Newark celebrates its birthday, and everyone is invited

NEWARK DAYS FEATURES PARADE, 4K RACE, CARNIVAL, CLASSIC CAR SHOW

By ROB KLINDT

Every year as the golden days of summer fade away, the annual Newark Days Celebration returns offering visitors and residents one last chance to have fun in the sun, renew friendships and look back at the city's history and appreciate its present-day culture and diversity.

Dave Fink, spokesman and entertainment director for the non-profit Newark Days Celebration Inc., which puts on the event, said it dates back more than six decades to the incorporation of the City of Newark on September 22, 1955. This year's four-day event will open with a carnival and food festival at 5pm on Thursday, September 19 and continue through Sunday, September 22. Admission is free.

"There's stuff for everybody," Fink said, adding that the event will include more than 30 food booths featuring a wide range of ethnic foods, arts-and-craft booths, live music every day, family-friendly games, a children's petting zoo and pony rides and a classic car and truck show on Saturday.

Classic hometown parade

The cornerstone of the event, Fink said, is the annual "Hometown Parade: Let the Games Begin!" program starting at 10am Saturday featuring 1,200 high school students and adults from the community in about 100 marching band and dance entries. The parade will start at Newark Boulevard and Thornton Avenue and march to Lake and Cedar boulevards. "It's a classic hometown parade with people in the parade who are super-enthusiastic," Fink said. "Once the parade starts going by it's about 90 minutes of entertainment."

Also back this year is the popular Newark Mile 4K race for adults and a separate Newark Mile 4Kids tiny tot race, both on Saturday. Caught your breath yet? There's more, including:

- Wadaiko Newark taiko drum performance
- A roaming professional stilt walker
- Headliner stage music shows featuring rock, soul, jazz, Latin, country and pop
- A performance by Newark Symphonic Winds
- BMX balance bike obstacle course for kids younger than six
- A bicycle show and shine featuring custom built and vintage bikes

Restoring Russell City

COMMUNITY VOICES CALL FOR EXPANDED HOUSING AID IN REPARATIVE EFFORTS

By PANASHE MATEMBA-MUTASA

The factory-laden strip of West Hayward land may be an ordinary feature of the city to many, but the city's minority community knows well that this area is a shell of its former self. Known as Russell City, the unincorporated area established in 1853 was once a thriving neighborhood for the local Black and Latino populations.

Families owned livestock, and R&B singers like Etta James and Ray Charles would stop to play there routinely. It was blissful. It was peaceful and idyllic. And then the bulldozers came. In 1964, the City of Hayward announced plans to build an industrial park over Russell City, and more than 1,000 people were forced to relocate from their homes.

Sixty years later, Russell City descendants are seeking atonement for their loss. In November of 2021, Hayward City Council issued a formal apology for the displacement of Russell City residents, but this gesture left the grandchildren of the tragedy unsatiated. They've demanded reparations so they can begin to build wealth.

In response, the city launched the Russell City Reparative Justice Program. The plan includes proposals to identify descendants using public records, distribute stakeholding grants and provide homebuyer's assistance and business redevelopment services. A meeting held on Wednesday, August 28 invited community members and those with ties to the victims to share their voices as the city navigates a restorative path forward.

"We want to give you all a voice so we can compare what's being proposed to what's already in existence," said Josephine Ayankoya, City of Hayward's equity and inclusion officer.

The most hotly contested topic of discussion during Wednesday's meeting was surrounding how the city should implement homebuyer's assistance for Russell City descendants. The currently recommended Affordable Housing Ordinance establishes priority preference to people living in Hayward whose families were displaced during the destruction of the area, but many residents expressed they would like to see amendments to this proposal.

During the public comment session, a speaker named Michael opposed the restrictions.

"You should be able to be given homeowner's assistance where you want to live and not have to come all the way to Hayward," Michael said. "There's places much cheaper."

Marian Johnson, an executive administrative legal assistant, echoed these sentiments. She also mentioned how the current proposal fails to acknowledge Russell City descendants living in other states like Florida and Ohio. In June of 2022, the City of Hayward launched a search for Russell City descendants. Many of those who have been contacted participate in the Reparative Justice Program, but many of those in other communities outside the Bay Area don't have this opportunity. Attendees at the meeting seemed to agree that all descendants, regardless of residency status, deserve to be compensated.

"This community lost everything," Johnson said. "We have a voice, we should find our own spaces where we feel safe."

Toni Wynn added that as long as someone can prove that they are a descendant, that should suffice to receive housing assistance. Concerns also arose surrounding the program's targeting of first-time home buyers, with common complaints being that the setup is exclusionary.

"You shouldn't have to be a first-time home buyer to get help," Michael said.

Over the coming weeks, the city will host additional meetings to hear from Russell City descendants as they inch toward making a final proposal. Despite efforts to bridge community voice with city planning, some residents remain cautiously optimistic about the outcome of the Reparative Justice Program. One speaker with the screen name "iPhone" reiterated the gravity of the situation and its impact.

"It's difficult to see how there can be any justice from this," the speaker said.

Winners of Youth Poet Laureate competition announced

JOVINA PRADEEP AND ASHWIKA JANI OF FREMONT SHARE THEIR POETRY WITH THE COMMUNITY

By ROELLE BALAN

"How many women have given up their dreams to fit into the vision of womanhood we gifted them? This is the story of the past, the pulp that drips through the strainer of time onto the canvas of the future. We are the painters of the portraits who the girls of today will one day become."

This excerpt is from the poetry of the winner of the 2024 Alameda County Youth Poet Laureate Competition, Jovina Zion Pradeep. Alameda County Library announced the winners in early August. The 2024 Youth Poet Vice-Laureate is Ashwika Jani, and both young poets are from Fremont.

Youth Poet Laureate Pradeep said she was encouraged by her teachers to join the competition. The process of writing and choosing her poems for the contest was tough. "I had to narrow the exact topics that I wanted to focus on and the exact imagery that I wanted to evoke in them," Pradeep said.

"Every plastic bottle and ton of carbon dropped is an explosion, a wave that fades away into the impermanent glory covered in the silky cobalt blue as bubbles festooned upon the ships bedecking its surface." - Jovina Pradeep

Laureate Jovina Zion Pradeep writes about diversity, protecting the environment and women's empowerment. Photo Credit: Alameda County Library

Pradeep's poems were about celebrating diversity, protecting the environment, and women's empowerment. She is passionate about these topics and aspires to be a businesswoman. "I know how hard it is sometimes to just be respected for your ideas as a woman so I wanted to promote that idea," Pradeep said.

A panel of judges, including an Afroindigenous poet and a former Alameda County Co-Youth Poet Laureate, looks over candidates' poetry for their content, craft and voice. They also look over their involvement in volunteer or extracurricular activities for leadership potential. The young poets had to also perform in front of the judges during the interview.

Breast Cancer Surgery: What Are My Options?

Health care expert offers online seminar

Your most recent mammogram report came back indicating areas of concern that could be breast cancer. Your physician recommended a needle biopsy to determine if the identified tissue is cancerous. It is. Now what?

The diagnosis of breast cancer often includes surgery as part of a treatment plan, according to Emily Gentry, a Washington Hospital Physician Assistant. Gentry will discuss “Breast Cancer Surgery: What Are the Options?” at a free online Oct. 9 Health & Wellness seminar.

The 9 a.m. seminar will offer a comprehensive overview of surgery options—which can range from a lumpectomy to a mastectomy, sometimes followed by breast reconstruction. The program will offer patients, their families and caregivers knowledge crucial for informed decision-making. The free seminar can be viewed at facebook.com/WashingtonHosp and YouTube.com/whhsInHealth.

According to Gentry, most women with breast cancer have some type of surgery as part of their treatment. There are different types of breast surgery, and which type may depend on the cancer diagnosis. Issues that influence surgical decisions include the size of the tumor, whether the cancer has been identified in more than one area of the breast, prior history including whether the patient has been treated with radiation in the past, whether the cancer is found in the adjacent lymph nodes, and whether the cancer is caused by a genetic mutation in the breast cancer genes.

The surgical goal is to remove the cancer entirely and to determine whether the cancer has spread to adjacent lymph nodes located under the arm below the shoulder. Surgical options also include breast reconstruction to restore the breast’s shape after the cancer is removed and, in some cases, to relieve symptoms of advanced cancer.

For many women whose cancer has been discovered early, a lumpectomy may be the surgical recommendation. In these cases, it is likely that the tumor is small, mostly only in one location. For some patients with a single small tumor, a lumpectomy followed by radiation is effective and additional surgery for breast reconstruction isn’t needed.

Other issues to be considered in developing a surgical treatment plan include whether to have chemotherapy prior to surgery. Pre-surgery chemotherapy often is recommended to shrink a large tumor and/or when many lymph nodes are involved. By shrinking the tumor, the surgery is less extensive and easier on the patient. Following surgery, chemotherapy may be again recommended to kill any cells left behind.

Other treatment options that the patient and physician may discuss include radiation, hormone therapy and immunotherapy, Gentry notes. Not every patient receives chemotherapy. In some cases, a lumpectomy followed by radiation and hormone therapy is effective.

“It is important to explore and understand all your treatment options including the various surgical options,” Gentry says. “Once you know the options, you and your physician—and your family—can make the choices that are right for you.”

Cardiac Event and Rehab Brings New Lease on Life

Local Man Shares How He Went From No Symptoms to Surgery

“Choosing Washington Hospital for my cardiac rehab was one of the best decisions I could have made.”
—Alfredo Macias

Alfredo Macias gained cardiac strength and overall fitness through his rehab work.

On a Saturday morning earlier this year, 59-year-old Alfredo Macias was feeling a little under the weather as he got ready for work. He was slightly short of breath but didn’t think much of it and headed out. That evening, Alfredo felt like a cold was coming on as he went to bed. About an hour later, he woke up barely able to breathe! His wife rushed him to the nearest hospital emergency department near their San Jose home. Tests and imaging showed one of Alfredo’s heart valves had failed. He was in atrial fibrillation (AFib) and his heart was not pumping normally, so his lungs were filling with fluid. On Tuesday, he underwent surgery to repair his heart valve. That frightening series of events and the rehabilitation that followed has changed Alfredo’s life for the better.

Alfredo was instructed by his cardiologist to undergo a cardiac rehabilitation program after he recovered from surgery. He contacted the rehab center near his home that he was referred to, but they couldn’t get him in for two months. Since Alfredo works at Washington Hospital, and he knew they had an Outpatient Cardiac Rehabilitation Center, he began a three-month rehab program there.

“Choosing Washington Hospital for my cardiac rehab was one of the best decisions I could have made,” recalled Alfredo. “The program director welcomed me and explained the whole process. Then the excellent therapists coached me on how to work out using the exercise bike, treadmill, elliptical, rowing machine and Stairmaster, all the while monitoring my heart rate and regularly checking my blood pressure. I also appreciated the support I got from all my new friends who had been through what I had and who I got to see in my class three days a week.”

Cardiac rehabilitation is a personalized program of education and exercise designed to improve the health of people with heart disease, or who have had a heart attack or heart surgery. It usually involves exercise training, emotional support and education about living a heart-healthy lifestyle. Healthy lifestyle habits include staying active, managing body weight, eating a nutritious diet, and quitting smoking if needed.

“I graduated from rehab last week and I feel physically stronger now than I did before that night my heart valve broke,” Alfredo continued. “But what is just as important to the rehab process is the mental aspect. Sharing stories with others who are dealing with heart issues is valuable because they understand what you’re going through. Some of the people in my class had graduated from rehab but chose to continue coming to classes – some of them for several years – to keep up their cardiovascular fitness, which is inspiring.”

In addition to his job as Food and Nutrition Services Manager, Alfredo enjoys being outside gardening and barbecuing. But now, he takes time to go for walks and avoids the sedentary lifestyle he was living before. He admits to paying more attention to how he feels now instead of ignoring physical changes, no matter how gradual they may be.

“Before I got seriously ill,” he shared, “I had been noticing that instead of my morning routine taking 30 minutes before I left the house for work, it was taking a little longer as time went on. I just attributed it to getting older. But now I know it’s because I had a problem with my heart. My advice for others is to monitor how you are feeling and keep in touch with your doctor about any changes. You don’t always get big red flags that something is wrong, so pay attention to the small things.”

Appointments with a rehab specialist at the Washington Hospital Outpatient Cardiac Rehabilitation Center require a physician referral. Talk to your primary care physician or cardiologist to see if cardiac rehab services are right for you. Multi-day festival draws thousands to Newark

The carnival will feature games, rides, and food. Photos courtesy of Newark Days Celebration

New this year, Fink said, are several performances by “Flippenout: Extreme Trampoline Show” which features specially-trained athletes performing Olympic type routines on trampolines using balls, skis, snowboards and portable walls accompanied by a lively musical soundtrack.

Modest beginnings
All of this would not be possible, Fink said, without the focus and dedication of more than 200 volunteers who start planning each year’s program in January. “In the beginning, the festival was modest,” Fink explained, consisting of a small carnival and local events. In 1972 Shirley Sisk, a longtime Newark volunteer and philanthropist, took the helm and began growing the event into the much larger celebration seen today. During the 2020 and 2021 COVID-19 pandemic, the event was forced to go on hiatus before coming back in 2022. “We came back exceptionally strong,” Fink said, noting that 2022 and 2023 have been their best years yet.

Fink said current Newark Days Celebration Inc. president Laurie Gratz, who took over in 2023, is maintaining Sisk’s momentum. The multi-day gala is now the preeminent event in Newark and attracts thousands of visitors from the Tri-Cities and beyond. Sisk remains as president emeritus.
Fink has lived in Newark for 40 years and been a volunteer on the organization’s Board of Directors for 10 years. He says the group’s focus has always been to serve the community. “It’s our passion for having this event for our neighbors and making Newark Days a vibrant place and a cornerstone of our community.”

Corgis race to the fairgrounds

CON CONTINUES TO SHOW THE CHARM AND ATHLETICISM OF STUMPY DOGS

By STEPHANIE GERTSCH

Back in its second year at Alameda County Fairgrounds on September 14, Corgi Con expects to welcome over 2,000 dogs and even more human fans for a corgi race, corgi obstacle course, corgi costume contest, 36 vendors selling dog-related items and much fun in the company of stumpy-legged dogs—and any taller dogs attending “incognito.”

This large-scale event takes place thanks to the efforts of a small team, consisting of founder Cynthia Lee, her husband, and a few friends—all represented by their corgis on the website. Running the event also requires the work of about 50 volunteers, including a lot of high school and college students earning community service credits.

Lee thinks back to 10 years ago, when the idea of a Bay Area Corgi Con took off. “I was hosting a lot of Bay Area, San Francisco specifically, Corgi meetups,” Lee says. “That was when Instagram started to become a little bit bigger. My corgi had an Instagram account and she started to make lots of friends...People said, ‘If you had a really big meetup we would drive out from wherever we are.’”

Facebook Events also helped get the word out about corgi events, as organizers can judge engagement through the “interested” option that people can select to receive updates. And there’s something iconic about corgis themselves. Lee notes, “If you see one on the street, people will yell out ‘Corgi!’ and get really excited. You don’t do that if you see a Golden Retriever.”

San Francisco wasn’t the first to host a corgi convention—SoCal Corgi Nation had started holding Beach Days a few years earlier—but the first con in 2014 saw about 90 corgis. Later, Corgi Con would meet at Ocean Beach, moving to the Alameda County Fairgrounds in 2023. An improvement, according to Lee, as the event has outgrown its previous venue. “[At the beach] there were no food trucks, parking was terrible, we had to get portapotties. There was a huge traffic jam on the highway. It wasn’t the easiest location to get to. Now people are excited because there’s food trucks and real bathrooms!” As dogs tend to be less judicious about restrooms, Lee reminds attendees, “We also stress with the community, Be a poop fairy, even if it’s not your dog.” The con makes sure poop bags are plentiful, and last year’s attendees behaved conscientiously about cleaning up pet waste.

But the event isn’t just about cuteness and community. Corgis will also have the chance to show off their athleticism. “Most people don’t even know they’re actually herding dogs,” Lee notes. “The internet portrays them as lazy loafs of bread that just roam around.” Corgis will compete in the Corgi Ninja Warrior agility course with jumps and weave poles, and of course the highlight of the con is the “Mickey’s Derby” corgi race, where the dogs line up, and then zoom off in all directions. Some even make it to the finish line. Lee shares, “We have some corgis that come out for the races, and they’re really professional racers. They travel around and try to hit up all the different races.” At the 2024 Alameda County Fair, corgis actually raced on the racetrack. However, people are not allowed to bet on the fluffers. Just enjoy their skill and speed—or lack thereof.

Hopefully, the fairgrounds will be home to Corgi Con for years to come. Lee found the venue welcoming and communicative, even though the Fairgrounds usually doesn’t allow pet dogs. The con was also happy to partner with Visit Tri-Valley, which connected them with hotels that could offer discounts to out-of-towners.

In its near decade, even while being an off-leash dog event, the con hasn’t had incidents of corg-on-corg violence. The dogs roam around without becoming aggressive with each other. It’s a fun, upbeat vibe with these expressive, occasionally judgmental and often goofy dogs. Lee is happy to bring a little more joy into the world, saying corgis “always make you laugh no matter what it is.”

THE APOLOGY film screening

WHAT IS THE WAY FORWARD FOR
HAYWARD AND
RUSSELL CITY

Submitted by
JOHN R SMITH

With the landmark film, THE APOLOGY, Fremont's Second Saturday Documentary Film Series resumes in-person viewing on September 14, 2024. THE APOLOGY investigates a 1960's incident in which Alameda County and the City of Hayward worked together to dismantle the community of Russell City. They pushed 1,400 residents out of their homes and businesses off their land—All to claim the land for a future industrial park.

Most Russell City residents were Black and Latino families who could not purchase homes or land elsewhere. They had developed their own community, dating back to 1853, with 13 businesses and seven churches, home to 205 families. All of it was destroyed in 1964.

THE APOLOGY—directed by Mimi Chakarova and produced by Aisha Knowles and Gloria Moore—features stories from twenty residents and their descendants. The film explores what a meaningful apology would be in the context of Russell City. What does it mean to make amends for a past that is very much in the present?

PAY RESPECTS, VISIT FOOD AND SHOPPING VENDORS, AND HAVE FUN

Submitted by RADIO ZINDAGI

Radio Zindagi, a bilingual South Asian radio network, is proud to announce their annual, multicultural, large-scale festival—The Radio Zindagi Ganesh Utsav 2024. This two-day event will commence on September 14 at 10am and continue until 10pm on September 15.

The Ganesh festival will be held at the parking lot area of NewPark Mall in Newark and will feature a large stage with the 15 foot hand crafted; hand-painted Ganesh idol in all its finery and magnificence flanked by LEDs and laser lighting. This year the big news is that Radio Zindagi is also bringing, for the first time in the Bay area, an exact hand-crafted replica idol of Lord Shri Ram of the recently-opened Ayodhya temple for all the worshippers who have not yet had a chance to visit Ayodhya or see the Ram temple.

The event provides the perfect spot for visitors to relax and admire the idol and pay their respects, as well as watch the entertainment and cultural performances and activities. Features include daily aartis and darshan and other festivities such as cultural programs, dance and music performances, fashion shows, Marathi style lezhim and grand finale performances along with contests and raffles. Attendees can visit a variety of delicious Indian food booths and plenty of shopping with vendors selling home goods, jewelry, clothes to name a few. The venue also includes a kids zone with inflatable slides and fun kids’ contests such as clay making and painting. There will be DJ dance and Bollywood music for all the party lovers and dance enthusiasts.

“This year Ganesh will bring an element of fun and adventure along with the regular festivities,” said Taresh Anand, CEO of Radio Zindagi. “I would encourage the entire Bay Area community to make use of this opportunity and keep the second weekend of September free for this beautiful event and for a fun and adventurous day in the company of Lord Ganesh and Lord Ram. We promise you an excellent time.”

Get a taste for writing at the Social Write-In

Submitted by TISH DAVIDSON

September 14 is both National Cream-Filled Donut Day and National Black & White Cookie Day. Come celebrate this sweet day by joining the Fremont Area Writers free Zoom Social Write-In. FAW’s motto is “Writers Helping Writers.” Everyone from beginners to experienced authors is welcome. This is not a critique session but a chance to stimulate your creativity by responding to writing prompts and then socializing with other people interested in writing. The format is completely non-judgmental.

How the Zoom Write-In Works:

At the Write-In you will be randomly assigned to a Zoom room with three other writers. Writers are given several word or photo prompts (hint: this month a lot of these will center on food). Choose one prompt and write whatever comes to mind for 10 minutes. At the end of the writing period, each person in the room reads their response to the prompt. Because the writing time is short, there is no expectation that the results will be polished or even complete. Time to socialize with the other writers follows the readings. Writers are then reassigned to a different Zoom room with different people and a new writing challenge. Again, stories are shared, followed by socializing.

The Write-In is sponsored by Fremont Area Writers, a branch of the California

Writers Club. In addition to the Write-In, FAW meets on Zoom from 2 – 4pm on the fourth Saturday of each month where guest speakers discuss various aspects of writing and publishing. The speaker for the September 24 meeting is Chirstine Meade, award-winning author of the novels The Moon, Her Crown and The Way You Burn. Christine has an MFA from California College of the Arts and teaches novel writing at Grub Street and Gotham Writers Workshop. She will speak on the “mushy middle” of a novel, focusing on how to plan a path through to the final section and how to maintain the creative stamina to reach that point.

You do not need to live in Fremont to join the Write-In or general meetings. Participation in either event is free. More information is available at cwc-fremontareawriters.org

2025 is here—Toyota’s Camry is all hybrid

XSE AWD PROVIDES FUEL EFFICIENCY AND CUSTOMIZATION

The 2.5-liter engine provided plenty of power. Photo Credit: Michael Coates

By MICHAEL COATES

This is what a best-selling sedan looks like in 2025. Sporty looking and not likely to be confused with high-riding sedans masquerading as crossovers. Hybrid so it delivers the best fuel economy you can get without plugging in. Optional all-wheel drive that makes it sure-footed. Standard and optional safety technology that enhances the car’s safety and functionality. The 2025 Toyota Camry Hybrid XSE AWD checks all those boxes—and more.

When you’re the best-selling of any category, change is difficult. You don’t want to give up what got you to your elevated position. So the Toyota Camry, America’s best-selling sedan, changed this year, but not too much.

This is something different from the Camry’s America has known and loved. The 2025 Toyota Camry Hybrid we tested had low-profile tires that looked good, and, combined with the all-wheel drive, made for a better handling sedan than Camry’s past. The sporty looks are a step-up for the bread-and-butter sedan.

The Biggest Change

The biggest change for the new year’s model—you have a choice of four trim levels, but they are all hybrids with the same powertrain, delivering between 43 and 53 mpg. We saw fuel economy numbers in the lower end of that range with our loaded version and low-profile tires in our week-long drive up in

A total of 13 different exterior color combinations are available. Photo Credit: Michael Coates

Washington State. The 2.5-liter engine provided plenty of power (232 combined horsepower with some boost from the dual electric motors of the electronic AWD drivetrain), though it strained noisily during some hard acceleration.

The Premium Plus option package ($4,760) on our XSE provided everything you might want in a car, specifically:

- Head up display
- 9-speaker JBL sounds system
- Rain sensing wipers (which got a lot of use up in Washington

- Traffic Jam Assist (an enhancement of the adaptive cruise control that allows start and stop in traffic)
- Cross-traffic alerts and braking both for front and rear
- Lane change assist
- Parking assist with automatic braking
- Seat and mirror setting memory
- Panoramic glass room

The Value Proposition

One of the great things about the Camry lineup is the range of options. Loaded with everything like our XSE AWD, the price pushes north of $40,000. But you can get the basic LE model with a good batch of the Toyota Safety Sense 3.0 technology and 50+ mpg. It starts under $30,000 delivered.

The Toyota technology package is fairly robust with blind spot monitoring, rear cross-traffic alert, safe exit alert, pre-collision system with pedestrian detection, adaptive cruise control, lane departure alert with steering assist, lane tracing assist, road sign assist, automatic high beams and proactive driving assist. There are options that extend this list even further, but it makes for an extremely safe vehicle.

Many of the options are a la cart, which means you can tailor a car to your tastes and needs. Want AWD? That will be $1,525. Want a panoramic glass room? That’s $1,330. A total of 13 different exterior color combinations are available, though not all models have all them.

A Few Quibbles

Even though its battery is small, the XSE AWD model weighed in at 4,740 pounds, a testament to all of the technology included. It didn’t feel like a heavy vehicle, though.

The Toyota overall interface on its infotainment system is a mixed bag. Switches are clearly marked, but often there are too many steps to switch between functions.

Storage space in the trunk is 15 cubic feet. The sleek styling cramps access a bit, but it’s about standard space for this class of vehicle.

We see no reason that Camry will relinquish its spot as the best-selling sedan in America.

What about humans?

Running at top speeds of about 20 mph, human beings are one of the slower-moving animals on Earth.

Top Sprinter

The cheetah is the fastest land animal. Cheetah paws are more like a dog's than a cat's.

They have shorter, blunter claws that do not retract like those of other cats. The pads on the bottom of their feet are ridged, rather than rounded.

Their special feet help cheetahs get a good grip on the ground and push off firmly for the next bound. No wonder cheetahs can run so fast! But cheetahs can only run at top speed for a short distance.

Standards Link: Animals have special adaptations for survival.

What's a Tiger Beetle?

Tiger beetles are pretty small—about a half-inch to an inch long, depending on the species. Their long, thin legs help them run fast, and their big, bulging eyes give them very good vision.

Find each tiger beetle's twin.

Which spots are cheetah spots?

How can you tell a leopard from a cheetah? Both have spots—but their spots are not the same. Read below to find out how their spots are different. Then circle the cheetah spots.

A leopard's spots are grouped in clusters called rosettes, while a cheetah's spots are scattered evenly.

The Fremont CONNECTION

Fremont Celebrates Four Decades of Coastal Cleanup Day

Join us on Saturday, September 21 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. as the City of Fremont celebrates the 40th Annual Coastal Cleanup Day! The City will be hosting cleanup events at various sites throughout Fremont. Be part of a global movement with over 9 million volunteers by helping to clean up litter and debris from our local waterways.

If you are not able to attend a cleanup event, don't worry. You can always gather with family, friends, or a community group to organize your own cleanup events any time during September. Track and report your collected trash using the Ocean Conservancy's Clean Swell app (oceanconservancy.org/trash-free-seas/international-coastal-cleanup/clean-swell-app) to contribute to statewide goals!

Litter from pedestrians and businesses, along with overflow from garbage containers, can directly flow into creeks, streams, and, ultimately, to the San Francisco Bay and Pacific Ocean. Since Fremont's storm drain system is specifically designed to handle only rain and stormwater run-off, intercepting litter before it enters storm drains is critical in preventing marine pollution.

For more information, visit the City's Coastal Cleanup Day webpage at city.fremont.gov/coastalcleanupday. Let's work together to help keep Fremont's waterways clean and healthy!

How Urban Forest Keeps Fremont Cool

As temperatures rise this summer, there are several ways that Fremont's urban forest continues to help reduce heat stress in the city.

- Trees Reduce "Heat Island" Effect: When our urban areas have adequate tree canopy, we can reduce the effects of "heat islands" (microclimates of increased heat in an otherwise cooler region). These heat islands occur because concrete and asphalt only require a very small amount of energy to increase their temperature, and they continue to radiate extra heat back into the environment, even at night. Trees of the urban forest reduce this effect by providing shade that shields urban surfaces from direct sun exposure.

- Trees Act as Natural Air Conditioners: Trees and vegetation contribute to cooler microclimates through the process of evapotranspiration where they release water from leaves. As the water evaporates, it carries away the heat. The cumulative effect is a 5°F reduction in average temperature between forested and unforested urban areas, with even higher disparities during periods of extreme heat.

- Other Tree Benefits: The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has found that urban trees provide additional benefits including lowering energy usage, reducing air pollution, providing protection from harmful ultraviolet rays, and potentially increasing property value.

Want a Free Street Tree?

Fremont's Urban Forest Management Plan (UFMP) provides the city with a roadmap to reduce heat islands by increasing canopy coverage equitably. To meet this goal, the City's Urban Forestry team is using CalFire grant funding and partnering with a professional tree care company to provide free tree planting and five years of maintenance for property owners in disadvantaged areas. The program aims to plant 1,000 trees in neighborhoods with comparatively low canopy coverage. For more information and to learn how to get a free street tree anywhere in the city, visit the City's Free Street Tree Program webpage at city.fremont.gov/freetree.

For additional information about the Urban Forest Management Plan (UFMP) visit fremont.gov/urbanforestplan. To meet the City's Urban Forestry team, visit city.fremont.gov/urbanforestry.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 10, 2024

All Signs: When Mercury went retrograde in Virgo last month, it actually moved “backwards” into Leo. (Relative to planet Earth.) On Monday, Mercury returns to diligent Virgo, which will urge us to “get back to work.” This is one of the reasons that the energy this week will promote brainstorming ideas and making enthusiastic plans for the future. However, intermingled with these idealistic communications will be opportunities for renewed romance, and new love. In fact, Sunday will be one of the best days of the year for romantic get-togethers and fun times.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20):
This week, Mercury has returned to your House of Employment. It will be an excellent time for mental work because you will pay more attention to detail. You’ll want to do everything perfectly. This is also a good time to sit down with coworkers and discuss future plans. Fortunately, relations with close friends and partners are upbeat and mutually supportive. Why not use this same energy to address the increased chaos and activity at home? Make your home the way you want it to be, but be reasonable to keep the peace.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20):
Your creative vibes are alive this week, which is why now is the perfect time to express your thoughts and talents. You will also read, write and play games or do puzzles that require mental agility. You might also be prankish this week. You want to do your own thing and speak your mind. Meanwhile, work-related romance will flourish. This could be the beginning of something exciting or a casual flirtation. You might also see how to improve your job and your health. This is a strong, assertive week for you!

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20):
Mercury is your ruler, which means you notice the shift this week as Mercury returns to Virgo. You might tackle home repairs and be active in family discussions. (Some of these discussions will take place with an older family member.) You will be keen to set things in order. Get as much done as possible because another major influence is you will have opportunities to party! Take time to enjoy the arts. Sports events and fun activities with kids, as well as promising romance will make this an exciting week!

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21):
The pace of your days will accelerate this week because Mercury has returned to its “home” in your Third House. This will create group discussions. You will meet new people and possibly travel. It’s the perfect time for intellectual activities, studying, learning, teaching and writing. Don’t sit at home getting dusty. Get out and discover the world! Still, you will enjoy redecorating projects and entertaining at home. Invite family, friends and groups over. Fortunately, fiery Mars in your sign will make you a charming host. This is a promising week.

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22):
You’ve been putting some financial issues on hold, which was wise while Mercury was retrograde last month. However, this week, both Mercury and the Sun are in your Money House, which means it’s time to think about money, especially with respect to future plans. You might enter into financial negotiations. You might also find that you have to defend your values. The upshot is that you’re going to do some serious financial planning to secure your future. Meanwhile, your daily activities will attract friends and even romance. Life will be upbeat and charming!

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22):
Your ruler Mercury has returned to your sign to join the Sun. This means you’ll be vigorous, energetic and talkative! You won’t hesitate to share your views, especially with friends and organizations. You will make lists and \ plans for the future (one of your favorite activities). Meanwhile, this is an excellent financial time for you, as well. You might boost your earnings. Favors, money and gifts might come to you. If shopping, you will buy art objects or beautiful things for yourself and loved ones.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22):
You will love this week because it will be easy for you to be charming and diplomatic, which are qualities you admire. With Mars at the top of your chart, you’re fired up and ambitious! It’s a great week for research and behind-the-scenes planning. However, a large overtone this week will be one of friendly flirtations, romance, meeting new faces, seeing new places and enlarging your social sphere. Count on enjoying many of your favorite activities -- schmoozing in pleasant surroundings and looking good.

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21):
You are popular lately, and this week, your popularity will grow even more! This is because younger people will enter your world, which will enliven your life and give you lots of clever, current ideas. It’s a great week to network. You will be strong dealing with legal and medical matters and demand to be heard. However, this week is also full of secret romantic vibes. Hidden love affairs and mysterious flirtations will be popping up everywhere, especially at the end of the week, because

Saturday and definitely Sunday, are romantic days!

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21):
Mercury now returns to the top of your chart making this an excellent time to talk to bosses and the police. Mercury will urge you to make plans for your future career. It’s a great week to network with the right people. People want to hear your ideas. Meanwhile, this is also a friendly week! You’ll enjoy hanging out with groups and friends. In fact, these will be the sources of new romance and fun flirtations for most of you. A platonic friendship could turn romantic.

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19):
Study, learning and anything to do with publishing, education and exploring foreign countries will appeal to you this week. You will also be interested in law, philosophy and higher knowledge. This is because your curiosity is piqued. In fact, your sense of adventure, especially in romantic matters, is turned on. Note: You are often attracted to relationships of an age difference and this is what you might encounter. Bosses, authority figures, people related to your job as well as from other cultures might become a romantic interest.

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18):
The return of Mercury to Virgo on Monday will trigger your interest in financial matters and anything to do with negotiations about finances, or joint property. You’ll also be interested in banking details, as well as inheritances. Fortunately, you have the energy to work hard, so you’re in fine form to accomplish a lot! Nevertheless, romance will infiltrate many areas, culminating at the end of the week. These flirtations and romantic encounters will come from unexpected sources, especially other cultures.

Pisces the Fish (February 19-March 20):
Get more sleep. This is a given for you right now. Meanwhile, this week, Mercury has moved directly opposite your sign, which will help you to clarify and explain issues to others. This is an excellent opportunity for you to discuss difficulties in partnerships. You’ll want all your interactions with others to be intellectually stimulating. Meanwhile, romance is infiltrating all activities this week; and for you, this will be passionate and memorable! Even flirtations will be joyful and something that seem to expand your world. You might be attracted to someone richer.

Bay Area South Indian community celebrates Onam festival

CULTURAL PERFORMANCES PRESERVE HISTORY AND MYTHOLOGY FOR THE NEXT GENERATION

Submitted by: JAMES VARGHESE

Recently, the Bay Area South Indian Community came together for a celebration of Keralas cultural traditions. Over the 10 day Onam festival, thousands of Keralites decorated their community centers and homes with floral arrangements called pookalam.

The local Kerala association, Manca, organized a special event at Chabot College on September 7, celebrating with an Onam Sadhya feast with around 25 vegetarian dishes and with cultural performances. A standout moment was the 'thiruvathira' performance, by around 100 dancers. Rhythmic beats from chenda drums added to the atmosphere.

During Onam festival, in Kerala the values of unity and togetherness are highlighted through the story of King Mahabali's reign where kindness and compassion prevail among people of backgrounds. The Mahabali—the beloved king dressed in a regal attire with colorful crown—made the grand entrance at the procession, adding a touch of mythology and grandeur to the festivities. During the event, the mythological story of Onam and King Mahabali was presented to the new generation.

The people from Kerala living in the United States enthusiastically observe Onam festivities as a way to stay connected to their roots and introduce their traditions to their environment.

"At Onam time we get to celebrate our traditions and heritage as one big family," Gopakumar, a leader from the Kerala community stated. "Seeing people of all ages dressed in Kerala Sarees and other traditional clothing and joining in the festivities with such excitement warms my heart." he added.

Sunol Glen appoints new board member

Submitted by
ALAMEDA COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

On Tuesday, August 20, the Sunol Glen Unified School District (SGUSD) School Board appointed Chris Bobertz to the Board of the school district. This provisional appointment replaces Alameda County Board of Education (ACBOE) Area 4 Trustee Aisha Knowles. Unless a petition calling for a special election containing a sufficient number of signatures is filed with the Alameda County Superintendent of Schools within 30 calendar days of the date of the provisional appointment, it shall be an effective appointment for all purposes.

Bobertz is a Sunol resident and SGUSD parent, the 2023 Chair and 2024 Vice-Chair of the SGUSD Citizens' Bond Oversight Committee (CBOC), and a highly regarded volunteer and community member.

"It has been an honor to temporarily serve as a Sunol Glen USD Board Member. This community is special and the passion for its school was evident during my brief tenure," said ACBOE Trustee Aisha Knowles. "Congratulations to Chris Bobertz on his appointment. The school community stands behind him and I wish him well."

Trustee Knowles was temporarily appointed to the SGUSD Board by ACBOE President Cheryl Cook-Kallio to fill the vacancy created by the recall of Board Member Ryan Jergensen on July 2, 2024. In the spirit of cooperation and support for local control, the Alameda County Board of Education trustees worked with SGUSD Board President Ted Romo to return this seat to the community as quickly as possible.

An application and interview process were used to provisionally appoint a resident of the Sunol Glen Unified School District to the seat Trustee Knowles temporarily filled.

Chris Bobertz was chosen from a pool of six applicants. The term for this appointment expires in November 2026.

"I thank Trustee Knowles for her willingness to serve the Sunol Glen USD community. Her expertise and professionalism were invaluable," said ACBOE President Cook-Kallio. "I also want to thank President Ted Romo and Superintendent Galleti, as well as the SGUSD staff and community for their support and cooperation as we move toward a Board that's fully composed of Sunol residents."

ACBOE President Cook-Kallio represents Trustee Area 7, which includes Sunol, and currently fills the other vacant seat created by the recall of Board Member Linda Hurley. In addition to being mandated by law, appointments of ACBOE Trustees were necessary to ensure that the Sunol Glen Unified School District had a full board to conduct business at the start of the school year to ensure the stability and consistency of operations and, particularly and most importantly, the delivery of educational programs to Sunol Glen students.

The seat ACBOE President Cook-Kallio currently holds on the SGUSD School Board is scheduled to be voted on by local voters in the November 5, 2024 General Election. She will continue to attend School Board meetings in September and October in her capacity as a SGUSD School Board Member. No meeting is scheduled for November. The newly elected School Board Member will be sworn in at the December 10 meeting.

"I am deeply appreciative of Trustee Knowles and President Cook-Kallio for the additional commitment and responsibilities they've taken on to support Sunol Glen Unified students, staff, families and leaders during the back-to-school period," said Alameda County Superintendent of Schools Alysse Castro.

Ohlone College's Esports Department receives boost with ASUS connection

Submitted by
DR. CELINA BARRIOS

Ohlone College's Esports Department, under the leadership of ESPTS-101 Instructor Preston Damron-Hall, has achieved a milestone that promises to elevate the program to new heights. The Renegade Esports Club was selected as the winner of ASUS's prestigious "Extreme PC Makeover, Back to School Edition" competition, a national contest aimed at supporting students and educators in educational institutions and their gaming programs.

The competition, hosted by ASUS, awarded Ohlone College with state-of-the-art gaming equipment, including ROG NUC PCs, high-resolution monitors, gaming chairs, headsets, keyboards and mice—valued at over $20,000. This extraordinary win not only equips the Esports Department with top-tier gear, but also reinforces Ohlone College's emergence as a rising star in the collegiate esports scene.

"This is a dream come true for our students," said Preston Damron-Hall. "ASUS's generosity has transformed our program. As a community college, it's exciting that our students have been given the same access and assistance at the level typically provided to four-year universities. Our students now have access to the best equipment, enabling them to practice, compete and bond as a team right here on campus. The recognition from ASUS is a testament to their hard work and dedication, igniting a renewed passion to pursue their dreams in the esports world."

Damron-Hall and several Ohlone students visited the ASUS Experience Center to not only receive their prizes, but also get hands-on experience with building a custom gaming PC. There, with the help of ASUS staff and tech influencer Andie the Lab, the students assembled a TUF Gaming PC featuring a powerful Intel® Core™ processor and a next-gen TUF Gaming GeForce RTX 4070 Ti SUPER OC Edition graphics card. This PC showcases how students can construct a computer ready for the demands of gaming, education, content creation and more.

At the build event, ASUS surprised the Ohlone students with additional PC hardware above and beyond the competition's prize package. Ohlone's Esports Department can now use a set of ultracompact and powerful ROG NUC Mini PCs as students train for competitive play.

The prize package also includes a feature video produced by ASUS, highlighting the Renegade Esports Club, the college and its students. The video, to be filmed on the Newark campus, will showcase the vibrant community and the bright futures of Ohlone's students, extending beyond gaming.

Students who participated in the PC build, including club President Alyssa, Vice President Jazz, and former President Noe, were overjoyed by the outcome. "We couldn't believe it when ASUS surprised us with even more equipment than we expected," said Alyssa. "Having the ability to play together on campus has brought us closer as a team and given us the resources we need to take our gaming to the next level."

The impact of this win extends beyond gaming. It represents a significant step forward for Ohlone College in fostering a dynamic, inclusive environment where all students can thrive, whether their interests lie in gaming, technology or other fields. The Esports Department plans to use the new equipment to host tournaments, plan community activities, and provide hands-on learning experiences that prepare students for bright futures in the fast-growing esports industry and beyond.

"We're excited about the future," said Damron-Hall. "This positive relationship with ASUS is just the beginning. Our students are more motivated than ever, and we're looking forward to expanding our reach and impact in the Bay Area and beyond."

Submitted by JANET BARTON

Join us for a Harvest Moon Festival with music, children's activities, tours and exhibits on the lawn and in the barnyard at Shinn Historical Park on Sunday, September 15. Many cultures have celebrations for this important Autumn lunar event, such as the Chinese Mid Autumn Festival. In the era before electric lights, the Harvest Moon brought welcome evening light to late harvest and family gatherings.

For about 100 years on the Shinn Ranch, harvest was an important activity. Today there are no signs of the old rows of the Shinn orchards that once spanned from the house to Alameda Creek. The last four acres of the historic Shinn Ranch is now surrounded by rows of houses instead of rows of fruit trees. At the height of harvest, 40 to 50 Chinese workers were hired to harvest apricots, cherries and other fruits. The community also worked the harvest. Many of our old-timers remember making pin money by cutting apricots. Ask an old-timer who grew up here whether they "cut cots."

The festival has a full day of activities planned. The Friends of Heirloom Flowers plant fundraiser starts at 11am. Wadaiko Newark will officially start the day with taiko drumming at 11:30am, and the Aloha Hula Dancers will perform at 1:30pm. Tours of the Shinn House, the gardens, the bunkhouse, and the barnyard are from 1pm - 4pm. Activities planned for children are a scavenger hunt, do-it-yourself reading time, coloring, chalk drawing, and a "make a tiny house" craft.

For the day, the Museum will be brought outside. Featured exhibits are Dr. Milicent Shinn's baby observation notebooks and the history of the last bunkhouse of the Shinn China Camp. Dr. Milicent Shinn's baby observation notebooks are a wealth of scientific observation mixed with notes about the gardens, the family and the Ranch workers in the house and in the orchards. Her notes describe life on the Ranch over 110 years ago.

In the barnyard, visit the last bunkhouse of the Shinn Ranch "China camp" where the Chinese ranch workers lived. Originally there were two bunkhouses, a cookhouse, and an outhouse. At one time in Southern Alameda County, there were many China Camps on ranches, nurseries, farms and vineyards. There is little remaining historical evidence of these camps and the people who lived there, who were important to the growth of our portion of Southern Alameda County.

Also at the event, meet the team of Fremont citizens who will be fundraising to preserve this building—the Chinese Bunkhouse Preservation Project. Funds raised will also be used to create curriculum for the schools and to maintain the building as an exhibit for students and schools.

Renegade Volleyball Invitational

OHLONE STARTS THE SEASON WITH FIRST HOME GAME WIN

By APRIL RAMOS

Ohlone Women's Volleyball team held their annual Renegade Invitational Tournament on August 31. This cherished tournament welcomes two teams each year to the Ohlone Fremont campus to mark the beginning of the volleyball season. This year, the visiting teams included Porterville and Mendocino College, from Southern and Northern California, respectively.

Head coach Courtney Owyang-Paras, has been involved with Ohlone Women's Volleyball since 2019 as assistant coach before becoming head coach in 2022. Owyang-Paras explains the team's high expectations regarding the tournament. "Our primary goal going into the tournament was to secure wins," shares Owyang-Paras.

"This was only our second match of the season and our first home game, so we were eager to deliver a strong performance and demonstrate our full potential."

That goal was certainly met when playing against the Porterville Pirates. The Renegades beat the Pirates 3-0, with a close third match with a two-point lead. Final score: 25-19, 25-10, 25-23. The team managed to create a wider gap in the Mendocino game, keeping a comfortable space for a win. Even at their closest, Mendocino was still seven points down, making Ohlone champions of the tournament. Final score: 25-18, 25-16, 25-16.

"For each match, we set specific goals to strive for," said Owyang-Paras. "Against Porterville and Mendocino, we aimed to achieve a higher serve receive rating and maintain a positive hitting percentage. I'm pleased to report that we successfully met both objectives."

The Renegades claimed the first-place position in their home tournament, but Owyang-Paras spoke about the challenges of having eight new players on the team. "With many new players on the team, one of our biggest challenges has been helping them adjust to collegiate-level play and fostering team chemistry," explained the Ohlone head coach. "Additionally, since all our setters are new, we've had to work on building their connections with the hitters."

With their success in the Renegade Invitational Tournament, it seems like the team has had a chance to build connections and grow their chemistry. As Owyang-Paras looks to the future of the 2024 season, she is hopeful for a change from last year's record. "We have a solid team this year—one of the strongest I've seen in quite some time. Our goal is to make it to the playoffs and have a winning season. Last year, we ended with a 50% win-loss record, so we're aiming to improve on that," said Owyang-Paras. "We're off to a promising start, but we know we have a competitive schedule ahead of us."

If you are interested in supporting Ohlone Women's Volleyball, the team is hosting a fundraiser to cover travel expenses and gear. Any contribution is appreciated. Learn more about the fundraiser at shorturl.at/JVLEc

If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. Moreau Catholic Football falls to late rally by Salesian

IN REMATCH FROM LAST SEASON'S PLAYOFFS, THE MARINERS FIGHT SALESIAN UNTIL THE END

By ANDREW JOSEPH

The Moreau Catholic Mariners battled until the end, but lost 41-27 at home to a late rally by the Salesian College Preparatory Pride in Hayward on Friday, September 6 in a non-conference game.

The Mariners had the lead going into the fourth quarter, but Salesian scored to retake the lead and then capitalized off a recovered outside kick to score again and seal the game. The Pride played a well-balanced game, attacking consistently on the ground and through the air. With the loss, Moreau falls to 1-1 overall this season and Salesian improves to 2-0.

Starting Moreau quarterback Jeremiah Charles finished with one rushing touchdown, wide receiver Jalen Arnold finished with one receiving touchdown, running back Jayden Bryant scored one rushing touchdown and wide receiver Miles Moore also had one receiving touchdown. The rivalry between these two schools currently exists because the Mariners lost at home 26-15 to Salesian in last season's playoffs. There is also the strong likelihood that these two teams may meet again in this season's playoffs, giving this game a preview of what may be to come later this year.

"It felt good to bring some rage back into the game after Salesian beat us last season in the playoffs, but the loss doesn't feel good," said Mariners' wide receiver Jalen Arnold.

Salesian received the opening kickoff and on their first drive that started from their own 35-yard line they were able to run the ball to gain yardage to get into Mariners territory. On a fourth-and-six their quarterback threw a pass to wide receiver Paulo Ocampo for a touchdown giving the Pride a 7-0 lead at the 8:17 mark in the first quarter.

The Mariners came right back on the next drive with efficient running by Jayden Bryant who had a 23-yard gain that helped them get to a first and goal from the 2-yard line. It was quarterback Charles who then walked in for their first score on a quarterback sneak to tie the game at 7-7 with 7 minutes remaining in the first quarter.

The Salesian Pride moved the ball well on the ensuing drive with great passing that found them deep in Mariner territory again. The Pride's Isaiah Latigue was found for a catch in the right corner of the end zone for another touchdown to give them a 14-7 lead late in the first quarter.

Moreau could not convert on downs which brought up a fourth-and nine situation where they punted the ball back to the Pride. Salesian started their next drive from their own 22-yard line. Their running game was going well the whole night and gave them big gains on that drive as well. On a third-and-three situation Salesian ran in for the touchdown. After a blocked point after attempt (PAT) by Mariners' William Jensen, the Pride were up 20-7 early in the second quarter.

On a huge punt return by Arnold to the Salesian one yard-line that set up a first and goal, Arnold scored on the first play to bring the score to 20-14 with 8:14 remaining in the first half. This is when the tide began to shift in favor of the Mariners.

"That touchdown I had in the second quarter was a great game changer," said Arnold.

With the Pride on a first-and-10 on the Mariner 33-yard line, the Mariners' Seth Evans recovered a forced fumble to give them the opportunity to take the lead of the game for the first time. Miles Moore did just that when he received a huge reception from Charles to go 66 yards in for the touchdown to give Moreau the lead at 21-20 with 3:10 remaining in the first half.

A.J. Jackson caught an interception for Moreau at their own 19-yard line to give them the ball back and a chance to add to their lead. The Mariners would have gone into the locker room at halftime with the lead if it was not for a hike by their center that was thrown too high and uncatchable by the quarterback, resulting in a safety and two points for Salesian making it a 22-21 Pride lead. Mariner's got the ball back again before halftime after Moore recovered another forced fumble with 14.2 seconds remaining in the second quarter. The Mariners decided to kneel and went into the intermission down 22-21.

"We had the confidence and the momentum in the third quarter with a chance to win the game," said Bryant.

After the break, Moreau received the second half kickoff to start their first drive at their own 15-yard line but were forced to punt after a three and out. Salesian then turned the ball over on downs after a failed fourth down attempt. On a first-and-10 from the Mariners own 32-yard line, Bryant ran the length of the field for a huge touchdown. After a missed PAT Moreau found themselves up 27-22 heading into the final quarter.

"We have to sustain our momentum," said Moreau's head coach Keith Minor. "We didn't execute in the fourth quarter."

The fourth quarter began with a second-and-five by Salesian at the Mariner 10-yard line. On that play Joseph Tarin caught an end zone pass in the left corner for a touchdown to give Salesian the lead again at 28-27 just six seconds into the quarter. Salesian scored again on another pass to Ocampo to go up 34-27. The Pride then recovered an outside kick with 7 minutes remaining and on that drive which began from the Moreau 44-yard line, then ran in for another on a second-and-goal from the three to go up 41-27 with 2:28 remaining. The Mariners didn't have enough time to come back so they lost the game.

"I think this game came down to who wanted it more and who was more disciplined," said Arnold. "Give respect where respect is due, because Salesian has some real athletes on their team."

There are still high hopes in the Mariner's locker room that they will have a successful season, but that all depends on how their defense recovers after this loss. Salesian was able to run the ball effectively all night against Moreau and that is an area where they must focus if they choose to make a run in this year's postseason.

"I think we're a good football team, we just have to play well every week," said Minor.
