The five Gs in 5G technology

5G — will be able to support the remote control of critical services. It will advance autonomous driving, the Internet of things, personal communications, and the way our businesses work in terms of accessing, storing, sharing and protecting data. It will impact AI and augmented reality.

BY MARC VICENTE

Humankind has been able to communicate at an alarmingly fast rate, with the creation of telephones, which only gets faster as technology continues to advance. Modern smart phones not only serve their original purpose of phone calls, but can now act as a source of information, entertainment, and even as personal assistants. When you browse the market for a new phone with internet connection, you might run into the initials 3G, 4G or 5G. What do these initials mean, and why are they important when buying a new phone?

For starters, 5G refers to the fifth generation of cellular technology. According to Verizon Wireless' article, the first mobile network (1G) was implemented into telephones in the 1980s, which allowed for telephone usage away from home. Following that, 2G adds text messages to the network, 3G adds the mobile data which provides the core network speeds to launch smartphones, and 4G's development of mobile broadband allows for videos to be played with minimal buffering. 5G expands on mobile broadband by lowering the latency and increasing bandwidth speeds up to 10 gigabytes faster than 4G networks, allowing for more instantaneous connections.

"[5G is] significant because it will enable new applications that are just not possible today," said

Online Seminar: How Yoga Can Improve Your Balance

Finding balance in today’s hectic world can be challenging. Yoga instructor Shari Gent, MS, says that practicing yoga improves physical balance and can also promote emotional balance. “Yoga requires intense focus, which is a meditative practice. It can help you release tension, both physically and mentally.”

Gent, a Registered Yoga Teacher who has completed the Yoga Alliance’s 200-hour training certification, works with a wide variety of students. Many are older adults with physical challenges and patients recovering from illnesses or surgeries. On Wednesday, March 2, at 6:30 p.m., Gent will lead an online Health & Wellness seminar titled “Improve Your Balance with Yoga,” hosted by Washington Hospital Healthcare System (WHHS).

In the seminar, Gent will discuss the interconnectedness between physical and emotional balance, and how learning to balance physically can help your mental mindset. She will explain how practicing certain yoga poses can improve equilibrium. And she will share poses that are calibrated for a range of abilities.

“I will demonstrate several poses and how to do them safely, with and without safety props that anyone can find in their home. I want to show viewers how they can take care of themselves doing something enjoyable. If you are new to yoga or feel like you have physical limitations, I will demonstrate yoga positions that will help you connect with your body and have pride in what you can accomplish.”

Most people rely on input from three sensory systems to help them balance. The first is the vestibular system, or inner ear, which senses and responds to head motion and helps you modify your posture accordingly. The second is the somatosensory system, which registers the feeling of the ground beneath you. The third is your vision, which provides information about the objects around you. What might feel effortless is actually your brain integrating the incoming information from each of these systems and signaling your muscles to respond with minute adjustments.

Disruptions and deterioration of the three balance systems happens to most people as they age, and can also be the result of illness or injury. A number of scientific studies over the last decade have shown that the regular practice of yoga can help improve balance, coordination, and movement. For those who have no balance problems, yoga can help maintain your balance systems’ integration as you grow older.

Gent says, “Maintaining your balance is really important for your overall health as you age. A lot of people who are injured by falls in their 60s or older don’t realize that they had been experiencing balance issues that contributed to their accident. Yoga can help prevent falls caused by loss of balance by stimulating the three balance systems and helping brains and bodies stay flexible and adjustable.”

Moreover, practicing yoga can help release anxiety. “Whenever we experience stress, we store tension in our muscles, especially in the psoas muscle that connects the lumbar spine and pelvis,” says Gent. “There are yoga practices that can help you release the psoas muscle and others. Anytime you have the opportunity to release tension, it can help you become more emotionally balanced.”

About the upcoming Health & Wellness seminar, Gent says, “I hope the viewers will get excited about practicing yoga and believing in themselves. It is important to remember that no one does yoga perfectly when they first start. But making it a practice, a life habit, will bring rewards. You will be shocked by the progress you can make.”

To learn more, join Shari Gent for “Improve Your Balance with Yoga,” at 6:30 p.m. on March 2 on Facebook at www.facebook.com/WashingtonHosp, or YouTube at YouTube.com/whhsInHealth. Those watching on Facebook will have the opportunity to ask questions in real time after the presentation. Those who are unable to watch this presentation live, will find it—along with hundreds of other health-related presentations—on Washington Hospital’s YouTube channel.

Part 2 of 3-Part Series: TAVR

Local Woman Happy to Share her Story

Advanced Heart Procedure Restores Health, Energy

When Cathy Finck, 70, went to see her doctor about her foot, she didn't expect to be told that she needed to see a cardiologist. "Why?" she asked. "I feel fine."

Some preoperative tests before foot surgery had revealed a potential problem with a valve in Cathy's heart. She tried to ignore her doctor's advice about seeing a cardiologist, but when she went home and thought about it, she admitted she hadn't really been feeling all that fine. She was tired all the time. She was short of breath walking from the parking lot to the ballfield to watch her grandson play baseball. The basics of keeping up her home, like cooking or doing the laundry, had become challenging.

The next day she asked her doctor to make the appointment with the cardiologist. She went for some tests and was diagnosed with moderate aortic valve stenosis, meaning that one of the valves in her heart was narrowing. By the time she had treatment for the condition a month later, last October, the condition had changed from moderate to severe.

TAVR, a Lifesaver

Transcatheter aortic valve replacement (TAVR) may have saved Cathy's life. Had she ignored her symptoms, it's likely her heart, not just its valves, would have been damaged as well.

The physicians who performed the TAVR procedure at Washington Hospital Healthcare System are all affiliated with UCSF Health. Cathy feels fortunate she had access to these top providers right near where she lives, in Newark, so she didn't need to drive to San Francisco for care. "They were all wonderful," she recalls. Her UCSF cardiac surgeon was Teng Lee, MD, FACS.

"Dr. Lee inserted a catheter through my groin to go up to my heart, where he replaced my own valve with a brand new one," she explains. Since the TAVR procedure is noninvasive, there was no incision in her chest that would have needed time to heal.

Enjoying more energy and a better quality of life, Cathy Finck is glad she listened to her physician.

Her two-day stay in the Hospital was "marvelous." Once she went home, she was up and about in a few days. Things were good, but they were about to get even better. "After six weeks," she recalls, "it was like magic: All my energy had come back, and I felt completely normal. Now, I don't even think about what's going on inside my heart."

A Lot to Live For

Cathy shares her home with her grown son and his two teenage boys. "My grandkids give me a lot of joy, and I want to be around to see them grow up, go to college and become adults," she says. "I have a lot to live for." She considers herself lucky to have been diagnosed very early, and to have received excellent cardiac care.

And, she has advice for people who've been told they need treatment for a heart condition: "Don't put it off. Stay on top of it so you can avoid having more problems in the future."

Year of the Tiger stamp

SUBMITTED BY
U.S. POSTAL SERVICE

In recognition of Lunar New Year --Year of the Tiger -- U.S. Postal Service (USPS) has issued a colorful new postage stamp to celebrate one of the most important holidays of the year for many Asian communities around the world.

Designed by art director Antonio Alcala with original art by Camille Chew, the stamp is anchored by a tiger mask design that utilizes orange as the predominant color reflecting the characteristic marking of Bengal tigers. Orange is also said to be one of the lucky colors for people born during the Year of the Tiger which started February 1, 2022 and will end January 21, 2023.

There are numerous elements with symbolic meaning in the postage stamp design. Several of the patterns and details were created with the style of Asian textiles in mind as well as green flowers that represent the arrival of spring, which Lunar New Year also signals in Chinese culture. The motif atop the tiger's head -- printed with purple foil -- references the celestial themes of the Chinese zodiac.

In 2020, USPS introduced its third series of Lunar New Year stamps. This new series will continue through 2031 with stamps for Year of the Rabbit, Dragon, Snake, Horse, Ram, Monkey, Rooster, Dog and Boar still to come.

The Year of the Tiger stamp is being issued as a Forever stamp in sheets of 20 at post offices nationwide or by visiting the USPS online store at usps.com/stamps. Individual stamps are equal in value to First-Class mail rates, currently 58-cents.

The five Gs in 5G technology

Harish Krishnaswamy, in LiveScience's article on 5G networks. "Just for an example, at gigabits per second data rates, you could potentially download a movie to your phone or tablet in a matter of seconds. Those types of data rates could enable virtual reality applications or autonomous driving cars."

This level of high-speed connectivity is not only present in phones and automobiles, but can also be used by everyday appliances. According to ScienceABC, 5G networks are designed to better distribute high-speed internet connections to smart home hubs, smart refrigerators and even RFID (Radio Frequency Identification)-based dog collars.

In 2021, Fremont started a collaboration with T-Mobile and AT&T to equip over 100 of their light poles with small cells, a type of wireless technology that adds capacity and improves broadband infrastructure, so that the city's high-density areas (i.e., shopping centers and downtown) have internet access where cell towers normally would be unable to reach. Fremont Public Works Director, Hans Larsen, has stated that this deployment of small cells will eventually also be implemented in other Bay Area cities in the future.

Despite expanding connections across multiple devices, 5G has also been known to cause problems. Incidents of airplane interference caused by 5G have been reported all over the United States early in 2022. A. Tarantola of Engadget writes that the cause is 5G's occasional reliance on the C band spectrum. Because that is the spectrum most airplanes use, signals from radio altimeters may be disrupted, resulting in airplanes misjudging distance from the ground and crashing.

While 5G can provide plenty of potential benefits for everyday use, there is still much we need to learn about it, so that we can better minimize risks and utilize the network to its highest capacity.

Stem kits teach engineering and sustainability

SUBMITTED BY AASTHA GROVER

The need for education about environmental sustainability and how each one of us could contribute towards conservation of natural resources inspired Aastha Grover, a Junior at Mission San Jose High School in Fremont, to start a youth program in the Tri-City community.

Aastha found that students in elementary and middle schools, who are learning science and math, have the passion to apply those principles and are looking for guidance. She noticed that her younger brother, Shivansh, a student of Gomes Elementary School in Fremont, had a fascination with STEM, but needed help making the connection between science and the environment. Therefore, there is a need to educate children about climate change and efforts for environmental sustainability using STEM principles in a manner they can relate to.

With this mission, both Aastha and Shivansh conceptualized and developed a DIY Electric Vehicle kit in partnership with local nonprofit STEM4ALL. They created its design, packaging, bill of material, and curriculum with the goal of educating kids about how electric vehicles contribute towards environmental sustainability.

The kit includes instructions and components to build a mini battery-powered vehicle, provides access to scientific experiments, and teaches basic engineering concepts like gear ratios, acceleration, torque, and speed. These kits offer students opportunities for fun, hands-on learning.

The siblings ran a fundraising effort in their local community to garner support for making the kits and have been able to distribute the initial lot to a local homeless shelter, HomeFirst. They have also conducted online knowledge sessions on environmental sustainability and use of biodegradable material and plastics recycling with support from Fremont Library.

Aastha now plans an outreach effort to companies in the Bay Area to seek their support and involvement. With this small beginning, Aastha and Shivansh are inspired to expand this initiative and distribute more kits to help promote education on environmental sustainability. They believe that this initiative will help ignite the minds of youth to develop innovative solutions.

Surprising work trends for 2022

By ANNE CHAN, PhD, MFT

The world of work has been dramatically upended by the pandemic. Think about the phrases that we rarely used prior to the pandemic, but are now the norm in our work lexicon: “Zoom meetings,” “virtual interview,” “100% remote job,” and “The Great Resignation.” Given that the world is in such uncertainty, it might seem foolish to attempt to predict the work trends for 2022. However, there are several clear patterns that both workers and employers should be attentive to. Some of these are not too surprising, but others are unexpected and go counter to prevailing thinking.

Trend #1: Critical importance of Soft Skills

There is (rightly) an emphasis for schools and colleges to prepare students for the high-tech world since practically all jobs require technology. The trend toward more technology in the workplace will continue and is not, in itself, surprising. However, while workplaces are becoming more automated, digitalized, and fueled by artificial intelligence, there is a growing need for employees with strong soft skills. Yet, employers are having a hard time finding candidates whose soft skills are up to par. At the same time, the lack of soft skills is a major factor in problems in the workplace.

Soft skills encompass a wide range of skills, including the ability to get along with people, leadership, interpersonal communication adeptness, work attitude, and creativity. In my opinion, the phrase “soft skills” does not do justice to the complexity of these skills. A 2019 LinkedIn study made the thought-provoking point that “Most hiring and firing decisions come down to soft skills.” The major take-away from this trend? Assess yourself and take action on developing and improving your soft skills.

Trend #2: Skilled Trades Are Promising Career Options

Here in Silicon Valley, there’s always an abundance of talk on the importance of being well versed in technology or the latest cyber-know-how. However, what is often forgotten is the importance of non-tech careers, such as skilled trades. The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics has made projections of occupations will have the fastest growth rate in 2020-2030. These include skilled trade jobs such as wind turbine service technicians and solar voltaic installers. Interestingly, out of this list of 20 occupations with the highest projected percent change, the Bureau lists only one occupation that is directly related to high tech: information security analyst.

Trend #3: Importance of Skills Assessment

A significant percentage of job-seekers are under-utilizing and/or under-emphasizing their potential and skills. It appears that people are unclear about where they are at in terms of their skill levels. Coupled with this issue is a gap between employer needs and worker skills – employers are often bemoaning the lack of skilled workers. Here again – self-assessment is key. Take a close look at your skillsets, perhaps with the help of a trusted colleague, supervisor, or mentor. Ask yourself what skills you need to develop and what skills you are currently under-utilizing.

Trend #4: Social Media – the Double-Edged Sword

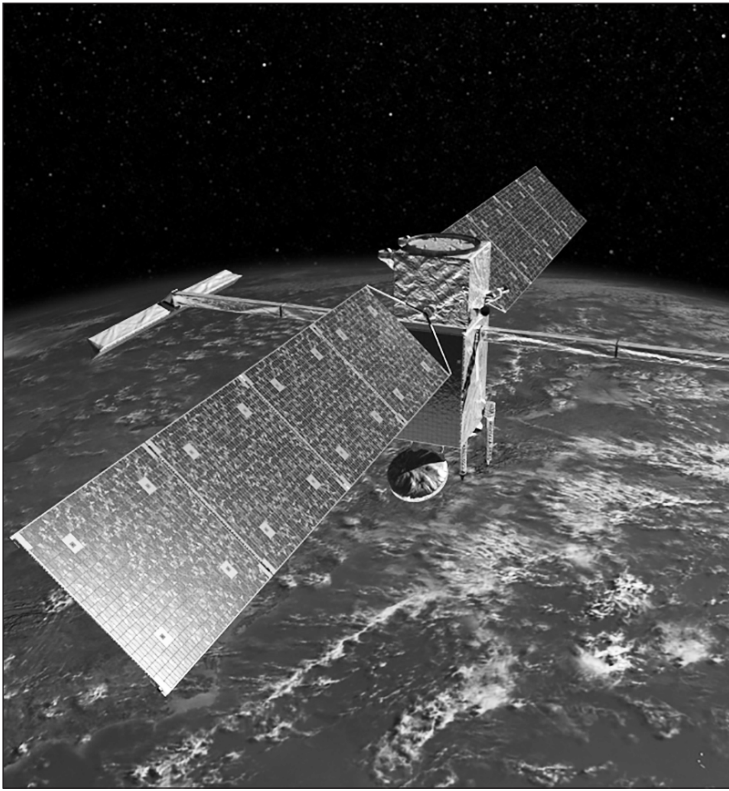

LinkedIn is a great tool for both employers and job-seekers, but beware the danger of using social media. Employers have and will continue to use social media to hire and fire. Employers have rejected applicants for the following infractions on social media: unprofessional screen names, poor or unprofessional online communication, substance use, lying about qualifications, questionable photos, saying negative things about a previous company or boss, or even posting too much. Social media monitoring doesn’t stop once the person is on board. Employees have been terminated for posts made on social media outside work hours.

Conversely, employers have reported that social media has also influenced a hiring decision in a positive direction. The takeaway? Make sure you have a professional social media presence that showcases your likeable personality and professionalism. Check that you demonstrate excellence in communication (so yes, grammar does count!), and never, ever lie about your qualifications. If you are unsure about whether you should post, ask yourself this question: “Is there a way that my boss could interpret this post negatively?” If in doubt, do not hit that submit button.

These four trends will affect everyone on the job. The good news is that you can take advantage of this knowledge to boost your career. If there’s one takeaway from these trends, it would be for workers to take charge of their careers by continuous self-assessment, education, and learning. Here’s to an empowering 2022 for all of us.

KAILASH KALIDOSS, AEROSPACE ENTHUSIAST

For this edition of the article, let’s look at an important Earth science project at NASA that directly impacts all of us. Yes, we are talking water, more importantly, freshwater. Water covers about 71% of the earth’s surface. 97% of the earth’s water is found in oceans. It is a known fact that less than 3% of the total mass of water is freshwater. The water crisis is well documented across the globe, with California itself predicted to go through a drought in 2022. Hence maximizing our ability to monitor and survey freshwater trends is now more important than ever.

NASA’s earth science mission Surface Water and Ocean Topography (SWOT) is an altimeter and radar project on a satellite developed in collaboration with CNES, the French space agency, in partnership with Canadian Space Agency (CSA) and UK Space Agency (UKSA). It will give scientists their first comprehensive view of Earth’s freshwater bodies from space and more detailed measurements of the ocean surface than ever before with repeated high-resolution elevation measurements, allowing observations of variations.

The mission objectives of SWOT are the management of water sharing issues among states, much more accurate prediction of weather, monitoring ocean levels, helping provide improved flood modeling with high-resolution observations in coastal regions for observing coastal currents and storm surges, and most importantly managing the freshwater resources for urban, industrial and agricultural consumption. All this data modeling can further be used to make contributions to enhanced environmental regulations and public policy-making, thereby reducing the impact of the foreseen risks.

The primary instrument on SWOT is the Ka-band Radar Interferometer (KaRIn), which uses radar interferometry and synthetic-aperture radar (SAR) technology to measure water surface elevations to the tune of a 75-mile swath.

NASA has selected SpaceX located in Hawthorne, California, to provide launch services for SWOT. The launch is targeted for November 2022 on a SpaceX Falcon 9 rocket from Space Launch Complex 4E at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California. NASA’s Launch Services Program at Kennedy Space Center in Florida will manage SpaceX’s launch service.

Recycling electric car batteries

EARTHTALK

Dear EarthTalk: As millions and millions of electric car batteries start to reach the end of their useful lives, how can we avoid an e-waste apocalypse?

-- W. Alexander, San Francisco, California

FROM THE EDITORS OF E -- THE ENVIRONMENTAL MAGAZINE

Record-breaking electric car sales confirm that the future of electric transport is here. Globally, 10 million lithium-ion battery-powered vehicles are now on the road. The International Energy Agency predicts that number will increase to 300 million by 2030, accounting for over 60% of new car sales. But, a huge problem looms on the horizon: in less than a decade, nearly two million tons of lithium-ion batteries from electric vehicles will be retired each year, and the current recycling infrastructure isn't ready for them. Most lithium-ion batteries are tossed in landfills, with only 5% recycled worldwide.

Researchers at Newcastle University in the UK warn that this growing stream of spent batteries poses "an enormous threat" to the natural environment and human health. "Degradation of the battery content in some cases may lead to the emergence of chemicals structurally similar to chemical warfare agents."

Given the risks, upping our capacity for recycling these batteries is imperative not only to avoid possibly catastrophic landfill disposal, but also to reduce the need for harmful mining. More than 70% of the world's cobalt, the most expensive element in a lithium-ion battery, is produced in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC). One would assume this to be an economic miracle for miners in the DRC, however unrelenting poverty forces even the children to work in the mines instead of attending school.

In addition to pitiful wages, DRC miners face serious health threats and local environmental annihilation. Researchers at the University of Lubumbashi found that residents near the mines, especially children, had higher urinary levels of cobalt, cadmium and uranium. The urinary cobalt concentrations found in this population are the highest ever reported for a general population. Fish in the DRC are also heavily contaminated with high levels of metals, while soil samples are so contaminated that the mining regions of the DRC are considered among the 10 most polluted areas in the world.

Lithium mining has also spurred a backlash across the globe, including in Serbia, Tibet and Chile. And in the U.S., residents near Thacker Pass in Nevada formed a grassroots group to sound off on multiple concerns should a proposed lithium mine begin production there.

Concerns include a possible dramatic decrease in air quality due to the tens of thousands of gallons of diesel fuel that will be burned daily at the proposed mine, releasing the same carbon dioxide emissions as a small city. The mine would also extract more than a billion gallons of water annually from an already over-allocated aquifer in the Quinn River Valley, possibly leaching dangerous substances into groundwater in the process.

Further distressing are the adverse impacts to the area's unique sagebrush steppe terrain, a habitat for over 350 species, including greater sage-grouse, golden eagles, pronghorn antelope, burrowing owls, pygmy rabbits and more.

Dramatically increasing recycling capacity for lithium-ion batteries and creating new ways to store electricity safely are crucial to staving off the worst impacts of our newfound reliance on this technology.

Winners of 2022 Speech Trek Contest announced

SUBMITTED BY REMY PARMAR

On Saturday, February 5, three high school students won the annual AAUW Fremont Branch's local Speech Trek Contest. Speech Trek is an AAUW California speech tournament that begins at the branch level and culminates with three top statewide finalists.

This season's topic was: Has the United States lived up to its pledge of "liberty and justice for all"? Would requiring the study of diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) in a high school setting help ensure liberty and justice for all?

First place winner, Rhea Jain, a student at Washington High School, said she conducted a lot of research to get many perspectives before deciding how to construct her speech. "I talked to my friends, family, and some of my teachers as well to get their thoughts," she said.

Rhea Jain, student at Washington High School, won First Prize

Tamanna Gandhi, Washington High School, won Second Prize

Second place winner, Tamanna Gandhi, also from Washington High School, read many studies examining the advantages/disadvantages of DEI and concluded there was no simple answer to ensuring freedom and decided to "argue in favor of DEI Education being a metaphorical 'hammer of power that can be harnessed to break down the walls of discrimination.'"

Third place winner Harshini Sanjay of Logan High School mentioned that even though the topic seemed open-ended, for her "liberty and justice means achieving a financially, racially, and politically stable country."

Honorable Delaine Eastin was the keynote speaker at the award ceremony. She told the students she was impressed with their speeches and recalled the time her high school drama teacher urged her to try out for a part in the school play. She hesitated until he told her: "This is a metaphor for your whole life. If you never try out, you will never get the part." Eastin auditioned and won the role. She implemented that advice throughout her public service life. She was on Union City's City Council and went on to become the first and only female Superintendent of Public Instruction for California.

Rhea described how inspired she felt to hear Ms. Eastin; "I learned how education can have wealth disparities, be the root of the problem for many communities, how it has evolved and what steps we need to create a better schooling system for all."

Ms. Eastin correlated public speaking skills with women in government and leadership roles. She reminded us of how few women hold offices in government, at all levels, and that California has never had a woman governor.

Third prize winner Harshini Sanjay is a student at Logan High School

Delaine Eastin - 25th California Superintendent of Public Instruction

Harshini was also inspired by Eastin and shared the following tips for younger girls: "Public speaking, as daunting as it may sound, isn't something you can shy away from forever. Step out of your comfort zone. You never know, you might be changing people's lives by just using your voice and speaking out. Be inspired and be an inspiration."

Winners received gift cards: $150 for first place; $75 for second and $50 for third.

First-place winner Rhea Jain will now compete at the state semi-finals. From there, the top three state finalists will be invited to compete for cash prizes. $1500 for first place; $1000 for second; and $500 for third.

Plethos Productions has two exciting opportunities for kids ages eight and up to learn and grow in theatre arts.

Auditions for "Once on This Island"

Now through March 19, video auditions are being accepted for our June production of "Once on This Island." This original and theatrical Caribbean adaptation of the popular fairy tale, "The Little Mermaid," garnered eight Tony nominations for its Broadway run, including Best Musical, Book, and Score. Ti Moune, a peasant girl, rescues a wealthy boy from the other side of the island, Daniel, with whom she falls in love. Unbeknownst to Ti Moune, the pompous gods who preside over the island make a bet with one another over which is stronger, love or death, the stakes being Ti Moune's life.

The show calls for eight adults (ages 16+) and several children (ages 8+). Rehearsals will take place weekday evenings in April and May at Heirloom East Bay in Castro Valley. Performances will take place June 3-12 at TwiningVine Winery in Castro Valley. Participation is free. Details and sign up at: plethos.org/auditions.

Stagecraft Play Production Camp

Starting Monday, June 20 Plethos Productions will be launching Stagecraft Play Production camp for kids grades 4-8. Stagecraft Play Production camp will be led by professional Theatre Teacher Andrew Acevedo and will feature Bay Area Theatre professionals who come in to teach workshops on various topics related to all things play production.

The camp takes place at the beautiful Heirloom East Bay - a communal farm in the Castro Valley hills. Each camp day includes fun games, exploring the farm, and feeding animals. Snacks and lunch will be provided.

Students are invited to join for one or both weeks of camp, as the activities will differ. Week 1 (Monday-Friday, June 20-24) will be Create Camp which focuses on playwriting, set building, costume and prop making, lights, sound and technical theatre workshop.

Week 2 (Monday-Friday June 27-July 1) will be Performance Camp where kids participate in acting, singing and dancing, and tech workshops, along with dress rehearsals for the final performance. The student-written original play for families, friends, and the public will be performed on Saturday, July 2.

Back -to -Work Initiative

SUBMITTED BY
CHABOT-LAS POSITAS
COMMUNITY COLLEGE
DISTRICT

The Chabot-Las Positas Community College District (CLPCCD) announced a new Transportation, Distribution, and Logistics Back-to-Work Initiative to serve residents of all 11 cities within Alameda County, with the exception of the City of Oakland. CLPCCD will focus its efforts on priority populations, including veterans, women, individuals from historically underserved communities, those in geographically isolated communities, people of color, indigenous communities, and people with disabilities, among others.

In response to the adverse effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on the local workforce, the Alameda County Workforce Development Board (ACWDB) recognized the need for heightened sector-based training programs. This funding resource was made available through federal Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) funding.

"The Transportation, Distribution and Logistics Back-to-Work Initiative allows CLPCCD's Tri-Valley Career Center to expand opportunities for additional education, training, and certification for veterans and other priority communities," said Julia Dozier, Executive Director of Economic Development and Contract Education for the Chabot-Las Positas Community College District.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics anticipates that employment in the distribution and logistics sectors will increase by 29 percent from 2019 to 1.62 million workers in 2022. According to a recent ACWDB Market Report, in December 2021, growth in the transportation & warehousing sector was prominent in the two-county East Bay region. The region added 2,800 jobs, expanding by 6.5 percent from the previous month and 5.3 percent from the previous year.

The Transportation, Distribution and Logistics Back-to-Work Initiative will serve a minimum of 20 Alameda County veterans and other priority populations with assessment, case management, education, career coaching, industry-specific training, credentials, and job placement in the transportation, distribution, and logistics industries. All services will be underwritten by the Back-to-Work Initiative and provided free of charge to veterans.

For more information on the Transportation, Distribution and Logistics Back-to-Work Initiative, please contact Tamara Dehnert at Tdehnert@clpcdd.org.

Park It

BY NED MACKAY

East Bay Regional Park District naturalists offer lots of guided programs to help park visitors explore the world of nature around us.

But you can also enjoy discoveries on your own during either of two free, self-guided winter scavenger hunts.

Both are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 19 -- one at Sunol Regional Wilderness, the other at Del Valle Regional Park south of Livermore. These are drop-in programs; no registration is necessary.

Stop by the visitor center at either park during those hours, pick up an activity sheet and set forth on your personal adventure in the park.

Sunol Regional Wilderness is located at the end of Geary Road off Calaveras Road about five miles south of I-680 and the town of Sunol. There's a parking fee of $5 per vehicle.

Del Valle Regional Park is at the end of Del Valle Road off Mines Road about nine miles south of Livermore. The visitor center is next to the west side beach. Del Valle has a $6 parking fee.

For more information on either program, call 510-544-3249.

Another free, drop-in program at Del Valle is nature story time, from 10 to 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 19 at the visitor center. The naturalist staff will read aloud to the group and discuss the story. All ages are welcome; no registration is required. Seating is outside. Some carpet squares and benches will be provided, or you can bring your own chair or blanket.

Bumblebees are important pollinators, and like many other beneficial insects, they need our help to continue thriving. You can learn more about bumblebees and how to make a bumblebee "hotel," during a program from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 20 at Ardenwood Historic Farm in Fremont.

After that, you can check for eggs and help to feed the park's livestock during a program from 3 to 3:30 p.m. the same day.

No registration is necessary for either program. Ardenwood entry fees apply. The park is located at 34600 Ardenwood Boulevard, just north of Highway 84. For information, call 510-544-2797.

Post-Gold Rush history is the theme of a hike scheduled from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 20 at Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve in Antioch, led by naturalist Kevin Dixon.

Coal was the goal of the miners who toiled in what is now the regional park for about 30 years during the late 19th and early 20th century.

The group will follow the miners' path from the Pittsburg Mine in Somersville to the Central Mine in Stewartville while finding evidence of their lives and work. Some of the trails are steep, uneven and possibly slippery.

The program is free, but registration is required and there's a minimum age of eight years to participate. For registration and information, call 888-327-2757, option 2.

Black Diamond Mines is at the end of Somersville Road, 3½ miles south of Highway 4. There's a parking fee of $5 per vehicle.

Wednesday Walks are a series of naturalist-led explorations of various regional parks. The walks are free and everyone is welcome. No registration is necessary.

There's a Wednesday Walk from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Feb. 23 at Reinhardt Redwood Regional Park in Oakland.

Meet at the Skyline Gate on Skyline Boulevard in Oakland for a moderate, 5¼-mile ramble along the French and Stream Trails. Wear sturdy shoes, bring water and dress for the weather. It may be muddy. Heavy rain cancels. For information, call 510-544-3187.

There are lots of additional programs on the calendar at these and other regional parks. For full information, visit the district website at www.ebparks.org and click on "Things To Do" at the top of the home page.

Fremont Bank Foundation spreads love on Valentine's Day

BY ANNIKA SINGH

JANET HANEY

Amidst the ongoing coronavirus pandemic, Fremont Bank Foundation has found a way to strengthen health services in the Bay Area — specifically for the Alameda County community. On February 14, the organization announced that they donated $750,000 to their community partner, St. Rose Hospital Foundation. The money will be used to purchase a new catalyst cardiac catheterization laboratory machine.

St. Rose Hospital Foundation is a tax-exempt, not-for-profit organization created to provide quality healthcare to those in need. As a not-for-profit community hospital, they rely on philanthropic gift-giving to help fund services, programs, and capital improvements. Fremont Bank Foundation has a long history with St. Rose Hospital Foundation, previously having donated $250,000 in early 2021 to help local healthcare facilities during the peak of COVID-19 vaccine distribution. Since 2010, Fremont Bank Foundation donations have allowed the hospital to implement an Infant Security System, remodel their Emergency Department, and construct a new Pharmacy.

Located in Hayward, St. Rose Hospital is a ST-elevation myocardial infarction Receiving Center (STEMI)— a title designated for hospitals where staff can transfer a patient to the cardiac catheterization lab from the emergency room in 90 minutes or less. In 2021, St. Rose Hospital conducted over 2,600 non-urgent and emergent cardiac procedures. However, the hospital's older cardiac catheterization model was recently rendered obsolete.

St. Rose Hospital Foundation Executive Director Michael Cobb said, "Health care workers need access to the most state-of-the-art equipment in order to provide high-quality services to our patients. Fremont Bank Foundation's generous contribution allows us to quickly replace an outdated machine while ensuring a seamless continuation of providing top care to the residents of Alameda County and beyond."

Fremont Bank Executive Vice President, Foundation President, and Executive Director Brian Hughes commented, "St. Rose Hospital is a vital part of our Alameda County ecosystem, and we listened when its Foundation expressed the importance behind upgrading the catheterization lab machine. This significant gift is one that will keep serving the health of our Bay Area community for years to come."

A slice of Naples in your backyard

By DANIEL O'DONNELL

It was not so long ago when the only computers were large machines that occupied the entire floor of their building. Today, one would be hard-pressed to find a Bay Area home without a computer. There was a time when only coffee shops had fancy espresso machines. Now there is a wide range of home espresso machines that not only look as stylish as coffee shop versions, but brew, foam and steam the same delicious drinks. Finally, we've reached a time where high temperature wood or gas burning pizza ovens are not only found in traditional Italian restaurants, but in peoples' backyards too.

People from, what is now Italy, have been eating pizza since the Stone Age. The earliest forms of what would become modern day pizzas were flat breads baked under rocks in primitive firepits. These edible plates were topped with whatever was available to eat at the time. The word pizza was first documented in Gaeta, Italy in 997 A.D. However, it was not until the 16th century that tomatoes were incorporated into Nepalese pizzas by the poor. King Umberto I and Queen Margherita visited Naples in 1889, fell in love with pizza, and made it a mainstream indulgence.

Pizza is said to be the most popular fast food around the world. Americans eat an average of 46 slices, or 23 pounds of pizza per year. It's no wonder outdoor pizza ovens are becoming a popular home appliance. There are two types of outdoor home pizza ovens, permanent or tabletop; and two basic fuels, wood burning or gas. No matter the type, pizzas baked in these ovens are rooted in historical tradition and have a slightly burnt texture and smoky taste that cannot be replicated in a conventional oven that only reaches 450°F.

Tabletop or countertop pizza ovens are portable. The majority of them have to be used outside because wood and propane cannot be burned inside. Propane burning ones are more compact than wood burning ones. There are some electric ones designed for indoor use that reach the same high temperatures as their wood and propane burning counterparts. There are many brands to choose from. Oven sizes vary with space to bake a 16-inch pizza at the top of the range. Some start around the $200 price point, and others top out at over $1,000. Ooni Pizza Ovens (ooni.com) have many models that sell in the middle of the range and all are consistently recommended on best buy lists.

Permanent outdoor pizza ovens are usually stationary because they are larger and heavier than table top versions. The actual size will depend on the number of pizzas one wants to cook at the same time. It is advisable for home ovens to be sized for only baking two pizzas at once. The pizzas need to be rotated every 10 to 15 seconds and finish baking in about one minute. Attempting to bake more than two at a time could be a difficult juggling act. The baking chamber is made of brick, cinderblock, stone, concrete or clay. The outside is decorated with nonburning materials such as ceramic tiles or polished stones. The vast majority use wood as the fuel source.

Tabletop and manufactured outdoor pizza ovens come with a pizza stone which the pizza is baked on. Ovens built from scratch will need to incorporate this stone into the design of the baking chamber. Pizza stones are porous and absorb moisture, resulting in a crispier crust. The stone will also absorb detergents, so cleaning should only be done with warm water or a baking soda and water paste if deeper cleaning is required.

Tools needed include a pizza peel which is a wide spatula with a long handle that slides the pizza in and out of the oven easily. It can also be used to rotate the pizza. Oven manufacturers give an approximate amount of time it will take for the temperature to reach the desired 900°F, but using an infrared thermometer is more precise. Using baking trays without edges to prepare the pizzas on will make it much easier to slide them on to the peel before baking.

Tabletop ovens should always be placed with the front opening facing any prevailing winds. They should also have a three-foot clearance between the oven and any structure. They are safe to use on balconies and small patios; however, some homeowner's associations might not allow them. Permanent pizza ovens need to be placed in an area with six feet or more of space around them and never under a tree canopy.

These outdoor pizza ovens are designed to make Neapolitan-style pizzas, which are very different from Chicago, New York or Detroit styles. However, the less-is-more topping style and the ultra-thin blistered crust will not only transport you to Italy, but back in time and tradition as well.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: FEBRUARY 15, 2022

All Signs: Monday was Valentine’s Day. Sometimes astrological influences are lovely for this day; sometimes not so much. Unfortunately, this week, relationships are tense. Leo is the sign that typifies the theatricality of Valentine’s Day – flowers, sentimental cards, heart-shaped boxes of chocolates and special gifts. But there is a Full Moon in Leo on Wednesday. Take heart: Although problems intensify as the Full Moon approaches, after it peaks, these same problems diminish or disappear. Meanwhile, this week the Sun changes signs, ushering in a different vibe. By the end of the week, starry eyed, swooning energy, romance and sweetness will thrive!

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20):

Your personal year is coming to an end, but your new year won’t begin until your birthday. This means that in the next four weeks, you’re in limbo. You will still schmooze with others, especially younger people. Venus and your ruler Mars at the top of your chart will make you look good to others, especially bosses, parents and teachers. And Mars will rev your ambitions. Therefore, you will happily handle this low-key journey. However, be smart and use this window to write down some goals for your new year ahead.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20):

In the next four weeks, you’ll be more popular. Schmooze with friends and get involved with groups and organizations. (In person or on-line.) Some of you will strike up a romance with someone “different.” Share your hopes for the future because someone’s feedback will help. Meanwhile, you want to travel or make travel plans. Mars and Venus are in a part of your chart that makes you want to expand your world and seek adventure. If you can’t travel, make an effort to learn more through courses, reading or watching documentaries.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20):

Once a year, the Sun sits at the top of your chart for four weeks, which thrusts you into a flattering spotlight. This means bosses, parents and people in authority admire you, even if you don’t do anything special. This is the time to make your pitch or advance your agenda. Meanwhile, both Mars and Venus are in one of your Money Houses, encouraging resources and money to come your way. You will more easily get a loan or a mortgage.

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21):

Grab every chance to broaden your horizons in the next four weeks. Travel if you can. Explore hobbies. Discuss philosophy, religion and politics because intellectual stimulation will interest you. Obviously, travel will be exciting. With Venus opposite your sign, relations with others are smooth. However, Mars opposite your sign might indicate conflict with others, especially someone close to you. Focus on what you share with this person instead of your differences. You must share a lot - or how else did they get so close to you?

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22):

You will feel more passionately about everything (including intimacy) in the next four weeks, which is why certain compulsions might surface. You might feel obsessed with getting your own way or being right. What’s really going on is that you want to experience life at a more feeling, passionate level. Conversations are not enough. You want to experience something more deeply. Some of you might meet someone who provokes psychological self-inquiry in you.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22):

The Sun is opposite your sign for the next four weeks. This happens only once a year and when it does, it means that symbolically, the Sun is as far away from you as it can get all year. Since the Sun is your source of energy, you will need more sleep. Furthermore, this polarized position of the Sun to your sign will make you focus on your closest relationships. You will have more objectivity, which will give you a better chance of seeing how well these relationships fill your needs.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22):

For the next four weeks, you will work hard to manage your life. You will focus on tasks that need to be done, and you will do them as efficiently as possible – making every action count. You might have to work on behalf of someone else. Fear not. This is not necessarily a time of self-denial. Ironically, you will derive satisfaction by doing a good job for yourself and others. Because there is increased chaos on the home front, this attitude will serve you well.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21):

Once a year, the Sun travels through the most fun part of your chart, and this event begins this week. Your attitude toward your relationships will be lighter and more playful. Your focus will be on amusing recreations, games, sports, social outings, holidays and fun times with kids. You will feel free to express yourself without fear or apology because you want to be exactly who you are. Some of you might encounter a new romance. If so, it will be a lighthearted relationship.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21):

This week your focus will start to shift to your most intimate, personal life and the people who affect it the most. This is why you will cocoon at home more than usual. Your interaction with a parent might be more significant in person or in your dreams. Meanwhile, welcome any chance to contemplate philosophical concepts. Naturally, as you ponder family and your personal life, memories from the past will bubble up in your mind. This is why psychological self-evaluation will promote personal growth in the next few weeks.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19):

Beginning this week, the pace of your days will accelerate! Fortunately, with fiery Mars in your sign, you have the energy to accomplish everything. Meanwhile, this restless, eager influence will last for four weeks and is an excellent time for you to learn how you handle your casual relationships. It will be easy for you to state your wants and needs to others; however, remember to listen as well. If you can get out for even a short trip – this will please you, because you’re eager for a change of scenery.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18):

Don’t be surprised if you find yourself reflecting upon your values and defining things that are important to you in the next four weeks. Likewise, you might take a deeper look at what you own, and your relationship to your belongings. In some way what you own defines you. What you seek is a way to gain greater control over your life through the things that you own. But remember –Don’t be a slave to your possessions. Meanwhile, a secret love affair might be bubbling on the back burner.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20):

This week, the Sun moves into your sign to stay for four weeks, which is fabulous news! This is your chance to recharge your batteries for the rest of year! The Sun is the source of energy in your chart, and now it’s in your sign. You will be more confident, more courageous and more proactive. Naturally, you will feel a great need to express yourself. (This is one time of year when it is appropriate to put your own needs first.) The Sun will also attract favorable situations and important people to you..

Virtual visit with kilnformed glass artist

SUBMITTED BY JANET QUILLICI

Join Fremont glass artist, Susan Longini, as she explains her process for producing her art pieces. This zoom event will be held Wednesday, February 23. Susan's kiln-formed glass is quite different from other more common types of glass-making. Her art is pâte de verre, literally “paste of glass”, which uses glass frits and powders formed by hand and placed into or over a mold, then fired multiple times in a kiln to produce one-of-a-kind sculptures.

Susan has shown her work all over

Music on Presidents' Day weekend

SUBMITTED BY LIVERMORE ARTS

Bankhead Theater has fantastic music planned for Presidents' Day weekend. On Saturday, February 19, theatrical tribute Bohemian Queen will be turning Bankhead into a full "Bohemian Rhapsody" concert experience. On Sunday, February 20, Bankhead will be ringing in Fat Tuesday with Mardi Gras Mambo, featuring two of Louisiana's best musical acts: The Dirty Dozen Brass Band, and Nathan and The Zydeco Cha Cha's.

In an all-new theatrical tribute to a legendary band, Bohemian Queen features lead vocalist Paulie Z as Freddie Mercury. Paulie Z brings all the theatricality and vocal gymnastics of the late, great Queen frontman to life. Bohemian Queen brings full-band sound to such favorites as "We Will Rock You," "Don't Stop Me Now," and, of course, "Bohemian Rhapsody." For Bohemian Queen, Paulie Z is backed by drummer/vocalist Glenn Jost, keyboardist/guitarist Victor Bender, guitarist Steve Zukowsky, and bassist/vocalist Aaron Samson.

Since their founding in 1977, The Dirty Dozen Brass Band has taken the traditional foundation of brass band music and incorporated it into a blend of genres including Bebop Jazz, Funk, and R&B/Soul. Lady Cougars basketball senior night

BY APRIL RAMOS

Six seniors from Newark Memorial High School's girls' varsity basketball team were given a final sendoff at their last game on Saturday, February 5. An emotional Head Coach Reina described the moment as "one of those bitter-sweet things" as he thanked the seniors for "their dedication and commitment to the program."

The bleachers were packed with family and friends of the seniors, which included Lauryn Kwe, Cayla Kawazoe, Julie Le, Maizie Pimentel, Nicole Tilley and Nevaeh Valenzuela. Coach Reina shared fond memories of each player as they accepted flowers and their framed basketball jersey. Newark Memorial also honored the opposing team's senior players from John F. Kennedy High School

(Fremont) with purple flowers to represent their school's color.

After the ceremony, the game commenced. Both the Newark Memorial Cougars and Kennedy Titans had a slow start, but by the second quarter the teams were building up their score with three-point shots, reaching half-time at 15-13 with the Titans just two points behind the Cougars.

Coming back from half-time, both teams' energy shifted as the pace and aggression increased. In the third quarter, the Cougars began to swiftly pull ahead of the Titans. By the end of the third quarter, Newark maintained the lead at 36-21. Although the Titans picked it up in the fourth quarter, the Cougar's finished their senior game with a victory. Final score: Newark 45, Kennedy 31.

Newark seniors: Lauryn Kwe, Cayla Kawazoe, Julie Le, Maizie Pimentel, Nicole Tilley and Nevaeh Valenzuela.

Champions of Character

SUBMITTED BY RACHEL KAHOALII

Angelina Baca is a high-spirited player who shows up to every practice and game with a positive mindset and max effort, which encourages everyone to do the same. She's hardworking, determined, and gets right back up when she falls on the court. Angelina keeps the Newark Memorial Lady Cougars motivated at all times.

Lauryn Kwe is someone who hustles during practice and games. She never gives up and you can always depend on her to get rebounds, driving to the basket and fighting for 50/50 balls. Off the court, she creates a great atmosphere by making everyone around her laugh. Lauryn supports her teammates and keeps the energy up on the bench no matter what.

Logan's surprising tie

BY APRIL RAMOS

James Logan High School Colts (Union City) boys' varsity soccer team faced off against American High School Eagles (Fremont). From the start, the game was fast paced and exciting with Logan in possession of the ball for the majority of the first half. Nearing the end of the first half, the Colts were hungry for a goal, and with 10 minutes left in the first half, managed a smooth ground ball into the net. Only seconds later, the Colts got another chance at a goal with a free-kick. Making it into the net from just outside the goalie box, Logan got their second goal with less than eight minutes left in the first half.

Ten minutes into the second half, the Eagles were fouled in the goalie box, giving them a penalty kick and with that, their first goal. With eight minutes left on the clock, the Eagles were fouled again, this time getting a free-kick. With a kick 30 yards from the goal, the ball hit the top of the post and bounced behind the goal line, giving the Eagles their second goal. Only three minutes later, the Eagles traveled from their side of the field to score their third goal. With two minutes left in the game, the Colts bounced back with another goal, ending the game in a 3-3 tie.

Dead mountain lion found in Niles

SUBMITTED BY TRI-CITY ANIMAL SHELTER

Officials from the Tri-City Animal Shelter said a deceased male mountain lion was found Wednesday, February 9 on the roadway at East Nursery Avenue and Mission Boulevard in Fremont’s Niles area. The mountain lion appeared to have been hit by a vehicle and was picked up late in the day by Animal Services officers. There were no injuries to residents or officers reported. Officials from the California Department of Fish and Wildlife offer tips that people should follow if they live near mountain lion areas or encounter one:

Living near mountain lions:

- Deer-proof your property to avoid attracting a lion's main food source.
- Remove dense vegetation from around the home to reduce hiding spaces.
- Install outdoor lighting to make it difficult for mountain lions to approach unseen.
- Secure livestock and outdoor large pets in sturdy, covered shelters at night.
- Always remember that mountain lions are wild animals and their behavior may be unpredictable.

Mountain lion encounters:

- Do not hike, bike, or jog alone.

- Do not hike, bike, or jog at dawn, dusk, or at night.
- Stay alert on trails. Keep a close watch on small children and off leash pets.
 - Never approach a mountain lion. Give them an escape route.
 - Do not run, stay calm and do not turn your back. Face the animal, make noise and try to look bigger.
 - Do not crouch down or bend over.

More information is by visiting the California Department of Fish and Wildlife website at <https://wildlife.ca.gov/>, then typing “California Mountain Lions” into the search field and following the links.

WILLIAM MARSHAK

The words are a bit archaic, but the sentiment is timeless. Since the song was written in 1933 as a show tune, references such as “so I chaffed them...” can be forgiven (I didn’t know what this meant either; i.e., teased). Subsequently recorded by top performers such as Nat “King” Cole, Peggy Lee and Harry Belafonte, the song survived until a group called “The Platters” altered the rhythm in a 1958 release, pushing “Smoke Gets in Your Eyes” to top billboard status as a Rhythm & Blues hit.

The same sentiment is expressed in an idiom, “Where there’s smoke, there’s fire”. It seconds the supposition that something else may lie at the origin of smoke. Although smoke is visible, the true nature of its source – the fire - may be obscured. Whether in matters of love (I write this on Valentine’s Day) or other passionate causes, those observing without full knowledge of circumstances or facts can be drawn – purposefully or inadvertently - to false conclusions by smoke in their eyes. The passion or fire may be real and righteous, but hidden or misplaced by the smoke it creates.

All of this leads me to comment on a public spat between Fremont

Councilmember Teresa Cox and Fremont Mayor Lili Mei over Black History Month. A general proclamation was read by the mayor celebrating achievements of Afro-Americans as “a lesson to all that everyone, regardless of gender, nationality, ethnicity has the ability to impact history and the future.” The mayor also noted prominent local leadership positions of Afro-Americans. Dyesha Gardner of the Fremont Human Relations commission accepted the proclamation and, at that moment, all appeared normal.

Subsequent comments from Councilmember Cox indicated that the matter would be far from routine. She announced her submission of an additional proclamation, “customized to focus on educational excellence tied to Ohlone College, Historically Black Colleges and Universities and “The Devine Nine.”” Councilmember Cox accused the mayor of “disrespecting me” by rejecting the second proclamation without comment or reply (denied by Mayor Mei). In a heated statement, Cox cited the importance of an educational “circle” to encourage inclusion of Afro-Americans and the historic lack of representation – “a seat at the table” – prevalent in U.S. history even though Afro-Americans have contributed so much to the nation.

Bitterness and resentment were hard to ignore as the tirade continued. Councilmember Shao raised a point of order to stop it and City Attorney Debra Margolis tried to limit discussion since it bordered on violation of the Brown Act that demands prior notice of such conversations if part of a council meeting. However, Councilmember Cox was not to be denied and completed her statement [bolstered by others who seconded her grievances during public comment]. Mayor Mei offered a brief reply, without elaboration, that she had responded to the councilmember’s request.

The issue is not whether Councilmember Cox is correct in her complaint, rather the form and true “fire” of the argument. While Black History Month has many societal facets associated with it – business, finance, education, science, sports, legal, etc. – often institutions embrace particular segments of the universe of human endeavor. In this case, the city of Fremont decided to issue a broad statement of respect without specific regard to educational factors - the substance of Councilmember Cox’s argument. She may have been better served to present such a proposal to Fremont Unified School District or the Ohlone College District for ratification, but while the fire of her argument is a valid and understandable point, the smoke of “disrespect” and anger over a perceived slight, especially as the election season begins, is a bit suspect.

When your heart's on fire,
You must realize, smoke gets in your eyes

Grant to benefit Latinx, low-income students

SUBMITTED BY CHABOT COLLEGE

A $5 million grant to increase the number of Latinx and low-income students earning degrees in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) is on its way to Chabot College in Hayward.

In a February 7 announcement, Chabot officials said the college will receive nearly $1 million per year for five years from the U.S. Department of Education Hispanic-Serving Institutions (HSI) STEM and Articulation Programs grant.

With the funding from the grant, Chabot’s Éxito STEM Scholars program will address multiple barriers to success, according to Executive Director of Institutional Advancement, Yvonne Wu Craig. “We will not only address academic challenges, but will look at other ways we can support our Latinx students and help them to succeed in STEM fields,” she said.

Latinx students at Chabot will have the opportunity to explore STEM pathways before committing to a major through summer programs. The college will be able to offer more counseling, tutoring, work-based learning and comprehensive student services. With the increased funding, the college will be able to facilitate clearer pathways to transfer to universities and partner with 4-year institutions and businesses to provide more work-based learning opportunities.

Chabot President Dr. Susan Sperling welcomed news about the grant. “The HSI STEM Grant recognizes Chabot’s accomplishments in expanding opportunities to Latinx students across STEM programs and all students who have been traditionally underrepresented in crucial training for STEM-based careers.”

More information about the program, email to Dr. Safiyyah Forbes at sforbes@chabotcollege.edu.

Authorities conduct human trafficking sweep

SUBMITTED BY MILPITAS POLICE DEPARTMENT

Six potential victims of human trafficking were identified in Milpitas by authorities conducting an “Operation Reclaim and Rebuild” program on Tuesday, February 8.

In a statement released February 10, Milpitas Police Department (MPD) said the operation was conducted in collaboration with Santa Clara County Law Enforcement Investigating Human Trafficking Task Force. The goal of the program is to rescue victims of human trafficking, identify and arrest traffickers and disrupt the demand for victims. They also connect victims with community resources to help them recover from the experience.

During the Milpitas operation one buyer was issued a criminal citation on suspicion of solicitation while the six potential victims were connected with local resources provided by Santa Clara County Community Solutions.

MPD officials said that if anyone is a victim of human trafficking, or knows someone who is, they should call 911 immediately or call the 24-hour National Human Trafficking Hotline at 1-(888) 373-7888. Callers can also reach the hotline by texting 233733 to initiate online chats. Human Trafficking victims, whether U.S. Citizens or not, are eligible for services including immigration assistance.

Elizabeth (Betty) Bridget Glick

Resident of Fremont, CA

October 3, 1933-February 5, 2022

Elizabeth (Betty) Bridget Glick of Fremont, CA passed away on February 5, 2022 at home surrounded by her family. A devoted wife, mother and grandmother, Betty was born in Athea, County Limerick, Ireland on October 3, 1933, to parents Patrick Fitzgerald and Bridget O’Keeffe. Betty was the youngest of eight children. Betty married Stephen Kelleghan and had three sons in Corby, England. After Stephen’s passing, she met and married William Glick. After marrying William and coming to the United States, they had two more sons and eventually settled in Fremont. She quickly established deep roots within her church. Ever devout, Betty took great joy in serving her local parish in a variety of capacities including her time as a Eucharistic minister. Through her service with the church and her involvement with her children’s schools, Betty built life-long friendships with hundreds of fellow parishioners, neighbors, family and friends. Over the years Betty touched a great many lives and even if she had just met someone, she had the remarkable ability to make them feel loved and cared for. She took great joy in showering friends and family with food; especially her handmade Irish scones, Christmas candies and her famous chocolate chips cookies. Betty also took immense pride in her traditional Irish children’s sweaters that she hand-knitted for hundreds of ‘soon-to-be’ parents over the years.

Betty was a kind, loving, warm and caring person who will be greatly missed. No matter how long you knew her, her warmth and genuine spirit made you feel special. It would be safe to say that many people felt as if they’d known her for years and that she was one of their closest friends.

We invite all these close friends and those that she touched to come celebrate her life.

Betty was predeceased by her husbands Stephen Kelleghan and William Glick, son Stephen & daughter-in-law Kim.

Betty is survived by her sons Patrick (Solinda), Sean (Kristen), Michael (Megan), David (Tracy), Grandchildren Stephen, Christopher (Brianna), Maureen, Shannon (Mark), Stephanie, Tara, Connor, Caitlyn, Isabella, Great Grandchildren Matix, Sloane, Sawyer, & Christopher Jr.

A visitation will be held on February 15, 2022 from 5:30 pm-6:30 pm at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, 41933 Blacow Rd., Fremont CA 94538 followed by a rosary at 6:30 pm. A funeral mass will be held on February 16, 2022 10:30 am at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church followed by a burial at 1:00 PM at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, 26320 Mission Blvd., Hayward, CA 94544.

Rebecca Martinez Rosas

November 1, 1945 – January 24, 2022

Resident of Hayward

Rebecca Rosas died peacefully with her family surrounding her on January 24, 2022. She was born and raised in Hayward by her parents, Paul and Sadie Martinez.

Rebecca was married to Kenneth W. Trader and together they had five children. After his death, she worked to keep her family together. In 1996, she married Macario Rosas. They enjoyed family gatherings, traveling, and playing bingo. Rebecca retired after working 15 years for Walmart. Becky as many called her will be best remembered by her many friends for contagious smile, her love of family, hosting family celebrations and for her dedication to her church. Her Pastor Peter Ybarra said that she was an active member of Apostolic Assembly Abundant Life Center, 28436 Harvey Ave., Hayward and will be missed by her church family.

She loved being a hostess and having family over to celebrate their achievements and accomplishments. Her doors were always opened to those in need, especially those needing a babysitter. She often babysat her nieces and nephews. She loved children and they loved her childish antics as she cared for them. Friends of her grandchildren would often call her "grandma" because of her kindness, generosity, attentiveness, and tortillas. She loved to celebrate their birthdays, graduations and weekly cooked some great meals for them. Once a week, she would make pasta, and everyone always enjoyed her chili beans and famous macaroni salad. She celebrated many special occasions, like graduations, birthdays, weddings, and one of her most remembered was when her youngest son, Abraham was ordained to be a minister. She felt so proud to have one of her boys willing to work in the service of our Lord. Along with his wife, Jaclyn, they continue to minister in the Apostolic Church in Sanger, CA.

She is survived by her loving husband of over 20 years, Macario Rosas, her five children, Kenneth Trader III, Annette Higaes Rodriguez, (Mark), Steven Trader, Abyss Elrod, (Freddie) and Abraham Trader (Jaclyn). Edward Lee Weems

August 2, 1955 – January 15, 2022

Resident of Fremont

Edward Lee Weems left this Earth and went to meet his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ on January 15th, 2022. His passing was unexpected.

He was preceded in death by his father Deloyd Orton Weems, his father-in-law Robert Joseph Fraga, his mother-in-law Sandra Darlene Fraga (Schommer), his brother-in-law Joseph Howard Gordon, and his nephew Timothy Corcoran.

He is survived by his wife Lynette Marie Fraga-Weems, his children Edward Deloyd Weems, Joseph Robert Weems (Desiree), Thomas Lee Weems, Kelsey Rose Camello (Weems) (Anthony), his grandchildren: Sebastian Robert Weems, Scarlett Rose Weems, Desmond Joseph Weems, Leeland Anthony Camello, Thomas August Camello, and his mother Marlette LaRae Weems (Hicks).

Edward was born in Alameda, California, the third of seven children to Marlette and Deloyd Weems. He was raised in and remained a lifelong resident of Fremont. He attended primary and middle school at Mattos Elementary and Prince of Peace Lutheran respectively. He graduated from Washington High School in 1973. He graduated with a bachelor's degree from California State University Hayward (East Bay) in 1978.

His first professional job was for the Defense Contract Audit Agency. He went on to become a senior financial analyst for BAE Systems (United Defense) (FMC). His career with the company spanned 32 years. After retirement, he enjoyed part-time work for the Fremont Unified School District. This job brought him joy as he was able to work side-by-side with his best friend Steve Vandebusch. He also worked part-time as a vehicle transporter for Coach Automotive Restyling - a position that combined three of his loves: music, driving and traveling. This work took him all over the Bay Area.

He met his wife Lynette in 1979 during a visit to his friend and State Farm Agent Mike Rizzo's office. They married January 16, 1982 at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Fremont. Their four children were born in 1984 (Edward), 1985 (Joseph), 1987 (Thomas), and 1989 (Kelsey).

Ed was extremely active in his church life at Prince of Peace as an Elder and member of Church Council. He led countless bible studies, a men's group, taught Sunday school and Confirmation classes. He worked as a greeter and counter of offerings, was a member of the shepherding team, and read countless scripture readings in church. He also worked dutifully after every soup supper to wash dishes, wearing his yellow rubber gloves and a smile.

Ed was an avid golfer and loved to compete with family and friends. He spent many years enjoying family and recreational activities at Pine Mountain Lake (Groveland) and Arnold, including fishing, snow skiing, water skiing, and sailing.

He and his wife enjoyed years of competitive racquetball at Schoeber's Athletic Club in Fremont, where Ed excelled as one of the best players of the club. Before having kids, they also spent time together attending live concerts all over the Bay Area. Ed enjoyed participating in his wife's "test kitchen" for her many culinary creations and fashionable endeavors.

Ed volunteered as a Little League Coach for all of his sons, and when one of his grandchildren took up the sport, he never missed a game. Ed loved to spend time with his wife, children and grandchildren, and he dedicated almost his entire camera roll to images of his five grandchildren.

He took great joy in vacationing at Palm Desert and Hawaii, playing frisbee and walking the shoreline at Santa Cruz. Ed was a lifelong Oakland Raider and Athletics fan, attending games as a season ticket holder with an enthusiasm for pre-game tailgating. He had a certain zest for chopping wood and building fires, and he was a sleuth with word puzzles. He especially enjoyed the game of Cribbage.

He was an early riser and started each morning with the daily news, his Bible and a cup of coffee. Ed was very proud of his garden and spent a considerable amount of time perfecting it. He thoroughly enjoyed a good downpour of rain, a beautiful sunset, or a crystal clear night with views of distant planets.

Ed took pleasure in hiking, especially in Yosemite, and passed much of his time outdoors in the sun. Music being one of his lifelong passions, he amassed a huge collection of records, which he diligently recorded onto hundreds of cassette tapes.

Ed was generous with his time and was always available to lend a hand to anyone in need.

He will be forever missed by all who knew and loved him.

John 8:12 "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life."

A celebration of Ed's life will be held on Saturday, March 5th, 11am at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 38451 Fremont Blvd., Fremont.

The importance of education was instilled in Garcia at a very young age, as many of his family members are educators. “He follows in a tradition of past educator recipients who have selflessly made contributions to Hayward that have made it such a great place to live and work.” said Hayward Chamber President Kim Huggett.

Air District sponsors air regulation bill

SUBMITTED BY BAY AREA QUALITY MANAGEMENT DISTRICT

Bay Area Air Quality Management District announced the sponsorship of AB 1897, a bill introduced February 9 by Assemblymember Buffy Wicks to increase the penalty ceiling for refinery violations of air quality regulations.

AB 1897 increases the civil penalty ceiling for violations of state or local air quality rules, regulations and permit conditions at refineries from $10,000 to $30,000, if the violation results in severe disruption to the community. The bill would also make a person who violates this provision liable for a civil penalty of up to $100,000 for a subsequent violation within a 12-month period.

“This bill will provide a strong deterrent and ensure that refineries take responsibility for compliance with all local, state and federal air quality regulations to protect the health and air quality of those living in communities that surround refineries.” said Jack Broadbent, executive officer of the Air District.

“Fossil fuel companies can’t keep believing they can just ‘pay the problem away’ when their actions negatively impact the health and safety of our frontline communities,” said Assemblymember Buffy Wicks (D-Oakland). “This bill is a necessary step toward accountability for these bad actors.”

“Residents who live in refinery communities have suffered the disproportionate impacts of air pollution for far too long,” said Contra Costa County Supervisor and Air District Board member John Gioia. “We have a responsibility to those who live in the shadows of refineries to improve their air quality and health by providing strong deterrents to harmful air quality violations.”

Overall compliance with air quality permit requirements at the five Bay Area refineries has declined precipitously in recent years, with significant increases in flaring events, Title V permit condition deviations and Notices of Violation. Past refinery flaring events have resulted in shelter in place notifications, school closures and increased emergency room visits from residents living in communities surrounding refineries.

AB 1897 raises the civil penalty ceiling to no more than $30,000 for refineries for violations in which a discharge results in a severe disruption to a community, the discharge contains toxic air contaminants, and 25 or more people are exposed to the discharge. The civil penalty ceiling would be raised to not more than $100,000 for subsequent violations within a twelve-month period.

Others to be honored at the gala include Aaron Ortiz of La Familia, Business Person of the Year; Nate Scinto, Police Officer of the Year and Anthony Conte, Firefighter of the Year.

Because of COVID-19 health and safety precautions the event will be a hybrid of virtual and in-person presentations with honorees, their families, and event sponsors in the conference center at Life Chiropractic College West. The event will be streamed online for the public.

Hayward Police Virtual Academy Program, Week 2

SUBMITTED BY ALFRED HU

The Hayward Police Department (HPD) is offering the Virtual Academy Program, a free four-week seminar via Zoom for interested viewers to gain insight into how the police force works. HPD strives to reduce crime and making Hayward safe by helping residents; providing preventive, investigative and enforcement services; increasing citizen satisfaction with public safety; and acting with the community and the rest of the criminal justice system to control crime. Seminars are on Wednesdays during February 2022 from 6:00 p.m. till 8:15 p.m. Many community leaders, neighborhood watch leaders, elected officials and students pursuing a career in criminal justice have joined the course in the past.

Police Chief, Toney Chaplin, formally accepted command in October 2019 and called on officers to honor and respect the city's diversity and follow an ethic of customer service. At his swearing-in ceremony he said, "Hayward is a beautiful and diverse city that welcomes all." Chaplin noted that the Virtual Academy program will help bridge the gap between the community and the HPD.

For the February 9, 2022 seminar, speakers included Mary Fabian (Crime Prevention Specialist), Sgt. Faye Maloney, Sgt. Julian Cosgriff and Lt. Dan Olsen.

Topics covered:

1) A Crisis Negotiation Team of 10 members communicates and engages with people who are threatening violence. De-escalation of the situation requires cooperation to get a peaceful resolution and involves active listening, building empathy and rapport, influencing change of behavior and reaching an agreement with individuals in crisis. One technique the team uses is never to say "I understand" but rather "It sounds like you're..." or even asking random questions to get the attention of individuals in case they become unresponsive.

HPD has an intensive monthly, quarterly, and yearly training program which also includes 40 hours with the FBI. The program is constantly updated, and HPD boasts that it has the most trained department in California. Crisis Negotiation Team roles are: Primary Negotiator – only personnel communicating with the person having crisis and only coached by his/her partner, Secondary Negotiator – coaches the primary negotiator, listens to conversation, relays information to Primary Negotiator, Scribe – takes notes about the incident, Intel – gathers facts from officers and from anyone associated with the individual(s) in crisis, verifies information and makes assessment of threat, risk, harm and vulnerabilities.

2) Use of Force has three contact levels: Consensual (being questioned, no seizure or force applied, and free to leave or terminate contact), Detention (retaining suspect when there is reasonable or probable cause and resisting a lawful detention is a crime) and Arrest (use of objectively reasonable force to prevent escape or overcome resistance). Officers do not necessarily need to use the least intrusive force, and Use of Force decisions are evaluated carefully and from a reasonable officer perspective.

For example, individuals with disabilities may have difficulty complying with a police officer, so in such cases a lower level of force is needed. However, if there is an imminent threat of death or bodily injury, or if a fleeing suspect is apprehended, a higher level of force is needed. Deadly force should only be used when necessary and is prohibited against people who are a danger only to themselves. Also, the tasks of police officers become more complicated when they must determine if weapons are real or fake. Use of Force must be reasonable, justified, thoroughly documented and reviewed, and often the last resort. Police officers can use batons, pepper sprays, tasers, verbal communication, K-9 units and physical control holds. Officers are equipped with small body cameras but not required to have them turned on at all times.

3) Force Science is understanding the mix of complex human dynamics that affect courses of action, and studies the impacts of stress on human reaction and the ability to think, especially in critical situations.

4) The Internal Affairs Unit (IA) operates under and reports to the Chief of Police. Its mission includes a) Ensuring the integrity of the department and maintaining community trust, b) Ensuring employee compliance with policies and meeting standards and expectations, c) Investigating alleged policy violations, d) Assisting City Attorney's Office Staff with civil litigation involving HPD, e) Developing training and updating policies and procedures, f) Performing administrative investigations of Officer Involved Shooting (OIS) and in-custody death, g) Managing early intervention program, h) Reviewing all reportable uses of force, i) Monitoring pursuits and collisions, j) Investigating claims against city involving HPD and k) Handling Pitches Motion (requests for a law enforcement officer's personnel information when a defendant claims the officer used excessive force or lied about the events surrounding arrest) and maintaining IA files.

During an administrative investigation, a complaint is received and evaluated by the IA. Complainant is interviewed or submits a written response. An administrative report is prepared with the investigator's findings or allegations, and is then forwarded to command staff for review. Chief of Police makes a final determination and recommends discipline if needed. Complainant gets a notice of findings but is not informed of what discipline is issued. Administrative investigations can result in a) Exoneration, b) Unfounded, c) No finding, e) Not sustained and f) Sustained in which disciplinary measures are issued.

Said sale will be held, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, condition, or encumbrances, including fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust, to pay the remaining principal sums of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust. The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is: $693,938.85 If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may either of these and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 093122-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. Adapting to a rising sea

By David R. Newman

The sea is rising. This isn't just a tale as old as time, a sailor's myth, or political rumor. It is, in fact, a scientifically documented reality. Along with other impacts of climate change, like out-of-control wildfires and extended droughts, this is now our "new normal" that we must come to accept.

In their first meeting of the year, Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors took an important step in acknowledging that our planet is changing by approving Supervisor Otto Lee's resolution to join Bay Area Joint Platform (BAJP), a call to action to address sea level rise in the Bay Area.

Said Supervisor Lee, who represents an area of Santa Clara County at high risk from rising tides, "There are more than 80,000 housing units and 20,000 acres of wetlands at risk by 2040. Starting off the year by adopting the BAJP is the necessary action we need to save families and their homes. I am grateful to my colleagues for unanimously adopting the BAJP. This is one of the many steps we need to take in 2022, but this is a big one."

Supervisor Lee also sits on the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC), the prime organization (along with a host of community partners) responsible for developing the BAJP over the past few years. Said Lee, "The BAJP is a roadmap for how we can adapt faster, better, and especially more equitably to a rising Bay."

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), the oceans have risen 8-9 inches since 1880, and the rate of sea level rise has been accelerating throughout the twentieth century. In many locations throughout the U.S., high-tide flooding is now 300-900% more frequent than it was 50 years ago. This is due mostly to global warming - a combination of melt water from glaciers and ice sheets and the thermal expansion of seawater as it warms.

Scientists estimate a rise of an additional 12 inches by 2100 in a best-case scenario. In a worst-case scenario, a rise of over 8 feet by 2100 cannot be ruled out. It mostly depends on the rate of future carbon dioxide emissions. It's no longer a question of "will there be sea level rise?", but where and by how much.

The first ever regional study of sea level rise in the Bay Area was recently completed by Adapting to Rising Tides (ART), a program developed by BCDC and NOAA's Office for Coastal Management. According to the report, "No matter where you live, shoreline flooding from rising sea level and storm events will impact everyone in the Bay Area. Even if your home is far from the shoreline, roads, rails, and ferries we rely on; the schools, childcare, and hospitals we depend on; the jobs at which we work; and the beautiful natural areas we love are at risk."

The study goes on to say, "With rising sea level, permanent inundation will impact the entire bay shoreline at once. This is very different than how we experience storm flooding today, with big events like King Tides impacting parts of the bay shoreline very differently, or wildfires occurring only in certain parts of the region."

Areas at risk of flooding include contaminated former industrial sites, critical services such as water, wastewater, electricity and communication sites, transportation hubs, housing, recreational areas, and environmentally sensitive habitats.

While individual cities and counties are making efforts to stem the tide, as it were, a coordinated regional approach like BAJP can prevent problems that arise from local initiatives, such as disproportionate impacts to disadvantaged communities, delays due to other concerns like housing and transportation, and impacts to jobs and business. According to BAJP, "No one agency, jurisdiction or community can or should do it alone."

The strategy of BAJP has been reduced and simplified into 9 actions and 21 tasks. It includes everything from accelerating the regulatory approval process to educating students on how to adapt to climate change to prioritizing nature-based construction projects. It's a herculean effort that will involve hundreds of organizations and thousands of people in a concerted attempt to save our way of life.
