Ohlone College Debuts New Learning Facilities

BY RAYMOND IBALE

Ohlone College celebrated the opening their new learning facilities on January 24, 2020, nearly a decade in the making. District leaders, staff, students, business partners and community members witnessed the grand opening of the Frank DiMino Academic Core Complex Buildings with a ribbon-cutting ceremony followed by a tour. The Core Complex consists of an Arts Building, Science Center, and Learning Commons.

The new buildings total 188,000 square feet and sit atop the hills at Ohlone College's Fremont Campus and don new and improved classrooms, laboratories, and office spaces — aiming to encourage student and campus collaboration.

"This project is the largest, most ambitious project in the community college system. A huge feat and I believe the buildings were worth the wait," said Ohlone Community College President/Superintendent, Dr. Gari Browning, during her State of the College speech.

"The result you see today is a faithful representation of our vision and I could not be prouder to call Ohlone our home, I hope, as a member of the Ohlone community, you share that saying."

Ohlone College broke ground of the Academic Core Buildings in April 2016 with the help of construction partners, Cannon Design, a global architecture, engineering and design firm, Gilbane Building Company, a family-owned construction and real estate development firm, and Balfour Beatty Construction, an international infrastructure group. The buildings were funded by a $349 million bond, Measure G, passed by voters in Newark, Fremont, and Union City in 2010.

The Core Complex was named after real-estate developer Frank DiMino, who had a close connection with Ohlone professor, Darren Bardell. DiMino donated $9.8 million to the Ohlone College Foundation in November 2018. Eight million dollars was allocated toward the Academic Core Complex, which helped

Medical Journey Leads Physician to Tri-City Area

Washington Hospital and Washington Township Medical Foundation
Welcome New Psychiatrist

Sometimes the path to the place we call home takes many turns along the way. Washington Hospital is pleased to welcome Catalina Villa, MD, to their medical staff and Washington Township Medical Foundation. Dr. Villa brings her much-needed psychiatric experience to the Tri-City community.

Fluent in both English and Spanish, Dr. Villa provides psychiatric services to patients admitted to Washington Hospital. “My primary emphasis is caring for people who are admitted to Washington Hospital, where I work four days a week,” she explains. “My role is to help hospitalized patients who exhibit psychiatric symptoms such as depression or anxiety. I might also see patients who have other psychiatric conditions such as mania or psychosis, and I occasionally will see patients in the emergency department when the physicians there seek my assistance.”

In addition to her duties at the Hospital, Dr. Villa also spends one day each week at WTMF’s Psychiatric & Behavioral Science Department outpatient clinic, located at 2299 Mowry Ave. in Fremont, where she works with her colleague, psychiatrist Seema Sehgal, MD.

Originally from South America, Dr. Villa practiced emergency and inpatient care in internal medicine and surgery in her native country for several years. While working there, she traveled to Ohio State University’s James Cancer Hospital in Columbus, Ohio, to spend several months completing a clerkship in the Hematology and Oncology Division. In addition, she conducted cancer research studies in the Oncology Department.

In 2005, Dr. Villa moved to New York for a residency in psychiatry at Albert Einstein College of Medicine’s Montefiore Medical Center. In addition to completing the residency, she also served as a research assistant in the college’s Behavioral Genetics Laboratory.

“I was drawn to the field of psychiatry because I felt I got to know my patients better as a psychiatrist than I did while practicing internal medicine,” she says. “I want to know my patients as whole persons, rather than as just a set of medical symptoms. With my psychiatric patients, I get to have a much better sense of who they are.”

After completing her residency in New York, Dr. Villa and her husband – who is an anthropologist – decided to move to California, where she worked as an outpatient psychiatrist for Tulare County Health and Human Services in Visalia. In 2011, the couple moved again, this time to Oakland, where she became medical director of Behavioral Health for La Clinica de La Raza. She later transitioned to Alameda Health System.

“In my nearly 20 years of medical practice, I have worked in all settings, including outpatient clinics, hospitals and emergency departments,” Dr. Villa notes. “I chose to join Washington Hospital and WTMF because they are known for having more resources for patients than many other local organizations. I also recognized the need for expanded psychiatric care in this area.” Prior to coming here, Dr. Villa spent nearly seven years as a consultant and liaison psychiatrist for the Alameda Health System. She worked at Highland Hospital, San Leandro Hospital and Alameda Hospital, as well as clinics in Oakland, Hayward and Newark.

Though they enjoyed living in New York very much, Dr. Villa and her husband wanted to experience life on the West Coast. She now admits, “Once we moved to the Bay Area, we realized we are here to stay. We’ve been married for 16 years, but we didn’t decide to have a child until we felt truly settled. Our son is now 4-1/2 years old.”

Dr. Villa and her husband both enjoy being in careers that involve scientific pursuits related to the lives of human beings, both past and present. “We share a love of history, and we enjoy traveling together when I’m able to accompany him on his anthropology excursions,” she says. “I also love the arts – theatre, opera and visual arts.”

Though her journey has taken her to many locations with many types of health care facilities, Dr. Villa has found her home—and community members couldn’t be happier.

UCSF - Washington Cancer Center Takes a “Whole Patient Care” Approach

Oncology social worker joins team to provide patient and family support

According to the National Cancer Institute, 38.4 percent of men and women will be diagnosed with cancer at some point during their lifetime. People in Southern Alameda County can take comfort knowing if they or a family member is touched by cancer, the UCSF - Washington Cancer Center is conveniently located in their community. The center brings together the latest in cancer research with a specialized team dedicated to meeting all the physical, psychosocial and practical needs of patients.

The newest member of the UCSF - Washington Cancer Center team is social worker Andie Barker, MSW. “Often in oncology social work, part of our daily challenge is advocating for the rights of patients and facilitating effective communication between them and care providers,” she said. “That is not the case here, as this center has been built around a ‘whole patient care approach.’ Everyone at the center, and in other areas of the Hospital, like the infusion center and radiation oncology center, works collaboratively as a unified team to ensure the needs of our cancer patients are met.”

Barker has been educated and is skilled in assisting with the psychosocial, cultural and spiritual issues confronting those with cancer. She also helps with practical needs such as communication with patients’ employers and other health providers, researching financial assistance for medical expenses, and resourcing the right counselors or support groups.

“Services are not limited to the person living with cancer,” Barker

Social worker Andie Barker, MSW, offers support to oncology patients and their support teams.

explained. “I am also here for the patient’s support team, which is often made up of caregivers, family members, and friends who also deal with the fear, stress and lifestyle changes that come with a diagnosis. As a resident of this community, it is a privilege and an honor to work with my neighbors who are dealing with cancer.”

One of the biggest challenges people living with cancer face is arranging transportation to and from their frequent appointments. Between meeting with doctors, undergoing tests and having procedures, chemotherapy and radiation treatments, patients sometimes need to be at the Hospital numerous times a week. One community resource Barker utilizes is Drivers for Survivors, a free local service that provides transportation and supportive companionship for ambulatory cancer patients. This nonprofit company was founded by a former patient of the center, Sherry Higgs, who was treated for breast cancer in 2010.

In addition to its strong social services, the center brings to the community the latest advancements in the field and some of the country’s leading cancer specialists. Medical Co-directors Bogdan Eftimie, MD, and David J. Lee, MD, from UCSF Health lead a highly skilled team of clinicians in Fremont while staying on the forefront of cancer research with their UCSF colleagues.

“We are pleased to give our patients access to the research, clinical trials, genetic screening and academic resources of UCSF without them having to travel out of their home community,” said Oncology Program Director Richelle McCarthy. “Our new dietitian Laura Nolting (featured in the first article of this series last week) and social worker Andie Barker are wonderful new additions to our tight-knit team of clinicians who are passionate about helping our patients and their families through their cancer experience.”

Washington Hospital has several complimentary and low-cost cancer seminars, support groups, wellness classes and other resources available to the local community no matter what health insurance residents have or where they receive their health care. All offerings are described and listed in the Health & Wellness catalog sent biannually to district residents. For an online copy, go to whhs.com/healthwellness.

Big plans for LOV's "An Elegant Affaire"

SUBMITTED BY SHIRLEY SISK

The League of Volunteers (LOV) is holding their 29th annual "An Elegant Affaire" on Valentine's Day - February 14th - at the Doubletree by Hilton in Newark. The chef will serve a gourmet dining experience for the benefit of LOV's popular Arts In Schools program, which provides in-school multi-cultural performing arts assemblies to children of Fremont, Newark and Union City.

Last year's glittering event helped bring performances to 10,173 young people. The need for this program in our schools is still great, and it can be met with the success of this year's Elegant Affaire – a time for fantastic food, fine wine and fun. Enjoy a champagne cocktail hour where guests will be entertained by Salvador Vazquez on Mexican harp; beer lovers will be welcomed by Das Brewery.

A four-course gourmet dinner follows with an outstanding menu including: Tomato Bisque Soup with basil and herbed croutons and Caesar Salad. For the entrée, try a tender beef flat iron steak with Argentinian sauce served on a bed of Yukon gold potatoes accompanied by seasonal root vegetables. There is an alternative vegetarian option: eggplant

Napoleon – with portabella mushroom base with layers of sautéed spinach & kale, grilled zucchini, yellow squash, roasted eggplant and red paper (fig balsamic glaze on a red roasted pepper sauce). Top off dinner with a gluten free Chocolate Supreme Cake. Various wines will be served with the dinner.

Besides a fantastic evening of delectable dining, there will be live and silent auctions and a very special drawing. Great prizes are being donated by local Mayors, School Superintendents, School Board members, Teachers Association Presidents, County Superintendents and other dignitaries. The MC for the evening is Mayor Emeritus Dave Smith. Tickets are $85 per person or $750 for a table of 10 with table sign. All credit cards accepted. You may also purchase online at www.lov.org. Reservations are limited to 150.

purchase furniture, fixtures, and equipment for the buildings. The rest of DiMino's donation went to scholarships and academic program support.

Ohlone Community College Board of Trustee member, Richard Watters thanked DiMino, who could not be in attendance, for his contributions to the project. "I'd like to thank a very special donor in DiMino, at age 93 he shows no signs of slowing down, he spends most of his time juggling philanthropy, charitable giving, entrepreneurship and visiting with his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren," Watters said, followed by a huge ovation.

During the ceremony, Ohlone Indian ancestor, Andrew Galvan, led attendees in the Prayer in the Four Directions and blessed the buildings that sit on Ohlone lands.

Dr. Browning plans to retire at the end of the 2019-2020 academic year. She announced her retirement October 2019. California Senator Bob Wickowski expressed his gratitude of Dr. Browning's career. He presented Ohlone College with a certificate of recognition for the opening of the Frank DiMino Academic Core Complex Buildings.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Still ignoring a serious problem

Our university, Cal State “East Bay” is starting a new semester with a serious, ongoing problem still in effect. CSU Hayward is our University’s name. This was the name shown on the letterhead and signage of Cal State Hayward from 1962–2005, its official name for 43 years, and its official name today.

The name “East Bay” is a form of vandalism done 15 years ago by CSU bureaucrats in Long Beach behind our backs. Our weak mayor and city council at that time were against it, but they completely failed to stand up for the people of Hayward, who had been hosting our university since 1957. This name change has racist and classist overtones because Hayward, a working class town with a high percentage of people of color, is the only one of 23 CSUs to ever be robbed of its name.

At the time of the name change, about 97 percent of Hayward’s people were strongly against it. But only after the fact, because, thanks to a complete lack of real leadership by our city council, most of us had no idea that this name theft had even happened.

There are tens of thousands of CSU Hayward diplomas out there, all over the world, that have been vandalized by a short-term university president from Boston, Norma Rees, and a weak mayor and city council.

I have BA and MA degrees, that say “CSU Hayward” on them, a university that apparently doesn’t exist. Just a handful of greedy, selfish people hurt Hayward’s branding as a university town and as a modern business-friendly city, hurt the working-class people’s pride at having their kids graduate from their home town university, and hurt the overall spirit of Hayward forever or until the CSU regents erase the vandalism and restore our great university’s actual name.

Where even is “East Bay?” It sounds like a sanitation or transportation district. If our university were on the west side of a swamp, would they have named it CSU West Swamp? The stupidity of the name change is mind boggling. What kind of college and city leadership would allow this serious and easily remedied problem to continue? Imagine if a typo had been made on the signage and letterhead. It would be fixed in a matter of days or weeks.

Enjoy Food and Music at World Interfaith Harmony Celebration

SUBMITTED BY JEFF SPENSER

“World Interfaith Harmony Day” will be celebrated on Saturday, February 1 at Niles Discovery Church. This Tri-City Interfaith Council (TCIC) event is co-sponsored with the Human Relations Commissions of Alameda County, Fremont, and Union City. It is free and open to the public. Enjoy food, music, 12 faith tables, and small group conversations facilitated by Jessy Zapanta of the Oakland Peace Center.

In 2010 the United Nations established World Interfaith Harmony Week “to promote harmony between all people regardless of their faith.” The Rev. Jeffrey Spencer, current TCIC president and senior pastor of Niles Discovery Church says, “TCIC has sponsored events to create harmony, understanding, appreciation, and respect for all people from all faiths and no faiths for over 30 years. At this event people may ask questions to gain knowledge and appreciation of religious practices and beliefs. They can also gain skills for having difficult conversations. Our theme is ‘Braving Harmony Across Those Divides’ and we’ll focus on the divides that have caused families communities to fall apart.”

At the event, people can visit information tables on many faith traditions including Baha’i, Thai Buddhist, Christian Science, Episcopal, Muslim, Jewish, Roman Catholic, Sikh, Unitarian Universalist, and Protestant.

Beginning at 1:30 p.m., Jessy Zapanta, Director of Programs and Partnerships at the Oakland Peace Center and co-founder of Dharma in Motion Sangha at East Bay Meditation Center, will teach ways to create a safe space for listening, compassion, harmony, and justice making. Zapanta will offer paths for engaging in conversations that allow conflicting perspectives on race, religion, homelessness, immigration, gender, sexuality, politics, violence, and climate change. There will be time to identify and explore communication and conflict styles, common ground, and areas to stretch and grow.

During a break, there will be time to eat, visit information tables, or learn music with guest musicians: Rabbi Tsvi Bar-David, Rashid Patch, Soni Kaur, and Manjeev Singh. At 3:30 pm, the closing Harmony Celebration will lift up the day’s highlights and feature music led by our guest from the Jewish, Muslim, and Sikh traditions.

The public is encouraged to come, whether this is the first interfaith experience or their hundredth. Participants are encouraged to bring food to share so that all may enjoy the rich religious and cultural diversity of the Tri-Cities. Children are welcome and need to stay with their guardians.

Moina Shaiq, co-chairperson of this Interfaith Harmony Day event and founder of “Meet a Muslim,” says, “I wish every community had this kind of event with so many faith traditions; we are very fortunate. The world wouldn’t be at war if there were more communities like ours. We need to keep proving that we can all coexist...It’s the golden rule: treat others the way you want to be treated.”

Privacy Fears Hinder 2020 Census Research

By HUGO VERA

With the 2020 U.S. Census rapidly approaching, millions of Americans now have to make a crucial decision. When census takers come near their residence, will they willingly share their information with the government or will they waive participation?

It would have been safe to assume that most Americans would be eager to take part in the census when it first began back during the Washington administration. According to the U.S. Census Bureau website, the four million Americans that participated in the 1790 census, did so as a nationalistic means of proving to Great Britain that despite a costly revolutionary war, the newly-independent colonies possessed the numbers needed for complete autonomy.

That was 1790. In 2020, citizens can look back on a plethora of incidents involving the mishandling and misuse of sensitive data during the rise of social media, e-banking and web search history. Though some of these fears are warranted given recent leaks, many Fremont residents still have faith in the census.

“If you don’t want your private information leaked, just don’t share it,” says Fremont native and engineer Daniel Hong. “Changes in internet law have made it so that we can stop sites from sharing things like our phone numbers. The government will only use that information to decide budgeting on things such as transportation.”

Another argument made by opponents to census participation is that the census often represents outdated or inaccurate data, given the country’s fluctuating immigration and birth rates. The Washington Post reported that during the 2010 census, people with a suburban and summer residence were often counted twice.

Additionally, federal census budgetary issues resulted in a cutback on dual-language survey packets which meant a sizable portion of the population didn’t take the survey simply because they couldn’t understand it. In an era marked by divisive immigration policies, another major setback to collecting data is the role that undocumented residents play in the census.

Although the City of Fremont gained national attention in 2018 when it received backlash from the U.S. Department of Justice for declaring itself a “sanctuary city,” many undocumented Fremont residents still fear that participating in the census will expose their legal situation. “The way things are going with the President, you have to be careful about sharing where you live and your situation,” said one undocumented resident who wished to remain anonymous.

Despite the Trump Administration’s efforts, The Supreme Court ruled in October 2018 that it was illegal to require a question pertaining to citizenship on the census. The court went on to explain that it’s against federal law for the Census Bureau to share someone’s immigration status with ICE until 72 years after the information is collected.

Despite what was seen as a progressive victory to organizations such as the American Civil Liberties Union, there has been a spike in social media campaigns calling for people to boycott the 2020 census.

“People are doing themselves a disservice if they chose to ignore the census,” adds Hong. “Think about it. If 40,000 people count on public transportation, but say only 30 people take the census and say that they don’t need it, then the 40,000 people who still need public transportation will lose funding for a service they need just because they didn’t participate.”

Until a general consensus is finally reached, those who decline to participate in the 2020 U.S. census will have just as large an impact on this country as those who do.

Novel Coronavirus Update

On January 23, it was brought to the Fremont Fire Department’s attention there are rumors spreading quickly on multiple social media outlets regarding possible cases of the 2019 Novel Coronavirus within the City of Fremont. The Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is currently monitoring an outbreak of a 2019 Novel (new) Coronavirus (2019-nCoV) in Wuhan City, Hubei Province, China that began in December 2019. There are confirmed cases in China, Thailand, Japan, South Korea, and the United States.

The Fremont Fire Department contacted the Alameda County Public Health Department (ACPHD), and the agency verified there are no confirmed cases of Novel Coronavirus (2019-nCoV) in Alameda County at this time. The ACPHD also noted the virus does not appear to be spreading in the United States and there are no additional precautions recommended for the general public at the present time.

Symptoms of 2019-nCoV include high fever or cough, and shortness of breath. Having these symptoms, and either having traveled to Wuhan in the last 14 days or meet someone who may have 2019-nCoV, would make a person more likely to need immediate medical evaluation. Before you go to a doctor’s office or emergency room, call ahead and tell them about your recent travel and your symptoms. To learn more information, visit the following resources from the CDC and Alameda County Public Health Department:

- Coronavirus Information from the CDC: www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/index.html

Census 2020

The City of Fremont, in partnership with Alameda County, is working to ensure that we fully count the community in the upcoming United States Census. Every ten years, the Census Bureau counts everyone living in the country to collect basic information including age, sex, and race, for every adult, child, and baby. Census 2020 will not ask about citizenship status or for information such as a social security number.

Beginning in March 2020, the City of Fremont will administer a Questionnaire Assistance Center, at the Fremont Family Resource Center to provide the public with access to computers and support in completing the Census. Responses are confidential and protected by law.

Those interested in getting involved can become a census ambassador and promote the census in Fremont through your neighborhood, community organization, or house of worship. You will be equipped with training, materials, and messaging to support Census participation. If you are interested, email Ashleigh Howick, the city’s census volunteer coordinator, at census2020@fremont.gov.

For other census information, contact Management Analyst Amanda Gallo at agallo@fremont.gov or (510) 284-4016. For Alameda County Census information, visit www.acgov.org/census2020. For City of Fremont Census information, visit www.Fremont.gov/Census2020.

Tax Preparation to the Community

Tax season is here. The Fremont Family Resource Center’s (FRC) Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program provides free, quality tax return preparation assistance and electronic filing for eligible individuals and families with an annual household income of $56,000 or less.

IRS-certified volunteer tax preparers will help eligible taxpayers claim their maximum refunds, such as the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), which can be over $6,000 for a family with three or more qualifying children. FRC VITA also provides access to asset building or income support resources such as public benefits, low or no cost bank accounts, and financial education. VITA falls under the City of Fremont Human Services Department’s SparkPoint Program and has helped more than 29,000 families receive more than $45 million in tax refunds since 2002.

FRC VITA offers tax services at four locations in the Tri-City area. The main tax site is the Fremont Family Resource Center, 39155 Liberty Street, Building EFGH. Walk-in tax services are from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Fridays through April 14. On April 15, VITA hours will be extended from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

VITA services are also offered at the New Haven Adult School, 600 G Street (entrance on H Street), in Union City from 10:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturdays through April 11 (closed March 14). VITA is also available at the Tri-Cities One Stop Career Center, Ohlone College Newark Campus, 39399 Cherry Street, Room 1211 by only appointment from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays through April 14. To make an appointment, visit www.fremontvita.org and scroll down to Schedule and Newark.

Throughout tax season, free on-site childcare is provided, on a first-come first-served basis as space is limited. This year FRC VITA offers a new drop-off service called Valet VITA for those with very simple, uncomplicated taxes. Taxpayers drop off their tax documents one day and pick up the completed returns on another. The drop off site is the Union City Family Center, 725 Whipple Road, Union City from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through April 14.

Author Series Highlights African-American Scientists, Inventors and Business people

SUBMITTED BY NANCY GUARNERA

Despite making substantial contributions to every aspect of American life, African Americans often disappear from history books after the Civil War. In honor of African-American History Month, Fremont author Tish Davidson will introduce some of these forgotten Americans when she reads from her books African-American Scientists and Inventors and African Americans in Business on Saturday, February 8 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Half Price Books in the Fremont Hub. The program is part of the “Second Saturday” author series co-sponsored by Fremont Area Writers (FAW) and by the bookstore.

Davidson’s audience will hear about people such as Paul Williams, a cyber security expert who grew up in a cabin with no electricity or running water; and cancer researcher Jane Cooke Wright, who was the third generation in her family to go to medical school. From traffic signals to gas masks, from refrigerators to long-burning light bulbs, African American inventions have made life safer and easier for everyone. Meanwhile, African American business leaders have published newspapers, founded banks, and even established new towns.

Tish Davidson is the author of 14 traditionally published books, including 10 for school age children and four for adults. This program is suitable for school age children, teachers, parents, and anyone interested in contributions made by African Americans missing from our history books.

Adjusting expectations

BY DAVID STARK
PUBLIC AFFAIRS DIRECTOR,
BAY EAST ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®

Home buyers and sellers had a significantly different experience in 2019 compared with previous years. With more homes on the market they both had to adjust their expectations.

For most of the communities along the 880-corridor, the number of homes for sale during 2019 reached a three-year high. Compared with 2018 there were 10 percent more homes listed for sale in Union City, 25 percent more in Fremont and more than 45 percent more on the market in Newark. This reflected an increase of more than 620 homes for sale in just those three communities.

Real estate markets are subject to the law of supply and demand. More supply did drive down prices in the short-term. The median sales price for a single-family detached home in Fremont during 2018 was $1.2 million. During 2019 it dropped six percent to $1.1 million. In Newark, prices dropped five percent from $963,000 during 2018 to $918,000 during 2019. The most significant change was in Union City where prices fell 15 percent from $1.04 million during 2018 to $891,500 during 2019.

More choices and lower prices would indicate that home sales would have increased during 2019. The actual number of homes sold provides insight into the “demand” side of the law of supply and demand.

Sales activity along the 880-corridor was mixed. Some of this was driven by the number of homes for sale in each community and some sales influenced by prices. In Fremont, more homes on the market drove down prices. Yet, sales activity was virtually unchanged between 2018 and 2019. While prices did drop year-to-year, the $1 million price tag is still out of reach for many buyers.

Market conditions were slightly different in Newark. The 200 additional units for sale and prices, on average five percent lower than 2018, resulted in a three percent increase in home sales. In Union City, the 15 percent drop in prices drove up sales by 10 percent.

The biggest difference for buyers and sellers during 2019 was how long a home was on the market. During previous years sellers expected a home to be on the market for two weeks or less before accepting a purchase offer. Buyers were prepared to move quickly as homes were also selling quickly. In 2018 a home listed for sale in the 880 corridor communities was on the market an average of 22 days. In 2019 this period increased to 27 days.

In Fremont, a home was on the market on average 29 days during 2019; in Union City, a home was on the market on average 31 days; and in Newark, a home was on the market on average 39 days. This change caused many sellers to question if something was wrong with their home or, in many cases, to drop the price.

Even with some new residential construction planned in many of the communities along the 880-corridor, the demand for home ownership is still outpacing supply. The market did cool a bit during 2019, but it will certainly remain warm, if not outright hot, during 2020.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Climate conference fosters intergenerational collaboration

This past weekend, hundreds of Citizens' Climate Lobby volunteers from across Northern California converged in Oakland for our annual regional conference. We had a special focus on inviting high school and college students, and it paid off with almost 100 students registered, including over 50 high school students.

The youth climate movement, especially with Greta Thunberg's leadership, is a unifying force in climate activism. Older activists (at 31, I've started to count myself among the old farts, especially with all the amazing leadership from middle- and high-school students) want in on the energy and momentum that the young people are bringing to this movement. And we have a lot to offer in return: experience lobbying Congress, connections to companies and organizations that may be open to collaborating, and mentorship and support as young people navigate through experiences that many of us have had already, such as applying to college and getting that first job.

This conference created space for young activists to build relationships with each other in a youth-only breakout session. They plan to continue their collaboration going forward. During the rest of the conference, people of all ages got to meet each other (or deepen relationships that they already had), thus building cross-generational power.

Climate change is too urgent of a problem for any of us to go it alone. If you want to get involved and are looking for a nonpartisan community of activists supporting each other as we work together to save the world, get in touch with your local Citizens' Climate Lobby chapter at cclusa.org.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: JANUARY 28, 2020

All Signs: This week, the Sun and Mercury are in Aquarius; Venus joins Neptune in Pisces; Mars is in Sagittarius; and we have a trio of Jupiter, Saturn, and Pluto in Capricorn. Warning: Around February 8, Mercury begins to slow down before going retrograde on February 16. It will stay retrograde until March 9 but will not “catch up” to the degree it was at (when it went retrograde) until the end of March. From mid-Feb to the end of March is a bad time to buy computers, cars, and trucks. Be smart and get car problems fixed now.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20): In some ways, this is a spiritual week. You will be inspired to be the best person you can be. Your popularity continues, and your interaction with younger people is strong. Mars is in your House of Travel, which is why you want to blow town. Meanwhile, Jupiter and Saturn at the top of your chart call attention to your success. Saturn means you have achieved something you have been working at for a long time, and Jupiter means you’re getting great press for it.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20): You will idealize a friend this week. With both the Sun and Mercury at the top of your chart, people notice you more than usual. Don’t hesitate to speak up when talking to bosses, VIPs, teachers, and people in authority because they will listen to you, and you might get your way. Continue to explore every opportunity to travel and get further training or education that is useful. Don’t worry about squabbles over inheritances and shared property.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20): This week you admire a parent, teacher, boss or, someone in authority. Something else at play is that fiery Mars is opposite your sign and this makes you impatient with others, especially partners and close friends. But is this impatience something in you? Or does this other person deserve your annoyance? Either way, be patient because patience is the antidote to anger, and anger serves no purpose other than to make everyone miserable. Instead, go with the strongest influence in your chart right now, which is to travel and learn something new.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21): This week your appreciation of beauty is heightened, hence it’s the perfect time to visit art galleries, museums, architectural buildings, etc. Meanwhile, you cannot escape important discussions about shared property, debt, taxes, inheritances, and insurance issues. Deal with these to get them out of the way. Don’t be frustrated if you find it hard to give all energy to your job. Do what you can and take it easy.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22): Your genuine concern for others is strong this week, especially those who are worse off than you, hence you will do what you can to help them. You might do fundraising for people in need or donate money to a worthy cause. In a different vein, this is a passionate, romantic week for you, so you will be so focused on a partner or close friend. Relationships at every level matter to you this week because you are passionate at every level. Meanwhile, keep your pockets open because money, gifts and, favors from others is coming your way.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): Even though increased chaos and activity on the home-front might be maddening, your focus on close friends and partners is endearing this week. You feel a close bond with someone. You will continue to work hard to get better organized because this is the thrust of what you want to do right now. You want to be healthy, in your best shape, and you want to be on top of whatever you do. Yes, you want to be efficient, productive and effective.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22): You feel gratitude to a co-worker this week. You will certainly feel affectionate and warm to someone. Meanwhile, you are still in party mode, which is why you want to escape on a vacation, enjoy restaurants and resorts, socialize extensively with fun people and have a great time at sports events and activities with kids. The downside is you might find it hard to convince others about something that’s important to you.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21): Many of you are starry eyed in love this week. For those who are not caught up in this romantic swirl, they might feel this same tenderhearted adoration for a child or even a piece of art. The bottom line is that you will be full of appreciation this week, which is one of the happiest ways to feel. Meanwhile, home, family as well as home repairs will be a priority.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21): Your energy this week will be up and down. For the most part, it will be strong. Around Tuesday especially, your energy will be flagging somewhat. No worries because this is temporary. This is a lovely time to enjoy family members and to entertain at home. You will also love to redecorate and tweak your digs and buy beautiful things for where you live. You’re busy on all fronts, which makes sense because how else will you get richer this year?

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19): Your idealism is aroused this week, which is why daily conversations with others will be important to you in a special way. Because of this tender association with others, you will be less inclined to be pushy about getting your way. Good choice and it is easy for you to do because you have divine protection with lucky Jupiter in your sign. Continue to focus on moneymaking ideas and ways to boost your earnings because this interests you right now.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18): With the Sun and Mercury in your sign, you’re pleased with yourself this week. You have lots of energy and you’re keen to talk to everyone. Because you are so enthusiastic about life right now, you might treat yourself to something quite luxurious. Recent difficulties with a friend or a member of a group will mellow out, especially at the beginning of this week. You won’t make a big deal about anything because you are above this.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20): At the beginning of this week, fair Venus is lined up with your ruler Neptune in your sign, which will mean you feel a complete soul-union with a loved one. This is the most refined, spiritual expression of love. For most of you, it will be directed toward another person. However, it could be experienced in a creative or artistic way. Although you have been ambitious lately, this week you’re not going to make a big deal about anything.

100 and Loving Life

BY JOHNNA M. LAIRD

Genevieve Rouse could serve as a model for finding joy in everyday living.

"I am happy the way I am," says Rouse, who turns 100 on January 28, 2020. This soon-to-be-centenarian has no bucket list of activities she feels compelled to complete to find happiness. "Skydiving is out," jokes her son Jim Rouse who lives in Fremont not far from Fremont Hills Assisted Living Center where Genevieve moved six months ago. "Fresh air, yes!" responds Rouse. "But no jumping up and down. I don't do that anymore."

A native Californian, Rouse says she didn't set out to live to 100. It just happened. "I don't think about age. I live each day as it comes and make the most of it." Rouse embodies several qualities centenarians share, according to research by National Geographic Fellow Dan Buettner who identified five places worldwide where people live longest and healthiest—known as Blue Zones. Earth is home to an estimated half a million centenarians with projection of 3.7 million worldwide by 2050.

Rouse's calm attitude may play a role in longevity. Her son Jim describes his mom as a "roll with the punches kind of person." When Genevieve Rouse gave birth to Jim, her first child, she calmly walked across a street to a hospital to deliver their baby while her husband was away serving in the U.S. Navy. Years later, when Jim needed help changing a car transmission, his mother changed clothes and slid under the hood offering another pair of hands. "I didn't need an auto mechanic," says Jim Rouse. "I needed muscle, and that's what Mom gave."

Part of Rouse's attitude includes not letting emotions fester. "I try to be nice to everyone, but there is always someone to give you a pain in the neck," she admits. "But I won't let things upset me." Instead, she maintains emotional distance and communicates expectations clearly and kindly. For example, when she and husband were living in Iowa, Rouse worked as a telephone switchboard operator, which required strong communication skills, putting through calls for customers using jacks and switches. While other operators avoided one particular caller because she spoke too loudly and pained operators' ears, Rouse answered. Later when the two crossed paths in a store, she coached the woman: "Speak normally. You don't have to yell into the phone."

Rouse remembers those times, getting off work at 9 p.m. and walking three blocks home at night safely without any concern. Buettner discovered that centenarians also incorporate movement into their daily routine, usually every 20 minutes. Rouse never learned to drive, which meant she was always on the move, getting in steps naturally. For 25 years, she was constantly moving working at Oliveira Elementary School in Fremont where she was a well-loved librarian. Students cried when she retired. Even now she makes movement a priority and attends exercise classes at Fremont Hills from her wheelchair.

Rouse exemplifies another quality centenarians share: connecting and staying connected. Rouse stays close with best friend Jeanette Rose in Fremont, her younger daughter Dale in Iowa, and her younger sister in West Virginia who calls weekly. Part of connection, says Buettner, is choosing the right tribe of supportive people, and for many, choosing the right mate is "one of the biggest" contributors to happiness. Rouse says she married a "good guy" and enjoyed years as a homemaker: "I loved my kids and I loved my husband."

Married for 64 years, the Rouses met at a wedding they attended for friends. Her husband-to-be, whom she had never seen before, chose Genevieve from a line of seven women, asking her to hold a gift he had brought. By wedding's end, Charles Rouse had invited her on a date to attend a game (decades later, Rouse is hazy on the details, but as a sports lover, she considered it a perfect date).

Although her father questioned her choice to marry a sailor during WWII, Rouse followed her own judgement with characteristic resilience, eventually bringing her father around. The U.S. Navy sent the couple, and later their family, to live in a variety of places, including Hawaii, Florida, and Copenhagen, Denmark. Settling in Fremont, they held season tickets to the Oakland A's. Now, however, Rouse is a devoted Giants fan, waiting for baseball season to begin.

What does it feel like to be 100? Ten days before her birthday Rouse quipped: "I don't know yet. I'm not 100, but I don't feel old." Feminist and activist Gloria Steinem, age 85, says the secret no one discusses about growing older: the body ages but inside yourself you still feel young.

Rouse's younger spirit shows, says Fremont Hills Community Life Director Isabela Tigno: "Genevieve always greets me with a smile and always has a spunky response to things I ask her. I love her willingness to join us for most activities. The other day, we were taking selfies together and she asked who the old lady was in the camera. I told her that we have no old ladies here at Fremont Hills, only beautiful ones. The smile on her face was priceless."

Fremont's Floral Treasure: The Display Gardens

BY CHARLENE DIZON

The Display Gardens of the California Nursery Company, also known as the Rose Garden, is a hidden gem within the Niles District of Fremont that captures both beauty and history. Its intertwinement with the California Nursery Company allows visitors to learn about the evolution of the retail garden center and its effect on the home garden.

Created by George Roeding Jr., the Display Gardens began as a place to show the bulbs and roses that were sold by the nursery so that visitors could see them first-hand. In the 1930s, the nursery built one of the first retail centers in the United States with a display garden for customers to look at plants before buying them. The garden was filled with spring-blooming daffodils, tulips, irises, and flowering shrubs in the spring. In the summer it was filled with roses. The nursery first invited the community into the display garden to attend a floral showcase known as the Bulb Show. The California Nursery Company introduced the Bulb Shows in 1934. This became an annual tradition and lasted until 1965. The showcase featured a distinctive collection of tulips, daffodils, and other springtime plants. George's wife, Frances Roeding, would design beds with different flowering bulbs for the daffodils show and ensure the colors and shapes were complementary. Her role in the Display Gardens was to plan harmonious displays of flowering bulbs and shrubs. College women and young girls would act as hostesses during the shows and dress up in Dutch and Spanish costumes. The nursery's logo was the "Old Adobe," inspired by the Vallejo Adobe. The adobe's Spanish theme inspired the Spanish costumes, while the tulips inspired the Dutch costumes in the Display Gardens. Mariachi bands would play music as guests walked around. A focal attraction during the Bulb Shows was a windmill, where many attendees would take their photographs. The windmill in today's Rose Garden was built by the Friends of Heirloom Flowers Club and dedicated in 1999. Since then, the windmill has been refurbished in 2017 with the help of Niles Fremont Rotary, local painter Barry Jennings, Math Science Nucleus, City of Fremont, and other volunteers. Now light yellow and blue with white trim around the door frame, it remains as a wonderful centerpiece of the historic Display Gardens. The California Nursery Garden Club and the City of Fremont are the Display Garden's main volunteers. They take care of not only the rose garden but the Habitat Garden, Succulent Garden, and Shade Garden. A few tasks include pruning, mulching, and naming unidentified roses. Coordinator of the California Nursery Garden Club Janet Barton explains, "Some of the roses we've found may have been here for longer than we thought, which is amazing. We're trying to identify as many as we can. It's exciting to find roses here that were sold by the nursery in the 1970s." Barton and several other volunteers do their best to ensure that the roses are protected and treated as treasures. In particular, one historical rose breed known as the Peace Rose is attentively tended to. The Peace Rose was originally created by Francis Meilland in France. The California Nursery Company grew Peace Roses and introduced them in eleven Western states. "It took six roses to create the Peace Rose," Barton states. A Peace Rose Garden was established in 2017 for the park's Roeding Centennial celebration exhibit. The Peace Rose is only one of many plants and flowers exhibited in the garden, as the space has kept its original function of displaying a variety of plant life. Barton adds, "We like to refer to the Rose Garden as the Display Garden because we have so many other spring-flowering plants like the big magnolia tree planted by Bruce Roeding, lilacs, crab apples, and so many others." The Niles Rose Garden holds attractions for every floral enthusiast, family, or group of friends to enjoy. "The garden and the park are open to the public. We embrace the history, gardening, preservation, and other factors," Barton states. Visitors will undoubtedly be in awe of the wide variety of nature featured and can relax in the garden's peaceful atmosphere. Volunteer hours are Thursdays from 10 a.m. - 12 p.m. For those who wish to volunteer at the Rose Garden, please contact Janet Barton at bart.balk@comcast.net, Joyce Blueford at blueford@msnucleus.org, or via the general email msn@msnucleus.org. Niles Rose Garden

Citrus Fruits: Edible and Inedible Uses

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS BY LALITHA VISVESWARAN

"When life hands you lemons, make lemonade," it is said. But what if, like in almost all of California, we are handed lemons, limes, oranges, mandarins, cara caras, etrogs, grapefruit, yuzu, kaffir lime leaves, meyer lemons, pomelos, blood oranges, orange blossoms, lime blossoms, key limes, kumquats, buddha's hands, and clementines?

For the purposes of this piece, let us just say that there are two obvious categories for citrus: edible and inedible.

Organic citrus is preferred for all edible uses of citrus. The parts of citrus that can be made into edible delights include whole fruit (rind, flesh and all), zest, peel/rind, leaves, and juice. Seeds of the citrus, also known as "pips," should not be consumed. They can cause choking incidents and are considered toxic in some culinary circles. They are also inconvenient as the pips must be spat out, which isn't necessarily the most genteel of practices.

Fragrant essential oils in citrus are volatiles present in the thick rind that protects the juicy fruit. The juice of citrus is contained in little vesicle-like sacs that are fragile and yet amazingly protected by spongy pith that acts like a shock absorber. Nature, in its infinite wisdom, created this protection; that's why even if the ripe fruit falls from a great height, the tough rind as well as the shock absorbing spongy pith, absorbs the impact of the fall, keeping the juicy fruit intact.

Mandarins and oranges have a sheath around their segments, not present in lemons and limes. It seems to me that nature has somehow apportioned servings for the larger fruit segments with its paper-like, inedible packaging.

Let us now get to the heart of the matter and consider various ways we can enjoy the members of the beautiful citrus family.

Whole fruit:

While it is true that there are inedible parts to citrus and it has a thick rind, smaller citrus such as lemons and limes have long initially inedible rind through softening with brine, citrus juice and salt.

This is how I learned to prepare them:

Take a basketful of lemons and juice half of them. After thoroughly cleaning the remaining lemons, cut them into quarters – but not fully because we want the fruit to keep its shape. Make a bed of salt in a clean and sterile glass jar. Press the quartered and salt-stuffed lemon and pour a little lemon juice over it. Layer with more salt. Add the second quartered and stuffed lemon and so on until the jar is full. Top with lemon juice. Cover with a clean dry muslin cloth and screw on a tight lid.

And then we wait.

It can take anywhere from three to six months. After that, flavoring includes ginger, cardamom, cloves etc.

Edible Uses of Citrus:

- Candied citrus peels, covered with chocolate, can be used for dessert or snacks.
- Citrus zest for infusing milk or dairy as this avoids curdling when acidic lemon juice is added to calcium-rich dairy.
- Lemon leaves, like kaffir leaves and fragrant aromatic varieties, can be used to flavor soups. Dried and powdered with spices, they can be used to form a lemon leaf salt or flavorings.

zest, and sugar. While it can be made with any kind of citrus, it is best with lemons.

- Lemon extract is a simple way to infuse volatile fragrance oils and essential oils in alcohol to be used like one would use vanilla or mint extract/flavoring.
- Limoncello is infusing vodka or any strong distilled liquor with lemons and added sugar. Like with extracts, it needs to sit for many months.

Inedible Uses for Citrus:

- Pot pourri is the obvious first thought when I think of citrus.
- Dried slices of oranges and grapefruit can be used for decorations and are especially nice on wreaths.
- Infusing citrus peels that would otherwise be discarded into cleaning vinegar would create a citrusy non-toxic cleaning solution that can be diluted and sprayed over counters and tabletops.
- Citrus peels and juice have varying levels of acidity. They also have a phototoxic effect, which means that although they can lighten skin cosmetically, they will make skin more sensitive to sunlight and especially UV. Even handling too much citrus can cause low level burns on our skin. Hence care must be taken while handling citrus and while using it cosmetically as a lightener.

been used to create a condiment that, in my opinion, should be part of any pantry worth its salt. Yes, I am speaking of Preserved Whole Lemons.

Although commonly identified as Moroccan, this salt-brined citrus has various versions throughout the Levant. It was born out of the need to preserve the fruit well into cooler months. Additionally, with minimal fussing about, it was possible to soften that tough, the tough rind will have softened, and the salt and tangy juices mingled together to form a slurry that preserves the almost-whole fruit. One can also flavor it with black peppercorns, crushed coriander seeds, or dried red chili peppers. But I like it plain. To use, rinse the preserved lemon and scoop out the flesh. The softened rind can be sliced and minced thin to flavor any dish – from fish to roast chicken to rice dishes to salads.

For a sweet version, use oranges and honey. Additional

- Whole dried limes, aka Persian black limes, are skewered and sun dried. These are stored and added whole to stews and braises and other slow-cooking dishes to rehydrate and impart a slight tangy flavor layer.

- Dehydrated slices of citrus can be stored and simply added to hot teas to be rehydrated even when citrus is not in season.

- Lemon curd is one of my favorite sweet condiments, indispensable for any tea service. It is made with eggs, citrus juice,

Bee Money Smart

To be money smart, you need to understand goods and services.

Collecting nectar for honey, we also spread pollen. That helps flowers and the crops that humans need to grow!

CleanStart Mobile Hygiene Unit Serves Over 200 Individuals in 2019

Last year the City of Fremont, City of Newark, and several community partners developed the CleanStart Mobile Hygiene Program to provide much-needed shower and laundry services to homeless community members. The CleanStart program launched on September 16, 2019 and within the first three months of service, the program helped 219 individuals, washed 456 loads of laundry, and provided 596 showers.

The program is available at four sites throughout Fremont and Newark. In addition to shower and laundry services, participants are provided access to clothing donations, hygiene kits, and cold weather gear. The Fremont volunteer community has embraced the CleanStart program by not only providing direct volunteer hours at service sites, but also setting up auxiliary services around the program such as clothing mending and haircuts.

For more information about the CleanStart program including the schedule of services visit www.Fremont.gov/CleanStart.

Community Meeting to Discuss Real Estate Open House Sign Requirements

Community invited to learn about proposed changes to existing policy and provide feedback

Last year, the Fremont City Council directed City staff to review the City's real estate sign regulations. In recent years, community complaints regarding real estate signs in Fremont have increased. The community is concerned with the number of open house signs at the same location, the amount of time signs are left out, and the intention of the signs to advertise for realtors rather than direct people to open houses.

In November 2019, City staff provided an informational update to the City Council, which included researching regulations and enforcement policies from other cities and engaging with the local realtor community and other stakeholders. Staff plans to return to City Council in March 2020 with a recommendation to update the existing policy.

To learn about the updates the City will be proposing to City Council and provide feedback, the community is invited to attend a public meeting. Please see the details below:

Community Meeting: Real Estate Open House Signs

Monday, January 27

6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

City Council Chambers

3300 Capitol Avenue, Fremont

For questions, please contact Leonard Powell, Code Enforcement Manager, at 510-494-4521 or by email at lkpowell@fremont.gov.

Call for Student Artists for Fremont's boxART! Program

Calling all student artists! Help Fremont paint the town by submitting an art design for the City's boxART! program. The City is kicking off a student-only phase of the program and looking for student artists to paint several of Fremont's traffic signal control boxes.

This is a tremendous opportunity for forward thinking student artists to let the community see their work. Hundreds of people will drive or walk by the boxes daily. In addition, photographs of the boxes and the artist's contact information will be displayed on the City's website.

• Eligibility: All Fremont Students Grades K-12

• Theme: Kindness! What is kindness? How is it expressed? What actions are kind? What environment is kind? Who/what benefits?

• Stipend: Up to $200 for materials reimbursement plus community service hours

• Application Deadline: Monday, March 9, 2020

For more information and to download the application, please visit www.Fremont.gov/boxART or email Susan Longini, boxART! Program Manager, at boxart@fremont.gov.

New application makes it easier for applicants to obtain their planning permits

The City of Fremont Planning Division has announced a new Universal Planning Application. The new application combines all of the necessary forms and submittal requirements for planning permits into one simple, concise, and user-friendly document.

New features of the Universal Planning Application include:

- A comprehensive list of application submittal requirements for all planning application types
- A sheet-by-sheet breakdown of which plan set pages are required for each type of design review or entitlement submittal
- Updated submittal format requirements, with an emphasis on electronic plans
- Updated links to helpful resources and application components

The City hopes that the new application will make applying for planning permits more convenient and accessible, regardless of the application type.

The Universal Planning Application is available online at www.Fremont.gov/PlanningPermits or at the Development Services Center, located at 39550 Liberty St. in Fremont. The Center is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Friday. The Planning Division will continue to accept submissions using the previous Planning Application form, although applicants should note that all applications will be deemed complete or incomplete based on the submittal requirements checklist found in the Universal Planning Application.

For more information, please visit www.Fremont.gov/PlanningPermits or call the City's Zoning Information Line at 510-494-4455.

I need a Forever Home

Alyssa, a young New Zealand mix bunny with silky-soft, white fur, arrived at the shelter last June along with her sister Pansy. She's quite social and greets anyone who comes near her bunny apartment. She loves Timothy hay and greens. Spayed and hoping to find a loving family soon. Meet Alyssa at the Hayward Animal Shelter.

Pansy arrived at the shelter with her twin, Alyssa. She'd love a home with space to hop around and explore. Like her sister, she also has a great personality -- volunteer bunny pet pals socialize the buns and they've done a great job. She can't pass up an occasional treat of apple. Spayed. Meet Pansy at the Hayward Animal Shelter.

2020 Trails Challenge

By DENNIS WAESPI, EAST BAY REGIONAL PARK DISTRICT BOARD OF DIRECTORS

With the New Year comes the 27th edition of East Bay Regional Park District’s Trails Challenge, the self-guided program intended to encourage people to get out into the regional parks for some fresh air and exercise.

Visit the park district website www.ebparks.org to view a guidebook highlighting 20 great hikes in the regional parks. You can also pick up a free hard copy at a participating park district visitor center. The centers also have free 2020 Trails Challenge T-shirts while supplies last. With guidebook in hand, complete any five of the trails by December 1, turn in your trail log, and receive a commemorative pin, again while supplies last.

The challenge is open to hikers, cyclists, and equestrians. Some trails are easy, and some are more challenging. Besides trail directions, the guidebook has lots of other useful information about safety, equipment, etc. Major sponsors of the program are the Regional Parks Foundation and Kaiser Permanente HMO. It’s a great way to find out more about regional parks that may be new to you.

It’s not too soon to start thinking about summer jobs for youth. The regional parks have a lot of opportunities. Among the available occupations are lifeguards, gate attendants, student laborers, interpretive student aides, and various internships.

For information, visit www.ebparks.org. On the home page, click on “Jobs,” then scroll down to “Careers for Youth.” You can also drop by the park district headquarters at 2950 Peralta Oaks Court, Oakland.

In a unanimous vote, the Park District Board of Directors has appointed Elizabeth Echols as the director representing Ward 1 to replace Director Whitney Dotson, who resigned in December after 11 years on the board.

Dotson had health problems and passed away on January 8. A fine gentleman, he was a longtime advocate for public access to the Richmond shoreline and to parks and open space in general. He and his family were instrumental in retaining what is now Point Pinole Regional Shoreline as open space.

Echols has had an extensive career in public service. Most recently, she was appointed by then Governor Jerry Brown to serve as director of the independent Public Advocates Office at the California Public Utilities Commission. Her recent policy work has focused on environmental protection, climate change, and wildfire prevention and mitigation. She has a bachelor’s degree in economics and political science from Yale University, and a J.D. degree from Stanford Law School.

Many thanks to Dr. Richard Godfrey, who is leaving after years of volunteering on the district’s Park Advisory Committee (PAC). A surgical oncologist from Fremont, Dr. Godfrey has brought a wealth of knowledge and experience to the PAC. Dr. Godfrey is a longtime community activist and advocate for open space. He has published many scientific papers as well as a novel. Besides practicing medicine, he is a home beekeeper. He has taken his skills abroad as well, participating in a hospital building project in Kenya and helping to establish a honey-making business there.

Much of Daskarolis’ work has also been made into cards and usually can be found at the Fremont Art Association in Niles. Some of these prints will be available for purchase at the art show.

Park It

By NED MACKAY

A series of courses attractive to people interested in outdoor, environmentally related employment is being offered starting this spring at Merritt College in Oakland. The courses are taught by Merritt College faculty and East Bay Regional Park District staff, leading to certificates of achievement. Courses include conservation and resource management, natural history and resources, and urban agroecology.

For more information, visit www.merritt.edu/wp/nhs.

The first weekend in February brings a variety of programs to the Environmental Education Center at Tilden Nature Area near Berkeley. It all starts with botanical watercolor painting from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, February 1, with interpretive student aide Emily Ritchie. The idea is to create watercolor images of the nature area’s native plants. Participants will gain basic skills in life-drawing, plant identification, and of course water coloring techniques.

From 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, February 1, explore the nature area with naturalist Trent Pearce in search of salamanders and frogs. The search will proceed rain or shine. The program repeats on February 15.

Farm animals are the focus of two programs with naturalist Jenna Collins on Sundays, February 2 and February 16. Meet the Little Farm rabbits from 12 noon to 1 p.m. or flock with the lambs from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The center and Little Farm are both at the north end of Tilden’s Central Park Drive. For information, call (510) 544-2233.

For an opportunity to explore the newest addition to Sibley Volcanic Regional Preserve in the Oakland hills, join the Wednesday Walkers on a 3-mile loop starting at 9:30 a.m. at the Wilcox Staging Area on Pinehurst Road. The property will soon be closed for creek restoration.

For best access, take Canyon Road in Moraga, then turn right on Pinehurst. No dogs, please, and heavy rain cancels. For information, call (510) 644-3187.

The Over-The-Hills Gang is an informal group of hikers 55 and older who enjoy exercise, nature study and local history. Naturalist “Trail Gail” Broesder will lead the group on a mostly flat hike at Point Pinole Regional Shoreline from 10:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 4. Learn about the park’s explosive past.

Meet Broesder at the staging area at the end of Atlas Road in Richmond. For details, call (510) 544-2233.

Crab Cove Visitor Center in Alameda features Family Nature Fun from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday, with activities for all ages. The theme on February 1 and February 2 is “Duck, Duck, Goose!” with games to help learn more about our feathered friends.

A story time will be held from 11:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. every Sunday with stories, crafts, and activities. And from 3:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, you can watch the staff feed the fish in the center’s large aquarium. The aquarium fish are the same species that inhabit San Francisco Bay.

Crab Cove is at 1252 McKay Avenue, off Alameda’s Central Avenue. For information, call (510) 544-3187.

Fremont School District Board Meeting Highlights

SUBMITTED BY BRIAN KILLGORE

At its January 22nd meeting, The Fremont Unified School District (FUSD) Board of Education:

- Received Budget Update - Staff provided the Board of Education and the community with a presentation on the potential impact of the Governor’s Proposed Budget to Fremont Unified School District.
- Approved Second Reading of Revised Board Policy 6146 - The existing policy and regulations do not address recent legislation, which allows for the exemption of coursework and graduation requirements for students whose families are military, foster youth, students without permanent housing, students who have attended a juvenile court school, migrant, and newly arrived immigrants who have transferred schools after their second year of high school.

Additionally, the required units for graduation from Fremont Adult School have been revised to be in alignment with surrounding adult education programs in the Southern Alameda County Consortium (SACC), along with Union City and Newark.

Trustees also requested that staff survey Irvington High School staff, students, alumni, and parents about the Irvington High School QUEST project. A cross section of Irvington, students, parents, and alumni were surveyed, and the results are summarized below:

- Irvington staff provided feedback, cited the strong academic and life skills the course provides, and emphasized a desire to keep QUEST as a graduation requirement.
- Some staff members noted a need to refine QUEST at Irvington to ensure requirements remain in alignment with the school’s focus on mental health and wellness.
- Alumni respondents indicated that QUEST was helpful to them both at Irvington and post high school. Alumni noted that they felt the project could be enhanced by streamlining the amount of contact needed with outside organizations and refining timelines.

- Current Irvington students indicated that they have developed personal and social responsibility from work on the project, but responses were skewed from low-to-high in terms of assessing meaningful impact from the community service component.

Irvington Principal, Amanda Melsby, has reviewed this feedback and will continue discussions with her leadership team to ensure that the school is providing an equitable and relevant program that is impactful without being burdensome to the community.

Item Approved by 4-1 vote (Trustee Crosbie votes Nay).

- Authorized staff to enter into an agreement for Certified Athletic Trainers - Washington Sports Medicine/Washington Hospital Healthcare System (WHHS), in partnership with Fremont Unified, has funded certified athletic trainers at all five FUSD high schools since 2017. The hospital would like to continue this partnership with FUSD for the 2020-2021 school year.

- Authorized staff to enter into an agreement for the Theater Improvement Project - Staff is requesting authorization to execute an agreement with Roebbelen Construction Management Services for the Washington Theater Improvement project in the amount of $173,774. The cost for these services is within the budget for Washington Theater Improvement Project.
- Authorized staff to enter into memorandum of understanding with California School for the Deaf (CSD) for the 2019-2020 School Year - CSD will operate an Early Start program for infants and toddlers of varying hearing levels whose IFSPs indicate a bilingual deaf education approach. Procedures and policies shall be established by FUSD with the concurrence of CSD in accordance with state and federal regulations. Item approved by 4-0 vote (Trustee Berke abstains).

WILLIAM MARSHAK

Dragons and firecrackers are often associated with Lunar New Year celebrations celebrated throughout Asia and far beyond. Symbolic of strength and protection, dragons can overcome potential misfortune while the loud sounds of firecrackers ward off evil spirits and monsters. Each year is linked to one of twelve zodiac animals with particular characteristics bestowed on those born during that year. This is the year of the Rat whose systematic nature leads to stable and successful endeavors.

With each New Year celebration, there is a sense of renewal and commitment to positive aspects of life. Family and friends are honored and a sense of goodwill is promulgated; mistakes and malevolent patterns of behavior are renounced.

Another New Year

Spring – a new year - is just around the corner and with it, agricultural societies look forward to new plantings and the transition from winter’s barren landscape to verdant, fertile fields. Although most of us living in suburban and urban environments are largely out of touch with crop cycles, the legacy of these celebrations remains an important lesson of personal review and revival.

We are entering a year of political turmoil - local to national. A myriad of new year celebrations gives all of us an opportunity to take stock of priorities and relationships. Many traditions have survived for millennia and with good reason. Beyond customs and symbols, lies a basic tenet of civilized life, the advantage of support and harmony between individuals. In spite of human foibles, every society has recognized this truth and worked to form strong bonds of reliable companionship for health, happiness and protection. Hopefully, this will smooth the rough edges of political rhetoric and extremism prevalent during election cycles, especially this one.

On January 1st, we drank a cup of kindness for Auld Lang Syne; made promises to be better people and honor our friends and families. Now, a bit later, we can renew those resolutions and continue on a path toward goodwill and peaceful coexistence. Another new year, among many throughout the world, is the Persian celebration of Nowruz, and with it, an additional opportunity to reflect on past actions and pledge better behavior to exemplify the ideals or our “better angels.” With each new year celebration, hopefully, we can assess our progress and conclude, that although subject to human weaknesses, a “new year” reveals a few less blemishes.

Happy New Year!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Open Letter about restoration of Hayward to CSU

To: Timothy P. White, Ph.D., Chancellor, CSU

You have announced your 2020 retirement. I request that you publicly open the door to the restoration of Hayward to CSU in Hayward, the sole CSU in 160 years to lose its host community name to a regional name.

Late January 2020 brings the 15th anniversary of the CSU “Hayward” to “East Bay” name change. CSU campus place name changes have been rare: 1) CSU Riverside-San Bernardino to San Bernardino, 2) CSU San Fernando Valley to Northridge. Notably, both were local name to even more local name changes.

Fifteen years ago, the CSU had no criteria for removing host community names nor imposing regional names on its campuses. Fifteen years later that is still the case. CSU in Hayward remains the sole CSU with a regional name while it remains among the least regional CSUs.

You earned a masters at CSU Hayward, then a Ph.D. at UC Berkeley. Later, you led UC

Riverside as chancellor. CSU Hayward and UC Riverside share similar ranks in their respective CSU and UC systems. I believe that you would never let “Riverside” be removed from UC in Riverside. I ask that you publicly speak in favor of restoring “Hayward” to CSU in Hayward because you know intimately the pride that CSU and UC communities take in their host community campus names.

Your public words will open the door to statewide, state and assembly districts, countywide, citywide, and CSU leaders to speak in favor of restoring Hayward to CSU in Hayward.

President Rees and her senior advisors forfeited any standing to recommend a campus name change, when, early in her presidency, she proposed 1) an electronic data parking hotel and 2) housing for young university faculty and staff, public school teachers and other public employees, both where the current student housing and dining commons stand.

I attended the public meetings in the old student union where both proposals were seriously challenged by faculty, staff, students and campus neighbors. Moreover, research by the President and senior administrators would have revealed that the young UC Santa Cruz deliberately distinguished itself from nearby UC Berkeley, research that the young CSU Alameda (soon Hayward) should have been imitated in order to distinguish itself from the even nearer SFSU and SJSU.

Twenty-two CSUs still honor their host city, county, or local area names. CSU in Hayward, the sole outlier, should rejoin them.

LONG-TIME RECREATION DIRECTOR

Melvin E. Nunes

January 13, 1925 - January 8, 2020

Beloved father and well-respected retired Newark Recreation Director Melvin (Mel) Nunes, a lifetime resident of Centerville and Newark, passed away peacefully, surrounded by his loving daughters. He is survived by his three daughters Marilyn (Ken) Miller, Trish (Chris) Nunes, Barbara (Tom) Grappone, three grandchildren, Emily Thomas, Andrea Mason, and Ryan Grappone, and six great grandchildren, two step-daughters and their families. He was predeceased by his wives, Alberta Menezes Nunes, and Catherine Nunes.

Mel was a proud graduate of Washington High School, class of 1942, where he excelled as an athlete. Post high school led him to his first career, eleven years as a professional baseball player. He played in the Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers farm systems. The highlight of his professional baseball career was winning the 1945 Pacific Coast League Championship as a second baseman on the Portland Beavers, where he led the league in fielding and was a six-time All Star.

In the mid 40's at the end of World War II, he served his country at Fort Lewis Washington, where he was the player manager of the Fort Lewis Warriors Sixth Army Champions.

After the 1953 baseball season, he traded in his spikes for a career in city government. In 1956 he became first Director of Recreation for the Newark Park, Recreation, and Parkway District. One of his first tasks was managing the District's 9-12 and 13-15 year-old baseball teams, who went on to become champions of the Washington Township Baseball League. Mel was instrumental in developing the City of Newark's first neighborhood and community park system. The crowning moment of his career was the development and completion of the Newark Community Center. Mel, the Recreation Commission, and the citizens of Newark passed a bond issue, providing the funds to purchase and develop 9 park sites and construct the award-winning Newark Community Center.

Mel's incredible career spanned 5 decades and 38 years. Some other career highlights were starting Music at the Grove, one of the Bay Area's first free summer concert series in the park; founding the first city operated, state licensed, child care center in California (still serving families today). One of his last contributions was being part of a team that in 1985, developed a master plan to build the 26-acre Sportsfield Park

Mel belonged to many organizations: California Parks and Recreation Society, US Tennis Association, lifetime member of The Association of Professional Baseball Players of America, Newark Kiwanis Club, SIRS, and Redwood City Senior Softball. Mel was an avid and loyal supporter of many local and professional sports teams. Go A's!! He loved walking around Lakeshore Park in Newark, and having daily interaction with his fellow walkers

Most recently, the City honored Mel by renaming it's largest sports park in Mel's name. Mel Nunes Sportsfield Park is a 26-acre community sports complex featuring grass multi-use fields, night-lighted softball field and walking paths. In the fall of 2019, the City completed a $7 million renovation of the park with the addition of 2 multi-use, night-lighted artificial turf fields and an 18,000 square-foot Zach Wormhoudt designed skate park. Mel was thrilled with the dedication ceremonies which were attended by well over 100 community members. He was a frequent visitor to the park, spending time watching the soccer players and skaters enjoying this wonderful facility.

Police vow to solve woman's 1971 disappearance

SUBMITTED BY HAYWARD PD

On the 49th anniversary of the disappearance Christine Marie Eastin in Hayward, police are still hoping to uncover clues as to what happened to the 19-year-old woman.

On January 18, 1971, Eastin disappeared after an evening of shopping at a local Mervyn's store. The car she was driving was found with the doors locked at Charlie's Car Wash, 25400 Mission Blvd., Hayward. She has not been heard from since.

But Hayward Police Department officials vow this will remain an open investigation until they can bring long sought answers to Eastin's family. To achieve this goal, they have a dedicated detective assigned to this investigation. In addition, there is a $50,000 reward for anyone who has information that leads to the conviction of the person responsible for Eastin's disappearance.

There is a suspicion of foul play in Eastin's disappearance. Her photo appears on the Hayward Police Department's Facebook page. Anyone who has information about what happened the evening Eastin vanished is asked to call Detective Sprague at (510) 293-7176.

Obituary

Melvyn A. Charles, Sr.

June 15, 1926 - January 24, 2020

Melvyn A. Charles, Sr., 93, of Jackson, Michigan, drew his last breath on January 24, 2020, only nine days before the 49ers, his favorite team, played in the Super Bowl. He died peacefully with family by his side. His name sign was a "C" on the chin.

Melvyn was born on June 15, 1926, to Nathan and Louise Griffin in Sacramento, California. At two years old, he became Deaf due to bacterial meningitis. He graduated from the California School for the Deaf, Berkeley, in 1945. His first job was at the Wonder Bread bakery in San Jose. After that, he worked at different places including the United States Post Office in San Francisco and Hewlett Packard in Sunnyvale.

Melvyn got married to Barbara Ann in 1956. Melvyn is survived by five children:

Beverly Jean, Melvyn Jr., Charles Alexander, Marjorie, and Katherine. He is also survived by two children-in-law: Connie and Samuel.

He was a great brother to Pat, Larry, Dusty and Phil as well as an uncle to Laura Lee, and Gary. He had eight grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Melvyn was known as a Latter-Day Saints member who loved and owned dachshunds in addition to his lifelong love for Harley Davidson motorcycles. Because of his time and investment on his prized motorcycle, he won a "Best Bike Show" award for Best Machine and Best Dressed Man at Hollister Independence rally in Hollister, California, in 1954. He then wheeled across the country for another win at Laconia Motorcycle Week in Laconia, New Hampshire, in 1955. He will be remembered for his zest for good times on his classy Harley Davidson motorcycle.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks you to do an unsolicited act of kindness for others in his memory.

SUBMITTED BY
SGT. JOSEPH HEYLEN, MILPITAS PD

Officers from the Milpitas Police Department will be out in force on Sunday, February 2 to tackle drunken driving during Super Bowl LIV. Their advice: use a designated sober driver.

Driving under the influence of anything that impairs your ability to drive is illegal. This includes prescriptions, over-the-counter medication, illicit drugs and marijuana. If you take prescription drugs, be mindful of side effects, especially if there is a driving or operating machinery warning on the label.

If you're hosting a Super Bowl watch party, be a team player and have plenty of snacks and non-alcoholic drinks available for designated sober drivers. If a designated sober driver decides to have a drink, run interference and keep them on the sidelines. Find a safe alternative to get them home. It's much better to stop the play before anyone gets hurt.

Anyone who sees a drunk driver should not hesitate to call 911. Failing to stay between the lines, swerving, driving without headlights, taking wide turns and unnecessary braking can all be signs of an impaired driver.

Regardless of what team you are rooting for on Super Bowl Sunday, everyone is on the same team when the game ends so remember to drive safely. Funding for Super Bowl Sunday enforcement in Milpitas is provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Show discusses politics with humor and pathos

By STEPHANIE GERTSCH

With the 2020 elections on the horizon, many have politics on the brain. On January 31, San Leandro Performing Arts Center will host two beloved Bay Area artists, Brian Copeland and Charlie Varon, as they share their perspective on life in the age of Trump in *The Great American Sh*t Show*. Copeland is known for his hit solo shows Not a Genuine Black Man and The Waiting Period. Charlie Varon's best-known works include Rush Limbaugh in Night School and Rabbi Sam. All of Copeland and Varon's monologues in the *Sh*t Show* were developed with and directed by David Ford.

The show is inspired by an incident that happened to Copeland soon after the 2016 elections. As Copeland was driving, another motorist honked at him, rolled down his window, and yelled a racial slur. Copeland says, "I noticed an immediate uptick in open racism [at that time]. I have been called the n-word more times in the past three years than I have since growing up the only black kid in a then 94.9 percent white San Leandro. The bigots feel as though his election validated their thinking and they now have permission to spew their venom publicly."

According to Copeland, the four-monologue show is a mix of, "comedy, drama and pathos." The evening encourages the audience to think, covering topics such as how to deal with a family member with opposing views and how to work positive political change. Most importantly, the audience should leave with the knowledge "that you aren't alone in what you're thinking or feeling."

Of co-performer Charlie Varon, Copeland says, "Charlie is a brilliant performer and one of my idols in the arena of solo theater. He has a way of finding the nuances in a character or a situation that bring his pieces to life in a way that I've rarely seen." After the show debuted at the Marsh in San Francisco, Copeland was surprised how many people it touched. "The enthusiastic reception we've received has been beyond our wildest dreams. The whole show was just an experiment. It turned into a cathartic moment for those who feel that they are part of a disenfranchised majority."

The January 31 performance will also welcome special guest Lauren Mayer. A graduate of Yale, and a five-time Bay Area Cabaret Award winner, she is a political satirist/musician with the motto "If you can laugh at it, you can deal with it." Her work can be found on YouTube.

For many, especially those facing overt racism and discrimination, the current political climate can seem dire. But there is always a place for comedy and honesty while discussing how to navigate the elections and bring about change. This is why one of the central images of the show is lemons: it's not too late to turn them into lemonade.

- At about 11:19 p.m. officers responded to a call about a vehicle that struck a tree on the 1198 block of Piedmont Road. At the scene an officer found a 2005 Porsche Cayenne with major damage. The driver, later identified by police as Danny Zuniga-Perez, 33, of San Jose was found inside the vehicle with non-life-threatening injuries. A 33-year-old male passenger from San Jose had been ejected from the vehicle and was found nearby with major injuries. He was taken to an area hospital where he later died. A second wrecked vehicle with a passenger inside was found nearby with the driver trapped inside. He was freed and treated at the scene for a broken ankle by paramedics and then released. Zuniga-Perez was arrested on suspicion of driving recklessly while under the influence of alcohol. He was booked into Santa Clara County Main Jail and faces various charges including gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated, driving under the influence of alcohol causing an injury and reckless driving.

Police Department January 24 around 9:45 pm, when several callers stated that a single-vehicle struck an electrical pole, shearing it and causing the car to roll onto its side.

When officers arrived, they found the driver of the vehicle was trapped inside. Firefighters and paramedics worked to extract the driver and eventually removed him from the car and began life-saving efforts.

Electricity in the area was disrupted due to the sheared pole, and traffic had to be re-routed because of live wires in the roadway. The utility provider was called to the scene to address the power outage.

The driver of the vehicle was taken to a local trauma center, where he succumbed to his injuries. The cause of the collision is unknown at this time.

The San Leandro Police Department is working with the Alameda County Coroner's Bureau to confirm the identity of the driver.

Lunar New Year

By STEPHANIE GERTSCH

January 1 is already fading rapidly, but if you live in the Bay Area, another new year celebration is just getting started. While Western countries traditionally use the sun-based Gregorian Calendar, many Eastern countries traditionally used the moon; a new year begins on the second new moon after the winter solstice. 2020's Lunar New Year is Saturday January 25.

Lunar New Year is also a celebration of spring, beginning the growing season—an important time in agricultural societies. The holiday dates back to at least the 14th century B.C.E. in China. According to legends, a mythical beast called Nian, with the body of a bull and the head of a lion, would come down from the mountains searching for crops, livestock, and even young children to devour. Villagers would appease the beast by placing offerings of food on their doorsteps. However, people also discovered that Nian was afraid of three things: fire, noise, and the color red. Thus, began the custom of firecrackers, red lanterns and scrolls for New Year.

One of the most popular aspects of Lunar New Year is the 12-year cycle of animals, often called the “Chinese Zodiac.” Which year you're born in determines your personality, your lucky and colors and numbers, and even your dating compatibility. 2020 is the Year of the Rat; people born in this year are said to be clever, sociable, and tidy.

This is an especially important year, as the Rat is actually the first animal in the cycle. Why? Well, the story goes that the Buddha invited all the animals to a special banquet, and the order they arrived in determined the order of the 12-year cycle. Although the hardworking Ox was the fastest, the Rat was the most cunning—it hitched a ride on the Ox's back and hopped off just in time to arrive first. The story also says the Dragon should have been the winner, as it could fly, but it stopped on the way to help villagers cross a flooded river. Apparently, nice Dragons finish fifth.

Below is a guide to all 12 animals. But consider carefully: If your birthday is in January, it may fall before the Lunar New Year. In that case, your zodiac sign is the animal for the previous calendar year. (For example, 2020 babies born before January 25 are Pigs rather than Rats.)

Rat
1936, 48, 60, 72, 84, 96, 2008, 2020

Hardworking. Rats are very creative, sociable people who have a flair and charm. They're also hard workers, and – out of all the signs – have the best chance of being wealthy and professionally successful. Most compatible with: Dragon, Rabbit, Ox. Avoid: Goat, Horse, Rooster.

Ox
1925, 37, 49, 61, 73, 85, 97, 2009

Dependable. If you're an ox, then your friends, family, and co-workers are probably very, very grateful for you. You're the dependable one, and you're known for your honesty and patience. The Ox will pursue their goals with great determination, and won't be deterred. Most compatible with: Rat, Snake, Rooster. Avoid: Dragon, Horse, Goat, Dog.

Tiger
1926, 38, 50, 62, 74, 86, 98, 2010

Passionate. Tigers are the most passionate and confident of the bunch. They have a strong spirit, love a good challenge, and are natural born leaders.

They're also endlessly ambitious and very trustworthy. Most compatible with: Horse, Dog. Avoid: Snake, Monkey.

Rabbit
1927, 39, 51, 63, 75, 87, 99, 2011

Sensitive. If you're looking for someone who is sensitive and empathetic, look no further than the Rabbit. The Rabbit is a kind soul who dislikes conflict and values strong bonds with family and friends. Most compatible with: Goat, Dog, Rat, Pig. Avoid: Ox, Dragon, Rooster, Horse.

Dragon
1928, 40, 52, 64, 76, 88, 2000, 2012

Powerful. Unsurprisingly, Dragons are fierce leaders who are chock full of adventure, knowledge, and power. They're filled with energy, and they've got plenty of charm and glamour to boot. Most Compatible with: Tiger, Snake, Rat. Avoid: Ox, Rabbit, Dog.

Snake
1929, 41, 53, 65, 77, 89, 2001, 2013

Wise. Snakes are known for their immense wisdom. They're very intuitive people, great thinkers, and fight hard to achieve their goals. They seek security, and will smooth over conflicts before they start. Most Compatible with: Ox, Rooster. Avoid: Tiger, Pig.

Horse
1930, 42, 54, 66, 78, 90, 2002, 2014

Optimistic. You can count on Horses to bring on the cheer. They're known for being eternally optimistic with a romantic streak. Horses are also very independent and fight hard against injustice. Most compatible: Tiger, Goat, Dog. Avoid: Rat, Ox, Rabbit, Horse.

Goat
1931, 43, 55, 67, 79, 91, 2003, 2015

Creative. Goats are creative, smart, and dependable. They are nurturing, calm individuals who enjoy socializing in groups but don't like being the center of attention. Most compatible with: Rabbit, Horse, Pig. Avoid: Rat, Ox, Dog.

Monkey
1932, 44, 56, 68, 80, 92, 2004, 2016

Curious. Monkeys bring the spunk and the smarts. This zodiac sign represents curiosity, bravery, and positivity. Monkeys are also extremely intelligent and very popular with their peers. Most compatible with: Rat, Dragon. Avoid: Tiger, Snake, Pig.

Rooster
1921, 33, 45, 57, 69, 81, 93, 2005, 2017

Honest. Roosters are blunt—but not because they're trying to be mean. This group just wants to be honest. They're known for enjoying the spotlight, having a ton of confidence, and being extremely loyal. Most compatible with: Ox, Dragon, Snake. Avoid: Rabbit, Dog.

Dog
1934, 46, 58, 70, 82, 94, 2006, 2018

Loyal. Much like their animal counterparts, Dogs are loyal and easy-going. This zodiac sign is cautious, kind, and will do just about anything to help their loved ones. Most compatible with: Tiger, Rabbit. Avoid: Ox, Dragon, Goat, Rooster.

Pig
1935, 47, 59, 71, 83, 95, 2007, 2019

Kind. Pigs are the kindest of the bunch. They're warm-hearted, tolerant, individuals who have lots of friends. They get along very well with others and are happy to share what they have. Most compatible with: Goat or Rabbit. Avoid: Snake, Monkey.

MY CHOICE IS WTMF,

because I have an entire network of specialists to help me treat my patients.

Doctors join the Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF) for lots of reasons. Dr. Vanessa Wilson always enjoyed the challenge of Internal Medicine because “it’s an investigational discipline requiring that a physician understand all the body’s systems, analyze the patient’s problem and formulate the correct treatment.” Being part of WTMF makes it easier to connect with both her patients and their other doctors on EPIC, and confer with any of her colleagues about patient care. She treats a wide variety of patients—many with multi-organ issues—and likes getting consults quickly from physicians she knows and trusts while maintaining continuity of care between providers. That’s one reason why Dr. Wilson recommends WTMF to all her friends and family members. “WTMF is very selective about their doctors. Everyone follows high care standards and practices evidence-based medicine.” Does your doctor choose WTMF?

Part of Washington Hospital

Because WTMF is an integral part of the Washington Hospital Healthcare System, we have immediate access to the system’s wide array of advanced healthcare services, whenever you need them. This includes their highly awarded inpatient and outpatient facilities and specialty centers.

Washington MyChart

is an online resource which allows our patients to see their personal health information in a safe, secure and private manner. Accessible from your mobile or desktop device, you can view your test results, prescriptions, allergies, immunizations, and other portions of your health record. You can also send a message to your doctor’s office, schedule an appointment, or request a referral.

WTMF's Network of Clinics

Our skilled physicians and staff see their patients at conveniently located Primary Care, Urgent Care and Specialty Care Centers throughout the East Bay. These include Clinics in Union City, Newark, Fremont and Warm Springs.
