie of Williamsport, PA, brother in-law Nate Berman of Columbia, MO, Aria Navab and Nina Campbell of Santa Cruz, CA.

Grant was born January 16th, 1986 in New Orleans, LA. He grew up in Noblesville, IN and later Hilton Head Island, SC where he graduated from Hilton Head High School Class of 2004.

Grant met his beloved Noel during his welcome week at Carnegie Mellon University. Where they both graduated CMU class of 2008 with a BSc in Computer Science and Physics, respectively. Upon graduation they moved to CA where Noel obtained her doctorate in geophysics from Stanford University. They were married in Berkeley, CA on June 13, 2009.

Grant had career in data engineering spending time at Carfax, while living in Columbia, MO. Later Grant returned to the bay area that he enjoyed so much for a position at Facebook where he participated of the implementation of Facebook's fundraising platform. Most recently he joined Cruise Automation.

Growing up, Grant was a dedicated student with numerous academic recognitions. He was also passionate about the Hilton Head Island Recreation Center where he exuberantly contributed as a camp counselor, soccer coach, referee, and team sponsor, along with his brother Jordan. Grant enjoyed hiking, camping, nature, movies, gaming with friends and family, and spending quality time with Caitlin and Noel.

A memorial service is being held Wed. July 3rd 3:00-6:00pm at Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Redwood City, at 2124 Brewster Ave, Redwood City, CA 94062.

In lieu of flowers the family would like donations to "Grant Bartlow's fundraiser for Island Recreation Center" through the Facebook fundraiser created by his family in Grant's memory.

Stanley M. Kimel

Resident of Fremont
October 11, 1933 – July 1, 2019

Stanley M. Kimel of Fremont, CA passed away peacefully on Monday, July 1, 2019 at his home. Stanley was born to Esther and Clarence on October 11, 1933. He graduated with an AA degree in Electronics. Stanley then enlisted into the United States Army where he proudly served his country and received a honor star of conduct.

Stanley leaves behind his beautiful wife Rosella Kimel and their three children Suzanne Pavicich and her husband Douglas Pavicich, Donna Kimel and Robert Kimel. He also cherished his grandchildren Allison Lanferman and her husband Adam Lanferman, Kayley Miranda and her husband Daniel Miranda, and the youngest Douglas Pavicich Jr.

Besides spending time with his family and friends. Stanley was an accomplished engineer who worked for NASA Ames Research Center for over 38 years. In his spare time, he also enjoyed fishing, the environment outdoors, Yosemite and building model airplanes for which he won numerous awards. When Stanley wasn't building model airplanes, you could often find him working on cars on a Saturday afternoon. He also spent endless hours saving the Fremont Hills and the local environment.

Stanley was an extremely caring individual who never hesitated to lend a helping hand to anyone in need. He cherished his family and would do anything for each and every one of them. He is truly missed. A private memorial was held by his family in remembrance of Stanley M. Kimel.

New Chabot trustee named

SUBMITTED BY
GUISSELLE NUNEZ

Members of the Chabot-Las Positas Community College District (CLPCCD) Board of Trustees have appointed Maria L. Heredia to the Board, replacing longtime Trustee Donald L. "Dobie" Gelles, who died in May.

Heredia is a retired community college counselor and department chair and will fill the Trustee Area 4 seat (Castro Valley and parts of Oakland), at least until the next scheduled election for governing board members in November 2020. The announcement was made July 3.

Heredia has four decades of public school experience, including 10 years at the high school level and 30 years at community colleges. She has previously been employed at Merritt, Laney, Chabot and City College of San Francisco, where she served as a counselor/coordinator and department chair and managed a comprehensive and diverse counseling office. Throughout her career, Heredia has been elected to three terms as department chair and three terms as part of the academic senate. She also received appointments to multiple key committees including curriculum, articulation, budget and planning. She has been a member of The Centro Legal, the la Raza Board in Oakland, a number of Southwest voter registration drives and many community and parent education associations.

"We are pleased to announce Ms. Heredia to the Board of Trustees," said Edralin "Ed" Maduli, president of the Board of Trustees. "Her 30 years of community college experience, commitment to student success and knowledge of the areas in which she will serve will make her a valuable addition to our diverse and dedicated board."

The CLPCCD Board of Trustees is responsible for the governance of Chabot College in Hayward and Las Positas College in Livermore, and, as part of their duties, they are required to attend all board meetings, some college events, study agendas and issues, and to participate fully in the governance of the District.

Heredia was appointed after an extensive search that included an application review of 10 candidates, and interviews with current Board members. She holds a bachelor's degree in sociology and Spanish from Holy Names University in Oakland and a master's degree in school and career counseling from San Francisco State University. She has three children who are products and beneficiaries of community colleges.

She will take the oath of office at the board's regularly scheduled board meeting on Tuesday, July 16 at the District Office, 7600 Dublin Blvd., 3rd Floor in Dublin.

Applicants sought for police chief advisory board

SUBMITTED BY LT. ROBERT MCMANUS

The San Leandro Police Department is looking for people who are interested in helping to make a difference in their community by joining the Police Chief's Advisory Board.

The board is comprised of community members who represent many segments of the city. Created in 2013, the focus of the board is to be a community resource for the police department and police chief in the formation of public safety strategies, development of community policing concepts and increasing public awareness. The board is intended to provide a forum for discussions surrounding community concerns, with a goal to have a broad spectrum of viewpoints represented.

Tasks appointed members are asked to do include:

- Act as a sounding board for the chief of police regarding community needs and concerns, as well as provide community feedback for proposed police programs and priorities.
- Apprise the chief of police directly of the community's need for police services and feedback on the delivery of services.
- Assist in educating the community at large about the function and role of the San Leandro Police Department.
- Attend monthly meetings at the San Leandro Police Station.

"The San Leandro Police Department is committed to working in partnership with the people of San Leandro to build a safe and secure community. I recognize the importance of involving the community to help combat crime and deliver the highest quality of service to the City of San Leandro. We are stronger together preserving safety in our city and the quality of life we all deserve," said Chief Jeff Tudor.

Meetings are held the first Tuesday of every month from 5:30 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. Applications will be accepted through August 30. To participate, board members must be a San Leandro resident or own a business in the city. For more information about the Police Chief's Advisory Board, including a link to apply for a position, visit the Board's website at www.sanleandro.org/depts/pd/programs/cab/default.asp.

Fremont Police Log

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

Tuesday, July 2

At about 8:50 p.m. Sgt. McCormick was patrolling the area of the Fremont Hub shopping center when he spotted three males holding what appeared to be computers and phones get into a vehicle being driven by a woman and exiting the parking lot. McCormick called for backup; additional officers and detectives responded to the area. Meanwhile, a 911 caller reported the AT&T store at the shopping center had just been robbed. McCormick made a traffic stop on the suspect vehicle which stopped in the eastbound Mowry Avenue turn pocket for northbound Fremont Boulevard.

Demareia Duncan

Tiana Cook

Immediately three men got out and ran north on Fremont Boulevard. The driver, identified by police as Tiana Cook, 22, of Richmond was taken into custody. A perimeter was set up to find the men. At 10:47 p.m. a search team found Demareia Duncan, 21, hiding in the backyard of a residence on the 4100 block of Bell Common. The two other suspects were not found. All of the stolen property was recovered from the vehicle.

Duncan and Cook were booked into jail and face robbery charges. An investigation is ongoing.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call police investigators at 1 (510) 790-6900. Anonymous tips can be sent via text at FremontPD followed by a short message to 888-777 or via the web at <https://local.nixle.com/tip/alert/6216337>.

SUBMITTED BY CAPTAIN CHOMNAN LOTH, NEWARK PD

Tuesday, July 2

At about 12:50 p.m. there was a drive-by shooting at the Andoil gas station at 5835 Thornton Avenue at Mayhews Landing Road. Video surveillance in the area showed that there were multiple witnesses to the incident, but they left the scene before officers arrived. The incident is under investigation and police are asking that anyone who witnessed the incident call Detective Andrew Musantry at 1 (510) 578-4956 or send an email to andrew.musantry@newark.org. Information also can be shared anonymously by calling the NPD anonymous tip line at 1 (510) 578-4965.

Foreign Service Officers to get driver's license extension

SUBMITTED BY JEFF BARBOSA

Foreign Service Officers from California representing the United States abroad, and their spouses, would be able to get an extension for their driver's license that would keep it in full effect for the duration of the time they are serving abroad, under Senate Bill 267 authored by Sen. Bob Wieckowski. The bill was approved on July 1 by the Assembly Transportation Committee. SB 267 would give Foreign Service Officers the same type of driver's license extension given to our Armed Forces. The bill now goes to the Assembly Appropriations Committee for consideration.

"Our Foreign Service Officers represent our country in more than 270 embassies, consulates, and diplomatic missions all over the world," said Wieckowski. Some are assigned to "hardship" posts where living conditions are difficult due to a range of factors such as crime, health care, or pollution. Given the lengthy tours and the need for a state license to obtain local and international driver's licenses, SB 267 would keep their state license valid for 30 days upon their return to California."

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

On July 25, 2019, at or after 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers, 37101 Newark Blvd., Newark, CA, the City Council will hold a public hearing to consider:

A Conditional Use Permit to allow for the replacement of communication equipment with a 50-foot tall monopole communication tower to be located at 6590 Central Avenue.

The applicant, Jeremy Jordan with Precision Site Development, is requesting construction of a new monopole communication tower. The proposed 50-foot tall monopole communication tower will replace the existing communication equipment located on the abandoned silo. The proposed communication tower will have wireless communication equipment, including panel antennas and associated ground equipment. On June 25, 2019, the Planning Commission held a public hearing on this item and unanimously approved the project.

Any interested party or authorized agent may appear and be heard at the meeting. Additional details or comments may be sent to the Planning Department, 37101 Newark Boulevard, Newark, CA, 94560, and by calling (510) 578-4331.

If you challenge a City action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice or in written correspondence delivered to the Newark City Council at, or prior to, the public hearing.

SECTION 00010

NOTICE INVITING BIDS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Union Sanitary District in their office located at 5072 Benson Road, Union City, CA 94587-2508, at any time prior to 2:00:00 p.m. on August 15, 2019 for furnishing all labor, materials, equipment, and services for the construction of improvements designated as:

Alvarado Influent Pump Station Improvements ProjectProject No. 800-501

The project consists of mechanical, electrical and structural improvements to the Alvarado Influent Pump Station (AIPS) and miscellaneous improvements to the Degritter Building located within the Alvarado Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP). To accomplish this work the Contractor shall complete the work items indicated on the Drawings and Specifications, including but not limited to the following items, which include bid alternates:

- Replacement of the pumps and VFDs within the AIPS.
- Replacement of the main switchgear within the AIPS.
- Replacement of valves, piping and actuators within the AIPS.
- Replacement of gates and actuators within the AIPS.
- Replacement of fans within the AIPS.
- Replacement of hydraulic power unit for actuating the Diversion Gate and Head Gate.
- Replacement of the hydraulic gate actuator, stem, and access hatch in the Diversion Box south of the AIPS.
- Replacement of Head Gate, hydraulic gate actuator, and access hatch in the AIPS Influent Box.

- Structural modifications to the AIPS roof, walls, and mezzanine in the pump room.
- Improvements to floor drainage within the AIPS.
- Concrete and steel coating removal, repairs, and/or replacement within the AIPS.
- Replacement of the AIPS roof membrane.
- Replacement of the Degritter building roof membrane and roof hatches.
- Improvements to the AIPS and Degritter building roof drainage.

- Miscellaneous electrical and instrumentation equipment replacement including but not limited to a step down transformer, panels, combustible gas detectors, level sensors, and indoor and outdoor lights.

- All associated work to furnish a complete project as described in the Drawings and Specifications. The successful bidder will have five hundred and twenty (520) calendar days from Notice to Proceed to complete the Base Bid elements of the Project and selected alternate bid items A, C, D, E, and F. If Bid Alternate Item B is selected by the District, additional work days shall be granted and the successful bidder will have seven hundred and sixty (760) calendar days from the Notice to Proceed to complete the Project.

The Engineer's Estimate for this Project is $7,140,000 for the Base Bid items and $11,350,000 total including all six (6) Bid Alternates.

In accordance with Public Contract Code Section 20103.8(d), determination of apparent lowest bidder will be based upon an evaluation of the Base Bid and Bid Alternates in accordance with a process that prevents any information that would identify any of the bidders or proposed subcontractors or suppliers, or which bid belongs to which bidder, from being revealed to the District bid evaluation team before the ranking of all bidders from lowest to highest has been determined.

At the time the Bids are due, the evaluation team will convene behind closed doors. A proctor will monitor the room and will take custody of all cell phones, computers and other electronic devices while the evaluation team is in the room. In a separate room, the District's Purchasing Agent will publicly announce the base bid price and price of each alternate upon receipt and opening of the Bids. The District's Purchasing Agent will record pricing information on a summary sheet identifying the bidders by letter, e.g., "Bidder A", "Bidder B", etc. This summary sheet will then be provided to the proctor to deliver to the evaluation team making the decision concerning alternates to be accepted.

A District staff will NOT reveal to the District evaluation team which Bid belongs to which Bidder until after the evaluation team has selected the Bid Alternates to be used in determining the apparent low Bidder and until after the evaluation team has identified the apparent low Bidder using the Base Price and whatever Bid Alternates the District staff will use.

Upon the conclusion of the closed door evaluation, the evaluation team will deliver the executed summary sheet, with all selected Bid items circled and tallied, back to the proctor for delivery to the District's General Manager. Subsequently, District staff will transmit and post District's Notice of Intent to Award. The Notice will be posted at the District Offices. The District will use reasonable efforts to deliver by facsimile and/or e-mail a copy of the Notice of Intent to Award to all Bidders who submitted Bids no later than the Business Day after issuance.

Mandatory prebid and mandatory site visit following prebid

A mandatory prebid conference will be held at 10:00 am, local time, on July 23, 2019 at the Alvarado WWTP located at 5072 Benson Road, Union City, CA 94587-2508 and a site visit will be conducted immediately following the prebid conference. Attendance at both the prebid conference and site visit following the conference is mandatory for all contractors submitting a bid. For those who have attended both mandatory prebid conference and site visit, additional site visits can be scheduled if the District is notified 24 hours in advance.

Under California Laws and Regulations the District shall inform all prime contractors of public works, to the extent feasible of relevant public work requirements as listed in Section 00010 of the Contract Documents.

Copies of the Contract Documents are now on file and available for public inspection in the District Office, 5072 Benson Road, Union City, CA 94587-2508. A paper copy of the Contract Documents, including half size drawings, may be purchased at the District Office for a non-refundable $100 charge, which includes the appropriate State sales tax and UPS Ground shipping costs. Bidders can provide their UPS or Fed Ex account number for any overnight shipping but the charge will not be discounted. Partial sets of Bid Documents will not be available from the District. Bidders may pay for plans and specs by sending a check made out to Union Sanitary District, 5072 Benson Road, Union City, California 94587, or by going to our website www.unionsanitary.ca.gov for payment by VISA or MASTERCARD credit card.

Project information may be viewed at www.unionsanitary.ca.gov. Electronic copies of the Contract Documents are available on Compact Discs for a non-refundable $15 charge, which includes the appropriate States sales tax and UPS Ground shipping costs. Bidders can provide their UPS or Fed Ex account number for any overnight shipping but the charge will not be discounted. However, all bidders submitting a bid must purchase and receive a paper copy of the Project Manual of Alvarado Pump Station Improvements Project, Project No. 800-501 from the District prior to the bid opening date. All submitted bids must be on bid forms included in the purchased paper copy of the Project Manual or subsequent addenda. A bid submitted to the District by a bidder who has not purchased and received a paper copy of the Project Manual of Alvarado Pump Station Improvements Project, Project No. 800-501, or submitted on bid forms not included in the purchased paper copy of the Project Manual or subsequent addenda shall be considered non-responsive and shall be rejected by the District.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to the invitation, the Plans and Specifications, and all documents comprising the Contract Documents. Each bid shall be presented under sealed cover and shall be accompanied by a certified check or bidder's bond made payable to the District, in an amount not less than ten percent (10%) of the bid. The said check or bidder's bond shall be given as a guarantee that the successful bidder will execute the contract in conformity with the form of agreement contained within the contract documents, and will furnish bonds and insurance policies as specified within ten (10) days after notification of the award of the Contract to the successful bidder.

Cost for work described in each addenda issued during the time of bidding shall be included in the Bid and the addenda shall become a part of the Contract documents. Bidders shall develop and submit bids at their own expense. The District will not reimburse any costs associated with the development and submittal of any and all Bids.

The District reserves the sole right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informality in a bid.

No bidder may withdraw its bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

At the successful Contractor's option, securities may be substituted for the required retention, in accordance with the provisions of Section 22300 of the State of California Public Contract Code. In accordance with the provisions of California Public Contract Code Section 3300, the District has determined that the Contractor shall possess, as a minimum, a valid Class A license. In accordance with the provisions of California Business and Professions Code Section 7028.15, a bid submitted to the District by a Contractor who is not licensed in accordance with Chapter 9 of the California Business and Professions Code shall be considered non-responsive and shall be rejected by the District.

BID PROTEST: Any Bid protest must be submitted in writing to the Project Manager at the District Office located at 5072 Benson Road, Union City, California 94587 before 4:30 p.m. of the fifth Business Day following transmission and posting of the District's Notice of Intent to Award. The notice will be posted at the District Offices. The District will use reasonable efforts to deliver by facsimile and/or e-mail a copy of the Notice of Intent to Award to all Bidders who submitted Bids no later than the Business Day after issuance, although any delay or failure to do so will not extend the Bid protest deadline described above. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF BIRTH VAN DE GRAAF CASE NO. RP19019980

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: Bert Van de Graaf; Birth Van de Graaf

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Nicole Garcia in the Superior Court of California, County of Alameda.

The Petition for Probate requests that Nicole Garcia be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court on 08/20/19 at 9:31 a.m. in Dept. 202 located at 2120 Martin Luther King Jr. Way, Berkeley, CA 94704.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Attorney for Petitioner: Walter Johnson, Law Office of K. Walter Johnson, 4000 Pimlico Drive, Suite 114-101, Pleasanton, CA 94588, Telephone: 925-965-2156 7/9, 7/16, 7/23/19

SECOND AMENDED PETITION NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF EMMETT DAVIS CASE NO. RP19015144

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: Emmett Davis

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Cheryl Jean Payne in the Superior Court of California, County of Alameda.

The Petition for Probate requests that Cheryl Jean Payne be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The Petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court on 07/30/2019 at 09:31 AM in Dept. 202 located at 2120 Martin Luther King Jr. Way, Berkeley, CA 94704.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Alameda County approves final budget

SUBMITTED BY GUY ASHLEY

The Alameda County Board of Supervisors on Friday, June 28 approved a $3.5 billion Alameda County Budget for fiscal year 2019-20 that is balanced and closes a $60.4 million funding gap without reductions to services or staff.

The final budget includes funding increases to community service providers, allows the county to continue building its financial reserves, and supports a workforce of 9,900 employees. The budget reflects the priorities outlined in the county's long-term Strategic Vision, known as Vision 2026, by supporting efforts to address countywide challenges such as homelessness, an affordable housing shortfall, and the need to maintain and improve aging infrastructure.

The budget was adopted as Alameda County continues to benefit from a strong local economy, with unemployment hovering at an historic low of 2.7 percent as of April. But county officials warn that tougher times could soon be ahead.

"After years of economic strength, signs of an economic downturn in the near future are stronger than they have been in years," said Susan S. Muranishi, Alameda County Administrator.

"This possibility means we could soon be facing significant additional challenges in funding core services for county residents.

The continued strength of the local real estate market has fueled a 7.1 percent in the county's assessment, resulting in additional funding to support increases to many of the Community Based Organizations (CBOs)-that receive county support. The final budget calls for annual spending to grow to $625 million to nearly 300 CBOs that provide health and human services, housing, community development and public safety services.

In addition, Alameda County continues to devote substantial resources to address the region's worsening homelessness problem. The final budget contains $130.2 million in increased spending on homelessness as called for in the Homelessness Action Plan adopted by the Board of Supervisors last year. Under the plan, the county is committed to spend nearly $340 million over the next three years to address homelessness on multiple fronts. Since passage of the Homelessness Action Plan the county has secured additional funding bringing total spending on homelessness across the three years to $357 million.

The county's $60.4 million funding gap represents the difference between the cost of maintaining existing programs and projected revenues. The final budget closes nearly half of the fiscal year2019-20 funding gap by using Fiscal Management Reward savings accrued by county agencies/departments that have operated well within budget to avoid future funding cuts and maintain the continuity of services.

For Alameda County, concerns about a coming recession are heightened by the county's growing reliance on support from state and federal sources, which account for more than 60% of the county's general fund. A recession would likely bring deep state budget deficits, which inevitably lead to cuts to local funding. In addition, historic levels of federal debt would limit the federal government's ability to stimulate a slow economy and could prompt more local funding cuts.

"We know that when there is budget pain in Washington, D.C. and Sacramento, it is always going to be passed on to local communities like Alameda County," said Supervisor Keith Carson, Chairman of Alameda County's Budget Workgroup.

Neighborhood crime awareness starts with a night out

MILPITAS PD

Members of the Milpitas Police Department, along with a host of community groups, are busily preparing for "National Night Out" neighborhood parties and events throughout the city. Held each year in August, the National Night Out campaign is an effort designed to heighten crime and drug prevention awareness, and strengthen neighborhood spirit and community partnerships with police.

The nationwide National Night Out program was founded in 1972, and now in its 37th year it involves more than 16,000 communities from all 50 states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities and military bases worldwide. In Milpitas, this year's event is planned for Tuesday, August 6.

Often dubbed "America's Night Out Against Crime," National Night Out provides the opportunity for neighbors to gather in block parties to get to know each other better, sending a strong message to criminals that community members will look out for each other by reporting suspicious activity in their neighborhood. Residents show their support by leaving their front porch light on from dusk until 10 p.m.

During this year's event, Milpitas police officers will visit local gatherings between 6 and 9 p.m. to meet with the residents, distribute crime prevention material and answer question about local crime and safety. They also will give police stickers to children and will encourage families to take photos with officers and patrol cars.

Milpitas residents who would like to host a National Night Out neighborhood party or learn details about the program, should contact Officer Kita Inthasack at (408) 586-2526 or send him an email at kinthasack@ci.milpitas.ca.gov.

Acacia Creek's patriotic flair

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY STEPHANIE GERTSCH

Senior living facility Acacia Creek in Union City creates a supportive and comfortable community for its residents, including little touches that contribute so much to a complete lifestyle. One custom is decorating the lobby and common areas with festive flourishes reflecting major holidays. Currently, the theme is 4th of July, with plenty of American flags and red, white & blue ribbon.

These displays are courtesy of decorator Jose Herrera, known in the Acacia Creek community as a midnight fairy who comes in after hours and vanishes before morning, leaving the space transformed.

If you are interested in learning more about Acacia Creek, visit their website at <http://www.acaciacreek.org/> or give them a call at (877) 902-7555.

Newark's IHOP restaurant was the safest place in town recently when the Newark Optimist Club held its 48th annual "Police Officer of the Year breakfast celebration."

During the June 12 event numerous police officers, Tri-City area dignitaries, family members, Optimist Club members and other guests filled two rooms at the restaurant to honor officers from Newark, Fremont and Union City for their exemplary work during the past year.

This year's honorees were Officer Ryan Lobue, Fremont Police Department (FPD); Sgt. Brian Baumgartner, Union City

Police Department (UCPD) and Agent Jeff Revay, Newark Police Department (NPD). These officers exhibited the highest standards of work ethics and leadership. This peer-generated award is voted on each year by the respective Police Officer Associations and is held in high regard in law enforcement circles.

During the program FPD Chief Kim Petersen joined UCPD Chief Jared Rinetti and NPD Captain Chomnan Loth in speaking about the honorees and the qualities that made them so deserving of this honor.

Other city dignitaries also commented with great pride in their respective officers. Marla Blowers served as the event chairwoman and Larry Jett served as Master of Ceremonies.

The Newark Optimists hold this event in conjunction with Optimist International's Respect for Law week which is held in mid-May. Honoree Jeff Revay from NPD was not available for a photo at the event.

July Concert Alert!

If you're a music fan in the Bay Area, you're probably well aware that summer is the time to get your fix for outdoor live music, from varied community bands scattered over the Tri-City Area. Maybe you started packing in summer concerts in June, but if you've yet to make it out to your local parks in the evening, not to worry. Several concerts are still winding down their summer programs, and others are just ready to get started in mid-July. Hayward Municipal Band will hold their finale Sunday concert on July 14, while Milpitas and Fremont Central Park are gearing up to start on July 16 and July 11, respectively.

There's still a summer of music to enjoy, so grab a blanket, grab a friend, and head over to the park on one of these warm evenings.

The public works department will host a community meeting at 6 p.m. Thursday, July 18 at the Centerville Community Center Centerville Room, 3355 Country Drive. Members of the public are encouraged to attend the meeting. For more information, visit www.FremontSmartCorridor.org.

Fallen Heroes Does Not Forget

By JOHNNA M. LAIRD

Split seconds change lives forever. Moments on March 21, 2009 left four Oakland police officers dead, forever altering life for families and loved ones. A convicted felon gunned down two officers during a traffic stop and later slayed two more, wounding a fifth as he holed up in an apartment building. This marked the largest loss of police officers in a single day since 911.

Oakland Fire Battalion Chief Tom Gallinatti received a phone call the next day that changed the course of his next 10 years. Diablo Country Club was calling, asking Gallinatti to fundraise for families of the slain officers. Gallinatti knew one of the officers personally, how could he say no?

With 35 years career fire service, Gallinatti jumped in and organized a celebrity golf tournament, raising $40,000. The experience opened his eyes to a bigger need.

A state-wide nonprofit, Police and Fire Fallen Heroes, was launched with a mission to pay tribute to police and fire service personnel who died performing duties in California and provide support for families and agencies left grieving the loss.

Since the nonprofit began, Gallinatti has served as Chief Executive Officer of a cadre of 10 – 20 law enforcement and fire personnel volunteers. Police and Fire Fallen Heroes has raised more than $400,000, earning charity database GuideStar's top rating, and honoring 96 police and fire personnel killed in action. Fundraising for Fallen Heroes gave Gallinatti's life new direction and meaning as he headed into retirement. "I knew I wasn't ready to stop giving and serving," he says.

Police and Fire Fallen Heroes will mark its 10th anniversary this year with a "Tribute Dinner and Concert" on Sunday, July 21, at the San Ramon Marriott, a first-of-its-kind event for the nonprofit. More than 300 are expected to attend. The event includes both silent and live auctions, scholarship award presentations, dinner, and a live concert with dancing to Mersey Beach, described as a Northern California's premier party band, with a playlist ranging from the 60s to 2019. San Jose Sharks broadcaster Randy Hahn will serve as master of ceremonies. "America's Singing Policeman," Daniel Rodriguez, a Ground Zero Survivor and retired New York Police Officer, will also entertain.

Dinner and concert will be followed by golf and bocce tournaments the next day on July 22 at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo. Tournament day starts at 8:30 a.m. with cook-to-order breakfast followed by a Call-to-Carts at 10:30 a.m. and Bocce at noon. A 19th Hole Reception at 4:30 p.m. includes a silent auction and ends the fundraiser. Celebrity tournament host is Tower of Power veteran guitarist Jeff Tamelier. Major League Baseball pitcher Vida Blue, who played for the Oakland As, San Francisco Giants, and Kansas City Royals, will be among those on the golf course.

Lou Cuneo of Fremont, a Fallen Heroes volunteer, is responsible for the 40-page event that includes biographies of those killed in action in the last year and information on scholarship recipients. Before high school graduation, Fallen Heroes contacts children of those who died in action to notify them to apply. Scholarship awards range from $1,000 - $6,000 and are renewable.

Cuneo began volunteering with Fallen Heroes a year ago after Andrew Camilleri, a young Highway Patrol Officer he knew, was killed on December 24, 2017 by a drunk driver, leaving behind a wife and three small children. To honor and remember Camilleri, Cuneo attended a Fallen Heroes fundraiser. Cuneo's 50 years in public service, including 20 years with Atlanta Fire, naturally drew him to Fallen Heroes. Cuneo has served in a range of capacities, including designing posters and banners. Officially known as an ambassador, Cuneo is also gathering auction donations. Wherever he goes, he strikes up conversations about Fallen Heroes. "Fallen Heroes allows me to give back to the people who have lost someone in their family," he says.

In the last year, Fallen Heroes, operating out of donated space in Walnut Creek, has hired its first full-time employee to expand fundraising and corporate partnerships. "We realized we can't grow without paid staff.," says Gallinatti. "We need corporate sponsors that believe in the cause." Partnerships with organizations like California Pizza Kitchen helped Fallen Heroes provide immediate food support after 26-year old Tara O'Sullivan of Sacramento, was killed as she responded to a domestic violence call.

The organization has recruited more than 20 entertainment volunteers and nearly the same number of supporters in national sports, including former San Francisco 49'er Gary Plummer from Fremont whose dad was among Fremont Police Department's first officers. Captain Chesley "Sully" Sullenberger who piloted the US Airways Flight 1549 to an emergency landing on the Hudson River, saving 155 lives, is also among celebrities supporting the nonprofit.

Fallen Heroes expects to increase its presence in the next two years in Southern California when one of Gallinatti's friends in fire service retires. Word of the organization has spread beyond California. As of June 2019, volunteers in Nevada have established Police and Fire Fallen Heroes to serve their state.

Moonlight Train Rides

During the month of July, Niles Canyon Railroad is celebrating the 50th Anniversary of the Apollo 11 Lunar Landing. The actual 50th Anniversary of the Apollo 11 Lunar Landing occurred July 20th, 1969. One Giant Leap for Mankind resonates with so many, so join us for “Moonlight Train Rides,” this year’s special version of our popular summer twilight rides, on Saturday, July 13 and Saturday, July 20. These will be evening train rides through Niles Canyon, departing from the Niles/Fremont Station on Mission Boulevard

The early evening train rides, powered by one our historic diesel locomotives, will return after dark; bring your binoculars and telescopes! There will be a snack bar on the train for your convenience. Children 3-12, traveling with an adult, receive a complimentary Niles Canyon Railway Apollo 11 logo backpack while supplies last. Don't miss this extraordinary event; sign up for tickets early!
