SUFFER FROM LOW BACK PAIN?

Neurosurgeon Presents Treatment Options

If you suffer from low back pain, you're not alone. About 80 percent of adults experience low back pain at some point in their lifetimes, according to the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke (NINDS). It's the most common cause of job-related disability and a leading contributor to missed work days. But relief from pain is possible.

"There are a multitude of causes for low back pain," said Eldan Eichbaum, MD, a neurosurgeon with Washington Township Medical Foundation. "That's why it can be so difficult to treat. First, you need to understand what is causing the pain."

Dr. Eichbaum will present "Sidelined by Back Pain? Get Back in the Game" on Wednesday, October 30, from 3 to 5 p.m. The free seminar will be held at the Conrad E. Anderson, MD, Auditorium, located at 2500 Mowry Ave. (Washington

Don't let back pain keep you from activities you enjoy. Free community seminar will answer questions you may have about back pain treatment.

West) in Fremont. You can register online at www.whhs.com/events or call 800.963.7070 for more information.

Dr. Eichbaum will talk about some of the latest treatment options for back pain and back injury, as well as some of the causes. There are different types of low back pain, ranging from a dull, throbbing pain to an intense pain that can be debilitating.

"Treatment depends on what is causing the pain—whether it is due to a muscle or ligament strain, or the degeneration of the spine with age," Dr. Eichbaum noted. "It could be just wear and tear due to the normal activities of life."

Who is at Risk?

Both men and women can develop lower back pain, particularly as they age. Older adults are at higher risk. Having weak back and abdominal muscles, or being overweight, can also increase your risk.

"Labor that puts stress on your lower back, like a lot of lifting and twisting, puts you at higher risk for a back injury," he added. "That type of work can also accelerate aging of the spine."

Sitting in front of a computer all day can also contribute to back pain, especially if you have poor posture or your chair doesn't have adequate back support.

Diagnosis and Treatment

A back pain workup can include some type of imaging such as an X-ray, CT scan or MRI. A complete medical history and physical exam is necessary, especially when considering more serious conditions.

"I'm cautious about ordering imaging unless it's necessary," he noted.

Most low back pain is acute, meaning it only lasts for a few days or weeks. It's usually the result of an accident or injury.

"For the majority of people, the body will heal itself," he explained. "Most people will get better without significant treatment. That's why we first focus on nonsurgical, noninvasive treatment options."

Often, it is a matter of strengthening the muscles around the spine and learning how to use proper body mechanics, usually through physical therapy.

Back pain is considered chronic when it lasts for more than 12 weeks. About 20 percent of people affected by acute low back pain develop chronic pain with persistent symptoms at one year, according to NINDS.

Dr. Eichbaum will explain both pharmaceutical and surgical treatment options available for chronic back pain, including minimally invasive procedures.

"We are working to make back surgery less and less invasive," he stated. "We are reducing the amount of muscle dissection. As a result, we are seeing less blood loss and faster recovery."

All community members are welcome to this free seminar. Visit www.bayareahealthiertogether.com/neuroscience for more information about Washington Hospital and minimally invasive spine surgery.

New Technology to Detect Lung Cancer Saves Lives

According to the American Cancer Society, lung cancer is the leading cause of cancer death in the U.S. Jennifer O. Chan, MD, a thoracic surgeon with Washington Township Medical Foundation, believes one of the reasons for this drastic statistic is that lung cancer is not typically diagnosed until symptoms appear—which means it has progressed.

New low-dose radiation CT screening technology, now available at Washington Hospital, can uncover lung cancer at an earlier stage than previously was possible. “Finding lung cancer early and being able to treat it early is critical for successful treatment and to save lives,” says Dr. Chan. “This is a key advancement in reducing the number of deaths from lung cancer.” Low-dose CT (LDCT) scans show more detail than chest X-rays.

The low-dose radiation CT screening is recommended for individuals ages 55 to 80 and who have been identified as having a “30-pack-year” smoking history, Dr. Chan explained. This means the person has smoked a pack a day for 30 years, or two packs a day for 15 years, etc. Current smokers and those who have stopped within the past 15 years also are eligible if they fall within the age range.

On November 5, from 3 to 5 p.m., Dr. Chan will present, “Advancements in Lung Cancer Detection and Treatment” in the Conrad E. Anderson, MD, Low-dose radiation CT scans can detect cancer at an earlier stage. Washington Township Medical Foundation thoracic surgeon, Dr. Jennifer Chan, will meet with community members to explain who should consider this screening.

Auditorium, rooms A & B, at Washington West, 2500 Mowry Ave., in Fremont.

Dr. Chan will explain recent advances in detecting lung cancer, including the LDCT scan. She also will discuss the various types of lung cancer, symptoms, causes of lung cancer, and improvements in radiation and other lung cancer treatments.

The American Cancer Society says that research on using LDCT scans to screen individuals at higher risk for lung cancer saves more lives compared to chest X-rays. “For higher risk people, getting yearly LDCT scans before symptoms start helps lower the risk of dying from lung cancer.” www.cancer.org/cancer/lung-cancer/detection-diagnosis-staging/detection.html

Dr. Chan urges those who may be at risk of lung cancer to discuss screening with their physician. Only 10 to 15 percent of those who are eligible for LDCT screening pursue it, she says. “It is so important to find lung cancer early and sometimes the screenings also show other medical problems that need treatment. We know the benefits of breast and colon screenings in detecting cancer early. We can do the same for lung cancer.”

This seminar is open to all community members. Though prior registration is recommended, walk-ins are welcome. For more information, visit www.whhs.com/events or call 800.963.7070. Health & Wellness seminars may be televised on InHealth, a Washington Hospital channel (Comcast Channel 78) and may be found online at www.whhs.com/inhealthtv.

Music at the Mission takes you on a “Sonic Journey,” for their 15th season of Chamber Music Outside the Box! It begins with a Sunday afternoon Salon Series concert inspired by the artistic salons of past eras when musicians, their friends and patrons gathered for an evening of music in a private home and enjoyed a light supper, wine, and their favorite compositions. The Ledge Trio, with Rhonda Bradetich (flute), Aileen Chanco (piano), and Bill Everett (double bass), recreate that special vibe with an engaging program showcasing the versatility and connectivity of the three instruments, creating very different themes and emotions.

This Music at the Mission reboot of the classic musical gathering is a journey in more than one way. This particular Salon Series has a fabulous fifties twist, due to the extraordinary setting. The concert venue is a wonderful Mid-Century Modern home, spread out along a hilltop in Fremont with views that stretch (if the weather cooperates) all the way to the Bay. It's an exceptional example of late fifties and early sixties architecture and finishes, nearly untouched by the passage of time. With soaring ceilings, large expanses of glass, and a stately fireplace, the home is majestic and familiar at the same time. You can imagine it as a place where wonderful music is created. Weber's Trio Op.63, which is on the concert program, was said to be the result of “convivial musical evenings ... spent with two of his closest friends,” according to music reviewer John Warrack. “It went very well, and came off just as I wanted,” commented the composer. As an audience member, you'll probably agree.

The concert opens on a much more dramatic note with Trio élégiaque, composed by the 19-year-old Rachmaninoff while he was still in school. It is brief, yet concentrates a great deal of “deeply expressive and mournful” emotion. But the sun comes out again with the Goplerud Suite for flute, piano and double bass. It's as light as a feather and absolutely delightful. And the Flute and Piano Sonata by Georgian composer Otar Taktakishvili is ebullient with folk music influences.

There are appealing compositions from two composers and jazz pianists who championed crossover collaborations, Claude Bolling and Chick Corea. Bolling's Baroque and Blue, Javanaise and Affectuose are immediately recognizable, or certainly will be after you fall in love with them at first hearing! And the work of keyboard legend Chick Corea sounds as fresh as ever, as this tribute to him aptly proves. Steinway Piano Gallery of Walnut Creek has donated the use of a Steinway B “Spirio” Piano for the concert. This state-of-the-art instrument not only sounds magnificent, but also provides live performance capture and playback. You could record your own compositions and performances with one of those beauties! If you appreciate technology, and music, this is a perfect fit. Steinway & Sons' Justin Levitt promises “a short but exciting and fun demonstration” before the concert. Gael Stewart of Mission Coffee will also be on hand, catering a delectable light supper of gourmet savories. There will also be a selection of wines. Advance tickets are $75, available only online at musicatmsj.org. The address will be provided upon ticket purchase. Handicapped parking is available.

This fun, roundtrip ride is designed especially for families with children under 12. You will see volunteers playing the part of silly cowboys, scalliwag pirates, the famous witch, and others. There are colorful Halloween inflatables and giant pumpkins in between scenes (nothing will jump out or frighten young children). Trains operate every 30 minutes between 7:00 pm and 9:30 pm on Friday and Saturday nights, and between 7:00 pm and 9:00 pm on Sunday nights, on the two weekends before Halloween: October 18, 19, 20; and October 25, 26, 27.

All children must be with an adult. Because the ride is at night, for safety reasons each child age 3 and under must be accompanied by a separate adult. Haunted Railroad

Girl Scouts help community

SUBMITTED BY
SHUBHA KASHINATH

For many children, summers are about relaxing, travel, fun, and trying out new activities and hobbies. However, some of our youngsters also used their summertime to learn important lessons in collaboration, organization, and leadership while giving back to our community in meaningful ways. Girl Scout Troop 33496 spent the summer giving back to the Tri-City community in three very different meaningful projects.

Creating a library for children in low-income serving preschool

Children from disadvantaged backgrounds (such as those facing economic hardships) have fewer reading and literacy opportunities. To address this, it is critical that children across all ages and socio-economic strata have access to books and quality reading spaces. Our girl scouts worked to organize and create a useable library space for Helen Turner Preschool in Hayward and assembled mobile carts that teachers could use to take books to share with children in their classroom.

Running a peer-led game group for children with special needs

It is well documented that children with disabilities are at an increased risk for bullying and social isolation. There is a lack of awareness and acceptance of children who are differently abled. A few of our girl scouts decided to address this issue by creating a curriculum for a peer-led social skills game group that focuses on the practice of specific social skills within the context of fun and motivating games led by typically-developing peers. We piloted this curriculum as a two-week camp at an organization called Friends for Children with Special Needs (FCSN). The peer-led activities focused on basic things like how to introduce yourself, taking turns, and understanding different perspectives.

Creating a safe, engaging outdoor play space for childcare serving teen parents

We know that educated people are more likely to live healthy, happy, and comfortable lives. The Hayward Adult School is committed to providing a variety of opportunities in adult education and career readiness programs to empower youth and adults of the community—especially those from diverse backgrounds. The girls partnered with this organization to renovate the outdoor play area for the childcare center on campus. Armed with donations from local businesses, a whole lot of elbow grease, and a vision to create a fun and engaging play space, the girls transformed a patio into a safe play space complete with a painted bicycle track, chalkboard walls, a sand box and child-friendly lawns to allow young children to play, explore and have fun in a creative outdoor space.

As Mahatma Gandhi once said, “The best way to find yourself is to lose yourself in the service of others.” These girl scouts discovered many things about themselves in the course of these projects and hope to continue to include community service in their future lives.

New tool lets people get power shutoff alerts

SUBMITTED BY TAMAR SARKISSIAN

As part of its commitment to keep customers and communities, as well as other in its service area safe, Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) has developed a new tool to allow anyone to receive notifications about Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS) events, even if they are not PG&E customers or account holders. Although PG&E customers already receive alerts specific to their address, this new tool is also especially useful for tenants, caretakers, travelers, and parents of school-age children.

If gusty winds and dry conditions, combined with a heightened fire risk, threaten a portion of the electric system serving a community, it may be necessary for PG&E to turn off electricity in the interest of public safety. In response to the rapidly changing environmental conditions in California, beginning with the 2019 wildfire season, PG&E has expanded its Public Safety Power Shutoff program to include all electric lines that pass through high fire-threat areas — both distribution and transmission. Because the energy system relies on power lines working together to provide electricity across cities, counties and regions, any one of PG&E's more than five million electric customers could experience a PSPS event.

“We recognize how important it is that everyone who could be impacted by a Public Safety Power Shutoff is aware and prepared,” said Aaron Johnson, PG&E Vice President in Electric Operations. “We are pleased to launch this capability that gives everyone, not just customers, the option to take action and stay safe when we turn off power for safety.”

Anyone that is interested in receiving PSPS alerts for an address where they don't receive a bill can select one or more zip codes that they want to receive PSPS alerts about or select all zip codes in PG&E's service territory. When a PSPS event is planned for a selected zip code, an alert will be sent to the user telling them how to determine if a specific address in that zip code could be impacted.

PG&E account holders don't need to take any action if they are only concerned about addresses where they receive a bill. Information already on file with PG&E will be used to send alerts to those customers. PG&E officials are encouraging customers to keep their contact information up to date with the utility so they can be notified if their specific location will be impacted.

“When a Public Safety Power Shutoff is planned, we want to spread the word as quickly and as effectively as possible,” said PG&E Senior Vice President and Chief Customer Officer Laurie Giammona. “Zip code notifications give us another communication option so everyone can be ready.”

More information about PSPS Zip Code Alerts is available online at www.pge.com/pspszipcodealerts. To sign up for PSPS Zip Code Alerts, call 1 (877)-900-0743. Alerts will be delivered via automated call. Text and email alerts will be available in the near future.

US safety agency gathering info on Tesla parking lot feature

AP WIRE SERVICE

The U.S. government's highway safety agency is gathering information on reports of malfunctions with a Tesla feature that lets drivers summon their cars in parking lots.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration stopped short of saying it had opened a formal investigation. But in a statement Thursday it said that it's aware of the reports about "Smart Summon" and is in contact with the company.

"The agency will not hesitate to act if it finds evidence of a safety-related defect," NHTSA said in a statement.

Last week, Tesla sent out an over-the-internet software update that lets some customers allow their car to navigate through a parking lot with no one at the wheel. The feature can only be used if a driver can see their vehicle, the company's website says.

But after the update, videos and pictures surfaced on social media about problems. Also, a promotional video on Tesla's website shows a car without a driver going the wrong way in a parking lot.

One owner said his car ran into the side of his garage while "Smart Summon" was working, while another showed his car narrowly missing a crash with crossing traffic. Another said his car was about to hit a golf cart before he was able to stop it.

Tesla's website cautions that drivers who use "Smart Summon" are responsible for the car and must monitor it at all times. The cars can be stopped remotely.

Messages were left Thursday seeking comment from the company, which is based in Palo Alto, California.

NHTSA's statement encouraged drivers to report vehicle issues to its online questionnaire system at <https://www-odi.nhtsa.dot.gov/Vehicle-Complaint/>.

Shape Our Fremont

Plans Evolve in Review Process

As development project applications go through the review process, they often change to reflect feedback from city planning, engineering, environmental, landscape, traffic, fire, and police departments as well as Fremont residents. Here are some projects that are moving toward being presented for approval to the Planning Commission or the City Council.

Cloverleaf Bowl Shopping Center

The proposal to develop the shopping center at the corner of Grimmer Boulevard and Fremont Boulevard, where the Cloverleaf Family Bowl is located has recently been resubmitted with changes. The developer of the Grimmer Irvington Center now proposes designating the bowling alley area as a separate parcel that would not be part of this application. The Cloverleaf Family Bowl lease does not expire for several more years, and any plans to develop that parcel would have to be reviewed at that time.

Another change to the plans relates to the city council having declared the Cloverleaf Family Bowl building a Potential Historic Resource that is eligible for listing on the Fremont Register. The designation means adjacent buildings and landscaping must be reviewed by the Historical Architectural Review Board (HARB.) The developer now proposes that the area in the middle of the main site, which faces the main entrance to the bowling alley, would have a large open space rather than the originally-planned 40-foot high residential building.

The two mixed-use buildings fronting Fremont Boulevard have been redesigned. The ground-level would have 19,000 square feet of retail space. The upper floors would be residential only with 120 for-rent apartments. There would now be a mix of four- and five-story sections. There is an underground garage for residents and surface parking for guests and customers. On the Bay Street side of the site, they propose residential condominium buildings housing 85 for-sale units. The eight 10-plexes are three-story stacked flats with garage parking for each unit. There is also a separate 5-plex.

This latest proposal is currently under review. This process may require several iterations to work out all the details. There is no date for any formal review by HARB, planning commission, or city council. Questions and comments about this proposal may be sent to City Staff Planner Mark Hungerford at mhungerford@fremont.gov.

Centerville Plaza

Revised plans have recently been submitted for the Centerville Plaza project at 37177 Fremont Boulevard. The proposal is to build a total of 18 rental apartments. The second story of the existing Tri-City Veterinary Clinic building would be remodeled to include six flats with the clinic on the ground floor. A new four-story building would be built at the rear of the property with a manager's apartment and lobby facing Maple Street on the first floor and a ground-level parking tucked underneath the rest of the building. The upper three floors would each have four apartment flats where all the living and sleeping spaces for each unit will be on the same floor.

In the latest revision, instead of the rear building having long, flat sides, the plans were changed to move a portion of the side walls further away from neighboring properties. This site is within the Centerville ACE/Amtrak transit-oriented development overlay and the Centerville Town Center where mixed-use multi-family housing is encouraged. Questions and comments about this proposal may be sent to City Staff Project Planner Joel Pullen at jpullen@fremont.gov.

Others

The Roberts Avenue Townhomes proposal to build 36 rowhouse-style condominiums in three-story buildings on the Mission Peak Baptist Church property at 41354 Roberts Avenue in Irvington has gone through several review cycles by city planning staff. The most recent plan was sent back to the developer for even more changes.

The Mission Paradise Mixed Use proposal to build 20 residential units and 5,470 square feet of commercial space in three-story buildings at the corner of Washington Boulevard and Ellsworth Street is still under review. The site is in the Mission San Jose Historic District, so final plans are subject to review by HARB. A recent study of commercial development potential in this area concluded that future projects should focus on restaurants and other destination-types of retail uses, which may impact the decision on how to proceed with this proposal.

The city staff planner for these two projects is Mark Hungerford at mhungerford@fremont.gov. To learn more about proposed housing developments in Fremont, visit www.ShapeOurFremont.com.

Fremont's Town Fair Plaza has closed to make way for the construction of the new Downtown Event Center and plaza, which is Phase 1 of the city's Civic Center project. Fremont Street Eats has relocated along Capitol Avenue between Liberty Street and State Street and will continue every Friday night until October 25. While construction is underway, event activation will continue to take place in Downtown Fremont as the city identifies alternative locations and opportunities for additional programming.

The Town Fair Plaza was created as a temporary community space to pilot event ideas and concepts that residents brainstormed and showed interest in. Feedback from these events will be incorporated into the future permanent one-acre downtown plaza and 13,400-square-foot Downtown Event Center.

The upcoming event center and plaza will facilitate the programmatic needs of Fremont's culturally diverse and innovative community and feature an alley for food trucks and a garden breakout space under a tree canopy for sports, concerts, markets, and maker fairs.

Councilwoman plans run for Assembly seat

SUBMITTED BY CARMEN MONTANO

Milpitas City Councilwoman Carmen Montano recently declared her candidacy for Assembly District 25 which includes Milpitas, North San Jose, parts of Fremont, Santa Clara and Newark.

Montano, a Milpitas resident, will run as a Democrat in 2020 to fill the Assembly seat being vacated by Kansen Chu, who is running for Santa Clara County District Supervisor, District 3.

Prior to being elected to the Milpitas City Council in 2012, Montano was a teacher at Franklin McKinley School District. She has taught K-8 and adult education. Montano also served as an elected member of the Milpitas Unified School District Board of Education for eight years. She has been a vocal advocate for issues in her neighborhood and was the co-founder of the Sunnyhills Improvement Association in 1992. For her neighborhood involvement efforts, she received the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. "Good Neighbor Award" in 2001.

"We live in the most important state in the union, but many of our residents are hurting. Our residents deserve high quality healthcare, high paying jobs, the best education and better transportation options by investing in our roads and mass transit," Montano said.

"As a teacher, I spent my career preparing my students for the jobs of tomorrow. I want to continue my career in public service," Montano added.

"I am running for Assembly because our families need a voice in California and someone who will work to make sure that California provides the opportunities for people to succeed."

National Rail Safety Week

SUBMITTED BY ALAMEDA COUNTY TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION

The Alameda County Transportation Commission's (CTC) Safe Routes to Schools (SR2S) program announces that it will be joining National Rail Safety Week for the first time to address the high incidence of fatalities and injuries due to rail trespassing in Alameda County. Operation Lifesaver, Inc. (OLI), the national rail safety education nonprofit, partners with Operation Lifesaver Canada to mark the observance of Rail Safety Week (RSW) in North America during the last week of September each year.

Alameda CTC Chair and Alameda County District 2 Supervisor Richard Valle said, "We know that safety near railroad tracks and trains continues to be an issue in Alameda County and Rail Safety Week is an important opportunity to share knowledge and raise awareness about safe behaviors."

In January, Alameda CTC launched its rail safety education program, ACT Safely, which provides in-class training about rail safety to students in K-12 public schools enrolled in the Safe Routes to Schools program. The ACT Safely program aims to reduce trespassing incidents by teaching safe behaviors when walking or bicycling near railroads. In addition to presentations, the program offers online resources that include videos, fact sheets, posters and flyers, and can provide safety information at community events.

For Rail Safety Week, schools that participate in the SR2S program received resources, including messaging, posters and stickers to help them educate and encourage students to be safe pedestrians and bicyclists around train tracks. A social media campaign on Facebook and Twitter will also help spread the word to families and students about trespassing and rail safety. The funding for these efforts and the ACT Safely program is provided through a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety.

Every year, over 2,000 people in North America are killed or seriously injured due to unsafe behavior around trains and tracks. With the unifying theme of #StopTrackTragedies, Rail Safety Weeks reinforces Operation Lifesaver's mission to save lives. Each day of the week focuses on a different safety theme to reinforce key safety messages for pedestrians, bicyclists and drivers.

A schedule of events is shared on the Rail Safety Week information page (oli.org/about-us/news/event-materials) each year. To learn more about rail safety in Alameda County, visit alamedacountysr2s.org/rail-safety.

- ## Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: OCTOBER 2 – OCTOBER 8, 2019
- For All Signs: Pluto is the god of the underworld, known for his ability to transform energy from one shape to another, like coal into diamonds. For approximately five months at a time Pluto remains "underground," in retrograde motion. On October 3, Pluto turns direct, which symbolizes bringing those deep
- changes of the past few months to the surface for display in the daylight. This is a time to shake off toxins and bring old "garbage" to the surface. You may have been considering a metamorphosis in some area of life and during the next six months you will have the opportunity to make it manifest.
- Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): The next few weeks is focused heavily on the "others" in your life and the state of your relationships. Look for ways to renew and revive the energy with your partner, business associates and close friends. You may be tempted to pressure others into agreement in order to support your personal goals. Concentrate instead on keeping the peace and holding an open mind.
- Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): Venus, your ruling planet, is completing a cycle of focus on your health or work in the world. At the end of this week it moves into Scorpio and your attention will shift to the "significant others" in your life. They may be partner(s), clientele, or professional consultants.
- Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): Take up whatever activities you need daily to promote better mental and physical health. You may feel a compulsion to clean up files, closets, or other areas of detail. It is one way of organizing your mind. It is a good time to catalogue, classify, and coordinate
- details for your next project. This energy is the backdrop for the next two months.
- Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): You may feel out of sorts this week. Your feelings conflict with your ideal self and your values. You want to put your best foot forward, but circumstances do not feel quite right. If the conflict is deep, it is usually best to wait and not yield to whatever pressure is around you. You will sort it all out if you take your time. Don't panic.
- Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): You may be pestered by memories of times in which you felt you failed or somehow didn't meet expectations. Ask why you need to review this now. Is there something to be gained here? If it is simply repetition of old fear tapes, take what you really need to remember and toss the rest away.
- Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Mercury, your ruling planet, is changing signs to Scorpio for the next two months. This represents a shift of attention from financial matters to focus on communications, neighbors,
- siblings, and others who are in your daily environment. You may need to consider the needs of your vehicle now. Give it a checkup and a detailing. Education and short distance travels are favored.
- Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22): Mars, the warrior, enters your sign this week and will be traveling with you for seven weeks. This energy is especially helpful in defining our boundaries. Periodically we need to examine who we are and who we are not. Often something is eliminated. Overall it increases your courage and physical strength.
- Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Over the next six weeks, life will work more smoothly if you let yourself be led by the "signs," circumstances, and people around you. It will not be a time to attack in anger or initiate new ideas, but to respond to what comes your way.
- Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): Give special attention to situations that seem synchronous
- or unusual information that drops into your head. You are subject to receive intuitive ideas now. Think in terms of being a good receiver.
- Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): You have been steadily working on a new, more stable identity for the last two years. At this time one of your projects is nearly ready for its display. You can see the result of your effort and others will notice it as well. This is a long project in becoming a new person.
- Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): Feelings of guilt, taught to you early in life, may be plaguing your mind. These feelings are no longer teaching you anything or
- making you a better person. If there is anything of value there, recognize it as education and accept it as only that. You are not a bad person and never have been.
- Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): You may feel as though you came from another planet this week. Communications may be misunderstood, snarled, or lost altogether. Make notes about those things you need to remember. The brain fog might drown out worthwhile information that you will want to retrieve later.

Meek Estate celebrates 150 years

The Hayward Area Recreation and Park District (H.A.R.D.) and the Hayward Area Historical Society (HAHS) invite the community to celebrate the “150th Anniversary of the Meek Estate” on Saturday, October 12. The event will have a vintage birthday party theme; attendees are encouraged to dress in vintage 1860’s costumes.

“A true Cherryland community event, everyone is invited to this celebration,” stated H.A.R.D. Board President Rick Hatcher. “The Meek Estate is our very own beautiful landmark that shows our rich history and bright future; what better way to celebrate her 150th birthday than to host a fun old-fashioned party?” The event will include house tours, old-fashioned games, historical slide show, farm fresh apples, food for purchase, and of course – birthday cake! A formal recognition ceremony will begin at 11 a.m. in front of the gazebo.

The Meek Estate was built in 1969 by William Meek, one of the first pioneers of commercial agriculture, considered the “first farmer” in Alameda County. By 1869, Mr. Meek had acquired approximately 3,000 acres including the land from what is now Mission Boulevard to Hesperian Boulevard and past Winton Avenue in Hayward. This area later became known as “Cherryland” because of the many cherry trees planted by Meek.

The estate remained in the Meek family until 1940, although most was sold off into smaller parcels prior to then. In 1964, the mansion was slated to be razed, but H.A.R.D., along with the support of many citizens, purchased the estate. In 1973, Meek Mansion was placed on the National Register of Historic Places. This beautiful 23-room home will be on tour during the anniversary event when visitors can learn more of Hayward’s history.

The event is free to the public.

Flower mandalas: circle of life

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY
LALITHA VISVESWARAN

You have seen them everywhere—drawings of circular and intricate intersecting lines, which are mesmerizing. With a clutch of color pencils, they make for a great couple of hours scratching and filling up of the spaces. They are said to relieve stress and improve concentration; they are called “flower mandalas.”

Why does coloring mandalas make us feel so good? For one thing, it gives us a sense of control and direction. We only need to color within the lines. The borders give us guidance. At the same time, we are free to exercise our imagination and creativity in the color combinations we choose. No wonder therapists love coloring mandalas for reducing stress amongst all age groups.

Hindus, Buddhists, and Japanese Shinto monks have been drawing mandalas as a spiritual practice for ages. “Mandala” literally translates to “circle” in Sanskrit. Mandalas are accompanied by a ritual and are said to represent the cosmos. Traditional mandalas usually have four gates, a circle, and a center point. They denote our relationship between ourselves and the infinite cosmic design that lies outside of us. Entering the center of mandalas is a spiritual journey to one’s own spiritual center. I have found the same theme repeated with the labyrinth walking in the Western spirituality. The mandala or labyrinth represents a time microcosm of the universe, the macrocosm.

Anything in nature can be a mandala, and we can certainly find our center by wandering into it. It could be the redwoods or your backyard. It could be out in the wilderness or a gurgling creek hidden behind the willows. Nature regenerates, and in doing so, regenerates us. With it comes the responsibility of our relationship with nature.

How do we combine the spiritual and the natural? Are they perhaps the one and the same? I don’t know all the answers, but I like to think about it while I work on my garden mandala. A garden mandala is bringing in the macrocosm of nature in the form of flowers, leaves, twigs, and stones.

• Theme: Deciding the theme of your garden mandala is mostly dependent on the season. Check your backyard. Walk the neighborhood. Go for a stroll in the woods if you have any. Step outside into nature, take it in, and the theme will reveal

• Use complementary colors from the color wheel. Blue and yellow go together. Pink and green, red and blue, white and pink are all good combinations. If you choose to pick several shades of the same color, such as shades of green with leaves, make sure that the subtlety is not lost in the result.

• Try to fill in as much as possible. Just like with a coloring book mandala, the goal is to fill every space with colors.

• Work from inside out. Add concentric circles and fill them in so that every new layer fans-out. This is also a way to make sure that you do not underestimate the number of flowers with respect to the design. You can make the mandala as big or as small as you want.

• Try to use only compostable ingredients. Do not mix and match synthetic components with your natural ones. Example: you don’t want to add a plastic barbie in the center of your flower mandala. One of the main reasons is that after the mandala is wilted, you can sweep the whole thing and compost it.

The mandala is representative of the circle of life in my garden. I enjoy it for a little while, acknowledge its majesty and delicate fragile beauty and when the ephemeral presence fades... when the color and fragrance go away... I can return it to the Earth where it can start all over again. The circle of life is complete once again and in a small way, we get to witness, participate, and facilitate it.

Lalitha Visveswaran is a full-time farmer at Jellicles Farm in the Sunol AgPark. www.jelliclesfarm.com itself. It could be fallen leaves in autumn, beautiful fresh flowers in summer, or pine cones in winter.

• Location: Perhaps you have a large patio. Maybe you have a foyer with attractive lights. Maybe you have clean kitchen counters. Where you draw your mandala is not important; protecting the mandala from sun, wind, and rain is important. Remember that a mandala is also art. It is made of materials that will wither and dry and decay after a few days. So, it is important to shelter it for a few days, so it remains undisturbed.

• Materials: As mentioned earlier, anything that is seasonal, available, and completely natural can be part of your mandala. Some examples are leaves such as gingko, maple; flowers such as marigold, roses, dahlias, acorns, pine cones, and ferns.

• Shapes: Select materials that are symmetrical and not too delicate. You want them to retain shape and color for a few days, so you can enjoy your art even though it is ephemeral. You can also use flower petals. Select flowers that still retain color even after they dry out.

Building flower mandala in steps:

• Select your site. It must be flat, dry, and sheltered.

• Have a design in mind. It can be free form, but you must determine the shape and size as this will be necessary to measure the amount of material you will need.

Meek Mansion Paranormal Investigation

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD AREA
HISTORICAL SOCIETY
DANA HAMILTON

In “Meek Paranormal Investigation,” experienced volunteer investigators lead attendees through Meek Mansion with access to all non-restricted areas. Many paranormal research groups have investigated both Meek Mansion and McConaghy House and found them to be very active sites. Data collected on previous investigations include electronic voice phenomena (EVP), cold spots, touches, apparitions and more.

Hayward Historical Society member Marcess Owings says, “We don’t definitively say ‘yes’ or ‘no’ the house is haunted. That’s up to the attendants to decide... We want people to enjoy themselves while maybe getting a little spooked at the same time.” But with buildings over a century old, stories do seem to pile up with the years, and participants can be sure of encountering a spooky good time.

Tickets are $75 and must be purchased in advance. Proceeds go toward the ongoing restoration and preservation of both properties. Equipment is not provided; bring flashlights, recording devices, cameras and infrared cameras as preferred. Ages 18+ Unfortunately, this historical building is not wheelchair accessible. Participants should wear comfortable shoes and be able to climb steep stairs.
Fans of history and fans of the mysterious can take a step into Hayward’s pat and support historical preservation.

Fremont Seeking Community Input for Climate Action Plan Update

Since the adoption of the City of Fremont's first Climate Action Plan in 2012, the City has implemented a number of municipal and public-facing projects, programs, and policies that have resulted in significant reductions in greenhouse gas emissions and earned Fremont regional recognition as a sustainability leader. Fremont is now working to update its Climate Action Plan (CAP) to align with the new 2045 carbon neutrality goal recently established by the Fremont City Council in February 2019.

As part of the CAP update process, the City is seeking the community's help in identifying actions that will make Fremont a cleaner and healthier place for everyone. Strategies for achieving these goals can include transitioning to renewable and fossil-free energy in buildings and vehicles, enhancing sustainable transit and travel options, reducing waste and pollution, incorporating green building design, restoring natural habitats, drawing down carbon dioxide from the atmosphere through plants and trees, and increasing our resilience to climate change.

To gain feedback, the City is inviting the community to complete the Climate Action Plan Update Survey. By taking the survey, the community can play an active role in designing a healthy and sustainable future for Fremont!

Read more information and take the survey at www.Fremont.gov/OpenCityHallClimate.

Milpitas native serves with U.S. Navy's "Silent Service"

SUBMITTED BY MASS COMMUNICATION SPECIALIST 1ST
CLASS AMANDA RAE MORENO AND MASS
COMMUNICATION SPECIALIST 2ND JACKSON BROWN

A Milpitas native is serving with the U.S. Navy aboard one of the world's most advanced nuclear-powered submarines, USS Key West. Chief Petty Officer Brazelton De Leon is an information systems technician (submarines) aboard the Guam-based submarine, one of four Los Angeles-class submarines forward-deployed on the island. A Navy information systems technician (submarines) is responsible for managing the boat's network system security through hardware, software, and procedural methods.

De Leon credits success in the Navy to many of the lessons learned in Milpitas.

"I did four years of Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) and did a lot of school leadership programs," De Leon said. "All of that prepared me for taking on increased responsibility in the Navy."

According to Navy officials, because of the demanding environment aboard submarines, personnel are accepted only after rigorous testing and observation. Regardless of their specialty, everyone has to learn how everything on the ship works and how to respond in emergencies to become "qualified in submarines" and earn the right to wear the coveted gold or silver dolphins on their uniform.

"I am proud of our crew here on USS Key West," De Leon said. "We can multitask, and with little resources we can still accomplish the mission. We accomplish so much with a small crew."

According to officials at the U.S. Navy's Pacific Fleet headquarters in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the ships, submarines, aircraft and Navy personnel forward-deployed to Guam are part of the world's largest fleet command and serve in a region critical to U.S. national security.

I need a Forever Home

Knoxville is a sweet, playful 4-month-old kitten with sleek black fur and gorgeous golden-orange eyes. He shares his shelter condo with Edward, a 6-month old kitten. They love to sleep cuddled together and wrestle with each other. If adopted separately, Knoxville likely would love to have another kitty friend to play with at his new home. Neutered, up-to-date on vaccines. Meet Knoxville at the upcoming Black and White "Fur" Ball adoption event on Saturday, October 12, at the Hayward Animal Shelter.

Black and White FURBALL

SUBMITTED BY ALYSE LUI

Black and white attire signifies an occasion of great importance—and to pets awaiting adoption, there is no greater occasion than finding a forever home. In this spirit, Hayward Animal Shelter is hosting their “Black and White Furball” event on Saturday, October 12 starting at 12 noon. During the event, the shelter will be having free adoptions to qualified homes on all adoptable animals with black and white coat colors (all white, all black, or a combo), and $20 adoptions on other colors. A $17 dog license fee will still apply to Hayward resident dog adoptions.

From 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. there will be hors d’oeuvres, non-alcoholic cocktails, music, and raffle prizes. Human guests, who can select their own “fur,” are encouraged to come in black and white as well!
This event is sponsored by Bissell Pet Foundation’s “Empty the Shelters.” Many shelters across the country will be participating, but Hayward Animal Shelter’s color theme provides a unique twist on this pet-friendly day.

Author Talk

SUBMITTED BY ALLYSSON McDONALD

On Sunday, October 13, Mission Peak Unitarian Universalists will host J Mase III, who is a Black/trans/queer poet and educator based in Seattle by way of Philly. He will share some excerpts from his book And Then I Got Fired: One Transqueer’s Reflections on Grief, Unemployment and Inappropriate Jokes About Death, along with poems he has written.
In the book, Mase takes on themes of the messiness of grief, Black trans spirituality, and what it means to be an independent artist. Written after the passing of both his grandmother and father within the span of three months, this book is honest, brave, and full of love. There will be a question and answer session with the author after the talk. Light refreshments will be available. The event is free, and donations will be accepted. For details, call Rev. Jo Green at (510) 972-3890.

Hayward Senior Softball League Recap

SUBMITTED BY
ANN/JOE FARIAS

The Hayward Senior Softball League completed 29 years in September with the league playoffs finishing September 19. The three leagues had 15 teams playing from March through September.

50's League

The 50's league had four teams that played 20 of the 21 games scheduled this season with an additional two games in the playoffs. Injuries, vacations, and work schedules sometimes left teams short, but workarounds were found so games could be played. New 50's Commissioner Steve Mastronarde was masterful in working with the teams to ensure each had sufficient players.

The four teams in the league were Crushers, managed by Steve Alvarez with his assistant and new player Jeff LeBoss; Tigers managed by Steve Mastronarde, assisted by Ray Watkins; Knights managed by Doug Johnson, assisted by Matt Alberti; and Raiders managed by Steve Suchon, assisted by James DelRio.

Regular season ended with the Tigers winning the league title by one half game over the second place Crushers. The Raiders finished third with the Knights bringing up the rear. In the playoffs, Tigers and Crushers won their opening games and played for the playoff championship on September 19, with the Crushers as the playoff champions; third place in the playoffs went to the Raiders, who defeated the Knights by one run.

60's League

In the 60's, there were six teams again this year. Cardinals managed by John Garcia, with assistant manager Chris Oliver; Rockies managed by Don Keller with assistance from Joe Farias; Mudcat Red managed by Lanny Witt, assisted by Les Kimbley; Diamonds managed by Joe Figueroa, assisted by Max Benavidez; Buffs managed by Gabe Adami, assisted by Stan Chavarria; and Rowdys managed by Jeff Hall assisted by Jim Holyoake.

The commissioner of the 60's was longtime player Lanny Witt. The top team of the regular season was the Cardinals, who finished one game ahead of the second place Buffs. The Diamonds finished in third place followed by Mudcat Red, Rowdys, and the Rockies. In the playoffs Mudcat Red upset the Cardinals in the first round and the Buffs defeated the Diamonds. The Championship game was 12-10 with the Mudcat Red team winning over the Buffs. Third place in the playoffs went to the Cardinals, who defeated the Diamonds in a close game. The Rowdys ended up fifth in the playoffs getting a forfeit from the Rockies.

70's League

The 70's league continued with five teams this year. The Rowdys were managed again by veteran John Hughes with his assistant manager Walt McQuestren; Twins were led by Lanny Witt, assisted by Les Kimbley; Rovers were managed for the second time by George Shers, assisted by Lee Schrinier; Broncos had longtime veteran Don Keller, assisted by Harold Manley; and Olden Bears were again managed by Joe Farias, assisted by "Hoss" Russ Chandley. The league was a tight race until the end of the season but the Rovers, who had gotten out to a fast start, managed to hold on and win the league by a half game. The Twins finished second, Olden Bears third, Broncos fourth, and Rowdys brought up the cellar. In the first round of the playoffs, Twins defeated the short-handed Olden Bears, and Rovers won over the Broncos. In the championship game, Twins won by a big margin over Rovers to be playoff champions. The Olden Bears defeated the Broncos for third place. Long time player John Crane announced that this would be his last season. He has sponsored the Olden Bears and purchased new uniforms for the team this year.

Cougars win a nail biter

SUBMITTED AND PHOTOS BY MIKE HEIGHTCHEW

The Newark Memorial Cougars beat the John F. Kennedy Titans on October 4 in an exciting game from start to finish. It was only in the last two minutes of play that the outcome was decided. An impressive offensive attack at the beginning of the game, followed by an equally dominant second quarter seemed to spell disaster for the Titans but the halftime 17-7 Cougars lead was not enough. The second half revealed a completely different Titans squad that scored two touchdowns, putting them within striking distance of the Cougars. With only a two-point difference and the ball on the Cougars' 15-yard line, it looked like a Titans come-from-behind victory was not only possible, but probable. A powerful Titans sweep play was thwarted at the 2-yard line by a Cougars defensive stop that knocked the ball loose. The Cougars took possession. Even so, it was up to the Cougars to retain control and, with just two minutes left on the clock they were able to score a first down with an off-tackle play and seal the victory. Final score: Cougars 23, Titans 21.

The John F. Kennedy Titans JV football team dominated an October 4 contest with the Newark Cougars JV team 28-6. An early Titans' lead was protected by a stout defense that was able to shut down Cougars attempts to create running lanes. Combined with the Titans' offensive power, there was little the Cougars could do to close the gap.

Californians pledge to reduce air pollution

SUBMITTED BY BRIAN SHERIDAN

On Wednesday, October 2 more than 500,000 people took part in California Clean Air Day, the annual statewide day of action to reduce air pollution in schools, cities, homes, and businesses.

Clean Air Day was launched by the Coalition for Clean Air to address misconceptions and reinforce the message that individuals, organizations, and communities across the state can take simple steps to clean the air. Individuals and organizations have been taking an online pledge to take action on Clean Air Day, resulting in more than 1.2 million actions. Carpooling, switching out harmful cleaning products and dirty air filters, planting trees, taking transit, and opting not to drive were just some actions taken. The number choice was to reduce vehicle emissions.

“Everyone has a right to breathe clean air,” said Dr. Joseph K. Lyou, President & CEO of the Coalition for Clean Air. “By raising awareness and actively working to reduce air pollution, every Californian can help ensure that every breath you take is a breath of clean air.”

More than 300 businesses, agencies, and organizations participated, including more than 50 mayors on the Clean Air Day Mayors Council. Oakland Mayor Libby Schaff promoted the day with a mid-day bike ride through the city to encourage alternatives to driving to lunch in downtown Oakland.

Promoting public transport was a key component, with transit agencies across the state participating. Free rides were offered at Sacramento Regional Transit, San Diego MTS, North County Transit, LADOT, and many others. LA Metro issued Clean Air Day TAP cards and provided free 30-minute rides on their bike share system.

In Los Angeles, the LA Unified School District Board voted to use Clean Air Day to provide more air quality monitoring devices to schools, designating “idle-free” zones where feasible and providing school communities with information about how to reduce their own carbon footprint. In Santa Cruz, the city launched a “no idling” campaign at all district schools to educate parents on the impact of idling on student health.

Organizations also hosted tree plantings in cities throughout the state. Pledges to “plant something” numbered more than 5,000. Meanwhile, college campuses from Oxnard College to Fresno State to UC Berkeley and UC Davis engaged their student bodies to take action to reduce air pollution.

All kinds of traditional autumn activities and entertainment are on the program during the Ardenwood Harvest Festival, which will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, October 12 and Sunday, October 13, at Ardenwood Historic Farm in Fremont. Visitors can search a five-acre field for ears of Indian corn and popcorn and take home a portion of what they harvest. (Please bring your own bag.)

Other activities will include magic shows, cider pressing, live old-time music, historic crafts, rides on the narrow-gauge train, pumpkin patch, and tours of the beautifully restored Patterson House.

Fees for the event are $10 for adults, $8 for seniors 62 and older, $6 for children ages 4 through 17 and free for kids age 3 and under. Parking is free.

Ardenwood is located at 34600 Ardenwood Boulevard, just north of Highway 84 (the Dumbarton Bridge approach). For information, call (510) 544-2797. Advance tickets can be bought at the farm or at www.ebparks.org.

Harold French was one of the leaders whose years of effort led to establishment of the East Bay Regional Park District. An avid hiker, French founded the Contra Costa Hills Club in 1920. His vision was to have a group similar to the Sierra Club but with a more specific East Bay focus. From that time on, he worked tirelessly to protect the East Bay’s open spaces and promote establishment of public parklands. He wrote letters, served on committees, and authored articles in local newspapers.

The East Bay Municipal Utility District declared its East Bay hills watershed lands to be surplus and open for development in 1928. Robert Sibley, executive manager of the University of California Alumni Association, launched an effort to preserve the hills as public parklands. French and the Contra Costa Hills Club soon joined in the campaign.

French, Sibley and many other community activists worked for years to achieve their goal. Their efforts were rewarded when the district became a reality in 1934.

French died in 1962. The French Trail in Redwood Regional Park is named in his honor. And in celebration of its 100th anniversary, the Contra Costa Hills Club has funded construction of a bench on the Overlook Trail at Sibley Volcanic Regional Preserve in the Oakland hills, a place where French often hiked. Moreover, club member Noël Siver is writing a biography of French for the 100th anniversary celebration in February.

The bench was dedicated at a gathering on September 26, attended by around 60 members and friends of the club, including French’s grandson, James French. The plaque on the bench reads: “Harold French, Founder; Contra Costa Hills Club; 100th Anniversary, 02-22-2020; He Inspired Generations of Hikers.”

Speaking of the East Bay hills, you can watch the sun set and the moon rise over the hills during a special 3½-mile hike from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday, October 13, at Tilden Regional Park near Berkeley. The leader is naturalist Trent Pearce. Bring a flashlight and water and wear layers of clothing.

Meet Trent at the Big Springs Staging Area, which is on South Park Drive between Wildcat Canyon Road and Grizzly Peak Boulevard. For information, call (510) 544-2233.

Another hills hike will take place on October 16 at Wildcat Canyon Regional Park with the Wednesday Walkers, led by naturalist “Trail Gail” Broesder. The hike is for ages eight and older.

Meet Gail at 9:30 a.m. at the Alvarado Staging Area, on Park Avenue off McBryde Avenue in Richmond. For details, call (510) 544-2233.

Down at Crab Cove Visitor Center in Alameda, there’s a sunset low-tide walk with naturalist Morgan Guenther from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. Sunday, October 13. It’s a search for ghost shrimp, crabs, worms, mussels, clams, and other shoreline denizens. Wear shoes that can get muddy.

Crab Cove is at 1252 McKay Avenue, off Alameda’s Central Avenue. For more information, call (510) 544-3187.

There are lots of other activity options in the regional parks in coming days. For full information, visit www.ebparks.org. And remember, Fridays are free in the regional parks through the end of the year, in celebration of the district’s 85th anniversary.

48th annual Artichoke Invitational (31 schools participated). Chance Tokubo finished 2nd overall. Diego Ochoa and Angelo Frese placed in the top 10. Frese and Cougar Freshman Talha Ahmed each picked up a critical point in the final stretch to lead the Cougars to a 2-point victory. Jasmine Romero (4th), Tali Fa’i(6th), Jennifer Tofft (24th), Eric Lambruschini (22nd) and Muhammed Ahmed (24th) also placed individually at meet.

Hate-Monger

clear... although hate can be blocked or conquered in a particular instance, it has a tendency to re-emerge with the same intent in another form. Accordingly, Hitler's legacy lives on through a variety of surrogates.

The current environment of the greater Tri-City area is relatively peaceful following turmoil, especially in Fremont when faced with a decision of where to locate a Housing Navigation Center. However, Hate-Monger is about to surface once again as we enter another tumultuous season preceding primary and general elections. California has moved its 2020 primary election to Tuesday, March 3, approximately five months away. Already, battle lines are being drawn for municipal and regional offices. With a probable nasty national election on the horizon, local politics can also succumb to base instincts and accusations. Let's hope Hate-Monger appearances are either non-existent or extremely rare at least on the local scene.

Although difficult to achieve, political contests should concentrate on policy issues that are meaningful to the electorate. Voters are poorly served when arguments mask irrelevant factors such as appearance or ethnicity. As we approach a heated primary season that is unusually early, it will be telling if rhetoric veers toward prejudice or concentrates on issues vital to the well-being of our communities. Some contests involve positions that are so close to the electorate that little additional explanation or job description is necessary. However, some positions in our government are less visible and require more than simply name recognition to earn voters' confidence.

For example, it appears that there will be hotly contested races for some county supervisor seats. Although some supervisory decisions are well publicized, because the position manages a broad area and multiple jurisdictions, much of what happens at the county level is removed from everyday life and unknown to the average citizen. This is the consequence of a hierarchical political structure that, by necessity, incrementally involves a greater and greater number of voters and therefore, removed from local scrutiny. The only remedy for this abdication of oversight is constant dissemination of information to the electorate. If this is missing, there is little to weigh at the polls.

As always, Tri-City Voice will endeavor to keep our readers informed of the accomplishments of those in office and provide nonpartisan information for voters as elections approach. The antithesis of Hate-Monger is distribution of all points of view, allowing readers to judge for themselves.

Facebook says it has suspended 'tens of thousands' of apps

BY BARBARA ORTUTAY AND
FRANK BAJAK
AP TECHNOLOGY WRITERS

Facebook said Friday that it has suspended "tens of thousands" of apps made by about 400 developers as part of an investigation following the Cambridge Analytica scandal.

The announcement came the same day that unsealed legal documents in Massachusetts disclosed that Facebook had suspended 69,000 apps. In most cases, however, the suspensions came not after any kind of serious investigation but because app developers had failed to respond to emailed information requests.

Starting in March 2018, Facebook began looking into the apps that have access to its users' data. The probe came after revelations that data mining firm Cambridge Analytica used ill-gotten data from millions of Facebook users through an app, then used the data to try to influence U.S. elections.

It led to a massive backlash against Facebook that included

CEO Mark Zuckerberg being called to testify before Congress. The company is still trying to repair its reputation.

Facebook said Friday its app investigation is ongoing, and it has looked at millions of apps so far.

The company said it has banned a few apps completely and has filed lawsuits against some, including in May against a South Korean data analytics company called Rankwave. In April, it sued LionMobi, based in Hong Kong, and JediMobi, based in Singapore, which the company says made apps that infected users' phones with malware.

Facebook settled with the Federal Trade Commission for a record $5 billion this summer over privacy violations that stemmed from the Cambridge Analytica scandal. The company said the FTC agreement "will bring its own set of requirements for bringing oversight to app developers. It requires developers to annually certify compliance with our policies" and that developers who don't do this will be "held accountable."

Also, on Friday, a judge unsealed a subpoena by the Massachusetts attorney general demanding that the social network disclose the names of apps and developers that obtained data from its users without their consent. It also asked for all Facebook internal communications about those apps.

The state began investigating Facebook when the Cambridge Analytica scandal broke. But the company refused to identify any of the apps or developers, and the subpoena would have remained confidential under Massachusetts law had Facebook not insisted on keeping it and related exhibits secret.

Massachusetts Attorney General Maura Healey's consumer protection division had sought data on apps from prior to 2014, when Facebook announced changes to the platform to restrict access to user data.

Facebook tried to redact the subpoena in negotiations before Friday's ruling by state Judge Brian A. Davis. But Healey's office fought to limit the redacted sections.

Facebook did disclose that it had identified more than 10,000 apps that "show characteristics associated with higher risks of data misuse" but did not identify any of them.

The state attorney general noted that Facebook had allowed developers to integrate at least 9 million apps into the platform as of 2014 and had, for many years, allowed developers to access user data, including photos, work history, birthdates and "likes." This applied not just from people who installed the apps but also to their Facebook friends who did not.

The unsealed subpoena also says that Facebook informed the Massachusetts attorney general's office that it had identified about 2 million apps "as warranting a closer examination for potential misuses of Facebook user data."

That suggests that, five years ago, more than one in four apps may have been accessing Facebook users' data without their knowledge or consent.

Health advisory focuses on vaping

SUBMITTED BY CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Officials from the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) have issued a health advisory urging everyone to refrain from vaping, no matter the substance or source, until current investigations are complete. The health advisory, issued September 24, follows an executive order signed by Gov. Gavin Newsom in mid-September to confront the growing youth epidemic and health risks linked to vaping. At the time of the health advisory release, CDPH had received reports that 90 people in California who have a history of vaping were hospitalized for severe breathing problems and lung damage, and two people have died. Across the U.S., there are more than 500 reports of lung damage associated with vaping across 38 states and 1 U.S. territory, and more reports are coming in nearly every day. "We are seeing something that we have not seen before," said Dr. Charity Dean, Acting State Public Health Officer. "There are numerous unknown factors at this time, and due to the uncertainty of the exact cause, it is our recommendation that consumers refrain from vaping until the investigation has concluded."

CDPH, along with other states, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), local health departments, and healthcare providers are working hard to investigate what is in the vape materials that is making people sick. Although CDPH regulates manufacturers of cannabis vaping products to ensure they are as safe as possible for those who choose to vape, CDPH warns that all individuals put themselves at risk any time they inhale a foreign substance into their lungs. The risk of vaping for any individual may include serious illness and death. "Vaping is not just a concern for youth; the vaping cases under investigation affect youth and adults alike," said Dr. Dean. If you experience difficulty breathing after vaping, contact your doctor immediately. You may also experience other symptoms such as a cough, shortness of breath, chest pain, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, fatigue, fever, and weight loss. If this happens, do not discard any used vaping cartridges you might have, as CDPH is interested in testing the remaining substance in used cartridges. Those cartridges are being collected by local health departments and sent to CDPH labs for analysis.

In California, licensed cannabis retailers are required to sell products obtained from a licensed cannabis manufacturer that have been tested by a licensed laboratory. Cannabis products sold by licensed sources are tested for a variety of chemicals, pesticides, microbial impurities, and heavy metals. Illegal cannabis dispensaries sell unregulated and untested cannabis products and absolutely should not be used. CDC continues to warn that any tobacco product use, including e-cigarettes, is unsafe. Furthermore, use of cannabis and tobacco products remains especially unsafe for youth, and for pregnant or breastfeeding women. The Governor's executive order directed CDPH to launch a $20 million statewide digital and social media public awareness campaign to educate youth, young adults and parents about the health risks associated with vaping nicotine and cannabis products. CDPH is also tasked with developing recommendations to reduce smoking among young adults and teens by establishing warning signs with health risks where vaping products are sold and on product advertisements.

Recycled content in plastic CRV bottles

SUBMITTED BY NANNETTE MIRANDA

California is poised to continue its environmental leadership by passing the world's strongest recycling requirement that will help reduce litter and boost demand for used plastic materials. On September 14, the California State Assembly sent AB 792 to the governor—a first-in-the-nation proposal by Assemblymember Phil Ting (D-San Francisco) that phases in the minimum amount of recycled materials plastic beverage bottles must contain, at a standard higher than that mandated in the European Union (EU). As with all bills sent to the governor this month, he has until October 13 to act. "There's a terrible cost to our environment if manufacturers are allowed to continue making new plastic every time they need a beverage container. They should reuse what they've already made," said Ting. "If we don't change now, we will have more plastic than fish in our oceans by 2050."

The recent closure of the state's remaining rePlanet recycling centers was, in part, due to dwindling domestic demand for recycled plastic. Additionally, China and other overseas markets stopped buying much of California's recycled waste last year. Now, a crisis is mounting as recyclable plastic stacks up in warehouses or is sent to landfills. AB 792 bolsters demand for recycled plastic and ensures what has already been made does not contaminate our earth.

The European Union (EU) has already set a goal of 25 percent recycled content in their plastic bottles by 2025 and 30 percent by 2030. California's standards would be higher than the EU's, establishing an even more aggressive timeframe for minimum recycled content in plastic beverage bottles:

January 2021	- 10 percent minimum content
January 2025	- 25 percent minimum content
January 2030	- 50 percent minimum content

Under a compromise reached with stakeholders, AB 792 imposes penalties for noncompliance but grants CalRecycle the authority to adjust minimum content percentages in the event market conditions prevent companies from fulfilling the requirements. Although higher percentages were originally sought under the bill, including a 100 percent minimum content requirement by 2035, the proposal still represents a major step towards meeting California's recycling and waste reduction goals.

DAY ON THE BAY

BY HUGO VERA

Santa Clara County District 3 Supervisor Dave Cortese and City of San Jose invite the public to a day filled with recreation for all ages at the 10th annual “Day on the Bay” community event on Saturday, October 13. The event takes place at Alviso Marin County Park and features a wide range of activities including free food, jump houses for kids, a pumpkin patch, kayak rides, rock climbing wall, pontoon boat rides, a 10-mile bike race, diverse cultural performances and a social services fair.

“What we wanted to do was let the public have access to services that they might not have known were even offered in the first place,” says Policy Aide to Supervisor Cortese Victoria Turner. At Day on the Bay, parents can let their kids have fun in a secure environment while also networking with social, health and housing services provided by Santa Clara County.

This year marks the event’s 10th anniversary, but the first community outreach events organized by the supervisor’s office date all the way back to 2001. A community engagement mixer was originally scheduled for the weekend following the September 11th terrorist attacks, so Cortese and his staff postponed the event to late September given the tragic circumstances. Since then the event has consistently been held late-September/early-October. Cortese’s initial community event had an estimated crowd size of 5,000 participants. At the 2018 “Day on the Bay,” it was estimated that more than 15,000 attended.

In addition to a source for recreation, Day on the Bay has also been a platform to educate the south bay’s youth about environmental stewardship and eco-friendly practices. During the early years of Day on the Bay, the Santa Clara County Sheriff’s Department would take child participants, most of whom attended George Mayne Elementary School, out on sheriff patrol boats to explore the coast alongside Alviso Marin County Park.

“One of our main purposes here is to provide underserved children in the south bay with a chance to enjoy themselves while being educated on the environment they live in,” Turner adds. “Many of these children have never even seen the ocean before, so for them to finally be able to get on a pontoon boat and enjoy the bay around them is something that’s important to us.”

The popularity of the program grew so much over the years that Supervisor Cortese requested larger pontoon boats that child participants can now ride; each boat can carry 40 people at a time. In addition to aquatic activities, Cortese’s office has partnered with the San Jose Bike Party to facilitate its fourth annual bike race that runs from Alviso Marin County Park through the Guadalupe River Trail and ends at the San Jose Rotary Garden. Day on the Bay will also feature a celebration of diversity as ethnic dance groups will be performing traditional dances such as Mexican “Folklorico” and Vietnamese lotus dance.

Ghost House

funds for local nonprofits and community projects each Halloween season with their annual Ghost House.

As always, the historic Chadbourne Carriage House will be transformed into a haunted house, welcoming guests in for elaborate spooky sets (with some macabre humor) and scares courtesy of student volunteers in their most frightening costumes and demeanor. For smaller kids and those who want to soak up the atmosphere without being startled by the actors, the Good Fairy will lead special groups throughout open hours. For those who just don’t like stumbling around in the dark, a special “Lights On” tour will be held on Sunday, October 20 at 2 p.m.

“Our Good Fairies have helped countless little ones brave the spooky Ghost House through the years,” says Lani Cortez, Candle Lighters President. “It’s a local rite of passage for kids when the graduate from the Good Fairy Line to the Scary Line.”

After braving the Ghost House, attendees can enjoy fun games of skill and chance, a photo booth, general store filled with Halloween treasures, face painting and legendary Candle Lighters hand-dipped caramel apples. Game tickets are only 50 cents, and even if you don’t win, you’ll probably walk away with a piece of candy or small Halloween accessory.

In addition to regular hours, the Ghost House will also host several special events throughout the month:

Friday, Oct 18: Zombie Dance Party

Saturday, Oct 19: Scarecrow-Building Contest

Sunday, Oct 20: Lights On Tour @ 2 p.m., Cake Décor Showdown @ 5 p.m.

Saturday, Oct 26: Kiddie Costume Parade and Contest @ 2 p.m.

Proceeds from “Crazed Carnival” will benefit Serra Center, Historic Patterson House, Tri-City Band Corps, Fremont Symphony, Starstruck Theatre, and Niles Essanay Silent Film Museum. The Ghost House comes to life thanks to the efforts of local sponsors and a small army of volunteers. Hundreds of students earn community service credit by helping with construction, decorating, working in game booths or transforming into ghouls and good fairies.

Police use grant for traffic education and enforcement

SUBMITTED BY SGT. JOSEPH
HEYLEN, MILPITAS P.D.

- A new $83,000 grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety (OTS) is being used by the Milpitas Police Department to conduct public awareness and special traffic enforcement campaigns through September 2020. The funding was received in early September and will be used for various projects, including:
- DUI checkpoints and saturation patrols to take suspected alcohol/drug-impaired drivers – and those unlicensed or with a revoked/suspended license – off the road.
 - Traffic safety education presentations for youth and community members on distracted, impaired and teen driving, and bicycle/pedestrian safety.
 - Patrols at intersections with increased incidents of pedestrian and bike collisions.
 - Checking for seat belt and child safety seat compliance.
 - Motorcycle safety operations in areas with high rider volume and where higher rate of motorcycle crashes occur.
 - Speeding, red light, and stop sign enforcement.
 - Warrant service operations targeting chronic DUI offenders.
 - Analysis of DUI statistics to identify repeat DUI offenders.

- Specialized DUI and drugged driving training for officers to identify and apprehend suspected impaired drivers.
- The focus of the OTS traffic safety program is to educate the public, promote safe driving habits, and deter motorists from violating traffic laws or engaging in other unsafe behaviors that lead to accidents, injuries, and fatalities.
- According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 3,602 people were killed in crashes across California in 2017. That’s about a 6.5% decrease from 2016. Pedestrian fatalities decreased approximately 9% to 858 killed on California roadways in 2017. Along with the growing dangers of drug-impaired driving and distracting technologies like phones, this grant funding will provide opportunities to combat dangerous and illegal behavior.
- “Getting in a vehicle remains one of the most dangerous things we do,” OTS director Barbara Rooney said. “We must continue to work with our partners in law enforcement to shift that realization and make traveling on our roads safer.”
- Funding for this program is provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Monday, September 30

- At 1:15 p.m. officers responded to a report of a robbery at the Starbucks at 1057 MacArthur Blvd. and found an abandoned vehicle that had crashed into the center median. Witnesses told officers a suspect entered Starbucks, stole a laptop computer from a customer, and ran outside to a waiting vehicle with the computer’s owner in pursuit. While trying escape, the car’s driver crashed into the median, prompting him and three other occupants to flee on foot in various directions. Two females, ages 16 and 17 from Oakland, were detained by officers without incident. The two male suspects evaded officers by fleeing into residential backyards and into Alameda Creek. Eventually, with the help of a drone and the Alameda County Sheriff’s Office, Kevin Perry, 18, of Oakland was found inside a home in the 800 block of Cary Drive. Detectives investigating the case were able to identify the outstanding suspect as Labari Perry, 24, of Oakland. He was located and arrested on Tuesday, October 1 at an address on the 5900 block of Fortune Avenue in Oakland. Both male suspects, who are not related, were taken to Santa Rita Jail and are facing robbery charges. The two female suspects were taken to Alameda County Juvenile Hall and will likely be charged with robbery.

Charter School Legislation

SUBMITTED BY GOVERNOR’S PRESS OFFICE

On October 3, Governor Gavin Newsom signed AB 1505 by Assemblymember Patrick O'Donnell (D-Long Beach), which significantly reforms the Charter Schools Act of 1992 to address longstanding challenges for both traditional public school districts and charter schools. AB 1505 empowers communities to consider the fiscal impact of new charter schools on existing schools in the neighborhood, increases accountability and transparency for all charter schools, and ensures that high-quality charter schools continue to thrive.

“AB 1505 is the result of leaders from all sides of this issue coming together to enact a law that is meaningful, purposeful and, most importantly, prioritizes students and families from both traditional and charter schools across California,” said Newsom. “We now have the framework for charter and traditional schools to work together collaboratively in service of their communities and neighborhoods.”

Below are some of the items included in AB 1505: Allows charter authorizers to close a charter school for fiscal and governance concerns or if the charter school is not serving all student populations.

Allows charter authorizers to consider, when reviewing a petition for a new charter school, or a charter that is expanding sites or grade levels, how the charter school would financially affect the community and neighborhood schools.

Allows a charter school authorizer to deny a charter school when the district is in fiscal distress, as determined by the county superintendent of schools.

Clarifies that charter school teachers must have a state level background check and the required credential for their assignment, with a transition period.

Establishes a two-year moratorium on non-classroom-based charter schools, with a commitment to reform the sector in the next two years.

Transitions the charter schools currently authorized by the State Board to have oversight by their local school district or county office of education.

Requires charter school authorizers to use the state accountability system as the basis for charter school renewal.

Requires the California Department of Education to collect and monitor data on implementation of the bill, including patterns in authorization and appeals.

Police warn of roadside jewelry scam

SUBMITTED BY
GENEVA BOSQUES,
FREMONT PD

Since January, Fremont patrol officers have taken nine police reports involving a roadside scam where suspects used a jewelry ruse to steal from victims.
The latest incident occurred on Thursday, September 26 when a vehicle pulled to the side of the road where a woman was walking in the 700 block of McDuff Ave. A man in the passenger seat engaged her in a conversation by asking for directions. The woman approached the car to help the lost couple. The man then told the woman that his mother had just passed away and it was a cultural custom to give away her jewelry. The man then handed the victim a ring and placed gold chains (both determined to be fake) around her neck. While doing so, he removed a real gold necklace from the victim’s neck. The car then left the area.
The nine cases have taken place sporadically throughout the year. In all cases, the suspect(s) placed fake jewelry on their victims, while removing jewelry of value. While the motive is consistent, police say they cannot definitely call this a crime series due to the varying descriptions of the suspects and their vehicle. In eight cases, the victims all reported the incident involved two suspects, a man and a woman. In two cases, the female suspect reportedly had gold front teeth.

Here is a list of the report dates and locations police have taken with similarities to this scam:
• January 7 at 12:49 p.m., 37600 block of Glenmoor Drive
• January 29 at 10:00 a.m., Crestwood Street at Mintwood Street
• June 6 at 6:10 p.m., Mission Boulevard at Avenida Palmdale
• June 9 at 10:00 a.m., Mission Boulevard at Cougar Drive
• June 21 at 5:00 p.m., 3000 block of Surry Place
• June 22 at 11:00 a.m., 46800 block of Warm Springs Drive
• September 18 at 6:45 p.m., Palm Avenue at Lynn Way
• September 23 at 5:10 p.m., Stevenson Boulevard at Gallaudet Drive
• September 26, 700 block of McDuff Ave.
To help protect the community, Fremont Detectives would like to stress the importance of personal safety and share these safety tips with the public:
• When walking outdoors, don’t carry large quantities of money or wear expensive jewelry. Even if your necklace is concealed, it may still be possible for a suspect to see the shimmer from your neckline.
• Don’t be distracted while talking on your cell phone or listening to music on your headphones.

• Be aware of your surroundings. Take notice of people following behind you, watching you from their vehicle as you walk or shoulder surfing you at a bank or retail establishment.
• Never approach a vehicle; talk to the occupants from a distance. If they approach you unexpectedly, keep an arm’s length distance and have your phone ready to dial 911.
• Always be alert in your neighborhood. Report unknown persons and vehicles that appear suspicious or that don’t belong to the area. If you notice a suspicious vehicle, try to get the license plate and a good description of the car and driver. Always call the police before sharing the information with your neighbors.
• When shopping at night, always park your vehicle in a well-lit area.
• When leaving a mall or retailer be alert and make sure no one is following you to your car. If you don’t feel comfortable walking out to your car alone, ask to see if a security guard is available to escort you.
These cases all remain open and active investigations. Anyone with information about these incidents is asked to contact the Fremont Police Department’s Investigative Unit at (510)-790-6900. Anonymous tips also are accepted by sending a text to Tip FremontPD followed by a short message to 888-777 or online at https://local.nixle.com/tip/alert/6216337.

Combat Illegal Tobacco Use among Minors

The City of Fremont received $100,843 in state funding to tackle the illegal sale of cigarettes and tobacco products to minors as part of the California Department of Justice’s Tobacco Grant Program. The grants were awarded to 76 local entities throughout the state to support the enforcement of state and local laws related to the illegal sales and marketing of tobacco products to minors. California Attorney General Xavier Becerra announced the recipients on October 1. With the support of the Attorney General’s office, the city is prepared to educate and engage the families and youth of Fremont, to understand the dangers of tobacco and nicotine products and make healthy decisions.

“Tobacco is a serious threat to public health, especially to California’s youth,” said Becerra. “These grants will support local communities in enforcing the law and educating kids about the harms of tobacco products. My office is dedicated to ensuring the state has the resources necessary to curb the dangers of tobacco and protect the public’s well-being. Preventing or reducing illegal sales of tobacco to minors will pave the way to a healthier California—we’re committed to tackling this public health crisis head on.”

The city will use the funding to implement and enforce a Tobacco Retail License (TRL) program, and augment student and parent education and engagement efforts already underway through the partnership between Youth and Family Services and the Fremont Police Department. In addition to supporting enforcement efforts as the new TRL program takes shapes, the city is planning to hire a tobacco program youth specialist to increase education efforts in the school district and fund more parent education workshops presented by the sergeant who oversees the school resource officers.

Access Bridge and Plaza Project

The Warm Springs BART West Access Bridge and Plaza Project reached a significant milestone in late September. The truss span of the bridge, connecting directly to the Warm Springs/South Fremont BART Station and over the Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) tracks was installed. The pylon for the cable stays span of the bridge has also been installed along with a portion of the cable stay bridge deck over the UPRR spur line. Both installations are now visible from surrounding streets.

This milestone was achieved after comprehensive and complex coordination efforts between the City of Fremont, BART, and UPRR, with special attention to safety, protection of the existing BART facilities and patrons, and protection of UPRR facilities and trains. Ultimately, the bridge will provide a pedestrian/bicycle connection between the BART station and the new residences, as well as major employers in the area. Construction activities for the elevator, escalator, and staircase, as well as the overall plaza, will intensify in the next couple of months.

Housing Choice Voucher Program Workshop

The city is hosting a free education workshop on the Section 8 Housing Choice Voucher Program from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, October 30 at the Fremont Main Library, 2400 Stevenson Boulevard. The Housing Authority of the County of Alameda will provide an overview of the program and answer questions to help rental housing owners comply with the City’s new Source of Income Discrimination Ordinance.

This workshop is open to all, although the presentation will be tailored for rental housing providers. To RSVP, visit www.Fremont.gov/Sec8Workshop, email RentReview@Fremont.gov, or call (510) 733-4945.

Oakland Zoo wins national award for exhibit design

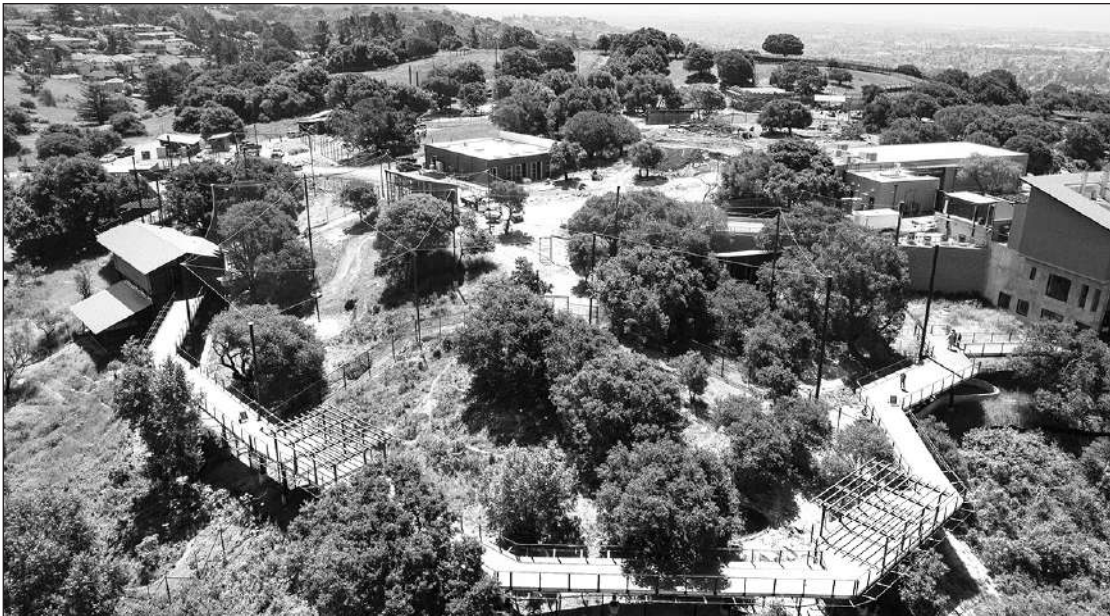

SUBMITTED BY
ERIN HARRISON

The Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA) recently announced that Oakland Zoo has been recognized with AZA’s 2019 Exhibit Design Award for its significant achievement in creating the California Trail exhibit. Oakland Zoo received this national award during AZA’s September conference in New Orleans.

“This award congratulates Oakland Zoo for significant achievement in designing a naturalistic, engaging habitat that provides high-quality animal care and welfare as well as meaningful guest experiences,” said AZA President and CEO Dan Ashe. “California Trail goes above and beyond AZA’s rigorous standards for animal management, safety, conservation, and education, and should be considered a model for others.”

With its annual Exhibit Award, AZA recognizes excellence by an AZA-accredited facility (US or international) or certified related facility member in the areas of exhibit design and providing visitors with the opportunity to engage in observing and learning about the animals.

More than two decades in the making, the zoo’s California Trail exhibit opened to the public on July 12, 2018. The expansion more than doubled the zoo’s size, from 45 acres to 100 acres.

Eight new native California animal species, each selected for their historical significance to the state and status in the wild, have settled into their expansive new habitats — among the largest in the world and designed under the collaboration of animal behavior experts, wildlife experts, and notable habitat design experts. These species are American buffalo, black bears, grizzly bears, brown bears, mountain lions, jaguars, California condors, gray wolves and bald eagles.

“The California Trail at Oakland Zoo is unique. Beyond the gondola ride, spectacular views, and our many rescued animals in their expansive habitats — this is about inspiring people to connect with our state’s remarkable biodiversity and how to live with wildlife so we can protect their futures,” said Dr. Joel Parrott, President & CEO of Oakland Zoo.

The California Trail also includes the interactive California Conservation Habitarium, Conservation Action Tent, “California Wilds!” Playground based on California’s diverse eco-zones, and the Clorox Overnight Experience “safari-style” campground.

The Conservation Society of California, managing the Oakland Zoo, has made wildlife and ecology conservation forefront to the California Trail through stories of the animals and what we can do to ensure the survival of their counterparts in the wild.

Explore Haunted History with Spooky Tours at McConaghy House

SUBMITTED BY MARCESS OWINGS

AREA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Autumn is the season for long nights and mysterious stories, and nothing is spookier than when the stories are rooted in the truth. This fall, the Hayward Area Historical Society (HAHS) is bringing back a beloved program with a new name: Shrouded Tales is now “Haunted History!” The event will run on four different days: October 18 & 19, and October 25 & 26.

More like a spooky historical tour, this is not your usual haunted house packed with jump scares and flashing lights. Our ghostly tour guides will escort brave souls through this reportedly-haunted Victorian mansion by flickering candle-light. Visitors will hear tragic tales of local families and dark deeds of unsavory characters, all tinged with insight into Victorian-era death traditions. In the words of HAHS member Marcess Owings, the tour covers “Spooky stories that happened for real.”

McConaghy House is a fully-furnished Victorian house museum next to Kennedy Park. Members of the McConaghy Family lived in the home from 1888 to 1973, and it has been uninhabited ever since. Haunted History is a glimpse into a different time and a different culture surrounding death. “The house was built in a time where family stayed in it, and they inherited it and grew up and kept in it,” says Owings. “So there’s a long history of McConaghy family members who lived their entire lives there.” In the Victorian period, people often expected to die in the same space where they had lived—and even funerals were held in the home. Even if the house isn’t haunted by ghosts, it’s definitely haunted by history.

McConaghy House is usually open only on the first weekend of every month, and is rarely open at night, so this is an unusual opportunity to peek inside this local treasure.

Tickets are $15 in advance and $20 at the door. Advance ticket purchase is highly recommended, and day-of sales are subject to availability. Schedule and tickets are available online at www.haywardareahistory.org or by calling (510) 581-0223. Unfortunately, the house is not wheelchair accessible. Participants should wear comfortable shoes and be able to climb steep stairs.

Train of lights is pulling into the station

SUBMITTED BY NILES CANYON
RAILWAY

On October 12, tickets go on sale for Niles Canyon Railway’s classic holiday event “Train of Lights.” This hour-long round trip through Niles Canyon is filled with refreshments, music, and cheer aboard our antique coaches and open cars that feature holiday lights and decorations inside and out. Train of Lights offers a rare opportunity to experience a train ride through Niles Canyon at night. With one departure from Niles at dusk and a second departure from Sunol after dark, you can choose your favorite time to ride. Train of Lights has been an annual tradition for many Bay Area families for more than a decade. Make it yours too!

Starting November 22, trains depart from Niles at 4:30 p.m. and Sunol at 7:30 p.m. every Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday during the holiday season (except Christmas Eve and Christmas Day). The earlier Niles departure leaves when it’s still light enough to enjoy the beautiful scenery of Niles Canyon but dark enough on the return trip to enjoy the train’s mesmerizing lights. Riding options include coach (standard unreserved seating), first class dome (swivel seats with a clear view of the canyon), first class parlor (reserved seat in Cuban mahogany interior), and private caboose (up to 24 passengers). Round-trip tickets are available online for all departures. These trains are very popular and often sell out well in advance, so we recommend you purchase your tickets as early as possible.

All passengers aged 3 or older require tickets. Infants and children under age 3 do not need a ticket if they are sitting on a lap, but if your infant will take up a seat, then your infant will need a ticket. Due to space limitations, baby strollers are not allowed on the train. If you have a wheelchair or need other special assistance, please contact us. ADA wheelchair access is only to selected (covered) open cars, due to the narrow doors on our antique coaches.

Train of Lights is our flagship fundraising event for the year, so tickets are not refundable. However, if you are unable to make your train, you may be able to exchange your tickets for tickets on another train for a $20 fee if there are enough available.

Trains run rain or shine, and the canyon can get very cold and windy at night in the winter. The train includes inside and outside seating, but we don’t guarantee an inside seat, so be prepared for cold, wind, and inclement weather and dress accordingly. Allow more time to get to your boarding location and park if there’s bad weather. The Train of Lights runs at night, so a small flashlight may be useful to help you move safely between your vehicle and the train.

Fremont among best cities for seniors to live in U.S

SUBMITTED BY DONNIE DINH

Caring.com, a leading senior care referral service with Family Advisors nationwide, released its 2019 Senior Living Report on the best and worst places for seniors to live. Fremont is ranked number 60 out of 302 cities in the U.S. Each city was graded on healthcare, housing options, community engagement, transportation, quality of life, and workforce development.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, almost 20 million Americans will be age 80 or older by 2030. With such a fast-growing population, it’s critical that our communities address the needs and socioeconomic conditions of the elderly.

“Compiling and analyzing senior care data to provide helpful and highly relevant insights has been part of our social mission since our company was founded in 2007,” says Jason Persinger, Caring’s chief digital officer. “This comprehensive study is designed to help families and seniors understand and discuss the landscape for senior living in specific states, while also supporting our nation’s communities in better serving the growing population of seniors.”

To see how Fremont performed in the study visit <https://www.caring.com/senior-living/california/fremont>. To access the complete ranking of the best and worst places for senior living, visit <https://www.caring.com/senior-living/>.

Ardenwood Harvest Festival

shows will be part of the entertainment. Visitors can learn the history of the farm, its original owners and explore the restored farmhouse. They are also welcome to visit an adjacent pumpkin patch.

“People are out here for hours and all the kids are into it because they’re helping,” said Christina Garcia, coordinator of the Ardenwood festival. Christina has been working at the farm for around 20 years; she enjoys the festival because it brings in families and the community for this old-time farming experience during the harvest season.

“We tend to send people back to the days after the gold rush and what is so cool is that this is the only farm in this area,” said Garcia. “For me, the main purpose is just connecting the people with their food. It’s pretty much central to our existence... I just think people have a wonderful time, children working alongside their parents, so having fun but at the same time contributing.”

One of the main events of the festival is corn picking; families can wander the 5-acre cornfield. Half the field is popcorn corn and the other half is Indian corn. People are also shown how to make dolls out of corn leaves, which is easy and can be done beautifully due to the color of Indian corn leaves. “It’s a beautiful decoration too... I always take some home,” said Garcia, clearly enjoying herself as she made her own doll out of corn leaves.

Another way people can experience an old-time farming activity is using an apple cider press. Garcia demonstrated how apples are ground manually with a wooden machine. “There’s a special little press. You put the apples in, push down and all the juice is squeezed out... it tastes great. There are different varieties. I like to use a mixture so it’s kind of tart and sweet and sour, all at the same time,” Said Garcia. “If you save it, you can turn it into a hard apple cider which is popular right now—it’s slightly fermented, slightly alcoholic. Or you can make it into apple cider vinegar.”

Farm Roots

Ardenwood Farm was built in the 1850’s by George Washington Patterson during the gold rush. Like many moving west, Patterson, from Pennsylvania, was seeking fortune in the goldmines.

But later, he realized that his gold was in the farm fields.

“George’s story is that he became the wealthiest man in Alameda County during the gold rush time from farming, because all these people from all over the world are coming and no one was feeding them,” said Garcia. Through farming, George and his family became the wealthiest farmers in Alameda county during those years. In 1978 the farm was turned over to the city of Fremont; it has been functioning under the direction of East Bay Regional Park District since 1985. Tours of the Patterson House at Ardenwood are available for people to experience a beautiful 19th century Victorian mansion and its elaborate gardens.

For more information about the event and for e-tickets visit www.ebparks.org. Fees are $10 for adults, $8 for seniors (62+), $6 for children 4-17, and free admission for children under 4. Free parking is available. No dogs permitted.
