On the green grass along the banks of the Quarry Lakes in Fremont, people will gather en masse to race for those who have been affected by breast cancer. This Saturday, September 28, will mark the 20th anniversary of the Hope Renewal Empowerment Support (HERS) Breast Cancer Foundation's Walk/Run Fundraiser. The non-profit foundation was established in 1998 by three women: Nancy Vitale, Trish McMahon, and Cheryl Maloney, because "they felt that the needs of women weren't being met," says executive director of HERS Tina Fernandez-Steckler.

Jet Liu, MD, Joins Washington Township Medical Foundation

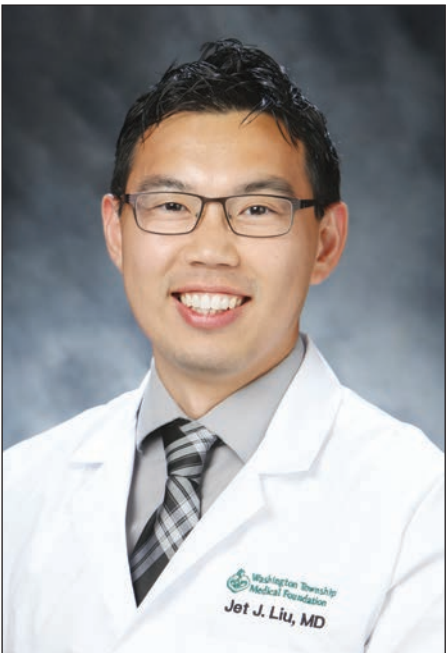

Orthopaedic surgeon specializes in treating ankle and foot injuries

Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF) is pleased to welcome Jet Liu, MD, a fellowship-trained orthopaedic surgeon who specializes in treating ankle and foot injuries and conditions.

Born and raised in Beijing, China, Dr. Liu is fluent in Mandarin and English. He moved with his family to Houston, Texas, when he was in high school. Dr. Liu's father practiced family medicine and sports medicine in China. "My elementary school was located next to his hospital. I was exposed at an early age to his treatment of sports injuries and his reading of X-rays," he says.

"What originally caught my eye about Washington Hospital is that it is a hospital built by the community to serve the community," he says. "When I interviewed, I immediately felt that everyone here is family. I really didn't hesitate." He adds, "I will do my best to make every one of my patients feel like they are part of the family as well."

Dr. Liu, who is a member of the Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society, received his medical degree from the Paul L. Foster School of Medicine at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center in El Paso, Texas. He completed his residency at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, and a fellowship in orthopaedic foot and ankle surgery at the Cleveland

Washington Township Medical Foundation welcomes orthopaedic surgeon, Jet Liu, MD.

Clinic Foundation in Cleveland, Ohio.

"Orthopaedic surgery is a very rewarding career," says Dr. Liu. "It is one of the few specialties in medicine where you can make an immediate impact on a patient's life."

Dr. Liu is passionate about specializing in and treating foot and ankle ailments. "I see the foot and ankle as the weight bearing foundation of an individual," he says. "Fractures are one of the most common traumatic injuries for the ankle, but there are also other varieties of conditions such as arthritis, tendon injuries, ligament injuries, overuse injuries such as shin splints or plantar fasciitis, and common deformities, such as bunions and hammer toes."

"I am trained in minimally invasive techniques such as ankle arthroscopy," notes Dr. Liu, referring to surgical procedures that allow a doctor to make repairs inside a joint without having to make large incisions, and which can potentially reduce healing time, expediting recovery.

Among the many reasons why Dr. Liu chose to practice in Fremont is Washington Hospital's Center for Wound Healing and Hyperbaric Medicine. "Hyperbaric chambers help people heal their wounds in a special environment. The increased oxygen in the blood brings greater healing potential to the area of interest," he says. "With foot and ankle, one of the most common conditions of the diabetic population is chronic, slow healing wounds. I am very excited that Washington Hospital has the ability to provide this service to the local community."

While Dr. Liu is proud to treat his Bay Area patients using the latest technology, one of his most rewarding experiences as a surgeon was in a church-based clinic in Antigua, Guatemala. Dr. Liu joined a surgical team that brought much needed health care to the central highlands of Guatemala by the nonprofit medical mission organization, Faith in Practice.

"We were in Antigua for eight days," he explained. "We operated on patients with a variety of orthopaedic problems. We performed about 80 surgeries, including some of the worst lower extremity deformities I have seen—either from consequence of untreated fractures, infections, or congenital etiology. There were many patients who had been waiting for health care for over a year, they traveled hundreds of miles to see us and they were genuinely grateful. It was one of the most rewarding experiences of my life."

Not only is Dr. Liu new to WTMF, he is new to California and looking forward to making this his new home. The Bay Area is a perfect fit for Dr. Liu, who relishes being outdoors and whose hobbies include running, biking, basketball, and calisthenics. He also enjoys traveling, cooking and spending time with his family, including his corgi, Met.

Special Event Time to Think Pink!

Annual October Event Offers Fun, Friendship, and Tips for Self-Care

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month and the familiar pink ribbons remind us about the need to promote breast health and support breast cancer survivors. Washington Hospital's Think Pink event on Thursday, October 17, offers the community a way to do just that.

Think Pink is a fun and informative evening that brings people together to learn about ways to prevent breast cancer and improve overall health. This year, speakers will discuss the latest breast cancer treatment options available at Washington Hospital and complementary therapies that can help improve physical and emotional well-being during and after cancer treatment.

The event runs from 5 to 7:30 p.m. and will be held in the tent atrium at Washington West, located at 2500 Mowry Ave. in Fremont. Light refreshments will be provided. To register, call 510.818.7301.

"Think Pink is for the entire community," said Victoria Leiphart, MD, a Washington Township Medical Foundation gynecologist and event emcee. "Think Pink is focused on breast health, not just breast cancer. Every person who has breasts – and that includes men – is at risk for breast cancer, and every one of us has had a family member or friend who has had breast cancer. It's a common problem that has touched many lives."

The Washington Women's Center is a nationally accredited breast center. The National Accreditation Program for Breast Centers recognizes centers providing quality breast care in the United States.

"Think Pink is a very welcoming event," said Laura Constantine, Washington Women's Center coordinator and a nurse navigator. "The tent atrium provides a lovely setting. We want to make attendees feel special, with linens and fresh flowers on the tables."

As a nurse navigator, Constantine works with patients who have had an abnormal mammogram or been diagnosed with breast cancer. She helps to guide them, and their families, through the breast cancer treatment journey, connecting them to the care they need.

Think Pink will start with a health fair where attendees can learn about some of the resources that are available to them. Several local health organizations will be on hand, including the HERS Breast Cancer Foundation, which supports anyone who is healing from breast cancer by providing postsurgical products and services regardless of financial status, and Drivers for Survivors, a group that drives cancer patients to appointments.

Featured Speakers

Emi Yoshida, MD, will be the keynote speaker at Think Pink. Dr. Yoshida is a radiation oncologist at the Washington Radiology Oncology Center in Fremont, which gives residents in the Tri-City Area access to the latest advances in radiation therapy. Dr. Yoshida, who is also assistant professor in the Department of Radiation Oncology at UC San Francisco, will talk about some of the leading-edge treatment options available to breast cancer patients at Washington Hospital.

Following Dr. Yoshida, yoga instructor, Anjali Rao, will focus on self-care. She is a breast cancer survivor and avid yoga practitioner. She teaches the Candlelit Yoga class at the Washington Women's Center as well as other classes for cancer patients and survivors.

"I will speak as a person who has used yoga as a tool, not just to survive, but to thrive," she said. "It helped me reconnect with my body. Yoga can help in many ways. It builds strength, reduces stress and helps manage anxiety. It's about the mind-body connection. Cancer is a long and winding road—not a straight and narrow path—and yoga can help you get through the bumps in the road."

Ribbon of Awareness: members of the Washington Hospital community form human pink ribbon. A special Think Pink event will be held on Oct. 17, 5 to 7:30 p.m.

Dr. William Dugoni, medical director for the Washington Women's Center and a member of the Washington Township Medical Foundation, will provide an update on some of the services available at the Washington Women's Center, which offers advanced diagnostic services and an expert clinical staff in a warm and welcoming environment.

"In response to the feedback we received after past events, we decided to have one less speaker this year to provide more time for people to connect with each other and learn about all the resources that are available," Constantine said.

Washington Hospital offers a wide range of services for community members who want to feel better and lead healthier lives, including wellness classes like Heartfulness Meditation, Tai Chi, and Gentle Yoga for Health and Healing, just to name a few. You can even get a massage by a certified massage therapist, and there are special Think Pink discounts during October.

For more information about services available at the Washington Women's Center, as well as health and wellness classes offered by Washington Hospital, visit www.whhs.com/womenscenter. All community members are welcome to attend Think Pink.

Under normal circumstances, residents are not encouraged to release waterfowl into Lake Elizabeth. They are also expected to refrain from dumping household items around the local park. However, on September 28, a flotilla made up of thousands of rubber duckies will be set free during the 25th annual “Tri-Cities Ducks for Bucks benefit race.” (Entrants will be safely collected after the race is over.) Each duck athlete will have a sponsor, and those who make it to the finish line first will earn a prize. Sponsorships are $5 per duck (with a sixth duck thrown in for free when you buy five), and all proceeds will go toward League of Volunteers’ holiday programs, such as Thanksgiving Day Meal, Holiday Toy Drive, and Adopt-a-Family. One of every 500 ducks will receive this year’s great grand prize: a car worth up to $30,000 from any dealer in Fremont. The grand prize is $2,000 in cash, and other top winners include a wellness package for chiropractic and detox visits, large screen TV, autographed Steph Curry jersey, girls’ and boys’ bicycles, and a weekend stay at Doubletree Hilton. While you don’t have to be present to collect your duck racer’s prize, attendees may stay to enjoy entertainment, free kids’ carnival, food, and raffle prizes.

PIRATES OF EMERSON

“Pirates of Emerson” is sailing back into port to celebrate their 28th year of frights and thrills. This classic East Bay haunted attraction started small on Emerson Street in Fremont, moved around as it grew in scale and popularity, and has currently dropped anchor at the Alameda County Fairgrounds. This year the frights will set sail on October 4, and continue through November 2. In addition to the perennial pirate attraction, fearless guests can explore several other horror genres: “Mystery Mansion,” “Hillbilly Holler,” “Maze Haze,” and “Dorm of Doom.” A discount “landlubber” pass is also available for guests who prefer to forego more intense scares and simply enjoy the ambience of the park, where there will be live music and entertainment, “frightmares” sideshow, fortuneteller, and more. (Check out their website for a schedule is dedicated to providing memorable scares. If you want to make your friends (or yourself) scream, you will not leave disappointed. However, the park is about more than Halloween spirit. Contrary to the anti-social title, Pirates of Emerson is known for supporting various causes such as Tri-City Volunteers Fremont Police D.A.R.E, Boy Scouts of America, Thornton Baptist Church, and Fremont Unified School District. General admission is $30 online and $35 at the door (cash and card accepted). Tickets are nonrefundable, but they are transferrable and good any night.

With detailed sets, 3D glasses, and fully-immersed actors, Pirates of Emerson

Newark teen's science project receives national recognition

SUBMITTED BY JUSTIN COHEN

Ruhi Yusuf, 13, of Newark has earned a spot as a Top 30 finalist in the prestigious Broadcom MASTERS program, a nationally known Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) competition for middle school students.

Yusuf is a seventh grader at Challenger School-Ardenwood; her project for the competition, "Effectiveness of Different Plants as Coagulants to Purify Contaminated Drinking Water," was well-received by the judges. Her next step will be a trip to Washington, D.C. from October 25-30 where she will participate in a rigorous competition for more than $100,000 in awards.

Yusuf's inspiration was her uncle, who manages a water district in India that provides drinking water to people in more than 300 villages. Unfortunately, the underground pipelines for drinking water and wastewater often run parallel to each other and are not always watertight. When leaks happen, the drinking water can become contaminated, forcing people to use chemical packs to purify the water. "I wanted to find effective, safer alternatives to chemicals for villagers to purify water," Yusuf explained.

Many water treatment plants use a chemical process called coagulation that pulls certain contaminants out of water. Alum, or aluminum sulfate, is often used for that purpose as it causes tiny particles of material in water to clump together. Eventually, the clumped particles settle.

For her project, Yusuf tested four types of plant materials as possible alternatives to alum. She ground up moringa seeds, okra seeds, and nirmali seeds, and prepared Aloe vera gel plant leaves. She added an equal amount of each material to water mixed with kaolin, then mixed each turbid water sample vigorously for one minute. Three minutes of slower mixing followed, and the samples sat for three hours to let solids settle out. Then Yusuf tested the treated water. All the plant materials substantially cut down on turbidity. They also reduced the total dissolved solids to levels close to World Health Organization standards. The pH values were within safe drinking water ranges.

When she's not solving the worldwide drinking water shortage, Yusuf engages in various hobbies. "My favorite hobby is practicing an Indian flute called bansuri," she said, adding that playing the instrument gives her a sense of stillness and helps relieve stress from school. She also has played the piano since age four. Eventually, Yusuf hopes to become a computer scientist. "Computer science is all about learning the tools to solve real-world problems," she said.

HERS Breast Cancer Foundation 20th Run/Walk Fundraiser

HERS Foundation

The foundation runs three retail stores that provide cancer patients, primarily women, with wigs, prosthetics and other products that aid the recovery process. “What drives us is giving,” says Fernandez-Steckler. Many of the people who come to HERS are preparing for surgery, and the staff there walks them through what they will need afterward. The products HERS provides can be prohibitively expensive if patients do not have insurance or the items are not covered. “We do not bill patients who are underserved and can’t afford to pay. That’s the whole reason why we’re here.” In addition, those who claim they cannot afford payments are accepted at face value and are not required to show proof of income. The proceeds from the run will help HERS continue to give patients products at reduced prices or free of cost, thus providing them, “the dignity that they deserve.” This year’s fundraising goal for the event is $92,000.

that was the first year Buentello-Gilligan and her mother walked the 5k.

Seven years later they now run the Footprints booth at the community expo. Runners come up before the race and write on foot-shaped pieces of paper the person they want to dedicate their race to. They pin the paper to their clothing while they run. Buentello-Gilligan says that although the gesture can be beautiful, it’s “sad to see so many people who have passed or, people that are fighting.” Her mother also runs a new booth she introduced for survivors, where they can ring a bell—a celebratory ritual within the cancer survivor community. Buentello-Gilligan says, “You ring the bell three times to signify: That’s it. I won. I’m done with this.”

Cielito Santos got involved with the organization after hearing about it from her former coworkers. She walked the race for the first time six years ago and now she’s on the committee as a volunteer coordinator. She says she no longer walks the race

For the 20th anniversary of the fundraiser, Fernandez-Steckler thought they should do something different. She says she wanted to make the event more inclusive, to have “elements that reflect how diverse our community is.” In particular, the community expo will have 40 booths from local businesses and organizations, up from last year’s 30. There will be a Bollywood-themed warm up prior to the race, a tradition started last year. And while runners and walkers are on the course there will be a 30-minute yoga session on the grass nearby for those who can not participate in the race.

Faces at the Race

Jennifer Buentello-Gilligan’s mother, a breast cancer survivor, is the main reason she got involved with HERS. The year her mother, Gloria Buentello, went in for her first cancer related surgery, Buentello-Gilligan was at her doctor’s office close by getting her first mammogram. Her mother was referred to the HERS store after chemotherapy and because now she is up bright and early at 4:30 a.m. with other organizers on the day of the event, getting ready to check-in volunteers.

Everyone is excited before the race, Santos says, but there is also an element of sadness, and she sees people get emotional because, “that’s another year they survived.” Still, even though she says it can be tiring, every year she returns because it is also an amazing experience to witness and be a part of. “I get goose bumps every time that I go.”

California campaign will warn public of vaping dangers

By KATHLEEN RONAYNE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

California will spend $20 million on a public awareness campaign about the dangers of vaping nicotine and cannabis products and step up efforts to halt the sale of illicit products amid a rise in vaping-related illnesses.

Democratic Gov. Gavin Newsom announced the actions Monday as part of an executive order.

Many of the hundreds of nationwide vaping illnesses appear linked to use of cannabis-based oils, though some people reported vaping nicotine products, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. California has seen at least 63 cases and one of the six deaths reported around the country.

At the same time, flavored e-cigarettes made by companies such as Juul Labs are contributing to a rise in youth smoking. The public awareness campaign Newsom announced aims to tackle all forms of vaping, he said.

“As a father of four, this has been an issue that has been brought to the forefront of my consciousness,” he said.

While President Donald Trump and New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo have announced plans to ban the sale of flavored e-cigarettes, Newsom said he doesn’t have similar executive authority. But he said he wants lawmakers to send him legislation to do so next year.

A similar effort failed this year, but the lawmakers behind it said they’ll try again.

“We fully support the Governor’s belief that these products should be banned, and we look forward to working with him to pass legislation that will bring an end to this public health crisis and protect the youth in our state,” Sen. Jerry Hill and Assemblymen Jim Wood and Kevin McCarty, all Democrats, said in a statement.

Most of Newsom’s actions center on the use of e-cigarettes, though he said the state is stepping up its enforcement of illicit cannabis products as well.

A spokesman for Juul Labs, one of the most prominent e-cigarette companies, said the company is reviewing Newsom’s announcement and applauds action to crack down on counterfeit and knockoff vaping products.

“On reported illnesses, we have been monitoring the situation closely,” spokesman Ted Kwong said in an emailed statement. Juul products do not contain THC or any compound derived from cannabis, he said.

Beyond the public awareness campaign, Newsom has directed the state departments of public health and tax and fee administration to explore ways to warn people about the potential dangers of vaping and tackle the sale of illicit products.

He’s asked the public health department to explore new warning signs at retailers and in advertisements.

On the tax side, he’s asking officials to consider changing how e-cigarettes are taxed, because they typically face lower taxes than traditional cigarettes. Making the products more expensive to buy could make them harder for teenagers to purchase, he argued. Juul did not specifically comment on that aspect of Newsom’s proposal or his call for a ban on flavored e-cigarettes.

The California Department of Tax and Fee Administration may also try to implement a tracking system on the distribution of nicotine-based vaping products, similar to the “track and trace” program it already uses for legal cannabis.

Such a program would allow it to track the amount of vaping product distributors are giving retailers. The department would then track that against the tax it is collecting from retailers. That would help the state see if retailers are making money from illicit or untaxed products, said Nick Maduros, the department’s director.

Josh Drayton of the California Cannabis Industry Association says the legal marijuana industry already follows rigorous standards and it supports efforts to place those same standards on nicotine-based products.

Manufacturing Day

PHOTOS COURTESY OF PAUL HENDRYCKS AND FABRICATORS & MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION

Since 2012, “Manufacturing Day” has been challenging the preconceptions of students that the manufacturing industry represents dull, repetitive tasks where humans compete with robots to work in vast, airless machine floors. Far from these jobs being a relic of the industrial past, companies are facing a shortage of skilled workers. The Founding Partner Fabricators and Manufacturers Association created Manufacturing Day (MFG Day) to give businesses a chance to open their doors and show the upcoming work force the variety of careers available in the manufacturing industry.

On October 4, several companies around the East Bay will host tours of their facilities with presentations on their equipment, services, and mission. Participants are requested to wear comfortable clothing and closed-toe shoes, and remove loose items such as jewelry. Most places will start tours at 10 a.m., but times can vary, so please contact businesses directly.

Walgreens, Google affiliate to launch drone delivery test

By TOM MURPHY
AP HEALTH WRITER

Walgreens and a Google affiliate are testing drone deliveries that can put drugstore products on customer doorsteps minutes after being ordered.

Snacks like Goldfish Crackers or gummy bears as well as aspirin for sick kids will be delivered starting next month in Christiansburg, Virginia, by a 10-pound (4.5-kilogram) drone flying as fast as 70 miles (113 kilometers) per hour, the companies said Thursday.

Customers will be able to order from a list of more than 100 items that includes individual consumer goods and packages of products to help with things like coughs and colds, but not prescriptions. They will place their order through a Wing app and then get delivery anywhere from five to 10 minutes afterward.

A drone capable of making a 12-mile (19-kilometer) round trip will fly to the delivery site, hover and use a winch system to lower the package to the ground and leave it there. The drone will be run by Wing Aviation LLC, a subsidiary of Google parent Alphabet Inc.

“We’re taking a 10-pound aircraft to move a three-pound package through the sky,” Wing CEO James Ryan Burgess said. “It’s very light, very efficient.”

Drone deliveries in the United States are still largely in early testing. Google announced in April that Wing received federal approval to make commercial drone deliveries. It marked the first time a company has gotten a federal drone delivery certification.

Online retail giant Amazon said in June that it plans to use self-piloted drones to deliver packages to shoppers’ homes in the coming months.

United Parcel Service Inc. also said in July that it was setting up a subsidiary to expand its drone deliveries, which are limited to transporting medical samples at a group of hospitals in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Burgess told reporters Thursday that Wing and Walgreens had no timeframe for how long this test would take or when consumers might expect widespread drone use.

“I think we still have a ways to go before it’s the norm in our transportation network,” he said.

Walgreens and Wing picked Christiansburg for their test because Wing has been working with nearby Virginia Tech on drone deliveries.

The test comes as Walgreens Boots Alliance Inc., which is based in Deerfield, Illinois, and chief rival CVS Health Corp. also work to expand same-day deliveries of prescriptions and other products on the ground. Drugstores have been dealing with competition from Amazon, which offers its Prime customers same-day delivery for detergent, toothpaste and millions of other products.

CVS and Walgreens built thousands of drugstores nationwide to get closer to their customers before even-more-convenient online shopping exploded in popularity and started hurting their in-store business.

AP Retail Writer Joseph Pisani in New York contributed to this story.

No Fee if No Recovery

A night to celebrate the arts

BY BRUCE ROBERTS

“Earth without art is just ‘ch.’” In support of this simple but profound saying, the Hayward Arts Council -- which encourages local artists and operates six art galleries within the city, including one in the brand new library -- is busy preparing for its yearly fundraising event, which will be held in the beautiful Hayward City Hall Rotunda.

The Friday, November 8 event promises to be a lively evening of food and music, good conversation, and, of course, fundraising. Former Hayward City Council Member Anna May will emcee, and Senior Vice President of Taymor Industries, Randy Wright, will lead the live auction. Dinner will be catered by Mamacitas Cafe, and guests will be entertained by the wonderful Mt. Eden High School String Ensemble.

A live auction will include such terrific prizes as Disneyland Park Hopper Passes, TPC Stonebrae Golf Round for four players, hotel stays and tickets to local sporting events. The silent auction will include gift certificates to several local restaurants and businesses as well as beautiful art donated by several local artists.

Bev Lindsay, Anthony Michael Diaz, Usha Shukla, Ann Maloney-Mason, Carol Jones Brown, Bill Sala, and several other artists have donated original paintings for the auction. Abstract paintings by Jones Brown and Shukla are whirlwinds of intense colors in harmonious patterns. Shukla has recently had six paintings commissioned by the Alameda County Arts Commission. Diaz is a multimedia artist, while Sala, described online as “one of the pre-eminent surrealist artists working in America today,” has exhibited and won awards throughout the Bay Area for years.

So, if you like high level art and supporting a good cause, please join the Hayward Arts Council at its November fundraiser. Individual tickets are $50 before October 30, $65 after. Sponsorship tables are available, too. For details, call (510) 538-2787. Let’s keep the earth thriving with art! Visit www.haywardartscouncil.org for tickets and gallery exhibits and programs.

Ice Age Fossils

SUBMITTED BY
DR. JOYCE BLUEFORD

The Children’s Natural History Museum (CNHM) in Fremont was started in 2004 by the Math Science Nucleus, a nonprofit organization devoted to science education. Originally the space was intended to house contents of an old museum in the San Lorenzo School District, created by Wes Gordon in the 1940s, and to be used as a teaching tool. Gordon was a teacher committed to providing students with “discovery.” The museum’s major components were fossils from the Irvington District. CNHM has grown in the last few years with over 15,000 visitors per year, from school children to adults.

San Francisco Public Utilities Commission donated fossils found in Warm Springs in 2015.

New fossils were found in 2017, hidden in Wes Gordon’s house in Hayward, increasing the collection to over 1,500 specimens. Now with construction along the 680 corridor, new fossils are being found as the freeway is being extended. These fossils are all being prepared and housed at CNHM, compliments of Caltrans.

The Fremont Main Library is hosting two free programs with funding from Lam Research Foundation. On Tuesday, October 1, families can learn about Ice Age Megafauna that roamed the area; hands-on activities and make-and-takes will provide children with discovery lessons. On Tuesday, October 15, the community can attend a public presentation on the significance of these fossil sites and plans for a new museum in the Irvington District, where the fossils were found. Dr. Joyce Blueford, Ph.D., board president and geologist, will be the speaker.

For more information about the programs, call the Children’s Information Desk at (510) 745-1421 or visit <https://guides.aclibrary.org/fremont> under Events.

Passport to WORLD ARTS Program

BY ARATHI SATISH

Fremont Cultural Arts Council (FCAC), in partnership with Induz and Fremont Library, is presenting "Passport to World Arts" for local students. This free international art workshop takes students on a virtual journey around the world to learn the arts and cultures of various countries. As many local schools lack access to art and global education, Induz is dedicated to nurturing creativity, and promoting global learning and appreciation of diverse cultures.

At Passport to World Arts, students go on a journey through the world of art making, based on cultural artifacts and crafts of many people. According to Connie Chew, FCAC board member, each class will consist of up to 25 children, who will need to pick up a ticket at the library's children section ahead of time. FCAC is providing four sessions from October 4 to November 16 to the first 25 elementary through middle school students who wish to participate.

Students with a passport in hand will be taken to a different country as a destination each week, learn about an art form from that country, and complete a project. They will decipher hieroglyphics in Egypt, learn about stained-glass paintings in Europe and Italy, create masks in Africa, visit the land of dragons in china, paint Madhunani paintings in India, and much more. At the end of each session, each student will be provided a "stamp" for their passport relating to the country of the day.

This workshop supplements global learning and arts education by using art as a medium. Children, especially those with limited access to art programs, will be provided with a creative fun-filled environment for expressing themselves. More information can be obtained by visiting events.aclibrary.org.

Local author cites compassion strategies in the workplace

SUBMITTED BY TERRI LYNN POLK

The fifth industrial revolution is upon us—a time when artificial intelligence will take on a growing number of tasks formerly handled by humans. To make the most of this period of industrial advancement and technical innovation, corporate trainer and author Immanuel Joseph, a Fremont resident, proposes a reawakening a uniquely human trait: compassion. The Fifth Revolution: Reinventing Workplace Happiness, Health, and Engagement Through Compassion, Joseph's ground-breaking book, is an invitation to rediscover the power of human consciousness both in and out of the workplace. The book releases in September.

Joseph introduces nine pillars of workplace compassion, which include people-first thinking, abundance mindset, embracing others, and big-picture thinking. His aim is to teach people how to use compassion frameworks to shift work cultures—even governments—and create strategies for lifelong changes.

Joseph has several scientific publications and a book chapter to his credit. Joseph has also authored one nonfiction and five fiction books in two languages (English and Tamil). He is the co-founder of MetaMindfulness Multiversity (www.metamindfulness.org) — a platform that brings teachings from some of the wisest thinkers in our generation to corporate audiences.

To learn more, visit www.fifthrevolution.life or connect with Joseph on Facebook at compassionleaders. View the book trailer, at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qYZ31gC5vQw>.

Interactive night of Art for art lovers everywhere

SUBMITTED BY DORSI DIAZ

Sun Gallery's "Evening for the Arts Gala" will be held this year on Friday September 27 at the beautiful Hayward City Hall Rotunda. The event, a once-a-year fundraiser for the Gallery, raises money for the many children's programs that Sun Gallery runs all year long – such as Free Art Saturdays for kids and families, Summer Art Camp, and Field Trip tours for local East Bay schoolchildren. The Gala also raises money for Sun's environmental programs throughout the year, with a focus on climate change education.

This year's event theme is an "Interactive Night of Art" featuring well-loved local musicians and dancers: Robert Sakogawa, The Henry Call and Friends Band, Sun Gallery's own resident Uke Jammer Group (ukulele) and the Ballet Folklorico Tlapalli Dance Group. Two young emerging singers from Hayward will also give solo performances this year: Emerald Starr and Abayomi "Yoyo" Lewis.

Sketch artist and illustrator Ms. Linda Lens will be sketching guests during the evening, and silent and live auctions will be held by Hayward Councilman Francisco Zermeno. In all, over 60 items will be up for auction including special raffle packages prepared for the evening. Items include tickets for Gilroy Gardens, Oakland Zoo, Discovery Museum; signed sports memorabilia; art and jewelry; Art Party certificates; and gift certificates for local restaurants and attractions.

The Gallery, in its 44th year, is a non-profit organization and depends on its membership, community and the City of Hayward to continue providing the many services it offers during the year. The Evening for the Arts is its biggest fundraiser, and everyone who loves and supports the arts is encouraged to attend. Tickets are $50 each and $55 at the door. A full dinner by El Taquitos #2 in Hayward will be served along with appetizers, wine, beer, dessert and refreshments.

Current shows at the Sun Gallery are "Planet Hayward: The Heart of the Bay" (Main Gallery), the upcoming "Creative Veterans Art Project Exhibit" in the Ken Cook Room (begins in October), as well as Sun's annual "Day of the Dead Exhibit and Celebration" (also beginning in October). An encore presentation of Sun's 6th Annual Environmental Exhibit: "Planet Earth: The Beauty of Life" is also on display at John O'Lague Galleria inside Hayward City Hall, and guests are invited to walk the exhibit during the Gala.

Tickets can be purchased through EventBrite at www.eventbrite.com/e/2019-sun-gallery-evening-for-the-arts-gala-tickets-68623608059 or by calling Sun Gallery at 510-581-4050. Regular admission is to the Gallery is always free.

Are you afraid of color? Don't be!

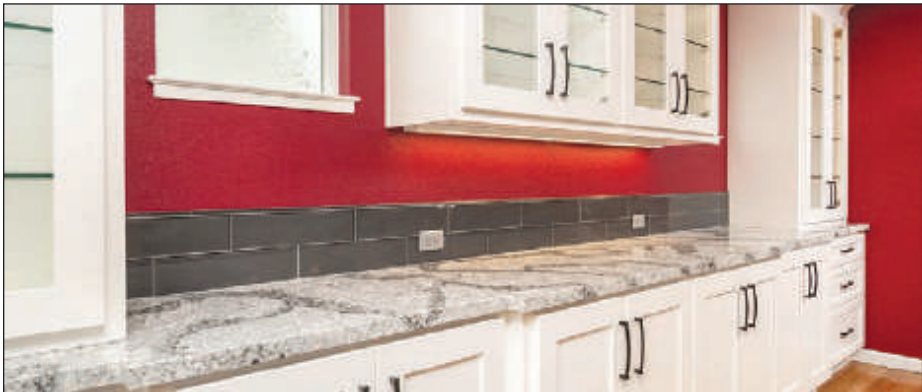

By Anna Jacoby

Friends: Please allow me to encourage you to embrace color in your homes. Very often, people are attracted to color, but are afraid of making a mistake. They watch HGTV, visit model homes, pore over photos on Houzz and Pinterest, and love what they see. But when it comes to their own homes, they are stymied by what to pick. Below are some comments I hear all the time in my business. Does this sound like you? Maybe I can help.

“Won’t this dark color make my room look too small?”

Newsflash: If your room is small, it won't matter what color you pick—your room will still be small. Dark colors by themselves don't make a room look smaller; in fact, dark, cool colors such as charcoal gray, navy blue, and eggplant purple have the opposite effect. Those rich hues visually recede into the distance, giving the effect of walls that move away from you. What makes a room feel small are things such as not enough light, bulky over-scaled furniture or just too much furniture and clutter. I encourage you to try a shade or two darker than what you would normally select and see how much you like the results. Most people really love the colors and are very happy they took the plunge.

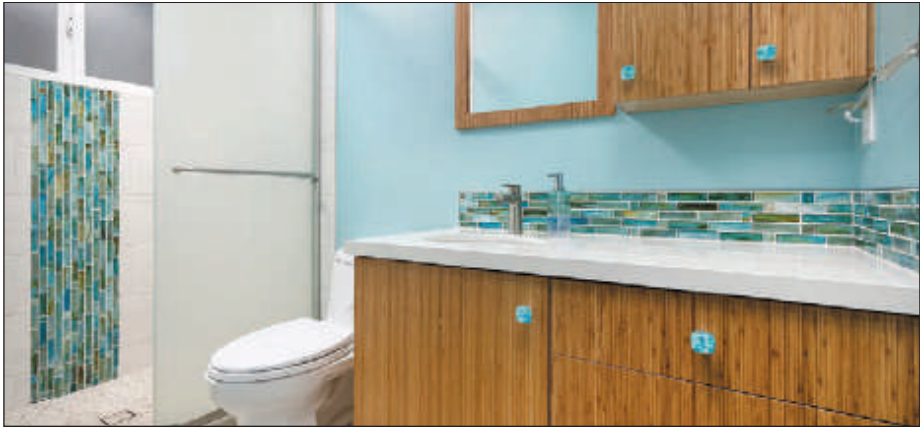

“What about resale value?”

Please, please, please put this idea out of your head right now. Unless you plan to do something extremely unusual, or plan to move in a year (in which case I would probably advise you to save your remodeling money for your next house), please pick colors that make you happy. Most people enjoy color, so just because you pick green or blue or yellow does not mean future buyers won't also like them. Take model homes as an example: model homes are not bastions of boring beige. Model home designers use color to evoke strong feelings and entice buyers to see themselves living in that home. The key is to choose colors that truly complement your furnishings, flooring, countertops, and other elements. If you choose colors with intention and infuse some design flair into your home, you'll get years of enjoyment out of your home and future buyers will also.

“I want to be able to change my decor frequently, so I have to keep my walls neutral.”

I hear people tell me this quite a bit, and honestly, I am always a bit skeptical when I hear it. It seems that so many times when people tell me this, I see sofas from the 80s; faded artwork, rugs, and bedding; and pillows that have seen better days. So, I ask you to be honest with yourself: Do you really change your decor often? Or is that an excuse to “play it safe” with the wall colors?

Don't get me wrong, neutrals are not the enemy— they create an excellent backdrop for all kinds of furnishings and materials. In no way am I telling you not to use neutrals, but I am telling you to pick neutrals because you love them and because they enhance your space, not as the default color or because you are afraid.

If you really do like to change your decor often, then that's great— a wonderful warm wheat color, or a cool, sleek gray tone will keep your walls neutral and will also complement your furnishings. If you like to decorate once and live with it for many years, then that's great too. These same neutrals will work for you in this case, but you can also consider making a more striking statement by choosing darker shades, or by introducing bolder colors like turquoise, red, or navy. It's only paint, after all.

Frances Boyle: living strong at 109

SUBMITTED BY SARAH HERRON

In 1910, Frances Boyle was born under two comets: Daylight Comet and Halley's Comet. Perhaps this favorable omen blessed her with her remarkably long and healthy life. In 2010, Boyle reached the rare human achievement of a 100th birthday. Since then she has been adding to her accomplishment. On September 17, 2019, she turned 109 years old.

Boyle grew up in a small farm in Indiana, one of eight siblings.

She remembers helping with chores and walking over a mile to school—although her dad would pick up all the kids with a single-seater horse and buggy when it rained. After her marriage, Boyle moved to Washington and then to Southern California where she worked as a legal secretary until she retired at age 65.

In 2013, Boyle moved out of her previous home in Fremont's Besaro Mobile Home Community, and she now lives with her granddaughter and great-granddaughter. Although her memory can fail her at times, she still enjoys excellent physical health overall. Her secret to a long life is staying active and eating healthy.

Renewing pride in Puerto Rican-Hawaiian history

BY CHARLENE DIZON

The Bay Area boasts a thriving Puerto Rican-Hawaiian community, including Union City's very own non-profit organization, the Puerto Rican Union of Mutual Aid (otherwise known as PRUMA). For eighty-two years, PRUMA has gathered together to celebrate their culture and create a community that feels like family. The upcoming "El Jibaro de Hawaii Festival" is centered around revitalizing the pride and passion in today's generation of Puerto Rican-Hawaiians.

The Puerto Rican-Hawaiian community's history began over one hundred years ago when Puerto Rico's sugar economy was unfortunately destroyed by two hurricanes in 1899. This ravage caused a severe global shortage of sugar and coffee, which eventually led to the inevitable demand for the product from Hawaii. Puerto Ricans then traveled to Hawaii in hopes of finding labor by working on sugarcane plantations. By ship, the trip was long and uncomfortable; however, the Puerto Ricans endured this difficulty to persevere and rebuild their futures. This relocation is the sole reason as to why there are over 30,000 Puerto Ricans living in Hawaii today. While some Puerto Ricans were content with living in Hawaii, as it closely paralleled their homeland, others decided to take a larger leap and move to America. Speaking on this daunting decision, 95-year-old PRUMA member Jesse Pagán shares his personal experience with migration and his gratitude towards PRUMA.

Having grown up in Hawaii, Pagán recalls his family history and childhood, stating, "My parents migrated by ship to Hawaii. I was born there in 1924 and I grew up there. I do remember facing discrimination in high school due to being Puerto Rican, and I remember feeling different because of that treatment. But I don't hold any ill feelings towards that anymore." Pagán then served in World War II and eventually was discharged and had a family of his own. At this point, Pagán decided to move himself and his family to California to start a new life in a much more diverse and accepting community. With this decision, Pagán was not only able to raise his family in a proudly diversified environment but remain rooted in his culture by joining PRUMA.

Originally founded by PRUMA Chairman Ramon Berrios in 1937, the non-profit organization was initiated to cultivate a safe space dedicated to honoring Puerto Rican culture, music, food, and even sports. In past years, PRUMA sponsored the Union City National Little League baseball team. Club members would even gather together in the park and play on their very own individual teams. PRUMA also participated in several musical festivals and won various awards. The club hall was once packed with members and their families dancing together to live jibaro music. PRUMA also helped members who were in hardship of any kind, emotionally or financially. "We held monthly dances and whatever money was given as an entrance fee was used to raise our PRUMA funds. The orchestral band was happy to donate their services. We wanted to help people in the Puerto Rican-Hawaiian community who needed it," Pagán states. PRUMA represented a family fusion of members who relied on one another for support and strength. However, as time passed, the PRUMA membership slowly began to dwindle.

Celebrate the admirable history of Puerto Rican-Hawaiian culture through food, live music, hula dancing, and storytelling.

PRUMA member Joanne Carvahlo thinks back upon the prime of PRUMA, which occurred in her early childhood. As a child, Carvahlo saw firsthand just how kind and tight-knit the organization was. "I grew up running around our club hall and listening to our members singing and playing the cuatro. We would play slow-pitch league on Sundays at the local park. It was amazing," she states. Carvahlo has witnessed the foundation both flourish and fall. The progression of busy schedules and work-life imbalance began to consume PRUMA members, and, bit by bit, attendance went down. This decrease caught Carvahlo's attention, and she soon became determined to revive the community's Puerto Rican-Hawaiian pride, beginning with this year's El Jibaro de Hawaii Festival.

Jibaro, meaning "hillbilly," may be a controversial term. However, for Carvahlo, jibaro strongly resonates with the backbone of Puerto Rican culture. To Carvahlo, jibaro is a term that honors the resilience and simplicity of the Puerto Rican island citizens. With this in mind, PRUMA's first El Jibaro de Hawaii Festival on Saturday, September 28th will focus on celebrating the admirable history of Puerto Rican-Hawaiian culture through food, live music, hula dancing, and storytelling. Musicians that once performed at the PRUMA hall will be invited back to play genres ranging from jibaro to Latin and salsa music. The Grammy-nominated group Latin Rhythm Boys will be a much-awaited performance, along with a special feature of 88-year-old Hawaiian native Julio Rodrigues, who is California's oldest cuatro player. Rodrigues will be accompanied by his son, Julio Jr. Other musical acts include Johnny Boy Rodrigues and hula dancing by H lau Kamakani Waianuhe. Booths will also be held for vendors selling Puerto Rican-Hawaiian merchandise, from clothing to crafts. Dishes will vary from BBQ to empanadillas to many other cultural plates.

With this festival, Carvahlo hopes to reinforce the PRUMA membership and activity. She states, "I want to hold this festival to the public to remind everyone, especially the current generation, about the history of our culture and why it's so important to remember and celebrate it. We're not Hawaiians. We're Puerto Ricans from Hawaii, and we would love to educate everyone about that."

Entrance to this festival is free. For more information, contact Joanne Carvahlo at (510) 246-6426 or visit <http://www.prumacenter.org/events.html>.

HIPPOS

Danger!
Don't let their gentle appearance fool you. The hippopotamus is considered the world's deadliest large land mammal. These giants kill an estimated 500 people per year in Africa.

Help me find some grass to munch!

Hippos are found in these regions of Africa.

Hippos leave the water at night to look for food. They like to eat grasses – lots of grass. They eat 80 lbs (35 kg) of vegetation each night.

How many hippos can you find on this page?

Open Wide!
Hippos have a huge mouth, measuring up to 4 ft (1.2 m) when opened wide!

How many differences can you find between these two hippos?

CAUTION: SPEEDING HIPPOS

Hippos have a pair of huge incisors in each jaw. The large, curved lower canine teeth are like tusks as they grow throughout a hippo's life. They can reach a length of 1 foot 8 inches (50 cm)! These teeth are used for combat, not eating. When a hippo yawns, it's not tired but it is a sign of a threat.

How Hippos Keep Their Cool

To stay cool in the African heat, hippos spend most of their day in rivers and lakes. Their eyes, nose and ears are located on the top of their head, which means they can see and breathe while the rest of their bodies are under water.

The Hippo Code

Use the code to discover some facts about hippos.

Are hippos slow? Quite the opposite!
Even though their legs are short, and their bodies are large and heavy, a hippo can run fast! Hippos have been clocked running at speeds of 19 to 25 mph (30-40 km/h).

Sweaty, Sweaty Hippos?

Hippos have an oily red liquid that oozes out of their skin. It isn't sweat. Sweat evaporates and cools a body. This liquid looks red in sunlight and it stays on the skin and protects it from drying out – and acts as a sunblock, too!

When early European explorers first noticed this reddish liquid on the hippos they observed, they gave it a name.

Circle every other letter to see what they called it.

BACS, who also operates the Berkeley navigation center (STAIR Center), and two navigation centers in Oakland will provide 24/7 staffing and supportive services to the residents of the program. Since 2014, BACS has served a total of 1,317 people and housed 1,090 through their navigation centers in Berkeley and Oakland using the Housing Fast Support Network (HFSN) model. The creation of

City staff plan to finalize and then submit the site plan drawings to our Building Department and outside utility agencies for review. In parallel, staff will be working with BACS on a services and lease agreement. Construction will take approximately 8-10 months, and projected occupancy of the Housing Navigation Center is anticipated for mid-2020. Community outreach will continue throughout the development of the Center including opportunities for the public to donate, volunteer, and contribute to the success of Fremont's first Housing Navigation Center. I need a Forever Home

Alder is a very friendly and social bunny. This super-sweet bunny has sleek, silky-soft black fur and big brown eyes. He'd make a great candidate for a first-time bunny guardian. He's neutered and ready to go to his loving, indoor-only forever home. Meet Alder at the Hayward Animal Shelter.

Jacob, 4 months old, arrived at the shelter as a scared, tiny furball. Shelter staff and volunteers worked with him and helped him blossom into a playful, confident kitten. He has stunning gray tabby markings. Neutered, chipped, up to date on vaccinations. Meet Jacob at the Hayward Animal Shelter.

The JV Titans took the lead from the start of the game on September 21st with a good offense attack and kept the pressure on as they were able to defuse the Alameda Hornets JV squad's defense. Although the Hornets were able to put together an offensive response late in the game, it was too little, too late. Final score: Titans JV 43, Hornets JV 16.

Close call for Titans

On September 21st, the John F. Kennedy Titans started the day against the Alameda Hornets with an impressive show of offense as they took the lead, but the Hornets kept fighting back. The second quarter found the Titans tied, then behind as their defense was severely tested.

Containing the Hornets offense, the Titans' defense never let the lead grow out of reach and, with only three minutes left in the game, an impressive offensive drive put the ball in the end zone and a one-point deficit as they approached the extra point attempt. A daring two-point conversion was successful and the Titans' comeback was complete. Final score: Titans 15, Hornets 14.

MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

A large crowd including many coaches who were either contemporaries of the legendary Coach Pete “Mike” Michaletos gathered at Tak Fudenna Stadium in Fremont on Saturday, September 21 to honor his memory and view a head bust of the coach who will now be a perennial observer [with previously honored Jim Ingram of Washington H.S.] of the field. “Coach Mike”, was a fixture on the football field of John F. Kennedy High School in Fremont for 46 years. Known as a great coach, but even more as a great person, comments often centered on Coach Mike’s prowess as a mentor and friend. Coach Mike was inducted into the California Coaches Association Hall of Fame in 2011. Sadly, the coach passed on February 22, 2017.

The ceremony was a moving experience for many who knew the man and gave some of his fellow coaches an opportunity to visit with each other. Fremont Mayor Lily Mei spoke about Coach Mike’s contributions to the sport and city. Michaletos family members commented on the influence the man had on everyone around him, especially future generations.

This was a moment that will remain as a bright light in the history of Mission Valley Athletic League events.

Favorite Things

*When the dog bites, when the bee stings
When I'm feeling sad
I simply remember my favorite things
And then I don't feel so bad*

In a discussion of a ban of flavored vaping and tobacco products, citizens and councilmembers in Fremont brought up the prevalence of such flavors as Cotton Candy, Gummi Bear, Slushie and many more. It appears that as attractants, especially to young users, these are some of their favorite things. Growing up in a fast-paced world that presents serious challenges for future generations is not easy or predictable. The confluence of economic, political, environmental trials and tribulations is daunting. Responses run the gamut from either rising to the challenge, ignoring it or avoiding through “alternative facts” or an alternate reality. Evasion is a path taken too often; the tools provided by a marketplace ruled by profit.

Even strong proponents of a free market society must make the difficult decision to control an industry that has prospered economically but is bankrupt in social responsibility. Where there is a clear and present danger to health and safety, especially to children and adolescents, it is the responsibility of all of us through education and collective action (government) to understand the risks and, if necessary, restrict or ban such items. In this case, there are too many unknowns and, just as with dangerous substances that pose potential lethal consequences, it is time for a cautionary approach.

My Favorite Things morphed into John Coltrane's jazz classic, Christmas versions by Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass, Lorrie Morgan's country version and Ariana Grande's 2019 “Seven Rings” as a pop/R&B single. The tobacco industry has also persisted and its theme has endured as well. Some changes signal reflection and adaptation serving different markets. In the case of flavored tobacco and inhalation products that cater to adolescents and young children, the flashing bright red “stop” sign is not an illusion.

In Rogers and Hammerstein's 1959 musical, The Sound of Music, a song by Mary Martin playing Maria emerged that combined whimsy and desire into a string of thoughts seemingly unrelated except for their quirkiness. A recording of Julie Andrews singing “My Favorite Things” from the subsequent film version in 1965, continued its popularity. As a progression of thoughts emerges including raindrops on roses, whiskers on kittens, bright copper kettles and warm woolen mittens..., the final refrain addresses the reason for the plethora of Non Sequiturs:

Union City Plans to change Cannabis program

BY ROELLE BALAN

Cannabis shops have not been built yet in Union City, but local government is looking to change who can come into a dispensary and buy cannabis products.

The city council directed staff during the August 13, 2019 meeting to start working on a resolution that will allow for the sale of recreational marijuana to adults over 21 years old. Motion passed 4-1, with a no from Vice Mayor Singh. Communications manager Lauren Sugayan said through email, the resolution still needs to be approved by the council and will be on the agenda in a September 2019 meeting.

The city wants to change their ordinance to allow adult use because tax revenue collected from just allowing medical marijuana sales would not meet the city's $1.4 million in expected revenue. The revenue would not be made because of the decline of medical marijuana cards issued in Alameda County, competition with neighboring cities, and cannabis delivery businesses that allow sales to adults. The forecasted $1.4 million comes from the city's proposed strategic plan. Sugayan said through email the city does not expect this revenue all at once since the three cannabis businesses will be built at different times.

As for the three businesses, Jiva Life lost their lease at Kohoutek Way and is in the process of changing locations. Redwood Medical Supply received an intent to award a cannabis retail permit resolution in May 2019. Sugayan said the business will need to come back in early 2020 to get final approval from the council for a retail permit. Garden of Eden is close to getting their retail store built. Their tentative opening date is March 2020.

The number of medical marijuana cards is declining in part due to increased access to recreational marijuana. Sugayan said during the August 13, 2019 city council meeting nearly 6,000 medical marijuana cards were issued in 2004. She explained at the time there was no way to buy cannabis products unless someone had a medical card. A total of 560 cards were issued in 2017, and 211 in 2018.

The struggle to get a medical card also has also contributed to the decline. Sugayan explained a person would need to get a doctor's recommendation costing $30-$80. They would then need to obtain a medical card from Alameda County's Health Department, costing around $100.

Changing consumer trends are another reason why the city wants to allow for adult use. “People always fear smoking, that people are going to be smoking it in public. But, in reality, the rising type of use in cannabis is edibles. You'll see a lot more growth in infused edibles such as food, drink, and oils,” Sugayan said. She explained millennials tend to use cannabis as a sleeping aid and for stress relief. Baby Boomers tend to rely on cannabis for joint relief.

The tough application process for medical cannabis businesses before the change to allow adult use sets a high standard for businesses wanting to sell to the adult population. “Limiting the number to three permits in each category, we really took a quality versus quantity approach, through the adoption of an application process back then,” Sugayan said. The categories for cannabis permits are cultivation, distribution, manufacturing, testing, and retail. A city report said the League of California Cities contacted the city to get more information on their rigorous cannabis program to present to a statewide mayor and city manager forum.

The competition for customers from neighboring cities that allow sale of cannabis to adults and the convenience of cannabis delivery is hard to ignore. Lauren said the state regulations started allowing adult use cannabis delivery in every California jurisdiction since January 2019. Cities that allow adult use are Hayward, Oakland, and San Jose.

“Fremont and Newark currently have a ban on cannabis operations. But they're still getting adult use delivered onto their cities,” Sugayan said. A total of 39 cannabis companies can deliver to the Tri-City area. “If we allow our cannabis operators to open their doors and they're only selling medical, this again shows how they're at a disadvantage to all those adult use deliveries coming into town,” Sugayan said.

The council had similar sentiments about the changing economic impacts of cannabis businesses. “I was really thinking about the social, like crime would go up for abusing adult use. But at the same time, if the state of California is allowing it, and we cannot control the delivery of adult-use cannabis, and thinking about the economic impact to our community, I'm convinced that I can support it,” Councilmember Pat Gacoscos said during the August 13, 2019 council meeting.

“I saw the ‘writing on the walls’ once adult use was legalized. I knew that there was not going to be any money in medical. I've been pushing this for a while, I'm happy we're finally here,” Councilmember Jaime Patiño said during the same meeting. Patiño had talked about the possibility of opening up medical cannabis dispensaries to allow adult sales during city budget talks in June 2019.

Charles Hernandez
March 7, 1942 – September 2, 2019
Resident of Fremont

Charles Hernandez passed peacefully on September 2, 2019, surrounded by his loving family. He was born March 7, 1942 to Michael Roldan Hernandez, of Valencia, Spain, and Lola R. Marquez, of Honolulu, HI. He was a hard-working kid on his family's chicken ranch in the Sacramento valley and graduated from Elk Grove High School.

Charles had a long career as an Executive with Sears Roebuck & Co. He loved hunting and fishing and hunted every opportunity he could. When he decided he didn't want to hunt with his rifle any longer, he continued his love of exploring the outdoors by shooting animals with his camera. He was an excellent photographer and spot on with every shot he took. He traveled the NW United States extensively, visiting National Parks and photographing his subjects: wildlife animals and nature every chance he could. He also had an interest in wild mustangs and made connections to find and photograph these beautiful horses. He made invaluable friends everywhere he travelled. When home, you could find him at Mission Coffee shop every morning enjoying a cup of coffee with his many friends there. He loved gospel music, was a writer for outdoor magazines, was a pilot, had a love of trucks, NFL football, and his family. He was a kind and thoughtful man.

He is survived by his 4 children: Cari Airhart, Billings, Mt, Cindi Wiggan, Portland, OR, Chris Broms, Portland, OR, and Charley Hernandez, San Jose, CA; 9 grandchildren, and 3 great- grandchildren and the love of his life Marilyn Pickens of Sherman, TX.

The family would like to invite you to Memorial services at 11:00 AM on Thursday, September 26th, 2019 at Berge Pappas Smith Chapel of the Angels, 40842 Fremont Blvd., Fremont, CA. All friends are welcome. in lieu of flowers or cards please make a donation to one of the following organizations:

Maria Micaela Muñoz

Fremont Resident

September 10, 1927 – September 18, 2019

Maria Micaela Muñoz was born on September 10th, 1927 in the small town of Santiago Papasquiaro, Durango, Mexico. Daughter to Francisco Carreño Fabela and Gerarda Diaz Hurtado. She was fully dedicated to helping her family, raising her brothers, sisters, and her own 13 children.

Preceded by her husband, Margarito Muñoz, and her youngest son, Albert Muñoz. Survived by her children María Luisa Muñoz, Margarita Muñoz, Otilia Gonzales, Juan Muñoz, Enriqueta De La Cruz, José Muñoz, Socorro Fonseca, Consuelo De La Cruz, Lucrecia Muñoz, and Marisa Gutiérrez, who all blessed her with 3 generations of grandkids, great grandkids, and great-great grandkids.

We will remember Maria as a strong and fearless woman. She was a hard worker and lived and honest life. Everyone knew her as a noble woman, as she dedicated her life the Catholic Church. She greatly influenced our beliefs and taught us to love our father, respect others, and be humble. Never judging a soul, she helped out everyone who needed it in any way she could. As we would say in Spanish, "hacia bien sin ver a quien." There aren't words that can describe her kind heart.

Not only did she have a soul of an angel, but she also taught us how to value ourselves. Her one wish for all of us to be able fend for ourselves. She exemplified this by doing whatever it took to make a living for her family. In Mexico she was known for selling delicious menudo on the weekends, and after she immigrated to the U.S., she took on several labor-intensive jobs to help put food on her children's plates.

What many don't know is that Maria was fully dedicated to her family since she was a little girl. She was the second oldest but was known for being one of the most responsible out of her siblings. Not only did she help her parents take care of all the chores, but she also raised her younger siblings and taught them several life lessons that they still recall today. She continues to be admired by her siblings and they will always remember her as their "Mariquita." Her siblings will live on her legacy and they hope that everyone will always remember Maria as a loving and strong champion.

Visitation will be held from 4:00 – 8:00 PM on Thursday, September 26, 2019 with a Vigil at 6:30 PM, Fremont Memorial Chapel, 3723 Peralta Blvd., Fremont. Funeral Mass will be held on Friday, September 27, 2019 at 11:00 AM, Corpus Christi Catholic Church, 37891 2nd St. Fremont. Burial will take place in Durango, Durango, Mexico.

Fremont offers bonus to lure police officers

ANNA GULES

Officials from the City of Fremont and the Fremont Police Association have jointly established a new recruiting incentive program that includes a $10,000 total signing bonus for newly hired entry-level, Academy Graduate, and Lateral Police Officers. The bonus is structured with $5,000 distributed at the time of hire and $5,000 after successful completion of probation.

Additionally, the program rewards current employees for referring candidates who ultimately take jobs with Fremont Police Department (FPD). Specifically, the program offers a $1,500 total referral bonus — $750 at time of candidate’s hire and $750 after candidate’s successful completion of probation.

Recruitment is both a citywide priority and a personal objective of Fremont Police Chief Kimberly Petersen, as the issue affects not only Fremont, but the entire country. According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics, the average number of full-time U.S. police officers in 2016 dropped 11% since 1997.

The new incentive program is an important part of the FPD’s strategy to staff each unit to its capacity with officers that share the department’s values and service mindset. Other recruitment initiatives include streamlining and accelerating the hiring process and a newly launched recruitment microsite that offers candidates a front-row view into the department’s culture, career growth opportunities, a conversation with Chief Petersen, and more.

The police department currently has vacancies for the positions of Police Officer, Police Dispatcher, and more. To view all vacant positions, visit www.fremont.gov/cityjobs. For more information about FPD recruitment, including benefits, expected recruitment process timeline, and live chat feature, visit <http://jobs.fremontpolice.gov/>.

Woman’s attacker faces hate crime charge

SUBMITTED BY GENEVA BOSQUES, FREMONT PD

A 29-year-old man suspected of attacking a woman at a Fremont business is also facing a hate crime charge after stating the victim’s ethnicity was his motive in the unprovoked attack.

Shortly after 10 a.m. on Thursday, September 19 Fremont Police Department patrol officers responded to a call about an assault that had just occurred on the 42200 block of Fremont Boulevard near Blacow Road. The caller told dispatchers that a man had hit a female customer in the face and then walked away. When officers arrived, they learned the suspect had assaulted the victim twice, once with a rock and a second time with his hand. Witnesses were able to direct officers to where the suspect had last been seen, and he was quickly detained.

Trevor Dicks, a transient from Fremont, was positively identified as the suspect at the scene. When questioned, he told officers the victim’s ethnicity was his motive for the attack. Dicks was taken into custody and booked into Santa Rita County Jail on charges of felony assault with a deadly weapon, probation violation and hate crime. It was later learned that Dicks had also assaulted a female employee at a second business in the area, and an additional charge of battery was added.

Out of respect and privacy for the victim, police are not releasing details about her. Meanwhile, anyone with information about this case is asked to contact the Fremont Police Department’s Crimes Against Persons Unit at (510) 790-6900. Anonymous tips also can be sent by text at Tip Fremont PD followed by a short message to 888-777 or online at <https://local.nixle.com/tip/alert/6216337>.

Armed burglars caught after home invasion robbery

SUBMITTED BY UNION CITY PD

Shortly after midnight on Friday, September 20 a Union City family was awakened by three masked males entering their home carrying firearms.

The father of the family was on the couch and quickly ran upstairs and got all his family members sheltered into the master bedroom. The three masked suspects followed after the father and kicked the bedroom door open. While inside of the bedroom the suspects demanded money from the family as they pointed firearms at them. The suspects fled the home shortly after stealing property.

Arriving officers responding to a 911 call for help at the home on I Street (near Railroad Avenue) saw the suspects leaving the area in a vehicle and began a pursuit. After a short chase, the suspects crashed into a fire hydrant on Tidewater Drive and all three ran from the vehicle.

One suspect was apprehended by Officer Willson and his K9 partner Officer “Ace.” A second was chased on foot and caught by another officer. A perimeter was step up around the area where the third and last was seen running. Officers used a drone to locate the last suspect, who was found hiding in bushes at a nearby residence. After the suspect refused to come out, K9 Officer “Ace” was used to get him out, and he was taken into custody.

All the suspects were juveniles; two were 17 and one was 16. Replica firearms and some of the victims’ property were recovered during the arrest.

Grants to help agency with goal to end homelessness

SUBMITTED BY CHRIS DE BENEDETTI

Abode Services is honored to announce that the Sobrato Family Foundation has awarded two grants to the nonprofit organization, continuing Sobrato's ongoing commitment to helping us fulfill our mission of ending homelessness.

First, the Foundation gave Abode one of its Essential Human Services grants, which are awarded to a small number of Silicon Valley-based organizations “explicitly focused on serving low-income clients” and “helping to build a brighter future for local residents.” We are honored to receive this gift.

In addition, the Foundation has awarded Abode a challenge match grant that could double our donation amounts, as it will match first-time monetary gifts made to us this year. During the challenge match grant period, the Foundation will fully match gifts from new donors and past donors who have not given to Abode within the last 12 months.

The grant will also match donations from those who increase the amount of their last gift. For example, if the last donation was $100 and the donor next gives $150, the match amount then will be $50. The Sobrato Family Foundation helps low-income, at-risk communities that are underserved and blocked from opportunities by language and economic barriers, among other obstacles.

“We thank the Sobrato Family Foundation for their generosity and continued support, which will help so many children and adults in our programs,” said Louis Chicoine, Abode Services' chief executive officer.

To make a secure gift online to Abode, visit our website at abodeservices.org/donate. Or mail a gift to Abode Services, 40849 Fremont Blvd., Fremont, CA 94538.

TEDx event to focus on learning, creativity

SUBMITTED BY TINA VOSSUGH

It’s all about praxis. Ohlone College Communication Studies Professor Larissa Favela recently explained that her students put into practice theories they learn in class. And that they do by literally putting “ideas worth spreading” on stage with this year’s TEDx event.

TEDxOhloneCollege will be held on Thursday, September 26 inside the Smith Center on Ohlone College’s Fremont campus. The program will include 12 speakers — including Ohlone College professors Jeff O’Connell and Isabel Reichert, a roscentist, a Ska music lover, a style coach/director and a professor/slam poet/artist. There also will be live entertainment, music and an open art gallery.

“This has been an all-campus effort from so many college departments, academic programs, and administrations,” said Favela. “This whole thing started last year and was born from a student’s desire to give back to the community through a TEDx event and, right away, the support from the college poured in.”

Favela has been the lead faculty organizer for the event with fellow colleague Brenda Ahnholz’ assistance. However, the heart of the event comes from students. Meet Dustin Phan, a communication major and the student organizer behind this year’s TEDx event. He came up with this year’s theme, “Breaking Free: (Re) defining the Undefined.”

“A lot of society tells you what you’re supposed to do and how to do it, and it puts a hold on people who are creative but can’t access that creativity because of norms and stereotypes and barriers that hold them back,” said Phan. “I wanted this year’s theme to explore that and to quite literally break free of everything — to let your creativity flow in every way, shape and form.”

Inspired by his own personal journey in redefining the path his family expected him to take — to go to school and excel in a certain subject — Phan wants to show others who may be in the same predicament that they, too, can steer their own way. “At the end of the day, it’s your life and you shouldn’t have to live it based on anyone’s standards or expectations,” he said. “I’m branching out to being more of my own individual person and less as my parents’ child.”

Phan hopes to one day work in marketing for a major social media company, to make it easily accessible to everyone — expanding outreach without dumbing it down for the next generation. While it’s not how his parents may have thought he’d end up, it’s where he’s happiest to go. He attributes the work of faculty and staff at Ohlone to having a positive and life-changing impact on his life.

“Ohlone has helped me 1,000 percent,” said Phan. “Without Ohlone I wouldn’t be the person I am today and I wouldn’t have the confidence to organize my own TEDx event. Being here has changed my perspective on things.”

For more information on this event, contact, Larissa Favela at (510) 659-6226 or go to www.ohlone.edu/TEDx.

Park It

BY NED MACKAY

A reminder: FAM Fest. East Bay Regional Park District’s free Fall Arts and Music Festival is from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, September 28 at Judge John Sutter Regional Shoreline in Oakland. The event celebrates the district’s 85th anniversary year. The venue is the newly refurbished Bridge Yard building at 210 Burma Road, off Maritime Street at the eastern touchdown of the Bay Bridge. Master of ceremonies will be SaulPaul, a musician with a message, who will introduce many local and national artists, musicians and other performers.

The Park District was established in 1934 through a grassroots effort led by community activists of their day, who worked to preserve the East Bay’s beautiful open spaces for wildlife habitat and public recreation. From its modest beginnings, the district has grown to 73 regional parks totaling nearly 125,000 acres with 1,250 miles of trails throughout Alameda and Contra Costa Counties.

There are lots of other family friendly activities going on in the regional parks as well.

For example, Ardenwood Historic Farm in Fremont offers all kinds of programs for kids and adults alike, including interaction with barnyard animals, tours of the historic Patterson House, old-fashioned lawn games, and rides on the park’s narrow gauge railroad.

Ardenwood is at 34600 Ardenwood Boulevard, just north of Highway 84. The park is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays. For information on programs and admission fees, call (510) 544-2797, email awvisit@ebparks.org, or visit www.ebparks.org. Parking is free.

Nearby at Coyote Hills Regional Park, Discovery Days is in session from 11:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday. Come to the visitor center at 11 a.m. for an introduction to the topic of the week or drop in at your convenience for hands-on nature exploration and crafts.

Coyote Hills is at the end of Patterson Ranch Road, off Paseo Padre Parkway in Fremont. There’s a parking fee of $5 per vehicle. Discovery Days programs are free. For more information, call (510) 544-3220.

Crab Cove Visitor Center in Alameda has Family Nature Fun from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday. And after the nature-themed programs, it is fish feeding time from 3:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the center’s large aquarium, stocked with fish from San Francisco Bay.

Crab Cove is at 1252 McKay Avenue, off Alameda’s Central Avenue. For details, call (510) 544-3187.

We take rope and string for granted, but people once had to make their own. Learn how to create cordage from three different plant materials during a free class from 10:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Sunday, September 29 at Tilden Nature Area near Berkeley. Led by naturalist “Trail Gail” Broesder, the activity is for ages 7 and older.

From 1:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. the same day, Broesder will preside over human-powered apple cider pressing, after which visitors can enjoy the fruit of their labor.

Both programs are at Tilden’s Environmental Education Center, which is at the north end of Central Park Drive. For information, call (510) 544-2233.

Autumn is tarantula time in wildlands throughout the East Bay. It’s when the big guys venture forth in search of females in order to create a new generation of spiders. You may see the hairy but non-aggressive spiders along trails and in fields.

You can meet one in person any time from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, September 29 during a program at the upper parking lot of Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve in Antioch. It’s at the end of Somersville Road, 3½ miles south of Highway 4. For details, call (888) 327-2757, ext. 2750.

Finally, there’s a tarantula trek planned from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday, September 29 with naturalist Ashley Adams at Sunol Regional Wilderness in southern Alameda County. The park is at the end of Geary Road, off Calaveras Road about 5 miles south of I-680 and the town of Sunol. Bring a flashlight. For information, call (510) 544-3249.

This is just a sample. There’s always something enjoyable going on in the regional parks. For a full schedule, visit www.ebparks.org. And remember—Fridays are free in the regional parks through the end of the year, in celebration of the district’s 85th.

CleanStart Mobile Hygiene Unit

On September 17, the City of Fremont officially launched the CleanStart Mobile Hygiene Program with the City of Newark, Alameda County, and many community partners. The program features a new CleanStart Mobile Hygiene Unit that provides much-needed shower and laundry services to the local homeless population. These basic services will help users keep themselves and their clothing clean, a major obstacle for those looking to get and keep a job and participate in society.

The hygiene unit is a 50-foot truck and trailer that is fitted with two full bathrooms and showers, including one that is ADA accessible, and three washer/dryer units. The unit is providing services in coordination with existing food and clothing programs as it rotates to different areas in the city each weekday. Each service site is open for three to four hours.

The cost of the unit, funded through Alameda County, was $125,000. To learn more details on this program, including the unit’s schedule and location, visit www.Fremont.gov/CleanStart.

Solar Energy Workshop and Solar Tour

Spend an upcoming Saturday learning all about installing solar for your home. The city is hosting a free Fremont Solar Energy Workshop and Solar Tour on Saturday, October 5. From 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. Attend the workshop at the Irvington Community Center, 41885 Blacow Road, to learn about the basics of solar technology, benefits of going solar, and ways to access discounts for solar installations and zero emission vehicles through the Bay Area SunShares Program (www.BayAreaSunShares.org).

After the workshop, attend the self-guided Fremont Solar Tour from 12 p.m. to 4 p.m. to visit homes throughout Fremont that have installed solar. This is an opportunity to see solar systems up close and hear Fremont households talk about their experience and reasoning for going solar. Several homes will also be showcasing other sustainability features, including electric vehicles and drought-friendly landscaping.

By attending these events, you will learn how to save money on your home utility bills, cut your gas costs, reduce your greenhouse gas footprint, and drive on clean energy. To learn more and register, visit www.Fremont.gov/SolarWorkshop

These events are sponsored by the City of Fremont, Business Council on Climate Change, and Northern California Solar Energy Association with support from East Bay Community Energy.

Help Us Redesign Fremont and Newark AC Transit Bus Service

The AC Transit redesign:fremont/newark planning project aims to evaluate bus service and travel demands in Fremont and Newark.

Goals of the project:

Ensure that bus service in Fremont and Newark aligns with ridership amid a changing transportation market and increasing land use development

Identify opportunities to provide more frequent and flexible service options

AC Transit’s current funding structure does not include service additions in Fremont and Newark. However, the district can reallocate resources to better match travel needs. One option is to expand Flex, the on-demand service that today runs in parts of Newark, Fremont, and Castro Valley.

The redesign:fremont/newark service study includes an existing conditions analysis that includes area demographics and the performance of existing bus service. The analysis, coupled with community outreach, will help AC Transit understand changing travel patterns and rider expectations for future bus service in Fremont and Newark.

Complete a five-minute survey and provide your feedback on the redesign at <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/redesignfremontnewark>. Survey is open until Sunday, September 29.

Acacia Creek recognized as certified center for successful aging

SUBMITTED BY PENNY VITTORIA

Creating a culture of successful aging is no easy feat, which is why retirement community Acacia Creek is pleased to announce that through their partnership with Masterpiece Living they have been recertified as a Certified Center for Successful Aging (CSA). Recognition as a CSA is awarded to forward-thinking leaders in the aging profession who have demonstrated a commitment to actively furthering the successful aging movement.

To celebrate their accomplishment, Acacia Creek hosted an event for residents and guests on September 7, with Masterpiece Living (MPL) President and author of “Live Long, Die Short: A Guide to Authentic Health and Successful Aging,” Dr. Roger Landry.

“Centers for Successful Aging provide a fundamental change in our view of where we will live and how we will spend our days when we’re older,” explained Dr. Landry. “CSAs are regional centers of excellence that will be a valuable resource for cities and towns who are struggling to adapt to a growing older adult population, and will eventually be among those who bring about a change in public policy and the way we treat our aging population.”

Landry went on to explain the importance of staying fit by partaking in new activities and experiences. Following his discussion, guests were treated to a multi-cultural gourmet food sampling prepared by Acacia Creek chef Fernando Gaeta, residents Doris Chow and Betty Chiang organized a Qigong demonstration with guests, marketing liaison and move-in coordinator Denise Batorski hosted line dance instruction, and state assembly member Bill Quark and his wife Laurel each delivered science lectures.

Acacia Creek continues to grow a vibrant culture of successful aging through its trained leadership, data-driven decision making, and community outreach. With resources such as resident-led fitness programs and an in-house physiologist, Acacia Creek strives to serve as an example for individuals, fellow organizations, and governments of what is possible with aging.

MY CHOICE IS WTMF,

because not only does my doctor really listen to me,
he understands the things that are important to me too.

For Newark neighbor Kathryn Elkins, choosing Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF) was how she met Dr. Prasad Katta, and the beginning of finding excellent, individualized care for her diabetes. Kathryn wanted a patient-oriented doctor who had great credentials, was close to her home with convenient office hours. At WTMF, Katie Vigano, a Certified Physician's Assistant, talked to Kathryn about seeing an endocrinologist and referred her to Dr. Katta. Kathryn said she felt an instant connection with Dr. Katta. "He was very thorough; he listened to everything I had to say, answered my questions in detail and never rushed me. He's encouraging, optimistic, up on all the new medications—and his treatments are working!" As for Dr. Katta, he says he gets "great pleasure treating patients like Kathryn who are motivated to get better," and wants his patients to think of him as their guide to reaching their health goals.

Part of Washington Hospital

Because WTMF is an integral part of the Washington Hospital Healthcare System, we have immediate access to the system's wide array of advanced healthcare services, whenever you need them. This includes their highly awarded inpatient and outpatient facilities and specialty centers.
