FURRY FUN AT HOWL-O-WEEN

BY CHARLENE DIZON

KATIE DENNIS

For dog owners eager to celebrate Halloween before the 31st, "Howl-o-ween" is the ideal community event to attend. Returning for its third year, the free general public event on October 21 is packed with everything from a doggo costume contest to giveaway prizes that are bound to thrill both pets and people.

The idea for Howl-o-ween stemmed from a delayed grand opening for Newark's first-ever Newark Dog Park. Unfortunately, due to the pandemic, the park's anticipated 2020 commencement was put on hold. When safety guidelines began to loosen a year later, the Newark Recreation and Community Services Department decided that it was time to open the park to the public in October 2021. Recreation Coordinator Becca Hicks says, "Since we

The show will open with a ticketed Gala on Friday, October 20, from 5:30 p.m. – 9:00 p.m., offering guests the first viewing and sale of art.

Gala attendees will be treated to hors d'oeuvres, sweets, wine, and beer from Catering by Gael, Costco, DasBrew, Milk & Honey Café, Mission Coffee Roasting Company, Nothing Bundt Cakes, Olive Garden, Red Lobster,

He has become known as the "go-to guy" for all things ukulele in the Bay Area.

The Gala will also feature a drawing for an original mixed-media painting "Steins Beer Garden" donated by this year's featured artist Dmitry Grudsky. Grudsky holds a master's degree in fine arts from Tashkent Art Institute in Uzbekistan. Over the years, Grudsky has participated in many local and national art exhibitions. His pieces are said to be "spare yet sophisticated, playful yet elegant."

On Saturday, October 21, and Sunday, October 22, the show is open to the public, free of charge, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is a perfect opportunity to view and purchase unique artifacts for yourself or for artistically inclined family and friends on your holiday shopping list.

The Holiday Show is our signature community event and the only fundraiser that supports the Guild's activities throughout the year. Every year, about $25,000 is raised to benefit the Olive Hyde Art Gallery and fund numerous art projects in the Fremont schools and community. In this year's show, more than 70 artists will be exhibiting

Nurse Practitioner Enhances Patient Access to the UCSF - Washington Cancer Center

Eunson Kim, Nurse Practitioner

In 2006, Washington Hospital Nurse Practitioner Eunson Kim came to California from her native Korea to study to be a nurse practitioner, an educational program not available in her home country. She came to Washington Hospital earlier this summer to use that training as an oncology and hematology nurse practitioner at the UCSF - Washington Cancer Center in Fremont.

“Working at the center is extraordinarily rewarding,” Kim says. “UCSF is a pioneer in cancer health care and the cancer center here in Fremont offers evolving technology, cutting-edge research and the opportunity to learn about the latest treatments for cancer patients.”

Kim continues, “My heart is in oncology nursing. I love doing this work. Interacting with patients and helping them with their treatments is very satisfying, and I learn so much from the patients themselves—which also is very rewarding. And a wonderful aspect of the center is that patients can receive the treatment they need right here in their own community.”

She learned about nurse practitioner opportunities from a nursing school professor in Korea who previously worked in the United States. She chose to come to California, specifically the Bay Area, because of the diverse population. Although she already had a nursing credential in Korea, she attended Holy Names University in Oakland to gain a Bachelor of Science in nursing, a subsequent Master of Science in nursing, and completed the Family Nurse Practitioner Program.

A nurse practitioner is a highly specialized, master-prepared registered nurse who works in collaboration with a physician. An NP is trained to provide comprehensive care and is responsible for physical diagnosis and assessment of acute and chronic conditions. They can assess, diagnose, prescribe medications, order imaging (radiology) and tests such as lab work or other diagnostic tests including echos, EKGs and pulmonary function tests.

While studying at Holy Names, Kim worked as a case manager with the Asian Network Pacific Home Care and Hospice in Oakland. After graduating, she worked as an infusion nurse and as a nurse practitioner in oncology and hematology at the Epic Care Cancer Center and at Kaiser Permanente, all in the East Bay.

Adding a nurse practitioner to the multidisciplinary team at the UCSF - Washington Cancer Center enhances patient access. There are appointments, such as pre-chemotherapy visits, that can be scheduled more quickly because Nurse Practitioner Kim can see those patients while working closely with their primary oncologist.

“After moving to California and completing my studies in the Oakland area, I heard about the UCSF - Washington Cancer Center and the cutting-edge work being done there,” Kim says. “I applied and was fortunate to have been offered a position on the staff. For me, working here is a perfect fit for my interests and goals in the field of oncology and hematology.”

Announcing Kim’s addition to the 17-person staff, UCSF – Washington Cancer Center Medical Director Dr. Bogdan Eftimie lauded her experience. “She comes with many years of experience in the field of hematology and oncology. Working alongside us, Eunson will help provide an enhanced, comprehensive approach to patient care. As we expand the capacity of our cancer center, we are pleased to have such a caring and experienced nurse practitioner join the team.”

OCTOBER IS BREAST CANCER AWARENESS MONTH
EACH WEEK A LOCAL WOMAN WILL BRAVELY SHARE HER STORY

Fighting Cancer Takes Teamwork

Local resident has a village at the UCSF – Washington Cancer Center

Seventeen years ago, Kathleen Reen beat breast cancer. Surgery, chemotherapy, radiation and a positive attitude were her weapons of destruction and she thought the battle was permanently over. But this past April, a routine mammogram led to another breast cancer diagnosis.

This time, her fight would have one big difference. This time, Kathleen would have the support of an entire care team at the UCSF – Washington Cancer Center. She explains, “The first time I was treated for cancer, I had different insurance. The people were all very nice, but I always felt like I was on my own. Each step, I was being introduced all over again and I never felt collaboration between staff members.”

After her mammogram, Kathleen met Christine Mikkelsen, RN, the nurse navigator and clinical coordinator at the Washington Women’s Center. As a nurse navigator, Mikkelsen contacts patients when further imaging is needed. She schedules biopsies when appropriate and once a breast cancer diagnosis is confirmed, Mikkelsen walks patients through every step of the process. Kathleen compares the time she spends with Mikkelsen to being with a friend who knows the ins and outs of cancer treatment.

Next, Kathleen met with Dr. William Dugoni, Washington Township Medical Foundation surgeon and medical director of the Washington Women’s Center. Dr. Dugoni explained that a tumor board meets to develop an individualized treatment plan for each patient with a positive cancer diagnosis. This group includes all care providers that are part of the patient’s treatment journey: nurse navigator Mikkelsen; a medical oncologist; a surgeon; a radiation oncologist; a pathologist; and a plastic surgeon. The patient is fully informed and involved. “This gave me confidence and made me feel like I was part of the solution,” says Kathleen.

This gave me confidence and made me feel like I was part of the solution.
— Kathleen Reen

Kathleen underwent surgery, where she found the staff to be skilled and compassionate. She recently began chemotherapy and once again, was impressed by both the facility and the care providers of the infusion center. The infusion center at Washington Hospital strives for a comfortable, supportive environment. Each patient has a private area, most with windows facing an atrium, a television or music option and a comfortable guest chair. “From the first visit, the nurses put me at ease. They made sure I was comfortable and even brought me food,” she smiles.

In January, Kathleen will begin radiation. A Newark resident, she was relieved to learn that she would receive all of her cancer treatment in Fremont. The partnership between UCSF Health and Washington Hospital Healthcare System means that Tri-City community members have access to the latest cancer research, technology, and treatment without the trouble of traveling across the Bay, struggling to find parking, and having treatment in various locations.

Kathleen and her three adult brothers share their childhood home with three dogs, two cats and a fish. It’s a lively home where everyone contributes to make things run smoothly. Because of her prior experience, Kathleen knows there will be good days and rough days ahead, but together with her care team, she feels confident that soon she will be working in the yard and enjoying walks in her neighborhood.

Mudball Express plants wildflower seeds in Niles Canyon: Alex Clayson's Eagle Project

SUBMITTED BY JASON PATE

Becoming an eagle scout is no small feat. After a scout spends many years climbing the ranks, they must complete a community service project. After completing the Railroading Merit Badge at Niles Canyon Railway (NCRY), Alex Clayson (Troop 199, Warm Springs, Fremont) decided to do his project along the right of way, spreading native seeds, “in order to increase the robustness of our ecosystem.”

Clayson started his research last spring when he boarded a train with two local biologists to survey the canyon. He did this to ensure that the seeds being spread would be Bay Area native wildflower seeds including lupines and Clarkias. Clayson then acquired 7lbs of seeds comprising 13 different species of flowers.

Next, along with volunteers, the troop mixed a pinch of seeds with Sunol clay and compost to form small seedballs. There were many seed balling sessions with nearly 6,000 seedballs produced. On October 8, the train left Sunol loaded with all 300lbs of seedballs. Troop 199 tossed out many seedballs along Highway 84 in Sunol. When we got near Vallejo Mills, other volunteers of all ages tossed seedballs into the flatter areas which got good sunlight. We did a runaround in Niles and returned to Sunol.

By the time we were back, all the seedballs had been spread. In this project, about 413 service hours were worked. Now, Clayson will complete his paperwork and do a Board of Review to obtain his Eagle rank, which only 6.5% of scouts have ever done (Long Beach BSA).

The Pacific Locomotive Association/NCRY would like to thank Alex Clayson, Troop 199, and all volunteers involved for their efforts in this amazing ecological restoration project. Also, thanks to Bob Pratt for coordinating the event for NCRY.

Raising Leaders - Antonio Pacheco

SUBMITTED BY
SUPERVISOR ELISA MARQUEZ

Raising Leaders, a key District 2 initiative since 2018, is a workshop and internship model giving at-promise youth an opportunity to learn from leaders within our community and gain hands-on paid work experience. In 2022, District 2 launched a newsletter series taking a deeper look into the Raising Leaders program through interviews with its students, partners, and worksites. In this issue, we are featuring former Raising Leaders intern, Antonio Pacheco.

Life often writes stories of triumph and transformation in the most unexpected places, and Antonio Pacheco's journey through the Raising Leaders initiative is a perfect example. Born into a Hispanic immigrant family, Antonio's early years were marked by challenges that tested his strength. The passing of his mother due to cancer in 2018, and later the loss of his father to Covid-19 in December 2020, thrust him into a role he never anticipated – that of a guardian for his younger siblings.

In the midst of his personal struggles, Antonio's path crossed with Hayward Adult School teacher and Raising Leaders founder Davida Scott. Davida introduced him to the Raising Leaders program, and a new chapter began to unfold. With her guidance, Antonio's spark of potential transformed into a determination to change his circumstances.

Fueled by Davida's unwavering belief, Antonio dove into the workshops and training offered by the Raising Leaders initiative. With newfound skills and a sense of purpose, he landed an internship with the Hayward Maintenance Department. This marked the turning point that would redefine his future.

From maintaining and tidying up the streets of Hayward to becoming an indispensable part of the Maintenance team, Antonio's journey mirrored the resilience of a plant pushing through cracks in concrete to reach the sunlight. His commitment to his work not only earned him a permanent position, but also became a foundation of security for his family. The stability of a regular paycheck allowed him to provide his siblings with something precious – comprehensive healthcare.

However, Antonio's story isn't just about personal triumph; it's about community too. The Raising Leaders program stirred in him a desire to give back. From picking up trash to volunteering at local events like Science In The Park, Antonio found himself woven into the fabric of his community as a true leader.

Richard Neil, Antonio's supervisor, saw this journey firsthand. He watched as Antonio transformed from a young intern with limited skills to a respected team member. Antonio's journey wasn't without its challenges, but his determination to learn and grow helped him secure a permanent place in the team. His story inspired Richard and his colleagues, proving that potential, when nurtured, can flourish even in the harshest conditions.

Todd Rullman, the Director of City of Hayward Maintenance Services, shared his perspective on the initiative that made this journey possible. He spoke passionately about how the Raising Leaders program went beyond just offering internships. It was about giving young individuals like Antonio a chance to build skills for the future.

“The program wasn't a ready-made solution,” Todd emphasized. “It was about opening the door for Davida's vision to find a place within our work. It was a vision that evolved, adapted to fit our needs, and helped us offer valuable trade skills to youth who might otherwise not have these opportunities.”

Antonio's journey, intertwined with Raising Leaders, isn't a solitary tale. It's a testament to the strength of the human spirit, the power of opportunity, and the profound impact of a supportive community. Antonio stands today, not only as a valued member of the Maintenance team, but as a beacon of hope for anyone facing adversity.

Help high-schoolers Dream Big for college

BY MARC VICENTE

For high schoolers, the transition from high school to college can be an intimidating task at first glance. Questions include, “Which courses get you ready for your major?” or “Which test scores is the college you’re applying to looking for?” Luckily for today’s students, there are now plenty of websites and other resources to help answer those questions and many more. One such resource is a high school student-run nonprofit known as Dream Big.

Founded by seniors of American High School at the start of 2020, the nonprofit focuses on helping high school students understand what requirements and resources they need to pursue their desired career choices and helping them find colleges that best fulfill those choices. After the original president and vice president graduated, they appointed the current president Preet Karia and his friend from Mission San Jose High School, Shray Dube, as Vice President to follow in their footsteps. Currently assisting the two are volunteers from various high schools within the Fremont Unified School District, including Jasamarbir Arora, who is in charge of the online webinars; Swarna V in charge of marketing; and Ruhika G, Aditi Venkatesh and Sanjay Darshan Ramkumar.

“At first I was confused about what to do after my high school journey, but Dream Big helped make it all clear to me,” current Dream Big Vice President Shray Dube says. “Many school programs can get pretty competitive with each other in trying to give students and their parents the info they need to help their kids get to college. I joined Dream Big to help other high schoolers like me get this information for free.”

Dream Big provides many valuable resources to high school students through their website dreambigforcollege.org. It includes spreadsheets with data that the members have compiled full of helpful statistics and tips for criteria such as college enrollment information, immigration status, frequently asked questions and lists of potential scholarships and their prerequisites. Regularly-held Zoom sessions are announced through their Instagram handle @dreambig4college featuring information provided by high school seniors, college students who got accepted into their desired college, and college admissions officers. Students and parents are welcome to join chat forums through Zoom and Telegram, and the team prepares their webinar material in response to questions that arise from the forum. Previous sessions are also archived on their website and YouTube channel for easy access to specific admission cases.

“I’ve also had a bit of anxiety before figuring out what college I should go to and what to do for it during my sophomore year,” Dube says, reminiscing about his college application process. “Though anxiety like that is normal during that time, Dream Big got me involved in a lot of extracurricular activities, and doing those really helped me out with relieving that stress and also in being more organized.”

According to Dube, since it opened, Dream Big has held over 250 Zoom sessions, with about 5,300 attendees watching them. Some of the colleges who they have collaborated with to provide material for their online sessions include Harvard, UC Berkeley, Duke University, and Stanford University. The nonprofit has managed to increase their member count on the platform Telegram from 300 to 1,000 members within two years.

Dream Big’s more recent webinar events have focused on preparing for standardized tests such as the SATs or ACTs, as well as on the application process for various colleges who have application deadlines in January. Dube has also stated that upcoming sessions for October and November will focus more on career-building aspects, such as how to build an effective resume, and about how to better utilize the summer through internships and work experience.

DAVID NEWMAN

On October 20, Chanticleers Theatre will wrap up its 2023 season with a classic, and the longest running musical in American history. The Fantasticks is an allegorical story that focuses on two young lovers, their meddling fathers, and the journey we all must take through life. With music by Harvey Schmidt and book and lyrics by Tom Jones, this romantic fable has been delighting audiences since its off-Broadway premiere in 1960. Stuart Bousel is thrilled to be returning to the director’s chair after the pandemic cut short his previous directing role on Never The Sinner at San Francisco’s Exit Theatre. He considers The Fantasticks to be “one of the great American musicals of the 20th Century. It’s a deep and lyrical examination of the big ideas—love, youth, time, loss, innocence, change, memory, and death. It’s a show about what it means to be human. Everyone should see it.”

Many will recognize the show’s most famous song, “Try to Remember”, which became an international hit in 1975 when it was covered by Gladys Knight & the Pips. It has been recorded by hundreds of other artists over the years, including Ed Ames, Harry Belafonte, Barbra Streisand and Placido Domingo. Other notable songs include “Soon It’s Gonna Rain” and “They Were You.”

This fall, please join Chanticleers Theatre as we present this whimsical and poignant musical as a tribute to its creators, Jones and Schmidt. Says Bousel, “This is a story of self-awareness, resilience, and forgiveness—all essential traits that we need right now as we continue to collectively figure out how to live in a bigger world again.”

Tickets are $30 for adults and $25 for seniors and students. Patrons can make purchases at chanticleers.org or call (510) 733-5483.

Volunteers Prepare to Register First-Time Youth Voters

SUBMITTED BY
LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

As the 2024 election season approaches, the League of Women Voters is kicking into high gear with voter registration activity. Locally, the League of Women Voters of Fremont, Newark and Union City (LWVFNUC) had a booth last month at the HERS Breast Cancer Foundation's 24th Annual Walk/Run/Yoga Fundraiser and Community Expo at Quarry Lakes Regional Park. This month they are preparing to register eligible high school students so they can vote in their first election.

"When we vote, we're choosing the people who will make decisions that shape the direction of our country and our communities," points out co-president Angelina Reyes.

"This is the motivation that drives us to register voters and conduct programs to help people cast an informed vote," adds co-president Dennis Godden. "Our Youth Voter Movement is designed specifically to help young voters get a good start."

Under the leadership of League member Julie Dunkle, the Youth Voter Movement will lay the groundwork this month for on-campus registration drives during January and February 2024. Adults who would like to participate in the effort are encouraged to attend the planning session on October 21 at noon at Bronco Billy's Pizza Palace at 41200 Blacow Road in Fremont's Irvington District. She intends to accomplish three objectives that day:

- Write postcards to encourage first time 18-year-old voters
- Define volunteer roles for the upcoming registration drives
- Brainstorm ways to streamline the program for 2024

No experience is necessary; all volunteers will receive free training.

This is an energizing way to make a difference in protecting and promoting a healthy democracy. In collaboration with about 650 adult and student volunteers, The Youth Voter Movement has registered more than 10,000 new youth voters in the Tri-City area. To find out more about this League-sponsored activity, please visit www.youthvotermovement.org. To learn more about LWVFNUC, please visit www.lwvfnc.org.

PG&E's Undergrounding Program an Essential Tool for Wildfire Prevention

SUBMITTED BY AARON JOHNSON, REGION VICE PRESIDENT, BAY AREA

We at PG&E are deeply committed to doing everything possible to stop wildfires in Bay Area communities.

Burying powerlines is the most effective solution to reducing the risk of wildfire from electrical equipment, reducing the risk of ignitions in areas at the highest risk of wildfire by nearly 98%. Undergrounding also makes power more reliable by reducing outages caused by winter storms, and in some cases eliminates the need for safety shutoffs.

That is why we have proposed moving overhead electric powerlines underground in highest fire-risk areas, including 40 miles in our Bay Area Region (which includes Alameda, Contra Costa, San Francisco and San Mateo counties). For these investments, all PG&E customers will benefit from lower expenses for overhead-line maintenance; improved air and water quality resulting from fewer wildfires; protection of our wildlands; and, over the long run, improved access to homeowners insurance coverage at lower premiums.

But the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) wants to gut this critical safety program, reducing proposed undergrounding to as little as 200 miles systemwide.

We've seen the devastating toll wildfires have taken on Bay Area communities. Our customers and local officials have told us time and again that they want us to underground our powerlines. That's because undergrounding is the safest and most effective tool we have to prevent ignitions in high fire-risk areas.

We urge the CPUC to revisit its proposals and accept PG&E's proposal to underground 2,000 miles through 2026. If you agree, please let the commission know by visiting www.cpuc.ca.gov/publiccomment. You can read about PG&E's data privacy practices at PGE.com/privacy.

Micromanagers – A not-so-micro problem at work

By ANNE CHAN, PhD, MFT

I once had a boss who would literally look over my shoulders all day long, commenting on my work. She sat behind me less than two feet away, so it was easy for her to keep constant tabs on what I was doing. Needless to say, I was deeply unhappy in that job because of her intrusive spying and negative comments about my work. This type of managerial behavior may seem extreme, but sadly, it is a common experience for American employees. According to the 2023 Work in America Survey conducted by the American Psychological Association, 42% of American workers report feeling micromanaged at work.

Micromanagers are those who manage excessively. Instead of trusting their employees to do their work well, they demand to know about everything; no detail is too small for them. They will check in intrusively at every small step of the way. They want things done their way and don't give their employees freedom to make decisions. They tend not to be open to employee suggestions or ideas. They have a hard time relinquishing control. They can be annoying and might even reduce employee efficiency by asking too frequently for updates. Some micromanagers might even redo the work of their employees.

Identifying the reason and motivation behind your micromanager boss will help you be more effective in dealing with them. There are several reasons why people become micromanagers:

- Some are perfectionists and love looking into every detail because they aim for the highest quality. They may be annoying because of their perfectionism, but actually care deeply about the work. They are motivated by the desire to produce excellence, even if this entails a great deal of effort.
- Some are actually insecure about their managerial ability and fear that they may not be respected as authority figures if they do not have anything to add. Hence, they resort to micromanaging to handle their anxiety and give the appearance that they are in charge.
- Some have been promoted and are first-time managers who do not know how to manage. They are accustomed to doing the work of a non-manager and have yet to learn how to let go of their former duties.
- Some become micromanagers in reaction to their employees' poor work performance.
- Some just love the power and control.

Unfortunately, regardless of the reason behind your boss's controlling style, there are no real winners in a micromanaging work culture. Employees who are micromanaged tend to feel tense because Big Brother or Big Sister or Big Boss is constantly watching over them. They do not feel that their bosses trust them to do their work.

In the long run, micromanaging does not help the micromanager either. Micromanagers tend to be stressed and even burnt out because they take on other people's work and cannot delegate effectively. As a result, work piles up, causing them to feel overwhelmed.

Organizations with a micromanaging culture do not benefit either. The workplace suffers as a whole because there is a lack of trust on both sides—micromanagers have no confidence that their employees will be up to par, and employees feel resentful of and constrained by the lack of trust. Employees tend to feel disengaged from their work, and are more likely to look for greener pastures. Studies have shown that engaged employees are significantly more productive than disengaged ones.

So, what are employees to do if they are suffering under a micromanagering boss? What if you recognize yourself as a micromanager and would like to change your ways? Here's the good news: There are many things that employees and employers can do when micromanaging is a problem at work. Stay tuned for Part II in next month's Tri-City Voice for practical strategies on how to tackle the problem of micromanaging.

News and Notes FROM AROUND THE WORLD

SUBMITTED BY THE ASSOCIATION OF MATURE AMERICAN CITIZENS

Whoa there

Andrew O'Connor was enjoying a bike ride on a narrow dirt road near the town of Knock, England when he encountered a herd of cows headed his way. Trapped between two stone walls, he feared the worst. A farmer, presumably the owner of the bovine flock, saw his dilemma and shouted out, showing him how to confront and stop the herd by holding his hands up high and shouting "stop." It worked and the whole event was caught by a video camera on his handlebars. He told ABC News that he learned a lesson: "Fake it until you make it, just put a brave face on." Pick the fattest bear week

There were fears that Alaska's annual Fat Bear Week would get shut-down this year due to a potential government shutdown. However, a 45-day federal funding agreement was reached and the celebration was held as usual in Katmai National Park. Fat Bear Week is all about picking the fattest bruin just before the mammals settle in for the season to be sleeping. According to the Katmai park, "Over the course of the week, virtual visitors learn more about the lives and histories of individual bears while also gaining a greater understanding of Katmai's ecosystem through a series of live events hosted on explore.org." Due to the outpouring of community support, Ohlone Humane Society Wildlife Rehabilitation Center (OHSWRC) have accomplished many projects this year to improve our wildlife center. Thanks to Boy Scout Troop 132 we have new countertops throughout the center and a new pond structure for our water bird enclosure.

So why would the wildlife of the Tri-Cities need rehabilitation? When wild animals get sick, injured or orphaned, they need a place to go for medical help and depend on assistance from licensed wildlife rehabilitators. Wildlife rehabilitators are trained and skilled people who provide care to wildlife in need. Caring citizens and trained wildlife rehabilitators are the solution to a wild animal's second chance at life. Our reward is when we release a rehabilitated animal back into the environment to live the healthy life it deserves.

A huge thank you to Fremont Bank for their generous grant so we could purchase our new animal intake shed and to Mike Bucci and friends who volunteered their time to build and install it. You'll Rune Everything!

Practice writing in runes. Rewrite each of the following words with runes. Then spell each of your spelling words in runes!

Meet the BERSERKERS!

The most ferocious Viking warriors were called Berserkers. (That's where the phrase "going berserk" comes from.)

Standards Link: Language Arts: Vocabulary: Understand the origins and meaning of words in English.

Who were the Viking warriors?

Long ago, a people called Vikings lived in what is now Norway, Sweden and Denmark. Rocks and thin soil made it difficult for Vikings to grow crops or raise animals for food. The people were often hungry.

Some Vikings even tried to live in America. In 1002 (more than 400 years before Columbus), a Viking called Leif (pronounced "leaf") Ericson landed with a group of people and set up a village in North America.

They stayed about two years. Difficult conditions forced them to leave.

Standards Link: History: Explain the aims, obstacles and accomplishments of the explorers.

In 1016, a Viking became king of England. His name was King Cnut. He was a wise ruler who brought peace.

I put the king back in Viking!

Viking men built ships and sailed to England and France. There they attacked towns, robbed them of food and took prisoners. Sometimes they stayed and took over the towns. At one time, the Vikings ruled most of what is now England and the Normandy area of France.

How many silly things can you find in this bunch of Berserkers?

Rune Code

The letters in the Viking alphabet are called runes. The word rune means secret in their language. Use the runes to find out why the letters were called secret.

Vikings didn't have paper and ink. Messages were carved in wood or stone. That is why the runes are made of straight lines only; curves are hard to carve.

Viking Helmets

You have probably seen comic strips or movies that show Viking helmets with horns. But most Viking experts doubt that Viking helmets actually had horns.

Can you find the two Vikings that are identical?

Explore the Newspaper

Search through the newspaper to find:

- Something a Viking might have had.
- Something ferocious.
- Something that means the opposite of ferocious.

Standards Link: Language Arts/Research: Use the newspaper to locate information.

This animal was brought along on many Viking sea journeys. If the captain of the ship lost his way, he would let this animal go. It always headed toward land, showing the Vikings which way to go. A Viking ship often had a flag with this animal's picture. What was it? Connect the dots and use the runes to find out.

FURRY FUN AT HOWL-O-WEEEN

already had the launch materials prepared, we decided to turn the grand opening into an even more memorable event by making it Halloween-themed." To the Recreation Department's delight, Howl-o-ween's first turnout was a success, with more attendees arriving than anticipated. Moving forward, it was no question that the event would become an annual tradition for the community to gather and enjoy alongside their dogs.

The main highlight of Howl-o-ween is the doggo costume contest. Recreation Coordinator Katie Dennis shares, "In the first year, we had a family and their dog come dressed up as Scooby Doo characters." Other creative costumes have been Winnie the Pooh, Monsters, Inc., Pennywise the Clown, and many more. The top three contest winners receive gift baskets stocked with dog treats, toys, and other spooky-themed goodies. General giveaways like a collapsible dog bowl are also given. Alongside the contest are a costume parade, free photo booth, resource fair promoting local pet stores and vendors selling pet-related items, and puppuccinos— specially made whipped cream-filled cups for dogs. Free coffee will also be provided by the local Starbucks Store #5952 from Thornton Avenue. As for general guidelines on how owners are expected to handle their dogs safely at the event, Hicks states, "Dogs do have to be leashed unless they're within the actual dog park."

Since its inception, Howl-o-ween has garnered more and more attendees not only because it is free, but more importantly because it is pet-friendly. Dennis shares, "People who come once can't wait for the next one. I'm a dog mom myself and sometimes it's hard to find events that are dog-friendly. When there is an opportunity, it makes me feel special and included." Furthermore, the celebration acts as a reminder that families come in all forms, as Hicks adds, "This event is for an even wider section of the community who may have dogs, but not children. Howl-o-ween is both family-and-dog friendly oriented, and it's definitely our favorite event to host."

For the Recreation Department, seeing the event's rising success has been both fulfilling and heartwarming. Dennis states, "We're grateful to work for the Newark community, so seeing them enjoy themselves and compliment each other is always exciting." After the pandemic's isolating impact, having an event like Howl-o-ween not only allows the community to reconnect outdoors, but gives dogs the opportunity to run around and perhaps even make new friends. Whether you adore the spooky season or not, this event is certainly one that will keep attendees amused and engaged with its clever costumes styled by dedicated dog lovers.

Showcase introduces children to scouting

SUBMITTED BY
EVE MARIE LITTLE

With the changing of seasons from summer to autumn comes a new school year, football, pumpkin spice everything, and of course, the Mission Peak Scout Showcase!

BSA (formerly Boy Scouts of America) has over a thousand male and female scouts. More than 20 units from Newark, Fremont, and Union City are coming out to Our Lady of Guadalupe School on Saturday, October 21 to meet current and potential new scouts interested in finding the perfect troop to join to continue their scout journey. The scouts will boast about their specific troop, what they have been working on, and what their group can offer upon joining. This will also offer those curious about scouting an opportunity to do fun scout activities such as STEM projects, new inventions, knot tying, yells and more.

"We are so excited to get this fun event put together. This really allows the younger Arrow of Light scouts an opportunity to shop around and find the right troop that meets their needs," said Fernanda Ruiz, District Executive of the Mission Peak District, "We want everyone to come out and learn what scouting is all about." Andrew Smith from Newark Troop 186, stated, "The showcase is simply amazing. Boys and girls come from different areas, but it felt like we were all old friends. We work together to show up and show off for the up-and-coming young BSA members. Whichever troop the scouts chose to join, they will be in good hands."

BSA is now welcoming both boys and girls ages 11-17 to join their troops and kindergarten to 5th grade for cub scout packs. If you are unable to attend this event, you can check out <http://goldengatescouting.org> to find the unit closest to you.

Alameda County Water District Wins 2023 WaterSense® Excellence Award

SUBMITTED BY
ALAMEDA COUNTY
WATER DISTRICT

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has honored Alameda County Water District (ACWD) with a WaterSense Excellence Award for their work promoting WaterSense and water efficiency in 2022. WaterSense recognized its Sustained Excellence, Partner of the Year, and Excellence Award winners during the WaterSmart Innovations (WSI) Conference in Las Vegas, Nevada, on October 5. ACWD was one of 25 Excellence Award winners nationwide. WaterSense, a voluntary partnership program sponsored by EPA, is both a label for water-efficient products, programs, and homes and a resource for helping consumers learn ways to save water. More than 2,100 manufacturers, builders, retailers, utilities, government, and nonprofit organizations partner with WaterSense to promote water-efficient products, homes, and programs.

"With extreme weather affecting water supplies and quality, saving this precious resource is more important than ever," said Veronica Blette, Chief, WaterSense Branch. "The 2023 award winners helped Americans look to WaterSense and save not just water, but the energy required to heat and treat it, as well as reduce greenhouse gas emissions associated with energy use." Since 2006, over 40,000 certified water-efficient plumbing and irrigation products have helped consumers save 7.5 trillion gallons of water; the amount of energy needed to pump, treat, and heat water by 880 billion kilowatt hours; and $171 billion in water and energy bills. These savings also helped prevent 337 million metric tons of greenhouse gas emissions, which is equivalent to planting WaterSense recognized Alameda County Water District as a 2023 Excellence Award winner for promoting WaterSense labeled products through its robust water conservation measures, including high-efficiency toilet and urinal rebate programs, irrigation hardware rebate program, weather-based irrigation controller rebate program, water conservation kits, and its Water Savings Assistance Partnership Program.

The 2023 award marks the second time ACWD has been recognized as an Excellence Award winner. "It is a true honor to receive this award on behalf of the Alameda County Water District and its customers who can achieve water efficiency with WaterSense labeled devices," said ACWD Board President Paul Sethy. "Our longstanding WaterSense partnership supports ACWD's commitment to providing customers with resources to help them achieve long-term conservation."

Soups for Fall: Warmth, one bowl at a time

By JOHN SCHINKEL

This past weekend's heatwave had me doubting whether or not to talk about anything hot this week, but the past day or two have actually felt like fall. The cool breeze and falling leaves, with a bit of overcast throughout the day, has me feeling soup vibes!

Weather aside, what's not to love about soup, anyway? There are endless recipes, some of which (including one of the recipes I'm sharing) can be enjoyed cold. Suffice it to say: It's always soup weather! My personal preferences are rich and velvety vegetable-based soups, be it Potato Leek or Cream of Zucchini.

Most soups have a base of either broth or stock. Often, the two are used interchangeably, but it is important to follow your recipe as there are flavor differences. Stock is made from bones, and broth is made from flesh. Oddly enough, I'll never understand "vegetable stock," as I've never come across a vegetable with bones. When it comes to broth and stock, as my beloved Ina Garen would say, "Homemade is best, but if you don't have any, store bought is fine."

Some soups can be made ahead of time and served later without sacrificing flavor or texture. However, be warned: Soups that have cheese and other dairy in them at times do not reheat as well. Cheese, in general, does not like to be frozen, or reheated after melting. If you are making a cheesy soup in advance, such as the baked potato soup I include below, consider making the soup entirely, but waiting to add the cheese until shortly before serving.

The addition of salt takes soup from good to great, but be warned again: Too much salt ruins a soup, and can be irreparable. My recommendation is to never follow a soup recipe's salt measurement, and do it to taste at the end of the cooking process. When something is cooking for a long time in liquid, the existing sodium in ingredients is extracted slowly, sometimes to the point of the recipe not needing to add salt. So be patient. Your palate, and arteries, will thank you!

Level: Easy

- Ingredients
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter
 - 1 ½ pounds trimmed leeks, cleaned and thinly cut
 - 2 teaspoons kosher salt, plus more to taste
 - 1 ¼ pounds Yukon Gold potatoes, peeled, and cut into eighths
 - 3 cups chicken or vegetable broth, or more as needed to adjust thickness
 - 1 cup heavy cream
 - ½ cup crème fraîche
 - 1 pinch cayenne pepper
 - Chopped fresh chives for garnish

Directions

Melt butter in soup pot over medium-high heat. Add leeks and salt; cook until leeks begin to wilt. Reduce heat to medium or medium-low and cook until soft and almost pastelike, 30 to 40 minutes.

Place potatoes in the pot; add chicken broth. Adjust heat so mixture simmers slowly. Cook until potatoes are soft, about 30 minutes. Puree mixture with an immersion blender or in batches in a blender.

Whisk in heavy cream and crème fraîche. Heat over medium heat. Add more salt, if needed, and cayenne pepper. Do not boil.

Level: Easy

- Ingredients
- 12 ounces linguica sausage, sliced
 - 1 tablespoon olive oil
 - 1 onion, finely diced
 - Kosher salt, to taste
 - 3 pounds russet potatoes, peeled and sliced 1/8 to 1/4 inch thick
 - 2 teaspoons salt, plus more as needed
 - 2 quarts chicken broth or water
 - 2 pounds kale - trimmed, chopped, rinsed, drained
 - 1 pinch cayenne pepper (Optional)

Directions

Slice sausage into 1/4-inch rounds. Heat oil in a pot over medium-high heat. Add sausage and sauté until sausage begins to turn brown and renders some fat, three to five minutes. Transfer with a slotted spoon to a dish. Reduce heat to medium-low; add onions and pinch of salt. Stir and cook until softened, four to five minutes.

Transfer potatoes to pot. Sprinkle in two teaspoons of salt. Pour in chicken broth. Increase heat to high and bring to a simmer. Reduce heat to medium-low; simmer until potatoes are tender, eight to 10 minutes.

When potatoes are tender, carefully mash them in the broth with a potato masher until broken up or completely mashed. Add kale, a handful at a time. Transfer browned sausage to soup. Bring to a simmer over medium-high heat. Reduce heat to medium-low and simmer until greens are tender, about 45 minutes.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: OCTOBER 17, 2023

All Signs: “What’s the latest possible date that I can still make something out of my life?” procrastinators ask. Relax because this week is all about being laid back. Thursday is nice for studying and planning; then the pace will pick up by Friday. Actually, for the rest of the year, no major planetary changes really occur. A few days ago, Mars moved into Scorpio for six weeks, which makes everyone bolder. Then, on November 24, Mars will move into Sagittarius for the rest of the year, which encourages travel plans and outdoor sports. So, relax and enjoy yourself.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20):

This week you will have intense, meaningful conversations with those closest to you. These conversations will be lively because someone has something to say. Because Mercury is lined up with the Sun opposite your sign, someone is going to state their case. Nevertheless, this is also an excellent time to make practical plans for the future. Meanwhile, your sex drive is strong! Disputes about shared property might occur. Fortunately, relations with coworkers are excellent and mutually supportive. And of course, let us not forget that this is your year to get richer!

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20):

Even though this is a laid-back week, you will get things done because you’re motivated with the Sun in your House of Employment. Furthermore, you want to work in a hands-on, roll-up-your-sleeves way. Quite likely, someone older or more experienced will have advice, or they might directly help you. Nevertheless, let’s face it. You love your creature comforts so you will take time out for some fun, including playful games with children. Creative activities will appeal. Romance is also blessed.

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20):

This week is play city for you! Grab every opportunity to get out and enjoy yourself. Meet friends for lunch, coffee, or happy hour. Enjoy short trips, movies, and plays. Sports will delight. You’re in the mood to party and socialize! You will also love to express your creative talents. Meanwhile, redecorating projects plus entertaining at home will appeal. Despite all these fun diversions, you will still be productive because Mars will give you a sense of pride from your work. Naturally, you want the credit!

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21):

Your focus on home and family continues. Family discussions are taking place and probably home repairs as well. However, Mars is in the most playful part of your chart. It’s time to express to others exactly who you are. Mars will also amp your sex drive and your desire to flirt. You’ll also enjoy competitive athletic activities. Meanwhile, Venus is influencing your everyday activities, making you realize how beautiful your daily surroundings are. Likewise, you will realize how well you are liked by others.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22):

Your fast pace continues with errands and short trips, plus increased shopping as well as writing, reading and studying. You’re multitasking! You’re also able to earn good money now; however, you are tempted to spend it on beautiful things for yourself and loved ones. And why not? Something going on at home might create conflict – certainly increased chaos or activity. Deal with this as best you can. As for shopping for pretty things – people admire you now! Look your best because you have an audience.

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22):

Your focus on money, earnings and cash flow continues as you examine your relationship to your assets and belongings. What’s worth keeping? What’s just too much trouble? You know that you want to establish greater control in your life, especially through your possessions because ultimately, this will give you more freedom. Meanwhile, this is a marvelous week for you to buy wardrobe items for yourself because you will like what you see in the mirror. It’s a great week to socialize as well. In fact, you will be proactive and bold!

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22):

You’re powerful this week because the Sun is still in your sign along with Mercury, which makes you eager to get out and talk to others. You want to express your ideas. Even though you will enjoy fun-loving diversions, you will still work hard to earn money because you’re spending it! Some might explore a secret flirtation. Although you will enjoy schmoozing with others, you will work this week because this entire year (and next year) is a special window where you are busting your buns.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21):

You’re pumped with energy because Mars entered your sign a few days ago to stay until late November. When Mars is in your sign (for about six weeks every two years), you have more energy, motivation and enthusiasm! It’s your chance to show the world what you can do. You’ll be more of a fighter for your own rights and stick up for others. Meanwhile, fair Venus is in your House of Friendships smoothing all your relations. It’s a great time for a party. Romance will take on a friendly quality as well.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21):

The Sun and Mercury are in your House of Friendships increasing your involvement with groups. Furthermore, friendships will be more important to you. You’ll find it very easy to cooperate with others, which is why it’s a great time for team efforts. Because your idealism is aroused, you might be involved with charitable organizations. Meanwhile, Venus is at the top of your chart making you look attractive to everyone, especially authority figures. In fact, you look so attractive, you might begin a romance with someone important.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19):

This is another powerful week for you with the Sun at high noon in your chart. This makes you look competent to others (even if you aren’t). Nevertheless, don’t pretend to be something you’re not because the truth will come out. Start to make plans about your future. Where do you want to be in five years? It’s also a good time to influence groups. This might be in a professional sense, or you might coach a team. Meanwhile, if you can travel and get a change of scenery – this is the time to do it!

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18):

You have the travel bug. Many of you will fly south to get warmer. However, this is also an excellent time to explore opportunities in publishing, the media, medicine, or law. These doors will open for you. Fortunately, Mars is still high in your chart arousing your ambition; while fair Venus is in one of your Money Houses attracting wealth to you. Nevertheless, it’s a great week to relax; and it’s also a great week to spark romantic pleasures.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20):

This is a wonderful week to schmooze because fair Venus is opposite your sign, which means all your relations with others are blessed. In fact, you will enjoy socializing so much, you can even mend fences with your enemies. If you can travel, this will please you because Mars wants you to explore creative intellectual work, and anything that will expand your mind. Meanwhile, discussions about wills, inheritances, shared property and insurance matters will be sensible and practical. You’ll feel good about these results.

State Awards $45.8 Million Grant to Support new Transit Oriented Development in Fremont

By JACK ALCORN

Fremont recently announced that the future “3900 Thornton” affordable housing project in Fremont’s Centerville area has been granted $45.8 million in Affordable Housing and Sustainable Communities (AHSC) funding from the State of California. Approximately $4.3 million of the AHSC grant is designated for promoting clean transportation in Fremont and improvements to the Centerville Train Station.

California is investing millions of dollars to create more affordable housing in jobs-rich, walkable neighborhoods with clean transportation. These investments will help cut carbon pollution and build safe new homes that serve as a foundation of opportunity for the individuals and families living in them.

Fremont has a strong history of demonstrating forward thinking housing strategies. If the project receives Fremont Planning Commission approval and relevant permitting, it could transform an underutilized vacant lot into a sustainable building with 128 affordable homes. The Centerville construction project is led by nonprofit affordable housing developer Resources for Community Development (RCD).

The modern apartments would provide homes for families and individuals in a new mixed-use, transit-oriented development. Seniors, veterans, lower wage working families, and people with special needs could reside in the heart of the Centerville commercial district. The Fremont-Centerville Train Station and AC Transit bus lines are accessible within a couple blocks of the planned 5 story complex.

The proposed development site, located in the Southeast corner of Post Street and Thronton Avenue, is near parks, schools, churches, stores and entertainment venues. Construction would include a new separated bikeway and significant upgrades to the local transit hub. More walking, biking, and transit infrastructure benefits the entire community, making it easier for people to avoid the need for a car trip.

Studios, one, two and three-bedroom units could be available in the development for individuals and families earning between 20-80% of the area median income (AMI). Nine apartments would be set aside for formerly unhoused tenants earning less than 20% AMI and six apartments would be set aside for “missing-middle” households at 80% AMI.

The sustainable building design would include native, drought-tolerant vegetation and a cool roof surface. The structure would minimize environmental impact by using efficient materials that conserve energy and water, and using other resources to reduce waste, pollution and carbon emissions.

Opponents of the proposed development say the less than one acre lot is too small for 128 new residences and adequate parking. Critics argue that the new structure would rise adjacent to six other 5- story housing complexes already existing on the same block, creating an uncomfortable population density. It would also remove the only remaining open space on the block that might be better used as a park.

Construction of this new affordable housing project at 3900 Thornton Avenue in Fremont’s Centerville is slated to begin by Winter 2025.

Ohlone College launches Women’s Badminton Team

By VIDYUTH SRIDHAR

On March 9, 2023, Ohlone College, located in Fremont and Newark, announced their inaugural Women’s Badminton team would begin play during the upcoming Spring 2024 season.

Ohlone now offers 14 sports (six Men’s and eight Women’s), competing in the California Community College Athletic Association’s (CCCCAA) Coast Conference. Rising student demand, coupled with a desire to increase ethnic diversity played a major role in Ohlone’s decision to create the team. “We want to continue to reach out to the areas that may not have had the opportunities and bring those here. This was going to be an opportunity to bring some new interest into our college, and have a well-rounded program,” Ohlone College Dean of Kinesiology, Athletics, and Arts Chris Warden said. Badminton’s ability to be played within existing facilities, an established conference league, and the support of administration also led Ohlone to introduce a competitive program.

In charge of Ohlone’s badminton team is Head Coach Albert Chow. Chow previously served as Head Coach at Mission College in Santa Clara, and also enjoyed success as the former Head Coach at Cupertino High School. “I heard about Ohlone ... and the idea of building a program from the ground up really appealed to me,” Chow said. In addition, “Ohlone has a little bit more of a traditional community college feel, where you’re getting high school students that are moving to the next stage in life rather than professionals who are looking for supplement classes. Because of that, I felt the badminton program would have a stronger chance of success.”

Signing up for the team involves enrolling in an exclusive class at Ohlone, led by Chow, which functions as a slot for team practices and awarding college credits for athlete participation. Chow is also offering for-credit badminton classes available to all Ohlone students, as well as non-credit bootcamps through the Ohlone For Kids & Teens (OFK) program – targeted towards children of various skill levels aged nine-18.

Currently, Chow is focusing on recruiting current Ohlone students – placing flyers over campus to help boost awareness and interest for the program. “I want people to be excited to come to train for badminton, and I want them to use this as a stepping stone to the next level ... I’m hoping that’s leadership skills, [and] confidence ... to walk into a badminton club and feel like ‘yeah, I can step onto the court with anyone,’” Chow said. In the future, Chow’s goal is to utilize mediums such as OFK to foster connections on the high school level, and help redefine players’ college outlooks. “A lot of the families that participate in badminton at a high level are looking at a [four-year college] and they do not consider community college as well. That’s why one of the first strategies is building a relationship with the local high schools, because if I can prove that I’m a worthy coach, and that Ohlone is a strong program, I’ll get some people to change their minds about a four-year,” Chow explained.

Ultimately, launching the Women’s Badminton team is part of a wider push by Ohlone College to increase their athletic offerings – which are slated to expand to include Women’s and Men’s Cross Country and Women’s Beach Volleyball in subsequent years. “It’s an exciting time for Ohlone because we’re going to be the biggest non-football school athletically [in the Coast Conference] once that’s over,” Warden said. Currently, Men’s Badminton is not offered as a competitive sport in the CCCCCAA, and there are no plans to introduce a team at Ohlone. However, men are welcome to train with the team, and try out as assistant coaches.

Head Coach Albert Chow

“I feel strongly that anyone can, as long as you have the desire, join badminton, and I want this to be a very inclusive space,” Chow described. “To the general community, I just hope that they support the sport, and spread the word.”

WILLIAM MARSHAK

Thomas Jefferson included the pursuit of happiness as an “inalienable right” when drafting the Declaration of Independence. This was not a new concept, rather a philosophical principle promoted centuries before his time. The Greek philosopher Aristotle (384 bce - 322 bce) considered happiness as the apex of human goodness and life. Each of us, however has a different view of what that means but Aristotle described it as a mean or midpoint between excess and deficiency. In other words, a balanced life that leads to goodness and moral virtue through habitual behavior.

Although the virtues to achieve happiness described by Aristotle are centuries old, they still have relevance today, including: temperance, friendliness, courage, truthfulness, shame, liberality, magnificence, wittiness, justice patience and generosity. Jefferson was aware of the shortcomings of mankind, writing of the pursuit, an aspiration, rather than the accomplishment as a practical addition to life and liberty.

To achieve moral virtue in all respects at all times is not only a daunting task, but as unrealistic as total perfection in everything we do and say. However, to be mindful of the value of these virtues can be a guide to help correct what Aristotle called vices or deficiencies when they occur. Not only is it helpful to hold a mirror to personal behavior, but also those in positions of authority. Present circumstances of national and international imbalance can cause a ripple effect on the local scene as well. The atrocities of inhumane actions generated by hatred, envy and righteous fanaticism do not align with a moral or virtuous life.

It is of critical importance in our communities that have a myriad of cultures and strong connections around the world to applaud moral virtues, condemn excesses and deficiencies while continuing a personal and community commitment to the pursuit of happiness.

THE ROBOT REPORT

John Deere to discuss state of agrobotics in RoboBusiness keynote

BY STEVE CROWE

Farmers are up against a monumental challenge: feeding a growing population with less available land, labor, and resources. The world's population is expected to reach nearly 10 billion by 2050, increasing the global food demand by 50%. However, overall employment of agricultural workers is only projected to grow by 1% by 2029, slower than average for all occupations.

At RoboBusiness (Oct. 18-19 in Santa Clara, Calif.), John Deere's director of emerging technologies, Sarah Schinckel, will detail how advanced robotics are essential to helping farmers upskill limited labor and perform precise tasks at scale. This presentation will explore the value robotics bring to the farm and what other industries can learn from its purposeful use case in agriculture.

Robotics are also the key to bringing autonomy and automation to the farm. Today, farmers use highly-automated machines to prepare the soil, plant, spray, and harvest. With continued robotic innovation, farmers can perform tasks faster and with fewer resources to provide the food, fuel, and fiber our world needs.

Schinckel's team focuses on researching, developing, and supporting the deployment of John Deere's next-generation technologies to improve customer profitability and sustainability. She has 20-plus years of experience with software development for web and embedded systems, working in a variety of roles across development, systems engineering, and engineering management. Schinckel earned her bachelor's degree in computer science and a master's degree in engineering management from Iowa State University and has graduate certificates from Iowa State University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

RoboBusiness is the leading event focused on developing commercial robots. There will be 60-plus speakers, 100-plus exhibitors and demos on the expo floor, networking receptions, the Pitchfire Robotics Startup Competition and more. You can check out the current list of speakers, to which more will be added.

RoboBusiness will be co-located with the Field Robotics Engineering Forum, an event focused on how to successfully develop robots that operate in wide-ranging, outdoor, dynamic environments. Also co-located with RoboBusiness is DeviceTalks West, the premier industry event for medical technology professionals, currently in its ninth year. Both events attract engineering and business professionals from a broad range of healthcare and medical technology backgrounds.

In 2022, John Deere introduced its first fully autonomous tractor, the John Deere 8R, which leverages computer vision and machine learning to enable the tractor to perceive the world around it, identify obstacles and safely operate without an onboard operator. The Robot Report attended the 2023 John Deere Technology Summit that showcased the state of the art in agtech from John Deere's technology executives. You can read a recap of the event here: www.therobotreport.com/john-deere-2023-tech-summit-recap/

Assemblymember Alex Lee Secures $2 Million in State Funding for Newark

SUBMITTED BY NICHOLAS CHAN, CALIFORNIA STATE ASSEMBLY Assemblymember Alex Lee has secured $2 million from this fiscal year’s state budget to help Newark revitalize the Old Town neighborhood and develop the city’s first resource center. “I’m proud to announce $2 million in state funding for Newark,” Assemblymember Lee said. “The funding will improve residents’ living environments and quality of life by advancing Newark’s vision of reinvigorating the commercial core of Old Town and connecting residents to critical services through the Newark Resource Center.” For Old Town, the Assemblymember secured $1 million towards the Old Town Streetscape Improvement Project. It aims to catalyze private investment within Old Town by improving access, safety	and connections for pedestrians, bicyclists and transit users along Thornton Avenue between Olive Street and Ash Street. The project’s public outreach and design phase will begin in fall 2023, with construction anticipated to start in spring 2025. The project is estimated to be completed by summer 2026. Its work includes installing new bike lanes and crosswalks, widening sidewalks for outdoor dining, enhancing landscaping areas and creating urban plazas. Another $1 million in state funding has also been secured by Assemblymember Lee for the Newark Resource Center Project. The project will renovate an existing facility that’s owned by the city, converting it into the Newark Resource Center. The Newark Resource Center will serve as an entry point for social services in the city, referring residents to social service agencies and providing on-site assistance. It will also offer spaces for community meetings and events in Old Town. The project is currently	in the design development phase and construction is planned to begin in spring 2024. “I thank Assemblymember Alex Lee for his ongoing support to the Newark community,” Mayor Michael K. Hannon said. “The added financial contribution will allow us to begin the revitalization of our Old Town, and provide funding for our Resource Center Project which will provide informational access to our residents.” Assemblymember Alex Lee represents the 24th Assembly District which includes the cities of Fremont, Newark, Milpitas, San Jose, and the community of Sunol.

CLARA APODACA

April 26, 1937- September 29, 2023

Resident of Newark

Clara Eugenia Apodaca nee Cordova was born to Francisco and Maria Cordova in Logan, New Mexico on April 26, 1937. Her family moved to West Oakland in 1941. An active student at St. Patrick’s Catholic School, Clara sang at church masses and was very close to Mother Rose, principal of the school.

While attending a church function, a young man, Danny, “collecting phone numbers for the priest “ only collected Clara’s phone number—and not for the priest. At 15 years old Clara started dating Daniel Apodaca. Dan would tease Clara that if it wasn’t for him she would have been a nun.

Clara graduated from Oakland’s McClymonds High School in 1955. Clara and Dan married in 1956. Some thought they were too young but they were true partners in life and remained happily married for 57 years.

In 1962, Dan and Clara moved their family to Newark where they raised their five children. Clara, a Domestic Goddess, loved her home and her family. The Apodaca’s door was always open, and friends and family would frequently be treated to their hospitality. Clara loved to cook, play cards, was an avid reader, obsessed over her daily crossword puzzles, and never passed up a glass of wine.

A devoted wife, mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, sister, and auntie. She will be greatly missed by her sons Daniel Apodaca, Jr., and John Apodaca, her daughter Ana Apodaca, her daughters-in-law who she called her daughters - Kathy Turner and Dawn Apodaca, and her 14 grandchildren and dozens of great-grandchildren. Clara was preceded in death by her husband Dan, her daughter Deborah Apodaca Monahan and her son Robert Apodaca, as well as her parents and siblings.

Friends and family are invited to attend on Thursday, October 19 a Memorial Service and Rosary from 5-7pm at Holy Sepulcher Mortuary - 1051 Harder Road in Hayward. On Friday, October 20 a Funeral Mass will be held at 10am at St. Edwards Church - 5788 Thornton Ave., Newark. Internment will follow at 11:30am at Holy Sepulcher Cemetery - 26320 Mission Blvd., Hayward.

In lieu of flowers, Clara would have appreciated a donation in her name to the family of Sofia Rubio. Sofia was diagnosed with a brain tumor in May, the day after she completed kindergarten. When Clara learned of Sofia’s battle from her daughter-in-law she started praying for her even while being hospitalized and in rehab herself. Currently, Sofia is at Children’s Hospital in Oakland undergoing her 3rd round of Chemo. You can donate directly to the family via zelle.

Mary Helen Stogsdill Beaton

Resident of Fremont

March 5, 1945 – September 30, 2023

Mary Helen Stogsdill Beaton passed away peacefully in her sleep on Saturday, September 30, 2023 in Fremont, CA. She was born in San Jose, CA in 1945, the 4th of 6 children. Her parents Bert and Carrie Mae Stogsdill worked hard providing for their children following the crops from San Jose to Chowchilla, CA. In 1964, Mary married William “Bill” Beaton and raised their two girls in Union City, CA. Mary moved back to her childhood city of Chowchilla after her divorce and worked as a home healthcare worker for many years. She is survived by her daughters Kim Marshall (Troy) from Fremont, CA and Tamie Beaton from Rio Vista, CA, as well as her 3 granddaughters – Crystal (Tom), Shana (Sebastian) and Mikayla; 2 grandsons – Jimmy and Brandon; 1 great-grandson Jameson; and 1 great-granddaughter Cleo. Mary was a kind and generous person who was happiest when she was with her family. Holidays, camping trips to the lake, attending her grandchildren’s football and soccer games – these things brought her so much joy. Nature walks, flowers, and sunsets brought her peace. On Friday, November 17, family and friends are invited to remember and celebrate a life well lived at The Vineyard located at 605 S I Street, Madera, CA 93637 from 1:30 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

John M. “Jack” Sullivan

April 25, 1937 - October 5, 2023

Resident of Fremont

On Thursday, October 5th, John Mark “Jack” Sullivan, 86, passed away peacefully in his home, surrounded by the love, prayers and grateful presence of his family.

He is survived by his loving wife of 63 years, Joyce, his four adult children, Mark (Anne), John (Jennifer), Catherine (“Katy”) and David (Shannon), and his eight grandchildren. A native Chicagoan, he was preceded in death by his parents, John Christopher Sullivan of Glengariff, Cork, Ireland and Catherine Mary (O’Hara) Sullivan of Mullingar, Westmeath, Ireland, and his sisters, Patricia (Puthoff) Walkley and Anne Marie Lundstrom.

Jack was a decades-long HR Manager/Industrial Relations Manager, working as department director in large industrial settings in Hayward and San Leandro. His dedicated service and collaborative spirit consistently won praise from both management and unions alike, and he remarkably never missed a day of work in his professional life. Jack also served on the Board of Directors for St. Rose Hospital in Hayward and as a member of the San Leandro Chamber of Commerce.

Prior to beginning his career, Jack graduated from DePaul University in Chicago, earning a Bachelor of Arts degree in History. He honorably and proudly served in the United States Navy, joining as an enlisted sailor on the USS Cubera submarine. After attending Officer Candidate School, he served as an officer in one of the Navy’s first drone units, designed to hone shipboard anti-aircraft skills.

After his discharge with the rank of lieutenant junior grade, he and his new bride moved to Fremont, where they were to live 50+ years.

Jack was most proud of his legacy of service – service to God, to nation, and especially to family. He was the Director of Lectors for more than 20 years at Holy Spirit Church, a parish he and his family attended since moving to Fremont. He was also a Boy Scout leader, taught Catechism to adults, and helped implement an employment assistance program through the church.

A devout Catholic throughout his life, Jack was dedicated, hardworking, and faithful. He was generous, patient, kind, and loved his family more than anything. He took great pleasure in his kids’ accomplishments, large or small, and greatly enjoyed conversations with them and other family members. He read so voluminously, especially history and international affairs, that he was on a first-name basis with many local librarians. He loved to listen and learn, with a boundless curiosity.

His lasting legacy in life was gratitude. It is what he leaves in overflowing measure in the hearts of those who have known and loved him.

A Funeral Mass will be celebrated on Thursday, October 19th, 2023 at 10:30AM at Holy Spirit church in Fremont, CA.

In lieu of flowers, please consider donating to Catholic Relief Services.

SOCIAL SECURITY MATTERS

Ask Rusty – How will my wife’s Social Security be affected by her teacher’s pension?

By RUSSELL GLOOR,
NATIONAL SOCIAL SECURITY ADVISOR,
AMAC FOUNDATION

Dear Rusty: My wife, born in 1960, was a Texas school teacher for about 10 years and receives a $1,000 per month pension from that work. She didn't pay into Social Security while teaching, but she paid into it for about 23 years while working elsewhere. I paid into Social Security my entire life, the maximum in most years, so my SS benefit will be much greater than hers.

I understand there are some sort of penalties or restrictions on my wife’s Social Security benefits and also for spousal benefits due to her school pension. Please share the process I can use to estimate my wife’s Social Security and tell me if she can file for spousal benefits.

Signed: Planning for the Future

Dear Planning: Because your wife has a Texas school teacher pension earned without contributing to Social Security, any SS benefits she is entitled to will be affected by two rules – first, by the Windfall Elimination Provision (WEP) which will reduce her personally earned Social Security retirement benefit and, second, by the Government Pension Offset (GPO) which will reduce any spousal boost (if she is entitled to one) to her own benefit.

The amount of the WEP reduction to your wife’s personal SS retirement benefit will be computed using a special formula which considers the number of years she has contributed to Social Security through other (non-state) work. Since your wife became eligible for Social Security benefits in 2022, the maximum WEP reduction with 23 years contributing to SS will be $358. If your wife has already obtained an estimate of her Social Security retirement benefit, deduct $358 from that estimate and that will be pretty close to her actual SS retirement benefit when she claims. Social Security will figure out the exact amount of her WEP reduction when your wife applies, but you can also use Social Security’s “WEP Calculator” for an estimate, which you can find at this link: www.ssa.gov/benefits/calculators/.

Whether your wife will be entitled to a “spousal boost” to her own Social Security retirement benefit depends on how your respective FRA entitlements compare, and the GPO. The base amount of your wife’s spousal boost will be the difference between her pre-WEP FRA entitlement and 50% of your FRA entitlement. If your wife’s normal FRA entitlement is less than 50% of your FRA entitlement, the difference is a “spousal boost” added to your wife’s personal SS retirement benefit. However, that base spousal boost will be reduced if taken before your wife reaches her FRA, and even further reduced by the GPO (the GPO reduction will be 2/3rds your wife’s State of Texas pension, e.g., about $667). Any remainder left after these reductions to your wife’s spousal boost will be added to her own WEP-reduced SS retirement amount, but if the remainder is $0 then no spousal boost will be given, and your wife will get only her WEP-reduced Social Security retirement amount.

FYI, Social Security’s WEP and GPO provisions apply to anyone who has a pension earned without contributing to Social Security, including many public service retirees in the 26 states which do not participate in the federal Social Security program. I’ve published numerous articles about how these rules affect benefits, and also about the rationale behind both provisions, which you are welcome to review at this AMAC Foundation website: www.SocialSecurityReport.org.

California will give some Mexican residents in-state community college tuition

Oct 14, 2023
BY SOPHIE AUSTIN
ASSOCIATED PRESS/REPORT FOR AMERICA

California Gov. Gavin Newsom signed a new law Friday to make low-income Mexican residents living near the border eligible for in- state tuition rates at certain community colleges.

The legislation applies to low-income Mexicans who live within 45 miles (72 kilometers) of the California-Mexico border and want to attend a participating community college in Southern California. It is a pilot program that will launch next year and run until 2029.

Some people travel frequently between Mexico and California to work or visit family. The law will help make education more accessible for those residents and prepare them for jobs, Assemblymember David Alvarez, who authored the proposal, said at a Senate Education Committee hearing in June.

“This pilot program can unlock a significant untapped resource to prepare a more diverse population among our workforce,” Alvarez said in a statement.

Mark Sanchez, president of Southwestern College in Chula Vista, a California city about 7 miles (11 kilometers) from the border, said many students at the school split their time between the two countries. “Without this pilot, we risk everything in terms of loss of talent,” he said at the hearing.

The new law will require community college boards to submit a report to lawmakers by 2028 to show the attendance rate and demographics of students who received in-state tuition rates under the program. A similar law passed in 2015 allows some Nevada residents living near the California border to attend Lake Tahoe Community College at in-state tuition rates.

Positive West Nile Virus Mosquitoes Found in Portions of Milpitas

SUBMITTED BY
SANTA CLARA COUNTY
PUBLIC AFFAIRS

The County of Santa Clara Vector Control District has confirmed the presence of West Nile virus-positive mosquitoes in portions of San José and Milpitas. Affected areas were treated to reduce adult mosquito populations with the use of truck-mounted equipment in early October. The District’s mosquito-management program largely focuses on preventing mosquitoes from reaching the adult biting stage by proactively targeting immature stages of mosquitoes found in standing water. However, when a mosquito with West Nile virus (WNV) is detected, the District takes the added step of conducting adult-mosquito-control treatments. It is critical that the District conduct adult-mosquito-control treatments as quickly as possible upon finding a positive mosquito. The adult-mosquito-control treatments reduce the mosquito population in the area, which decreases the risk of a WNV-human infection. Adult mosquitoes are the primary carriers of vector-borne viruses that cause illnesses in humans.

It is normal to see an increase in West Nile virus during the summer and early fall because mosquitoes thrive in warm weather. The District has a dedicated surveillance program to detect the presence of diseases like West Nile virus, St. Louis encephalitis and western equine encephalitis, all of which are transmitted through the bite of infected mosquitoes. The data collected through surveillance is used to predict locations that are more likely to have these disease-transmitting mosquitoes.

The district has been conducting truck-mounted adult-mosquito-control treatments regularly since 2003 to successfully reduce WNV-transmitting mosquito populations. Adult-mosquito-control treatments pose minimal risk to people, pets, animals and the environment when applied by a licensed vector-control professional following label instructions. Those who would like to take extra precautions can keep family members and pets inside during adult-mosquito-control treatment, with windows and doors shut. In the morning, the pesticide quickly breaks down when exposed to sunlight. Since the District applies pesticides at ultra-low volume (ULV), individuals aren't likely to breathe or touch anything that has enough pesticide on it to be harmful.

The public can assist in preventing the spread of West Nile virus by taking the following preventive measures.

On your property:

- Inspect for standing water on a weekly basis.
- Drain or turn over anything that can hold water, such as flowerpots, planter bases, pet dishes.
- Clean items like bird baths and pet bowls once a week to remove any mosquito eggs.
- Clear debris from rain gutters on a regular basis.
- Properly screen rain barrels, cisterns and irrigation drains to prevent mosquito access.
- Fix leaky water faucets and broken sprinkler heads and avoid overwatering lawns and plants.
- Ensure window and door screens are in good condition with no holes or tears and are tight-fitting.

- Ensure swimming-pool water level is adequate for proper circulation and filtration.

• Free mosquitofish can be requested online at www.sccvector.org for placement in neglected pools/spas, ornamental ponds, water troughs and other artificial bodies of water. For more information on our mosquitofish program, visit www.sccvector.org/mosquitofish.

Outdoor activities:

- Limit outdoor activities during dusk and dawn -- these are the times when mosquitoes are most active.
- If spending time outdoors, dress in long-sleeve shirts and long pants, preferably in light colors
- Apply insect repellent that contains DEET, IR3535 or oil of lemon eucalyptus, always following label instructions.

Contact the County of Santa Clara Vector Control District if you are being bothered by mosquitoes or know of a potential mosquito-breeding source. For free assistance with mosquito control or other vectors, residents can contact the district office at (408) 918-4770 or submit an online service request.

For more information on the pesticides used for this adult-mosquito-control treatment visit our website at www.sccvector.org. For additional information on pesticides, visit the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s website at www.cdc.gov. Calphin Academy celebrates 20 years of innovation, inclusion and excellence

BY HUGO VERA

On Saturday, October 14, a crowd of people convened on the corner of Fremont Boulevard and Paseo Padre Parkway as the Calphin Swim Academy held an Open House in commemoration of its 20th anniversary. Founded in 2003 by Business Management Director Joseph He and Head Coach Xiaohong Wang, the Calphin Swim Academy was created in response to the lack of quality affordable swim lessons as well as access to pools in the Tri-City Area at the time of the academy's inception.

With He's experience in business and Wang's time representing the Chinese Women's Olympic Swim Team (during both the 1988 and 1992 Summer Olympics in which she won medals), the two sought to make the field of recreational and competitive swimming accessible and appealing to all.

Calphin representative Candace Mendez says, "The Bay Area has an ever-growing aquatic community. We want to give young kids the skills and techniques to take their swim career to the next level which is why many of our graduates have continued their swimming careers into high school and college."

During Saturday's event, a massive line wrapped around the academy's building as eager parents awaited the chance to register their children for lessons. Nearby, free amenities such as a bounce house, popcorn machine and various games with fun prizes awaited families in attendance. At the entrance, He and Wang stood in front of a backdrop commemorating the academy's 20th anniversary as they thanked the crowd for two decades worth of support and outlined goals for the future.

"Our mission was always to provide reliable, quality swim lessons to all at an affordable price," said He during Saturday's festivities. "In our 20 years, our student body has grown exponentially and we've met the challenges head-on to produce the best swimmers possible."

In addition to fostering a better swim community, Calphin's team of trainers and coaches have also made efforts to address the decrease in youth sports and recreational programs which continues to have effects nationwide.

"Swimming is a lifelong skill that provides an individual with a chance to be safer and [have better] health," adds Mendez. "By developing swimmers that are ready to compete, this continuously creates a demand for swim teams for both clubs and schools. These swimmers then want to become coaches and lifeguards and to give back to the communities they grew up in."

In the 20 years (and counting) of operation, Calphin has expanded with a second location in Dublin. Programs range from beginner, intermediate and advanced lessons for children, lessons for teens and adults, and private and semi-private lessons.

"We've been very receptive to the city of Fremont and in turn the city has embraced us too," concludes He. "We are proud of what we've achieved in the first 20 years and we look forward to teaching the next generation of swimmers."

'Holiday for the Arts' 2023

original works in Ceramics, Glass & Sculpture, Paintings, Photography, Cards & Wall Art, Jewelry, Fiber, Wood, and Holiday Décor.

Among participants, about 15 are new to the show. They come from around the Bay Area and beyond. Linda Paris-Bell, from Sunnyvale, is a mixed media fabric artist who loves to make landscape quilts. Sometimes they are all fabric, sometimes mixed with hand painting and other materials. At the show will be Yosemite landscapes and other scenes. Another fabric artist, Elfride Groh from Hayward, started sewing doll clothes as a child and has continued to sew everything from jackets and gowns to children's clothes. She belongs to the Alameda County Chapter of the American Sewing Guild. For this show, Elfride will display handmade purses.

A resident of Union City, Lore Winterman-Sturm began exploring pottery ten years ago after her retirement from the US Geological Survey, discovering "her much-neglected creative side." Lore learned to throw clay on a pottery wheel, but after a few years, she turned to slab clay and hand-built organic pottery. Charlene Fischer from Palo Alto always admired the beauty of pottery, saying, "watching someone throw a piece on the wheel seemed magical." In 2015, when a friend suggested a class together, she immediately said, "Yes, let's give it a go!" Now she uses her bowls, plates, and cups every day and enjoys creating sculptures, vases, and bird feeders. Both Lore and Charlene are members of San Jose's Higher Fire Clay Space and Gallery.

Yet another ceramic artist, Veronica Schulte, began her journey with clay nearly 15 years ago. Originally a sculptor, she now incorporates elements of hand building into wheel-thrown pieces. Her work is inspired by nature in the Bay Area. Veronica has recently started teaching pottery to students of all ages and abilities.

Natasha Foucault from Half Moon Bay has been painting on silk for 45 years. She received her education at the Moscow Academy of Art. Seven years ago, she decided to open her own gallery, Silk and Stone, displaying and selling her fine and wearable art, and also working on her ongoing projects.

Jessica Copeman, a resident of Livermore, graduated with a BA in Art from Cal State East Bay. She finds inspiration from the California coast, which is reflected in her loosely interpreted seascapes and landscapes. Jessica creates art "that transports others to this magical space of mystery and tranquility." Another artist mesmerized by nature is self-taught watercolorist Juanita Hagberg. Her artistic journey began following a career as a public-school teacher and has taken her from realistic to a more impressionistic, and experimental style. Juanita's work has been selected at several juried exhibitions, most notably the "de Young OPEN" in San Francisco.

A professional photographer, Keith Westra graduated with a BA in Art from Humboldt State University. He has worked in ceramics, jewelry, sculpture, and photography, and continues to experiment. His admiration for "functional art" led him to start hand-making leather goods using traditional techniques. Lately, Keith has discovered the art of making brooms and is inspired by the history of broom-making from Appalachia. Most of his broom handles are from Oak, Redwood, and Walnut trees found on his daily walks in the Niles.

An array of creative items will also be presented by favorite returning artists such as Adriane Dedic, P. Kay Hille-Hatten, Barbara Schlein, Susan Helmer, Lauren Shaver, Tatiana Yaksick, and others you wouldn't want to miss!

We look forward to a great show and hope you will be able to attend. Tickets for the Opening Gala are $20, and they may be purchased at the door or online at <https://olivehydeartguild.org/holiday-for-the-arts-2/gala-tickets/>.
